WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, JANUARY 15, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

NEW BUILDING CONTRACTED

Creighton Firm Awarded Work of Erecting New College Building Here. Heating Plant to be Installed by LeMars, Iowa, Firm.

At a meeting of the Board of Education held at Lincoln on Tuesday, January 13, the general contract for the new administration building for the Wayne State Normal school was awarded to J. R. Riddell of Creighton, his bid being $76,650. At the same time Thomas Rinehart's bid of $4,830 for heating and plumbing was accepted. There will be a separate bid on electric wiring, which will be let at a subsequent meeting of the Board.

The progress of the new building proposition for the Wayne institution has been followed with great interest by the friends of the school. The building fund was granted at the last session of the Nebraska legislature, at which time there was enacted into law a bill providing an appropriation of eighty-five one hundredths of a mill on the grand assessment roll of the state, the expenditure of the same being placed entirely under the direction of the Normal Board. After looking into the needs of the four normal schools of the state, the board decided that the appropriation for permanent improvements should be expended at Wayne and Chadron. At the meeting held in this city on July 21 the tentative plans prepared by President Conn and Professor Hunter were adopted, and J. H. Craddock of Omaha was employed as architect. Architect Craddock's plans were submitted at the Lincoln meeting on September 2, were accepted by the board and the secretary authorized to advertise for bids. When the bids were opened at Lincoln last Tuesday J. R. Riddell of Creighton was found to be the lowest bidder and he was awarded the contract.

The new building when completed will cost at least $90,000. It will be 130x85 feet and three full stories high. The exterior will be of gray granite and a bluish red brick, with a tile or slate roof. The building will be fireproof throughout, and the architecture will be of the same type as that of library and science hall.

As shown by the plans, as one enters the building from the south, to his left will be the offices of the president, board of education, secretary, registrar, large registration room, vault and store rooms. The offices occupy the southwest part of the building, the commercial department the northwest, department of mathematics the northeast, and history, civics and art the southeast.

On the second floor the entire west half of the building will contain the new auditorium, seating about 650, and having a large stage at the north side. In addition to a large faculty room, the east half of this floor will be occupied by class rooms for elocution, German, English, Latin and mechanical drawing.

On the third floor, the balcony of the auditorium and the upper part of the main chapel room occupy the west half of the building, and the east half contains two large society halls and the departments of stenography, typewriting and music. The music department will be most unique in its arrangement containing ten piano practice rooms, a studio, class room and store room.

The interior finish of the building will be oak with marble steps and base. The floors will be tile and cement. Large cloak and locker rooms are provided on every floor. The building will be the finest in every detail of construction, artistic, convenient and substantial.

Work on the new structure will begin about April 1 and very effort will be made to have the building complete and ready for occupancy by January, 1915.

Neimann-Severs

Obituary—Mrs. A. J. Laughlin

(By the Pastor)

Miss Margaret B. Clark was born August 2, 1833, at Newcastle, Pa., and died at midnight, January 11, 1914, at Wayne, Nebraska. She had thus passed the four score limit of years some months ago. In 1851 she came with her parents to Illinois and after eleven years they all came to Iowa and made their home at Oakland. While living here she visited in Illinois, where in 1863 she married James Simons; but they returned to Oakland, Iowa, where they made their home. Into this home three children were born, Chas. W. Simon of Omaha; Sam'l C. Simons, of Emerson; and Mrs. Mattie E. Martin, of Wayne. Her husband died in July, 1868, and for some years Mrs. Simons struggled along with her young children. In 1872 she married A. J. Laughlin, who had been left with five motherless children, and thus Mrs. Laughlin had a mother's part in rearing eight children and nobly did she meet her responsibility.

Three of these step-children survive: Eli Laughlin, of Wayne; James Laughlin, of Boise City, Idaho; and Wm. Laughlin, of Wichita, Kansas.

Mrs. Laughlin was one of a family of twelve children, only three of whom yet remain: Mrs. Catharine Huff of Wayne; Wm. and Uriah Clark of Oakland, Nebraska. In addition to these relatives she is survived by her husband to mourn her loss and fourteen grand-children and by five great-grand-children. For the last four or five years Mrs. Laughlin had been in poor health, being one of the "shut ins" of our church. Last June she became most seriously afflicted and she and her husband closed their little home near Wayne and went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Martin. Here she was tenderly cared for till her death.

When a young girl she accepted Christ and united with the Presbyterian church, but in 1863 she connected herself with the Baptist church, and by her true Christian life ever honored its name.

Mrs. Laughlin was a woman of a remarkably sweet Christian character. She manifested many of the qualities in her life that were revealed in the life of her Savior. She was kind, patient, retiring, forgiving and sacrificing in spirit. In her life she interpreted love, as described by Paul, I. Cor. 13. Perhaps the secret of her righteous life was in her love for and joyful study of the bible. During the last years it was her companion and great comfort. Thus her inner life was fed by the manna from heaven. She loved her Son and her Lord's people, and her Lord's church. Uncomplainingly she accepted her lot and patiently waited till the call came. When the summons came she trustfully gave all into His keeping. Her going was as quietly as the slipping of a vessel out of its moorings, and as peacefully as a babe falls asleep, for she fell asleep in Jesus. Of her death we can truly say: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." She has gone ahead to welcome others into the eternal peace of the heavenly mansions.

The funeral was from the Baptist church Wednesday, by Rev. Richardson, and was largely attended. Among the relatives who came from away were Charles Simon of Omaha and Sam Simon of Emerson, sons, Wm. Clark, a brother from Oakland, Iowa, and a number of grand-children and nephews.

Obituary—Mrs. J. D. Hogan

(Contributed)

Mary Ellen Bosteder was born May 20, 1867, at Manchester, Delaware county, Iowa. When four years of age she moved to Nebraska with her parents where she lived until November 22, 1898, when she was married to J. D. Hogan at Omaha, Nebraska. In March, 1910, they moved to St. Paul, where they lived at the time of her death. About four years ago Mrs. Hogan received injuries by a fall which caused a cancer. Although he had the cancer removed she never recovered and two months ago her mother brought her home where she passed away Sunday morning, January 11, 1914. At the age of 47 years she united with the Baptist church, and at the time of her marriage she united with the Catholic church, and lived a faithful Christian life. Through all her suffering she was patient to the end.

She leaves to mourn her death, a husband, father and mother, three sisters and seven brothers.

The funeral was from the St. Mary's Catholic church Tuesday forenoon, Rev. Father Kearns officiating, and was attended by many of her Wayne friends where for so many years she made her home.

Mary C. VanNorman

Mrs. Mary C. VanNorman, who died Tuesday the 6th of January, 1914, at her home at Merville, Iowa, was 67 years, 10 months and 1 day. She was born in Janesville, Wisconsin, in 1846, and came to Iowa when but a girl. For more than 50 years she was a resident of Woodbury county, Iowa, and was a true pioneer mother, caring for the sick and needy in the early days when neighbors were few and far between. She has a step-son, Fred VanNorman and two sons, Charles and George, living at this place, and formed a number of acquaintances when visiting here. She also leaves a son and daughter at Merville, and a brother and two sisters survive her. The sons from here were present when the end came and remained to pay a last tribute of love to one of the best of mothers.

Country Society to Form

There is to be a meeting Friday evening at the home of Wm. Roble a few miles southeast of Wayne for the purpose of organizing a society—something of a literary and social nature, as we understand it.

Old papers for sale at this office.

Social Notes

One of the pleasant events of the week was the joint installation of the officers of the Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors at their hall Tuesday evening. There was a large attendance of the membership of the two orders, and in addition to the regular installation ceremony those present were entertained by a series of views of the Modern Woodmen sanitarium at Colorado Springs, where they have a colony of more than 200 tents and a complete equipment for the treatment of members who are suffering from tuberculosis, and the lives of hundreds have been prolonged and they have frequently been restored to perfect health.

After the opening of the Woodmen lodge and the transaction of a little routine business the doors were thrown open to the members of the two orders and their wives or husbands as the case might be where man and wife did not both belong to the orders, and the lady organization installed the following members to official position for the coming year, Mesdames Geo. Crossland and H. Schroer being the installing officers:

Mrs. Lamberson—Oracle. Mrs. Ash—Vice Oracle. Mrs. Rennie—Past Oracle. Mrs. Barnett—Recorder. Mrs. Korzine—Receiver. Mrs. Surber—Marshal. Mrs. Crockett—Chancellor. Mrs. Reese—Inner Sentinel. Mrs. Gustafson—Outer Sentinel. Mrs. Ed Ellis—Manager.

When their installation was complete, and it is very pretty work when done well as it was by the ladies, the men proceeded to "swear in" their new officers, a list of whom was given at the time of election. They were compelled to apologize for lack of efficiency in the work as compared with their wives, but no doubt they will be as loyal to their order and obligations.

The ladies of the sister lodge prepared and served substantial refreshments to all, and a social hour passed all too quickly. Most fraternal orders have made some mistake, and the mistake of the M. W. A., perhaps was in not admitting men and women to one organization. If it were now possible to unite the two orders it would make them the leading fraternal insurance order of the world.

J. H. Massie and wife were at Winside Tuesday evening and report a happy time at the home of E. W. Cullen and wife, who entertained a party of about forty guests at their splendid home in that place. They were really observing the 23rd anniversary of their marriage, a fact which was not known to most of their guests in advance of their arrival. The evening was happily spent socially at progressive high-five, after which an elegant three-course supper was served. The guests left a cut glass dish as a token of good will and good wishes, bestowed after they learned that it was their wedding anniversary. It was a late hour when the guests dispersed wishing the host and hostess many happy returns of their wedding anniversary.

There was a happy evening passed at the James Gamble home Saturday when Miss Grace Gamble entertained a party of about thirty young people at their farm home north of town. Most of the guests were from the neighborhood of the Grace church where the Gamble family formerly lived. It was a skating party, and soon after arrival all repaired to the lake on the Evans place and passed the evening in skating, much to the enjoyment of all. When weary of skating all repaired to the house where a bountiful three-course luncheon was disposed of with an appetite such as only a few hours of skating can give to the young. When all departed for their homes at a late hour it was the verdict of all that the skating party was a success.

Mrs. Herman Henney's home was the scene of a large and interested company of bible students Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Lucy Walls very beautifully opened up the great lesson on the Good Samaritan, making love manifested in merciful kindness to enemies the test of discipleship, as love manifested in humanity and in hospitality was the test in the two former lessons. Plans are being laid for a great meeting at Mrs. J. H. Wendte's next Tuesday when the Bible Study Circle will celebrate their 13th anniversary.

The Monday club met with Mrs. F. C. Zoll on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hahn gave a splendid paper on furniture, the different styles, makes, etc., which was instructive and entertaining. This was followed by current events. At their meeting next Monday at the home of Mrs. C. A. Chace the program will consist of a "Map Study of the Balkin State" by Mrs. Marsteller, and the "Results of the Bulgarian War" by Mrs. Robert Mellor.

The P. E. O. meeting which was to have been held with Mrs. Hufford has been postponed and the program will be given with that of the meeting of February 17, when Burns is to be the subject for discussion.

The Guild of St. Mary's church will meet at the home of Mrs. F. S. Berry this afternoon for the election of officers, and the hostess will serve refreshments to the members.

The Bridge Whist club held their usual meeting at the home of C. A. Chace and wife, and were entertained by Miss Margarie Chace in a happy manner.

The Minerva club will meet at the home of Mrs. J. T. House next Monday afternoon.

The Flege Trial

But meager reports come from the trial of Wm. Flege now in progress at Pender, and they indicate that the state is using witnesses to show motive for the deed and the lack of affection between brother and sister, which the attorneys for defendant are trying to keep out of the records as much as possible.

A special from Pender this morning tells us that the state rested and witnesses for the defense are testifying. Albert Echtenkamp for the state who testified to witnessing the shooting told his story as before, plain and simple and the opposing attorneys were unable to change it in any material manner though they tried repeatedly to do so. From all we can hear the state case is as strong if not stronger than on previous trials.

Mrs. Rains Dead

Word was received here by the Scribe of the order of Ben Her of the death of Mrs. Rains, who formerly lived here and held her membership in that order at this place. No particulars were obtained beyond the fact that she died at Denver, Colorado, Monday the 12th inst., and the body was taken to Sioux City for burial. The Rains family lived here a number of years ago, and moved from here to some place in Wyoming.

How about your subscription.

The Prodigal Son

Wayne is fast attaining an enviable place in music through the efforts of the Choral Union. Last winter they secured some most excellent musical attractions which could have been secured in no other way, and this season they are succeeding magnificently with a greater undertaking. This is not only a source of pleasure but a means of attaining a better and broader musical education and training. It means much to the community and it owes a loyal support to the work.

Next Tuesday evening the Union will put on one of the finest and best oratorios, "The Prodigal Son". To properly render this great production has required weeks of practice and diligent work by the fifty people who are to take a part in it, and for them to present it to any less than a packed house would be to the discredit of Wayne. No one who loves music should fail to attend if possible to be there. The story of the "Prodigal" in magnificent solos and grand choruses is more than a sermon. It is entertaining and elevating. It presents the wonderful story in a new aspect.

At the last rehearsal but one, given Tuesday evening, Prof. Abernathy, who has been training the voices said the oratorio was sure to be a success, and one of the best entertainments ever presented at Wayne.

The Cradle

ROSACKER—Saturday, January 10, 1914, to John Rosacker and wife, a daughter.

AHERN—At Carroll, Monday, January 12, 1914, to Wm. Ahern and wife, a son.

PAGE—At Flagler, Colorado, Tuesday, January 6, 1914, to F. J. Page and wife a daughter. Mr. Page will be remembered by many here where he frequently made his home with J. A. Laughlin and wife, his sister, and who married about a year ago and moved to his farm in Colorado. A neat card tells that the young lady has received the name of Berthane Ruth.

The Weather

The weather man gave a touch of winter the country over. Frost was reported as far south as Florida. The east was snowed and blown. Cleveland faced 60-mile wind and low temperature. Here the mercury touched zero Monday morning for the first time this winter, a drop of about 45 degrees in fifteen hours. Tuesday was warmer, and fair.

Across the Atlantic it is as bad or worse. St. Petersburg in Russia, is practically buried in snow. A blizzard and zero weather has caused suffering all through Germany. In Canada the cold was from 22 to 30 below.

Last week Elvin Johnson returned from Potter, where he has been for the summer farming and is now busy completing arrangements for the farm sale on the Johnson home place six miles north of Wayne. J. C. Shepardson has started the Fordyce Press, and the first number is boosting for its home town in loyal manner—and the question is, will the boost be appreciated? It should be, and from the amount of advertising in the initial number appears to be.

Henry Goll, Jr., who has been visiting among his many friends and relatives in this part of Nebraska for a month past left last week for his home at Waterville, Washington, but it will be some weeks before he reaches his destination, as he is planning to go by the southern route, and stop at various places on the way. When he reaches the coast country he plans to visit at Los Angeles and its suburbs and stop at numerous places between there and home. Speaking of his home country he says that they like it well there. They are in the great grain belt of Washington, and grow great quantities of wheat. In his part they often use one of the combined harvesters and threshers, run by an engine, and cut and thresh all at one time. If they could only attach a mill and bakery they might run a boarding house in connection for the crew.

The city of Neligh is feeling that they are to be relieved from a great financial burden. Last year under their old system of pumping water it cost the city from $125 per month up to $100 per week for gasoline for power. They have recently installed a new engine which burns a crude oil known as distillate, that costs but 4 1/2c per gallon, and the cost for last month for fuel was but $12.50, and according to results attained thus far the maximum cost for more pumping than they did at any time last season will be but $30 per month for fuel. They have received a car of 7,600 gallons of oil, and estimate that it will supply the city a full year. The plant installed is similar to one that was considered here last year, and is we think the same make as the one at the mill here, but of more improved and modern pattern.

Mrs. Mary E. Jones, who is spending the winter at Pasadena, California, remembers the Democrat with the Pasadena Star-Tournament edition. It is a work of art showing the many novel features of artistic beauty shown by the enterprising people of that city at their annual flower show. While the annual festival day is the main theme of the pamphlet, yet it also tells of the beauty and permanent improvements of that pretty city. Pasadena is a city of 30,000 in the heart of the great fruit belt of southern California, and while flowers are the whole show at their festival they represent the beauty of the place and other products represent the great wealth of the community.

Judge Sims of Sioux City has decided that it is interstate commerce to haul liquor across the combination bridge between South Sioux City and Sioux City and therefore out of his jurisdiction as police judge. There is a move on foot to stop the traffic in another manner. It is hard for Sioux City to become real dry when the Nebraska end of the town is wet. When South Sioux City was known to the world as Covington, and Iowa had a prohibitory law that the republican supreme court and the republican legislature had not killed, Covington was on the map. It was a little larger in the public eye than Sioux City. The fight to enforce prohibition at Sioux City in those days makes present troubles along that line look small.

The Nebraska Journal Leader devoted a little of its first page last week to showing up their business men as advertisers. Of seventeen papers checked up showing the comparative amount of news matter and advertising, their figures show that the Journal Leader carried more reading matter and less advertising than any of the entire list, which does not look well for the Ponca business men. They then tell them that the advertising space of the paper is for sale, and that the home business man has the first chance, but if he does not want it, that they have city competitors who do, and that they will come next. We note that in the list there is no distinction made between the papers using a patent and those printed all at home, and but four of the papers listed are all home print and the other thirteen use the patent pages, and carry advertising for which the local publisher gets no pay and has no say about. The Journal Leader has four pages patent, but carries the kind without advertising which is that much to its credit. But 24 columns of their 39 columns of news mentioned are not home matter, and are as foreign to the interests of Ponca and Dixon county as is the matter of the magazines and farm papers of general circulation. But the fact that this paper carries but nine columns of advertising to 39 columns of reading is an indictment against the enterprise of Ponca business men. We hope the town will reform.

Lincoln, Jan. 13.—Several reports from state institutions and departments found their way to the executive offices of the state and tell the story of the work accomplished.

The code commission, empowered to prepare the laws of the state and have them printed, reports that the legislature made an appropriation of $30,000 for the work. There has been spent of this amount for salaries, supplies, office rent, etc., $14,734, leaving a balance of $15,265.

The contract for printing was let at $5.17 per page, with $330 for extra work of the printer. There will be 5,000 volumes printed, of which 1,000 will be on bible paper with flexible covers, while it will cost 4½ cents for packing each volume. The contract provides that the printer shall allow the state 7½ cents per pound for the metal plates used in the printing, amounting to $380.

The complete statutes will contain 2,394 pages, which at the contract price per page will cost $14,961.98. Extra cost of the bible edition will be $605, with deduction of $379 for plates, which will leave the total cost of printing $15,187.98. Added to the expense of preparing the work, which was $14,734, will make the cost of getting the statutes ready for distribution, $29,921.98.

Tubercular Hospital,

The tubercular hospital at Kearney reports that the institution is two years old. The original building which was used for a hospital will be vacated as far as use for a hospital is concerned and as soon as the new $40,000 building is built the patients will be moved to that. Most of the cases are doing well and those in the first stages of the disease are improving. One girl, aged nineteen, came in October and under the treatment given has gained twenty-three pounds. A young man has averaged three pounds a week, while another man who came there weighing only seventy pounds, now weighs 115.

Several radical changes made by the superintendent, Miss Deffenbaugh, when she took charge of the hospital, were not liked by the older patients, but they were compelled to come under the rules. These rules forbid the patients to leave the grounds, prohibited smoking and required them to be in bed by 8 o'clock in the evening.

Guard Expenses Not Very Heavy.

The annual report of Adjutant General Phil Hall, made to the governor, shows that of the $77,680 appropriated for the national guard, there remains for the balance of the biennium $50,703, showing but an expenditure of $26,876. This includes maneuver expenses and everything connected with the guard. Office expense shows the largest percentage of expenditure, caused somewhat by a change of offices to the fourth floor of the state house and expense of getting a new armory at the fair grounds.

State Veterinarian.

Dr. Kigin, state veterinarian, reports that the department under his charge and also while in charge of Dr. Boston, examined 3,838 cattle for symptoms of tuberculosis. Of this number, 399 were reactors and were killed. Of this number ninety-six came from Illinois and fifty-two from New York. The department also destroyed fifty-nine horses and mules which showed symptoms of glanders, at a cost to the state of $4,773.69.

Hastings Insane Hospital.

The report of the institution for the chronic insane shows that there are at the present time 1,090 patients, 700 of them being males and 390 females. There are out on parole at this time seventy-five males and thirty-nine females. The report shows that at the time the new superintendent took charge there was a deficiency of $45,000 left over by the last superintendent.

FAIL TO FIND CASHIER FELT

Wanted at Superior to Explain Share in Work of Failed Bank.

Superior, Neb., Jan. 13.—Efforts are being made to locate Cashier A. C. Felt of the failed First National bank of Superior, but so far they have not met with success.

A number of telegrams has been sent to surrounding towns in Nebraska with the purpose of inducing him to come to Superior to explain duplicate notes that have appeared, but he has not yet arrived in town.

It is said that bankers from surrounding cities in Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska, when they got to comparing notes, discovered they hold paper that was evidently intended for only one transaction, but was made to do for two. This, it is stated, absolutely does not affect the condition of the failed bank, but is a personal transaction on the part of some person and the bank is not involved. So far less than 5,000 has been discovered in paper of this character.

It is authoritatively stated, however, that a group of men possessing ample capital stand ready to take over all good paper with a view of permitting realization of as much as possible from the assets.

TABLE ROCK MAKES BID

Asks That New State Reformatory Be Located There.

Lincoln, Jan. 13.—Table Rock wants the new state reformatory which will be built by the board of control this summer and makes a bid for the institution, which has been filed with the board, by the Commercial club of the town.

It is set forth that Table Rock is a city of some 900 population and has two brick yards, which it will donate to the state in case the reformatory is erected in that town. One of the brick yards is worth $7,000 and the other $10,000. One has about forty-five acres of land connected with it and the other fifteen acres. This will all go with the yards. The clay in that locality is especially fitted for making brick for building and paving.

POLITICS TO BE BARRED

Meetings of Organized Agriculture Begin Next Monday.

Lincoln, Jan. 13.—Insistent pressure has been brought to bear on the committee in charge of organized agriculture for the injection of political subjects into the programs. These efforts have been discouraged and the committee has urged all the societies to devote their attention to the great questions which govern production, marketing and distribution.

The Nebraska tax commission will be in session at the state house for the purpose of listening to the views of the farmers on taxation questions. This inquiry was authorized by the last legislature.

The meetings of organized agriculture will begin next Monday. The program includes every phase of agricultural work.

Uncle Henry Miller Writes

The last day of 1913 is the date of a letter from Chelan, Washington, written by H. B. Miller as a greeting to his Wayne friends. The letter appeared in last week's Winside Tribune, and is intended for all his Wayne county friends:

Dear Sirs:—It becomes my painful duty to enclose some of the money of the realm; in doing so, I am going to ask a favor in return. Once in the history of my long and checkered life I had just egotism enough about me to think I had some pretty good friends in that bailiwick and vicinity, and the cards and letters wife and I have received during the holidays more than ever convinces me that she or I still have them, and we are still of the opinion that this is about the best old world we ever lived in. Old Santa plaid very fair with us and Oh, so many cheered us on our way with their merry Christmas salutations, (if that is the word) and we want you to thank them for it. Here we are surrounded by the best of friends who nearly all belong to our church. We have a cozy little three room house, which we pay $3 per month to live in. Have city water, soft, electric lights, our winter wood, dry, all corded up at the door, stove length, good health, plenty to eat and living like fiten cox, since we came down out of the mountains and are taking life e. z. We had about 700 boxes of apples this year, besides hundreds of bushels of culls and apples that were just under packing size, enough to run Wayne county.

Say, Ab., dare you publish any of my anarchistic ideas? It seems to me it would be safe now that many of our most radical ideas are being enacted into law and I hear so many good republicans commending them, even Teddy had six or seven socialist planks in his platform, that looked a little lopsided to me, when it was no secret as to who was financing his campaign. I often wonder where the democratic party would stand today if W. J. B. had laid down after the first battle, after the election of 1896. I wrote him and asked him, What of the political future of this country? His answer was, "Truth must prevail." And almost single handed with his little Commoner in an obscure village, with his lectures at chautauques, fairs and to young men's christian associations with that one little word, TRUTH, he has demolished all their fortifications built entirely of dollars. He has relegated nearly the last bogus democrat to the rear. There are a few yet, even in Nebraska, but they are feeling their way gently. One man is a little sore because the Maker of all good things failed to make him as big as W. J. intellectually. It is a pretty safe proposition for a democrat in America. What I mean by the word democrat is a democratic democrat, is for him not to kick over the traces or tugs. The machine is running so smooth now that if one wobble a little he will be turned out where the picking is pretty short. That word truth, is a hard proposition to buck, see? It must provoke W. J. to a smile to see so many of his ideas enacted into law and I do hope it will prolong his days forty years. Even the supreme court is taking notice. They say to federal judge, Smith McPherson, you made a great mistake when you enjoined Missouri from enforcing their 2 cent railroad fare.

This is one of my anniversaries. Fifty years ago today I loaded thirteen cars of hogs at Gladstone the first station east of Burlington, Iowa. It was as nice a day as any one could wish. Next morning I was snowed in at Mendota, 80 miles from Chicago, in one of the worst blizzards that ever struck any country. It was ten days before we got the last car in; I had 127 dead ones, some of them had nothing but a grease spot left, a little hide and bones. I remember I sold the dead ones to a very nice man, he felt so sorry for me, we got the scales all balanced up, took the horses and was about to begin hauling them up and I noticed someone had laid a large horse shoe on the wrong end of the scale beam, I was right sure it was not me for it was to my interest to have it on the other end. I called his attention to it and it vexed him very much to think any man would so far forget himself as to do the like. I know men who were once in Chicago got to be millionaires doing that kind of business, but they have gone out of business now.

And now I close. We wish all our old friends and neighbors the best of everything good and a long life and prosperity.
H. B. AND LIZZIE MILLER.

Auction Sale of Real Estate

Saturday another Wayne property, or rather two of them are to be put on the auction block, as most of our readers are aware, for the event has been advertised prominently. But we wish to say just a word for the benefit of any who might think that because this property is to be sold at auction it is not desirable—or that Wayne is not a good town. It is because the property is desirable and Wayne is a good town that it is offered in this manner. If it were a confidence game it would be far better worked in private than by public sale. The facts are that one of the owners is old and seeks to retire—the other, his son has farm interests which need his attention, and it is to have his money to use for his farm operations and to give some one a chance to own rather than rent a home that the sale is made. The two, Burl and C. A. Craig have long lived and owned property at Wayne, and know the value of their offering and have faith in the future of the place. Their properties are as well located as any in the town—between the business section and the college—not completely modern they can be completed that way if desired as they are near both sewer and water.

Only last week a man who has been selling goods in different parts of this state volunteered the information to the Democrat that Wayne was the best town in every respect of any place he knew of in the state. He was a stranger, but a man of wide observation, and he believed what he said, and his wife who came one trip here with him fully agreed with him when she seen the place.

Profitable Feeding

Last week we had a two-line local to the effect that Wm. Mellor shipped two cars of fat cattle to South Omaha. That was all we knew of the matter at that time. Since then we learned that his cattle averaged 1342 pounds each when sold and that they brought $8.30 which was the top of the heap for that day. We also learned that he had fed the bunch 105 days on snapped corn and alfalfa hay all of the time except a few days. They made an average gain of three pounds per head per day. We are not real well posted as to what cattle should do, but that looks like a pretty good gain. It has been an ideal fall and winter for feeding. No bad weather, no snow and no mud. Mr. Mellor has another car of large cattle yet and two loads of younger animals which will be ready for market a little later. Following his cattle are two cars of hogs, and then he has a bunch of sows that will be ready for market in the fall or late in the summer.

Carroll Odd Fellows Install

Last Thursday evening the Odd Fellows at Carroll held their installation of officers, and had a most excellent time. A number of visitors were entertained from neighboring lodges. Wm. Glosson of Sholes was the district deputy in charge of the work of giving the new officers their obligation. After the work was finished they all partook of an oyster supper.

Saturday a Big Day

Last Saturday was a good trade day for Wayne merchants if we can read the signs of the times right. Fair winter weather, good roads and bargains offered brought many people from afar and all of the nearby ones in. Our merchants were busy all day, and especially in the afternoon. There are people who claim that Wayne does not do the volume of business that it did in other years and this is perhaps true but from the best information we can obtain if Wayne has fallen off the shortage is less than in most towns in this corner of the state. There are not many places that carry larger and better stocks of goods than our merchants.

At the stock yards there was a crowd of men loading nine cars of fat cattle which Doc Jones and his two sons, M. F. and Roscoe were starting to Chicago. These cattle were of the Polled Angus, White Faces and Shorthorns and were in fine condition for short fed stuff. If they strike a good market they should make their feeders some good money.

At the pavilion sale there was a good crowd, and chickens, cattle and horses were sold. The bidding was lively and prices ruled fair. The pavilion sale is another good feature for Wayne. It cost some money to start it, but the investment is paying dividends directly, besides being a good thing for the place.

Remember Wayne when you have a bit of shopping or marketing to do.

The School of Common Sense

We used to know a quaint old farmer, says Hoard's Dairyman, by the name of Uncle Sam Evans. By the way, did you ever hear a man called "Uncle" that the people did not respect? Uncle Sam was talking to a group of young men at a barn raising about their ambition to show off their physical strength and prowess and said:

"Boys, I'll tell ye. If you really want to distinguish yourselves, there is one place where you will find mighty little competition. That is in cultivating your common sense. With all our schools and colleges, about the scarcest kind of learning is common sense."

Wouldn't it be a grand thing if there were a school where boys and young men could go and be taught common sense? What is common sense? So far as we can see, it is the wisdom that comes from a broad, true understanding of common things—the things that constantly surround us and from which we can never escape. Just for the lack of that wisdom there are a great many failures in everything.

The Junior class gave the following program Friday morning: Current events by Francis Strickland; President Wilson's Vacation by Loretto Croghan; Piano Reading by Edna McVicker; Reading from "Idylls of the King" by John Massie.

The prize essay contest on the Panama Canal is creating much interest and many will try to win the $10, $5 and $3 prizes offered by the First National Bank.

Dr. Corkey Speaks to High School On Wednesday morning Dr. Corkey of the Presbyterian church delighted the high school students and teachers with one of his inspiring addresses.

The question arises next, What will be the proportionate size of the stellar system on this same scale of measurement? If the solar system is to be completed with a loop not two yards across how wide a space should we allow to the surrounding system of stars, "our universe"?

Why Not Use It?

Now some one else comes and says why not use the old school building for some good purpose? The building could be converted into a rooming house and make homes for people who have to move away from Wayne because of lack of house room for rent.

A DIP INTO SPACE

From Our Little Solar System to the Far Starry Limits.

SOME MARVELOUS DISTANCES

The Stellar Universe as We Know It and What It Means in the Matter of Miles to Reach its Boundaries From the Center of Our Own Sun.

It is worth while making an effort to picture to ourselves the vast extent of the starry system in which we reside. Having gained some faint notion of the extent of the lesser solar system, which occupies a small corner of the stellar system, we must work outward from that beginning.

Following out the same idea, Mercury and Venus, being closer to the sun than we are, have to be less than an inch away from him, while Jupiter will be five inches off, Saturn will be ten inches off, Uranus will be over nineteen inches off, Neptune will be almost thirty inches off.

The question arises next, What will be the proportionate size of the stellar system on this same scale of measurement? If the solar system is to be completed with a loop not two yards across how wide a space should we allow to the surrounding system of stars, "our universe"?

Astronomical writers sometimes talk of stars "in the vicinity" of the sun, and this is what is meant by "vicinity." Think of the distances implied. Our whole solar system is first brought down into a small circle two yards across—every inch in those yards standing for more than 90,000,000 miles.

It is believed that some dim stars barely to be detected, may be 10,000 times as far away as our sun's nearest neighbor, Alpha Centauri, and this at once gives, even on our much reduced scale, a line from the center of 35,000 miles.

That would be stupendous enough. But we have no reason whatever for supposing that the limits of our universe do lie there. The true boundaries of the stellar system may be twice as far, four times as far, ten times as far. We do not even know with certainty that our solar system is placed anywhere near its center, though this seems rather likely.

The idea of mutual aid among ants is promulgated by M. Cornetz, a French entomologist, to be an illusion. In his observations, a single ant drags a load rapidly toward the nest, but when others take hold of the object they pull in different directions, and slow progress is made.

The gain of lying is nothing else but not to be trusted any more, nor to be believed when we say the truth.—Sir Walter Scott.

THE COCOANUT PALM.

Almost the Life of the People in Many Tropical Countries.

The cocoanut palm is a native of the torrid zone and thrives best on the seacoast of the tropics. But in the United States it is not generally known that the uses of the palm (Cocos nucifera) are as numerous as the days of the year.

Found nearly everywhere within the tropics, almost the sole dependence for food of the palmivorous inhabitants of many countries, this king of low tropical countries furnishes man with food, drink, medicines, domestic utensils, materials for boat and house building, oil for cooking, lighting, lubricating and innumerable other purposes, and is of all the palmaceae the one that yields the greatest variety of products.

It has been truly said by Tennant, the historian, that "of the cocoanut palm a ship can be built and laden too."

The cocoanut palm comes into bearing between the fifth and sixth year of its life, earlier if near the ocean front, later if inland any great distance, and will bear for 80 to 100 years thereafter. It is still in its full vigor at twenty-five to forty-five years of age and even up to seventy years may be found in fairly good bearing.

So highly valued is the cocoanut in the orient that Tennant mentions a claim in court in the island of Ceylon for the two thousand five hundred and twentieth part of a "plantation" containing only ten cocoanut palms—"Below the Rio Grande."

DINING WITH FRIENDS.

An Incident of Boarding House Life in a Great City.

Not until boarding houses cease to exist will all their romances be written. Slabby romances most of them are, like that of the young woman who got so tired of being called "poor thing" because she received no invitations and had to eat all her meals at the boarding house table that she took to eating alone once in awhile at a cheap restaurant and then brazenly lying about the friends who had invited her to dinner.

There was a young man in that house who never went anywhere either. The first night the girl stayed out life's desolation nearly overpowered him.

"Even that poor little white faced soul has made friends who want her," he said. "Nobody wants me. I'm no good on earth."

Then on rare occasions his place at the table was vacant. "New friends?" asked the landlady. "Yes," the young man lied.

One night the man and the girl met at a twenty-five cent restaurant. They brushed, they fenced, they finally confessed.

"We're a pair of frauds," said the girl. "It is awful to think that tonight when we go home we will have to swear that we have been dining with friends."

"Well," said the young man softly, "ain't we?"—New York Times.

The Mullahs of India.

A mullah, or, as it is more properly written, mollah, is a title given in India and throughout the east generally to a religious leader of any description. Thus the sultan of Turkey is a mollah, because he is the supreme head of the moslem world. And there are hundreds of others. To most of the more conspicuous among them is prefixed the adjective "mad." This, however, must not be taken to mean that they are insane, the word being used rather in its oriental significance of "inspired." The person of the mollah is sacred. Not even the mighty Habibullah himself would care to lay a sacrilegious finger on one of these saintly personages. If he were to venture such an unbecoming thing vengeance would surely overtake him. For it is the cardinal principle of the Ulama—as the mollahs are collectively termed—that an injury purposely caused to one of their number can only be atoned for by the death of the individual inflicting it.

Trap of the Fourmillion.

"In the Sahara," said an explorer, "there is a little insect that throws sand and its volleys slay. They call it the fourmillion. The fourmillion digs itself a funnel-shaped hole of the circumference of a silver dollar. It lies hidden and watchful in the bottom of this hole, and when a spider or ant or beetle comes cautiously prospecting down the steep and slippery sides the inhospitable fourmillion hunches upon its guest volley after volley of sand—a hail of stinging sand so abundant, so suffocating, so binding that the visitor loses its head. He rolls unconscious for the nonce to the bottom of the hole, and the fourmillion calmly dismembers him before he has time to come to himself again and puts him in thearder for the next meal."

Repaid.

An Irishman knocked at a door one day and asked the lady of the house who was very ugly, if she could help him, as he was hard up and on the road.

"Indeed I'll not," she replied. "And if you don't clear off out of this I'll call my husband, who is a policeman, and he'll come and take you."

"I quite believe ye, missis," retorted Pitt. "He'd take anything when he took you."—Argonaut.

A. C. Furchner went to Plankington, South Dakota, Wednesday to close up a little business at that place, where he formerly lived and where he has some property.

I have two cars of genuine Minnesota grown potatoes in my cellar. Good keepers, fine quality and free from frost. Your inspection solicited. Ralph Rundell.—adv.

Ten cars of cattle loaded at Hoskins went east through here Wednesday. It is said that they were not fully fed out. Perhaps the owner thought it more profitable to sell the corn than to feed it and sell fat cattle.

The masquerade ball by the Sons of Hermon Tuesday evening was a marked success, both in attendance and amusement. The music was excellent, the costumes unique and handsome. Wm. Buetow, representing "Uncle Sam" won the gent's prize, and the lady prize was won by the costume representing the Goddess of Liberty, worn by Miss Kremke.

Miss Miller came from Atkinson last week to visit her brother at this place.

M. C. Jordan and family were here from Winside Monday visiting at the home of Mrs. Pryor.

Mrs. Lyons returned to her home at Winside Wednesday after a visit at the home of Mrs. Chas. Shulteis.

Paul Harrington went to Lincoln Wednesday and is attending the state meeting of Nebraska lumber dealers.

George Warner dropped off the west bound passenger this morning to take a peep at the new depot and shake hands with acquaintances on the platform. He is in mercantile business at Bonesteel and was returning from market. He reports that things are well with him.

Peter Witt from Wisner was at Wayne Wednesday night, the guest of Henry Hansen and wife. Mr. Witt was formerly a resident of this county, and met numerous friends here. His mission was to sell electrical appliances to the city, his town having had to change from direct to alternating current with their power plant.

J. C. McDonald of Sholes was at Wayne Wednesday morning on his way to Lincoln to take part in the deliberations of the state lumber dealers at that place. We do not know that the price of lumber will advance any as a result of this meeting, and we hope not. It should be a great thing for the dealers of a great quantity of merchandise to meet and see what they can do to better conditions in their line of business and they should try to work in the interest of their patron, the consumer.

J. A. Gasper and wife are here from Bridgewater, South Dakota, visiting at the home of John Liveringhouse and wife. Mr. Gasper reports that they have had good crops there this year as usual, and that the price of land is coming up every year as its value is becoming known. He told of a neighborhood of Iowa people there who were rather homesick for the Hawkeye state, but after a year at Bridgewater and a visit at their old home they came back satisfied that they had made a wise move in coming to their present home.

The new inter-state express rates ordered by the government are to go into effect with the beginning of February, and they will practically cut the old rate in the middle on long hauls and packages of 10 pounds or over. Agent Moran tells us that on a 10 pound package from Chicago to Wayne is now 75 cents and the new rate will be but 40 cents. On shorter hauls the difference will be less, and it will not effect the rates within this state, as state legislation shaved them down several years ago. Perhaps the rate ruling was very acceptable to the companies, as they were suffering a great falling-off of business owing to the parcel post and the action of the commission helps them let go easy—they have to you see.

It is the "early bird that catches the worm" and H. C. Peterson of Bloomfield is out after the republican nomination for the office of railway commissioner. His announcement in the Bloomfield Monitor does not say whether or not he is the standard or moose brand of that party, and perhaps that is immaterial. He lays his claim to his qualifications and the fact that this particular part of the state has never been properly recognized in the distribution of official honors in the state. The Monitor who knows Mr. Peterson vouches for the man as a tower of strength to the ticket if nominated. He has been in the employ of the railway company as station agent at both Laurel and Bloomfield and has the advantage of college education in college of commerce.

Filed in District Court

Among the cases recently filed in the district court for the March term is Anna Manck vs. Henry Manck in which plaintiff asks for judgment in her favor for money alleged to be due her.

Anna Conley sues Andrew Conley for $400 alleged to be her share of an estate of which she was wrongfully deprived.

E. W. Closson has brought an action asking of the Roof Investment Company of Sholes, of which he is a share holder, an accounting, and asking that they be adjudged not a corporation. In other words to unscramble the eggs.

Charles E. Closson files an appeal from a judgment against for a small sum in favor of Carl Kenschler, by the county court.

Hardware Business to Change

A contract was made Wednesday between Messrs. Barrett & Dally and the Cahart Lumber Co. of Mapleton, Iowa, whereby the latter firm will become owners of the business at this place before February 1st. Barrett & Dally have conducted a successful business here for the past five and one-half years. During the past nine months Mr. Dally has been in charge of the business, Mr. Barrett returning to his former home at Dunlap, Iowa, where he had banking interests that required his attention. The new owners already have interests in this county, the lumber yard at Carroll being one of a chain of yards they operate. They are men of good business judgment as we may well know from the fact that they located as they have in a good town in a good county.

Wayne Birds Win

As stated last week, Wayne fanciers had some winning birds at the Inter-State poultry show at Sioux City, but according to the best authority we can get it was not a show that brought much credit to Sioux City, and if they propose to make a success of the show and be of real benefit to the poultry growers of the territory they had better place matters in the hands of an inter-state commission or else call their venture a local affair. In the first place to call a show inter-state that offers as its largest prize only $10 is belittling the states included. Then there should be some rules and they should be adhered to. Unless we are misinformed the pullet which was awarded the sweepstake prize was not even entered in the show. Other exhibitors were permitted to change birds, substituting for those first entered in some classes. With such irregularities there is small incentive for honest breeders to compete.

Henry Linke won first on his Silver Campines, and thinks they were worthy of it, though he had no opposition. On the White Rocks he did not win. LeRoy Owen came home with eight ribbons on his coops. His Black-Tailed Japanese Bantams won some first and seconds, and he had no opposition in that class. On his Orpingtons he won 3 second prizes and one third prize. His birds scored from 90 1/2 to 91 1/2, but were not judged until late in the show, and were not clean of feather as when taken and lost a few points for that reason. He sold some birds as a result of this exhibit.

First National Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the stockholders and directors of the First National Bank at this place this week the same board of directors was elected, and at the meeting of the directors the same officers were named and the office of assistant cashier was created and filled, B. F. Strahan being promoted to that responsible position. The officers are: President, Frank E. Strahan; Vice Presidents, John T. Bressler and H. E. Wilson; Cashier, H. S. Ringland; assistant cashier, B. F. Strahan.

A resolution was adopted by the board providing for entering the new reserve bank when the organization is completed and ready for members. Officials of the bank express themselves as well pleased with the new law as it finally passed.

A New Shoe Firm

A sale was concluded Wednesday whereby S. Reppert & Son dispose of their shoe stock and business at Wayne, being succeeded by Messrs. J. T. Baughan & Co., of Lincoln. Mr. Baughan is to be manager, and he comes with an experience of half a dozen years in the shoe business in one of the best and largest retail establishments at Lincoln. J. F. Jewett is a partner in the business which is to be continued as an exclusive shoe house. We are glad to note that the Reppert family have no plans to leave Wayne. The senior member of the firm wishes to rest—the junior member has found work more congenial, and his now deputy county treasurer, having been at that office several weeks.

Library Board Meet

The Wayne Library Board held a meeting Monday evening and allowed the few bills presented. They also increased the salary of the librarian a little, from $25. to $28 per month.

One member of the board suggested that it would be well to have it more generally known that the library is open every week day afternoon except Mondays, and that the rooms provide a nice place for ladies or gentlemen who happen to be at Wayne and have idle time while waiting for any reason, to spend a restful hour or two. It is not a place for visiting, but easy chairs and reading matter are provided, making a better waiting place than the average store.

The sprinkler was called out to dampen the streets Wednesday. Warm and dry—that is the kind of a winter that is being given to the poor of northeast Nebraska this year.

Bill Hoguewood broke all records yesterday. Sprinkling the streets the middle of January. So did we selling this season's coats and suits at half price! S. R. Theobald & Co.—adv.

Daddy's Bedtime

Story — A Little Boy Who Could Sew Nicely.

He Made Another Quilt.

There is no doubt that small boys have not much taste for sewing. "Though once when I was a small boy," daddy told Jack and Evelyn, "I knew a boy who could sew very nicely. His mother said that he should learn to use the needle when he was young, and then if he grew up and became an old bachelor he would be able to patch his own clothes and sew on buttons."

"And, let me tell you, he could sew very nicely. He had no sisters, and the evenings were sometimes dull."

"One night as they gathered around the evening lamp, George, that was his name, watched his mother take out her workbasket and begin stitching."

"Mother, could I have a needle and thread?" he asked.

"Certainly," his mother replied. "What are you going to make?"

"I'd like to make something useful," George answered.

"I'll tell you what you can make," she answered. "I'll cut out some patches, and you can make a quilt for your own bed."

"George was pleased with the idea, and when his mother cut out the gay patches to form a star pattern he went to work with a will."

"Every evening when they sat down at the table, George sewed more patches. Soon he had quite a pile of them done."

"When the patches were sewed his mother showed him how to put them together."

"Then she lined the quilt with cotton and tacked a plain piece of material on for a back. When she had bound the edges together, George had a handsome cover for his bed, and he was very proud of it."

"When this little quilt was done he set to work and made a larger and handsomer one for his mother. He seemed to have a knack in matching the colors, and his relatives saved 'patches' for George's quilts."

"Every year a fair was given by the people of that part of the state. It was called the county fair. The farmers sent their finest cattle and fattest pigs to be shown. The farmers' wives sent jars of their best preserves, their choicest butter and finest hons."

"Besides this, there were all sorts of pretty and useful things made with the needle, and prizes were given for the nicest and best things of each kind."

"A dear old lady who admired George's quilts told his mother he ought to send one to the fair to show."

"So a quilt did go off to the fair, and the judges were so tickled over the idea of a little boy having made a quilt that they voted to give him a handsome bicycle as a prize, and I'm afraid after that George did not make many quilts."

THE REAL VALUE OF PEDIGREE IN HORSES

By DR. A. S. ALEXANDER, College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

The pedigree of a horse is simply a record of the animals that in succession have entered into its breeding. Whether it is a guarantee of individual prepotency depends upon the excellence and known virility of the ancestors on each side of the pedigree. The more and better the dams recorded in the pedigree the more certain may be of the breeding qualifications of the pedigreed animal. The sire should be of equal merit, and the most important point is to see that they are of known purity of blood and individual excellence. Constant watch

One of the laws of breeding is that "like produces like" in a great degree, and hence the likelihood of superior offspring. Some of the reasons for keeping pedigrees are: Pedigree gives the breeder accurate data as to the lineage of his animals, thereby the pedigree gives the breeder a chance to trace performance in ancestry. In nearly all cases pedigrees are the evidence of purity of breeding. The splendid pure bred Percheron stallion here pictured is a striking example of the value of using pedigreed sires.

must be kept that upon neither side is there an objectionable outcross or the presence of a sire or dam noted for unsoundness or other faulty trait, character or feature.

Furthermore, the man back of the pedigree must be taken into account. The pedigree is of little value unless the breeder and seller are men of integrity.

Neither is a pedigree a sufficient criterion of merit nor an apology for individual imperfection. In some instances a horse with a long line of reputable ancestors, but a comparatively poor individual himself, may prove an impressive sire. In most cases a somewhat indifferent individual that has a fine line of ancestors, as proved by his pedigree, is greatly to be preferred for breeding purposes to a "scrub" grade or even a cross bred animal.

However, the safest way is to select a sire combining both excellent breeding and individual excellence.

WORKING THE SEPARATOR.

Incorrect Operation May Result In Loss of Butter Fat.

Have you ever taken the pains occasionally to note whether or not your separator is being turned to the speed required in the catalogue? Hold your watch on the person turning the crank once a week or so, says Better Farming. The crank of the separator can easily be turned one or two revolutions too fast per minute, and it is just as easy to lose considerable butter fat by the slacking speed. The necessary one or two turns per minute will result in the bowl running 600 or 700 revolutions too slow. This is a little thing, but it may save the fat of one cow.

You cannot afford to waste fat after you have gone to the trouble of producing it. A recently invented device for obtaining the speed at which cream separators are operated is now on the market. The instrument is in the nature of a speedometer by which the operator of the separator is always kept informed of the number of revolutions at which the machine is being run. This provides 100 per cent efficient operation, or, in other words, tells the operator exactly the number of revolutions per minute that the maker provided for in its manufacture, as it gives an unfailing accurate check on the number of revolutions per minute.

That there are many farmers operating cream separators who could profitably use such an instrument is shown in tests recently conducted by the experiment station of Purdue university. In one test it was shown that through the incorrect operation of the cream separator a dairyman owning twenty cows lost $54.10 in one year because "he guessed at the speed of his cream separator." Any dairyman who owns an average dairy will lose a large per cent of what his profit should be in a year when he operates his separator without an accurate check on the speed.

Amount of Silage For Cows.

The amount of silage to feed a cow will depend upon the capacity of the animal to take feed. She should be fed as much as she will clean up without waste when consumed along with her hay and grain. Raise or lower the amount until the proper quantity is ascertained. Generally speaking, a good cow should be fed just short of the limit of her appetite. If she refuses any of her feed it should be reduced at once. The small breeds will take twenty-five or thirty pounds per day, the large breeds about forty and the medium sized ones amounts vary- ing between

THE MINARET GOWN.

Hoop! The Hoop! It is With Us Once More!

PAUL POIRET'S FAMOUS ORRATOR.

This is the minaret gown that Paul Poiret, the famous Parisian dressmaker, wishes womanhood to adopt as the 1913-14 style of costume. The tulle of transparent stuff is whed with a hoop, and the lines of the figure show through. In great contrast is the narrowness of the skirt, which can be seen through the tulle and tapers to the feet.

In spite of the odd appearance of the gown as it first comes into the line of vision, the designers say that there are undeniably smartness and chic about it which will appeal to most women.

Prospective Sons-in-law.

"How much do most mothers know of the men their daughters marry?" asks a contributor to the Woman's Home Companion. "And how much real friendship and trust are there usually between young men and the mothers of the girls the young men choose to marry? Yet I do not as a general rule count this to be the fault of the young men. The mothers are older and wiser, should be wiser, at least in all such matters, yet they are generally slow to speak of them or share in them, whether from shyness or jealousy, or inability to express themselves or a forgetfulness of the years when they, too, were young."

"The mother who does not think herself wiser in all these matters than her daughter is rare to find. Yet there are not so many mothers who are consciously helping (it might be better word) their daughters to make a wise and rational choice. Perhaps most mothers like a hope that when the time comes they may be allowed to choose for these daughters of theirs, and they fail to realize that almost their whole duty lies in fitting them to choose for themselves."

Malines Frills For Plain Frocks.

Provided they can be kept fresh looking, there is no easier way of dressing up the plain little frock in serge or dark silk which nearly every girl has for early autumn wear than a wrist, neck and plastron set in white malines. The wristlets are merely very full three inch wide frills, shirred on to narrow ribbons, by which they may be attached to cuffless sleeves, and the collar consists of two frills—one of three inch width overlapping one of four inch—at the center of the back. There they are wired to stand up, whence they taper gradually to beneath the chin, where they lie flat and are secured under a narrow velvet pump bow. The plastron is a bib shaped affair of finely tucked malines extending from the shoulders to below the bust and further lengthened and widened by a three inch frilling.

A Stenciling Hint.

Few people realize that scrim curtains should always be stenciled on the wrong side. These curtains, done in the pale roses, blues or greens, add considerably to the beauty of a bedroom, and the ones done in the darker tones are quite suitable for living rooms. However, when they are done on the right side and hung at a window the outside or wrong side is without design, while if the stencilled side is hung next to the window the light shining through the curtains gives the effect of having been stenciled on both sides. Many people use the scrim curtains for boudoir of bedroom during the entire winter.

Uses Time Well.

A young business woman who works until 4 o'clock each afternoon passes one afternoon a week from 4 until 6 at a public library reading the current magazines and "keeping posted," as she puts it. Nothing is allowed to interfere with this standing engagement, and the girl who has tried declares that it is really quite remarkable what a lot of reading one can get into two hours a week when it is done regularly.

STATIC ELECTRICITY.

It Is All Around Us Always and Plays Queer Pranks at Times.

Static electricity seems to be everywhere. We are quite surrounded by it on all sides. It is in the earth, the air, in our clothes, on the books, the rug and the walls. It sticks the papers together on the desk. It attracts feathers and bits of lint to metal and glass. It leaps from our fingers when we touch metal objects. Now and then a crackling noise will be heard when the coat is being taken off. A woolen skirt or sweater drawn quickly over the head will produce crackling sparks. The shuffling the dry feet over the carpet a considerable spark can be obtained from the fingers.

Bear in mind that static electricity is not the kind that is used to light the electric lamps in the house. Very little work has ever been found for static electricity. It is a worthless vagabond delighting in mad pranks. In the form of lightning it dashes down from the sky, scaring honest folk nearly to death, often doing considerable damage. It frequently visits the press room in large printing establishments and sticks the sheets of paper together until the presses have to be stopped. It gathers on the yarns and threads in textile mills, knotting and tangling them and is always in mischief.

It is easy enough to prove the presence of static electricity. Rub a bit of amber, glass, hard rubber or sealing wax with a silk handkerchief or a piece of woolen cloth, and it will attract bits of paper and small particles of metal. When we stroke the cat's back this static electricity collects very rapidly. At snaps and crackles and flashes as it discharges between our fingers and the animal's fur. This display of static electricity is nothing more or less than a miniature thunder shower—without the rain.—From Harper's "Beginning Electricity," by Don Cameron Shaffer.

F. L. Neely and wife returned home the first of the week from a visit with his home folks at Corydon, Iowa, where they went for a holiday visit.

Among the recent stock shipments was a car of cattle each from Andrew Stamm and Wm. Blecke and two loads from Dick Schroeder to South Omaha. We saw some of these cattle as they came in and they were good quality and in good condition for short fed cattle.

An elaborate program of the Nebraska Winter Corn Show has been issued by President R. Hogue and Secretary T. A. Kiessbach. This display is one of the best in the history of the state will be made next week at Lincoln. The sum of $1580 is offered in prizes besides numerous premiums and trophies.

M. Hale, who with his family has been living near Wayne for the past five years, loaded a car of farm implements, stock and household goods for Marshall, Minnesota, where he has rented a farm. He took a quantity of good Wayne county seed corn with him, and being a good farmer, will make it pay him in that land of cheaper rents.

C. J. Nuss is moving to his new store home this week—the building formerly occupied by C. A. Berry, and advertises an opening special at the store of a thousand bargains, as he calls it. He has a room which is very convenient for his business and in excellent location and it is safe to predict that his business will continue to grow in the future as in the past.

R. P. Williams slipped away to Sioux City one day last week without any of this force seeing the start. He returned safely and says he had a good time. Speaking of the water there he says the visitors at that place can have their choice, distilled or the undistilled product of the "Big Muddy" which flows past the town carrying more water than they have been able to use since prohibition was killed in Iowa.

Speaking of the big day among the Wayne merchants last Saturday, Bert McClary says that he was not at all lonesome that day—that the inauguration of his removal sale was successful beyond his expectations. He proposes when he gets his new stock in new and larger quarters to be able to meet the catalogue houses in prices and beat them in quality of goods for he does not sell unsight and unseen. You can examine his goods before buying. —adv.

One of the most powerful and intense plays of the season will be seen in "The Coward" to be presented Monday, January 19, at the opera house. "The Coward" is a story of love and adventure, of sacrifice and devotion, beautifully told and splendidly acted by a specially selected cast of artists. All scenery is elaborate and effective, with all electrical effects. The Savidge orchestra will be heard in popular and classic selections. A high class play at popular prices.

Among the big sales announced for this season is the L. M. Owen sale just north of town on the 10th of February. Mr. Owen is preparing to move to town—Wayne of course—and this will be his cleaning up sale—and he will dispose of a lot of good stock as well as farm machinery that is practically new. He has held numerous sales at his farm and his date is fixed for the 10th of February as surely as the groundhog day comes on the 2nd. That makes it easy to remember.

Chas. Craven, wife and daughter and C. H. Fisher and wife were among those who visited at Omaha Monday and Tuesday, going to attend the great musical entertainment.

The new romantic play "The Coward", will be offered Monday, January 19, at the opera house. Mr. Walter Savidge has secured an exceptionally fine cast for the production and is confident he has met the desires of the theatre going public in giving them a high-class drama of this type, replete with romance and interest—compelling and forceful in its lines. The audience is held spellbound until the final curtain. Mr. Savidge carries all special and elaborate scenery, with electrical effects, and his own orchestra. —adv.

At the home of Ben Hall two miles northeast of Pender last Thursday occurred an accident which resulted in the instant death of Harvey Schinke, the fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schinke of Pender. Harvey with his older brother, Fred, were staying at the Hall home while Mr. and Mrs. Hall were away on a visit. On Wednesday evening they loaded a .22 rifle to kill a chicken. For some reason the chicken was not killed and the gun left standing in the corner loaded. The next morning Fred took up the gun to clean it. In some way the gun was accidentally discharged while he was handling it. The bullet passed directly through his brother's heart, killing him instantly.

Rev. B. P. Richardson of the Baptist church has been tendered the responsible position of field secretary for the Grand Island college by the trustees of the state Baptist school. He is yet undecided as to what he will do. His inclination to remain with his friends at Wayne are undoubtedly yet the new position appeals to him as one of greater possibilities to do good for his church. It goes without saying that the church here has prospered and grown under his leadership and his resignation would be accepted with much regret should he think it his duty to offer it. It is a recognition of his signal ability as an organizer and worker.

A. E. Young of Montrose, South Dakota was here the first of the week visiting old friends and neighbors, for up till about six years ago Wayne was his home for a number of years. He was engaged in building when here, and is now on his way to visit his old home in Ohio. He notes many improvements in Wayne since he left—and remarked that there was evidence of lots of building, but it did not look real lively to him the day he left. It is possible that Wayne does not appear as lively now as it did ten years ago, for in those days there was lots of grain shipped from Wayne that was hauled in by wagon which now comes in on foot. Take the corn which was fed to the nine cars of cattle shipped from here Saturday and haul it to an elevator and it would make business for a lot of teams quite a while. But the value walked in during the day with three or four men on horseback driving them and it did not give the appearance of lots of business as would the grain wagons. We believe that the volume of Wayne business as measured in dollars and cents is increasing.

WALL PAPER—I have bought of C. A. Berry the Wall Paper stock which he carried. This stock is too favorably known in Wayne and vicinity to say much about it. Some of the patterns—and mostly the best ones—are sold down to only a few rolls. I have made bundles out of all of them and will sell them next Friday and Saturday in bundle lots at 10c per double roll. The bundles to contain from 3 to 8 double rolls, enough to paper an average closet, kitchen or bedroom. The paper is all first class, the patterns good, border, wall and ceiling matched, and the price enables you to give that faded looking room of yours a new and friendly appearance at the expense of a few cents. If you don't need it now buy it ahead for next spring.

THE BEGINNING OF GOOD BUTTER

More and more I am coming to think that the beginning of good butter lies in the care with which the milk is drawn and how it is treated afterward in the pails, cans and other utensils, says E. L. Vincent in the American Cultivator.

It is not long ago that a neighbor told me that a farmer of our neighborhood after milking his cows took the mess to the can he was to send to the creamery and poured it right out without straining at all. I was greatly surprised that in our day and age of the world, with all our papers advocating cleanliness and with all the lecturers going up and down the land showing how important it is that we should be extremely careful how we handle milk if we are to have good butter, that any one should be so absolutely indifferent to the most common points of decency.

I know we cannot strain all impure matter out of milk. I know that at best the strainer is a crutch, but it does help, and no man who wishes to make good butter or to have the milk he sends away to others, either to be used as whole milk or to be turned into butter at the creamery, can afford

As a breed the Ayrshire cow is almost as large as the Holstein, smoother in contour and quite as strong and rugged as any breed of cattle. They are exceptionally good grazers and respond well to good care in cold climates. There is a smaller number of high record cows in the Ayrshire breed than in some other dairy breeds, but it is quite a noticeable fact that Ayrshire herds average high in production. This demonstrates great uniformity in the yielding powers as well as in color marking, individuality, size and breed type. Kinzora Belle III, here pictured, was grand champion Ayrshire at the national dairy show.

Briefly as I can?

Clean food, the very bottom stone in the dairy wall.

Clean stables, a point of the highest value in buttermaking.

Clean cows, calling for the regular use of brush and comb.

Clean men, in hands, in garments, in every habit.

Clean milk pails. These can only be had by carefully rinsing them at once after milking with cold water, following with a thorough washing with scalding hot water and a good clean scrubbing cloth or brush, and then rinsed again with cold water and given a long sun bath.

Clean pans, secured in much the same way as the clean pails are.

Clean can covers. Many think they have done their duty when they have washed the cans proper and so forget the covers. Think that milk slops up against the cover on the way to its destination and put no less care on the cover than you do on the rest of the can.

These, as it seems to me, are bed-rock points in the making of first class butter.

Fresh Meat Circle.

For several years we have maintained a fresh meat circle rather on the cooperative plan that is very successful, writes G. O. Brown of Ohio in the National Stockman. As soon as cool weather arrives the plan becomes operative. Usually eight men, heads of families, comprise the company, and one of the men is designated as butcher and paid $1 for each animal killed, and other members aid in turn. In killing a hog or a beef the carcass is cut as equally as possible into eight parts, and each man takes his turn in the taking of different sections until at the end of the season each family has consumed a whole carcass, all used fresh. In butchering a hog the owner keeps the offal and renders the lard and on a beef does likewise and sells the tallow. All differences in weight are settled at a fixed price per pound, and the plan seems to be very satisfactory.

Worms in Horses.

Be sure that your horses are free from worms. A horse afflicted with worms is never thrifty and feed is wasted. A good remedy and a sure one is one level tablespoonful of borax dissolved in a pintful of water, given first thing in the morning. Repeat this dose for four mornings and watch results. If a horse refuses the water, mix the powdered borax in the morning feed for four mornings.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Market Active and Strong, Satisfactory Demand.

HOG TRADE FULLY 10C LOWER

Sheep and Lambs Fully Steady—No Heat Topy Grades There—Market Fairly Active.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Jan. 13.—Cattle receipts were tolerably liberal today, some 5,200 head being received. In most respects the trade in fat cattle today was a repetition of Monday's strong, active market. The undertone to the market was decidedly healthy and strong and the movement fairly active throughout. Activity and strength also characterized the trade in cows and heifers. Demand from both local packers and outside butchers was brisk and the offerings were cleaned up at steady to strong figures all around. For the past ten days there has been a lively inquiry for stockers and feeders and there was apparently no let up today. The demand, however, is now best for the steers carrying flesh as well as quality, apparently the lower price of corn stimulating the desire on the part of the country to feed it.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime heaves, $8.40@8.80; good to choice heaves, $8.20@8.40; fair to good heaves, $7.80@8.20; common to fair heaves, $6.75@7.75; good to choice fed heifers, $6.75@7.75; fair to choice cows, $6.35@6.85; fair to good cows, $5.50@6.25; canners to cutters, $4.95@5.25; veal calves, $7.00@10.00; bulls, stags, etc., $5.00@6.75; good to choice feeders, $7.50@8.00; fair to good feeders, $6.90@7.40; common to fair feeders, $6.00@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $5.40@6.80; stock calves, $6.75@8. Hog receipts totaled 14,600 head. Trade was very slow and dull today and prices were fully 10c lower than Monday. The bulk of the offerings sold at $7.80@8.00, and tops dropped down to $8.15.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 11,000 head. The market was fairly active today and prices were just about steady with Monday. There were no real toppy lambs or ewes here. The bulk of the best lambs that were on sale brought prices around $7.50@7.80, according to finish and quality. A range of $4.50@4.80 would include most of the ewe sales, and some wethers brought $5.60.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.50@8.15; lambs, fair to good, $7.25@7.85; lambs, culls, $5.50@6.00; yearlings, light, $6.40@6.90; yearlings, heavy, $5.00@6.40; wethers, good to choice, $5.00@5.90; wethers, fair to good, $5.25@5.50; ewes, good to choice, $5.00@5.40; ewes, fair to good, $4.40@5.00.

THE SWINEHERD.

Soft coal or coal cinders are relished by pigs and hogs because of the mineral matter they contain.

A rigid system of selection of brood sows should be practiced by all swine breeders.

If hogs are crowded in cold weather in a cold pen they will pile up and smother the weaker ones.

Place feeding platforms at some distance from the pens. In stormy weather feed in the pens. The hog is pretty nearly all a bundle of money, and he should not be neglected in any manner.

Full pigs or any other pigs, for that matter, should be kept off the manure pile during the winter.

SILAGE FOR BEEF MEN.

Excellent For Fattening and For Feeding Stock Cattle.

For a period of four years tests have been carried on with steers at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture to determine the value of silage as a feed for the fattening steer when fed alone with a suitable grain ration or in connection with either good alfalfa or clover hay roughages fed with a grain ration. In every instance it was found that silage lowered the cost of grains when introduced into the ration, and when fed as the sole roughage (although gains were not so large as when clover or alfalfa hay was added to the ration) the gains were made the most cheaply.

It is unwise for the farmer to feel that because silage is a good feed it can be made the sole feed for stock, says the Iowa Homestead. By nature it is high in water content, low in protein and high in carbohydrate materials. To be properly balanced the ration should contain some feeds that are low in water content and carbohydrate material and high in protein.

For fattening purposes a good day's ration for a 1,000 pound steer would consist of from fifteen to twenty pounds of silage, five or six pounds of alfalfa or clover hay, fifteen to eighteen pounds of broken ear corn and two or three pounds of cottonseed meal.

Not only is silage useful to the beef man for fattening purposes, but it is useful for stocking cattle over the winter, and a farm test made upon a Wisconsin farm under the supervision of the College of Agriculture showed an average daily gain of over a pound per day, and the steers came out in the spring in good condition to go on grass. These steers were fed about twenty pounds of silage daily, together with what timothy they would consume. When stocking over young cattle on silage it would be preferred to have clover hay or alfalfa hay, as it is higher in protein than timothy hay.

THE HARD MILKING COW.

Make Sure of the Animal's Value Before She Is Sold.

At the recent meeting of the Oregon Dairymen's association one of the members related how in one instance the testing association had been of help to him, says the Kansas Farmer. In his herd was a short teated cow, to the milking of which the boys objected strenuously.

The cow was sold for $55 on the promise to pay later. It was necessary for the original owner to take back the

At the recent international live stock show at Chicago considerable interest centered around the two day milking test of dairy bred Shorthorns. Two classes were arranged for cows in milk, one taking those three years old and over and the other those under three years. Five herds had entries in the first class and three in the second. The highest production record made was 104.9 pounds. The next highest record was 97.4 pounds. Some of the other very good showings were 89.8, 85.3, 83.7 and 83 pounds, all made by cows three years old or over. The best record in the heifer class was 60.3 pounds. The milking Shorthorn cow shown is Enstover Kirklevington, imported by J. J. Hill for his farm near St. Paul, Minn.

cow. This he did, and in the meantime he had joined the test association, and his entire herd was on test. The much despised short teated cow led the herd the first month she was in it with a product valued at $30.51. When her relative profit as compared with other cows in the herd became known there was not the same objection to the short teats that there was formerly, and the owner was glad he had a chance to get the cow back.

On general principles we do not believe in a man fooling his time away milking a short teated, a hard milking, kicking cow or a cow having other bad habits, but if one realizes that such a cow is highly profitable and may be the best milker in the herd the money income goes a long way toward minimizing her faults. The fact is that the so-called droggery and displeasure of milking cows are to a great extent, if not wholly, overcome by the realization of good profits from the herd. In other words, if the milker feels that he is being well repaid for his labor and feed he is pleased with his work.

For the Children

Lady Mary Greville, Who Is Kind to Animals.

© by American Press Association.

Little Lady Mary Greville, the demure maiden pictured, is shown distributing catalogues at the entrance to the "country fair in aid of our dumb friends," which was recently held in a London suburb. As its name indicates, the fair is given to raise funds to help animals. In a great city like London there are always large numbers of stray cats and dogs wandering about without means of subsistence except what they may pick up in the streets. It is to help these poor unfortunate beasts that the Dumb Animal Society was organized and is maintained.

Lady Mary takes a great interest in the society and its work, as she is very fond of animals. Most children like animals, but they are often careless and sometimes abuse them, unthinkingly perhaps, but the poor creatures suffer just the same. It is the mark of gentle breeding and a sweet disposition to treat our dumb friends with kindness.

A Little Story.

On her birthday a great duchess called her little grandsons to her and told them a story of a Roman emperor who made it a rule that no one should leave him in a sorrowful frame of mind. "One day," said the duchess, "the emperor was very busy with his own affairs, and so the day passed and he had done no good to others. When evening came he grew sad, and, sighing, he exclaimed: 'My friends, I have lost a day! I have neglected my fellow men.'"

When the duchess had finished her story she sent the two grandsons out to play. At the palace gate a poor woman spoke to them.

"My good gentlemen," she said, "won't you assist me? I am poor and have had all sorts of misfortune."

Ernest ran on to his play, but Albert touched by the old woman's plea and remembering his grandmother's story, gave the poor old soul a coin.

"Now I have not wasted my day," he thought as he ran to join his brother.

That boy was Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's consort.

Concerning Nails.

All of you have heard of fourpenny nails, sixpenny nails, etc. The suffix penny in this connection does not mean penny, but is a corruption of the word pound.

When we speak of a fourpenny nail we mean nails of such a size that a thousand of them will weigh four pounds. An eightpenny nail weighs eight pounds a thousand, and so on. It is an old English term, and its original form was "four pound," "eight pound," "ten pound," etc. Carpenters and other artisans got into the way of slurring over these terms and pronouncing them fourpen, sixpen, etc., and this corruption in turn was modified by turning the shortened suffix pen into penny, and so it stands today, a clear case of turning a pound into a penny.

The Useful Pin.

We are so used to having the handy pin around while sewing and dressing that we can scarcely imagine how the ancients ever got along without this article. Yet they did, for it was only at the end of the seventeenth century that the modern pin was invented. After that time the pinmaker was allowed to sell pins openly only on Jan. 1 and 2, so that court ladies and fashionable dames alike were obliged to buy a large store on those days.

The Dancing Lesson.

Now, Miss Clara, point your toe. Look at me and point it so. You know, my dear, I learned to dance in that graceful country, France. And, having been so nicely taught, I move, of course, as a lady ought. And only think how grand 'twill be to have it said you dance like me! So now, Miss Clara, point your toe. Look at me and point it so.

Good Business.

Why is an undertaker the most successful business man? He never fails to carry out what he undertakes.

THE LURE OF MAGIC.

Why One Man Just Had to Rub Elbows With a Conjurer.

Ambition takes men very differently. One would enter parliament and one would have a play accepted at the court; one would reach the north pole and one would live at Chislehurst, while a fifth would be happy if only he had a motorcar. Speaking for myself, my ambition has always been to have a conjurer perform under my own roof, and it has just happened. I obtained him from the stores.

I have never been so near magic before. Like all great men when one comes closely in touch with them, he was quite human, quite like ourselves; so much so indeed that in addition to his fee he wanted his cab fare both ways. It is very human to want things both ways.

I have been wondering how long it would take me to learn to be a conjurer and if it is not too late to begin. I don't want to be a finished conjurer. I merely want to do three tricks with reasonable dexterity. Of course if one can do three tricks one can do thirty, but it is three, and three only. I have in mind—first, I want to borrow a watch and put it in a pestle and mortar and grind it to powder and then fire a pistol at a loaf of bread and find the watch whole again in the midst of the crumbs; second, I want to borrow a tall hat and throw in flour and break eggs into it and stir it all up and hold it over a spirit lamp for a second and then produce a beautiful warm cake; third, I want to find hens' eggs in old men's beards and little girls' hair.

Tricks with cards and money and so forth I don't mind about, because I would always rather see them done than do them, there is such fascination in the clean, swift movement of the conjurer with cards, his perfect mastery of his fingers, the supple beauty of his hands. And tricks with machinery I would gladly forego.

My conjurer's most popular trick was, of course, that which calls upon the co-operation of a rabbit. I wrote to him in advance to insist on this. No man who at a children's party produces a live rabbit, particularly when it is very small and kicking and also black and white, is making a mistake. No matter what has gone before, this apparition will seal his popularity. The end crowns the work (as I could say in Latin if I liked).

It was not only to the children that this trick was welcome, but to an elderly literary friend of mine with whom I have collaborated more than once and into whose life I hoped to get a little brightness by inducing him to bring the tall hat which the wizard should borrow. The thought filled him with excitement. It was bringing radiance indeed into his life to know that this old hat, which had done nothing more romantic than keep his head warm all these years, was to be used for magical purposes and have a real rabbit extracted from it.—From "Character and Comedy," by E. V. Lucas.

"Our Wretched Bone."

How can we—who have gained for ourselves health and comfort and knowledge—how can we stand patiently by and see our brother diseased and miserable and ignorant? How can we bear our luxuries as long as a child is growing up in savagery whom we might have saved, or a woman is drooping from sorrow and overwork whom we might have cherished and helped? We are not our own—we are parts of the whole. Generations of workers have toiled for us in the past, and we are in return to carry our wretched bone off to our miserable corner, sharing and giving nothing? Wee upon us if we do.—Mrs. Humphry Ward in "The History of David Grievie."

Cecil Rhodes' Eggs.

Cecil Rhodes used to take a coop of hens on board to provide fresh eggs on his numerous voyages between England and South Africa. But those were three weeks' journeys, and not a mere five day crossing of the Atlantic. Hence another prominent South African personage was asked why he did not follow Rhodes' example and provide himself with the luxury of new laid eggs at sea. "Oh, I don't bother to take a coop of fowls on board," he replied, "but I tip the bos'un who looks after Rhodes' hens, and I get Rhodes' eggs."

The Count's Hedge.

The Hague was originally a mere hunting station of the counts of Holland. Its name freely translated means "the count's hedge." The little town first rose to importance in 1527, when it was made the seat of the supreme court of Holland. In 1581 it became the place of assembly of the states general and the residence of the stadtholders, since when it has been the diplomatic conference place of Europe.

Dissatisfied.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "the cook says she is going to leave."

"What for?"

"She says the Welsh rabbits we have in the charring dish give her indigestion."—Washington Star.

Where They Don't Agree.

"The young men who compose this quartet seem to me to be very agreeable fellows."

"Quite so. The only fault I have to find with them is that they disagree so distressingly when they try to sing."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

When my resolution is taken all is forgotten except what will make it succeed.—Napoleon.

FOR THE COQUETTE.

The "Follow Me" Sash Is Very New.

SASH AT BACK OF GOWN.

The girl who is flirtatiously inclined calls this coquettishly placed sash a "follow me" bow. The ribbon catches back a very graceful tunic draped above a skirt short enough to reveal a snappy buttoned walking boot.

Why the Man Walks in Front.

When husband and wife go traveling together in the orient the man walks in front, careless and free, and the woman walks behind, carrying the bundle. Therefore you say: "The oriental cares not for his women. He despises his wife, and uses her as a beast of burden." Many occidentals never get further than this. But if you are observant, says a writer in the Christian Age, "you go out in the jungle yourself, and you discover things. The paths are overgrown and thorny. Creepers must be cut back. There are cattle and buffaloes to be driven off, and buffaloes are ugly creatures. There are snakes. In the villages are village dogs, which snarl and snap. You are a man, yet you will be glad of some one to go in front of you with a hatchet to clear your way. No woman would walk in front, and the man must be free. Now you see the reason why the man walks in front."

Girdles and Sashes.

The girdle or sash plays a very important part in the season's styles. Very many of these are extremely wide and swathe the figure, being distinctly oriental. There are also girdle-like draperies and vests, which often assume the girdle outline. In extreme instances broad bands of fur will girdle the figure. The straight around belt is not seen, the girdles and sashes being of softly draped silks or other tissues.

Waistcoats Appeal to Feminine Favor.

Let no woman labor under the delusion that the new waistcoats which appeal so strongly to her fancy are easily copied. Although loose and baggy, they are carefully cut and fitted, and their edges are perfectly tailored. Do you thoroughly understand the mysteries of tailor stitching, Mme. Thrifty? Think twice before you undertake a waistcoat unless you do; otherwise it may prove your Waterloo. If you are using a suiting material for the vest be sure to purchase enough material to make gaiter tops for the boots to be worn with the waistcoated tailored suit. Gaiters matching the walking skirt make the feet look small and smart.

A Cause For Thanks.

T. Sufferer Tuller at a luncheon that he recently gave at the Newport castle was witty at the expense of the sashed skirt, the transparent blouse and other of woman's new fashions.

"Young Mrs. Blanc," a neighbor said to Mr. Tuller, "is a very beautiful woman, but she puts on airs."

"Well," said Mr. Tuller, "let us thank goodness that she puts on something! You know what the 1913 fashions are."

(From the Tribune)

Mrs. W. A. Mosby was hostess at a dancing party Monday evening held in the Jewel theatre. Thirty numbers were enjoyed with Mrs. H. E. Stman presiding at the piano. Nearly forty guests were present.

The friends of the newly wedded couple, Mr. and Mrs. Stockham, gave them a shower of many useful articles last Wednesday evening. The party was not composed of any "set" neither was the shower given for its intrinsic value, but doubly more to show the good will and friendship of the many friends of this popular and worthy couple.

We were a little surprised last Tuesday when Harry Pickard, of Denhoff, North Dakota, stepped in on us, not having heard of his being in Winside. The Pickard family were residents in this vicinity many years ago, and for the past ten years have resided in North Dakota. We are glad to learn that they all made good in their new home and are prosperous and happy. Harry will only remain in Winside about a week.

L. M. Owen, who is to have a sale the 10th of February asks us to invite those who are from Missouri and have to be shown to come out to his place any time now and see the span of brood mares which he has for the sale and their two colts, ten months old, and see if they can be beat any where in Wayne county. L. M. says that he is sure he can show 'em. He also has other good mares, but these are the ones he takes particular pride in.

Among The Churches of Wayne

St. Mary's Catholic Church.

(Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.)
There will be no services next Sunday, as the pastor will be at Carroll. At the latter place, there will be mass at 10:30 a. m., and catechism at 11:30.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
Rev. J. D. Collins of Lincoln, will be with us from Friday evening until Sunday evening. He is the director of our Sunday school and young-people's work for Nebraska. He is a specialist. He knows his work and proves a great uplift to all workers who come in contact with him. His lectures or addresses here will especially interest young people and Sunday school workers, but will do anyone good. Just what will be the program for Saturday, we do not know, but will be able to announce it on Friday evening. Let us give him a good attendance and attention.
On Sunday, we shall have our regular services with Brother Collins in charge. Young people's service at 6:30 p. m., led by Miss Laura Conover.

Last Sunday, the pastor spent the day at Wakefield, preaching morning and evening at the Presbyterian church. At this church, the memory of Brother and Sister Kimball is held very sacred.

Next week, Professor Joy, a strong christian leader in morals, especially among young people, will spend some days in Wayne. More particular notice will be given on Sunday. Mr. Joy's work in other cities has been highly commendable.

The church extends its sympathy to all those who mourn the departure of our Sister, Laughlin. The fragrance of her sweet christian life will linger long in many hearts.

Stop and think if there is not some one whom you should visit in behalf of your savior. Then obey him.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We were very much pleased to see the increase in interest and attendance last Sunday morning. Services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be, "Growing in Grace," 2 Peter iii, 18. Growth is one of the great laws of God. A child born into this world amid the best surroundings and under the most favorable circumstances, will not profit by them if he remain always an infant.

He must grow into manhood. We may plant a young tree in rich and suitable soil, by rivers of water, through whose moisture it may always be green. But to what end does the tree possess these advantages. Not that it remain a tender sapling; not that it may remain a stunted deformity; but rather that through all the rough yet kindly forces of nature, the tree may wax greater and stronger. Then will its branches give to the birds of the air homes, and the beasts of the fields shade. Then will its outline become more beautiful, and its fruit sweet to the taste. Likewise, it is the intention of God, and the duty of the christian, that there should be spiritual growth. "Grow in the grace of our Lord and savior, Jesus Christ."

Evening services at 7:30. The subject of the sermon next Sunday evening will be "The Handwriting of God," Dan. v, 28.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Julius Knudsen last Thursday. The meeting was well attended, and enjoyed by all. The ladies have been doing very good work in the past year, and are planning for greater things for the present year. The next meeting will be held at the parsonage January 22.

Catechetical class on Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.)
"How to Enter the Kingdom of God" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. In the evening, the congregation will unite in the union services at the M. E. church.

The men's brotherhood will enjoy their annual banquet this year on Thursday evening, January 29. Tickets will be 50 cents, and a full crowd of the men is expected. Arrangements for the program have not been concluded, but a full line of toasts will be provided for, with L. A. Kiplinger as toastmaster.

The Sunday school meets at 12 o'clock and the C. E. at 6:30. On next Sunday evening, the young people's meetings will be held as usual, but the service will close at 7:15 promptly, so that all can attend the union services at the M. E. church, which begin at 7:30.

Last Sunday morning, at the morning services, F. G. Philleo addressed the congregation in regard to the budget for the coming year. The congregation was congratulated on the successful financial year just closed and all were urged to use the weekly envelope system in making the offerings to the church. It has been decided not to issue any printed budget this year.

The services last Sunday morning were unusually interesting. The subject of the sermon was "The New Birth," and a prominent place which this teaching has in the christian teaching was set forth. "The men who have led the church forward," said the preacher, "during the past nineteen centuries have been men without exception whose first requirement was that men should be 'born again'. The leaders who failed were the men who neglected this teaching. The church members for nineteen centuries who have hindered instead of helped the cause of Jesus Christ in the world have always been church members who were not 'born again'. Marvel not, therefore, that I am saying unto you with such earnestness, 'Ye must be born again.'"

Methodist Church.

(Rev. C. L. Myers, Pastor.)

Eighty-three per cent of the communicant members of the church are received from the Sunday school. Should we not exercise great care, not only to raise the per cent but to carefully train the scholar?

Miss Geneva Henderson was received into the church January 4.

The average age at conversion, says Professor Coe and Dr. Strabrick, of 1,784 cases, was 16.4 years. Better take care of the children.

At a meeting of the Sunday school board, a vote of thanks was given to the various committees; which made our Christmas entertainment so delightful.

We ought to have a pledge signing in our Sunday school, for only 500,000 of the 12,000,000 Sunday school members in the United States have signed the temperance pledge.

The pastor was in Norfolk Thursday evening, attending to district evangelistic business.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will entertain their husbands and friends interested in the work of the union at Mrs. Dayton's Friday evening, January 16.

The Artists' recital course will give the second number in the Methodist church Thursday, January 20.

If you desire to help the work presented by Dr. Leavitt Sunday evening, bring in whatever you have to offer by the first of next week.

Make your plans so as to be able to attend Professor Joy's lectures. The first will be given Sunday evening, when all the churches will be present. There were 4,250,303 enrolled in Methodist Sunday schools in 1912.

The radiators for the basement of the church are now connected, and will be full of steam next Sunday.

A missionary spirit in the Sunday school today is the hope of the church of tomorrow.
