ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FEBRUARY 26, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

Our Souvenir Edition

At the annual meeting of the state editorial association last June that body of brainy Nebraska boosters recommended and urged that each paper in the state issue some form of a special edition—the object being to make known to the people of Nebraska and neighboring states the wealth of opportunity here awaiting development. They recommended that these editions be gotten out during the following fall and many of them were so issued. Some were quite elaborate, costing much time, money and effort; others simply enlarged their regular editions a few pages and gave especial attention to the advantages of their home town. Still another class of papers simply used the matter furnished by the secretary of the Press Association with a few words of approval or calling attention to the facts enumerated.

The Wayne papers were not at that time ready to make their effort to bring new enterprises to the state and present the many advantages of this city and county to the world as we thought it should be presented, nor could we at that time procure the services of a suitable specialist in this line of work—for it is the work of a specialist—and it is work which takes more time than the average newspaper man can give without neglecting his paper, and that is the last thing he wants to do.

Hence it is that it has finally been decided that the two papers of the city, Democrat and Herald would unite and get out a souvenir edition that would as near as possible tell the many good things to be truthfully said about Wayne and the rich agricultural country which surrounds it. To aid in this work the services of A. C. Gant has been secured, and if the effort meets with the hearty cooperation of the citizens we promise to leave no stone unturned to give to the public a magazine supplement which will be a credit to the county and of material aid to its patrons.

This supplement is not to be considered as an advertisement medium, but rather as a means of publicity. Its prime object is not to advertise things to sell, but to call public attention to this community as a proper place in which to make a home. Already one substantial business man has confided to the editor that his attention was directed to Wayne by some special work of this kind, issued years ago. Said he knows not how it came to his hand, but that he read it all with much interest, and as a result came to make his home here. So it will doubtless be with this work—it will be a silent appeal for those seeking to better their condition to investigate the advantages of this part of Nebraska.

In this publication will be an opportunity for our farmers, especially those who are raising thorough bred cattle, hogs, sheep or chickens to make known their business and what they have to add to the improvement of the particular line they produce. We note that the farmers of other counties have been among the first to take advantage of the opportunity to present to the public the advantages and beauties of the Nebraska farm home.

The Executive Committee of the Wayne Commercial Club have given the enterprise the following hearty endorsement:

ENDORSEMENT.

"Members of the executive committee of the Commercial club of Wayne, appreciating the value of a souvenir publication, emphasizing and heralding the rich resources and great possibilities of Wayne county, would give hearty approval to the enterprise of the two Wayne newspapers in assuming such a task. The importance of special effort, setting forth in words and pictures, the advantages of Wayne county lands and towns to stimulate the influx of new settlers and new capital, is apparent, and thus we would commend the undertaking to people in all parts of the county whose support will be necessary to make the edition reach highest expectations and yield largest returns.

"So far as we have been able to learn, the specialist, A. C. Gant, employed by the two papers to handle the edition, is a man of integrity, ability, and successful experience, and he would seem to be well fitted in all respects to carry on the work to a triumphant and satisfactory conclusion."

Wayne County Teachers Meet

There is to be an interesting meeting of the Wayne county teachers at this place Saturday. School Notes

Ruby, Gladys and Eunice Porter entered the second, fifth and sixth grades respectively this week.

Mrs. Winterstein, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Donner and Mrs. Norton were recent visitors.

The public school entertainment will probably be given on April 10. Many pupils are absent with mumps and measles.

Two good games of basketball were played in the high school gymnasium last Saturday afternoon. The girls game resulted in a score of 11 to 8 and the boys defeated Winside 23 to 9.

Rev. Blessing of the Lutheran church has been coaching the boys in basketball once or twice a week and that he is doing them much good is proved by the way the boys are winning all their games.

The Sophomore class will give a Nebraska Day program on Friday morning of this week.

Rev. Myers of the M. E. church gave a helpful talk to the high school on Wednesday morning. In part Mr. Myers said: "One ought not to covet, but I cannot help but covet the good things and opportunities you have here. These are good days for you, the best you have had but you will have better days in the future if you are looking to and preparing for the future as you ought. The days when one does something for and gives something to the world are best days. Not how much one gets, but how much he gives measures his service and greatness. Do not depend too much on others. Walk alone and do not lean on a cane or crutch. You cannot become an athlete by sitting still. Don't be in too big a hurry to get through with your preparation. After preparation get a job not a position. Have a vision of noble things and strive to realize the vision."

The ladies of the Catholic church will hold a food exchange at Poulson & Fortner's grocery Saturday.—adv. 8tf.

Sievers-Grimm

The marriage of Miss Frieda Grimm, daughter of Mrs. Johanne Grimm and Mr. Carl Sievers, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Sievers, took place on Wednesday the 18th of February, at 3 o'clock at the Evangelische Salems church.

The bridal party marched down the aisles as Julius Hurstad, a nephew of the bride softly played Lohengrin wedding march. At the altar they were met by their pastor, Rev. F. Klinthwsky, who performed the impressive ring ceremony, followed by a duet played by Julius and Alvin Hurstad, while hearty congratulations were extended to the bride and groom. The bridal party were met at the church door by an automobile and swiftly taken to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Sievers, where a reception was given in their honor and at 5:30 a delicious wedding dinner was served to seventy-five guests.

The bride was attended by Miss Anna Thompson and the groom by Herman Sievers. The bride looked very handsome in a gown of white messaline with crystal bead trimmings. She wore a bridal wreath and a long tulle veil. The bridesmaid wore a gown of tan messaline. The church was beautifully decorated in pink and white, the same being carried out throughout the home while the center of the table held the most beautiful wedding cake under a big wedding bell.

They received many beautiful as well as useful presents. They will go to housekeeping on the groom's farm seven miles southeast of Wayne.

Annual Meeting of Cream Men

The annual meeting of the Wayne Farmers Creamery Association met at the city hall Wednesday afternoon, August Wittler presided, and the minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved. The report of the year's business showed that the association had paid $29,860 for butter fat during the past year. The association issued $5.00 dues to the Farmers Congress. S. E. Anker made a talk reviewing the successful history of the organization.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Aug. Wittler, chairman; P. M. Corbit, secretary; I. D. Richardson, Herman Frevert and Adolph Peifer committeemen.

The association had a successful year, and have been the means of maintaining the top price for cream for the members during the past year.

Try to Save County Money

There has been much interest taken in the Flège case, and now that there is a wait while the supreme court looks the papers over again some will read with interest the report that Chris Wischhof and F. S. Berry have appealed from the action of the county commissioners of Dixon county in allowing some of the claims presented for expenses in the prosecution of the case. The protests are against allowing County Attorney Kingsbury $200 expenses, also from allowance of $300 to doctors from Lincoln and Omaha for expert testimony and $500 to Attorney C. H. Hendrickson of this place for assisting the county attorney in the prosecution. We suppose it will now be for the court to say whether or not the commissioners have exceeded their authority in the matter.

District Court March Second

The March term of the district court will convene at the Wayne court house with Judge A. A. Welch presiding next Monday. The bar docket which has just been issued contains a list of about forty cases, but there appears to be none of such importance as cause special public interest.

Printed Matter by Parcel Post

Through an order received from the department, miscellaneous printed matter in packages exceeding 4 pounds in weight and coming within the weights and size fixed by the parcel post regulation, may be mailed under the parcel post rate. This order, however, does not effect such printed matter when the weight is less than four pounds, the usual rate for third class postage, one cent for each two ounces being continued.

How about your subscription.

Social Notes

Last Thursday evening eight of the young ladies of this place entertained a like number of the young men at the home of A. A. Welch and wife, Miss Florence Welch being hostess assisted by Miss Mary Mellor, Hattie Shultheis, Jessie Strickland, Jane Arnold, Reba Nangle, Edna Neely and Helen McNeal. Auction Bridge and other games helped to pass the hours, and the dainty lunch was enlivened by toastmaster Kiklinger and those who responded. The house decorations were beautiful. Frank Morgan won first prize at the game of the evening and Dr. Jones the consolation prize.

Wednesday, the 18th the Pleasant Valley club entertained their family at a Washington dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ash a mile south of Wayne. The rooms were neatly decorated in red, white and blue. Two long tables were stretched in the dining room decorated with little flags and plenty of good things to eat, the place cards being little red hatchets. About noon the members began to flock in with their well-filled baskets to the number of between 40 and 50. It was one of the social events of season for that neighborhood.

Mesdames Harry Craven, Chas. Craven, Ray Reynolds, Wm. Morris, James Miller and Green, are giving a series of parties. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Harry Craven entertained thirty-six ladies. A two-course luncheon was served and the afternoon was spent in music and social conversation. Mrs. Chas. Craven entertains this afternoon. An entire musical afternoon will be spent. A two-course luncheon will be served. The other ladies will entertain next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The ladies of the Acme club entertained their husbands last Monday evening at a 6:30 dinner at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Britell. Washington birthday decorations were used and a jolly good time spent during the evening. There were charades and conundrums and the husbands all wish this event was semi-annual instead of annual.

The Union Bible Circle met Tuesday afternoon at the pleasant home of Mrs. Doctor Blair with a good attendance. The lesson was very ably led by Mrs. Wendte. Next Tuesday afternoon the meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Roe, Mrs. Rev. Meyers being the leader.

Tuesday forenoon about forty of the friends of Fred VanNorman and wife gathered at their home as a surprise to them for a farewell gathering before their departure to their new home in Minnesota. The guests brought well-filled baskets. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Massie entertained a number of young guests last Tuesday evening in honor of their son John's 17th birthday anniversary. Music and games occupied the hours after which refreshments were served.

The Monday club will meet next Monday afternoon with Mrs. Kiplinger. Mrs. Hess will read a paper on Tiffany Faveille Glass. Mrs. Kiplinger will also read a paper on Cut Glass.

The Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. J. J. Williams, Wednesday afternoon. A good attendance is desired as it is time for election of officers.

P. E. O. will meet with Mrs. J. E. Hufford next week. Election of officers, roll call and current events are on the program.

The Guild of the St. Mary's church will meet this afternoon with Mrs. McInerney.

The Mexican Situation

The Mexican trouble took on an acute form last week when report came of the killing of a subject of Great Britain, Mr. Benton, a wealthy ranch owner in northern Mexico, by Villa. There are conflicting claims regarding his death. The first report being that he was killed by Villa and then that he was executed by order of Villa. Villa and his followers set up the claim that Benton attempted the life of Villa and also that he was secretly aiding the enemy. The state department at Washington is conducting a searching inquiry as to the facts in the case. This government has also asked that the body of the dead man be given over to the keeping of his friends, and this request will probably be granted.

The English government does not pretend to hold the United States responsible for the death of their citizen, and is behaving much better in the matter than the representatives of some of the holders of big interests in Mexico which have but a doubtful title to their holdings. It is quite evident that these conflicting interests are in a great measure responsible for much of the Mexican trouble.

Celebrate Silver Wedding

Sunday, February 22nd was the 25th anniversary of August Wittler and wife and a party of about fifty relatives and friends gathered at their pleasant farm home southwest of Wayne on that day, much to the surprise of this worthy couple. The unbidden were royally welcomed, and passed a most pleasant day. A sumptuous dinner was served from the well-filled baskets which the visitors brought. Henry Wittler and wife of Hartington had timed their visit so that they might be present on this occasion. Rev. Klinthwsky, their pastor, was present and gave a short prayer. All who were there and many other friends wish the bride and groom of a quarter of a century ago many happy anniversaries.

E. W. Huse Now Owns Herald

E. W. Huse, who for nearly four years past has been editor and manager of the Wayne Herald has this week purchased the stock of John T. Bressler and is now sole owner. The retiring member of the firm has never taken any active part in the management of the paper, and the policy of the paper will doubtless remain much the same. Mr. Huse is a thorough newspaper man, diligent in season and out, loyal to the best interests of the community and is making a newspaper each and every week for which this community need make no apology. The Democrat congratulates the new sole proprietor.

The Munsinger Cattle

On Wednesday M. T. Munsinger received returns from the last load of his fat cattle, which he shipped to Chicago so that they were there on the Monday market. These are the ones selected to be entered in the stock show, and which Mr. M. shipped back home because he thought they were trying to take advantage of him in the matter of price. On the market Monday these cattle brought $9.75, topping the market for the day by 50c per 100. At the time the stock show in December he was offered but $8.60 for the cattle, so it develops that the owner did not lose anything by waiting. When at Chicago the first time the load had an average weight of about 1740, and after their second trip they weighed an average of about 1883, and the increase in weight and in market price made a nice little sum for his trouble.

These steers went into the feed yard about 18 months ago at an average of 960 pounds, and they nearly doubled in weight in the year and a half they were on feed, making an average gain of about two pounds per day.

Contrary to the general opinion they did not appear to fall off much or cease to lay on meat because of the trip to market and back. The fact that each steer made an average gain of 55 pounds a month between the two weighings at Chicago shows that a steady gain was maintained. It was believed by most people that the trip would stop their gaining for a time, and possibly it did to some extent. Others were of the opinion that the cattle had become so fat that they would not respond to feed well, and that the feed given would practically make no gain. This was shown to have been a mistaken idea.

During the time they were in the feed lot they were fed first snapped corn and alfalfa, and later on shelled corn and alfalfa with some oil meal in the spring. Wayne will not likely soon see another bunch of cattle fattened as these were.

Moving Time Here

At this season of the year the farm changes are made, and this season they are quite numerous. In the neighborhood just south of Wayne there has been quite an eruption. L. W. Brown moves to a place he purchased at Wayne. Curt Thompson moves from Wayne to the Brown farm about five miles southwest. O. E. Graves and family leave Wayne and will farm the Lush place. Ole Olson is moving to the Hostetter farm and Eric Thompson will farm the Ruebec place vacated by J. R. Wilson.

On Wednesday the 26th of February Judge James Britton married Mr. Montie McLaughlin of Nora and Miss Valbur Rasmussen of Winside. They will live at Nora.

Back to Nebraska comes Theo. Deurig. Word from him to change the Democrat from Chico, California, to Long Pine in this good old state. We received no word of the cause of the move, but can guess that the conditions in this state are more to their liking than in the much boomed state of California.

Miss Anna Lawrence of Sabula, Iowa, who has been attending the Normal here has gone to her home for a rest. She stopped to visit at Dixon on the way.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart, who is taking a nurse course at the state hospital was called home the first of the week by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. W. A. Stewart.

Henry Wittler and wife came down from Hartington Saturday to visit a few days at the homes of his brother, August and his sister, Mrs. Henry Brune. He formerly lived in this county and it is therefore a little like coming home to visit here.

H. E. Simon was over from Winside Saturday morning. He had just returned from Walthill where he went to address a meeting of the Pythian Knights on Thursday when the lodge at that place celebrated the 50th anniversary of the founding of the order.

M. T. Munsinger sent the last load of his extra fat cattle to market Saturday. This was the load which he selected to complete in the International cattle show at Chicago two months ago. They were a fine uniform bunch of 3-year-olds, averaging more than 1800 weight.

W. A. Williams has loaded his goods out of Wayne for his new home a Lakefield, Minnesota, where he has purchased a farm after selling his place near Wayne. They have many friends who, wishing them no bad luck, would be glad if they liked this country so much better that they would return.

Carl Victor and wife went to Sioux City Tuesday to spend the day with their daughter, Miss Emma, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last week. They report that she is getting along nicely, but a pus case had developed, which means that it will take more time to cure than if taken earlier.

John Shannon and his cousin, Miss Mary Shannon returned the first of the week from a visit of three weeks at their homes at Waterloo and Fairbanks, Iowa. Mr. Shannon reports that they are having more winter weather per day there than here. They will nearly always do so in that part of Iowa. More snow, and damp cold weather.

Monday was not Washington's birthday, but the postal authorities played that it was and all of the force took a holiday. Frank Weber went to Wakefield for the day and helped his son-in-law, Ed. Swanburg car a load of farm stuff for Hartington, for Mr. Weber is so built that he could not enjoy a day of rest unless he was at work.

W. R. Gillett has shipped his goods and stock to a new home in Cumberland, Wisconsin. Not many years ago the entire trend of those seeking farm land was westward. Now it is frequently the other way. Not that they do not like the west, but because values are better known here, and land can be bought for less money in the east than here and no one blames man for going where he can own his own home even if it be in a country not so good as this.

Chris Hilmer came last week from Yankton, South Dakota, to look at this good country around Wayne because he is going to want to change his home within a year or two and he wants to so locate as to secure the best of school advantages for his children who will soon be at an age where the high school and college will be needed. While in these parts he was the guest of Rev. Klinsthowsky, west of town. We hope that the conditions here will prove to be such that Mr. Hilmer will decide to visit Wayne again and when ready to move that it will be to this place. He appears to be of the class of citizens we need here.

Gleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

P. Krafka, near Madison was accidentally killed last week, being caught on the shaft of a gasoline engine, while trying to run a belt on the pulley of the machine.

Emerson is to have a new depot it is said, and the commercial club of that city has something to its credit for causing the railroad to move in the matter at this time, if newspaper reports are to be credited.

At Hartington the commercial club will ask that a 3-mill library tax be voted for maintenance in order that they may secure more of the Carnegie money. A tax of that amount will enable them to erect a $10,000 building, their valuation being $332,700.

A bed of gravel has been discovered near Ponca, and the Journal says that it will be a most valuable addition to the natural resources of that place. Probably they will need most of it for home consumption so that they may always have plenty of "sand in their craw."

We cannot understand why the dry goods merchants of Hartington, if there are any there, should let their excellent newspapers go to Sioux City for advertising with which to fill their columns. It is not wise to do so. But can the publishers be blamed if their own people do not wish to advertise.

The Martinsberg correspondent to the Ponca Journal-Leader says: Carl Childs and Lena Dunn were married in Ponca Saturday, February 14, at ten o'clock. Immediately after the ceremony they left for Wayne where they visited at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Myers until Monday. Upon their return they were met by a band of young people who gave them an old fashioned charivari.

The firemen of Pender are to build a new hall for the city and themselves to use. They have a fund of $1,000 now on hand and will ask the citizens to donate to the enterprise for the city, for we have been told that where they have saloon license money it pays for city improvements. Of course if they erect much of a building the money on hand will not take them a great way.

Prizes have been awarded in the state junior contest for the year 1913 held in connection with the state corn show at Lincoln the latter part of January. Jesse Correll of Cambridge won the grand prize, $50 in cash and a trip to Washington, D. C. Walter Pflug of Papillion was second and receives $50 in cash. Among the winners in the eastern division were Vergil Wickizer of Meadow Grove, Ralph Trine of Madison and David Defender of Norfolk, who received $2 each.

Howard Neary and Minnie Herschied quietly slipped away from their parental homes last Wednesday and were married in Fremont last Thursday. This was somewhat of a surprise to the parents as well as to all their friends. Howard Neary is one of our quiet, good home boys and the bride was born and raised in the vicinity of Winside, and the only daughter of A. Herschied. A leaf is turned with these young people; they are now facing the stern realities of life; the door of success is open and it is the wish of the Tribune people that they will receive an abundance thereof.—Winside Tribune.

Secretary Roberts of the Nebraska Hardware Dealers' association, in convention at Lincoln last week, had the following to say regarding the fight of hardware dealers against the catalogue houses. "The war of local retailers against mail order houses, according to the secretary, has been against the outsiders the past years. The cataloguers are making their last stand in dead towns—where merchants don't advertise and where there is only a desultory outlook in life from residents and business men. In live communities, where the merchants are up and a-comin' they are winning ground and business is on the upward trend."

There are wheels within wheels in that canal tolls exemption matter. It was in the democratic platform, President Wilson during the campaign made a speech in favor of free passages for American coastwise ships; afterwards he decided that it was a question of honor to live up to our treaty with England. His latest discovery is that coastwise shipping is controlled by transcontinental railroads, and that, therefore, free passage would not benefit the consumer. Regarding railroad control, wasn't it a prominent one of the proposed rules that all steamship lines in which railroads were interested should not share in the exemption.—Battle Creek Enterprise.

Few of the younger generations are the students of historical facts they should be, and not many of them could give an explanation of Ash Wednesday if called upon to do so. They probably would say it is the first day of Lent, and that would be all the information they could give. February 25th is Ash Wednesday this year. The connection of the day with ash, or ashes, seems to have been the ashes which had been blessed, were sprinkled upon the heads of worshippers in the sixth century. The form of a cross too, was traced with ashes upon their foreheads, the main object apparently having been to remind them that their bodies were but "dust and ashes." On this day also, noted sinners professing penitence had to appear in church clothed in sack cloth, and, with tears, solicit absolution. From this custom came the phrase we hear even to this day "in sack cloth and ashes."—Ex.

Years ago a great financier of Denver, David Moffat, conceived the idea of a shorter and better route through the backbone of the continent west of Denver, which included a railroad tunnel several miles long through the mountain. Time and again he tried to finance the road with private capital but if built it would be in position to make cheaper freight rates for the people, and so his efforts always came to naught. He kept at it, building a section of the road, then waiting to get more money and so on until he died with the project still uncompleted. Recently the city of Denver took the matter in hand, at an election last week voted to issue city bonds to rise the money with which to complete the great work. There is every reason to believe that this great tunnel will cross cut many veins of paying ore, and in addition to making a short cut across the country will be a paying investment. Yet we expect that even now the railroad interests which have been making money by the long-haul will throw every obstacle possible in the way of the completion of this project.

The Hartington commercial club held a meeting last week of much interest. One question discussed was the idea of a farmer co-operative elevator, but this did not appeal very much to the farmers—but few of whom were present. Henry Kroff of Coleridge, and representative of the county, was present, and told of the benefits of such an elevator at his town. He claimed that the farmers received from $10,000 to $15,000 more annually for the grain they sold than the old line elevators would have paid them. At the same time the elevator company made $100 per month or $1200 for the year. Some of the farmers who were present were feeders and objected to the project because it would make their feed which they buy cost more. There was no action taken beyond appointing a committee to look the matter up more closely and report. The effort to secure the co-operation of the farmers with the commercial club did not appear to be entirely successful, but it is to be hoped that better results will be obtained in the future. It is the logical thing for the town and country people to work together for the upbuilding of the community, and the sooner they recognize the fact and get together for common good the better for both—and the better start they will have in the competition which is bound to come between the different towns.

Bridge Trust Busted.

At the last legislature Senator Smith of Seward succeeded in securing the passage of a bridge law which prevents the bridge combine from making the specifications for bridges and building on the same, and his home county is now reaping a benefit. A bridge firm without the combine quietly slipped a bid in on the Seward county bridges for the coming season and the Independent-Democrat of Seward says that when the combine fellows found it out it was too late to change their bids or substitute new ones, though they tried to do so, one of the agents snatching the bid he had submitted from the clerk for that purpose. But the clerk soon again had it in his possession and at the proper time it was opened. In some classes of bridges the outsider was willing to do the work for less than half the price bid by the trust men. When the bids were opened there was but a few cents difference between the five trust bids, but the outsider had a bid in which saves the county from one-third to one-half on its bridge. We suggest that J. M. Sheeley of Ft. Collins, Colorado, be invited to bid on needs of this county. Agent Reiff was the one most anxious to change his bid. He had better get busy and change his bids in some of the other counties before the eleventh hour.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, act in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.

Postoffice

One of the favorite diversions of this government is to erect postoffice buildings. Many hundreds of the edifices have been begun in the last half century and almost all of them are not complete.

Postoffice buildings are almost all magnificent affairs, but this cannot always be discovered by looking at them. One should look at the appropriation in order to make sure. An appropriation of $200,000 for a postoffice building is a sublime and splendid thing, but the building itself is usually neat, uncommodious and designed in a way to give an architect queer and almost unbearable pains.

Two hundred thousand dollars will build a ten-story skyscraper for a private citizen. But when spent for postoffice buildings it will only build a modest coop, for which $75,000 more must be appropriated in order to add front steps and a door knob.

The reader must not infer from these remarks that the government is swindled by dishonest contractors. This is far from being the case. The government is merely particular. It loves to build massive granite cellars and cut stone stairs and it is never happy except when paying the highest possible price. If the government were to build a house for the postmaster general, it would first select a site as far as possible from the dog's haunts and would then erect a magnificent gothic structure ten feet square at a cost of $30,000, postponing the building of the roof until another appropriation could be maintained.

The government's greatest feat in postoffice building so far was the Chicago postoffice. This splendid structure, begun twenty years ago, was finished just before the appropriation for a new and adequate building was obtained. It is the handsomest postoffice in the world and is admirably suited for storing pigeons.

Postoffice buildings are of various quaint designs, but can always be told by one peculiarity. If the stranger in a city discovers a rare and cozy building placed well outside of the business district, where only two pedestriains and a sleeping cab horse are visible, he need have no hesitation about going in for a place to buy a stamp. He is in a postoffice.—Geo. W. Fitch.

Local Women Agree With Stage Beauties

Of all women in the world, probably those on the stage are most particular about their personal appearance, and especially in the care of the hair; and when such leading stage beauties as Ethel Barrymore, Elsie Ferguson, Natalie Alt, Louise Dresser, Rose Coghlan, Laurette Taylor and many others are so enthusiastic about Harmony Hair Beautifier as to write in praise of it, that is certainly evidence that it does just what they say it does—that is, beautifies the hair. There are many women right in this town, and men, too, who regard it as indispensable, because it makes the hair glossier and more silky, easier to dress and make stay in place. Sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops: Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.00. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both guaranteed to satisfy you in every way, or your money back. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall Stores,

LIFE DIARY OF MRS. WEAVER

Her Experience Was a Very Sad One.

NEVER AGAIN FOR MARTHA.

She Brings Shame and Ridicule Upon Herself—Husband a Willing Accomplice—They Both Were Taught a Lesson That Will Last Them Their Entire Lifetime.

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.] Do not judge from mere appearances, for the light laughter that bubbles on the lip often mantles over the depth of sadness, and the serious look may be the sober veil that covers a divine peace and joy.

Assuming the above to be true, we will proceed to tear a page from the life diary of Mrs. Weaver and present it to our readers.

That New Suit. "What am I going to do about that new suit I must have?" said Martha Weaver to her husband as he came in from work one evening.

"Why is there any question about that? Go to Hopkins & Co. and get what you need. If you need a suit get it," answered her husband.

"I have looked there," replied Martha, "but they haven't anything that I want. I just need a simple suit, but I want good material, and it must be neatly and well made, one that I could use for almost any occasion. I would prefer a ready-made suit, but those that Hopkins & Co. have appear to be made of poor, flimsy material, and they are decked out with such cheap, flashy, dowdy trimming that I just cannot bear to wear them," replied Martha.

The False Step. "Well, what do you want to do—run into the city and get you a suit?" asked John.

"No. That does not suit me either, for when I have to pay my fare, my hotel bill and other incidental expenses it makes the cost too high and also takes more time than I can spare for the purchase of one suit," said Martha. "Could you not order one? Didn't I see some mail order catalogues around here awhile ago?" asked the interested husband.

"Yes, I could do that, but I am almost afraid to risk it. Still, their styles appear to be good, and the prices quoted seem reasonable. I have been thinking about doing that. I will look them up again and see what I can do," answered Martha.

Martha's Heart Sank. Martha had little difficulty in "looking up" the catalogue, as the house seemed full of them, and after critically examining the suit pictures a simple blue took her fancy. The description corresponded with her idea of what she wanted; the trimming looked neat and of good quality. The price was satisfactory, so after debating for some little time she decided to send for it. A draft was forwarded, and the long vigil pending the arrival of the suit was as depressing upon John as upon Martha. At last it came—express bill and all—and eagerly the box was opened and the suit, laid on the bed for inspection. It did not quite measure up to the proportions of the picture in the catalogue. The color was not good. There was too much coat and not enough skirt, and, besides, the skirt was not draped as the advertisement said. It just hung, and hung uneven at that. The work was not neat; the trimming was of cheap, showy quality, scant and inferior. Martha's heart sank to zero. She knew she would be ashamed to wear that suit at home, much less among her well-dressed friends. What was she to do? She needed a suit badly, but she realized that to attempt an exchange would result as disastrously as in the first place, and she could ill afford another new one.

Defects More Pronounced. The longer Martha had the suit the more numerous and pronounced became its defects, until at last her pride rebelled, and she refused longer to wear the miserable parody. She said she would much prefer to wear a "good" old suit than a "poor" new one. For with the poor new one she was conscious and ashamed when she felt any one looking at her or her suit. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver held a consultation, after which Mrs. Weaver declared that never again in her life would she buy anything from a picture or from a catalogue house. "Amen," said John. "We have had our lesson. Had you bought that garment from any of our local merchants and it proved unsatisfactory, he would

FISHING WITH AN AX.

Winter Sport In Which Tackle and Bait Are Not Needed.

When a man starts out in the dead of winter with only an ax under his arm and says he is going fishing one is inclined to smile and take his statement with a grain of salt. Nevertheless it is true that fish are "caught" with no other "tackle" than an ordinary ax.

Along the coves of fresh water lakes and ponds in the winter, especially when the first new ice has formed a transparent covering, it is possible to secure a number of good sized fish by means of an ax alone. These "fishermen" wear the heavy felt boots of the lumbermen, from which the rubber shoes are removed when they reach the ice. A bright sunny day is needed for this sort of fishing. In many of these coves and especially in such coves as are filled with rushes and water lilies in the summer pickerel, pike and other members of that fish family come to the surface of the water and rest within an inch or so of the ice. As far as known they do this to get in the sunlight, just as they sometimes float motionless near the surface of the water in the summer.

The ax fisherman in his noiseless felt boots walks slowly over the transparent ice looking for these fish. They seem to think that the ice affords a protection, and they are not usually frightened away. When the unsportsmanlike "fisherman" sees a fish near the surface he steals up and hits the ice a resounding whack with his ax. Nine times out of ten the fish will be seen to turn belly upward and lay motionless. The secret of this is that the impact of the ax on the ice has forced the water against the fish's head with sufficient pressure to stun him. The fisherman hastily chops a hole through the ice, reaches in and pulls out his fish. — Detroit Free Press.

ANCIENT ARTIFICIAL LIMBS.

Iron and Wooden Hands and Legs and Plaster and Silver Noses.

There is in the museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, an artificial leg, made about 300 B. C., of bronze, wood and iron. Who has not heard of the famous "Iron Hand" made in Nuremberg, Germany, in 1504, for the German knight, Goetz von Berlichingen? Among the old time Indians ears, noses and lips of plaster were quite common, one of their ordinary punishments being to cut off these useful parts of the human anatomy. Greek and Roman veterans who had lost a leg or an arm in the wars used to replace them by substitutes and Plinius speaks of a Roman veteran soldier who—about 150 years B. C.—was famous for the wooden hand with which he was still able to fight as an able swordsman. In 1604 the Duke of Brunswick had to use an artificial hand.

Artificial limbs with movable joints were also largely made by the famous Ambrose Pare—1517 to 1590—the celebrated French surgeon, known as "the father of French surgery." He was surgeon to Henry II.—1552—and also to Francis II., Charles IX. and Henry III. Later on Father Sebastian, a Carmelite monk, was renowned for the manufacture of movable arms and hands. About the middle of the seventeenth century Falcinelli, a Florentine surgeon, mentions artificial eyes of gold, silver and crystal painted in different colors. He also describes gold and silver ears which were either tied to the head with strings or else sewed on the skin of the scalp by the aid of gold and silver wire. Silver noses, too, are spoken of as having been in use for a long time.

A Divided Village.

In the readjustment of boundaries after the Franco-Prussian war the little village of La Schlucht was divided between the two nations. France and Germany meet in the middle of the main street, and as the boundary line follows a slanting course it is possible for a French and a German soldier to pose for a joint photograph, each remaining within his own territory.

COLLEGE HAZING.

It Was Called "Wrecking" in Carthage In St. Augustine's Time.

At most American colleges it is called "hazing"; at West Point it is called "crawling"; and at English schools "fagging" is often applied. When St. Augustine was a boy they called it "wrecking."

In a translation of his "Confessions," for which I am indebted to a learned clerical friend, St. Augustine relates what the boys did at the University of Carthage:

"I would take no part in the wild doings of the 'wreckers,' a cruel and devilish name, which was looked upon as the stamp of the best set. I went about with them, and of some of them I made friends, yet I always disliked their ways of going on their wreckings; their wanton attacks upon the shyness of freshmen and the unprovoked affronts with which they carried on their malignant amusement. Nothing could be more like the conduct of devils, and what name could be fitter for them than 'wreckers.'"

That sounds as if the Carthage sophomore was fully as much endowed with self importance as the American sophomore. I may add that St. Augustine's criticism of "wrecking" is one more ancient proof that "boys will be boys."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Labby's Long Walk.

In "Bohemian Days in Fleet Street" is this Labouchere incident, which happened when he was in the diplomatic service and was sent on a mission to St. Petersburg:

Before starting he had a dispute with the foreign office about his expenses. The foreign office had the idea of the scotch Labouchere had his. But the office refused to reconsider its decision. Labouchere took his leave, crossed the channel and was to all appearance lost. A week after the appointed time he had not arrived at St. Petersburg. A representative of the foreign office was sent out on his trail. He was traced to Paris and from thence to Vienna, where he was run to earth. In reply to his discoverer he coolly said, "The foreign office refused to pay me my expenses, and I'm walking to St. Petersburg."

Truth and Life.

Where the seeking of truth begins, always the life commences too. So soon as the seeking of truth is abandoned life ceases.—John Ruskin.

May Stewart Coming Soon.

In speaking of May Stewart's performance of Lucrezia Borgia which is to be seen at the opera house Wednesday night, March 4th. The Plattsmouth Evening Journal said: "Last evening the amusement loving public of the city was given a treat of rare merit in the production of Lucrezia Borgia at the parmale theatre by Miss Stewart and her company which is of a very high standard and gave the tragic play of Victor Hugo in a very realistic manner."

The story of Lucrezia Borgia is one of the most interesting and thrilling in the history of Italy, and the gifted pen of the great French man has painted a wonderful play from the story of the beautiful and fascinating Italian woman, although in the play the character of the leading figure has been softened from the general conception gathered from the pages of history.

As Lucrezia, Miss Stewart displayed to its fullest the wonderful emotional talents she possesses, and she gave to the part a charming personality, and the appreciation of her splendid acting was demonstrated by every one in the audience. Miss Stewart is most fortunate in selecting her company and securing for her support as leading man, Francis Thompson, as his interpretation of the role of Gennaro, a young soldier of fortune, was one of the cleverest and most realistic ever seen at the Parmelee.

Miss Marion Evensen gave a number of classic dances during the progress of the drama and her graceful and charming art won for her a warm spot in the hearts of the audience, as her work in this line was as good as can possibly be seen anywhere. She was assisted in the dances by Mr. Harry Hemfield, a very pleasing and clever dancer. Paul Terhune, as the Duke of Ferrara, also was very pleasing in his part as the evil minded husband of the beautiful poisoner. The play was given a very lovely setting by the producers, and this added greatly to the beauty of the play. Romeo and Juliet, the offering on Thursday night, March 5, will be given a beautiful setting, and the production will be complete in every detail. The scenery and costumes used in the production are the most magnificent to be seen here this season.

Among The Churches of Wayne

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We were very glad to see the attendance last Sunday in spite of the storm.

Regular preaching services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the next Sunday morning will be "The Finished Work", John 19:30. When the weary trials of this old world, were drawing to a close; when life was nearing an end and the evening shadows were falling fast, Christ's voice rang from the cross "It is finished". His life was complete. The very life of Jesus was a complete finished work. It was like a book on the last page of which could be truly written "finished".

But what a difference between Jesus and the many authors and makers of finished things! Many complete things, things that the world is agreed in calling complete and precious in their own order, were achieved by very incomplete men. Read the words of Gibbon, the historian in which he records his emotions on completing his monumental work. He has succeeded, and yet in the bottom of his heart he feels that he has somehow failed. Thus it is with all, when we have completed a thing, it seems incomplete. So, from our life of incompleteness, we should look on the completeness of the life of Jesus and while we look, rise into that hope and confidence which his manifested completeness is meant to give.

Services every Sunday evening at half past seven. The subject next Sunday evening will be "The King of Kings" John 9:14.

The Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. E. C. Tweed last Thursday. The meeting was well attended and a splendid offering was received. The ladies are planning to paint the church and the parsonage this spring. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ole Hursted on March the 5th.

The members of the Catechetical class will meet in the study of the church Saturday afternoon at half past two.

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.)

A "Real Bad Woman", or "Jezebel, the enemy of God" will be the subject of the evening sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. This is the fourth sermon on the "Women and Girls of the Bible".

In the morning the subject of the sermon will be "The Restoration of the 'Soul'".

The concert by the Southland Jubilee Quartette on last Friday evening was a success in every way. There was a good attendance, and the music of the colored singers was greatly enjoyed, especially the dialect songs and the readings by Mr. Drayton, and the piano selections by Prof. Barbour. On Sunday evening a large congregation gathered in spite of the blizzard to enjoy the sacred concert, some coming from the country through the storm, to hear the singers for the second time. The sacred concert was highly appreciated, and the hymns, anthems, and the camp-meeting melodies were rendered in a most effective manner. Paul Lawrence Dunbar's pathetic and sacred poem "When Melinda Sings" was beautifully recited by Mr. Drayton. At the close of the service a number in the congregation came forward to greet the singers and they were tendered an informal reception.

GEORGE NORMAN OF OMAHA ONE

Miss Hawes of Political Economy Dept. of University Second to Act With Governor and Labor Commissioner Pool.

Lincoln, Feb. 24.—Governor Morehead has appointed the minimum wage commission provided for by the last session of the legislature. There is no salary attached.

Governor Morehead is chairman of the commission, while Labor Commissioner Charles Pool, by virtue of his office, is the second member. The other two are George Norman of Omaha, president of the Omaha Central Labor union, and Miss Anna Hawes of the political economy department of the University of Nebraska.

The law provides duties of the commission as follows:

"It shall be the duty of the commission to inquire into the wages paid to the female employees in any occupation in the commonwealth, if the commission has reason to believe that the wages paid to a substantial number of such employees are inadequate to supply the necessary cost of living and to maintain the worker in health."

The report is made to the governor. The law provides for due publicity to such employers as refuse to accept the minimum wage determined by the commission.

RAIL TRAFFIC IS RESUMED

With Few Exceptions Blizzard in State Has Cleared Up.

Omaha, Feb. 24.—The heavy snowstorm that was general practically over the entire area from the Rocky mountains east as far as the lakes and from well up in South Dakota down in Oklahoma, has abated so far as Nebraska and the country west is concerned, though in some portions of this state scattering snow flurries were reported. The blizzard conditions, however, are gone and there appeared a rapid rise in temperatures. Reports to the railroads indicated that throughout Nebraska the snowfall was general ranging from six to sixteen inches. In the northern portion of the state the snow was light and drifts badly, but in the southern portion it was damp and heavy, at times being almost a rain.

Train service to and from the west has been resumed. Freight trains were all off schedule.

SUFFRAGISTS HECKLE ANTIS

Meeting at Omaha Winds Up in Live-ly Controversy.

Omaha, Feb. 24.—The anti-suffrage meeting held at Tappin's academy wound up in a lively controversy with suffragists. Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York, president of the national association opposed to woman suffrage, gave a history of the anti-suffrage organization and was followed by Secretary Minnie Bronson of New York, who attacked the suffrage movement. The discussion following her address was brought abruptly to a close because of the heated argument which threatened to ensue between

MAKES BACKACHE QUICKLY DISAPPEAR

A Few Doses Relieves All Such Miseries. Bladder Weakness, Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism Promptly Vanish

It is no longer necessary for any one to suffer with backache, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tormented with rheumatism, stiff joints, and its heart-wrenching pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely relieves all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves, and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away, all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such, that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

Miss Bronson and Mrs. George W. Covell, the latter a local temperance worker and suffragist.

The consensus of opinion as expressed by the speakers and the antis present was that the local suffragists as a class were "most un ladylike and thoroughly discourteous."

Says $37,500 Was Secured From Him by Mrs. Paul and Her Attorneys.

Omaha, Feb. 24.—Arthur Brandeis, defendant in a $250,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Nellie Paul, appeared before the grand jury in response to a subpoena.

It was said that Mr. Brandeis gave the same account of his experience with Mrs. Paul and her son, Clarence Risley, and the lawyers who shared the money with her, which he related to the jury last week in Judge Day's district court. This included the story of his payment of $37,500, under threat to make public the charges preferred by Mrs. Paul, which he is now resisting in court. Evidence in the damage suit showed that Mr. Brandeis paid $7,500 to Judge Irving F. Los Angeles damages in the last one were estimated at $4,500,000. Those who remained here have had but little cold weather to contend with and few bad storms.

It will contain many views of the campus, and the old building, soon to be wrecked, will be especially featured. RIDICULE, VOICE OF FAILURE

Never Stops the Onward March of Progress.

FROWN DOWN THE DISTURBER

Ridicule, Paralyzing as Well as Amusing, Often Gratifies a Little Mind or an Ungenerous Temper—The Safe Plan is Always to Do the Task That Lies Nearest Us.

(Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.) Ridicule may be an evidence of wit or bitterness and may gratify a little mind or an ungenerous temper, but is no test of reason, truth or manhood.

Ridicule, besides being consoling and unconscious, may also be indirect as well as direct, negative as well as positive, paralyzing as well as amusing. And myriad in number and kind are the ridiculous suggestions made and being made by the enemies and victims of the mail order concerns in the hope of stopping their onward march of progress.

Do merchants always appreciate their advantage? Would a friend of the merchant or dealer have sent his first order to a stranger who showed pictures instead of goods, who talked on paper instead of face to face, who demanded pay in advance instead of allowing a more unlimited credit had the merchant improved his advantages?

Ought to Emulate Rivals. It would seem that after one experience of long delays, quite common and to a great extent unavoidable in trading with mail order houses, after one experience of putting things together for himself, after one experience of waiting for a missing part, the friend would not have taken the trouble to order by mail from a stranger had the local merchant or dealer always improved his opportunities.

Everything that happens to us leaves some trace behind it; everything contributes imperceptibly to form us. Yet often it is dangerous to take a strict account of that for either we grow proud and negligent or downcast and dispirited, and both are equally injurious in their consequences. Always the safe plan is to do the task which lies nearest us and which will augur for our best interests and those of others.

If success can be attained by the retail mail order houses, working under disadvantages, why cannot the local merchant, who has none of these disadvantages, succeed? He can by imitating their methods and practices, by allowing undisturbed inspection of goods and by polite and courteous treatment of all visitors to his store, thus creating new customers and continuing to supply old ones.

In a certain Indiana town a young man ordered a heating stove, price $8.95. When the stove came he was very much disappointed. The stove was small, while the picture in the catalogue made it appear large and ornamental. Had this young man visited his local dealer and inspected the $8.95 stove he would not have bought it, but would have selected one for $12 or $14 and would have got the right kind and one that would have satisfied his needs.

A Minnesota farmer ordered five rolls of barbed wire. After it came and he had paid the freight he discovered that he could have bought the same identical wire from his local dealer and could have saved $1, also much time and trouble.

Mail Order Fence in Woodshed. Another man living in a village ordered some wire fencing from a picture in a catalogue, and when it came it was so cheap looking that his pride would not allow him to disfigure his grounds with such a fence, so he stored it in his woodshed and bought what he wanted from his local dealer.

A lady in a little town in Missouri sent to one of the large mail order houses for a pair of shoes, enclosing $1.97 with her order. After two weeks the shoes came by freight; charges were 25 cents, which she paid. After taking the shoes home she found they did not fit, so she repacked them and sent them back by express, and after another two weeks' wait another pair of shoes came by freight with more charges attached. To the lady's dismay, these shoes were no nearer a fit than the first pair. She then gave up in despair and visited her local dealer, crediting her investment of $2.56 to experience.

We should like to suggest to the consumer that he be honest with himself, buy at home; help support his own town; make his own home more valuable. Let Mr. Mail Order Man sell his good things in his own town. Instead of his fooling you, you fool him by trading at home.

Let each community become a cooperative commonwealth to the extent that its citizens shall work together to build up and sustain that community, working with neighbors—competitors included—for the home, town, city, county and state; let civic pride and ambition be fostered; let the professional "grinch" and disturber of the public peace be frowned down; let the incorrigible offender against the principles of square dealing be thrown to the lions of public condemnation. And to the merchant we say—work; don't ridicule.

Why Is Living High

The story of the adventures of a head of cabbage in New York is told by the New York press: It casts much illumination upon the much-discussed high cost of living. The cabbage is raised by a farmer in Connecticut. The comparatively small farmer will send 1800 to 2000 heads of cabbage to New York. For one head he receives a cent and a half. Then the head goes to the commission merchant. He lives on Riverside Drive and pays $2,000 a year for his apartment, and keeps an automobile. He spends $7,000 a year to live. Next the cabbage is sent to the wholesaler. He lives on West End Avenue. He pays $1,800 for his apartment and keeps an automobile. His living expenses are $6,000 a year. He sends the cabbage to the jobber who lives in an apartment which costs him $1,500 a year—on Broadway, keeps an automobile and spends $5,000 a year. From him the cabbage goes to the retailer, who lives in a $700 apartment on a side street, has a corner store for which he pays $125 a month rent, keeps two delivery wagons at a cost of $140 a month, and spends $2,500 a year on his living. Finally the cabbage gets to the consumer. He lives in an apartment for which he pays $40 a month. He rides in the trolley car or the sub-way, he spends all he can make or a little more to live, and he pays 13 cents for that head of cabbage.

Pender Preachers Should Advertise

The Republic brainstormer went to church last Sunday evening as we occasionally do. Counting the preacher, the children and grown-ups there were 21 persons present at the services. This was at the Methodist church. We do not know how many were at the Presbyterian church, but they have a "new preacher" and the probabilities are they had a few more, because some folks like to get a line on the "new preacher" as soon as possible. But we will venture they did not have to display the "standing room only" tag. The fact is both churches cannot fill half the seats of either church. Yet both churches must have preachers and maintain separate organizations. All of which, to quote our good German friend again, "is so damn foolishness."

We suppose, however, it will go on till the Lord takes away the prejudice of some people, puts a little "pure religion and undefiled" under their skins and takes them home to heaven.—Pender Republic.

Yes, and one average county seat paper will carry a message to ten times as many people as the average preacher.

Good Preaching

The Blade editor is a poor bluffer. He doesn't like to be bluffed and he doesn't like to treat others differently than he would be treated. A paper has a right to sell advertising space to anyone. It can sell some, too, but to be frank about it, a local paper cannot sell a great deal of advertising abroad at a profitable price. Its space is worth most to the local man and the local man is worth a whole lot more to the paper. If the Blade had to depend upon outside advertisers to live we would either sell out or move the plant to some other town. Life is too short and the world is too large for anyone or any business to stay where not wanted. Our business is good and growing better all the time, so this must not be misconstrued as a complaint. But the truth is that we must all pull and work together in Coleridge or Sioux City or New York or London. No one is so big that he can live unto himself alone and he lives best who lives with and as one of those with whom he comes into daily contact for it is to these, if to any one, that he can be of most service.—Coleridge Blade.

Least Expensive Cattle Foods

Beef can be produced in Nebraska at a lower cost and with greater profit on a combination of the corn plant and alfalfa hay than on any other combination of foods available in the state. According to experiments carried on at the University Farm of Nebraska corn silage is worth 60 per cent more a ton than shredded corn stover (stalks) when each is fed with corn meal and alfalfa. Corn stover, however, has a value 80 per cent as great as prairie hay, and the portion consumed is fully as valuable. Prairie hay at its usual market price is not profitable for fattening cattle.

In growing calves to be fattened for the market, the cheapest gains were found to be made on a liberal ration of corn silage and alfalfa without grain, the cost of grains increasing in proportion to the amount of corn meal fed.

We recently inspected the herd of Geo. Buskirk, Pender, Nebr., who has been a breeder of the big Duroc Jerseys for the past six years. He is a man who has gone out and purchased the very tops, and when you look over his herd today you can readily see the big advantage in getting this kind of seed stock. He believes in getting the big, deep-bodied, practical kind of growing stuff out in such manner that the sows will have plenty of room to carry good, big, strong litters. He has some of the biggest spring gilts in his herd that we have seen in our travels this year. They are not only big, but they have a large amount of quality and they uniformly have good heavy bone and stand on excellent feet. Mr. Buskirk is a crank on good backs, good heads and good feet. All the spring gilts in his offering are sired by Tolstoy Chief, a son of Proud Chief, he by Ohio Chief out of a Tolstoy dam. He is a big, rugged, deep-bodied, heavy-boned fellow, and sired an excellent string of gilts. A number of the tried sows will be mated with this boar. The spring gilts will be bred to the three other boars in the herd, which are all of the big-type order. If you are looking for the kind that will raise big, strong litters, arrange to attend this sale. Don't forget that every sow is immuned—double treatment—and if you cannot attend, send a bid—O. I. Purdy.

The Scott County Herald, Winchester, Ill., prints the following, marking it "selected." One night as the devil sat musing alone in the midst of his cozy warm fire, trying to find the difference in guilt between a thief and an all around liar, his memory turned to scene of his youth, and his eyes filled with tears so, he took down his ledger and turned to a page dated back about six thousand years. "I suppose he exclaimed," as he glanced through the book, "I am doing the best that I can, for my business denotes a continued increase ever since the creation of man. I've cribbed a good harvest for six thousand years, and should be content with the yield and give my opponent permission to have the gleanings I leave in the field. I've gathered a very diversified crop of merchants and lawyers galore; I've bound politicians in bundles until my fingers are sore, I've peddlers, gamblers and insurance men; murderers, forgers and liars, and fill up my furnace with boodlers until they actually put out my fire. I've railroad conductors and doctors to spare, horse traders and preachers to spend; republicans, democrats, Tories and wigs and two or three newspaper men. But there is one class, I'm glad to say can never get entrance here; their soul is too dity; I'm sure they would demoralize hell in a year. I refer to that being neither human nor beast, the carrion of the world who is never happy unless he can feast on the wreck of an innocent girl. A million of years in my warmest of rooms of slander would not atone, so I give him a select hot hell of his own." With his fingers he lit an asbestos cigar and placing the book on the shelf he muttered: "I may be a very bad man, but I've at least got respect for myself."—Selected.

Seed Corn Insurance

An inexpensive policy for insuring the stand of next year's seed corn may be taken out now at any farmer's home. The premium costs a few hours of labor and a few cents worth of material. The insurance consists in the home made germination test for the seed, full particulars concerning which may be obtained from Extension Bulletin No. 3 from the Bulletin department at the University Farm, Lincoln. The total savings in increased yields will be in proportion to the amount of worthless seed discarded.

The Skin and Not the Blood

Until recently it has been a generally accepted theory that eczema was a disease of the blood. NIGHTMARE TERROR.

In Young Children It Causes a Shock That Requires Soothing.

A nightmare is a very vivid and disagreeable dream, in which the sleeper finds himself in various terrifying situations from which there is no escape. When a sufferer's fright reaches a climax he awakens suddenly; sometimes he is aroused by his own efforts to scream for help. A bad form of nightmare occurs in young children. It is called "night terror." The child awakes suddenly from a deep sleep, panting, wide-eyed, screaming but inarticulate and clings frantically to any one who goes to the bedside. Such attacks are most common in children between four and eight years old, but they may occur at any age.

When grownup people have nightmare it is generally owing to indiscretions in diet, such as mince pie or lobster eaten late at night. Many persons have to be very careful about what they eat for supper, and can never safely go to sleep lying flat on the back.

One characteristic of nightmare is the startling reality of it. It lacks the misty vagueness of pleasant dreams and has, while it lasts, all the sharp outline of an actual occurrence. Therefore it is important that young children should be wisely and gently handled when they suffer from night terrors. Do not scold them or laugh at them or argue with them. They have suffered a real shock, with consequent loss of nervous force. Until the paroxysm has spent itself, do not leave a child who has suffered in this way alone.

Sometimes, in older children, night mare accompanies overpressure at school, and the tendency to it disappears in the holidays. In such cases lighten the pressure of work as much as possible, make the evening meal light and digestible and keep the child from excitement during the few hours before bedtime.—Youth's Companion.

SIMPLY ROBBED THEM.

Mean Trick a Political Boss Played Upon His Ward Healers.

A veteran politician when the subject of political graft and blackmail came up told of the experience of the boss of a certain city who was something in the way of a collector himself.

One day near the close of a hot campaign he managed to round up some $5,000. With a couple of his pals he had a bibulous celebration. About 2 in the morning he was clinging to a lamp-post and trying to call a cab when two of his heeled boys in sight. He knew they would rob him if they suspected he had money. Bracing himself, he greeted them with:

"Hello, fellows; lucky you happened along. I'm dead broke and want a cab. Get one and take me to my hotel and I'll make good."

When they reached the hotel the drunken boss sleepily asked the clerk to give each of his companions a $5 bill. At the same time he drew from his trousers pocket a huge roll of bills and, throwing it at the clerk, told him to "keep that wad of stuff in a safe place until morning."

Disgustedly the heeled boys watched the safe door close on the young fortune that had escaped them, while the boss sank into a chair.

"Oh, you thief!" angrily shouted one of the heeled boys as he shook his fist under the nose of the boss. "That's the meanest double cross you ever gave a friend in your whole crooked career. You said you was broke and you had thousands in the wad. Confound you, there's no one a fellow can trust these days. That money belongs to us by rights and you've robbed us of it."—New York Sun.

Woman's Advantage.

A woman can take a plume and wear it on one side of her hat one day, on the other side another day, on the front of her hat another day and on the back another day. She can wear it curled round the rim, under the rim, across the crown or straight up in the air. But if a man happens to put his hat on with the rear end in front he looks like a durn fool.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

As She Caught It.

The use of the telephone frequently results in some very funny mistakes. Prior to a meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago a young woman was asked over the telephone if she would take two delegates to the convention. She agreed to do so, and on the day appointed showed up at the hall with two jelly cakes.—Boston Transcript.

An Important Consideration.

"What reform will you advocate?" asked the friend.
"I don't know," answered the woman who had just returned from a trip around the world. "What reform is most fashionable at present?"—Washington Star.

Queer Connection.

"No system of physical exercises yet invented," says Oliver Onions, the novelist, "can compare for one moment with silk stockings for giving an erect carriage to the female head."

Never be unemployed, never be triflingly employed, never while away time.—John Wesley.

Henry Rubeck returned Monday evening from Sioux City where his daughter, Miss Florence underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Joseph's hospital Saturday. We are informed she is getting along nicely.

George Whipperman went to Miranda, S. Dak., to help Elmer Beckenhauer move his household goods here. Elmer had the misfortune to break one of his ankles so he and his wife will not be able to arrive as soon as expected.

A farewell reception was given Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Caldwell in the church basement Friday evening. Light refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was spent by those in attendance. Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell were presented with a purse of $65.00. They left Tuesday morning for San Francisco.

Twenty-four young folks gathered at the L. D. Bruggeman home Saturday evening in honor of Louie's birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and music after which refreshments were served. All report a nice time.

Will Exterminate Wolves.

Ezra Ross of Winnebago spent Sunday afternoon and night with relatives at Wayne. Mr. Ross was returning home from Stanton where he had been and purchased a pack of hounds for use in his home community. His pack consists of six hounds, two fighting stags, two Russian wolf hounds, one gray hound and fox hound for trailing. Mr. Ross said that last season the wolves cost $200 to feed them the pigs and chickens they took, and he thinks the cost of living so high can be reduced greatly by his hounds. He will not only protect his own stock, but the wolves which this bunch of pups get after will not molest his neighbors either. Then for each wolf the bounty and hide is worth about five dollars, so it is probable that $150 invested in dogs will pay pretty well. Besides there is a bit of good sport connected with a wolf hunt.

Spring is coming and you will want new paper and paint. Don't forget that I have samples of one of the best lines of wallpaper in America. All kinds at all prices. Call or phone J. H. Boyce, contracting painter and paper hanger, adv. 8c.

LOCAL MERCHANT A BENEFACTOR

A Good Citizen and a Friend in Need.

HONEST MEN GIVEN CREDIT.

He Would Rather Be Right Than President—The Local Retail Merchant Is Without Question the Community's Most Prominent Factor. Aids Farmer by Buying From Him.

(Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.) I would rather be right than president is the principle followed by many retail merchants.

There is no right without a parallel duty, no liberty without the supremacy of the law, no high destiny without earnest perseverance, no greatness without self denial.

As a dispenser of important services in any town none compares with the retail merchant.

Perhaps the first benefit of importance is the endless accommodations which he extends his customers. His books show that where misfortune, sickness or loss of occupation overtakes his customers he is frequently obliged to carry them for many months.

Honest Men Get Credit.

The man who has not established a reputation for unreliability or dishonesty is reasonably sure of securing credit for the asking. And the extension of credit is equivalent to making loans without interest. And who would ask or expect any such favor of any one but a merchant or a very close and dear friend?

The local town to be a desirable place to live in must have police and fire protection, it must have bridges, improved streets, water, sewers and good schools. To secure these necessary improvements and to maintain them taxes must be levied. The local merchant pays a large share of the taxes.

Among other things, the local merchant is continually forced to contribute to all manner of charitable enterprises, both public and private. He is the local benefactor, inasmuch as he is the employer of labor. Numerous young men and women find employment in his store, and as the result of his investment and efforts many dollars find their way to the pocket of the doctor, the dentist, the editor, the druggist and the banker, all of which contributes to the social and financial prosperity of the community.

Faith in the Community.

He aids the farmer by buying from him his products to the extent of his needs, thus increasing the profits of the farmer.

He has shown his faith in the community by investing his capital there, consequently his interests center there; upon him, in a measure, depends the social, religious, educational and commercial existence of the town, and he is ever willing to do his part.

All this being true, why is he not entitled to the same amount of consideration as that exacted by the farmer, the wage earner and the other factors of the community that are always crying for "fair treatment" and "the right to live?"

Destroying Local Markets.

All he asks is that which is rightfully his—the opportunity to display his goods and compare prices with those shown in the misrepresented "picture albums" of the catalogue houses before you send your money away from home to buy something of the same quality which he can sell just as cheaply as does the big city merchant price.

Take away from the community one of the most important elements of prosperity, the medium of exchange, and the effect is inevitable—a weakening of the organism. And that is precisely what the great mail order retail houses are doing. They are bleeding the local communities. They are destroying local markets, weakening local credits, reducing the volume of deposits in small local banks, starving out local business men who are consumers of farm products as well as dealers, driving to the large cities thousands of consumers who can no longer find employment in small towns, and the men who are aiding them in their work of destruction will soon pay the penalty in the shrinkage of the value of their property, as well as in the loss of their markets.

A Gigantic Monopoly.

That the managers of these gigantic enterprises understand what they are doing is amply demonstrated by a remark recently made by one of their number in Chicago. He said, "Give us a few more years and we will make every city outside of Chicago a town; every town a village, every village a hamlet, and every hamlet we will wipe off the face of the earth."

What will the customers of the mail order houses do then, poor things? They will have given aid and comfort to the enemy that has destroyed their prosperity. They will have assisted in building up a gigantic monopoly. Seized by pretty picture books, they will have in their innocence starved out their own best customers. Deserted villages will then mark the places where prosperous communities, formerly thrived, and the population of the country will be divided between the farms and the large cities. The prospect is not a pleasant one to contemplate.

Two Months After Christmas

It takes a very little, oh, so very little, to make a child happy. A flower, a candy, a penny toy will do it if love go with the gift. For the mind of the child isn't moved by the gift itself, but by what its imagination can make of it. And when love prompts, the imagination simply needs a starting point; given that, it will give its own dreams.

So it isn't the expense, that excuses neglect to make the spirit of Christmas—the spirit of love, which is unselfishness—permanent throughout the year.

What excuse have you, if not the excuse of carelessness?
