SUNDAY BASE BALL CARRIED

At a Special Election Held on the 13th Day of the 5th Month in the 13th Year by 13 Majority

When the votes of the Tuesday special election on the proposition of Sunday base ball or not were reported it was found that of those who voted a majority of 13 favored permitting the game on Sunday. The vote by wards was reported as follows:

First ward, for, 40; against, 18. Second ward, for 71; against 64. Third ward, for, 49; against 65. Total for, 160; Total against, 147. Majority—13.

A light vote was cast, and very little interest was shown in the question, and some who favored the Sunday game predict that Wayne will not organize a ball team this season.

In this opinion it proves they were wrong.

Home Wedding at Winside

At the home of the bride's parents, J. H. Prescott and wife, at Winside, on Wednesday, May 14, 1913, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edith, and Henry A. Brune of that place, Rev. McConnell performing the ceremony. Immediately after the marriage which was at 11 o'clock an elaborate four course dinner was served to the party of relatives and intimate friends who were honored with invitation to attend. The congratulations were most hearty and cordial and the young couple will have the cordial good will of all. They left on the afternoon train amid a shower of rice for a short wedding trip, going to Omaha that evening and later to visit relatives in the southern part of the state.

Among the guests were Clyde Oman, wife and daughters Fern and Frances, Mrs. True Prescott and sons Edward and Dale and Will and Lillian Rennick, all relatives from this place.

Death of Ethel Collins

Word came to J. T. Leahy last week of the sudden death of his niece, Miss Ethel Collins, which occurred at Grand Junction, Colorado, last Friday from pneumonia. Miss Collins formerly lived with her parents near this place, and for a time at or near Wisner, and many of the people in both places knew her well.

The body arrived here for burial Wednesday, accompanied by her sister, Mary, who was teaching near that place and Miss Ella Leahy, who is also teaching in Colorado. The funeral was from the Catholic church at this place Thursday morning, conducted by Father Kearns, and was attended by many relatives and friends from a distance. The parents, P. Collins and wife, came from their home in Oklahoma, Frank Leahy and wife and R. P. McGuire from Winner, S. D., M. Leahy of Norfolk, Mrs. Leahy, Dr. Leahy, and Miss Agnes Leahy of Jackson, and Mrs. O'Connell of Kennebec, S. D. Miss Collins was about twenty-four years of age, a graduate from Wayne Normal school, and a successful teacher.

Eich—Carr

Saturday, May 10, 1913, at the Catholic parsonage, Rev. Father Kearns united in marriage Miss Marie Eich, daughter of Michael Eich and wife, who for so many years lived on a farm southwest of Wayne, but now of Charter Oak, Iowa, and Mr. Eugene Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carr, south of Winside. The bridal couple were accompanied by Frank Eich, a brother of the bride and Miss Bessie Carr, a sister of the groom acting as bridesmaid and groomsmen.

Mr. Carr is an industrious young farmer who had rented the Hugo Splitterger farm and needed a housekeeper, cook and companion, which we hope he finds combined in the young lady to whom he was wed.

Eighth Grade Examinations

Last week was the last of the eighth grade examinations, and County Superintendent Littell has had a busy week marking the papers. In all, about 118 took the examination, most of them coming first three weeks ago, and of the 55 who came last week most of them were taking a second trial in lines in which they failed to pass the first time. More than half of all who took the examination will pass. Their graduating exercises will be held at the court house Saturday afternoon, May 31st, and the program will be given later. Teacher's examinations will be held at the court house Friday and Saturday of this week.

HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Large High School Class Finish Course. Story of Class Play—Cast of Characters—School Notes, Etc.

Remember the class play will be given at the opera house on Wednesday evening, May 21, at 8:30. The class will put on "At the End of the Rainbow," a charming college story built around the annual football game, with plenty of comedy element and real dramatic touches. Seats will be popular prices and will be on sale at the Shultze's Pharmacy on Monday morning, May 19. Excellent music will be furnished by the high school orchestra. Come and enjoy the evening with the high school folks.

Story of the Play

The scenes of the play are located in a college town. The students are practicing for a football game with a rival college team and much interest in the outcome is shown. It develops that Douglas Brown, a football expert from another college is in town on business connected with his father's estate and to distract attention enters this college. Phyllis Lane induces him to play with the team at the request of the captain, a love romance being created thereby. Robert Preston, a lawyer, secretly loves Marion Dayton, his ward, and she reciprocates. He trusts the combination of his safe to her and tells her of a packet of important papers lying therein. Louise Ross and her mother, Mrs. Brown, stepmother of Douglas, learn that a second will disinheriting them has been found and is among the papers in Preston's safe. The plot to obtain possession of the document at a mask ball given by Marion. Louise wears a costume identical with that of Marion's, deceives Preston, learns from him the combination of the safe, obtains the papers by the aid of Jack Austin; unaware of the fact that the original packet has been removed by Preston and other documents substituted. The "Imp", a girl student, sees and recognizes her. Preston enters and recognizes Jack who is assisting Louise in the belief that she is Marion, and convinced that Jack meditates robbery, upbraids him. Marion enters and comprehending the situation as she fancies, she shields Jack by assuming the guilt. Her innocence is finally established by the "Imp" who exposes Louise. Meanwhile Douglas wins the game for the team and realizes that he loves Phyllis, but when he learns that she has trifled with him he becomes cool. This, however, passes away and happiness follows.

When Marion's self sacrificing effort to save Jack is brought to Preston's attention through the exposure of Louise's duplicity, he discovers that he loves her and their dream of the pot of gold at "the end of the rainbow" is happily realized.

Piano Recital

The music pupils of Mrs. J. T. House gave a very enjoyable program on Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. H. S. Ringland. A number of mothers of the pupils, together with a few guests were present and listened to the program which was presented in a very creditable manner. During the afternoon Mrs. House presented Master Claire and Miss Alberta Brown with a little gift to take to their new home in California where they will go soon. Master Joe Ringland and little Miss Alice Blair gave violin solos which added much to the afternoon's entertainment. After the rendition of the program Mrs. Ringland served delicious refreshments.

Turning the Earth Over

That is what James Davidson and his sons have been doing on the Emil Hanson place which they are farming. Here is the record they made with nine horses and three 16-inch plows. They plowed 35 acres in three and one-half days. That is about three acres per day for each team and plow. They had to go two miles to their work each morning, so it is plain that they kept going some. They had one walking plow and two riding plows.

VISITED BY A GREAT STORM

Northeastern Nebraska Visited by a Severe Storm Monday Night. Much Damage in Neighboring Towns.

Last Monday night Wayne and vicinity was visited by a severe electrical and rain storm, accompanied by some wind and hail, but no serious damage is reported in this vicinity in the way of loss of property by wind or flood. The hail was quite severe a few miles northwest of town, making the small grain look bad for a few days but it is thought that it is too small to be injured. This storm and the rains following have delayed farm work, which was already rather backward.

At Bloomfield the storm was more severe, and a resident of that city estimates the damage there at $100,000. The rainfall amounted to almost a cloudburst, over three inches of water falling in a very short time. The water was quickly over the tracks, and flooded the depot to a depth of a foot or more. Streets and business houses were flooded and basements suffered. In a portion the residence district was also badly flooded and carpets, rugs and furniture suffered. One man lost 150 head of hogs. The mayor has appointed a relief committee to aid those who suffered the greatest loss and to see that all have a place to stay until their homes are habitable. There were no trains down the north branch in the morning, but the afternoon train came in to this junction about an hour late.

A report to the Norfolk News states that at Verdigre the storm was very severe and much damage done. The railroad suffered a wash-out. The Verdigre river went out of banks and flooded the main part of the town from on to three feet deep. Wind and lightning did much damage in the town and surrounding country.

At Scottsbluffs much damage was reported from wind, a number of houses and barns being destroyed. A house and two barns were on the farm of E. W. Ebert, formerly of this place.

The Northwestern railroad suffered several washouts, and one freight train was reported in the ditch, but most trains are now running on schedule time.

Picnic Season Here

A school picnic will be held in Alex Suhr's grove, 5 miles south and one-half mile west of Wayne Friday, May 23rd. Everybody invited to come and bring well filled baskets, says the teacher.

Miss Meader, who is in charge of some missionary interests in this district is holding a meeting this afternoon with the ladies of the M. E. church.

Lost a Finger

E. Johnson of the Johnson & Williamson firm, lost the second finger on his left hand Saturday while helping to set a monument at the Logan cemetery about seven miles northeast of Wayne. He says he cannot tell exactly how it happened for it was done so quickly, and if he had known how it was happening he would have gotten out of the way and it would not have happened. They were sliding the rock from the wagon to the base set to receive it when through some miscalculation the stone slipped, and in trying to check it and guide it his finger was caught between the top and the base as it went down. The finger was mashed flat nearly the entire length and when he arrived in town to have it dressed by Drs. Zoll & Hess they removed the entire finger, taking out the knuckle joint which joins it to the hand. The fingers on either side were but slightly bruised. The wounded hand is getting along nicely, but it will be several weeks before he can make a full hand at handling stone or cutting granite.

The Circus Has Gone

Yankee Robinson circus was not attractive enough to draw a very large crowd from busy fields in cold and threatening weather, and the attendance was light. The parade was witnessed by many, but the crowd was divided between the circus and the carnival. We have heard of no one who came away from the entertainment saying that he would like to go again, but then they would just the same if the show came again or another one should come and stop here, as we hear it hinted will be the case in the near future. Our chief of police says that no robberies were reported to him during the week. We heard that some of the circus crowd attempted to short change one man, but was made to come across with the change. Many people will come away from a circus tired and disappointed, but when the band begins to play for the next one, off they go, sure that it is better than the one before.

George Dixon of Wakefield, who was working at the Felber Pharmacy had the misfortune to clip two fingers of his left hand off at the first joint in the ice chopping machine. He was cutting ice, turning the machine by hand, when a piece of ice did not feed into the machine to suit his hurry and he crowded it down with his left hand and did not take the hand out soon enough, although those who know the machine say that it is eight or ten inches down to the knives from the top of the hopper. He is stopping with home folks at Wakefield while the fingers heal.

Edison's Masterpiece

The Edison Disk Phonograph shown for the first time at Jones' Bookstore

A successful culmination of thirty-five years spent by Mr. Edison in his endeavor to perfectly reproduce sound.

In 1878 Mr. Edison invented and patented the first disk phonograph, but not until this 1913 has the great master permitted a disk phonograph to be offered to the public in his name.

Mr. Edison has discovered the secret of recording and reproducing tone and tone color, a new and superior method of recording only known in the Edison Recording Laboratory.

Until now the delicate beauties of music have baffled reproduction as were either lost in recording or so weakly reproduced as to be entirely lost in noises common to disk records.

This wonderful musical instrument can be heard at JONES' BOOKSTORE. Come in and listen. You cannot help but marvel and applaud.

Mr. Edison said: "Let the public hear and decide."

Advertising in the Medical Profession

ONE CAUSE OF DISEASE may be described as the clogging of the avenues of the body by the wear and tear of the "human machinery"; and the retention of some of the material that should be cast off. This constant wearing out furnishes a fit medium for the growth of various disease germs. The longer the waste is allowed to clog the various avenues of elimination, the more will these germs multiply and thus produce a still further clogging of the system. The more the system is clogged, the more impure the blood current becomes; and the more the circulation is burdened, the more signs our bodies give that things are going wrong. We have a headache—Nature's call for assistance; instead of finding out where the trouble is and helping to remedy it, we take so-called "Headache medicines" and deaden the alarm. Let's give nature a fair show by going to a reputable doctor and finding out what these alarm calls really signify, and how to overcome the trouble. I am here to assist in overcoming all kinds of diseases, with all modern means of treatment; I also do special work on the eye, ear, nose and throat, as well as the fitting of glasses.

One who claims to know, states that if Wayne people who have trouble exterminating dandelions will invest in a flock of geese and picket them on their lawns they will soon be well rid of the yellow pests. But how about the geese? Would they be more agreeable to have on the lawn than the yellow flowers?

Ervin Erxleben, the 8-year-old son of Frank Erxleben went to Sioux City Saturday afternoon with his nose in a sling, so to speak. The lad was playing with a colt about four weeks of age that morning and the animal kicked him in the face, and cut quite a gash across the nose and probably fractured the bone.

According to the report of the officials at Stanton the coal bill for the city for the past nine months for light and pumping averaged $8.75 per day. For the year the city collected $4,401.31 for light and $1,114.85 for water, and sold merchandise amounting to $3,552.63, making the total receipts for the water and light fund $9,067.39.

Last week while the Democrat man was writing that he had heard of no one planting corn in these parts yet, Victor Carlson, one of the real push-the-season farmers north of Wayne had his overcoat and mittens on and was planting a nice field of corn. If the weather comes right he is ahead of his neighbors—if cold and damp too long he may have to go through the motions again. Seed is never put into the soil without some chance of loss or gain.

The business man—if he may be called such—who neglects to say a word to the people of his home community through the local paper or by circular letter should not complain if they accept the invitation extended by his competitors and leaves him with his goods in stock. The home paper furnishes the best means of conveying his message to the people of the community that can be found. More publicity in the home field for less money than any other way.

A certain man who is in business in this place thinks the people do not read the newspapers—or at least he pretends to think so when he is solicited for an advertisement—but if the Democrat should even call his name and intimate how he abuses his family it would not be thirty minutes after the paper was issued before he would know that the paper is read. The trouble with some people and advertising is that they try to advertise without saying anything.

The filthiest thing on earth for its size is the house-fly. He emigrates out of fifth. He is the embodiment of filth. Filth breeds disease, also the house-fly. The fly is an aggregation of filthy atoms and each atom is an aggregation of disease germs, no certain disease, just any and all, severally and collectively. Take away all the filth and the flies living would still live on sweet milk and molasses till they died of old age, but no more would be hatched. Their race would be run.

The Sioux City boosters who went out last week on a tour and spent $1,000 per day for five days advertising their city have evidently taken a lesson from the leading men of the national democratic administration. Less than two years ago the boosters from that place were through Wayne on a similar trip and their cars had the appearance of traveling saloons; but this last trip was dry—not a drop of the stuff on the train, we were told by one who went part way with them, unless some member of the crowd had a bottle for snakebite on his inside pocket, and if such were on the train he kept it pretty well within his pocket.

Corn Belt Farmers

In commenting upon the future of the farmers of the corn belt, Wallace Farmer has the following to offer:

There are other sources that bear upon his future interest, which the farmer can control if he will. The antidote for peasantry, or the moral and intellectual degeneracy which is worse than peasantry of education; and the people of the corn belt have that under their own control. The present system of rural education will not give us an intelligent and virile rural population to till our soils in the next generation. We cannot go on spending millions in each state for the education of the few and squandering her millions in trying to educate the many, but educating them in a way that does not fit them for their life on the farm.

As soon as the farmers begin to see that their children cannot be fitted for life in the one room school—hundreds of them with less than ten pupils—many with less than three pupils in average attendance—things will be better for the farmer as well as for the child. If the lands of the corn belt are to maintain their fertility, they must be farmed by men and women of high intelligence in farm matters. The only education that ninety-five out of a hundred of the farm born will ever get must be in the rural school; and if the rural school does not educate for farm life, then the yield on the farm, the value of the farm the standard of farm, and all that the farmers hold of value or worth must be in time decline. Farming in the west will then be as unpopular as it is in some of the eastern states. The bright, the energetic and the ambitious will flee from it; and farming in Iowa and Illinois will be what it is in New York and New England. We must educate on right lines or we must degenerate.

Better education in the country is largely dependent on good roads. Now "good roads" to the townsman means a hard surfaced road from town to town or county seat. "Good roads" to the farmer should mean a smooth road to a modern, up-to-date township school. The farmer is really not half as much interested in a good road to a centralized school, if his children are to be educated to handle his farm and maintain its fertility and value. Looking at it from a purely financial standpoint, the best investment the corn belt people can make is in good schools in the township and road that will enable the children to get to these schools. An educated farm people—educated for farm life—can never become peasants or degenerates; nor will they permit their interests of other classes to turn them from this purpose. Roads and schools, therefore, must go together in order that a really intelligent people may be made fit to handle the lands of the corn belt.

We are now at the turning of the road. We must either improve our schools by fitting them for teaching in the terms of farm life, improve our roads so that the children can get to these schools, and develop a community life that will be satisfactory to the young people; or we must take just what is given us by other interests, whose sole interest in the farm is to be fed as cheaply as possible. The yield of our farms will be measured by the in-skill with which they are cultivated. The price of the farms will be determined by their yield. The justice and fair treatment we receive in the councils of the nation will be measured by our intelligence and the loyalty with which we stand by each as farmers.

Postoffice Troubles

If there are no more applicants, when the time comes, for the position of postmaster at Wayne than there now are for a clerkship in the office, the present postmaster may continue indefinitely. Twice or three times has date been set for examination for clerkship, and each time the day again set forward for want of applicants. A new date has been fixed for May 24th and applicants must apply before the 20th of May for the necessary blanks, which may be obtained at the Wayne postoffice. There is an extra inducement for applicants now, for the pay for first year service has been increased from $600 to $800 for the year, which will make some difference. Postal employees now work the 8-hour day only.

The Nebraska Democrat will carry your name and business to 3,000 people for 10 cents. That is part of our business. For more money we can tell more about the business to these people. Do you want them to know you?

Cleaned From Democrat's Exchange

The Homer Star editor is preparing to erect a new brick office building at that place this season.

Walthill is to hold the first chaouqua in these parts this season, starting a five-day session June 20.

The Wynot Tribune has about $15,000 worth of residence improvement figured out for that place this summer.

Byron Baer of Stanton won first place in the humorous class at the oratorical contest at Hastings, and will enter the state contest at Lincoln.

It took twelve innings to decide the ball game between the Homer and Lyons high school teams last week, when Lyons won in a 5 to 6 score.

The Columbus Telegram recently advanced the subscription price of that paper to $2.00 per year and remit 25 per cent of the price to all who pay in advance.

The Walthill Presbyterian church has engaged Rev. R. H. Weinfeld, an evangelist in the winter months, to become pastor of that church during the summer months.

A new fair association has been formed at Pierce to take the place of the organization of that kind which disbanded there a month or more ago. The new organization is to be purely agricultural.

D. Rees of Norfolk is mentioned as a possible member of the proposed tax commission which the last legislature authorized the governor to appoint. Mr. Rees is said to be careful student of questions relating to taxation in both this country and Canada.

Charles S. Hughes, editor of the Pender Republic, has filed on a claim near Rusk, Wyoming, and says that he is going to locate there as soon as he can get a democrat to take the postmaster job in his town. He thinks it a good dry farming country, and a great stock country.

B. H. Finch, a pioneer of this part of Nebraska, died at Pender May 1, 1913, at the age of 84 years. He came to Nebraska in 1869, and lived a few miles northeast of Wisner until 1894, when he moved to Pender. The body was taken to Wisner for burial.

Over in Montgomery county, Iowa, the judge excused the jury at the last session of the district court until the latter part of this month, when the rush of farm work would not be so rushing as at this time of the year. Who says that the proposed recall of judges does not tend to make them more responsive to the wishes of the people?

A number of Iowa canning factories will not pack this year because of the over production of canned corn for two or three years past, according to an exchange. Perhaps the trouble has been under consumption because of the high price. A vast amount of canned goods produced appear to be pretty effectually tied up by the distributing combination.

One of the things being done by the Thurston county farm demonstrator is to recommend the rolling of winter wheat—even this late if not too large. It is proposed to roll part of the fields at least and in all fields rolled he wants an acre or so left without the roller to make comparison between that rolled and that not rolled and thus learn how much benefit is to be derived in that vicinity from rolling the grain.

There is to be a great old soldier reunion at Gettysburg on the 50th anniversary of the great battle, July 1 to 5, when a large proportion of the survivors of those bloody days will gather to go over the ground they fought over so bravely when young men. In different states the legislatures have appropriated money to pay the railroad fare of old soldiers who were in the battle, and the federal government will provide them with tent and rations for a week.

A news dispatch from Philadelphia says: John R. Barkley, formerly receiver of the land office at Niobrara, Neb., and Isaiah Miller, formerly postmaster at Creighton, Neb., were sentenced to fifteen months imprisonment and fined $10,000 each by Federal Judge Witmer for using the mails to defraud. The men were officials in the International Land and Development Co., of Chicago, which dealt in Mexican lands. The promoters are said to have netted $6,000,000 from their scheme.

According to the Times Walthill councilmen had a serious time at their first session. The question of license for pool halls and bowling alley were the bone of contention. They want a new ordinance governing, and tried to grant license subject to an ordinance not yet a law. The bowling man—who appears to have a Chinese name forgot to apply for license, and his friends hurried him before the august body to make application. When he was told they wanted him to get a license he said he had been married three years and as they have twins to care for he did not need another license—but when he found it was not a marriage license he made application before the day of grace had passed.

At Plainview the depot question is being agitated. The people want a union station where the Northwestern and Burlington cross. The Northwestern is offering a 16-foot extension to the present depot and to remodel and modernize the old building which has been standing for more than 30 years. At a meeting to discuss the matter the Wayne case was spoken of and the question asked why the railroad did not come across with an offer of something better for Plainview than they would get by having the old depot worked over. Perhaps Plainview has not yet gotten their case in as good shape as Wayne had to secure favorable terms—and perhaps the depot at Plainview is not as completely inadequate to the needs as the one here.

A Letter From California

Friends Gardner & Wade: I thought it might be of interest to my Nebraska friends to hear a word from me. As you know, we left Wayne April 15 and we all had a pleasant trip. Left Omaha at 6:30 the same day over the U. P. by the way of Cheyenne and Ogden. We crossed the great Salt lake at Ogden. This lake is 36 miles across, all on truss work. Early in the morning of the third day we traveled through the mountains in California. It was snowing all the way through the mountains and for a distance of 36 miles the snowfall is so great that the railroad company has built a close wall and roof over the track which are called snow sheds. As we got over the mountains it was raining. We saw some very pretty mountain homes and I think this is the beauty spot on earth among the foot hills.

All at once we reached the Sacramento valley where the sun was shining warm, the fruit trees were in bloom.

We arrived at Sacramento at 11:30 the fourth day and after partaking of a salmon dinner to which we all did ample justice we went to view the state capitol.

The grounds consists of eight acres and every tree and bush that this world grows you will find there. We walked all through the building, the dome being over 100 feet high, a very fine structure. The next day we started for Chico which is 95 miles north. Chico and surrounding valley have about 15000 people. The soil around here is very fertile and the first crop of alfalfa are cut. All kinds of garden truck is on the market. Strawberries are ripe.

Chico has state normal, high school and seven grammar schools, 25 churches and 23 saloons. We need some eastern people to help wipe them out. We have traveled around Chico, the country is dotted with natural timber which makes it very beautiful. I would say to all the Nebraska ladies that are lovers of flowers, come to California to grow and enjoy them as they do not winter kill here. We went out six miles from the city to see the Hooker oak. We were told it is the largest in the world. I will give you the dimensions: Height 105; circumference at ground 25 7-10 feet; circumference 8 feet; above ground 28 4-10 ft; length limbs on south side 101x105 feet; length of limb on north side 99 ft; circumference of circle outside branches is 446 feet, allowing two square feet for each person; 7885 persons can be shaded. There are 3 parks, one 20 acre park is natural. I think they are very fine, the trees are very large and they keep them in good order and it is a pleasure for one to take a walk among them.

We live half a block from the electric car line which runs to Sacramento, 95 miles.

Every 20 minutes we have a car to town; it is on the state road. There are two driveways and a walk besides car line on this road and it has four lights on every block which burn all night. It is also shaded by large trees. By the way, Nina and myself took a walk and if it had not been in California we would have thought we met Billy Bumgardner. Do you know if he is still in Nebraska? Last week Mr. Duerig was to see us, they are all well and feeling fine. I will bring my letter to a close, wishing all our Nebraska friends prosperity,

Yours Respectfully,
C. O. JOHNSON,

Past, Present and Future

A. M. Cunningham, who came last week from Madison to visit a few days here with his brother, David Cunningham, returned home Friday. He was among the pioneers of Madison county, unless you count the Indians the pioneers—for there were but few white people in these parts when he came to Madison in 1871. Norfolk was scarcely a scratch on the map, and all of Madison would not have made much of a showing for the buildings of a single farm in these days. He has witnessed a wonderful development of a rich country. Yet we believe that the next 42 years will see greater development in this country than has the past like period. When we have harnessed the streams of this country and sent their work power to every city, village and farm, and make the water earn its passage to the sea by propelling cars over a system of railways which should traverse this rich land, the wonder will be that the present generation never realized the forces that they permitted to go unused.

One serious trouble with development in the past and at present, as it appears to the writer is the monopoly of natural resources which has been permitted, but which, happily, are beginning to be rooted out. When that time comes that the people have their own—the iron, coal, water and other things that the Lord evidently furnished in bounteous quantity, without paying tribute except to the labor required to utilize these things, then will begin an era of development, the like of which has never before been witnessed.

Wasn't the Right Answer

This is the one that gets us. It happened in the school now taught by Bessie Wilson near Randolph. A boy came home from school sobbing as though his heart would break because the teacher whipped him. His father inquired the trouble. "You know when I asked you last night," said the boy "what a million dollars was and you said it was a h—l of a lot of money?" "Well, that was not the right answer."—Ex.

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Oats	27c
Corn (new)	47c
Barley	42c
Spring wheat	71c
Wheat	75c
Eggs	15c
Butter	25c
Hogs	7 7/8
Fat Cattle	$5.50 @ $7.80

As slow as the English are said to be to see a point they are quoted as saying that President Wilson's popularity is because of the popularity of his measures with the people. Sure—he don't have to please the king, the nabobs or the dukes in this country—just deal right with the people.

Crop reports show that the average yield of wheat per acre in Belgium is three times as much per acre as in the United States—and we will bot dollars to doughnut holes that their land and climate are not naturally better than ours, but it is better farmed. One man there does not figure that he can properly farm a half section of land. More work on less land will bring us greater wealth.

As an argument against free sugar a paper has been circulated saying that to take the tariff off will ruin the sugar growers of this country, but they don't stop there as they should to make the talk impressive. The next paragraph says that it is a struggle to make sugar production keep up with the increased consumption of the article, and that the sugar producing sections or countries of the world are protecting by tariff and paying bounties to encourage the production of enough for the daily consumption. If the last statement is true, how can the removal of the duty hurt the sugar growers? Most any baby will cry when he loses his hold on the sugar teat. And the bigger and fatter he is the louder he will howl.

Some republicans and others are claiming that prosperity will not be scared away even by a democratic administration, and as evidence of the fact quote that at Duluth the wage price for common labor has advanced from $2.00 to $2.25 per day and that the supply is 2,000 short of the demand. The fact that the rubber trust has decreed to advance the price of rainproof clothing 5 per cent the first of June looks like prosperity for them. It is also quoted that the railroad earnings on a number of railroads in the north are the greatest for the past quarter in many years if not in their history. In fact most all classes of people are continuing to eat food and wear clothing, and that fact is the foundation upon which the great portion of business is based. We do not know what effect the tariff bill will have when it becomes a law—no one knows—but the people are not much scared yet about it.

Do You Want to Own Bonds

Those who have postal savings deposits and make application before June 2nd at the postoffice where they have deposits, may convert all or part of their savings into government bonds in denominations of from $20 to $500 bearing interest at the rate of 2 1/2 per cent from July 1, 1913, payable semiannually. This is not a large interest, but these bonds are exempt from all taxation, national, state, county and municipal, which makes another side to the question. These bonds are only issued upon postal deposits, but may be assigned later to any one, and the person to whom they are properly assigned may have the old bond taken up and a new one issued in his name. This is a safe investment unless the democrats utterly ruin the country financially, which a number of our republican friends predict that they will do. But government bonds have always been considered pretty good property these latter years. The owning of bonds does not restrict the amount of future deposits. They may be made to the limit the same as though no bonds were held. If you want to know more about this investment, apply to the postmaster.

Rev. Gorst Writes From Wyoming

Below is a letter from Rev. William Gorst, written to Clyde Oman in reply to a letter from Mr. Oman, which will be read with interest by the many friends of the Gorst family, who are anxious to know of his box car trip to the west, and condition of his health, so Mr. Oman was prevailed upon to permit us to give it to the Democrat readers. While not written for publication it contains much of interest to their friends:

Worland, Wyo., May 11, 1913.
Dear Brother Clyde: Your very kind and solicitous letters both to Judson and me as well as your many helpful services before we left Wayne, make us your debtors to be anywhere from one to eight inches, according to speed and the condition of the road bed. The vibrations were often as rapid as you could count one, two, three, etc., and it seemed to me that a good deal of the time my body was in mid air and that it never attempted to come down without being met by the bunk coming up so fast as to fling it back again into mid air. I was tempted to pray for the composure and type of slumber of the man who could always "go to sleep on the corner of a hurricane."

Then there is a wise man in Wayne who thought of another phase of the hobo life and brought me a "Colts." I filled its barrels and chambers and kept it handy; Very soon after, a fellow emigrant had told me of the murder of an emigrant in his car in Kansas City, not long before. A real hobo appeared at the door of my car, asked for a ride and had to be commanded and compelled to get down. I never was more glad of anything than I was that less than 12 inches from my hand lay concealed the handle of that "Colts" which would have whipped out in a quarter of a second on real demand. I shall not soon forget "Jack's" kindness and forethought.

On arriving here at 2:30 Monday, April 14, five neighbors with hay racks and wagon boxes were ready to take us out to the "Patch" and did it all out of pure good will, refusing any remuneration more than expressions of gratitude. We are getting along first rate in shack and tent and are getting our crops planted. Of course our main dependence is in the alfalfa and it looks fine. As we sat at dinner today and a rather brisk wind was blowing we observed that already the alfalfa is large enough to wave in the wind like you have seen the grain sometimes in Nebraska. But I have already written too long a letter and must close. Mrs. Gorst, Rachel and Jason join in sending most sincere regards to Mrs. Oman, the girls and yourself and friends. Fraternally,
WILLIAM GORST.

Logan Protests Against Sidetrack at Hoagland—People of Leigh Ask That Northwestern Be Compelled to Build Adequate Depot in That City.

Lincoln, May 14.—Tales of Nebraska-made money squandered in other states have been told to the state board of agriculture, but none more forcible have come to the attention of Secretary Mellor than two which have just been retailed to him from out in the state.

One is the tale of a Columbus man who spent $20,000 four years ago for a half section of rather undesirable Platte county land—and the other is the tale of a David City man who went west with his Nebraska earnings and sunk $10,000 in a Grand Junction (Colo.) fruit orchard.

The object lesson is brought out in the comparison of the stories as they were sent to the state official. Here is the one from Columbus:

"Four years ago Charley Freeman paid a little over $20,000 for a half section of 'swamp' land, two miles north of Columbus. Some of the wise ones snickered in their sleeves when talking of the price and said that the 'sucker had made a permanent investment.' These wise gentlemen are not saying anything just now, because last week Mr. Freeman sold one-half of that tract of land for $25,000 and can take a like amount for the other half any minute."

And here is the one from David City: "Mr. _____ purchased a fruit ranch at Grand Junction two years ago. He paid $10,000 for it. Last week the tract was sold at an administrator's sale for $1,500 and it is reported that two-thirds of the purchase price is to be paid in installments. The bottom has dropped out of Grand Junction investments because of poor industrial conditions in the valley of the Grand."

Logan Files Protest.
Harry O'Neill appeared before the railway commission to protest against a ruling of the commission compelling the Union Pacific Railway company to put in a siding at Hoagland, Logan county.

Mr. O'Neill represents the Loup Valley Townsite company, and complains that if the siding is put in at Hoagland it will damage the town of Logan, which has been promised a new depot. Hoagland is only four miles from Logan and it is feared by the citizens of the latter town that a siding so close to their village will hurt the growth and business of the town.

A petition and complaint combined was received by the commission from the business men of Leigh, asking that the Northwestern railway be compelled to build a new depot in that town.

STATE MEDICS IN SESSION

Hundred and Fifty Doctors at Omaha for Annual Convention.

Omaha, May 14.—Some 150 doctors are registered for the meeting of the Nebraska State Medical association at the Hotel Rome. A session of the house of delegates, which is the official body of the organization, was held. Members of the nominating committee were chosen to report nominations for the officers of the association.

"Of the million and a half deaths in the United States yearly, 42 per cent, or 630,000, are attributed to preventable causes," said President I. N. Pickett of the Nebraska State Medical association in his annual president's address at the opening of the association meeting.

Workmen Meet in State Convention.

Hastings, Neb., May 14.—The first day of the fifteenth biennial session of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Nebraska came to a close with a public reception at Ingleside, the state insane hospital. Mayor Ingraham welcomed the delegates and Grand Master Workman A. M. Walling responded. Former Grand Master J. R. Tate, now of Oregon, made an address.

Beatrice May Not Entertain Eagles.

Beatrice, Neb., May 14.—The local committee having in charge the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, to be held here June 10, 11 and 12, will call the meeting off unless they get some assurance that the delegates will be able to secure hotel accommodations. An effort is being made to have the Paddock hotel kept open until after the meeting.

Eastern Stars Convene.

Omaha, May 14.—The grand chapter of the Eastern Star, Nebraska jurisdiction, is in session at the Masonic temple, with about 700 delegates in attendance. The Eastern Star is an auxiliary of the Masons and only wives and daughters of Masons are eligible to membership. Like those of the Masons, its sessions are secret.

Governor to Speak in Beatrice.

Beatrice, Neb., May 13.—Governor Morehead notified President Paser of the Beatrice Commercial club that he would accept the invitation to attend the booster banquet and get-together meeting to be held in this city Thursday evening. Walt Mason of Emporia has also been invited to attend the meeting.

LIQUOR FIGHT NEXT YEAR

Woman's Suffrage Will Also Be Submitted to People in 1914 Campaign.

Lincoln, May 14.—People of the state are apt to see lively politics in the campaigns of 1914 and 1916, promise that there would be something provided for the consumption of the voters was made here when superintendent Carson of the Anti-Sale League announced that at next year's election woman's suffrage would be submitted to the people and in 1916 state-wide prohibition would be put up to the people.

The 1914 election, however, will not be devoid of the liquor question. For the effort will be made at that time to obtain the passage of a constitutional amendment limiting the number of saloons in the cities and towns of the state to one for every 500 inhabitants, to wipe out groceries from within two miles of any educational institution of the state and to make the possession of a federal liquor license prima facie evidence of the sale of liquor by the licensee.

According to Mr. Carson, the national organization wanted to have Nebraska get in line with other states and submit prohibition next year. A prearranged plan with the woman's suffrage organization of the state, however, made this impossible and the leaders determined to lay the matter over until the other question had been disposed of by the voters.

STORM IN NORTH NEBRASKA

Wind Does Damage at Scottsbluff, While Bloomfield Has Flood.

Scottsbluff, Neb., May 14.—A most severe hail and wind storm was general over this country. Hard, straight winds and small twisters wrecked dozens of barns and a few houses. The most severe wind was four miles east of Scottsbluff, where Henry Schaffer's house and barn were destroyed. Luther Mattox lost everything but his stone house. An eighty-barrel steel tank was carried two miles.

Tom Hall's camp was wrecked and his boy was brought to the hospital here, badly injured. E. W. Ebert lost two barns and one dwelling.

Mr. Ryan lost his house. His family of seven is absolutely destitute. They spent the night on the prairie. Relief parties are now being organized.

Telephone wires are down, so information of the extent of the storm damage is meager. Only one death so far is reported.

Heavy damage was done at Bloomfield by the sudden rise of Bazille creek, which was caused by a cloudburst. Nearly four inches of rain fell in the town.

WANTS DEFINITE PLANS

Interurban Proposition Must First Be Filed With Rail Board.

Lincoln, May 13.—C. W. Baker and H. P. Buhrman appeared before the railway commission in an endeavor to sound the commission as to how their application for permission to build an electric road from Niobrara to Sioux City would be received, providing one should be filed.

They propose to ask for an issue of bonds $7,000,000, to be sold at 72 cents on the dollar. Should the road be completed to Sioux City, another line will be extended from that place to Omaha and possibly from Niobrara to O'Neill.

The board gave them no assurance what would be done, giving them to understand that after plans were prepared and a proposition filed with the board the latter would be in a position to give an answer.

ANOTHER TURN FOR DIVORCE

Reynoldson Case Comes on Appeal From Wife.

Lincoln, May 13.—The celebrated Boone county divorce case of Reynoldson vs. Reynoldson will have another airing in the supreme court, Mrs. Reynoldson having appealed to the court to set aside the verdict of the Cherry county court, which gave her former husband, James Boyer, a divorce from a common law marriage. She sets out that she was never the common law wife of Boyer.

More Veterans Found.

More than 250 soldiers of '61 who fought in the battle of Gettysburg and who are spending their declining days in this state have been found and the number is steadily increasing. And correspondingly the troubles of the commission appointed to apportion the $4,000 fund for paying the car fares of the veterans to the Gettysburg reunion are increasing, for it is believed that the greater number of the old boys will want to go back to the celebration.

Injunction Delays Work on Big Ditch

Tecumseh, Neb., May 13.—It is likely it will be some time before contractor Herrick of the Johnson county drainage proposition will start his second dredge to work excavating along the Nemaha river west of this city. The Burlington Railroad company has enjoined the drainage board from doing any work on section 19, and that is where it was proposed to start the second dredge.

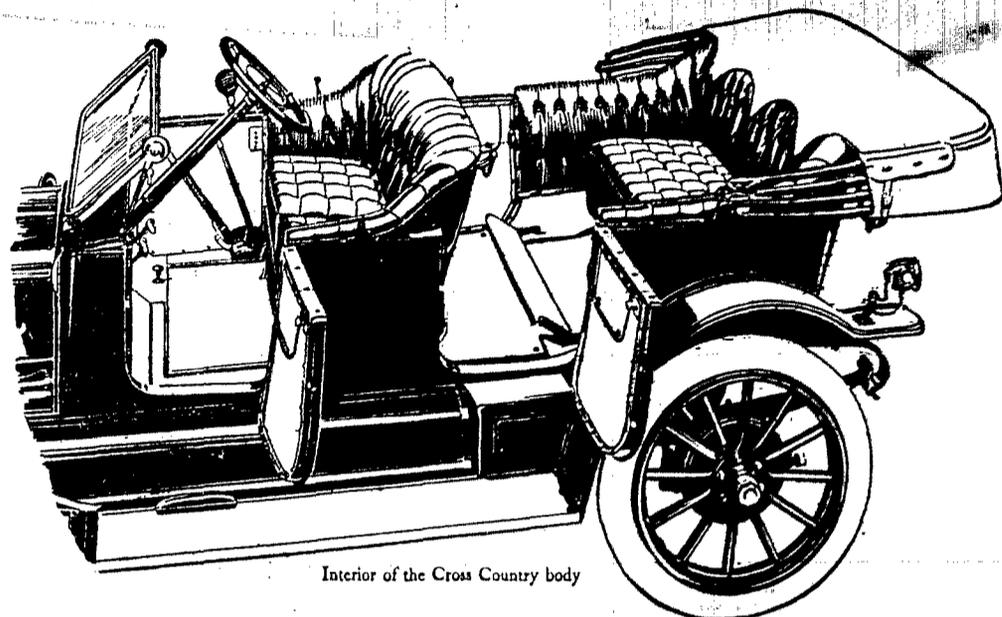

Start New Building.

Work began on the basement of the new agricultural building at the state fair grounds. As soon as the basement is completed bids will be made for the structure, which is intended to be a model in every way.

Miss Howard Ill.

Miss Gail Howard, daughter of State Auditor W. B. Howard, is very ill with pneumonia at the home of her parents in Lincoln.

Step into This Car and you will know Real Comfort

Interior of the Cross Country body

THERE is something rare and inviting about the comfort of the Cross Country that once it is experienced you will never quite forget. You enter through wide doors—20½ inches—that open fully, stepping easily from a running board that is clear.

The broad, carpet-covered foot rest in the tonneau is in just the right position for thorough relaxation. You sink down into the deep upholstery and lean back to find the pitch just right for perfect ease. The steady, deliberate action of the springs gives to one that pleasurable sense of modulated motion undisturbed by any jar. The forward seats are just the right height and the steering pillar may be adjusted at any angle to suit the comfort of the operator.

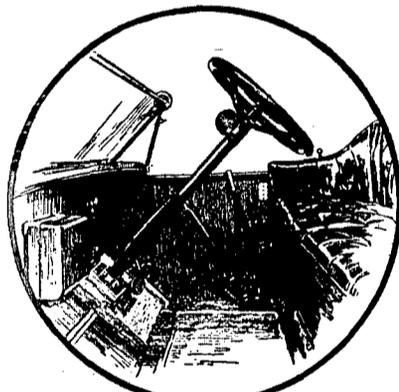

The hands rest comfortably on the steering wheel and the foot accelerator is so conveniently located and shaped that pressure may be applied with any part of the foot, always avoiding a cramped position.

You must experience the feel of the Cross Country wheel. It's a delight. It turns without a single vibrating jar. Your arms don't tire, your legs don't cramp.

To drive this car is exhilarating. Press the button with your foot. With hardly an audible sound the motor starts. A single movement of the lever—you touch the throttle and it's away.

Drive the car for ten minutes and you will grin in spite of yourself through rare delight.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brainard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Light Run of Cattle and Values Little Better.

HOGS STEADY TO SHADE HIGHER

Practically No Change in Lambs. Sluggish Trade Nearly All Day—No Yearlings or Aged Sheep in the Receipts—Shorn Lambs in Best Demand.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, May 13.—A very moderate run of cattle arrived today, about 2,580 head. Demand from the dressed beef men was not at all urgent and while buyers showed some interest in the desirable light and handy weight cattle and in some cases paid a little stronger prices for them, salesmen found a slow and unsatisfactory market for anything showing weight or lacking in quality. A rather better tone and greater activity featured the market for cows and heifers and prices in some cases were as much as a dime stronger than Monday. Veal calves continue firm and there was little noticeable change in the market for bulls, stags, etc. The stockers and feeder trade is very dull. Inquiry from the country is very limited and the movement sluggish at steady to a shade lower figure.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $8.25@8.50; good to choice beefs, $8.00@8.20; fair to good beefs, $7.75@8.00; fair to choice yearlings, $7.25@8.25; common to fair beefs, $7.00@7.70; good to choice heifers, $7.00@7.50; good to choice cows, $6.75@7.25; fair to good grades, $6.00@6.60; canners and cutters, $3.75@5.50; veal calves, $7.00@10.00; bulls, stags, etc., $5.75@7.25; choice to prime feeders, $7.75@8.00; good to choice feeders, $7.40@7.70; fair to good feeders, $7.00@7.55; common to fair feeders, $6.25@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $6.00@7.00.

Hog receipts footed up about 13,000 head. There was a good, active demand from all quarters today and while there was a good sized supply in sight, values braced a little and average looked to be a little stronger than Monday. The bulk of the supply went at $8.10@8.20, with a top of $8.25.

Nearly 10,000 sheep and lambs were received today. Buyers were slow in filling orders again today and as the market was liberally supplied for a Tuesday, most salesmen were satisfied in getting prices generally steady with Monday. Clipped lambs were most sought after and such grades sold up to $7.25. Clipped wethers brought $5.65.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

"The Presbyterian Church, Its History, Principles and Practices" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church by the pastor next Sunday morning. This sermon is occasioned by the fact that the Presbyterian church is holding its general assembly at this time at Atlanta, Ga. In the evening the congregation will unite with the other churches in the union Baccalaureate service which will be held at the M. E. church.

The illustrated lecture on India at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening was largely attended and was much appreciated by the congregation. Mr. D. W. Johnstone, representative of the Christian Lantern Slide and Lecture Bureau, of Chicago, gave the lecture, which was illustrated by a varied portrayal of life in India pictured on stereopticon slides. The scenes were beautifully colored and showed various castes, employments, modes of living, etc., which are found in India. The needs of the millions of that non-Christian country were pathetically evident from the pictures, but the gloom of their debasement was lightened as the lecturer described the modern awakening in India under the leadership of American missionaries who are winning converts to Christ in vast multitudes. One picture showed nearly 2000 converts to Christianity gathered together at one time awaiting Christian baptism.

The Boy Scout Class have had their room in the gallery fixed up, and have completed the furnishing of the room by adding a rug for the floor. This class is now taught by the pastor.

As a souvenir of the Mother's Day service last Sunday morning all the members of the Sunday school who attended the church services were presented with a button with a carnation flower on it. The buttons were the gifts of the pastor and were presented at the church door as the children came in by Joe Ringland and Knox Jones.

There was a large attendance of ladies at the Social Aid meeting at the home of Mrs. J. G. Mines last week. The usual social time was enjoyed and some new faces were welcomed at the gathering.

Morning worship Sunday—10:30. Sunday School—12 noon. Epworth League—7:30 p. m. Evening Worship—8 p. m. Prayer Service, Wednesday, 8 p. m.

Last Sunday we had a good hour together in appreciation of "Mother." A good audience was present, many faces new to us were to be seen. All were welcomed and others will be as cordially so.

Next Sunday morning the thought will be for the "Evangelization of the World" as the will of God. All ought to be interested in this subject and should join in the consideration of its claims upon us. We will appreciate every one's presence at that hour. The evening service will be given over to the high school for their Baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class. Rev. Blessing will be the speaker for the evening. The service is a union service and will be held at our church at 8 p. m.

Do not forget the Epworth League service at 7 next Sunday. Let all be prompt, so that we can dismiss promptly for the union service.

The Women's Missionary societies held their meeting at the parsonage last Friday afternoon. A profitable time was had in the discussion of the Mormon problem.

A cordial welcome was extended to brother W. L. Fisher and family on their return to our midst, and again taking up the master's work with us. Brother Grothe and family delighted us with their return from wintering in California.

Sister Buffington and daughter of Clinton, Iowa, formerly of Wayne were welcome visitors.

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

We had two delightful services last Sunday. The Mother's day program in the evening was heard with appreciation by a good audience. In about a month we shall give an evening service in behalf of Children's day. These special days emphasize commonplace, though great truths.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the subject: "An Interpretation of the Christian Life." The sermon will be expository, dealing with fundamentals.

In the evening at eight o'clock we shall join in the union baccalaureate services of the high school at the Methodist church. Rev. Floyd Blessing, the pastor of the English Lutheran church, will be the preacher. This will give all our people an opportunity to hear Mr. Blessing.

The young people will meet at 7 o'clock but adjourn earlier than usual. Miss Vallie Armacost is leader, the subject being, "The Stature of Christ—growing up to it."

On Sunday, May 25th the memorial services will be held in our church in the morning.

Beginning next Wednesday at prayer meeting we want to have the first of a number of Bible studies on subjects relating especially to our covenant. We trust these meetings will be largely attended. We always extend a glad hand of greeting to strangers and visitors.

German Lutheran Church

Rev. Rudolph Moehring, Pastor.

There will be no regular services at this church next Sunday, as the pastor will be at Atchison, Kansas, a delegate to the general Synod of the Lutheran churches which will then be in session at that place.

The New Council in Action

Monday evening was regular meeting of the city council and the mayor and all members were present at the city hall when the lights went out. After a tallow dip had been substituted for the dead electricity, the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The mayor appointed Dr. Frank C. Zoll health physician and the council confirmed the appointment.

C. E. Sprague asked permission to erect and maintain tanks for the storage of oils and gasoline for a wholesale business in these goods, and it was granted, the location to be approved by the mayor and council.

Bids for the position of street commissioner were opened and referred to the street and alley committee.

C. Classen presented to the council the protest of a number of citizens asking that certain stock be restrained from the public streets, and the matter was referred to the chief of police.

The light and water question was then carefully gone over, after which the council adjourned, blew out the candle and went home to consider the question until eight o'clock the next morning, when they met again, all being present except councilman Lewis.

At this meeting they unanimously adopted a resolution declaring that an emergency exists making it necessary for immediate action in the matter of providing some new equipment for the light and power plant of the city—a new boiler being the first and most urgent need to supply. A 150 h. p., horizontal boiler was ordered for immediate delivery, together with 60 feet of stack, and all of the standard equipment necessary to put the boiler in the best of shape, the best which could be bought, at a contract price of $1293 laid down at Wayne.

It will require nearly two months to get this boiler here and installed ready for service, according to the time usually required for such work. In the mean time the larger of the old boilers which went out of commission Saturday night for a time, has been repaired, a number of the new flues being installed, and the small boiler will soon again be in shape for duty to its full capacity. This boiler has been in bad shape for some time, and not used for a time until Sunday evening when it was used to pump a little and furnish a few lights which were hooked together on a circuit last winter during an emergency time. The same circuit was all that was given light Monday evening after eight o'clock. While the boilers are in such condition that they could not carry the winter light load, with care they will probably run along for the summer load very nicely, by cutting off the street lights for an hour some evenings when the other load is heaviest. There was no power for about three hours Monday morning.

The people of Wayne may congratulate themselves that they have not been inconvenienced much more than they have in the past—for we know it is no uncommon thing to have light out for considerable time in places fixed as we are here, and the fact that there has been so little trouble to the public speaks well for the management of the plant in the past few months.

Ernest Harringfeldt shipped four cars of cattle to South Omaha the first of the week. Wednesday Daniel McManigal went to the same market with two car loads, and Doc Surber took two cars of fat hogs in. L. M. Owen and Jas Grier each sent a car of hogs to Sioux City.

The Modern Woodmen at their regular meeting Tuesday evening finished up initiatory work with a "Dutch Lunch" which was enjoyed by those present very much. Since the rate question of this order is likely to remain in the hands of the membership it is again having work to do.

Major O'Brien is to appear at the Crystal this evening and tomorrow evening and do some of his wonderful gun juggling acts. He is one of the most noted in his line of work and the wonder is that a man with one arm in the grave can handle a gun in a way that a man with two good arms cannot equal. His work has proven a great attraction in all large cities.

Rev. F. Klinschewski of the German church southwest of Wayne and August Wittler, left Wednesday morning for Nebraska City to attend the Nebraska annual conference of that church body. They will remain until the first of next week.

B. R. Atkinson and wife of the Carroll Index were stranded here Tuesday by the storm-stranded trains on the branch. They were on their way home from Stanton, where they had been to attend the funeral of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery of that place. The little one who passed away was but three years of age, and had never been a strong child, and yielded to the combined attack of rheumatism and pneumonia.

Mrs. W. H. Billeter of Carroll, who was called to see her son, W. L., at Luceland, Saskatchewan, Canada, returned this morning, reporting that she left the young man much better, and able to be up and about. Of the trip, she said it seemed almost unending, taking about eighty hours of constant travel. Wheat is looking well there, but oats are not up yet, and the season is cold, and slight snows have fallen recently.

The Bible Study circle was graciously entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Corkey. There was a good attendance considering the weather. The discussion of the interesting lesson was led by Mrs. Arthur Likes. Rev. Corkey's presence and helpful remarks were also very much appreciated. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Oliver Graves.

P. M. Corbit and wife left this morning to visit friends of other days in the east. They will visit at Lewis and Des Moines, Iowa, after which they plan to go to Pennsylvania and the eastern part of New York state, the homes of their childhood, and spend the summer with numerous relatives and viewing places of interest. Mr. and Mrs. Corbit have been residents of Wayne county for thirty years and have lived in the west much longer, and it has been many years since Mrs. Corbit has seen the home of her childhood.

C. A. Grothe, wife and son Marion, who have been spending the winter in California, returned last week and are once more at home in Wayne. Mr. Grothe says that California is a nice place in which to live if one has nothing else to do, but it is his opinion that the opportunities of the middle west are better for the average man than in California. Outside of speculation he thinks there is less chance to make a success there than here, for example. The man with an orange grove is at a big expense; when a crop fails the expense goes on just the same, except the cost of harvesting. The chance of some damage from frost in the part he visited, not far from Los Angeles, he thinks are fully as good for frost as to miss it. Mrs. Dean, who accompanied them remained for the summer with a son at Sebastopol, where they last visited.

Miss Lena Lush closed a successful term of school in district No. 14, known as the Abbott school just north of Wayne last Friday, and Saturday went to visit Winside friends over Sunday. The last of the week she is planning to go to Page to join her sisters who moved there in the spring.

Conrad Hoffman and wife and his mother were here from Grand Island last week to visit George Guenther and wife. Mr. Hoffman is a brother to Mrs. Guenther and they came to make the visit with his mother who arrived in America from Russia about a month ago. She is a lady of about 70 years of age and will make her home with children in America the rest of her days as she has but one son living in the old country and he is planning to move to this country soon.

The executive committee of the southeastern Nebraska educational association met in Lincoln yesterday. The next meeting of the association will be held here. Heretofore it has always been held at Beatrice. The officers present were: W. N. Delzell; J. H. Kemp, Wayne, president; E. Clippinger, Sutton, vice president, and Wilson Tout, North Platte, secretary-treasurer. A change has been made in the rules of the association. Heretofore the contests have been divided into three heads, dramatic, oratorical and humorous, and all of the contests have been held at the same place and on the same date. Hereafter the three divisions will hold separate contests at different places and on separate dates.

The "fact and comment" column of the Youth's Companion of March 27 contained the following comment on the method of teaching agriculture at the Fairfield school: "The way they teach agriculture in the high school of Fairfield, Nebr., may have in it something helpful for other high schools in prosperous farming communities. The class in agriculture visits the neighborhood farms, and the farmers turn teachers for the occasion. If the farm is a stock farm, for example, the farmer gives the class a short account of the particular stock that he breeds, gives his reasons for breeding it and describes his methods of feeding, handling and marketing. To this lecture the pupils come primed with all the facts they can get from textbooks and teachers—the facts that spring into life and interest as the students of theory talk with the man of practice."

Norfolk is elated over the landing of an independent creamery at that place the past week, and well she may be. Parties from Newman Grove have been induced to locate there and build a large cement building, modern, sanitary and up-to-date in every way. Fortunately is the town and more fortunate are the farmers of the surrounding territory of that town that have an independent creamery. It is a well known fact that in such towns the price paid for milk or cream is higher than in the towns where the trust or centralized creamery have things their own way. Hundreds of towns over the state are offering a bonus to independent concerns to come in. They realize their value in drawing trade.—Pierce Call.

Wayne is fortunate in having such a creamery and it means money to the dairy farmers near here.

When people get married they always want a certificate showing that fact, but it is seldom that application is made for a certificate showing they are not married. Yet County Judge Moulds had a caller last Tuesday who requested such a document from him. It was Miss Marie Dorothea Frieda Heins. For about a year Miss Heins has been visiting with friends in Buffalo precinct and expects to soon return to her native land, Hanover, Germany. When she gets home it may be that she will elect to get married, that the authorities there are so careful as to demand proof from a person who has spent some time abroad that he or she did not enter into the married state while absent. For this reason she requested the judge to furnish her a certificate that she was never married while in his jurisdiction. He did so and fair Miss Heins departed beaming with happiness at having secured the document.—Dawson County Pioneer.

The storm which visited us Monday night extended well over the eastern part of the state, and at Omaha Tuesday morning was a heavy rainfall accompanied by some hale and a brisk wind.

I want to have a frank face-to-face talk with you about my chick feed.

I do not claim to have any patent right on honesty, nor do I claim that I am the only one that can manufacture good chick feed. But here are a few points that are worthy of your consideration. I do not run a mill to manufacture oatmeal, nor kindred products. We do not handle wheat, kafir corn, cracked rice, ground peas for any other purpose than for our chick feed. Consequently, we do not have any screenings, dust or dirt to get rid of by working them into chick feed, like the big mills do. When I began this department of my business the handling, of it was put in the hands of the writer, with this strict injunction to make only the best. This we have steadily adhered to.

QUANTITY Will Follow QUALITY

Always, and that is just what it has done for us. Our sales in 1912 were double those of 1911, and that has been about the ratio of increase ever since we began. Prices Paid for Butterfat in Nebr.

Hoard's Dairyman:—
In the February 14th issue of Hoard's Dairyman, under the heading, "Nebraska Dairymen's Convention" appears the following: "A letter came to us in January from Nebraska stating that only 27 cents was being paid for butterfat at that time. We found in Minnesota that a large, well managed co-operative creamery in the month of December paid an average of 37 cents per pound for butterfat. This is a difference of 10 cents per pound in favor of the Minnesota farmer."

Doubtless it was not intentional on the part of Hoard's Dairyman, quoting a December price in the Minnesota case and a January price in that of Nebraska, yet it is true, as the writer is informed, that the Elgin quotation for butter (on which the price paid for butterfat is usually based) in December, 1912, was 34.5 cents as compared with 33.1 cents in January, 1913, or a difference of 1.4 cents in favor of the December quotation. In the absence of definite information is it unreasonable, in making comparisons, to call the Minnesota price 35.6 cents in January instead of 37 cents as the Dairyman's statement would seem to infer?

There are three systems of operating creameries in Nebraska: First the centralizer plan under which cream receiving stations are maintained the year round at the nearest trading point of every farmer in the state; at such stations cream is received daily in any quantity from a few pounds up, and cash paid for the butterfat on delivery. The expense of maintaining a cream receiving station is about two cents per pound of butterfat received and the transportation charges average approximately one cent per pound to the central creamery, making an expense of about three cents per pound to receive and deliver the butterfat at the place of manufacture.

Information in the hands of the writer taken from the books of centralizer creameries, discloses that the average price paid at cream receiving stations for butterfat in the months of January and February, 1913, was 29.9 cents, making the cost delivered at the creamery plant approximately 33 cents.

Second. The direct-shipper plan of creamery operation. Under this plan the farmer delivers his cream, in can lots, to the nearest railroad point whence it is shipped direct to the creamery and payment therefore remitted to the shipper without delay. The transportation charges on such cream shipments is approximately one cent per pound of butterfat, charges being paid by the purchaser.

Any farmer in Nebraska who so desires and who produces cream in can lots can readily find a market for his cream on the direct-shipper plan. From information in the hand of the writer, taken from the book of local independent creameries operated on the direct-shipper plan, it appears that 34 cents was paid the farmer for butter fat in December, 1912, making the cost to the creamery 35 cents delivered. Also the average price paid for butter fat by such local and direct-shipper creameries in January and February, 1913, was 32 cents equivalent to 33 cents delivered.

From the best information in possession of the writer, there are but four co-operative creameries in Nebraska which have been in operation a sufficient length of time to warrant being considered as financially successful. From one of the oldest and most successful of such co-operative creameries, information in the possession of the writer discloses that in the month of January and February, 1913, for hand separator cream this co-operative creamery paid an average of 34 cents per pound for butterfat delivered at the creamery, payment being made at the close of each month.

For the purpose of what the writer deems a fair comparison of prices paid for butterfat, it is assumed that the Minnesota price of 37 cents for butterfat in December, as quoted in Hoard's Dairyman, was for butterfat from whole milk delivered daily at the creamery, the skimmed milk being hauled back to the farm, and that such butterfat, on the basis of Elgin market quotations for butter, would have been worth an average of approximately 35.6 cents in January, 1913.

In the case of the Nebraska co-operative creamery, the average cost to the creamery, in the months of January and February for butterfat delivered, was 34 cents and the farmer received 34 cents.

In the case of the Nebraska local creameries operated on the direct shipper plan, the average cost, delivered, for butterfat in January was 35 cents of which 32 cents was paid to the farmer.

In the case of Nebraska centralizer creameries (having headquarters in Lincoln and Omaha) operated on the cream-receiving-station plan the average cost delivered during the same period was 33 cents of which 30 cents was paid the farmer.

The difference which many times prevails in the quality of the cream delivered together with the difference in the expense of receiving and delivering under the different plans of operation herein mentioned, readily account for differences in prices paid patrons.

The average Nebraska prices paid for butterfat so far as herein given are authoritative, and while some persons in the state may have sold butterfat in December for 27 cents, yet it is true that any farmer who produced a good quality of cream in can lots so that he could ship direct to a creamery, and who sold such cream for 27 cents, received less than the market price, for he could have found numerous purchasers at 34 cents delivered at his nearest shipping point and an average of 32 cents in January and February.

In the practical operation of these three plans it has been found that quite large per cent of those to whom dairying is a sort of side issue in their farming operations, and who sell cream in varying quantities from a few pounds to a can or more at a time, prefer to sell to a cream receiving station for a less price per pound, receiving cash on delivery, rather than to sell to their local co-operative creamery and receive payment at the close of the month or to sell on the direct shipper plan and receive payment some days later.

The statement in Hoard's Dairyman, before quoted, without any qualifying conditions, leads many uninformed people to implicitly believe that by establishing local independent, or co-operative creameries in a locality, dairymen can receive ten cents per pound more for butterfat than under present creamery conditions in Nebraska, and such a statement in Hoard's Dairyman is an all powerful argument in the hands of the unscrupulous creamery promoter, and is enabling him at the present time to promote, in this state, $8,000 and $10,000 creamery plants, one for instance, in a county having an average rural population of less than three to the square mile and an even less average dairy cow population.

In the past 27 years, as shown by the records of the Nebraska Dairyman's Association, millions of dollars have been wasted in Nebraska in the attempt to establish local independent and co-operative creameries in localities in which there was not sufficient dairy cow population to support such creameries.

S. C. BASSETT, Sec'y Nebraska Dairymen's Ass'n. (We are pleased to receive Mr. Bassett's communication for it does three things: First, it presents to our readers the average price paid for butterfat in Nebraska. Secondly, it lets the dairy farmer know whether he has been receiving a fair price for his fat, and third, it calls our attention to a statement made by us which on its face seems considerably out of the way. The letter referred to in the paragraph quoted by Mr. Bassett came to us before the January price of butter had fallen below the average of 33.5 cents and therefore the average price of butter for December was only three-fourths of a cent per pound higher instead of 1.4 cents as Mr. Bassett's figures show. In our calculations we should have taken this into account.—Eds.)

Digs Up Old Relic

The Crispin Motor Car Co., of Harrisburg, Pa., who handle the Cadillac in that city, aroused a great deal of interest during the recent automobile show by showing on the streets an antique car built in 1902, of the so-called "one-lunged" variety. The old engine, which had done service for 11 years, was pulled out and the Delco electric system, removed from 1913 Cadillac, and installed in its place.

The cranking device had power enough to run the old car about the city of Harrisburg traveling more than four miles on the battery charge.

A sign exhibited on the car read: "Evolving Some—the 1913 Cadillac Self Starter is the Sole Motive Power propelling this Ancient Relic."

Washington Political News

(By Geo. F. Wilson)

Washington, May 10.—Declaring the belief that in casting his vote for an income tax, he was carrying out the desire not only of the Democrats of his district, but of 90 per cent of the rank and file of Republicans and progressives as well, Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner of Illinois made a speech on the floor of the House, on the income tax, which was given close attention by both Republicans and Democrats.

As a Washington newspaper correspondent, Tavenner has been advocating an income tax for years. Many of his articles on the subject have been sent broadcast over the country by the Democratic Congressional Committee. Tavenner's speech was warmly applauded in the Democratic side.

"When I went before the voters, in the campaign last fall," said Tavenner, "I made the declaration, repeating it over and over, that should I be elected, I would make a conscientious endeavor to ascertain how they desired me to vote on important legislation, and then vote that way. I made that declaration in every good faith. I desire no greater tribute when I shall conclude my service in this House, than that the people of my district may say of me: 'He made a practice of ascertaining how the people of his district desired him to vote on even the simplest piece of legislation, and then voted that way.'"

"In keeping with my pre-election promise, it is my intention to cast my vote, on behalf of the Fourteenth Illinois district, for the income tax. I believe in all sincerity, Mr. Chairman, that in doing so, I am carrying out the desires of not only the Democrats of my district, but of fully 90 per cent of the rank and file of Republicans of my district, and of the progressives, socialists and prohibitionists.

"The income tax is a part of the program of this side of the House to reduce the ever increasing cost of living in this country. The program, and it is being carried out, is to take some of the tax off of such articles as woolens, cottons, sugar, meat and lumber, and then to make up for the loss of this revenue to the government by levying a tax on the incomes of the wealthy. Strange to say, up to this moment wealth has not been taxed to the extent of a single penny to defray the expenses of the national government. This is almost unbelievable, but it is absolutely true, and will not be denied on this floor or elsewhere.

"It is true that wealth is taxed for the benefit of cities counties and states, but revenue for building battleships, maintaining the army and navy, and running the national government, is obtained solely by taxing the things eaten, worn and used by the people. Since the poor eat as much as the rich, and wear clothing on which the tariff tax is higher than on the qualities worn by the rich, it is obvious that the poor contribute as much toward bearing the burden of national taxation as do the rich. Under the present fiscal system of the United States, nearly everything is taxed save wealth. Wealth alone is excluded from taxation. And I submit that wealth should be the first thing to be taxed. The pending bill, removing a very moderate portion of the burden of taxation from the bending backs of the poor, and placing it on the rich, who are best able to bear it, will go down in history as the fairest, and most progressive measure ever presented to Congress with hope of passage.

"Mr. Chairman, I do not believe that it is just that the men who own 90 per cent of the wealth of the United States should bear but 10 per cent of the burden of taxation. If members agree with me, that such a condition is unjust, then I submit the pending bill as a move in the right direction to remedy it."

More About Large Eggs

Fred Haasman last week reported a large egg, measuring over seven inches, from a barred Plymouth Rock. He has been studying government bulletins about hens, and then doing a little figuring for conclusion. As a result of his calculations he is satisfied that if eggs were sold by weight instead of count that in most cases some of the greatest egg producing hens, by count, would not longer be counted the greatest egg producer. He finds that some breeds of hens that on an average lay a less number of eggs really produce more egg by weight than some that lay a greater number. Taking the average number and multiplying by the average weight he finds that the records show the Plymouth Rocks hold first place. All of which goes to show that eggs should be sold by weight.

PRODUCING BABY BEEF PROFITABLY

On $200 an acre land A. Moffit & Sons of Mechanicsville, Ia., successfully raise and mature beef cattle. They carry this on and farm for the very good reason that they find it very remunerative, says the Orange Judd Farmer.

A few years ago these gentlemen saw the handwriting on the wall—scarcity of young cattle, scarcity of beef and high prices. They prepared themselves to garner greater profits by establishing a herd of cattle and studying the best methods of producing baby beef, the most profitable and economical method of maturing beef cattle if thoroughly understood. It is a work that can be carried on in any part of the country where there is pasture, hay and corn, plus knowledge.

"Our cows are grades, but of a good class," stated the junior Moffit. "and

The Aberdeen-Angus is one of the most popular breeds of beef cattle and is constantly growing in public favor. In recent years this breed, which had its origin in Scotland, has carried away many of the prizes at the large fat stock shows. While it does not attain so heavy weights at maturity as some of the other breeds, the Angus fattens easily and rapidly and lays the flesh on parts that bring the high prices at the butcher's block. It matures early and is a ready seller on the market at top prices.

we have only pure bred bulls. Those who would get the best results should not stint on the price when it comes to quality in beef cattle. The best is none too good, whether the cattle are to sell as breeders or to be put on the market as beef. We specialize on baby beef because it is the most profitable. We allow the calves to suck their mothers instead of limiting them to skim milk. This is the best plan where the dairy phase of the business is not carried on. After a few weeks the calves are not allowed to run with their mothers all day, and they are taught to eat grain as early as possible. The grain is fed dry after the calves have had their milk. We avoid feeding grain that is either damp or starting to decay, as calves fed such grain would soon develop indigestion, something that should by all means be avoided. It is very hard for calves to overcome a setback. They are not different from a baby in this respect. Properly cared for, calves on a milk diet will thrive mightily on a mixture of corn and oats and a small quantity of lused oil meal. When weaned they should not be allowed to have a hungry hour.

The Moffits do not favor the skim-milk diet for calves where they can be allowed to suckle their mothers. They have found that skim milk raised calves fail to broaden out properly and do not mature as early as desired with land so high in price and labor so scarce. Their experience in that respect is right in line with an experiment conducted at the Michigan experiment station, where one lot of calves was fed skim milk and the other lot allowed to suck their mothers.

The calves which were suckled by their dams had an average weight at six months of 436 pounds, at twelve months 740 pounds and at eighteen months 995 pounds. Corresponding weights for those fed skim milk were 289 pounds, 632 pounds and 966 pounds, respectively. It will be noted that the suckled calves weighed sixty-seven pounds at six months and eighty-eight pounds at twelve months more than the skim milk calves. Just the ages when they should be developing rapidly into baby beef under skillful care and wise grain feeding; also the suckled calves consumed considerably less grain and hay than the skim milk calves. As a beef cattle question baby beef can be more satisfactorily produced by the suckling plan.

Wounds on Horses.
A suitable application for a wound on a horse is a mixture of two ounces of sulphate of zinc, half an ounce of chloride of zinc, one dram of dilute hydrochloric acid and one pint of water. Label the bottle "Poison" and shake before use. Apply twice a day to surface of wound. Then dust with a mixture of equal parts of tannic acid, powdered alum and boric acid.

Handle the Colts.
Get the colts accustomed to having their legs and feet handled while they are young. Then they will not be so apt to be "troughy" about having chains and straps dangling about them when they are older. Most colts like to have their legs brushed and cooled.

THE FLOCKMASTER.

Ewes that lose their lambs should raise some twin or orphan.

Watch a sheep that is seen to stretch. See if it is constipated. If so, give wheat bran and oil-meal.

Success in the sheep business depends as much or more upon the care taken as upon the sheep.

Lambs that become chilled may be saved by giving them hot coffee. Do not have it too hot. After administering a tablespoonful or two wrap them warm in a thick, dry horse blanket.

In the care of sheep great attention must be given to details.

Sheep are such sensitive creatures that little things in care and feed make for success or failure, no matter what the breed.

Fertility, which is daily becoming more of a need on every farm, is one of the sheep's strong virtues. Sheep eat and tramp everything which comes within reach into available plant food. —Farm Journal.

HANDLING CROSS RAMS.

Unless Animals Are of Extra Quality It Does Not Pay to Keep Them.

The ram that is so cross he has to be continually watched is an unmitigated nuisance, a constant menace and positive danger to women and children, and I have known men to be severely injured when attacked by a vicious ram unexpectedly. Pot rams are almost invariably cross, says E. P. Snyder in the Ohio Farmer. Familiarity seems to breed contempt. They lose fear for all humankind and improve every opportunity to show their fearlessness and indulge their pugnacious natures.

But this warlike trait has its merit. I have owned a good many cross rams, and they were invariably getters of strong, robust progeny. It is an indication of vigorous masculinity, and, while they have to be watched, rightly managed they are not dangerous to the flockmaster. By sidestepping their rushes and grabbing a horn as they pass they can be held till a little wholesome correction is administered. I have found their most vulnerable points to be nose and legs, and a good, sharp switching on these parts is quite effective for the time. While this punishment is of no permanent benefit to the ram, it always did me some good as I nursed my wrath and fondled the sore spots where my anatomy met the concussions.

Where rams are very bad I have partly blindfolded them with a piece of leather fastened to their horns. I knew one resourceful shepherd to use a novel device that effectually stopped their fighting. It is well known that rams cannot fight right unless they back away a considerable distance to get a start and gain momentum.

Hampshire Down sheep have the faculty of taking on flesh rapidly and producing a fine quality of mutton. Hampshires are hardy and mature early. The breed is common in the corn belt, as are Shropshires and Oxford. Even those with a strong bias for other breeds admit that no breed handles more kindly when skillfully fed than the Hampshire. In its native country the Hampshire has been a favorite for the production of mutton, lambs and wethers, and in America its crosses with the Merino have given a desirable type of early black faced lambs. The Hampshire ram shown is being used in breeding experiments at the Arizona experiment station.

He cut pieces of broom handles two and one-half feet long, sharpened one end, bored a hole in the other end, tied a string in it and to the ram's tail. It was amusing to see them try to back up to get a good start. The sharp end of the stick would run into the ground, and the other end would prod them in the rear. They would hump up and whirl around to see what was wrong behind and then try again, but the stick had a way of keeping in place, ready for business, until they entirely lost interest in the fight and peace prevailed.

Unless the chronic butter is pure bred and of extra quality it does not pay to keep him. Better dispose of him and get a good one that does not have to be watched everlastingly.

Grain For Horses.

In feeding corn to a horse it had better form the noon meal, and it should be fed in the ear form. Let the night and morning meals consist of five parts of whole oats and one part of wheat bran dampened with water. A 1,200 pound horse should not have more than twelve to fourteen pounds of grain a day when working hard and may take less when idle. Feed a light amount of hay, giving the greater part of it at night, and but one or two pounds of it at noon. Always give the drinking water before feeding.

104 fish to catch in one hour, by two fishermen sounds pretty fishy, but it's the truth. Brown and Chapin got it into their heads to go fishing Thursday morning in South Logan and after trying to persuade Jonas Ecker who was getting ready to leave for the west, to stay and go with them, but nothing doing, they made a hit for the creek and only one hour after, returned with 104 ranging in size from three inches to ten. They don't feel inclined to tell just where the lucky spot is but others will soon locate it.

Thursday morning, J. C. Ecker, laden with baggage and ample supply of fish worms, bade farewell to Winside, Wayne county and Nebraska and started on his journey to the western clime, where the weather is ideal and fishing is good the year round. He went from here to Denver, where he will visit a short time with his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ecker, and from there he goes to Estacada to join his family, who left a few months ago and most of all to be with the apple of his eye, Walden Boyle, his grandson. Estacada will claim him for a while, but there is one place in old U. S. A., which has a hold on him and will probably get him shortly and that is Flathead Lake, Montana. During Mr. Ecker's stay in Winside, and career in newspaperdom he has been a wideawake citizen, a good writer, always digging at something for the betterment of the community. He was greatly interested in politics, but only for the benefit of all, as never in his career has he carried any laurel and as far as records will show he has never held a political office. Among the Winsiders he was better known as plain Jonas, a good fellow and when an good game of Rummy was on foot, Jonas was hunted up to complete the set. His intention is to remain in the west, but however he still retains personal interests in Winside and without a doubt he will be back some day and visit old acquaintances before he reaches the majority.

The Madison Sewer

The city of Madison is putting in a sewer system and will dispose of the sewerage by means of the septic tank system. Last week the tanks were so nearly completed as to be inhabitable, and the commercial club at the invitation of the manager in charge of the work held a smoker in the new tanks. The only means of entrance was through a "manhole" at the top, and down a ladder. After numerous speeches, which were enjoyed by all, cigars were passed, and when the smoking started it did not take long to discover that the place was not very well ventilated, and there were rushes for the ladder which led to the roof door which was the only exit.

The tank built at Madison is 60 feet long and 30 feet wide and is divided into two equal sized rooms by a partition running lengthwise. It is built of re-enforced concrete, floor, sides, and roof, and the only openings are six manholes, the sewer intake and outlet.

The septic tank system is a comparatively new method of caring for sewerage. As noted above, the tank is divided into two parts, each 15 by 60 feet. The sewerage comes into one part where as it accumulates it sets up a fermentation, which continues until the sewerage is a comparatively pure liquid, which gradually filters into the other compartment where the work of self purification continues, and as it finally comes to the outlet, is water of more than 90 per cent purity, and with no filth retained which is injurious to the health of man or beast, and it thus passes away. We cannot even pretend to give the scientific description of the process, by which this change is brought about, but it works, and the system has been adopted in many large cities as a solution of a problem which was seriously vexing them because of the fact that there was objection and justly so to having the filth of the city dumped into the streams which formed the natural outlet for sewerage. The tanks may be built in any number to meet the needs of the city. In some places the farmers have small ones to care for their house sewerage.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church

Today Presbyterians in all parts of the country turn their eyes towards Atlanta, Georgia, as the great annual meeting of the denomination is being held in that city this year, beginning its sessions today. There are about eight hundred and fifty commissioned delegates in the Assembly, representing nearly a million and a half church members. Amongst the commissioners this year is Elder William Jennings Bryan, secretary of State; Elder Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, was also asked to address the gathering but his strenuous duties at Washington in connection with the special meeting of congress prevented his attendance. The Moderator of the Assembly, who opens the meeting with a sermon is Rev. Mark A. Matthews, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Seattle, Wash. This is the largest Presbyterian church in the world, having a membership of 5025. Dr. Matthews was in Sioux City, Iowa, last week, assisting at the dedication of a monument on Prospect Hill, and amongst the Wayne people who heard him were Rev. Alexander Corkey, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson. They were greatly pleased with his addresses, as he is a forceful, eloquent and able man. He is a man of intense religious convictions and declares that his call to preach came from heaven as really as the call came to Paul and Peter. He believes in the Holy Spirit as the guide of the present day church, and regards himself as led of the spirit in his work. "No one loafs on his job in my church," he declared recently. "We have no room for drones, parasites, idlers and indifferent people, or those afflicted with incurable laziness."

Dr. Matthews takes an active-interest in civic matters. He was the principle leader in a civic housecleaning in Seattle recently which put a chief of police and a number of ballot stuffers in the penitentiary, and cleaned out every gambling room and disorderly house from the city. The commissioners from Nebraska Presbytery, to which the local Presbyterian church belongs, are Mr. John D. Haskell of Wakefield and Rev. H. G. McClusky of Laurel, who left early this week for Atlanta.
