

The Nebraska Democrat

ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FEBRUARY 6, 1913

$1.50 PER YEAR

Richard David Simpson

Who died suddenly at the home of his son, Mark Simpson, northwest of Wayne on the night of January 29, 1913, was born in LaSalle county, Illinois, December 26, 1837, and was 75 years, 1 month and 3 days of age at the time of death. Left an orphan at the age of nine years, he early learned to make his own way in the world. He came to Iowa with friends soon after the death of his parents, and when about 15 or 16 years of age came to the western part of the state, stopping near the present site of Oakland, Iowa, and lived there and at Council Bluffs for a number of years. For a time he drove stage on a line in western Iowa, and also freighted between Omaha and Denver before the days of the iron horse. In 1872 he was united in marriage at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, to Miss Viamma Bates, and to this union five sons and two daughters were born, all of whom were at his funeral except Leroy, who is somewhere in Montana. The wife died 22 years ago. One son, Mark, and a daughter, Mrs. Robert Wilson, reside near Wayne, William lives at O'Neill, while Fannie Myers, Ed and Jesse live at Oakland, Iowa, where the body was laid to rest Sunday.

For the past three years Mr. Simpson has made his home with his son near Wayne, and was of a pleasant disposition and genial nature, making friends of all acquaintances. For a number of years he was a member of the Christian church. The son and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson desire us to say that they are indeed grateful to their kind neighbors for their aid and sympathy in their hour of affliction.

The Pavilion Sale

The pavilion sale held last Saturday was the largest and best yet held here this season. The buyers were there, and nearly everything brought a good price—the better the stock the better the price. The sale amounted to over $5,000, so it is evident that some property changed owners. This week there is an advertisement asking those who have anything to offer to list it early so that it may be properly advertised, thus insuring another good sale. There is already listed for the next sale a high grade Percheron stallion 4 years old and weighing 1700 pounds.

Notice to Farmer

I have opened up a Cream Station two doors south of the Boyd hotel and represent the David Cole Creamery Co., of Omaha. I am ready to take in your cream and will test it out as fast as received, and pay cash for same as quick as tested. I will give you honest weight, and honest test and am soliciting your patronage.

Respectfully yours,
Wm. Jilg.

A jolly good time is reported.

A Note From North Carolina

Andrew Eliason, who lives at Wakefield when at home, but is spending this winter in the Blue Mountain country of western North Carolina, writes that he is improving in health there. He also sends us a couple of post-card views of that beautiful country. One of these is a palatial residence of George Vanderbilt, at Biltmore, which is a suburb of Asheville. Asheville, he writes, is a place of 25,000, a sort of a winter home for a lot of northern people and invalids. The place he says is modern and up-to-date, which the views he sent indicate.

Sentenced For Life

County Judge, James Britton, has issued licenses to the following to receive a life sentence of each other's society: John Schmidt, Katherine Dohm, Benj. Fallbeck, Anna Brune, Henry H. Huffaker, Silver City, Iowa, Annie Mae Miller, Winside, O. A. Sellin, Anna Mary Bossard, John H. Dunklau, Miha Kruse, Wm. Morris, Mary Edwards, J. S. Herfel, Anna Novak, Geo. E. Ulrich, Laura E. Miss Ida Schumann of Bloomfield and William S. Baker of Wayne were united in marriage Tuesday morning, February 4, 1913, at 9:30 in St. Andrew's Catholic church at Bloomfield by Rev. Father McNamara, assisted by Rev. Father Kearns of Wayne.

The bridal couple took their places at the altar while Sister Mary played Lohengrins wedding march.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white messaline while her bridesmaid was gowned in white voile trimmed with Chantilly lace.

The attendants were the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Baker of Wayne and Mr. Frank Mathine of Bloomfield.

After the ceremony a three course breakfast was served at the home of the bride several miles southeast of Bloomfield.

The happy couple took the train for a short wedding trip in the east after which they will reside on the farm of the groom's father, near Neligh, Nebraska. The Democrat extends felicitations.

Dunklau-Kruse

Tuesday afternoon, February 4, 1913, at the German Evangelical church, Mr. John H. Dunklau and Miss Miha Kruse were united in marriage by Rev. Vibber Will Not Cut Quality

After a convincing trial the proprietor of the Vibber Cafe has demonstrated to his satisfaction that he cannot afford to furnish the fine service which he does and the excellent menu for the once popular price of 25c a meal, and he feels confident that the great majority of his patrons prefer good service at the lowest price consistent thereto rather than a poor meal or poor service at a less price. Therefore this popular eating place will hereafter charge 35c per meal, and will give a 35c value in food and good service.—Adv.

H. Linke Wins in State Show

Henry Linke, who grows good chickens at his farm just north of Wayne had a few birds at Grand Island at the Nebraska state meet, and carried off four prizes, which is pretty good in a contest where 1,500 birds are entered. Mr. Linke's entries were of the White Rocks, and when the judges had finished their work he had first prize on hen, second on pen, third on cockerill and fifth on pullet, which we call doing remarkably well.

An Iowa Institution Worthy of Home Patronage

Located at Council Bluffs, Iowa, is the home offices and sanitorium of the German-American Doctors. This institution is now one of the largest and most thoroughly equipped of the kind in the central west, having everything that money will buy for the successful treatment of chronic and obstinate diseases. They do not claim to cure any and all forms of diseases, but they do claim that where any benefit can be obtained from the latest approved methods of treatment together with the best of medical skill, places them in a position to treat all chronic cases as successfully as it is possible to treat them, no matter where you may go. And as for honesty, integrity and professional ability, they can offer no better reference than the testimonies of those who have left their doors cured.—adv.

State Normal Notes

A meeting of the Board of Education was held at Lincoln Tuesday. The Philomathean literary society will give a program in the chapel Friday evening. The public is invited.

The Senior class has extended an invitation to Dr. Corkey to preach the baccalaureate sermon May 25, 1913.

The following are the officers of the Y. M. C. A. for the second semester: Clarence Linton, president; Ray Hickman, vice president; Sidney Johnson, secretary; Conrad Jacobson, treasurer.

The matter of issuing a Senior annual is under consideration by the class of 1913. If the proposition receives favorable consideration a precedent will be established which will doubtless be followed by all classes in the future.

The regular semester reception of the faculty to the students occurred on Tuesday evening, February 4. The students passed down the receiving line and were seated in the chapel. After the formal reception the following program was rendered:

Song, Normal Male Quartette.
Address of Welcome, President Conn.

Response, Alfred Lewis.
Piano Solo, Mrs. Miller.
Vocal Solo, Herbert Welch.

Humorous Songs, E. R. Rogers.

A very unique feature of the program was a study in education given under the direction of different members of the faculty. By means of tableau and pantomime the audience had a glimpse of the Jewish Rabbi, Greek Art, the Roman Orator, the Philosopher of the Middle Ages, the German student, Ye Schoolmaster of Ye Olden Times, The Schoolma'am of the Present, and Glimpses into the Future. A social hour in the gymnasium, where punch and wafers were served, closed a very pleasant evening.

How Impressions Are Formed . . .

A merchant who takes pride in his business and the service he gives his customers, has a modern store building, keeps his stock toned up and in order and there is an air of up-to-dateness and refinement.

It is this that sometimes gives people the impression that his is a high-priced store whereas it is the dealers sole aim to make his store a better and more pleasant place for you to trade.

Just because our store is cleaner, more pleasant to come into and more pleasing to the eye, our goods do not cost you more. It's just natural for us to conduct a first-class store. If we ran a junk shop it would be neat, clean and in order.

Shave Without Wincing

Don't dread shaving. Shave without wincing. The first requisite is not the condition of razor or lather, as many may believe, but it is the immediate application of something after you shave that will relieve the skin of irritation and tenderness. We know of nothing that will do this as well as Rexall Shaving Lotion.

Rexall Shaving Lotion is a delightful antiseptic preparation for use after shaving. It helps to soothe and comfort the tender skin. You will get a whole lot more comfort out of every shave if you use Rexall Shaving Lotion after every shave. You can shave with greater comfort with a fairly good razor if your skin is in perfect condition for the shave, and is entirely free from tenderness and irritation, than you can with the best and sharpest razor if your skin is not in perfect condition.

We are confident Rexall Shaving Lotion will delight and please you, and we promise that if it does not we will gladly refund your money. Prices, 35 and 50 cents. Sold in this community only at our store. —The Rexall Store—

C. E. Crooks and family leave this week to make their home at Ashton, Idaho. They have long been residents of this place and will be missed by many, but Idaho will gain good citizens in the Brooks family.

There is to be war waged on drink from now on, says an exchange. We know people who have spent the greater part of a lifetime "putting it down", and they are not through with the job yet, though pretty well pickled.

Northwestern trains running northwest from Norfolk which have been equipped to burn oil, have also been equipped to use an electric headlight. This is quite an improvement, and one that complies with a law of our sister state.

Bert Hefti and family left this week for their new home at Russell, Minnesota. Mr. and Mrs. Hefti have made their home in the vicinity of Wayne for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and are good citizens, such as we hate to see depart.

The bill to allow the governor or other state officials to ride free on the railroads should be voted down. If Nebraska cannot afford to pay for the passage of those who look after state's business, let's raise the railroad tax a peg or two higher.

At Neligh they convicted a hardened tough known as Charles Kenen of drunk and disorderly conduct, and it was not his first conviction either, and then the mayor paroled him on condition that he leave the place at once. Is that not a nice manner to treat the outside world. When they have a rascal caught and convicted, just turn him loose on the public who don't know him, and let him start over again on a strange people. Neligh should take care of their own criminals, not turn them over to an unsuspecting public elsewhere.

Mrs. Roy Kloppling started Tuesday morning for her new home at Twin Falls, Idaho, where Mr. Kloppling went about three weeks ago. She says that Mr. Kloppling is much pleased with their new home, and writes that the weather has been all that could be desired there, and Mrs. Kloppling is looking forward to her new home with pleasure. Their many friends here will miss them much, but wish them well. Her mother, Mrs. W. H. McNeal and Mrs. Henry Kloppling accompanied her as far as Omaha.

John J. Kane, a Wisner breeder of Duroc Jersey hogs, was a caller at the Democrat office Monday while out billing for a sale of bred sows, and he decided that an advertisement in this paper would tell more people of his sale in one day than he could see in several days. Elsewhere you can find about his offering, which is to be sold at Wisner Monday the 17th. In and about Wisner are a bunch of hog men who have followed the breeding business for a number of years, and we note that their sales are getting larger and better each year, as they become better known to a larger circle of buyers.

At the request of a friend last week this paper mentioned the habit of throwing ashes into the street without sifting nails out, and that has caused another reader to remark that the people, in some parts of the place at least, should sprinkle the street with nails and ashes, for, he says we either have no proper speed regulation ordinance or it is not properly enforced. That some streets are driven over at a rate which is dangerous to pedestrians as well as to those riding—that automobiles are allowed to turn and cross streets at any point in turning round; while in many places this is not allowed, and they may turn only at the point of intersecting streets. Perhaps it will be well to administer a little regulation to both the ash heaver and the automobilist.

Poultry Raising Pays

Poultry raising is a resource for those in moderate circumstances and pays a percentage of profit that is so large as to be discredited by patrons of high finance. Last winter a Missouri stock raiser entered the office of an Iowa live stock paper and said the best paying live stock on his farm was chickens; that they had made him 300 per cent.

Thousands of dollars' worth of poultry is marketed every year and the industry is not confined to any locality. It is increasing in the north and in the south, in the east and in the west. There are a few variations, to fit local conditions, but no variation is short of the redeeming feature—Profit.

From the large duck farms in the East that furnish the cities with produce, to the California turkey ranches, it is profitable.

Somehow, California gets the credit for the turkey ranches, but it may or may not be the originator. At the present time these ranches, while mostly unknown are features of Western Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, New Mexico and Texas. Without doubt, Texas leads.

11,000 Turkeys on Parade

On the 26th of November, last, 11,000 turkeys were driven in one drove through the streets of Cuero, Texas, and marketed at that town. They have two large plants there for dressing turkeys. The dressed article is shipped to Chicago, San Francisco and New York City.

The total receipts on this day for turkeys exceeded $15,000. One man who brought in 8,100 turkeys, received a check for $14,088.52.

All this—and poultry raising still in its infancy!

Only that space does not permit I would tell you of a farmers' wife who, twenty years ago, started raising fancy poultry and Bronze turkeys. The family had a mortgaged farm and times were hard twenty years ago. But this woman, besides doing the housework, paid the household expenses and eventually they were able to meet the mortgage.

Since then they have built a fine residence, put two of their children through college, have money in the bank and are out of debt.

This was no streak of luck. They paid several hundred dollars to the doctor and the sickness would have prevented any other business from going forward.

While there are isolated cases of big profits on a larger scale, they are uncommon. The profit is larger on flocks of from 200 to 800 chickens. We naturally include ducks, geese and turkeys with poultry. It doesn't necessarily mean chickens. Yet, for small farmers and village people, chickens mean the best and biggest profits.

There is some variety of chicken suited by nature to meet every condition. The egg market is persistent and dressed poultry brings a good price. It would seem from this that the best variety would be something for eggs and market, too.

There are many varieties that will do this, and it means all the year around profit.

Winter eggs are now a possibility, since incubators came to the rescue by hatching early and the pullets thus start laying in the fall before cold weather. We don't have to depend on cold storage eggs, but get a nice price for our fresh ones.

Little Capital Needed

We can operate a paying poultry farm on the back end of a city lot, if we have nothing larger. It doesn't mean a big investment nor a long time to get started. In fact, a reliable incubator can be had for from $8 to $20. Thoroughbred eggs can be purchased at $6 for 100. For an investment of from $15 to $18, anyone can have a flock of from 60 to 100 chickens inside of seven months. If 50 per cent are pullets, one can enjoy a daily income from eggs that neighbors buy readily because they know they are fresh.

I can't imagine an unprofitable flock of chickens, but where space is small it's wise to reduce the flock by culling out the nonlayers and the roosters, keeping only what is needed.

It pays to get acquainted with each individual hen and her egg production. As the hens begin to fatten instead of laying, replace them with pullets. Remember that after you're started once it's easy to have a new crop of pullets each fall when it's time to sell the cockerels and older hens.

Besides these early hatches you can hatch right up to June or later and the chicks will bring good prices in the fall as fries.

This was the only market we had to depend on before the use of incubators, but artificial hatching has supplied a new market. Since beef and pork are going out of reach, poultry is called on for a large portion of our meat supply. As it can be produced for so much less than beef or pork and sells for so much more and as the growing population does not interfere with its production, as with cattle, since the western ranges are turned into wheat fields, we see it has come to stay and are settling down to sober, matter-of-fact poultry raising for profit. H. H. JOHNSON.

Wall Street and Woodrow Wilson

Under the headline, "Wall Street and Wilson," the Johnstown (Pa.) Democrat prints the following editorial: Among the Wall street organs of big business none is more troubled in spirit over the un-ruddiness of Woodrow Wilson than the "New York Herald." It was among those great journalistic champions of things as they are which laid the flattering function to their souls that the New Jersey governor's platform was designed to get in on, not to stand on; and now that it finds that Governor Wilson is taking his pledges and promises seriously and is determined to have others take them seriously the Herald emits a roar of anguish which would do credit to the Sun itself. In an editorial charging the president-elect is under the baneful influence of W. J. Bryan, the esteemed Herald says: "When Mr. Wilson was elected to the presidency there was no thought that he was to be a Bryan. He said that none of the reforms presented by him in indefinite terms and belloyed to be academic would be carried out in such a way as to cause business disturbance. The country took him at his word and he went in as a minority president, but it saw to it that his plurality was sufficient to give him a majority of the electoral college."

"Yet the public is now realizing that Mr. Wilson is under the influence of Mr. Bryan, and his utterances have breathed such a hostile spirit toward business, have demonstrated such a hectoring tone and generally have shown such a spirit of intolerance that confidence has been shaken and the outlook is not satisfactory. It is almost as if Bryan were president-elect."

"Mr. Wilson can easily break himself by pursuing his present course. But that isn't very important compared with breaking the country."

But what part of the "country" is Governor Wilson "breaking" or threatening to "break?" And in what particular does his present course differ from his course in the past? Is he proposing anything today that he was not proposing a year or even two years ago? Is not what he is saying in 1913 wholly consistent with what he said when he first came before the country as a presidential possibility?

Ah, but Mr. Wilson is "under the influence of Mr. Bryan." That is to say, he is not under the influence of Mr. Morgan, Mr. Belmont or Mr. Ryan. Were he under an influence so benign as theirs this would be a happy land indeed and Wall street might pull its silken robes about it and lapse back into its golden dreams. But with the Bryan influence betraying itself it promises to gibbet the Morgans and the Belmonts and the Ryans as high as Haman if they join in a conspiracy to wreck the country in a spirit of mad revenge, the situation becomes alarming indeed and the Herald is quite justified in sounding the tocsin.

Still matters might be worse, considered from the standpoint of field and forge, for apparently the distress which racks the soul of Wall street is not shared by the hewers of wood and the drawers of water. The plain people seem to be fairly well satisfied with Governor Wilson and the influences which he appears to court and so far from his course having a tendency to "break the country," it seems to be quite the other way about, the country showing little sign of alarm and manifesting daily an increasing confidence in the lofty courage and the high purpose of the gentleman whom Wall street has come so thoroughly to distrust.

The country indeed took Governor Wilson at his word and he is now keeping faith with the country by making it clear that his word was not lightly given and is not to be lightly broken. The people were not fooled in Wilson. But Wall street made the mistake of fooling itself into the belief that he didn't mean what he said.

Our Topsy Turvy World

The pay of American school teachers, averaged throughout the country, is $485 a year. It is $28 less than that of unskilled day laborers. It just about equals the average pay of ministers of the gospel. Moreover, both teachers and preachers have to "dress their parts"—there are times when they cannot afford to wear clothes that are shabby. Which really cuts their scant wages further down. Economically, therefore, they are almost at the bottom of the heap. Compare this average teacher's $485 a year income—$1.50 a day, if you omit Sundays—with what fellows like Morgan make in peddling inflated "securities," or Armour in cornering beef, or Astor in just sitting tight while other people hoist the site value of their land, and you get a picture of how topsy turvy we have let things become.

A good teacher or preacher, a good writer, a good artist, any person who has a vision to impart, is, of course, worth tremendously more to American society than a stock jobber or pork packer or other kind of predatory "plutee." Give all credit fairly due to the captain of industry or the Napoleon of finance, and the fact remains that, when he is honest, he is only a servant of man's more or less transient material needs; and, when dishonest, a robber. Whereas, the imparting of a vision puts into life a value which eternity itself cannot cancel. He enriches civilization to its uttermost borders. That, of course, is what saves the day for the poor teacher, preacher or prophet. Otherwise the penury of his lot would be insupportable.

But in this day of diffused intelligence and social understanding, doesn't it seem ridiculous that we should go on pouring into the hairy paws of a few fat masters of money immense riches for their children to abuse which such real benefactors as the teacher and preacher have to scrape along not much better paid than tramps?—Sioux City News.

Keeps Tab on Hogs

Alton, (Iowa) Democrat: Peter L. Bindner is a farmer who makes it a point to know just what he is doing. He keeps book on all his stuff and knows to a nicety just what the animals on his farm are doing for him. He has been keeping close tab on a bunch of hogs which he marketed on Saturday last. He sold on Saturday last 60 head of hogs, high grade Polands and Duroc Jersey mixed, which at the age of eight months averaged 250 pounds per head or in exact figures 15,140 pounds. Mr. Bindner received the top for his hogs, which on Saturday last was $7.05 per hundred. On December 7th this bunch of hogs was weighed and they tipped the scales at 11,100 pounds. From Dec. 7th to Jan. 18th they gained 4040 pounds, or a little better than 100 pounds per day. During this time the hogs were fed 359 bushels of corn, which at market price was worth $129.24, and the gain in weight at the price at which the hogs were sold amounts to $284.82, which means that Mr. Bindner received a little better than 79 cents per bushel for the corn he fed this bunch of hogs. The past fall this bunch of hogs harvested an 8 acre patch of corn and a patch of clover, and they did it free of charge and did a good job. While in this field they gained an even 2 pounds per head per day.

Less than four weeks more of republican rule—can hardly wait, after waiting for sixteen years.

The fellow who claims to know where there is boot-legging going on and wants it suppressed, but without the use of his name is not a very enthusiastic enemy of the unlawful.

Pottawattamie county, Iowa, including the city of Council Bluffs, has failed to show up a petition with names enough to entitle them to privileges of selling booze, and when the present licenses expire in the spring the present indications are that the county will be dry. The life of the saloon keeper in Iowa and many other places is one grand fight for authority to continue.

The short and proper way to settle the controversy over the water power rights which are making so much trouble for various grafting interests is to throw the entire bunch of applicants out, retain the water power of the state for the state, levy a tax for a fund with which to develop the same and utilize it for the benefit of all of the people. Why should the state farm the job out to private individuals? It belongs to the people of the state and if the people realized what great value they are being robbed of, they would make a demand to retain their own Uncle Sam is planning for another land lottery—the proposed scene of action being in the Pine Ridge Indian reservation in South Dakota. If the bill goes through there will be about 100,000 acres to scramble for. In the last drawing it is said that fully half of those who went through the motions and were "lucky" got left in the end—that is, they had to pay more for their holdings than they were worth.

Dakota City is holding a farmers' institute this week. We wonder that the Wayne farmers did not get in on an institute this winter. The state is aiding with speakers and instructors, and it makes a chance to obtain practical knowledge of stock judging, care and breeding, as well as domestic economy and general farming at a time when there is nothing much else to do on the farm but let it soak in and grow until spring comes.

The Plainview good folks are talking of engaging an evangelist and having a series of revival meetings. Don't do it. Just each one make the donation it would cost to some worthy poor or some good public enterprise, and with the donation sign an agreement to live up to the "golden rule" and you will not need an evangelist—but, if you must have help to get right and do right get some fellow who can call you down good and hard and take your medicine.

House Roll 433 by Bollen and Korff representing this district in the senate and house, provides that railway companies shall provide and maintain adequate transfer facilities where lines are within 500 feet of each other. The present law very vaguely reads, "where practicable." If the bill becomes a law it may mean a wye, or transfer track for the roads crossing at Randolph. The bill has merit.—Randolph Times.

The Norfolk Press thinks that a committee should be named to investigate and audit the accounts of one "Captain Dailly" who has been making headquarters at Norfolk and soliciting funds, clothing and any old thing for the poor, and claims to be unable to find out who are the destitute that he is aiding. This is the man who was here in the early winter and was liberally provided by the kind hearted people, and who said he would return again in February or March because he had done so well the first time. Investigate, Bro. Weeks, and if he is not doing good to the poor with his collections call him down good and proper, and we will see that he is known over this way if he comes again.

As a means of securing penny letter postage, it is suggested that the rate be raised on second class mail matter. We would suggest that Uncle Sam pay no more to the railroads for hauling mail than the express companies pay for transporting their tonnage. Then if our Uncle Sam will buy a few cars in which to convey the mail and stop paying an annual rental for cars that is greater than the cost of the cars, we might have penny letter postage without putting the burden on second class matter and save money. When all departments of government are run as most men would conduct a private business, then will the cost of government be cut in the middle.

Last week the Democrat made mention of the throwing down of Leslie Shaw from the presidency of the First Mortgage Guarantee and Trust Co., and this week Mr. Courtright hands a paper from Denison, Iowa, Shaw's former home, which contains a statement from Mr. Shaw in which he says that he was not elected president at this time because of disagreements in the policy to be followed between himself and the directors—that he controls a majority of the stock and that he was the man who nominated and elected all of the present directors, and that as fast as their terms expire he can retire them and name who he will, but just now their election is an act to which he must submit, and that he is glad to be relieved of the responsibility. He claims that the company is in good condition, and stock above par.

At Lincoln a reapportionment bill is being prepared to redistrict this state into different congressional districts—not that there would be any more districts, but the cheese would be cut differently. Our district, under the proposed change would lose Dodge, Colfax, Merrick and Nance counties, and be given in exchange Holt, Boyd, Garfield, Wheeler and Greeley. We would lose as residents of the district Congressman Stephens, S. A. Barton and Chas. Sloan, all men of congressional aspirations. Of course, if the district boundaries are changed there will yet be men who think they are large enough to represent a district—a good district too, at Washington, and they will be heard from. But really, what is the need to do all of this proposed readjustment work—we end with the same number of representatives at headquarters? Perhaps it is a move to change the political complexion of the delegation.

The cow census idea is now to be applied more generally to the hen, and biddy will have to go to laying eggs or come down off the perch and go to the slaughter pen. Some hens have made a record of 280 eggs laid in a single year, but the average of all hens is but about 80 eggs. This means that very few hens come near the high mark and numerous hens fall below the average. The hen is not always to blame—the one who cares for them—or should care for them is often in fault. For a hen to have all of the corn she can eat just for the picking up and eating of it is a very good way to fatten her, but a poor way to make her lay. Give your hens a proper ration and if they don't respond with eggs, remove the head close back of the ears, and have a potpie for dinner. It will save the meat bill and the chicken feed bill from being so large and make the owner better off. Watch the hens of your flock, and cull out the non-layers. They were once kept because they were good setters—but now we have X-Ray incubators and brooders.

The Constitutional Amendment

On Monday the Wyoming legislature got a move on itself and ratified the constitutional amendment favoring an income tax, the 36th state to do this, thus giving the required three-fourths of the states necessary to pass this amendment. It will now devolve upon congress to enact the necessary income tax law, and this will no doubt be done at the special session to be called by Woodrow Wilson. In fact a law has been in waiting for some years for the day to come when it could be enacted without being declared unconstitutional, and there is but little doubt but that the law already framed will be passed with but little change. The income over $5,000 were to be taxed under this law, which makes it a safe law for the average country editor. But the editor is a public spirited man as a rule who would be perfectly willing to be taxed on whatever his net income exceeded $5,000 annually.

Reforming Wall Street

Wherever there is a democratic legislature or governor, the work of reform goes steadily on. In New York a democratic governor is pushing reform along all lines, and there, more than in any other state in the union, reform is needed, because it is a financial center, having an influence that touches every part of the United States and effects the commercial welfare of the whole country.

Governor Sulzer has recently sent a message to the legislature asking for effective laws to govern the stock exchange. Of course these suggestions do not meet with the approval of the financiers, and the Wall Street Journal declares that "they could only be enforced by the state by the use of inquisitorial powers, such as the United States constitution would probably not sanction." Every vital reform that has been proposed has been opposed on the ground that it would be "unconstitutional" and the Journal only follows the usual custom. Governor Sulzer's recommendations may be summarized as follows:

First—A law to distinguish clearly proper transactions of purchase and sale from those that are the result of combinations to raise or depress artificially the price of securities without regard to their true value or legitimate supply and demand.

Second—A law to prohibit brokers from selling backward and forward among themselves blocks of a particular stock with intent to deceive or mislead outsiders.

Third—A law to prohibit brokers from selling for their own account the same stock they have been ordered to buy for their customers at the time the customers' orders are executed.

Fourth—A law clearly prohibiting insolvent brokers from continuing to buy and sell after they become insolvent.

Fifth—A law making it a criminal offense to issue any statement or publish any advertisement as to the value of any stock or other security, or as to financial condition of any corporation or company issuing or about to issue stock or securities, where any promise or prediction contained in such statement or advertisement is known to be false or to be not fairly justified by existing conditions.

One thing is certain. If the state of New York does not stop the predatory tendencies that have grown up there, congress will, and it would be legitimate work for congress, for the transactions of the stock exchange are interstate and national in their character.—World Herald.

GRANT S. MEARS

Studying Proposed Laws

Last Monday evening the Brotherhood of the M. E. church had for consideration at their meeting several matters of proposed legislation; the object being to keep in touch with the law makers at Lincoln and educate the people on some matters that are being considered by our solons.

Sunday base ball was the first thing under consideration. The proposed amendment to the bill was read and discussed. The amendment proposed if adopted, will allow Sunday base ball in communities that do not restrict it. Municipal organizations may prohibit or regulate, and county commissioners may decide whether or not the national game may be played in the county outside of towns.

J. E. Marsteller started the ball rolling, and he read the proposed bill and spoke as though he thought that there might be worse things in the way of Sunday amusement than well regulated base ball—yet he was not ready to advocate the passage of the measure. Professors Lackey and Lewis each spoke on the subject, and were very conservative in their views. Then some one raised the question as to whether it was the people or the base ball syndicate that was raising the question of Sunday base ball, thinking that if the money was not a consideration there would be less demand for Sunday ball. C. Clasen did not favor the bill. Rev. Gorst was opposed to it, taking the ground that the Sabbath did not belong to the people except as a day of worship—and would as soon legalize any business on Sunday as base ball. The betting and evident throwing of a game for money were what he considered the worst features of the game, on week days or Sunday.

U. S. Conn of the Normal next read a proposed bill closing pool halls the same as saloons at 8 o'clock in the evening. He thought that in many ways the pool hall was as detrimental as the saloon. He did not approve of the pool room in connection with the Y. M. C. A., because he thinks the game teaches idleness.

The proposed bill to enlarge the election board in the larger voting precincts was presented by C. E. Sprague. This bill proposes to add a counting board to begin four hours after the polls open and count so that when the voting is done the result may be known soon. But the real feature of the bill is in the relief given an election board. For a body of men to be on duty 24 hours without relief, as is frequently the case, is asking too much of the election board, and it would cost no more to have two sets on duty 10 hours each than one set 20 hours.

Professor Lewis presented the bill authorizing a commission form of government for places the size of Wayne, and favored it for economic business reasons. Felt sure that municipal government might be improved, and could not well be made worse. Messrs. Clasen and Sprague each spoke in favor of the measure.

Prof. Hickman favored the proposed law making the public drinking cup a nuisance, and if any were there who were from Missouri he "showed 'em". In view of all that he said and showed one wonders that any are now alive to drink from any cup—for he made a bad case for the old-fashioned tin cup which has done service so many years in the town hall, the school room and the Wayne railway station. There is one redeeming feature, that he did not mention. Pure blood is the most perfect germicide known, and the man, woman or child who has good red blood running through their veins can kill off those millions of "little bugs" as fast as they incubate—but perhaps it is just as well not to encourage their increase, for they may tackle some weak constitution and make trouble.

The meeting was well attended, and much interest manifest, and it will be a good thing to have more such gatherings at this place. President W. D. Redmond presided.

Mrs. Frank Martin was called to Omaha Wednesday by word that her little grandchild is ill at the home of D. C. Nelson and wife suffering from a bad cold or possibly coming down with whooping cough.

Advertising in Medical Professions

I am going to write a series of advertising stories. I want to justify my position, I want to state my purpose. Why should not a doctor advertise with the same right as a banker, merchant or church? The fair thing to do is to announce your intention if a man is going to make a political speech, preach a sermon or tell a story, we may then give him more intelligent attention, those who do not care to listen can walk out, or stay away. This is to be a story. It is more than a story it is an advertisement. The purpose of my story is to teach the public my name, address and business, also to show on the face of it an honest business, so that any one may come to me with a certainty of fair treatment, the fee being paid each time no one need come back if not pleased. I do not collect as large a fee as I can to insure a hold on them. I have decided to offer my services in this way to the public as a general and special practitioner. To help people is my work, to serve all sorts of people with all sorts of ills. Two results are expected from the publication of my stories; new friends and new patronage. My stories begin in the next issue.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

"From the sheepfold to the Throne" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning. The sermon will be in the nature of a memorial sermon in honor of Abraham Lincoln, comparing him with the Israel's great King, David, the son of Jesse.

In the evening the fourth sermon in the series on Fundamentals of Religion will be given. The subject of this sermon will be "The Fact of Hell." There will also be a brief prelude on "Purgatory." The morning service begins at 10:30 and the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. The Sunday school meets at 12:00 noon, and the C. E. prayer meeting at 6:30 p. m.

In connection with the closing exercises the Superintendent of the Sunday school has been giving five minute illustrated talks to the children. Next Sunday the subject of this illustrated talk will be "The Rainbow." The children are promised something worth seeing.

Services were held at the McEachen schoolhouse last Sunday afternoon. Mr. E. B. Young was present at the services and made an interesting talk in regard to his former work in that community and the need of country evangelization. Miss Bernice Moler also rendered a solo at the service. "Life's Lullaby" which was much appreciated. Rev. Alexander Corkey preached from the text, Nehemiah 8:8.

The subject of the C. E. prayer meeting next Sunday evening is "The Ideal Christian." It will be a consecration meeting.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.)

We are glad to report the sick rapidly recovering.

The Ladies' Aid society had a fine meeting on last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Harry McMillen. There was a good attendance. The society have set March 13th as the day for their bazaar. At that time they will have a good variety of useful articles for sale, and will also serve luncheon. Keep the date in mind and patronize the ladies on this occasion. It will encourage them and help the church. They deserve your favors.

The class in Catechism meets in the pastor's study Saturday at 2:30 p. m.

With Wednesday of this week we enter the season known as Lent. For many years this has been observed and by many churches as the most beautiful season of the year, giving a spiritual uplift to every soul who faithfully observes it. We will, as a church, observe the Sundays of this season with specially appropriate services. We hope, therefore, that all of our friends will attend all the services during this time. It is a season of humiliation and prayer and will lead us to special praise and thanksgiving on Easter Sunday. By this means we more fully learn the terrible cost of sin and the sacrifice of Christ to redeem us from it.

Our services for next Sunday will be at the usual time. Sunday school at 10 a. m., and preaching services at 11 a. m. This being the first Sunday in Lent the pastor will preach a specially appropriate sermon. He desires a full attendance of all the members and friends of the church. Strangers are especially invited.

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

The pastor closed the meetings at Carroll last Sunday and is at home to take charge of his work. He highly appreciates the services of all those who helped carry on the work during his absence. Very favorable comments have been heard in regard to Brother Linton's service on last Sunday evening. He is a strong young man and full of promise.

On Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "The Love of Christ." In the evening he will speak on "Lost Opportunities."

The young people's meeting will be at 6:30 Sunday evening, led by Miss Rue Rickabaugh, the subject is "How to hold Christian Principles."

The Advisory Board held its meeting in the study Tuesday evening. The board was permanently organized with S. R. Theobald as chairman and I. W. Alter as secretary. Various aspects of our church were discussed in a helpful way. The Board will meet regularly each month on Tuesday preceding the covenant meeting. The board consists of the deacons, trustees, finance committee, S. S. Superintendent and pastor.

As we approach the end of our missionary year, we are very anxious that our full budget be met. This can be done easily, if each one responds. If you have not made your pledge yet, see Mr. Alter or Mr. Christensen, soon about it.

Heaven and Who Go There

A large congregation assembled at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening and there was much interest in the sermon of the pastor on "Heaven." The introductory services were very impressive, the pastor reading the teachings of Jesus in regard to heaven, and the solo, "Abide with Me," being rendered by Miss Reba Nangle. The text of the sermon was the word of Jesus, "I go to prepare a place for you." After declaring that Jesus left this world, not like us because he had to leave it, but to perform a work in another sphere, the preacher stated that anyone who denies the existence of such a place as heaven must be either greater as a prophet than Jesus or else one of the most dangerous enemies of society. We must of necessity honor as superhuman or dispise as base deceivers those who tell us of the unseen world. Accepting Jesus as the true guide in spiritual matters the minister described the kind of a place heaven is. "It is a place where good company is found," he declared. "The great and good of every age are there. We will meet Abraham in heaven. We can talk with Moses, David, Elijah, Mary, the mother of Jesus, Luther, Moody, Spurgeon and the other mighty leaders of men, and renowned characters in history." He further stated that heaven would be a place with many advantages. There will be no evil there. All wicked men will be absent. No hypocrites can enter through heaven's door. No doctors are needed there, for people are never sick. They have no coffins in heaven, and they dig no graves there.

In this world a scientist is praised the world over if he can prolong life five or ten years but in heaven life is prolonged for eternity. It is difficult on earth to find a man who is really contented. In heaven all are satisfied. There is no poverty, no disappointment, no weariness and no pain. In telling who go to heaven, Dr. Corkey said that all children who die in early life go to God. All those in non-Christian lands who fear God and work righteousness are accepted there. In Christian lands all who accept Christ leave earth to enter life in heaven. He declared that the greatest reason why a man should be a Christian was because it assured him of heaven. "There are a hundred good reasons," declared the speaker, "why a man should become a Christian. It makes his present life happier, more useful, more honorable. Godliness has a promise for the life that now is as well as for that which is to come. But before we are in heaven forty thousand years we will acknowledge that no matter what it might have cost us to become Christians on earth the enjoyments of heaven's bliss for all eternity was worth ten thousand times the cost."

Next Sabbath evening the subject of the next sermon in this series is "The Fact of Hell," with a prelude on "Purgatory."

General Trade Conditions

Of the condition of trade Bradstreet's February 1 issue says: "Though trade trends are running in a favorable direction, there is enough irregularity to divert the situation of uniformity. Over and beyond all is the fact that the larger centers of distribution continue to do remarkably well, this being most patent in cereal producing regions that were favored by heavy crops. Sections thus circumstanced note good personal buying; takings of spring goods from jobbers have augmented house trade, and at the same time traveling salesmen are forwarding rather liberal orders. The early coming of Easter this year provides a natural reason for expansion in a host of spring lines, particularly dry goods, shoes, farm machinery, millinery, hardware, glass, paints and oils. Incidentally, buying for future account keeps up, though the situation in this respect is tinged with a feeling of conservatism, this manifestation being largely due to uncertainty regarding probable tariff changes. Still, buying of worsted and woolen goods continues fairly active, neither the strikes of garment workers nor tariff talk having acted as check-reins on purchases for future shipments, though it must be admitted the labor disturbances unfavorably affect current distribution of made-up materials and have caused the holding up of goods heretofore ordered. Comparatively few places can boast of good seasonable retail trade, and for this mild weather must be held responsible. Clearance sales are everywhere in evidence, and it is probable that stocks are heavy."

Attention to Seed Corn

That the 1913 crop of seed corn is not up to normal is the report of C. W. Pugeley of the Nebraska Experiment Station. While the seed corn is in much better condition than it was last year, yet it requires some careful attention. Corn is full of moisture and a sudden freeze or continued cold weather might result in much of it being badly damaged. Farmers are urged to use extreme care to see that the seed corn is properly stored, and to test it before it is planted.

Obituary—Harriet Myers Craig
(By Her Pastor)

Harriet Myers Craig was born in Lancaster County, Pa., on the 9th day of July, 1834, and died in Wayne, Nebraska, on the 1st day of February, 1913, at the age of 78 years, 6 months and 22 days. On the 17th day of March 1852, in her native state, she was married to T. A. Craig, who now survives her at the age of 82 years. Had Mrs. Craig lived until the 17th day of next month they would have reached the 61st anniversary of their wedding. In 1867 Mr. and Mrs. Craig left Pennsylvania and settled in Pawnee county, Nebraska, and they have been residents of the state ever since. The last 17 years in Wayne and vicinity. To Mr. and Mrs. Craig were born nine children, two sons and seven daughters. The sons are, W. M. Craig of Omaha and Burle of Grano, N. D. Two daughters died in infancy. The other five grew to womanhood and married but, Laura, Mrs. J. A. White of Omaha died about two years ago. The daughters remaining are, Mrs. J. E. Bolander and Mrs. L. A. Peters of Maple Creek, Sask., Canada, Mrs. H. C. Goodale of Wynoka, Oklahoma, who has been with her mother some of the time during her illness, Mrs. W. H. Carleton of Leigh, Nebraska, whose vigils and tender care, through the long months of her mother's suffering, have greatly commended her to the large circle of Mr. and Mrs. Craig's friends.

Mrs. Craig lived to see her oldest child reach 60 years and her youngest 42 and was greatly pleased about sixteen months ago when the first, and as yet the only member of the fifth generation made her a great, great grandmother.

Mrs. Craig was the daughter of earnest Christian parents. Her father for many years was an old time Methodist class leader. Very early in life she became a Christian by choice and at the age of nineteen, united with the M. E. church along with her husband. For many years in Pennsylvania and Nebraska, Mr. Craig served as Sunday school superintendent, and teacher, steward and trustee, and, up to the last days that this elect lady could leave her room she and her husband have been among the most familiar figures in the services of the church and in the Sunday school classes. After their walk together down the decades for more than 60 years, not only as husband and wife but as close friends, no wonder at the reply of Mr. Craig to the question, "Is there any special thing you want to say in this obituary?" "Yes, she was not only a true woman, a faithful wife and never a better mother, but she was my best friend. I have lost my best friend."

Faithful to society, faithful to her family and home and faithful to the highest ideals of Christian belief and practice, there is only one destiny, a glorious immortality where she has joined the loved ones gone and awaits those that remain and now enjoy the legacy of a pure, sweet, helpful life.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church Monday afternoon and was largely attended, Rev. Wm. Gorst preaching the sermon, after which the body was laid to rest in Greenlawn cemetery.

The Truth About Ireland

Under the auspices of the C. E. society of the Presbyterian church Rev. Alexander Corkey will repeat his popular lecture, "The Truth About Ireland" at the church on Thursday evening of next week, February 13th. This lecture is the most popular of all that Dr. Corkey gives and he delivered it some two years ago in Wayne. A great many were unable to hear the lecture at that time and it is repeated for their benefit. The admission will be by ticket, but the tickets will be free. An offering will be taken up after the lecture for the treasury of the C. E. society. Everyone is invited to attend. The meeting will be presided over by Miss Bernice Moler, President of the C. E. society, and Mrs. A. R. Davis will sing before the lecture.

A Noon-Day Congregational Dinner

On next Thursday, February 13, at noon, a basket dinner will be enjoyed by the members and friends of the Presbyterian church. The dinner is given under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary society and will be an enjoyable affair. A social time will follow the dinner during which the members will get better acquainted, and the strangers will be introduced to their fellow-members. In connection with dinner a free-will offering will be made for the benefit of the missions conducted by the women of the church. All friends of the church are cordially invited to join in this social event.

A business change took place here the first of the month when the hardware firm of Craven & Welch dissolved. H. B. Craven purchased the interests of his partner, H. S. Welch, and will continue the business by himself, carrying the same lines as the firm had previously carried. Messrs. Meister & Bluechel are this season adopting a modern means of conveyance, having purchased a Stoddard-Dayton delivery truck for their work. On this automobile they can take with them a kit of tools for pump or windmill work besides several hundred pounds of supplies such as are frequently needed in their work, start out, do the work and get home without loss of time. It will be a great convenience to them, as is daily shown.

E. C. Blundell, the new division superintendent on this division of the O. M. & St. P., railway, who has been promoted from the position of assistant superintendent of the east division, will be here this week and take up with the city and the incubator people the question of a spur track to the power house and to the factory, probably running down the alley west of the two plants. Superintendent Welch, whom he succeeds, has been promoted to the Minnesota-Iowa line with headquarters at St. James, Minnesota.

C. M. Christensen was at Omaha last week attending a meeting of the insurance men of the Northwestern of Milwaukee. He reports an interesting meeting and the fact that the company he represents in this corner of the state wrote over two and a quarter millions of Nebraska business last year. He stood second on the list as district agent in the amount of business written, and this year he is reaching for the top place, and as his territory has been enlarged from 5 to 9 counties, he will no doubt do an increased business.

Frank S. Morgan, who has for a number of years been employed in the clothing business here, with Messrs. Blair & Mulloy and their predecessors, resigned his position the first of the present month and has arranged to embark in the clothing business for himself, handling a line of made-to-wear clothing, and has the agency of several of the most dependable tailoring houses in the east. Frank is well and favorably known as a clothing man here, and will beyond doubt build a good clothing business here. As may be seen by his advertisement elsewhere, he has room in the State Bank building, formerly occupied by L. A. Fanske, where he invites all to inspect his line.

G. S. Mears and wife, Jas. Perdue and wife, and Mrs. Geo. Stringer all returned from their visit to Southern Texas last Friday, and all agreed that had they known that such a "cool reception" was awaiting them they would have remained longer in the land of warm weather and helped to plant corn, which was what the farmers there were doing when they left. All expressed themselves pleased with the country and climate. While on the border they went over to old Mexico, and saw one of the bull fights for which our sister republic is famous. Six or seven bulls were killed in the battle that day and a number of 23 cattle horses gored, but it was not much of an event, for none of the men were killed or injured. Mr. Mears brought home with him some of the vegetables grown there which were harvested at the time they were there. He had an elegant head of cauliflower, cabbage, egg plants, peppers, turnips, beets, etc. He did not bring any fruit, though they grow grape fruit, oranges and the like there.

THE COMING EVOLUTION

By Dean H. E. Cook, School of Agriculture, Canton, New York.

I wish to prophesy that the present system of American agriculture is to have a business re-organization which will come through a knowledge of cost of production.

The production of farm and dairy products is the work of the family. It has been brought about by those country wide influences which were absolutely beyond control. Land has been cheap and often free and hence crops were free and cheap not because of skill in the production but because of free raw material. The result has been up to 1900 an over developed business which could not be managed on a cash basis plan. It could be managed by the farmer and his family because no weekly pay roll was necessary.

The pay roll was measured by the income, and came when actual demands were made for living expense. If anything was left over it was considered as profit. That sort of business management, as the writer knows from experience, does not develop a high order of business ability. We do not know which cow is profitable nor which crop or acre has a balance. The well trained business man says your plan spells chaos, and he is right.

What Milk Costs

Let us take for illustration the cost of producing milk. The writer has said for many years that nine quarts of milk out of every ten produced in New York State would not pay a cash cost of production and this is true today with the higher values upon milk. Men are not going to the almshouse who are producing milk by any manner of means because present prices will give them some sort of wages for their work. When the labor of wife and children is credited, as it should be, the margin will disappear.

We need some real farm booking on the dairy farms, and the first thing to do is to disassociate the dairy from the farm. A dairy of milk cows should stand in the same relationship to the farm, or rather the soil, as the buyer of hay, potatoes, and butter, and cheese.

Cows have no more right to have silage charged to them at $2.50 per ton, the cost of production, than we would to charge the buyer in town on that basis. Cows should pay for hay and grain grown on the farm just what the market will pay for it and not less.

I am inclined to think that this system of bookkeeping would do more to thin out unprofitable cows than a cow test association. Cow test associations are not all helpful by any means, when they permit under charge for feeds grown on the farm. Such a system makes possible a low standard of production. We are discrediting the land in order to shield unprofitable cows. I plead for the cow test association as a solution of the unprofitable cow problem, but my mind is changed and I can see plainly that it is falling short. I believe now that the bookkeeping which does not protect the cow is the only hope. Let me repeat lest we misunderstand. The dairy and the farm should be absolutely independent units,—of course this is first a psychological proposition. It would help many a man if his barn could be located off the farm and the cows be treated as strangers. How many times have men said: "Why we can't make milk and charge the cows what the feeds are worth." For pity sake, then, why not sell them. A farmer would be locked up in an insane asylum by his family if he sold his products in the market to the lowest bidder. In fact, most farmers are good salesmen so far as canvassing among buyers for the highest bid, and yet how many are selling to the cows at less than the same stuff would sell for in market?

But, says the dairyman, we must have stable manure. No more unfortunate opinion ever beset dairy men than the idea that their crop production must be measured by stable manure.

Is Manure Valuable?

Now stable manure is important and valuable but it has, in the minds of most dairymen, a fictitious value or they would not keep cows to make the stuff. What is the use of putting feeds through an animal just to convert them into manure? The animal has no mysterious or patented apparatus to put plant food value into feeds. She simply chews the stuff, tolls it 25 per cent and puts the nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in a form where 50 per cent of it can easily be lost. That is what an animal does. If it is manure we want, let us save all of these losses and leave the crops in the field and plow them under. No one realizes what stable manure costs until the actual cost of handling is known and charged against it. We must not forget that at the best a ton is worth more than $2.50 and that it must be handled at the end of a fork or shovel. This is not an argument against manure, but an argument against manure manufacture that costs $10.00 to produce what is only worth $2.50.

In our accounting, at the school, we are, for want of a better method, charging the crop for the manure and for the actual cost of handling, and crediting the cows the same amount. Our first scheme called for a charge to the crop of $25.00 per cow for her manure.

This was a great thing for the cow, but would have put one farm out of business. We can get nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash cheaper from nitrate of soda, acid rock and muriate of potash and the organic matter to go with it from sods and cover crops.

There is no sentiment in this business. If we can get plant food cheaper from Germany than from feeds through a cow let us do it.

I will admit that it is not creditable to our dairy business to have it so, but it seems to me that we have been putting up a bluff in cow keeping long enough, and while it puts us to shame to have the lights turned on, sooner or later it must come.

The Money Trust

The money trust. Is there such a thing? Can there be? What harm can it do?

Well, here's a simple explanation for the boys. Farmer Jones sells a car load of cattle. He gets money for it—or what represents money. But he does not want to use it all right away. So he deposits it in the "Farmers and Merchants bank" in his town. Mr. Smith is cashier. He must lend that money at interest to pay the salaries of the boys who keep Farmer Jones' accounts straight, to pay for vaults and safes and dividends on the money advanced by stockholders.

Farmer Jones surrenders control of his money to Banker Smith who says whether that money shall be loaned to another farmer to buy cattle and corn or to a merchant to buy a stock of dry goods.

So the banker who understands his business and is the right sort can help the development of his community immensely.

But the investigation of the Pajo committee has shown that certain New York bankers who control enormous sums of money are largely interested personally in other businesses. Also it has been shown that they all stand together to help each other.

For instance, if Banker Morgan owns a railroad and someone wants to build a competing line, of course, Mr. Morgan will not loan the money to the builder—and neither will any other banker in New York. And in turn Banker Morgan will refuse to lend money to a manufacturer in competition with a factory in which another New York banker is interested. So that helps to establish and maintain monopolies and to add to the high cost of living.

And this power is tremendous because we send so much of our money to New York in insurance premiums and to banks for deposit. So they use our money to hold us up with.

We can help to stop this by keeping our money at home. By taking our insurance in local companies, by the banks depositing their surplus in the larger Western banks, by keeping our state school fund at home and in various ways.

But there is a money trust all right, and it is not a good thing for the country—Cedar County News.

Called to Account

Last week we published an item to which our attention was called, from the Cedar County News, stating that at that place there has been no provision made by the council for the city to collect $100 to $200 from the insurance companies, under a heading which said that the item would also apply here; but Mayor Kate says it does not apply here, and that the city last year collected the fund, but that owing to the lack of meeting place for the firemen and consequently no meetings, it was not generally known. We are glad to set this matter right with the public, and glad to know that the Wayne firemen are now so organized, with a good meeting place that all such matters can not only be taken advantage of but known about.

Then, too, there are those who express the opinion that in the sewer trouble, of which we made reference last week, that the contractor was not properly watched when laying the line, and specifications not fully complied with. No one, however, appears to deny that the condition exists, no matter to who they lay the blame.

Building Underground Silos

The following from the Farmer and Breeder may have a value to our readers, for we think that a silo such as is described below might be made here, for the soil here permits of the making of cisterns by plastering onto the ground, and we are told that they remain perfect for years. If one can obtain sufficient depth for the capacity needed before encountering water the plan should work well. We would suggest, however, making the structure several feet above the surface, and roofing it well, with walls and roof amply heavy to sustain hoisting apparatus to remove the dirt when excavating and the silage when wanted to feed.

"A Lincoln County, South Dakota, subscriber writes: 'I am contemplating building an underground silo, but don't know just how to go about it. The soil in which I intend to build it is hard clay. I have thought of building a light foundation to reach below the frost line and on this to erect a roof and arrange a hoisting device. When the latter has been erected I plan to dig out the dirt enclosed by the foundation, continue to dig downwards, say for three or four feet below the foundation, and then coat the wall with cement. Then dig out more dirt and coat another strip with cement, and so on until the silo has been built. This would eliminate the use of scaffolding. What do you think of this plan? Can a silo be built in this fashion and will it preserve the silage? Is such a wall likely to stand the pressure of the silage?'

We have seen no underground silos except in the loess soils along the Missouri. These are clay soils, but the clay is not stiff. It is a peculiar formation which geologists claim has been blown into place. It never caves. Whether our correspondent's soil is equally well adapted for underground silos or not we are unable to say. If any of our readers in that county have underground silos we trust they will give us their experience. The plan suggested for digging this silo pit, and of cementing the wall in separate strips as the hole is dug, is the one pursued in this section and is the most economical because no scaffolding is required, and if a roof is constructed over the foundation so that the pit can be closed at night the work of digging and cementing can be done during the winter months if desirable, provided, of course, a start can be obtained; however, regardless of whether the work is done in winter or in summer this form of construction is cheaper than any other. The foundation referred to can be built of cement and a wall four inches in thickness is ample. Where sand is available this foundation can be built of concrete and no forms will be needed. A trench may be dug the required width and depth and filled in with concrete. On top of this the wall should extend eight to ten inches above the surface and for this portion board forms would, of course, have to be constructed.

In most of the underground silos that we know about the cement has been plastered directly onto the dirt without the use of reinforcing material. If some poultry netting were put into this cement coat, a stronger job would be obtained, although in our loess soils this does not seem to be necessary.

There is no question about silage keeping perfectly in well cemented, water-proofed pit silos and the silage never freezes in them. This is a distinct advantage. We shall be pleased to hear from those of our readers who own pit silos. Please state how you built them and what satisfaction they are giving."

The farmers who feed have been a little slow in this vicinity in building silos, but silos will come, and when they come will be here to stay. There has been but one built as yet near Wayne, but the man who built it, we are told, intends to erect another the coming season, so well is he pleased with the one he has. Yet he had to contend with the difficulties that confront the pioneer in any enterprise, and was delayed in getting his silo until late, and then his cutting outfit did not come at all, and he had to order elsewhere after it should have been here, thus throwing his cutting so late that his corn had frozen and dried to a great extent before it could be put in silage. In spite of this he now finds it the greatest and cheapest feed he has ever had. If you have wells on your place you know something of the nature of the soil to considerable depth and also whether or not water will bother. If you cannot build underground in this manner consult your local dealer as to cost of outfit. A good cutting outfit can be used by several in the same neighborhood.

GOD'S RAINBOW COVENANT
Genesis 9:1-17 Feb. 9.
"I do set My bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between Me and the earth."—Genesis 9:12.

HIGHER Critics refer us to clay tablets found in Babylon as the earliest record of the Noachian Deluge. These represent in outline Noah and a boat, and contain a few words descriptive of the Flood. This we are asked to accept as superior to the Genesis account. We are amazed and recall to mind the prophecy which discusses our day, saying, "The wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their learned men shall not be apparent." (Isaiah 29:14.) For our part, the logical, reasonable statements of Genesis respecting the Flood are a hundred times more trustworthy than the crude Babylonian record.

Noah and his family dreaded another deluge. God called their attention to the rainbow, assuring them that never again would the whole earth be flooded. Because earth's last "ring" had come down, there could not be another deluge. Since the Flood, we have moisture in the form of clouds. Prior to the Flood, the sun shone through the watery envelope as a great ball of fire. Hence no rainbow was possible. But now fine vapors in the direct line of the sun's rays naturally cause the rainbow. As God declares, so long as there is a rainbow, there can never be a flood.

The Tower of Babel.
Centuries afterward, the worldly-wise of that time undertook the building of a great tower, anticipating another deluge. Since they disregarded God's promise, He let them manifest their folly in unavailing sweat of face. When they were wearied by their herculean task and had learned valuable lessons, God confounded their language. Separated in tongue and interest, they scattered. Gradually manners, customs and color of skin became dissimilar. Thus the various races with their peculiarities of temperament and language had their start. St. Paul remarks that this was premeditated on God's part as being most favorable for the outworking of Divine purposes.

The separation of mankind into different nationalities and the barriers of language kept the peoples apart for centuries. But since steam became effective for transportation, the commingling of nations is breaking down national barriers and favoring human cooperation. Since mankind are sinners by nature, their co-operation is usually selfish and therefore evil. Today rich corporations are building a great Tower of Babel for protection against calamity. Likewise the laboring classes are building a great Tower of Unionism, to deliver them from all adversity. Except for the dispersion and the language barriers, these worldwide organizations would have developed long ago and precipitated the final great conflict—"a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."—Daniel 12:1.

Fire, the Next Calamity.
St. Peter divides human history into three great Epochs, called "worlds" in our common version Bible. The first Epoch ended with the Flood, where the present Epoch began, styled by St. Peter, "This present evil world." St. Peter says that the present world will be ended by a deluge of "fire." Then will follow a new "world" or order of things. "The world to come" will be an Epoch of Righteousness, under Messianic supervision.

Bible students formerly understood St. Peter's words to signify literal fire, to consume the physical earth and heavens. Closer study shows that the fire is symbolic, and will consume everything contrary to the Divine will. The "elements" to "melt with fervent heat" are Capital and Labor elements. The friction between these will be the cause of the fire.

"I do set My bow in the cloud," says St. Peter prophesied. The "heavens" are ecclesiastical—the church institutions. These will become involved in the strife between Capital and Labor, and will perish.

Christ Jesus is the Ark of Safety for all who will be saved from the present order. His followers will become with Him the "new heavens"—the spiritual ruling power of Messiah's Kingdom. Under their supervision a new social order will be inaugurated, and selfishness will be eliminated.

Although many lives will be lost in that trouble which ends this Age, the great mass of mankind will remain. Social, financial and ecclesiastical arrangements will have perished, and everything be put on a new basis by Messiah. The Lord tells us that following the fiery trouble He will send mankind a pure Message, "that they may all call upon the name of the Lord to serve Him with one consent." (Zephaniah 3:9.) Mankind will not be wholly destroyed by that fiery trouble. The confusion of doctrines given forth in the name of the Lord will terminate with this Age. The Message of Divine Grace promulgated in the future will be pure, and the blessing to all that will receive it will be great.

MARRIED—At the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. A. H. Carter, yesterday at high noon, Mr. H. H. Huffaker of Silver City, Iowa, and Miss Mae Miller, a near friend of the groom, Rev. R. R. Moser of Manila, Iowa, performed the ceremony. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Carter, a daughter of the groom and her husband were the only guests present. The bride has been principal of the schools at Silver City for two years, and previous to this time had charge of the schools at Malvern, Iowa. Her vacations were spent in Winside where she has many friends who will extend hearty congratulations and best wishes. The groom is an extensive land owner and a man of considerable means. The newly married couple left on the afternoon train for a trip to California.

The funeral of John Waddell was held from the M. E. church Sunday afternoon, Rev. Connell officiating. The sermon was very uplifting and full of consolation to the large number of mourners. Kind friends had tenderly decorated the altar and there were many beautiful flowers, gifts from the Highlanders, Rebekahs, Royal Neighbors and numerous friends. A choir of four voices consisting of Mesdames Brown and Ecker and Messrs. Connell and Templin, sang the songs selected by the family of the deceased, while Mrs. Chapin presided at the organ. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors who came to pay their last respects to the departed young man.

John Waddell was born in Kane County, Ill., in 1881. Came to Nebraska when five years old with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Waddell, now located at Hoskins.

About five years ago he went to Phillip, S. D., and took a claim. It was at this place that he was married to Miss Artie Ramsey, a former Winside girl, and one little boy came to bless their union.

While he had trouble with his heart for a short time before his death, he thought his case was not serious. On Tuesday, January 23, he started out to the pasture near his home, accompanied by his wife and carrying the baby. When he reached the fence he became sick and his wife assisted him back to the house. Sitting down on the porch it was only a few minutes when death's cold hand was laid upon him. The faithful wife managed to get him into the house and then went a mile and a half for assistance. After much delay, and a long trip, Claud Ramsey, a brother of the widow, arrived in Winside with his sister and the remains Sunday morning.

Great sympathy is expressed for the young wife and also the aged father, mother, brothers and sisters. Those present at the funeral besides the wife were the father and mother of Hoskins, R. W. Waddell, a brother and family from Norfolk, Richard Waddell, a brother and wife of Lyons, Mrs. Millie, a sister from Witton, S. D., A. W. Waddell, brother and family and Mrs. C. E. Shaw, a sister and family of Winside.

Prices were generally steady with Monday and in the case of some of the fat, heavy-weight steers as much as a dime higher. Activity and strength characterized the market for cows and heifers today and with a vigorous demand from all classes of buyers, the rather moderate supply was disposed of in short order and at unevenly stronger figures all around. Demand for stock cattle and feeding steers continues to exceed the supply and there is a very strong undertone to the market.

Hog receipts amounted to about 15,500 head today. In spite of the generous supply on hand hogs took a decided turn for the better today, prices being fully 5@10c higher than Monday. The bulk of the sales ranged from $7.35 to $7.50, with the long strings at $7.40 and $7.45 and the top at $7.50.

About 10,000 sheep and lambs arrived today. Trade in fat sheep was fairly active and prices were strong to 10c higher, while lambs were slow and steady.
