A HUGE DELUGE AT WINSIDE

Cloud Burst Near Our Neighbor Town Does Much Damage. Part of Town Inundated. Cellars and Floors Flooded

While Wayne people were enjoying a generous shower Tuesday evening the town of Winside was receiving a downpour which reminded them of the story of the flood, and no one is in sight, nor no time to get the animals in. A torrent of water rushed down the hillsides and through the little "draw" which leads into the town from the northwest carrying with it plenty of mud and many small articles that happened to be in the path of the flood. Cellars filled without even making a check in the flood, then first floors of the buildings in the lower part of town received the overflow. The hotel, the Tribune office, the postoffice, Dr. McIntyre, and the implement firm of Prior & Jaszkowsak suffered the worst.

At all of these places where there are basements they were filled and the first floors flooded to a foot or more of depth, and most of the flood appeared to have been the rich soil from the land above. The floor of the print shop had a supply to equip the Tribune for a real mud slinging campaign, being nearly a foot deep. The hotel and postoffice were not much better. Implements were carried considerable distance in the flood and the scales of the implement firm washed completely away. The building occupied by the postoffice, belonging to Assessor Carter had part of the foundation washed out. Dr. McIntyre's bees landed near the depot—and they were mad. The depot floor was under water and the water detained the evening passenger train an hour or more east of Winside, water being so deep over the track. The pretty city park was flooded, and the receptacle of all manner of refuse, and thick coat of mud.

No estimate can be placed upon the damage yet, consisting largely in the work of cleaning up, but no one places it at less than several thousand dollars.

Page-Brown

There was a quiet home wedding Wednesday, May 27, 1914, at the home of Madison Brown and wife when Rev. Corkey said the words which united Estella Brown and Paul Page for life.

The bride is daughter of Madison Brown, a young lady who has won many friends in the two years she has resided at Wayne. The groom is a dairyman at Sioux City, an energetic young business man.

An elegant wedding dinner was served to the party of relatives who were privileged to witness the ceremony, after which the bride and groom left on the afternoon train for their new home at Sioux City.

The out of town guests were the parents of the groom and their son, Edward O'Neill and R. Page of Sioux City, a brother of the groom.

A Rich Precinct

Assessor Gildersleeve of Brenna has finished the work of finding the value of the property of Brenna precinct, and while not giving the money value he told the Democrat a few things which show that this is a mighty fertile tract of land. There were 2685 assessable hogs, in spite of the fact that during the past year 2337 hogs had died in the precinct. There were 552 milch cows and 1364 other cattle, making a total of 1916 cattle. Of horses he found 727 and 114 mules. April 1st there were 48,750 bushels of old corn on the farms, and the fields planted in corn this spring will make 9625 acres. There are 900 acres in alfalfa this year which is nearly twice as much as the year before. The report to the assessor is surely not overdrawn, and when we get the single tax—if ever it seems the best thing to have—all of such evidence of wealth will escape taxation—and we would urge the farmers to come to Wayne June 1st and hear something about the tax question that will be of interest to them.

Don't forget to see Wheaton, under the First National bank for a right good bath—one of the kind that takes every thing right down to the hide, and leaves you feeling fine and dandy for a good night's sleep—adv.

Opening of Carnival Season

With the opening of the carnival season Wayne is always first on the map. The Walter Savidge carnival calls this place home, and from here they annually embark on a mission of distributing amusement through this part of Nebraska. Every year the show has been enlarged over that of the preceding season. The new feature this time is the flying machine, the Savidge Brothers of Sioux City being engaged to do the bird act. And it is said by those who saw them last season that they are good, making honest flights whenever conditions will permit.

The wheels began to go round here Wednesday, and the first ball game of the season, Wayne against Randolph was on the list. Today it is to be Wayne and Wakefield, and Friday Wayne and Wisner. The theatrical part of the entertainment has been growing in popular favor because of the cleaner and better class of plays presented, as well as the more competent people engaged for the parts. The plays presented are of the comedy-drama class true enough to life to appeal to all who enjoy seeing life-like scenes presented ably from the stage. Last night the play was "Just Before Dawn." This evening the "Innocent Sinner," Friday evening "The Slave Girl" and on Saturday evening closing with the "Story of the North."

Then there is always the merry-go-round, the Ferris wheel and numerous other side attractions besides the free entertainment of aerial bar performers and the like.

The Single Tax Lecture

"The farmer has long thought that this single tax scheme was one to make him pay a larger share of the taxes," writes George J. Knapp of Pueblo, Colo., who is to lecture here on Single tax and lower taxes next Monday evening, but the farmer is mistaken in this matter. Mr. Knapp writes further, "That misconception is based on the mistake of confusing a tax on land with a tax on the value of land. The single tax taxes land values and not land. The official census of 1910 shows that the farmers own only 20 per cent of the land values of this country, and that they pay over 50 per cent of all taxes. Would the single tax hurt farmers?"

Mr. Knapp is the man who went to Colorado a few years ago in belief that he could not live five weeks. He lived; became interested in single tax and without any help established single tax in Pueblo. Mr. Knapp will speak at the city hall in Wayne on Monday evening, June 1st.

Petersen-Hokamp

At the Lutheran church at Belden on Tuesday, May 26, 1914, occurred the marriage of Mr. Henry Hokamp and Miss Estella Petersen, daughter of P. F. and Mrs. Petersen, the local pastor officiating. A reception was held at the Petersen home that evening, many guests being invited to the wedding dinner which was served at six o'clock. The bride and groom are well and favorably known in this county and will be at home on a farm six miles north of Carroll.

Those in attendance from here were J. W. Lutts and wife and Mrs. Lutts' mother, Mrs. Henry Jans, who is grandmother to the bride. The Democrat joins in congratulations.

Why Not New Drink Fountains? Some public spirited fellow wants the Democrat to suggest or urge the need of two or three modern, sanitary drink fountains in the city, and suggests that if the city cannot get the money from the sale of bonds for them that some one pass the hat—he knew of one man whom he thought would give $5.00 toward them, and most any business man would be glad of an opportunity to donate. Now we suggest that the man who mentioned it start the donation list with a saw-buck and go after the liberal citizen. This item to start the ball rolling is our donation—now all make yours.

We want the children who are anxious to win the pony prize (and they all are) to remember that the Democrat has arranged to have each new subscription that is paid one year in advance, count 1500 votes, and that makes it an easy way to get a big bunch of votes. —adv.

WAYNE—A CONVENTION CITY

Our City Entertains Many Organizations This Year. Visitors All Pleased

This appears to be our year to receive, and a right royal time are we all having. Numerous gatherings have held district meetings here this spring, the Woodmen of the World, the bankers of the northeastern part of the state, the county camp of the Modern Woodmen, the German Lutheran ministers have all been here.

Insurance Men Here

Tuesday of this week C. M. Christensen, district manager for the Northwestern Mutual Life of Milwaukee for a large territory in this part of the state, entertained a number of his fellow-workers, including the general agent for this state, M. Junod of Omaha, F. L. Wright, a general agent, the specialist in charge of the work at Sioux City, and a number of those who have agencies in Mr. Christensen's district. It was a busy day, as the work of two days was crowded into one, so there was little time to play. They planned for the work to be done and exchanged valuable experiences, thus passing the time in a pleasant and profitable manner. The visitors were entertained by Mr. Christensen, and following a banquet adjourned to his office for an hour of toasts and good cheer.

Hello Men Here Wednesday

Wednesday manager J. F. Lane of this city, entertained the telephone managers of this district to the number of thirty-five, and the day was spent discussing matters of interest to the telephone managers, the operators and the public. Just now the Bell company is engaged in doing educational work regarding government ownership of telephones. They realize that there is a trend of opinion toward public ownership and they are bringing statistics to show that the private lines give better service at equally low or lower rates.

L. B. Wilson, commercial superintendent of the Nebraska Telephone Co., in his address before the meeting which was the main talk, took up at length the proposal of Postmaster General Burleson that the government acquire the telephone lines of the country. He declared that service to the public and efficiency should be the consideration in any change that might be made and discussed publicly owned telephone systems in Europe at considerable length, comparing them to the privately owned lines in this country and Sweden and Norway.

"The United States," the speaker said, "has but 6 per cent of the world's population, yet 64 per cent of the world's telephones are in this country. New York City has more telephones than London, Paris and Berlin combined, Chicago has more telephones than all of France, Omaha has more than all of Spain and Sioux City more than all of Portugal. The United States has one telephone for every ten persons, Europe has only one telephone for every 150 persons."

We would be glad to give a more complete review of his interesting talk and may do so later.

Following his talk different managers spoke on questions of interest to those present planning for greater efficiency. The advertising department was ably represented and the speaker claimed that their growth—the installation of new business was the result of publicity.

The operators, the collectors and general efficiency all came in for a share of the time.

The guests were entertained at Hotel Boyd, and were served in a body at an early supper. Owing to "trouble" caused by the storm of the night before a large number expected from the northeast of the district were unable to attend.

Sunday School Institute

Beginning today the Sunday school Institute of the Norfolk district of the Methodist church will open a two-day session at which more than 200 delegates and visitors are expected. The program was given last week.

Old Soldiers Coming

July 2, 3 and 4 the veterans of the war of '61-5, for northern Nebraska will hold a reunion here.

State Tennis Meeting

The Nebraska Tennis annual meet will be held here August 4 to 8.

Conditions to Consider

The election notice published elsewhere in this issue is a call for you to pass judgment upon the needs of the city for the improvements suggested. The following is self explaining:

Bonds will be voted on June 26th for the following extensions to the water system of the city of Wayne.

1. Approximately 4364 feet of 4 inch water main and 11 fire hydrants as follow:

(a) On First street, west from Sherman street, 396 feet and 1 hydrant.

(b) On Sherman street, north from 2nd street 712 feet and 2 hydrants.

(c) On east 3rd street, from Nebraska street, east 396 feet to Windom street, thence north of Windom street 2376 feet to 9th street, thence west on 9th street 396 feet to Nebraska street, with 7 hydrants. The city engineer's estimate on his work is $4000.00.

2. 15 feet additional on standpipe. The city engineer's estimate for this work is $400.00.

3. A new Triplex pump, of 400 gallon per minute capacity under 180 pounds pressure, motor driven. The city engineer's estimate of this extension is $2600.00. These extensions will furnish fire protection to about 18 blocks now without fire protection, will give about 7 pounds more pressure and will give us a double pumping unit, so that in case anything should happen to one pump we would not be without water.

The old pump is inadequate for our needs and if something should happen to it, Wayne would be in a sorry plight for water.

First Game of Season—11 Innings

The first ball game of the season as well as the first of the series to be played here during the carnival was pulled off yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds, Wayne vs. Randolph. The game was a hummer from start to finish and the last three innings was very exciting as the score stood 8 to 5 in Randolph's favor up to the last half of the 9th inning when Becker smashed out a two bagger and brought in three runs tying the game. In the 11th inning Ahern got a hit, Atkins sacrificed and was out at first advancing Ahern to second, Moore was passed, Waugh made a little bingle advancing Ahern to third and Moore to second but was thrown out at first, Becker was passed then came Furchner with a hit bringing Ahern which won the game by one score for Wayne.

The game from beginning to end was a dandy and both teams were on their toes all the time with the exception of the first half of the 6th inning when Wayne went up in the air costing them four scores.

PONY AND CART GIVEN AWAY

Wayne Business Men Unite in Vote Contest in Which all Children May Compete for Pony Cart and Harness

The Democrat has joined with a number of the Wayne merchants in an effort to stimulate an interest in trade during the summer months, and incidentally keep the children busy and assist some enterprising boy or girl to earn a Shetland pony, cart and harness.

Why Should We Carry Accident and Health Insurance?

Because no one is immune from accident or sickness. They are no respectors of person. Accidents of the most serious character oftentimes arise from the most trivial causes, causes that cannot be averted. They lurk in every foot-step. Our 20th century improvements have made accidents more numerous and naturally accident and health insurance is becoming popular and a necessity. Sometimes it is inevitable and the only time to provide against sickness is when we are in good health.

If you wish to see the best in accident and health insurance, something to prevent you from stopping your income when most in need see Great floods have visited the sections of the state northwest of Wayne within the past week. At Lynch Ponca creek was the highest ever known. At Anoka much damage was done, water reaching the second story of some houses. Railroad and county bridges were swept away. The dam at Bristow and Spencer went out with the flood. Two miles of railroad track were washed out between Anoka and Spencer. This shows that Nebraska is not always dry.

John Shannon started for Chicago Monday afternoon with three cars of cattle. One a car of Clarence Corbit's feeding, and two cars fed by Nels Heyman. They were all good ones. In the Corbit load was a white cow that was "fat as butter" and the fact that she brought more than $108 at 7c proves that she was quite a cow. Mike Coleman went out on the same train with four cars of cattle of his feeding for the market at South Omaha. Wm. Roggenbach also had a car load of stock on the same train.

This is a great country for mules—they mature to perfection here, and big mules bring a long price. J. P. Douthit of Winside knows this, and is helping to introduce the big kind of mules. Last week he imported a 1200 pound Mammoth Kentucky Jack from Missouri, to take the place of a similar animal he sold a few days before to George Hughes. He also brought with him from the "show-me" state a pure bred Spanish jenny and a jenny colt, half Spanish and half Kentucky. He has an advertisement elsewhere.

Ensign Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Young, left Tuesday afternoon for Chicago—where he joined Diercks and Cotterell, evangelists. They are both noted singers and Ensign is to play their accompaniments. Ensign for years has shown great musical talent, not only on the piano—but also on the violin, and now has an opportunity to display this talent before the public. Diercks and Cotterell are beyond the means of the smaller towns as they do not work in any town of less than 15,000. We join with Ensign's many friends in wishing him much success and a pleasant engagement.

The tax question is one that is coming in for its share of attention in the near future, and the question of single tax will have to be met and disposed of, and it is well to be posted on the issue now. In this community its effect on farm taxes will have much to do with the verdict. Some say that it is the best for the farmers—others say it is not. Monday, June 1st, George J. Knapp, who has given the subject much study will speak at Wayne on the subject, and there should be a large attendance of the farmers as well as others to learn what they can of the claims for this system of taxation. The question can be more fairly considered now than in the heat of a political campaign. Give Mr. Knapp an hour Monday morning.

Rev. E. Van Dyke Wight, D. D., the former popular pastor of the Presbyterian church of Wayne, will be in Nebraska next month to give the commencement address at Hastings College. Dr. Wight is now the pastor of the great Webb Horton Memorial Presbyterian church in Middletown, N. Y., which is an institutional church of wide fame. He is also at present the Moderator of the Synod of New York, which is the highest honor in the gift of New York Presbyterians. On learning of Dr. Wight's contemplated visit to Nebraska an invitation was sent to him to visit Wayne and preach in his former pastorate, but on account of other arrangements he will not be able to be here on a Sunday, but hopes to make a brief visit to Wayne on some week-day. The older members of the community will be much pleased if Dr. Wight is able to come to Wayne on a visit as he is still remembered by them as a minister of effective pulpit power and a man of sterling Christian character, and they rejoice in his present high place of leadership in the councils of the church at large.

Mrs. M. Murphy and Mrs. G. E. Packer, mother and sister of Chas. Murphy, returned to their homes at Wakefield after spending Sunday with Mr. Murphy.

Mrs. Laura Guffey, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. I. C. Trumbauer, returned to her home at Emerson Monday afternoon.

Little Miss Madge Rippen left Monday for Princeton, Minn., where she will spend the summer with her Great Grandmother. She was accompanied as far as Sioux City by her mother and from there she made the balance of the trip alone.

Monday evening at the city hall Geo. J. Knapp will speak on the single tax question. A good opportunity to learn something of this coming question, as no admission is charged, and he wants a full house. Ladies as well as men are invited, for the women will soon be voting, and should learn how they will want to vote.

Miss Eva Melor, accompanied by her mother and nurse, arrived home from Rochester, Minn., Saturday where she underwent an examination by Dr. Chas. Mayo, and we are glad to report to her friends that her case was not as serious as first thought and while it will be some weeks before she will have her natural strength yet she is well on the road to recovery.

An Open Letter—No. III.

To Prospective Legislative Candidates: "My ideal is an orderly and righteous government in Mexico, but my passion is for the submerged eighty-five per cent of the people who are now struggling toward liberty and I insist as a basis for settlement of our difficulties on a constitutional provision for a division of the lands similar to that followed in New Zealand." Extract from interview with Woodrow Wilson, and he is using the army and navy to enforce that demand.

The editor of the Lincoln Journal, whose editorial appears elsewhere in this paper, alarmed over the increase of large land holdings by syndicates and individuals in this country, predicts Mexican conditions here in the not distant future.

Now, Mr. Candidate, what is your judgment on the opinion of such men as President Wilson and the editor of the Lincoln Journal? If you agree with them, will you support and vote for a graduated land tax in Nebraska, so graded as to exempt the small home (except for municipal and education purposes) and make the tax on such large estates as the Goddard equal to the rental they are now receiving, as a means of dividing up all large landed estates? If you oppose this proposition will you so inform the voters before the primary day? If you favor any other plan, please announce it.

If some ignorant vested rights fellow denounces you as a socialistic anarchist for favoring such a law inform him all lawyers and courts honor a precedent. In 1863 congress passed the National Bank Act, exempting from local taxation the notes and bonds deposited by a corporation for the loan of the notes. The law taxed national banks one per cent and state banks ten per cent—the latter not for revenue, but to destroy an existing evil. Here is the precedent for exemption from local taxation and the use of the taxing power to destroy an evil, but the republicans exempted the big fellow while the democrats in the income tax have exempted the little fellow. Congress also taxed colored oleomargarine 10 cents per pound not for revenue but to destroy an evil. No one questions the constitutionality of our income tax law. Then why not a graduated land tax?

The G. A. R. Memorial Services

Last Sunday morning the members of the local G. A. R. Post marched in a body to the Presbyterian church to participate in the special Memorial service. There was a goodly number of the veterans present, some visiting members of Grand Army being in the ranks. Arriving at the church the veterans were given the seats of honor which had been reserved in the front of the church. They were accompanied by their wives who also occupied reserve seats. The church was beautifully decorated with flags and flowers, and the large congregation entered into the spirit of the occasion.

Rev. Alexander Corkey, took for his text, Revelation 12:7, "There was war in Heaven," and preached a most patriotic sermon, defending war when it is waged, as was the war in heaven and the war of '61-'65, for righteous principles. After detailing the history of the celestial conflict, so graphically portrayed in Milton's "Paradise Lost", the speaker described the real issues at stake in the momentous struggle of fifty years ago. "No one expected such a terrible war," he declared, when Lincoln called out the first 75,000 volunteers, but if Lincoln had been told by an angel from heaven what the cost of war would be, he would not have hesitated a moment. If the loss of life and treasure had been doubled, it was worth it all, and Lincoln himself declared that no matter how dreadful the sacrifice we must say now as was said three thousand years ago by the prophet of God, "The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous all together."

War has now ceased for ever in heaven, the speaker asserted, and it was the hope of the Christian citizen that wars were soon to cease also on earth, as the Christian seeks to make earth like heaven, but if ever the stars and stripes are assailed again as in 1861 there will be war again, for government of the people, by the people and for the people will never be allowed to perish from the earth; as popular government has come to stay.

In closing the minister referred touchingly to the beautiful sentiments connected with Memorial Day, and the solemn duty resting on our citizenship to "garland the graves of these heroes of ours and cover them over with beautiful flowers."

At the close of the service the old soldiers marched past the pulpit in single file and they were each greeted heartily by the pastor.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away, Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After A Few Doses Are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, overcomes all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter.

You can obtain an original pack of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

The most typical of Colorado's mountain resorts—a region of canyons, glens, glaciers, crystal streams and placid lakes, a paradise of mountain air and wild flowers—a natural amphitheatre of 150 square miles with snow-capped panoramic barriers—is seventy miles northwest of Denver at the foot of Long's Peak. It is reached from Denver by the Burlington, two hours by rail to Lyons, thence two hours by auto, or through the canyons of the Big Thompson. Through tickets are interchangeable over the two routes. There are excellent hotels and lodges in the Park with rates from $12.00 a week up; also many camps, ranches and cottages.

Maybe Ford's plan of generous division of the profits had a little slip in it. The report is that several thousand of the high-priced men are laid off—perhaps a sort of vacation without salary.

At Lincoln they have a judge who has won an "enviable" reputation as horse judge, and it might not be amiss to suggest that he become a candidate for one of the judges for the supreme bench of our state, where need a bit of "horse sense" as badly as any where on earth. This is merely a suggestion.

Not many moons ago the editor was talking with a man who claimed to be, and doubtless was, an ardent republican fearing disaster if the democrats won—now with little more than year of real democracy—or as near it as we can attain in so short a time, he is talking most favorably of the public affairs under the reign of Wilson.

Ross Hammond of Fremont has resigned as collector for the district and filed for the republican nomination for governor. His platform as given in the Sunday paper is a review of his political past and tells what reforms he has been for, and to hear his story one might almost class him with the democrats. Sure it is that Ross is enough of a politician to know what the people are demanding.

Speaking of the possibility of the Ohio republicans nominating "Fire-Alarm" Foraker as their candidate for the senate, the state Journal aptly says that they "might as well enter an 1894 model automobile in the races at Indianapolis." Under the plan of electing senators there will be a number of the fellows who have previously bought their seat in that deliberative body who will find that they are handicapped when it comes to really running for a place.

Governor Morehead has decided to harken to the voice of his friends and make the race for the democratic nomination for another term as governor, which he certainly has a right to do. He is the third candidate to ask for the democratic nomination. Berger and Maher were already in the field. Chas. Bryan or Wm. Thompson or perhaps both of them may yet get in the race. Now that the governor has decided to run his official record will have to stand for more or less criticism.

The pure food and drug act of 1906, which was a step in the right direction, and possibly as long a step as could be taken at that time, is to be made a stepping stone to something better. Much adulteration was possible under that law as has been shown, but it made it a little easier to place the responsibility where it belongs. But a new kind is to be taken looking to a more strict construction of the law. When our foods are less adulterated there is prospect of less need of doctors and surgeons—less of pills and knives.

The Public calls attention to the great tribute paid to the memory of a few soldiers who were killed doing their duty in Mexico, and while commanding the men for doing their bidden duty, asks why not pay a like tribute to the policemen who meet death in the discharge of a public duty, or the firemen who meet a like fate in like service. There are more lives given by either of the classes named than of soldiers dead in this Mexican trouble thus far, and are they too not entitled to praise?

Did they die in vain? It is too common a thing for a policeman or a fireman to die in this career.

A BUSY WEEK AT THE NORMAL

Commencement Time at State School
Crowded Full. The Sermon, Concert, Play, Training School, Society Contests and Alumni Banquet

The commencement season for the fourth annual commencement of the Wayne State Normal school opened last Friday evening, and the calendar of events for the week will close with the graduating exercises which will be held in the auditorium on Friday, May 29.

The past year has been one of great progress in the history of the northeast Nebraska normal.

The growth of the institution since its organization in 1910 is best shown by a comparison of the graduating classes. The class of 1911 had but three members; the Senior class of 1914 numbers 42. In addition to those who complete the work of the higher course there are a number of candidates for the Junior and Elementary state certificates.

Tuesday and Wednesday were given over entirely to examinations, and on Thursday final recitations in all classes will be held. A week of vacation follows, registration for the summer session beginning on Monday, June 8.

Baccalaureate Services

The regular evening services in all the churches of the city were dismissed last Sunday evening, and the various denominations united in the union baccalaureate services, which were held in the Methodist Episcopal church. Following an instrumental selection by Mrs. E. A. Johnson, the normal chorus, under the direction of Professor Coleman, sang "Praise Ye the Father" and "Send Out Thy Light" by Gounod. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. B. P. Richardson, and Rev. Rudolph Moehring gave the invocation. President Conn presided, and introduced the speaker of the evening. The class was fortunate in its selection for the baccalaureate address. Dr. J. A.

Beattie has been actively identified with educational work for nearly half a century. His experience as an educator includes three years as president of the Peru state normal, and also the presidency of Hiram College, Ohio. The entire address was one of inspiration and helpfulness for young men and young women, and he held the closest attention of the audience from the beginning to the close of his address. His introduction, setting forth the value of time, was a sermon in itself and had a message that was especially appropriate for the occasion. Dr. Beattie began by quoting three passages of scripture: Daniel 12:3; 1 Cor. 16:13; and Col. 4:5-6. The theme was suggested by the words "Walk in Wisdom and toward them that are without, redeeming the time." The principal under all which was brought out may be stated as the right thing, at the right time, in the right way, for the right purpose, and from the right motive. This was illustrated and enforced by the fact that the life that comes in the fulness of time is in harmony with the things that are planted in the heart at the right time and under the right conditions. Attention was called to the life of the great Swiss reformer who was left to the care of his grandfather and while in contact with the people of the homes into which he was taken, resolved to remember the poor when he became a man. So true was his life to this ideal that one said of him, "He actually lived like a beggar that he might teach beggars to live like men." The same thing was enforced by the story of Ruth and that which came as the result of her resolve; the learning of the poem of Phoebe Cary corrected the after life of two wicked men; and consolation had come to people everywhere because John Fawcett had written the hymn which begins "Best Be the Tie That Binds."

The idea of doing in life that which is really worth while was the thing emphasized in the closing parts. At the close of Dr. Beattie's address the congregation sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Richardson.

Commencement Concert

Professor Coleman and his chorus class are to be congratulated on their first attempt to secure vocal artists of superior rank to sing at the chapel for the special benefit of the students of the school and the citizens of our town.

The financing of this undertaking was made possible by the successful rendition of the "Rose Maiden" by Cowen of some weeks ago, which netted the class a neat sum.

The joint recital of Esther Wall-

Rath Lash and DeWitt Durwin Lash was especially valuable to the normal school students and lovers of good music in establishing high standards. The program given by Mr. Lash was of unusual scope.

Mr. Lash has been for a number of years a most successful teacher and concert soloist. Besides being possessed of a tenor voice of rare power and range, he is eminently a master of interpretation. Of the songs sung by Mr. Lash those most enthusiastically encored were: "The Gypsy Song", "Where My Caravan Has Rested", by Hermann Lohr and "Ye Winds and Waves" by Handel. In the last group of songs sung by Mr. Lash the emotional effects attained were by turns weird, gay, heroic, and sentimental, and it was in this group that his varied style was most apparent to his audience.

Mrs. Lash has a personality at once pleasing and compelling, which makes her hearers eager to catch every word and accent. She has a high soprano voice, clear and powerful, and at no time does one feel that technical difficulties stand in the way of her fullest freedom of expression.

Some of her songs most acceptable to the audience were: "Love's Echo", by Newton, "Hear Ye Isreal", Mendelssohn, "The Cry of Rachel", Slater, and "Lullaby" by Lash. For encores Mrs. Lash favored her audience with a beautiful interpretation of "In the Time of Roses" and "Don't You Listen" by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Exercises by The Training School

On Monday morning at 8:30 the convocation hour was given over to the pupils of the training school, and students and members of the faculty were very delightfully entertained by the children of the various grades. The program was so arranged as to represent all departments beginning with the kindergarten, and the applause showed there was no lack of appreciation on the part of the onlookers. The following departments were represented in the program:

Miss Luers in charge of the kindergarten department; Miss Stocking, grade 1 and 2; Miss Bettcher, grades 3 and 5; Miss Jewel, grades 6 and 7.

Orchestra and Department of Expression

A joint recitation by the Wayne State Normal Orchestra and the advanced students of the department of expression was held in the auditorium on Monday evening. Professor Coleman has been successful in working up an orchestra that is a credit to the institution. Throughout the year it has been in demand and has furnished special music for different school events. The following is the personnel of the orchestra: J. J. Coleman, director; Beulah C. Demmer, piano; Pearle Hughes, first violin; Alice Sabin, first violin; Joseph Jirak, second violin; Victor Lundstedt, second violin; E. R. Rogers, first cornet; H. C. Cooper, second cornet; Joseph P. Pachang, baritone; Rudolph Becker, clarinet; Herman Siems, flute.

Under the leadership of Professor Keckley the department of expression is one of the strong departments of the school. The pupils made a fine showing when they appeared in the public program given by that department on Wednesday evening of last week, and also in the joint recital on Monday evening. The department of expression was represented by Ruth Sherbahn who read "The Marriage of Minerva White", "The Mortification of the Flesh" was the subject of the reading given by Iva Root and "Mrs. Mayor's Story" was well told by Miss Iva Hughes. It was a good program and reflected credit upon each of the departments represented.

State Normal Ladies Quartet

At 8:30 Tuesday morning, the State Normal Ladies' Quartet rendered a delightful program in the chapel. The quartet consists of Miss Ardath Conn, first soprano; Miss Marjorie Kohl, second soprano; Miss Bessie Crockett, first alto; Miss Alice Sabin, second alto. Mr. Ensign Young was accompanist.

Senior Class Play

The presentation of the dramatization of Winston Churchill's Novel, "The Crisis", by the senior class of the normal was in all respects a master stroke. The play itself is so thoroughly genuine and serious as to be worthy the careful study given by the class and the close attention with which the audience followed it. Many generations will pass before an American audience will fail to be aroused by the epochal situation of the civil war period. The man who doesn't appear in the play, Abraham Lincoln, may almost be said to be the hero, and the worship of him by the Old Judge Whipple can be compared to nothing in drama save the devotion of Horatio for Hamlet.

All the parts were well acted, but a few by reason of their importance stood out especially.

First, the old judge himself was portrayed by Ivl Montgomery with convincing power and vigor.

Colonel Carvel, the delightful old southerner, who loves his life long friend Judge Whipple, with the devotion of years, despite their radical disagreement on the slavery question, was clearly presented by Herbert Welch. Eliphilet Hopper, the Yankee renegade, by Harold Weber, would have done credit to a professional. Clarence Colfax, the dashing young southerner, who, soothed by suffering, comes almost worthy to be the hero of the story, was thoroughly well done by Tracy Kohl, while the successful suitor for the hand of the heroine was ably portrayed by Harry Gildersleeve. The part of the heroine was taken by Martha J. Wooley. This part was peculiarly difficult, as it called for constant presence before the audience and many shifts in the situation and emotion, and to say that it was well done is in itself no mean praise.

In fact it would be difficult to conceive a young actress doing any better. Among other characters, that of Carl Richter, the young German, by Conrad Jacobson was well performed. The party scenes in which quite a number of the class took part were very attractive, the costuming and tone being delightfully realistic and romantic.

Puss Russell by Berenice Patton, the negro character by Joseph Paschang and Mrs. Brice by Bernice Beebe were all good. Professor Keckley of the department of expression is receiving congratulations for the simple and effective presentation of this drama. The orchestra under the direction of Professor Coleman played between scenes, contributing greatly to the pleasure of the occasion.

Philomathean-Crescent Literary Contest

The annual literary contest between the Philomathean and Crescent literary society was held in the auditorium on Wednesday evening. There were four contested events. In the oratorial contest, the Crescent society was represented by Herbert A. Welch, who chose for his subject "Socialization of the Law". Iva B. Hughes represented the Philomathians, her subject being "The Meaning of Tragedy." The prize was awarded to Mr. Welch. In the reading contest the Philomathean society was represented by Martha J. Wooley who gave a reading from a scene in King John by Shakespeare. Miss Marjorie Kohl, representing the Crescent society, selected for her reading a scene from the Lion and the Mouse. Miss Kohl received the decision of the judges. In the essay number the contestants were Miss Athol Stevenson, a Crescent representative, speaking on the subject "Man Versus Machinery", and John Rockwell, representing the Philomathean society and speaking on the subject "American Ideals." Mr. Rockwell was declared winner. The debate was the last event of the evening's program. The question was Resolved, That the Policy of Regulation of the Trusts is Preferable to Dissolution. Ivl Montgomery, a Philo representative spoke for the affirmative, and Eugenia B. Madsen, for Crescent, upheld the negative. The decision of the juries went to Miss Madsen.

The contest was judged by Superintendent Wm. Fleming of Lyons, Rev. E. E. Hatfield of Wakefield and Attorney Howard Saxon of Pender. Many who were present expressed the opinion that the program was the best ever given at the Normal by the literary societies. The fact that there was not a unanimous decision of the judges in any of the contested events shows that the winner in every case had to work for the victory secured.

The performers trooped to the front of the saloon, and soon there came from the rear room the strains of "Sally In Our Alley," sung as only one man in the world could sing it.

"Boys," said Emerson, "that's Tom Dixon."

A rush was made for the rear, where it transpired that the "sailor" was none other than the great minstrel tenor. He had gone to Australia with a company. It disbanded, and he worked his way home as an ordinary seaman, during which time he grew the long red whiskers.

Did he get the job with Emerson? You didn't know Billy or you would never have asked that.—Edward Le Roy Rice in Chicago Journal.

Not American at All.

A certain type of story—that having the sudden conclusion, such as "Will Jones fired a cannon yesterday; the funeral will be tomorrow"—has been claimed as purely American in its origin. But, as a matter of fact, this kind of story is older than America itself. If you will turn to II Chronicles, xvi, 12, 13, you will find these words:

"And Asa in the thirty-ninth year of his reign was diseased in his feet until his disease was exceeding great, yet in his disease he sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians. And Asa slept with his fathers." Ladies' Home Journal.

Wants to Get Even.

Some day, when our bank account gets even lower than it is now, we are going to try to arrange to take a year's leave of absence and spend it with our wife's relatives, staying about half as long with each of them as each of them usually stays with us.—Ohio State Journal.

Not Quite.

"I sleep with your letters under my pillow," the modern lover wrote. Then he yawned and muttered to himself:

"At least I go to sleep over the letters. I suppose it's the same thing."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Once Was Enough.

Mrs. Church—Did you ever get your husband to try to wash the dishes?

Mrs. Gotham—Only once.

"Why only once?"

"Because the next day we had no dishes."—Yonkers Statesman.

Passion is out of place in any discussion

and more than ever in a right cause, for it begets and bemuddles it—Gogol.

EATING IN BERLIN.

A Humorist's View of the Natives' Wonderful Appetites.

The average Berliner has a double chin running all the way around and four rolls of fat on the back of his neck, all closely clipped and shaved, so as to bring out their full beauty and symmetry, and he has a figure that makes him look as though an earthquake had shaken loose everything on the top floor and it had all fallen through into his dining room.

Your true Berliner eats his regular meals, four in number and all large ones, and in between times he now and then gathers a bite. For instance, about 10 o'clock in the morning he knocks off for an hour and has a few cups of hard boiled coffee and some sweet, sticky pastry with whipped cream on it.

Then about 4 o'clock in the afternoon he browse a bit, just to keep up his appetite for dinner. This, though, is but a snack—say a school of Bismarck herring and a kraut pie, some more coffee and more cake and one thing and another—merely a preliminary to the real food, which will be coming along a little later on.

Between acts at the theater he excuses himself and goes out and prepares his stomach for supper, which will follow at 11 o'clock, by drinking two or three steins of thick Munich beer and nibbling on such small tidbits as a few links of German sausage or the upper half of a raw Westphalia ham.

There are forty-seven distinct and separate varieties of German sausage, and three of them are edible but the Westphalia ham, in my judgment, is greatly overrated. It is pronounced Westfaffire, with the accent on the last part, where it belongs.

In Germany, however, there is a pheasant agreeably smothered in young cabbage, which is delicious and in season plentiful. The only drawback to the pleasure of the occasion.

HE WANTED A JOB.

The Red Bearded Sailor Who Insisted That He Could Sing.

One day many years ago, when Billy Emerson was in his heyday and all San Francisco was at his feet, he was accosted by a sailor with a long red beard. The sailor said that he could sing and wanted a job.

"I have no opening," said Emerson.

The tar, however, was obdurate and several times during the day importuned Emerson to give him a chance. To get away from his tormentor Emerson was compelled to go to his hotel.

Near the theater was a saloon where the minstrel boys were wont to congregate after a show. It was of the usual kind, with a room in the rear, with a piano and a piano player. Into this room, when the performance was over, went the sailor and asked the man at the piano if he would change places with him and allow him (the sailor) to play in his place. The minstrel acquiesced.

The performers trooped to the front of the saloon, and soon there came from the rear room the strains of "Sally In Our Alley," sung as only one man in the world could sing it.

"Boys," said Emerson, "that's Tom Dixon."

A rush was made for the rear, where it transpired that the "sailor" was none other than the great minstrel tenor. He had gone to Australia with a company. It disbanded, and he worked his way home as an ordinary seaman, during which time he grew the long red whiskers.

Did he get the job with Emerson? You didn't know Billy or you would never have asked that.—Edward Le Roy Rice in Chicago Journal.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

"The Call of the Frontier", will be the subject of the sermon Sunday morning. These are days of multiplied activities. Many things, worthy and unworthy, are demanding our attention. There is danger that in trying to serve so many ends our service will become inefficient. Let us be wise in placing the emphasis on the right things, and recognize things of first importance.

"The Choice of the Highest", will be the theme for Sunday evening. This is the age of amusements. People are amusement mad. It is also the season of commencement ideals and visions. What are some of the factors that enter into the real life of an individual? At this evening service we shall discuss a few of these vital truths.

During the month of June we are going to make a campaign on behalf of the mid-week prayer meetings. It is not going to be merely an hour for prayer, but really an open hour, for the discussion of various phases of church life. The church needs this sort of meeting, when the young and old are given the opportunity to express themselves. Won't you try to be present and help in this work?

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the missionary society meets with Mrs. Dragon. Mrs. Richardson is the leader. The study will be about Mormonism.

The missionary committee will have charge of the program on Sunday evening. Let each of us respond.

Remember June 14th. It is going to be a day of unusual interest for all. In the morning we shall observe "Family Day". At this service we desire parents and children all to be present and sit together. There will be two sermons, one for the children and one for the older people. Let us work together to make this a helpful hour.

"If every member of this church were just like me, what sort of a church would our church be?"

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

"The Good Samaritan", or "Christ's Most Popular Parable" will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church. The reasons for the present popularity of this well-known parable and its sociological lessons will be presented in this sermon, which will be a comparison discourse to the recent sermon on "The Golden Rule."

The Communion service will be observed next Sabbath morning, the subject of the personal Communion talk by the pastor being on the words, "Do This." At this service the pastor will make full announcement regarding the plans for the month of June, July and August, and will also distribute copies of a poem entitled, "My Daily Prayer."

After the Children's Day services on June 7th the pastor will leave Wayne for a three month's leave of absence instead of taking the usual month of vacation. He will deliver the commencement address at Bellevue college on June 10, going east from there.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian church is in session at present in Chicago. It consists of nearly 1000 delegates from all parts of the country and from all lands under the sun. This important assembly is the ruling power in the Presbyterian church and corresponds to our United States Congress. The Presbyterian church is democratic in its form of government and in early days was made the pattern for republican institutions when mankind began to break away from the one-man rule idea, and put an end to the kingly control of Emperors and monarchs. The Presbyterian constituency now numbers several millions in the United States, having nearly 10,000 churches, and being exceedingly aggressive in expanding Christianity both in the United States and in foreign lands.

Miss Esther McEachen will have charge of the Westminster class in the Sunday school during the absence of the pastor, who is the regular teacher.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Regular divine services every Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

The morning services are at 10 o'clock and the evening services are at 8 o'clock.

The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "Called into Fellowship with Christ", 1 Cor. 1:9. Social ties are inevitable either for good or for evil; some are made for us and some are made by us. All which

The Christ has made himself the associate, the friend, the brother of mankind. In this social tie there is no relation formed which man has any desire to break. Well has the writer of the Proverbs said "There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother". In this blessed fellowship with him we can only join in with Peter and say "It is good for us to be here."

The evening sermon will be based upon the book of Job and the subject will be "A Great Question Answered", Job 23:3.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. D. Erickson on next Thursday, May 28th. The ladies have most completed their arrangements for the dinner and supper which they will serve Decoration Day, in the basement of the Baptist church.

NEBRASKA NEWS

DO NOT FEAR HESSIAN FLY

Pest is Fully Grown and Has Done His Worst.

Omaha, May 26.—The Burlington Nebraska crop report for the week deals with the Hessian fly and mint mites the damage done by the insect.

Relative to the winter wheat crop General Superintendent Allen maintains that on the whole there has been no falling off in the general condition.

As to the Hessian fly and the damage that it has wrought in the Nebraska wheat field, the Burlington reporter says:

The pest made its appearance during the week in the central and eastern parts of Richardson and Nemaha counties. The university agricultural department has investigated and reports that over this small area, as compared with the entire acreage of the state, fields have been damaged very little to 30 per cent, and a few fields in the vicinity of Auburn, in Nemaha county, have probably been damaged 50 per cent.

"Two years ago I voluntarily became a candidate for governor and sought a nomination and election to that high office. My ambition was to serve my state and my party, and I consider the position of governor of Nebraska a prize that any citizen should be most proud to hold."

"During the course of my campaign I stated that I would not use my position to obtain further political preferment and would not aspire to another term. I was successful in the campaign and I believe that I have filled this high office creditably and given the state a good administration."

"I think I need not remind you that I have not aspired to another term. I would much prefer that my party might unite upon some other more worthy man. Personally, my desire was to either seek another office or retire to private life."

"For many weeks I have been importuned by Democrats from every part of the state to stand for a renomination, regardless of any faction, and so unanimously have come these persistent requests that I am convinced that it is my duty to place myself at the service of the party for the voters to decide whether or not I am the most available candidate to stand for the Nebraska Democracy during the coming campaign. I may say, too, that I am deeply grateful to my Republican friends who helped me in the last campaign and who again offer their assistance."

"I fully appreciate the honor that has been conferred and feel that I am indebted to my party for the consideration it has shown me and the support it has given me. I would feel that I was guilty of ingratitude if I did not heed the voice of the party and permit myself to become an instrument to carry it forward to further success."

"If I considered only my personal desires I would not take this step, but the advices received from leading and zealous Democrats admonish me that I should defer to the wishes of my party. Perhaps I may say also that the attitude of certain newspapers has confirmed me in this belief."

Eastman Files Again.

W. B. Eastman has sent to the secretary of state for blanks on which he may file for another try at the Democratic nomination for land commis-

F. A. Reisner of Thedford, Thomas county, has filed for the Republican nomination for the legislature from the Seventy-first district.

Senator E. J. Spirk of Wilber filed for renomination as a Republican from the Sixteenth senatorial district.

Anti-Removalists Active.

The headquarters of the alumni committee, which has been organized to oppose university consolidation have been opened at the Lindell hotel under the charge of ex-Congressman E. M. Pollard. The opening of the headquarters is accompanied with the opening of a publicity campaign in the form of a lengthy public statement by Mr. Pollard, in which he goes into considerable detail to prove that it will be cheaper to the taxpayers to maintain the two wings of the university separately, declaring that the three-fourths of a mill levy cannot take care of both in case removal carries.

A little girl, one of the two children of the home, said a strange man had frightened her mother by appearing in the house some time during the night. The child is too young to give a connected story.

WALLACE DIES OF INJURIES

Victim of Street Car Accident Succumbs at Omaha Hospital.

Omaha, May 26.—William Wallace of Detroit, who was fatally hurt in a street car accident, died at the Swedish hospital.

His brother-in-law, Thomas Moran, with whom he was riding in a one-horse rig, was thrown from the vehicle and instantly killed when they were struck from the rear by a street car.

Holden Estate Goes to Sons.

Avoca, Neb., May 26.—The will of the late Winfield S. Holden, who died at Burr last week, has been filed for probate in the county court of Otoe county. It leaves all personal property to his sons, Ernest and Winfield.

If Edward, the third son, who disappeared several years ago, should return he is to be paid $10,000 by his two brothers. There is something like 3,000 acres of land, also a large amount of personal property. His estate is valued at $500,000. Mr. Holden was one of the pioneers of Otoe county.

Harvests First Crop of Timber.

Table Rock, Neb., May 26.—C. D. Robinson has completed the task of sawing up the poles secured from his twenty-acre osage orange grove, and in addition to about 40,000 fence posts he has a vast quantity of fire wood.

The labor of harvesting this crop has been a large undertaking, a force of workmen having been employed on the job since early in the winter. It is just twenty-three years since Mr. Robinson planted this forty-acre tract in timber.

Requisition for Pickard.

Lincoln, May 26.—Governor Morehead has asked the governor of Missouri for the return to Omaha of Frank Pickard wanted in Douglas county for an alleged attempt to bribe John C. Lynch, county commissioner, by offering him $1,515 to vote for certain propositions. Pickard is being held in Kansas City by the chief of police of that city.

Ross L. Hammond Resigns.

Ross L. Hammond, editor of the Fremont Tribune and United States collector of internal revenue for the district of Nebraska, has forwarded to Washington his resignation from the government position and filed his papers for the gubernatorial race, subject to the Republican primaries.

Fewer Fares in Lincoln.

Officials of the Lincoln Traction company complain that receipts this spring have fallen off $75 a day. They lay the condition to general dullness in business and the automobile.

Gage Will Grade 45 Miles of Road.

Bearlee, Neb., May 26.—Forty-miles of road in Gage county are to be graded at once and the inheritance tax fund will be drawn upon for the work.

This was determined upon at a meeting of the board of supervisors.

Mrs. L. Murfree, musical director at the high school, left today for Alton, Illinois, where she will spend a few weeks and then she will go to Chicago and attend the summer school of music. Mrs. Murfree will again take up her work here in the high school this fall.

Miss Fairehilds and Miss Magdalene Hahn are home from Columbia University in New York, where they have been attending school for the past year. Miss Hahn is daughter of Dean Hahn of the normal, and she concluded a course at Columbia, and returns with the degree of Master of Arts.

G. W. Cline, who has been here from Bristol, Tennessee, visiting at the home of Walter Clark, and a sister at Walhill, returned home this morning. Mr. Cline is foreman of a steel laying gang when at his normal occupation, and expects upon his return to begin work on a 130 mile stretch of new road.

Mrs. E. H. Miller and son Ream from Grand Junction, Colorado, came last week to visit at the home of her cousins, Wm. Dammeyer and wife, with whom she formerly lived.

Prof. I. H. Britell was entertained at the high school banquet given at Hoskins Tuesday evening and Wednesday was the speaker of the evening at the commencement exercises.

Wednesday our city was visited by the little German band from Lincoln. For years these boys have made this part of the state and have never failed to give Wayne a call.

E. B. Chicheser left for Omaha this morning where he will spend a few days and will then go to Dalton, in Cheyenne county, where he will look after his land interests for a couple or three weeks.

John C. Davis of Carroll was here Wednesday on his way to Fremont. The rain of the night before he said would keep him out of the field and he would improve the chance to make the trip. He reports a fine rain but just a little too much or too fast for the best result. He is putting a tubular well down to living water there and enlarging his barn and remodeling the house to quite an extent, so that when completed he will have a much prettier and more convenient place than now.

A Lincoln paper of recent date tells of the announcement of the engagement of Miss Donee Griffith to Mr. C. W. Dermal of Central City, at a party given by Mrs. J. S. Browne and Mrs. A. J. Pitzer.

The bride to be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Griffith at this place, where the wedding is to occur sometime in June—probably the 25th. Miss Griffith is a graduate from the Nebraska university of 1913, and has been taking special work since. The groom is of the law class of this year, completing a six-year course.

Miss Griffith has but slight acquaintance at Wayne, having only spent her vacations here for the past two seasons since her parents moved to Wayne, but each acquaintance is a friend.

There was a surprise party at the pleasant farm home of August Loberg and wife near Carroll Saturday afternoon when four automobiles loaded with 23 of their friends drove in from West Point to have a "week-end" and "slumber" party there if one could slumber much while enjoying the hospitality of the Loberg home. Mr. Loberg says it was a great surprise to him and an agreeable one, to think that so many of his friends would make a 50-mile trip to visit them.

Saturday night and Sunday were happily passed, and Monday the party reluctantly left for their home. In the party the families of Rephausen, Doerneman, Nisson, Dinslage and others were represented. Mr. Loberg and family but recently went to West Point to attend a wedding at that place, and these are some of the friends who returned the visit.

Almost Burns Automobile

C. E. Carthart had a thrilling experience the other day, coming from the Carroll country. He was spinning long at good rate when he smelled a hot box, and opening the hood of his car to find the trouble he saw it all too soon, for as soon as given plenty of air a big blaze leaped out. He tried in vain to whip it out, using and spoiling a pretty good coat in the effort. He discovered a little opening through which gasoline was escaping to feed the flame. This he managed to shut off, but not without burning his hand. He soon had the fire under control after the fuel supply was stopped, and was glad indeed to have a car left in which to ride home. He would have sold his interest in the car pretty cheap for a time.

Board of Equalization

Notice is hereby given that the board of county commissioners, the county assessor and county clerk will sit as a board of equalization, commencing on Tuesday, the 9th day of June, 1914, for the purpose of reviewing and revising the assessor's books, especially the real estate assessment, and hearing any and all complaints regarding the assessment of personal property and additional improvements. It is urged that as many of you as can, call and look over your assessment both real and personal as this may aid in avoiding any errors that might creep in.

The board will continue in session for not less than three (3) days and all complaints or protests must be made at this time. Witness my hand and seal this 19th day of May 1914.

CHAS. W. REYNOLDS,
(Seal) County Clerk.

GERMOZONE'S

Value
is not so much in its great efficiency as a remedy for roup, canker, chicken pox and other diseases of poultry. But it is the greatest bowel regulator in the world for either poultry or stock (including pet stock), counteracting the effects of overeating, causing constipation, purifying the blood, removing mucus, spoiled or improper food. With man, fowls or animals, regular bowels mean health. Continued irregularity means some sickness, difficult to cure if not fatal. Thousands give Germozone to their stock and get the best results at the same time having it ever handy as a remedy for other diseases. Sold by dealers or post-paid. One size only, 50 cents.

Neighborhood News

Cleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

Randolph has Sunday baseball, and last week Sunday had a game with Hartington in which the Randolph bunch won by a score of 10 to 6.

The Cedar county News is putting on another contest, and hopes to bring in 2,000 new subscribers with $2,500 worth of premiums. Why not just give the new subscribers the paper and save all of that exercise and worry?

The political situation is getting warm in Stanton county. They have three or four candidates announced for each sheriff and treasurer, and some for county judge and superintendent. They believe that the early bird gets the worm.

Train service has been improved on the Wakefield-Crofton line by the addition of a new combination baggage and mail car and giving the smokers a full car to themselves. Wonder if mail clerk Skiles won't get lost in the additional room given him?

In Cedar county this year 298 pupils took 8th grade examinations and less than half of them passed. Is that a reflection on the work in the county schools, the pupils, or the county superintendent? To an outsider it looks as though there was a misfit somewhere along the line.

T. H. Lux of Randolph has filed as the democratic nominee from the second district in Cedar county for county commissioner. He was appointed to serve until election to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Ed Carroll, and has made a very good record while in office. He seems to favor good bridges rather than cheap ones, that is the economical thing to do.

President Wilson's state papers are a model of English, pure and undefiled. They are written in simple language that a child can understand and should be followed by other statesmen, too many of whom are inclined to be verbose and wordy. How simple yet how forceful is this statement of the president, "We want to go down to Mexico to help the Mexicans if we can find out the way." (Mark the language—not "discover"—or "detect" the way, but "find out," the way). "We want to serve the Mexicans, not fight the Mexicans." This is language, simple, clear and forceful, and proves again that no one can use clear, concise, monosyllabic English like a classical scholar.—Hartington Herald.

There is one thing that speaks for a town louder and longer than anything else can and that is a good modern hotel. Madison needs such a hotel and there are two gentlemen now ready with $1000 each to help put one up. Why can't we call a meeting of the commercial club and their interested friends and see if we can't organize a stock company and put up a hotel that will be a credit to us, one that the traveling public will be satisfied with and where they will feel like staying over Sunday. If we did not have a room in it that would bring more than two dollars a day it would be a fine paying proposition and no one would profit more than the town of Madison. Let us hear from you.—Star Mail.

The same question was asked here last week.

The Butler County Press voices the sentiment of every newspaper man when it approvingly quotes with the following lines the words of the Harlan, Iowa, Tribune. Our waste basket is full to overflowing with "copy" that comes without money and without price and when more papers dump this stuff into the waste basket there will be less of it sent out. We feel like adopting the new "Declaration of Independence" proposed in the American Press in which the publisher pledges to positively exclude all matter not paid for which is boosting all or any manner of public or semi-public enterprise for which a money consideration is exacted from those who attend or participate. But here is what the Press says:

"They call it hysteria because it prevents the classes from exploiting the masses and brings the government back to the people. After all, the real victims of hysteria are not the people who stand upon rooftops and cry for reform, but the people who are guarding special privilege and are seeing the castles built by privilege tumble down about their heads."

No, gentlemen, the victims of hysteria are not the forward-looking, promise-keeping reformers, who quietly convince the people that this New Way, this gospel of progressive statesmanship, is best for the country, but your hysterical man is that self-appointed

Farmer Centralizers

The farmers' union of the state has organized a company to start a centralized creamery at Fremont. It appears that the union people think that there is too wide a difference between the price of butter and the price of butterfat. Hence the union project. Possibly this plant will demonstrate whether the difference in price is caused by the difficulty experienced by centralized creameries in making a good product or by their collecting unreasonably large profits. The farmers' union is gaining rapidly in membership throughout the state. Some new locals have been formed lately in Cedar county. Local creameries being out of the question in many localities is what calls for the centralized plant. The local creamery, where it is possible to maintain one, is very much more efficient. The cream that comes into a centralized plant is some of it absolutely rotten, and butter made from much of it will not keep any length of time. The local creamery has no such difficulty. Hartington is fortunate in having developed the dairy industry to a point that sustains a local creamery.

The above is from the Cedar county News, and tells of a move that the central plants have forced the farmer unions to take up. The central plants have been robbing the producer either by not making a good grade of butter or by paying too little for the cream or both. Last winter they made a big slash in prices far below what the market would warrant in paying in all sections of the state except one or two localities like Wayne where the farmers are organized to care for their cream. At that time this creamery received lots of cream from neighboring towns which had been going to the central plants. When the cut was made in this state the Minnesota creamery men were not molested, for they had lots of independent creameries, and the prices there for butterfat were above those in this vicinity, or anywhere in Nebraska.

According to report which comes to us the last straw which drove the union to this act was the change in rates by the express companies which made the 10 gallon can rate the minimum, thus making the individual shipper pay the rate of a ten gallon can though he had but a five gallon one. If this ruling was brought about by the centralized plants as some claim, it is likely to prove a dear move to the centralized plants. When the individual sees that he is discriminated against he is going to come back—it may or it may not pay him to do so, but he's comin'.

Daniels on Hysteria

Secretary of the Navy Daniels comes from a state that is many miles behind the vanguard of political progress, but he is evidently some miles in advance of North Carolina. In an address at the recent dinner at the North Carolina Society of New York, the secretary paid his respects to the social dodos who apply the term "hysteria" to the political measures designed to secure self government for the people. Mr. Daniels said:

"A few days ago a distinguished educator from a southern state, in a speech in New York, declared that such new and progressive measures as the initiative and referendum were 'revolutionary.' Another distinguished authority, a statesman and an educator, referred to certain modern American political doctrines as 'wild theories,' which common sense and wise experience demand be rejected 'as the result of hysteria.'

The real trouble is that this so-called 'hysteria' hurts. It keeps party pledges; it does not take from labor the bread it earns; it makes protection-built wealth pay the income tax. It elects senators direct from the people. They call it hysteria because it means we can have no more senators from the Southern Express company, no more senators from the New York Central railroad, no more senators from the Southern Express company, no more senators from the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, no more senators from the Standard Oil trust.

"They call it hysteria because it prevents the classes from exploiting the masses and brings the government back to the people. After all, the real victims of hysteria are not the people who stand upon rooftops and cry for reform, but the people who are guarding special privilege and are seeing the castles built by privilege tumble down about their heads."

No, gentlemen, the victims of hysteria are not the forward-looking, promise-keeping reformers, who quietly convince the people that this New Way, this gospel of progressive statesmanship, is best for the country, but your hysterical man is that self-appointed claimant of patriotism who madly waves the stars and stripes with one hand and grips his rebate-provided, protection-fostered wealth with the other."

What the secretary says is true, and, seeing that the dodos are so much excited, there is no reason why we should worry.—Nebraskan.

Pen or Dispose of Roosters

That is the slogan of the egg producers and the egg eaters. It is published that the state of Missouri last year lost $5,000,000 worth of eggs which might have been nearly all saved by separating the male and female birds at the close of the hatching season and the beginning of the real warm weather. A fertile egg spoils quickly in warm weather, and a spoiled egg is an abomination and an expense. If it is shipped to market it is quite expensive, as the cost of handling and carriage is added to the loss of the egg. Every rotten egg means more than a cent lost, and 100 cents make a dollar. Last year we know of at least one Wayne poultry grower who sold his eggs for more than market price because he did not sell fertile eggs after the hatching season closed.

Having been "shown" to the tune of $3,000,000 last year our Missouri neighbors this year will observe June 6 as rooster day, and make a united effort to save the trouble and loss of handling rotten eggs—and produce an egg that will demand a higher price because of its quality, separate male and female birds at that time. Nebraska farmers will find it wise to follow the plan—otherwise Nebraska eggs will not sell as well as the product of the Missouri hen. Old roosters—if not too old are a good table bird, but not a high-priced one, and the putting a bunch of them on the market now instead of after they have been fed six months longer will help to reduce the high cost of living for many. Sell or pen the roosters. Pass it along.

Investigations which have been carried on late into the habits of the stable or "horsefly"—the one that bites—seem to indicate that this particular fly is responsible for the spread of infantile paralysis among human beings and a disease closely resembling this which has been fatal to horses in some sections.

A community co-operative laundry is to be established in Polk county, Wis., in connection with the local co-operative creamery. This is the result of the offer of $300 for such an enterprise by a local banker and a like prize by Professor Henry of the State Agricultural college. The laundry is to be organized along the same lines as the one at Chippewa, Minn., which has been in successful operation for the past year.

Celery cabbage is the name of a new horticultural product which has lately appeared in some of the larger markets. It resembles large stalks of celery, with the exception that the tops look like head lettuce. The taste is chiefly that of cabbage with a slight celery flavor. The vegetable is used for slaw, salad, in soups, cooked with meat and for garnishing. It may also be eaten raw with salt or cooked like cauliflower.

Putty may be kept from becoming hard and worthless by storing it in a closed pail, can or jar.

Klamath county, Ore., pays a bounty of 10 cents per scalp on jack rabbits but even under this handicap the rabbits seem to multiply rapidly.

Scurvy is a disorder of the human system brought about by eating too much animal food and not enough fruit and vegetables. Cure lies in a correction of the diet.

If you notice the family cow eating manure or gnawing at old bones or leather boots, it is safe to assume that she is not getting all that she ought to in her ration. Increase her bran ration. Increase her bran ration and give a little bonemeal.

There is little use in trying to hatch eggs from fat hens. In a majority of cases the chicks in such eggs will die before the process of incubation is half over, while those that do see the light rarely live more than a few days.

The silo has not only come to be, as it were, the mark of successful dairy operations, but of most profitable beef production as well. Properly balanced, it is also being proved an excellent ration for breeding and fattening sheep.

Every orchard, whether large or small, should have some stands of bees. Their presence in the orchard at blossom time insures needed pollination, while the honey made is largely clear profit, as there is no charge for pasture.

It always seems a pity when handsome shade trees are used for clothes-line posts or fenceposts, with the result that staples, hooks and wire become deeply embedded in the trunks, making most unsightly scars. When it seems necessary to so use a tree a block should be used to which to fasten wires or lines.

Sometimes there are practical difficulties in connection with game protection. This is shown in an interesting manner in the case of the Olympic herd of elk in Clallam county, Wash., which now numbers 4,000. The feed in the county is so short that it has become a serious problem how to feed the animals. The problem bids fair to become even more serious, as the elk are protected by law until 1920.

Readers of these notes who have not learned it from their own experience will be interested in knowing that rats will raid a pot or pan of tulips or hyacinths and not only gnaw off the growing stalks, but dig out the bulbs and lug them off. The treatment of a group of Rubra maxima tulip bulbs in this fashion recently by the pesky rodents has not increased the writer's regard for the nasty pests. From this he has vowed unending warfare on them.

It will be worth while for hunters all over the country to remember that a federal law is now in force which makes illegal the spring shooting of migratory or interstate wild fowls. Any man who kills these birds under the terms of the hunter's license issued to him by the authorities of his own state does so at his own risk. A United States marshal doesn't care a rap whether or not the offender is a cousin, uncle or nephew of folks of standing in the community.

The scientists of the department of agriculture have decided that "typhoid fly" is an appropriate as well as correct name for the common housefly. The designation "mangie fly" has also been suggested as fitting because the fly breeds chiefly in piles of horse manure. In any case, if the average person keeps these two decidedly unpleasant facts in mind it should cause renewed determination on his part to begin and continue an unceasing war of extermination on the miserable pests. The swatting should begin as soon as any of the tribe appear.

A new plan for rewarding the boys and girls who win prizes in the competitive contests among members of the agricultural clubs in several states has been proposed by officials of the department of agriculture. Instead of being given trips to Washington it is suggested that such winners be given a year's course in practical training in some agricultural school, their idea being that such a course would have a more practical as well as lasting value. The department officials suggest as an alternative award the payment of a week's expenses to the winner's state fair. For county winners prizes of practical and educational worth are suggested as of far more value than specific cash awards.

SOWING ALFALFA IN SPRING.

The question of whether to make the start with the batch of alfalfa in spring or late summer is likely to depend upon the moisture conditions, which are most likely to prevail immediately following seeding. Where conditions seem to warrant the spring sowing the seed should be sown as soon as the soil can be put in good condition after the frost is out of the ground. If the soil is not in a good condition of fertility it should be well manured and then plowed to a medium depth. It should then be harrowed so as to make a fine and mellow seed bed. While it is not absolutely necessary, it aids in getting a stand of alfalfa if the field is inoculated with soil from an established alfalfa field or a spot where sweet clover has grown. Such soil may be scattered thinly from a manure spreader or mixed in a couple of layers with the manure. While the practice of sowing a nurse crop is commonly followed with red clover, it is best not to do so with alfalfa, as the rapidly growing grain smothers the young alfalfa plants, which have little or no chance if dry weather comes immediately following the harvest of the grain. The piece of ground to be used should be well drained, should be sweetened with lime, if it is inclined to be sour, and should be as free as possible from weed seeds. The alfalfa seed should be drilled in to a depth of about an inch and a half and at the rate of from fifteen to twenty pounds per acre. Where the August sowing is preferred (and it is in many sections) the ground selected for it should be sown with an early maturing small grain crop, and as soon as this is off the ground the tract should be plowed and disked at frequent intervals until about the middle of August. If the soil is not rich the manuring should be given as in the case of the spring sowing, also the same inoculation and method of seeding. Where fields of alfalfa in their second year will yield five tons of the finest hay per year in even northern sections, the question of getting a start with the crop is one that should interest a good many more farmers. It is usually best to start with a few acres and get familiar with its culture.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT.

Farmers who are interested in raising dual purpose cattle which will not only make a creditable showing in milk return, but on the block as beef, will be interested in an experiment which is being conducted at North Oaks, Minn., through the co-operation of James H. Hill, president of the Great Northern railway, and Professor Thomas Shaw, the well known live stock authority. Last year Mr. Hill purchased in England some of the most perfect representatives of the dual purpose milking Shorthorn. The importation includes twenty-three head of cows, ranging in age from two to six years, and three bulls. The cows have milk records running from 6,000 to 10,000 pounds each yearly, while the bulls have been noted prize winners in English shows. With many others who sense the meaning of a decreasing beef supply and also that dairying is the best means by which soil fertility may be maintained, Mr. Hill is financing the above experiment for the purpose of solving the twofold problem. The results will be noted with a good deal of interest not only by stock raisers, but by many others who are interested in the future prosperity of the country.

GROWING SWEET PEAS.

Sweet peas have as few insect enemies as any of the common garden flowers and from the standpoint of both beauty of bloom and fragrance give a wonderfully large return for the pains taken in raising them. The small amount extra needed to purchase the very best quality of seed is returned many fold in the larger and handsomer blossoms. The seed should be soaked in tepid water for about twenty-four hours before being planted. The soil for the row should be rich and mellow and located where nearby sod will not absorb the moisture needed for the peas when the drier weather comes on. The seed should be planted at the bottom of a trench five or six inches deep and covered with a couple of inches of mellow soil. As soon as they have come through this and have made a growth of a couple of inches the rest of the soil should be added to fill the trench. Sweet peas will make the best growth and give the best results if they are kept free from weeds and given frequent hoeing. The trellis on which the peas are to grow should be put in place early so that they will have something to cling to as soon as the tendrils begin to reach for a support.

BEEF SHORTAGE FIGURES.

The seriousness of the situation in regard to the shortage of beef is appreciated not only in the advancing prices for cuts of meat on the local market, but in figures which have been compiled on the beef industry of the country. The per capita consumption of meat has dropped from 142 pounds in 1909 to 132 pounds in 1913, or ten pounds in four years. In the past six years, from 1907 to 1913, the number of beef cattle in the country has dropped from 51,563,000 head to 36,030,000 head. Based on figures gathered in plants where there is federal inspection, there has been a falling off in the number of animals killed of 1,419,000 cattle, or 780,000,000 pounds of beef, in the interval from 1910 to 1913.

The Real Question

President Wilson, in charging his mediators as to their duties at Niagara, shows for the first time a recognition of the underlying difficulty in Mexico. He makes a redistribution of the land an essential part of his program for the pacification of the country.

A settlement on any other basis will be a waste of time. The revolts of the constitutionalists in the north and of the Zapatists in the south have land reform as their basis. Land reform was the basis of revolution. It will be the basis of revolution after revolution as long as the existing system remains.

Mexico has been thus far a feudal country. A few men own the land, and the rest must pay these few for their right to live on Mexican soil. The many will never be satisfied with this system. There is ample evidence of that. The constitutionalists already control about half the country, dividing up the big estates as they go. They are too near victory now to listen to compromise. The leaders might be ready to compromise for the offices, but they know that this would be short lived bliss. The followers are after land, and will not stop till they get it.

President Wilson hopes to find a peaceful means of securing the needed reform of land distribution and tenure in Mexico. The effort, especially if successful, will have special interest for the United States. Succeeding censuses show the land of the United States falling into more and more concentrated ownership. At the present ratio, another century would see the land of the United States under centralized ownership as the land of Mexico is now. The Mexican problem is accordingly our problem, only in more acute form. If it is solved in Mexico now, that may show us how to solve it in advance here.—Saturday Evening Post.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMARHA

LIBERAL BEEF SUPPLY—SLOW AND LOWER MARKET.

HOGS AVERAGE SHADE LOWER

More Activity in the Lamb Trade, Due largely to Continuance of Light Receipts—Prices Are Fully Steady. Few Aged Sheep on Hand.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, May 26.—A very good run of cattle arrived today, some 4,600 head. Conditions surrounding the fat cattle market were pretty much the same as on Monday, slow and generally a dime lower. For the two days the decline amounts to fully 15@20¢ and the undertone to the trade is decidedly weak. It was the same old story in the market for cows and heifers, meager receipts, a keen demand at strong prices. Veal calves were in active request and strong, and there was a ready sale for bulls, stags, etc., at good, firm figures. There was very little demand for stock cattle and feeding steers, and what few did sell, sold at prices not far from steady with Monday.

Cattle quotations: Fair to prime yearlings, $8.00@9.00; choice to prime heifers, $8.60@8.80; good to choice heifers, $8.20@8.50; fair to good heifers, $8.00@8.20; common to fair heifers, $7.40@8.00; good to choice heifers, $7.60@8.60; good to choice cows, $7.00@7.75; fair to good cows, $6.50@7.00; cannings and cutters, $4.00@5.00; veal calves, $8.00@11.00; bulls, stags, etc., $5.75@7.75; good to choice feeders, $7.75@8.00; fair to good feeders, $7.00@7.75; common to fair feeders, $6.00@7.75; stock cows and heifers, $6.00@7.75; stock calves, $6.50@8.25.

Some 10,300 hogs showed up today. Trade opened out slow and dull today, but later the market became active and prices are just a shade lower than Monday's market. Bulk of the sales was made at $7.95@8.00, and tops reached $8.05, the same as Monday's top.

Sheep and lamb receipts were light today, only 4,000-head arriving. Light receipts again today served to give the general trade some activity, as compared with the dull affair Monday, though prices would average no better than fully steady. Clipped lambs formed the big bulk of today's receipts and prices ranged around $7.50@8.00.

Some California spring lambs brought $9.10. Some yearling wethers sold at $6.45. There were only a few aged sheep here.

Quotations on sheep and lambs—Shorn stock: Lambs, good to choice.

$7.75@8.10; lambs, fair to good, $7.50@7.75; yearlings, good to choice, $6.90@7.15; yearlings, fair to good, $6.50@6.90; wethers, good to choice, $6.55@7.50; wethers, fair to good, $5.40@6.85; ewes, good to choice, $5.40@5.75; ewes, fair to good, $5.15@5.40.
