

A SUCCESSFUL CHAUTAUQUA

Talent Selected by Local Committee is Very Popular. A Change of Program Disappoints Many Patrons

The Wayne Chautauqua is drawing large crowds this season, and they have a high class of entertainers who are worthy of the audience they receive.

The Strollers male quartette are evidently built to produce a very comic and entertaining program, but when put on for Sunday as they were here it is a handicap, for the inconsistency of trying to make a sacred concert out of a program intended to amuse is rather inconsistent with much prevailing sentiment, yet the Strollers cleverly managed to fairly well please all without offending or shocking any. Chancellor Bradford's address was excellent and well received. The evening address by Dr. Mitchell was full of practical suggestions and delivered in a manner that made them plain to all. He takes a practical view of things as we find them today and does not call all bad that seems bad—looks for the good rather than the bad.

The second day was a disappointment to many. The unannounced change of the speaking hour of Frank J. Cannon and L. H. Weir was a disappointment to those who missed hearing what they wanted by placing their confidence in the official program which was evidently not made to correspond with the contracts made with the speakers, and several hundred patrons who wanted to hear Mr. Cannon had a grouch that is hard to get over. The explanation lays the blame upon one being ill so that the platform manager could not be here and look after his business and the neglect in getting out mail on time at headquarters. The few who heard the speech report it excellent and the thousand who planned to hear it and did not, believe them, and that they were cheated out of one of the best attractions of the week.

The talk of Mr. Weir on playgrounds and recreation in the evening was one of the practical kind which tells people a lot of things they should know and realize whether they want to know them or not. The Chicago Artists furnished the music for that day.

Tuesday Rogers and Grilley entertained and Virginia Brooks of West Hammond, Illinois, spoke in the afternoon and told of the fight it takes to free a city from the grip of graft and greed. Rogers and Grilley had charge of the entire evening's program and entertained the audience in a most pleasing manner with the harp and readings.

Wednesday afternoon Father D. J. Cronin told the audience what they should read and what not—especially the young. He opposes all trashy novel and romance reading, and took a swipe at some classes of newspapers. Thinks they print too much of crime and play it too much for sensational effect. He would have a law similar to the pure food law which should govern the publishing business—which would be contrary to our boasted freedom of press and speech. Public opinion will regulate the tone of the press better than law. Yellow journals have lost the confidence of the public and are on the decline.

The grand opera singers were here for both afternoon and evening entertainments, giving their concert in the evening to a crowded house. With their orchestra and singing, the most fastidious lovers of music could find no fault. Natural musicians trained to the highest degree, they pleased all.

This afternoon Nelse Darling is scheduled to talk to the people of business—and it will be a talk which every business man will profit from hearing. He gives the mail order business a bit of free advertising which shows them up just as they are—and that is not to their credit. Gretchen Myers and Senor Fabrizio are the musical entertainers today and this evening, and they need no introduction to an audience at this place. They entertained here so acceptably last season.

Professor Lewis will not be here this evening, being reported ill and unable to come and bring his message of such interest to the school people, which will be a sad disappointment. Another school man of equal note will be here to take his place however, Dr. L. H. Wright of Portland, Oregon. Friday the Symphony Four provide the music, afternoon and evening, and Sylvester Long lectures in the afternoon and Elias Day entertains in the evening.

Saturday Dr. Wm. Colledge lectures in the afternoon and the Italian Marine Band will provide the music, closing the chautauqua in the evening with a full concert, the most inspiring of music.

Gossard-Johnson

At the home of the groom's parents, A. P. Gossard and wife, Monday morning, August 25, 1913, occurred the marriage of their son, Earl, to Miss Fay Johnson of Carroll, Rev. P. R. Glotfelty officiating. The ceremony was at six o'clock and immediately following the bride and groom accompanied by the groom's parents left for Sioux City by automobile, the parents returning that evening and the bride and groom remaining a few days at Crystal Lake before returning.

The groom needs no introduction to Wayne people where he has lived so long. The bride, an estimable young lady, is a daughter of A. Johnson and wife, south of Carroll.

Upon their return they will begin housekeeping in the Mrs. Durin home, which she has vacated for them, going to make her home in the old marble shop rooms, which have been fitted up. The Democrat congratulates the young folks.

New Heating Plant For Church

In spite of the hot weather the church officials in charge have practically completed plans and subscriptions for a new heating plant for the M. E. church at this place—in fact when it turns cold they will have to have it for the old plant is worn out. It is probable that they will have a steam heating plant, as a member of the committee tells us that in asking for funds most of those solicited subscribed from two to 100 times as much for a steam plant as for a hot air. It is estimated that it will take about $1,200 for the plant installed.

Sunday Base Ball Game

The tie game of ball between Wayne and Bloomfield is to be played off here Sunday afternoon. Each team has a game to its credit and this is to be the battle royal. A special train is to run from Bloomfield, arriving here at 1:35 p. m., and the game is to be called at two o'clock, and will be followed by automobile racing.

ROBERT SMITH SUICIDES

After Shooting Wife. The Wife Formerly Miss Yaryan of Carroll, Well Known Here. Her Parents Called to Omaha.

George Yaryan and wife of Carroll were called to Omaha Saturday by a tragedy in which their daughter, Mrs. Robert Smith was one of the victims. The story as published in the Omaha papers states that Mr. and Mrs. Smith had not been living together for several weeks, and that she had secured a position as housekeeper through the aid of friends. Mr. Smith, who is a housewrecker and also a bridge builder, is said to have made an appointment to meet his wife Friday evening, and, as she failed to meet him, he went Saturday morning to the place she was living, and there they had a long, wordy quarrel, he finally proposing that she join him in suicide, both to go to a room and turn on the gas. This she refused to do, and in response to a dare from the wife, he drew a revolver and shot her twice, one shot taking effect in the head and the other in the back. Physicians say that she cannot recover. Smith then went to the back part of the house where he had left a grip and took a razor therefrom and cut his throat, nearly severing the head. Mrs. Smith's daughter, Mildred, seven years of age, witnessed the quarrel and the double killing and gave the alarm, having to pass over the body of her stepfather to escape from the room.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Yaryan deeply sympathize with them in their hour of affliction and hope that their daughter may yet be spared to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married about three years ago, and have lived in various places since that time, as his work was such as to take him to different places. Two years ago they went to Denver. When a boy, Mr. Smith lived at Strawberry Point, Iowa, and when passing through Wayne always stopped to chat with the writer, whom he had known. He did not appear to be a bad fellow, but must have had a yellow streak in him somewhere.

The Mexican Situation

After taking all of the time permitted the acting officials in Mexico yesterday rejected the offers of friendship of this country tendered by the president, and the president then gave his special message to congress and the people. No copy of the message has yet reached this place but from extracts sent the main points are made plain. They are:

No recognition of the Huerta government.

No armed intervention.

Strict neutrality, forbidding the exportation of arms into that country for either of the factions.

To urge all Americans to leave Mexico at once and to assist them to get away in every way possible.

To let everyone in Mexico who assumes to exercise authority know that this government "shall vigilantly watch the fortunes of those Americans who can not get away and shall hold those responsible for their sufferings and losses to a definite reckoning."

Negotiations for the friendly mediation of the United States are open to resumption at any time on either the initiative of this government or of Mexico.

Huerta's Demands

Reception of the Mexican ambassador in Washington.

That the United States send a new ambassador to Mexico without restraints.

Strict observance of the neutrality laws and "see to it that no material or monetary assistance is given to the rebels."

Unconditional recognition of the Huerta government.

Joint Bible Circle Meeting

At the home of E. B. Young and wife today the Junior Bible Circle of this place is entertaining a similar organization of young ladies from Wakefield. The Wakefield circle was but recently organized, and were invited to meet and get acquainted with their Wayne sisters. There were about eighty in the party and it is needless to add that they are enjoying the day. They came on the morning train and return at 2:10.

Corn Cultivation

There is no question that has a greater importance among the farmers of this vicinity than that of corn care. This season is one that tries the best of methods to the limit. The merit of any system of cultivation that has stood the test this season must be recognized. At the request of the editor, Prof. E. E. Lackey, the agricultural man of the State Normal furnished the Democrat with the following report of an examination of fields near Wayne. He says: "S. E. Auker has some good corn for this dry year. The difference between his corn and that of surrounding fields appears to be due to his method of preparing the seed bed and the subsequent cultivation. Mr. Auker believes in fall or early spring plowing for corn, thus allowing the seed bed to pack down close to the subsoil. By so doing capillarity between the surface and subsoil is not broken. Shallow cultivation is practiced during the growing season. This prevents the deep drying of the soil by too much aeration, and also prevents the disturbing and breaking of corn roots. The matter of not disturbing the roots of the corn by deep cultivation is important both in wet and dry years. Root pruning in dry years cuts off both moisture and food supply from the plant, while in wet years root pruning delays maturity, thus subjecting the corn to damage from early frosts and causing much soft corn. It certainly pays well the one who is growing a crop of corn to study carefully methods of conservation of moisture and prevention and eradication of weeds by means of surface cultivation. Mr. Auker's corn is still green while much of the corn in surrounding fields is badly fired."

Clyde Oman, a practical farmer now on the retired list, also saw the field and noted the difference between it and other fields, and told of examining the plant roots, and how they permeate the soil where undisturbed by deep cultivation.

Next Monday the schools open at Wayne, and not only at Wayne but all over our great state, and out beyond her borders in all of the 48 states, enlisting an army of a million teachers and about 20,000,000 pupils in the great work of education. Minstrels Make Good

J. M. Busby's Minstrels played to a crowded tent last night. They were by far the finest minstrel troupe that ever visited our city under canvas. Anyone who likes minstrel shows could not help but be pleased at their singing and dancing, which was greeted with round after round of applause. The show is new, clean and up-to-date, replete with new songs, and certainly deserves the excellent patronage which it received.—Alva Daily News, Wayne, Tuesday, September 2.—adv.

A 5,000 Mile Automobile Trip

Last week John L. Payne, wife and two sons, returned from an extended trip, in which they visited the states of Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and the two Dakotas. Starting more than three months ago, they zigzagged south across this state, and finally went south from Superior into Kansas. They traversed this state in much the same manner, going south through the central part between the east and the west. They spent some time in Oklahoma, going south in the state one or two tiers of counties. Starting north from Blackwell, Oklahoma, they came through the oil fields of eastern Kansas, and on up, taking in all of the eastern part of the state, and crossing the river to Missouri at St. Joseph. Then north into Iowa where they visited several places in the southern part of the state. From here they went north as far as Guelph, North Dakota, and from here home, arriving here in good health and happy. When asked where he saw the best country he said it was hard to answer that on a dry year, but that Oklahoma was the prettiest they saw; Iowa has the best crops this year, and everywhere the drouth had made sad havoc. All central and western Kansas is a flat failure. Eastern Kansas, and Missouri have part of a crop. Minnesota looks better than the Dakotas and it don't look so bad here at home.

During the trip they traveled 5,381 miles in their Ford car, were gone three months and four days, and visited relatives and friends at fifty-two different places in the states named. It certainly was a great trip and the Democrat was furnished with their time table and followed them so closely that they missed but one copy in the three months.

Out In California

Pirie Goldie, who went from here to California more than two years ago is evidently having a fine vacation, and the Wilmington Journal copies the following from a letter to home folks from him. The Journal says:

"A letter from Pirie Goldie, who is at Cold Brook Camp, says he and Mr. Evans and son walked to camp from Azusa, 25 miles, the stage beating them to it by only an hour. Pirie was 'dead to the world' upon arrival, however. Also: 'Rev. Evans does all the work and Arthur and I the loafing. Mr. Evans is some cook; we have had beans twice. I am having a fine time up here. We went to Crystal lake today and it's some climb, believe me; pretty near straight up all the way. But coming down we ran; it is four miles and Arthur and I made it in 20 minutes. Mr. Evans got the wrong trail and slid down the side of the mountain and saved a mile and a half. Say, ma, I will need my other shoes and take them to the shoemaker and have him put those iron things on both sides. Send them by telegram. Fishing is the worst ever, only one measly little trout."

Grandma Martin Dead

Wednesday afternoon the death messenger came to release Mrs. Matilda A. Martin from suffering. She was in her 91st year and for nearly two years had patiently awaited the summons, suffering from a broken hip which confined her to her bed. She was among the early settlers here, and was known and loved by many. The funeral will be held Saturday morning from the Baptist church here, conducted by Rev. B. P. Richardson. An obituary will appear next week.

The Carroll Carnival

This entertainment in our neighborhood town was well attended and much interest was taken in the entertainment, sports and the automobile parade. One friend cautioned us not to say anything about the ball games—he was a Carroll man, and Carroll won but one of the five games. We failed to receive a report of the games and scores.

In the automobile parade the first prize for the best decorated car went to the Ladies' Aid society.

The Teacher's Institute

The sessions each forenoon are well attended, and much interest is taken in the work presented by the instructors. Practically all of the teachers of the county and some from outside are enrolled and attending. The enrollment has reached beyond the 100 mark. The teachers are also getting much good, instruction and enjoyment from the chautauqua entertainments. It makes a busy week for the school people.

Possession will be given March 1st. The price paid for the farm was $25,000. This is one of the places Mr. Christensen had advertised for sale last week and is claimed to be one of the best farms in the county. It will make Mr. West a nice home as it is well improved and is close to the school and church.

The movement to save corn fodder, which has been waged by the newspapers of the state for the past two weeks, has been productive of much good. Reports to the Bureau of Publicity, from every part of the state, say that farmers are generally storing their corn in silos. Meetings held in Seward, Central City and Beatrice were attended by many farmers, who showed their interest in the methods of saving corn for feeding purposes. This campaign demonstrates what the newspapers and farmers can do by co-operation. It means a big saving to the state.

John Grimsley is going at it right. Last week he brought in the start of a herd of Holstein cows, and this week he is hauling out material for a silo. Since he purchased the farm just east of Wayne two years ago they have improved it wonderfully with new house and new buildings. The silo will help add to the bank account. When the good dairy cow and the silo becomes more numerous then will our prosperity be greater. We will have a more condensed product to ship and will therefore pay less to the railroad for shipping. We will have a better method of conserving food values, and there will be less waste. We will carry back to the soil all and more than we take from it, and will not be robbing ourselves and others who may come after us of what we should leave for the coming years. Mr. Grimsley is, we believe, on the right track.

Why Not At Wayne?

The following from the Butler County Press tells of the work which the commercial club of that city is inaugurating, and the idea is good. Wayne too has a commercial club and the city has an elegant building which might better be used for meetings similar to the ones proposed at David City, and if necessary the club funds could be used to warm the rooms in the winter—the expense would be but little, and the benefits and enjoyment could be made more than worth the price. The Press says: "Proposed organization of the David City Commercial club on a broad and permanent basis of usefulness and effectiveness is receiving consideration. Included in the plan are services of a paid secretary in promoting work of the club and pleasant and convenient place for the club meetings and club dinners, which would be utilized also for committee meetings, etc. Opportunity to get such quarters for the club, with heat and light furnished, and the services of a paid secretary also, at less cost than would be possible otherwise is presented by a proposed arrangement with the Y. M. A., by which use of the Y. M. A. buildings secured and a considerable part of the time of the secretary gained. It is proposed that membership fee be $18 a year ($1.50 a month), five-sixths of this to go as payment of secretary and payment for club quarters, one-sixth (or $3 a year per club member) to go to a fund for general club purposes, members of the commercial club to have the privileges of Y. M. A. building, the baths, etc., if they desire them. It seems a feasible and advantageous plan and being given attention thoroughly."

It Is Not Dead

Quite often there appears in the columns of ultra republican and standpat democratic newspapers beautiful sermons touching the alleged death of the progressive political party.

These beautiful sermons are untimely. The progressive party is not dead. It will occupy a place in American politics for several years. As long as the democratic party shall be truly progressive, just as long will the progressive sentiment of the country work with the democratic party, but the slightest retrograde movement on part of the democracy will be the signal for a mighty flocking of men of progressive thought to the ranks of the progressive organization which showed more life and more strength last year than any new party ever devolved in the first year of its existence. It is the belief and the hope of The Telegram that the democratic party may long hold and deserve the support and the votes of true progressives, but we cannot escape the conviction that any backward step taken by the democracy would soon leave the party in a minority as hopeless as that now occupied by the once proud republican party, and at the same time elevate the Roosevelt progressive party to the place of supreme leadership in the nation, and particularly in all the western cities.

Here in Nebraska the situation is interesting. Many republican leaders, and some thoughtless democrats, are constantly trying to laugh the progressive party to death. But their laughter will not kill. In Nebraska there will be no more fusion between regular republicans and progressive republicans. The fight for the state and county officers in 1914 will be in a three cornered fight between democrats, republicans and progressives. If the national democratic administration shall continue to hold popularity it now enjoys, then the democrats ought to be able to win the fight in Nebraska next year, but certain it is that any loss of favor by the democratic administration would mean an instant increase in the voting strength of the progressive party. In such event the democratic ticket in Nebraska would be compelled to contend with the regular republicans for third place in the race. The Telegram believes that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will continue to hold the democratic party in the favor which it now enjoys.

But we do not belong to that school in politics which regards the progressive party as a dead one. It will have a place on the stage for many years. It may ultimately supplant one of the present established parties. Our judgment is that the progressive party vote in Nebraska is so strong that it has rendered the old republican incapable of doing any harm in the near years. We hope it will always be strong enough to keep the democratic party on the alert, and fearlessly true to its own good progressive principles.—Columbus Telegram.

The Glass-Owens Currency Bill

In reply to criticisms of certain features of the Glass-Owens currency bill received by Congressman Dan V. Stephens, from several of his constituents, he gave out the following statement this week, and it makes plain many features of the new currency bill, and why certain interests oppose it:

The facts, developed during the week's discussion of the currency bill in the caucus greatly strengthen my faith in the value of the measure to the country. The big outstanding fact is that this bill takes the legal reserves of the banks out of the hands of the Wall Street gamblers where the country was unable to get them during the panic of 1907 and places them in twelve big Federal Reserve Banks located in twelve regions or districts, where they will be available for the use of the banks of each district for rediscount purposes. The present reserve system broke down in time of stress proving its inadequacy. Certainly the fifty-three central reserve banks in New York City, Chicago and St. Louis, and the three hundred fifteen banks in smaller cities carrying approximately the bulk of a half billion dollars of the legal reserves of the country will oppose this measure, because they can loan several billion dollars on that amount of reserves to the people at a good rate of interest. They are not to be blamed from the viewpoint of personal interest for opposing a bill that takes this amount of business away from them. But it is beyond my understanding how any one of the 7072 country banks which make up the bulk of these reserves should be opposed to mobilizing them into twelve Federal Reserve Banks where they will be available for legitimate business wholly, rather than for most of them to be used for the benefit of gamblers in Wall Street.

The claim has been made by some that the loaning power of country banks is decreased by this bill. This is not true as anyone can see when it is understood that the transfer of legal reserves to the Federal Banks does not in any way lessen the power of country banks to borrow or rediscount. They can rediscount with their Federal Bank to the extent of their reserves and beyond—the only limit being the ability of the Federal Reserve Bank to keep its gold reserve of thirty three and one-third per cent. And if that is exhausted and any other Federal Bank has an excess the Federal Board can order it to rediscount for the Federal Bank that is short of reserves. Not one dollar of this money can be loaned to gamblers. It is for commerce and production.

Some also complain of the capital stock they must subscribe to this bank. That is not a serious matter at all, though I would amend the bill if possible to eliminate capital stock as in my judgment it will not be needed for several years. A country bank subscribing ten per cent of its capital to the stock of the Federal Bank will no doubt find the earnings on that stock practically equal to what the remainder of their capital earns. The bill has been amended so that the profits of the Federal Bank will be divided with the government according to the balances each bank keeps.

Others complain that the President has too much power in naming this board. One can take his choice in this dilemma between the President and the banks. One or the other must have the power. My own view is that since the power of this Board is largely supervisory, not unlike the power now exerted by the Comptroller of the Currency, and since the Government has a great interest in these banks through the large deposits it will carry with them, there can be no doubt of the importance of Government control. Further if this Federal Board should be elected by banks one Federal Reserve Bank might dominate the others and control the whole. I cannot see how any country banker could afford to take his chances with a Bankers' Federal Board controlling his destinies. Such a board would represent competing banks, while the Government controlled Federal Board will represent all, having no interests in any bank in any way. The Board would be an impartial, disinterested judge of all.

Others complain that a Federal Board appointed by the President would be political and dangerous. The argument fails because in fifty years of political control of National banks by the Government through the Comptroller of the Currency there is not an example of abuse of power, though the Comptroller has the power to close and ruin a perfectly solvent bank if he desired to do so. It is apparent at once to all that an administration would be discredited and repudiated if the Federal Reserve Board failed to properly control the banks and the country was plunged into financial distress. It is inconceivable that a President would be so blind to the success of his own administration as to fail to use the utmost care in appointing men of the highest integrity and ability to the Federal Board. Besides the bill provides that at least two of the four appointees must be of the opposite party.

Another criticism is that this law creates a gigantic banking trust. Nothing can be further from the truth. We now have a gigantic banking trust in the centralizing of our reserves in New York City, governed by private interests by dark lantern methods. Under this bill the money trust is robbed of its sting by taking away the legal reserves it has always gambled with and placing them under Government control under twelve big bank heads representing each section of the country, each bank attending to the needs of its region or district. Under this method every section of the country gets its share of the money and no section can rob any other section as the watch dog of the Government has its eye on all twelve of the big centers of reserves. It is the very opposite of a privately controlled trust.

Another favorite argument of the big banks is that they are compelled to furnish capital to these Federal Banks but have no representation on the Federal Board. The argument fails because each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks is managed by a bankers board of directors. The real banking business is controlled by the banks absolutely. The Federal Reserve Board is supervisory and is given power to keep the twelve big Federal Banks in order and from each others throats. Nothing more, nor nothing less.

This bill frees for legitimate business hundreds of millions of money that stock gamblers have heretofore had the use of. It will furnish through the twelve Federal Banks the largest market for agricultural, industrial and commercial paper that has ever existed anywhere. It will increase the loaning power of every country bank that becomes a member of the Reserve Bank. It will enable country banks to get their reserves when they need them. It leaves country banks every privilege of profit they now possess to make money. In short it is the best bill ever presented to Congress that has ever had a show of becoming a law.

Wall Street would like to stir up a panic to stop this legislation if it could, but thanks to the courage and good sense of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, they can't do it. This is the first time in the history of the country that a Secretary of the Treasury has defied Wall Street. Heretofore when Wall Street gambled up all of our reserves and got into hot water the Secretary of the Treasury has rushed to their aid and deposited the people's money in their banks so as to enable them to return the reserves of country banks. But this year at the first symptom of a stringency in crop movement the Secretary of the Treasury tells the bankers of the west and south that he will deposit fifty millions with them, and a hundred millions if need be, for crop moving purposes. They will not have to pay tribute to Wall Street before they can use the people's money, with which to do business. It seems beyond belief that the bankers of this country should have submitted without protest to the practice of feeding our money into Wall Street banks in order that it might trickle throughout the west to do the business of the country. It looks as if the country was coming into its own under the operation of this proposed legislation.

Impeached For Doing His Duty

The impeachment of Governor Sulzer furnishes no warning whatever to any one inclined to do what the impeachment resolutions declare he has done. It is only a warning to all New York's State officials to obediently follow the commands of Tammany and the privileged interests back of it. This warning will be emphasized should Sulzer be convicted. Assuming, for argument's sake, that he is actually guilty as charged, his punishment would still, under the circumstances, be a public calamity. Its results would be detrimental to public interest and public morality. None of the arguments usually advanced in behalf of punishment for wrongdoing apply to this case. Governor Sulzer has not been impeached for doing wrong, as charged, but for doing right.

The circumstances under which the proceedings were brought are such as to cast suspicion and discredit on all testimony unless it be shown that Tammany had no hand in framing it up. A vote of guilty by any Tammany-controlled Senator will not declare the unbiased judgment of the one who casts it. It will be only an act of obedience to the orders of a Tammany boss. The Assemblymen who voted for impeachment only obeyed orders in a similar manner. The testimony which Mrs. Sulzer offered at the last moment was disregarded. Nothing she could say could show that Tammany orders had been changed. Consequently the Assemblymen could not see that it had anything to do with the case.

If actually guilty as charged, Governor Sulzer, if convicted, will be somewhat in the position of Jean Valjean, when dragged from a position where he was engaged in work for the public good to suffer punishment for an act he was no longer liable to repeat. But his guilt is, in fact, improbable. Since there is "much that is bad in the best of us," one cannot say positively that he is innocent. But the character of his prosecutors, their evident motive, and the circumstances which have led to the prosecution entitle him not only to the usual presumption of innocence until proven guilty, but to the benefit of doubt with which the most positive evidence of Tammany tools must be received.—The Public.

FACING SERIOUS DANGER.

Things That Almost Happen Sometimes Bring Gray Hairs.

"It is the things that almost happen which cause gray hairs in this business rather than the things that actually occur," said a veteran captain of an excursion boat.

"Every captain of a passenger carrying boat has the shaking of the Titanic, the Slocum disaster and such accidents on his mind continually, but somehow it's not the accidents that really occur that bring gray hairs.

"My first gray hair appeared when I was thirty-three years old. Then I was running a boat to Coney Island, and in the lower bay fog settled down thicker than mush. I held a compass course, and everything went smoothly enough until it was almost time to change the course and head from the bay toward Coney. I had heard a boat—by her whistle I knew she was a towing tug—pass me further up the bay.

"Even though I could not see the bow of my boat I was hanging with my head out of the pilot house window and straining my eyes to see, when my quartermaster, who was standing on the very peak of the bow, called for me to reverse. I rang for full speed astern and threw the wheel hard to port.

"The fog lifted for an instant and dead ahead of me I saw a scow with 'Dynamite' written on her side and a red flag floating above her. I knew that meant she was loaded with dynamite, and the Lord pity us if we ran her down. I kept the wheel hard over, and it seemed to me the engineer was an eternity in getting the engine reversed. We just grazed the dynamite scow. I learned afterward that she had been in tow of a tug and that the hawser broke and the tug crew had lost sight of the scow in the fog.

"When I got home that night my wife pointed out a gray hair—the first I had ever had.

"My next bad scare came one Sunday when I was captain of another excursion steamer. We were at the pier loading passengers. There were two hawsers out to the pier, and the one astern broke. The gangplanks were out, and it being a very hot day, people were flocking aboard. There were at least seventy-five persons on the two gangplanks when the hawser broke, and the boat commenced to drift from the pier. I yelled, and the crew tried to force the passengers off the gangplanks, but those in the rear kept pushing, and the crew was helpless.

"There was only one thing to do. I rang for reversed engines. With the bow line out the reversing of the boat naturally backed her up against the dock and held her there, but that bow hawser was an old one, and if it broke the boat would back away and dump every one on the gangplanks into the river.

"To me it seemed like an age, but it was really not more than a minute until they had another line out astern and I could stop the engine. That caused several gray hairs.

"In all my experience I've never had a serious accident, but, as you see, I have a head full of gray hairs caused by things that almost happened."—New York Sun.

Just Being Human.

Whatever else I may be ashamed of, let me not be ashamed of being human. I may well blush for my little store of knowledge, for it might have been greater, and for my imperfect wisdom, which might have been sounder; for my sins, that might have been fewer, and for my righteousness, which is paltry enough. For excesses, lacks and want of balance I may be justly blamed, but for any genuine human feeling I have no right to hang my head. So I dare say frankly that I love to eat and to drink, I love woman and the child, I love my slippered ease and a chat with good company, I love adventure and the shifting sail, I love a rousing book, a clever play and a fair fight. And whatever pride or joy is built upon the contempt of others, I hate. The best part of the heritage the twentieth century brings me is the privilege of being wholly human and not ashamed of it. Now some of the standpat papers that were opposing reciprocity with Canada a few months ago are criticizing the administration for not trying to inject into the tariff bill so that we might buy and sell both with the Canucks.

Again the Democrat comes to you bearing messages from those who are willing to tell you what they have to sell, and inviting you to come and see them. Suppose that while trading, you incidentally remark that you saw their advertisement in the paper.

In one paragraph a protection exchange curses the administration for attempting to take the tariff off the sugar in Louisiana, and in the next line it howls about the favoritism shown the south by not also taking the duty from rice. Some people are hard to please.

Wonder if Penrose thought he could bribe the president to change his convictions as to Mexico with an appropriation of $25,000,000 to be "spent as the president might direct?" We had one war that was perhaps started by such a resolution, and we are still paying the bills.

Some people claim to think that newspaper advertisements are not read. The trouble is that people do not take the trouble to tell the advertiser that they read their advertisement. If they had not read the advertisement they would not be there. Look at the business man who does not advertise; compare his place with that of the man who advertises.

On to Mexico is the cry of Penrose in the senate in behalf of those who have stolen valuable privileges there. We say on to Mexico—let every man who has sacred property in our sister republic to protect, go and do his full duty. But why should the common people bear the burden of cost and spill the blood necessary to defend the property of these millionaires. Put the man above the dollar.

People are not as panics as they were said to be in 1893. Then, it is claimed, that the presidents inaugural address for a lower tariff threw the people into a financial panic. This is admitting that it was not a real tariff panic, just a scare—such as they tried to start this summer, and were called so quick that it made their head swim. The man with millions at his command is now running the government.

A New England senator has stood in his place in the United States senate and declared that his section of the country does not need to be favored by a tariff at the expense of the other sections. An Iowa senator (not Cummins) has said, "I propose to be governed in my vote by one the test whether or not this bill is a better one for the hundred million people of this country than the present tariff law." From the western coast comes the master of the Washington State Grange and says, "We are face to face with the entire removal of the protective tariff from farm products." A little boy was blowing soap bubbles, and they looked pretty to him and he blew and the bubble swelled, and he blew again, and it swelled some more, and he became proud, puffed out his chest like a bandmaster and was going to do it some more—and the bubble burst—so it is with the protective tariff. They strained the thin wall of soap too hard. It's busted.

Elsewhere in this issue is an article taken from Carlson's Rural Review which contains much of truth and good common sense, and which may be read with profit by any and all of us. The truth of his assertions are fully shown. It is but a few weeks ago that two strangers were at Wayne setting stock in a company which is making a specialty of making and selling advertising specialties, and the plausible theory advanced was that the business man who took stock would be drawing a dividend from his competitor who had no stock in the concern, besides getting his own specialty advertising cheaper. It might be in order to remark that as a rule the most successful business men are those who make a practice of regularly advertising in their home newspapers and if they have anything to give their patrons make it something that at least does not openly ask for trade every time they see it—or in a price that is enticing. We may be prejudiced, but we believe that a plain, truthful talk in a newspaper which goes regularly to the home is worth more than a lot of fly swatters with the name on the handle and a ragged wire edge that catches on something every swat.

The new tables are beauties.

Some of the numerous candidates at Wayne who wish to serve their country as postmaster might find a chance for an easy job. There will be an examination here Saturday, September 27th, to see who is best qualified to best fill the office at Magnet. The pay there last year was $401, but under a democratic administration it will doubtless increase. There are not enough postoffices here to go around, unless some branch out.

J. J. Ahern, who has been away since last winter restoring his health, returned to Wayne Wednesday, accompanied by wife and children. He has been under the care of a physician at his old home in Illinois, and doing nothing, but get well. He now feels able to try his strength and see if he is ready for work. He spent considerable time at Chicago on his way home, and says that the purchases made there are beginning to arrive. Many was the glad hand extended to him as he appeared on the scene.

On last Thursday afternoon Mrs. John McIntyre charmingly entertained the Helping Hand society at her spacious home in the country several miles north of town. The guests were received on the lawn and tied comforts until the dinner was announced. The rooms were artistically decorated in ferns and golden rod. Covers were laid for twenty-two and the elaborate dinner consisted of five courses. After dinner the hours were happily passed in playing games, in which the prize winners were, Misses Anna Anderson, Miss Lessman, Mrs. Geo. Meyer, Mrs. Wm. Bautow and Mrs. Chas. Bautow. The ladies were also favored with several musical selections by Mesdames Arthur Halladay and Herbert Lessman. At an appropriate hour the guests departed, rating their hostess a most delightful entertainer.

Beginning with September the regular Sunday services are resumed. Epworth League and evening service at seven and eight o'clock.
On Monday evening, September 1st at 8 o'clock there will be a meeting of the official board. A full attendance is desired.
Sunday morning, September 7th, the Lord's Supper will be observed. Let all plan for that service that it may be a means of refreshing ourselves with the presence of the Lord.
Only three Sundays until conference.

Baptist Church
Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor
We appreciate the fact that this is a very busy week for all of us. Also that Sunday will be a needed day of rest. Yet we hope to have a good attendance both at the morning worship and at the Court House service in the evening.
The pastor will talk Sunday morning on the subject "Our Work." We want this service to bring us into a closer fellowship and a keener realization of the nature of our work.
Wednesday evening will be our prayer meeting and covenant meeting. At this time a report of our associational meeting at Carroll will be given. Let all of us remember this.
Saturday will be the best day to go to Carroll. It will be the day that practical things will be discussed. Also when Dr. Mills and Rev. Collins will speak. See if you cannot arrange to go.
How about that annual supper this fall? We believe it should be held, and that it should be free to everyone. Not a money raising affair, but an occasion to develop a closer fellowship between us as church members and create a great spirit of hearty sociability among us. We need something like this to prepare us for the greater endeavor and co-operation necessary this fall in the Master's work.
The advisory board will meet Tuesday evening.

Presbyterian Church
Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.
"Our Heavenly Visions" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning. In the evening the congregation will unite in the union service at the Court House.
The morning service begins at 10:30 and the Sunday school at 12 o'clock. The union evening meeting opens at 7 o'clock.
Evangelistic meetings will be conducted in a tent on the school grounds five miles west of town next week. Rev. Alexander Corkey will be assisted in these meetings by Mr. Frank Klopping, of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago. The services will begin on Sunday afternoon next with a meeting in the school house at 3 o'clock, at which time Mr. Klopping will preach. The evening services will begin at 8 o'clock, beginning on Monday evening.
The C. E. society is to be congratulated on the success of their efforts in bringing the famous Kalem films to Wayne, showing the picture story of the life of Christ. The scenes of the actual life of Christ, the customs of the country and age, were all depicted with historic accuracy, and the impression made by the pictures deepened the wonder and mystery which a candid examination of that marvellous life always occasions. The actual expense of showing the pictures amounted to over $130, but the generous patronage of the people of Wayne enabled the payment of all expenses and a little balance besides. In connection with the exhibition of the pictures the choir of the church assisted greatly by their rendering of sacred music. In the afternoon Mrs. A. R. Davis rendered "The Holy City," and Mrs. Daisy Gamble Ebert sang "There is a green hill far away"; in the evening Miss Reba Nangle sang "The Palms," and Willis Fleetwood rendered "The Holy City." Mrs. Ebert also sang again at the evening program. In addition to these special numbers Gospel hymns were sung by the choir.
The union services on Sabbath evenings this summer have brought the churches of Wayne into closer fellowship than ever before. With the exception of one church all the churches met together Sabbath after Sabbath, worshipping together the one God, listening to the reading of the one Book and showing to the world the unity of true believers in the christian religion.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Steers Easier, While Feeders Are Stronger.

HOGS STEADY TO 5c LOWER.

Lambs Still Active and Strong to 10c Higher—Strong Market on Fat Ewes. Broad Outlet for All Kinds of Feeders.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Aug. 26.—A fair run of cattle showed up today, about 5,300 head. This makes nearly 15,000 head for the two days. As on Monday, the market for western grass beefs was decidedly uneven and slow to a dime lower would about cover the situation. Ovas and heifers were a shade higher than Monday and sold freely and there was a better demand and a stronger market for fleshy feeding steers. Light grades did not show as very much advance, but the general outlet for feeder stock was fairly broad.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime beefs, $8.50@9.00; good to choice beefs, $8.30@8.50; fair to good beefs, $8.00@8.25; common to fair beefs, $7.25@7.90; fair to choice yearlings, $7.50@8.75; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.50; fair to good cows, $5.50@6.40; canners and cutters, $3.50@5.25; veal calves, $5.00@9.00; bulls, stags, etc., $4.75@7.00; choice to prime feeders, $7.25@7.60; good to fair feeders, $6.75@7.25; fair to good feeders, $6.25@6.75; common to fair feeders, $5.75@6.25; stock cows and heifers, $4.75@6.25; good to choice grass beefs, $7.00@7.60; fair to good grass beefs, $6.50@7.00; poor to fair grass beefs, $6.00@6.40.

About 5,950 hogs arrived today. Early trade was very slow, with packers making an effort to take another dime off values. Later on the trade became better and prices were generally steady to 5c lower. The bulk of the supply went at $7.75@7.90, the best hogs brought $8.35. It was the general opinion that a good choice load would easily bring $8.50.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 13,500 head. Trade in lambs was brisk again today and prices were strong to a dime higher. Best lambs sold at $7.75. Fat ewes continued in light supply and changed hands at good strong figures. Wethers and yearlings were again scarce and there were no tippy mutton offerings of any kind in the barn. There was a keen inquiry for feeding lambs and prices were strong for all kinds of feeder stuff.

You cannot deadhead on the butcher, baker or candlestick maker, why should the newspaper man be soaked on gratuities?

Conditions Are Far Different Than Twenty Years Ago, Says Holdrege.

Omaha, Aug. 27.—Even with the 1913 corn crop badly cut by drought, General Manager Holdrege of the Burlington is of the opinion that, taking the Nebraska farmers as a whole, they are going to be almost as well off this fall as in any previous year and his theory is that business throughout the country will not suffer as it did in 1893, when the crop was a failure...

Mr. Holdrege during the last two weeks has traveled extensively over the agricultural sections of Nebraska and bases his opinion as to the condition of the farmers upon observation and conversations with the men themselves and with business men.

Mr. Leuck was a Wayne visitor Tuesday. He is a practical farmer, and has made some modern improvements on his farm and is planning others.

S. A. Patterson was here Monday night, visiting at the home of W. A. K. Neely and other friends. His home is at Vayland, South Dakota, and he is returning from a visit to his father who is seriously ill at Shenandoah, Iowa. Mr. Patterson formerly lived here, moving to Dakota about three years ago. He reports that corn in the vicinity of Shenandoah is badly scorched. He left for his home Tuesday afternoon.

A petition has been circulated here to the board of pardons of Iowa for the parole of Moda Choan, who was convicted of burglary at Council Bluffs, Iowa, about 18 months ago. Choan's father lives here and this was long the home of the young man, and many who knew him and his good record as a citizen here are willing to testify to the fact and ask his parole. We hope that the young man is given a trial with liberty.

Miss Claire Coleman left Sunday evening for Lander, Wyoming, where she is attending institute this week, and next week will begin teaching in the Lander schools, having been elected there and assigned to the 8th grade. She informs us that it is no financial hardship to attend institute in that state, for teachers are paid wages while attending. Lander is a city of nearly 2,000 people, and is in the western part of the state.

A new coal house is to be built for school use at the McEachen school house. The proper way and place to build for coal for the country school house is to build against the building at some point where it will not interfere with the windows, and cut a door from the building into the coal house, so that, no matter what the weather, it will not be necessary to go outside, for the fuel. Then all outside openings can be fastened from within, and in some communities the coal would last longer.

L. C. Nettleton of Hoskins spent Monday at Wayne, while returning from Tekamah where he went last week to attend the old settler and pioneer meeting, for he was among the pioneers of that county. He came there with his parents nearly 50 years ago and at that time Tekamah was at the end of the wagon road, so there they stopped. It was there that he grew to manhood, and so he was going among his old friends when they gathered for their annual picnic. It was in 1885 that he left there and came to Wayne county where he has since resided, making him a pioneer there and an old settler here. He has visited his old home several times since moving away.

Help Yourself By Helping Your Neighbor

(Carlson's Rural Review, Norfolk.) It is quite interesting to study people at both short and long range. Every progressive man in about every community in the country, has at some time tried to enlist the interests of his neighbors in something of general interest to the community. It may have been a social center organization; it may have been some co-operative organization for the production or distribution of farm products; it may have been any one of a dozen things, all good for the community, and yet what a difficult task it was to enlist the interest of some of the neighbors, generally those who would be most benefited, to the extent of giving their time or money. When you come to study these same people at longer range, how often you find these same indifferent, small souled neighbors being buoyed by strangers whom they never saw or whom they never see again after parting with their money.

Only last winter a man of fine appearance and address, possessing selling ability to a high degree, dropped into a farm community and in the course of a few weeks had gathered to himself $17,000 of the farmer's money. He had never been seen before by any of these farmers who lost their money, and will never be seen again. There is no reason why he should wish to meet these farmers again, since he has their money, and they have had some valuable experience. This stranger got their money by no new play, just simply talked them out of it by the old scheme of selling shares in a "hole in the ground" which he dignified with the name of "gold mine."

The interesting part of it is that every man from whom this crook secured money was one no neighbor could induce to contribute to his own community. Envy, smallness of character and selfishness made him suspicious of his friends and neighbors, yet his ignorance made him easy prey to the praise and flattery of a crook.

In another community a large number of farmers parted with $575 each of their money, the same going to buy shares in the Independent Harvester Company of Plano, Ill. These shares can now be purchased for a very small sum, yet the fact is one of common remark that not one of these farmers has ever been known to be interested in building up his own community to the extent of a single cent in money, or any co-operation on his part in helping things that his community needs very much, and that would prove most helpful to himself and neighbors.

These men were solicited to subscribe to a co-operative grain and live stock company, but no effort on the part of their neighbors could induce them to aid so beneficial an organization. This co-operative company was organized without their assistance, and has paid regular dividends of forty per cent, besides making it possible for its members to sell their grain and hogs for a much higher price than other communities are receiving for their products where no such organizations exist. Instead of buying shares in a local company, managed by men known to them for their honesty, these men preferred to buy of strangers something located at a distance, and of which they had no knowledge, the result being that they had an experience, and are minus some of their hard earned money.

It can scarcely be expected that every local organization will prove a success. The law and history of business does not justify one in believing that such a thing could be possible. There are many things over which we have no control and yet which have so much to do with the success or failure of many undertakings, that no one can safely guarantee the success of anything. Then again, the success of most local institutions will depend upon the ability of those in charge to properly manage and it is not always possible to select men who are fitted by nature and training to manage. Yet, let us admit in all candor that occasionally there will be failures rather than success in local activities, but we all know that there is not one loss occasioned in such investments where there are scores of them when we send our money away from home to be entrusted wholly to strangers.

There is another argument in favor of the home investment as against the investment at a distance. If by chance an investment at home should go wrong, by reason of bad judgment, bad management, or some one getting a little more than his share, the money is still in the community, where all have another chance at it, and where it can be made to serve as capital for the many uses there always are for capital.

There was never a community so prosperous that it could not be made more so by judicious use of capital. The man who will send his money away from home to be handled by strangers who have no greater interest in others than to make a profit out of them, is very ignorant indeed of the history of such investments. There are always opportunities to employ all the capital of a community in bettering the conditions of that particular community, and the intelligent and loyal citizen will study how best he can invest his money so as to be of the greatest service to his neighbor as well as himself. It is impossible for one to be prosperous unless his neighbors and community are prosperous. In every farm community there will be need of co-operative grain companies, co-operative breeding societies, co-operative buying societies, co-operative creameries, co-operative manufacturing plants, and even co-operative credit associations. These co-operative societies can be made the basis of the best and safest investment in the country and every investment in such societies will result in an increasing prosperity for the community. In this way one can best help himself by helping his neighbor.

The co-operative spirit or the want of it tells of the order of intelligence in a community as does nothing else. The suspicious man is always necessarily an object of suspicion. The community that cannot get together for the common good, or the community where men live who would prefer to send their money away from home, rather than use it to help needy enterprises at home, will be found to have a real demand for missionary work. Such communities and such men will not understand how they can "help themselves by helping their neighbors."

Hampshire Hogs

Roy Fisher of Winside passed through here Tuesday with a car of his fancy Hampshire hogs, which he was taking to Des Moines to exhibit at the Iowa state fair. Mr. Fisher is an enthusiastic believer in the good qualities of the Hampshires, and he has a herd which show quality, both individually and in the blue blood breeding. Hampshire hogs are a comparatively new breed of swine, especially in this vicinity, but they are fast coming into public notice. In the last six months prior to July 1st more than 8,000 were registered, nearly half of that number being in June. Nebraska stood 4th in the list of states in point of number of pigs registered of this breed, with 611 pedigrees issued. For the same period the year before Nebraska had but 144 recorded, and the total for all states was but 3,610. It is but twenty years since an association was formed to keep a record of these hogs which are also known as the "Thin-Rind" hogs. They might be related to the Holstein cattle so far as markings are concerned. They are usually black with a white belt over the shoulders, the front feet and legs being white also on most animals, but there are some that are almost solid black. They are a great bacon animal, carrying more streak of lean and fat than the Polands or Durocs. They are hardy, active animals and were prime favorites in the south when first introduced to this country from Hampshire, England, especially in the south before the slaves were liberated, for they were too swift on foot for the average darkey to catch. But the best type of today is not so fleet of foot, yet an animal of good action. Mr. Fisher is planning to take his herd to the Iowa, Nebraska and perhaps other state fairs, and unless he sells low at these fairs at private sale, he will have a sale some time this fall, so it is well for our farmer readers to post up a bit on this style of swine, and perhaps they will not wish to let them all leave the county.

Celebrate Silver Wedding

Saturday, August 16th, found Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Smith celebrating the 25th anniversary of their wedded life, over half of the time spent in Winside. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are both enjoying fairly good health and through their hard work and saving have accumulated enough to enjoy the fruits of their labor.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were united in marriage at Harper, Iowa, August 16, 1888. To their union three children were born, one son and one daughter passed away in childhood. Homer, their living son is now of school age and is attending the Winside public school. Since coming to Winside, Mr. Smith served in the capacity of town marshal and later took up real estate work and at present is a member of the Lound and Smith real estate firm. Mrs. Smith has truly been a faithful helpmate to her husband, ever toiling to make her home a model one. --Winside Tribune.

Going Upstairs Backward.

Walking upstairs backward is urged by a London physician as a useful practice in cases of heart weakness and as helping in a more equal distribution of muscular wear and tear. "Firstly and most important," he says, "walking upstairs backward would prevent any tendency to hurry. No matter how inveterate a 'stair rush' a man might be, he would have to moderate his pace if going backward. This enforced deliberation would, of course, be of great value in heart disease. The second effect would be to relieve the strain from the ordinary walking and climbing muscles (those on the front of the thigh) and to press into service those on the back of the leg, which ordinarily do no work in climbing stairs. The total result, therefore, might be a saving in muscular wear and tear through a more economical distribution of effort. This, of course, would also be of value in cases of heart weakness."—London Mail.

Nursing a grouch is about the most foolish and costly thing in which one can indulge, especially if it is connected with home life. It makes the groucher himself unhappy and it causes unhappiness to every victim of his temper. If you are inclined to indulge in grouches, get it out of your system at once.—Ex.

A little girl wrote the following composition on men: "Men are what women marry. They drink smoke and swear but don't go to church. Perhaps if they wore bonnets they would. They are more logical than women and also more zoological. Both men and women sprung from monkeys, but the woman sprung farther than the men."

A linotype salesman who covers an immense territory in the interest of the big slug machine says times are good throughout his territory and that he's selling many more linotypes now than he did during the Taft administration. And when a newspaper office is prosperous, you can just bank on it that the country in general is.—Norfolk Press.

Last year the Adams Express Co., with a capital of $63,000 did a business of $1,622,000 at a profit of $484,458, and other companies carrying express did as well—yet people seemed to think a parcel post was not necessary and there are some who do not patronize it now; but that number is growing less and prejudice is not long going to ask them to pay more for no better service than the mail gives.

The Nebraska Conference of the Luther League closed an interesting session at Wausa Sunday evening. Their program started Friday evening and was very complete in covering their line of church work. The place of next meeting was not named. The officers elected were Rev. Borg of Wausa, president; Rev. Bloomquist, vice president; Miss Ellen Walshom of Wahoo secretary, Arthur High of Bertrand, treasurer.

Next year Carroll is going to have a chautauqua, having contracted with the Britt concern of Lincoln. The growth of the chautauqua is remarkable indeed—and it has been built by advertising. Having a good thing, and properly advertising and economically managing it will make it go on to success. The thing now for the public to be careful about is to secure good talent. Do not buy something that is named a chautauqua which is but a poor imitation.

There was a farmers union organized the last week by M. Elwood of Creighton, the meeting being called at the Joe Schroeder school house. The object in view is co-operative buying and selling more directly, thereby eliminating a good many middlemen and narrowing the spread of prices now prevalent from producer to consumer. It might be interesting to note there are several million of farmers in this organization throughout the United States.—Humphrey Democrat.

The American Economist, the official organ of the High Protection interests, devotes three and one half pages of its current issue to a speech of Senator Smoot's on the tariff bill and prefixes the report with 'A Masterly Speech.' Our only comment is this: Senator Smoot was one of the most arduous supporters of the retention of Lorimer in the Senate. Any paper which gives three and one half pages to the report of a speech of one of the Lorimerites, together with an enthusiastic endorsement thereof, is open to a closer scrutiny before its views are accepted.—Osmond Republican.

The Norfolk canning factory has started the season pack.

The Methodists at Wynot are building a new parsonage, which will add.

Cedar county Sunday schools had a good convention and picnic, at Spring Valley last week.

More than 600 hogs have been treated to serum in Thurston county by the county demonstrator.

The Stanton county fair is on this week. They are going to have some good races and some excellent ball games if their advertising comes true.

The Nebraska rural mail carriers are to meet at Norfolk on Monday, September 1. This is labor day and the rural route men observe the day by ceasing to labor.

The Farmer elevator at Wynot is not for sale, and the president of the concern contradicts the report that it is, and says as the whynot, that it pays the farmers too well. It has not paid any particular big dividends in money returned as such, but to the farmers in better prices secured it is said to be a nice thing. They get what otherwise would have gone into the hands of the elevator combine.

The Wynot Tribune is responsible for the only snake story we have seen this year, and the season is almost over. Here it is:

"While breaking some new land on the Keegan farm one day last week Elmer plowed up a nest of small eggs and upon investigation found that they contained nine little rattlesnakes. Rattlesnakes are getting scarce in this part of the country, but one of them is occasionally found in the hills along the river."

Nineteen Nebraska high schools have leased land to the extent of five acres or more for experimental farming and have employed trained instructors in agriculture, manual arts and domestic science and accordingly will each receive $700 from the state this year. These are the schools: Alliance, Alma, Aurora, Beatrice, Blair, Fairfield, Gothenburg, Hastings, Holdrege, Kimball county high school at Kimball, O'Neill, Pawnee City, Red Cloud, South Omaha, St. Paul, Stromsburg, Tecumseh, Wahoo and York, says the Butler County Press.

J. Q. Walter returned last week from looking after his land in Tripp county, S. D. While there Mr. Walter captured a rattle snake from which he extracted the fangs. He had it in town Friday showing it. His snakeship had thirteen rattles, and he was using them almost continuously when we saw him. Mr. Walter has the rattler confined in a strong box with heavy wire netting over it. The writer lived in South Dakota 18 years, but during that time never saw a live rattler—and only one dead one. More than once has he traveled over a prairie dog town to see a rattle snake—having always heard that the little prairie owl and the rattle snake live in the prairie dog towns—but never were we fortunate enough to see one. Saw plenty of owls and prairie dogs, but were almost convinced that the snake part of the story was a fabrication.—Laurel Advocate.

It's a rare sight that of a Protestant minister opposing members of his own congregation in their attack on the Catholic church. Menace readers and Reverend Holly of the South Norfolk church, however, furnish this rare combination. Mr. Holly knows the ridiculousness of the Menace charges and refuses to be swept into the maelstrom of abuse. It seems that certain South Norfolk persons have permitted themselves to be guided by the loathsome Missouri publication and an old-time A. P. A. organization is in effect. Every man and woman with the love of Christ and christianity in his and her heart will rejoice that the old creed blindness and narrowness are passing away and that people of intelligence refuse longer to be swayed by the wild charges of some fanatic. Rev. Holly stands out as a man of such breadth of view and strength of principle as to enkindle the admiration of all christian people. There is much to admire in every denomination, much to condone or to improve in most people. In other words: "There is so much bad in the best of us and so much good in the worst of us, it ill behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us."—Norfolk Press.

Buy a Mechanical Drudge

ANY a winter day of back breaking labor has the average farmer spent stooping over the old buck saw, zr-r-p, zr-r-ping its way through tough wood for the kitchen stove supply. But the wise ones don't do it now. They have a handy engine to run the saw, while they rest and plan for next summer's work.

That engine is about the busiest and most convenient machine the wise man has on his farm. It pumps water for him, runs the separator, washing machine, feed grinder, corn sheller, and gundstone. Often it runs a hay press, ensilage cutter, small thresher, or a repair shop. The year round it drudges for him, saving the man's strength for more profitable things. And the wisest man has an because it does most for him at least cost. Its simplicity renders it almost trouble-proof. Its construction makes it easy to start and to operate, and it is most economical in fuel consumption. It is made of best material, and when necessary it will deliver 10 to 30 per cent above its rated horse power. I H C responsibility for the engine lasts all the years it is in service.

I H C engines are made in all styles—vertical and horizontal, portable, stationary and skidded, air and water cooled. There are pumping, sawing and spraying outfits. Sizes from 1 to 50-horse power, to operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, distillate, kerosene, and alcohol. Oil tractors, 6-12 to 30-60-horse power for plowing, threshing, etc.

The I H C local dealer will show you the engines and tell you all about them. Get catalogues from him, or write the

NEXT WEEK IS CANNING WEEK

Next week will be the proper time for canning Peaches and Pears. The quality will be good and the price as low as it will be this season. This store is in thorough touch with the market and never advises the trade to buy until the proper time. Late California and Colorado peaches will be on the market in abundance and purchasers will make no mistake in supplying their wants at this time. This store is receiver of fresh fruit every day and orders placed with us will have satisfactory attention.

National Light Kerosene

Most people throughout Wayne county know the superior qualities of this oil. The steady glow of a lamp filled with NATIONAL LIGHT OIL is restful to the eyes to read and work by. Don't breath the poisonous odor of cheap oil into your system. Cheap oil contains sulphur, carbon and paraffine wax. Carbon bakes on top of the wick forming a hard coating. Paraffine clogs the wick so the oil does not draw freely—produces a small, red, unnatural flame. The result—a smoked chimney, smoked wall paper and a continued routine of unpleasantness for the housewife.

I have a fresh car of National Light soon to arrive. A fall and winter supply will be a satisfactory investment.

Fresh Bread Every Day

at the store. Full 16 oz. loaves, not touched with human hands—the sanitary kind. We sell 100 loaves every day. There's a reason.
