ABOUT OUR LIGHT AND POWER

Citizens Accept Invitation to Hear the Report of K. C. Gaynor on Light and Power Situation at Wayne.

It was not a large number of citizens who responded to an invitation to meet at the city building Monday evening and hear a report on the light and power situation here and the best solution of the case, according to the vision of Mr. Gaynor to whom the council had appealed for help and advice. His report is lengthy, and we will try to give the main points fairly in condensing it. After citing conditions which prevailed at the time the plant was installed, and the comparative ignorance of all as to electricity at that time, he told of present conditions—made plain to his hearers the difference between direct and alternating current. Under the direct current the voltage drops from 15 to 30 per cent in being carried to the most remote patron, and possibly more. This he said would not be the case with the alternating system. This is the line loss. It is due to overloading the line, and this soon injures the insulation and makes the line loss still greater. He placed the loss on the entire system at ten per cent of the energy, which goes to making hot air. (That may account for the warm winter.)

To continue direct current and give good service he said would cost considerable for the increase in size of wire on the poles—how much his report does not say; but in response to the question, he referred to some figures and said $8,000 to give good service at the far points, which sum, he estimated would be fully twice the cost of installing an alternating current, for the wire, and placing the same and the change of motors to work on a new current. He claimed that even if cost of two systems were the same, the change would be recommended, because with the natural growth of Wayne the plant would soon be outgrown if made adequate now, while the alternating system would be ample for 25 years.

If the change is made he says that the voltage can be 110 or 220 as desired, or distribution can be made by a 3-wire system and provide either voltage desired by consumer except for motors, which would have to be changed. By the 3-wire plan the lamps, flat irons and other small heating devices could still be used, but there might be some confusion, and he would leave that for the people to decide. The advantage of the 110 volt service, after the initial cost, would be in the comparative cheapness of the 110 lamps, irons, etc., over the 220. His final summing of this situation was, if change is made to use 220 volts as a whole, and

Kidney Troubles Can Be Avoided

You cannot afford to neglect the slightest kidney ailment—it's hazardous to do so.

The poisonous waste material must be separated from the blood and if the kidneys become weakened this is impossible.

That means a poisoned system.

That's why neglect means trouble—the ailment becomes chronic and results in Rheumatism or Bright's Disease.

NYAL'S Kidney Pills

Assist the kidneys in their function, strengthen them and prevent the ailment from becoming chronic. They cleanse the blood and increase the circulation and supply the proper nourishment to body tissues.

They are a kidney medicine—intended for that and nothing else. Speedy and positive relief at 50 cents the box.

use the 110 in places where demanded by running out a third line. He thinks that the change of motors would cost the city $1,500 besides the amount that could be realized from the old motors, of which there are about twenty-five, counting all sizes.

To change to the 110 voltage would cost according to his estimate, $1,000 for lamps, iron, etc., which would fall on the citizens, each according to what he had in this line, so that would be no large sum for anyone, if he guessed it right.

His estimate of the cost of the change from direct to alternating with the 220 volts, and the 3-wire for 110 is that it will not exceed $2,000, with $500 added if the poles are taken from the streets and placed in the alleys.

He stated that the plant is now operated at a loss with the light day load because of the excessive power of the machinery used to what is needed. To make our own conclusion, carrying our day load, with the present power hooked to it, is like taking a dray and four horses to deliver a dollar's worth of sugar.

He would recommend the installation of three boilers, two of 125 h. p., each and one of 60 h. p. He would retain the old Corliss engine and install two new engines and 50 and 75 K-W. generators. This would cost with belted generators $18,600; if direct connected $2,000 more. This would leave the small engine now in use to sell, and to offset this, the old Corliss would have to be repaired and put in shape like new. These prices include boilers, generators, exciters and switchboards. Then with the small engine and boiler the day load could be taken care of and the peak load could be carried a few hours with the other engines and then they could be let rest. This he estimates would reduce the fuel bill one half.

He also suggested several other changes, but he favored the plan outlined above. Admitting that oil could be operated cheaper he was not in favor of oil engines unless one could be had where the price of oil would be guaranteed and the life of engine insured, which he said no one would do. Neither will anyone guarantee the price of coal or the life of a steam engine. Steam engines, with proper care, will last a long time; the same is true of oil engines.

SOME OLD FOGIES

Think that it would be wise to retain our present outfit, add two new boilers which are needed and install some good type oil engine, large enough to carry the day load, and operate the pump. Then when the peak load is on, steam could be made to help over the hill. To the objection that it would be difficult to work steam and oil together and make the juices mix properly, perhaps, the old fogies suggest that the oil engine could be switched to the college line and carry that part of the load, which can be made independent from the other lines, while the other lines could be carried by steam.

We are told that responsible companies have offered to install oil engines which will be guaranteed to give satisfactory service for the day and part of the night load and only ask for their pay as it is saved in the difference in expense between the present cost and what the cost would be by such a plan.

The correspondence from these companies invited the council to inspect their machines, some of which have engines near here. They also tell of the saving made in other places since the installation of oil. It seems that these propositions are worthy of very careful consideration, for the very good reason that they do not call for so much outlay, and the further reason that there is promise of greater future saving than is promised by making an entire steam plant.

Practically every citizen wants the best possible thing done in this matter and wants it done now so that there will be no needless expense or waste; and that we may have efficient service at the least possible expense. But all do not see alike.

A petition has been circulated asking the council to call a special election to pass upon the question of issuing saloon licenses. It is thought that it will be presented to the council at the next regular meeting.

Publisher's Announcement

For the closing of our second year at Wayne and the beginning of the third, the publishers of the Democrat have decided to inaugurate a subscription bargain campaign for the entire month of March. From experience and observation we are convinced that it takes a large percentage of the first year's subscription to secure new subscribers in any considerable numbers. Therefore we are making an offer on another page of this issue in which we propose to let each one retain the approximate cost of soliciting and collecting the subscription. In other words, act as your own agent. This plan is largely experimental—our previous experience consisting of the "Bargain Day" offer last fall, which was quite satisfactory and much appreciated by many. We ask our readers to come and take advantage of this offer and tell their friends of it, for it is a bargain event.

During the two year period just closing our subscription business has been most satisfactory, a review of the record since last April showing a substantial increase of additions over the number who have dropped off at the expiration of their time. This too with but little effort expended in the line of list building.

We are grateful to subscribers and advertisers for loyal support and hope that we have merited it. We ask all to whom this comes to read the special offer elsewhere.

Very truly,

Gardner & Wade,
Publishers Nebraska Democrat.

Thurston County Experimental Farm

A move is well under way for the establishment of an experimental farm in Thurston county, near Walthill. More than $1,000 is already subscribed to finance the enterprise, and they have the cooperation of C. W. Pugsley of the state farm, and a trained demonstrator is to be employed, and there is an effort being made to secure $1,200 from the national government, that sum being available if they comply with certain conditions. Mr. Arnold Martin, who was there at the institute gave the people the fever, and as they work on the plan the disease appears to be getting worse. That is, their enthusiasm grows. There is also a move to do more along the line of co-operative farming. It was reported that Mr. Martin was to be their head man, but the Walthill Times does not confirm this report, but states that a young man has been recommended for the place, and that he will probably be engaged. This move will be watched with much interest by many in this part of the state.

Barada-White Wedding

A quiet home wedding was celebrated last Saturday afternoon at one o'clock at the home of Miss Charlotte White, the aunt of the bride, at which time Mr. John T. Barada of Rosalie, and Miss Margaret White of this city were united in marriage. Rev. Alexander Corkey officiated, using the Presbyterian ring ceremony. The young couple departed on the afternoon train for Omaha for a brief honeymoon. Mr. Barada, the groom, is a young business man of Rosalie, and the bride is one of the successful teachers of whom Wayne is proud. She has been teaching school in Rosalie for some time past, and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barada will be established in that city. Their many friends wish them a prosperous journey as they go down life's pathway together.

Hughes-Jones

At the home of the bride's parents, Mathias Jones and wife near Carroll, Wednesday forenoon, February 26, 1913, by Rev. McKinzie, of the Methodist church Mr. Francis I. Hughes and Miss Jeanette Jones, both of Carroll. Congratulations and a bounteous wedding dinner followed the ceremony, and the happy couple departed on the afternoon train to pass a few days at Omaha, after which they will be at home at Carroll.

The groom is son of L. J. Hughes, and prominent young business man, being interested in the Dobbin Mercantile Co., of Carroll. The Democrat extends best wishes to Mr. Hughes and his accomplished bride.

Social Notes

One of the brilliant society events of the season was the dinner and reception given the ladies of the U. D. club by their husbands at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor last Friday evening. The affair was a complete surprise to the ladies and was carried out most successfully by their better halves. At six-thirty the guests arrived and found their respective places at the table by dainty little place cards. The tables presented a beautiful appearance in roses and ferns, the place cards and favors of miniature cherry trees, being symbolic of Washington's birthday. The dinner, which was very elaborate, was served at six-thirty by the Mohants of Omaha and their assistant and consisted of seven courses as follows:

Fruit Cocktail in Grapefruit Cases
Cream corn and pepper sauce
Olives Celery Wafers
Cream Crab in Ramkins
Brown Bread Sandwiches
Roast Turkey Cranberry Sauce
Potatoes Mashed Green Beans
Parkerhouse Rolls Peach Pickles
Roman Punch
Salad
Stuffed Fresh Tomatoes
Cheese Wafers
Charlotte Russe in Anglefood
Salted Nuts
Coffee
Candy

Voget's orchestra of Norfolk furnished excellent music for the guests throughout the dinner hour.

After partaking of this sumptuous repast all were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones, where they participated in various contests which had been prepared for their entertainment by Miss Beechel. Among these that of the nail driving contest proved to be very interesting and prizes therein were awarded to Mesdames Ringland and Welch. The whistling contest, in which good guessing was necessary, Messrs. Felber and Kemp received prizes for the best ability. But perhaps the best of all was the contest in which the ladies were given a stick of gum and a tooth pick, which, after it was thoroughly masticated, they were told to mold into small hatchets and cherry trees. In this contest Mrs. J. W. Jones carried off the prize as the best "sculpture."

Honorary guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Wilson, Geo. Damin of Council Bluffs and Mrs. Bertha Forbes of Rheinlander, Wisconsin. The letters U. D. meaning "Industrious" the gentlemen had spared no efforts in making this a great success and the ladies were highly complimented by their efforts.

About thirty-five members and friends attended the meeting and banquet of the W. O. W. lodge last Friday evening. Because of the extremely cold weather the crowd was not as large as anticipated. After the business meeting a short program of vocal and instrumental music and speaking was carried out. Miss Ina Hughes and little Clover Shook rendered vocal selection and Miss Pearl Hughes presided at the piano. Deputies Hilles of Laurel and D. T. Davis of Tecumseh and Attorney L. A. Kiplinger and Prof. J. M. Wiley of Wayne all gave short talks on the insurance of the lodge. At the close of the program all were invited to the Swanson Cafe where a delicious three course supper was served.

On Monday evening the ladies of the Acme club and their better halves enjoyed their annual club dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Theobald. The dinner, most elaborately prepared, was served at six-thirty and consisted of four courses, covers being laid for twenty-six. Smilax and carnations were used profusely in the decorations of the table and dining room and guests found their places at table by dainty little place cards. After dinner, the evening was delightfully spent in charades. A guessing contest also furnished much entertainment in which Mrs. Walter Weber was the successful participant.

The Westminster Guild met at the home of Mrs. H. S. Ringland on Monday evening of this week. The mission study was the medical work in China, which was led by Miss Hardy. At the election of officers the following were elected: Miss Mamie Wallace, president; Miss Tiesch, vice-president; Miss Edna Neely, secretary; and Miss Grothe, treasurer. At the close of the business session a social time was enjoyed, during which the hostess served light refreshments which were heartily appreciated by all. In addition to the members of the society Mrs. Alexander Corkey was present as a guest of the guild.

Last Thursday evening the Junior Bible Circle met at the Gossard home and surprised Miss Mable on her fifteenth birthday. After the usual study of the lesson, she was presented by her guests with three sacred songs, one of which, "Face to Face," was played and sang by Miss Ina Hughes which was greatly appreciated by all. Mrs. Gossard served light refreshments and an enjoyable hour was spent in sociability by the forty young people. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laase Saturday evening in honor of Miss Iva's birthday.

About eight young couples were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fisher Tuesday evening. Bridge was played in which Miss Arnold received the ladies prize, a hat pin, while Mr. Guy Strickland carried off the gentleman's prize, a box of choice cigars. A delightful evening is reported.

Several of the boys have been enjoying stag parties this week, given for Mr. Don Cunningham who leaves for the west next week. One was held on Monday evening and the other on Wednesday evening. Of course the "boys" are a little shy about seeing their names in the social column, hence the absence of names and place.

The Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church met for a social afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor yesterday. The gentlemen were invited in to supper. The Easter bazaar, which is planned by the ladies, will be held at the church, Saturday, March 15th.

Mrs. J. W. Jones was hostess to the U. D. club Monday afternoon. Answers to roll call consisted of quotations from F. Hopkinson Smith. Mrs. G. J. Green also gave a reading by F. Hopkinson Smith.

The meeting of the Monday club which was to have been held with Mrs. J. H. Kate this week, was called off because of the absence from the city of the hostess.

The Prescilla club, which was to have met with Miss Mable McIntosh last Saturday afternoon, postponed their meeting until a week from Saturday of this week.

Mrs. C. W. Hiscox will give a pre-nuptial dinner for Miss Jessie

$15,000 Bonds Asked

At the ajournedd meeting of the city council, held last evening, petitions were presented, asking the council to call an election that the voters might say whether or not they would grant the council the right to issue bonds in the sum of $15,000 to run from five to twenty years, at 5 per cent interest, and provide a tax levy to pay the interest thereon, and the bonds as they become due. The petition was unanimously passed and the special election called for Tuesday, April 1st., which is the date for the annual city election. Ordinance No. 213 was passed providing for the election in due form.

The citizens of Wayne now have a full month in which to discuss this important measure, and make up their minds what is best to do. Do you know whether or not you favor a bond issue. If not study the question and find out.

The soprano, Mme. Dorothea North, possesses a voice of the most agreeable timbre. Her singing captivates by reason of technical excellence and round full beautiful tone. Among others, her rendition of "Come Unto Him" and "I know that my Redeemer liveth" was of artistic style seldom heard.—Milwaukee Herald.

Mr. Kellogg thinks they have a splendid country there if they can have the moisture distributed right. Last season it was rather dry at a time when they needed rain for small grain, but later rains made them a fair corn crop and a good potato crop.

It has just been discovered that the climate of western California is not so warm and mild as it is because of the Japanese current coming in to make it that way, but the opposite is true. The ocean water along the west coast of southern California is found to be several degrees colder than the water in mid-ocean, and but for this fact the valleys in that part of the state would be oppressed with heat. We have heard the real estate boomer say that the climate there is perfect, but never before knew just why.

Last week James Miller returned from a week in Wyoming where he went on a business mission for the Sioux City house which he represents. He says it is a big country out there, and lots of room to grow. He was at Manville, not far east of the known oil fields, and he says that they are boring for oil there. There was a time when the oil industry was young in this country that the man who struck oil was rich at once—but is not that way now. The great majority of oil wells now add more to the wealth of the Standard Oil company than to the individual or small company which develops the well.

A new parochial residence worth from $10,000 to $12,000 will be erected the coming summer by Holy Trinity church of Hartington, of which Rev. Ferdinand Schnuetgen is pastor. At a meeting which was held after church Sunday it was decided to erect a modern building of brick or stone on the site now occupied by the parochial residence, first selling and removing the building now on the site. Work will commence as soon as the frost is out of the ground. Plans have not been drawn as yet, but there is no question but that the new building will be such as to be an ornament to the town.—Cedar County News.

On another page of this issue, we publish an article telling of some of the possibilities of alfalfa, and some of the information which has been recently demonstrated by careful tests and close observation. According to this article, which is from an address by James B. Cheesman before the Wisconsin Experiment association, the future wealth of a country that can produce alfalfa as does this country of ours is hard to estimate. The man who is in the dairy business should cultivate a much closer acquaintance with the possibilities of dairying in this land of alfalfa and corn. Read what Mr. Cheesman says, and tell us what you think of it, and what you know of alfalfa.

Miss Bertha Hollenbeck came from Blue Springs Saturday evening to visit a few days at the home of her uncle and aunt, N. T. Hollenbeck and wife.

Mrs. Ida Clark returned to her home at Sholes Monday morning. She had spent Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Ed Johnson on her way home from Omaha.

Ralph Clark went to Omaha Monday to get next to all that is best in the 1913 automobile. He conducts a successful garage here, always keeping abreast of the times.

Mrs. Persinger of Emerson returned home Sunday after a visit at the home of her parents, J. M. Ross and wife. She reports that Mr. Ross is getting along very well since his return.

Miss Myrtle Rawhouser, the efficient chief operator at the Norfolk Telephone exchange, came up Saturday for a brief visit with her sister, Mrs. W. W. Kingsbury, returning Sunday evening.

John Harrington came down from Laurel Monday and was greeting friends here between trains. He has sold his interest in the mercantile business at Laurel to Emil Weber, and is once more out of the mercantile business.

Two hundred and fifty students of the Nebraska Agricultural College were the guests of the Union Stock Yards company of South Omaha last week. The occasion was the annual visit, when the students are given an opportunity to see the big packing plants and the yard in operation.

And another cold wave and frost, and some say snow, has chilled the ardor of the California enthusiasts. The night of the 22nd was one that called into use all of the smudge pots in the Sacramento valley in an effort to save the fruit from a blighting frost. Apricots and almond trees were in bloom.

L. C. Nettleton and family left this week for their farm north of Hoskins, where they will farm their own land the coming season. The son who farmed the place last year with his father has decided to return to Des Moines, and they did not want to lease the place just now. Their daughter, Miss Grace, will remain here until school closes.

Last week there were two sales of Duroc Jersey hogs at Wisner. Wm. Moderow sold 46 head at an average of $88.09 and the top was $325 for No. 1. of the catalogue, which was bought by H. Stuhman of Pilger. Wm. Morgan bought one good one and V. S. Dayton, both of Wayne, purchased two. J. J. Kane sold sixty-three head at an average of $59.36. His top was $150 which was paid by C. Lindemann for No. 24. Harry Tidrick and P. Iverson of Winside each bought one.

The Perry Benshoof sale last week is said to have been one of the best sales of the season. The crowd was double that which usually attends a country sale. Mr. Benshoof advertised his sale extensively using four or five newspaper advertisements in addition to plenty of bills and cards. One who was there said he never attended a sale, and he attends many, where everything sold as quickly as here. The bidders started things quickly and kept going until the Colonel said "sold." There is no truth in the report that his neighbors bid so freely because they were glad he was leaving this good country. Their many friends were truly sorry to see these good people leave.

ALFALFA FOR BREEDERS

Address Given by James B. Cheesman Before the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Association

(Hoard's Dairyman)

Since meeting you a year ago, many things have happened to the alfalfa growers; and not a few to the livestock industry of the country. It would be well today to remember the intimate bond between alfalfa and cattle growers. During more recent years the impetus given to alfalfa planting has come mainly from the livestock men, and a large amount of this effort is from dairymen.

The importance of roughage of high nutritive value of a high percentage of digestibility is of great interest to breeders, and is of special value to young animals which are expected to reproduce themselves before they are thirty months old.

Let us recall some of the facts of our own experience within the last five years, and each one will easily think of the connection between good alfalfa feeding and early maturity in the animals reared. With the growing tendency to early breeding of heifers it is vital to feed enough, and that the feeding materials should be both bulky and nutritious.

All the first rate stock breeders of my acquaintance within 500 miles of Chicago are examples of this practice. Not long ago I was in the barn of a breeder of Swiss cattle looking over his herd, with the records before us of several years' work. In 1906 this man was producing 2700 lbs. of milk per day from 135 cows, most of which were grades. Five years later the improvement was very marked, and the records showed that 100 cows were able to produce the same quantity (2700 lbs.) with a fat content of 4 per cent. If the young stock on this farm had not been alfalfa fed they would not have been as well grown, nor would their stomach have been so large or their power of digestion so good.

Let it be remembered that an undue proportion of crude, indigestible fibre is not only a waste of force, but fails to aid the development of the power of secretion.

One of the most significant incidents of alfalfa feeding which has come to public notice is that of a breeder in Waupaca county. This man won a prize for the best performance of ten cows in a statewide competition. This same man attributes his success in developing great dairy animals to the use of alfalfa as it gives him control of the size and efficiency of the digestive organs. Less than two years ago he paid $5.00 per ton more for a lot of alfalfa grown in Waukesha county than he paid any one else. This alfalfa was leafy, well cured, and nicely flavored, and was therefore ideal for calf feeding. He also discovered that the more alfalfa he fed the less he used of concentrates.

Capacity Doubled in Five Years

A few weeks ago I learned of a herd of cows in Virginia just outside Washington whose capacity had been more than doubled in a period of five years. While the herd was graded up with well selected, pure-bred sires the story remains that alfalfa was a central feature in this record of improvement. Let me tell you the story. In 1908 they milked 96 cows which gave an average of 4337 lbs. In the year ending June, 1912, 84 cows averaged 8970 lbs. of milk. During the year, 77 of these 84 averaged 9410 lbs. Besides these records I will give you one more. A common cow produced 3225 lbs. of milk. A heifer born by this cow gave 7030 lbs. of milk with her first calf, or more than double that of her dam. This heifer's first calf in turn yielded 9113 lbs. in her first lactation period. It is a nice question to decide how much of this improvement was due to breed, and how much to judicious feeding of well selected alfalfa. We may take it for granted that these heifers were well bred, but how many breeders have learned to their cost that well bred animals without good care and rational feeding are most disappointing.

Do we realize that alfalfa feeding works out many other economies for the dairyman besides that gained on first cost. Think of the expense of housing poor cows, the labor of feeding and milking more than are necessary to raise the required amount of milk.

Just now every milk consumer in the country is in a serious mood. If you take up any of the papers which are reputable and representative, you may learn the story of a steady upward bound of cost in all the milk producing territories of every metropolitan city. Let me say, roughly, every year has witnessed a rise of from eight to fifteen cents per 100 lbs., on its predecessors, and this year has shown an increase in cost to city dealers varying from 42 to 48 per cent on the cost of 1907. Do we realize what this means?

In the year 1910 the government census takers credited New York State with less than $75,000,000 as the value of its dairy products. In the same year Wisconsin had a credit of about $82,000,000 or more, and this increase is about two to three millions of dollars per year.

During the last five years about twenty-four condenseries have located in Wisconsin, and yet we are told that ninety per cent of the bulls in service are scrubs. This statement is generally accepted as true. We have it proved that this state ranks first in dairying. It is true that our best animals are being taken out of the state at an alarming rate of increase and they are going to all parts of this country and to Mexico.

I want you today to ask yourselves two questions. One is, "Shall Wisconsin maintain its lead in dairying?" and the next is, "How long shall Wisconsin permit these enormous drafts of pure bred animals to other states?"

Southern Wisconsin Looks to Alfalfa

In upper Wisconsin we find highly creditable records and community breeding centers are being established very fast. In this new country clover is an easy crop, but in the southern counties, especially those along the state line, dairymen are looking to alfalfa as their best source of cheap protein. Let us not forget this, that while prices from other states are so good we shall continue to lose a large number of pure-bred animals of all ages. The numbers which are left behind will depend very much on the cost of producing mature animals, and nothing quite equals alfalfa in low cost of production.

At the present time we have about 21,000,000 cows in the country. Experts will agree that not more than a third of these are fit to produce paying cows even if there were enough good bulls in the country available for their service. It is therefore highly probable that two-thirds of this twenty-one million may find their way to the butcher's block in less than three years. Where will the succession come from, and who will produce them?

I ask you to consider, have alfalfa growers an opportunity in this connection. Let us face the future with confidence and know that the best awaits us. That each and every alfalfa grower may enforce the lesson that if each community will not breed its own succession they will most likely find themselves short of milk. You all know that low cost of feed at the present time does not govern the cost of cows, at least it does not rule the market, though it does add much to the profit of the breeder. I don't think any one will hereafter attempt to raise young stock without plenty of alfalfa of the best kind. The outlook was never more inviting, and never was there quite so good a chance to breed good cows as now, and never have alfalfa growers had as much promise as now.

Let us direct our attention to the dairymen of the country and know that we can win most in that way, because it involves the maintenance of state rank in dairying, and that is conditioned by the number of breeders of cows, and the kind they breed, and the characters the cows can develop in the first period of lactation.

A Report From The South

S. E. Auker, writing from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he is stopping for his health speaks of it as sunny south, the land of pure water. Of his trip from Little Rock to his destination he says it was through hills, valleys and tunnels, with lakes of water and mountains of rock and timber of all kinds; where the negroes plow with a ten-inch plow and a span of ponies; where not a haystack was seen on the entire route, but the sweet corn blades are stripped and bundled for fodder.

He found a place to board at $8.00 per week, then found a doctor and got admission to a bath house, saying that they are all under control of the government. To get a bath he goes with his permit, which is taken together with watch, money or other valuables and locked up, and the key tied to the wrist so that if you ever come back you may recover your clothes we suppose. Then one is ushered into a large room finished in marble stalls to await to call off your number. When called you are soaked for twenty minutes in water heated to 90 degrees, then given a shower for five minutes, after which a hot sheet is wrapped about you and you are laid out on a cot to sweat for thirty minutes. Then the dusky colored servant appears and rubs you dry, introduces you to your clothes and calls you to go to dinner, drink hot water and have a sun bath the rest of the day. So far this treatment is helping him. It is mountainous here. Was to the top of one peak which rises about 700 feet above the city, and is reached by paths and drives. From this vantage point one can see the green pine stretch away for miles. The city reminds me of a street carnival in our home town, with all sorts of games, and people from every state in the Union and then some.

There are churches of all creeds and two colors at least. There are many colored people here and they have their own schools and churches; hold religious meetings on the streets, but they know the bible and have the gift of gab enough to preach in their style.

All here carry a bottle with a handle to it, which contains the water from some of the various springs—not fire water, and it is free and no license to pay. From the above his friends may know that Mr. Auker is improving in health and enjoying life.

A Farce in Thee Acts

A news dispatch from Norfolk dated the 21st gives the following brief history of the case of Mrs. Maggie Davis:

"Mrs. Maggie Davis, who killed Ira Churchill near Coleridge, Neb., on November 2, 1910, was discharged by District Judge Welch tonight from the Norfolk insane hospital, after an insanity commission named by the court had reaffirmed its former decision that Mrs. Davis is sane. Mrs. Davis was released from the hospital tonight and will leave Norfolk tomorrow morning for Hartington, Neb., where she was twice tried for the murder, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment the first time and acquitted at the second trial on the ground of insanity.

Mrs. Davis will visit her sister at Hartington and will then accompany her 14-year-old daughter to Laporte, Ind., where she expects to live with her aged parents.

County Attorney O'Gara, of Cedar county, opposed the release of Mrs. Davis and declares he will appeal the case to the supreme court, and hopes to retain her in the vicinity of Coleridge, where the crime was committed, until a decision is rendered.

Judge Welch declared the state law does not provide for the keeping of sane persons in Nebraska insane hospitals, and that the evidence showed Mrs. Davis is sane. County Attorney O'Gara declared that Mrs. Davis is of a type of criminal like Harry Thaw and that she would be a dangerous woman. Attorney Millard, of Hartington, and Attorney Davis, of Wayne, appeared as counsel for Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Davis said she was delighted to be free.

The commission named by Judge Welch to examine Mrs. Davis was Dr. P. H. Salter, Dr. A. E. Tassjean and Judge I. Powers all of Norfolk.

Under the law and the evidence the judge who released her could do no different; but it seems that the jurors who pronounced her insane at the second trial were a rather weak-minded set, and possibly some of them belong at Norfolk. Had the plea of insanity been entered at the first trial it would not have appeared quite as bad; but when it took her attorneys a year to put up the plea of insanity she should have remained irrational a few years longer. Too marvelous a cure, too sudden.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN

Why the Little Red Schoolhouse Fails. A frank but helpful criticism of rural schools, written by Ware J. Hibbard after years of personal experience as a country school-teacher. He shows exactly what is wrong with rural schools and how that wrong can be remedied.

The Man Who Made Good. He's J. E. Fitzgerald, and the big secret of his success is: "It doesn't pay to raise things to suit your fancy altogether; raise things to suit the buyer's fancy." If you are a market gardener or in any way interested in this end of agriculture, Mr. Fitzgerald's article will help you to make more money.

An Ex-Slave's Miracle Crops. The United States Department of Agriculture has just issued a Bulletin telling of the marvelously large crops raised by an ex-slave on a two-acre farm. But Bulletins, like coins, have two sides; this article, by Barton W. Currie, shows the "other side" of this remarkable Bulletin.

Simple Accounts For Farm Business. "For want of a nail . . . the kingdom was lost and for want of a sound system of keeping accounts many a once valuable farm has been lost. To help you avoid just such a pitfall, Morton O. Cooper, an expert farm accountant, has worked out a simple but practical system for keeping farm accounts.

Breeders Who Make New Breeds. Years of effort on the part of enterprising and progressive farmers and scientists in developing new and better breeds in plant and animal life were announced at the annual convention of the American Breeders' Association, held recently at Columbia, S. C., and this week's issue contains an article telling just what these breeders have accomplished and how their achievements will benefit farmers and stockmen.

Correcting Concrete Silo Troubles. An important article showing why concrete should be used in building such permanent structures. Common dangers that should be avoided are also pointed out.

Mushrooms at Home. The market for mushrooms is always good, but the supply of mushrooms is never up to the demand. This article, by S. L. de Fabry, an expert mushroom grower, shows just how to grow and market mushrooms.

Dairying On Rough Land. If you have a rough, broken portion of land that seemingly is useless, you had better read what Charles S. Phelps says about using just such land for pasturing dairy cows.

The Farm That Won't Wear Out. Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins' (of the Illinois Experiment Station) final summing up of his series of articles on the "how" of maintaining permanent, successful agriculture. You will get the whole gist of this important series in this one article.

Odd Jobs for the Automobile. A fifteen-minute article by Charles E. T. Scharps that shows how an automobile can be used on the farm to saw wood, thresh grain, churn butter and cut feed.

Concrete Corncribs. In one section of the country progressive farmers are building concrete corncribs. Why they have adopted this new form of construction and how the work is done is explained by William Walter Smith.

SPECIAL FEATURES FOR WOMEN

The Country Gentlewoman this week talks to the woman who is a victim of the "nagging" habit. It is critical, but helpful.

Grandmother's Recipes are a number of good old-fashioned recipes that today are among the "lost arts" of the kitchen.

The Country Woman's Clothes page gives a number of designs for waists that are attractive and yet practical and serviceable.

FOR POULTRY FOLKS ONLY

A Real Cure for Roup that cured 98 per cent, is explained by F. S. Jacoby. This new treatment has been worked out by the Ohio State University.

Hen Brooding, by W. A. Sherman, discusses the advantages of natural brooding over the manufactured brooder—a subject that is especially interesting and timely at this season of the year.

Types of Wooden Hen is a timely article on the best style of brooder and the best way to use it. The author is A. G. Phillips, a noted poultry authority.

The Congressional Calendar. This week THE OBSERVER discusses among a number of other things the new Democratic Committee on Public Lands of the House of Representatives, and the attitude of its members toward conservation.

The Crops and the Market. A weekly department written by one of the foremost financial authorities of the country, giving an agricultural-financial forecast that will be of the utmost value to every farmer, and business man having dealings with farmers.

Everyman's Garden. To the farmer who has a small vegetable patch for "family use"—to the suburbanite, too—the question of good soil and how to take care of it is vital. This week EVERYMAN'S GARDEN takes up this important question of garden soils.

One of the new inventions advertised is the art of teaching singing by mail—possibly had the invention been made 45 years ago the writer might have been taught to sing—but those within hearing when he tried gave it up as a bad job.

If we are to have true civil service in the fourth class postoffices, let's start fair, and have the postmasters who are now supposed to be in line to hang on, pass the examinations against all applicants. Because a man appointed by the republicans is no sign that he is competent.

The Illinois legislature has ratified the constitutional amendment which provides for the direct election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. We would naturally think the people of that state would want to do so, and wish that the rest of the states necessary to make it a law would hurry and come to their relief.

One man had it on the brain pretty bad Friday morning, trying to figure out the number of spots in a deck of cards to make them conform in number to the number of days in the year, as was stated in a clipping copied in last week's Democrat. He is likely to recover, but cannot solve the problem. One easy solution is not to take too seriously all that you see in the papers. Abe Martin said that one not hampered by facts could write the most entertainingly. But, how many spots are there on a deck of cards? We are becoming interested.

Mexico had a strong government under Diaz, but it was such a government as bred discontent and revolution—and had it not been a strong government it would not have lasted. What Mexico needs is firm and just government. The masses in that country have so long been oppressed that the future government is a problem. They will not stand for more oppression and they are not fitted to conceive of the idea of a government for their good unless the masses are it, and they will insist upon retaliation on the powers which have so oppressively ruled in the past.

Not many years ago Theodore Roosevelt was trying to have the New York World and the Indianapolis News convicted of treason for criticizing the act of the president and other high officials when he was it. Now he stands with Nelson and the Idaho editor who are in trouble and trying to keep out of prison when charged with contempt of court for criticizing the acts of court and publishing Teddy's remarks about the courts. We are glad to note that the ex-president is seeing light, and hope that the next man to acquire that title may come to see some things from the view point of the people.

If the political Economist survives the inauguration of a "free-trade" president next Tuesday we expect to see it come out with the column rules turned so sincerely does it mourn the possible death of tariff graft which it has so valiently fought for in the past forty years. To be sure they cannot be consistent and defend the tariff, for in one paragraph they announce that free trade prices will ruin industry in this country, and just as the poor consumer begins to think he is to have relief from the high cost of living, they change their tune and announce that the imported goods will be no less in price than now, which makes it a little hard to understand. Don't see how free trade is going to catch us both ways, but if there is any possible scheme by which the people can be robbed both going and coming the tariff protected industries have it, and they will keep the lid tight as long as possible.

University Removal

University removal continues to be one of the perplexing questions before the present legislature. Two bills have been introduced in the House, each intended to offer the best solution of the University problem. The first proposes a tax levy of one mill on the assessed valuation of the state for removal purposes, such tax to continue for six years, and, under its provision, all colleges now located on the city campus would be removed to the farm campus. The provisions of this bill have the endorsement and support of regents and of Chancellor Avery. It is substantially the recommendation of the joint legislative committee made at the last session of the legislature.

Another bill, introduced by Representative McKissick of Gage, and having the support of the alumni association of the University and two former chancellors, contemplates the enlargement of the University on the present campus. The bill calls for a one-half mill levy, the fund derived therefrom to be used to purchase additional ground and to erect new buildings on the present site.

When the McKissick bill was under consideration before the House committee, T. H. Pratt, president of the Lincoln council, presented the offer of the city to stand the cost of six blocks additional campus, east and north of the present campus, except for $200,000 to be given by the state. It is estimated that the six blocks intended for purchase will cost $450,000, and the offer of the city of Lincoln is to stand $250,000 of this amount and the state the remainder. The House passed a joint resolution asking the Senate to join in investigating the offer of the city of Lincoln. The joint resolution was taken up in the Senate on Wednesday of last week and turned down by a vote of 21 to 9. While the question voted upon was merely regarding the advisability of appointing a committee to act with a committee from the House to confer with the attorney general in regard to the legality of entering into a contract with the city of Lincoln, it has been construed to mean that the Senate favors University removal.

The question of University removal is not a new one. It was first agitated in the year 1877. At that time there was but one University building, and local architects and regents decided that it was in such a perilous condition that it must be razed and a new building erected. The president of the Board of Regents then proposed the purchase of a new campus of forty acres, lying north of O street and east of Twenty-seventh, and which could be bought for $2600. However, the old building was allowed to stand and the question of University removal dropped.

Whatever the final decision may be it is hoped that the matter will be definitely settled this year and that the question of University removal will not return to claim the time and attention of future legislative sessions.

Representative H. C. Bartels Favors University Removal

As a member of the finance committee of the House, Representative H. C. Bartels has made a careful study of the University removal question. He was a member two years ago when the same question was agitated but ended without definite action being taken. When asked last Friday by a reporter for the Democrat for his views on the subject Mr. Bartels said:

"I believe, first of all, that the question should be definitely settled in this session of the legislature. While I can see the advantages and disadvantages of both plans proposed for the enlargement of the University plant, sooner or later it will be removed and each year adds to the cost of the undertaking. I therefore favor the passage of a bill providing a mill levy, or such fraction of a mill as may be deemed sufficient, to build up a consolidated institution on the farm campus, the change to be made as rapidly as the funds will permit."

"The state has immediate need of the buildings that would be vacated by the various colleges now located on the city campus. The Historical Society is asking for a large appropriation for a new building and it could find here suitable quarters. The Supreme Court, State Library and Railway Commission could be transferred to the present University site and thus relieve conditions at the State Capitol, which is not able to properly care for the various state departments. In this way our Capitol building will meet the needs of the state for years to come, and satisfactory provision made for the development and growth of a great educational institution."

Representative Bartels further states that he would be pleased to hear from any of his constituents upon this question. So if you are not in harmony with his views, set him right, if you endorse his position on the question of University removal, write and tell him so.

Since the institution of so many publicity bureaus in some of our cities that are seeking publicity the country editor nerve has far to reach to find "copy" for the devil. There is a horn to toot for this convention to be held at the metropolis of the state, the sons of Moses will also welcome other visitors to "our city" at the same time. Then there is to be a conservation game played at the state capitol in the near future, and the tuberculosis preventers will blow hot air the week following. And, Dear Mr. Editor, a lot of your readers want to know all about the hub and hub race which is to be pulled off at the automobile show soon. There is one good thing about it, the back of the sheets sent make good copy after the editor has made a note of the time and place of meeting of those which are worthy of mention.

The Legislature and Normals

During the past week a number have asked about pending legislation in the interest of the state normal schools. Briefly stated the facts are as follows:

The estimates of the needs of the four state normals for the next biennium was passed upon by the board of education and filed with the auditor at the opening of the legislative session. The amounts asked by the different schrols were as follows: Peru, salaries, maintenance, etc., $197,300; new building, $75,000; Kearney, salaries, maintenance, etc., $159,200; new building, $65,000; Wayne, salaries, maintenance, etc., $124,020; new building, $85,000; Chadron, salaries, maintenance, etc., $101,500; new building, $75,000; expense of state normal board $4,000; making a grand total of $886,020.

At the opening of the session the finance committee of the House recommended instead of passing separately on the needs of each institution that the financial interests of the normal schools be met in the same manner as those of the state university which has been supported for years by a mill tax levied on the assessed valuation of the state. This plan had the approval of the board, and accordingly a bill was introduced by the finance committee, providing that in the year 1913 and annually thereafter a tax of three-fourths of one mill be levied upon the dollar valuation of the grand assessment roll of the state, and that all money accruing therefrom be appropriated for the maintenance of the state normal schools at Peru, Kearney, Wayne and Chadron, including salaries, current expenses, buildings and permanent improvements, together with all other expenses of the state board of education having charge of the normal schools. As computed by the secretary of the finance, ways and means committee of the House the fund derived from this tax for the next two years will amount to $625,552.05.

There is only one objection to the bill introduced by the committee. It is evident from the estimate of expenses set forth above that a tax of three-fourths of one mill will not raise sufficient revenue to meet the needs of the four schools, and the bill will doubtless be amended to read a tax of nine-tenths of one mill instead of three-fourths. With this change the passage of such a bill will not only provide for the four normal schools during the next biennium, but it also creates a permanent fund which will insure the future growth and development of normal schools in Nebraska.

Governor Morehead has sent to the senate his nominations for the Board of Control. Henry Gerdes, Falls City, C. H. Gregg, Kearney and Charles Graff, Bancroft, are the men named. It is reported that there is a combination in the senate to refuse to confirm.

The house is opposed to capital punishment, and prefers to be electrocuted rather than hung.

GUARANTY LAW IS AMENDED

Senate Debates Change When Banks Liquidate—Would Hold Fund for Time—Oppose Capital Penalty, but Vote for Electrocution.

Lincoln, Feb. 26.—Private Secretary Morrissey found his way to the senate chamber and delivered to the secretary of the senate a communication, which he said was from "His excellency, the governor," who requested that the senate would set some hour for its consideration.

The communication contained the all-important and long-looked-for appointments for the board of control and is supposed to contain the names of Henry Gerdes of Falls City, Charles Graff of West Point and C. H. Gregg of Kearney.

The three G's will receive consideration today in executive session.

In the committee of the whole the house went on record as being opposed to capital punishment and then turned around and recommended for passage a bill to electrocute condemned prisoners instead of hanging them. Most every one talked for or against capital punishment, but the other bill went through without comment.

Two stock yards bills were indefinitely postponed—one by Hoffmeister, classifying the stock yards as a public market, and one by Brotz, fixing the price of feed, service and weighing.

The following measures were reported to pass: Avers' bill, to protect fish; Hasik's bill, providing for a 10-cent bounty on gophers; Baker's bill, against physicians giving a "split" fee; McKissick's bill, to prevent porters on passenger trains acting as brakemen.

Guaranty Law is Amended.

In the senate Marshall's bill regarding the drawing out of 75 per cent of the bank guaranty fund when the bank goes out of business or nationalizes came up again. Talcott said he would like to kill the bill, but was afraid that it could not be done, and he offered an amendment that the fund should not be withdrawn until after twelve months from nationalization or liquidation.

Talcott sent up an amendment cutting the amount of withdrawal from 75 per cent to 40 per cent, and the same carried. The bill was then ordered engrossed for third reading.

Interurban to Issue Bonds.

Permission has been given the Omaha, Lincoln and Beatrice Interurban Railway company to issue 5 per cent bonds to the amount of $2,250,000 and stock to the amount of $850,000. The application for authority to issue the stock and bonds was filed with the railroad commission some two months ago and several hearings were had on it. The Nebraska Power company intervened and a hearing was given that company. The order in the case and the opinion was written by Chairman Henry Clarke. The money will be used to build the road.

MILITIA TO ENLIST MEN

Orders Are Received for Omaha Companies to Be Ready.

Omaha, Feb. 26.—Orders were received from the adjutant general's office by Captain Sterrick of the Nebraska national guard to arrange his companies in full force to await further instructions.

No reason for this command has been given, but it in all probability has resulted from the Mexican agitation. The Omaha branch of the national guard consists of three companies—G and I of the Second Infantry and I of the First—also the First regiment band.

Clarence Mickey Killed by Accident.

York, Neb., Feb. 26.—Clarence Mickey, a nephew of the late Governor Mickey, accidentally shot and killed himself while hunting rabbits near his home, four and one-half miles south of Gresham, Neb. He was alone when the accident happened, so no one knows how it occurred. He was forty-five years of age. A widow and three sons survive him.

Ready for Campaign.

Adjutant General Hall is all ready to march on Mexico whenever the order comes. He has three regiments in shape to go, two of them on a minute's notice, and the third he can get ready in a week. Everything is on edge in the headquarters of the Nebraska national guard and every appearance of a messenger boy is a signal for everybody to sit up and take notice.

Zimmer Head of Soldiers' Home.

Lincoln, Feb. 26.—Ferdinand Zimmer, a hotel man at Lexington, has been appointed commandant at the Grand Island soldiers' home, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. C. Ellis. Mr. Zimmer was a member of the Ninth Ohio regiment during the civil war.

Sentence of Pruyn Affirmed by Court.

Lincoln, Feb. 26.—In the Pruyn murder case from North Bend the supreme court upheld the decision of the Dodge county district court, which found Pruyn guilty of the murder of Mike Gorey, a saloon keeper, and sentenced him to one to ten years.

ALL DEMANDS MET FOR FISH

Commissioner O'Brien Plants Twenty Million in Two Years.

Omaha, Feb. 24.—W. J. O'Brien, superintendent of the state fish hatcheries at Gretna, in his biennial report for the two years ending Dec. 31, 1912, says for the first time in the history of the commission the department has been able to meet every demand for fish for both private and public waters. He also reports that the department has handled a larger percentage of fish from six to eighteen months old than ever before during a like period and at present there is a surplus of several thousand bass and crappie on hand for spring distribution.

In all there were 20,771,120 fish distributed during the last two years. Of this number, 18,625,000 wall-eyed pike were distributed. Trout and large mouth bass were also distributed in large numbers.

TO ASSIST AGED PARENTS

Maggie Davis Will Return to Her Old Home in Indiana.

Hartington, Neb., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Maggie Davis, who was released from the insane asylum at Norfolk last Friday, arrived here with her attorney. The woman was twice tried in this county for the murder of Ira Churchill. She was convicted and sent to the penitentiary the first time and later acquitted on the ground of insanity.

She expresses herself as well pleased at being released from the asylum and says she will now go back to Indiana and spend the remainder of her life in caring for her aged parents. County Attorney O'Gara has not given up his fight to detain Mrs. Davis. He declares he will seek further means of depriving her of her freedom.

CROWDS AT AUTO SHOW

More Than Five Thousand Persons Attend on Opening Night.

Omaha, Feb. 25.—The most varied displays of automobiles ever offered greeted the visitors at the Omaha automobile show, which is being held this week. Cars of every description from the aristocratic limousine to the little roadster, stood side by side, vying with each other for the attention of the possible purchasers and those who attend through curiosity.

The merits of the cars are being put forth by representatives from the factories and the Omaha jobbers are taking a back seat and letting the easterners do the work.

More than 5,000 attended the show on the opening night. It was the largest crowd that ever inspected an auto display in Omaha.

DR. YODER GIVEN CLEAN BILL

Elm Creek Physician Acquitted by State Board of Health.

Lincoln, Feb. 24.—The state board of health has acquitted Dr. C. A. Yoder of Elm Creek of the charge of performing a criminal operation on Jesse M. Wood, from the result of which, it was said, she died. The charge was made by another Elm Creek doctor, L. B. Couch, but Dr. Yoder denied all connection with the matter, but admitted that he had been asked to perform the operation, but had refused.

Nebraskans on Retailers' Program.

Omaha, Feb. 25.—Nebraska men appear on the program of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers for its annual convention in Omaha, March 11 to 14 in unusually large numbers. The list includes I. W. Haws of Minden, Lieutenant Governor S. R. McKelvie, F. L. Borden of York, G. W. Darner of Bethany, C. E. Belmont of Wymore and Fred Diers of Madison. These gentlemen will discuss retail questions from various angles and an unusually large number of interesting papers been prepared.

Smallpox Stops Trial.

Beatrice, Neb., Feb. 25.—When the cases against Pat Hogan, Mike West and Richard Tavers, the three men who were arrested last week for stealing three fur coats from J. B. Parker's harness store here, were called for trial in the district court by Judge Pemberton, it developed that one of them was suffering from smallpox in the county jail and court was promptly adjourned.

Freights Collide in Yards at Sidney

Sidney, Neb., Feb. 24.—A wreck occurred on the Burlington railroad here A southbound freight train, double header, ran into the rear of another freight which had just pulled up to the depot. The engines of the former train were overturned and twelve cars containing lumber and ore were totally demolished. The crews of both trains jumped and nobody was injured.

Burlington Suit Goes Over.

Tecumseh, Neb., Feb. 25.—Judge Raper adjourned district court here until some time in March. His time is taken up elsewhere in the district at this period. The case wherein the Burlington railroad took an appeal from the decision of the Johnson county drainage board in the matter of assessments was not finished, and will be completed at the March term.

Switch Engine Wrecks Motor Car.

Kearney, Neb., Feb. 25.—Switch engine No. 61 crashed into a Union Pacific motor car used on the Kearney branch line. Passengers were thrown from their seats and many jumped from the car. Several men had bones broken and many are badly cut and bruised.

There is method in the madness of the citrus fruit grower.—Wilmington (Cal.) Journal.

YOU Keep The Change

IT is now nearly two years since the Nebraska Democrat became the property of the present owners, and during that time we have not been in position to make any aggressive campaign for new subscribers, but we have been carefully studying the different plans of introducing the paper to new people with a view of selecting the plan which will appeal to the greatest number with the greatest force. Nine out of ten people notice an appeal to the pocket book as quickly as any place—it is the spot we wish to reach, and yet reach it to your advantage. So we decided some weeks ago to make a month test for our second anniversary in Wayne of

A Special Subscription Offer

This offer is the most liberal, we believe, ever made by a newspaper in this county, or this part of the state. It is a CASH offer, and will be open to all who take advantage of it at any time from now until and the earlier you accept the more you get for the money.

HERE IT IS

For ONE DOLLAR, in hand paid during this 31 BARGAIN DAY PERIOD we will enter your subscription and receipt for same in full to JULY 1, 1914. That is SIXTEEN MONTHS FOR ONE DOLLAR to those who begin at once : : : :

WHY DO WE DO THIS? Because we wish to extend the influence of the Democrat to new and wider fields—by so doing we help our good and loyal advertisers—we help ourselves to a greater and better business in the future and, under the plan we are trying, we help you to become acquainted with the best town in this corner of the best state of the entire 48.

We want you to have sample copies of the Democrat if you do not know it, and will send three weeks as sample upon application. But you can make no mistake in taking advantage of this offer at once.

Those who are now taking the paper are entitled to the same rate that we offer to the new people—Pay arrears, if any, and get the Democrat until July 1, 1914 for $1.00 the same as though you were a new subscriber. We will not discriminate against present subscribers, but we do not agree to go out and hunt you up to let Nebraska men appear on the program of the Federation of Nebraska Retailors for its annual convention in Omaha, March 11-14, in unusually large numbers. The list includes I. W. Haws of Minden, Lieutenant Governor S. R. McKelvie, F. Borden, York; G. W. Danner, Bethany; C. E. Beinert, Wyoming; and Fred Diers, Madison. Invitations to every retailer in the state and surrounding states have been sent out.

Thos. Elson loaded two car loads of stock and implements and household goods out of here the first of the week for his new home at Granite Falls, Minnesota, where he has rented the farm recently purchased there by John Morgan.

Mr. Olson is said to be an industrious farmer, and a good one. Naturally the people of this community regret his departure, but wish him well. He went because he thought he could do better there than here as a renter.

One of the best opportunities of the season to get choice breeding stock will be the bred sow sale to be held by Harry Tidrick on Wednesday, March 5th, when he will sell 60 head of spring and fall gilts bred to farrow last of March and April. These sows are all pure bred, absolutely healthy and as good a lot as have been put through the sale ring this year. See his ad elsewhere in this issue.—adv.

The program given by the University Concert Co., Friday evening was greatly enjoyed by all who were present. Miss Bibes, pianist, displayed a brilliance in technique which was more than ordinary. Miss Devo, Contralto, has a flexible and pleasing voice. She never failed to hold attention and to give satisfaction. Mr. Duboff, Violinist, was greatly appreciated as the enthusiastic applause accorded him would signify. He produced an excellent quality of tone and at times his executions were particularly fine. The audience was well pleased with the program on the whole.

Outbuildings For Sale

Bids will be received by the school board of Wayne, district No. 17, for the sale of the two outbuildings on the Ward school grounds until March 3, 1913, at 6 p. m., purchaser to remove buildings from the grounds. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids. W. M. Orr, Secretary.—adv. 8-2.

The Use of Canned Goods

The object of canning fruit is to preserve the natural flavors and juices for use in seasons when it is impossible to obtain fresh fruits. There are many reasons why the output of honest canners is superior to the home canned article.

When you take into consideration that most of the fresh fruit offered the housewife for "home canning" purposes is shipped a long distance, which necessarily forces it to be "Green" when starting in, order to carry any distance, the advantage of canned fruits, such as Beaman's, should be apparent, for these fruits are allowed to remain on the trees until their final ripening; and as fruit takes its real flavor the last few days on the tree, the fruit sold by Beaman is after all more delicious than the home packed kind, as well as more nutritious.

Next week we will tell you of the processes used by canneries.

Among The Churches of Wayne

German Lutheran Church

Rev. Rudolph Moehring, Pastor.

There will be no preaching at the German Lutheran church next Sunday, as the pastor goes to Winfield for services that day. The Sunday school as usual.

Baptist Church

Rev. E. P. Richardson, Pastor

The services of last Sunday were highly pleasing. The evening audiences, including a large number of men, almost filled the entire church, which made our men's service full of interest. The musical numbers given by the men, were highly appreciated, while the reading by Miss Martha Woosley, of VanDyke's "The Lost Word," held the closest attention of every one present. A number of men spoke highly of the special services and encouraged us to try something like it again.

On Sunday morning we shall have our communion service. The subject of the pastor's sermon will be, "Our Father." Let us make this a significant communion.

Sunday evening at 6:30 the young people's meeting will be led by Miss Ina Hughes.

At 7:30 the pastor will preach on the subject of "Discovering Lost Treasures."

We are planning on a special Easter program for our Sunday school. It will be largely a missionary program, but filled with the thought of Easter.

The week preceding Easter Sunday, we hope to have special services each evening. These services will be in the nature of prayer meetings, probably held in the prayer meeting room of the church, and for the purpose of deepening the spiritual life of the members.

The missionary society meets tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Huff, with Mrs. Dayton as leader.

Saturday, because of the pavilion sale, the ladies will serve lunch at Mr. Philleo's lumber shed. They will serve at noon and on through the afternoon.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.)

The Catechism class did not meet on last Saturday on account of the storm, but will meet on next Saturday. All intending to prepare for confirmation on Easter should not fail to be present at this time.

The Bazaar is to be held at Mrs. Ball's Saturday, March 8th by the ladies aid society.

The pastor's plan for increasing the attendance of the children at the preaching services has the promise of good success, several were present on last Sunday, and others have expressed sorrow that they were absent. Come, children, come, and bring others with you. Each one will receive a card of merit.

We had a very good audience at both the Sunday school and the preaching services on last Sunday. The subject of the sermon was "The Bible and its Purpose." Both external and internal evidence show that the Bible is the Word of God. A careful study of its contents shows that it is beyond the capacity of man to produce. This will also prove its divine origin. It has for its object the good of mankind. It is God's revealed will to man and is his "only infallible rule of faith and practice." It tells man what he is and what he is to do to be saved. By this means man is enabled to see his true character and to reach the highest object of his being and the greatest happiness. To understand its meaning divine aid should be sought. To profit by its precepts its teachings should be carefully put to practice. Read it with the spirit of reverence and meditate on it prayerfully, for this is your life. "Hear the Word of God; hear and your soul shall live."

The services on next Sunday will be as usual. Sunday school at 10 a. m. and preaching services at 11 a. m. Rev. W. L. Kase, Field secretary of Midland College, Atchison, Kansas, will preach the sermon. He will be assisted in the services by the pastor. Rev. Kase is an able and interesting speaker. We trust he will be greeted by a large audience. Come and hear him.

We are sorry to lose several of our members next week. Harold Christopherson has secured employment in a store at Concord. He will be missed a good deal by the church and choir. Mr. Hostetter and family will move to Wyoming. We trust they will meet with good success.

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

"The Fulfillment of Scripture in Our Day" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. In the evening the pastor will speak on "The Success of Billy Sunday explained," giving side-lights into the great religious campaigns which are shaking the cities of eastern states.

The morning service begins at 10:30 and the evening service at 7:30. The Sunday school meets at 12:00 and the C. E. meeting at 6:30 p. m.

At the morning service last Sabbath in addition to the reception of a number of new members an interesting part of the service was the presentation to the church of the pulpit bible and hymnal (which had been rebound) by the Juniors of the congregation. The bible was presented by Joe Ringland, and the hymnal by Elizabeth Mines. During the service also a beautiful India paper Bible was presented to Mrs. H. S. Welch by the mothers of the Cradle Roll department in the Sunday school on the occasion of the retirement of Mrs. Welch from the superintendency on account of her removal from Wayne.

The congregational dinner on February 13th was a splendid success. There was a large attendance both of the city and country members and the supply of eatables was severely taxed, but all were amply satisfied. After the dinner an informal program was enjoyed, consisting of singing by Dr. R. N. Donahey, and short addresses by Miss C. White, P. M. Corbit and the pastor. At the close of the program the missionary society of the church held a business meeting. In his excellent address P. M. Corbit proposed that the congregation dinner be made a semi-annual affair as it promoted fellowship and acquaintance in a way that was essential for the best interests of the church.

Methodist Church

Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "The Core of Religion—God dwelling among men with a Holy Priesthood and a happy People."

The discourse will be in preparation for the love feast at 7:30 followed by the quarterly communion service.

It may be well to remember over again that the first Sundays in March, June, September and December of each year have been set apart for the administration of the holy communion and for such other services as render the day one of heart searching, renewed diligence in the work of the Kingdom along with earnest prayer and with sincere and abiding forgiveness of all the wrongs, real or imaginary, we may have suffered at the hands of whomsoever. The communion service marks a time when every member of the church family, so far as possible, should be at home and in his place at the services of the day.

It was believed by many that the communion service in December was the most largely attended of any similar service in the history of the church. There is no particular ambition to count numbers, but rather that all the people shall have the benefit of this sacred and solemn service and shall glorify the Triune God by the precious memories it brings.

By some strange and unaccountable accident the name of Lucile McConnell was left out of the list of names published a few weeks ago, of those who had recently become members of the church. Truly, accidents happen to the best of families. This beautiful and charming little girl is a member both by previous grace and personal choice of the spiritual church and the visible and militant church, is glad indeed, to count her also, among its members.

The King's Heralds and little Light Bearers' meeting for March will be held Sunday afternoon, March 2nd, at four o'clock in the League room. All children of the congregation up to fourteen years of age are welcome.

On motion it was ordered, that in case it is found that the electric wiring of any building was defective, or dangerous, or in such condition that the building was charged with electricity or from any other cause there be a leakage of the current, the City Clerk shall notify the owner or occupant of the building to have the building re-wired, or the wiring repaired, as may be necessary, and unless the repairs are made within 3 days after such notice, shall cause the service wires to be disconnected until the repairs are made.

W. H. Hoguewood and Fred Ellis appeared before the council in regard to the matter of a dumping ground. On motion the matter was referred to the Street and Alley Committee.

On motion the Council adjourned to February 26, 1913, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Some Poetry and Some Truth

Bixby, in his "Daily Drift" in the State Journal has a mixture of poetry, truth and philosophy that is restful to read. Below is one in regard to good roads. And it might be timely to add that in and about Cleveland, Ohio, they have spared no money in building good roads, and the roads have really not cost a cent—that is, they have so raised land values, that the increased tax has more than paid the building cost. So it will doubtless prove in the case cited below:

"Early this week the city of Houston voted bonds in the sum of $1,000,000 for building county bridges and improving highways leading into the city. This may seem like an extravagant sum of money to use in one medium-sized county for the purpose named, but no great community can possibly lose in the long run by the generous expenditure of money for good roads. A symmetrical and solid wagon road is the thing of beauty and the joy forever which the poet writes about.

Give me the finished wagon road,
For weather foul or fair,
Whereon the mules can draw a load
And never sweat a hair.

With leveled hills and solid tracks,
I'll drive without a fear,
And also pay the increased tax
And never shed a tear."

A Prize To Strive For

There is a car of apples on track at Wayne, and they are good ones—Kansas apples, and the owner offers a prize of

$5.00

to the boy or girl who is attending Wayne school who will sell the most apples for them on Saturday, March 1st, and a prize of $2.00 for the best composition on apples. All who compete must register at car.

Montgomery the Apple Man

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss Sybil Dixon was at Sioux City Tuesday.

Mrs. F. E. Strahan went to Sioux City Tuesday afternoon.

A. H. Houchin is moving to Wayne from Hoskins, and has rented the Nettleton house.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Jessie Beechel to Mr. Harry Bessire of Laurel, March 5th.

Mrs. Wm. Graunke of West Point arrived here Wednesday, for a visit with her brother, Wm. Beckenhauer and family.

Miss Margaret Dixon returned last Saturday from Burke, S. D., where she teaches school, for a brief vacation with home folks.

The State Legislature may pass myriads of bills but they can't legislate the apple man out of business. Come to the car in Wayne and see.—adv.

Mrs. W. O. Hanssen went to Randolph Wednesday to visit friends, and from there she plans to go to Page to visit at the home of Gus Hanssen and family.

C. S. Peters and wife, who have been visiting here at the home of her brother, Dr. E. S. Blair and wife since the burial of their son about two weeks ago, left Wednesday for Sioux City, and from there they plan to go to a home in South Dakota.

C. M. Christensen and family went to Harlan, Iowa, Wednesday where they will visit former friends and relatives, and today attend the wedding of his brother, Andrew Christensen of this place and Miss Kathryn Preadahl of Harlan. Mr. and Mrs. Christensen will make their home on a farm near Wayne.

The farmers of this county seldom have an opportunity to buy fancy bred Poland China and Duroc Jersey gilts such as those to be offered by Harry Tidrick at his farm on March 5th. The foundation stock of this great herd was secured from some of the best herds of the middle west, and there are no better sows to be found any where. There will be no guessing as to whether these sows are bred. You will know it. Nebraska is up against the greatest hog shortage of recent years, in fact the whole country is way short on hogs and prices no doubt will go much higher during this year. Don't fail to attend this sale.—adv.

"You Keep the Change." Read it.

FOR SALE—All my household goods. Orlando Adams. adv.

Jas. B. Grier and L. L. Way went to Omaha this morning to see the automobile show.

Miss L. Stewart came down from Sioux City the first of the week to visit home folks a few days.

You need Window Shades very likely for spring. Buy them now for 19c each at the Variety store.—adv.

Mrs. H. S. Welch and children left this morning for their new home at Columbus to the regret of many friends.

Nick Hanson and his niece, Miss Anna Hanson, have returned from a visit of two or three weeks at Portsmouth, Iowa.

Ed Sellers and wife returned Wednesday evening from a visit of two months at the home of their daughter at Stockton, Illinois.

J. M. Roberts and wife and J. C. Stagner and wife, who are visiting at the Roberts home on the Clark ranch, went to Sioux City this morning for the day.

We snap up every special we can get hold of and offer it to you as a special at a time when it does you most good. It pays to keep in touch with the Variety store. adv.

FOR SALE—Thoroughbred White Rock eggs for hatching. Also S. C. White Leghorn hens, now laying. Call and see my stock or phone Red 387. Mrs. L. P. WALKER.—adv.

City election takes place April 1st. The nominations must be made ten days earlier. Who is your choice for mayor and councilmen? Begin to think in time, for we want a good one.

One thing of importance to the public was omitted from the copy of the pavilion sale advertisement, on another page. It is an unusual offering and one that will appeal at this season of the year. It is 100 boxes of choice Favorite apples, grown and packed in the Grand Junction, Colorado, apple country.—adv.

Tomorrow Paul Pawelski ceases to be an employe of the express company at this place, resigning to accept a clerkship at the postoffice. Some months ago he successfully passed the examination, and was named for the first vacancy or increase of the postal force here, and is to begin his new work March 1st. As express hustler he has been diligent and most efficient, and we predict that his "winning way" will make him equally popular in his new position. His many friends will be glad to learn of this promotion. Rollie Henkle will succeed him for the express work, and he is familiar with the work and will make good there.

Miss Effie Wallace, who went to visit the south about two weeks ago, has sent back word to her relatives here that she is enjoying herself in Florida. She crossed the state from west to east in a boat, going by rivers and canal, and was writing from Miami, on the southeast coast. This is a place of about 6,000 population in the fruit belt—that is the tropical fruits, which she sees growing in all their luxury. Pineapples, grape fruit and oranges. Just now they are harvesting a large amount of tomatoes which are being sent by the carload to northern markets. The weather is like summer and she is enjoying it greatly. Upon her return trip it is her intention to visit Chattanooga and a number of historical points of interest in the south.

A WAYNE CATTLE TRAIN

Seventeen Cars of Fat Cattle Make Special Train to Chicago. Feeding a Growing Industry Here.

Last Saturday a train of seventeen cars of fat cattle were loaded at this station and sent to Chicago, and were on the market Monday or Tuesday. Those shipping were D. A. Jones and his two sons, Ross and Zeph, who had 13 car loads of well finished big stuff. John and Will Harder each drove in a car of big, fat cattle—as good as one often sees, and Simon Goeman sent two cars from his feed lots. The entire shipment will bring in something like $30,000.

District Court

District court has been holding daily sessions this week and a few cases of interest have been disposed of, one being that of the village of Wakefield vs. Fred W. Utecht. This case was remanded from the supreme court for trial. The contention is that the village of Wakefield wants the Heiks addition, which is in Wayne county, while the rest of Wakefield is in Dixon county, to become a part of the village for the purpose of taxation. The judge decreed that it should be so, and defendant took exceptions, and were allowed forty days to file bill.

In the Griffith divorce case, Mrs. Griffith was granted a divorce as prayed for, given the custody of the child and the sum of $750 was allowed for its support, and H. C. Henney named as trustee of the fund.

Wednesday was devoted to hearing the case in which Nelson Orcutt is defendant and George and I. D. Henderson, plaintiffs. Plaintiffs claim that defendant has obstructed a street of the city by erecting a residence therein, while defendant claims to have good title to the property. The alleged street was used by Hendersons to get to and from their homes. A temporary injunction or restraining order had been issued while the building was in the course of construction, but the house was completed, and occupied. Decision will be for plaintiff if records submitted are proven to be correct.

Special Bargain Week

Mme. North is a soprano of high culture, singing with magnificent expression and in answer to one of the enthusiastic recalls, she favored her audience with a beautiful rendering of the old ballad, "Silver Threads Among the Gold."—State Journal, Nebraska. She will be seen at the M. E. church Friday, March 7th. Madam North is not a stranger here, having delighted a Wayne audience last year.

The Bible Study Circle held an interesting and well attended meeting at the pleasant home of Mrs. Durrin Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. J. A. Scofield was the efficient leader of the instructive lesson. At the close a reception was given for Mrs. Sellers who leaves soon for Wyoming. The Circle presented Mrs. Sellers with a beautiful piece of imported drawn work as a token of their esteem. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. J. J. Coleman and all the ladies are invited to come and enjoy the lesson study.

Among the many pre-nuptial affairs given for Miss Jessie Beechel was the miscellaneous shower given at the home of Mrs. F. H. Jones Tuesday evening. Carnations, ferns and smilax were used in the decorations and photographs of the prospective bride and groom occupied a conspicuous place. The hours were pleasantly spent in games and in making little booklets containing predictions of the bride's future. A delicious two course luncheon was served by the hostess, after which the evening was brought to a close with a mock marriage. Many handsome and useful gifts were received by the happy bride to be.

State Normal Notes

Professor Lackey attended the Nebraska conservation congress at Lincoln last week.

Dr. Alexander Corkey was a visitor Wednesday and addressed the students at convocation.

Members of our advanced classes are beginning to receive notices of election to places in public school work. Miss Margaret Fichter was recently notified of her election in the primary department of the Meadow Grove schools, and Miss Hazel Alvea has been offered the position of intermediate teacher in the same school.

Preparations are now under way for the inter-normal debates, which have become one of the most interesting events of the school year. The subject for discussion is "Resolved, That the minimum wage scale should be established in all industries." This question will be debated between Peru and Kearney at Peru; Wayne and Peru at Wayne; and Wayne and Kearney at Kearney.

The theory class had need of old readers for comparison with up-to-date text books. Upon application, the Bureau of Education franked to the Normal four old readers printed in 1828, 1848, and 1851. The most interesting one of the four was the New York reader number 3, devoted almost entirely to religious thought and scripture lessons. No effort had been made to grade the subject matter in any of them, and in comparison with modern text books these old readers were found very interesting.

Washington's birthday was appropriately observed in a program given Saturday evening in the chapel by the ladies of Kingsbury Hall. An admission fee of ten cents was charged and the proceeds were given to the Y. M. C. A. The program showed artistic ability and variety in its numbers. The whistling solo by George Wilcox pleased his hearers, as did the piano duet by the Misses Gadke Mathieson, and the cornet solo by Mr. Rogers.

The history of the colonial days was emphasized by a series of tableaux, in which children appeared as Indians in the Boston Tea Party, as Precilla and John Alden in the spinning wheel scene, as Minute Men, Red Coats, and even as Paul Revere in his famous ride. An eulogy by Miss Brachman and Paul Rever's Ride by Miss Fish brought the days of Washington more clearly to mind, and the singing skule gave its share to the evening's enjoyment. In the Minuet as given by four ladies and four gentlemen all the quaintness, beauty and dignity of the colonial dress and manner were visualized. It gave a clearer realization of the strength, race and courtesy of the days of the "Father of the Republic." After the program light refreshments were served in the gymnasium, and a contest in the recognition of noted men and places closed the evening's pleasure. To the girls of Kingsbury Hall generally and to Miss Kingsbury in particular much credit is due for the success of this very unique social event.

School Notes

Remember the public school entertainment which will be given in the high school assembly room on Thursday evening, March 6th. Every grade in the schools will be represented in this entertainment and every patron and friend of the school ought to see it. Buy your ticket of the pupils the first of next week. The proceeds of this entertainment will be expended for the benefit of the schools.

The high school orchestra is faithfully practicing from one to three evenings a week after school and that it is improving greatly will be demonstrated at the school entertainment.

Miss Strickland was absent on Wednesday afternoon on account of sickness, and Mrs. Salsbury taught in her place.

Mr. Hiscox and Mrs. Salsbury were recent visitors.

Izola Laughlin entered the sixth grade on Wednesday.

Several pupils have recently dropped out of school because of their parents removing to other parts.

The Senior class gave the following Washington Day program on Friday morning with Raymond Duerig presiding: Biography of George Washington by Mattie Lane; Incidents of the Life of Washington by Luella Bush; Piano solo by Leta Fisher.

Don't fail to see the Indian club drill, the penmanship demonstration, the drills, songs, Junior orchestra, etc., on Thursday evening, March 6th.

Examinations today and tomorrow.

IF YOU ARE LOOKING FOR AN AUTOMOBILE AGENCY--DON'T OVERLOOK THE

K-R-I-T

The K-R-I-T is not an assembled car, as all of the essential parts are made in their own factory, consequently, since separate manufacturers' profits do not figure in the cost of our car we are able to market a much higher grade product at a given price.

Our long wheel base and Large Wheels insure easy riding.

Our light weight is made possible by our Vanadium steel construction, also by the use of aluminum transmission and crank cases.

Our powerful ballbearing motor is equipped with Bosch Magneto and Stromberg carburetor.

Our Fly Wheel is enclosed.

We use a Multiple disc clutch running in an oil bath.

Our transmission, which is a unit with the motor, is ball bearing and of selective sliding gear type.

We have a double three point suspension.

We have the highest grade of finish and workmanship throughout and one has to look to the cars selling around $1500.00 for even a comparison.

Our One Year's guarantee, backed by responsible men is an item that must not be overlooked. These men demand that their factory turn out quality and not quantity.

Electric Lights throughout with a 100-hour ampere storage battery can be supplied at the unheard-of price of $10.00 net extra.

If you are in the market for an agency proposition, or a car for your own personal use, WRITE us and we will tell you more about the advantages of your buying or handling the K-R-I-T.

Washington Political News

By C. H. TAVENNER

Washington, Feb. 26. For a change, the same kind of justice that is meted out to poor men, was meted out to the rich, when Federal Judge Hollister of Ohio recently sentenced twenty-nine officials of the Cash Register trust to sentences in jail, sustaining the view long taken by democrats that "guilt is personal," and making the first official response to the will of the people that was expressed in the election of Woodrow Wilson.

Now that sufficient time has elapsed for members of Congress to consider the effect of the judgment of the Ohio court, the consensus of opinion among lawmakers at the national capitol is that the jail sentences will do more to cause millionaire trust magnates to respect the Sherman anti-trust law than anything that has occurred since trusts and monopolies have come into existence.

It has been demonstrated that jail sentences is the only thing trust magnates have any respect for. They are willing to build up giant monopolies in the necessities of life if their only punishment, in the remote event of their prosecution and conviction, is to be "dissolution," the details of which the Supreme court will allow their attorneys to attend, to the end that their stocks will double in value. Trust magnates care nothing about fines. Fines are considered simply on a business basis. The trust heads have no objection to occasionally paying a $5,000 or $10,000 fine, having made millions in cornered markets and in monopolies of the necessities of life.

But trust magnates are afraid of a cell, and if they can be convinced that if they violate the anti-trust law they will go to jail, like the poor when they violate a law, no one doubts but that the Sherman law would be obeyed and the problem of illegal trusts, solved.

The Sherman law provides for jail sentences for trust magnates, just as other laws provide for jail sentences for other kinds of robbery, but for twenty years and more the Federal courts have not been impressed by the fact. This is why so many persons have come to be suspicious of the courts, and to sincerely believe that the poor do not receive the same kind of justice that is meted out to the rich; it explains, too, the recent remarkable growth of socialism, and the agitation for the recall of judges.

In this connection it is important to note that although the twenty-nine cash register heads were found guilty and were sentenced to jail, they are not in jail, and are not likely to be for two years, or perhaps even longer. The case will be fought through the Supreme court, and as a general rule two years is consumed. It is said that the men under sentence expect to escape jail, and will pour out their million in an effort to find some loophole of technicality by which to escape the ignominy of being branded a convict.

If the judgment of the court is actually carried out, it is obvious that it will do more toward causing illegal trust magnates to respect the law, and at the same time more to strengthen the waning confidence of the masses in the federal courts, than anything that has happened in years.

Varied Literary Styles

Exchange editors are usually well repaid for their work, by the entertainment they are afforded from the various literary styles used by writers in newspapers.

In a Dublin paper we find this: "It looks to me as if she had saddled herself with a veritable white elephant."

An Austrian paper states: "The bride appeared in a smart white frock of pale blue linen."

A Missouri newspaper reporting a divorce trial, states: "The husband undertook to poison his wife without just cause."

In South Dakota the literary style is only fairly well developed. A paper of that state announces: "The bride is a refined young lady of culture, as also is Mr. Smith."

An Iowa paper innocently recommends: "To keep ants away from the refrigerator, tie woolen strings around each leg, saturated with turpentine."—Oklahoma City Oklahoman.

The above are in no manner related to the editor who prefaced an obituary taken from an exchange with the statement that "Deceased formerly lived here, and was well known to many of our readers who will be glad to learn of his death."

Death of Mrs. Gillespie

The Sheldon, Iowa, papers tell of the death of Mrs. Eugenia Matilda Gillespie, which occurred in that place Wednesday, February 12, from pneumonia. Mrs. Gillespie was a resident of Wayne for a year recently, moving from here to her old home at Sheldon about six months ago. With her here were two daughters, Miss Nell and Genevieve, the former being engaged as stenographer for Berry & Berry, and the younger attending college. The Gillespie family also lived on a farm near Carroll a number of years ago, and have acquaintances in that part of the county.

Mrs. Gillespie was born in the state of New York in 1849, and was 64 years of age at the time of her death. The funeral and burial were at Sheldon, the pastor of the Episcopal church of Sioux City, of which she was a member, conducting the services.

About Electric Light and Power

The Wisner Chronicle contains the following item, which shows that Wisner has acted along a line suggested for Wayne, by the Democrat four weeks ago. His report appears favorable to an alternating current, but we do not know whether conditions there and here are the same, but, as said once before, would like the opinion of an expert who has some knowledge, and a reputation at stake:

"Prof. O. J. Ferguson, head of the electrical engineering department of the State University, addressed a large meeting of citizens in the Methodist church last Friday night. He had spent the afternoon in making a careful examination of the Wisner electrical plant, and his talk disclosed a very practical view of the situation. He stated that the lights are not so good as they should be and their improvement would necessitate more copper in the distributing lines or a change to the alternating current. If power is to be transmitted to a motor at the proposed site of pumping station west of the city the saving effected by changing to the alternating current would offset the cost of the change. After a consideration of the matter from all standpoints, he expressed the judgment that a change of the current will afford the best solution of the problem that is presented, to the city."

Taxing Mortgages

Some of the papers of the state are worrying a good deal about the failure of the state of Nebraska to levy a successful tax on real estate mortgages. Under the present law the mortgage may have incorporated in the mortgage a clause under which the borrower agrees to pay the tax. In most cases this clause is incorporated, and the mortgagor pays the tax.

In the opinion of this newspaper there is little in this effort to tax mortgages. If the mortgage is to be taxed the rate of interest will be raised, and the borrower will pay the tax anyway.

An incorrect notion of economic principles leads to this idea that the rate of interest is governed by statute law, the need of the borrower or the desire of the lender to charge.

Capital loaned at interest draws about the average rate that capital invested otherwise in the community would earn. If the capitalist can make 10 per cent on his money by investing in hogs or land or buildings, he will not lend it for less. Except in rare cases a man will not borrow money at 10 per cent if he does not expect it to pay him a profit greater than that per cent.

The rate of interest is the measure of the earning capacity of capital. Interest and wages will be found to be high in the same community and low in the same community at the same time. We may be able in some other way, Brother Howard, "to make the men of wealth pay their fair share of taxation," but we will never be able to do it by levying a tax on mortgages. Guess again.—Cedar County News.

The death of two children in a poor home at Hartington last week, one from pneumonia and one from croup, the News says were due to lack of the common necessities of life—food and clothing—and in the midst of a land of plenty. True a false pride, perhaps had caused the parents to hide their impoverished condition as much as possible. But if we were all the civilized Christianized people that we claim to be, such things would be well near impossible. The little bodies were taken to the church for the funeral. It is to the credit of the authorities that they gave every measure of relief possible as soon as the condition became known. We hope there are no cases in Wayne bordering on the destitution which this family of nine endured, but there is no knowing, so frequently, until too late to do the greatest good.

FOR ELECTING POSTMASTERS

Congressman Stephens Introduces Bill Providing for Election for Second and Third Class Offices.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22. A plan for the local election of all postmasters in second and third class offices is provided in a bill introduced in the house today by Congressman Stephens. Although in a statement made on the measure Congressman Stephens suggests that the time will be reached when anyone can be a candidate for the office, he now restricts the candidates to the party in power, for the very practical reason that the offices are now regarded as proper spoils by democrats, and, unless a compromise is made with this feeling, the reform will have little chance of initiation.

It is provided that at least one year before a postmaster's commission is to expire notice of that fact shall be sent by the postmaster general to the postmaster who, in turn, shall send it to the local political committee. This committee is given power to call the election, to appoint an election board and provide for an election. All legal voters who are patrons of the office, irrespective of party, are entitled to vote. The result of the election is to be certified to the postmaster general and the winner shall be given a certificate for a four-year term of office.

The power of filling vacancies or removing postmasters for cause is reserved to the postmaster general.

The provisions of the bill are made to apply only to second and third class postmasters because a complex and expensive election machinery would have to be devised for the election of postmasters in large cities, and this would open the bill to attack from a quarter in which it is not now vulnerable, in the opinion of its author.

The whole measure is an outgrowth of the plan of postmaster election which Congressman Stephens instituted in the Third district.

Omaha Automobile Show

The most varied displays of automobiles ever offered greeted the visitors at the Omaha Automobile show, which is being held this week. Cars of every description, from the aristocratic limousine to the little roadster, often referred to as a "road louse," stood side by side, vying with each other for the attention of the possible purchasers and those who attend through curiosity and whose pocket books are not commensurate with their desires. More than 5,000 attended the show on opening night; it was the largest crowd that ever inspected an auto display in Omaha.

State Associations Urge Passage of House Roll 423.

That a general demand for developing and advertising the state exists is attested by the endorsement of House Roll 423, providing for the creation of the Nebraska Conservation and Public Welfare commission. This bill offers an opportunity to put Nebraska on the map and at the same time develop the state. What better combination could be desired?

To Farmers Raising Wheat

Whoever heard of a MILLING CONCERN GIVING AWAY ANYTHING? That is exactly what we are going to do. There has been more or less SMUT in the wheat for a year or more. It's not necessary to raise smut if the seed is properly treated before sowing. The seed wheat treated with BLUE VITRIOL (dissolved in water) will kill all of the smut spores and not injure the seed at all. We are willing to furnish the Blue Vitriol with instructions how to use it, providing you will furnish the water to dissolve it and use it. There is a little extra labor connected with it, but it will pay anyone who sows wheat to perform this extra labor. Come to the Wayne Roller Mill and let us know how many bushels of wheat you intend to sow and we will furnish you with the Blue Vitriol free of charge.

WHY WASTE HUMAN EFFORT?

By J. E. Waggoner, Service Bureau Manager.

The harvest which has just passed witnessed a greater lack of farm help than perhaps any harvest that we have known. The cry for farm laborers from the Northwest, megaphoned over the entire country, lost none of its intensity when heard at short range. Farmers boarded trains at the station offering $3.00, $3.50 per day and in some cases more for farm help. Their solicitations were met by the stare and dumb silence of the passengers.

At this point one is apt to ask "why." If such is the case, and there seems to be no doubt but that it is the farm help problem growing greater year after year. There are many reasons for this—some are lured away from the farm by the attractions of the city, while others turn their backs to the farm because of the drudgery and long hours they are required to work on the ordinary farm. It is right and proper that the farmer should work long hours during certain seasons of the year in order to save the crop, but we find the largest percentage do not stop at this point, but pride themselves in early rising, saying nothing, however, of the work actually accomplished. We do not wish to discountenance early rising, but that in itself will not be productive of results. We often hear the old adage, "the early bird catches the worm"—this success was not necessarily due to early rising but to knowing where to go; in other words, the farmer should combine with early rising—early and careful planning.

Just recently the writer was on an Iowa farm where a new silo had been erected. It was discouraging to note that the silo had been built eight or ten feet from the side of the horse barn, in fact, it was 200 or 300 feet from the place where the silage was to be fed, viz. the cattle barn; in other words, a large percentage of the silage would have to be carried 200 or 300 feet during feeding time. The energy and time expended as a result of carelessly building the silo at this point can be placed on the "loss" side of the ledger. It is not infrequently the case that it takes fifteen or twenty minutes to carry the corn for feeding the horses, and even longer to feed the hogs and other animals, but if the corn crib were properly located it would save two-thirds to three-fourths of this work.

By the proper arrangement of farm buildings hours of time and scores of miles of travel can be saved. It is much easier and usually takes no more time to unload a load of corn or grain in a crib or bin in the barn or hog house than it would to unload it at a corn crib standing several hundred feet from either.

If we were to visit a modern plant that is manufacturing machines for the farm or other machinery we would find that every casting and every part had a certain route through the works. The holes are bored or punched with one machine. It is then handed or delivered to the next machine where the milling or planing work is done; in other words, it passes from machine to machine until the article is completed. If the method practiced on many farms were in vogue in factories, either the price of machines would be higher or the factories would go out of business.

Conditions and methods have changed. The farmer now has at his disposal farm equipment which will enable him to reap greater profits from the area farmed if he spends part of his time planning the various operations than if the old methods were followed. He should no longer view his occupation in the light of a day-laborer, but from the angle of a business man. There is, perhaps, no occupation that requires any keener judgment and better management than to operate a farm successfully.

The scarcity of farm labor can be met, in a degree, by so planning operations and growing diversified crops as to distribute the work over a long period. There is no question but that the farmers in the northwest in the wheat sections and the cotton farmers of the south will soon realize the importance and necessity, not only from the standpoint of its effect on the soil, but from the viewpoint of the laborer, to practice better and more complete rotations.

Data collected by the government shows that the yearly earnings per farm hand is almost directly proportional to the farm equipment used. The using of a larger number of farm machines and more power, and following better plans, including a proper rotation of crops, will help to solve the labor problem.

Fodder left in the shock will lose from 25 to 40 per cent of its feeding value, besides it is a bad practice to say the least to haul it in as needed during the cold winter days. Better plan to stack it if possible. To shred the fodder, you will find more economical than stacking.

It is usually a good practice to turn the cattle and other stock into the corn stalks for only a short time each day until they get accustomed to the change in the nature of the feed. See that they are provided with plenty of good water.

Better begin to look up the alfalfa crop. Every corn belt farmer should have at least ten acres of this valuable crop next year. You can't raise your protein any cheaper in any other way.

MEASURING HAY IN STACK

Reply to Andrew Wright, Sidewood, Neb.: "Will you please send me a formula for measuring hay in the stack?"

For obtaining the number of tons of hay in a stack, the first step is to measure the width and length with a tape line, and then what is known as the overthrow, that is, pass a tape line from the bottom of the stack on one side over to the bottom on the other side and divide this measurement which is called the overthrow by three, then multiply the length by the width, and this by one-third of the overthrow—this gives you the number of cubic feet in the stack. Of course, if the stack is different widths or different heights you will have to take the measurements in several places and obtain the average of these by adding them together and dividing by the number of measurements made.

The number of cubic feet of hay per ton varies considerably with the length of time that it has been stacked. With newly stacked hay it will take about 500 cubic feet to equal a ton. If it has been stacked for two to three months, from 350 to 400 cubic feet will equal a ton. After you have obtained the number of cubic feet in the stack, divide by the number of cubic feet in a ton, making due consideration the length of time that the hay has been stacked.

SAVE THE FODDER

Although it is too late in the season to consider doing anything with the corn for ensilage purposes we should not overlook the fact that to save the fodder which we have already cut is not only our duty but is very important from the standpoint of having sufficient feed for our livestock during the winter months.

Of the many ways to save the corn crop the use of the silo is perhaps the best, and yet only a few of the farmers in the corn belt have taken advantage of this means of saving the corn crop this season and we should begin right now to investigate the silo problem so that we can erect one next year. The silo not only saves 30 to 40 per cent of the corn's nutrition that would otherwise be lost, but it affords a green and sufficient feed during the winter months.

Crop reports sent out by the government show that the farm value of hay as quoted October 1st, is somewhat less than it was October 1st, 1911, but yet it is higher by a considerable amount than usual. In other words this indicates that the amount of rough feed available throughout the country is less than normal and for this reason we should put forth extra efforts to save all the fodder and other rough feed we have as it will come in mighty handy before spring. When we consider the increased farm value of hay and the fact that if fodder is left standing in the field from 25 to 40 per cent of its feeding value is lost we will realize how important it is to form our plans now to save this fodder in the best possible shape.

Perhaps you have not done so, but you have seen your neighbors leave the corn fodder in the fields during the winter months and haul it in day after day as it was required. This is bad practice, to say the least, and we hope that no reader of the Service Bureau will be found guilty of this practice this season. Late fall rains coupled with occasional sleet or snow storms not only waste a considerable amount of the fodder but make it extremely difficult to handle if left in the field. Fodder left exposed in this manner loses its feeding value through the loss of protein caused by the action of the elements and by the wasting of leaves due to handling.

The next best practice is to stack the fodder as soon as the corn is picked. It is a good idea to locate the stack somewhere convenient to the feeding rack or on the south side of a grove where the fodder can be fed during the cold winter mornings by scattering it on the ground where the animals will be protected from the cold northwest winds.

This brings us to the subject of shredding fodder, which is the most important and by far the best way of saving a fodder crop. The husker and shredder now in common use cuts the stalks in longitudinal sections, into small bits which puts it in a much more palatable form. It has been found that live stock will eat much more of the stalk when shredded than when fed whole. The machine used for this purpose will deliver the corn in a husked condition. The cost of shredding varies, of course, in different localities, but figuring the average cost of husking corn and storing it, the expense of shredding is practically the same. Then you will not only get the corn husked and stored but you will have your fodder in a convenient form for storing and feeding. It is a good plan to store the shredded fodder in the hay mow or in some place where it can be covered. If it is impossible for you to do this, stack the shredded fodder close to where you intend to feed it. This will not only save labor, but will reduce losses in handling and hauling the shredded fodder. Another advantage of shredding the fodder which is often overlooked is the convenience in handling the stable manure. It is perhaps unnecessary to call the Corn Belt farmers' attention to this fact. Let us plan right now to at least stack our fodder and if possible use a shredder.

The new division superintendent for this division of the O. & M. was here the first part of the week, and after viewing the grounds for the proposed switch and track to the city power house, and getting estimates as to the cost, stated that the expense would amount to about $2,500, which is considered prohibitive for the amount of traffic that would come over the track.

Advertising in Medical Profession

Every business man advertises. Every doctor advertises in some way. Some by sending cards, some through personal friends, some by prominent work in church, lodge, or other public work. All are perfectly legitimate as is my way of using the press. Being born and reared on a farm my education began in the rural schools. I later attended public and High School at Colby, Kansas, entering the Lincoln Medical College at Lincoln, Nebraska, in 1900. During the four years spent there my extra time and vacations were spent in studying the eye, ear, nose and throat under Dr. Ketchum of that place, now of San Francisco, California. After graduating, I located at Elk Creek, Nebr., to be near my brother, an M. D., eight years my senior, and assist him in his hospital at Auburn, Nebr. During my stay there I took post graduate work at Chicago in the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat College; Surgery under Dr's Pratt and Ochsner of that city; and have spent some time each year with Mayo Bros. at Rochester, Minn. Besides doing general practice. My office is equipped with the latest electrical appliances and everything needed for these special lines of work.

"The waste in farming is being discussed by the scientists and others. They point to four great sources of waste. First is the burning of corn stalks. Experiments have proved beyond question that they are worth 60 per cent as much as the corn if properly utilized, the best way to utilize them being to make silage, but even their return to the land on which they grew instead of burning them would be of great value. It is said that there is a waste of $10 a bale in ginning a d baling cotton. There is an almost incalculable waste in using poor seed. Experts of the agricultural department declare that there is a waste of about 1,000,000 tons of tow each year in burning flax straw. Much of this comes from the fact that farmers are unable to furnish enough capital to make use of it. It takes money to build silos and get machinery to get the tow out of the flax straw, but of that, none of the writers say anything."

The above lines were written by a Rural Economist, and he should have added that it is to be hoped that the time will come in this country when the money, which is but an evidence of wealth and of no real intrinsic value, will be used to save to the people these very things, which are wealth, instead of for gambling in stocks and futures on Wall street or in Chicago board of trade. Then will prosperity hover over and warm the hearts of the millions of common people who produce the wealth.

Newspaper Change at Winside

Matt H. Boyle, who for the past year has successfully conducted the Winside Tribune, will speak his farewell piece today, himself and wife and her mother, Mrs. Nina B. Ecker, will leave in a few days for Etacada, Oregon, there to take charge of a newspaper. The trio make a most complete newspaper force for any town. Mrs. Ecker is a forceful writer and an experienced newspaper woman, and the daughter has been brought up in a newspaper office, and the success which has attended the efforts of Mr. Boyle since assuming the management of the Tribune make it evident that he will succeed in his new field.

As to who will take the helm at the Tribune office we are left in the dark, as it has not been announced. The Democrat wishes the force success in their new home.

The Punishment of the Bagno

In former times the punishment of the bagno (bath), one of the most cruelly cruel institutions ever devised, was administered in Venice, where the water of the lagoons played so prominent a part in its penal system. The punishment was as follows: The prisoner was placed in a vat the sides of which were slightly in excess of the average height of a man. In order to hold in check the rising tide of a supply of water which ran into the vat in a constant stream the criminal was furnished with a scoop with which to bale out the water as fast as it came in. The respite from death by immersion thus obtained was more or less prolonged, according to the powers of endurance possessed by the victim. But imagine the mortal torture, the exhausting and even hideously grotesque efforts, the incessant and pitiless toll by night and day, to stave off the dread moment fast approaching when, overcome by sleep and fatigue, he was unable to struggle any longer against his fate.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Trade Sluggish--Steady to Ten Cents Lower.

HOGS DULL--GENERALLY STEADY

Sheep and Lamb Receipts Moderate. Lambs Steady to 10@15c Lower. Sheep Steady to Strong—Sheep Trade Active—Lambs Slow.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Feb. 25.—A very good run of cattle arrived today, about 6,000 head. Dressed beef men were a little more independent today than they have been for several days and as a result trade was very sluggish, with prices steady to a dime lower. The market for cows and heifers was active and fully steady, or in other words cows and heifers were in as vigorous demand as at any time lately, and prices for all grades are at the highest point of the season. Year calves were in active request and firm, and bulls, stags, etc., ruled steady to perhaps a little stronger. Stockers and feeders were in good, active demand and values were well sustained all along the line.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $8.30@8.50; good to choice beefs, $8.00@8.25; fair to choice beefs, $7.75@8.00; fair to choice yearlings, $7.25@8.25; common to fair beefs, $7.00@7.75; good to choice heifers, $6.75@7.50; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.00; fair to good grades, $5.65@6.40; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.25; veal calves, $5.75@9.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@6.50; choice to prime feeders, $7.80@8.00; good to choice feeders, $7.30@7.60; fair to good feeders, $6.75@7.25; common to fair feeders, $6.25@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $5.00@7.00.

Hog receipts amounted to nearly 17,000 head. The market opened strong to 5c higher, but trade becomes slow and draggy, with prices generally steady with Monday. The bulk of the supply was disposed of around $3.15@3.25, the latter price being the top for the day.

About 10,500 sheep and lambs were received today. Very few really prime lambs were on sale, the bulk of the offerings being on the medium order. Trade was rather slow at prices steady to 10@15c lower than Monday. A bunch of Colorado lambs brought $8.00. Feeder lambs moved around $7.65@7.85. Steady to strong prices were paid for ewes, wethers and yearlings. The demand was broad throughout and sellers found a good outlet for the majority of their offerings. Some Mexican ewes sold for $6.25, and $6.50 was paid for a shipment of fed western wethers. Fed western yearlings brought $7.25.
