ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA. MARCH 6, 1913

$1.50 PER YEAR

DISTRICT COURT IN SESSION

Docket Cleared of Many Cases. Last Jury Trial Now Being Heard. One Jury Out Eighteen Hours.

Since last issue Judge A. A. Welch has been presiding at the sessions of the February term of the district court for Wayne county.

In the case of the State vs. Simon Goeman on the charge of gambling, the verdict was "guilty." The sentence has not yet been given. Other cases against Mr. Goeman were held for future action. The one case in which he was charged with mistreating his wife, was taken from the docket during good behavior.

The case of Anna McCarthy vs. Philip Sullivan for breach of promise, was settled out of court and dismissed.

Carrie Schalnus was granted a divorce from George Schalnus and given custody of the child, $200 alimony and an allowance of $10 per month so long as court directs.

Carrie Schalnus vs. John Schalnus was dismissed, settled.

Anna Anson was granted a divorce from Ira Anson, and allowed $25 to pay attorney's fees in the case.

Dismissal was given in the cases of W. Brueckner vs. Christ Maas, State vs. Roy and Howard Neary, Paul Juhlin, and Bryan Earwood.

Ray T. Malloy vs. Phillip and Fred Burress for damages, verdict for defendants.

A decree of divorce was given to Charles and Clara Walker, no defense being offered.

H. A. Senn vs. M. L. Halpin was continued.

Because of irregularities in lower court the case of Ellis Kenrick vs. Martin Jensen was reversed, and 20 days given to file the papers for renewing hostilities.

A decree quieting title was granted in the Ernest Grauer vs. Winside Roller Mills company case.

At this writing, Thursday morning, the jury is yet out in the case of the First National Bank of Canyon, Texas, vs. Stewart E. Brown et al. This is an action to recover payment on a note of $1,000 from surety signer. The defendant claims that provision was made for payment of the note from moneys paid to the bank, which were applied to other claims.

A jury is being selected this morning for the last jury trial of the term, the State vs. Sam Miller and George Ghenther on charge of gambling.

Kidney Troubles Can Be Avoided

You cannot afford to neglect the slightest kidney ailment - it's hazardous to do so.

The poisonous waste material must be separated from the blood and if the kidneys become weakened this is impossible.

That means a poisoned system. That's why neglect means trouble - the ailment becomes chronic and results in Rheumatism or Bright's Disease.

NYAL'S Kidney Pills

Assist the kidneys in their function, strengthen them and prevent the ailment from becoming chronic. They cleanse the blood and increase the circulation and supply the proper nourishment to body tissues.

They are a kidney medicine - intended for that and nothing else. Speedy and positive relief at 50 cents the box.

Whatever a good drug store ought to have - and many things that other drug stores don't keep - you'll find here. Come to us first and you'll get what you want.

The Anniversary Offer

Some did not take the trouble to read in full last week our special Anniversary Subscription Offer, given again this week, and for their benefit we will say it right here.

This issue of the Democrat completes our second year, and we are celebrating the event making the month of March a bargain subscription month, and we are accepting $1.00 in full payment for all advance subscription until July, 1914, new or old. This means that you can save nearly one half of the regular price of the Democrat by ordering and paying now.

It means a saving to the subscriber of what we would have to pay an agent or collector to do this work for us.

It is an opportunity to send the Democrat to a friend with but little expense.

It is an opportunity for present subscribers who are in arrears to pay in advance at a big saving.

It is a chance for those who are paid in advance to extend their credit at the dollar rate if they so desire for from one to five years. We can use the money.

It is the main chance, the best chance to secure a Wayne paper, and YOU should not neglect it.

Obituary

(By Her Pastor)

Mary E. Hyatt was born on November 20, 1824, in Camden, N. Y., and grew to womanhood in the east. She was married on March 20, 1843, to Mr. Stephen Cutler, and in 1865 the family came to Iowa, where they resided for 18 years, coming to Wayne in April, 1883. Mr. Cutler died four years ago, and since that time Mrs. Cutler has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Sewell. In spite of her advanced age she enjoyed remarkably good health until in December, 1911, when she lost her eyesight by a sudden paralysis of the optic nerves. On December 12, 1912, she had a stroke of paralysis from which she never recovered, although she retained her faculties until almost the end. Becoming unconscious a few days ago she sank to rest on March 1, 1913, falling asleep quietly as a child. She had reached the age of 88 years, 3 months and 19 days. She leaves to mourn her loss three children - J. M. Cutler, Westdale, N. Y., Mrs. Helen Sewell, Wayne, Nebr., and Herbert Cutler, Newton, Iowa, the two latter being twins. There are eight grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren, he will miss the love and prayers of their godly grandma. Shortly after coming to Wayne Mrs. Cutler united with the Presbyterian church by letter, and has been one of the most faithful and consistent of members. As long as she has been able she delighted to attend the services of the church and then confined to her home by the going infirmities of age she retained her interest in the sacred cause. Her own personal life as a genuinely Christian, and her character matured as the years passed by. During the year of darkness she bore her affliction patiently and uncomplainingly, knowing that she would soon open her eyes again in the eternal Kingdom of light. Full of years, her work altogether completed, having won her crown of glory, she has passed from earth to heaven, leaving the fragrance of a true life to bless her children and her children's children.

"Thus another life is ended and another form is gone, To enter in those realms of heaven and join the angel throng, We will miss her cheery welcome; we will miss her kindly smile, But she's gone from us now only for a little while; Gone to meet her God in heaven and the dear one gone before; Short will be the time of waiting, oh so soon 'twill all be o'er, Then we too will cross the river and we'll meet her on that shore, Where we'll dwell in peace and gladness evermore, for evermore."

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our mother, Mrs. Mary E. Cutler. H. A. Sewell and family.

WOODROW WILSON

The People's President—Inaugurated March 4, 1913

The Wilson Cabinet

Secretary of State—William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

Secretary of Treasury—William G. McAdoo of New York.

Secretary of War—Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.

Attorney General—James McReynolds of Tennessee.

Postmaster General—Representative Albert S. Burleson of Texas.

Secretary of the Navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.

Secretary of the Interior—Franklin K. Lane of California.

Secretary of Agriculture—David A. Houston of Missouri.

Secretary of Commerce—Representative William C. Redfield of New York.

Secretary of Labor—Representative William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania.

The Inaugural Address

of President Wilson was one that appeals to every loyal citizen as words from the heart. He asks the people to assist him in reforming the great evils which all know exist. Below are a few striking excerpts from the address:

"There has been a change of government. It means more than the success of a party. The nation seeks to use the democratic party to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward looking men to my side. God helping me I will not fail them if they will but counsel and sustain me.

This is the high enterprise of the new day; to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearth-fire of every man's conscience and vision of right.

We shall restore; not destroy. Justice and only justice shall always be our motto.

We know our task to be no mere task of politics.

There can be no equality of opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politics, if the men, women and children are not shielded in their lives from the industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control or singly cope with.

The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves.

Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it."

The Cradle.

Social Notes

On Tuesday evening the Shakespeare club enjoyed a patriotic program and entertained the Monday club and their husbands in a very delightful manner at the home of Miss Nettie Craven. The rooms were artistically arranged in the national colors, flags and bunting together with red carnations were profusely used in the decorations. The program was opened with the reading of an excellently prepared paper on Shakespear's men. Mrs. M. A. Phillips then gave an interesting as well as instructive talk on American Art. Next Miss Jewell told in rhyme of the women who had reigned in the white house, as well as of the present "first lady of the land," her verses being entirely original. Miss Fairchild then conducted a drawing contest in which the ladies were given drawing paper and pencil and while national airs were being played, each one drew a picture of the thoughts this music brought to them. The brave and "stirring" scenes imagined by some created much merriment. Mrs. D. C. Main won the prize in this contest. Miss Mammie Wallace called forth much laughter by telling of the glorious Fourth of July in Irish dialect. Mrs. Littell next gave a humorous account of Inaugural ceremonies, depicting in burlesque form the proceedings of inauguration day. This was greatly enjoyed. As a fitting climax to this excellent program eight pupils of Miss McBeth of the Normal were present in colonial costume and danced the minut much to the delight of all present. The party was then served an elaborate two-course repast which had been prepared by the hostess. The evening is spoken of by those entertained, as one of rare enjoyment and the energetic workers of this progressive club are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts.

Mrs. Geo. Crossland presented the advance Sunday school lesson in a most instructive way at the meeting of the Bible Study Circle at Mrs. J. J. Coleman's Wednesday afternoon. There were a number of visitors present and all expressed hearty appreciation of the excellent work being accomplished by this body of noble women. Mrs. Fredrickson favored the circle with a vocal solo, "Unanswered Yet" at the close of the afternoon. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Kiplinger and a large attendance is expected.

The J. B. C's. had a most enjoyable time at the home of Miss Iva Laase Saturday evening. Sixteen girls wended their way through the drifted snow to the home promptly at seven to study the seventh chapter of John. Miss Louise Biegler had charge of the lesson and presented it in a most fascinating manner. The president, Miss Iva, was presented with a birthday booklet. A sleigh ride concluded the exercises for the evening. The next meeting will be with Ella Benshoof on Friday with Lillian Johnson as leader.

The Tuesday club met with Mrs. Naffziger this week and responded to roll call by naming wild flowers of Nebraska. Mrs. L. A. Fanake then gave an excellent paper on "Nebraska in Literature and Art." The hostess also served a delicious two-course luncheon at the close of the program. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. A. R. Davis.

The P. E. O. Sisterhood held their regular meeting and election of officers at the home of Mrs. Wm. Mellor Monday evening. Mrs. T. B. Heckert was elected as president. The delegates and alternates to the state meeting, elected were Mrs. Heckert and Miss Nangle and Mesdames H. C. Fisher and H. F. Wilson.

The U. D. club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. E. Hufford. An interesting review on "The Man Without a Country" by Dr. Edward Everett Hale was given by Mrs. J. H. Kemp. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. C. H. Fisher.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar at the church parlors on March 15th when dainty little articles will be for sale such as handpainted place cards and pictures and Japanese articles. Refreshments will also be served in Japanese style.

Mrs. M. S. Davies was hostess to the Acme club Monday afternoon when a very interesting current event meeting was held. The next meeting will be a demonstration in domestic science, given by Miss Pettit at her class room at the Normal.

The Minerva club met with Mrs. Roe Tuesday afternoon. The subject of the lesson was "Poverty" Mrs. U. S. Conn being leader. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Fred Berry will entertain the club in two weeks.

The regular meeting of the O. E. S., will be held Monday evening, March 10th. A large attendance is desired as it is the time for annual payment of dues. A short program will be given in connection with the meeting.

The Monday club met with Mrs. C. C. Kiplinger this week and devoted the afternoon to a quotation contest and general sociability. Mrs. D. C. Main will be hostess at the next meeting.

Mrs. Henry Ley will entertain the Early Hour club at a six-thirty dinner this evening.

The Social Circle will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Fred Winther March 13th.

Miss Reba Nangle was hostess to the Bridge Whist club this week.

School Notes

The Entertainment tonight. On Monday Elma Duncan entered the seventh grade, Maude North the fifth grade and Earl Thompson the second grade.

Mesdames Tharp, Shirts, Lutz and Miss Burson were recent visitors.

On Tuesday after school the grammar grade boys played a game of basket ball with the model school boys in which the latter won by a score of 23 to 11. It was a nice game.

At a called meeting of the board of Education on Saturday evening all the teachers were re-elected.

At the meeting of the board of education it was decided to close the schools on Friday, March 28th, so that the teachers can attend the North Nebraska Teachers' association which meets at Norfolk at this time.

The following table shows the per cent of attendance and punctuality for the month ending February 28th:

Grade	Attend.	Punct.
Kindergarten	91	90
First	94	100
Second	97	99.9
Third	97	99
Fourth	99.3	100
Fifth	99.7	100
Sixth	97.8	98.9
Seventh	96.2	100
Eighth	96.1	99.8
High School	96.5	99.6
Average	96.40	98.8

On Wednesday morning C. M. Christensen presented the cash prizes to the winners in the essay contest. Raymond Fox won first prize, $15.00, Edward Jones won second prize, $10.00 and Hays Main won third prize, $10.00. The third best high school essay won over the third best state normal essay and this is the prize won by Hays Main. A great deal of interest was shown in the contest and all were amply repaid for the time and energy given to it whether they won a prize or not.

Assessors Appointed

So lightly do the people of this good county consider the glory of holding office that nine of the precinct assessors elected to find out what their neighbors are worth for taxation purposes failed to qualify in the time named by the law. This made it necessary for the county assessor to make appointments to fill the vacancies, and the county commissioners then pass upon the names and affirm or reject. Below is a list of the men appointed by Assessor Carter, and the commissioners passed on them Tuesday:

C. W. Lowry, Winside; John Leuck, Plum Creek; C. W. Anderson, Garfield; John C. McDonald, Sherman; E. A. Surber, Wilbur; M. S. Linn, Deer Creek; A. E. Gildersleeve, Brenna; P. M. Corbit, Hunter; Amos Long, Leslie.

Is Now Showing The Latest Edison's New Diamond Point Reproducer and BLUE AMBEROL RECORDS...

The Edison Blue Amberol Record is Mr. Edison's latest development of the four-minute record. The term "four-minute" is used because the record has a playing length of from four to four and one half minutes when compositions are long enough to fill it. The important new features of this record are its durability and elimination of wear on the surface.

To all intents and purposes, the new record is practically unbreakable. Its wearing qualities are remarkable. At the Edison Laboratory, a Blue Amberol Record has been played three thousand times, and the last reproduction was as good as the first. A Blue Amberol can be played as often as desired without any apprehension that its playing qualities will be diminished, nor any fear that it will be broken through careless handling.

The diamond point producer is so constructed to produce a fuller tone and bring out the overtones with greater definition and a wealth of detail.

The reproducing point is a genuine diamond highly polished and rounded to perfectly fit the grooves in the record.

The Use of Canned Goods

The Peeling Processes:—The original method for peeling fruit such as peaches is the "Knife Peeling" process. This work is done by hand and the skins are removed, without injury to the acids or flavor of the fruit. It is a slower process than the "Lye Peeling" process commonly used, but it is better to "lose the time than to lose the fruit flavor." After the fruit is knife peeled every piece is carefully washed in cold running water. It is placed in the cans, piece by piece, instead of being thrown in and bruised as is done by some; the syrup, of pure cane sugar is run into the cans. Then a partial or first cooking is given the cans containing the fruit. Canneries Wanting Table Quality Use Sanitary Cans Only; then the cans containing the fruit are run through live steam, each variety of fruit given sufficient time to thoroughly cook it. After coming from the steam cookers, the cans are allowed to cool off, and are then "Lacquered" to prevent rust. The labels are then put on and as fine fruit as can be produced is ready for the consumers and merchants who are looking for "Real Quality in Fruit." Beaman's ever increasing business is the final proof of whether it pays to handle quality goods. The "Lye Peeling Process" will be explained next week.

L. A. McFalla and wife returned to their home at Granite Falls, Minnesota, Monday after a few days visit at the home of Alex and H. Suhr near Wayne, and with their many old friends. They moved to Granite Falls two years ago and report that they like their new home well. Last season they were favored with good crops, and prosperity tends toward contentment.

L. R. Bellows, acting for the Carroll school board last week purchased the old Baptist church, which is to be fitted to furnish additional schoolroom to meet the needs of the numerous young members of the rising generation in that growing place. The building cost $400, and if at all suitable for the purpose, is money well spent, for $400 won't put up much of a building these days.

J. C. Stagner and wife, who have been visiting for a month past at the home of her brother, J. M. Roberts, left Monday morning for their home at Martinsville, Missouri. Mr. Stagner thinks that Wayne county is one of the best farm countries he has ever seen. He was especially impressed with the great acreage that is devoted to corn growing—it being far in excess of that of his home country.

For the consolation of these who favor steam rather than oil, we will note that F. R. Lintner, who came to Hartington last week to take charge of the electric light works of that place, has commenced to talk of putting in steam and will establish a day service if 100 h. p. is assured. That is, he will change to steam in that event—or put in a larger oil engine. That is the way the News quotes him.

"Dr. H. M. Wilson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of St. Paul, Minnesota, recently wrote letters of inquiry to fifty average young men of that city as to their notion of the ideal girl for a wife. Those who answered the doctor were generally agreed that the right sort of girl to tie to for life must be healthy of mind and body, industrious, intelligent, independent of thought, and not devoted to dancing, bridge, whist, ostentatious hats or the habit of chewing gum in public. The average St. Paul young man will have to come to Nebraska to find his ideal, and ten chances to one, she won't have him.—Bixby."—Yes, and there are some here who won't measure up to specifications.

Mrs. F. H. Evernham came Saturday night to join her mother and brother at their new home on the Norton farm just southeast of Wayne. Mrs. Pritchard's son came last week from Glenwood, Iowa, to take possession of the farm and get settled, the daughter visiting a few days at Tekamah. We bespeak for these people a cordial welcome to their Nebraska home.

March certainly came in like a lion, and we hope the other end of the old saying comes true. And we wish to remark that the ground hog made no mistake when he pulled the hole in after him on the second of last month. All of our real winter has been since that time. That has been the great objection in this climate in the past and it is very apt to continue. One warm day does not make spring here. It is an apparent struggle for two months between winter and summer—with winter in the lead most of the time.

Mayor Kate was mailing a bunch of his good eggs to Holdrege last week, and was showing the Democrat force how fine they were. Large, white, clean and uniform in appearance, they are certainly nice. They came from his Minorca pen. Mr. Kate feeds good wheat almost exclusively to his hens, and is of the opinion that a hen fed on wheat produces the best egg that ever was. He says that he can pick out his eggs from others if they are all broken into the same dish. This was Mr. Kate's first experience in sending hen fruit by post. I. C. Trumbauer has been supplying a few friends at Sioux City with fresh eggs from his place, and he says that the people appreciate a strictly fresh egg—something which is hard to get even in so small a place as Sioux City.

Do you ever stop, while exuberating day after day, week upon week and month upon month in this glorious clime, to think that just over the hills to the east it is all ice and snow and marrow chilling winds? Perhaps only the new comer can appreciate the delightfulness of this Southern California climate; good for rich and poor, white, black or brown. After spending forty years of ones life time counting the days and weeks of winter—longing for spring, and usually a very wet, very dry or disagreeable spring at that. Then storms, floods, cyclones and excessive heat until the winter came again—makes this Italian climate, of neither summer nor winter, fill a fellow's soul as full of joy as any promised land across the unknown deep.—Goldie.

J. A. Ernest, who has been carrying mail on one of the rural routes out of this place for the two years past, has resigned to go to Page to farm, himself and sister-in-law, Miss L. A. Lush, having each purchased 160 acres near Page. James Steele is his successor on the route, a young man who is in every manner qualified. Monday evening Mr. Ernest went to Carroll to visit his mother before going to his new home. Tuesday and Wednesday were busy days, loading his car for the trip. Mr. Ernest is planning to grow stock, and will start in a dairy with a herd of ten cows. His land will grow good alfalfa, judging from what some of his neighbors have demonstrated, and the man who lectured here Saturday evening about Texas said that our Nebraska land what will raise alfalfa is worth $500 per acre, if we only knew its value. Many Wayne county friends wish these families prosperity.

The North Nebraska Teachers' Association is to be held in the city of Norfolk Friday and Saturday March, 28 and 29. This annual meeting has always proved to be the most helpful meeting of the year for our teachers. The executive committee is working hard to make the 1913 meeting the best one ever held. That great orator, Bishop W. A. Quayle of St. Paul, Minnesota is to lecture on Friday evening. For the general programs we are to have our own state superintendent, James E. Delzell, Chancellor C. A. Fulmer, Dr. J. R. Gettys and Hon. A. H. Viede of the State Normal Board, President U. S. Conn and Professor Eugene Knox. The sectional meetings on Friday afternoon are to be filled with good things. Is it asking too much of the county superintendents, school board officials and city superintendents that they insist upon their teachers being present at this meeting? Many school boards are giving Friday on full pay. Others give the teachers an opportunity of making up the day. However it may be, for the help that will come directly to the schools, it should be planned to have teachers attend.

Don't Delay

It is a well known fact that 90 per cent of the diseases in hogs are caused by worms.

Hundreds of thousands of hogs die every year from diseases which are primarily caused by WORMS. Worms sap the strength and vitality from your hogs and make them easy victims to Cholera and other fatal diseases.

In the CHAMPION WORM EXPELLER, we have an expeller that does not go to either extreme. Its action is so gentle that worms are removed ALIVE and yet it is absolutely POSITIVE in its results. It not only expels the worms that are already dead, but it expels live worms inside of twenty to thirty hours after it has been fed.

We GUARANTEE the CHAMPION WORM EXPELLER and your money will be cheerfully refunded to you if you are dissatisfied with the results. If so desired we are able to furnish you with the names of several prominent farmers in this County, who will gladly tell you of their experience with the worm expeller. Price $1.50 a can. Sold only at this store.

MIDDLEMAN AND RETAILER

Extracts from an Article by Mike Kinney, Teamster and Editor, in The Gimlet.

Has it ever occurred to you just why there has been so much written in the newspapers and magazines about the extortionate profits of the middle man? Have you ever wondered why almost every publication that comes to your home takes a shot at the poor retail merchant? If you do not know, let me give you the answer. It is—ADVERTISING. The great metropolitan newspapers, the farm journals, and the hundreds of magazines that are published, cannot and do not expect any advertising patronage from the retail merchant. Their advertising comes from mail order houses, from manufacturers, and from department stores that are seeking to deal with the consumer direct. Therefore these papers contain articles encouraging the consumer in every section of the country to send his money to some faraway merchant and thus save the profit of the retail dealer at home.

The subscription price of practically all newspapers and magazines shows a loss. Often this subscription price would not pay for the amount of plain white paper used in the magazines or newspapers you receive. All of the profits of these publications come from advertising, and so it is to their interest to constantly work for a system of distribution that will lead to more advertising.

If all goods were bought by the consumer from his local store, there would only be advertising in the local paper. Such a method of distribution, of course, would not suit the magazines and newspapers. They therefore, have been for years advocating and endeavoring to build up all kinds of selling plans which lead consumers buying their goods just as far away from home as possible.

ADVERTISING was the reason that all of these publications were so much in favor of parcel post.

ADVERTISING was the reason that it was next to impossible to get any articles opposed to the parcel post in a national daily paper or a magazine.

The parcel post is, of course, in many respects a very good thing.

In many ways it will be a great convenience. We have, however, been promised that it would reduce the cost of living. We have been promised that it would bring the city man and the country man in closer contact. I have been doing a little investigating, and I find that nearly all of the parcel post packages are going from the city man to the country man, while the country man is not sending back any packages to the city man. Packages are going from the city to the country, and money to pay for these packages is coming from the country to the city.

Under the old system the farmer sold all of the products of the farm for spot cash, and bought most of the goods he needed on credit. Under the new system, as planned by the magazines and newspapers, the farmer is to sell his goods direct to the city consumer, without the necessity of any middleman in the shape of a merchant. What I should like to know is, how is the farmer going to secure his city customers? Will the farmer advertise in the newspapers and magazines? Will he send out circulars offering his chickens, eggs, and butter to the city consumer? Will he sell goods to the city consumer only for cash, or will he give credit? If he extends credit, how will he find out about the financial standing of his customers? It would be somewhat of a joke, wouldn't it, if the state of affairs were reversed and the farmer should have to pay cash for all the goods he buys that he needs on the farm, while, in turn, he would have to sell his farm products on credit to the city man? I would like to have a fine large photograph of the farmers of this county selling their products on time to the fellow who lives in the city.

Manufacturers, jobbers, and retail merchants all tell me that they are getting up mail order parcel post catalogues and circulars to be distributed by the million, in order to derive the greatest benefits from parcel post in selling goods.

Now of course I am just a common, ordinary teamster; my intellectual dynamo only runs about half time. But what I would like to figure out, if all the above things are true—and I do not believe they can be disputed—how is the parcel post going to lower the high cost of living? If merchants are to be put to all these expenses they must either lose money, or add the expense to the cost of doing business, and necessarily advance their prices in order to cover the added cost.

Then while I am rambling around in my weak-minded way, suppose we discuss this point: Has it occurred to you that under the old system, when goods were shipped by express or freight, the transportation charges were collected from the consignee? Now when we send goods by parcel post we must buy parcel post stamps, pay cash for them, and attach these stamps to the package, in advance. How are these stamps to be charged for by the merchant. The item is too small for a separate spot cash bill. The stamps, therefore, will probably be charged on the regular invoice for the goods. If a customer takes two or three months' time to pay the regular bill, then the merchant will be out the actual cash stamp investment for this period without any interest or profit in return. If, on the other hand, the merchant allows the cash discount, when the chances are that his customer will deduct the cash discount from the price of the stamps as well as on the price of the goods. As a result, the merchant will have to pay spot cash for parcel post stamps, and then for his trouble he will lose the cash discount on the cash he has advanced.

Wasn't that a beautiful dream that the magazines told about when they described how a farmer could send a dozen eggs by parcel post to his city customers? Just figure out the price of eggs in the country, then add the cost of the special pasteboard box in which the eggs would have to be sent, also the postage on the eggs, together with the loss from breakage, and we think you will find that fresh country eggs would cost our city friends about 7 cents each. I guess it would be cheaper for him to get them from the corner grocery.

The other day I meandered into a drug store and ordered certain chemicals which I happened to know actually cost 11 cents. The druggist charged me 35 cents. I inquired if he hadn't added too much profit. I told him just what the items cost. "My dear sir," answered he, "in this corner drug store we do not pay any attention to the cost of the chemicals in the drugs—that is the smallest part of our expense. We are selling you the high rental of a drug store on a convenient corner, electric light, furnace heat, free telephone service, stamps sold at cost, a meeting place for the neighborhood, a place where you can stand on a cold day and wait for your car, free seats, free newspapers. Not only that, but we are prepared to tell you what is good for dyspepsia, toothache, indigestion, lumbago; in fact, we prescribe, free of charge, for most human ills. It is for this class of service that we charge—the drugs that we dispose of are simply incidentals." Well brother, don't you think this drug-gist was about right? At the same time, it is just like you and me to accept all these conveniences and accommodations and then kick if a fly happens to light in our soda water.

Did it ever occur to you, when you happened to want anything and needed it in a hurry, what it costs to have this particular item all ready for your use at a store just around the corner?

I remember a case where a city took issue with an electric lighting plant on account of their charges for their service. The electric lighting plant showed, in cold figures, what it cost them to be prepared at all times to serve that city with electric light. It was a most interesting exhibit. When the sun was shining brightly and the days were long, that city did not want much electric juice. If, however, a storm suddenly blew up and darkness came upon the city, then everybody expected to turn on his electric light. When the storm was over and the sun came out again, he turned off the juice. "Now," said this lighting plant, "we have to have in reserve all the time enough power to take care of these sudden and unexpected demands; we have to be ready to serve every minute of the day and night. This readiness to serve costs money, and we can only get our money back by changing it in the price of juice."

In my fashion, I am in this article making a plea for the retail merchant. He must be ready to serve you with anything you want in his line on a moment's notice. Isn't it really wonderful that you can walk into a retail hardware store, call for almost any item in hardware, if you wish a pocket knife of a peculiar style, there it is—it has just been waiting for you to call for it. Then the merchant takes it out of the case and waits while you lean with your elbow on the glass counter and paw it all over. You smear your greasy hands all over its beautifully polished blades; you blow your breath on the blade to see whether the steel is good or not. Probably you inspect fifteen or twenty knives before you finally decide to invest 50 cents. In the meanwhile the merchant patiently shows you his stock, and tells you the entire history of the manufacture of cutlery from the time of Pharaoh down to the present date.

Maybe after consuming thirty minutes of this merchant's time you smile sweetly and tell him you will think it over and drop in again tomorrow. Maybe before leaving his store you go to the telephone and have a chat with your best girl, and also borrow a stamp to mail a letter. Or, perhaps, you ask if he won't loan you a pipe wrench for awhile. Then if you are real smart the proper thing is to go home, send an order to a mail order house for a pocket knife, cash in advance, and take your chances on whether the steel is good or not, when the knife arrives.

Then let us reflect, that after all of the hard work he does, after all the chances he takes, after all the impositions to which he patiently submits, after all the bad accounts he accumulates on his books, after all the knowledge of the business that is necessary to follow up fashions and fads and have the goods on hand when the consumers call for them, after all the abuse he receives as a middleman from the magazines and the daily press, it stands out as a fact in the commercial reports, that ninety-five out of every one hundred retail merchants make a failure in business. This is a horrible record, but there it is. One reason retail merchants fail is that they do not realize what all these incidentals cost in doing business. They do not add these outsider things to the cost of their goods. They are not like the drug store man referred to. They think that all they are selling is hardware. They do not realize that they are selling hardware plus service, and that one costs just as much as the other.

YOU Keep The Change

IT is now nearly two years since the Nebraska Democrat became the property of the present owners, and during that time we have not been in position to make any aggressive campaign for new subscribers, but we have been carefully studying the different plans of introducing the paper to new people with a view of selecting the plan which will appeal to the greatest number with the greatest force. Nine out of ten people notice an appeal to the pocket book as quickly as any place—it is the spot we wish to reach, and yet reach it to your advantage. So we decided some weeks ago to make a month test for our second anniversary in Wayne of

A Special Subscription Offer

This offer is the most liberal, we believe, ever made by a newspaper in this county, or this part of the state. It is a CASH offer, and will be open to all who take advantage of it at any time from now until

Here is another method of computing interest on any number of dollars at six per cent, which appears simple. Multiply any given number of dollars by the number of days interest desired, separate the right hand figure and divide by six, the result is the true interest for such sum for such number of days at six per cent. This rule is so simple and so true according to all business uses, that every banker, merchant and clerk should post it up for reference. There being no such thing as a fraction in it, there is scarcely any liability to error or mistake. By no other arithmetical process can the desired information be obtained by so few figures.

The Pujo committee reported that there is a money trust—thought so all the time, and glad it is proved on them; for it may now be broken.

To jail the trust law breakers is proper under present law, and popular under present conditions—but it does not kill the effect of laws which foster monopoly. We license a saloon, and punish the man who runs it for violation of the law—we punish the patron for violation of the law that is broken because of the license. We have laws which breed and foster monopoly, and another law to punish the one who sins to a certain extent by taking advantage of the opportunity to monopolize.

Let us hope that the people placed at the head of government will do much in the next four years to shear great interests of the monopoly which they now have of natural resources. With millions of acres of rich coal land held idle by monopoly people are held up for coal—the labor that mines it is held on low wages and scant employment while the mine owners and the transportation companies grow fat on profits. What is true of coal is true of iron, copper, zinc and lead as well as oil and other natural product, including water. Blot out monopoly.

One of the brave things which congress did, whether wise or not, was to pass the Webb bill, which prohibits the shipment of intoxicants from the liquor producing states to the prohibition states. If this law shall be rigidly enforced, making prohibition prohibit, we will soon learn whether or not the people of those states want prohibition. There are those who claim that there is much hypocrisy among those who shout for this law, and that many of them are wanting prohibition for the other fellow. This is doubtless true of a small part of those who clamor for the law, but there is but little doubt but that class of reformers are few in number and growing less.

This is a week for the people in general and the democrats in particular to rejoice. As we view it the people are coming to the first fruits of a great victory over the common enemy—the great monopolies and special interests. When we say the first fruits of a great victory we mean that the entering wedge for better conditions has been started, and the full fruits of the victory will only come after repeated pounding has driven the wedge home and split asunder the great monopolies which are enslaving both consumer and producer. The watered stock must cease to return money wrung from labor—the physical valuation must be the basis of dividends—the unearned increment must remain with the people, and before that end is accomplished it will be seen that the fight is now in its infancy.

See that butterfly? It has flown from a number of big warehouses in great quantities quite recently. The why is now guessed. The government has found vast quantities of it adulterated. Butter made in Nebraska, Iowa and a number of other states has failed to come up to the standard in such quantity that it is evident that it was purposely adulterated. There is but little doubt but that many prosecutions will follow. The adulteration was comparatively harmless, but very dishonest. Standard butter is allowed to carry 16 per cent, or one-sixth, of water—and that should suit any manufacturer in quantity, one would think. But it appears not, and they have gone beyond the limit. Glad to see them made to pay for the dishonesty and the fine is $5,000. Then while they are at it we hope to see the fellows who are adulterating food with substances injurious to the health of consumers both fined and placed in prison. Adding water to butter is comparatively harmless.

Rev. D. W. MacGregor, pastor of the M. E. church at Tokamah, spent Monday with his daughter, who is a student at the Normal.

Miss Alwine H. Meyer, assistant principal of the Carroll schools, was a visitor, Monday and engaged a room at Terrace hall for the summer session.

At convocation Monday morning Professor Lewis gave a talk on current events. Among the topics discussed were the Mexican situation, the inaugural ceremonies and recent congressional legislation.

President Conn has the acceptance of John Merritte Driver of Chicago to deliver the commencement address on May 29th. Mr. Driver was formerly pastor of the People's Church, Chicago, and he is ranked as one of the best pulpit orators on the lecture platform.

Several weeks ago Mr. C. M. Christensen offered three cash prizes open to young men enrolled in the state normal school. For the best essay on the subject, "Why Do Men Buy Life Insurance," a prize of $15 in gold was offered; for the second best essay on the same subject $10 in gold; and for the third best a prize of $10, open to students of both the Normal and the High School. The judges were Superintendent J. H. Kemp, Dr. Alexander Corkey and Mr. W. D. Redmond. The judges awarded the first prize to Alfred H. Lewis, the second prize to John Rockwell and third place was won by Hayes Main of the Wayne High School. Mr. Christensen appeared on the chapel platform Wednesday morning and awarded the prizes in accordance with the decision of the judges.

The pupils of the training school have recently been studying the shoemaking industry. In addition to the regular class work, Clifford Penn, one of the normal students, who knows the art of shoe making in all of its details, having worked in five different shoe factories in Ohio, two in Missouri, and in the factories of St. Paul and Omaha, talked to the pupils about the actual work as he saw it done in these factories. Such work is in line with the purpose of the management of the training school, to introduce as rapidly as possible industrial and vocational material, and thus abandon the narrow, traditional education which consists exclusively of literary and scientific interests. Eighty-five per cent of the boys and girls now in school will be engaged in occupations other than the so-called learned professions. To give the eighty-five per cent an equal footing with the fifteen per cent is our purpose in attempting to reorganize the work in the Wayne Normal Training School.

On the evening of March 21st, in the chapel of the State Normal School, there will be a contest between the Philomathean and Crescent literary societies. The persons selected to represent the societies in this contest are: Essay—Eugenia Madsen representing Crescent and Hazel Peet Rand representing Philo; Reading—Martha J. Woosley representing Philo and Mabel H. Banks representing Crescent; Oration—Albert R. H. Miller representing Crescent and Alfred H. Lewis representing Philo; Debate—Jennie Sabin representing Philo and Tracy Kohl representing Crescent. The complete program follows:

Put the Boys to Work

One of the penalties of prosperity is idleness for the youth. And it is this idleness that breeds folly and indiscretion and sometimes vice.

In an age of hard times, when boys have to work, there are less wild oats sown. Money has been the bane of many a man—and money is likewise the undoing of many a man's son.

No matter how secure a man's bank account may be, it is the part of wisdom to keep the boys busy.—Norfolk News.

Report of Nebraska Boys

Corn Growing Contest.

One-hundred and twenty-five Nebraska boys between the ages of ten and twenty-one entered the Acre Corn Growing contest in 1912. Forty-seven of this number completed the contest and sent in their affidavits of yield at the end of the year. The yields ranged from ten bushels to one-hundred and nine bushels per acre. The average yield made by the boys completing the contest was fifty-eight bushels per acre. The average made by the twelve boys winning prizes in the Western Division was fifty-seven bushels per acre and by the twelve boys in the eastern division, eighty bushels per acre.

From information furnished by the boys we find that eighty grew corn on ground which had been in some leguminous crop for one or more years previous to the contest. They secured an average yield of seventy-seven bushels per acre. Thirteen of the boys applied manure in the spring of 1912 and secured an average yield of sixty bushels per acre. This makes a total of twenty-one boys growing their corn either after a legume or on ground to which manure had been applied, securing an average yield of sixty-six bushels per acre. Twenty-six boys did not apply manure and the land they used for their corn had not the advantage of a leguminous crop in previous years. Their average yield was fifty-one bushels per acre, or fifteen bushels per acre less than was secured by the boys using farm manure or ground previously seeded to some leguminous crop, such as alfalfa or clover.

The Department will conduct another contest during 1913. Seven hundred dollars in prizes will be offered by the Union Stock Yards company of South Omaha. Any boy in the state of Nebraska between the ages of ten and twenty-one is entitled to enter. No entry fee is charged. The boy must do all the work himself and must comply with all the rules of the contest.

A set of these rules will be sent to anybody making request of the Agricultural Extension Department, University Farm, Lincoln, Nebraska.

A Town You Should Reach.

The pleasant town of Get There lies far up a rocky hill, across the sands of Courage and above the swamp of Will. The path that leads to Get There leaves the pleasant thoroughfare and wanders off 'mid rocks that grind and briar vines that tear. And thousands pass along the road that leads to Nowhereville and grumble at the few who climb to Get There on the hill, and others start the 'thorny path and seek the town to gain, but falter at the swamp of Will and turn them back in pain. Oh, happy town of Get There, shining in the morning sun, you only show the toiler how yet higher peaks are won! The truest recompense you give for self denying years is but the promise old, yet new, that conquers doubts and fears. Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
 Rev. Wm. Gorst, Pastor
 Attend the Tea and Talk this afternoon by the aid society at Prof. Britell's, "Talk at three and "Tea" later.
 The pastor will preach Sunday morning on the topic "The Gospel of Christ as the Power of God," and goes to Randolph for the evening to preach the closing sermon of the eight day service in connection with the dedication of the new church. This opens the way to a very useful and popular Lay preacher of our own number to speak at the evening service at Wayne. Prof. I. H. Britell will conduct the service and will speak from Psalm 36:6, his theme being "The World a Revelation of God in Type and Character."
 Passion week will be observed by services each evening from 7:45 to 8:45, March 17 to 23, concluding with suitable Easter Sunday services. The week will be given to a consideration of "His last week". So far as possible the whole congregation should attend all of these services. Program later.

Baptist Church
 Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor
 The Communion service last Sunday was well attended. One young man was given the hand of church fellowship and one young woman publicly confessed her faith in Christ. A splendid interest was manifested at the evening service.
 On next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the subject, "The Power of a Converted Life." The evening subject will be "An Old Tes. Question with a new Tes. Answer."
 At 6:30 the young people's meeting holds its session. The subject is, "Obeying Conscience," and Miss Angie Fish will be the leader.

 We have the promise of Dr. Mills, that Dr. Grossbeck, one of our strongest foreign missionaries, will be with us one evening during our meetings just preceding Easter. We are fortunate indeed in having such a privilege. Definite date will be made known later. We hope to have services every evening of Passion Week, beginning on the 17th of March until the 21st.
 Mr. Carl Hollenbeck's place as leader of the Boy Scouts, is being filled by Mr. Clarence Linten. We rejoice that we can thus fill the vacancy so nobly. Mr. Hollenbeck has done a splendid work with the boys. But we are fortunate in having Mr. Linten to take up the work and we believe it will continue to grow under his direction.
 On March 16th we hope to have a general missionary rally. It will be the hundredth anniversary of the birth of that great missionary explorer, David Livingstone. We want to commemorate this event and catch some of the spirit of service that constrained this noble hero.
 A cordial welcome to all our services.

Presbyterian Church
 Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.
 "Mighty Men of God in American History" is the subject of sermons which the pastor is giving on Sabbath evenings. Last Sunday evening he began the series with a discourse on "Billy" Sunday, the mightiest force for righteousness in America today. After showing how God always has his man ready for the crisis in history the speaker told the varied and interesting story of Dr. Sunday's life, calling attention to his connection with the original Yankee stock. His great-grandfather fought in the Revolutionary war, and his own father died a soldier in the civil war. He is related by blood with the family of U. S. Grant. Altho' a patriot of the patriots Dr. Sunday is unsparing in his denunciation of the average American citizen. He claims that he is devoid of moral principle and that the noble type of earlier citizenship in American life has been supplanted by the good-for-nothing, whiskey-soaked, rum-guzzling, grafting politician of our time. His victories in the moral field are won by his tremendous personality, his attacks on the individual, and his ability to arouse Christian people to active work in leading others to the Christian life. Next Sunday evening the subject of the sermon will be "Dwight L. Moody, the Business Man's Evangelist."

The morning service begins at 10:30 a. m., and the evening service at 7:30. The Sunday school meets at 12 and the C. E. society at 6:30 p. m.
 On Saturday afternoon, March 15th, the ladies of the church will hold a bazaar in the lecture room of the church. There will be a fine display of work and also of some Japanese art and lace. Refreshments in Japanese style will be served. In connection with the bazaar the young people will give a candy sale.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
 (Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.)
 The Ladies' Aid society will hold their bazaar on Saturday of this week. In the afternoon lunch will be served and oysters in the evening. Useful and fancy articles will be on sale. We trust the people will be liberal in their patronage.
 The catechism class was held on Tuesday afternoon. It was stormed out Saturday.
 The Rev. W. L. Kahse preached an excellent sermon for us on last Sunday. He ably presented the claims of Midland College of Atchison, Kansas, of which he is the field secretary. He showed that the institution was in a flourishing state, being equipped with ample accommodations and an able and experienced corps of teachers, but was in need of a larger endowment. This college is in part supported by our Synod and hence it proved very interesting to our people. We were very sorry, however, that more of our people could not have heard this discourse. But our people will not forget Midland College.

The Ladies' Aid society will hold their next regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Hurstead.
 Our services next Sunday will be held at the usual hours, Sunday school at 10 a. m., and preaching services at 11 a. m.
 The Sunday school is beginning to make preparations for a special program to be given on Easter Sunday evening.
 The pastor visited at the home of his youngest sister in Sioux City on Monday. He had not been to the city since the fall of 1870.

 The pavilion sale last Saturday was good in spite of weather conditions which were not favorable to a large crowd. Some one should have bid another nickle, for that would have made even money. As it was the sale totaled only $4,999.95—another five cent piece would have made $5,000. Owing to the demand for stock and the material offered because of moving from one place to another, etc., there will be a sale held again this week Saturday afternoon.
 Say, we are requested to remind the public and the city council that there should be some better arrangement made for giving a fire alarm should fire occur in the latter part of the night, as frequently does happen. Some say that the fire bell is now located so that it is not at all convenient to get to in case of fire; and also that if it is rung where it now hangs no one can hear it, which makes a bad matter worse. Seriously, immediate steps should be taken to provide for a fire alarm which may be available and efficient.
 Harold Christopher, who came to this county from Moline, Illinois, a year ago and from Sweden a year before that, and has made his home with Victor Carlson and family for the past year, left Tuesday for Concord where he will begin work in a general store with a view of entering the mercantile business later. Mr. Christopher is making rapid progress in the language of his adopted country and is industrious and a fine singer, which helps him in winning a place in the hearts of the people.
 Saturday, March 1st being Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rimel's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, a surprise was planned by their daughter, Mrs. C. R. Nelson, but owing to bad weather it was postponed until Monday evening when about thirty of their friends, both young and old, gathered at their home for the evening. The hours were spent in games, music and general sociability, after which a delicious two-course luncheon was served. In behalf of the guests Mr. Henny, with a few fitting remarks presented Mr. and Mrs. Rimel with a set of silver knives and forks, after which all departed extending thanks to their host and hostess for a most pleasant evening and wishing them many happy returns of the day.

Repeat Measure Killed in Senate by One Sided Vote.

DOUGLAS FIGHTS FOR CIRCULARS

Douglas Senator Pushes Bill Preventing Ordinances Prohibiting Their Circulation—Resolution Providing Playgrounds for Convicts Favored.

Lincoln, March 4.—An effort was made in the senate to repeal the state aid bridge bill when Kiechel's bill for that purpose came up in committee of the whole. Senators Kemp, Hoagland of Lincoln, Dodge, Robinson, Ollis and two or three others fought the measure, while Kiechel, Cordell, Heasty and Klein favored it. A roll call was ordered and the bill was killed by a vote of 21 to 8.

Another bill discussed principally by Dodge of Douglas was S. E. 263, which provides that a city may not pass an ordinance prohibiting the distribution of advertising to the residences of a city. Dodge said that Omaha had ordinances recently passed which prohibited any person or any business man from distributing advertising to the homes of that city. He said the ordinance was passed at the behest of the newspapers and was intended to compel the merchants and the politicians to patronize the newspapers. The bill was ordered engrossed for third reading.

A resolution sent over from the house, calling for the appointment of a joint committee consisting of five senators to act with a like committee from the house to inquire into the feasibility of constructing playgrounds and otherwise equipping the state penitentiary for entertainment of the prisoners, was adopted.

Governor Kemp signed his first official papers when he put his signature to a requisition calling for the return to Nebraska from Truckee, Cal., of Frank Hood, wanted in Grand Island for wife desertion.

House Proceedings.

Sugarman saved his nonpartisan judiciary bill when it was almost dead by getting the committee of the whole of the house to postpone action and permit the bill to retain its place on the general file.

The same committee of the whole recommended for passage house roll No. 382 by a majority of the Douglas delegation, providing a double shift for the fire department of South Omaha. House roll No. 1654, by Kneeland, was also recommended for passage. This bill provides that state banks in cities of 25,000 or over shall keep on hand 20 per cent of their deposits and in towns less than that size 10 per cent.

GUS HYERS CLEARED

Charge Against Lincoln Sheriff is Dismissed in Saunders County Court.

Lincoln, March 4.—The trial of Sheriff Hyers of Lincoln, indicted in Sarpy county on the charge of killing Roy Blunt, a young farmer, who was held as hostage by escaping convicts, came to an abrupt end in the district court of Saunders county when County Attorney Bagley of Sarpy county entered a writ of dismissal of the charge. Sheriff Hyers was one of the pursuing party who a year ago, killed two and captured a third of the murderous convicts who had escaped from the penitentiary. In the battle between the posse and the convicts Roy Blunt, who was in the wagon with the convicts, was shot and killed either by members of the posse or one of the men whose hostage he was. Hyers and Chief of Police Briggs of South Omaha were indicted. Briggs previously had been acquitted.

BANK EXAMINERS ORGANIZE

Newly Appointed Officers Confer With Secretary Royce.

Lincoln, March 4.—The new bank examiners met with Secretary Royce of the state banking board and organized for business, each being assigned to the route he will cover during the next two years. All members were present.

All of them were new on the job with the exception of two and were as follows: John Boatman of Morrill; Paul Jones of Benkelman; A. D. Touzalin of Omaha; S. A. Lapp of Nelson; E. H. Mulloway of Albia, reappointed; E. A. Darnett of Arapahoe, reappointed; Eugene Moore of St. Paul; M. C. Wild of Winnetoon; H. C. Van Horn of Pawnee City.

Second Fire at Oak.

Oak, Neb., March 4.—Fire destroyed the postoffice, livery barn, restaurant and pool hall. It started in the livery barn and burned so rapidly that very little was saved, the loss being about $20,000 and was well covered with insurance. This is the second large fire in Oak this winter, and very little of the town is left.

Fire Destroys Oxford Roller Mills.

Oxford, Neb., March 4.—Fire destroyed the Oxford roller mills. Loss, $27,000; insurance, $15,000. Over a carload of flour, several carloads of other materials and a large amount of wheat and corn were destroyed in the mill.

Kinkaid Secures Opening of Reserve.

Washington, March 4.—Representative Kinkaid finally succeeded in securing a proclamation for opening to homestead entry the North Platte national reserve in Nebraska and Great counties on or after Oct. 1 next.

FURTHER PROBE OF GIRL PAY

Two Legislative Committees Resume Investigations in Omaha.

Omaha, March 3.—Two house committees of the state legislature began today what will perhaps be their most active work in Omaha. They are the committee investigating the wage conditions of girls and women in the city and the committee investigating the high cost of living.

Both began their work last week and got well started, so that they know how to proceed from this on. The wage-investigating committee, for example, has secured the names of a number of girls who will testify during the week, and also is prepared to command the appearance before the committee of certain of the packers of South Omaha, who have sought to elude the direct questions asked them in a circular letter.

The committee investigating the high cost of living took some interesting testimony in Omaha for a few days last week, and only adjourned in order that the members might get back to Lincoln in time to vote on some important legislation that was to come up during the latter part of the week. This committee expects to work during most of this week in Omaha.

EXEMPTION BILLS UP SOON

Measures Will Probably Be Reached This Week.

Lincoln, March 3.—The exemption bills probably will be reached in the house this week and if they are there will be a lively scrap. Bollen of Knox, head of the judiciary committee, has a measure, which is being pushed, to subject 25 per cent of the wages of a laborer to attachment. McAllister of Dakota has two measures, exempting all the wages of the laboring man and $2,000 to the heads of families who own no real estate. The bills may be discussed together.

Victims of Dewey Hotel Fire Buried.

Omaha, March 3.—While the search for more bodies of victims of the Dewey hotel fire was resumed this morning it has been unrewarded and the officials have given up hope of unearthing any more bodies.

Funeral services for Miss Alice Bonnevie were held from the chapel of Coroner Crosby. The funeral of Renfro H. Rickard was held this afternoon in Brewer's chapel, South Omaha. Charles Cummings, another victim, will be buried tomorrow afternoon in Evergreen cemetery.

Grand Army Encampment at Fremont.

Headquarters of the Nebraska department of the Grand Army of the Republic issued general orders that the thirty-seventh encampment would be held in Fremont, May 20, 21 and 22. Another order issued states that the work of getting the names of all comrades who have resided in the department of Nebraska has been completed and over 20,000 names appear on the record. It is requested that each veteran or some relative contribute some relic of the civil war to the collection now being prepared.

Sorority Girls Have Fright During Fire.

Fire, originating from an unknown cause, in the Alpha Chi Omega sorority house, occupied by state university girl students, caused only nominal damage, but was full of exciting incidents. The fire had gained good headway and smoke was pouring from the windows before discovery was made. The stairway leading from the second story became ignited, and a group of girls found themselves penned in their rooms, from which they were carried down ladders by the firemen.

Beatrice Man Missing.

Beatrice, Neb., March 3.—Ira Lbek, for many years engaged in the furnace business here, is missing, leaving his business affairs in bad shape. He went to Omaha three weeks ago and since which time nothing has been heard from him. His place of business is closed and it is alleged he has left behind debts aggregating $2,000.

State Treasurer's Report.

State Treasurer George has prepared his monthly report for the month of February, which shows a balance on hand of $666,302.14, as against $615,384.29 at the end of last month. The receipts for the month have been $485,215.46 and the expenditures $434,294.61. There is cash on hand of $13,646.68, and on deposit of $652,756.66.

Samuel Warrick Dies at Home in Blair.

Blair, Neb., March 3.—Samuel Warrick, one of the oldest settlers of Washington county, died at the family home in this city after suffering for two weeks with pneumonia. Mr. Warrick was born in Rush county, Indiana, Oct. 18, 1835, and came to Nebraska in the spring of 1857.

Central City Votes School Bonds.

Central City, Neb., March 3.—At a special election held in this city by a majority of five votes it was decided to issue bonds to the extent of $55,000 for the erection of a new high school building and a ward school.

Boy Dies of Scarlet Fever.

Lyons, Neb., March 3.—Theodore, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Peterson, died of scarlet fever. Four more children of the same family have the same disease.

Grace Burton Dies of Injuries.

Omaha, March 4.—Grace Burton, who was badly burned in the Dewey hotel fire, died as a result in the Omaha General hospital. Her home was in Ruthven, Ia.

Chester Church Damaged by Fire.

Chester, Neb., March 3.—The Methodist church here was badly damaged by fire.

College Hill Notes

The Scandinavian society gave its second semi-monthly program on Thursday evening, February 20th. All numbers were well received and most excellently prepared. Messrs. Vennerberg and Christoffer, who are honorary members gave two solos and a duet which were both rendered in Swedish. Also Miss Forsberg gave a Swedish solo. After the program a short business session was held at which it was decided to have a social evening and election of new officers. This meeting will be held March 6th in the evening.

The Basketball Squad Posed for a Picture Last Week.

Professor Lewis spoke on current events in chapel Monday morning.

A number of the young men left this week for their respective homes. As the evidence of spring appears the boys begin to feel their need on the farm.

Mr. McGregor of Omaha visited his daughter, Francis, over Sunday.

A number of theatre parties were formed among the students last Saturday evening.

The Crescent literary society attended the Crystal in a body Friday night to see the Olympic games on the canvas. The display of their penants signified their reserved seats. The performance was enlivened by several of their class yells.

Miss Brown Leifer, who had a severe attack of tonsillitis and was confined to her home a few weeks, returned to her school duties Monday morning.

Crete Convention

The foreign missionary state convention held at Crete February 21, 22 and 23, was attended by one hundred and twenty-three delegates. The visitors were entertained on the Harvard plan and they expressed their appreciation of the hospitality accorded them, by passing a resolution of gratitude at the close of the convention. The State University, Peru, Kearney, Wayne, York, Wesleyan and Union were among the schools represented.

The speakers were Rev. Low from India; Rev. King of Africa and Rev. and Mrs. Ellis from China. These people were fresh from the foreign fields and understood every phase of the work. They explained the habits, character and needs of the people of their respective places, and told how the missionaries are attempting to meet the needs of the natives and settlers. They emphasized the need of well trained men and women in the missionary field and the opportunity to better the conditions of humanity. The government is paying three hundred dollars per year above the ordinary salary of a missionary in Africa for any volunteer, who has completed a four year's course in agriculture, theology or medicine. About forty delegates volunteered to devote their lives to the foreign cause.

In the business meeting held Sunday afternoon, an executive committee was elected to manage the foreign missionary work of Nebraska. In addition to this, a member from the delegation from each school was elected to join the executive committee in forming the committee of the whole. The duty of the latter is to co-operate with the former from the different schools of the state.

Saturday evening, a banquet as tendered the visiting delegates in the basement of the Congregational church. A delegate from each school was called upon to explain the missionary work being done in his school, after which the body was addressed by missionaries from the foreign fields. During intermissions there was a rivalry between the State University, Wesleyan University and Peru to see which one was to sing the last school song or to give the last school yell.

Sunday evening Rev. King presented several stereopticon views showing the conditions and customs in Africa. The meeting closed Sunday evening with a bright outlook for the future.

The above is an article penned by Sidney Johnson, one of our most amiable students of the Wayne State Normal, who attended this meeting as a delegate, representing the school. Mr. Johnson is an energetic and sincere worker.

Church Dedicated at Randolph

Last Sunday was a day long to be remembered by the Methodist people of Randolph, for on that day they dedicated a new $15,000 church with appropriate ceremony. The first move toward a new building was made in December, 1911, when the pastor authorized a canvass for funds, which was the silver jubilee of the organization celebrating the 25th anniversary of the organization, which was the first church organized at Randolph. About $6,000 were subscribed and at an early date the following year a building committee was named. Then came the plans, letting contract and finally their new modern building as it was dedicated free from debt March 2, 1913.

The new structure is not only neat, it is conveniently arranged and modern. It is heated from a boiler in a sub-basement. The basement contains a bath and two toilet rooms, a ladies parlor, a Sunday school secretary's room and a storage room and 1,800 square feet of unobstructed floor which is to be used for gymnasium and dining room. There is also a fully equipped kitchen. The main floor is none the less complete, and in addition to the auditorium there are rooms that may be used for class and a study for the pastor.

Following the dedication was an entire week of meetings devoted to the social and religious services and in the interest of the brotherhood and the sisterhood. Prof. I. H. Britell was on the program for the Brotherhood meeting Tuesday evening and Rev. Gorst is to preach there Sunday evening. It will be a week long to be remembered.

Numerous people are taking advantage of our offer to let them keep the change that otherwise would go to an agent and buying the Democrat, not alone for themselves, but for friends who live away. It is cheaper than writing them the Wayne news—and possibly the friends will get more home news, for while there is nothing so good as a letter from home, the old home paper is next to it and comes more regularly than most people write.

Nebraska's short course in butter-making ended February 23rd, and is the first course of this kind ever held in the state and was declared a success by all who were interested.

In this course there was practical work in butter making and ice cream making, the care and making of starter, and also judging and feeding of dairy cows.

In connection with this were lectures given by the heads of these different branches and there were also lectures given by Professor Bouska and Clup who are second to none in the butter making business.

It would be well for those interested in dairying to write Professor J. H. Frandsen, head of the dairy department at the state farm, as to any phase of this subject in which you are interested and you are sure to receive prompt attention.

Dairying is something every farmer should take an interest in for Nebraska is to become one of the greatest of dairying states. Hence dairying should receive much attention from the farmer as well as the man who produces the finished product of the milk and cream.—Contributed.

The most accessible point of attack of all contagious diseases is the mouth. Here the unfiltered dirt germs find lodgment and are so carried into the system. Children suffering from adenoids compelled to breathe through the open mouth since the nasal passages are closed by these lymphatic sacks which have formed on the nasal mucous membranes. Such children sleep poorly, are nervous, listless, stupid and forgetful. If left go they soon develop open mouths, thick lips, nasal tones and dull eyes. They suffer from catarrhal trouble; ear ache, head ache and are very susceptible to colds. My operation for their removal is simple, harmless and the fee reasonable. Married

Tuesday, March 4, 1913, by County Judge James Britton, Mr. Herman Schnill and Miss Jennie Jones, both of Wayne.

Tuesday, March 4, 1913, by County Judge, James Britton, Mr. Henry Schroeder and Emma L. Wickerstrom. The groom is from Pierce county and the bride came from South So--but they came to a good town to get married, and they start their married life with the new democratic administration, which certainly is a good time to start any worthy undertaking. May they all be happy and prosperous.

Of the retiring president much may be said that is good. He did not see many questions in the same light as did a majority of the people or a majority of the members of congress; and he has shown the courage of his convictions to a marked degree in numerous cases. He wielded a ready veto pen, and in thus setting his opinion against the majority he lost much support--even support of those who admired his course. In the matter of the peace treaties he won many admirers. In his dealings with Mexico in these rebellious times he has been firm and fair--and we believe has turned to the incoming administration a most satisfactory record in dealing with a most delicate question. President Taft evidently prefixed the "ex" to his title with but little regret--and in this respect there are millions of citizens who do not regret that he has the title as it now is. President Taft has made many mistakes, and yet some good things are to his credit.

The wedding march was played by Mr. Ensign Young of this place.

Those present from Wayne were Mrs. C. W. Hiscox, the Misses Violet and Martha Woosley and Ensign Young and they all report a most enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Bessire will be at home to their friends after April 1st, on the Wightman farm, southeast of Laurel, recently vacated by I. O. Burton.

Kelley Henderson says that his experience in raising Duroc-Jerseys convinces him that it pays to raise thoroughbred hogs. He has kept an accurate account of every expense and knows exactly what his profits have been. Some think that it pays as well to raise any old hog, but those who go in for good stuff and keep up the strain, using good judgment in buying are able to show that no man can afford to stick to mixed breeding. The prices at none of Mr. Henderson's sales have been extra high but when a man can get close to top all the time for his stock hogs and then once a year have men come right to his place to buy the surplus and pay him several cents above the market a hundred, he has profit and economical selling combined. In some quarters there is the belief that the expenses of these sales eat up the profit but the expense when divided among a large number of animals makes but a trifle to be realized on each animal. Some breeders spend an enormous amount of money in advertising in farm papers but a good many of them are dropping this item as it is doubtful if the extra bids warrant what it costs to get them. But the man who builds up a good herd for home consumption and buys new blood judiciously should find the undertaking profitable. Catalogues cost but a little and these can be mailed direct to hog men and get better results than extensive farm paper advertising at a small per cent of cost. For the selling of stock in the fall the farm paper advertising is perhaps necessary and probably profitable. The other expenses of clerks, auctioneers, lunch, etc., is not much more than for the average farm sale. There ought to be several good herds of different breeds of hogs in every community to keep up the average standard for few general farmers will give the particular attention needed to keep up the papers necessary to a thoroughbred herd, and this applies with equal force to horses and cattle. Several men in each community would undoubtedly find it profitable to handle thoroughbred stock only, for the average man recognizes the superior qualities of this class of stuff even though they are not directly in the business. Good seed, whether it is corn or oats, or hogs or hens, is the only kind to use if it can be secured.--Coleridge Blade.

Pass the Bridge Bill

Senate File No. 43, now pending before the legislature, is a bill providing for uniform plans and specifications for all bridges to be built by the various counties of the state, and is being so strongly opposed by the interests that would be directly affected that it is desired to appraise the public of its main provisions, these being as follows:

First—The bill provides for uniform plans and specifications, these to be prepared by the state engineer. The plans for a thirty foot bridge to be built in Gage county need be no different than those prepared for a bridge of the same size in Boyd county, since there is a state law defining the carrying capacity of all bridges. But under the system in vogue at present in many counties the plans of some certain bridge company are adopted, and by adopting these plans the company in question is thus given a decided advantage over all competitors in the matter of bidding. By adopting uniform plans prepared by a disinterested party one bidder would stand an equal show with another.

Second—Uniform bidding blanks. Under the provisions of this bill it would be necessary for all bids to be filed on uniform blanks, so that it could be determined at a glance which bid was the lowest.

Third—The county boards would be required to transmit to the state engineer statements showing the cost of all bridges built in the county during the preceding year. If Johnson county should build a thirty foot bridge in 1913, and Hitchcock county desired to build one of the same size in 1914, the county board in the latter county could obtain from the state engineer definite information as to the cost of a bridge of that size, by simply writing to the state engineer, and it could thus be determined whether or not the bids for the new structure in the latter county were too high.

Fourth—The bill provides that the state engineer shall, if called upon by the county board so to do, check the work when completed.

A duplicate set of plans for all the bridges the average Nebraska county might need, would not cost to exceed $10.00.

It is apparent why the bridge companies which have succeeded in having their own plans adopted in various counties should object to this bill. It is also apparent why they should object to bidding on uniform blanks, as well as to that provision of the bill which requires the cost of all bridges to be reported to the state engineer where it would be accessible to all other counties which might desire to build similar bridges in the future. It is apparent, why the bridge companies should object to these features and remain on the ground to oppose their enactment into law. But why some other parties should come to Lincoln from distant sections of the state—come at their own expense? and remain here on their own expense? for several days—just for the privilege of opposing the passage of this bill, which, by the way, went

Wallace's Address to Legislature

"Uncle Henry" Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer and chairman of the Roosevelt Country Life Commission, one of the principal speakers of the Nebraska Conservation Congress, spoke before the legislature by invitation last Friday. Dr. Wallace touched on taxation, good roads, education and the tenant problem. He said that the legislature of Iowa is about to submit a constitutional amendment abolishing the general property tax and apportioning railroad and other corporation tax for purposes of state administration, leaving the county free to make such levy as the voters see fit for local purposes; it is his belief that this method will remove inequalities in taxation due to evasions of the personal property tax.

Speaking of the education system Mr. Wallace declared that a survey of Iowa statistics shows that the million people on the farms furnish but ten per cent of the criminals, while the million and a quarter in the cities furnish ninety per cent. Only one per cent of the young criminals come from the farms. He stated further that but one per cent of the farm boys secure a finished education under the present system and that so much money is spent on this one per cent that it is impossible to educate the remainder properly. He pleaded strongly for a better system of rural schools.

Dr. Wallace says that in Iowa the road problem is complicated with more mud than in Nebraska and that in his state "mud, money and misery go together and complicate the road problem," which they are endeavoring to work out by building permanent roads between county seat towns and good dirt roads from the town to the school house in the country. Mr. Wallace characterized the one-year lease as "a conspiracy between the landlord and tenant through which both rob the land to the limit of their ability" and argued for the English system through which the tenant is entitled to an equity proportioned to the amount of unused fertility which he restored in the form of manure. This system has contributed to long leases and a permanent tenant class in England with largely increasing crop production. Dr. Wallace predicted that the state which first adopted a similar system would set the mark for advancement in the economic development of agriculture. —Ex.

The rural mail carriers of Cedar county took advantage of the holiday given them by George Washington nearly 200 years ago, and celebrated the day by meeting at Laurel and organizing a carrier association. The carriers quite generally the country over hold their annual meetings on George's birthday. The officers elected for the first year were Harry N. Wallace, Coleridge, president; E. R. Peterson, Hartington, vice president; Wilbur McCable, Laurel, secretary and treasurer.

through the senate with but five votes against it and is now up for consideration in the house.

Millionaire Saints and Saintesses

If you want to be some punkins in this world, if you want to be really good and gr-reat be a philanthropist. To be a shining saint in this profession there are to set rules, one or both of which you are absolutely required to follow—you must either be a successful swindler yourself, and pile up a few millions of boodle or else, be the heir of a first-class swindling sire, who has collared the boodle for you. The rest of the road to philanthropic renown and glory is easy.

You simply take a small part of the income from your pile of stolen plunder—you couldn't spend it all on yourself any way—and build a few public libraries, (that the public could build themselves if they hadn't been so badly skinned) or endow a college or two, (where the scions of the rich are taught theology and football) or erect a number of Y. M. C. A. buildings along a miserably constructed railway that you and your pals own, in which your thousands of section hands and their families, who are half-fed and half-clothed, and who exist in shacks and old freight cars that you wouldn't house your pet spaniels in, can fill their hungry souls with religious literature that you, out of your philanthropic heart and big pocket book provide. You also want to go down in the slums occasionally and distribute a roll of long green among the out-caste. Don't overlook taking a newspaper reporter with you on these slumming expeditions or you'll spoil the effect of your philanthropy. You also want to lead an extremely virtuous and religious life yourself and let everybody know it. You want to raise hell about such sins as dancing and playing base ball on Sunday. It is also well—especially if you are a female philanthropist, and your father made his millions by stealing a railroad or two—to be present at some railway wreck, caused by rotten ties or on account of overworked employes. It adds wonderfully to the lustre of your philanthropic career, if, on a sad occasion of this sort, you can climb out of your Pullman and wrap a rag on the bleeding wound of some victim of capitalist greed. This is too sweet for anything, and your name will be heralded among the work slaves as an "angel stepped down from heaven." Besides, you are liable by so doing, to run up against an official of the railroad and marry the guy, and then the gush that the servile press pours on you will be simply too beautiful for anything.

Another fine thing to do—John D. did it last Christmas—is to take a bevy of poor school teachers out riding all over your grand estate and show them the good things the Lord provides for those who know the pious game of graft. Then hand out a large, juicy package of good advice, to the poor school teachers. John D. did this so lovingly that I quote it from a daily paper of last December. It read as follows:

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec., 26— "Save your pennies" was the advice given by John D. Rockefeller today to a number of school-teachers to whom he gave a sleigh ride about his estate. The young school-ma'ams were so impressed with what they saw that one of them said, as she alighted from the sleigh:

"Just think, Mr. Rockefeller, you have this large estate, with three houses to live in, while we must content ourselves with a small room in a flat."

To which the oil magnate's laconic response was, "Save your pennies."

Another splendid exhibition for a godly philanthropist to make of himself is to give a Christmas dinner to the poor. The poor only get hungry on Christmas. At all other times of the year their stomachs are immune to the pangs of starvation. This is an arrangement specially provided in Christian countries—the heathen are not blessed this way.

Of course these are only a few of the many philanthropic deeds a philanthropist can do and thereby become good and great and receive the fawning adulation of the suckers. These things mentioned are only thrown out by way of suggestion to any one contemplating following the profession of philanthropy. The main object of this holy calling, as any body but a democrat or republican can see, is to ride on the backs of the humble poor and at the same time make the humble poor feel how thankful they ought to be that they are being ridden.—Selah (which is the ancient Hebrew for bull moose.)—National Ripsaw.

The members of the Farmers Cream association will have a meeting in the city hall in Wayne on Saturday, March 8, 1913, at 2:30 p. m. P. M. CORBIT, Secretary.

The American Newspaper Annual and Directory

The forty-fifth year of continuous publication brings to the Democrat the 1913 edition of this comprehensive review of the newspaper and magazine field. To the publishers of this country and to those having dealings with them this work is most useful. The facts and figures pertaining to each of the 24,381 publications listed are presented in a condensed and get-at-able form.

The Annual and Directory is now the only publication of its kind which is compiled from information gathered with such care and thoroughness each year from original sources. Mr. George P. Rowell was the first to compile such a work, and for many years he issued the American Newspaper Directory in the interest of publishers and advertisers. Following his death, the Directory, with its records, copyrights and property, was sold to N. W. Ayer & Son, who combined it with their Annual. A specially valuable feature of the present volume is the population of over eleven thousand towns, little and big, as given by the U. S. census of 1910 and the Canadian Census of 1911.

As always, special attention has been given to the important matter of circulation figures. Supplementary to the general catalogue are 208 lists of daily papers, magazines, women's publications, mail-order publications, agricultural, religious, and the various trade and class papers, each class listed under a separate head. This useful feature of the book is kept fully abreast of the times, as is indicated by three of its headings: Aeronautics, Moving Pictures and Esperanto.

The Annual and Directory likewise presents a vast amount of up-to-date gazetteer information showing the transportation, banking and other facilities of every town in which a newspaper is published, together with references to its leading industries and characteristics. This feature is supplemented by a specially prepared map of each state, showing every newspaper town. Convenience and conciseness have been carefully studied throughout, and the book placed at the disposal of publishers, of advertisers, of business men, of students, librarians, etc., a vast amount of fresh information not to be procured elsewhere.

From the valuable compilation of facts and figures no place of importance enough to support a paper is omitted, and it is up to date to now.

Good Advice

This office has a nicely printed circular sent out by the government beautifully illustrated showing what a fine life there is in the army and navy, particularly the marine corps. We don't know much about the marine corps or the navy, but we do know enough about the United States regular army to advise every boy to keep out of it as he would keep out of hell. And the chances are that the navy and marine corps are not a great deal better. If you get an appointment to West Point or Annapolis, go. But don't enlist in the regular army. Time enough to enlist in the volunteers when your country seems to need your services. Keep out of the army in time of peace.—Cedar County News.

In as much as there is no provision made for the second declarations of those who born in other lands have taken out first papers the question naturally arises what is to become of the citizens who have taken out first papers and neglected to follow them up within the seven years as provided by law. Those who took out their papers before the law was changed, it is said, will have to take out their second papers before this law is seven years old, else they will not be able to take out their final papers. As we said several months ago, when next election comes there will be millions of those who have been voting who will be barred, and if there is no provision for again declaring intentions to become a citizen, how will they ever attain citizenship?

Nebraska will receive a big boost when the Mississippi Valley Historical Association holds its annual convention in Omaha on May 8 to 10. This will be the first time the association has ever met this far west. Interesting facts regarding Nebraska will be given to the public at this time. The meeting of the association was secured for Nebraska by the Bureau of Publicity.

The Hartington commercial club at a meeting last week, voted to again buy calendars in the name of the club for the business men of Hartington. They tried the experiment last year and must like it if they are going to repeat.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE
 BIBLE STUDY ON
 HOPE FOR THE SODOMITES.
 Genesis 19:12-17, 23-29—March 9.

When Abraham was ninety-nine years old—in 2021 B. C.—his encouragement was at Hebron. There the Lord and two angels appeared to him as men. He knew them not, but entertained them. (Hebrews 13:2.) The one called the Lord was doubtless the Logos, subsequently man's Redeemer. The Lord on this occasion told Abraham that Ishmael would not be the heir of the Promise, but that shortly Sarah would have a son. The next year Isaac was born.

As Abraham walked a little distance with his visitors, he learned who they really were, and that the destruction of Sodom was imminent. Nobly and generously he petitioned God's Mercy on the Sodomites. The Lord gave assurance that if there were even ten righteous in Sodom, it would be spared. Thus of the Sodomites and the "Sarah shall have a son." Illustrations of the great lesson, "All the wicked will He destroy." We are to remember that these are not illustrations of eternal torment, but of destruction. These merely passed into destruction a few years sooner than ordinarily; for the death sentence passed upon humanity in Adam. But since "Jesus Christ by the grace of God tasted death for every man," all of Adam's children will eventually come from the tomb.

"And Delivered Righteous Lot." St. Peter informs us that Lot was not in sympathy with his surroundings. (2 Peter 2:7, 8.) The flight of Lot, with his wife and two unmarried daughters, is simply told in our lesson. The intimation of verse 29 is that God's Mercy toward Lot was because of his relationship to Abraham. This view is consistent with all Scriptural statements on the subject. Adam's entire race was condemned to death in him. Hence Divine Justice owed them nothing. Divine Mercy had entered into a special Covenant with Abraham, but that Covenant extended to none others, except Abraham's seed. Therefore Lot's relationship to Abraham was the only reason why God should favor him.

"There's a Witness in God's Mercy." This does not signify that God is merciful, but that, having provided a way by which He will exercise Mercy, He rarely exercises it outside of that channel. The channel of God's Mercy is Christ Jesus, who declared, "No man cometh unto the Father but by Me." St. Peter substantiates this statement. See Acts 4:12. The Scriptures clearly teach that none were saved until Jesus died. This is the key which unlocks the wonders of God's grace even though to some the statement may seem astounding.

We should rid ourselves of the thought that the holy men of the past went to Heaven, and the remainder of mankind to eternal torture. The Bible most distinctly declares that all, both good and bad, "slept with their fathers." They still sleep, awaiting the time when Abraham's Seed (Galatians 3:16, 29) will be completed, and set up God's Kingdom on earth, overthrow sin and death, and deliver the captives from the tomb.

The First, or Chief Resurrection.
 The First Resurrection began with our Lord Jesus and is not yet complete, for all the Elect are to share both His sacrificial death and His Resurrection. These will reign with Christ a thousand years, and as the Seed of Abraham, fully empowered, will bless all those redeemed by the precious blood of Calvary. Revelation 20:4. St. Paul emphasizes this point in Hebrews 11:35-40, declaring that while the Ancient Worthies received indications of God's favors, nevertheless that favor can come only through Christ. Consequently they cannot reach everlasting life until the Spiritual Seed of Abraham shall have been completed. Jesus also attested that they had not gone to Heaven, saying, "No man hath ascended up to Heaven."—John 3:13.

Hope For the Sodomites.
 The hope for the Sodomites is exactly the same as that for the remainder of mankind. The hope of the world is the Messianic Kingdom, and the deliverance from sin and death which it will effect. The basis of hope for both Church and world is the one sacrifice at Calvary. Jesus declares that it will be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the Judgment Day (the thousand years of His reign) than for those of His day who rejected Him. This clearly shows that the fate of the Sodomites is not sealed. We also find abundant testimony in Ezekiel 16:46-63 that the Sodomites will be awakened from death, and brought to a knowledge of God and to an opportunity of obtaining human perfection and everlasting life, through the Messiah—the Seed of Abraham—by willing obedience to the laws of the Messianic Kingdom.

FEEDING DAIRY COWS FOR PROFIT

Many good cows that might make brilliant records are never heard from because they are not properly cared for. They get ordinary care; consequently their production is ordinary. Feed and care, says O. E. Reed, professor of dairy husbandry at the Kansas Agricultural college, are two of the three most important factors determining the profits from dairy cows. Even in a small herd, says Professor Reed, it will pay the owner to keep an individual record of every cow. One giving less than 4,000 pounds of milk a year should be sold.

To obtain the best results from feeding cows they must be fed as individuals and not as a herd. When fed as a herd some cows are overfed, while others are underfed. A desirable system is to feed according to the amount of milk produced.

The main object in feeding is to supply sufficient quantity of feed at all times to satisfy the appetite and feeding capacity of the animal and to furnish the amount of nutrients needed for the work the cow is doing.

Underfeeding is more common than overfeeding. The effect of underfeeding may not be noticed at once, as the cow will produce the milk at the expense of the fat stored within the body. If the cow declines in weight while producing milk it shows that she is not receiving enough feed. Over-feeding may be detected in a short time by the increase in weight or the cow being off feed.

Sensational Noble, herewith shown, was first senior bull and grand champion Jersey calf at the Texas state fair of 1912. He is owned by Palmetto Jersey Dairy company, Palmetto, Tex. In the fall of 1909 Mr. E. C. Lanster, head of the dairy company, began to build up a dairy herd, with the result that the herd now consists of about 600 registered Jerseys and 1,400 high graded Jersey cows and heifers. Before going into Jersey raising Mr. Lanster was a beef cattle and horse grower.

During the winter succulent feeds are very important. By the term succulent feed is meant feed having the property possessed by green grass. This is desirable not only from its food value, but it also serves to keep the digestive organs in good condition. In the corn belt the succulent feed usually is silage. Roots may be used, but they are more expensive than corn silage.

The ration should contain a certain amount of grain in proportion to the amount of roughage. Roughage, such as hay and silage, should form the foundation for the ration. A cow should have all this she will clean up. The grain ration is regulated by the amount of milk produced. Feeding one pound of grain for each three pounds of milk produced gives very satisfactory results. A cow producing very rich milk, however, should have a little more than this amount.

In winter the cows should be kept in dry quarters and protected from the cold. The barn need not be expensive, but should be clean, warm and well ventilated. Cold water should not be given to the cows in winter. Warm it to about 65 or 70 degrees. Cows often give one pound less of milk a day when forced to drink cold water.

Hogs Like Cleanliness.

When a farmer gets so he understands that practically all questions concerning the handling of live stock successfully so as to make money for him are included in the meaning of the word comfort he has learned a whole lot, says Kansas Farmer. Keeping the animals comfortable means to keep them well fed, but not overfed it means to give them clean and dry sleeping quarters, with plenty of clean water to drink and a good clean place on which to eat. A hog is not naturally a dirty animal. He likes a clean bath, and he likes to eat in a clean place. If his owner deprives him of these things he retaliates by developing some disorder or disease. A hog that must eat in a dusty lot, in which filth has accumulated for years and where the only cleansing agencies have been the wind and rain, should not be blamed for coughing when the dust gets into his lungs or for picking up any stray germ that might be lying around. Of all the uses to which cement has been put on the farm there is perhaps none more important or more valuable than that of building a feeding floor for the hog.

Sheep Wisdom.

Good sheep are a good property at any time. For fitting sheep for winter no better feed can be found than just plain oats. It takes more to make a yearling lamb gain than it does one four months younger. Think always of the cost and act accordingly. Don't send any of the lambs to market in this condition. The buyers discriminate against them, and they go for less than their real worth.

THE HORSEMAN.

The shoeing of the farm horses should receive the same attention that is given the road horse or the trotter. Winter shoeing should be most carefully done.

To tie up a horse so short that he cannot comfortably lie down is a needless cruelty. The ideal stall is a box stall, and the space given to it pays in the greater comfort of the animal.

Unless a colt is properly and liberally fed during the first two years of its life it will never attain the size or perfect proportions that nature intended.

Along in February the fitting of all the farm teams should begin. The grain ration should be gradually increased and more exercise given every day to harden the muscles.

The development of the young horse requires the exercise of the best judgment in handling him.

CAUSES OF WEAK LAMBS.

Meager Rations and Exposure Reduce the Ewes' Vitality.

Weak lambs at birth are one of the most perplexing difficulties, the cause of which may be traced to various sources, writes W. H. Underwood in the town Homestead. Lack of proper assimilative ability on the part of the female may weaken the growth of the fetus during the stage of development. This condition is more prevalent among old ewes which have lost their teeth. However, poor assimilation may be brought on in young ewes through weak digestive organs. Unthriftness is one of the most apparent evidences of poor assimilative ability and can generally be remedied in the case of young animals by sorting out and feeding extra with a variety of foods until the system regains its normal condition.

The cause of weak lambs at birth can frequently be traced to a too limited ration. Many flock owners carry the idea that sheep, unlike the dairy cow, can survive on a much narrower range of diet. This is a very erroneous impression. In order to properly mature their unborn progeny they need to be supplied with a ration varying in its composition to as marked an extent as any animal. A ration composed of clover hay, corn stover, oat straw and silage, if available, should constitute the range of roughness. The grain ration should be selected with care. Oats, bran, a little corn and oilmeal make a good ration.

Exposure to variable weather conditions during winter influences the development of the fetus, and in some instances it is a cause of weak lambs at parturition. When weather is favorable pregnant ewes should have access to a large yard of exercising, but should never be allowed to remain in drenching storms. When the fleece becomes thoroughly soaked from rain or snow the wool fibers mat and form a cold blanket, which lowers the temperature of the body and retards the escape of waste matter from the surface. It requires an increased consumption of food to maintain an even body temperature, thus imposing additional labor upon the digestive system, which sooner or later weakens its activity and influence in the development of the fetus.

Those who desire to obtain the highest percentage of strong, healthy lambs at birth can well afford to give special attention to the ewe flock during the period of pregnancy. The ration should be regularly and judiciously supplied. It should possess sufficient nutrition to maintain the parent body in a strong, vigorous condition, and also supply the fetus, which is under constant development, with proper nourishment.

The yard should be spacious, dry and, if possible, with a southern exposure. The shelter should possess good ventilation and plenty of sunshine and should be kept in such condition that the ewes will occupy it from choice rather than from compulsion.

The Boarder in the Dairy.

The "boarder" cow—that is, the cow which does not pay for her keep—is to the dairyman like a millstone around his neck. The scrub is the cow that has given dairymen an unfavorable reputation. Just why the dairyman refuses to give up his old ways and adopt such radical changes as are necessary to convert an unprofitable herd into a profitable herd has always been a mystery in dairyming. We have never known a man who expressed anything but the greatest satisfaction with his dairy operations when he knew that he was milking profitable cows, says Kansas Farmer. On the other hand, we never knew a man to speak well of dairyming when he knew that his cows were not paying. There are hundreds of men slaying year in and year out, working hard and long, who are keeping a bunch of "boarder" cows.

Exercise For Brood Sows.

See that the brood sows take exercise and that they get succulent food. It is doubtful if any other factor in hog raising has brought about quite as much injury as the practice of placing brood sows in little pens, preventing them from getting juicy roots or green foods and cutting off their opportunity for exercise entirely. The run of the pasture field, or in the winter of rye or wheat lots, or in fall of harvesting peanuts, artichokes, cowpeas, or of cleaning up old meadows, all add vigor to the sows, largely wipe out the cost of keep and increase the vitality of the coming offspring.

He Favored Brevity.

A bishop once rose to address the house of lords and began by saying he intended to divide his speech into twelve heads. Lord Durham thereupon got up and begged leave to interpose for a few minutes to tell the house an anecdote.

He was returning home, he said, a few nights before and passed St. Paul's cathedral just before midnight. As he did so there was a drunken man trying to see the time. Just then the clock began to strike the hour and slowly tolled out 12. The drunken man listened, looked hard at the clock and said:

"Hang you, why couldn't you have said all that at once!"

After this narration the bishop condensed his remarks.—London Globe.

Walrus and Bullets.

The most vulnerable spot in which to hit a walrus is the back part of the skull. The forehead, being several inches thick in bone, almost invariably turns bullets even if solid ones are used in a big rifle, as should always be done. Besides the head, with the exception of the heart, there is hardly a vital spot in these huge brutes' bodies, and bullets may be fired ad libitum into these masses of flesh and blubber without seeming to have much effect.

FINE OLD BORROWERS.

Leigh Hunt Was a Champion, and Dr. Johnson Levied on Books.

In a book of essays, "Americans and Others," Agnes Repplier collects some notable instances of a certain condensation in borrowers. Leigh Hunt and William Godwin had the most developed to magnificent proportions:

"It would be interesting to calculate the amount of money which Hunt's friends and acquaintances contributed to his support in life. Shelley gave him at one time £1,400, an amount which the poet could ill spare, and when he had no more to give wrote in misery of spirit to Byron, begging a loan for his friend and promising to repay it, as he felt tolerably sure Hunt never would. Byron, generous at first, wearied after a time of his position in Hunt's commissariat (it was like pulling a man out of a river, he wrote to Moore, only to see him jump in again and coldly withdraw. His withdrawal occasioned inconvenience and has been sharply criticised."

As for Godwin, when his daughter ran off with Shelley he refused to take Shelley's check for £1,000 if it were not made payable to a third person unless he could have the money without the formality of an acceptance.

Crabb Robinson introduced him one evening to a gentleman named Rough. The next day both Godwin and Rough called upon their host, each man expressing his regard for the other and each asking Robinson if he thought the other would be a likely person to lend him £50.

Dr. Johnson was more scrupulous. He "paid back £10 after a lapse of twenty years" and on his deathbed begged Sir Joshua Reynolds to forgive him a trifling loan." But in the matter of borrowed books the case was altered. "Johnson cherished a dim conviction that because he read and Garrick did not the proper place for Garrick's books was on his—Johnson's—bookshelves, a point which could never be settled between the two friends and which came near wrecking their friendship."

Alaska's Two Climates.

Official reports indicate that the coast region of Alaska has much rain and snow, but an equable temperature, and that the winter at Sitka is no colder than at Washington. The snowfall at Valdez has reached sixty feet and the rainfall at Sitka 117 inches in a season. The Yukon basin, on the other hand, has a continental climate, very cold in the winter, although the summer temperature may reach 90 degrees F. in the shade. The rainfall is small. The soil is permanently frozen, for several yards below the surface, but a thin surface layer thaws out every summer.—Harper's.

Matter and Force Identical.

Until recently the atom was considered the indivisible part of matter, but advances in radio-activity point to the fact that the atom is a complex system, consisting of a positively charged nucleus around which are grouped numerous negatively charged particles of infinitesimal dimensions, called electrons. A great deal has yet to be learned about the electron. Though regarded now as the unit of the material universe, it is really nothing but electricity, though it possesses the properties of matter—mass, momentum, kinetic energy and probably weight.—Christian Herald.

Beggars' Day In Costa Rica.

In Costa Rica the beggars are privileged characters on Tuesday—that is, they are allowed that day of the week in which to beg from shop to shop. It is the custom for business houses to prepare for the weekly visit of the mendicants and to hand over to them small coins or articles of little value. In some instances where merchandise is given away the beggars peddle it about the poorer quarters and so earn a few cents apiece.—Argonaut.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Rule Strong to Ten Cents Higher

HOGS SLOW AND 5-10c LOWER

Light Supply of Lambs and Sheep. Lambs Strong to 10@15c Up—Ewes Also 10@15c Higher—General Trade Active.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, March 4.—A very good run of cattle arrived today, about 5,300 head. There was a good, active demand for fat cattle today at prices strong to a dime higher than Monday and about 10@15c higher than the close of last week. Improvement in the market for cows and heifers was fully as pronounced as in fat cattle and a good share of the moderate offerings changed hands at prices that were pretty close to a dime better than Monday. Veal calves were in the usual keen request and notably strong, and bulls, stags, etc., found a ready sale at full recent figures. Trade in stockers and feeders was rather slow today, but prices were just about steady. The volume of business was comparatively limited.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs; $8.25@8.75; good to choice beefs, $8.00@8.25; fair to good beefs, $7.75@8.00; fair to choice yearlings, $7.25@8.25; common to fair beefs, $7.25@7.75; good to choice heifers, $6.75@7.60; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.00; fair to good grades, $5.65@6.40; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.25; veal calves, $5.75@9.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@6.50; choice to prime feeders, $7.75@8.15; good to choice feeders, $7.50@7.75; fair to good feeders, $6.80@7.40; common to fair feeders, $6.25@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $5.00@7.00.

About 12,250 hogs were received today. The market was slow and about 5@10c lower than Monday. Trade was draggy all day. The bulk of the sales were made around $8.20@8.25, with the best hogs going at $8.30, just a nickel lower than Monday.

Sheep and lamb receipts were rather light today, about 7,500 head being received. Conditions surrounding the market for sheep and lambs today were very favorable for the selling interests, resulting in a lively trade at prices anywhere from strong to 10@15c higher and in spots as much as a quarter higher. As high as $8.85 was paid for Mexican lambs, while $8.50 was reached for fed westerns. Fed western ewes touched $8.25, the highest point of the season for ewes of that class.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs—Good to choice Mexicans, $8.60@8.75; fair to good Mexicans, $8.35@8.60; good to choice westerns, $8.25@8.60; fair to good westerns, $8.00@8.35; feeders, $7.40@7.75; Shetland yearlings, light, $7.35@7.65; yearlings, heavy, $6.75@7.10; wethers, good to choice, $6.35@6.60; wethers, fair to good, $5.90@6.35; ewes, good to choice, $5.00@6.25; ewes, fair to good, $5.05@6.00; culls and bucks, $2.75@4.00.
