City Election Quiet

What promised to be one of the most quiet elections ever held at this place was running sleepily along, there being but one ticket in the field, until about four o'clock it leaked out that a quiet attempt was being made to pull one over on the mayor, by united effort to write in a name of a candidate and pull him through while the voters slept. When this plot was discovered Don Cunningham was the victim, and it is but fair to him to say that, from the best evidence we can get he was innocent of any part of the conspiracy—in fact knew nothing of it until near time for polls to close. After this move leaked out voting was more lively, and the vote totaled 200. It is said that the matter was started as a joke and intended as a protest against the habit of putting but one ticket before the people—but it grew serious, and on the part of some became an effort to do by stealth what they lacked the courage to try to do openly.

Mayor Chace lost the first ward by two votes, carried the second by one vote and the third by ten, according to the unofficial figures, which are not perhaps accurate, as there are several conflicting reports out. It is also reported that there were a dozen ballots on which the name of Cunningham was written but no cross made in the square, thus making them invalid—yet there are voters who say the women would not know how to vote.

All the nominees were elected.

Of about 70 towns reported in the morning papers Wednesday there were eight that changed from dry to wet and twelve which changed from wet to dry, showing in the point of numbers a little gain for the dry people. Of this list 31 are dry and 37 are wet showing that in towns averaging about the size of Wayne there are yet more wet than dry. But a lot of places did not have the question up for consideration, and as many of those are dry, it appears that the prohibition question is about a standoff.

Falls City went dry for the first time in 58 years. Our neighbor, Emerson, got the water wagon out for the first time in 20 years. David City, dry for five years, remained in that column by narrow majority of two.

Norfolk voted for Sunday baseball and Sunday movies, the latter by a margin of 195, the former by about 400.

Sunday baseball carried at Blair. Arlington went dry, and so did Ainsworth. Ponca is in the same column. Pender remained wet.

At Stanton Frank A. Raabe was elected mayor and sewer bonds carried by 47 majority. The wet and dry question was not voted upon, and the town remains in the wet list.

Postoffice Troubles at Hoskins

It appears that there is trouble, sometimes in settling postoffice questions by other than the Stephens primary rule. At Hoskins there is a long-drawn out fight for the place, which comes under the civil service rule adopted by Mr. Taft when he was in office, hoping to save his democratic successor a world of trouble with the small offices. At Hoskins the former Nashby resigned in a rash moment, and when the examinations were made a young lady was said to have passed best, but a cog was slipped over and a young man was recommended. Then began a fight over the question, and it is still holding the floor, according to the Norfolk News. Rumor has it that the young man was charged with assault, but this is denied by the lady said to have been assaulted, who charged that she accused him of window peeping, watching some business transactions between her father and some other man. This occurred about five years ago. But as we said, possibly an election comes as near settling the question as an examination as to merits.

Interesting Brotherhood Meeting

Tuesday evening was the regular monthly session of the Brotherhood of the M. E. church and it was an interesting one. The president, Dr. Blair, had prepared a list of questions for discussion and sent each question to one or more members to prepare to tell something about. One question, "Is the world growing better or worse?" was decided that it was improving, taking the world over—but it is bad enough yet. Another question as to most important legislative act of the present administration brought some discussion, and was perhaps left an open question in the minds of those present as the members asked for an answer to that question were not able to be present. Had they been there it is uncertain what they would have determined to be the greatest enactment. The currency question was, in the opinion of some the most important and far-reaching. Going outside of the question by omitting the question of enacting law, the exposure of the secret lobby—the veiled representatives of the "invisible government," was thought to be among the important things brought about.

The naming of four men who have achieved much or the most of men now on the scene of political action was answered by Dr. T. B. Heckert who set up the claim for the honor for Bryan, LaFollette, Roosevelt and Wilson, and after listening to his high tribute to these men no one offered an adverse opinion.

The condition of country life or farm life was compared with that of fifty years ago rather to the advantage of the present day, and the fact was noted that along with the great improvements made in many lines the schools of the country had not any more than played even, taking the country over. The plan of rural school consolidation was favored as the most practical remedy.

The question of the most destructive invention of recent years was left undecided and in reply to the other half of the question as to the most beneficial from point of life-saving was given to the sanitary care of milk and sterilizing the same and to the anesthetic and anti-septic surgery.

All-in-all it was a meeting which was profitable to the members and visitors.

Senator Kohl Files

Senator Kohl left here for Lincoln Friday, and a news dispatch from that place to an Omaha paper announces that he has filed for the democratic nomination for senator from this district, which is composed of the counties of Cumming, Pierce and Wayne.

Senator Kohl served in the upper House in the sessions of 1911 and 1913, and made his district one to be considered in the dealing with important questions. The district is safely democratic, and in the last primary campaign he easily won the nomination at that time over a Cumming county man.

Mr. Kohl has not yet returned home, and as he expected to visit the west before returning, he is probably out of the state.

Begins Sewer Work This Week

O. S. Roberts, who was awarded the contract for the new sewer to be installed at Wayne this spring is planning to begin work this week. He has engaged a power digger, which it is said will do the work of many men at a small cost, comparatively. It is supposed to make trench as fast as fifty men could do the work. If this thing keeps on improving long there will be no physical work for man, and he will just naturally dry up and wither away setting around watching some machine dig the sewers or do other manual labor. There is but little doubt that many will go to the sewer district to see this Irish substitute throw dirt.

Harry Ruhlow Charged With Libel

A warrant is out for the arrest of Harry Ruhlow, editor of the Hoskin Headlight in which Lizzie Deck charges Ruhlow with circulating certain false, malicious and defamatory libelous matter in the community by petition. Thus it will be seen that it is not as editor that the charge will have to be defended.

Death of E. H. Carroll

Died—at his home in Randolph on Saturday, March 28, E. H. Carroll aged fifty-two years, eight months, and nine days, after being confined to his bed for about seven weeks.

Mr. Carroll was born at Cresco, Howard county, Iowa, July 19, 1861. Here he grew to manhood and in 1883 he was married to Cynthia Hangan of that place. In 1887 he came to Nebraska, settling on a farm in Wayne county about nine miles southeast of Randolph. He lived there until three years ago, when he moved to a farm four mile northeast of Randolph. A year ago he moved in town, where he lived until the time of his death. Besides the wife he leaves nine children.

Deceased was one of the most respected citizens of this section of the states. His honesty and integrity were above reproach. No man ever deserved the confidence and respect of his fellow men more than Mr. Carroll. About fifteen years ago he served three years as county commissioner of Wayne county and the record made by him is still remembered by residents of that county. A year ago last fall he was elected county commissioner of Cedar county but failed to get his seat of office until last September. He served the county until last January, when he was forced to resign on account of failing health. The good work he accomplished in this short period will long be remembered by our people.

Mr. Carroll was a man who always dealt squarely with his fellow man, was a true Christian and these were his sole comfort when brought face to face with death.

During the first part of January he went to Rochester, Minn., and the Mayo Bros. told him he had cancer of the stomach and refused to operate on him. He returned to Sioux City and at his request was opened and the examination developed the fact that an operation was fruitless. After a few days he was brought home to patiently await the end. He had made his peace with God and bravely faced the inevitable.—Enterprise.

The Crucible Club

The members of this organization held their regular meeting at the library Monday evening and exchanged ideas on the policy of the administration in relation to the repeal of the free canal tolls, and the verdict of those present was an approval of the Hose action on the question, and will perhaps have some weight with the Senate when they hear of the opinion of this club. The points brought out in the discussion related to the meaning of the treaty clause granting to all nations equal rights to the canal on equal terms. Then came in the discussion on the subsidy or protection feature of the proposed subsidy, and again the sentiment appeared to be in support of the Wilson position. The "Watchful Waiting" policy of the government in relation to the Mexican situation was ably defended by Superintendent Kemp in a paper read to introduce the subject, and if there be critics of the policy in Wayne they were not present at this meeting. The Crucible club will prove of much help to its members in the study of current events, and the best understanding of the questions of the day.

Social Notes

Owing to the fact that the train was four hours late, the young ladies of the Carroll Bible Circle who were coming to Wayne Saturday, did not come. The Circle here was disappointed but had their regular Bible study and a vocatuet by the Misses Louise and Elsie Biegler at the home of Mrs. A. P. Gossard, and then turned the meeting into a farewell reception for the Misses Biegler who are to leave soon for their new home at Sioux City. A two course luncheon was served and a delightful time was enjoyed in spite of the inclemency of the weather and the disappointed hostesses. The Wayne Circle will entertain the Carroll Circle next Saturday.

A number of young lady friends gathered at the home of Thomas Hughes and wife last Friday night and surprised their daughter, Miss Ruby Hughes, and Miss Grace Adams, who with Rev. and Mrs. Richardson had been invited to the Hughes home that evening, the event being in honor of the two young ladies birthdays. The evening was spent in a social manner, after which a three course luncheon was served. Rev. Richardson in behalf of the young people presented Miss Adams and Miss Hughes each with a souvenir spoon, the young ladies responding in a very pleasing and appropriate manner. The young people then took their departure wishing "Grace" and "Ruby" many more happy birthdays.

The Monday club met with Mrs. A. A. Welch. After the club meeting was dispensed with a miscellaneous shower was given in honor of Mrs. C. A. Chace's birthday which was a complete surprise to her. A three course dinner was served. The table was well appointed, decorations being pink and white. A huge cake adorned the center of the table surrounded by candles. At Mrs. Chace's plate was a large bow of pink ribbon. She was the recipient of many beautiful piece of fancy work, and an exceptionally fine afternoon was spent.

The Senior Bible Circle met at the home of Dr. Lutgen and wife Tuesday afternoon. An Easter lesson was studied, led by Mrs. J. G. Mines and much interest was manifested. First National Bank Contest

Below we give a list of the prize winners in the contest inaugurated by this bank to stimulate a study of the Panama canal and its building and importance. It was a commendable move, and stimulated much interest. Below is the report of the committee and the names of winners:

The committee appointed to determine the winners of the Panama Canal essay contest originated by the First National bank of Wayne have completed its labors only after an exhaustive review and comparison of the productions of the contest.

We were gratified in the examination of the papers as a whole, to find the care and application shown by the school children participating. A perusal of the prize winning essays to be published, will indicate to the adult mind the careful study and preparation of the school children participating in the contest. A number of very able essays could not be considered by the judges in awarding prizes, for the reason that these papers exceeded the word limit, in some instances from one to two hundred words, and, in fairness to the contestants keeping within the word limit, such papers were eliminated from the contest. In only a comparatively few instances did the essays show anything other than individual effort.

The committee desires to express its appreciation of the individual effort and originality of the several writers, and to suggest to the contestants the importance of further pursuing individual effort and originality in mastering the various problems and subjects of student life.

W. D. REDMOND,
J. W. ZIEGLER,
A. R. DAVIS,

First prize, $10.00 to Clara Madsen.

Second prize $5.00, to J. M. Smith.

Third prize $3.00, to Owen Rees. The ten receiving honorable mention, $1.00 each, are as follows: Leland Holz, Amelia Krie, Anna Mohr, Verna Powers, Russell Prescott, Lynetta Renick, Madge Rippon, Charles Stallsmith, Jessie Watson, Madge Winterstein.

We herewith hand one compliment to the man who had the forethought for the comfort of his fellow citizens in mind enough to carefully clean many of the street crossings of the city Saturday night after the traffic of vehicles had ceased to carry mud upon them, leaving them in fine shape for Sunday morning. While talking on the subject it might be well to confess that the street crossings of Wayne under his supervision are cleaned better and more frequently than in any place we know of.

Dan Shannon was here from Carroll Saturday and sold a span of young horses at the pavilion sale which brought him over $300. He was the owner of the span of mules which sold to Geo. McEachen several weeks ago, at a price which topped all other prices at Wayne pavilion sales, $527.50. He also sold another span at private sale last week to Frank Stahan for an even $500. Considering these prices it looks as though the farmer would not be losing money very fast if he gave some attention to the breeding of mules—the big rangy kind. It cost no more to raise a good mule than a scrub mule—and farmers who have grown them tell us that they are less bother and risk than a colt. It is a good season of the year for the farmers to consider the matter.

George Stringer and wife have returned to their Minnesota home at Wrenshall, after spending three months with Wayne friends and relatives. Mr. Stringer tells us that he has a good farm there—land that was once covered with white pine timber, which was cut off about 30 years ago and after all of these years of waiting for the stumps to rot out they are now blowing them out with dynamite. This is great sport—for a while, but like all work is no play if you have to keep at it. He says the stumps are apparently as sound now as when first cut and that if pulled with a stump puller they are too large to handle with anything less than a derrick. They cannot be successfully burned out low enough to let a plow pass over so they blow them out of the ground and to pieces at one and the same time. He thinks they have a good soil and where farmed it brings a good grain crop. Some of the soil is favorable for a potato crop and grows good spuds after it is subduced. But little second growth timber has appeared since the big pines were cut off.

The unseasonable weather of the past week has appeared to be a hardship on the gang who have been pitching horseshoes most of the winter, but the farmers say that it has helped put the ground in the best possible condition for plowing. G. W. Buck, who has been working at the L. Surber place for nearly two years got skinned up a bit Saturday in a runaway. They were unloading bailed hay from the cars when a work train pulled in unannounced and the horses took fright at it and got a start before Buck did and wrecked the hay rack and dragged him some distance after he got hold of the lines. He suffered quite a cut on one leg above the knee, but no bones were broken.

State Executive Not Much in Favor of Pushing Desertion Law.

WIVES WELL RID OF DESERTERS

Believes Something Should Be Done to Compel Departing Spouses to Support Their Families—Switch Charge in Dispute—Price to North Platte.

Lincoln, April 8.—County Attorney Magney of Douglas county has made a request to Governor Morehead for the issuance of a requisition on the governor of Wisconsin for the return to Omaha of Walter Roos, who abandoned his wife some time ago and had been apprehended in Milwaukee.

A letter to the governor states that the county attorney is fully acquainted with the fact that the governor is much opposed to taxing the state treasury to return men who have abandoned their wives and sets out that the relatives of the wife have agreed to bear the expense.

Governor Morehead will take the matter under advisement for a few days. He is rather of the opinion that where a man would abandon his wife, the chances are the wife is well rid of him and would be better off without him. He thinks that if some way could be provided to make him support her it would be the best thing for the wife, instead of bringing him back and forcing him to live with her against his will, resulting in unhappiness for her and no possible good to be gained.

Switch Charge in Dispute.

A case brought in the supreme court to test the right of the state railway commission to establish switching rates at College View, a suburb of Lincoln, was argued in the supreme court. It is claimed by College View people that the town is discriminated against when it comes to rates, and Attorney Morning cited cases of where it cost about twice as much to get a carload of sand, apples and other things to that place as it did to University Place, Bethany and other Lincoln suburbs. The difference came in favor of the other suburbs because they could ship over one road and thus avoid transfer and switching charges. The commission had granted the Lincoln Traction company, which has a spur into College View, a switching rate of $7 per car.

More Names on Petition.

Three thousand additional names for the petition for the submission of the university removal proposition were filed with the secretary of state. The main petition was filed something like a month ago, but in some instances the names on the petitions were not satisfactory, notably the names secured during the state fair in which there was no way to certify the names as in fact belonging to people who lived in the locations designated, and so additional names sufficient to cover the discrepancies were secured. This makes the petition sufficient.

Price to North Platte.

State Engineer Price has gone to North Platte, where he will receive bids for the construction of a state-aid bridge about three miles north of Sutherland, on the Platte river. The bridge will be of cement and about 300 feet long. From North Platte he will go to Denver to attend a meeting of the National Irrigation congress, to which he has been invited to be present. The meeting will be held on April 9 and 10.

Gift to Treasurer George.

State Treasurer George received some money that he does not know what to do with. The letter bore a Grand Island postmark and inside was a plain sheet of paper wrapped around a bunch of bills. One bill was for $20, three for $5 each and one $1 bill. If the party will write the treasurer again making his wants known in regard to the disposal of the same his wishes will be carried out to the letter.

Fairbury-Beatrice Trains Back.

As a result of a conference held with the members of the state railway commission the Rock Island railway will return to its line between Fairbury and Beatrice passenger trains Nos. 353 and 354. The road will keep an account of its revenues from these trains for three months, and if the business does not warrant a continuance the commission may allow the trains to be taken off.

Triangular Fight in First.

William B. Price has announced that before the week closes he will file for the Democratic nomination in the First congressional district. Governor Morehead has already announced over his own signature that he will try for the job, and Congressman Maguire sends word from Washington that his filing may be looked for most any day.

Cyrus Black Files.

Cyrus Black, editor of the Hickman Enterprise and a member of the 1911 house of representatives of the Nebraska legislature, has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination from Lancaster county.

Motion to Quash Matters True Bill.

Hastings, Neb., April 7.—United States District Attorney Howell and Judge W. H. Munger of the Omaha division of the United States district court are in Hastings for the hearing to quash the indictments of the federal grand jury in the case of the United States against T. H. Matters.

PROTEST RAISE OF LIMIT

Shippers Say They Do Not Like 100-Pound Parcel Post Packages.

Omaha, April 7.—Many Omaha shippers, especially produce commission men, do not favor the increase of the weight limit in the parcel post system from fifty pounds to 100 pounds. At a meeting of the postal-affairs committee of the Commercial club shippers complained of the parcel post service in the case of large parcels. They insisted that fifty pounds is enough and that they do not believe the government will give the best service in larger parcels. It was the sense of the committee that the weight limit should not be increased to 100 pounds, as this would likely put the express companies entirely out of business, while the postoffice department is not yet equipped to give efficient service in larger parcels of this kind, especially in the matter of fresh produce.

DROWNS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Farmer Dies When Pinned Under Car in Two Feet of Water.

Silver Creek, Neb., April 6.—Bud Peterson, a young farmer living five miles southwest of here, was killed in an automobile accident. He left town alone, driving his car, and was not seen again until he was found underneath the auto at Arbogast corner, three miles south of Silver Creek.

He had attempted to turn at the corner to go west and the tracks showed that the car skidded into the ditch and turned turtle, pinning him underneath in about two feet of water. Not a single bruise was found on his body, death being caused by drowning. He leaves a wife and two children.

BARKER DIES FROM WOUND

Victim of Crazed South Omaha Tailor Succumbs to Bullet.

Omaha, April 7.—John Barker, victim of Walter J. Dresser, the crazed tailor who shot himself at South Omaha, after having shot at Dave Callahan and wounded Barker, died in the South Omaha hospital.

Barker's death followed a jocular remark made by him to his former roommate and crony, Dresser. The men had lived together for some months until recently, when Barker left the South Omaha tailor to room at the Industrial home in Omaha. Dresser is said to have brooded over the desertion of Barker.

Looking Into Mine.

The Diamond Coal company, being organized by Omaha parties, has made application for a permit to sell its securities in this state. The company proposes to operate coal mines in Wyoming. In order that the commission may be fully advised upon the merits of the mine to be operated, the quality of the coal to be mined, its accessibility and the available transportation facilities for marketing the product, Professor E. H. Barbour of the department of geology of the university, has been delegated to make a geological report on the project.

No Raise for Professors.

According to Chancellor Avery, a lack of funds will prevent further expansion of university work. Professors will have to be content with their present salaries. The total budget next year will be about $970,000, of which $52,000 will be for salaries. Ten years ago the total budget was $303,000 and the payroll $200,000. At that time there were 2,560 students in the university, while today there are in the neighborhood of 4,000.

Rehearing Denied in Capital Bank Case.

Another chapter in the Capital National bank litigation was enacted when the supreme court sustained the motion of D. E. Thompson to set aside the recent order of the court granting a rehearing. Chief Justice Reese, who voted for a rehearing in the former order did not vote in this case. Judges Rose, Barnes and Hamer voted on the side of the appellants, D. E. Thompson et al.

Armour Lays Off 150 Men.

Omaha, April 7.—Armour & Co. of South Omaha have laid off 150 men in the various departments of the packing house. Officials of the company declare that the reduction in forces is made because of the shortage of cattle and because people are not buying as much meat as they have been.

Polk Votes School Bonds.

Polk, Neb., April 7.—This village voted $10,000 school bonds for the erection of an addition to the present school building. Work on the addition will be begun as soon as the bonds can be issued and disposed of.

While talking on the subject it might be well to confess that the street crossings of Wayne under his supervision are cleaned better and more frequently than in any place we know of.

Spring is coming and you will want new paper and paint. Don't forget that I have samples of one of the best lines of wallpaper in America. All kinds at all prices. Call or phone J. H. Beyer, contracting painter and paper hanger.—adv. 8tf.

Dan Shannon was here from Carroll Saturday and sold a span of young horses at the pavilion sale which brought him over $300. He was the owner of the span of mules which sold to Geo. McEachen several weeks ago at a price which topped all other prices at Wayne pavilion sales, $527.50. He also sold another span at private sale last week to Frank Stahan for an even $500. Considering these prices it looks as though the farmer would not be losing money very fast if he gave some attention to the breeding of mules—the big rangy kind. It cost no more to raise a good mule than a scrub mule—and farmers who have grown them tell us that they are less bother and risk than a colt. It is a good season of the year for the farmers to consider the matter.

George Stringer and wife have returned to their Minnesota home at Wrenshall, after spending three months with Wayne friends and relatives. Mr. Stringer tells us that he has a good farm there—land that was once covered with white pine timber, which was cut off about 30 years ago and after all of these years of waiting for the stumps to rot out they are now blowing them out with dynamite. This is great sport—for a while, but like all work is no play if you have to keep at it. He says the stumps are apparently as sound now as when first cut and that if pulled with a stump puller they are too large to handle with anything less than a derrick. They cannot be successfully burned out low enough to let a plow pass over so they blow them out of the ground and to pieces at one and the same time. He thinks they have a good soil, and where farmed it brings a good grain crop. Some of the soil is favorable for a potato crop and grows good spuds after it is subdued. But little second growth timber has appeared since the big pines were cut off.

The unseasonable weather of the past week has appeared to be a hardship on the gang who have been pitching horseshoes most of the winter, but the farmers say that it has helped put the ground in the best possible condition for plowing. It never worked better some of them say—so it is well that the shoe throwers stop and go inside and play checkers.

G. W. Buck, who has been working at the L. Surber place for nearly two years got skinned up a bit Saturday in a runaway. They were unloading bailed hay from the cars when a work train pulled in unannounced and the horses took fright at it and got a start before Buck did and wrecked the hay rack and dragged him some distance after he got hold of the lines. He suffered quite a cut on one leg above the knee, but no bones were broken.

State Executive Not Much in Favor of Pushing Desertion Law.

WIVES WELL RID OF DESERTERS

Believes Something Should Be Done to Compel Departing Spouses to Support Their Families—Switch Charge in Dispute—Price to North Platte.

Lincoln, April 8.—County Attorney Magney of Douglas county has made a request to Governor Morehead for the issuance of a requisition on the governor of Wisconsin for the return to Omaha of Walter Roos, who abandoned his wife some time ago and had been apprehended in Milwaukee.

A letter to the governor states that the county attorney is fully acquainted with the fact that the governor is much opposed to taxing the state treasury to return men who have abandoned their wives and sets out that the relatives of the wife have agreed to bear the expense.

Governor Morehead will take the matter under advisement for a few days. He is rather of the opinion that where a man would abandon his wife, the chances are the wife is well rid of him and would be better off without him. He thinks that if some way could be provided to make him support her it would be the best thing for the wife, instead of bringing him back and forcing him to live with her against his will, resulting in unhappiness for her and no possible good to be gained.

Switch Charge in Dispute.

A case brought in the supreme court to test the right of the state railway commission to establish switching rates at College View, a suburb of Lincoln, was argued in the supreme court. It is claimed by College View people that the town is discriminated against when it comes to rates, and Attorney Morning cited cases of where it cost about twice as much to get a carload of sand, apples and other things to that place as it did to University Place, Bethany and other Lincoln suburbs. The difference came in favor of the other suburbs because they could ship over one road and thus avoid transfer and switching charges. The commission had granted the Lincoln Traction company, which has a spur into College View, a switching rate of $7 per car.

More Names on Petition.

Three thousand additional names for the petition for the submission of the university removal proposition were filed with the secretary of state. The main petition was filed something like a month ago, but in some instances the names on the petitions were not satisfactory, notably the names secured during the state fair in which there was no way to certify the names as in fact belonging to people who lived in the locations designated, and so additional names sufficient to cover the discrepancies were secured. This makes the petition sufficient.

Price to North Platte.

State Engineer Price has gone to North Platte, where he will receive bids for the construction of a state-aid bridge about three miles north of Sutherland, on the Platte river. The bridge will be of cement and about 300 feet long. From North Platte he will go to Denver to attend a meeting of the National Irrigation congress, to which he has been invited to be present. The meeting will be held on April 9 and 10.

Gift to Treasurer George.

State Treasurer George received some money that he does not know what to do with. The letter bore a Grand Island postmark and inside was a plain sheet of paper wrapped around a bunch of bills. One bill was for $20, three for $5 each and one $1 bill. If the party will write the treasurer again making his wants known in regard to the disposal of the same his wishes will be carried out to the letter.

Fairbury-Beatrice Trains Back.

As a result of a conference held with the members of the state railway commission the Rock Island railway will return to its line between Fairbury and Beatrice passenger trains. Nos. 333 and 334. The road will keep an account of its revenues from these trains for three months, and if the business does not warrant a continuance the commission may allow the trains to be taken off.

Triangular Fight in First.

William B. Price has announced that before the week closes he will file for the Democratic nomination in the First congressional district. Governor Morehead has already announced over his own signature that he will try for the job, and Congressman Maguire sends word from Washington that his filing may be looked for most any day.

Cyrus Black Files.

Cyrus Black, editor of the Hickman Enterprise and a member of the 1911 house of representatives of the Nebraska legislature, has filed as a candidate for the Republican nomination from Lancaster county.

Motion to Quash Matters True Bill.

Hastings, Neb., April 7.—United States District Attorney Howell and Judge W. H. Munger of the Omaha division of the United States district court are in Hastings for the hearing to quash the indictments of the federal grand jury in the case of the United States against T. H. Matters.

PROTEST RAISE OF LIMIT

Shippers Say They Do Not Like 100-Pound Parcel Post Packages.

Omaha, April 7.—Many Omaha shippers, especially produce commission men, do not favor the increase of the weight limit in the parcel post system from fifty pounds to 100 pounds. At a meeting of the postal affairs committee of the Commercial club shippers complained of the parcel post service in the case of large parcels. They insisted that fifty pounds is enough and that they do not believe the government will give the best service in larger parcels. It was the sense of the committee that the weight limit should not be increased to 100 pounds, as this would likely put the express companies entirely out of business, while the postoffice department is not yet equipped to give efficient service in larger parcels of this kind, especially in the matter of fresh produce.

DROWNS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Farmer Dies When Pinned Under Car in Two Feet of Water.

Silver Creek, Neb., April 6.—Bud Peterson, a young farmer living five miles southwest of here, was killed in an automobile accident. He left town alone, driving his car, and was not seen again until he was found underneath the auto at Arbogast corner, three miles south of Silver Creek.

He had attempted to turn at the corner to go west and the tracks showed that the car skidded into the ditch and turned turtle, pinning him underneath in about two feet of water. Not a single bruise was found on his body, death being caused by drowning. He leaves a wife and two children.

BARKER DIES FROM WOUND

Victim of Crazed South Omaha Tailor Succumbs to Bullet.

Omaha, April 7.—John Barker, victim of Walter J. Dresser, the crazed tailor who shot himself at South Omaha, after having shot at Dave Callahan and wounded Barker, died in the South Omaha hospital.

Barker's death followed a jocular remark made by him to his former roommate and crony, Dresser. The men had lived together for some months until recently, when Barker left the South Omaha tailor to room at the industrial home in Omaha. Dresser is said to have brooded over the desertion of Barker.

Looking Into Mine.

The Diamond Coal company, being organized by Omaha parties, has made application for a permit to sell its securities in this state. The company proposes to operate coal mines in Wyoming. In order that the commission may be fully advised upon the merits of the mine to be operated, the quality of the coal to be mined, its accessibility and the available transportation facilities for marketing the product, Professor E. H. Barbour of the department of geology of the university, has been delegated to make a geological report on the project.

No Raise for Professors.

According to Chancellor Avery, a lack of funds will prevent further expansion of university work. Professors will have to be content with their present salaries. The total budget next year will be about $970,000, of which $552,000 will be for salaries. Ten years ago the total budget was $303,700 and the payroll $200,000. At that time there were 2,560 students in the university, while today there are in the neighborhood of 4,000.

Rehearing Denied in Capital Bank Case.

Another chapter in the Capital National bank litigation was enacted when the supreme court sustained the motion of D. E. Thompson to set aside the recent order of the court granting a rehearing. Chief Justice Reese, who voted for a rehearing in the former order did not vote in this case. Judges Rose, Barnes and Hamer voted on the side of the appellants, D. E. Thompson et al.

Armour Lays Off 150 Men.

Omaha, April 7.—Armour & Co. of South Omaha have laid off 150 men in the various departments of the packing house. Officials of the company declare that the reduction in forces is made because of the shortage of cattle and because people are not buying as much meat as they have been.

Polk Votes School Bonds.

Polk, Neb., April 7.—This village voted $10,000 school bonds for the erection of an addition to the present school building. Work on the addition will be begun as soon as the bonds can be issued and disposed of.

Window advertising is good advertising if you have a window on the line of travel and take the time necessary to make it attractive. This week the Gaertner & Beckenhauer furniture house has a window which no lady will pass without stopping to admire. In the center are a great many small, bright pretty pictures, selected by some one who knows art in any form which it appears. But the large assortment of potted plants and flowers makes one think that summer is here. It has the appearance of a green house. This firm always have a nice stock for all occasions, and for this Easter time the window and reserve stock makes one wonder if there will be demand for all. But the display is so tempting to those who love flowers that the proprietors of the store fear they will not have enough if Friday and Saturday prove fair weather. This comment is the result of having an opportunity to note the women stop to admire the window.

State Normal Notes

Superintendent Kemp was a visitor Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret C. Dennis of Waterbury is a new student. Among the members of the alumni who have recently been re-elected we learn of Bertha Preston, who will remain at Lynch as assistant principal next year. Miss Edith Stoecking expects to make a trip to Europe this summer and has asked for a leave of absence from her work during the summer session. Dean Hahn reports a most excellent meeting of the west Iowa's teacher's association, which session he addressed at Council Bluffs last Saturday. There is a vacancy in the grammar department at Lynch, and in writing this institution for a teacher to fill the place, the secretary said: "I wish you could send us another teacher like Clifford Penn."

This week the candidates for graduation are filling out application blanks and the names and members of the class of 1914 will be presented to the board at a meeting to be held at Lincoln on April 14. Under the direction of Foreman John Riddle the work of removing the old college building has been progressing nicely. On Tuesday evening the third and second stories had been torn down and the basement of the building only remained.

The class of 1914 has asked Dr. J. A. Beattie of Lincoln to deliver the baccalaureate address on Sunday May 24. Dr. Beattie is a well known educator and was for three years president of the Peru normal school and later president of Hiram college, Chicago.

Former Wayne Boy Stabbed

A dispatch from San Diego, California in the Monday papers tells of an attempt upon the life of Dempster McKee, assistant district attorney in the court room in that city, April 5th, when a verdict of guilty was returned against Paul Aubain. When the verdict was announced the accused sprang at McKee whose back was toward him and inflicted quite a serious wound in an attempt to kill him, using a spoon for his weapon, which he had saved from his dishes at meal time, and ground to a sharp edge on the stone floor of his cell. Aubain was over powered and taken from the court room just in time to prevent his being mobbed by some fifty friends of the man he had killed. It was a lively scene. McKee is son of Rev. McKee who formerly lived at Wayne and in this part of Nebraska. He was never pastor of the church here, but frequently lectured here, and had been missionary to China, and lectured under the name of Tankee. Dempster made his home for several years with his grandparents, J. D. King and wife, and attended the Wayne schools.

CLARK JEWEL Gasoline Stoves

Here are three types of Clark Jewel Gasoline Stoves which we carry in stock.

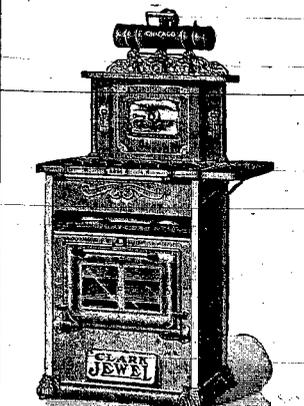

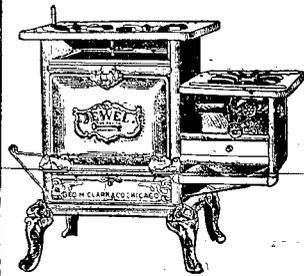

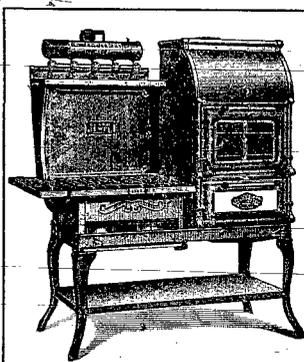

We have them in Two, Three and Four Burners all of them with built-in ovens. They are perfect bakers—bake just as quickly and evenly as you can bake in your cook stove or steel range.

While we recommend the use of high grade gasoline stoves, the Clark Jewel will come nearer to handling the low grade gasolines than any other stove ever built.

In addition to the types shown here, we carry also the low down Clark Jewels in the generator stoves. These stoves, while not as expensive as those with built-in ovens, are just as perfect cookers and bakers as the more expensive ones. In fact, the Geo. M. Clark Co. don't put the name "CLARK JEWEL" on any stove not deserving of the name.

We also have a complete line of Clark Jewel, Bon Ami, and Perfection Kerosene Stoves....

At Bloomfield they voted on a $12,000 bond proposition for a city hall. Thought the license money provided for improvements in that burg.

Rev. Gerriet Jansen, who has been conducting special meetings at Wausa, passed through here Monday morning on his way to Decatur where he will begin a series of meetings.—He reported that at Wausa there were 38 decisions expressed to change to a better life and 30 accessions to the church.

Cecil Mathews, editor of the Riverton Review, who is a candidate for appointment as United States marshal, has just received the endorsement of the district conference of the M. E. church in his district for the place. It now remains to be seen for how much a Methodist endorsement counts in the Presbyterian administration.

Gage county now has a Holstein association of fifty members. It is a safe bet that the organization is of much help to the farmers of the county whether they be members or not. Their first aim is to make facts known that are to the advantage of the owners of this great dairy breed—and if they do that properly they are boosting for all kinds of pure bred stock.

Newspapers in this part of Nebraska seem to be gravitating "back to the soil." The Dakota County Herald says: Jeff Taylor returned last week from Wyoming where he went with a party of Emerson people to file on a homestead. He selected a claim there, which his wife and children will hold down while he makes the bread and butter running the Emerson Enterprise.

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Chronic, Crippled-up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of New Remedy are Taken

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless, to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poisons from the blood and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache or overcome urinary disorders.

The North Nebraska Eagle says that if the democrats of the district having nothing worse on Dan Stephens than his postoffice primary they have not much to fight on. Another paper seems to think that the spoils-the real issue, and that by giving it to the people Dan has ruined the party—killed off all of the leaders. Well, a new leader has most always bobbed up to take the place of the dead ones. If no other way, under the old method the interests would furnish a leader to vote the people.

The delegation of Omaha Indians which included Hiram Chase of Pender, which went to Washington, succeeded in getting the Indian office to promise a new and separate agency for the Omaha Indians in place of the one now being used jointly by the Omahas and Winnebagoes. David City now has three chautauques offering to come in and hold services there this summer without a guarantee of any certain amount. It might be well for Wayne to break away from the Chautauqua trust. If it is a business venture it should stand on its merits and not on combination, and perhaps we would get the talent contracted for. For the three seasons last past Wayne has been disappointed as to the appearance of the star attractions advertised. We hope the coming season will prove better.

Mr. Jones, the chiropractor, bought an Oakland automobile at Randolph last Monday, but did not get very far with it. When about five miles from that town, and going down the grade, towards a bridge, he lost the control of the machine, and had to walk back to town. The bridge is still there and, according to the last report, so is the car, minus a wheel and other minor repairs, which will take good many "wheels" to replace. According to the Bloomfield Journal, the car if not the owner will require a few adjustments.

To Enroll Farmers

Precinct assessors this year will enroll the names of all persons living on farms who are more than 21 years of age. The names of farm owners, tenants and helpers will be enrolled under the title "Occupants of Farms" in the agricultural statistics blanks. "Time Employed on Farms" will be tabulated under item 96 and "Amount of Wages Earned" under item 97. These changes have been agreed upon after the blanks were sent to the county assessors.

Imaginary Heart Trouble

Do you have pains in the region of the heart? Its terrible pounding alarms you? What is wrong? Do you believe these symptoms mean heart trouble? A man nearly eighty years old walked ten miles from his home to an adjoining town. When he reached his destination he was greeted with some astonishment by an acquaintance.

"You walked all the way!" the latter exclaimed. "How did you get along?"

Five Years Ago

Back files of the Democrat are not very complete, but in moving things about a few papers of April 1909 came to light, and we note that our kindergarten work in the school here was established but five years ago, Miss Abbie Manning being elected to teach that branch of the work. Fremont took up the work the fall before.

Mr. Sprague, then managing the Standard Oil company at Wayne was selling gasoline at 12c per gallon. It is now practically twice as high.

Miller & Jones were selling goods. Some one wanted a girl for housework and were offering $5 per week, using poster type to make it plain.

The contract for installing the first sewer here was let to W. M. Lana of Harlan, Iowa. The bid was $10,915, but the other extras made the price reach about $13,000.

There was much agitation regarding the normal here, and a committee had been working hard at Lincoln to get the state to take the Pile school over as a state normal.

S. R. Theobald & Co., the German store, Jeffries Shoe Co. and Neely & Craven were among advertisers, and so were several saloons. C. B. Thompson was then as now, in the horse business.

According to the advertising Kate was in clothing business. Orr & Morris Co. were spending money for printer's ink. Ferguson & Cherry were assisting the Payne Investment Co. sell North Platte real estate.

There was quite a showing of legal notices. In local news we note that Vic Senter had been up in the Rosebud and taken a claim. Sheriff Mears had been to Norfolk with a crazy. C. C. Baston was contracting to build a fine farm residence.

The "By-Dad" column was full, and told how some society was bled by sending out of town for their printing. Here are two or three others:

In Missouri a farmer has been trying the experiment of calling home his pigs at night by means of a phonograph. Probably the pigs know that the sooner they get home the sooner the phonograph will quit.

Gompers is going to take a long trip through Europe at the expense of the American Federation of Labor. It seems too bad that these labor leaders have to work so hard.

We have noticed, says the Topeka Capital that the girl who can't pick up her own handkerchief before she is married finds it possible to hold the baby with one hand and wash the dishes with the other after experience of a few months in matrimony.

In regard to the new tariff only the thing that seems to be positively fixed about it up to date is the assurance that no person will be satisfied with it.

Senator Tillman visited the president at the White House a day or two ago, for the first time in seven years, and, asked why he had not called before, exclaimed, "I waited until a gentleman got there." It will also be noted that Tillman waited until Teddy was in Africa before opening his mouth.

Argentine Corn vs. Soft Corn

There is no doubt now that when there is a good crop in the Argentine there will be a considerable importation of Argentine corn into the Atlantic and Gulf cities, which will come in competition with corn from the west. The United States has no longer a practical monopoly of the corn growing of the world.

This Argentine corn is what the British call round corn, what we call flintcorn. It is an early maturing kind, and hence naturally will not be soft. We don't fear any competition of Argentine corn with the best corn grown in the west, corn that grade No. 2. The competition will be with the corn that is No. 3, No. 4, "sample" and "no grade". This flint corn from the Argentine will "make trouble for these grades."

The above is from the Wallace Farmer, and the editor says that this should be a warning for the people just north of the center of the corn growing belt not to try to raise too large a variety of corn or they are liable to have corn which will come in competition on the market with the Argentine corn.

C. L. Culler, Superintendent at Hartington

The Cedar County News has the following to say regarding two former citizens of Wayne, and their many friends here will be glad to know of their deserved promotion:

C. L. Culler, the present director of manual training, will be superintendent of the Hartington public schools next year. He was elected to the position on Monday morning and yesterday he accepted it after a consultation with the school board of education in which various matters of detail were agreed upon.

The new superintendent needs no introduction to the people of Hartington. His work as manual training director and as scout-master in the boy scouts—organization which he promoted has placed him high in the regard of the entire citizenship of the town. He is a good citizen, a highly valuable man for a town. Mrs. Culler in organizing the Campfire Girls and by her work in the city library has made many friends. Mr. Culler is a graduate of the four years' course at the state normal school at Wayne, a graduate of the normal and has also taken training at Stout Manual Training school at Menominee, Wisconsin, unquestionably the best in the United States. He also holds the degree of Bachelor of Sciences. He has been superintendent of the city schools of Dakota City and Allen and is thoroughly qualified for the position to which he has been elected.

The fellows who grow cane sugar have about decided that the tariff tax will not quite break them up—and meantime sugar is slightly cheaper. It is probable that the sugar trust will be the concern which misses the bounty.

Abe Martin said that the fellow who is not hampered by facts can talk most entertainingly. So numerous republican papers are running this smooth exhibit of fiction from the People's Banner of David City. "And still the cold fact remains that the great army of idle men are not in evidence only during a democratic administration." It is strange how little of democratic rule it takes to upset forty years of republican prosperity. If the people had been truly prosperous under republican rule and laws would the people have changed? Would three months of a lower tariff put it on the "bum"? Such talk is just rot, or it proves that there was no true prosperity for the people as claimed.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

NARROW ESCAPES

Hudson Maxim Has Figured In Some Perilous Incidents.

LUCKY AT CHEATING DEATH.

On One Gun Testing Occasion a Sudden Impulse to Run, Which He Obeyed, Was the Means of Saving His Life—A Magazine That Got Its Second Wind.

One of the most thrilling adventures in my experience took place at the government proving grounds at Sandy Hook, N. J., when the United States government was testing maxmite before adopting it.

Near a light frame building in which I was filling shells with maxmite, a ten inch gun was being tested. A number of shots had been fired from the big gun. Just as I had concluded my work and started for the wharf to take the government tug for New York, the signal was sounded for another shot. I was walking along a stretch of railway track directly behind the gun.

At that instant I remembered that several years before, when one of these guns was being tested, the breechlock had blown out, passed through the bombproof and killed six officers and men. But I argued with myself that the chance was infinitely remote that the breechlock would be blown out of the present gun on this discharge at the very instant I was in range, but upon a sudden impulse I ran with all my might.

The gun was discharged. I looked round just in time to see the huge breechlock pass through a building near the one in which I had been at work. It came up the track, striking and breaking one of the rails over which I had passed. It ricocheted against the top of the old granite fort and glanced high into the air. A shower of stones and debris fell over a wide area and many fragments struck the ground close to me.

I walked back to the scene of the accident and found that the windows in the little building where I had been filling maxmite shells were completely riddled with partly burned cylinders of smokeless powder that had been blown from the gun.

I once had another curious experience at Sandy Hook during some trials of the Maxim automatic machine gun.

Among the severe tests to which the gun was subjected was one intended to simulate what might occur in making a landing upon the seashore, where the mechanism of the gun might get filled with sand. The test is known as the "sand test."

The gun being tested at the time was of the kind using black gunpowder cartridges, for it was before the introduction of smokeless powder. There was so much energy in the recoil of the barrel that a great deal of sand could be thrown into the mechanism without interfering with the working of the gun.

The commanding officer did not arrive to see the gun fired until after the board in charge had completed the test. He then appeared and demanded that the firing should be continued for his benefit. The chairman of the experimental board demurred, saying that the gun had passed through the test admirably and that it was too bad to fire it more than was absolutely necessary, with its mechanism filled with sand. But the commander insisted.

A schooner was approaching near the line of fire. The commander said he only wanted to see a few rounds fired and that the firing would be completed before the schooner would come within range. Accordingly a belt of 333 rounds was inserted, and the firing begun. After perhaps fifty rounds were fired the command was given "Cease firing," but the gun kept right on. It afterward proved that the trigger was blocked by sand, so that it was impossible to stop the gun. The schooner came into range, and the bullets flew over and around her.

My assistant, who was firing the gun, did his best to work the trigger and stop it. It did not occur to him on the instant to unlumber the gun and swing it round so as to bring the schooner out of range. As the gun fired at the rate of 750 shots a minute the firing was all over inside half a minute.

Fortunately no damage was done. When the same gun was undergoing a sand test at Annapolis, Md., I came very near being killed by it.

The gun had passed successfully through a severe sand test, but the officer in charge wanted to see whether he could put enough sand into the gun to stop it. So he had the gun box filled full. The gun fired about 150 rounds and then stopped. My assistant threw down the safe—that is to say, locked the trigger, so that it could not be pulled—and began clearing the gun box.

Thinking that the gun was safe, I was just about to step round in front of it. Suddenly it fired a dozen or more shots so close to me that my clothes were seared by the powder gases.

One of the tests made at Annapolis was to fire a Maxim gun vertically into the air. We had fired a couple of hundred shots in this manner, when something struck very near us. It then occurred to the officer in charge that what goes up must necessarily come down. Firing ceased, and we sought cover for a few minutes to avoid the leaden rain.—Hudson Maxim in Youth's Companion.

The best remedy for wrongs done is to forget them.—Syrus.

BURIED UNDER PAPERS.

Between Litter and Fires Life in De Quincey's Home Was Lively.

De Quincey's greatest extravagance grew out of the morbid value he set upon papers and their not being disturbed. He was in the habit of accumulating these until, in his own words, he was "snowed" which meant that when matters reached such an extremity that there was not a square inch of room on the table to set a cup upon and no possibility of making his bed for the weight of papers gathered there; no chair which could be used for its legitimate purpose, and the track from the door to the fireplace, always kept open until the last, was completely obliterated so that he had not even place in which to get his foot—then De Quincey locked the door upon his paper treasures and turned elsewhere. At his death there were at least a half dozen such places "papered" by him and being maintained at no small expense.

Such a thing had been experienced as his actually "papering" his family out of house, but in later years his daughters learned how to guard against such a contingency.

De Quincey usually spent the evenings with his family, who looked forward to these hours with much pleasure. Upon the arrival of the newspaper he would render the news in his own equal manner, questioning the various members of the group about him and illuminating the various subjects touched upon with a wealth of memories, good stories or human experiences until the happiest flow of real conversation sprang from the circumstances of the moment.

He was not a tranquillizing companion for nervous persons to live with, as those nights were the exceptions on which he did not set fire to something. It was a common occurrence for one of his daughters to look up from her work and to say casually, "Papa, your hair is on fire!" to which he would respond casually, "Is it my love?" and a hand rubbing out the blaze was all the notice taken.

On one occasion, when the maid rushed in to announce that Mr. de Quincey's room was on fire, he hastened to the rescue of his already "snowed up" apartment, refusing all suggestions that water be poured upon his treasured papers. Armed with a heavy rug he disappeared into the burning room determined to conquer without water or perish in the attempt, while the members of his affrighted household trembled for his safety outside the door, locked to prevent the abhorred water from being poured in. Presently, after occasional bursts of smoke and a very strong smell of fire, all were assured that the danger was over, the victor emerged triumphantly from his fight with the flames, and the dreaded element having been subdued for the evening all retired in a state of thankfulness.—From Caroline Ticknor's "Hawthorne and His Publisher."

Fully Explained.

"When and why did James G. Blaine get his sobriquet, the Plumed Knight?" asked the Boston Globe man, who needn't think everybody has forgotten that Blaine was a candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1876 and that Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll in placing his name before the national convention launched the sobriquet thus: "Like an armed warrior, like a plumed knight, James G. Blaine marched down the halls of the American congress and threw his shining lance full and fair against the brazen forehead of every defamer of this country and maligner of its honor." (Business of looking wise and patting oneself on the chest).—Manchester Union.

Woes of an Old-Time Writer.

High among unconventional writers stands William Prynne, a London journalist in the days when there were no journals, days when a bulky pamphlet took the place of a letter to one's favorite newspaper. Prynne published about 200 of such pamphlets and is said to have averaged a sheet of print a day throughout his life. And he worked in a quilt cap coming over his eyes to shield them from the light, and stuck at his table all day, being served with a roll and a pot of beer every three hours. And he reaped the reward of his literary efforts in the branding and pillory and ear cropping that every political writer risked in that age.

Honesty in Golf.

The sooner a boy, or a man for that matter, learns to live up to the motto "Honesty is the best policy" in golf as in other things, the better for him. There is no game which gives a competitor a better opportunity to cheat. But for that very reason there is no game in which the cheat, when discovered, as it usually is sooner or later, is looked upon with greater contempt.—Francis Outmet in St. Nicholas.

Complicated.

"You must stop worrying and take a holiday," said the suave practitioner. "My dear doctor," replied the irritable patient, "if I could get my affairs into a shape that would permit me to take a holiday I'd be so relieved that I wouldn't need one."—London Opinion.

Not Due Yet.

"Does your wife ever nag you?" asked the first walking gentleman. "No," answered the second. "We've only been married a year. She calls it coaxing so far."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Imaginary evils soon become real ones by indulging reflections on them.

PAVED WITH GOLD.

There's Money in the Street Scrapings of an African Town.

Travelers declare, says Harper's Weekly, that at Axim, on the Gold Coast of Africa, gold may actually be picked up in the streets. When one visitor, an Englishman, took the statement as a mere figure of speech his host immediately bade a woman servant go out into the main street, gather a bucketful of road scrapings and work it for gold dust.

In ten minutes the servant returned with two galvanized iron buckets, one filled with road scrapings and the other with water. She also brought three or four wooden platters, varying in size from a large plate to a saucer.

Removing several handfuls of the road scrapings and placing them in the large platter, the woman picked out and threw aside the large stones, pebbles and bits of stick and then moistened the remainder with water from the other bucket. This enabled her to remove smaller refuse.

The residuum she put into the next smaller platter, and she repeated the process until there was a quantity of sand and gravel ready for treatment. This she sprinkled freely with water and by a deft circular movement of the platter brought the small gravel to the outside, where it could be thrust over the edge. When she had repeated this operation three or four times she treated the material, which now looked more like mud than anything else, in a still smaller platter.

At last, in the smallest platter of all, she had the bucketful of sweepings reduced to a handful or two of black sand. This she carefully washed and sifted. At last with a dexterous twist she brought the sand into a crescent, the outer edge of which showed a thin rim of yellow. It was unmistakably gold dust. The whole operation had taken half an hour, and it had produced about a shilling's worth of gold.

PIGS AND FIGURES.

Porkers From the Standpoint of All Around Mathematics.

The educated pig of the old time sideshow, which gravely read figures on a blackboard, was only a type of a class. His modern prototype is quite his equal in devotion to the exact science. By both instinct and fate he is a mathematical animal. Subjectively and objectively he is great on figures. They are dealt out to him, and he deals in them himself. He desires his square meals to be regulated daily by the rule of three. In addition, he deals with his owner's indebtedness. He is able to reduce a mortgage to fractions with amazing rapidity. In measuring the available contents of a pall of slop he is a lightning calculator.

As a multiplier the pig has no equal, counting on six to the litter and two litters in the year. At this rate, barring accidents, the sow's progeny will amount to more than 1,000 in four years. A week old pig is up in geometry, finding the way home along the hypotenuse short cut. An old sow's quickness in boxing the compass in a potato patch is amazing. And when it comes to a troughful of skimmilk she is the least common divisor; she wants it all herself. Objectively the porker finds himself stacked about with a bewildering array of figures—his gains every day on pasture, his gains every day on grain, his gains to the pound of grain, his gains on pasture plus a daily ration, his gains on vegetables and roots—these and a hundred other tabulations surround him. Profit or loss, so far as the pig is concerned, is almost purely a matter of feeds and feeding, and these are in their turn matters of almost pure mathematical measurements; hence have resulted the long listed calculations available to the farmer.—W. J. Harsha in Breeder's Gazette.

Boiling the Kettle.

Mrs. Campbell had engaged a new maid. "Martha," said the mistress on the first morning, "be careful always to boil the teakettle before making the tea."

Martha signified her willingness and, after an absence in the kitchen, returned to her mistress and said: "Please, mum, there's nothin' big enough to boil the teakettle in, less 'tis the wash boiler, sure."—National Monthly.

War in the Air.

During the hottest fighting at the battle of Chickamauga an owl, alarmed by the unusual sounds, was frightened from its usual haunts. Two or three crows spied him and made pursuit, and a fight in the air followed. The contest was observed by a soldier. He dropped his gun to the ground and exclaimed: "Whew! Even the very birds in the air are fighting!"

Variable Conditions.

"That man says he doesn't know whether he is married or unmarried, sane or insane."

"Yes. He has had a great deal of trouble with court complication. Those things all depend on what state he happens to be in."—Washington Star.

Wrongs Another.

No man in the world ever attempted to wrong another without being injured in return—some way, somehow, some time. The only weapon of offense that nature seems to recognize is the boomerang.

HUNTING THE WOLF

In Russia the Vicious Brute, if Full-Grown, is a Marvel.

FLEET, FIERCE AND STRONG.

He is Often More Than a Match For a Pack of Trained Hounds and Fairly Fights His Way to Freedom—An Exciting Chase With a Grand Duke.

Hunting wolves, with dogs is one of the most grossing and exciting of the winter sports in Russia, and in the pursuit of the full grown wild beast three types of dog are used—the ordinary foxhound pack, the borzoi, or Russian wolfhound, and the bear hound, a type which is becoming rarer all the time. The Russian imperial hunt, which is situated at Gatchina, about thirty miles from St. Petersburg, is the scene of most of these sporting events.

The method of hunting is to employ a "ring" or locate the animal by means of his tracks in a certain portion of the forest, the mounted huntsmen remaining quietly about, with groups of borzois in leash, three together. The next step is to send the foxhounds into the forest to force the wolf to break cover, and on his appearance the wolfhounds are slipped. If the quarry can survive two miles of hard pressure he will have outlasted the pace and staying powers of his pursuers, but if not the wolfhounds will have pulled him down. They can make no impression on his hide, however, but must wait until the first horseman comes up. The wolf is either killed then by knife, or his legs and jaws are bound up, and he is taken back home and exhibited a few days in captivity, when he is turned loose to furnish sport at a future time.

In the London Times N. Kravtchenko tells of a hunt in company with a grand duke, in which one of these full grown vicious brutes proved too much for the hounds:

We had reached our stations and became accustomed to patient, motionless waiting when far away was heard the voice of a hound on the scent. Soon a whole chorus joined in, and a little later the wood in front of us began to fill with noise, and then suddenly, not far from us, appeared a huge full grown wolf.

He seemed to be absolutely undisturbed and trotted off as if nothing particular was occurring, but in reality he was traveling at great speed and had almost covered half the distance when the grand duke unleashed upon him. Like lightning the wolf turned and retreated, but the dogs were quicker. "Let go!" shouted the grand duke, and my leash quickly followed. Every moment I thought the dogs would roll the wolf over and pin him. But the task was evidently no easy one. The wolf went on and on. Now and then he would turn his head when some more enterprising hound pressed him with his attentions. It seemed that there was nothing particularly menacing in the act, but so quickly did the mighty jaws snap that we could only tell as one hound after another fell away with ripped sides that it had been far more than a mere head shake. The incredible strength and agility of the beast and the apparent ease with which he dealt with six of the mightiest and best borzois of the grand ducal kennel compelled one's respect and admiration.

But now came a whirlwind directly in his path—two borzois, dark as night, galloping toward the pursued, intent at the risk of their lives to overturn him. I thought to see him torn to pieces in a few moments. But it is not in vain that according to the rules of wolf coursing a grown wolf has the honors of the whole kennel—all the borzois on the field must be unleashed—for besides his strength the grown wolf is extraordinarily agile and intelligent. All these qualities he displayed to the full before me. For the first time I saw a grown wolf at bay, and I was no longer disposed to feel any surprise that so many dogs should be unleashed against one beast. Without changing his course or his gait, suddenly, under the very noses of the borzois that were rushing upon him, he turned to the right and headed straight toward us. Some dogs, trying to turn quickly, fell, but jumped up again and gave chase. But the wolf, it seemed, continued on his course at the same quiet gait, as if he felt no need to expend his strength on such foes.

Not far from me the dogs almost overtook him. I thought that one had gripped him, but he turned his head, and those terrible fangs of his again did their deadly work. Saplings of birch and oak, the outposts of the forest, were already high. The dogs made a last desperate effort and almost surrounded him on the very edge of the wood. We saw how they all came together, and then we heard the howl of one dog after another as the wolf snapped them off and his gray body disappeared in the thicket. Then the borzotniks began to call their dogs together and to gather up the wounded.

So we coursed the grown wolf. In twenty-five years the Pershino hunt has taken only fifty-six of them, whereas the number of cubs and yearling wolves that have been taken by the grand duke's borzois is 625.

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.
The Easter day will be observed at the Presbyterian church with a sunrise prayer-meeting held at 6:30 o'clock in the morning. The Christians of all the Wayne churches are cordially invited to this morning service which will remind us of that first Easter Sunday when the "disciples arose early in the morning and came to the sepulchre" to find that the tomb was empty and that the Lord had risen indeed, even as He said.

The morning worship will begin at 10:45, and the Sunday school and church will hold a combined service. The program for this morning service of worship is printed elsewhere. The subject of the pastor's Easter sermon will be "The Resurrection of Christ and its Results." In the evening the C. E. prayer-meeting will be appropriate to the day of joy and Christian triumph—this service beginning at 7:00 o'clock. The evening service of song and praise will be held at 8:00 o'clock. The sermon of the pastor will be from the text, "The hour cometh and now is when they that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and they that hear shall live." The special meetings at the Presbyterian church which have been held in connection with Passion week will close tomorrow (Friday) evening, when Dr. Samuel McComb, of Sioux City, who has been assisting the pastor, will preach his closing sermon. After the sermon there will be a reception of new members on confession of faith in Christ, and by letter from other churches, and the communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

The Ladies Aid society will serve the banquet for the visiting bankers who will be in Wayne on Arbor Day, April 22nd, attending their annual convention. Preparations are being made to serve two hundred guests. Dr. Samuel McComb, Sr., who is in the city this week, is the father of the well-known author and Boston clergyman, Dr. Samuel McComb, Jr. Dr. McComb of Boston attained nation-wide fame in connection with the Emmanuel movement.

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.
Regular divine worship at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning will be "The Risen Lord" Mark 16:1-8. We are privileged once more to contemplate in a special manner upon the event in the life of Christ which means so much to man. Over that life, to which a testimony had been given "Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God," there had been cast a veil of darkness. Upon a cross He had given up His life with the parting words "It is finished." From the cross, He was taken and placed in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathaea, which was sealed and guarded. But this dark veil was not to hide the Christ forever from man, for on the appointed morn, the earth trembled to its center, and the powers of heaven were shaken; an angel of God descended; the guards shrunk back from the terror of his presence and fell prostrated on the ground, his countenance was like lightning and his raiment was white as snow, he rolled the stone from the door of the sepulchre, and sat on it. But who is it that cometh from the tomb, with dyed garments from the bed of death? It is thy Prince and thy Lord, Oh Zion! And now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that sleep.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock the members of the catechetical class will be confirmed. This class consists of 5 young people and no doubt the services will be very impressive. After the confirmation services, the Lords supper will be celebrated. Keep in mind the services this week. As this is Holy week may we observe it properly.
The Easter program will be rendered by the Sunday school in the evening at half past seven. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Baptist Church
Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor
This evening (Thursday) at 7:30 the service will be under the direction of the young people. Rev. J. S. Harris, pastor of the Baptist church of Norfolk will speak. We very much desire that a large crowd shall hear Brother Harris.

Appropriate services for Easter Sunday. In the morning the subject of the sermon will be "Easter Religion". In the evening, it will be "Great Conquerer". Suitable music will be rendered at both services.
The rally service of the young people last Sunday evening was a decided success in spite of the rainy weather. A good number were present and a splendid program was given. Some of the finest talks were given by our young people and were helpful messages to all present. We were sorry that so few of the older people attended the meeting. The young people's service when rightly arranged for, is one of our very best services. Every Sunday evening ought to be a rallying time for the society.

The change in the hour of holding the teacher's meeting from Wednesday till Thursday evening proved a wise change. We had an interesting meeting last week. Wish many of our young people could attend this class meeting. Because of the other meetings this week, there will be no teachers' meeting.
The Ladies' Union, last week, had a splendid meeting at the home of Mrs. Kellogg. A number of the country ladies were in. Mrs. Kellogg and Mrs. Gimsley provided an excellent luncheon for the ladies. Let every one who reads this endeavor to attend the special Easter week services.

SILAGE ALONE NOT A BALANCED RATION

The only use for ensilage I have ever had has been with dairy cattle. I always aimed to balance my ration, writes W. I. Raymond in the Iowa Homestead. While ensilage is an excellent food, it is not profitable to feed it alone, as it does not contain enough protein or bone, hair, milk and muscle building material. In fact, it runs high in only one of the several essential elements which go to nourish and build up the animal structure, and that is fat. Corn is a fat forming food, and ensiling it does not change its nature in the least.

In order to balance silage or get the entire benefit to be derived therefrom

In nearly all cases the beginner in dairying should start with grade cows, says Professor Nicholls of the Kentucky Agricultural college. On the whole, large, rangy, deep bodied, deep chested, big bellied cows, carrying good, capacious udders, give best results. When fresh such cows ought to give from three to five gallons of milk a day testing 3 1/2 to 4 per cent fat. Cows of Holstein blood are more persistent milkers and do not fatten so rapidly as do Short-horns. The Holstein cow here pictured is Aralla De Koi, a pure bred Holstein. She produced 28,000 pounds of milk in one year.

It must be fed with food which runs high in protein or the element in which silage is most deficient. With my dry cows and young stock I found clover hay, which may be raised successfully on the same farm, which raises the corn, with perhaps a little grain, to give very good results, as this runs high in protein. Alfalfa is still better, as it runs as high in protein as bran, ton for ton. I found alfalfa hay and silage to be all that was needed, with no grain, to make fast and good growth on young stock. With large producing cows or cows giving over twenty pounds of milk a day some grain, being balanced as to protein and fat the same as roughage, was required to keep up the milk flow and body weight of the animal.

Silage may be balanced with bran, oilmeal, cottonseed-meal, oats, peas or any grain which runs high in protein, but any of the legumes, such as clover, alfalfa, pea hay, etc., are better for the mechanical effect. Silage, like grass, is loosening, and, while this is very beneficial to a certain extent, the effect is controlled by feeding a little dry matter, and this we get in the hay I have mentioned as well as the elements in which the silage is short.

CARE OF SICK ANIMALS.

Medical Equipment Should Be Kept on Every Farm.

Every dairyman who keeps even a small herd will find it convenient to have the following medical equipment: A clinical thermometer should always be at hand, and the herdsmen should know how to use it. It can be got through any drug store or from any firm dealing in veterinary instruments. The normal temperature of mature cows are from 99 to 102 and may reach as high as 103 F. Two or three milk tubes of different lengths, a trocar and canula, a long neck pint or quart bottle for drenching, a milk fever outfit or a bicycle pump, a large syringe or funnel and three feet of small, rubber hose, and one graduate or measuring glass should be provided. Remember, milk tubes should always be sterilized by heat or a disinfectant before using.

The following medicines should be kept on hand. One pound bottle crystallized carbolic acid, five pounds epsom or glauber salts, one pint castor oil, one gallon linseed oil, creolin, vaseline, carbolized vasoline, acetate of lead (sugar of lead), flowers of sulphur, hydrogen peroxide, one pint tincture of gentian. Dissolve the carbolic acid by placing the bottle in warm water and into a very smart stream of water to keep it in solution. Make the carbolized vasoline by adding to a pound of vasoline less than one-half ounce of the dissolved carbolic acid; then warm and stir thoroughly while cooling. Other medicines may be added and even needed, but these should always be available—Iowa Homestead.

Indigestion in Pigs.

Little pigs sometimes suffer from indigestion, and worms may be present. Physic them with castor oil in milk, and then feed milk with an additional one ounce of lime water per pint. When they can hold that down gradually thicken with middlings and cornmeal. If worms pass in the droppings give the pigs two dram doses of fluid extract of pink root and senna in a little water every three hours until scouring is caused. It seldom pays to fuss with a thriftless, stunted pig.

Feeding For Pork.

The best hams and bacon, the sweetest and best of all meats, must contain a streak of lean and a streak of fat from pigs fed upon milk, wheat feeds and grass with a little corn. Increase the corn as the pigs grow, and the last six weeks before killing feed all the corn they will eat up clean twice a day.

HORSE WISDOM.

Don't expect your breeding mare to do a half week's work one week and no do anything the next week and do well.

Don't expect a first class colt from a second or third class stallion and a poor mare.

Don't expect a mare to be suckling a foal and carrying another one and do as much work as a good horse without a little extra care.

The heavy coated horses should be clipped just as the hair begins to start. It is a benefit to the horses, as the skin can be well cleaned and stimulated.

If the bowels of the young foal are not cleared naturally a gentle dose of castor oil should be given. It is wise sometimes to start the bowels with injections of warm water.

The horseless age will be coincident with the manless age. The automobile is all right in its place, but it will never displace the horse.

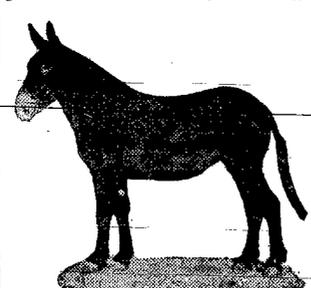

PREVENT HARNESS GALLS.

Daily Applications of Cold Water Tend to Harden Shoulders.

Much valuable time is saved during the busy season by keeping the horses' shoulders in good condition, and the farmer is well paid for his time when looking after them. In the morning before harnessing the horse see that the shoulders and neck are clean and look to see that the collar is well cleaned off.

Where a leather bound collar is used wash it at night when it is removed from the horse's neck. Then during the day see that the mane is not allowed to work or clog under the collar.

This remedy for preventing sore shoulders is very simple and good if practiced every evening after the horse has been worked. After removing the harness, even before feeding, get a bucketful of clear, cold water and take it to the stable and use a sponge or the hand and thoroughly wash the shoulder and neck, removing all sweat and loose hair which have accumulated. This is a good, simple preventive and a sure one if daily practiced.

While engaged in ordinary farm work at such tasks as cultivating corn, mowing, planting corn, drilling wheat, harrowing, etc., four mules at the Missouri experiment station maintained their weights slightly better when fed corn and mixed hay than did a similar number of mules when fed oats and mixed hay. Mature mules required 3 per cent more grain and 1.4 per cent more hay to approximately maintain live weight when fed oats and mixed hay than when fed corn and mixed hay. The fine mule shown is sixteen hands high and weighed 1,500 pounds when two years old.

The main cause of sores on the back underneath the harness pad consists in the latter being girted up too tightly, so that it exerts an undue degree of pressure. This particular trouble is thus, as a rule, entirely avoidable with proper care. There is no need to tighten up the girth band in an excessive manner, and a moderately firm adjustment of the pad is all that is required.

RELIEF FOR HEAVES.

Treatment For Alleviating This Incurable Disease.

I have been asked many times to give a cure for heaves and am sorry to say that heaves are incurable, says Dr. A. S. Alexander in the Farm and Fireside. The distress may be relieved by the following treatment: In summer pasture the horse and feed oats and bran in addition. In winter feed wet oat straw in preference to hay. Do not feed any bulky feed at noon. Keep the bowels active. Wet all feed. Give half an ounce of Fowler's solution of arsenic night and morning until a quart has been used, then gradually discontinue the medicine, taking a week or more to the work. It may be started again any time the symptoms become aggravated.

There are many commercial cures for heaves, but they only give relief. The disease starts again as soon as the horse is fed much bulky feed and made to work on a full stomach.

Hog Cleanliness.

The hog enjoys clean surroundings and comfort in his buildings just as much as the hen or the horse or the cow, and the best way to get the best results is to furnish him with this kind of comfort. This doesn't necessarily mean pampering; it means just common sense care.

The Profitable Cow.

There is one kind of stock that is never a drug in the market—the fresh milk cow. She costs less to raise and sells for more than a beef steer.

Slow Market on Sheep and Lambs. Steady at Monday's Close—Demand Rather Limited—Receipts Very Light.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, April 7.—Cattle receipts were moderate again today, about 3,500 head arriving. The fat cattle market presented practically no new features to day and for the most part beef steers sold in about the same notches as on Monday. Outside of the light and handy weight steers, it was a sluggish trade all day. It was rather a slow and uneven deal in cows and heifers, the buyers were all hunting for the good choice heifers and prices were a little stronger on that class of stock, but were very indifferent and bearish on the general run of butcher and canner stock. There is a vigorous demand for calves for the Easter trade, and best wealers sell up around $9.50 @10.25, but the call for bulls, stags, etc., is limited and prices little, if any, better than they were last week. Not much life was shown in the stocker and feeder trade, but prices held just about steady all around.

Cattle quotations.—Good to prime yearlings, $8.00@8.80; choice to prime heaves, $8.20@8.40; fair to good heaves, $7.80@8.10; common to fair heaves, $7.00@7.75; good to choice heifers, $7.25@8.00; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.35; fair to good cows, $5.75@6.60; canners and cutters, $4.00 @5.50; veal calves, $7.50@19.25; bulls, stags, etc., $4.75@6.75; good to choice feeders, $7.55@7.90; fair to good feeders, $7.25@7.60; common to fair feeders, $6.50@7.25; stock cows and heifers, $6.00@7.50; stock calves, $6.50@8.

About 11,500 hogs arrived today. Trade was very uneven. Some early sales were about steady with Monday, but the bulk went at prices averaging about a nickel lower. Most of the hogs landed at $8.40@8.45. The early ton of $8.52 1/2 was the highest paid.

Sheep and lamb receipts totaled 5,500 head. As a consequence of Monday's decline of anywhere from 15c to 35c, receipts dropped off considerable today. The market was slow today on both sheep and lambs and prices were steady with Monday's close. Some light-Mexican lambs brought $8.00. Fed westerns ranged all the way from $7.25 to $7.60. Wyoming hay-fed ewes sold at $5.35. Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, Mexican, $7.80@8.10; lambs, good to choice western, $7.50@7.90; lambs, fair to good western, $7.25@7.50; lambs, culls, $5.50@6.50; yearlings, light, $7.00@7.50; yearlings, heavy, $6.65@7.00; wethers, good to choice, $6.60@6.85; wethers, fair to good, $6.00@6.60; ewes, good to choice, $6.15@6.50; ewes, fair to good, $5.75 @6.15.

UNFAMILIAR FACES

Historical Characters of Whose Looks We Know Nothing.

Many of the Famous Figures and Heroes of Colonial and Revolutionary Times Are as Blanks to Us So Far as Their Personal Appearance is Concerned.

In the search for a portrait of Thomas Willett, the first mayor of New York, the committee on the City club visited nearly every print dealer in the city in addition to scores of private collectors of Americana. But there was no portrait to be found.

Any one who has ever attempted to make a collection of the pictures of the big men of early New York soon realizes that there are many blanks. For instance, of the four Dutch governors Peter Stuyvesant is the only one of whom we have a correct portrait. Of Peter Minuet, William Kieft and Wouter van Twiller there is absolutely nothing accurate, although various caricatures have appeared from time to time.

The same is true of a still more eminent New Yorker, William Bradford, the first printer, who founded in 1725 the New York Gazette, which was the first newspaper printed in the province. Bradford was so prominent a man and so active for years, both in Philadelphia as well as in New York, that it is rather surprising not to have something worthy of being called a true portrait. If there was, perhaps his features might be on the tablet erected on the site of his printing office, now of the Cotton Exchange, at Hanover square.

The lack of an authentic portrait of Nathan Hale, the martyr spy of the Revolution, is somewhat better known, although the sculptors MacMonnies, Partridge and others have not allowed this to restrain them from depicting the features of the young soldier in stone or bronze. Of Colonel Ethan Allen there is no known portrait, and the same is true of the doughty warrior, General Nicholas Herkimer.

One of the heroes of Bunker hill, Colonel Richard Gridley, has left no portrait. He was the artilleryist and engineer who built the fortifications the night before the battle. Other prominent Revolutionary fighters of whom no pictures exist are Colonel William Ledyard, the defender of New London, who was killed by a British officer when Ledyard surrendered the fort; General Thomas Conway, leader of the notorious cabal to depose Washington from the command of the army in 1777; Colonel Seth Warner, who was prominent in the attacks on Ticonderoga and Crown point and in the battle of Bennington; General Seth Pomeroy of Massachusetts, and General Samuel Holden Parsons, one of the board which tried Major Andre and was appointed by Washington as the first judge of the northwest territory.

No accurate portraits exist of two of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, John Morton of Pennsylvania and John Hart of New Jersey, although a portrait which is said to be that of Hart hangs in Independence hall in Philadelphia and is said to have been painted from a miniature.

There is nothing extant of the father of George Washington, Augustine Washington, nor have any portraits been discovered of Colonel Ball, father of Mary Washington, mother of the general, or of John Dandridge, father of Washington's wife, Martha Washington.

A portrait which a great many collectors of old New York material would give a good deal to obtain is that of Samuel Fraunces, the West Indian tavern keeper, whose best known house was the old Fraunces' tavern, now owned by the Sons of the Revolution, restored since they purchased it a few years ago to its original condition. It is on lower Broad street, on the corner of Pearl street, and the famous long room in which Washington took farewell of his officers has been restored as closely as possible to its original form.

There is no portrait of William Cunningham, the heartless keeper of the provost jail in a corner of City Hall park during the Revolution. Betsy Ross, the celebrated maker of the first stars and stripes, has no portrait. Captain Miles Standish is among those who have left nothing of their personal appearance, nor is anything known of the intrepid French explorer Joliet, who traced the sources of the Mississippi.

Others of more or less note of whom there are no portraits are the old English dramatist, Christopher Marlowe; Richard Savage, another well known English dramatist, who died in 1743; Marquis Duquesne, from whom Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, got its first name from the French; George Clinton, royal governor of New York from 1743 to 1753 and father of the British general in the Revolution, Henry Clinton; Colonel John Henry Cruger, General Oliver de Lancy, Governor William Tryon, General John Forbes, Baron Dieskau, General Robert Howe and Bourrienne, Napoleon's famous secretary, who wrote an excellent life of the great French emperor.—New York Times.

Advice is seldom welcome. Those who need it most like it least.—Dr. Johnson.

Classic Ruses. Palmerston used to greet all whom he did not know with "How d'ye do, and how's the old complaint?" which fitted all sorts and conditions of men. Trivial illustrations, indeed, which we may dismiss with this single note of recognition, that they are every whit as socially sincere as "literal truths" told often in such a way as to create an entirely false impression.

At times the ruse rises into a fine art. I recall the cunning artist who painted the beautiful Irish girl, twice a duchess, with a sunflower that turns from the sun to look at her, and Mrs. Gaskell's heroine, who, as amateur clerk, tries to make the old bookkeeper forget that she is a woman by whistling. A millionaire peasant of Russia wished Engel to give piano lessons to his daughter, but in order to lessen the cost thought that she might do without learning the black keys. The master sat down at the piano and played Chopin's etude on the black keys so divinely that the father exclaimed: "The devil take the 5 rubles! She shall learn to play on the black keys too."—Atlantic Monthly.

The Wrong Bertie. Sir Francis Bertie was once the center of an amusing muddle at Windsor. It happened during the reign of Queen Victoria, when Sir Francis was permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs. Wanting to consult Lord Ponsonby about a certain matter he telegraphed to him at Windsor: "Shall be down tonight, Bertie."

The telegram was shown to the queen, and as Bertie was the name she always used to her son, the late King Edward, she came to the conclusion that he was going to pay her an unexpected visit. When Sir Francis arrived he was considerably taken aback at the elaborate preparations that had been made to receive him, and the old queen laughed heartily at the trick he had all unconsciously played on her, but when he was leaving she suggested that he should in future sign his telegrams in some other way.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Better One. At the monthly meeting of a certain homing society, one of the members related an interesting experience. He had recently sold a couple of "squeakers"—very young pigeons—to a man whose cote was 200 miles away. He sent them off by train and was astounded to find them back in the old cote two days later.

There was a painful silence, broken at length by the president's "Wonderful!" "You doubt my word?" demanded the narrator of the story. "Not a bit of it," was the reply. "It's a strange coincidence, that's all, sold the very same man a setting of eggs in the middle of June. Before the end of the month those birds had hatched out and had flown back to me! Homing instinct's a wonderful thing!"—Youth's Companion.

The Order of the Seraphim. The Order of the Seraphim is the oldest and most famous of the decorations in the gift of the king of Sweden. Originally it was instituted by Magnus IV., some 600 years ago, to commemorate the siege of Upsala, the ancient capital of the Swedish kings, and its statutes bound the recipients of the order to fight to the death for the maintenance of their religion and to constitute themselves the special protectors of the widow and the fatherless. When it was revived about the middle of the eighteenth century by King Frederick the obligations laid upon the members were somewhat less onerous. The decoration consists of an eight pointed star in white enamel with cherubs' heads of gold and is worn on a broad band of pale blue ribbon.

Banana Meal. It has been proved in India and the Malay peninsula that the produce from one acre of bananas or plantains, as the fruit is termed in that region, will support a much greater number of people than a similar area under any other crop, and the immense yield may be preserved for an indefinite period by drying the fruit and preparing meal from it. Plantain meal is made by stripping off the husk, slicing the core, drying it in the sun and then reducing it to powder, and finally sifting. It is calculated that the fresh core will give 40 per cent of meal and that an acre of average quality will yield over a ton.

Extinct. Teacher—Now, James, do you understand the meaning of the word "extinct"? James—Yes'm. Teacher—Then name one bird that is now extinct. James—Chipper. Teacher—Chipper? What kind of bird is that? James—My pet pigeon. The cat caught him this morning.—Judge.

Government. "Is this a government of the people, for the people and by the people?" "Well it was in the day of log houses and open fireplaces, but since we have built skyscraper blocks and 200 family apartment houses we have developed jaunters."—Buffalo Express.

Senna. The senna exported from Egypt is gathered from shrubs growing wild in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and the Red sea districts of Arabia.

No Infallibility. Dictionaries are like watches—the worst is better than none and the best cannot be expected to go quite true.—Samuel Johnson.

Integrity without knowledge is weak and useless.—Paley.

FAMOUS WINTERS IN PARIS.

Once Every River in France Was Ice and Every Mill Idle.

Recalling famous winters in France, the Paris Petit Journal says that "the fifteenth century might justly be called the cold century."

"In 1408 the registrars of the parliament of Paris reported that it was impossible to issue any of its resolutions because the ink froze in the ink bottles of the clerks. Every three words they had to thaw their pens, and this with a fire roaring in their room. Every river in France was frozen, and not a mill could work. Twelve years later, in 1420, there was a repetition of this winter. Foodstuffs gave out, and poor people died by tens of thousands."

"In 1712 in less than three days the wine and the vinegar froze in the cellars; cocks and hens had their combs frozen; the streets were full of people who danced, jumped, wrestled and ran races, anything to keep off frost-bite."

"In 1430 it froze for more than two and a half months, and the snow fell for forty days without stopping. All the birds hidden in the trunks of trees died."

"In 'the year of the great winter,' as 1603 was called, hundreds of persons died from cold. Everything was frozen hard, even the bread served at the table of Henry IV. In 1709 all the wheat was destroyed, and a new sowing had to be made in the spring. Buffon relates that no bread was to be had. Even Mme. de Maintenon had to go without it."

"In 1776 sentinels were found frozen to death outside Versailles, and the king put a stop to this service. In Paris great bonfires were lit in the streets. Bells were shattered into pieces as they rang, clocks stopped and in the cellars wine turned into ice. Hares and partridges came into the towns and hid themselves in the nooks and corners of houses, where they were subsequently found as stiff as a board and quite inedible."

HUNTING THE CARIBOU.

Curiosity Often Lures the Watchful Animal to Its Fate.

In hunting the caribou quietness is essential. Never break a twig if you can avoid it, for a cracking branch makes a noise which carries far and may give warning of your approach to the very stag you particularly want. Equally important is it to keep a sharp lookout at all times, especially when entering a barren, where a stag may be sleeping, for under such conditions they are hard to see. Among the numerous gray dead stumps and moss covered low trees the color of the caribou is so inconspicuous that the untrained eye will fail to detect the animal even at close range. The first intimation will be a glimpse of a disappearing patch of white as the caribou vanishes into the woods.

All these things considered, the caribou of Newfoundland is not as alert as any other deer that I know of and is therefore more readily approached. There is, of course, great variation among them, some being extremely alert and difficult to stalk, while others are so absurdly tame that they will allow a man to walk right up to within a few yards before taking flight. Curiosity is often a noticeable failing with them. When once it is aroused they will go to almost any length to satisfy it. I do not, however, advise the hunter to count too much on it, for the very thing which you imagine will tempt this curiosity will as likely as not frighten them away. Sometimes a strange noise will make them very inquisitive, and they will come within a few feet to find out what it is. Then, occasionally, a white handkerchief will have the same effect.—A. Radcliffe Dugmore in "The Romance of the Newfoundland Caribou."

Misleading Bookkeeping.

Even bookkeeping is not an exact science. For behold! how often is it that one man will put into the expense account a given expenditure—say, the rebuilding of a machine—thus reducing his profits by this amount, while another will put such an item to the asset account, and each can advance weighty arguments and reasons as to the logic of his methods. But the net results of operation will differ widely with the same actual occurrences, so that even bookkeeping may be said merely to present results dependent upon the aspects of the situation as rendered by those who have the authority or opportunity to interpret.—Benjamin A. Franklin in Engineering Magazine.

Points of the Crescent Moon.

Why does the moon sometimes appear with points turned upward and at other times downward? There is one cause only—the rotation of the earth. If the moon rises with points turned upward then, when it sets, the points must turn downward—that is, the western horizon meets the points in its apparent approach; they point toward it, apparently downward, in the western sky.—New York American.

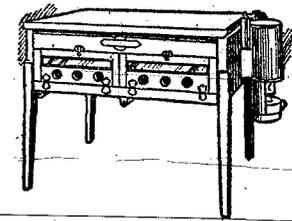

Felt the Power.

Bill—Music has a wonderful influence over us.
Jill—I know it.
"Did you ever feel the power of a slinger over you?"
"Sure! I married one!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Upward Revision.

"When first I consulted you about my eyes you told me it would cost 10 francs, but your bill is for 100 francs."
"That only shows the excellence of my treatment. Now you are ten times better."—Paris-Pele Male.

School Notes

Mrs. Johnson was a visitor on Wednesday afternoon.

The annual public school entertainment will be given next week on Friday evening, April 17th.

Every grade in the schools from the kindergarten to the Senior class in the high school will have a part on this program and those who attend will be given a full evening of good entertainment.

Newly enrolled pupils this week are Lucile Dean and Geraldine Johnson in the first grade, William Johnson in the second grade and Mildred Dennis in the seventh grade.

On Wednesday morning Rev. Blessing addressed the high school on "The Give and Take of Life."

Mr. Blessing very impressively pointed out that an individual gets out of life in proportion to what he put in. That life is like a savings bank and that depends upon the amount deposited. That one reaps what he sows and that if a person expects to be a success he must have an ambition to be and do right.

Thackeray's Criticism.

In "Bar, Bat and Bit" by the Hon. Sir Edward Chandos Leigh, is the following Thackeray story:

Thackeray and others were great frequenters of Evans', in Covent Garden, kept by Paddy Green, where the most beautiful gleees used to be sung. There was a little coterie there, and I was honored by being allowed to join that coterie. We used to devour chops, baked potatoes and other adjuncts to a homely supper after the theater. One night I found Thackeray alone at the table when up came a small, obsequious gentleman, who rubbed his hands together and addressed Thackeray with "the most fulsome compliments. When he passed on I said to Thackeray, "Pray tell me who is that?" His answer was, "He calls himself an artist, but he paints as much in butter as he does in oil."

Arms and the Child.

Girl scouts exist in Germany also. Instead of camp fire girls they call them something that sounds like a mixture of Fenimore Cooper and musical comedy—Pathfindresses is the literal translation. Apparently, too, they go in for being military with true German thoroughness. One reads how a head game warden presented himself at the shop of a dealer in firearms in Berlin and desired to purchase a revolver. "A revolver?" said the dealer. "I'm sorry, sir, but I've just sold the last gross of revolvers in the shop to the Potsdam battalion of girl scouts."—New York Post.

A Sunny Disposition.

Willie—Paw, what is a sunny disposition? Paw—That is something which is possessed by a man who points out the silver lining in the cloud and then borrows your umbrella before it starts to rain, my son.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Answer of a Diplomat.

"You replace Dr. Franklin," said the French prime minister, Count de Verennes, to Thomas Jefferson, the newly arrived representative of the United States. "I merely succeed him. No one could replace him," was Jefferson's reply.

Not What She Meant.

Tardy Arrival at a Dinner Party—I'm afraid I am too late, dear Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith (effusively)—Oh, my dear, you could never come too late!—London Illustrated Bits.

Professional Sagacity.

Dentist's Wife—Why do you open the floor of the patients' room when I sing? Dentist—Want to let the waiters know it isn't the patients.—Columbia Jester.

If the power to do hard work is not talent it is the best possible substitute for it.—Garfield.

Special Sale of Trees-Shrubs-Bushes

Beginning Next

SATURDAY, APRIL 11 1914

The Wayne Variety store will have a special sale next Saturday of Trees, Shrubs, and Bushes all to be sold at the uniform price of 10c each.

These plants come from one of the most reliable and largest nurseries west of Chicago. The extremely low price is only possible because they are ordered in large quantities, and the salary and commission of a go between agent is cut out entirely.

The plants comprise the following.

- APPLE TREES, 3 to 4 feet high, only Winter Varieties—Jonathon, Grimes Golden, York Imperial, Rome beauty, Wealthy, Stayman's Winesap, 10c
- ROSE BUSHES, different varieties, for 10c
- CURRENT BUSHES, red and yellow, for 10c
- GRAPES, baked potatoes and other adjuncts to a homely supper after the theater. One night I found Thackeray alone at the table when up came a small, obsequious gentleman, who rubbed his hands together and addressed Thackeray with "the most fulsome compliments. When he passed on I said to Thackeray, "Pray tell me who is that?" His answer was, "He calls himself an artist, but he paints as much in butter as he does in oil."
- LILAC BUSHES, for 10c
- SPIREAS, HYDRANGEAS BERRIES, etc. for 10c

All these plants are dormant and will not spoil if not planted immediately. They have given entire satisfaction wherever sold and the nursery where we got them from sells them to the biggest stores in increased quantities for years. Just try a few this year, next year you will buy more. You may pay more for your trees and bushes but you won't get better ones.
