DEATH OF MRS. CUNNINGHAM

Wayne Mourns the Departure of a True Woman in the Sudden Death of Mrs. Jennie B. Cunningham, Early Friday Morning

FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED

There is real sorrow among the people of Wayne this week over the death of Mrs. Jennie B. Cunningham, which occurred at the family home in this city Friday morning, May 1, 1914, following a short sickness of pneumonia. Knowing her physical weakness and the relentless disease she was stricken with she predicted the termination, nor could encouraging words of friends near and dear to her dissuade her from the conviction that the grim reaper was reaching for her—yet she did not give up the struggle to live long enough to see once more her daughter, who was summoned in all haste from her distant home in Montana. For her death held no terrors and she came to the passing from this life with the same fortitude with which she had fought its battles for her friends, the people and herself. From the time the dread disease manifested itself as it really was, on Monday, no effort was spared to heal—the best of medical skill was summoned, but all efforts were without avail and a weakened heart yielded before the disease had run its usual course, and surrounded by such friends and relatives as could reach her bedside before the end came she passed peacefully and bravely to a better land with the one desire to say farewell to the dear daughter, the only longing to stay.

Jennie B. Horton was born at Manchester, New Hampshire, the daughter of Wm. S. and A. M. Horton, August 31, 1861. Her parents were of that sturdy, honest New England stock that knew no fear save the fear to do wrong, she inherited and cultivated many of the virtues of her people, for in Mrs. Cunningham the poor and the rich had a sure friend. There was no hypocrisy—and wrong doing she could not countenance, and was always ready to denounce it whether venerated with the gloss of wealth and pleasure or seen in all its hideous nakedness—it all appeared alike to her.

Editor E. W. Huse, who had long known her, pays her the following tribute:

"Mrs. Cunningham had a bright, dynamic mind, and was the embodiment of unflagging nervous energy. Her keen sense of discrimination between right and wrong, justice and injustice, enabled her to benefit society to an important degree. She was only not a source of powerful encouragement and aid to her family, but her kindly counsel and good cheer lifted many drooping hearts and sent them on with renewed hope. The boys were her friends because she was their friend. Often during her life time, young men headed for ruin, have been persuaded through her influence to change their habits and become useful members of society. In the rough quartz, she discerned the pure gold, and with all the force of her indomitable nature, she sought to save and develop it.

"Mrs. Cunningham loved little children. She did not see a little one superficially. She did not notice chiefly its clothes nor the cleanliness of its face. She searched the child's soul and discovered its strong points. She had time to talk to it and the result was mutual esteem.

"Anyone unjustly dealt with or the victim of adversity found in Mrs. Cunningham a stout defender and a ready helper. Pharisaic pretense was utterly repugnant to her nature and impossible for her to practice. Thus she spoke frankly and fearlessly, having regard for the right rather than for selfish interest."

Coming as a child from her New England home with her parents to Bureau county, Illinois soon after the close of the civil war, her childhood days were spent there, and in 1875 they moved to Gilman, Iowa, where she lived until coming to Wayne in 1892. Here she was wooed and won by E. Cunningham, who with a son and daughter, Don Cunningham and Mrs. Claude Hudson of Montana with her aged mother, Mrs. Horton, and two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Hungerford of Billings, Montana, and Mrs. Lillian White of Des Moines, Iowa, all of whom were present at her funeral,

New Council Meets

There was a meeting of the new city council at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, all members being present, L. C. Gildersleeve and Frank Powers being the new men who succeed John Larison and John Gaertner, who moved away before his term was completed, and for whom no successor was named until the regular election this spring.

J. G. W. Lewis was elected president of the council, to preside in the absence of the mayor.

Mayor Chace appointed the following committees and officers and the council confirmed the same.

Street and Alley Committee—G. A. Lamberson, W. O. Hansson, Frank Powers.

Electric Light Committee—W. O. Hansson, L. C. Gildersleeve, G. A. Lamberson.

Water Committee—Herman Lundberg, L. C. Gildersleeve, W. O. Hansson.

Finance Committee—J. G. W. Lewis, Herman Lundberg, Frank Powers.

Water Commissioner, J. M. Cherry; Chief of Police, G. L. Miner; City Physician, F. C. Zoll; Street Commissioner, Walter Miller.

Members of Park Board—James Britton, John T. Bressler, John H. Massie.

The official bonds of F. S. Ringland, city treasurer, for $5,000 and J. M. Cherry city clerk for $1,000, were examined and approved.

A proposition for a dump ground of about two acres for the city was presented and referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Lundberg, Hansson and Powers were named to investigate the matter and act as best in the matter. The proposed plan is for the city to cut a short channel for the Loagn just north of the bridge east of town and make short cut for the water, and with the earth removed build a road way over the old river channel. This will make accessible about two acres of land now almost surrounded by the river, the property of John T. Bressler, and the right of city to use tract for dump purposes for a term of 20 years is to be given for the work of cutting the new channel, a distance not to exceed two rods in length, if we are correctly informed. The farmers who have to travel along the public highway near which some dumping has been allowed complain of the things left there which frighten the teams and hope to see the new dump established.

The following licenses have been granted for the year, none to be transferable: Wm. Dammeyer, billiard hall; W. E. Winteringer, billiard hall; Frank Sederstrom, billiard hall; James Britton, opera house; F. A. Nance, moving picture show; Walter Savidge, moving picture show. The duties and salary of water commissioner were considered and the city attorney was directed to draw an ordinance amending the present law and provide for a salary of $55 per month, after which the council adjourned.

Closes a Successful School

Miss Fish, who presided over the school in the True Prescott district during the past school term closed with a box social Friday evening at which all present listened to an excellent program and enjoyed a social hour. The boxes brought a generous sum which will be used for the needs of the school.

A party of 17 from the college made up a load for the event and were well paid in fun and entertainment for the time and expense of the trip.

The Cradle

BARNETT—Tuesday, April 28, 1914, to Harry Barnett and wife, a daughter.

MAU—Saturday, May 2, 1914, to Henry Mau and wife, a son.

THARP—Tuesday, May 5, 1914, to Roy Tharp and wife, a daughter.

The funeral services were conducted from the home Monday afternoon, by Rev. Lloyd Cunningham of Atkinson and the body was gently laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery. The funeral was largely attended, the business houses closing, that all might attend, and such a wealth of floral offering has never before been given at Wayne. The casket containing all that was mortal of Mrs. Cunningham was all but buried in flowers. The world is better for such lives as Mrs. Cunningham lived, and all who knew her paused to drop a tear at her bier, realizing that a true and faithful friend had departed.

Death of Henry Lucas

Henry Lucas was born in central Iowa in 1863, and moved with his parents to Missouri Valley when he was ten years of age, then to Wayne county, Nebraska, about 25 years ago. After a lingering illness of several months he passed away on the morning of May 1st, and the body was interred in the Winside cemetery last Saturday afternoon.

The deceased was handicapped when a small boy by being stricken by a disease that made him a terrible cripple for life. He grew to manhood in this condition, but this did not deter or lessen his ambition to do what other men did. He had his faults and with associates would pull off some wild western stunts, but no one ever heard of Hank Lucas going back on a friend and voluntarily would often step in to fight their battles and seldom came out second best.

The man large or small that called him dishonest, tricky or a coward started something that had to be finished then and there. For several years past, Henry was the manager of the Cullen harness business and was also elected Justice of the Peace and performed these duties in an intelligent and upright manner.

We have often heard it said by men, "if I had to go before any court of justice, even if my life was at stake, I would prefer Henry Lucas." No more will we see the familiar figure of Henry Lucas, but the intelligent mind, his friendly manners and great big generous heart will remain with us forever. Henry became a devoted believer in the Great Redeemer and prayed daily to be forgiven for sins committed and we do believe that God answered his prayers.

Firemen Elect Officers

Wayne firemen held their annual meeting Tuesday evening and named officers for the coming year, as follows:

Chief, G. A. Lamberson; assistant chief, Martin Ringer; secretary, L. V. Ley; treasurer, Geo. Fortner; steward, J. J. Ahern.

The members of the hose carts named H. B. Craven foreman and J. H. Pile assistant foreman; the hook and ladder selected P. L. Mabbot as foreman and R. L. Will assistant.

The members voted to give the check received from the last fire to fireman R. L. Will in partial payment for the horse he had the misfortune to lose while driving the boys to that fire. It was a great thing to do and an act that will be much appreciated.

With the available material here to draw from, if Wayne should see fit to organize a running team, the Democrat cannot see why they should not have a company that would not have to take dust from the best there is in the state if they will but decide to do so. A good running team puts new life into a volunteer organization of firemen, and while it does not mean that they can fight fire any better it is a great help to the interest in the organization.

Going Out of Business

It is a hard thing for a man to go out of business all at once. He can get in very suddenly—but he must have help to get out—and in getting out he frequently helps other people. Bert McClary has sold the great bulk of his stock in a lump, but he had a line of new oilstoves, table cutlery, kitchen utensils and novelties as well as some farm hardware which was not included in his sale, and this he is going to give to his many friends and former patrons at their own price. We notice the newlyweds and those who are contemplating marriage soon, looking over the line of goods with an eye singled to getting a kitchen outfit for little money, while the wives who want an oil stove to save money with all season are surely going to be in at the killing Saturday. If Bert has any bargains they want their share.

A Few Late News Items

Richard Olney was offered the presidency of the federal reserve banking board, but declined—too busy these good democratic times. President Wilson forgot trouble for an hour this week and went to the circus, fed the elephant peanuts and lived the free life of a boy again for a short time.

HAPPY HOME WEDDING PARTY

Miss Clara Heckert and Mr. Freeman Norris United in Bonds of Wedlock at Home of Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Heckert

OTHER SOCIAL NEWS OF INTEREST

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Bard Heckert, in giving their daughter Miss Clara Elizabeth in marriage to Mr. Freeman Norris of Hastings, Nebraska, at noon, Wednesday, May 6, 1914. The house was darkened, the chandeliers decorated with pink shades and apple blossoms and lighted with myriads of tall, white candles in crystal holders. The decorations were apple blossoms, asparagus ferns and smilax, which were banked across the end of the large reception hall to conceal the musicians and form a background for the wedding party.

Promptly at 12 o'clock to the strains of Lohengren wedding march, played by Miss Bessie Crockett at the piano and Ensign Young at violin, the bridal party descended the winding stairway which was laced with apple blossoms and smilax. Leading the bridal procession came little Faunel Senter and Alice Blair—marching together, dressed in white with pink sashes and hair bows, carrying bouquets of sweet peas and holding the ends of a long rope of smilax. Next came Miss Maude Heckert, cousin of the bride, and Freda Ellis, Miss Heckert gowned in white with pink sash and pink maline butterfly head dress. Miss Ellis was gowned in rose pink and white with lavender maline head dress and both carrying bouquets of sweet peas and holding the rope of smilax. Then came the Misses Jessie Strickland and Margurite Chace. Miss Strickland was gowned in flowered crepe with yellow sash and yellow maline head dress. Miss Chace wore white imported voile with blue sash and blue maline head dress, both carrying bouquets of sweet peas and ends of smilax ropes.

At the foot of the stairs they separated, forming an aisle across the room through which came the maid of honor, a sister of the bride, gowned in rosebud silk with white hat trimmed in rosebuds and carrying a large bouquet of sweet peas and ferns, followed by the bride on the arm of her father. The bride wore an old rose silk gabardine suit with waist of mechlin lace, picture hat of black lace and wearing a corsage bouquet of white sweet peas, lilies of the valley and asparagus ferns. They were met by the groom and his best man, Mr. J. E. Tucker of Kansas City, Mo., preceded by the Rev. Meyers who entered from the back parlor through an aisle formed by old rose ribbons carried by the Misses Alma Craven, Lotos Relyea, Neva Orr and Mate Relyea, all gowned in white. Then the maids in waiting formed a semi-circle around the wedding party until after the impressive double ring ceremony.

After congratulations they were conducted to the dining room where a three-course breakfast was served to sixty guests, the Misses Craven, Orr and Relyea performing the table waiting.

The bridal party and parents of the bride and groom were seated at a large table decorated with ropes of smilax and sweet peas draped from the chandeliers to the corners of the table with a large bow of sweet peas in the center and lighted by candles in crystal holders. After the repast the bride and groom departed by automobile to take a train for Wakefield, accompanied by a number of their friends, who also accompanied them by train to Emerson continually showering them with evidence of their best wishes. Mr. and Mrs. Norris after a short trip in the east will be at home June 15 at Hastings, where the groom is embarking in the jewelry business.

The bride who grew to womanhood at Wayne is most favorably known and the groom formed a large circle of friends while here two years ago in the employ of L. A. Fenske, and all wish them well.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Norris and Miss Harriett Norris, parents and sister of the groom, from Grand Island, and Miss Clara Jane Heckert and Miss Maude Heckert of Red Oak, Iowa, cousin and aunt of the bride.

Last Friday afternoon Mrs. Piper entertained complimentary to Miss Clara Heckert, with a miscellaneous shower. They spent the afternoon in sewing for the kitchen. Miss Piper assisted by Miss Gertrude Gaebler served delicious refreshments.

There was a pleasant social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Laughlin Wednesday evening. The occasion was a surprise to Mrs. Laughlin, a number of friends having gathered during her absence.

Miss Clara Heckert was a guest of honor last Saturday afternoon at a kitchen shower given by Miss Jane Arnold. The afternoon was spent at Kensington. Dainty refreshments were served.

The library board will meet next Tuesday evening.

Regular meeting of the O. E. S. next Monday.

School Notes

The Junior-Senior banquet last Friday evening was a great success.

The program by the Freshman class last Friday represented a reunion of the class of 1914 in 1934.

Russell Myers goes to Crawford this evening to compete for honors in the humorous class of the state Declamatory Contest.

On Wednesday morning Rev. Moehring of the German Lutheran church, delighted the high school students and teachers with a most scholarly address on "The Ideal Student and His Ideals." That the excellent address was enjoyed and appreciated was proved by the attention and applause given the speaker.

The high school people are enjoying the German exhibit furnished free by the German-American Association of Nebraska. The exhibit contains books, newspapers, magazines, pictures, coins, flags, etc., arranged in the library and explained by Miss Braumger, the exhibit is delightfully interesting and valuable. The public is invited to come and see it.

John Hufford was called to Randolph on business today.

Death of Mrs. Luther Milliken

Death came suddenly to the home of Luther Milliken, Tuesday, May 5, 1914, claiming the wife of less than a year, after an illness of but one day. Minnie Johan Milliken, who died of puerperal eclampsia was 22 years, 2 months and 26 days of age. She was the daughter of Henry Rellman and wife and grew to womanhood here, and many are the friends who will mourn her sudden death and sympathize with the bereaved husband, to whom she was united in marriage last September.

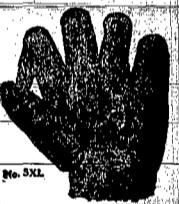

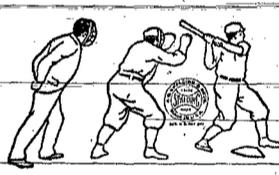

The funeral is to be held this afternoon at the German Lutheran church near their home southwest of Wayne, conducted by the pastor, and the burial will be in the cemetery near the church.

Threatened Blood Poisoning

Last week while spiking down rails a spike which Herman Sund was starting to drive was thrown out of the tie by a glancing blow of the sledge, and struck the back of his right hand cutting quite a gash and seriously bruising the hand as such a blunt instrument would do. Worse than that, the spike infected the hand, and after several days of unsuccessful treatment by local physicians he went to Sioux City Wednesday morning and entered the Samaritan hospital for care. He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Carl Sund. Mr. Sund is foreman of one of the sections which terminate at Wayne and it is to be hoped that the wound yields to hospital treatment.

Evidence of Wealth Increases

The monthly report of County Clerk Reynolds of the mortgages filed and released shows that the aggregate of paper filed is greater than that released. Of farm mortgages 25 were filed valued at $142,410; while 22 were released amounting to $96,575. Of city plasters put on there were 7 totaling $5,150; 4 were released footing up $1,350. 61 chattels were placed on record, $23,675.98, and the 47 released were $25,853.76.

He has had five years police experience. He went to Hoskins from Sioux City. It was generally understood that some of the members of the new town board at Hoskins were unfavorable to the marshal because of arrests he had made some months ago. To avoid being discharged, Dana filed his resignation to take effect May 1. Dana is the marshal who featured in the street fight with the Brueckner brothers.—Norfolk News.

Governor Morehead Issues Annual Proclamation.

Lincoln, May 4.—Mothers who live and those who have gone on before will be remembered in devotionals and other activities next Sunday, according to the annual Mothers' day proclamation issued by Governor Morehead. In it he said:

"We have no prettier custom than that which sets aside one day each year as Mothers' day. It is well to be called back in memory to the happy days of childhood, when we played around mother's knees, and it is fitting that we make acknowledgment of the debt we owe to her who sacrificed so much for us.

"That we may, for a time, turn our hearts and minds to her who has blessed, loved and sacrificed for us; that we may pay tribute to her memory, if she be gone, and that we may manifest our love and devotion to her, if she be living, I proclaim Sunday, May 10, 1914, Mothers' day, and recommend a suitable observance of the day throughout the state."

TORNADO DOES DAMAGE

Twister Near Holbrook Tears Up a Few Farms.

Holbrook, Neb., May 5.—A tornado struck ten miles northwest of Holbrook, blowing down buildings, telephone poles, fences, etc. The Elmwood school house was blown to splinters and lumber was found three-quarters of a mile over the field. The floor and heating stove were left standing. Mike Long lost his granary and barn and Arch Tomblin two sheds; Ole Sides, hog sheds and windmill; Luke Cawthar, a shed; William Schwartz, a barn.

The path of the tornado was twelve miles long and it took a northeasterly course and was a quarter of a mile wide. Two inches of rain and hail accompanied the twister.

STATE ESCAPES HEAVY FROST

Cloudy Weather Prevents Much Damage to Fruit Crop.

Lincoln, May 5.—That Nebraska closely escaped a very destructive frost, is the opinion of Secretary Duncan of the State Horticultural society. "I have received no reports showing that any part of the state suffered damage last week," said Mr. Duncan. "It was probably about the narrowest escape the state has had for many years. The temperature was low enough for three nights, but fortunately the clouds remained until morning and no frost of a killing nature appeared.

"Should we escape farther along in the season there are indications that there will be a large crop of fruit of many kinds," said he.

STATE CROP REPORT IS GOOD

Burlington's Report of Conditions is Warm With Promise.

Omaha, May 5.—The Burlington's Nebraska soil and crop report for the week ending May 2 is the most roseate document of the kind that has ever come from the company's agricultural department. Never was one of the reports more optimistic and this is what it has to say relative to the condition of the winter wheat along the lines of the several divisions, which cover practically all of the agricultural area of the state: Omaha division, 100 per cent; Lincoln, 101; Wymore, 103; McCook, 96.

Lancaster County Wins Suit.

The case of Lancaster county against the state of Nebraska, tried in the district court in this county, has resulted in a verdict for the county in the sum of $10,384.27. The suit is the outcome of the Capital National bank failure in 1893. The state legislature gave the county permission to bring the suit and this is the second time it has been tried in this court, the supreme court remanding the case back on the first suit.

Huerta Collecting Taxes Ahead.

Lincoln, May 5.—According to John Tully, president of the First National bank of Crete, President Huerta of Mexico is collecting taxes on land owned by Americans in Mexico double the valuation of last year, the collection coming through his bank for Crete people owning Mexican land. The offer is also made that if payment is made for 1915 a reduction will be made on the amount charged for 1914.

Four Speakers Selected.

Omaha, May 5.—The executive committee of the Nebraska State Teachers' association has selected four of the speakers who will address the teachers at the meeting in Omaha in November. The speakers are David Snedden, commissioner of education of Massachusetts; George Strayer and Henry Suzzalo of the School of Education of Columbia, and Paul Hanus of the Harvard faculty.

Neverly Is Given One to Five Years.

Broken Bow, Neb., May 4.—Julius Neverly, the young farmer charged with mortgaging cattle he never owned, pleaded guilty before District Judge Hosteller and received a sentence of from one to five years in the penitentiary. There is another count of a like nature against Neverly in Valley county.

State Funeral Directors to Meet.

Omaha, May 4.—More than 500 funeral directors and undertakers will attend the annual convention of the Nebraska association, which will be held in Omaha, June 9 to 11. Preliminary plans call for a three days' session.

Constant increase in the meat production of the country is predicted by experts of the federal forest service in announcing an increase in the number of live stock for which grazing permits have been authorized on the 160 national forests for 1914, as compared with last year.

All efforts to obtain immediate ratification by the senate of the treaty with Colombia providing for the payment of $25,000,000 by the United States to end the ten-year dispute over the secession of Panama, practically has been abandoned by the administration pending the settlement of the difficulties with Mexico.

That Andrew Carnegie had been marked for death by M. P. Mahoney, who attempted to kill Mayor Mitchel, April 17, but instead shot and wounded Corporation Counsel Polk, was asserted by Dr. M. S. Gregory at the inquiry in New York into Mahoney's sanity. The witness said that the prisoner had told him of the plan to kill Carnegie.

A man about sixty years old, who described himself as Major Henry C. Fitzgerald, an American, and believed to have been formerly paymaster on the staff of General Merritt in the Philippines, was found shot at the Charing Cross hotel in London. He died later in a hospital. The police are of the opinion that he committed suicide.

That the net income and operating revenues of eastern railroads are "smaller than is consistent with their assured prosperity and the welfare of the community" was announced as a conclusion by Louis D. Brandeis, counsel for the interstate commerce commission, in the 5 per cent advance rate case. He maintained, however, that to make a horizontal advance in all freight rates as proposed by the railroads was illegal.

She had been operated on for appendicitis, and other complications set in and she had been back for additional treatment, under which she was improving.

There was quite a shipment of stock down the branch Tuesday afternoon, and among the lot were two cars of cattle each from Asher Hurlbut and James Stephens shipped from Sholes to South Omaha and a car of cattle by John Shannon from Carroll. We venture the assertion that there is not a county in the state of the size of Wayne county that has fattened as many cattle the past season as the feeders and farmers of his county.

Last Sunday Mrs. Wm. H. Weber and son left for Dunning, in the northwest part of this state to put in the season on the Weber ranch at that place. Mrs. Weber and the boys have been spending the past two seasons on the place and are successfully farming a part of the land. It makes an ideal summer outing.

The Wayne Tennis association is rapidly coming to the front rank in point of membership, now having 45 members enrolled—and as to courts they have three of the very best in the state now practically finished and the state meet which is to be held here in August, probably gives promise of being one of the best annuals they have ever had.

Wm. Goldsmith and family, arrived from Plainview and have rented a house in the east part of town and will make Wayne their future home as Mr. Goldsmith is well aware of the fact that Wayne has one of the best schools in the state and wants to give his children the benefit of a first class school thereby fitting them for an independent life.

Ed Dana, formerly marshal at Hoskins was at Wayne Monday seeking legal advice. Wonder if he remained at Hoskins long enough to catch the prevailing complaint of that otherwise excellent community. We do not know what the latin term for the trouble is but it extends from the head to the pocketbook and is treated more generally by lawyers than physicians. It is a bad epidemic to have in a community, and it is to be hoped that it will subside at Hoskins.

Spring is here—apparently. The winter clouds have rolled away—the carpet of snow—didn't have any last winter—gave place to one of brown—a gentle rain came—two weeks ago and the brown turned to green over night as it were—millions of acres of green carpet spread o'er the landscape in a night. Then comes a few days of chill and nights of frost—another rain follows and the tree branches, long bare, throw a canopy of green over the landscape. Plums, apples, cherries and other fruit trees burst into bloom and we say that spring is here and the weary tourists come rejoicing from a far land, glad that spring has come to their home so that they can come home. But can they enjoy it like one who has stayed and watched for its coming and met it with a glad greeting?

He was a scissors grinder. Just plain, ordinary scissors grinder. He carried a grain sack tied at one end and in the middle, neatly balancing his worldly effects in either end. He entered Temple's cigar store on Main street. Bob Mellor stood just inside the door, mistaking him for the proprietor the stranger asked: "May I leave this bundle in here for a short time?" "Sure you can" answered Mellor, appreciating the fact that he had been taken for the owner of the store. "I never close until midnight and you can leave it here as long as you want to. This fellow here," pointing to Temple, who stood back of the counter, "is working for me and I make him hold open until midnight." Temple failed to see the joke at first. "You've got your cheek," he said addressing Mellor, "this man will think you do own this store." "Well, don't I own it?" asked Mellor looking Temple direct in the eye. "and aren't you working for me?" And to make his argument strong he proceeded behind the cigar case. opened it and took a cigar out, lighted it and rang up the dime with the air of proprietorship. The scissors grinder looked dismayed. He gazed from one to the other then deposited his bag on the case "Say, Temple," continued Mellor, "I want you to dry that case out a bit, this cigar of mine is too damp. Don't forget that." And before Temple could reply he walked out of the store. Although Temple tried to explain to the man that he was really the proprietor and that Mellor had played a joke on him, the scissors-grinder only grinned, gave Temple a knowing wink and walked out.

Senator John H. Kemp of Fullerton, who has been frequently mentioned as a candidate for governor before the republican primaries, is now said to be about to decline that prospective honor and try for the republican nomination for congress from this third district.

A democratic postmaster, S. C. Lynde took charge of the office at Hartington, May 1. The office last year lacked but a few dollars of business enough to place it in the second class list. No doubt but that when it has had a full year under democratic administration it will come up to the scratch, and enter a higher class.

Russian music, which strikes to the very heart of music lovers, will be featured at the annual concerts of the Mendelssohn choir in Omaha May 18 and 19. Perhaps the most popular of Russian composers, the opera "Joshua" by Moussoussky will be given for the first time in this section. This opera lay in obscurity for forty-three years before it was recognized and since has enjoyed a continual success and has made the composer the most famous of the Russians.

Thomas Wilkey and four associates organized Washington lodge No. 1 I. O. O. F., at Baltimore, Md., on April 6, 1819, which was the founding of the American, or Independent Order of Odd Fellows. The ninety-fifth anniversary of this event was appropriately celebrated by Wisner lodge No. 61 in their hall last Saturday night. The ladies of the Rebekah lodge and a few friends were invited and participated in the enjoyment of the interesting and pleasing occasion.—Chronicle.

Two Cedar county estates contributed more than $1,200 to the road fund of the county last month. The Henry Lange estate's inheritance tax for the roads was $781 and that of John W. Lammers amounted to $519.95. The Lange estate was valued at $125,000, so you see the roads only got a little that could not be taken care of by the widow, her exemptions and the family. The exemptions in this case were much greater than the sum which went to the public—more than ten times as much.

The old man took a lay-off last week and attended the meeting of the democratic editors at Lincoln. Owing to the fact that the meeting was held on Tuesday, a poor time of the week for the average newspaper man to drop his duties, the attendance was small, not more than 30 being present. But little was accomplished except the re-organization of the association and the only friction was over the attempt of a couple of the members to force the adoption of a resolution specifically endorsing the democratic senator and democratic congressmen which brought out some debate and on a vote the plan received but two votes for and about twenty-eight against. The association will meet again shortly after the primary election and at that time the meeting will be called for Friday and a good attendance is looked for.—South Omaha will entertain the bunch next time.—Norfolk Press.

Nebraska Needs More Cows and Creameries

Under the above heading D. W. Hovey of this state writes to the Hoard's Dairyman as follows:

"There is no question that the dairy business of the semi-arid farms of Nebraska must soon become one of the principal means of income. The crop failures, or semi-crop failures, which have simply allowed the farmer, to exist without giving him anything for improvement or expansion, will drive him to seek other methods of increasing his income and the dairy business is right in his line. Alfalfa has been a great boon to him, and its development has not yet been pushed far enough to glut the market and probably will not be for several years to come. When that time comes, the dairy business will have developed to such an extent that it will absorb large quantities of it.

The farmer of Nebraska has within his reach two of the greatest milk producing foods on earth, alfalfa and ensilage, both of which can be grown abundantly in any section of the state. He also has the bran that is produced right at home. All he lacks is the blue-grass pasture, but when he has learned to feed his dairy stock the year round he will begin to realize what it means to sell his product from the farm in concentrated form. A ton of wheat removes $6.83 worth of fertility from the soil, and brings only about $25; while a ton of butter only removes about 25c worth of fertility and brings $600. Therefore, all of the crops possible should be fed on the farm and thereby retain the fertility of the soil. No community that has enough cows to support a creamery should be without one. The creamery near home makes it possible for the farmer to deliver his cream in a fine condition so that the butter-maker is able to make butter that will command a premium of two cents above the market. If there is no creamery near home the farmer keeps his cream for a week; it has to be shipped by rail to the creamery, and on its receipt it is in bad condition and makes an inferior butter which sells from two to four cents under the market. The centralizer pays the same price for all grades of cream, and therefore, in addition to reasons above given, is quite likely to receive cream of inferior grade. As a result the quality of the butter is lowered and its price is from two to four cents under the market and this in turn reduces the price paid the producer for cream. The co-operative creamery butter-maker visits the farmer and instructs him how to produce a cream that will yield butter that will bring a premium of two cents per pound above the market, and being a co-operative creamery, this increased price is shared with the farmer. The centralizer method entails upon the farmer a loss of from four to six cents per pound of butter-fat as compared with the method of having a creamery near his farm.

No creamery should be closed unless there is a lack of cows to maintain it. No creamery should be closed on account of mismanagement for there are always men who can be had to assist the manager to a thorough knowledge of how to successfully manage a creamery and who are able to assist the butter-maker in making a quality of butter that will score high. No farmer should allow a creamery to be closed in his locality if he can possibly assist it to continue in business. A good live creamery assists in making a good, live town, and a good, live town adds to the value of all the real estate in that community. Every live institution in a town assist every other institution in that place, whether it be a general store, a bank, a butcher shop, or a blacksmith shop. Every individual in a town is a consumer of what the farmer raises, they constitute the farmers' market. Therefore, let us all pull together in a common cause to better the condition of all.

Do not let the cream stand near the barn when it cools, as it will take on a barn flavor and spoil a lot of butter, your neighbors as well as your own. Do not let it stand near any kind of vegetables, as it will spoil it for making high priced butter. Do not put the warm cream in with the cold, do not keep the cream longer than two days except in cold weather, deliver your cream to the creamery before it sours, and skim your cream so it will test from 35 to 37 per cent. Do these things and you will make the most money from your cows.

Look at the report of some of the co-operative creameries of Minnesota and note that they are receiving in two cents above the market for their butter. It is there that everyone interested is doing his duty, and they are receiving their reward. Try it here in Nebraska, and you will receive the same re-

Boys and Tobacco

Superintendent Waterhouse of the Fremont schools made a tabulated report concerning the use of tobacco by the boys in the high school proving its deleterious effect upon the boy addicted to the weed. Commencing editorially upon the report the Tribune says:

The figures show conclusively that the boys who use tobacco are deficient in their studies. They are so elaborate and so uniform as to carry conviction of the folly of using the narcotic. These facts are not far-fetched. They were compiled with reference to Fremont boys. It is not prudery that call attention to them or to argue from them against the tobacco habit. That the mentality of the young is reduced is proven by the record. And Fremont boys are the victims of it. There is no compensation benefit. Both chewing and smoking are filthy, and taking snuff is positively disgusting. That boys can find something much better to do with their money than to invest it in pipes, and perique, cigars and cigarettes, is not open to debate. They need not fear the challenge of being molluscoides. The reward for letting tobacco alone greatly outweighs the profits or satisfaction of its use. Cut out the high school figures for it, boys, and paste them in your hat. Then cut out the tobacco.

Imaginary Heart Trouble

Do you have pains in the region of the heart? Its terrible pounding alarms you? What is wrong? Do you believe these symptoms mean heart trouble? Organic diseases of the heart very seldom occasion much pain. Nearly all of these pains are caused by some derangement of the stomach. Meritol Tonic Digestive is especially recommended for indigestion and dyspepsia, and for restoring the stomach to its normal functions and—no more "heart disease." Wells on Hills

Many farmers who reside on rolling land locate their buildings on high points or hill tops primarily for the point of view. Some farmers, however, reserve the elevation for a good well, wind mill and cistern. From the bottom of the cistern by pipe line, is drawn the water used on the farm, one line of pipe running to the house and the other to the barn, hog house and water tank, so that all points are served by the gravity system. This method is very satisfactory and is especially appreciated by the farm wife, who by the simple turning of a faucet, secures water for the house instead of having to carry it from a distant well. Oftentimes the water must be carried up the hill to the house. The amount of labor connected with the water on the farm is of such magnitude that buildings can well afford to vacate the high points and take a location so that the water supply can have the natural gravity advantage to be had only by a hill top well.

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press, Thursday:

Table with market prices for Oats, Corn, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, and Fat Cattle.

We ask our farmer readers to study the article relating to the need of creameries and cowboys in Nebraska, taken from Hoard's Dairyman. It is full of truths.

When Mexico is reserved for Mexicans and the poor are given the right to own a home of their own, then will Mexico begin to become civilized.

And Colonel Teddy is back among the living again. We fear he has been absent long enough for a lot of "progressives" of the Cummins strip to stampede the whole bullmoose herd.

In France the wealth is more evenly distributed than in any of the old countries—and they have lots of it. In this country we have lots of wealth, but it is in spots—great riches for a few hard times for many.

At Pender this year the high school has a graduating class of four, and they are not going to have more than four saloons. Perhaps if they cut out some of the saloons they might be able to muster up more graduates.

Some people have to have their friends look after a hearse for them after they are dead—not so with Jawn Rockefeller, Jr. Upton Sinclair has one of those vehicles always following this great benefactor of mankind.

According to the Norfolk Press, County Attorney Koehnstein of that place is handling the fondling duties of his office in a highly satisfactory manner in not entirely relinquishing all claim on a deserted child which it was his duty to look after. If our county attorney had one or two of those little ones to look after it would cause more gray hairs to adorn his manly brow than he now wears.

The State Journal is authority for the statement that business conditions in Europe are no livelier than here, and that if the new tariff has destroyed American industry it has also extended its baneful influence across the water.

And even Japan—with all of the reported animosity toward us did not fail us when we stood in need of their "moral support" in our conflict with Mexico. If this thing keeps on Hobson even will not be able to create a war scare to aid in getting an appropriation for a larger navy.

The farmer who has the interest of his home community at heart will not buy things away from home until he has at least found out that he cannot get what he wants at home for practically the same money—and we almost forgot to add that the same rule applies to business men. Let one hand wash the other is the great thing to consider in building up a community.

Just to illustrate what has to do with the high cost of living in these days and times it is only necessary to note that at York, a place of 6,250 inhabitants, during the two days of spring cleaning up more than 50 wagon loads of empty tin cans were gathered in the place and hauled to the dumping ground. That means that a lot of people have been living on the contents of the tin can—and that is expensive living at present prices, compared to the hog and hominy of other and healthier days.

The Cedar County News is protesting against the granting of a license to sell liquor at Hartington against A. Waidenschmidt on the ground that he did not properly advertise his application for the permit. In addition to not complying with the law in the matter of publication, the News alleges that he is trying to influence the action of the paper by boycott and coercion. A later report states that the beligerent vender of wet good came across and saluted and the protest was withdrawn. We thought that when Kelley got into a scrap he stayed.

Speaking of full page advertisements in the local newspaper, the Butler County Press tells of one given by the First National bank of York to invite all to a reception, using all of the papers of York to tell of their 32 years of successful business experience, and a piano dealer in another town who uses full page ads in both the papers of his town, and also of a general merchant at Shelby who frequently uses a full page to tell of what he is doing. The Press then adds: "There's an emphasis in a page advertisement that make such an ad worth while every once in a while."

The Omaha Bee is authority for the statement that the new tariff law reduced the tariff tax paid by the people $25,000,000 the first six months of its life. That is about a million dollars a week of the burden of taxation shifted from the poor consumers to those with incomes to burn. This is really a better recommendation for the law than we had expected to find in a republican paper, and we are glad to note that a lot of our republican exchanges are copying the statement made by the Bee. The Bee words it a little different from the above, but it means the same when it says that customs revenues had diminished $25,000,000. There will be no poor tax payers who will object to a reduction of the tax.

Hoskins Young Folks in Wreck
Hoskins, May 5—A number of young folks from this place enroute to a dance at the Bert Swigart place northwest of here on Saturday evening left the road near a bridge and the car plunged into the creek and upset. Miss Perdita Morgan was seriously injured and will be unable to look after her duties as teacher for some time. Miss Diezesen was thrown into the branches of a willow tree and was not conscious when found, but was not seriously injured. Other occupants of the car were bruised up considerably.

Stock Shipments
The outgoing of stock continues from Wayne, and while the supply appears one week to be nearly exhausted there comes from some farm always more. John Lage sent a load of fat small cattle to South Omaha Monday. W. Y. Miles a load Tuesday and C. E. Cunningham and C. J. Erxleben had three loads between them and Wednesday E. A. Surber sent two cars (about 400 head) of lambs to market—a bunch he had been feeding for about two months. For a place without factories Wayne county manufactures a vast amount of corn and alfalfa into fattened cattle, hogs and sheep.

School District No. 69
The box social given in the school district No. 69, proved to be a pleasant affair for all present. Besides the thirty-three boxes sold a quilt pieced by the school children and quilted by the mothers was sold to the fair lady. Also two rugs, the large one woven by the fourth and fifth grades and the smaller one by the second year pupils to "the two homeliest men." Bertha Wieland had the honor of being the fair lady, Frank Baker, the homeliest man and E. R. Rogers of the Normal as the second homeliest man.

The Normal students planned a very pleasant surprise for teacher and pupils by gathering the Normal orchestra together and coming out in two wagons, rendering two beautiful selections which were greatly appreciated by all present. The program rendered was greatly improved by the vocal selections given by E. R. Rogers. The school and district appreciated the support given by the Normal very much and and hope we can return the favor in some way. The total proceeds amounted to $34.50 which will be used for securing apparatus for the school. From reports given all had a good time, says the teacher.

Conference of Charities
Omaha, Neb., May 4.—Many reforms were urged by the State Conference of Charities and Correction, which held its annual meeting here last week. The meeting was the best ever held by the association. The resolutions adopted by the organization urge: A systematic ethical instruction in public schools, such instruction to be non-partisan and non-secular. The establishment of physiological laboratories the State Board of Education for the diagnosis and classification of typical children. A state law requiring a clean bill of health before marriage. A law for an indeterminate sentence for convicted prisoners without affixed maximum of commitment. The establishment of state, county and municipal farm work colonies for the discipline and reformation of offenders. A drastic law prohibiting the sale or use of "dope" and making violation of such law a felony. The merit system for inmates of all institutions of correction, charity and education. Rev. S. Mills Hayes of Lincoln was elected president; J. E. Miller, Lincoln, first vice president; Miss Louise McPherson, Omaha, second vice president; Executive committee Miss Annie Krampf, North Platte, Mrs. A. G. Peterson, Aurora, Dr. D. E. Jenkins, Omaha, Miss Lucile Eaves, Lincoln, Rev. John Calvert, Crete, and Judge Lincoln Frost, Lincoln.

State Normal Notes

Plans for the fourth annual commencement of the State Normal school are now complete and a folder giving in detail the program of the various events of the week will be issued in the near future.

On Thursday evening, May 21, a joint recital will be given under the auspices of the department of music.

The baccalaureate services will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening, May 24. The music for this occasion is under the direction of Professor Coleman and includes an instrumental by Mrs. Johnson and several vocal selections by the Normal chorus. The baccalaureate address will be given by Dr. J. A. Beattie of Lincoln.

On Tuesday evening, May 26, at the Wayne opera house, the senior class will present "The Crisis," a four-act drama from Winston Churchill's thrilling, patriotic novel.

On Wednesday evening, May 27, in the Normal chapel, the two literary societies of the school will hold their annual contest. The following have been selected to represent the societies in this open session: Oration, Herbert Welch speaking for Crescent and Ina Hughes for the Philomathean society; essay, Eugenia Madsen selected by the Crescents and John Rockwell by the Philomatheans will contest for honors; reading, Martha J. Woosley representing Philo and Marjorie Kohl Crescent; debate, Irvil Montgomery for the Philomathean society will be matched against Fred Gilderslove representing the Crescents. The contest for these various places will be decided by three judges selected from out-of-town.

Thursday afternoon on the athletic field and beginning at 1:30 will occur the annual field day events. This part of the program will be under the direction of Professor C. U. Keckley.

The alumni reunion and banquet is announced for Thursday evening, May 28, beginning at 7:00 p. m. with a reunion in the chapel, followed by the annual banquet which will be served by the Domestic Science department of the school under the direction of Miss Franc B. Hancock.

Friday, May 29, is commencement day, and the exercises of the week end with the graduating exercises, which will be held in the auditorium beginning at 10:00 a. m. Music will be furnished by Mrs. J. T. House, Mrs. W. H. Morris and the Normal Ladies' quartet. The class oration will be delivered by Dr. L. D. Harvey, President of Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisconsin.

In the classes of 1914 there are ten candidates for the elementary state certificate, eight candidates for the junior state certificate, thirty-nine candidates for the diploma or first grade state certificate, nineteen candidates for the professional life certificate and one candidate for the bachelor of education degree. The advanced class also includes these young men who have completed two years of college work, but having worked for university credit only, they have not finished the prescribed work in education and are not candidates for a certificate.

CHALMERS "Light Six" A Car of Highest Quality at a Quantity Price—$1800 Never before has it been possible for $1800 to buy so much quality, such wonderful performance, such beauty, so much pride of ownership in a car. For the Chalmers "Light Six" is built throughout to meet a standard; not to fit a price. First the Chalmers engineers designed this wonderful "Light Six" to be the best car of its class on the market. Then the Chalmers factory figured the cost on the basis of thousands of cars. That's how we are able to sell this great new car at $1800. If the Chalmers "Light Six" was built in hundreds instead of thousands, it would cost at least $1000 more. And so you get in the Chalmers "Light Six" at $1800 the high grade materials, the fine workmanship, the smoothness, the luxurious comfort, the beauty and the pride of possession that cost twice as much a few years ago. In every detail the Chalmers "Light Six" is the kind of a car you ought to own. It costs no more than a four, yet is a real "Six." Manufactured complete in the big Chalmers factory. Its small bore and long stroke T-head motor makes it economical to drive. Its perfect balance and careful design insure a long wearing and comfortable car. Its luxury and completeness are the kind you expect in a $3000 car. And because it is a Chalmers, built and guaranteed by one of the strongest companies in the country, it has a prestige far greater than its price of $1800 would indicate. Let us tell all about this new Chalmers. Convince yourself that every claim we make is true. Then place your order at once. Now is the time you want your car, and we can make prompt deliveries on orders placed at this time. E. & D. H. CUNNINGHAM CHALMERS DEALERS, WAYNE

W. H. Morris and wife went to Tabor, Iowa, and nearby points Monday to visit relatives and friends. He will return this week while the wife plans to remain and visit for some time.

Leo C. Wright has accepted a place on the local staff of the Democrat, and has been chasing the elusive news items this week with good success. Any aid and pointers given him will be appreciated by Mr. Wright and the proprietors of this paper, for a little aid often directs attention to an item of public interest which otherwise might go unnoticed.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ott, who played at the Crystal Theatre the last week, staid over in Wayne until Wednesday morning. Mr. Ott has been looking for a place to locate for some time, but no place seemed to meet with his approval until he came to Wayne and it is understood that he and a local man are forming a co-partnership. The nature of which is not known at the present writing.

W. W. Kingsbury and family left Wednesday for Wakefield where they will make their future home as Mr. Kingsbury is employed as auditor for the Benson Grain Company whose head quarters are at that place. Miss Ida will remain in Wayne until after school closes. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury have been residents of Wayne for the past 12 years, during which time he was the local manager for the company that has called him to a more responsible position. During part of his residence here he was one of the representatives of his ward on the city council and took an active part in the business of the city while in official position. The citizens of Wakefield will find in the new auditor of the Benson Grain Company an energetic citizen.

Thomas Dixon of Chicago, who was known here about 30 years ago, came last week to visit at the home of his uncle, Patrick Dixon. His home when living in Nebraska so many years ago was at Bancroft, and it was from that place that he came here to see his uncle and family.

At the meeting of the school board Monday evening two vacancies in the list of teachers were filled by the election of Miss Nichol of Fairbury to the grade and Miss Meyer of Columbus, who is now taking work at the Normal, to teach the German and Latin in the high school.

Miss Helen McNeal was at Harrington Saturday conducting civil service examinations for Uncle Sam's applicants for post offices. Sunday she spent with her parents at Laurel, and reports that they are well pleased in their new home.

Messrs. J. T. House and I. H. Britell were at Pierce last Friday evening as judges in the high school debate between Randolph and Pierce. The judges awarded first place to Pierce in one of the most closely contested and able debates of the season. Both sides were so good that the judges were divided as to the team of greater merit.

Students in college and high school as well as others will be interested in knowing that the public library has subscribed for and now has on its shelves, "The Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature." This will give most excellent aid to any who wish to look up any topic of current interest as discussed in the periodicals of the day. The subjects are copiously indexed and the date and name of all magazines containing articles on the subject are indicated. This will be a very popular book of references is the prediction of Dr. Blair of the book committee.

Beaman's Ideal Grocery

A Couple of Wine Casks

They Contained Something Better Than Wine

By F. A. MITCHEL

Not all the aristocracy of France were, previous to the revolution, oppressors of the poor. True, the power they possessed rendered many of them tyrannical, especially those about the court, but through the country there were instances of nobles who were much beloved by their inferiors in rank.

Among these was the young Count de Lisle, who on his twenty-first birthday came into a fine property in the province of Maine, not far from Paris. He had a tender heart, and the condition of the peasantry pained him exceedingly. When he fell heir to his estate there were 100,000 francs for him in currency in a Paris bank. Half of this he distributed among the poor on or about his domain.

He furthermore resolved that he would devote his life to the cause of the betterment of the condition of the oppressed lower classes. Had he been older he would have realized that the many years of wars and extravagance on the part of royalty and the nobles had so impoverished France that those who had wasted the wealth of the nation must be put out of the way before France could begin a necessary retrenchment.

When the revolution came on the count threw himself heart and soul into the cause of reform. He went to Paris, where he attended a meeting in the Palais Royal composed largely of the best men of the middle class in France, and there raised his voice in behalf of the oppressed people.

But in the rising cloud of revolution was a thunderbolt, unseen by the intelligent middle classes, who were unconsciously fostering it. Mme. Roland, the leader of the Girondins, feared that the excitement would die away before the constitutional rights required by the people from the sovereign had been granted. It was not long before the storm broke, sweeping away her and her associates in the work. They all perished on the guillotine, singing the "Marseillaise," the volume of sound lessening as each head fell, till the last died singing alone.

One day news came to the tenants of the Count de Lisle's estate that east a gloom upon them. The count had been arrested in Paris. A few days later they who, having become rabid by the flow of blood, rejoiced that another noble head would soon fall and there would be one less of that class who had impoverished France. The young Countess Julie de Lisle had sent messenger after messenger to her husband, begging him to come home and leave the revolutionists to work out their own salvation. But he had entered upon the work of ameliorating the condition of the oppressed people and would not turn back.

He had been warning a serpent in his bosom. At the height of the tumult, when the leadership fell into the hands of representatives of the lowest classes and the cry was raised to exterminate all royal blood and all nobles, De Lisle was denounced as an enemy of France and thrown into prison. A few days later he was taken before one of those tribunals, consisting only of a so-called judge—a man without any knowledge of law and usually even without education—whose business it was to condemn those whom the people wished to get rid of in order that they might be executed with the semblance of justice. What was the count's astonishment to see sitting in the judicial chair behind a pine table Henri Denier, one of his own tenants, who had received a portion of the 50,000 francs that the count had distributed on his coming of age.

The two men's eyes met for an instant. Then those of the judge fell before the steady gaze of the one who had befriended him and whom he was now called upon to order to execution. Nor was it in Denier's power to refrain from this course. Behind him were the people, who had put him there, not to judge of guilt or innocence, but to pronounce sentence. He was compelled either to send his benefactor to the guillotine or go there himself. And by refusing to pronounce sentence of death he would not save the count, who would be condemned by Denier's successor.

"We have met before," said the count.

"Yes," replied the judge mechanically, "we have met before."

"Which one of us has contributed more to the cause of the French people, you or I?"

The room was filled with revolutionists. Denier was aware that every eye was upon him. Should he flinch in his duty to the cause of extermination he would at once be reported as an enemy of France.

"That is not the question before us, citizen," he said. "You have been denounced, and it is my duty to pronounce sentence upon you." Then to the guards: "Take him to the conciergerie."

Until this moment Henri Denier had been a revolutionist of the extreme type. He had inherited a little patch of ground and some money from his father, but the taxes he had been obliged to pay had eaten up his patrimony. His wife had fallen ill and needed medical attention and other comforts. His children were without wholesome food. Like a gift from heaven had come his proportion of the count's money. Not only that; the count, being informed of Mme. Denier's condition, had sent his own physician, who had treated her, and she had been restored to health.

The memory of this benefactor in a twinkling produced as great a revolution in the heart of Henri Denier as was being wrought in the government of France. He resolved that if he could save his benefactor by giving his own life he would do so. But his self-control was perfect. He sat apparently unmoved even under the reproachful glance of the count as the latter passed out of the room between two soldiers.

Then the work of condemnation was resumed.

Denier after having been some time in Paris, noting the trend the revolution was taking, had gone to his home in disguise for a day and left a cipher code with his wife by which he could communicate with her without any one except himself or her knowing what he wrote her. One morning a girl about fifteen years old appeared at Mme. Denier's door and handed her a bit of paper on which there was writing.

"Who is this from?" asked Mme. Denier.

"Read it," was the girl's only reply.

Mme. Denier, seeing a jumble of words, remembered her cipher code, which she took from its hiding place and interpreted the message:

Count de Lisle condemned—Send wine.

The recipient read much more than was expressed. She knew that her husband meant that she was to find some person or persons to come to Paris and help him save the man who had saved her when she had been ill. But what did the words "Send wine" mean?

She took the message to the countess, whom she found prostrated at news of her husband's arrest, which she had already received. Together they interpreted the "Send wine" to mean this: Denier had just before the revolution set himself up as a wine seller in Paris, bringing wine in casks to Paris and returning the casks empty. They were to send some casks of wine to his shop. What this would have to do with the count's condemnation the women could not determine.

Not two hours after the receipt of the message a man named Francois, a servant in the chateau who attended his master, loaded several casks of wine on a cart and started for Paris. When they reached Denier's shop the girl who had accompanied Francois went for Denier, but he did not leave his official duties till dark. On arrival at his shop he was pleased to see Francois and told him that on his coolness and courage the count's life depended. He was to remain that night in the shop and return the next morning, ostensibly to the chateau, but once having passed the walls of Paris, after proceeding some distance in that direction, he was to diverge on a road to the Belgian border.

Denier, having been one of the most radical of the revolutionists, was thoroughly trusted by them. Indeed, he had become a leader. About 10 o'clock on the night of Francois' arrival in Paris he sent a small squad of soldiers under a corporal to the conciergerie prison with an order to send Citizen de Lisle to him since his testimony was needed to denounce an enemy of France. The count was sent to the "judge" who was in the room where he sent persons to the guillotine. Announcing that he would interrogate the prisoner privately, he ordered the soldiers to withdraw.

No sound having been heard for some time from within the corporal rapped at the door. There was no answer. The door was opened, and the room was found to be empty. A window had been left open. The corporal had nothing to do but go back to the prison and report the circumstance.

A commotion was stirred up by the disappearance of the judge and his prisoner, who on gaining the street had made straight for Denier's shop, where Denier got into one empty wine cask and the count into another, after which Francois put the heads on the casks. It was expected that the shop would be searched, so Francois placed the casks on his cart and drove it away, moving about the streets till sunrise, when he turned his course to a gate in the wall on the north side of the city. Since it was the same gate as the one through which Francois had passed on entering and he had treated the guard liberally to the wine he had carried he found no great trouble in passing out with the casks, which had evidently been emptied.

France being a wine growing country, with the product constantly passing to and fro, the fugitives experienced no difficulty in reaching the border, and once in a foreign country they emerged from their confinement and embraced Francois, whose coolness, wit and resource had saved them from exposure on several occasions.

The two men were joined in Brussels by their wives, whom Francois had advised while on the route of the human contents of his casks. When the storm of revolution had spent its force the count and countess returned to their chateau. The Deniers remained in Belgium longer, being fearful of returning to the revolutionists of Paris, whose cause the husband deserted. However, when the Bourbons were enthroned again and they felt assured of protection Denier went back to his winery and continued to bring in wine from the country, sending back the casks to be refilled. But never since that eventful journey made by him and De Lisle to the border has been sent out casks filled with human beings.

Babies Fear the Force of Gravity.

The first experiment which a baby makes is connected with the force of gravity. It is born with an instinctive or ancestral dread of the unrestrained action of that force upon its own body, and it is said to be able to cling with tenacity to a stick or branch of a tree. Later on it takes pleasure in dropping miscellaneous objects to see them fall, perhaps to see if they all fall alike.

And a very remarkable fact it is which is thus observed: The most familiar of all material facts and one of the least understood—least understood, that is, of all the simple physical facts which must surely be well within the limits of human comprehension. For if a philosopher is asked why all bodies tend to move toward the earth and why they all fall with steady, equal acceleration unless retarded or checked somehow he has to reply that he does not know.—Sir Oliver Lodge in Harper's Magazine.

Four Leafed Clover.

Since four leafed clover is said to be lucky it might be well to know how it happens that while most clover has only three leaves one is found now and then with four.

According to J. Perriraz, who discusses the question in the Archives des Sciences Physiques et Naturelles, clovers with more than three leaves are due to two causes, one hereditary, the other nutritive. After a moist season clover plants with four or even five, six or seven leaves are relatively common, and plants with only two leaves are also seen at such times, but these are very rare.

But some plants are abnormal by heredity and reproduce themselves with the same characteristics in successive years when their environment remains the same, external influences merely modifying the size of the leaves.

Rapid Stars.

Even astronomers are expressing astonishment at a speed record recently discovered among the stars. The Andromeda nebula has been found to be moving in the general direction of the earth at the rate of about 16,000,000 miles a day, or nearly 200 miles a second. This is vastly faster than the motion of the earth round the sun or of the sun in space. It will be some time before the nebula approaches very close to the earth, however. Observations of the nebula by telescope and photographs do not show the slightest measurable trace of movement toward the earth, which indicates that it is so far away that traveling 16,000,000 miles a day is too slow to be apparent. The discovery that it is coming at this rate was made by a study of the spectrum of its light.—Saturday Evening Post.

Complimenting the Judge.

In "Stories From the Bench and Bar" Mr. Arthur H. Engelbach recalls the following story of Sir George Jessel, master of the rolls: One day he was having a point pressed upon him by a barrister named Oswald, who cited words in support of his point from a reported judgment of the master of the rolls.

"Mr. Oswald," interposed Jessel, "I could not have been such a fool as to have said that!"

"Oh, yes, my lord," retorted Oswald, "you were, my lord, you were!"

Highest Mountain in Idaho.

Idaho has only one peak having an altitude greater than 12,000 feet, that is Hyndman peak, near the Blaine-Custer county line. The elevation of this mountain is 12,073 feet. There are, however, several unnamed peaks near Hyndman peak whose elevations are greater than 12,000 feet, as shown by the contours on the Halley topographic map published by the United States geological survey.

Republican Outlook Gloomy

According to the following from the Pierce County Call, a republican paper, regarding the candidacy of Senator Kohl of this place, the republicans of the district might as well all be politically dead—for they have no show for office. The Call says:

Phil Kohl, of Wayne has recently filed for the job of state senator of this district, comprising Pierce, Cuming and Wayne counties, subject to the democratic primaries in August. Phil has served two terms in the senate, being elected two years ago upon both the republican and democratic tickets.

So far as we learn he gave good satisfaction and made a clean record, and under those circumstances he is entitled to a re-election without opposition. We certainly can give him our hearty support even though we do not jibe politically and even though we may be criticized for so doing. The time has passed when the legislature elects United States senators. The people now direct their representatives who to support and the national interests of the state. We now can send men to Lincoln to enact laws for the state—to look after our interests and welfares—instead of putting in the greater portion of their time fighting and see-sawing over who is to be the next United States senator. We hope the time will soon come when we will not be criticised for supporting a worthy man because he does not belong to our party. When we find a man who is open minded and has been tried and not found wanting, why should we be stopped from supporting him because of his political affiliations? We believe Mr. Kohl as a man, a citizen and a representative of the people measures up to this high standard. We see no reason at the present time why any republican should oppose him in the primary. It would be most fool-hardy for a democrat to do so.

Why Should We Carry Accident and Health Insurance?

Because no one is immune from accident or sickness. They are no respecters of person. Accidents of the most serious character oftentimes arise from the most trivial causes, causes that cannot be averted. They lurk in every foot-step. Our 20th century improvements have made accidents more numerous and naturally accident and health insurance is becoming popular and a necessity. Sometimes it is inevitable and the only time to provide against sickness is when we are in good health.

If you wish to see the best in accident and health insurance, something to prevent you from stopping your income when most in need see

MAKES RHEUMATISM PROMPTLY DISAPPEAR

Chronic, Crippled-up Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses of New Remedy are Taken

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, and be all crippled up, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys; that fail to filter from the blood, the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

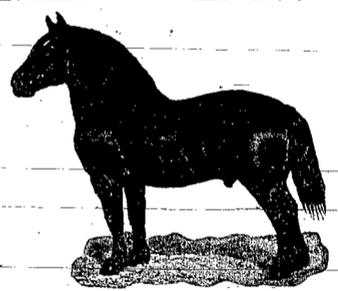

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poisons from the blood and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to sell it on a positive money-back guarantee. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst back ache or overcome urinary disorders.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.
Two splendid services last Sunday. The Communion service is generally the last service of the month. The hand of church fellowship given to one at this service.

We were pleased to see the response at the evening service. Our people are deeply interested in the Mexican situation. When eruptions occur, either in the physical body or the body politic, we may be sure there is impurity within. You cannot expect tranquility on the surface, when there is a volcano underneath.

"Mothers Day". Yes, Sunday will be observed through out the land as Mothers Day. It is highly fitting that this should be so. In this day of agitation of woman's rights, it is well that one day be kept, emphasizing woman's most sacred right and sphere, that of motherhood. Whatever else woman may do, her supreme glory must ever remain the same—her glory a mother.

Through the generous work of the young people's class in Sunday school, carnations will be provided for every mother present Sunday morning. We hope there will be many. If you have some conveyance, can't you bring some mother to the service, who perhaps could not come otherwise. Honor your mother by assisting another's mother.

Sunday morning the pastor begins his fourth year's work here.
It is with a profound sense of gratitude, that he remembers the kindness and the spirit of sympathy and co-operation, so generously manifested by the people. He wishes to acknowledge the blessings of our Heavenly Father, and humbly pray that he may lead all of us during the coming months.

The sermon Sunday evening will be on the subject, "The Supreme Gift". He will use the same text that he has used at the beginning of each year. It could well be the motto text for a church or for an individual christian life. Learn it.—Mark. 10:45.

May closes our contest trip across the water. It would be well to steam up with all your might. Something good is in store for all of us when the trip is over.
Of course it will be a little better for the crew that arrives first.
Have you done your best? Last Sunday there was a calm. No move at all. Wonder why?

The young people's meeting will be led by Miss Bernice Bront.
Let us all give her good support in her efforts.

Any afternoon you can arrange to make some call, call up the pastor. He has some places he can use you to a good advantage. Remember what Jesus said about ministering in his name. Read Mark 25:31-46, then ask the pastor where you can be used.

Bring some mother with you,
Sunday.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church (Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning 10:00 o'clock.

Regular preaching services at 11:00 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for Sunday morning will be, "A Mother's Ambition" Matt.
20:20, 21. Napoleon was once asked the question: "What is the greatest need of France?" And he said: "More Mothers." From the answer of Napoleon we would draw the thought that he was referring to such mothers, as those who recognize their homes to be the greatest sphere of woman's usefulness, where they can use the gifts and talents with which heaven has endowed them, for the rearing of noble young men and young women. A mother with a noble ambition burning in her breast.
Such a mother is the most powerful factor in human society. Dean Farrar speaks of the noble ambition of his mother and the effect which it had upon his life when he says: "First among the influences which have formed my life, I must mention the character of my mother, who has been dead for nearly thirty years, but of whom my remembrances are as vivid and as tender as if she had passed away but yesterday. Note the ambition of Abraham Lincoln's mother and the effect which it had upon his life. "Abraham Lincoln
you have my heart. I am thankful God gave you to us. Love every body; hinder nobody, and the world will be glad some day that you were born. This is beautiful world to the loving and believing."

Evening services at 8 o'clock.
The subject Sunday evening will be, "The Great Refusal." Mark 10:22.

The Ladies Aid Society was entertained last Thursday by Miss Nellie Johnson. There was a very good attendance and a splendid meeting. Officers were elected, Mrs. Herman Lundberg, president; Mrs. Olo Hurstad, vice president; Miss Mary Swanson, secretary; Miss Ada Stanbaugh, treasurer. The ladies decided to give a supper on Decoration Day. The place of next meeting will be announced next Sunday.

Choir rehearsal every Tuesday evening at the church.
A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

Mother's Day will be observed at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning and all are asked to remember mother. If your mother is still living wear a red carnation, or other red flower, or a little piece of red ribbon. If your mother is no more in this life wear a white flower or ribbon in her memory.

The subject of the special sermon will be "A mother's Comfort."
In the evening the pastor will preach on "Colorado's Trouble with an Hummingbird Glance at the Trouble in Ireland."

The entertainment given by James R. Barkley at the church last Monday evening was greatly enjoyed by the large audience which was present. Mr. Barkley's pictures, old songs, illustrated in beautiful,
colored pictures drawn as he sang,
his select readings from choice literature also illustrated, and especially his clay-modeling, made a most unique and profitable entertainment. But Mr. Barkley is more than an entertainer. He is a splendid preacher of the fundimental virtues that make for prosperity and happiness, and he leaves a good atmosphere where ever he goes. His closing picture of "Life's Journey" illustrating Tennyson's "Crossing of the Bar" was a gem, and the picture a most realistic portrayal of life as we all know it.

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. U. S. Conn on Thursday afternoon, May 14th. The roll call will be responded to by verses from the 19th Psalm.
Crawford will read a paper on Siam and Laos, and Mrs. Kiplinger will discuss the subject of Cuba and Porto Rico. Miss Ardith Conn will render a special musical number.

The morning service in celebration of Mother's Day will begin at 10:30 and the evening service at 8:00 o'clock. The Sunday school meets at 12:00 and the C. E. meeting will meet at 7:00.

The Junior church last Sunday had a very fine service. We meet again at four and hope to see more than before. Young life must grow.

A chalk talk Sunday, only children under 21 are invited.

We are taking up a study of prayer at the midweek meeting at which time we will make a study of the prayers of the bible to see if there is any application to this life and at this time.

The choir meets every Thursday for practice and that all who can sing should meet regularly is very much desired.

Next Sunday is Mothers Day and you are asked to come wearing a white flower in honor of your mother. All of the services of the day will have this celebration in mind.

The class meeting at ten will be held in the auditorium and the whole membership is urged to be with us.

Friday evening May 8, at 8 p. m., the Junior Missionary Society will give an entertainment and social. An admission of 5 cents is charged at the door. Many things will be for sale, including lunch.
Ample opportunity for getting rid of all small change will be provided.

Special music Sunday morning.
The choir will render, "O Trust in the Lord" from the Prodigal Son.

A Triangular Affair

By OSCAR COX

"I say, Tom," said Alvin Everett.

"I'm in a scrape."
"I don't need to ask what kind of a scrape. You have engaged yourself to two girls and don't know how to get rid of one of them."

"Only partly correct. I have made arrangements to marry each of two girls—tomorrow at high noon, and I don't want either of them."

"I told you that if you didn't stop—"
"Cut that out. I told you so never helps matters. I want you to help me get rid of both of these girls."

"Tell one of them that you're going to marry the other and the other that you're going to marry the other one.
They'll both be so mad that they'll drop you at once."

"You're off there. I've done that very thing. Each girl has sworn that I shall marry her."

Tom Martindale, the confidant in this case, was a lawyer. He thought awhile, then said:

"I'll tell you what you can do. Alvin.
You can marry both of them."
"Commit bigamy? Thanks, no. I'm surprised that you, an attorney, should suggest such a course."

"It wouldn't be bigamy if you married them both at the same time."
"How do you make that out?"

"The law reads that no married person with husband or wife living shall marry unless legally divorced. There is no law against a single man marrying a dozen women if he likes or a single woman marrying a dozen men, provided the marriages are performed simultaneously."

Everett's eyes began to open up.
"Do you really mean that?" he asked.
"I do."

"By Jove, I believe I'll use it to bluff
'em."

"You didn't succeed in that, you could easily get such a marriage annulled by the courts."

"I'll try it. Will you be my best man? I shall wish you to tell those girls that the marriage will be legal."

"Certainly."
Alvin Everett was young, reckless, devil may care—in short, every word denoting such a character pertained to him. His friend Martindale was disposed to humor him in this matter to see what the result would be.

On the morning in question Everett went to the rectory, attended by his best man, a short time before the brides were expected and told the clergyman he desired him to officiate at his marriage. When Miss Louise Anderson arrived he desired that she be shown by a maid into one room and on Miss Charlotte Ashby's coming she was shown into one adjoining. A few minutes after the second arrival folding doors were thrown open, and by another door the rector, the groom and the best man entered.

Each lady arose and advanced to claim Mr. Everett.

"Which is the bride?" asked the minister, looking from one woman to the other with a puzzled expression.

"I!" exclaimed the ladies simultaneously.

The rector looked at Everett for information.

"Both!" exclaimed the groom expectant.

"That's absurd," said the rector.
"You cannot marry two women."

"Thinking there might be some question about that," said Everett, pointing to Martindale, "I have brought my lawyer for my best man."

"Such a marriage would be perfectly legal," said the attorney.

The girls looked at each other with an inquiring expression. What did this mean?

"Very well," said the rector, to whom it was evident something was in the wind to which he was not a party.
"If you assure me that you are a lawyer and that such a marriage is legal I presume I have no alternative but to perform the ceremony." Then, casting his eye on a card Martindale handed him, he continued, "I know the senior member of your firm very well."

Everett took position between the two girls, who were standing near each other, and, reaching out, took a hand of each. But the hands were immediately withdrawn.

The rector opened the prayer book.
The girls darted glances at each other and looked ready to bolt, but not yet.
The clergyman turned the leaves of the prayer book to find the marriage service.

"Proceed, doctor," said Everett, the sign of the absurdity of the situation being a twinkle in his eye.

"Stung!" said Miss Anderson.

"Not at all," said Miss Ashby. "Half of Mr. Everett is better than all of any other man. I'm ready."

"I'm not," said the other bride.
"This nonsense has gone far enough.
Suppose we have a wedding breakfast without the wedding. For my part, I admit my defeat and am ready to entertain these gentlemen."

"In that case," added Miss Ashby,
"it wouldn't do for me to refuse to join you. Suppose we adjourn to the Grigsby inn."

The men, with the exception of the minister, accepted. He remarked that four was company, five a crowd. A very jolly luncheon at the inn followed at the lady's expense, and in less than a year Everett married Miss Ashby, while his friend, Martindale, made a match with Miss Anderson.

International Harvester Manure Spreaders

LOOK for the following points in the manure spreader you buy: 1. Correct, efficient, well-tested design. 2. Guarantee of first-class materials. 3. Reinforcing of parts where strains usually come. 4. Strength of parts where occasional strains come. 5. Wearing qualities and protection of driving parts. 6. Reputaservice. Satisfied American farmers find these essentials in International manure spreaders.

International spreaders have, besides, many features that grew out of long field experience. Study the steel construction in frame, wheels, and driving mechanism; the easily-removable beater; the differentials in rear axle, insuring even spreading while turning corners; the reversible worm and gear; low, easily-loaded box; and many others.

International spreaders are of all styles and sizes, high and low, endless and reverse apron. Write for illustrated catalogues, and when we send them we will tell you where you may see the spreaders.

GERMOZONE'S Value
 It is not so much in its great efficiency as a remedy for roup, canker, chicken pox and other diseases of poultry, but in its being the greatest bowel regulator in the world for either poultry or stock (including pet stock), counteracting especially bowel troubles due to rusty, spoiled or improper food. With man, fowls or animals, regular bowels means health. Continued irregularity means sickness, difficult to cure if not fatal. Thousands give Germozone regularly twice a week to chickens, young and old, at the same time having it ever handy as a ready remedy for other diseases. Sold by dealers or post paid. One size only, 50 cents.

WAYNE WOMAN MAKES CONVENTION REPORT

Report of Nebraska conference of charities and corrections held at Omaha, April 26, 27 and 28, 1914, presented by Mrs. G. W. Crossland, delegate from Wayne.

The Nebraska conference of charities and corrections opened at the high school auditorium, Sunday afternoon, with an attendance of about three hundred. The convention was called to order by Judge Kennedy, followed by a solo by Mrs. Thomas, "The Lord is My Light." After the invocation by Rev. Rensing, Mayor Dahlman gave the address of welcome, stating he was glad the convention met in the city, and hoped that much good would result from the meeting. He also told of the great need of improvement in some of the city prisons, saying that they had talked for eight years of changes that ought to be made in the work house, and that the city prisons were a disgrace to any city, that better conditions ought to be given to the prisoners. His address was full of good thought and his welcome cordial. Gov. Morehead was to give the response, but was unable to be present.

Jacob Billikopt, member of the board of public welfare of Kansas City, Mo., spoke on the work in that city, and of the methods used there in handling the prisoners, in order that their families might suffer the least inconvenience, during the time the heads were incarcerated. "We have come to the conclusion," he said, "that we are not justified in keeping the family starving while we are punishing the head of the family, by imprisonment." He told of the work of the municipal farm of Kansas City, saying that last year besides paying for operation, the prisoners were able to earn a few dollars for themselves; and of the beneficial effects of having the prisoners working out of doors, on the municipal farm. On the farm the men are treated like men, and they have responded accordingly. The speaker declared that vagrancy had been reduced 50 per cent in Kansas City by the establishment of a municipal rock quarry, where all who asked would be given work for a few days, at the rate of 75 cents to $1.50 per day, enough to relieve immediate distress.

Monday morning the convention met at Jacob's hall and Judge Howard Kennedy gave the president's address, emphasizing the advisability of raising the limit, by which girls become of age, from eighteen to twenty-one, that they might be kept longer under a reformatory protector. Members of experience in institutions gave interesting papers, on this line of work which were very helpful. Lena Ward, superintendent of the Nebraska industrial home at Milford, said that over 33 1-3 per cent of the 1800, that during the last twenty-five years, who had given birth to as many illegitimate children, were of high grade feeble minded type, good looking and attractive, but not responsible. They should have custodians the rest of their lives, so that no more of their kind would be given to the world. Dr. W. J. Fast, superintendent for feeble minded at Beatrice, Dr. H. Carlson of the hospital for insane at Norfolk and Dr. L. B. Pillsbury of Lincoln, all gave very fine papers on these subjects. Dr. Eiken, who led round table discussion, declared that it was very difficult to improve a child, who was not well born.

W. H. Springborn of Cleveland, Ohio, gave the addresses on municipal work houses, farms and jails. The municipal farm is a great improvement over the old work house method. The men and boys are put on a two-thousand-acre farm, and there they support themselves, while under sentence. They become better physically, mentally and morally, being transformed into good citizens, while working in the open air and sunshine, with plenty of wholesome food. He told of the farm and its equipments, and the criticism that was made, when the prisoners were eating strawberries and cream of their own production, and other home grown luxuries. Nevertheless the farm was made a success financially. Last year the products were worth $2,100 in excess of what was needed for use on the farm. However, the greatest problem solved was the care and reformation of the men and boys gone wrong through lack of proper training. The big majority did not have the criminal instinct. These boys were so trained, that farmers from all over the state, are writing to take them on parole, paying them good wages instead of keeping them locked up as formerly, and turned loose, dirty and unkempt, with muscles softened from lack of work, and without a cent of money. But in the new prison reform, they are taught habits of industry and honesty, and paid small wages which enable them to secure good jobs, and with enough money to enable them to tide over the mishaps. A brotherhood club cares for the men, after they have served the sentence, until they can secure employment. A great many other good points were given, that cannot be mentioned for lack of space. Dr. Springborne is a speaker of wonderful personality and power, and inspires his hearers with new enthusiasm and a desire to lend a helping hand to fellow humanity.

Dr. Katherine Bement Davis of New York City gave several addresses of vital importance. She is a woman of wonderful ability, almost a prophet, one might say; she is surely doing a great work for the girls of the city. In her address of the Bedford reformatory, she stated, that twenty-five hundred women were under her supervision between the ages of sixteen and thirty years, who had the misfortune to go astray, and that only 12 per cent of the prisoners in New York were women. She made the statement, that very little attention was paid to the women, the per cent being small in comparison to the men; there being at that time only seventy women, to thirteen hundred men in New York prisons. She spoke of the neglect of the proper care of the women, while confined in the prison with nothing to do, but stand before the bars with folded hands, while the men in the prisons, washed dishes, cooked and swept, and even did the sewing for those women. But the new method of treatment is very different. The girls are put on a farm and do every kind of work. They dress in bloomers and blouses and are prepared to do any kind of work and are developing brain and muscle. It is the ambition of the workers there, according to Dr. Davis, to provide a clearing house under state supervision, to co-operate with the courts for the benefit of the prisoners, as well as society as a whole. While women constitute but 12 per cent of the total number, the experience with this number has proved the efficiency of the system. The system of New York was recommended as possible and desirable for Nebraska, by Dr. Davis. She said that the jail method turned prisoners back on society more vicious than they were; and that no community has the right to keep a man or woman idle for six months, and that no criminal will be corrected by idleness.

J. A. C. Kennedy, who has been advocating a board of public welfare for Omaha, urged Douglas county to send a representative to the next legislature, who will pledge himself to obtain permission to establish a board of public welfare. Tuesday afternoon, the conference met at the school for the deaf, and showed what a wonderful work the state is doing for its deaf and dumb children.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. S. H. Hayes of Lincoln; first vice president, J. E. Mitler, Lincoln; Miss Louise McPherson of Omaha, secretary. After the adoption of numerous resolutions, the sixteenth annual session of the Nebraska conference of charities and correction, was brought to a close.

The convention was an inspiration to every one who attended, and one could not help but feel that a greater effort should be put forth in the home to train the child for good citizenship.—Mrs. G. W. Crossland, Delegate.

IMPORTANCE OF YOUR FACE.

Something For Girls and Boys to Take Seriously to Heart.
 If you stop to think about this for a moment you see what a tremendously important thing it is. Just as surely as you have a face the story of your life will be written on that face. If you are mean and crabbed and disagreeable your face will settle into a disagreeable expression, and everybody will avoid you. If your disposition is sunny and kind and gracious your face will beam with goodness, and everybody will know at a glance that you are lovable. And the older you grow the more distinctly your face will tell the story.
 When you go out into the world to earn your living the first thing that people will ask is this, What kind of a boy is he or what kind of a girl is she? Under our present industrial system the employer has to teach young persons their trade after he hires them. So he is more interested in the applicant's character than in his present ability. And the character he will learn from the face.
 It is just as the director of the employment bureau of a great department store said to me: "We base our choice largely on the applicant's looks. To be sure, the faces of boys and girls are not deeply marked. Many applicants have only begun to outline on the blank page of their cheek the picture that will eventually appear there. But even a sketch tells much. We know that almost inevitably a child will continue the facial development it has begun. The sullen, shiftless, don't care kind of face we don't want. When we see a child with a face full of courage, hope, truth, good cheer and kindness we pick that child quick. That is the sort we are after." If, then, our faces have so much to do with our future success, isn't it worth while to try to make them attractive by being attractive ourselves?—St. Nicholas.

Hank O'Day, New Manager of Chicago Cubs.

Hank O'Day, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, says that he intends to be lenient with his charges and as a starter will allow them two or three cigarettes a day and a glass of beer now and then.
 The only rule that Hank has laid down strictly is that every player must be in bed at 11 sharp. He believes that sleep and plenty of it will bring a championship to Chicago in a year or so.

Good Start For Racing.

When the racing season opens at Belmont park, New York, this spring, signalled by the Metropolitan handicap, it is likely that as good a field as ever started in this classic will go to the post. Such are the indications from a glance over the list of nominations just made public by the Westchester Racing association. Sixty-nine horses of class have been entered for this mile contest, including so many fast performers that there is no reason to fear that the list of past winners will lose in tone by the addition of this season's victor.
 Jeff Livingston's Iron Mask seems likely to be top weight in the Metropolitan, but will be closely pressed by other turf stars which proved their worth last year. Harry Payne Whitney has named six horses for the Metropolitan, five of which raced in England last year. Probably the best one of the quintet is Borrow, a six-year-old son of Hamburg—Forget and a full brother to Dreamer, the sprinter which raced so brilliantly some seasons back under the silks of Herman B. Duryc.

Derby For Greyhounds.

The Waterloo cup, the English Derby for greyhounds, was won by Dilwyn, a fawn dog nominated by A. F. Pope. The runner up was Leuceryx, a black puppy nominated by Major Robert McCalmont. Both hounds were outsiders, the betting before the courses were run being 20 to 1 against Dilwyn and 50 to 1 against Leuceryx.
 The coursing took place over the famous flats of the Altcar club. The winner takes the cup, valued at $500, given by the Earl of Sefton, and a prize of $2,500.
 The event is open to sixty-four subscribers at $125 each and is run off in five rounds.

Stahl to Remain in Bank.

Directors of the bank in which he is interested have prevailed upon Jake Stahl to give up baseball. The former leader of the Red Sox announced that he would stick to the banking business. He had been criticised by Ban Johnson for tampering with Speaker. He says his decision is not due to Johnson's attitude, but to his own judgment that his future in the bank is a better guarantee of prosperity than cavorting on the diamond.

TIPPING THE INSPECTOR.

Experience of a Traveler With Two Customs Officials.
 "When I came back from Europe, this being my first trip," said a Chicago man. "I was given a striking object lesson in the difference between an American and an English customs inspector. This related to their attitude toward tips.
 "Friends of mine had told me it was the proper thing to slip an inspector a little present on getting back. The one who attended me was so polite and took so much trouble to go through everything—we had numerous trunks and bags—that while I was waiting at the customs house office on the pier to pay my duty I slipped into one of his outer coat pockets an English sovereign I happened to find among my American money.
 "A few minutes later he approached me.
 "Did you put a gold piece into my pocket?" he asked.
 "I smilingly admitted that I had done so.
 "Will you please take it out?" he asked. I complied.
 "You may have not realized it, but that might have cost me my job," he said and walked away.
 "Now, when I landed at Liverpool an inspector who handled my baggage and marked it hung about me until I went to have it checked, or registered, as they call it. As I stood near the window he kept repeating, 'Don't forget my pocket; don't forget my pocket, sir,' until I finally grasped his meaning and handed him a tip. Then, with a 'Thank you,' with a rising inflection, he left me."—New York Times.

Adjectives From Names.

If you want your fame absolutely and entirely absorbed you should have an adjective rather than a noun derived from your name. Mention of a stentorian shout never nowadays recalls the famous Stentor, whose voice made him notorious at the siege of Troy. Nor do we remember when we use maudlin (with a touch of scorn) that this word is what art has done for Mary Magdalene. She was so often represented by painters with eyes swollen and red with weeping that her name passed into the language to mean tearful.—London Chronicle.

Thackeray's Salute.

Of that form of eccentricity closely related to egotism, whereby many of the world's greatest artists and writers have conveyed to us their appreciation of their own work, a most interesting case is that of Thackeray, ordinarily a most modest man. But there is good authority that Thackeray never passed the house in Russell square wherein he lived when he wrote "Vanity Fair" without raising his hat—a tribute from himself to his great work.

The Llama.

The story of the name of the South American llama is interesting. "Come see llama?" (What is its name?) asked the early Spanish adventurers of the Peruvians. The natives, not understanding, merely echoed the last word of the question and the name has stuck through the centuries.

Something About Government Ownership
 No. 1
 There are approximately 15 million telephones in the world. More than half of these—8 million in round numbers—represent the power and scope of the Bell System in the United States.
 All Europe, with four times the population of America, has less than three million telephones.
 America has a telephone for every ten persons—Europe has one for every 150 persons.
 Consider the buying power of money here and abroad, and America has the cheapest telephone service in the world.
 The wages of American telephone employees are double the lowest and average higher than the highest paid anywhere.
 Every kind of telephone material except copper costs more here than in any European country.

Mrs. Fred Hallstrom from Magnet visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Olson, last week. She left Tuesday for Sioux City where she will undergo an operation.

There was a great deal of excitement in this neighborhood the last two weeks. The reporter heard of two bad runaways and experienced one himself. All the tragedy is painted over. Clarence Corbit's hired man is working as though nothing happened though he had the sensation of having a disc pass over him. The ardent young swain repaired his buggy and has repeated the interrupted visit. While I buried my horse and am driving another. Such is life.

Obituary of Mrs. O. M. Hurlbert

Miss Charlotte Vermont White was born in Walcott, Chapman, September 10, 1835, where she grew to young womanhood and was married to Orlando M. Hurlbert on August 13, 1855, at the age of twenty. From this union were born eight children, namely: Mary Ella Beach of Valley, Nebraska; Asher L. Hurlbert of Sholes, Emma J. Collins of Elliott, Iowa; Frances M. Hurlbert of Ogallala, Nebraska; Samuel P., Walter L. and Carlos B. Hurlbert of Carroll, and Wilford C. Hurlbert who passed away at the age of twelve.

Her husband preceded her eight years ago last December. She leaves to mourn her loss seven children, five sons and two daughters and two sisters in Iowa, each older than herself, besides twenty-nine grand children and ten great grand children and a host of devoted christian friends.

Mrs. Hurlbert united with the Evangelical church at Elliott, Iowa, in 1889. Shortly afterwards they moved to Winside, where the family resided for three years, after which her home was in and near Carroll until her death.

She united with the Baptist church twenty-four years ago, where she had Christian fellowship and a large number of warm Christian friends. She was a regular attendant at all the services as long as she was able to go, and always had a kind word for the pastor.

She left a very nice bequest to the Baptist church, a part of which is to be used annually, which is a memorial of her interest in the church, and will live on for many years to come, and though dead she will yet speak. She passed to her reward April 24, 1914, at the age of 78 years, 7 months and 14 days.

The funeral services were held in the Carroll Baptist church Sunday, April 26, 1914, conducted by the pastor, Rev. M. O. Keller.—Contributed.

Wakefield News.

According to announcement elsewhere J. P. Baroch will open his new store here for the public on Tuesday next. It is known that the Miller building has been nicely fitted up for his use and that they are busy unpacking for the opening. Mr. B. is at Omaha today, and the work here is in charge of his sons. They come to Wayne from Geneva, where they won a reputation as hustling business men.

Parisian Swashbucklers.

At one time the mousquetaire was a notable type, common on the boulevards of Paris, of the swaggering brigard. These amiable Parisians were in evidence at the end of the empire. After the war of 1870 they reappeared at Turton's. There upon the steps about De Scholl were seated the famous Alfonso de Almada, Exzelata, G. de Borda, Chapron, Feulliant and Gaston Jollivet, who freely employed his valor and the wisdom of his wit in quenching the conflicts. A difficult task, for these altercations frequently were made out of nothing.

"Monsieur" one of the mousquetaires would suddenly declare to an inoffensive passer by, "you have been looking at me cross eyed. I do not like that."

"No"—the other would begin his reply. "Ah, ha! Then I have lied! There's my card!"

Then there would be a meeting on the field of honor. Oh, that was a beautiful time!

Wise Mexican Mules.

"The mule in Mexico is a wise animal," says a man who has studied the animal in that country. "A Mexican mule will do just so much work and not a bit more. The riding mule, for instance, is fully aware of the distance, down to a rod, he is supposed and required to traverse in the progress of one traveling day, and all the sharp sticks or goads of dynamite on earth won't get him to do a bit more than what he knows to be the correct distance. The Mexicans have got a peculiar saying in connection with this characteristic of the Mexican mule. You ask a Mexican how far it is by muleback to such and such a point.

"Two days' journey if you are in a hurry, but three days if you are in a hurry," the Mexican will reply.

"His meaning is that if you don't ask more of your mule than you should ask of him the mule will be able to make the trip in two days. But if you attempt to drive the brute he'll soldier on you, and in consequence the journey will take you three days."

Cairo's Corkscrew Tower.

Writing of the ancient mosque of Ibn-Tulun, Cairo, John A. Todd in "The Banks of the Nile" shows how accidental was the design of its odd looking tower. Ahmed Ibn-Tulun was one day holding a council of state when he allowed his attention to wander and sat idly twiddling a piece of paper between his fingers, shaping it into a whorl. Suddenly he realized that the councilors were waiting for his decision to a question. But what question?

At his wits' end to avoid confession of such discourtesy, he continued in silence to twiddle the whorl of paper. Suddenly he spoke: "Call my architect" for the plans of his new mosque were under consideration. The Copt appeared in fear and trembling no doubt. "You see this paper. Make me a tower for my mosque like that." The situation was saved, and the shape of the tower, with its corkscrew outside stairs, is there to this day to confirm the story.

The Deceased Wife's Sister.

The law against marrying a deceased wife's sister, which caused so much discussion in England at one time, grew out of an ancient tribal law forbidding a father to sell more than one daughter to the same man when the Briton was emerging from polygamy and when for just 21 shillings of the present money a man might dismiss his wife or kill her if she would not go. As civil law it was to protect the living wife and knit tribes closer together by intermarriage. When ecclesiastical law became supreme a misreading of some scripture text was used to put the sister of a man's wife among the prohibited degrees of relationship. This was the act of 1541 (32 Henry VIII): "A man may not marry his deceased wife's sister or her daughter, but he may marry his first cousin."—London Standard.

Tearing Cards.

At the Hatterophile club in Paris not long ago a man achieved a record by tearing a pack of playing cards in one pull—time, 2 minutes 32 seconds. The events in this card tearing contest were:

Tearing the greatest possible number of cards tied together top and bottom—time allowance, three minutes; tearing a pack of eighty cards in the quickest possible time; tearing the greatest possible number of cards in four.

This is a form of "sport" wherein many Frenchmen specialize. The men who enter the contests are not necessarily powerful, but they possess enormous strength in their fingers, a strength that is further developed by careful training.—Washington Star.

A Nice Point.

None of the maids of honor to the queen of England is allowed to keep a diary. A young lady who did not know of this rule was congratulating a newly made maid of honor.

"And what interesting things you'll be able to write in your diary!" she said.

"But it is an understood thing that a maid of honor does not keep a diary," the other pointed out.

"But I think I should keep one all the same," said her friend.

"Then you wouldn't be a maid of honor!" was the retort.—London Answers.

A Bit of Sarcasm.

"The late Dr. Morgan Dix," said a clergyman of New York, "had a droll way of lightening grave subjects with little humorous asides. Once I heard him addressing a graduating class at a medical school. He began in this way: "Physiologists tell us, gentlemen, that the older a man grows the smaller his brain becomes. This explains why the old man knows nothing and the young one everything."

It Grew and Grew.

"My pa caught a wonderful fish," said little Willie. "After it was dead it kept on growing."

"It couldn't do such a thing!" "Oh, yes. It did, for every time pa told about it it was bigger than it was before."

An Intricate Story.

"Before my marriage I told her all my past-life. Don't you think I showed a wonderful courage?"

"Yes, and a still more wonderful memory."—London Opinion.

The Squeeze.

Wife—I got into an awful jam at that bargain sale. Hubby—Indeed! Wife—Yes; all the money I had was squeezed out of my purse.—Exchange.

Don't Get Into Debt on a Rented Farm

Get into the dairy business on your own farm. I can put you in touch with the owners of fine prairie lands of rich soil, from 300 to 400 miles west of Omaha, which can be bought on very easy terms, at from $15 to $40 per acre. You are sure to make money by modern dairy practice, because the silo is the solution of the dairy problem and feed crops are heavy on these lands. If you haven't money at first to build a silo, dig one. Good farmers with proper equipment and feed can secure cows on time.

These owners can make these special terms to dairy farmers, because they know that a good dairy farmer will make money by CORN-SILO farming and will soon clean up his obligations. Then hogs and poultry fit right in and round out the profits. These 160 acre tracts are located among improved farms in established communities.

Give me your name, let me help you become the owner of a dairy farm, no matter whether you want to buy one on easy terms in Nebraska or Eastern Colorado, or whether you want to homestead a 320-acre Mondell tract in Wyoming.
