

The Nebraska Democrat

ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, MARCH 26, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

A Prize to Merchants

Believing in the effectiveness of advertising of all kinds which advertises, and also that newspaper advertising and window display are two of the best and cheapest methods within reach of the business men of a place like Wayne to reach the public, the Democrat is offering one kind of advertising as a premium for the other.

Tuesday next, the Woodman of the World, a great fraternal insurance order, will have a large class introduction at this place at which representatives from twelve or fifteen camps in this corner of Nebraska are expected to take a part, the number of visitors being estimated at from 150 to 250, according to weather conditions and automobile roads. Such a gathering of the members of such an order should be recognized by our live business men and it will be. The business houses should be decorated for the occasion, and to stimulate such a display the Democrat will give for the best window display by any business house at Wayne 30 inches of display advertising for first prize and for the second prize 20 inches in the Democrat any week during April that the advertiser may select. If advertiser wishes to use cut of window display in advertisement, the cut shall be procured at his expense. Copy for such advertising to be in hands of printer not later than Monday of the week it is to be run. This is a prize, we think, worth making a try for, as you will naturally wish to decorate for the occasion to some extent.

Competent and disinterested judges will be selected to judge the displays, which are to in some manner represent the order. For the information of contestants we have ascertained that the colors of the flag and the flag itself are the colors and one of the emblems of the order. The dove and olive branch are also emblems of the order and the beehive, ax and wedge are the working tools. The official pin of the order is a tree stump with the working tools thereon.

Those competing should notify the Democrat or L. A. Kiplinger that the judge may know to visit your place.

Horse Growing at Wayne

Wednesday the editor saw a car load of the good blocky kind of horses which grow and mature to perfection in this corner of Nebraska and estimated that they were worth at least $4,200 or $200 each, and then we began to wonder how much of that represented profit to the farmer who grew them. We also thought that these good horses had cost practically as little to grow as would a like number of scrubs.

And this brings us to note the fact that the breeding season is at hand and that now is the time when the owners of good standard bred horses should use newspaper space to tell of the advantages of breeding their good kind of horses. The Democrat is well equipped to print and circulate such advertising in an attractive manner as well as to print cards for horsemen. Give the matter of advertising a trial at the Democrat office.—adv.

The Edna Gunnar Peterson Recital

Miss Edna Gunnar Peterson, a young pianist of rare talent, was heard in the Methodist church in a recital last Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Wayne Choral Union. Miss Peterson's program was a most varied and interesting one. It included numbers from Bach, Schumann, Chopin and Liszt, besides a number of compositions from the more recent composers.

Miss Peterson's ability as a pianist seems to come from a happy blending of all the qualities which go to make a successful pianist. Technically, she has strength coupled with flexibility; emotionally courage tempered with control.

Mrs. Ingham conferred the favor of loaning her beautiful Baby Grand piano to the Choral Union for the occasion, which was greatly appreciated and added much to the success of the evening.

Obituary—Mrs. Tharp

Ursula M. E. Johnson Tharp was born May 22nd, 1842, in DeKalb county, Illinois, where she resided with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson until she reached her womanhood.

On December 29th, 1859, she was united in marriage to Lattin Robert Tharp, of which union were raised eight children, Franklin Tharp and Eva I. (Wagner) both now deceased, Harry Grant Tharp of Pueblo, Colo., George Leslie Tharp of Spencer, Mary Alta Killinger of Inman, with whom she resided at her death, Ellen Gemmill of Carroll, Roy N. Tharp of Wayne and Frederick Arthur Tharp of Bayard.

At an early age she became a member of the Baptist church and lived a consistent Christian all her life, being at the time of her death a member of the Baptist church at Wayne. In the early seventies she removed with her husband and family to Shenandoah, Iowa, where she resided until 1886 when she again removed with her husband and family to Pierce, Nebraska, where she resided for a short time, but finally settled at Carroll, and later to the city of Wayne where she lived until after the death of her husband. In October, 1913, she went to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. George Killinger, at Inman, where she lived as a patient sufferer; keeping to her bed most of the time, until death claimed her on the 21st of March, 1914, at 11 o'clock a. m., being 71 years, 9 months, 30 days old.

Mrs. Tharp lived to round out a life full of good deeds and usefulness. She was a consistent Christian, a devoted wife, a true mother and a kind and gracious neighbor and friend, always ready and willing to use her influence on the side of righteousness. She lived in the pioneer days of her country, raised a large family and contributed much to the communities wherein her life was cast, and the world is better because she lived.

Mrs. Tharp had some beautiful qualities as a Christian and church member. She loved the services of the church, so long as she was able, she habitually met at the hours of worship. Her testimony at our midweek prayer meeting was always characterized by a spirit of love, devotion, humility, and trust. Her presence never failed to add to the spirit of the meetings.

Another thing concerning her life, was that, until her eyesight failed, she faithfully studied her Bible. She knew its promises; she recognized its teachings and she rested her life upon its hope and its Savior. After she could no longer read its pages, her meditations were centered around its precious truths.

One of the difficult experiences of her life, was, when through poor health, she was compelled to put aside her church privileges and duties. When she recognized this she did a most gracious thing, revealing her love for her church. Of her limited estate, in making her bequests, she left a nice gift to the church, as her farewell offering to her Lord and Savior.

Her memory lingers among this people as one who sincerely and faithfully endeavored to please her Lord. She now rests from her labors. She has put off the veil—put aside earthly temptations and has been ushered into that eternal, perfect, painless, deathless life, and her works do follow after her.

A short service was held at her home at the residence of Mr. George Killinger at Inman, conducted by Mrs. Killinger's pastor, the Rev. A. L. Norfleet, Methodist minister, after which the body was taken to Wayne where funeral services were held in the Baptist church conducted by Rev. Richardson, the Baptist minister, after which she was interred beside her husband in the family lot at Greenwood cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS—We desire to express our thanks to friends and neighbors for assistance given and sympathy expressed and floral tributes at the funeral of our mother.

R. N. Tharp and wife.

The Junior Bible Circle will meet Saturday evening at the home of E. W. Merriman and wife.

W. O. W. Day at Wayne

Tuesday, the 31st, is to be a gala day at Wayne for the Woodman of the World, for on that date it is planned to have a class introduction at the opera house, initiating 100 new members. District Deputy, Rev. Thomas D. Davis, who has the work in hand, tells us that the work of the order will be exemplified by a visiting degree team, the famous Woodlawn Guards, of Sioux City, who will also give a drill and that there are to be Woodmen camps with candidates from all over this corner of Nebraska. The program will begin at 8 o'clock and last till morning. L. A. Kiplinger will welcome visiting sovereigns and Hon. H. M. Eaton of Emerson will respond. W. S. White of Sioux City will pay a tribute to the memory of Joseph Cullen Root, founder of the order. Rev. Willard McCarthy of Wakefield will tell why he is a Woodman.

Hon. W. A. Fraser, Sovereign Commander of Omaha will speak on "Perfected Woodcraft"; Edward Walsh, state manager, will tell of the work of the order in this state. A banquet will be served during the evening. The music will be in charge of Prof. L. L. Alexander of this place, and arrangements are completed for one of the greatest events in the history of the order in this part of Nebraska.

The general public are invited to attend the evening program.

Dixon County Bridge Trouble

Bridge matters in Dixon county have long been running unchecked, and now that a checking up process has begun they find a very reckless or rotten condition to have existed. From the report published in the Emerson Enterprise we learn that during the past five years $91,600 has been transferred from the general fund to the bridge fund and turned over to the Standard Bridge Company in addition to about $18,000 annually raised for bridge purposes. The 1912 bridge money paid was almost $50,000. For their 1913 bridge work the commissioners allowed warrants were paid amounting to more than $12,000; and in addition to this the board has allowed claims to the amount of $25,000 which are not paid, but which the Bridge company has sold to the Bank of Dixon County and to a Chicago trust company.

It is high time for the people not only of Dixon county, but of the state to watch more carefully the manipulations of public funds and know what the tax payers get for their money. We believe that the people should get all that they pay for and should not pay for more than is needed.

At the Fakirs

At a meeting of the executive committee of the commercial club Tuesday evening it was decided to request that no one contribute to strangers who are soliciting funds for outside charities and kindred enterprises unless the applicant can show a card from the secretary of the commercial club stating that his or her case has been investigated and is believed to be honest and worthy. The holding of this card by the applicant in no way obligates you to donate or subscribe, but it is to be given as an evidence that the case is considered to be one to merit help from those disposed to give. It is known that fakirs have worked benevolent people here in the past. Under this rule, if all will request the applicant to show a card, fakirs will soon cease to annoy. The secretary is to use due diligence to learn whether or not the applicant is worthy and whether a worthy cause is represented. It is one of the good moves of the club.

The Cradle

LEWIS—At Newcastle, March 20, 1914, to A. D. Lewis and wife, a son. Mr. Lewis has but recently moved to Wayne and embarked in the practice of chiropractics here. We presume that if he likes the place he will bring the whole family over some time.

TREOBALD—Saturday, March 21, 1914, to Perry Theobald and wife, a son. Mrs. Theobald and son are at Sioux City yet, where the child was born.

RICHARDSON—Sunday, March 22, to Verne Richardson and wife, a son.

See us for wedding invitations.

Social Notes

The Junior Bible circle surprised Miss Esther McNeal at the home of Miss Florence Gardner, Saturday evening, over forty being present. The meeting was carried on in the usual way, Miss Steele being leader. After the meeting was over a social time, was enjoyed by all. Games were played and prizes given to the winners. The Bible Circle presented Miss McNeal with a book and Mrs. D. C. Hogue who is also going to move away soon, was presented with a cream and sugar set. The girls served a delicious two-course supper, after which the guests departed, all reporting an excellent time.

The Senior Union Bible Study Circle enjoyed a most interesting session at the home of Mrs. Ferrel Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. O. Ward as leader of the lesson. The rumor that this organization has a representative around selling Russel's books has no foundation as these books are not endorsed by this body. Mrs. A. P. Gossard will entertain the ladies next Tuesday and all are cordially invited. Mrs. E. B. Young, Sec.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ringland was a scene of gayety last Friday evening when the Westminster Guild gave Miss Edna Neely a miscellaneous shower and dinner. Many beautiful gifts were presented to her and the young ladies spent a delightful evening.

The Monday club held their regular meeting with Mrs. T. W. Moran and after roll call, discussed current events. Mrs. Welsh gave a review of the "Elected Mother" and Mrs. Zoll of the "Life of Whittier." The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor.

Tuesday being Mrs. Fred Philleo's birthday, a number of her friends gave her a surprise shower. The hostess served dainty refreshments and a very enjoyable time was spent.

The Early Hour club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chace this evening. Mesdames Williams, Chace and Shultheis will serve a six o'clock dinner and the evening will be spent with cards.

Mrs. M. S. Davies entertained a dozen of her friends to a theatrical party at the Crystal theatre, Monday night.

The Bridge Whist met with Miss Edna Neely last Saturday evening and passed a happy hour.

Death of Mrs. Frank Pryor

Early this week Mrs. Pryor and daughter were called to Creighton by the serious illness of Mrs. Frank Pryor, and Wednesday word came of her death which occurred that morning. Funeral services are being held at Creighton this morning, Father Kearns going Wednesday evening to be in attendance. The body will be brought to Wayne this afternoon, and after a short service, buried in the cemetery at this place. We were unable to learn the cause of her sudden death.

Bessie Hyer was her maiden name, daughter of Paul Hyer and wife of Winside, where she grew to womanhood, and had a host of friends who will sympathize with the bereaved husband and parents.

Organize New School District

A new district to be known as No. 85 has been organized southeast of Hoskins, and a new school house, modern as to heat, light and sanitation is to be built the coming season. Ernest Puls was elected director, Frank Metlin moderator and Herman Puls treasurer. We did not learn the boundaries of the district.

Assessors to Meet Saturday

County Assessor Carter has invited the precinct assessors of the county to meet with him at the court house Saturday afternoon and get their necessary supplies of books and blanks, and instructions for the campaign of information gathering which is to begin April 1st.

Presbyterian Brotherhood Meeting

The Brotherhood of the Presbyterian church held a successful social meeting last Friday evening at the home of Mr. L. A. Kiplinger. The meeting was presided over by Mr. F. G. Philleo, who introduced Supt. J. H. Kemp as the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Kemp gave a most instructive and interesting review of the Books of Proverbs, well called "The Business Man's Manual". He spoke of the writers and compilation of the book, and described the nature of the book's teachings, and commended it as a book which sets forth the practical side of the religious life in the clearest manner. A paper was next read by Dr. C. T. Ingham on "Hygiene in the City and on the Farm" which was listened to most attentively as it dealt with the prevention of disease and pointed out common ways in which the average person helps on the progress of typhoid among men and cholera among hogs. In the discussion which followed the paper, the uncovered city sandpiper came in for censure. The program was finished with an interesting discussion on "How to line up a community on the side of the right". A number took part in the debate, the general opinion being that just at present the consistent Christian needed above all else to win over the careless and selfish citizen to Christianity, as a larger number of active Christians was the crying need of the average community in upholding social ideas, and destroying evil institutions which hinder our moral progress.

During the program classic selections of "imported music" were rendered by a Victor, loaned to the Brotherhood for that evening by Mr. F. H. Jones. Before separating the company was served with light refreshments prepared by Mrs. Corkey and Lucile Corkey. The refreshments were served by Messrs. F. E. Gamble and L. A. Kiplinger, who proved themselves accomplished valets. The next social meeting will be held in a few weeks and will consist in a "spread" given to the Brotherhood by the president.

Under a new ruling seeds, bulbs and the like now go at parcel post rates. The world moves.

An Almost Fatal Blaze

An exploding lamp at the home of Jack Stanton last evening severely burned Mrs. Stanton about the hands and arms, and but for the prompt action of Mr. Stanton in smothering the flames with a quilt, must have terminated fatally. Mrs. Stanton had filled and lighted the lamp and was trimming the wick, after lighting, when the explosion occurred. She is burned quite seriously, but is not considered in a dangerous condition. They live in the Russman house three blocks east of the M. E. church, and the kitchen, where the explosion took place was badly scorched inside but the balance of the house escaped much harm owing to the prompt service of the fire department, who were soon at the scene.

Mr. Stanton had no insurance and his loss consists of the kitchen furniture, perhaps $100 worth. Insurance covers the loss to the house which is not large.

Dr. Lewis Reported Killed

John S. Lewis received an unconfirmed report this week of the killing of his brother, Dr. W. F. Lewis, in Mexico. No particulars are obtainable. The word came through the doctor's son who lives at Gregory, South Dakota. Mr. Lewis says that the "last word" he had from his brother was about 15 months ago, when he wrote from Manuel, Mexico, but he has twice written to him at that address and received no reply. His brother had land not far from Tampico, in eastern Mexico. His family fear that he has fallen a victim at the hand of the Villa rebels.

Lee Francis Lybarger's Talk

Many people think it impossible to make a non-partizan tariff speech. But nothing appears to be easier for Mr. Lybarger. He talks of the tariff as he finds it, and incidentally tells what each of the great political parties stand for—or at least assumes to stand for. Personally he believes in absolute free trade—and the raising of necessary revenue by direct taxation. He would tax monopoly for the greater part of the needed revenue. His speech Saturday evening was to a small audience, but those who braved the refrigerating process peculiar to our opera house in cold, windy weather were well repaid for their discomfort, for it was a fair and fearless exposition of the fallacies of a protective tariff and the injustice of a tariff for revenue—it was against tariff.

He speaks good English—the kind that is easily understood. He answered in the affirmative with ample proof the question, "Is the tariff a tax?" He told how much of a tax it is and who pays it and who gets it. He let light in on the method by which it raises prices without raising revenue. He told why it did not, does not, and probably never will raise wages, as well as who pays the bill. He told that it seems impossible to enrich the producer by a tariff tax except by taking it from the consumer—and to most of the audience at least, he proved it; nor can Congress give to one class without taking from another.

He left no leg for a protective tariff to stand on, and nothing more than a crutch to support a tariff tax levied for revenue. His twenty years of study of this question have been well spent—for he appears to have mastered the question and knows how to impart the facts learned to the public.

Origin of Blizzard.

Little question for today: Just what is a blizzard, anyway?—Boston Globe.
 A blizzard, darling, is a combination wind and snow storm, which the old settlers of Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska will tell you in all earnestness lasted three days and nights, as first recorded, but now occupy much less time and are not nearly so severe. The first time the word appeared in print was in the Northern Vindicator at Estherville, Iowa, in the winter of 1867. O. C. Bates, founder and editor of this palladium of our liberties, heard the word made use of by a man named Ellis—the town loafer—who was in the habit of coining words and phrases in an off-hand and very careless manner. Coming into the Vindicator office one stormy morning to borrow a few pipe-fulls of tobacco, which he never expected to return, he remarked, "This is a regular old blizzard of a day." The word struck the fancy of Editor Bates who afterward mentioned this peculiar character of a storm as a northern "blizzard". A few years later the compilers of our standard dictionaries gave the word a permanent place in the vocabulary of our splendid language. And this tells the whole story.—Bixby in State Journal.

Two Pictures.

Sixteen years ago we were slaughtering the Spaniards. We were firing red hot shot through their homes in Manila. We were blowing their heads off at Santiago. We were putting cold steel through their hearts at San Juan. Wherever we could we made their blood run, and liked it. The war taste was in our mouths, and we tasted as legitimate butchers of men. Whatever the justification, the picture was awful, after nearly 2,000 years of Christ's teachings.

Today we have a cablegram from Madrid saying that, under instruction of our agricultural department, vast tracks of semi-arid land in Spain are proving productive through American dry-farming methods. Today we are shooting potatoes, corn and carrots into the poor homes of Spain. We are blowing hope into the heads of the hungry in Spain. We are seeing the poor of Spain eat as they previously did not. It is a picture to illuminate the teachings of Christ, after nearly 2,000 years.

Great is our war department which can kill two foes where one was killed before. Greater is our agricultural department which can fill two stomachs where one was filled before!—Omaha News.

Can a community stand still? If it should be possible where would it get to in a thousand years? It would be so far behind the procession in ten years that it might never catch up. A good thing to remember right here at Wayne.

We would not advise the purchase of much commercial fertilizing by our farmers—but if they will keep a spreader busy half the year on the manure that should be manufactured on every farm it will pay by dividends—Make it a home industry.

Dr. Zoll was called to Emerson Saturday as referee in a case of alleged small pox. Local authorities did not agree. One wished to keep out of quarantine—naturally, and another thought it was a case for being shut in.

J. W. Nelson and wife were called to Onawa, Iowa, last week by the serious illness of the lady's father, H. M. Jones. Their daughter, Maud McNally, went to join them there Friday in response to a message saying that the sick man was rapidly failing.

James Steele drove the rural route a number of days for Frank Weber, who has been taking a needed rest—and nursing the grip. Mr. Weber has carried mail for ten years and seldom lays up for repairs. In fact this is the first layoff for sickness.

The schoolboard at Pilger just took one shot at the flock and re-elected the entire faculty unanimously. A good shot, no doubt. Perhaps it was understood that part of them would resign to marry, as is frequently the case at this season of the year.

Rev. Klinthwsky, who is pastor of the German Evangelical church, six miles west of Wayne, and his wife went to Omaha Saturday to visit friends. He informs us that there will be a class of eleven confirmed at that church April 5th. Many people who do not regularly attend church attend the confirmation services.

One of the sights that excites human sympathy is to see a delicate lady out on a morning like Saturday, with the March wind sifting the snow about and every one hustling for shelter, with skirt so tightly hobbled that she cannot hurry to a place of safety and comfort. A few years practice in such apparel should fit them to enter into successful competition in a sack race.

Wm. Hoppe of Pierson, Iowa, was here last week visiting his old neighbor, Emil Hansen and family. He had an object in coming other than to visit. He wished to buy Mr. Hansen's Iowa farm, and offered him $185 per acre, but Mr. H. prices it $10 higher, and probably would not care to sell at his price. Mr. Hoppe has a large farm adjoining, but wants more land for his boys who are ready to settle near home if they can.

That postmaster, Carl Frederickson of Hubbard, who has been missing is missing yet. There are reports of foul play but no evidence—also rumors that the books and the cash did not correspond. If he is trying to hide from Uncle Sam after defaulting he will have to lay low. If he was murdered for the money he is supposed to have had with him when he went to Sioux City, the last known of him at Hubbard, perhaps the government authorities may ascertain the facts.

Clerk Reporter Powers Dead

William Powers, court reporter for District Judge A. A. Welch and son of Judge Isaac Powers of Norfolk, died Friday night at Sioux City. Judge Powers and his daughter, Mrs. Jean Whitney, went to Sioux City to bring the body home for interment.

Mr. Power was about 35 years old and has been ill for several months. He was operated upon in a Sioux City hospital about a week ago for catarrhal trouble in the nose and forehead and had been very ill since the operation.

R. M. Powers of Pierce has been acting as court reporter for some time for Judge Welch, as W. H. Powers' has been unwell for several months. R. M. Powers is a son of W. E. Powers of Pierce and is not related to the Norfolk Powers family.

Nebraska's resources and opportunities will be exploited at the Panama-Pacific exposition. At a conference held in the office of Governor Morehead, it was decided to name a temporary commission to determine ways and means to finance the undertaking through popular subscription. The administration of the exhibit will be in the hands of a commission elected by the people. Governor Morehead appointed a temporary commission which was called to meet at the office of the governor Wednesday, to devise ways and means of enlisting the aid of business men and commercial organizations. The governor selected the following for members of the temporary commission, one being named from each congressional district of the state.

- 1st District, Mrs. F. M. Hall, Lincoln.
- 2nd District, John L. McCague, Omaha.
- 3rd District, Geo. F. Wolz, Fremont.
- 4th District, Peter Jansen, Beatrice.

MAKES BACKACHE QUICKLY DISAPPEAR

A Few Doses Relieves All Such Miseries. Bladder Weakness, Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism Promptly Vanish

It is no longer necessary for any one to suffer with backaching, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints, and its heart-wrenching pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely relieves all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves, and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away, all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such, that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder troubles, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired, and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

At Lyons there is talk of a co-operative store. Well, let them try it, but as a rule, such an enterprise is not especially beneficial to a town.

Better Biscuits Baked With

You never tasted daintier, lighter, fluffier biscuits than those baked with Calumet. They're always good—delicious. For Calumet insures perfect baking.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or 'big-size' baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to sour milk and soda.

Cleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

At a meeting of the Dakota City school board Monday evening, Prof. H. G. Leavens was re-engaged as principal for the ensuing school year.

It is said in an exchange that the church has more and worse enemies within its fold than it has without. Well, a traitor or hypocrite is worse than an open enemy.

It is said that Governor Morehead has said that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself. That is consistent when placed beside his pledge of two years ago.

More than 200 babies have been entered in the "Baby Contest" which will be a big feature of the Low Cost of Living Show, which will be held in Omaha, April 16 to 23.

The Franklin County News reports a large increase in the alfalfa acreage in that vicinity. According to information received by the state board of agriculture the acreage will be largely increased during 1914.

Mose Warner of the Lyons Mirror says of suffrage for the women—"it is bound to come, why get in front of the band wagon and be run over?" or lines to that effect. That is the way with a lot of reforms—poor man cannot stop 'em.

While the Northwestern is said to be going to extend their line west from Dallas, South Dakota, the towns of Neligh, Plainview and other points on that line are demanding better train service. It is reported that the train taken off west of Norfolk last winter is to be restored.

The two Wayne papers are making preparations to issue a booster edition and the proposition is being financially backed by the commercial club, business men and farmers of the community. Several thousand copies are to be printed and sent out throughout the county advertising Wayne county.—Allen News.

The first case to come before the state banking board for application of the bank guarantee fund is the State Bank of Superior which failed recently. The board will make good about $11,000 to depositors out of the state bank guarantee fund which will take about 81 per cent of the funds available at present. This will be a landmark case in the banking history of Nebraska.—Atkinson Graphic.

Most fruit trees are self sterile. Blossoms on these trees do not furnish pollen that will fertilize other blossoms on the same tree. Cross fertilization is necessary; that is the pollen must be carried to the flowers on a different tree of the same variety. The wind plays a very small part in this work while the bee performs the task without injury to blossoms or fruit. Several stands of bees should be in every orchard.

In 1895 four crops would not pay for land at $50 an acre. In 1914 four crops would more than pay for land at $200 an acre. This is the argument of Elmer Coulteran, an Iowa farmer, who claims that land in the Hawkeye state at $200 is cheaper than the same land selling at $50 in 1895. He claims that a sober, industrious man can buy $200 land and pay for it from the products of the soil. This argument will afford food for reflection for Nebraskans who think that land values are too high.

County Superintendent, A. V. Teed, who has been in some of the eastern states getting data in rural and city school work, went to Lincoln this week to submit his report to the State Superintendent. Nebraska has great reasons to be proud of her schools, but there is a growing sentiment in favor of consolidation of schools in the rural district, by building one school house in a township and thus give our country boys and girls the advantage of graded and high school work. The plan is a good one and is being advocated by educators. The schools in Indiana are being successfully conducted on this plan.—Nebraska Journal-Leader.

The Mendelssohn Choir of Omaha, assisted by the Thomas Orchestra of Chicago, will give its annual concert May 18 and 19. Three performances will constitute the program, one on the evening of May 18 and a matinee and evening performance May 19. To show the people of Nebraska that the Mendelssohn choir is an organization which they can well be proud of, a series of concerts in the cities of the state have been suggested. These concerts will not be given for financial gain. Any city in Nebraska, should it desire a concert, can have the choir if it will guarantee the actual expense of the trip, if the series is undertaken.

It seems that H. F. Barnhart has about decided to not run for county representative this fall but thinks he'll take a chance at the nomination for county attorney. A. J. Koenigstein, the present county attorney, will probably not run, his chances for congress looking better to him all the time. There is some talk of petitioning E. P. Weatherby to file for the democratic nomination, he not caring to run—a petition may be necessary to urge him to get into the race.—Norfolk Press.

In several counties of the state the newspapers are planning to publish the assessment of the county when completed, and in some instances the cost is to be met by a committee of private citizens who believe that publicity will tend to make a more equitable distribution of the burden of taxation. The man who is known by his neighbors to be worth ten dollars to some other man's one don't like to see it printed that the poor man is assessed more than he is. But if it is not published the rich man can stand it pretty well. It is a good idea and one that should have been adopted long ago and the cost paid from the public treasury.

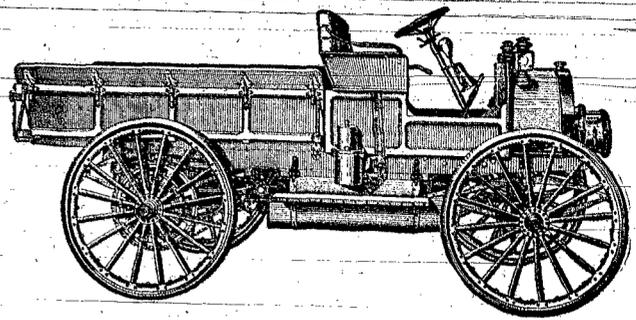

In Cedar county as the result of publicity and more publicity they now have contract on steel construction in bridges at three and one half cents per pound. Last year the price charged and contracted at eight cents the pound. That is sliding down the toboggan from the high prices pretty rapidly. The News estimates that this higher price has cost the tax payers nearly $50,000—yet there are tax-payers who begrudge $1.50 a year to have a newspaper maintained that may be used to make public all sorts of greedy graft. When the next bridge levy is made in Cedar county it can be for much less money or there can be more and better bridges built.

Jacob Billicops, well known for his public welfare work in Kansas City, will be one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Conference of Charities and Correction, to be held in Omaha April 26 to 28. A paper on "Mental Hygiene" to be read by Dr. G. Alexander Young of Omaha will develop much discussion. Many doctors from the state have agreed to discuss his paper, among them Dr. East of Beatrice, Dr. Carson of Norfolk, Dr. Williams of Lincoln, and Dr. Baxter of Hastings. The "Drug Habit" will be the subject which Dr. Leavitt of Lincoln will discuss with suggestions for the elimination of the habit. Mayors from many cities in Nebraska have appointed delegates to the meeting. All mayors who have not appointed delegates are requested to name five and notify Miss Louise McPherson of the appointments.

To illustrate the value of pure bred stock that is good individually we quote that Mr. Kane at Wisner is offering to sell a calf at $500, and that just a common scrub farmer who was there looking for a likely calf picked on this pet, deciding in his own mind that he would "go $150 on the runt" if he could get him for no less. His friend caught him and kept him from knocking the fence down when he fell as the price was announced. There are a bunch of stock breeders near Wisner who are breeding good stock and getting good money for it. We hope to see the cattle breeding right here at Wayne pick up a bit. Several who used to grow good stuff have retired from the field to spend their money and give room for the young men. Come on, boys, get into the game. See what Roy Fisher has done in five years with Hampshire hogs of pure breeding and good type.

Evangelist Sunday preached in Carnegie hall a few nights ago. As usual he went after sin and sinners, hammer and tongs, and gave the great audience an entertainment worth all it cost. Among other startling epigrams he said: "If church members did their duty hell would be for rent and the devil would be in the hospital before the Fourth of July." Of course statements of that kind are absolutely idiotic. Putting the devil out of business, means a condition of human perfectness here on earth. Probably no man does the very best he can all the time. He may do pretty well on an average, but the goal of perfection is still afar off. Finite limitations hedge us about on every side. Selfish personal interest is too often the trump card in the game that we play while assuming to be fair with the other fellow. If we all did our level best a great impetus might be given to the cause of human uplift, but it would only emphasize the need of greater effort. Perfection is never attained by one spasmodic effort, but by a life-time of conscientious endeavor, says Bixby.

Carlson in his Rural Review says that several of his friends who have left Nebraska and bought land in other states now confess to him that they have made a mistake in leaving this state or else they bought land in the wrong place. A person who buys land should look at more than the cost price. That may be high and yet the land a bargain; or it may be low, and still be twice the value of the real estate bought. What will it produce per acre per year in clean net cash is what measures the value.

Charles S. Hughes of the Pender Republic is going to leave that paper this week and go out in the west and settle on a claim away from the cares and termites of editorial work and "brainstorming". For the past eight years he affirms that he has tried to run things and run them as they should be at Pender, and has met no little opposition. The saloons would not stay shut once the lid was on—and after a sort of moral cleaning up things would not stay clean, and in the first installment of his farewell talk which appeared in the last issue of the Republic one is in doubt as to which way the concluding story will appear. But at the time of the last writing he was still on deck, the survivor of many a hard battle, and quotes Walt Mason as proof that he is not the only fellow who has made mistakes and admitted the fact—something which is hard for the average man or woman to do. We await the closing chapter.

A dispatch from Lincoln relative to 3d district politics and Dan Stephens says: "Third district democrats who are here to attend the Bryan dinner tonight say that the defection in that section against Congressman Dan Stephens has not been as marked as indicated by recent developments. Particular reference is being made to the effort to draft Art Koenigstein, county attorney of Madison county, as the opponent in the primaries of the present congressman. While it is admitted that Stephens is having considerable trouble in various localities, they say that these can generally be traced to postmasters squabbles. The candidates who thought their services to the party demanded recognition at first hand from the congressman and who lost out when he forced them to enter a primary are organizing fights in Pierce, Platte and Madison counties. In this they are being aided by members of county committees, who have lost, under the postmaster primary system the last vestige of their political power.

Of the banquet given at Randolph last week, by the commercial club the Enterprise says: After the banquet the evening was spent in giving toasts. C. B. Wiley opened with a toast as to the needs of our city, G. W. Wiltz followed with a toast of our city's greatness, L. A. Kiplinger from Wayne then responded to the toast "The Retail Dealer," and gave a splendid talk. L. G. Larson gave a talk on "Sticking to Your Line" and H. L. Peck read a paper on "advertising." The regrets of P. B. Neff were read for not being able to be with us. The evening pleasantries closed with a splendid toast by O. S. Spillman from Pierce.

The parcel post is going to try another step in the matter of public service. It is to make a trial in ten cities at first of a plan of putting the producer of farm and garden product in direct touch with the consumers within a certain zone. The trial will be watched with interest in both city and country.

The parcel post has already put one express company out of business. It is not necessarily a good thing to do, but it looks like evidence that there was no field for this company to occupy and that in the past it had been simply flching its earnings from the people. If the parcel post business continues to improve it will break the express combine without the expense of a trial or the putting of some of their chief magnates in prison.

According to a little story in the State Journal there will be a great love feast at Lincoln Monday, when the lion—no, the bull-moose and the elephant shall lie down together—or else there will be a new declaration of war. If a peace treaty is ratified at that time and place, a lot of good people will miss their guess. They want to get office, badly enough, all know—so great is the desire in fact that they will not be able to agree upon a division.

The treasurer of staid old Massachusetts has done one unexpected thing in asking the people—just the common people of that state—to buy the bond issue offered without giving the bankers any chance to come in as middlemen. We use the term "bankers" as representative of the big money interests, rather than as individuals. The bonds were issued in small denominations for the benefit of the people who have nearly always furnished the sinews of war whether it was money, brains or blood that was needed.

In an open letter to Will M. Maupin, editor of the Midwest of Lincoln, Congressman Stephens replies to the criticism made by friend Maupin to the Stephens postoffice primary plan. The letter ably presents the congressman's views and answers the criticism fully from his point of view. The letter is quite lengthy, but we hope to give it to our readers in some future issue. Mr. Stephens takes the ground that the people rather than the congressman or some of his favored friends, or the party bosses should say who is to serve the public in the capacity of postmaster. He thinks it should not be sold in payment of political debts. In the races in his district the newspaper men who have entered the primary race have fared rather poorly, none of them having been elected to serve the people in other than their editorial capacity. Well if the editor does his full duty to the community in which he works there will always be people enough who misunderstand him and his good motives to keep him from getting a fat job.

Among The Churches of Wayne

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday-School every Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock.
Regular preaching services at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Great Discovery" John 1:41. Universal interest and pleasure are connected with all striking discoveries in geographical knowledge, in physical science, or in the art of life. The discovery of this continent caused the world in that day to wonder. Likewise today as we think of the great discoveries of man, such as the invention of wireless telegraphy or the flying machine, we are only made to marvel at the greatness of the human mind. But all discoveries grow pale before the discovery brought out in the words of John. To find Christ is better than to find a gold mine or a continent for Christ is the pearl of great price.

Evening services at half past seven. The subject of the sermon will be "The Thirst of Jesus Christ"—John 19:28.
May each give heed to the proclamation of the Governor of our state in which he has set aside Sunday, March 29th as a statewide go-to-church Sunday. Governor Morehead says: "With the cares that come with advancing years, we are prone to forget the lessons we learned in childhood and the example set by our good parents, and it is that we may again be reminded of these that I issue this call to the people of Nebraska and ask that Sunday, March 29th, 1914, be set aside as 'Go to Church Day' and permit me to urge that each adult citizen in the state make a special effort to attend divine services on that day."
The Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Miss Mary Swanson last Thursday, Miss Adda Stambaugh served. There was a good attendance and a splendid meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gustafson, on Thursday, April 2nd.

Choir rehearsal every Tuesday evening at the parsonage.
Catechetical class Saturday afternoon at half past two.
Do not forget the special meetings to be held during Holy Week. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church
Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.
Next week Rev. Alexander Corkey will enter on the fifth year of his service as pastor of the local Presbyterian church, and he will commemorate the occasion by delivering a special anniversary sermon on "Looking Backwards and Forwards." As a prelude to the sermon he will speak on "Fifteen Years in the Gospel Ministry, or a Minister's Life as He sees it Himself."
In the evening the special Lenten services on "Jesus Christ at His Best" will be continued, the subject of the evening sermon being, "Christ's Greatest Miracle."
During Passion week, Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., of Sioux City, Iowa, will assist the pastor in special meetings. During his stay in Wayne, Dr. McComb will be entertained by the Brotherhood with whom he is well acquainted, having been twice present at their annual banquets.
The Women's Missionary Societies of Niobrara Presbytery will hold their annual meeting this week in Wakefield, and a number of the ladies of the Presbyterian church are planning to attend. Mrs. Kiplinger and Mrs. Britton were elected delegates from the local society, with Mrs. H. S. Ringland and Mrs. Alexander Corkey as alternates. Delegates from the C. E. society will also attend the meeting. The meeting begins on Thursday evening and continues until Friday evening, closing with an address by Rev. J. E. Farmer, D. D., of Madison, who will speak on "The Triumph of Christianity." Mrs. J. G. Mines, of Wayne, is the president of the Presbyterial Society and will preside during the sessions of the convention.

The Sunday services begin at 10:30, with the morning services of worship. This is followed by the Bible school at 12:00, lasting an hour. There are no services during the afternoon, but in the evening two meetings are held; the C. E. prayer meeting of the C. E. society at 6:30, and the evening services of praise at 7:30. "A Sabbath well spent brings a week of content." Begin to attend some Christian church regularly every Sabbath. Get the habit.

Baptist Church
Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor
"Law of Life" will be the subject of the pastor's sermon next Sunday morning. Many spoke words of appreciation of the story of Judson's great life, told last Sunday. Every Christian ought to know the life story of the church's heroic men and women. If we knew what such people have done for the kingdom, our budget would be much easier raised.

Sunday evening the subject of the sermon will be: "For the sake of the Kingdom".
The pastor has arranged for some special services during Passion week. This is not because one season of the year is more sacred than another, but because the churches continually need seasons of special services to quicken our spiritual lives. At one of these services we want to have a social hour, a get-together meeting. Special announcements of these meetings will be made later.

On Sunday evening, April 5, the young people will have a rally service. It is the hope that every member of the society and all young people of the church and others will be present—a specially prepared program.

The Sunday school contest is on in full swing. Much interest was manifested last Sunday. We believe the interest will increase. Let every member of the school put all life possible into the enterprise.

Sunday evening the missionary committee will have charge of the young people's lesson. It will be an interesting session.
Our prayer meeting next week will be our covenant meeting. Also our regular business meeting.

Methodist Church
Rev. C. L. Myers, Pastor

Easter-Sunday will be missionary day.

Make your plans accordingly. Did you forget the Quarterly Conference last Monday night?

Some special meetings about Easter time. Will you come? District Conference and Layman's meeting at Randolph March 30, 31 and April 1. Rabbi Cohn of Omaha will lecture on Monday evening on Religion and the Social Crisis.

Our corresponding secretary of our hospital at Omaha was buried last Sunday.

Summer school at the Wesleyan opens June 9.

Annual convention of the W. F. M. Society & Norfolk, April 4, 5, 6.

Mission study next Sunday evening at the League will be led by Misses Daisy Cooper and Pansy Gotschall. Let all Leaguers be present.

The W. F. M. S. will take a thank offering next Sunday morning.

Ladies, have you prepared your box for April the third?

The Third Quarterly Conference will be held in June.

Sunday School teacher—where were you last Sunday? Every time you are away it costs your class 25 credits.

Members of the church should be more regular in their attendance upon public service. "No man liveth unto himself".

We are now past the middle of the conference year.

We enjoyed a delightful solo Sunday morning by Mr. Fleetwood.

German Lutheran Church
Rev. Moehring, Pastor

There will be services at this church. Sunday School at 10 o'clock, and preaching by the pastor an hour later. On the following Sunday there will be confirmation services, confirming a class of five.

CATHOLIC CHURCH
(Rev. Father Kerns, Pastor)
There will be Lenten devotions at St. Mary's church on Friday evening of this week, and mass at 8:30 Sunday morning and services in the evening at 7:30.

At Carroll mass will be held at 10:30 and catechism at 11:30.

The Governor has issued a proclamation urging all Nebraska citizens to attend church on Sunday the 29th, as a duty if not a pleasure. Bixby of the State Journal passes it out to the reader thus:

COME TO CHURCH
If all the people go to church Upon March twenty-nine, If all the people go to church, No one will be left in the lurch And, say, won't that be fine?

Invite your neighbor from the slum, The man who never cares, And have the poor and needy come. If they are dullest, buy them some, And bring them in for prayers.

Let the downtrodden and oppressed, Who bear life's heavy loads, Join in the old-time songs with zest And hear the preachers talk of rest And peace and better roads.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Officials Are Slow Answering Tax Commission Questions.

YOUTHFUL ROBBERS IN PRISON

Two Boys From Scottsbluff Dig Cave In Which to Store the Loot of Their Expeditions About Country—Hundred Thousand Is Left to Hospital.

Lincoln, March 24.—County clerks are not making themselves very popular with the members of the tax commission, which is trying to gather data from which they can make a report to the next legislature.

Some time ago blanks were sent out to the different clerks asking them to furnish the commission with facts as to several things wanted by the commission, but up to date only ten have replied, and they refuse to give the information, claiming it would receive no benefit. County treasurers seem to be more accommodating and have responded fairly well so that the commission believes they will be able to furnish an intelligent report from that source, though they will be compelled to seek the information wanted from the county clerks in some other manner.

Youthful Robbers in Prison.

The sheriff of Scottsbluff county brought to Lincoln Mike Jubal, a nine-year-old lad, and Lewis Mantish, a young man of twenty, to the penitentiary to serve terms for robbing freight cars at Scottsbluff. The lads are old offenders, both of them having served time in the boys' industrial school in Colorado, having been sent to that institution at two different times. The boys expected to do quite a business in the burglary line, having begun the digging of a cave in the hills near Scottsbluff, where they expected to put their loot and establish headquarters.

Hotel Man Sued Now by Carson.

John S. Pool, manager of the Windsor hotel, who brought suit for criminal libel against S. H. Carson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league which suit was afterward dismissed, was made defendant in a suit filed in the district, in which Carson asks for $45,000 from Pool, alleged damages because of arrest. Pool already has a suit for damages against Carson pending, because of charges by Carson that the Windsor hotel had been a resort.

Farmers' Union Stays Out.

According to C. H. Gustafson, president of the Farmers' union, that organization will take no part in politics this year, although Mr. Gustafson has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the nomination for governor on the Republican ticket. While the organization will take no part as a body, Mr. Gustafson says that the members will cut considerable ice when it comes to selecting the candidates.

Hundred Thousand Left to Hospital.

Under the will of Charles Geunchi, opened in the county court, the state orthopedic hospital and the home for dependent children in Lincoln will receive nearly the whole of an estate left by him, amounting to over $100,000. The wife of Geunchi receives a life estate and the children receive small bequests, two of them, said to be incompetent, receive an income from the estate, the other six being given small sums.

More Names on Petition.

About 1,000 new names came into suffrage headquarters at the Lindell hotel last week on petitions, which will be added to the names filed a short time ago. A delegation, consisting of Mrs. F. M. Hall, Mrs. H. H. Wheeler and Mrs. J. E. Barkley, all of Lincoln, will represent the Nebraska organization at the Mississippi valley conference at Des Moines, beginning March 29.

New Lights in Dome.

Powerful lights have been suspended inside the dome of the state house and now visitors may easily distinguish the beautiful frescoing which has adorned the arch of the dome ever since the dome was erected, and adds much to the beauty of the scenery. The former ornamental lights have been cut out, making a saving in current about one-half.

Alfalfa Seed Cheap, Farmers Using It.

Reports received by the state board of agriculture indicate that the farmers are preparing for extensive alfalfa planting this year. There are two reasons for this activity. The crop yielded well under drought conditions. Alfalfa seed is cheap and of excellent quality.

Three Roads Fall Short in Earnings.

According to reports filed with the state board of assessment, three rail roads failed to earn as much money in 1913 as they did in 1912, the Burlington falling short $850,879, the Minneapolis and Omaha $14,687 and the Missouri Pacific $52,572.

Convict Ward Dead.

Charles Ward, serving an indeterminate sentence at the state penitentiary, died at that institution of tuberculosis. He was twenty-six years of age and had suffered with the disease for several years.

"Go-to-Church" Proclamation.

Governor Morehead issued a proclamation designating Sunday, March 29, as "Go-to-Church day," and urging every citizen in the state to attend divine service on that day.

HARMAN BUSY TESTING SEED

Advises Farmers to Buy Seed for State Use of Nebraska Dealers.

Lincoln, March 24.—Farmers who want good seed should not go outside of Nebraska to find it, according to a statement made by Food Commissioner Harman.

Over 5,000 samples of different kinds of seed have been tested by the commissioner's department and the result has shown that Nebraska grown seed comes nearer the requirements of the law than that grown outside the state. Seed from out of the state seems to contain a large amount of noxious weed seed and the commissioner advises that in purchasing seed the Nebraska grown be secured, or if not then outside seed handled by Nebraska dealers who are working in harmony with the pure food department be secured.

The department to date has killed between 10,000 and 15,000 bags of seed coming from outside the state, 1,100 of these being in one shipment. Samples for testing are coming in at the rate of twelve to fifteen per day and four people are kept busy making the tests.

HASTINGS OFFICIALS FIGHT

Street Commissioner Attacks County Attorney and Ex-Sheriff Takes Hand.

Hastings, Neb., March 24.—County Attorney Don C. Fouts was attacked in his office by Street Commissioner Cal Dreibeis, who knocked him out of his chair and was raining blows upon him when pulled off by Mrs. M. R. Embosson, the office stenographer, who ejected him from the office. Mr. Fouts' face was cut in several places and one rib was broken. He is under a doctor's care and it is thought has suffered internal injuries. The encounter grew out of a land deal.

A few minutes later Dreibeis was attacked on the street by James C. McCleery, ex-Adams county sheriff and brother-in-law of Fouts. Dreibeis emerged with a badly bruised face, while McCleery received a slight wound on the lip.

Dreibeis was arrested and released under bond of $300 for trial April 23. He will resign as street commissioner, to take effect April 1.

BAN ON SUNDAY BASEBALL

Hastings Ministers Also Decide to Boycott Movies.

Hastings, Neb., March 24.—The Hastings Ministerial union decided not to attempt to resubmit the question of Sunday baseball at the April election. Instead resolutions for a boycott for baseball teams and moving picture theaters which give exhibitions on Sunday will be submitted to ten churches of the Hastings federation next Sunday. Similar resolutions were adopted at a meeting attended by 200 churchmen.

Sunday ball games will be played regardless of the resolutions. The subscription list is practically complete and it is stated that none of the subscriptions is conditional for or against Sunday baseball.

FIRE DAMAGES NASH HOME

Paintings and Curios Destroyed by Flames in Omaha Mansion.

Omaha, March 24.—Fire starting in the sun room at the southeast corner of the Louis C. Nash residence at Thirty-eighth and Burt streets caused damage estimated at $25,000. Paintings, curios and furnishings, many of which cannot be replaced, were destroyed by the flames, which gutted the main floor of the $40,000 mansion. The house was built scarcely a year and a half ago and was one of the finest residences in the city.

It was announced that the home will be rebuilt immediately. Most of the damage was covered by insurance.

Objects to New Crossing.

Fairbury, Neb., March 24.—Railway Commissioner Clarke heard testimony as to the right to install a crossing of the St. Joseph and Grand Island here and to use the same as a "switching lead." The Grand Island road was built in 1872 and the Rock Island in 1886. The construction of the crossing is necessary for the use of the new $40,000 Rock Island depot just completed.

Hawkins Chosen Basketball Captain.

Lincoln, March 24.—The University of Nebraska athletic board elected Earl Hawkins, captain of the Cornhusker basketball team for 1915. The board added the Kearney normal school to the list of colleges of the state with which Missouri valley conference schools will be permitted to have athletic relations.

Banker Dies in Grand Island Hospital.

St. Paul, Neb., March 24.—George E. Lean, cashier of the First State bank, died in a hospital at Grand Island, following an operation one week ago. He was sixty years old and had been in the banking business here for thirty-one years. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Woods.

Decree to Edholm; $25,000 Alimony.

Omaha, March 24.—A decree of divorce from Mrs. Katherine R. J. Edholm, prominent society and club woman, was given to Albert Edholm, wealthy jeweler. Mrs. Edholm is to receive $25,000 alimony and $50 per month for support of their daughter until she is eighteen years of age.

Government Sues Rock Island Lines.

Omaha, March 24.—Acting upon the suggestion of the attorney general, District Attorney Howell has brought suit in the name of the government against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, alleging the road to be guilty of two violations of the federal safety-appliance act.

Mrs. M. E. Atkinson of Bertrand, who has been spending the winter with her son, Bert Atkinson, at Carroll and with her daughter, Mrs. Montgomery at Belden, was here Tuesday on her way home.

W. R. Moorehouse of Randolph visited Walter Weber and wife at the depot between trains on his way to market with two cars of fat cattle from his farm near that place. He is brother to Mrs. Weber.

Art. Richardson, who has been visiting here for the past week and looking after property here, left Tuesday for his home at Bonesteel, S. D. The family moved from here several years ago, and still have residence property at Wayne.

S. E. Auker left Tuesday for Omaha, and said that perhaps he would go on to visit in Arkansas. Last spring he spent a time in that state and felt that it was beneficial to his health, but was undecided when he left Wayne whether or not to go there now.

R. R. Smith is watching the trains now, looking for two more of the pure bred Holstein calves which he recently purchased at White Water, Wisconsin. He bought two earlier in the season, and will soon have a fine herd of milch cows. He plans to buy a male from Iowa soon to mate them.

Wm. Myers and wife left Tuesday for Minnesota, and after a week in Minneapolis, plan to go on to Holly. Mr. Meyer is in poor health and goes in search of climatic conditions more to his needs. Her father, George Hofeldt, accompanied them as far as Minneapolis.

Mrs. Ernest Harrigfield returned Friday evening from her extended visit in Germany. Her mother, Mrs. Eike, who accompanied her, stopped off at Chicago for a visit with her daughter, Miss August.

—Emerson Enterprise.

Mrs. Harrigfield was once a resident of this county.

John Geewe went to South Omaha Tuesday with two car loads of fat cattle from his feed lots, where they had been for about six months, acquiring a weight of about 1300 pounds each. It was a fine bunch and should sell near the top. On the same train Henry Frevert went with a car of fat hogs from his farm.

Wm. Morgan is building a deep cave under a part of his house on the farm near town. It will be an ideal place for cream and butter to be kept cool in summer and a fine vegetable house in winter besides make a safe place of retreat should one of those twisters come along such as visited Omaha a year ago this week.

It is now time for the man who feels that he has a call to serve the public in official capacity to lay aside his modesty and let it be known. "Faint heart never won a fair lady," we are told. The candidate who waits for the people to call him may wait a long time. It is a nice theory, but there is but little to it in practice.

A shorthorn sale at Hartington last week made an average of a little more than $100 per head for 52 head. According to the published list of those who purchased but one of the bunch went out of the state, and in fact nearly every one sold was bought by Cedar county people. If it was good stuff and we presume that it is, the farmers and breeders of the county were wise to keep it at home.

W. H. McNeal, wife and daughter left Monday for their new home at Laurel. Here they will take charge of the leading hotel and make of it an ideal home for the traveling public. They have long resided at Wayne, where Mr. McNeal was formerly in the newspaper business, and more than sixteen years ago went into the postoffice here, where for a long term he was the official who presided over the destiny of the postal cards which came this way and were sent from here, stepping out the first of the month to make room for his democratic successor, leaving a clean record at Washington, and with the well wishes of all of Wayne people.

C. E. Brooks came from Ashton, Idaho, last week to visit relatives and friends here. He reports that he is well pleased with his new home in the west—has been busy improving his place—raised a good crop and finds things much to his liking there. Says that the Harrigfield folks are doing well there.

The bridge over the Logan at the south limit of the city has been refloored. It costs upwards of $300 to floor this bridge and it must be repeated about once every three years. The move on foot some time ago to move this bridge to a road east where the tariff is less and build a heavier structure on this main traveled road failed to be realized.

Miss Sadie Stearns, who has been attending Normal at Wayne part of the time, and making headquarters there for the past two years, left for her home at Winner, South Dakota, Tuesday morning. She has been ill for several weeks with measles and mumps and will remain at home and recuperate for a time, then teach. Later she plans to go to Rochester, Minnesota, and complete her training as a nurse.

Farm work has been progressing nicely by spells for the past two weeks. Considerable of the spring wheat is in—and a number of farmers have finished their wheat sowing. Their wheat acreage is small here. There was less than the usual amount of winter wheat sown last fall, and it is as well that way perhaps, for the winter has not been favorable for that crop. But few, if any, oats are yet sown, and that grain is not largely grown here. Corn and alfalfa are our big crops here, and they are the ones which give best returns in money as a rule.

H. C. Grovjohn and family left Carroll Tuesday to visit a few days at Stanton, before going to Long Beach, California, where they plan to live for a time on account of the gentleman's health. He sold his residence at Carroll at auction, Saturday, Wm. Mick buying it at $2750. Mr. Grovjohn said that he was well satisfied with this method of selling a place where one wants to sell quickly. His place was worth more money, according to the cost of such a fine residence—but he could scarcely hope to get the full value of such a place either at private sale or auction. Their many friends hope that the change of climate is beneficial to him.

Rev. B. P. Richardson is announced to preach at the Stamm school house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and all are welcome to come and listen.

Mrs. E. B. Cook and son, Roy and daughter, Nellie, came Wednesday from Hastings to visit at the home of her brothers, Chas. and Will Hiscox.

Father McNamara from Bloomfield, Father Buckley of Norfolk, Father Fiehly of Dixon, and Father Carroll of Wisner were at Wayne Wednesday, guests of Father Kearns.

Mrs. L. C. Thomas of Alliance, who has been here for the past month or more assisting in the care of her father, John Liveringhouse, left for her home Wednesday evening.

The lecture announced to take place at the Wilber school house Friday evening has been postponed until a new date is announced, for causes beyond control of those who were planning it.

T. F. Godfrey of Omaha, who is general agent for the Missouri Pacific railway and a number of its connecting lines, spent Wednesday and Wednesday night at Wayne, a guest at the home of his brother-in-law, J. G. Mines.

Miss Fernie Oman went to Norfolk Wednesday evening to visit at the home of David Townsend and wife and also attend the declamatory contest of the high schools of the northeast Nebraska, which is to be held at Norfolk this evening.

F. R. Dean of Ruthven, Iowa, who purchased the Central market a short time ago from Morris Thompson, is here to take possession the first of the month. He is well pleased with Wayne and his business prospects here, and hopes to be able to secure a house for his family so that they may join him here soon.

Dwight Hogue, who has purchased the Chase Shaw barber shop at Winside, went to that place last Saturday to get acquainted with the trade before taking possession this week. Mrs. Hogue moved over Wednesday to make their home there. Mr. Shaw, who has been there for several years, will move to Norfolk where he will embark in the real estate business with his brother.

At the Iowa agricultural college at Ames experiments have demonstrated that for this year at least the home grown seed potatoes is inferior to the northern grown seed, on account of the extreme hot and dry weather. There is little doubt that the same condition prevails here—at any rate it will be as wise for the farmer to test his potato seed as his corn seed. The same rule applies to poor seed, no matter of what kind. Planting poor seed is expensive.

County Superintendent Mrs. Littell has been having a strenuous week, working over the 8th grade examination papers. There were 112 pupils who took the examination. A second examination will be held for some who did not take the work or who have some branch to make up on the 7th and 8th of May.

Chas. Lund and wife, who have been spending several months in the west and south, returned home Wednesday evening. They went from here to the state of Washington, thence south along the Pacific coast to southern California. On the home trip they came through Texas to New Orleans, up to St. Louis, Kansas City and home. It made a very pleasant trip.

Frank Wilson, wife and children, who live at Clyde, Ohio, stopped here Tuesday evening for a week to visit at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Silas Mellick. They have been visiting in southern California, and the chilly air of the past day or two has not been pleasant to them. They are really meeting the most disagreeable weather of the winter here this week.

The Swedish people of our city held a service last Sunday afternoon at the home of Sid Swanson and his mother in the east part of town, Rev. Kraft of Wakefield preaching. There are a number of these people here who understand English but little and to them a sermon in the native tongue is a treat. A week from next Sunday another service is planned.

The following item was taken from "The Painter", a newspaper edited in Peru, Neb.:—The undergraduate recital given by Miss Genevieve Gregg, Thursday afternoon, was well attended by a large and appreciative audience. Miss Gregg gave an exhibition of skill and ability as a musician that is rarely seen in a person of her years. The program was exceptionally good, and was greatly enjoyed by all.

Miss Gregg will be remembered here as the older daughter of Prof. and Mrs. F. M. Gregg, and their many friends here will rejoice in her achievement.

From the Wesleyan we learn that a Wayne young man, W. A. Crossland, is making good—and by that we mean that he is not simply getting a position at a salary that is desirable. He has received notice of his election to the office of secretary of social welfare at St. Joseph, Missouri. This is a position where work will be required of a trying nature and gives opportunity for advancement in social work—a phase of work which is unlimited in opportunity to do. His salary is $2,000 which indicates that it is considered a work of as much importance as the average pastor's place in such cities as St. Joe. His friends will congratulate him.

Those who are looking for a home in the good city of Wayne would do well to lose no time in looking over the two residence properties to be sold here at auction Saturday. On another page a description of the places may be seen, and for the benefit of the out-of-Wayne readers who might think of coming to look at them we will say that they are both good properties, and located in a desirable part of the city, and it is very probable that one can buy them for less than it would cost to purchase a lot and build, especially if one considers the time and labor which an owner always puts into a place without salary when building. The sale will be held Saturday.

There is to be a Sunday School social at the home of R. R. Smith and wife, five miles west, Friday evening of this week. A good time is anticipated. Mr. Smith says that they have a fine country Sunday school at the school house in district No. 51, better known as the McEachen district. In speaking of the preaching service in this school house he says that the congregation is made up of various denominations, and that they get along fine. The Democrat sees no reason why they should not get along if they are Christians. The fact that they do not all see just the same on some minor points should not be allowed to disturb the harmony of the occasion. In fact, we believe that this old world could be kept as good as it now is and perhaps improved some in moral tone with fewer church denominations represented by small, struggling congregations. It is not language which divides them, nor is it nationality. For we see them divided along different lines. It is baptism, communion, amusements, the future punishment and numerous other things that are matters of belief for which their education is largely responsible—for all claim to get the only sure, pure, and undefiled doctrine from the same Great Book.

Playing the Piano.

MILLIONS of people play the piano. Few people listen to them. Why is that? Let me remind you of a little story. One summer Joseph Jefferson, the dearly beloved actor, spent a part of his holiday near a lonely little village. Early on Sunday morning he met the clergyman of the place. Church and stage instantly became friendly and Jefferson was asked whether he would care to read a part of the service. He consented to read the Lord's Prayer. After the service the white haired clergyman shook his hand. Tears were in his eyes as he said, "Ah, Mr. Jefferson, you ought to have entered the church!" "Why?" asked the great actor. "Because what you read sinks into the hearts of your hearers. I thought I had never heard the Lord's Prayer before, you read it so beautifully." "Well," said the modest old actor, "you know, don't you, that hardly one person in a million is ever rightly taught to read."

Similarly, few people are ever rightly taught to play. That is why, perhaps, so few care to listen to the average player.—Woman's World.

When the Full Moon Lights Sahara.

The following description of the Egyptian full moon is quoted from "It Happened in Egypt."

"The stars spoke to us as we walked soft footed through the sand, and the pure wind of the desert spoke other words of the same language—the language of the universe and of nature. Here and there yellow lights in a distant camp flashed out like fireflies; far away across the billowing sands rocks bleached like bone gave an effect of surf on an unseen shore; now and then a silent, swift moving Arab stealing out of shadow might have been the white woman who haunts the sphinx hurrying to a fatal tryst, and the great pyramid seemed to float between desert sand and cloudless sky like the golden palace of Aladdin being transported through air by the genie of the lamp. There never was such gold as this gold of sand and pyramids under the moon!"

Bird Ballast—a Storm Sign.

"What is all that great crowd of crows doing?" we asked the aged lighthouse keeper.

"Them crows there," the old man answered, "is takin' on ballast—a sign of storm."

The beach, white in the winter sunshine, was covered with crows. They seemed to be feeding busily.

"No; they ain't feedin'," said the keeper. "They're swallowin' sand; ballast, you know—ballast for the high winds that are comin'. Yep, a storm is doo."

The crows rose, a trifle heavily, and flew back inland again. Soon, however, a fresh lot made a second great black blot on the white beach.

"Yep, them's my barometer," said the old keeper; "crows swallowin' sand for ballast—a sign a storm is doo."—New York Tribune.

Proud of His Infamy.

When the Molturno burned in mid-ocean a few of the men rushed the boats and were knocked down by the captain. What becomes of such men in after days? Do they hide in shame from their fellows, fearful that they may be recognized and their infamy proclaimed? Not necessarily. A public librarian was once visited by a man who came to him for a book on notable shipwrecks. He searched the pages eagerly, then pointed out a passage referring to a seaman who tried to take a woman's place in a lifeboat and had been shot by the captain. "I'm that man," he declared, proud that his exploit should appear in print, and offered to show the shot wound to support his claim.—Chicago News.

From Many, One.

"This is our most valuable fowl," said the amateur hen farmer.

"A fine bird," remarked the visitor, trying to look wise.

"Yes, indeed. We have named her 'Phuribus Urans.'"

"Why the name?" the visitor questioned.

"She came from the only egg that hatched of fifty in the incubator."—New York Times.

Worse and More of It.

"How fat Elleen is getting," said the young man. "I think it's a shame for a girl to take on flesh that way."

"You shouldn't say that to me," protested the young woman archly. "I am a little plump, myself, you know."

"I know, I know," he hastened to apologize. "But it's all right with you. I mean it's a shame when a girl's young."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Off Guard.

"How did it happen that your friends got the best of you?" queried the inquisitive person.

"They got busy while I was watching my enemies," explained the man who had got the short end of it.—Chicago News.

Bill Green is After 'Em.

(W. H. Green, in Creighton Liberal)

Through the agency of the news service furnished the great daily papers, J. P. Morgan & Co. last Monday denied that their firm had profited in the looting of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and Boston Maine railroads beyond a few thousand dollars earned in selling the stock of those railroads.

There is not a managing editor in the country that did not know that this news item was staged to deceive the people, and yet the papers must publish the story.

During the progress of the fight on the "Norris resolution" to investigate the looting of those New England railroads the writer learned that a gentleman named W. B. Lawrence of Bedford, Mass., was a traveling 'cyclopeda of facts relating to those stealings.

We had conversation with Mr. Lawrence over the 'phone and the next morning the gentleman was in Washington and was presented to Mr. Norris.

During the three days Mr. Lawrence remained in Washington he gave the writer many hours of his time and a world of information, for, as he said, "Politics and politicians change, but the invisible government always remains."

The Lawrence family, we learned, had been heavy stockholders in the Boston & Maine railroad for seventy-five years. The loss to this family alone in their railroad holdings has been $2,400,000.

Mr. Lawrence said their estate had spent $50,000 in hiring expert accountants and others and that the facts in his possession would show that Lewis Cass Lydard, one of Mr. Morgan's confidential lawyers, had planned most of the raid on the treasures of these railroads.

Governor Walsh of Massachusetts, preceded Mr. Lawrence by one day to Washington, and was in consultation with the railroad officials and officials of the government looking towards a peaceful settlement of the New Haven matter.

The officials of the American Anti-Trust league served a written notice on Governor Walsh that if he participated in any settlement of this railroad question which foreclosed the stockholders who had been looted of their property from having their day in court that he would be held personally responsible to his constituents.

The governor of Massachusetts took the first train home.

The railroads of New England have such a hold on the visible and invisible government of that section that the senators and congressmen of that section derided Senator Norris as a butinsky, but the Nebraska senator had the gratifying satisfaction of getting a telegram, a copy of which was sent every other senator, stating mass meeting of over a thousand men, representing all kinds of civic federations, the governor of New Hampshire and the mayor of Boston, had been held in Faneuil hall and the Norris resolution unanimously adopted.

The people of Nebraska have only an indirect interest in the affairs of those New England Yankees, and having been the victims of those same investors, it is a slight satisfaction to see them struggling in a net, the same that they have frequently set for us, but, if those financial pirates are permitted to escape with the booty they have stolen we can expect to be the next victim, therefore do not believe anything you see in the daily papers about those financiers.

Stomach Health—

Or No Cost To You.

Very likely others have advised you to use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, because scores of people in this community believe them to be the best remedy ever made for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. That is what we think, too, because we know what they are made of. We have so much faith in them that we urge you to try them at our risk. If they don't help you they won't cost you a cent. If they don't do all that you want them to do—if they don't restore your stomach to health and make your digestion easy—just tell us and we will give back your money without a word or question.

Containing Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science, they soothe the inflamed stomach lining, help in the secretion of gastric juice, check heartburn and distress, promote regular bowel action and make it possible for you to eat whatever you like whenever you like, with the comforting assurance that there will be no bad after-effects. We believe them to be the best remedy made for dyspepsia and indigestion. Sold only at the more than 7,000 Rexall stores, and in this town only at our store. Three sizes, 25c, 50c, and $1.00.—Shultheis Pharmacy, Wayne, Nebr.

Two Viewpoints.

Washington Star:—Secretary Garrison, apropos of his refusal to interfere with the custom of christening ships with champagne said, at luncheon:

"You see, this matter can be looked at from two absolutely opposite points of view. A temperance orator, for example, once said to a shipowner:

"I was glad to see that at their recent launching you christened your new boat with water instead of wine."

The shipowner, ruddy and fat, chuckled and answered in rich, husky tones:

"Yes, indeed! It was full time to inaugurate this reform. With the present scarcity of vintage wines I'll waste no more of them on foolishness."

Ask about Burlington Coast Service

Will you go to the Coast in a tourist sleeper? Several Burlington Personally Conducted Tourist Sleeper Parties leave Omaha every week for California, going through Denver and scenic Colorado. Or, will you go in a standard sleeper? The Burlington runs these also through to San Francisco via scenic Colorado and Utah. On a tour of the Coast, through the West, or Yellowstone Park, no doubt, you would like to go one way and return another. The Burlington main lines form conspicuous and well-operated portion of the whole scheme of diverse route tours through the West. Is punctuality of train operation important to you? Burlington trains through the West are currently making "On Time" records that amaze students of the operation of American railway trains. In selecting the railroad that is to carry you or your family, do you think of these essentials in high-grade passenger service—blacksignal protection, integrity of roadbed, uniform speed, ample power, precision of operation, a smooth ride, "On Time" train dynamo-electric-lighting, high-class dining-car service, civility of employes?

'Tis "travel education" to ride from 500 to 1,000 miles in a Burlington train. Your nearest agent or the undersigned will be pleased to tell you how conveniently Burlington Service can fit into your travel plans.

CAROL'S ISLAND

Or the Mystery Solved

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Carol Atwood watched Captain Hussey as he stowed her suit case and the covered basket in the bow of the little motorboat; then she took her place, while the captain pushed away from the landing steps and grasped the wheel all in one agile motion, born of long experience on the waters of Gull lake.

"Where is the island?" asked Carol after they had fairly tilled on the blue water.

"Ye can't glimpse it till we turn Pine Tree point; kinder queer than your cousin, or—was Steve Atwood your cousin, did ye say?" asked the captain inquisitively.

"He was my father's cousin," replied Carol, with an air of reserve.

"Well, I was saying it's mighty queer that out of all his money he should leave you nothing but Pine Island here. You can't do nothing but sell it, miss. I hear you're from New York city. Work there?"

"Yes."

"So I heard. It was all printed in the newspaper when Steve Atwood died—how he left Pine Island to a little cousin who was a bookkeeper or something like that in the city. The paper said it was too bad that Mr. Atwood hadn't left a sum of money so his orphan cousin could do something with it, but I dunno—you can sell the island if you want to. There's summer folks would like it for a camp."

Carol made no reply. Her blue eyes were dreamily fixed on Pine Tree point, but her thoughts were far from Gull lake and the odd inheritance left by her eccentric relative, Stephen Atwood, the many times millionaire. How easy it would have been had Cousin Stephen only left her a sum of money instead of the valueless island in this Maine lake! She sighed bitterly as she remembered the clause in Stephen Atwood's will which said that the island was not to be sold within five years after his death.

If he had left her a sum of money she might have given up that office position and gone away to seek the health that was so necessary to her successful future. She was pale and delicate looking, city born and bred, and the struggle to earn her bread and butter was growing more difficult every day. She had craved her allotted vacation. She was taking her annual two weeks' vacation in the month of May instead of August, so that she might look over the property.

The breeze ruffled the placid surface of the lake, pickered leaped now and then, and occasionally from the busy thicket along the shore mild eyed deer peered at the speeding boat and its passengers.

"There's Pine Island," pointed the captain as they rounded Pine Tree point into the upper end of the beautiful lake.

"It is beautiful!" cried Carol, breathless with delight, as she gazed at the small green island that was her very own.

It was set like an emerald in the blue of the lake, and from amid the thick growth of pines Carol could glimpse a red roof.

"You be'n't going to stop there alone?" argued Captain Hussey as he brought the boat up to a small stone landing.

"For a few days," said Carol practically. "I'm not afraid up here in this beautiful country. Why, there is more to fear in the big city where I have always lived."

"That's all very well," decided the old man, "but I guess I'll leave old Watch with you. He can have a little vacation here along with you and hunt rabbits to his heart's content. You can bring him back with you."

Watch, the big collie, who had been asleep at his master's feet, pricked his beautiful ears at the sound of his name and leaped ashore to jump around Carol, who had reached the landing without assistance.

"Now, that is kind of you, Captain Hussey," cried the girl, taking his reluctant hands into her little white ones. "I believe that you brought Watch along on purpose."

"The missus made me do it," protested the captain as he picked up the basket of provisions packed by his wife for the young stranger. "She thinks you're crazy to stay here all alone for two weeks, and I ain't telling what I think about it. You know I done all I could to keep you away, but I ain't never found the woman yet that would listen to reason, no, ma'am! But I'll try and run over every day and see how you get along. And now I'll look into the bonhouse and see if that tidy little skill is still there. If it is you can use it to run away from the island if things get too lonesome for you. Can you row?"

"Oh, yes!" laughed Carol. "I've learned to do that on my summer vacations."

"Good! Well, if anything bothers you or you get lonesome you jest pack into the skiff and come over to the mainland. You'll find the latch-string always out on the Hussey house."

"Thank you a thousand times!" cried Carol gratefully.

First Captain Hussey took the bunch of keys from Carol and unlocked the bonhouse. Here everything was in perfect order, the cedar trimmed roof boat, the oars, the fishing nets and poles all arranged with a careful hand.

Captain Hussey dropped the skiff into the water beneath the bonhouse, laid the oars in it and showed Carol how in a moment of emergency she might run down the short flight of steps, get into the boat and emerge through the swinging doors into the lake.

"It's all lovely," murmured Carol as they walked through the pines toward the little log house among the trees.

"It's kind of a tidy little place," assented the captain as he unlocked the front door. "I've heard say that out of all his houses your cousin Stephen liked this best. Ain't that just the way? Millions of money, palaces to live in, and him coming way up here to live in his log cabin and cook his own meals! It does beat all!"

"I wonder why."

"I've heard that he had poor health for awhile, and he got well up here. And he always said that his riches wasn't nothing without health. Seems like he valued health more than money. You look kinder delikit yourself," added the captain, looking with concern at the girl's face, pale in the gloom of the darkened house.

"I'll feel better after I've been here a few days," laughed Carol. "If Cousin Stephen could regain his health here, perhaps I can find mine also."

"Did you ever see your cousin, Stephen Atwood?"

"Yes, once. A year ago he sent for me to come to his office. He questioned me closely, but he made no remark upon my answers. I never heard from him afterward. Two months ago I heard of his death in California, and I was notified that he had left Pine Island to me. I thought it rather a ghastly joke at first, but there is this lovely little house, and Captain Hussey, I've a great mind to stay here all summer!" A pink color flew into her cheeks at the notion.

"Never!" gasped the captain. "How'd you live, miss?"

"Maybe I could take a woman boarder," said Carol hopefully. "I'll advertise at once."

"That ain't a bad idee," muttered the captain. "I think I know of some one right now, Miss Halpin and her nephew. They're artists, and they'd admire a green little spot like this. Want me to speak to 'em? They're stopping at the Benner House, and you know what that is!"

"If you only would, dear Captain Hussey!" cried the delighted Carol. "I'll row over to the mainland tomorrow and find out. If they want to come I'll send in my resignation to the office at once."

"I'll see about it soon's I get ashore," promised the captain as he departed.

Carol felt very much alone as she went all over the little house, with Watch trotting patiently at her heels. She found the log cabin furnished plainly, but with every comfort for snug housekeeping and lazy enjoyment. Soon every window was wide open to the pine scented breeze and a small fire was crackling on the living room hearth just for the very homeliness of its blaze.

It was fun to light the blue flame oil stove in the kitchen and to prepare her evening meal with the dainty aluminum cooking utensils. From Mrs. Hussey's generous basket there came forth homemade bread and butter, preserves, cakes and pies, besides groceries from the store.

The next morning Carol awoke feeling strangely strong and energetic. She found everything so attractive that she was quite bewildered as to what to do first. Should she satisfy her longing to go out at once or remain indoors long enough to prepare at least a semblance of a breakfast? She decided on the latter course and flew around doing her light housekeeping, singing all the while. Then she donned a white linen sailor suit and a duck hat and went over to the mainland, leaving Watch on guard.

On the village dock Carol met Captain Hussey with a middle aged woman and a sunburned young man, whom he introduced as her new boarders, Miss Halpin and her nephew, Gerald Lane.

Together they went back to Pine Island, and then began the most wonderful summer in Carol Atwood's existence. The island, which she had at first deemed a white elephant on her lands, turned out to be a treasure island indeed, for during those long days of free life under the pines Carol recovered her health—nay, she found new health, for she became round and rosy and sunburned and strong as a young Indian maiden.

She found happiness as well as health. How else could it have ended with a beautiful girl like Carol and a handsome, heart free youth like Gerald Lane living there under the kindly chaperonage of Miss Eugenia Halpin?

And the queerest thing of all was that one day while Carol was rummaging among some books in the living room she found a small tin dispatch box bearing her own name on the outside, and in the box was a letter addressed to her in a crabbed handwriting which proved to be that of her eccentric cousin, Stephen Atwood.

And the letter told her that Stephen Atwood believed her to be a sensible girl, and if she fulfilled that belief she would seek Pine Island to regain her health, and in the course of time she would find this letter, which declared that, while health was greater than wealth, a blending of each was desirable in this world, so Carol would find placed to her credit in a certain city bank the sum of $50,000, and the bank book was there to prove it!

Pine Island is the summer home of Gerald and Carol Lane, and to them each year comes their aunt, Miss Halpin, who loves to tell visitors of the romance woven into the story of the island, while she reproduces its beauties on canvas.

PROFIT IN RAISING HEAVY DRAFTERS

The big horse is at the top of the equine heap. He is in demand everywhere, says Better Farming.

Of course one cannot raise big horses from ponies. The first essential is good draft breeding. The mares should be mated to the pure bred stallion, which weighs around a ton and is sound. And the more drafty are the mares, the more drafty the colts will be. Every farm should have work mares of high grade or pure bred draft breeding. They should do the work handily and raise valuable, high priced colts besides.

But some farmers mate their mares to big draft stallions and then raise mediocre small colts. Why is that? It is usually a question of not enough feed.

After all, wise feeding is the prerequisite to raising big horses. A farmer who is stingy with his feed had better try something else than the draft horse business.

First of all the dams of the colts should be well fed, so that nursing will be a profitable occupation for the youngsters. Then colts should be given a handful of grain as soon as they will take it, not much, but enough to teach them to eat it. By weaning time they should be eating oats, bran, some corn and alfalfa, so that they will suffer no setback when the mother's milk is stopped. They should have the run of a paddock. The more outdoors, except in inclement weather, the better. They should be grown under natural conditions.

Good big horses are scarcer than they ever were, and geldings of any kind weighing 1,700 pounds and over are remarkably hard to find, saying nothing of those that have quality. Breeding heavy horses seems to be going out of fashion. As they become scarcer prices are likely to advance, and therefore the farmer who produces the good ones with big weight will be the fellow who gets the big money.

A colt should never be overfed, but always have just what it will clean up heartily. If he gets out of condition give a laxative and a hot bran-mash. Keep him in perfect health and always ready to eat. Then keep liberal amounts of feed before him. The buyer will come to lead him out of the pasture at a handsome price. It pays to feed draft bred colts liberally.

SUGAR BEETS FOR HOGS.

Roots Provide a Valuable Addition to the Winter Ration.

All the root crops are valuable in the feeding of live stock. In countries where root crops are easily grown they are fed in large quantities, and it has been found that a pound of dry matter contained in the average root crop is equal in feeding value to a pound of dry matter in corn or similar concentrated feeds.

The sugar beet is richer in feeding value than most of the other root crops, due to the fact that it contains a large amount of sugar, says the Kansas Farmer. Sugar beets will form a very valuable addition to the diet of the hogs during the winter season and, when grain feeds are scarce, might be relied upon quite largely in the wintering of stock hogs. They can best be preserved by storing them in some sort of root cellar or pit in the ground. It is necessary to prevent them from freezing, and stored in this way they will retain their succulence through the winter season.

Examine the Horse's Teeth.

Not very many of us pay as much attention to the mouths of our horses as we should. Good mouths in our horses would prevent many cases of indigestion, colic and lack of energy. Examine the horse's mouth and see that the teeth are in smooth working condition. If there are rough edges of the teeth that will lacerate the cheeks and tongue have them filed down by a competent veterinarian. This will allow the full chewing of the food and improve the general health of the horse. Decayed teeth frequently cause an overgrowth of the corresponding teeth on the opposite set and this overgrowth should be leveled down so as to permit the uppers and lowers to come together and present a perfect grinding surface.

Cause of Crumbly Butter.

The crumbly condition is caused by working the butter when too cold. If worked as soon as possible after churning the butter will generally be warm enough to work nicely after washing with cold water. If worked too warm a salty, sticky texture will be produced, so one must guard against this extreme also.

There will not be a change in the Hoskins postoffice until all fools' day, if rumor is correct.

Dr. Salter of Norfolk was called in consultation in the illness of August Deck, last Friday.

Miss Irene Bloomen left Saturday for Bloomfield for a few days visit there with friends.

Fred Miller autoed Abe Dimsdale to Hadon, Monday morning in order to catch the early Bonsteel train.

Miss Caroline Porchen assisted in the Dimsdale general store this week during the absence of Abe Dimsdale.

Gossipers of Hoskins are on a strike this week so we are unable to give our readers the usual amount of items.

Fred Fenske, who has been in an Omaha hospital the past month, returned to his home Tuesday, somewhat improved.

Dame Rumor has it that Mrs. Maria O'Donnell Weeks of the Norfolk Press will likely take civil service examination for the position of postmistress at Hope, Madison Co., and that Miss Marguerite A. Parchon of Hoskins will apply for the same position as postmistress of Apex, Wayne Co. Primaries and recommendations not required in these to paratricular offices—so it should be a sure win.

At last Wednesday's caucus the following were nominated for trustees for the April election—George Weatherholt, Frank S. Benser, Wm. Behmer, Glen Green, J. Overman and Earl Potter—three of these will be voted for and all are apostles of high license. Two saloon applicants appeared on our streets the past week—but we are not advised as to the success the applicants have in getting signers.

The Norfolk Press reprinted an article from the Hoskins correspondent of the Nebraska Democrat of last week. This shows the sharp eye women editors have in discovering an obscure item from an obscure corner. We fear all women—and particularly an address and surmise that if Daniel ever enters the den of the Norfolk Press the reception will surpass the Daniel in the Lion's den of Biblical times.

Obituary

Mrs. Ella Jane Conner was stricken with paralysis Feb. 5 at Fairbury, Nebraska, and passed away March 10. Here ended the life of a woman gifted along more lines than anyone with whom I was ever intimately acquainted. She was a pupil of mine during her fifteenth and sixteenth years. At that time with only the training received in the common school and a refined home, she could correctly draw anything that she saw and could sing anything and play any ordinary piece of music without study. She wrote brilliantly even then and through her life, when moved by sorrow either her own or that of her friends one might say that she burst into song, and only ill health kept her from being widely known in the literary world. But the friends will feel that these were the least of her accomplishments, as her sunny, loving, disposition endeared her to all. She was especially drawn to old people and was never so busy that she neglected them.

"O, heart sore tried, thou hast the best,

That heaven itself could give thee rest.

How many alone one's blessing went

With thee beneath the low green tent,

Whose curtain never outward swings."

I could but lay this wreath of immortells on the tomb of my loving and beloved friend.

State Normal Notes

An Easter vacation in all departments of the school has been announced for Friday, April 10, to Monday, April 13 inclusive.

The game of basket ball in the gymnasium last Friday evening between the Normal and Union college resulted in an easy victory for the home team.

Mr. Clifford J. Ireland, principal of the Yutan, Nebraska, schools, has recently been re-elected at an increase of $10 a month in salary.

Friends at the Normal have received notice of the marriage on February 9th of Miss Mabel E. Ellington to Louis Eggert. Mr. Eggert is county treasurer of Knox county.

President Conn and Dean Hahn will read papers before the North Nebraska Teachers' Association which convenes at Norfolk on Friday and Saturday of this week. The subject of President Conn's address is "Economy of Time in Education". Dean Hahn will speak before the grade section on Friday afternoon.

The senior class has decided upon the class play to be presented during commencement week. "The Sign of the Cross" written by Wilson Barrett and dramatized by Willis Fleetwood, has been selected. It represents life at the time of Nero, requires twenty-two characters and will be a very strong production.

On Saturday evening, March 21, the young ladies of Kingsbury hall entertained the young ladies of Terrace hall in the chapel with a delightful "Spring Program."

The following program was rendered: Vocal duet, Misses Clayton and Pischel; reading, Miss Garvin; vocal solo, Miss Emde; Whistling chorus, six young ladies; drill, eight young ladies; vocal solo, Miss Griffin; reading, Miss Clayton; duet, Misses Emde and Telesky; school song.

School Notes

Mrs. Corzine and Mrs. Kröger were recent visitors.

Schools close this evening to open again on Monday morning.

Edna and Helen Straus entered the sixth and seventh grades this week.

The teachers will attend the N. T. A. at Norfolk Friday and Saturday.

Miss Braninger gave an interesting talk to the seventh grade last Friday afternoon.

The Misses McDonald, Wienandt and Isenburg of Emerson visited the schools last week.

Miss Nellie Strickland, who teaches in Randolph, was a visitor yesterday, on her trip abroad.

The spacious gymnasium has been converted into a finishing room for the manual training department.

The Wayne schools will have a good exhibit of art and industrial work at the Norfolk meeting this week.

This high school orchestra will furnish music for the declamatory contest at Norfolk this evening.

Russell Myers represents the Wayne high school in the Declamatory contest.

Mrs. C. L. Meyer went to Norfolk this morning to attend the oratorical contest in which her son, Russell is a contestant. There are 21 contestants in the race.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Good Beef Steers Are Slow, but About Steady.

HOGS STRONG, MOSTLY 5C UP

Active Demand for Sheep and Lambs. Strong to 10@15c Higher—Everything Clears Early—Receipts Fair, With Improvement in Quality.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, March 24.—Cattle receipts were light again today, only 3,200 head arriving. The fat cattle market was dull and slow, and while the best cattle sold in about the same notches as Monday, the medium and common kinds were not only slow, but weak and hard to move. The best cattle here were good enough to bring $8.85. There was a little more life to the trade in cows and heifers than for several days back and consequently a better feeling to the trade. Desirable fat cows and heifers sold freely at fully steady prices, and in some cases a little stronger. Veal calves were decidedly higher, packers buying much more freely and paying as high as $9.25@9.50 for the best grades. There was a little more life to the stocker and feeder trade and, while the market was not really active, prices were about steady with the lower range of prices quoted Monday.

Cattle quotations: Choice to prime heaves, $8.50@8.85; good to choice heaves, $8.20@8.50; fair to good heaves, $8.00@8.25; common to fair heaves, $7.25@8.00; good to choice heifers, $7.25@7.55; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.25; fair to good cows, $5.60@6.50; canners and cutters, $4.25@5.50; veal calves, $7.00@9.50; bulls, stags, etc., $5.75@7.50; good to choice feeders, $7.75@8.25; fair to good feeders, $7.25@7.75; common to fair feeders, $6.50@7.25; stock cows and heifers, $6.00@7.50; stock calves, $6.50@8.25.

About 9,600 hogs were received today. Trade was more or less slow today, but prices were strong to a big nickel higher than Monday. Most of the sales were made at $8.60@8.65, and the top reached $8.75, high price of the year, and the highest that has been paid since last September.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to about 10,000 head. An active market, with the packers paying prices strong to 10@15c higher on both sheep and lambs, prevailed in the sheep barn today. There was life to the trade that has not been seen here in a week. Some Mexican fed lambs, fed in Nebraska, brought $7.85. A bunch of western ewes went at $6.00 and a bunch of wethers at $6.25.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.50@7.85; lambs, fair to good, $7.40@7.60; lambs, common to fair, $7.00@7.40; lambs, culls, $5.50@6.50; yearlings, light, $4.60@7.00; yearlings, heavy, $6.15@6.40; wethers, good to choice, $5.70@6.25; wethers, fair to good, $5.45@5.70; ewes, good to choice, $5.50@6.00; ewes, fair to good, $5.00@5.50.

DAIRY CLEANINGS.

Frequent stirring of ripening cream will make better flavored butter, as it causes the cream to ripen more evenly.

Good breeding and good feeding are so closely related that they must go together; one is useless without the other.

The heifer that is to be retained in the herd should be handled from her early calfhood so that she will have confidence in her keeper.

It's an exceptional cow that can get enough inspiration from a straw pile and a tank of ice water to give a decent mess of milk.

In feeding the cows do not give them more than they can use readily. Any feed that is left in the mangers after the cows are through will naturally represent a certain amount of waste.

The calves should be fed regularly, and they should have good, clean, pure feed in clean pails and boxes. Ignoring these points will account for much calf mortality.

FATTENING CATTLE.

Grain Ration Should Be Light For the First Few Weeks.

To my mind the first and most important step in fattening cattle is to have an abundant supply of good feed, writes H. W. Swope in the American Agriculturist. Throughout many sections silage is regarded as an absolute necessity. However, there are perhaps some places where roughage can be more cheaply supplied, but even in such localities something succulent in the form of silage is very essential for best results. In my particular case we use hay and corn silage. Both are palatable and are fed separately for the sake of variety.

A bunch of fattening cattle getting a good feed night and morning of cut straw and silage mixed ten hours before feeding and all the clover hay they will clean up nicely at noon will be well off for roughage. I do not know of any other ration on which cattle can be kept so full all the time without putting them off their feed. Every experienced feeder will agree with me that the secret of success in beef making lies largely in knowing how to keep the cattle full every day.

The ration should be palatable at all times. The grain may be fed at night and morning mixed with cut straw and silage. During the early part of the season I give very little grain. The allowance is gradually increased each week after the first few weeks. Considerable quantities of grain are wasted by overfeeding in the early part of the feeding season. It is a very easy matter to completely ruin the digestion of an animal by feeding too much grain for any considerable length of time.

A mixture of grain I find always gives the better results than any single variety fed alone. When cattle are put on a heavy ration of grain they make rapid gains for a time, perhaps for two months, and then they seem to come to a standstill and make little or no improvement. Therefore the point to be determined is not the amount of grain we can get an animal to consume, but the amount it is able to digest and assimilate properly.

I do not know of any grain that will put so good a finish on cattle as peas. I refer to Canadian field peas. A little pea meal fed during the last few weeks of the feeding season makes the cattle more firm, and they weigh a little better, but this must be fed in small quantities to give the desired result.

HANDLING SILAGE.

No More Than is Needed For One Day Should Be Loosened.

The quality of the silage may be materially bettered by using care in taking it out. Don't put the fork down five or six inches deep, as though you were pitching manure, but use a fork with tines close together and skim off the top, only loosening what you need for the day's feeding.

Keep the surface level and perhaps a little lower near the outer walls. Silage cannot be handled as carelessly as ordinary roughage. The cows in eating will sometimes throw some out of the mangers, and some may be scattered in feeding unless you are very careful. If this is allowed to remain there it will soon cause a bad odor. The man that uses the broom freely along the feed alleys is the one that has a sweet smelling stable, a condition worth while, for milk takes up a foreign odor with surprising rapidity, and unless everything is sweet smelling the milk will tell it, and eventually the customer will find it out and take his trade elsewhere.

Good and Poor Cows.

To show that there is a vast difference in the profit producing capacity of dairy animals the records of three different classes of cows found in the Wisconsin university herd is interesting. One lot averaged 426.9 pounds of butter fat per year, another 301.8 pounds, and a third 195.8 pounds. The return over the feed cost for the best producers was $70.64 per year per cow, the second $42.18, and the last $19.01. Although each group required about the same care and feed, the total production and profit varied widely. To become skillful and successful in the care, feeding, selecting and breeding of dairy cows means to be successful in the business of dairying.—Kansas Farmer.
