EIGHTH GRADE GRADUATES

Class of Sixty-Two Finish the Eighth Grade in County and Meet to Receive Certificates and Compliments.

It was a good sight to see a class of more than half an hundred and their friends and relatives at the court house Saturday to receive the diploma which stated that they had successfully passed all of the school work required to complete the eight steps arranged for the youth of the state to go up on their way to useful citizenship.

The program was brief and most excellent. After the opening prayer and song, U. S. Conn, president of the Normal at this place gave an address which was of much interest to both pupils and parents. He admitted the need of change in our system of education to something more practical. We teach much that is valuable, but not often applied in everyday life. He favors a radical change in our educational methods and would devote more manual training, domestic science, and practical things, cutting out the dead things that are never heard of after the school life is passed. He would not favor continuing a fixed course of study and making each and every child comply with it, but would find what the pupil seems best fitted for—what they best like and then instruct so as to aid them to become proficient and useful along those lines.

His words were full of good thought, and we hope to see a practical application grow from the sentiment expressed and worked out in the Wayne county schools. He would solve a lot of country school difficulty and inefficiency by the consolidated school, which he thinks could be made better for the pupils than a town graded school.

Superintendent Kemp in presenting the diplomas to the class gave with them the good advice to continue school work and finish the high school course at least, in some good school.

Eveline Stephens of Sholes, Eleanor Jones of Carroll and Madeline Stanton of Carroll were the three holding best grades in the county.

After adjournment the class and their teachers all met for a picture, which will be more and more valued as the years pass, and those who were members of this class will look back to this day with pleasant memory.

Green—Martini

Wednesday, June 4, 1913, at the Catholic parsonage by Rev. Wm. Kearns, Mr. Glenn H. Green of Hoskins and Miss Anna Martini of Winside were united in marriage. Frank Phillips was best man and Mrs. Green acted as bridesmaid. Mrs. Martini was also present.

The bridal party came by automobile and after the ceremony departed in the same conveyance. These young people are well known in the western part of our county and their friends wish them well.

A Great Wedding Reception

In some unaccountable manner the Democrat gave a wrong name to one of the grooms in its account of the double wedding at the Roggenbach home last week Wednesday. Miss Anna Roggenbach and Mr. William Peters were the two making one of the happy couples, and not W. H. Henry as erroneously given. This error, so far as we can learn, was the only thing to mar this happy occasion. Concerning the event a friend writes:

It was one of the great social events of the county, more than one thousand relatives and friends gathering to make merry with the two brides and grooms. A 15-piece band from Wisner furnished music during the afternoon and in the evening an orchestra from Wayne provided the very finest of dance music. No less than ten men were busy distributing cigars and liquid refreshments, while it required the services of a dozen handsome young ladies to wait upon the tables. It was the largest attended of any wedding in the history of this county. In spite of the fact that it was a most busy season the country farms for several miles around had the appearance of a Sunday afternoon, as there was no one at work. It was an inspiring sight when the bridal party retired from the church to the home near by, to the music of the band. The brides were both gowned in rich cream colored gowns, and the bridesmaids wore beautiful pink dresses.

Among those present from a distance were George Haas and wife, Medicine Lodge, Kansas; Geo. Miller and wife, Neola, Iowa; David Koch and wife of Winside; Henry Luers and wife, Wichita, Kansas; Thos. Dosson and wife, Beemer and Wm. Broscheit and wife of Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peters are at home on a farm four miles southeast of Wayne and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Armburst settle on a farm of the groom's father three miles west of Pilger.

Superintendent Oran R. Bowen

Superintendent Oran R. Bowen of West Point, who has been employed as special instructor in the summer session of the Wayne State Normal School, graduated from the Nebraska Wesleyan University with the degree of Ph. B. Later he entered the University of Nebraska and earned his Master's degree. The summer of 1912 was spent in special study at Harvard university.

His experience in public school work in Nebraska includes two years as principal at Dakota City, five years as superintendent of the Pierce schools, and he has been elected for the fourth time as city superintendent at West Point.

Mr. Bowen's success as a city superintendent attracted the attention of the state superintendent, and for four successive years he was employed in the Nebraska Junior Normal schools, serving one year at O'Neill and three years at Valentine, declining a re-election this year in order to accept the position offered him at Wayne.

Superintendent Bowen has a wide acquaintance among the school men of the state. In 1912 he was elected president of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' Association, and he proved an ideal presiding officer in the meeting recently held at Norfolk. During his stay in Wayne Mr. Bowen will make his home with Dr. and Mrs. George J. Hess.

Nebraska Editors as Preachers

In order that the preachers might have a chance to hear the "gospel" the editors of numerous papers from different parts of the state were asked to talk from the pulpits of the different churches of Omaha Sunday morning preceding the opening of the 41st annual meeting of the Nebraska Editorial association. And the editors spoke, and the daily press of the city gave a short synopsis of their sermons.

C. W. Pool, who besides being an editor is labor commissioner for this great state, spoke of the moral force of the press and compared it to the great, silent forces which move planets through space with an irresistible power—silent and mighty.

C. S. Hughes of Pender placed manhood above wealth in importance and true worth—and it takes real manhood to bring about the greatest good by aid of the press.

Mrs. Marie Weeks of the Norfolk Press made an excellent address in which she urged practical aid of all good people to build higher the morals of the community. She backed her appeal with a good theological talk and predicted that the time would come when there would be but one church, and the end of sin if not of the world would be at hand, and a universal brotherhood would truly exist.

Geo. W. Kelley of the Cedar county News worked in mention of such practical things as graft and disease to demonstrate the truth of his text, "A False Witness Shall Perish." He held that much wrong could be done by unjust taxation. He showed that the newspaper was a moral force when it published the misdeeds of other people—giving the evidence to the world that a diseased moral condition exists that it might be remedied.

H. Gordon Cross of St. Edward Sun held that morality is an economic question and that it must have practical support to grow. He said that press and preachers are afraid to tell what they know to be the truth.

O. O. Buck of the Newman Grove Reporter expressed the thought that the editors could talk to more people through their papers than from the pulpit. He claimed credit for the Nebraska press as a whole—its influence is good.

Anna Vio Gates of the Blair Tribune thinks the press does as much for advanced morality by omissions as by publication. She would criticize the advertising columns.

D. A. Geil of the Grand Island Press classed the press, the pulpit and the school as three great factors in the moral uplift of the state.

J. W. Tamplin of the Tekamah Journal claimed for the press the greatest power for good or evil in the state.

Will Maupin thought that if the press of the state was not doing all that it might to raise the morals of the state and quicken the onward march of social and civic reform that the fault might in part lay with the people. The people should hold up their hands as they did those of Joshua and then perhaps the press will prevail.

Death of William Oliver

The community twelve miles southwest of Wayne was saddened this week by the death of William Oliver, which occurred at his late home from typhoid fever Monday, June 2, 1913, this dread disease taking father and husband from loved ones in the prime of his life.

William Oliver was born at Cromwell, England, October 23, 1868, and he was 44 years, 7 months and 9 days of age when he was called home. He was united in marriage February 12, 1896, to Miss Susan Smith at Wayne, and they have since resided in this county. The wife and four sons survive him, besides two brothers and two sisters. The brothers, one of Wisner and the other from England were with his family at the funeral held at the Baptist church of this place Wednesday, when the last sad rites were conducted by Rev. B. P. Richardson and burial made in the Wayne cemetery. The two sisters were not present, one living in Michigan, the other in England.

Summer School's Successful Start

The summer session of the State Normal School which opened Tuesday brings together the largest body of teachers that ever assembled in Wayne. From the number of inquiries received prior to the opening of the term, and the applications made for rooms in the dormitories, it had been known for some time that the session of 1913 would be unusually large. Before the opening date of the term every room owned by the state had been engaged, and President Conn feared that some difficulty might be experienced in finding rooming places. However, the citizens of the town responded nobly to a call for help, and every student who has registered has been properly taken care of.

At the first chapel service Tuesday morning more than 300 were registered and ready for work, which was increased to over 400 at the close of the second day.

Not only is the number in attendance very gratifying to the management of the school, but the present student body excels that of other years both in the large number of experienced teachers in attendance and in the number registered for advanced work in the course. Fourteen members of the class of 1913 remained for the summer session, some completing required work for their life certificate, and others taking post-graduate work. Six graduates of the scientific class of the Nebraska Normal College are taking credit work for the completion of the advanced course of the Normal.

Classes begin at 7 o'clock in the morning and work continues until 3:45 in the afternoon, and there is represented on the daily program subjects required for all grades of county and state certificates issued in Nebraska. All of the regular teaching force continues in the summer session except Miss Elsie Ford Piper and Miss Sara J. Killen, who were granted a leave of absence by the Board for study and travel abroad. Special teachers employed during the summer are Supt. O. R. Bowen of West Point, Supt. C. M. Matheny of Emerson and Miss Edith E. Beechel.

The registration cards show that practically the entire school is made up of Nebraska teachers, with a few enrolled from adjoining states. Referring to the enrollment by counties, as might be expected Wayne county leads with 71 in attendance. Then follow in order Knox with 45, Cedar 30, Madison 25, Dixon 20, Antelope 18, Burt 16, Holt 15, Pierce 14, Dakota 10, Boyd 9, Stanton 6, Thurston 8, Cuming 6, Sheridan 5, Platte 4, Rock 4, Washington 3, Greeley 3, Brown 3, Boone 3, Blaine, Box Butte, Butler, Colfax, Deuel, Dodge, Otoe, Phelps, Sarpy and Saunders are also represented in the enrollment with less than three students each.

State Normal Notes

The training school organized Tuesday morning with work represented in Kindergarten, and in grades one, two, three, four, five, seven and eight.

Because of illness Supt. A. H. Dixon was not able to meet his classes Tuesday. In the absence of Supt. Dixon the work assigned him is being very ably conducted by Supt. C. M. Matheny of Emerson.

The State Normal lecture course for the summer will be opened on Friday evening, June 6th by Dr. J. R. Gettys of Grand Island. Dr. Gettys is a member of the normal board of education, and it is hoped that he will be given a large hearing when he appears before a Wayne audience next Friday evening.

The Normal is glad to be able to announce an exceptionally strong lecture course for the summer term session. Dr. J. R. Gettys will appear on Friday evening of this week; Dr. A. E. Winship of Boston, editor of the New England Journal of Education, and Dr. P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education, Washington, D. C., has each been secured for an evening lecture; and a first-class musical is scheduled for the second week in July.

Louis Nieman is here from Bennington visiting a few acquaintances, the Harder, Miller and Shulties families. He came here to locate twenty years ago, but did not conclude a deal.

Committed a Crime

Such we think is but a just statement with which to head a notice of the marriage of Bert Farnham, a farm hand who had been at work on the Perry ranch and Ethel Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald who live at the ranch and make a home for the other help. The marriage was by Judge James Britton to whom the couple came for license and marriage. The age of the girl was given as 17 years, which is now reported to be but 14. They brought with them the written consent of the mother, which she claims is a forgery—and that she did not know of the contemplated marriage.

After the marriage the groom is said to have begun to celebrate and make threats against various people who criticized his marriage, and whom he appeared to think were not his friends. So earnest were his threats that a peace warrant was sworn out for him, and he remained in the county jail over Sunday, unable to secure bail, and at a hearing Monday was placed under bond to keep the peace, and has gone to another neighborhood to live, while the young girl whom he induced to marry him with her parents, and legal steps are being taken to have the marriage annulled. When such a case comes to light in a community there is no one but that regrets the fact that Governor Morehead vetoed a certain law of sterilization last winter. It is a case for such a law.

A New Shoe Firm

This week there came to Wayne S. Reppert and family from Wahoo, and located in the house of Grant Mears between 2nd and 3rd streets. Mr. Reppert and his son, E. L. Reppert have purchased the Jeffries shoe stock and came with the purpose of conducting an exclusive shoe store on a strictly cash plan. One man's money will look the same as another's—and there is to be no credit. The senior partner comes with 25 years of mercantile experience and the son "grew up" in a store. Mr. R. is a brother-in-law to Wm. Beckenhauer and their coming to Wayne may have been influenced by the fact that they have relatives here, but the opening here for an exclusive shoe house seems to have appealed more. They have announcement elsewhere of their Saturday opening.

Mr. Jeffries and wife are to continue in business at Wayne, we are glad to say, and will deal in millinery and other wear for ladies—another exclusive store.

Fiencing Farmers

Emerson Brown of Lyons, one of the pioneer settlers of Wayne county arrived in Wayne Friday, to attend the meeting of the stockholders of the Independent Harvester Co., who came in to hear a report on that company by W. H. Green of Creighton. Mr. Brown moved to Burt county twenty-nine years ago and sold his farm last year. The salesman of the Independent Harvester Co., prevailed upon Mr. Brown that he would get from fifteen to twenty per cent interest or dividends on his money and he invested $5400.00 in the concern. For the past three months he has been carrying on a diligent investigation and he says the company has never paid a dividend and that there is no prospect that it is going to.

In another column the Democrat gives an extract from the Chicago Tribune in regard to this very matter.

Davis admitted the crime and professed to have been under the influence of "dope" which he declared he had used for ten years. Davis was sentenced four years ago to five years imprisonment for highway robbery. He was paroled recently.

S. H. Anderson of Norfolk, one of the men interested in the David Cole Creamery Co., was here Friday visiting the local station. Mr. Anderson has long followed the creamery business and is well informed as to all sides of the butter question. In speaking of an article which appeared in a recent issue of the Democrat which made comparison of the prices paid for butter fat in this state and Minnesota, he expressed the opinion that the difference noted in the prices paid in the two states were due to the fact that there was a difference in the quality of the product. In Minnesota the conditions are nearly ideal—there they largely make the dairy the leading farm feature, and take more pains with cream, deliver it regularly and often. He says that the greatest advantage in butter quality which the whole-milk creamery has over the one which takes the cream by itself, lies in the fact that the milk is delivered daily and regularly and in the best of condition. If all would deliver their cream often and in good condition it would be worth more, and would bring the farmer more. He admitted that they could not grade cream according to value as they should, and would like to do, because there is always some fellow who will butt in and slop over to get the cream, and take an inferior article for more than it is worth, expecting to play even by getting a good bunch at the same price and averaging even.

The New Need in our Schools

A sensible man is A. B. Vissler, superintendent of the North Plainfield, N. J., public school—an educator who is aware of what is chiefly wrong with our present public school system—the fact that it puts most of its energies into fitting a few to live by their wits from the labor of others, and does not do what it should for the many who in later life must earn their living.

In consequence he is going as lightly as possible on trigonometry and Greek and has begun classes in milking cows, raising chickens and making a garden.

"Not cultural," did we hear someone say? Why, bless you, that all depends on how these practical subjects are taught. Of course, if the teacher is only a $400-a-year, make-shift teacher, doing the work because it is the easiest work to do while fitting for something else, then it's quite likely that the teaching will be in proportion, whatever the subjects taught.

But a real teacher couldn't want a better chance to draw out the capacity of pupils, to inspire their souls with the passion for knowledge and for useful and stimulating achievement, than by teaching how to make things or how to grow things, with the infinite variety of art and science that are collateral.

To teach these live subjects requires, in addition to a vital teacher, a fitting school plant—a school with plenty of ground around it or with a school board broad-gauged enough to let the teacher and the pupils discard the school house when they please, in favor of a dairy, a hennery or a garden.

For, after all, isn't there a good bit of mere habit about doing the teaching in a particular building, as if you could only get an education by sitting in a certain desk at a certain hour? A live teacher would perhaps be just as well off without any schoolhouse at all, for then he could get away from precedents and do original work, which is always more interesting than following a fashion.

Be that as it may, it is pleasing to see one little school community which has become conscious of the need of a revolution in its educational aims and methods.

Some day, when the workers of this land awake, most of the schools will be changed from the breeding places of parasites to cultural centers of producers.

Fore Word

I want to have a frank face to face talk with you about my chick feed.

I do not claim to have any patent right on honesty, nor do I claim that I am the only one that can manufacture good chick feed. But here are a few points that are worthy of your consideration. I do not run a mill to manufacture oatmeal, nor kindred products. We do not handle wheat, kaffir corn, cracked rice, ground peas for any other purpose than for our chick feed. Consequently, we do not have any screenings, dust or dirt to get rid of by working them into chick feed, like the big mills do. When I began this department of my business the handling of it was put in the hands of the writer, with this strict injunction to make only the best. This we have steadily adhered to.

HONORED SOLDIER DEAD

Many Gather at Opera House and Cemetery to Honor Soldier Dead and Pay Tribute to Memory of Dear Friends.

Decoration day was fittingly observed at Wayne this season. As is customary the soldier dead and their comrades yet living were the ones most in mind and most mentioned, but all who have lost friends took this occasion to especially remember them.

Our beautiful cemetery was visited by hundreds, bearing flowers to place upon the graves of loved ones. The opera house was most appropriately decorated with flags, flowers and the pictures of noted leaders. The singing was most excellent, the Normal Male Quartet appearing at their best. A cornet solo by Mr. Nance was an inspiration.

The address of the day by Dean Hahn was most fitting—it was practical in that it pointed to forward movement along lines of action rather than words. Below we give a brief review of his talk:

"As a result of the heroism and patriotism of the Civil War veterans we enjoy today a united North and South—a Union one and inseparable. They eliminated from our national life the curse of slavery, and from American politics the idea of state sovereignty and secession. They established for us the principle of self-government and political solidarity as a practical and enduring fact. They brought about through the abolition of slavery a feeling of common brotherhood between the two great sections of our country. But they did all this at the enormous cost in life and treasure of at least half a million human lives and then billions of dollars. We must make the boys and girls, as they grow into active citizenship, feel and appreciate the enormous cost of these national blessings in order that they may become citizens devotedly and vigorously active in their preservation. We must ever tell them the story of the heroism and patriotism of the Civil War veterans on either side. Yes, tell the boys and girls the story of the battle of Shiloh, perhaps the bloodiest and most terrible battle in the Mississippi valley. Tell them the story of the suffering, the courage, the endurance of those terrible weeks at the siege of Vicksburg. Tell them the story of the third day's fighting at Gettysburg, the assault upon Cemetery Hill. How fifty years ago, the third of July, on that intensely hot day, just as the sun had passed its meridian, the midday silence was broken by the simultaneous discharge of 130 cannon planted on the Confederate ridge, to whose maddening challenge half the number on the Union side responded with a savage defiance. For a full hour or more, through dense clouds of smoke, the shells went hissing and screaming to and fro. And then as the guns became silent and the black canopy rolled away, there could be seen as fine a display of courage and heroism as was ever witnessed in history. Then it was that the brave Pickett led forth his fine soldiery, a column of 17,000 men, the flower of the Confederate army. Wedgelike they moved in a grand double column over the landscape of waving grain and golden stubble, with flying banners and glittering bayonets, for fully a mile in full sight of the Union braves on Cemetery Ridge, who, it is said, upon first sight greeted their enemy's valor and dashing bravery with cheers of admiration. And then almost too horrible to behold, their ranks were torn with exploding shells from Federal cannon; but their ranks reformed and swept on. They met the terrific fire of Hancock's infantry and returned it with volley after volley. On they came to the very mouths of the cannon; but the bravery and heroism of the Boys in Blue matched theirs, and Gettysburg was a Union victory. Yes, tell them the story of Thomas' heroic stand at Chickamauga, of Fighting Jo Hooker at Loukout Mountain, of the great final double movement which finally ended the war. Yes, tell the boys and girls the story of the cost of the blessings the Civil War brought us, and we may be sure of greater devotion to the welfare of our country.

But we must do more than to inspire an emotional attitude in relation to patriotism. We must insist on the formation of habits of civic and patriotic conduct. It is at this very point that our citizenship is weakest. We have too many men everywhere who profess to be interested in the general welfare, who seem to know just what ought to be done for the common good, but who NEVER DO ANYTHING. We need citizens of action; men who will interest themselves in the general welfare; men who will inform themselves upon public issues; and above all, MEN WHO WILL ACT IN THE LIGHT OF THEIR INFORMATION. A narrow, selfish, inactive citizenship is a thousand times more dangerous today than it was fifty years ago. The greatest danger of all is for American citizens to stand by complacently while the interests attempt to usurp our government originally intended to be a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, and DO NOTHING ABOUT IT. The cause of our inactivity as citizens lies in the fact that we have grown up under an educational and social system that separates knowledge from action, theory from practice, emotional life from a life of action.

To get the citizen who is vigorously active for the common good we must change the emphasis in education from the learning of facts to the forming of habits, from knowledge to social service. The schools make knowledge getting an end in education instead of a means to social and civic conduct. Our education is a preparation for adult life instead of child life. It is conduct NOW and not at a remote future that we must work for. We must make provisions for the formation of habits of vigorous action in behalf of the common good. If community celebration of Decoration Day can be made to contribute toward a citizenship that is active in behalf of the general welfare, then the comrades killed in battle will not have died in vain, and government of the people, by the people, and for the people will not perish from the earth."

Waiting automobiles conveyed the old soldiers, of whom about twenty were present, and the ladies of the W. R. C. to the cemetery, while an escort of flower girls and boys bearing flags marched to the city of the dead.

The girls and boys first decorated the graves of the soldier dead, and then about one of the graves gathered the old soldiers and other friends and the ritualistic ceremony of the G. A. R., was given, closing a day which should continue to be observed for all time.

Brisbane Tells the Facts

Arthur Brisbane, who receives the paltry sum of $75,000 a year for editing the Hearst papers and who is the highest salaried editor in the world has the following interesting remarks to make on the country merchant and the country editor.

"For years the country editors have worked practically for nothing. They have had a little public advertising, and they have had miserable, underpaid advertisements from the local storekeepers who could not afford to do better. They and the storekeepers have lived a hand to mouth existence. The editors of this country, some twenty thousand of them, supplying the public with information, defeating the schemes of rascal and public grafters, doing by distribution of knowledge the most important work in the country, have been on the whole less well paid than the average janitor in the court house of a fair sized town.

With the parcels post, and economical, efficient intelligent advertising local storekeepers and national manufacturers, that will change.

It will now be worth while for the big manufacturer to appeal direct to the consumer, for with the Parcels Post he can deliver direct to the consumer.

Let the merchant take all the business he can get. And let the local editor take all the advertising he can get—including that of the big mail order houses, if they choose to advertise.

No man ever helped himself or helped another by excluding business, or by refusing any man, big or little, a fair chance.

The editor has no right to refuse advertising that is honest and proper. No small storekeeper has a right to ask that it be excluded.

The business of the storekeeper is to give better service than the mail order house can give, and he can do that now that the parcels post gives him the power to deliver.

The parcels post is here. This newspaper has predicted always that it would come soon. It is not perfect by any means. The local editors and the local storekeepers must use their influence to see that it is made perfect.

Let the storekeeper advertise through the country newspapers what he can do.

Let the country newspapers impress upon the manufacturers the fact that they, the editor and country merchant, are the only salesmen in direct contact with those that live in the country.

There is room for everybody in this country—that is to say, for everybody who intends to be of any service. And the mail order houses will live. But their great monopoly will cease.

Do not overlook the fact that they being intelligent men, realize what we have told you here. They know that there is real danger for them in the parcel post. They know that it makes practically worthless their elaborate system of freight delivery, which have built through years. They know that their system of selling a hundred pounds of goods at a time in order to take advantage of a low freight rate now goes overboard.

If the merchants in the country, and the local editors throughout the country, understood the parcels post as well as mail order houses understand it, they would know that the parcels post will prove to be the greatest blessing the country editors and country merchants have ever known.

With the parcels post the local merchants' prosperity must increase at once. And with the parcels post the country editor will, for the first time, come into his own. The parcels post will give to the country merchant a delivery system as good as that of the greatest city department store, and to the local editor full value for his important services to the nation.

About Hog Disease Contagion

S. E. Auker is having some trouble with part of his hogs, and due to no fault of his, he thinks. One morning some time ago, he found a dead shoat among one lot of his hogs. The pig was a stranger—a white pig, and neither he nor his near neighbor happened to raise any of that breed. This pig was not there the night before, and had not been dead long enough to grow stiff before found in the morning, yet among the hogs he died with, many of the pigs are sick and dying, and several sows have died and others are sick. He has no sickness among another lot of hogs kept in another place, but all have practically had the same care. It will take considerable talk to convince Mr. Auker that hog cholera is not contagious. He is also of the belief that it should be made very much unlawful to allow diseased stock of any kind on the public highway.

Commencement at Randolph

Last Thursday evening at Randolph, Nebraska, occurred the annual graduating exercises of the high school. A class of nineteen received diplomas. Caps and gowns were worn in compliance with an order of the Board of Education.

The commencement address was made by Dr. George H. Bradford of Oklahoma, on the subject, "Sun-Crowned Manhood." He maintained that the only essential necessary for a young person to acquire an education is the desire for an education, giving his own experience of attaining it as an example of what any boy can do.

Harold Holtz received the highest marking for the four years which was an average of 96.27-33 per cent. Randolph won the debating honors this year in this district and sent a representative to Lincoln to compete for state championship. He received fourth place there.

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Gives the Farmer a Big Boost in making His Farm Prosperous

Did you ever notice that a prosperous farm is invariably well fenced, and is usually divided into small fields by a fence "horse-high, hog-tight and bull-strong"? Why is it?

Because the prosperous farmer realizes that good fences are as necessary to successful farming as fertile seeds, efficient labor and proper machinery. But the wise farmer investigates before he invests. Others just buy and are often "sold."

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence is made with but one end in view—to give best service for the longest time at least cost. Investigating it costs nothing. Investing in it pays.

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARD and GARDEN

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted as up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Table with market prices for Oats, Corn, Barley, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, and Fat Cattle.

It was admitted that Teddy drinks, but denied and not proven that he was ever drunk. He was awarded but 6 cents damages, and each one of the litigants pays his own costs.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa is of the opinion that "an insidious lobby" does exist at Washington. This is young senator, and his sight appears to be more acute than some of the older fellows.

Cate Sells, formerly of Iowa, but now of Texas, has been named as commissioner of Indian affairs, and his appointment has been confirmed.

We note from the market quotations that they are still shearing sheep—at which we are surprised for the sheep grower talk as though wool will be worthless if the tariff bill becomes a law with wool on the free list.

"Efficient" Consumption

All the governments in the world are engaged in fighting poverty. In some instances government charities are greatly extended. In other cases an attempt has been made to overcome it, in some degree at least, by fighting minimum wages.

Douglas County Pays Up. Douglas county sent in the tidy sum of $63,278.67 to the state treasury as its share of the money which is to go toward the payment of state debts.

LIFT LINCOLN PHONE RATES

More trouble seems due the company on account of the raise, as it is announced that in University Place an organized effort is being made to have subscribers remove all phones from their residences.

Posse Captures Escaped Greek. Ravenna, Neb., June 3.—A posse from Ravenna captured the Greek who assailed a fellow workman with a coupling pin. He gave his name as Gust Bodosas and formerly worked here for the Burlington. The wounded man is in the hospital at Grand Island in a dangerous condition.

Many of the editors arrived early because they were scheduled to occupy the pulpits of Omaha churches, there to tell the congregations what the press of the state has done to elevate the morals of the state.

This morning the editors started their program at 9 o'clock at the Hotel Rome. The addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Dahlman and C. C. Rosewater. President H. C. Taylor of Lincoln delivered the annual address. Papers on subjects of interest to newspaper men were read during the forenoon.

Creditors Attach Property of Iowa-Nebraska Light Company.

Norfolk, Neb., June 2.—The Iowa-Nebraska Public Service corporation, with headquarters at Norfolk, went into the hands of a receiver when Judge Welch appointed George W. Johnston of Omaha receiver. He is president of the Midwest Electric company. George D. Butterfield of Norfolk was appointed trustee to collect amounts due the Norfolk plant. ENGLISH MAKES COMPLAINT

Receiver Says Nebraska Traction Line's Valuation is Too High.

Lincoln, June 3.—Members of the state board of assessment gathered to hear the complaint of Receiver Arthur English of the Nebraska Traction and Power company that the valuation placed on that interurban line for taxation purposes was too high. He asked a reduction to $75,000. The present figures of the board show a valuation of $30,000 per mile, or a trifle over $181,000.

No action was taken in the matter. Auditor Howard and Secretary Seymour of the board will make a trip over the properties and will report later, with recommendations as to what should be done. The property of the Omaha and Southern will likewise be inspected by the two officials.

LINSEED OIL WAR

Food Commissioner Harman to Make Campaign for Pure Product.

Lincoln, June 3.—The sale of adulterated linseed oil over the state has become so widespread that Food Commissioner Harman has instituted warfare against wholesalers and retailers who have been aiding in the campaign of law violation. Reports received by the head of the state department indicate that approximately one-third of the product sold in the state has contained from 40 to 60 per cent petroleum. This cheapens the product materially and prevents it drying when used, until hours afterwards.

ANDREW DAVIS IS INSANE

Father of Paroled Convict Assaulting Woman is Sent to Asylum.

Homer, Neb., June 2.—Andrew Davis, father of Bert Davis, the paroled convict who was sentenced to a term of eighteen years in the Nebraska penitentiary for an assault on Mrs. Caddie McGlashan Wette, has lost his reason as a result of his son's crime.

She undertook to refill the heated iron and succeeded, but immediately the flame ignited the gasoline and communicated to her dress. She rushed out of the house into a brisk wind. The clothing was burned entirely from her body.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
Rev. P. R. Clotfely, Pastor

The beauty and splendor of the day was reflected in all of our services last Sunday. Good audiences attended both the sacramental services and the preaching service in the evening when Dr. Dyer spoke. This enthusiastic speaker was given a splendid hearing and all felt the uplift of the spirit as he related his story of "Missions and Massacres in America." He told of the beginning of the work of Christianity among his people in the first century, A. D., when Thaddeus, Bartholomew and Matthew were sent to America and established churches in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. From that day until now the people have been devoted to the cause of Christ and his truth. Then he told of the Massacre of his own people at their own churches with their pastors, by the Turks in November, 1902. From this the speaker escaped and finally with a small party reached Tortsus, where, condemned to be executed, he and his companions were released by the executioner—who purchased their release, he being a Greek Catholic. For 10 years he has been in America, preparing himself for a Medical Missionary to his own people, expecting to return this fall and take charge of a hospital, as a citizen of the United States. Dr. Dyer, with his brother, a young preacher, will give an entertainment at the M. E. church, Thursday evening, giving the Turkish-Balkan situation, religious practices, social customs, etc., of their country.

Next Sunday class meeting at 10 o'clock and the other services as usual.

Mrs. Phillips led the Epworth League devotional last Sunday. A most profitable meeting to all present. Next Sunday Mrs. Bert Brown will be leader. The subject will be "The Complete Man." The Epworth League will hold a reception and social at the church Friday evening, June 13th. This is for the Normal students and all church people ought to come out to welcome them to our midst and fellowship for the summer.

The children's missionary circles held a profitable meeting Sunday afternoon at the church.

District superintendent E. E. Hosman of Norfolk transacted 3rd Quarterly conference business with us Monday. We are glad to get better acquainted with this man of the Kingdom.

Baptist Church
Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

Last Sunday's communion service was largely attended. The hand of church fellowship was given to two members. At the evening service one young man accepted Christ and publicly confessed him.

Next Sunday morning the subject of the sermon will be "The Spirit of Christ." It will be an appeal to Christian living, based on the life of Jesus.

On Sunday-morning the church voted to accept the missionary budget, as sent us by Dr. Mills and pledged an effort to meet it. By vote of the church, after September, our missionary budget will be paid by weekly giving—using the duplex system.

The pastor is planning for his vacation to begin after the first Sunday in July. During his absence there will be union evening meetings at the court house. It is the plan of the Advisory Board to have some one fill the pulpit at each morning worship.

The young people will meet at 7 p. m., Sunday and the lesson will be led by Miss Dulin.

Sunday evening at eight o'clock we shall hold a service on behalf of Children's day. A program, entitled "Temple Hogganos" has been prepared with no little effort. It deserves a splendid hearing. It is especially desired that the parents of the Sunday school children be present. The program will be full of interest and instruction, containing songs, recitations, class exercises and a striking emblematic production. At this service an offering will be taken for the missionary work of our own Sunday school movement. We heartily invite the public to this service.

Presbyterian Church
Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

Next Sabbath will be Children's Day at the Presbyterian church. The service will begin at 11 a. m. The usual exercises by the children will form a large part of the program. The ordinance of infant baptism will be administered and a short address will be given by the pastor. The program in full is printed elsewhere. In the evening the pastor will preach from the text, "Consider the Lillies" calling attention to the message which nature gives to the normal mind. The young people of the congregation will give an ice cream social

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school at 10 o'clock. We can not place too much emphasis upon the Sunday school, as it prepares the child for active service in the church and makes it a better citizen. The Sunday school is practically our only means of giving "Religious Instructions" to the young people, therefore it should not be neglected. See that your children are in Sunday school each Sunday.

Morning service at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "Humanity's Decision." There are a great many questions which come to us for decision, but of all these questions there is none as important as the one which determines our future destiny, whether it will be for good or for evil. The choir will hold its rehearsal Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid society will not meet at the home of Mrs. Victor Carlson, as stated in last week's paper but will meet at the home of Mrs. J. Knudsen on Thursday of this week.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

SWANSON'S

WHAT WILL WE GIVE THEM?

June is the month of Weddings and the question is, "What will we give them for a present?" Give them something of lasting memory and constant usefulness. What can be more so than a set of Dinnerware? Whether you buy dishes or not come in and look over our many handsome patterns, and perhaps we can help you to solve the present problem.

We have just received several Imported Designs, each one displayed in a section to itself. Our store arrangement permits of closest Day-Light inspection enabling you to know just what you are getting. Our stock of patterns is controlled by us in this locality which enables you to depend upon getting more should you wish to fill in or enlarge. We control the greatest variety of the best known manufacturers' patterns sold in Northeast Nebraska.

A comparison of prices has proven that our price on identical patterns is less than asked in cities. The reason for this fact is that our rent and general selling expense is less than one-half of that paid by city stores.

Goods packed for out-of-town shipping receives special attention without extra charge.

It was admitted that Teddy drinks, but denied and not proven that he was ever drunk. He was awarded but 6 cents damages, and each one of the litigants pays his own costs. That will be no little sum, and had the lawyers not made a technical error it is possible that Teddy might have stuck the editor for all of the expenses. But these fine points count in law and with the supreme court.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa is of the opinion that "an insidious lobby" does exist at Washington. This is young senator and his sight appears to be more acute than some of the older fellows. In fact some of them may have been there too long to know a lobbyist at sight—and again the lobbyist is not supposed to be in sight. Keeping out of sight is very frequently a part of their professional work.

Cate Sells, formerly of Iowa, but now of Texas, has been named as commissioner of Indian affairs, and his appointment has been confirmed. His appointment is pleasing to those Nebraska people who have to do with that department, and his Iowa friends are bound to be pleased, and Texas will not fail to appreciate the position which comes to that state—and best of all, Cate Sells will prove an efficient officer we truly believe.

We note from the market quotations that they are still shearing sheep—at which we are surprised for the sheep growers talk as though wool will be worthless if the tariff bill becomes a law with wool on the free list. And if it is worth less than now the sheep cannot afford to grow another crop in competition with the pauper wool of the southern world, and the flock will shrivel up when the winter comes worse than a California orange after the frosts of the last two seasons.

"Efficient" Consumption

All the governments in the world are engaged in fighting poverty. In some instances government charities are greatly extended. In other cases an attempt has been made to overcome it, in some degree at least, by fighting minimum wages. Massachusetts has passed such a law and the same proposition has been before several legislatures. There are experiments being made in several nations with insurance and old age pensions. Tariffs have been tried for years and found wanting. Merging small concerns into great ones and doing business in that way has not reduced poverty, although the system has been in operation for some years. The people have been educated and the schools are still open to all, but university graduates have been found in the bread lines waiting for the gift of a loaf along with the illiterate. It has never seemed to enter the minds of anyone that one way to relieve poverty is to stop waste. There is enough food wasted in the restaurants and private homes of Omaha to feed another good sized city, and as it is with food, so it is with many other things. No matter whether we have old age pensions, compulsory insurance, minimum wages or any other set of laws, there will be poverty as long as half of the wealth that the nation produces is wasted. What this country needs is "efficiency" in consumption much more than it does in production.—World Herald.

State Treasurer's Report Shows Better Condition.

FUNDS ARE ADDED TO IN MAY

Increases Generally Denoted on All Items—Automobiles Multiply in Nebraska—Horticulturists Meet at Lincoln—Douglas County Pays Up.

Lincoln, June 3.—The state of Nebraska is better off financially than it was a month ago. State Treasurer George's report filed today shows that the balances of all funds totaled $706,374, as compared to $642,113. The former figure represented the amount on hand May 31 and the latter April 30. The temporary school fund, during the month advanced from $316,724 to $361,401. The university income fund advanced $3,000 in the month. The permanent school fund increased from $32,798 to $87,816 in the same time. Cash on hand totaled $10,650 and in state depositories $695,683. The trust funds invested aggregate $9,299,010, of which $9,138,491 represented bond investments.

Automobiles Multiply in Nebraska.
When 1,337 automobiles, most of them new, were registered with the secretary of state during the month of April there was much rejoicing over the state and prosperity talk galore was indulged in from one corner to the other. But the record for May smashed that of the previous month to smithereens—the total handed out of the numerical designations amounting to 1,753 cars. The valuation of the new cars registered during the month which just ended is estimated at upwards of $1,850,000.

Horticulturists Meet.
The board of managers of the State Horticultural society held a meeting here, at which plans for the exhibit at the coming state fair were talked over. The most pretentious display of fruits and flowers ever undertaken by Nebraska horticulturists is to be made. It will be housed in the spacious new hall which is to be erected on the grounds during the summer. The managerial board comprises Clyde Barnard of Table Rock, L. Henderson of Omaha, J. A. Yager of Fremont, W. H. Harrison of York, J. R. Duncan of Peru and Peter Youngers of Geneva.

Hall to Look Around.
Adjutant General Hall will look over ground in Saunders, Sarpy and Valley counties this week preparatory to making the final outline of his coming state maneuvers. He will also make final decision as to the location for the camp which the guardsmen will enter after they have undergone their five days' warfare. The date for the maneuvers has not been set as yet, but the big event will likely be pulled off from Aug. 11 to 21 inclusive.

Contribute to Gettysburg Fund.
The towns of Riverton, Gulde Rock, Aurora, Genoa, Oxford, Dannebrog, Albion, Stromsburg, Oconto, Bassett, Shelton, Wausa, Laurel, Lincoln and Rushville have reported to the state department of the Grand Army of the Republic with contributions for the fund to send Gettysburg veterans back to the July memorial, which is to be held on that battlefield. The total sum contributed by the thirteen towns amount to $200.

Soldiers Shoot Well.
Members of the Geneva national guard company took their places on the state rifle range today and began a two days' shoot for honor places among the organization's high riflemen. Of the twenty-six Auburnites who spent their time on the range the latter part of last week, one expert rifleman, seven sharpshooters and fifteen marksmen were qualified under the watchful eye of Captain Kesterson.

Douglas County Pays Up.
Douglas county sent in the tidy sum of $63,278.67 to the state treasury as its share of the money which is to go toward the payment of state debts. Of the amount, $49,053.77 will be applied to the general fund. Buffalo county likewise came through with a payment of $8,195.

LIFT LINCOLN PHONE RATES

Business Instruments to Cost Four and Six Dollars.
Lincoln June 3.—The railway commission announced that the Lincoln Telephone company will be allowed to charge business houses $4 per phone for incoming messages; $6 for general phones, but makes no statement as to residence telephones, but it is supposed that the rate will be raised from $2 to $2.25.

More trouble seems due the company on account of the raise, as it is announced that in University Place an organized effort is being made to have subscribers remove all phones from their residences.

Posse Captures Escaped Greek.
Ravenna, Neb., June 3.—A posse from Ravenna captured the Greek who was calling a fellow workman with a coupling pin. He gave his name as Gust Bordenos and formerly worked here for the Burlington. The wounded man is in the hospital at Grand Island in a dangerous condition.

Brothers Drown in Little Blue River.
Beatrice, Neb., June 3.—James and John Helmer, brothers, aged sixteen and eighteen, respectively, were drowned in the Little Blue river while swimming near Hanover, Kan. The bodies were recovered. They were sons of Mrs. Kate Helmer, a widow.

NEBRASKA EDITORS MEET

Many Newspaper Men Occupy the Pulpits of Omaha Churches.

Omaha, June 2.—Editors of Nebraska are in Omaha by the hundreds, beginning today and lasting until Wednesday evening, they are to hold the annual session of the Nebraska State Press association.

Many of the editors arrived early because they were scheduled to occupy the pulpits of Omaha churches, there to tell the congregations what the press of the state has done to elevate the morals of the state. They filled the pulpits in a very creditable way, drawing large congregations to hear their messages.

This morning the editors started their program at 9 o'clock at the Hotel Rome. The addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Dahlman and C. C. Rosewater, President H. C. Taylor of Lincoln delivered the annual address. Papers on subjects of interest to newspaper men were read during the forenoon.

WESTERN UNION VALUES

Reported to Railway Commission for Use in Rate Cases.

Lincoln, June 3.—Figures showing the Western Union Telegraph company's valuation of its Nebraska physical properties have been filed with the state railway commission. Likewise the commission's engineers have filed a copy of their report with the commission. Both sets will be introduced in the federal court hearing in the injunction suit started by the Western Union for the purpose of nullifying the provisions of the Stebbins telegraph rate bill enacted at the late legislative session.

The commission's engineers report the value of the property at $1,261,198, while the company's engineers set out that it is worth $1,337,604. These totals are based on the reproduction values now. The present value as given by the commission is $737,234, while the company's figures show $688,922.

IN HANDS OF RECEIVER

Creditors Attach Property of Iowa-Nebraska Light Company.

Norfolk, Neb., June 2.—The Iowa-Nebraska Public Service corporation, with headquarters at Norfolk, went into the hands of a receiver when Judge Welch appointed George W. Johnston of Omaha receiver. He is president of the Midwest Electric company. George D. Butterfield of Norfolk was appointed trustee to collect amounts due the Norfolk plant. Ten creditors, with claims aggregating $19,000, attached the company's property. The authorized bonds of the company are $1,000,000. There is a floating debt of $60,000 and outstanding bonds of $447,000. E. A. Bullock is president of the company which operates the plants at Norfolk, Meadow Grove, Tilden, Beatrice, Wymore and Blair, in Nebraska, and Missouri Valley, Ia.

ENGLISH MAKES COMPLAINT

Receiver Says Nebraska Traction Line's Valuation Is Too High.

Lincoln, June 3.—Members of the state board of assessment gathered to hear the complaint of Receiver Arthur English of the Nebraska Traction and Power company that the valuation placed on that interurban line for taxation purposes was too high. He asked a reduction to $75,000. The present figures of the board show a valuation of $30,000 per mile, or a trifle over $181,000.

No action was taken in the matter. Auditor Howard and Secretary Seymour of the board will make a trip over the properties and will report later, with recommendations as to what should be done. The property of the Omaha and Southern will likewise be inspected by the two officials.

LINSEED OIL WAR

Food Commissioner Harman to Make Campaign for Pure Product.

Lincoln, June 3.—The sale of adulterated linseed oil over the state has become so widespread that Food Commissioner Harman has instituted warfare against wholesalers and retailers who have been aiding in the campaign of law violation. Reports received by the head of the state department indicate that approximately one-third of the product sold in the state has contained from 40 to 60 per cent petroleum. This cheapens the product materially and prevents it drying when used, until hours afterwards.

ANDREW DAVIS IS INSANE

Father of Paroled Convict Assaulting Woman Is Sent to Asylum.

Homer, Neb., June 2.—Andrew Davis, father of Bert Davis, the paroled convict who was sentenced to a term of eighteen years in the Nebraska penitentiary for an assault on Mrs. Caddie McGlashan Welte, has lost his reason as a result of his son's crime.

Mr. Davis, who lived about a mile east of here, was adjudged insane at a formal hearing held at Homer and was taken to be confined in a state asylum at Norfolk. The family of Mr. Davis is prostrated with grief.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Cozad, Neb., June 2.—Mrs. J. B. Gill more, living north of Cozad, died as the result of burns received while engaged in ironing with a gasoline iron. She undertook to refill the heated iron and succeeded, but immediately the flame ignited the gasoline and communicated to her dress. She rushed out of the house into a brisk wind. The clothing was burned entirely from her body.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA
Beef Steers in Good Demand. Not Far From Steady.
HOG VALUES SLUMP 20 TO 25c

Shorn Lambs Are About Steady. Trade Not As Active as Monday. Little Doing in Aged Sheep.
Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, June 3.—A very good run of cattle arrived today, nearly 4,500 head. The fat cattle market was reasonably active. Desirable light and handy weight beefs sold at steady to strong prices, while the heavy and medium grades went at fully steady figures. There was also a good demand for cows and heifers at steady to stronger prices all around. Veal calves continue in active request and firm at $7.00@10.00, and there is a good outlet and a steady market for bulls, stags, etc. Inquiry for stock cattle and feeding steers exceeds the supply and prices are notably strong.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $8.10@8.25; good to choice beefs, $7.95@8.10; fair to good beefs, $7.70@7.95; fair to choice yearlings, $7.00@8.40; common to fair beefs, $7.25@7.65; good to choice heifers, $7.00@7.75; good to choice cows, $6.75@7.25; fair to good grades, $6.00@6.75; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.75; veal calves, $7.00@10.00; bulls, stags, etc., $3.80@7.10; good to choice feeders, $7.50@8.00; fair to good feeders, $7.00@7.50; common to fair feeders, $6.25@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $6.00@7.00.

Nearly 24,500 hogs were received today, one of the heaviest runs in the history of the yards. Trade was very slow and values slumped 20@25c. Most of the sales were made at $8.20@8.30, and several loads of good lights went at $8.35. All other markets report about the same decline.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 5,200 head today. There was less activity in lambs compared with Monday's trade, and while prices did not score as high a top, the big bulk changed hands on practically the same level, making the market generally steady. Prices for good shorn lambs ranged anywhere from $7.00 to $7.45. A small bunch of shorn ewes brought $5.40, and the heavy yearlings sold at $6.25.

Quotations of shorn sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.25@7.50; lambs, fair to good, $6.75@7.25; culls, $4.00@5.00; yearlings, good to choice, $6.25@6.50; yearlings, fair to good, $5.75@6.25; wethers, good to choice, $5.50@5.75; wethers, fair to good, $5.25@5.50; ewes, good to choice, $5.15@5.50; ewes, fair to good, $4.50@5.15; culls, $2.50@3.75.

Among The Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
Rev. P. R. Glofelty, Pastor

The beauty and splendor of the day was reflected in all of our services last Sunday. Good audiences attended both the sacramental services and the preaching service in the evening when Dr. Dyer spoke. This enthusiastic speaker was given a splendid hearing and all felt the uplift of the spirit as he related his story of "Missions and Massacres in America." He told of the beginning of the work of Christianity among his people in the first century, A. D., when Thaddeus, Bartholomew and Matthew were sent to America and established churches in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. From that day until now the people have been devoted to the cause of Christ and his truth. Then he told of the Massacre of his own people at their own churches with their pastors, by the Turks in November, 1902. From this the speaker escaped and finally with a small party reached Torsus, where, condemned to be executed, he and his companions were released by the executioner who purchased their release, he being a Greek Catholic. For 10 years he has been in America, preparing himself for a Medical Missionary to his own people, expecting to return this fall and take charge of a hospital, as a citizen of the United States. Dr. Dyer, with his brother, a young preacher, will give an entertainment at the M. E. church, Thursday evening, giving the Turko-Balkan situation, religious practices, social customs, etc., of their country.

Next Sunday class meeting at 10 o'clock and the other services as usual.

Mrs. Phillips led the Epworth League devotional last Sunday. A most profitable meeting to all present. Next Sunday Mrs. Bert Brown will be leader. The subject will be "The Complete Man." The Epworth League will hold a reception and social at the church Friday evening, June 13th. This is for the Normal students and all church people ought to come out to welcome them to our midst and fellowship for the summer.

The children's missionary circles held a profitable meeting Sunday afternoon at the church.

District superintendent E. E. Hosman of Norfolk transacted 3rd Quarterly conference business with us Monday. We are glad to get better acquainted with this man of the Kingdom.

Baptist Church
Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

Last Sunday's communion service was largely attended. The hand of church fellowship was given to two members. At the evening service one young man accepted Christ and publicly confessed him.

Next Sunday morning the subject of the sermon will be "The Spirit of Christ." It will be an appeal to Christian living based on the life of Jesus.

On Sunday morning the church voted to accept the missionary budget, as sent us by Dr. Mills and pledged an effort to meet it. By vote of the church, after September, our missionary budget will be paid by weekly giving—using the duplex system.

The pastor is planning for his vacation to begin after the first Sunday in July. During his absence there will be union evening meetings at the court house. It is the plan of the Advisory Board to have some one fill the pulpit at each morning worship.

The young people will meet at 7 p. m., Sunday and the lesson will be led by Miss Dulin.

Sunday evening at eight o'clock we shall hold a service on behalf of Children's day. A program, entitled "Temple Hosannos" has been prepared with no little effort. It deserves a splendid hearing. It is especially desired that the parents of the Sunday school children be present. The program will be full of interest and instruction, containing songs, recitations, class exercises and a striking emblematic production. At this service an offering will be taken for the missionary work of our own Sunday school movement. We heartily invite the public to this service.

Presbyterian Church
Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

Next Sabbath will be Children's Day at the Presbyterian church. The service will begin at 11 a. m. The usual exercises by the children will form a large part of the program. The ordinance of infant baptism will be administered and a short address will be given by the pastor. The program in full is printed elsewhere. In the evening the pastor will preach from the text, "Consider the Lillies" calling attention to the message which nature gives to the normal mind. The young people of the congregation will give an ice cream social

D., of Minneapolis, Minn., will preach on Sabbath, July 6th, and Rev. D. K. Miller, of Cedar Bluffs, Nebr., will preach on July 13th. On the last two Sundays in July there will be no morning preaching service, but the Sunday school will meet as usual and in the evenings the congregation will join in the open air union services on the court house lawn. The pastor returns to duty in August. On the last Sabbath in June Rev. C. E. Baskerville, of Bellevue will preach morning and evening.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school at 10 o'clock. We can not place too much emphasis upon the Sunday school, as it prepares the child for active service in the church and makes it a better citizen. The Sunday school is practically our only means of giving "Religious Instructions" to the young people, therefore it should not be neglected. See that your children are in Sunday school each Sunday.

Morning service at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "Humanity's Decision." There are a great many questions which come to us for decision, but of all these questions there is none as important as the one which determines our future destiny, whether it will be for good or for evil. The choir will hold its rehearsal Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Ladies Aid society will not meet at the home of Mrs. Victor Carlson, as stated in last week's paper but will meet at the home of Mrs. J. Knudsen on Thursday of this week.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Death of the Presbyterian Minister at Pender

Rev. F. E. Thompson, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Pender, Nebr., and the stated clerk of Niobrara Presbytery, died at his home in Pender on Tuesday morning of this week of heart trouble. He was only seriously ill for a few days but has been in failing health for some time. Rev. Thompson was about sixty years of age and was a well known minister in this part of the state, as he has supplied congregations in Niobrara Presbytery for many years. He was a good man, earnest in his work, popular as a gospel preacher, a Christian gentleman whose character was an inspiration.

As an officer of the Presbytery he was efficient, tactful and careful and was a great favorite with his brother ministers. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon, and will be conducted by Rev. Alexander Corkey assisted by other ministers of the Presbytery.

WHAT WILL WE GIVE THEM?

June is the month of Weddings and the question is, "What will we give them for a present?" Give them something of lasting memory and constant usefulness. What can be more so than a set of Dinnerware? Whether you buy dishes or not come in and look over our many handsome patterns, and perhaps we can help you to solve the present problem.

We have just received several Imported Designs, each one displayed in a section to itself. Our store arrangement permits of closest Day-Light inspection enabling you to know just what you are getting. Our stock of patterns is controlled by us in this locality which enables you to depend upon getting more should you wish to fill in or enlarge. We control the greatest variety of the best known manufacturers' patterns sold in Northeast Nebraska.

A comparison of prices has proven that our price on identical patterns is less than asked in cities. The reason for this fact is that our rent and general selling expense is less than one-half of that paid by city stores.

Goods packed for out of town shipping receives special attention without extra charge.

It is Reported

That there is already in the hands of interested persons proof that the new "anti-Discrimination Law" is being violated by some of the cream stations not many miles from Wayne.

That it would be a mighty good thing for the farmers of Wayne county to organize and employ a farm demonstrator. We have good farmers and good farm country, but we are not getting best results possible.

That the road to Winside is much used these hot evenings by many Waynites.

That land planted in popcorn yields a return of from $50 to $100 per acre annually, and that farmers in some communities are making big money from the crop.

That Roosevelt places a high value on newspaper advertising, when he professes to believe that his reputation could be damaged to the extent of $10,000 by an article in one issue of a paper. If he will pay at that rate for all of the good things the same paper may have said about him he would doubtless be much in debt even though he get verdict for the amount asked.

One of the important changes which may perhaps be recommended in the senate committee on the tariff legislation is the removal of the duty ten per cent on wheat and cattle proposed by the house committee. The complaint was that the duty was not fair on these articles if the meat and flour were to be duty free. Some asked the duty on these products, but are very liable to have the raw material added to the free list. So long as we export wheat and sell according to the world market we cannot see that it is going to make any marked difference.

On Wednesday Mrs. L. A. Fanske, accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Ramsdell of Chicago, who is visiting here, went to Pierce to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fanske of that place.

L. A. Fanske is fitting up his vacant room in the rear of his jewelry store room for exclusive optical work, where his optician, E. H. Dotson, will be the presiding genius. Mr. D. has just returned from his vacation spent with home folks at Pierre, South Dakota.

Evangelist Lindgren, who has been engaged in special meetings at Battle Creek for a short time, comes to Wayne next week as the guest of E. B. Young and wife, and has consented to conduct a short series of evening meetings beginning at the M. E. church Tuesday evening and continuing over Sunday. Mr. Lindgren has been here before and will need no praise from us to insure an attendance.

There was a large company of interested women at the meeting of the Bible Study Circle Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Scofield. The inspiring lesson was led by Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve and freely discussed by all present. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by two of the Junior Circle girls. Mrs. Dayton will be the next hostess. Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, and Mr. Frank E. Lindgren, the evangelist and singer, who held such a successful campaign in our city in November, will be present to speak, and both men and women are urged to attend.

AN ACCOUNTING DEMANDED

Many of the Stockholders of the Independent Harvester Co., Demand Accounting. W. H. Green, Visalia County.

Owing to the fact that W. H. Green of Creighton has been thru this and adjoining counties in the interest of stockholders who have been unfairly treated, and the fact that he is covering the state and gathering evidence to be used to right the wrong, the following article which appeared in the Chicago Tribune a few weeks ago, will be of much interest. Incidentally, it shows how great was the need of the "Blue Sky" law enacted by the last legislature, and if that body made such a law that was tight enough to hold they did not labor in vain. There were many thousand dollars worth of this stock sold in this county, and we hope that every one who bit will join in the move to bring the originators of the robbing scheme to justice. The Tribune says:

"A bill in behalf of 27,000 farmers, holding more than $6,000,000 worth of stock in the Independent Harvester Company of Plano, Ill., was filed in the United States District Court this morning. The company is a $10,000,000 concern. The action was taken by a committee appointed by 1,500 of the 27,000.

The charge of the farmers' committee and their counsel is that the agriculturalists were duped into paying as high as $15 and $25 above par for stock in a concern touted by promoters as organized to "buck the harvester trust off the map."

Then, they allege, they were denied any voice in the management of their "trust buster." They further allege they are being duped by gross mismanagement of the corporation on the part of the missionaries who sold them stock.

The bill is directed principally against W. C. Thompson, 4522 Greenwood avenue, president and controller of the voting stock of the company.

Farmers Demanding Accounting

The farmers ask that Thompson be made to give an accounting of the business of the corporation, of its profits and losses in stock, sales and machinery departments, that the corporation books be audited, that Thompson be forced to tell what compensation or profit he has received, and that he be made to pay back into the treasury of the corporation any money unlawfully received. The bill avers there has been much money illegally appropriated.

The bill asks that Thompson be removed from office, that the corporation be reorganized along co-operative lines, and that the holders of non-voting stock be given the privilege of voting in the affairs of the business.

Committee Brings Bill to Chicago

The committee which brought the bill to Chicago is composed of E. M. Theblay of Eagle Grove, Ia., Grant Grinnell of Kankakee, and Philip Niebergall of Paw Paw, Ill. The attorneys in the case are Gower, Cooper, Heble and Parish of Kankakee and Martin and Malloy of Hutchinson, Kansas.

The complainant thought they were getting into a co-operative concern, they allege, and find now, after years of promise, that the corporation is a gigantic stock selling proposition and not a manufacturing concern.

They say they bought with the idea they would get farm machinery at price considerably lower than those of the International Harvester company and at the same time make a profit in dividends from the sale of the machinery.

"Machinery Discount" Stock

They bought what is called preferred machinery discount stock. They thought, they state in the bill, they were getting regular controlling stock. They found later these holdings gave them no vote and no voice in the management.

The bill states $9,000,000 worth of the stock is non-voting. The other million is controlled by Thompson. He holds the directors' meetings in Portland, Me. Six million dollars of the machinery discount stock has been sold.

The Independent Harvester company was organized in 1905 to buck the trust. It was evolved from the Kellogg Harvester company of Plano. It never has paid a dividend, although the bill states stock solicitors have represented that it soon was to pay one of from 10 to 25 per cent.

Start of the Indignation

Trouble began when the plant at Plano could not manufacture enough machines to meet the orders. Indignation meetings were held in several states. The greatest number of stock holders live in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota. A committee was appointed to investigate, but it is alleged little satisfaction was received.

The last director's meeting was held in January in Maine. At that time members of the committee asked for an accounting. The directors, of whom Thompson was the leader, voted against an accounting, says the bill.

It is said Thompson receives a salary of $12,000 under a resolution which authorizes the payment of not more than $18,000 to the president. More than $50,000 has been paid to him under this resolution, it is alleged. He also has received, according to the bill, expense money to the amount of $10,000 a year, in all $40,000, for which there has been no accounting.

Says Salary is Excessive

The bill says the salary is excessive and that the president of the company is a stock broker and knows nothing about manufacturing.

Thompson is accused of getting money fraudulently through the transfer of land from himself to the company. The bill states that he has bought property and then transferred it to the corporation without giving a statement of the cost to him of such land. It alleges he is renting one piece of land he bought and transferred to the Harvester company and that the rent is inadequate. The farmers alleged he also made money from the corporation through deals in coal and timber lands.

All of the time of the officers has been used in selling stock, the plaintiff allege, instead of manufacturing machinery to compete with the trust, although the company is declared to be possessed of sufficient money and a plant.

Stock Selling Chief Business

More than $3,000,000 worth of stock has been sold during the last two years.

The bill says that while the officers represented the plant as running economically and successfully during 1912, the company expended $1,200,000 in manufacturing and produced goods selling at $800,000.

"The mismanagement and fraudulent misrepresentations of the officers of the company," reads the bill, "so injured the reputation of the company and its products that advertisements are being refused by farm journals. The company has been barred from doing business in certain states."

"The further continuance of the policy pursued by the defendant," says the bill, "and the management and control of said corporation will lead to the ultimate insolvency of the corporation."

The defendants other than Thompson are Ning Eley, a Chicago attorney of Des Plaines, secretary of the company, whose salary is said to be $6,000; A. H. Bayston, A. L. Lye and Joseph E. Hoda of Plano and A. K. Wentworth of Chicago.

A Good Practice

The farmers in at least one neighborhood near Wayne have a practice of dragging the roads in their neighborhood as regularly as needed following the numerous rains, and then to keep them in good working order they confine their travel mostly to one side of the roadway, especially when it is wet and soft, thus when the rain comes they have one side smooth and ready for business while the rougher side is being made smooth again. They do not keep the track in shape for auto speeding in this way, perhaps, but it is good for their use—they get the most good of the labor put on the road in this manner.

The Real Danger

While so much is being said of the danger of Japanese ownership of California lands, a far more serious danger is being overlooked. All the California land owned by Japanese does not begin to equal in extent, the domain monopolized by two men named Miller and Lux.

The Japanese, it seems, use the lands they own. They produce things thereon that Americans need and are glad to get. Miller and Lux hold the greater part of their tract of fifteen or sixteen million acres out of use. Californians may not use it, however willing they may be to do so, and however great the need may be for things that might be produced thereon. Then there are other land monopolists doing the same.

Because land monopoly is permitted in California, opportunities for work have been made so low that women and children must look for jobs to make the family income sufficient, and it is considered a grievance that Japanese girls should displace white girls in a Japanese owned factory. Californians are allowing their attention to be diverted from a real danger. Racial prejudice is something that predatory interests everywhere find useful in keeping the people on a false scent. If the Japanese can be made scape-goats for the results of the institution of land monopoly, then land monopoly is safe for the present, and so is every other monopoly founded on monopoly of the land.

Here is a tribute to the farmer's best friend—the dairy cow, and it was paid by Louis Macey of Lincoln in the Nebraska Farmer, and it contains much more of truth than poetry:

"The dairy cow has helped more despairing farmers to 'pull through' and 'get out of a hole' (both literally and figuratively) than any other one thing. She has added more wealth to the state than all our grain crops, for she has cashed chiefly our sunshine and we still have as much as ever, while in selling grain we have cashed the cream of our soil and have considerably less of it left. The hand separator, the silo, alfalfa and a balanced ration make her more valuable and enhances her usefulness."

A CASE OF GRATITUDE

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by Associated Literary Press.

"Thar ar' folks as will contend that the mewl has no gratitude in his soul," said the old possum hunter as he walked through the chestnut forest on the side of the Cumberland mountains, "but them thar folks is wrong."

He halted to rub his heebing back against a tree and then continued: "Every critter is hgin the mewl and ready to wallop him, and why should he be grateful? Why shouldn't he be onery and entankurous? I'd be meaner'n pizen if I was a mewl. Howsumever, I'm goin' to tell you about gratitude."

"Soon after the wah some fellers come along yere with a drove of mewls, and one of the critters fell sick, and they gin him to me. He was about the meanest lookin' mewl I ever did see, but I kinder hoped he'd make up fur it in bein' good. He didn't, however, doggone his hide, but when he got well he was meaner'n skunks. He'd bite and kiek at anybody who come within ten feet of him, and if I hitted him to the cart he wouldn't pull a pound. I was keepin' him around in the hopes to trade him off when along comes a stranger one day from Arkansas. The old woman was gone to a naybur's, and I was sittin' on the doorstep when this stranger baited and said:

"Kin I everlastin'ly and eternally flatter myself that I am addressin' the celebrated and notorious Zeb White?"

"That's me," said I.

"The critter who has killed 9,000 possums, 3,000 woodchucks, 4,200 coons and fifty bars?"

"Them's about the figgers, stranger."

"The man who crowded a circus elephant into the ditch, hung a bull over the fence, and licked three wild cats barehanded?"

"That's mostly me."

"The man who has outrun, outjumped, outwrestled and outfitted every critter in Tennessee who would tackle him?"

"Kinder that."

"Waal, now," goes on the man as he shakes hands, "yo' seems to be some pumpkins, and I hope yo' ar', fur I walked over from Arkansas to gin yo' a trial. I'm gwine to do my best, Zeb White, to lick yo' outen yo'r butes!"

"What fur?" said I.

"Jest to take yo' down a peg and let yo' know that thar ar' two or three other folks on aith. Yes, I'm either gwine to make yo' holler or else live on roots all the rest of my days!"

"I don't want no quarrel with anybody," said I, but I soon disklivered that the critter from Arkansas was bound to hev a fuss. He bragged and crowed and had so much to say that I had no other way but to tackle him. We peeled off coats and vests out thar on the level spot, and I noticed the old mule standin' with his hind quarters out of the woodshed doah.

"I tell yo' what I'm gwine to do," said the stranger as he made ready. "I'm gwine to bite off yo'r right ear and carry it back to Arkansas with me as a sort of a certificate, and I hope yo'll write the date on it with pen and ink before I leave."

"We finally got to work, and I soon found that critter all I could manage. He was peart in his feellin's and a hard hitter, and as he danced around he said:

"Yo' might as well begin to holler right now, Zeb White, fur I've got yo' licked."

"Jest about that time I fetched him a sawt that itched him head over heels and broke my thumb. He got up as peart as yo' please, and, seemin' my thumb was broke and my right hand useless, he put on mo' steam. It did seem to me that fur the first time in my life I was gwine to be licked, and I had a feellin' of goneness clear down to my butes. Broken bones don't count in a foun down in this kentry, yo' know. The man who comes out on top gets the credit, and the other fellow has to say 'Yes, sah, I jest dun reckon I was bevin' a powerful chis shave of it when Providence interferred. I was bein' banged all around when I happened to see my old mewl backin' up on us from the shed. He'd heard that row and wanted a hand in. Tother feller's back was to'ard the mewl, and I played to keep it thar. He never had no warnin' of what was comin'. Then fust thing he knew the mewl backed up to within kiek'n distance and let go both feet, and old Arkansas went rollin' most down to the bresh fence. His breath was gone when he stopped, and I was also sittin' on his stomach. In three or four minits he opened his eyes and looked around and said:

"Ar' I back in Arkansas ag'in?"

"Not skassily," said I.

"Zeb, I acknowledge to bein' a felled man, but I'd like the consolashun of knowin' how 'twas done."

"It war a fair foun'."

"I reckon it was, but I was gittin' the best of it when yo' fastened a couple of horseshoes to yo'r hands and reached over my shoulders and hit me in the back and sent me tumblin'."

Was that what licked me?"

"Reckon it was."

"Shake hands, Zeb White, and bid me goodby."

"And he shouldered his bundle and went off whistlin', and to this day he don't know why that foun went ag'in him. I heard that he went back to Arkansas and tried to fight with boss-shoes tied to his hands, but the other critter evened up by shootin' fo' but-lets into him."

BURNED BY COLD.

Liquid Air Will Produce a Worse Wound Than Intense Heat.

Whoever has applied a moistened finger to a piece of frosty metal in winter well remembers the painful experience thereby gained of the fact that cold as well as heat can blister the skin.

During some experiments in the production of excessively low temperatures Pictet, the French investigator, burned himself with cold several times, and the effects were so remarkable that he deemed them worthy of description to a body of scientific men.

It appears that there are two kinds or degrees of cold burn. In the case of the less severe "burns" the skin at first turns red, but becomes blue the next day. The inflamed spot swells, and a period varying from a month to six weeks elapses before the wound heals.

When the contact with the cold substance is longer and more complete a burn of the second degree is produced. A malignant and stubborn wound is formed, and the process of healing is very slow.

A drop of liquid air falling on Pictet's hand produced a cold burn which did not completely heal in six months, while a scorch from heat accidentally inflicted on the same hand and nearly at the same time was healed in ten or twelve days.—Harper's Weekly.

A DAINY TABLE FEAT.

Victor Hugo's Wonderful Orange and Sugar Combination.

In "My Autobiography" Mme. Judith, the great French actress, tells a story of Victor Hugo.

At a dinner which Judith attended with Alexandre Dumas somebody quoted Alfred de Musset, and Hugo was led to express his opinion on his illustrious fellow author.

"Yes," he said, "he has immense talents. He even boasts that there are some who consider him as good a poet as I am."

Dumas jugged Judith's elbow, and it was all she could do to keep from laughing.

"At the end of the meal," our author relates, "Hugo treated us to a very strange exhibition. He put a whole orange, rind and all, into his mouth and then managed to thrust as many pieces of sugar as possible into his cheeks. This achieved, he began to scrunch it all up with his lips tightly closed. In the midst of this operation he swallowed two liqueur glasses of kirsch and a few minutes later opened his mouth wide. It was empty! No one made any attempt to imitate him, possibly because no one else had teeth good enough for such a feat."

One Way to Cook a Snipe.

"American cooking," said a foreign chef who visited this country, "pleases me very much. Your southern dishes I particularly like. The French chef, whom we find in the large hotel all over the world, would do well to adopt some of your dishes. He would do well, for example, to substitute 'chicken Maryland style' for such a dish as poached ortolan brains."

"Poached ortolan brains—no exaggeration," he said, "are of the sort of dishes a certain type of French chef loves to serve. Such a chef—the gourmet's chef—cooks fish that are not cleaned and birds so rare they seem not to be cooked at all. Indeed, these fellows have an axiom that the way to cook a snipe is:

"Let it fly once through a hot kitchen."

English Literary Consuls.

If America is famous for its ambassadors who have been men of letters, England can boast of her literary consuls. G. P. R. James, probably the most prolific English novelist (except, perhaps, Miss Braddon), wrote three novels a year for about forty years and died in 1890 as consul general at Venice. Sir Richard Burton likewise wrote most of his travel books and translations of eastern works when consul in various parts of the world. At his last consulship at Trieste, which he held from 1872 to 1890, he succeeded Charles Lever, the Irish novelist, who had occupied the position for fifteen years. But is there a famous English literary consul at the present time?—Exchange.

A Matrimonial Ad.

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Anna Trowbridge was apparently destined to a life of toil. Her father had never got on in the world, and it was evident as she grew to womanhood that she would have to work for her living. When she was seventeen she had a love affair with a young fellow who was still in college and with three or four more years of study before attaining his profession. Both were too young for a serious affair, and the young man never spoke to his parents of the girl he fancied.

Anna studied stenography and typewriting and at twenty went to work. But that kind of work did not please her. She pined for a home and all that a home brings. She was attractive and doubtless might have married, but every year she grew more particular as to the man she should choose.

There are persons who believe in going forward, even if one goes wrong instead of right, while their opposites are always fearful of striking into new paths. Anna belonged to the former class. The firm for which she worked was a large advertiser, and she had ample opportunity to observe the remarkable results that accrue from advertising. One day the subject of matrimonial advertisements occurred to her. She was aware that the results of such were put in keeping with those pertaining to business. Why should they not be available? She had read that in certain cities abroad marriage brokers are in constant requisition and the marriages they effect are as liable to turn out well as those made in other ways.

Some months after this idea occurred to her she came home one evening tired and sick at heart. In a fit of desperation she took an advertisement she had written long before from a writing desk, read it over, affixed in lieu of signature the three letters T. O. T., put it in an envelope addressed to a newspaper and, taking it to a letter box at the corner, dropped it in.

"There," she said on returning to her room, "it's done, and I can't undo it."

She fortunately escaped answers from persons who look upon such advertisements as inserted from improper motives, but this was doubtless from the wording of her message to bachelors. She received a number of replies from men who took her ad, in the spirit in which it was meant, but Anna could easily tell from their tone that they were written by men she would be willing to marry.

There was one that was very far above the rest. The writer was evidently a gentleman and educated. It seemed to Anna that he had read her leaf. He said that he pitied her for being obliged to resort to a means evidently repulsive to her to obtain what was every woman's natural right, marriage, motherhood, home. He regretted the drift of the times which tended to separate the sexes and obliterate the home. He proposed a correspondence as a first step toward an acquaintance to be followed by whatever fate might have in store for them. The letter was full of feeling, of sympathy. Indeed, it seemed to Anna that it had been written by a lover instead of a stranger.

Anna was delighted. She wrote a reply which she kept for a few days, then read it again and, finding that she had written too much from the heart, wrote another better adapted to the occasion. This elicited a note that, while it was perfectly deferential, the writer seeming to try to write with the consciousness of addressing a stranger, evidently could not repress something akin to love. Anna interpreted this to mean that he was, as she expressed it, heart hungry.

In the correspondence that ensued Anna discovered in the writer's letters all that could be expressed in them. But she had not seen him. Her heart sank within her at remembering that he might write lovely letters and still be unattractive in appearance and he might be the latter and a villain. She proposed an exchange of photographs. Her correspondent wrote that such likenesses often gave a very different impression from the real being and he would prefer to see and be seen in the flesh.

Up to this point Anna had proceeded without any qualms or regrets, but a number of emotions now came to her. She had never had but one love, and that had ended long ago. She had not heard of the young student for five or six years. Nevertheless she could not but contrast a love like that with an affair like the present. She shrank from the ordeal of meeting a man she had found by a matrimonial advertisement. Several times she determined to give the matter up. But one day she decided to receive a call from her correspondent and posted her letter as she had done in the first place that she might not have an opportunity to change her mind.

Not being willing to bring her correspondent to her boarding place, she appointed a meeting in a park at a certain place at seven and a half o'clock on a June evening. She went there a few minutes before the appointed time and sat on a bench.

A pair of arms was thrown around her neck from behind. She was at once released so that she could turn and saw her young lover, grown to manhood.

In their clandestine correspondence she had signed herself T. O. T., and when she wrote her ad, hunting for a name, it had occurred to her. The initials had happened to catch the eye of her girlhood lover.

Richard L. Metcalfe Named

No more worthy man could have been named to the important position of governor of the Panama canal zone, we believe, than this distinguished citizen of Nebraska. His appointment is no doubt pleasing to some corrupt and corrupting influences within the state who will hope that no one will be endowed with his mantle of vigilance and guardianship of public weal. His many friends are glad because they believe that he will make good and that it is but a fitting reward for years of faithful sacrificing service for the people. The Democrat joins his friends in congratulating the President, the appointee and the people over whom he has been made ruler.
