

The Nebraska Democrat

ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, AUGUST 27, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

Morgan-Strickland

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 26, 1914, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delford L. Strickland, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jessie Evelyn and Mr. Frank S. Morgan, Rev. C. L. Myers officiating. The home was neatly decorated for the occasion, and a party of about fifty relatives and friends were present to witness the ceremony, partake of the dainty wedding breakfast which was served following the ceremony and extend the heartiest of congratulations. Misses Cole and Congratulated at the piano most acceptably. The bride was handsomely attired in a dark green traveling suit, and the groom wore a suit of very dark blue gray.

Immediately following the breakfast the bride and groom left by automobile and took the train at some station to their friends unknown, for Chicago, where they will remain for a week visiting and viewing the sights.

Both bride and groom are most favorably known at this place, where both grew to man and womanhood. The bride is a successful teacher, the groom a successful business man, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan. They will soon be at home in the residence of Mrs. Pile, which they will occupy upon their return. The Democrat joins their many friends in offering most hearty congratulations and wishes for future happiness and prosperity.

Taylor-Lewis

There was a quiet home wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lewis Wednesday morning, August 26, 1914, at 7:15, when their daughter, Miss Dora M., was given in marriage to Mr. Morton F. Taylor of Plainview, Rev. B. P. Richardson officiating.

Only the family and a few intimate friends were present to witness the ceremony, and immediately following the bride and groom left by automobile for their new home at Plainview. The bride grew to womanhood here and was educated in our schools, and then became one of the most efficient and popular teachers. Her friends are many. The groom is cashier of the First National bank of his home city, and a young man who stands well in his community because of his sterling qualities. Both are to be congratulated.

Wayne County Hogs Win

Roy Fisher, who has been at the Missouri state fair showing some of his Hampshires evidently "showed" the Missourians to their satisfaction, for his showing won 30 ribbons, 14 of them firsts, 6 seconds, 6 thirds, 3 champions and one grand champion. It was on a year old that he was given a first and grand championship, and his best pigs won first against 18 competitors. Of $288 cash prizes offered he won $186. This week he is at Des Moines where he will compete in the largest Hampshire showing ever exhibited at that fair.

City Property For Sale

There is for sale in this city a good medium-priced residence property, well located between the college and the business portion of town, and the hotel property on south side of track. Sam Barnes will give particulars.

Pony Contest Will Close Saturday Night

9 o'clock Sharp. Are your votes in? Result will be announced from the Crystal Theatre at a matinee to be given Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Come and learn the result and congratulate the winner.

More than 50 contestants entered and the following business houses contributed to the purchase of the prize: Central Meat Market, S. R. Theobald & Co., dry goods; Baughan Shoe Company; The Carhart hardware store; Gaertner & Backenhauer, furniture and carpets; Wayne Variety Store; Shulteis Pharmacy; The Crystal Theatre; Jones' Bookstore; The Nebraska Democrat; Gamble & Senter, clothing; G. H. Fisher, lumber and coal; Beaman's Ideal Grocery.

Judges—H. S. Ringland, Herman Lundberg and H. Henney.

Fire Takes Another Land Mark

About 9:30 Sunday evening, fire was discovered in the rear of the John S. Lewis building on the east side of Main street between 1st and 2nd street occupied as a restaurant by Peter Snawerdt. The fire evidently started in the kitchen but how is unknown as there had been but little fire in the range and it had been out early. The proprietor and family and one roomer had retired and were aroused by the fire or the fire alarm too late to save any of the contents of either the rooms above or the restaurant. One trunk was dragged out and the baby buggy rescued from below.

The department responded quickly after the alarm was turned in but it is reported that there was delay in getting the alarm through central, and did good work as the condition of the building as it plainly shows. Building and contents were so thoroughly burned that they might as well have been completely consumed only for the fact that the fire was confined to the building in which it started shows that good work was done by the firemen.

The loss was covered by an insurance of $1,500 on the building and $750 on the contents, which will leave the owners without a large loss above the amount.

Mr. Lewis cannot tell whether or not he will put in a good building or leave the lot vacant until after the adjustment is made, but says that he is ready to build if some one wanting building will lease. Mr. Snawerdt does not know whether or not he will re-enter the same business here.

Vernon Jones Buried

A shock comes to Ord by the arrival of the body of Vernon Jones from Chicago last night.

His mother Mrs. Nellie Stanton Girton, arrived in the city Tuesday evening bringing to her people the news that her son Vernon was dead and that the body would be sent to Ord for burial. But till the body came the fact of the young man's death was not generally known in Ord.

Vernon was the brilliant son of Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Jones. He was born in Valley county 23 years ago last May and lived here a number of years till his people moved to Alamosa, Colorado.

For several months he has been employed in a printing office in Chicago. A telegram came to his mother at Wayne, where she resides, simply saying that the young man died at his hotel in Chicago and asking for instructions as to the disposition of the body. She wired to have the body sent to Ord and then she came on immediately. At the time of her departure no particulars of the sad affair were received and none have come here yet.—Ord Quiz.

The funeral was held from the home of E. Stanton in Ord this afternoon, Dr. Chamberlain officiating.

The funeral was largely attended and many floral tributes were offered. The choir was composed of his schoolmates and the pallbearers were from his class of the high school.

Son of Contractor Riddle Killed

Word came here Monday of the accident which befell the little son of Contractor Riddel, who has the contract for the normal school building, and Mrs. Riddel, sister-in-law to the contractor was called to Creighton. The following from the Norfolk News tells of the accident:

"Louis, the 7-year-old son of J. P. Riddel, the contractor, died this morning from injuries he received Monday night when he was run over by the automobile of W. W. Walton, the banker of Center. The accident happened near the chautauqua grounds. The boy is said to have run in front of Mr. Walton's car. Mr. Walton, according to witnesses, stopped his car and then, thinking the boy would get out of his way, started again. The boy, evidently confused, ran in front of the car again and was struck. He suffered internal injuries."

FOR SALE—One of the best farms in Wayne county in locality where but little land is offered for sale. Plenty of hay and good pasture and well improved. Write C. A. Leederer, Norfolk, Nebraska, adv. 344.

The Wayne Chautauqua

Tonight is the closing night of the chautauqua, and it is called "Joy Night" with the Mme. Christine Giles-Bingham and Company and Ralph Bingham as the attractions. This promises to be the great fun producing night of the week—the good, hearty, healthy fun. It is considered the crowning event of the eventful week.

During the week the attendance has perhaps not been quite up to some other years for several reasons, but what we would consider the chief reason is the fact that there have been chautauquas all about us, which gives some who have in other years come more to Wayne, a chance to divide their attendance with other places.

The Military Girls and Chas. C. Gors., the bird man, a son of Rev. Gorst formerly of this place entertained well the first day and night. Then followed the Muehling-Page Recitals, Dr. W. B. Dickerson and Alton Packard, the cartoonist, all good entertainers.

Sunday and Sunday evening the Chautauqua Quartette and Katherine McCoy were part of the attractions. In the evening General L. C. Boyle gave an excellent address on Community Interest which brought out plainly the short-sightedness of the people of a community like Wayne pouring their money out to a concern that gives them nothing back except the bare goods they pay well for. They are working indirectly for an institution that will if continued destroy their community interest. Mr. Boyle was peculiarly well prepared to talk intelligently on that subject, having been engaged for several years in the work of trying to curtail their trade by keeping them within legal bounds. The fire alarm called his audience away just before the close and many were reluctant to miss the closing, but the habit of doing for one another here is such that all needed went to try to save the property of another. His talk should bear fruit.

Lenge's Symphonic Orchestra and Judge Schoonover were the attractions that made Monday a memorable day. The orchestra of 18 pieces is one of the best musical organizations in the land. They hail from Kansas City, and as one of the members said will be glad to get home again. He had started out in the spring with the idea that it would be great sport, and it has been, but now he had almost enough of eating and sleeping on the road standing up or most any old way. But it was good for their health.

Tuesday evening John G. Wooley, the great temperance orator gave his lecture on the "Secret of Democracy," and plainly showed that the good people by their inaction are responsible for the bad people in politics. As an example he sighted an instance where a notoriously bad man had been nominated and afterwards elected to office because in his district, one of the best in a great state, 24,000 good voters had remained away from the primaries and permitted 900 of the other class to nominate a man of their kind. He made a fair appeal for the ballot for women, and denounced the evils of the liquor traffic. His talk was one of force, and was one of the best educational features of the week. The Riner Sisters furnished mirth and music of high and pleasing order for the day. They do not travel in a rut—their show was something new.

Yesterday the Cavaliers and Thomas Brooks Fletcher were the entertainers. They pleased and instructed. Of the success from a financial view we cannot report yet, but hope that there will be no balance to go in red ink.

It would be nice to make a more complete report of the events of the week, but as they say in the program of one evening entertainment, to attempt to diagram and explain everything that is done—well! it simply couldn't be done, therefore, if you really desire to know—go.

Wayne County Primary Vote

The vote on the three amendments in this county was favorable to all of them, No. 1 carrying by a vote of 324 for and 171 against. No. 2 had 357 for and 148 against. No. 3, 301 for and 194 against.

Of the democratic candidates for governor Morehead carried county 129 to 127 for Berge and 53 for Metcalfe. On the republican side the Howell men outvoted any other, giving him 125 votes, Hammond 109, Kemp 72, Stevens 53, Yeiser 17, Cepiecha 9, Morehead 1. For lieutenant governor Pearson carried the county on the democratic ticket with 118 votes, Potts second with 108, Snavelley 45. Smith was without opposition for auditor of accounts. Hall had 192 votes for treasurer, and Gallagher 83.

For superintendent of schools Whitehead won in the county and the state. His vote in this county was 107, Cline 58, Walker 56, Monroe 52. Willis Reed was named as attorney general without opposition. Eastman won this county as commissioner of public lands and buildings with a vote of 129, McKissick 83, Martin 45.

Maupin carried the county for railway commissioner with 98 votes, Ralston 67, Lehr 49, Ollis 48. Skiles and Miller carried the county for regents with 180 and 101 respectively.

The vote for Dan V. Stephens for congress was 231 and for Koenigstein was 65. For senator in the 7th district Kohl without opposition in either party 259 votes.

For representative W. D. Redmond received the nomination, no one having filed. He received 27 votes, Mears 19, Bartels 7, Brummels and Smith each 1.

Roe, the present treasurer received 17 votes for that office, Hanssen 8 and a few others scattered.

For clerk C. W. Reynolds received 277 votes, and three others one each.

For sheriff James received 253 votes, Porter 6, scattering 2. Miss Wallace received 254 votes for county superintendent. W. Beckenhauer received the nomination for coroner or else Dr. Williams, for each received 5 votes, and five other candidates were given honorable mention. Huntmer was named for surveyor with 253 votes. Kiplinger received 268 votes for county attorney.

For commissioner in the first district P. M. Corbit received the nomination with 23 votes, no one having filed in that district. Assenheimer was given 5 votes, Anderson 10 for his office. In the second district Strate was nominated with 92 votes.

Republican Nominations

The vote on governor is given above. For lieutenant governor Albright won with a vote of 135, Shotwell 104, Hoagland 89, Vanalstine 32. Wait carried the county for secretary of state with 229 votes to Barnard 131. Hamer won the county for treasurer with 249 to Teegarden 108. Minor was first for auditor with 226 votes and O'Neal 131.

Elliott carried this county for state superintendent by 275 to 74 for Thomas and 32 for Hayes, but Thomas finally won the nomination in the state. Sears was first for attorney general with 144 votes, Apers next with 113, Devoe 68, McCuiston 32. Beckman got 333 votes for commissioner of public lands and buildings. For railway commissioner Hall had 105 votes, Peterson 95, Young 67, Johnson 46, Duval 26, Keifer 19. The vote for regents was Coupland 156, Jansen 133, Brown 175.

In the congressional district Spillman had 250 and Avery 115. For senator Kohl received 14, Mears 1. Representative Mears 254, Smith 127. Roe for treasurer 354 votes. For county clerk Reynolds received 35 and eight other received from 1 to 4 each. For sheriff Porter was given 371, James 7, Miss Sewell had 350 votes for superintendent, Miss Wallace 3. Beckenhauer was named for coroner with 305 votes. For attorney Hendrickson had 327 votes and Kiplinger 6. Jones was named as surveyor with 14 votes.

For commissioner in the 2nd district Auker won over Anderson by a vote 54 to 47, and Corbit received 5 votes. In second district Farran won with 132 votes.

The progressive vote was light, Sackett, the candidate for governor received 11 votes and no other candidate more than 12 votes. Spillman for congress received 12 votes. Smith won for the legislative ticket with two votes to each opponent's one.

There was one vote cast for the People's independent ticket and none for either Socialist or Prohibitionist.

The above will give the result in this county so far as there were votes enough to interest the readers. To have tabulated and given the result by precincts would have required much space and time, for there were so many candidates and so many party tickets.

Pony Contest Closes Saturday

At nine o'clock Saturday evening the pony contest that has been in progress here for three months past comes to a close. About 50 boys and girls are taking part in the contest, and a number of them are staying in and working to the finish. No one knows the standing of any of the contestants, for no count has been made from the start. The Democrat has been in the game, and several of the candidates have found that the vote offer to be contracted to make proves to be a quick way of getting votes, and their prospect of winning has been greatly helped by work done for the Democrat. Two full days yet remain, and diligent work in that time may be a great help to your chance of winning the coveted cart and pony.

Suffrage Meeting

Miss White informs us that no less personage in the suffragette organization than Miss Jane Thompson, field secretary of the National Suffrage association, will be at Wayne to speak this week, and will speak on the street Saturday afternoon at some hour not yet named, and at the court house in the evening. This will be an opportunity the voters of Wayne should not fail to embrace for we have to decide that question at the polls this fall, and we should be fair enough to give the cause a hearing before we vote; by one who thinks the franchise should be given to women.

Normal Does Not Open Sept. 7th

Last week the item in regard to the normal training school opening September 7 was misunderstood and thought to refer to the normal proper. In the training school pupils from Wayne attend, and the work is the same as in the corresponding grades of the public school, and it planned to have this branch of the work begin at the same date as the public school.

C. R. Giblin Loses All By Fire

C. R. Giblin, who went from Wayne to Detroit, Minnesota, about a month ago writes that he had just got nicely settled there in a comfortable office and sleeping room, all nicely furnished—had purchased the office fixtures and a most excellent display of sample grains and grasses grown in Minnesota, and just gotten nicely ready for business when a fire broke out at Detroit which was not checked until it had eaten up 22 business places and their contents, and his entire outfit went with it. He was out of town on a business mission for the night, at Frazee, a smaller place 12 miles away, when a call came from Detroit for the firemen of the place to come to their aid. He was called soon after by the man who owned the building he was in saying that everything was gone that was in the building. This included all that Giblin had, including a complete new outfit of clothing, suit and overcoat, furniture and the valuable display of farm products and not a penny of insurance. He says he had nothing left except what he had with him and his character. Mr. Giblin made headquarters at Wayne for three years or more, devoting a part of his time to selling Minnesota real estate, a knowledge of which he had that was thorough.

He will continue the business as the Minnesota farms did not burn, and he says the burned section, which was largely of frame buildings, will be rebuilt at once with brick. His Wayne friends wish him well, and trust that no more misfortunes will come to him.

Struck Oil

Ellis Girton's son Frank writes to him from Oklahoma City, last week, to the effect that he has "Struck Oil", as they used to say back in Pennsylvania in the days when that country was being developed, and before Jawn D. had a corner on all of the oil known or dreamed of. He is one of a company of four, and they have opened a 250 barrel well on one of their leases, which means, he says, an income of $250 per day, and they have room on the lease for eight more wells, and if all are like the first they will be rich. He states that after about a year output from the one well they will have paid all of the cost, and have the rest for velvet. His Wayne friends hope that it may come to him as good as it appears.

Rev. David T. Neely and wife from Cincinnati, Ohio, were here last week to visit at the home of his brother R. E. K. Neely and family north of town. They left the first of the week to visit at Greeley, Colorado, before returning home. Rev. Neely is pastor of the Hyde Park Presbyterian church of his home city.

H. C. House of Peru is at Bloomfield this week as one the instructors at the institute. He is brother to Dr. House of the college, and they had a short visit Saturday evening while he was on his way to Bloomfield.

Miss Minnie Peterson was here from Wakefield last week attending institute, and went to her home Sunday and from there to Thurston, near which place she has a school at a good salary. She was a student at the normal here.

Herb Robson and family and Miss Neva Landanger started by automobile to visit in Montgomery county, Iowa, in vicinity of Red Oak. The young lady will be absent several weeks and will visit other places before returning.

Mrs. Pheobe Smith of Sholes came Monday to attend the chautauqua and visit her parents, S. Fox and wife. The speaker Monday evening, Judge M. Schoonover, came from the same county in Indiana, and it was to hear an old neighbor as well as a good speaker that she came down.

Roy Fisher and wife went to Sioux City Friday, and from there Roy went to St. Joseph, Missouri, where he has a bunch of Hampshires on exhibition. From St. Joe he plans to go to Des Moines and show at the Iowa state fair, and will doubtless come home with both ribbons and prize money.

P. W. Sandberg and wife of Lynch stopped here Saturday and Sunday to visit at the home of their son-in-law, N. F. Ekman and wife at their home four miles east of Wayne. They had been at Omaha taking treatment at one of the hospitals there, and were sufficiently recovered to be able to return home.

R. J. Dempsay returned Monday from a visit with his son Alex at Medalia, Minnesota, and his son-in-law, S. Hall near there. He and his son Arthur went by automobile last week, but on Saturday they had so much rain there that the car could not be brought home, and the son remained to come with the car.

Robert Skiles returned Friday from Vayland, South Dakota, where he spent several weeks looking after land there. He reports that crops are fairly good in that vicinity, wheat yielding from 15 to 20 bushels, oats 45 to 55 bushels, and says that some corn is good—looks better than some he saw nearer home.

J. H. Burke of South Sioux City has invented an indestructible car door for grain shipments. His door is of steel and will last long, while the wooden door now used are broken up and wasted, seldom lasting for more than one trip. The new door may be economical for the railroad, but what will a lot of people do for kindling if the railroads quit supplying wooden doors?

My line of fall and winter samples are here and now is the time to call and select your suit.—E. C. Tweed, the tailor.—adv. 32-4

Clifford Brown of this city has opened a panatorium at Randolph and is said to be equipped to turn out work to meet the need of that community in the way of dry cleaning. He has acquired a practical knowledge of the work here with his father, Madison Brown, and if he will advertise and do good work he can succeed.

Mrs. W. E. Winterringer went to Coleridge Monday to visit relatives there and at Hartington and Crofton. Her parents, O. R. Potter and wife were here last week to visit her as they were going from St. Edwards to their home at Crofton by automobile, and they took their granddaughter, Geraldine Winterringer home with them.

Messrs. H. C. Reuge and A. H. Wright of Norfolk have leased the C. W. Duncan garage on 1st street and taken possession. Both are practical and experienced men in repair work, and they have facilities for handling all kinds of the work. They have not yet taken the agency for the sale of cars but may do so. Mr. Wright's family moved here this week.

L. P. Walker and family left Saturday. He went to Gibbon with two of the boys, and Mrs. Walker went to visit home folks near Hartington, for a time, and a little later plans to join him in Colorado, where he will go after a visit at home. They expect to locate in Colorado on account of her health, and has assurance of work at Greeley or a nearby place.

Willie Meyer, who went to Rochester, Minnesota, about six weeks ago for change of climate for asthma and for treatment for bronchial trouble is home, apparently much improved in health. Asthma, however is so much affected by climate that he may not be able to remain here long at this season of the year, as his case and this climate did not work well together in the past.

Those who thought Nick Hansen was starting for Germany Saturday to fight again with the German forces were mistaken. Himself and wife were going to Cushing and other places in Iowa to visit relatives. He liked the French in 1870, and if they need another drubbing he will leave the job for younger men. He thinks one war like the one he was in a plenty for one life time.

In verification of the statement that the fools are not all dead yet we wish to call attention to the fellow with an automobile who religiously obeys the law in regard to sounding his horn at street crossings when driving out in the middle of the night when there is not a person on the street to heed the warning and a lot of honest people are in bed trying to sleep. We are not at all sure that he is as careful to make a noise when driving through streets crowded with people.

Concerning the Texas lands advertised on another page, A. A. Peard of Waterloo, Iowa, writes to Mr. White as follows, confirming what is told in the advertisement:

Dear friend White: Your letter just received. I have been in the south ever since you were here. I was surprised to find the crops as they are in Texas, they are far ahead of anything I ever saw in this country and I have lived here for twenty years. I saw several fields of wheat that threshed out thirty bushels per acre of best grade, netting the farmer more than he paid for the land, and they told me conditions were still better in the shallow water belt. The farmers down there are enjoying themselves and do not notice hard times half as much as they do right here in good old Iowa, where they call the wealthy garden spot of the world.

At present it is very dry here and the grass is dried up and all crops suffering; a large per cent of the corn on this $200.00 acre land is burned up and being cut for fodder. What would your Texas farmers say if they had to pay from $5.00 to $8.00 per acre rent on lands with the above results, guess they would begin to see where the howl comes from on the high cost of living. One farmer at Higgins told me he had farmed twenty years in Iowa and quit farming and went to Texas to live with his son, but now he is one of the leading farmers of that county, he says he enjoys farming as it is a pleasure.

Write and let me know how you are getting along, hoping you are having good success.

This letter was received today. Read ad of the 63 farms for sale in the Shallow Water Belt, and meet me at Hanssen Bros. office Saturday morning, and I will fully explain the best farming proposition in the entire country.

Cooking is so important!

Good cooking helps the health and happiness of your family.

Surely you should have a range that will enable you to do your best cooking.

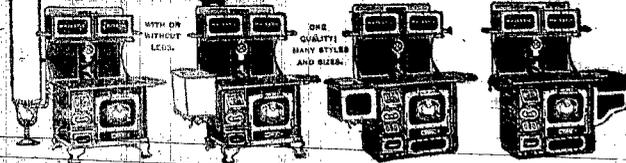

"Majestic" makes good cooking easy. It is not just "so much metal put together to hold fire"; each part is scientifically built to do its work just right. Made of malleable and charcoal iron, metals that resist rust and wear three times as long as ordinary range metals. All joints riveted to parts need—Majestic stays tight—holds the heat in, maintaining uniform baking heat with least fuel. The Majestic provides perfect baking qualities, plus fuel-saving and work-lightening features that you cannot get in ordinary ranges. The little extra it costs is more than repaid by the years longer year that it gives.

The health and happiness of your whole family is effected by the range you buy. Investigate thoroughly. Before you buy any range, come to our store and see the Majestic—we know you will want a Majestic when you see its advantages.

More and hotter water!

Majestic water heating front is fitted with eight hollow ribs that extend right into the fire giving greatest water heating surface of any range made; heats more water much quicker and hotter than ordinary water fronts.

Suffrage Department

Under the auspices of the Suffrage League of Wayne

Dear Co-workers:

The time has come when we must go ahead in the campaign for suffrage in Nebraska. We must keep moving whether we receive applause or abuse. Not that we are expected to do some great deed but we must meet each opportunity with the determination that we will do our part no matter how bitter the opposition. We must see our duty, then have the moral courage to do it, never losing sight of the final victory. Granted that we have a clear vision of the problem God has given us to solve. Problems have confronted all generations of every nation. Our ancestors had their problems and we today have a great reform staring us in the face.

We profess to be followers of Christ, to be patriotic. Then we cannot let this opportunity pass by with out our notice. Is this not truly an epoch of woman? Can we not see that the one great problem, "The liquor problem," calls for woman's help lest it will never be solved. Duty is the most sublime word in the English language. We cannot do more than simple plain duty. We would never wish to do less. If any of the white ribboners of Nebraska are in doubt as to the need of the ballot as a weapon in our fight we can only tell you in this short message that we are fast passing the argumentative stage and it behooves you, if such there be to study the subject prayerfully and you will come to the conclusion, that God is calling you to act, and act now. You will come out on the right side for we have reached the stage of adjustment. All we have to do is to adjust ourselves, line up in the ranks and keep moving. There is no place to stop. Our responsibilities will not over whelm us if we meet them as they come. Our present duty is to do the "next thing" to be done. We have learned the foolish, false ideal that we are to be "timid creatures" and are prone to think that the present woman's movement is a revolution when it is clearly an evolution. It is just a condition that has been forced upon us, and the results will not alter materially the established order of creation but instead out of evolution will come a more direct, benign and useful influence from woman in behalf of all serious affairs of life. The whole question will resolve itself into woman's clearer vision of just where she does fit into the scheme of things—a problem she has never seriously considered in all the past years of her suspected power and authority in shaping the lives, comforting the oppressed and soothing the sorrows of her earth mates.

This message written in answer to a request from our state superintendent of Franchise for an article on "Franchise," is rather on the subject of "Just how we feel about it," and we do hope it contains some thoughts that will help you, for the time will soon come when we will be meeting the test. So let's keep on stirring and hope for the best. Let us not give up the ship and retire in dismay because hammers are thrown where we'd like a bouquet.

The world would be tiresome; we'd all have the blues if all the folks in it held just the same views.

So, let's finish our work, show the best of our skill. Some people won't like us, but other folks will. Let's stand up for Nebraska and votes for women.

MRS. ORR.

Hogwood Sells Dray Line

Wm. Hogwood, who has been running a dray line here for nearly ten years last past has sold most of his teams, wagons, harness and business to John Ludwickson, who recently moved here from Howell, Iowa. Possession is to be given September 1st. Mr. Ludwickson buys six teams and harness and seven wagons and the dray business, which has been good and growing bigger each year. Mr. Hogwood retains the sprinkler wagon and team, and one other team with which he plans to do some day work teaming. The new proprietor was raised on a farm but after a dozen years of school work sought employment that will give him more exercise than one gets teaching in these days, government by moral suasion.

Mr. Hogwood started with a one-team outfit and the business has grown with Wayne or faster, and he now thinks he will so arrange his work as to be able to take less of the hard lifts as he grows older. His successor plans to give close attention to the details of the work, and he is now out with the wagons daily, learning the town and patrons.

The old settler picnic of Cedar county at Hartington last week was attended by more than 3,000 people, and was a splendid success.

THE SIXTY-FIVE FARMS OF THE LUBBOCK IRRIGATION COMPANY

Near Lubbock, in Lubbock County, Texas, Will All Be Disposed of

Excursion Sept. 1st

These farms are adjoining and comprise a solid body of 11,808 acres, at the head waters of the Brazos River, now attracting the attention of the entire country as the coming Irrigation district because of the unlimited and inexhaustible supply of pure water at shallow depth with soil and climate made to order for its use.

58 Farms of 177 Acres Each, and 5 Farms of 236 Acres Each

To the Citizens of Wayne County:

I HAVE lived in Texas 23 years. I know every section of the state which is five times as large as the state of Nebraska; have closely inspected the coast country from Houston to Brownsville and from Harlingen to San Foydice in the Rio Grande Valley. I have been in 36 states, and have noted farm conditions closely in the Dakotas and Minnesota and I say without fear of contradiction that the head waters of the Brazos River country is the most attractive, productive and healthful section on the American continent. The lay of the land is like your bottom lands, with a slope of from 5 to 8 feet per mile to the southeast. It is simply a high class agricultural county with climatic conditions more favorable than in Wayne county.

Go and see the crops grown on the land and make your own comparison. This opportunity and offer will never be again in your life time. You cannot afford to miss it. I will be with you on the trip and will try and make it pleasant. Further, I will be in your county Friday and Saturday to explain the proposition in person.

C. H. WHITE,
For the Owner

Take your wives with you. They will be the first ones pleased.....

Location

These farms are located directly east of Lubbock on the Lubbock and Crosbyton Highway, directly south of Idalou, on the C. N. S. P. Ry., and directly north of Slaton, a Santa Fe Railroad Division. All of these points are convenient to these farms, with good roads to all. This neighborhood has two schoolhouses, one brick and one frame, more than two hundred pupils, thrifty, contented farmers with bank accounts, daily mail delivery at your door, and telephone service.

Now Remember

These farms are all the lands we have and Col. Wortham will convince each person who views these farms that if he were sole owner, they could

Will be sold at an average price of about $30.00 per acre and two farms adjoining, of 177 acres each, will be given jointly to the purchasers of the 63 farms, free of cost and clear of incumbrance, each purchaser receiving an undivided 63rd interest, or an interest equal to his purchase on this basis in the entire 354 acres, together with the improvements, including the water plant, which alone is surely worth $25,000.00 per year to the purchasers, and on the basis of water prices in some of the irrigation districts, the product of this plant would be worth $40,000.00 per annum. All of the improvements are new and modern. A conservative value of the 354 acres, which is all in alfalfa and other crops, with improvements aside from the water value is:

Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars

These properties are the pride and home of Col. John L. Wortham, Ex-Secretary of State, whose pleasure it will be to show you these farms and verify all statements herein, and it is our desire that you go at once and view these properties if you are interested in owning a farm of very best on such terms and conditions as will not be your lot again during your life.

Go September 1st

And look the property over, make selections and be ready for the sale. The owner will show you every acre of all these farms. If you are pleased and return on October 22nd and complete a purchase, your railroad fare for both trips will be deducted from your purchase. It will be a pleasure to Col. Wortham to show you the magnificent crops of wheat, corn, oats, alfalfa, maize, Sudan grass, cotton and all kinds of garden products. When two parties purchase one of these farms, one round trip transportation for each will be allowed.

A Total 1,000 Acres in Alfalfa and Other Crops

Will speak for the lands and they can best tell you whether the delightful climate, pure water and rich soil is what you want.

Condition of Sale

Five hundred dollars with contract to be deposited in Citizens National Bank of Lubbock, pending the sale of the 63 farms on or before October 31, 1914. If these farms are not sold by that date, the bank will return to you your money and contract. If they are sold you will receive notice mailed you on November 1st that they have all been sold. Deed will be executed to you on December 1, 1914, upon the further payment of $750.00 to the bank, to whom the deed will be delivered for you. All the deferred payments will bear 5 per cent interest, $2,000.00 can run until December 1, 1929 at 5 per cent interest, if desired, or can be paid at any time.

Remember: All Will Be Sold by October 31, 1914

Or your $500.00 paid will be returned to you by the bank. Your agreement will be made with the bank as well as with us. Remember you pay only $500.00 until all these farms are sold. With all sold, every purchaser has a neighbor on each side. Remember, these are smooth prairie farms, no rock or gravel hills, washes or breaks. The $20.00 per acre to $25.00 per acre farms are equal in quality to those higher in price; the difference in price being in improvements and distance from railroads.

Do A Little Figuring

With all these farms sold, what will be their value? Don't you think that their value will be at once tripled? Then where can you duplicate them at $100.00 per acre?

not be bought for double the prices at which they will be sold. These farms are from owners to purchaser, no middleman.

Don't Forget

These farms will be disposed of as stated herein, and this is your opportunity. Go now and make a selection. Your railroad agent can show you a Santa Fe Railroad map and quickly locate for you the cities of Lubbock, Slaton and Idalou, all in Lubbock County, Texas and between these towns are the farms. We will be glad to receive you at Lubbock and will do our best to make your visit a pleasant one. Col. Wortham and W. N. McKinney at Lubbock will show you these farms.

Facts In A Nutshell

SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES

Churches in the South Plains costing from $25,000 to $40,000 speaks the Christian spirit. Schools—Over one-half million dollars expended for schools and colleges in the past four years. Educational advantages are unsurpassed.

CITIZENSHIP

Some of the best from every state, wide awake, progressive with exchange of ideas, give the best possible results. An earnest aim to improve conditions from a social and educational and agricultural standpoint.

RAIN AND IRRIGATION

Twenty-three inches during the growing season, supplemented by wells pumping from 1,200 to 4,000 gallons per minute, makes a perfect growth, a sure crop and enormous yield. The ideal farming country. Farm perfection, that's all.

PANAMA CANAL

Bringing the commerce of the world in whistling distance of our border will soon double the price of our lands. Our location on rock ballast main line to Galveston.

FRUITS AND FARM PRODUCTS

The South Plains took 85 blue and red ribbons at the state fair during October, 1913. Vine crops enormous yield and best flavor. No better section for apples, peaches, pears and plums of every variety. The proven wheat belt of the Southwest. Corn, Kaffir Corn, Milo Maize and Oats make enormous yields. Alfalfa 6 to 7 crops, is the pride of the shallow water belt.

HOGS AND POULTRY

Live stock industry is unsurpassed. No hog cholera, climate and nutritious native grasses, short winters, cool summer nights make our section the ideal breeding grounds. The chicken fanciers' paradise. Ready demand and high prices for poultry, eggs, butter and milk makes the housewife's task one of pleasure and profit. A section deserving the name—The Golden Belt of the Southwest.

They might as well settle down and be good in Mexico for a time, for with the doings over the pond it is hardly probable that Mexico in her weakened condition can stir up anything that will do for a first page position.

President Wilson always talks right out in meetin' and now he boldly proclaims that those who would expect to profit by United States intervention in Mexico are the ones who are making trouble in that sore distressed republic.

In order to keep the land from being overflowed and thereby wasted for use, also to furnish water power to generate electric power, it is proposed to turn the Platte river on edge, and convert the wide, shallow stream into one that will be deep and narrow with well-defined banks and great reservoirs to store flood waters for use as needed for power or irrigation purposes.

Can You Beat Mail Order Houses?

The Democrat does not think so. Some others think so too. Before the sugar trust (another hard proposition to beat) boosted the price of sugar certain mail order houses was quoting it at low price—as low as the retail merchant could own it—with the proviso that there must be a $10 order for other goods or groceries with the sugar.

Review of the War News

According to the reports in the daily paper the European war is going on. Japan has declared war on Germany and commenced operations by bombarding the forts of Tientsin in the part of China occupied by the Germans.

There has been fighting and counter fighting all along the line of battle between Germany and France, which is nearly 200 miles in length. Along the north end of this great line which is Belgium the Germans have been slowly driving the Allies back, and Tuesday the report was that they had won a victory and forced the enemy to make quite a retreat.

Along the southern end of this great battle line the reports are conflicting, but give the French and English credit for gaining some headway.

On the south Serbia is reported to be victorious over the Austrian troops.

To the east the Russians with a line of battle 70 miles in length, claim to be making a great campaign, and to be driving the Germans in front of them from one post to another.

Nothing but rumors are to be heard of the fight on the water. There are plenty of ships destroyed in the papers, but the reports are seldom confirmed.

In the air there is a part of the great campaign under way. Air ships from both sides are working destruction where they can, and frequently meet an attack which results in their fall to the death of all engaged in the airship that can be brought down.

If true when Sherman said that war is hell—it is doubly true now, for the engines of death are doubly destructive.

A later report tells of the fall of Namur one of the strongholds of the Allies, and England is alarmed. The same report also tells of the successes of the Germans in the south part of the battle line, where the French had been reported to be gaining ground.

It is reported from Berlin that the German Prince, Lt. Gen. Prince Frederick of Sax Meiningen was killed by a shell before Namur on the 23rd.

There is to be a general protest against the throwing of bombs from airships as it is reported is being done, on the ground that it is violation of the articles of the Hague convention which all powers now at war had signed.

Big Melon Patch

R. E. Nunemaker has probably the largest watermelon patch in northeast Nebraska, if not in the state. He has ten acres in melons, and the outlook is that he will have an excellent crop.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

Creameries

That the centralized creameries are either inefficient or are making excessive profits is further confirmed by the testimony of W. B. Barney, dairy commissioner of Iowa. In a recent article dealing with the creamery situation in this state he says: "Draw a line through the middle of Iowa from east to west and you will find that out of Iowa's 520 creameries about 400 are located north of this line."

Whether this failure of the centralized creameries to pay as high price for butterfat as are paid by local farmers' creameries is due to inefficiency in the centralized system—high cost of doing business—or to the greediness of the owners for profits is an important question now that the Farmers' Union is establishing a state co-operative creamery to operate on the centralized plan.

We do not believe that a centralized creamery is as efficient as a well patronized local co-operative creamery, that it can produce butter so cheaply; but the difference should not be so great as the difference between the prices paid for butterfat by centralized and local co-operative creameries.

The indications are that the centralized creameries make very little profits. Their margin of profit is wide enough, we believe, to insure the success of the Farmers' Union creamery, if it is well managed. Well-patronized local co-operative creameries could doubtless make a greater saving for producers than a state co-operative creamery, but in Nebraska the dairy industry is spread out thin, and in many localities not enough cream is produced to supply a creamery.

A Story of Texas Lands

C. H. White who hails from the empire state of Texas and from that section which has been recently named the "shallow water belt" or the wonderful country of underground rain, was at Wayne last week in the interest of the 65 alfalfa farms belonging to Col. John L. Wortham, ex-secretary of state, which are being advertised in this issue.

Mr. White says this section must be seen to be appreciated. Another section remains to be discovered, developing faster than any other country "out of doors" with 24 inches of rain fall during the growing season, supplemented by pumps should it fail to rain when needed, insures a big crop every year.

If Feed is Short Grind

The editor of this paper has long contended that it was a matter of true economy to grind grain feed for stock, that the cost of grinding was more than made good by the extra value of the ground food. In confirmation of this opinion we quote below from a bulletin just issued by the experiment station of this state, and those who want the full bulletin should write to Lincoln for No. 114. This bulletin gives the results of a test to determine the relative feeding values of whole wheat and ground wheat when fed to fattening pigs.

- Data are given on four lots of pigs fed the following rations: Lot 1, soaked whole wheat; Lot 2, soaked whole wheat 19 parts, tankage 1 part; Lot 3, soaked ground wheat; Lot 4, soaked ground wheat 19 parts, tankage 1 part.

The pigs fed ground wheat made faster and more economical gains than the pigs fed whole wheat. It was found that pigs can be fattened and marketed on a shorter feed with ground wheat than with whole wheat. In all cases a great saving was effected by grinding the wheat. Ground wheat at $1 per bushel proved to be as economical as whole wheat at 75 cents per bushel.

The lots receiving tankage made faster gains than the lots fed wheat alone. Lot 2, fed whole wheat 19 parts and tankage 1 part, made an average daily gain per pig of 0.25 pound more than Lot 1, fed whole wheat alone. Lot 4, fed ground wheat 19 parts and tankage 1 part made an average daily gain per pig of 0.13 pound more than Lot 3, fed ground wheat alone.

This bulletin will be sent free to residents of Nebraska on application to Director E. A. Burnett, Agricultural Experiment Station, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Sholes Remains Dry

At a hearing before Judge Welch of the appeal from the decision of the village board at Sholes granting a saloon license, the judge denied the petitioners and sustained the remonstrators on the ground that the petition did not contain a majority of the bonifide freeholders. The petitioners have not yet decided as to repeal. Pending the result of an appeal Sholes will remain dry, and as the supreme court is said to be rather behind with their cases that means a long dry spell.

Neighborhood News

Gleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

South Sioux City has voted $10,000 bonds for a municipal light plant.

Last week Pilger voted bonds to extend their system of water works to outlying districts.

Work is starting this week on a new brick block to contain three fine store buildings—at Laurel.

Frank Held, accused of the murder of Miss Mick at Schuyler has had a hearing and is held to answer to the murder charge.

Dr. William H. Peirson, a pioneer physician and twice mayor of Stanton died at his home in that city August 11th at the age of 62 years.

The council at Hartington had to curtail the lawn sprinkling at that place in order to have sufficient water for fire protection. The Crofton experience was a sort of warning to the places in this part of the state that it is expensive to neglect fire protection.

Hans Bock and wife of Belden died last week within an hour of each other. The wife died of convulsions following the birth of a child, and soon after the father, who had been in usual health suddenly passed away. He was 57 years of age, the wife 41 years.

Believing that the early bird eats the worm Henry C. Richmond, who has the democratic nomination as one of the representatives from Douglas county, has cast his hat in the ring for the speaker's chair. Well, that will be a matter for the legislature to attend to when selected.

The suffragettes of Lyons gave a reception to Miss Fola LaFollette who spoke at the chautauqua at that place last week. Editor Warner says that no one could successfully contradict any of her arguments for giving the ballot to the women, and the reception was a success.

The Democrat may have to try to get the leading republican paper of the state—the Bee, on the exchange list in order to get the best material with which to oppose the republican nominee for governor. We feel that the Bee will not shield any of his meanness because they both belong to the same party.

We notice that in many places where the fight against the Stehens postoffice primary was most bitter his competitor for the congressional nomination frequently fared the worst. If the congressman can get his republican opponent to fight a postoffice primary the result in November will be as it was last week.

Activity in the county exhibit section of the Nebraska state fair indicates that there will be a decided increase in the number of county exhibits in the new Agricultural-Horticultural hall. Counties in the west and northwest sections of the state are making commendable efforts to boost their communities by extensive agricultural displays, says the secretary.

The big tractors will be given a chance to demonstrate their merits at the Nebraska State Fair, Thursday, September 10. A tract of land has been secured and tractor men will show what their machines will do under the management of experts. Progressive farmers have been making inquiries concerning the tractor demonstration and are planning to watch the proceedings.

A model milk house, a model cow barn, a silo and a calf barn will be features of the Dairy and Pure Food show in old agricultural hall at the Nebraska state fair September 7-11. Supt. Andreas plans to have specimens of five breeds of dairy cows on exhibition. Deputy Food Commissioner Harman has arranged for a big display of pure food products and will demonstrate how the pure food laws of the state are enforced. This dairy exhibit should be of great value to the farmers of the state.

Coming up on the train from Wakefield Friday, Conductor W. Rensch informed the editor that he need not be frightened if fifty suffragettes got aboard the train at Concord. Further than that he did explain. Imagine our surprise when twenty-five women boarded the train at Concord, the leader carrying a banner bearing these words: "Votes for Women." On the opposite side of the banner was "Let Them Suffer." Investigation proved that the twenty-five ladies were from the Coleridge M. E. Aid Society, and had been visiting at Concord Aid. While waiting at the station for the train the banner was improvised in a spirit of fun—and they were certainly a jovial lot of ladies.—Laurel Advocate.

Maud, the two-year-old daughter of E. H. Bracket and wife, was scalded to death at Belden the first of the week, a kettle of boiling water being accidentally upset on the little one.

Clint Bowers and Harry Wiemer of Hartington were killed Thursday night of last week in Sioux City by being run over by a train. It is supposed they were trying to get aboard a freight train to return to Hartington. The bodies were badly mangled when found by the trainmen.

Laurel has a chautauqua this week, began yesterday. This is the last of the numerous chautauqua gatherings in this part of Nebraska this year. On their program appears representatives of German, Etheopean, Japanese and Hawaiian lands, besides a few who from their name we would judge to be of this great free country, and others have French names.

We notice that some of our exchanges are still running the advertisement about that tract of Oregon land of which a map will be sent for $3.40, although the man sending the advertisement out has changed his address to the jail, where he was taken on charge of swindling the people. For once we threw the right proposition in the waste basket—where many others go.

The farm laborers of Nebraska work on an average of 9 hours and 46 minutes per day, according to a report which has just been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. More than 70,000 laborers are employed on the farms of Nebraska, and the average monthly compensation is $29.50 with board, and $38.40 if the laborer boards himself. These figures relate to the year 1913. The report also gives the wage of farm labor in Continental United States as $13.85 per month with board and $19.97 without board.

The fastest, perhaps, automobile trip between Bloomfield and Crofton, ever recorded, was made Monday afternoon. When the news of the big fire reached town, Bill Bogenhagen and Chris Hansen, whose Crofton garage was in the fire zone, with Messrs. Philson and Clements, jumped into the Studebaker big 6 and Bill "opened" her up. Billy Frymire said that up to the depot they made it in three big jumps and you can judge for yourself how fast they went, when we tell you that they made the distance, 17½ miles in exactly 23 minutes.—Journal.

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Nebraska Osteopathic Association will be held Wednesday and Thursday, September 9 and 10 at the New Clarke Hotel, Hastings. Dr. William R. Archer of Lincoln is president. Dr. Roy O. Dunn of Creighton will read a technical paper upon the anatomy of the lumber spine and its nerve supply and Dr. E. M. Cramb of Lincoln will speak upon arterio sclerosis. Dr. B. S. Peterson of Omaha will give an address on goiter. Dr. P. F. Kani of Omaha will read a paper upon cystitis. Gall stones will be the title of the paper read by Dr. W. L. Davis of Lincoln. The second day of the convention will include a demonstration and a paper upon the subjects of the treatment of bone tuberculosis by Dr. George M. Laughlin. Dr. J. M. Kilgore of York will read a paper upon obstetrics and Dr. C. K. Struble of Hastings will speak upon nervous indigestion.

New Banking System

After weeks of delay the members of the federal reserve board, which will have charge of the new banking system, has been completed. It is expected that the new system will be in operation by October 1. Elasticity of credit and currency is the essence of the plan. The country has been divided to twelve districts. In each district will be located a federal reserve bank. The banks that become members of the system in each district must subscribe to the capital stock of the federal reserve bank in that district. Member banks must deposit a certain proportion of their cash reserves, the proportion depending upon the class of banks, with the federal reserve bank. That will prevent the concentration of reserves, and of banking power, in New York and other banking centers. The government will deposit its funds with the federal reserve banks also.

Stock subscriptions, deposits of reserve and deposits of government funds will, therefore, constitute the working capital of the federal reserve banks. This capital will be a sort of co-operative fund upon which member banks may draw in time of need.

Let us suppose the system to be working and that a country bank in Nebraska is loaned up to the limit.

It can send the note of Farmer Brown, given we will say to secure a loan to feed cattle, to the reserve bank for this district at Kansas City and have it discounted—which means simply that it secures a loan from the federal reserve bank and deposits Farmer Brown's note as security. The bank must pay interest on the loan made by the federal reserve bank, although not so high a rate as it charges its customers. Besides member banks will get in dividends on their stock in the federal reserve bank a large part of the interest they pay.

Having secured a loan on Farmer Brown's note the bank is ready to make a loan to Farmer White when he comes after it. This process can go on, the different member banks re-discounting their eligible commercial paper, until the cash in the vaults of the federal reserve bank of the district drops to 35 per cent of its total working capital. Beyond that if it discounts any more paper it must issue circulating notes, or elastic currency, redeemable in gold. This can be done with the consent of the federal reserve board. Notes of this kind put in circulation must be backed by a gold reserve of 40 per cent. When the gold reserve falls below that the note issues will be taxed. The tax is imposed to prevent inflation of the currency.

The new system provides "stretch," but it is a serious question whether the greater part of the slack will not be taken up in ordinary times and leave the system quite inelastic when a pinch comes and a greater volume of currency is actually needed. With the federal reserve board lies the power largely to control the expansion. It is going to require wise direction, we believe, to keep the new system from resulting in an inflation of credit and currency, the result of which would be to cheapen the dollar.

But the new system will keep the bank reserves of the country out of Wall Street, and that ought to "help some."—Nebraska Farmer.

The Farmer Was Right

"I have been busy with the third cutting of alfalfa," said Ed Sandahl, a farmer living five miles east of Wayne, last week. In reply to a question as to the yield he told the Democrat man that he was only getting about 2½ tons per acre this time, as he had been pasturing the pigs there since the last cutting. The second cutting had been half a ton more to the acre and the first and third about the same. That would make 8 tons per acre for the season according to our arithmetic, which is not bad besides furnishing pasture for the pigs, and a lot of fall pasture yet to grow unless he cuts it again. "Alfalfa is the best crop we have in this county," was his remark as he started toward home so as to be in the field as soon as the dew was off enough for the work to go forward. He was right that time.

Concedes Thomas' Nomination For State Superintendent.

HOAGLAND DEFEATS SHOTWELL

Latest Primary Election Figures Showing Result of Race For Lieutenant Governor Indicates Result With Reasonable Accuracy.

Lincoln, Aug. 25.—Latest figures on the recent primary indicate that Shotwell of Omaha has been defeated for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor by Hoagland of North Platte, who has a lead of more than 2,500. On the Democratic side Pearson has a lead of over 2,000.

A feature of the returns in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination is the fact that Howell's margin over Hammond remains at almost exactly 5,000 votes.

Deputy State Superintendent Robert I. Elliott has about made up his mind that he will have to accept the place of "runner up" in the contest for the Republican nomination for state superintendent, conceding that A. O. Thomas had probably won, as the counties now reporting show a steady increase for Dr. Thomas. Two counties which were supposed to be strong for Elliott, Custer, where he formerly taught school, and Dawson, the home of Superintendent Delsell, gave Thomas good majorities.

Pool is leading Shields for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Referendum Pamphlets Being Mailed.

The big job of sending out to the voters of the state the referendum pamphlets was begun, a force of sixteen men and women being at work in the senate chamber. The contract for inserting the pamphlets in the envelopes which have already been addressed was let on contract by Secretary of State Watt to a Lincoln firm and calls for the stuffing of 10,000 envelopes each day, the work to be completed in twenty-five days. The pamphlet contains three propositions, one the "employer's liability bill and workmen's compensation act," one the "memorial army" to be located at Nebraska City, and the other the "university location" proposition. Each proposition contains arguments both for and against, and covers fifty-two pages. There are 257,000 pamphlets.

Autos vs. Railways.

The rights of automobiles, as compared to what railroads may be expected to do as regards crossings, will have a hearing in the supreme court, a case coming to that tribunal on an appeal from Buffalo county, where a man named Orel A. Bleau was killed while crossing the Union Pacific tracks near Kearney by a passenger train. Suit was begun in the Buffalo county district court by John W. Patterson, administrator of the estate, for $40,000 damages, the claim being made that the railroad company should have kept a man at the crossing. The railway company showed otherwise and the jury returned no verdict for the plaintiff, who takes the case to the higher court.

Settles Matter of Discharged Guard.

That the order of discharge of E. W. Wilson, a prison guard, by Warden Fenton should not be disturbed; that the warden had nothing to do with collection of a campaign fund at the penitentiary, and that Assistant Steward Spelts, who gathered it, should not be discharged therefor, is the substance of opinion given by the state board of control following investigation of the matter. The board finds that the campaign fund was never spent and that the complainant was given his discharge because of verbal abuse of convicts.

Requisition Issued For Miller.

Governor Morehead has made a request of the governor of North Dakota for the return to Douglas county of Harry H. Miller, wanted for forgery. Miller is being held by the police at Fargo. He is charged with forging the name of C. C. Murrmann to a check for $75 on the First National bank of Omaha, and another for the same amount with the name of C. C. Murrmann attached, and payable to H. H. Miller.

Auditor Refuses to Allow Claim.

State Auditor Howard has refused to draw a voucher as requested by the state board of control for the purpose of transferring from the miscellaneous fund of the board the sum of $5,000 to replenish the destitute condition of the cash fund of the girls' industrial school at Geneva.

Land Assessment Raised.

The state board of assessment held a short meeting and raised the assessment of lands in the following counties: Arthur, 10 per cent; Deuel, 10; Dodge, 5; Keith, 20; McPherson, 10; Morrill, 25; Nance, 10; Saunders, 5; and Thomas, 15.

Seymour Figures State Levies.

According to figures so far made by the secretary of the state board of equalization, the state aid bridge levy will raise $169,731 for bridge building and the university levy will raise $870,946 for university purposes.

Loses Both Legs Under Car.

Fairbury, Neb., Aug. 25.—James McKern of Beatrice was thrown from a car at the Rock Island sandpit and had both legs mangled and mashed so badly it was necessary to amputate them at the hospital.

HELD'S PRELIMINARY

Accused Slayer of Louise Mick Taken to Schuyler.

Schuyler, Neb., Aug. 25.—Frank Held, accused of the murder of Miss Louise Mick, was brought here for his preliminary examination today in the county court. Held was taken from the Boone county jail by Boone county officers and brought here during the night. There is assurance that no attempt at violence will be made.

Since the brutal murder of the young girl, County Attorney W. E. Allen has strengthened his case against the man. It is likely no effort will be made on Held's behalf unless it is done by his wife, who is here and has completed arrangements for an attorney.

Held has not confessed, though the state has a number of damaging statements from him which will be used against him. He has not succeeded in proving his whereabouts on the night of the crime and time has resulted in strengthening the state's evidence that he was with the young girl.

NEW HEAD AT CREIGHTON

Dean McMenemy Succeeds President Magevney.

Omaha, Aug. 25.—Rev. Francis X. McMenemy, S. J., vice president of Creighton university and dean of the college of arts since June, 1911, has been appointed president of the institution, succeeding Rev. Eugene A. Magevney, S. J.

President McMenemy will be succeeded as dean of the college by Rev. Robert A. Kelly, S. J., who during the last year has been professor of languages in the arts college.

The retiring president, who is to leave Omaha during the coming week, will take up professorial duties in some one of the Jesuit colleges of the middle west after enjoying a vacation. During his administration the university has made marked progress, the enrollment has grown from 686 to 1,250 and a great deal of expensive equipment has been installed.

TO SECURE BETTER CREAM

Food Commissioner Harman Confers With Creamery Men.

Lincoln, Aug. 25.—In an effort to get a better price for producers of high grade cream food commissioner Harman called to his office a number of representatives of creameries and prevailed upon them to use a different method for gathering cream than has been practiced heretofore.

No attempt has been made in the past to grade cream at the time it is taken from the producer, all cream of whatever quality being dumped into the same can. Mr. Harman secured from the creamery men a promise that they would make a trial of keeping the first grade cream by itself.

THREE TOTS BURN TO DEATH

Farm Home of Herman Thole of McCook Totally Destroyed.

McCook, Neb., Aug. 24.—The three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Thole, on a farm southwest of McCook, were burned to death when the farm home was destroyed by fire. The children ranged in age between six months and four years.

The fire occurred within sight of the mother, Mrs. Thole, who was digging potatoes in a patch some distance from the house. She did not notice that the house was on fire until the home was almost consumed, and it was far too late to rescue the children. The father was in McCook at the time.

Shooting Season Opens Oct. 1.

Omaha, Aug. 25.—Emmett Higgins, government inspector, chartered under the migratory bird law, has arrived in Omaha and will remain here during the fall hunting season. Because of the general misunderstanding among sportsmen through this part of the middle west many shooters believe that the season on wild fowl opens Sept. 1. Mr. Higgins wishes to correct that impression, as the season does not open until Oct. 1 unless President Wilson signs the proposed amendment now before him. Mr. Higgins will co-operate with the state department to assist in all ways the enforcement of the game laws.

Martin Slowly Recovers.

Lincoln, Aug. 26.—Attorney General Martin, who three weeks ago was operated on at a local hospital for gall stones and appendicitis, has improved so much that he was moved to his home. He is able to walk just a little, but has lost about sixty pounds in weight, tipping the beam now at only 138 pounds. It is probable that he will be able to get down to the state house in a couple of weeks.

Nemaha Pioneer Dies In California.

Auburn, Neb., Aug. 25.—Word reached here of the death of John H. Shook at the home of his son, Arthur, in California. Mr. Shook was seventy-eight years of age and was a veteran of the war of the rebellion. He settled in this county in 1858 and took a prominent part in its development. For twelve years he was county commissioner. He is survived by a widow and four sons.

Falls City Germans Dedicate Flags.

Falls City, Neb., Aug. 25.—Dedication services were held here by the German military society, the occasion being the dedication of two large silk flags, one American and one German, which had been presented to the society by friends. Addresses were made by Governor Morehead, Mayor John Wittise and C. F. Reavis. A military drill and picnic followed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running ear or the ear drums are affected. If the inflammation is not removed, deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out of the system by the use of the Deafness Cure, the hearing will be destroyed forever. Cases out of ten are caused by colds which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. The Deafness Cure is the only cure for deafness. It is a simple, safe, and effective remedy. It is sold by all druggists. Price, 50 cents per bottle. Deafness Cure, The Deafness Cure Co., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists. CHAPTER I.

A Call in the Night.

There are few things darker than a country road at night, particularly if one does not know the lay of the land. It is not difficult to traverse a known path; no matter how dark it is, one is able to find the way by the aid of a mental photograph taken in the daytime. But supposing you have never been over the road in the daytime, that you know nothing whatever of its topography, where it dips or rises, where it narrows or forks. You find yourself in the same unhappy state of mind as a blind man suddenly thrust into a strange house.

One black night, along a certain country road in the heart of New Jersey, in the days when the only good roads were city thoroughfares and country highways were routes to Hango, a carriage went forward cautiously. From time to time it careened like a blunt-nose barge in a beam sea. The wheels and springs voiced their anguish continually; for it was a good carriage, unaccustomed to such ruts and hummocks.

"Faster, faster!" came a muffled voice from the interior.

"Sir, I dare not drive any faster," replied the coachman. "I can't see the horses' heads, sir, let alone the road. I've blown out the lamps, but I can't see the road any better for that."

"Let the horses have their heads; they'll find the way. It can't be much farther. You'll see lights."

The coachman swore in his teeth. All right. This man who was in such a hurry would probably send them all into the ditch. Save for the few stars above, he might have been driving Beelzebub's coach in the bottomless pit. Black velvet, everywhere black velvet. A wind was blowing, and yet the blackness was so thick that it gave to the coachman the sensation of mild suffocation.

By and by, through the trees, he saw a flicker of light. It might or might not be the destination. He cracked his whip recklessly and the carriage lurched on two wheels. The man in the carriage balanced himself carefully, so that the bundle in his arms should not be unduly disturbed. His arms ached. He stuck his head out of the window.

"That's the place," he said. "And when you drive up make as little noise as you can."

"Yes, sir," called down the driver. When the carriage drew up at its journey's end the man inside jumped out and hastened toward the gates. He scrutinized the sign on one of the posts. This was the place: MISS FARLOW'S PRIVATE SCHOOL.

The bundle in his arms stirred and he hurried up the path to the door of the house. He seized the ancient knocker and struck several times. He then placed the bundle on the steps and ran back to the waiting carriage. Into which he stepped.

"Off with you!" "That's a good word, sir. Maybe we can make your train."

"Do you think you could find this place again?" "You couldn't get me on this pike again, sir, for a thousand; not me!"

The door slammed and the unknown sank back against the cushions. He took out his handkerchief and wiped the damp perspiration from his forehead. The big burden was off his mind. Whatever happened in the future, they would never be able to get him through his heart. So much for the folly of his youth.

It was a quarter after ten. Miss Farlow had just returned to the house from her nightly tour of the upper halls to see if all her charges were in bed, where the rules of the school confined them after 9:30. It was at this moment that she heard the thunderous knocking at the door. The old maid felt her heart stop beating for a moment. Who could it be, at this time of night? Then the thought came swiftly that perhaps the parent of some one of her charges was ill and this was the summons. Still her fears, she went resolutely to the door and opened it.

"Who is it?" she called. No one answered. She cupped her hand to her ear. She could hear the clatter of horses dimly.

"Well!" she exclaimed; rather angrily, too.

She was in the act of closing the door when the light from the hall discovered to her the bundle on the steps. She stooped and touched it.

"Good heavens, it's a child!"

She poked the bundle up. A whimper came from it, a tired little whimper of protest. She ran back to the reception room. A foundling! And on her doorstep! It was incredible. What in the world should she do? It would create a scandal and hurt the prestige of the school. Some one had mistaken her select private school for a farmhouse. It was frightful.

Then she unwrapped the child. It was about a year old, dimpled and golden haired. A thumb was in its rosebud mouth and its blue eyes looked up trustfully into her own.

"Why, you cherub!" cried the old maid, a strange turmoil in her heart. She caught the child to her breast, and then for the first time noticed the thick envelope pinned to the child's cloak. She put the baby into a chair and broke open the envelope.

"Name this child Florence Gray. I will send annually a liberal sum for her support and reclaim her on her eighteenth birthday. The other half of the enclosed bracelet will identify me. Treat the girl well, for I shall watch over her in secret."

Into the fixed routine of her humdrum life had come a mystery, a tantalizing, fascinating mystery. She had read of foundlings left on doorsteps from paper covered novels confiscated from her pupils—but that one should be placed upon her own respectable doorstep! Suddenly she smiled down at the child and the child smiled back. And there was nothing more to be done except to bow before the decrees of fate. Like all prim old maids, her heart was full of unrequited romance, and here was something she might spend its floods upon without let or hindrance. Already she was hoping that the man or woman who had left it might never come back.

The child grew. Regularly each year, upon a certain date, Miss Farlow received a registered letter with money. These letters came from all parts of the world; always the same sum, always the same line—"I am watching."

Thus seventeen years passed; and to Susan Farlow each year seemed shorter than the one before. For she loved the child with all her heart. She had not trained young girls all these years without becoming adept in the art of reading the true signs of breeding. There was no ordinary blood in Florence; the fact was emphasized by her exquisite face, her small hands and feet, her spirit and gentleness. And now, at any day, some one with a broken bracelet might come for her. As the days went on the heart of Susan Farlow grew heavy.

"Never mind, aunty," said Florence; "I shall always come back to see you."

She meant it, poor child; but how was she to know the terrors which lay beyond the horizon?

The house of Stanley Hargreave, in Riverdale, was the house of no ordinary rich man. Outside it was simple enough, but within you learned what kind of a man Hargreave was. There were rare Ispahans and Saruks on the floors and tapestries on the walls, and here and there a fine painting. The library itself represented a fortune. Money had been laid out lavishly but never wastefully. It was the home of a scholar, a dreamer, a wide traveler.

In the library stood the master of the house, idly fingering some papers which lay on the study table. He shrugged at some unimportant thought, settled his overcoat about his shoulders, took up his hat, and walked from the room, frowning slightly. The butler, who also acted in the capacity of valet, always within call when his master was about, stepped swiftly to the hall door and opened it.

"I may be out late, Jones," said Hargreave.

"Yes, sir."

Hargreave stared into his face keenly, as if trying to pierce the gray face to learn what was going on behind it.

"How long have you been with me?"

"Fourteen years, sir."

"Some day I shall need you."

"My life has always been at your disposal, sir, since that night you rescued me."

"Well, I haven't the least doubt that when I ask you will give."

"Without question, sir. It was always so understood."

Hargreave's glance sought the mirror, then the smileless face of his man. He laughed, but the sound conveyed no sense of mirth; then he turned and went down the steps slowly, like a man burdened with some thought which was not altogether to his liking. He had sent an order for his car, but had immediately countermanded it. He would walk till he grew tired, hail a taxicab, and take a run up and down Broadway. The wonderful illumination might prove diverting. For 18 years nearly, and now it was as natural for him to throw a glance over his shoulder whenever he left the house as it was for him to breathe. The average man would have grown careless during all these years; but Hargreave was not an average man; he was, rather, an extraordinary individual. It was his life in exchange for eternal vigilance, and he knew and accepted the fact.

Half an hour later he got into a taxicab and directed the man to drive downtown as far as Twenty-third street and back to Columbus circle. The bewildering display of lights, however, in no wise served to lift the sense of oppression that had weighed upon him all day. South of Forty-second street he dismissed the taxicab and stared undecidedly at the brilliant sign of a famous restaurant. He was neither hungry nor thirsty; but there would be strange faces to study and music.

It was an odd whim. He had not entered a Broadway restaurant in all these years. He was unknown. He belonged to no clubs. Two months was the longest time he had ever remained in New York since the disposal of his old home in Madison avenue and his resignation from his clubs. This once, then, he would break the law he had written down for himself. Boldly he entered the restaurant.

Some time before Hargreave surrendered to the restless spirit of rebellion, bitterly to repent for it later, there came into this restaurant a man and a woman. They were both evidently well known, for the head waiter was obsequious and hurried them over to the best table he had left and took the order himself.

The man possessed a keen, intelligent face. You might have marked him for a successful lawyer, for there was an earnestness about his expression which precluded a life of idleness. His age might have been anywhere between 40 and 50. The shoulders were broad and the hands which lay clasped upon the table were slim but muscular. Indeed, everything about him suggested hidden strength and vitality. His companion was small, handsome, and animated. Her frequent gestures and mutable eyebrows betrayed her foreign birth. Her age was a matter of importance to no one but herself.

They were at coffee when she said: "There's a young man coming toward us. He is looking at you."

The man turned. Instantly his face lighted up with a friendly smile of recognition.

"Who is it?" she asked. "A chap worth knowing; a reporter just a little out of the ordinary. I'm going to introduce him. You never can tell. We might need him some day. Ah, Norton, how are you?"

"Good evening, Mr. Braine." The reporter, catching sight of a pair of dazzling eyes, hesitated.

"The Princess Perigoff, Norton. You're in no hurry, are you?"

"Not now," smiled the reporter.

"Ah!" said the princess, interested. It was the old compliment, said in an unusual way. It pleased her.

The reporter sank into a chair. When inactive he was rather a dreamy-eyed sort of chap. He possessed that rare accomplishment of talking upon one subject and thinking upon another at the same time. So while he talked gaily with the young woman on varied themes, his thoughts were busy speculating upon her companion. He was quite certain that the name Braine was assumed, but he was also equally certain that the man carried an extraordinary brain under his thatch of salt and pepper hair. The man had written three or four brilliant monographs on persons and the uses of radium, and it was through and by these that the reporter had managed to pick up his acquaintance. He lived well, but inconspicuously.

Suddenly the pupils of Braine's eyes narrowed; the eye became cold. Over the smoke of his cigarette he was looking into the wall mirror. A man had passed behind him and sat down at the next table. The reporter wave his hand; saw also the open under on the reporter's pleasant face.

"Who is your friend, Norton?"

Braine asked indifferently; his head still turned.

"Stanley Hargreave. Met him in Hongkong when I was sent over to handle a part of the revolution. War correspondence stuff. First time I ever ran across him on Broadway at night. We've since had some powwows over some rare books. Queer old cock; brave as a lion, but as quiet as a mouse."

"Bookish, eh? My kind. Bring him over." Underneath the table Braine maneuvered to touch the foot of the princess.

"I don't know," said the reporter dubiously. "He might say no, and that would embarrass the whole lot of us. He's a bit of a hermit. I'm surprised to see him here."

"Try," urged the princess. "I like to meet men who are hermits."

"I haven't the least doubt about that," the reporter laughed. "I'll try; but don't blame me if I'm rebuffed."

He left the table with evident reluctance and approached Hargreave. The two shook hands cordially, for the elder man was rather fond of this medley of information known as Jim Norton.

"Sit down, boy; sit down. You're just the kind of a man I've been wanting to talk to tonight."

"Wouldn't you rather talk to a pretty woman?"

"I'm an old man."

"Bah! That's a hypocritical bluff, and you know it. My friends at the next table have asked me to bring you over."

"I do not usually care to meet strangers."

"Make an exception this once," said the reporter, who had seen Braine's eyes change and was curious to know why the appearance of Hargreave in the mirror had brought about that metallic gleam. Here were two unique men; he desired to see them face to face.

"This one—my fault; I ought not to be here; I feel out of place. What a life, though, you reporters lead! To meet kings and presidents and great financiers, socialists and anarchists, the whole scale of life, and to slap these people on the back as if they were everyday friends!"

"Now you're making fun of me. For one king there are always twenty thick brogans ready to kick me down the steps; don't forget that."

Hargreave laughed. "Come, then; let us get it over with."

The introductions were made. Norton felt rather chagrined. So far as he could see, the two men were total strangers. Well, it was all in the game. Nine out of ten opportunities for the big story were fake alarms; but he was always willing to risk the labor these nine entailed for the sake of the tenth.

At length Braine glanced at his watch, and the princess nodded. Adieu were said. Inside the taxicab Braine leaned back with a deep, audible sigh.

"What is it?" she asked.

"The luck of the devil's own," he said. "Child of the Steppes, for years I've flown about seas and continents, through valleys and over mountains—for what? For the sight of the face of that man we have just left. At first glance I wasn't sure; but the sound of his voice was enough. Olga, the next time you see that reporter, throw your arms around his neck and kiss him. What did I tell you? Without Norton's help I would not have been sure. I'm going to leave you at your apartment."

"The man of the Black Hundred?" she whispered.

"The man who deserted and defied the Black Hundred, who broke his vows, and never paid a kopeck for the privilege; the man who had been appointed for the supreme work and who ran away. In those days we needed men of his stamp, and to accomplish this end."

"There was a woman," she interrupted, with a touch of bitterness.

"Always the woman. And she was as clever and handsome as you are."

"Thanks. Sometimes . . ."

"Ah, yes!" ironically. "Sometimes you wish you could settle down, marry and have a family! Your domesticity would last about a month."

She made no retort because she recognized the truth of this statement.

"There's an emerald I know of," he said ruminatively. "It's quite possible that you may be wearing it within a few days."

"I am mad over them. There is something in the green stone that fascinates me. I can't resist it."

"That's because, somewhere in the far past, your ancestors were orientals. Here we are. I'll see you tomorrow. I must hurry. Good-night."

She stood on the curb for a moment and watched the taxicab as it whirled around a corner. The man held her with a fascination more terrible than any jewel. She knew him to be a great and daring rogue, cunning, patient, fearless. Packed away in that mind of his there were a thousand accomplished deeds which had roused futilely the police of two continents. Braine! She could have laughed. The very name he had chosen was an insolence directed at society.

The subject of her thoughts soon arrived at his destination. A flight of stairs carried him into a dimly lighted hall, smelling evilly of escaping gas. He donned a black mask and struck the door with a series of light blows; two, then one, then three, and again one. The door opened and he slipped inside. Round a table sat several men. He looked at them with a cold, calculating gaze, but not one of them knew what Braine looked like. He alone remained unknown save to the man designated as the chief, who was only Braine's lieutenant. The mask was the insignia of the Black Hundred, an organization with all the ramifications of the Camorra without their abiding stupidity. From the assassination of a king, down to the robbery of a country post office, nothing was too great or too small for their nets. Their god dwells in the hearts of all men and is called greed.

The ordinary business over, the chief dismissed the men, and he and Braine alone remained.

"Vroom, I have found him," said Braine.

"There are but few; which one?"

"Eighteen years ago, in St. Petersburg."

"I remember. The millionaire's son. Did he recognize you?"

"I don't know. Probably he did. But he always had good nerves. He is being followed at this moment. We shall strike quick; for if he recognized me he will act quick. He is cool and brave. You remember how he braved us that night in Russia. Jumped boldly through the window at the risk of breaking his neck. He landed safely; that is the only reason he eluded us. Millions—and they slipped through our fingers. If I could only find some route to his heart! The lure we held out to him is dead."

"Or in the fortress, which is the same thing. What are your plans?"

"I have in mind something like this." And Hargreave was working out his plans, too; and he was just as much of a general as Braine. He sat at his library table, the maxillary muscles in his jaws working. So they had found him? Well, he had broken the law of his own making and he must suffer the consequences. Braine, who was Menshikoff in Russia, Schwartz in Germany, Mendoza in Spain, Cartucci in Italy, and Du Bois in France; so the rogue had found him out? Poor fool that he had been! High spirited, full of those youthful dreams of doing good in the world, he had joined what he had believed a great secret socialistic movement, to learn that he had been trapped by a band of brilliant thieves. Kidnapers and assassins for hire; the Black Hundred; fiends from Tophet! For nearly eighteen years he had eluded them, for he knew that directly or indirectly they would never cease to hunt for him; and an idle whim had toppled him into their clutches.

He wrote several letters feverishly. The last was addressed to Miss Susan Farlow and read: "Dear Madam: Send Florence Gray to New York, to arrive here Friday morning. My half of the bracelet will be identification. Inclosed find cash to square accounts." He would get together all his available funds, recover his child, and fly to the ends of the world. He would tire them out. They would find that the peaceful dog was a bad animal to rouse. He rang for the faithful Jones. "Jones, they have found me," he said simply.

"You will need me, then?"

"Quite possible. Please mail these and then we'll talk it over. No doubt some one is watching outside. Be careful."

"Very good, sir."

Hargreave bowed his head in his hand. They might kill him; there was a chance of their accomplishing that; but never should they touch his daughter's fortune.

"Jones, you go to the rear door and I'll take a look out of the front. We have an hour. I know the breed. They'll wait till midnight and then force their way in."

Hargreave saw a dozen shadows in the front yard.

"Men all about the back yard," whispered Jones down the hall.

The master eyed the man.

"Very well, sir," replied the latter, with understanding. "I am ready."

The master went to the safe, emptied it of its contents, crossed the hall to the bedroom, and closed the door softly behind him, Jones having entered the same room through another door to befool any possible watcher. After a long while, perhaps an hour, the two men emerged from the room from the same doors they had entered. So whispered the watcher to his friends below.

"Hargreave is going upstairs."

"Let him go. Let him take a look at us up from the upper windows. He will understand that nothing but wings will save him."

Silence. By and by a watcher reported that he heard the scuttle of the roof rattle.

"Look!" another cried, startled.

A bluish glare came from the roof.

"He's shooting off a Roman candle!"

They never saw the man-made bird till it alighted upon the roof. They never thought of shooting at it till it had taken wing! Then they rushed the doors of the house. They made short work of Jones, whom they tied up like a Christmas fowl and plumped roughly into a chair. They broke open the safe, to find it empty. And while the rogues were rummaging about the room, venting their spite upon many a treasure they could neither appreciate nor understand, a man from the outside burst in.

"The old man is dead and the money is at the bottom of the ocean! We punctured her. She's gone!"

A thin, inscrutable smile stirred the lips of the man bound in the chair.

Hargreave covered a good deal of ground, but during all this time his right hand never left the automatic in his overcoat pocket, except at those moments when he was obliged to sign his checks. He would shoot and make inquiries afterward.

Far away a young girl and her companion got on the train which was to carry her to New York, the great dream city she was always longing to see.

And the spider wove his web.

Hargreave reached home at night. He put the money in the safe and was telephoning when Jones entered and handed his master an unstamped note.

"Where did you get this?"

"At the door, sir. I judge that the house is surrounded."

Hargreave read the note. It stated briefly that all his movements during the day had been noted. It was known that he had collected a million in paper money. If he surrendered this he would be allowed twenty-four hours before the real chase began. Otherwise he should die before midnight. Hargreave crushed the note in his hands. Many times he had journeyed to the school and hung about the gates, straining his eyes toward the merry groups of young girls. Which among them was his, heart of his heart, blood of his blood? That she might never be drawn into this abominable tangle, he had resolutely torn her out of his life completely. The happiness of watching the child grow into girlhood he had denied himself. She at least would be safe. Only when she was safe in a far country would he dare tell her. He tried in vain to conjure up a picture of her; he always saw the mother whom he had loved and hated with all the ardor of his youth.

Many things happened the next day. There was a visit to the hangar of one William Orts, the aviator, famous for his daredevil exploits. There were two visitors, in fact, and the second visitor was knocked down for his pains. He had tried to bribe Orts.

There were several excited bankers, who protested against such large withdrawals without the usual formal announcements. There was a man who was a PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. ONE.

The following proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of Nebraska, as hereinafter set forth in full, is submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska, to be voted upon at the general election to be held Tuesday, November 3rd, A. D. 1914.
"FOR a Joint resolution to amend section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska, relating to revenue. Be it Resolved by the People of the State of Nebraska:
Section 1. That Section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska be amended to read as follows:
Sec. 1. The rules of taxation shall be uniform as to any given class and taxes shall be levied upon such property as the Legislature shall prescribe. Taxes may also be imposed on incomes, privileges and occupations, which taxes may be graduated and progressive and reasonable exemptions may be provided in addition to those hereinafter specifically mentioned in section 2 of this article.
Sec. 2. That at the general election in November, 1914, there shall be submitted to the electors of the state for their approval or rejection the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution in the following form: "For amendment to the Constitution providing for uniform and progressive taxation" and "against said proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for uniform and progressive taxation."
Approved, March 27, 1913.
I, Addison Wait, Secretary of State, of the State of Nebraska, do hereby certify that the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Nebraska is a true and correct copy of the original enrolled and engrossed bill, as passed by the Thirty-third session of the Legislature of the State of Nebraska, as appears from said original bill on file in this office, and that said proposed amendment is submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Nebraska for their adoption or rejection at the general election to be held on Tuesday, the 3rd day of November, A. PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NO. THREE.

The following proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of Nebraska, as hereinafter set forth in full, is submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska, to be voted upon at the general election to be held Tuesday, November 3rd, A. D. 1914.
"FOR a Joint resolution proposing amendments to Section 1, of Article 7, of the Constitution of Nebraska, relating to term of office and salary of Governor and other executive officers.
Be it Resolved and Enacted by the People of the State of Nebraska:
Section 1. That at the general election for state and legislative officers, to be held on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November, 1914, the following be submitted as amendments to Sections 1 and 24 of Article V, of the Constitution of Nebraska:
Sec. 1. The executive department shall consist of a Governor, who shall hold his office for a term of two years from the first Thursday after the first Tuesday in January, next after his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified. In addition to the Governor, the executive department shall include the following officers: Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Attorney General and Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings, each of whom shall hold his office for the term of two years from the first Thursday after the first Tuesday in January, next after his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified. Provided, however, that the first election of said officers shall be held on the first Tuesday in November, 1914, and each succeeding election shall be held at the same relative time in each even year thereafter. The Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor of Public Accounts, and Treasurer shall reside at the seat of government during their terms of office, and keep the public records, books and papers, and shall perform such duties as may be required by law.
Sec. 24. The salary of the Governor shall be five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars per annum. The salaries of the Auditor of Public Accounts and Secretary of State, Superintendent of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Public Lands and Buildings shall be two thousand five hundred ($2,500.00) dollars per annum, and of the Attorney General, four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per annum, the salary of the State Treasurer shall be three thousand ($3,000.00) dollars per annum, and the Lieutenant Governor shall receive one and one-half the compensation of a senator, and after the adoption of this constitution, the salaries of the Governor and other executive officers, shall be no allowance for clerk hire in the offices of the Superintendent of Public Instruction and Attorney General.
Sec. 2. That at said election on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday in November, 1914, on the ballot of each elector voting thereat, there shall be printed or written the words: "For proposed amendments to the constitution, fixing the term of office and salary for Governor and other executive officers," and "Against proposed amendments to the constitution, fixing the term of office and salary for Governor, and other executive officers."
Approved, April 21, 1913.
I, Addison Wait, Secretary of State, of the State of Nebraska, do hereby certify that the foregoing proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Nebraska is a true and correct copy of the original enrolled and engrossed bill, as passed by the Thirty-third session of the Legislature of the State of Nebraska, as appears from said original bill on file in this office, and that said proposed amendment is submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Nebraska for their adoption or rejection at the general election to be held on Tuesday, the 3rd day of November, A. America's and Europe's
Use of the Telephone
The city of Chicago has more telephones than the entire country of France, Omaha more than all of Spain, Minneapolis and St. Paul more than all Italy, and Des Moines more than Greece and Portugal combined.
Wherever government ownership of telephones has been tried the rates are higher and the service poorer, and the number of telephones, per capita, lower, than under private ownership in America.
Here is the record of government ownership in five leading countries of Europe, and that of private ownership in America:

Country	Operated by	Telephones per 100 Population.

URTICARIA IN HORSES.

Causes and Treatment of This Disorder of the Digestive Tract.

Urticaria is a frequent form of skin disease in the horse, and is manifested by the sudden appearance of irregular lumps, roundish or oblong in shape, and varying in size, says the American Cultivator. Some are like hemp seed, others as large as beans and flattened upon their surface, accompanied by heat and intolerable itching, but not always affecting the general health.

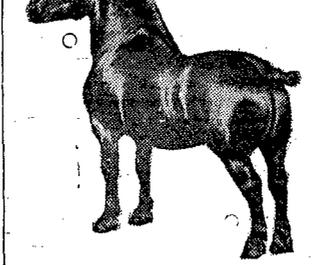

The animals most subject to it are fat, coarse, overfed ones, and they are generally attacked in hot weather. Sometimes it assumes a general form, in which case it constitutes what is known as true "suffeit." Sometimes the swellings are confined to particular parts, in others diffused over the body, and may in unhealthy animals terminate in abscess, attended with more or less fever.

The trouble is caused by some disorder of the digestive apparatus and is sometimes preceded by colic and diarrhea. A sudden change of diet will frequently produce it, and it is not uncommon when horses are first turned out to grass. It is supposed that poisonous herbs, a draft of cold water when the animal is heated, sudden exposure to cold and damp and stones or worms in the intestines are also causes of it. It is probably due to the detention in the system of deleterious matters, which ought to be got rid of.

Give a mild dose of physic and one ounce of bicarbonate of soda twice a day in the food for a few days. Keep the horse on light laxative food, and give a linseed mash every night. The bicarbonate of soda has a most soothing effect on the mucous membrane of the intestines, while the good effect of the linseed in the cases of irritation of the skin or mucous membrane is well marked. In obstinate cases tartar emetic or liquor arsenicalis may be used, the former in doses of a dram and a half in the corn or mash once a day for a week or ten days, the latter in doses of one ounce a day in the water or as a drench for a similar period. Should there be much itching—the animal rubbing itself—the skin must be bathed with warm water and dressed with the following lead liniment: Solution of diacetate of lead, two drams; rectified spirit, four drams; distilled water, one pint; mix.

The Belgian horse, according to the admirers of this breed of drafters, surpasses all others in uniformity of type. Probably no draft breed has made such progress as has the Belgian in the past twenty-five years. Rigid selection, good feeding and general care have been the dominant factors in bringing this about. The horse pictured is a pure bred Belgian stallion and a prize winner in France.

Mrs. I. P. Butler was here from Pasadena, California, who has been here several weeks visiting her brother, Henry Lessman and other relatives and friends left Tuesday to visit her daughter at Siloam Springs, Arkansas, from which place she will return to her home. Simon Lessman and wife accompanied her as far as Omaha.

Ellis Gerton and wife returned Tuesday from Ord, where they were called last week by news of the sudden death of her son, Vernon Jones, which took place at Chicago some time Sunday night, the 16th. No additional information regarding his death has been learned. He retired as usual Sunday evening leaving a call for 6 o'clock in the morning, to which he never responded.

E. C. Perkins had the misfortune to have his good milk cow "die for him" Tuesday evening. When milk time came he found her suffering from bloat, and she died before any relief could be given, for she lived not more than 15 minutes after her condition was known. He could not tell the cause, and did not make examination, but did not know that she had been eating other than regular rations.

Mrs. O. W. Browning of Newton, Iowa, left for her home this morning, following a week visit at the home of her brother, Prof. Hickman and wife. Her mother, Mrs. Hickman accompanied her when she came and remains here for a longer visit with her son. Mrs. Browning says this was her first visit to this part of Nebraska, and that she was agreeably surprised to find such a fertile land. She reports bad drouth conditions in the central part of Iowa where she lives.

The Rural Home Society met Thursday, August 20 at the pleasant home of Mrs. Eph Beckenhauer. The program consisted of an outline of the causes and location of the foreign war, given by Mesdames Neely and P. M. Corbit, followed by a general discussion. The hostess served a delicious three course luncheon at the conclusion of the program. The society was pleased to entertain as its guests, Mrs. David Neely of Cincinnati, Ohio and Miss Marion Lovejoy of Spokane, Washington.

Manager Nance of the Crystal play house has taken advantage of Chautauqua week to newly decorate the interior of his house, and will open Friday evening with a new interior for the last reel of the "adventures of Kathlyn." On Monday evening the first reel of the "Million Dollar Mystery" will be presented. This is another popular serial, and it may be read in full in this issue of the Democrat, and we have planned to present the story from week to week with the motion pictures. It will prove a popular feature.

Adam Figgins of Mortons Mills, Iowa, came last week to visit with his cousin, Mrs. Shirts of Carroll, and Mrs. Shirts and daughter have decided to go with him when he returns to Iowa and spend the winter there. If suited with the place she will make her home there with her cousin, who lost his life companion a month ago. Mr. Figgins made the Democrat a call Wednesday, as he is an acquaintance of long standing, having been among the readers of the Villisca paper we published before coming to Wayne.

At Sioux Falls, South Dakota, Tuesday, August 18, 1914, Mr. Edward L. C. Coleman of this place and Miss Agnes Klaser were united in marriage. The groom is son of Patrick Coleman of this place, a young man who has made a success of the profession of teaching, for which he had fitted himself. The bride was also a successful teacher, they having worked in the same school in South Dakota. Bride and groom were guests at the Coleman home in this city last week and Tuesday left for Fletcher, South Dakota, where Mr. Coleman is engaged as principal of the school for the coming year. They have the well-wishes of many friends.

The Helping Hand society met with Mrs. Wm. Buetow Thursday, August 20. Besides the members there were several invited guests present. Among them were Mrs. Ella Durant of Trinidad, Colorado, Mrs. Mary Butler of Pasadena, California, Mrs. Geo. Porter, Mrs. James McIntosh, Miss Etta Thun and Mrs. Adolph Meyer. LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Better Tons to Beef and Feeders Shade Higher.

HOG MARKET IS SHADE HIGHER

Further Slump in Sheep and Lambs. Prices 15@25 Cents Lower—Feeders in Good Demand, With Prices Steady to Strong.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Aug. 5.—A fairly good run of cattle arrived today, about 5,000 head. This makes nearly 15,000 head for the two days. As on Monday, there were too few corn-fed cattle to cut much figure in the market, and there was little noticeable change in prices. Good western beef steers sold to better advantage than on Monday—strong to fully a dime higher—but the plain and light and medium weight stuff did not appeal to either the killers or the feeder buyers and was slow sale at unimproved figures. Cows and heifers were again in liberal supply, but the demand was just fair and prices were generally just about steady at Monday's decline. In feeders the trade showed considerable improvement, especially for the fleshy grades, while light and medium weight stuff was slow and quotably unimproved.

Cattle quotations: Good to choice heaves, $9.50@10.25; fair to good heaves, $8.75@9.35; common to fair heaves, $7.75@8.50; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.75; good to choice cows, $6.25@6.75; fair to good cows, $5.50@6.25; canners and cutters, $3.50@5; veal calves, 8@10.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@7; good to choice feeders, $7.50@8; fair to good feeders, $7@7.40; common to fair feeders, $6.25@6.75; stock cows and heifers, $5.25@6.75; stock calves, $6@8; choice to prime range heaves, $8.25@9; good to choice range heaves, $7.40@8; fair to good range heaves, $6.50@7.25.

Hog receipts totaled about 9,000 head. The market opened dull today, with prices steady to easier, but closed rather active and a shade higher. Most of the hogs moved around $8.75@8.80, with a top of $9.05, which figure is a flat dime lower than Monday's high price.

Sheep and lamb receipts amounted to 35,000 head. The situation in sheep and lambs was much the same as Monday, that is, the receipts were again very liberal and prices were naturally sharply lower. Prices were generally 15@25c lower than Monday. Lamb sales ranged at $7.40@7.60, the latter figure being the high prices of the day, against $7.80 the day before. Trade in feeders was just as active as was the case on the first day of the week, and the demand was just as good, prices being steady to strong.

Lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.50@7.70; lambs, fair to good, $7.35@7.50; lambs, feeders, $6.75@7.25; yearlings, good to choice, $5.75@6; yearlings, fair to good, $5.50@5.75; yearlings, feeders, $5.65@5.90; wethers, good to choice, $5.75@5.90; wethers, fair to good, $5.50@5.75; wethers, feeders, $4.40@4.80; ewes, good to choice, $5.15@5.45; ewes, fair to good, $4.95@5.15; ewes, feeders, $3.40@3.90.

Considerable Opening. "What a dear little month Peggy has."

"Yes; her last dental bill amounted to $87.50."—Boston Transcript.
