

The Nebraska Democrat

ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, SEPTEMBER 24, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

OUR SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN

The Democrat inaugurates a Campaign to Increase Subscription. Offering to Make all in County Agents at Liberal Commission.

The subscription problem is one that is ever present in the newspaper office. How to do it—how to get the new names on the list—and then keep the list paid up reasonably well. We have considered many plans and tried not a few. Contests are expensive and often leave a bad feeling among the contestants and their friends. A good, honest, persistent solicitor is hard to secure, and any other kind is not worth while.

Premiums are sometimes offered, but that costs money and time—you perhaps make it easy for the solicitor to work the cream of the trade—the ones easy to see—easy to find and easy to fall.

Two years ago the Democrat made a special offer of $1.00 for the year for a two-day bargain season, and it worked well for the time it was in force, and a few months later we tried the plan for a longer period, and it brought good results, both in new subscribers and collection of back accounts and renewal of old subscribers.

In view of the results of these two short, partially advertised trials, and the good taste it left in the mouths of our readers we have decided to again appeal to our readers and the public in general and ask each and every one to act as his own agent and save for his own Christmas present the commission we would have to pay to an agent, a contest manager or for interest in a pony vote campaign. Therefore, beginning on SATURDAY, SEPT. 26, 1914, we will let the bars down again and ask one and all to join the great and growing family of Democrat readers at the commission saving price of $1.00 from the date of your order until January 1, 1916.

We always treat an old subscriber as well as a new one, and those now on the list, who pay arrears, if any, at the rate of $1.50 per year are entitled to extend their time until January, 1916, for $1.00 additional money, nor will we bar any who may be paid in advance of January, 1915, the right to add a full year to their time for $1.00 while this offer is open.

Now is the time, for the earlier you begin the more papers you get for the dollar.

Respectfully,
GARDNER & WADE.

District Court Adjourned

Saturday was the last day of the September term of the district court at this place. During the term the docket was cleared of a large number of cases. In addition to those given last week the following were passed upon:

The case of Ira Anson vs. Chris Hansen was a sort of claim and counter claim affair, and when it was untangled as best might be and balances figured, the jury gave a verdict that a balance of $7.50 was due to the defendant.

The case of Edward Delfs, administrator, vs. John and Henry Muhs, is over matters involved in an estate, and will not be a jury trial, and the judge will give a hearing October 12.

In the matter between John F. Bressler and William C. Wightman, asking a partition, partition was granted by court, and H. F. Wilson, Henry Ley and John Harrington were named as referees.

Oscar Lundberg vs. Henry Rubeck was a dispute over the right of possession on a lease of a piece of land. The jury after hearing the case found that the defendant, Henry Rubeck had rightful possession.

Radio-Round Will Build Factory

The Radio-Round Incubator Co. are preparing to begin at once to build a working home for their business. The fire wrecked building has been torn away from the site, and the lot lines and grade established by the surveyor preparatory for the new building. They will first put up an iron clad building suitable for again starting their work which was delayed by the fire, and expect soon to be able to resume work in a shop of their own.

The Commercial Club Committee

Tuesday evening the new executive committee of the commercial club met to organize, and elected F. S. Berry president, H. S. Ringland vice president, C. E. Carhart treasurer and M. J. Hefferon secretary. The evening was spent in informal discussion of the line of work to be followed the coming year, numerous things considered that might be accomplished for the advancement of community interests. Road improvement was considered. The idea of asking the farmers of the county to co-operate with the business men of Wayne and other towns in securing a farm demonstrator for this county found favor. At least it appeared that if the farmers wished to take a lead in this matter they would find hearty co-operation from the citizens of Wayne.

This is a question that is being profitably undertaken in many counties of the state, and in some places the bankers are taking an active part in the move and rendering valuable aid by bringing their organized business methods to bear on the question, and we doubt not that the bankers of Wayne would gladly co-operate in such a move as one of the most practical that can be undertaken for general benefit. We know that properly carried forward it would be one of great help to this county. It is a fact not generally known, but nevertheless true, that one citizen of Wayne now has a farm demonstrator hired for his farms and finds it a profitable investment.

A committee was named to gather information from other places as to some methods employed elsewhere and their success and report them for consideration at the next meeting, which is to be held Tuesday evening, October 6th. It will be appreciated by the committee if members of the club or citizens not members would show enough interest in the meetings to attend. If all work together we will not accomplish any too much good.

Another question discussed was the advisability of securing a room for the use of the members and their friends—really a public place to be under direction and care of the club which would make a common meeting place for friends in town and from the country and where a reading room might be maintained and supplied with newspapers and magazines.

A Kick About Roads

The following letter comes to us for publication. We are sorry that it appears necessary to write such a report—but those who feel that it is for public good to register a complaint, will find the columns of the Democrat open to any reasonable complaint where the writer has the courage of his convictions and sends in the protest without the too frequent request not to say who wrote it:

Wakefield Nebr. Sept. 21, 1914,
Editor Nebraska Democrat,
Wayne, Nebr.

Dear Sir:—
I wish thru the columns of your paper to put in a remonstrance against the condition of the roads between Wayne and Wakefield. With the exception of one short stretch they have hardly been dragged at all. The grade approaches to some of the bridges have sagged so low that when your car hits a bridge you start up in the air and a person ought to carry a parachute to come down in the car again.

We farmers are taxed for the dragging of roads and I say that if the said roads are not dragged the law ought to be repealed.

Respectfully yours,
Wm. ELIASON

Mission-Fest At German Church

Last Sunday the Evangelical Lutheran Emanuel congregation northeast of Wayne, of which Rev. E. Gehrke is pastor, celebrated its annual mission-festival. Rev. Henry Schulz of Tilden, was in charge of the services in the forenoon, while Rev. Henry Weerts of Naper, conducted the afternoon services. Prof. Leo Capelle was in charge of the musical part of the program. The surrounding congregation were well represented by their pastors and members. Standing room was at a premium. A substantial collection for missionary purposes was raised. The affair was a "Fest" that will long be remembered by the Lutheran community.

The Methodist Pastors

The conference held at Fremont closed Tuesday evening, and one of the last acts was to determine finally the home of the long list of ministers under the jurisdiction of that church and make the list public. Court Session Ends Saturday

Norfolk, Sept. 23—Judge Paige Morris announced late Monday evening that he would adjourn federal court in Norfolk Saturday convening here again on Nov. 4, next. The adjournment is necessary because Judge Morris must be in Omaha to open court next week and go to St. Paul, Minn., to attend court business there before reconvening court in Norfolk in November. Judge T. C. Munger will be busy on the court of appeals in Denver for several months and Judge William Munger is very ill.

The bank case now before the jury will be terminated Wednesday and a railroad case will conclude this week's court work.

Senator W. V. Allen who succeeded in having an important case advanced to hearing next November is making a fight for two terms of court in Norfolk. He is being aided by M. F. Harrington and other prominent lawyers.

Chautauqua Meeting

The stockholders of the Wayne Chautauqua association held a meeting Saturday evening and decided to conduct an independent Chautauqua next season, and have plans under way for an eight-day session. They are co-operating with the Chautauqua Manager's association of Chicago, and the dates are fixed for an earlier time than for several years, being July 11 to 18 inclusive. We shall tell more of the talent to be secured later. All will be glad to know that the work is being so promptly looked after.

See us for wedding invitations.

Cunningham-Ellis

Tuesday, September 22, 1914, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. A. H. Ellis, Miss Freda J. and Mr. D. A. Cunningham were united in marriage. The impressive ceremony was performed by Dr. Alexander Corkey, in the presence of about thirty relatives and near friends at eleven o'clock, when the bride and groom, accompanied by Mr. Paul Harrington as groomsman and Miss Mabel Clark as maid of honor, approached the altar to the strains of Lohengren wedding march, played by Mrs. Jas. Miller. The bride wore a blue traveling suit and carried a bouquet of Mrs. Ward roses, the groom the conventional black. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns, and the color scheme of yellow and white was followed in other decorations.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served, after which the bride and groom left amid the most hearty congratulations for a wedding journey which will take them through the west where they will visit many places of interest as well as numerous relatives and friends, returning next month to make their home at Wayne.

Both bride and groom are too well known to need any introduction to our readers. The bride grew to womanhood here, and is a young lady of many accomplishments. The groom, the son of Eph. Cunningham, has also spent the greater portion of his life at Wayne, where he attended school, and later graduated from the Iowa college at Ames. He is in partnership with his father as auctioneer. Few there are in this county who have more friends than the genial groom.

The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ellis, the bride's brother and wife, from Omaha, and Miss Helen Smith of Omaha. This party remained a day or two to visit.

Team and Auto Collide

Shortly after seven o'clock Sunday evening as Rev. Young and wife were returning from the country where they had been in connection with his Sunday school work his automobile was ran into by a team belonging to Albert Donner, who with two other young men was driving north. The meeting occurred just north of the standpipe. Mr. Young had just stopped at the Linten home, and was starting for home, and was driving at a slow speed, and seeing the team coming applied the brake, almost stopping the car, another team on the other side of him preventing him from turning further. The young men were thrown out and the team cleared of the buggy which was broken ran, and a short distance north collided with an automobile in which Mr. Hanson was driving, knocking the back seat from the car. Mr. Young's car was slightly damaged, the team cut up some, but beyond a few bruises and a shaking up the people escaped unhurt.

Jacob Waggoner Home

Jacob Waggoner, who lives ten miles southwest of Wayne is home from Omaha, where he has been in a hospital for the past four months, a broken leg being the cause of his enforced stay. Not being a rich man the loss of time and expense has been a hardship to himself and family, and the good people of the neighborhood who so well know him have most generously given of their plenty in money and work to aid them, and he desires to have the Democrat give to them one and all an expression of their gratitude for the aid and sympathy extended.

A Little Blaze

Tuesday afternoon, coal in the basement of the Kate house, occupied by M. J. Hefferon and family caught fire and threatened the building. The cause of the fire is not known. The damage by smoke and water is estimated at about $100, and insurance covered the loss. The firemen soon had it under control after a very prompt arrival.

Will A. Weber is home from his visit at his ranch near Dunning. He reports but fair crops, and that hail touched them a little. His son Harold, who was here for a few weeks has returned to Dunning.

School Notes

(By the Junior Class)
The first grade has been studying the size and shape of leaves and making free-hand cuttings and drawings.

Arts and crafts classes have been organized and have started work on simple designs in leather toolings.

The Juniors are reading Ivanhoe as home reading.

Frances Cherry was absent from the third grade Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week on account of illness.

Visitors this week were Misses Frances and Winifred Edwards and Mrs. B. F. Corzine.

Domestic science work is well under way. The advanced class is canning fruit, while the beginners are taking the usual course.

Tomorrow opens the football season with a game with Wakefield on the home gridiron. With the visiting team's strong lineup and Wayne's equally good this game promises to be one of the fastest games of the season. Give the boys your support, they deserve it. The opening exercises in the high school are planned as follows: Monday, parliamentary law; Tuesday, spelling; Wednesday, current events; Thursday, rhetorical Friday, speeches. These exercises are conducted by Mr. Bowen, Mrs. Phillips, Miss Dayton and Miss Meyer, respectively.

The high school classes have organized as follows: Seniors, president, Cecelia Meister; vice president, Cooper Ellis; secretary, Edna McVicker; treasurer, Florence Wright. Juniors—president, Russell Myers; secretary-treasurer, Ruth Ingham. Sophomores—president, Dale Rickabaugh; vice president, Marsaline Lewis secretary-treasurer, Helen Maine. Freshman—president, Irwin Auker. Other officers will be elected at next meeting.

The teachers who were here last year and are serving this, entertained in honor of the new teachers Tuesday evening in the music room at the high school building. A short address of welcome was made by Mrs. M. A. Phillips and responded to by Professor O. R. Bowen on behalf of the new teachers and by Professor I. H. Britton on behalf of the board of education. The retiring superintendent, J. H. Kemp was present and spoke in his usual happy manner. Various mirth-provoking games were thoroughly enjoyed. Light refreshments were served. The occasion was such a happy one that the general opinion was that such affairs should occur frequently.

The regular services at the German Lutheran church next Sunday. A full attendance is desired.

The Week of War

For the past ten days the opposing troops in France have faced each other in battle array, and if one side is said to have gained an advantage the other denies it or cites a case where they have gained a point of equal value in some other place, or if a retreat was made it was to gain better position. The affair for several days past has taken on more the aspect of a siege than a battle, and the artillery are pounding away at each other throwing shells over a distance of several miles. It is a case of stubborn resistance and persistent assault.

Of the action in the eastern part of Germany between Russians and the Austrians and Germans the reports are more conflicting than in the west and while the Russian forces appear to have made some gains, the opposition deny most of the claim.

On water, the morning papers of Tuesday tell from British sources of the safety on the sea, that it has been cleared of the enemy's fleet, and the evening papers of the same day bring news of the sinking of three English cruisers by German submarine boats. The uncertainties of war are as uncertain as ever.

Meantime all offers of mediation by disinterested and neutral nations are spurned for the present. The talk of forming a United States of Europe has been very well received, but laid aside until the fray is over. The heads of the nations have not yet had enough of blood-letting to satisfy their desire for the glory of not being first to yield in a war that promises to be without rival in the history of the world. What a monument to posterity. Those responsible for this war should be known as the greatest murderers of their time if not of all time.

Cattle at Sioux City

Last week Gus Hanson shipped three cars of fat cattle to Sioux City and that they were good may be known from the fact that after he had picked 16 of the best to exhibit at the stock show, the remainder sold at $10.25. The ones he placed on exhibition are attracting much attention, and many a spectator has already awarded them first place. The verdict of the judges has not yet been given (unless this morning) so we cannot say what it will be. They were a fine bunch, and may win.

J. L. Payne and wife returned Friday from their trip to Lincoln and Iowa. Mr. Payne reports that Nebraska had a great fair this year in the matter of exhibit, though rain kept the attendance below what it otherwise would have been in the early part of the week.

There was a big stock run over this line Sunday, enroute to Sioux City market. Seven stock extras, carrying 105 car loads of cattle were counted. Most of the stock was young animals for the feeders. One train carried several car loads of cows, and a fine lot of white-faced calves.

F. H. Jones and wife left Monday afternoon for Omaha, where they will look over the things that they need for their holiday trade, and then go on to Chicago to finish the buying. Mr. Jones always has a large stock of goods suitable for the holiday season, and now is a good time to suggest that you do your Christmas shopping early.

C. H. Hendrickson was at Lincoln last week in the interest of the Sholes case, in which W. E. Winterringer is seeking to have the Supreme court reverse the district court. At the solicitation of Mr. Hendrickson the case has been advanced on the docket, so that the hearing will be had December 7th. In the natural course of events the matter would have been before the court in about three years.

A. E. Carter of Winside returned from Pierre, South Dakota, where he went to look after some land interests, and while there tarried a time to mingle with the state officials on the occasion of one of their annual banquets where he represented Nebraska ably as its spokesman at the festal board.

One of our readers remarks that it is a shame that Wayne county can have no county fair, but furnishes the judges to preside at the neighboring county fairs. The condition should be changed. Wayne county should have an annual fair for the competitive exhibition of stock, grain and other farm products.

One of the cases settled at the last term of court, but out of court, was that in which Simon Goeman asked damages of the railroad company for changing the natural drainage to his place. Attorney Hendrickson informs us that word has come back from headquarters accepting the terms proposed, and Mr. Goeman is allowed $551 damages and the company settles the costs pending.

Hundreds of thousands of men are fighting in the gigantic war now going on in the old world, and everyone is interested in the happenings for each day. The Sioux City Tribune is supplied by the associated press wires (the best in the world) and you can hardly afford to miss a single copy. The price is $2.00 a year, which may be handed to the publisher of this paper or sent direct to The Tribune at Sioux City.—adv. 37-3

J. W. Ash of Greenville, Pennsylvania, came last week to visit at the home of his brother, Chas. Ash, and take a look at this great west land. It was his first trip west, and he finds it very different from his home surroundings, so much room, such vast stretches of level farm lands and great fields of corn, grain and hay. With his brother and wife, he went to Sioux City Tuesday, stopping at the fair there to see a collection of the products of four of the great states participating in that fair. It was needless to ask him if he liked this country—how could he help but like it?

Talk about dying in Germany—we remember well when every well-regulated family had a dye-pot in the house and colored the yarn with which to build sox. Some of the yarn was a solid blue that would be blue after the yarn was worn out—it never faded. Then they would take a skein or two of yarn and band it tightly about with some substance which the dye would not penetrate, and that would leave a white streak wherever the band was on, and when this was knitted into sox they were what was called clouded. A sort of a fancy foot wear for the girls. That is all we wish to tell about the memories of that old dye-pot—but more could be said.

Ray Reynolds is planning to build a residence this fall on the lots just northwest of the court house, he having sold his home to one of the members of the Carhart Hardware company. LeRoy Ley, C. A. Grothe and John Harrington are also building in that part of the city, making an increase of four good residences. When the business portion of Wayne shall erect some business blocks to correspond with the residence part of the place it will be a better appearing city than it now is. We hope to see the day when some of the older buildings such as the Democrat calls home, shall make room for some better homes for the business of the place.

C. L. Cleberg is visiting relatives near Redfield, South Dakota, this week and looking at the country.

C. H. Hendrickson and wife went to Spencer, Iowa, Tuesday to visit a day or two at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Johnson, who moved from Wayne to that place a few months ago. Returning they plan to spend a day at Sioux City at the fair.

An editor with whom we were visiting recently said that he had been asking farmer readers where they learned of the sales in their vicinity, and the answer was almost unanimous, "In the newspapers." If this be true it is a good plan to advertise a sale in the newspapers. Try it.

Perry Benschhof came last week from Van Tassel, Wyoming, and is planning to visit a week among his relatives here. He reports a very satisfactory crop and crop prospect there for a new country, and that all of the numerous Wayne people in that vicinity are well and contented.

Mrs. J. J. Williams went to Iowa City Tuesday accompanying her father, Geo. Pickering, who has been living here for nearly a year past, on a trip to his old home. Mr. Pickering lived at Iowa City more than half a century, moving to the place almost before it was a place, before the railroad had the Iowa river bridge at that place, and sharing with the people of the place in days of adversity and hardship as well as the more prosperous days of later years. He will enjoy the visit with the friends of the active part of his life. He also has some matters of business to look after.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wallace from Freewater, Oregon, came Monday evening to visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. O. Gardner. Mr. Wallace is engaged in growing fruit in that west country and is in the "middle west" as the representative of their home fruit growers association, marketing the crop. In other years they have had an outlet in Canada, and also sent much of the very best product across the water. The war has closed these markets to them for the time, and turned their attention to the people of the northern central states. The apples of northern Oregon are of good quality and flavor and once introduced in a market find favor. In addition to apples, which are now being marketed they grow strawberries, grapes, peaches, pears and prunes in great quantities, as well as several excellent varieties of cherries.

Constructive Advertising
Newspapers have sought to ingratiate themselves in the public favor by ventures covering the whole gamut of human activities, from financing an aerial expedition to the North Pole to distributing patent grease spot eradicators; but it has fallen to the lot of the Chicago Herald to undertake something really meritorious. In its proposition to send a ship load of toys from the boys and girls of America to the boys and girls of the warring countries of Europe, the Herald has hit upon an idea of great worth; for it is doubtful if any other thing could do more to lighten the gloom of the afflicted homes on Christmas day. It is the little things that contain the finest sentiment; and it is at Christmas tide that the heart grows warmest. Whether we shall at that time see the killing still under way, or merely the stricken homes, nothing should be left undone by us in this country to extend our sympathy, and to draw in return their love across the boundary lines. Whatever will tend to wipe out boundary lines, or overcome the idea that stranger is synonymous with enemy, is good.—The Public.

An Editor On A Toot
H. H. Pease, editor of the Beemer Times is going out next week and the week following for a big time among the farmers in the vicinity of his home town. He will go by automobile, and be accompanied by a photographer and some admiring friends. He will visit the farmers, and feed with them, taking anything from fried chicken to stock food. He also offers to take anything offered him, and subscriptions to his paper—and the photo man will take the pictures. He takes a page ad in the paper and a 2-column reader to announce the event—the annual event, for he seems to have the habit of going out each year. He wants them to all look up the dogs and turn the roosters loose. And wherever they offer him a rooster for the catching of the bird he will get the bird or forfeit a year subscription to his paper. He claims to have von 108 roosters this way and lost but three, and he would not have lost them if he had been provided with wings.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

You can have every room in your home warm and comfortable day and night this winter—and with less expense than you paid last year for heating one or two rooms—if you buy a Favorite Base Burner. The Favorite is the only base burner that pours heat into the house from every square inch of its surface. You cannot afford to buy a stove without investigating the Favorite. Come and see us now, and we will show you why the base burner that bears this mark will throw out more heat, and consume about half as much fuel as other makes, so say the users of Favorite stoves.

Gleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

A lecture course has been arranged by the Bloomfield commercial club, of five numbers, the first to take place October 6th.

Stanton county farmers are sowing a large acreage of winter wheat this fall, and the report is that the ground is in excellent condition.

A public dance advertised near West Point announces that carousing and profanity are forbidden. Better open the entertainment with prayer.

Maude S., the oldest of the equine breed in Cuming county, is dead. Maud passed away on the Geo. Mullin farm northeast of West Point where she was born 32 years before the final tragedy of her life.

The Monitor at Bloomfield takes exceptions to a bit of friendly advice offered by the Democrat regarding the jealous rivalry in their county between Creighton and Bloomfield—as shown by the newspapers, over the county fair.

At Columbus the city has had trouble or delay in selling sewer bonds, and the local bankers have taken the matter in hand, and will advance enough money on the bonds to enable the work to be started. Why not issue them in small denominations and ask the citizens to take them?

The bird man at the state fair received $5,000 for his show for the week. That looks like enough, yet we think so much of our fool neck that we would not get up in one of those machines and flop over even once for the price named. Don't want to leave any orphans and a widow yet awhile for the people to care for.

An Indiana farmer built a concrete silo 14 years ago, and filled it with corn. This season is the first time he has ever fed all of the silage, and he found the crop put away 14 years ago as good as any. It was but slightly more acid, and cattle ate it with the same relish they had the newer crop and did as well on it. His silo was 50 feet in depth, and five feet of it was below the surface of the ground.

One of the good things done by the government within the last few weeks was to establish a quarantine on dairy cattle over a district of about five counties in northern Illinois, a district of which Elgin was a center, restraining them from shipping cows from that district as they have been doing in the past. The law of Illinois has been very lax regarding the admission of cattle from other states without test for tuberculosis, and a bunch of about a dozen men in and about Elgin have been taking advantage of the fact to buy cattle that had or were suspected of having tuberculosis for a small sum and shipping them to Elgin and then sending them broadcast over the country, securing a false certificate of health where necessary. One man is said to have thus handled from 10 to 20 carloads per week of cows that were from 25 to 70 per cent affected. Hanging is too good for such a man.

What is said to have been the sequel and culmination of an early day romance took place at the Methodist parsonage in this place Monday evening, says the Wynot Tribune, when Miss Marie Nichols and Mr. Edwin Clifford were united in matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Methodist pastor, Rev. J. J. Burke in the presence of a few friends. The happy bride is well known among the old settlers of this part of northeastern Nebraska, she having lived here with her parents from girlhood up. She was among the pioneers and together with her parents experienced the hardships of the early days. After the death of her father many years ago she became the mainstay and support of an aged and crippled mother, whom she carefully nursed and cared for until her death a year ago. Miss Nichols is really one of the noble women of Cedar county. Mr. Clifford made his home with the Nichols family years ago and the matrimony event of Monday evening was the tardy culmination of an attachment formed by them in former years.

An American's View

Below we give the translation of an editorial which appeared in the Illinois Staats-Zeitung of recent date, and sent to this paper by E. P. Splittgerber, which gives the view of one of the great German-American editors of the war reports and conclusions. It is hard to get impartial news and impartial views, and this gives a pro-German idea of the situation:

"After weeks of continued tire-some labor endeavoring to make clear to the American public the present situation, the German-American appears to be in the position he was at the time of Austria's declaration of war on Serbia. A perfect deluge of hatred, baseness malice and slander has swept over the German element who were of the opinion that they were entitled to some recognition in this country. Several correspondents of American papers have, actuated by honest conviction, made efforts to unburden Germany of the charge, that she wanted and provoked a war and they have not only testified to the justice of the German cause, but sought to share the wonderfully enthusiastic patriotism, that has taken possession of the Germans and that belies the silly claim that down in their hearts the Germans want to know nothing of war. Statements made by American refugees and correspondents leave no doubt that all reports of German cruelties committed in Belgium were nothing but malicious slander and that wherever German troops were forced to resort to severe measures they were provoked in the most shameful and criminal manner. Besides furnishing this testimony of eye witnesses the German press of the country was occupied with throwing light on events which transpired in the European conflict and to remove the web of hatred, jealousy and revenge that was woven around Germany with the intent of strangling it. And what is the result of all this labor, this documental and other evidence. The moment the French-British lie fountains begin to splash, a look of wicked satisfaction becomes noticeable on thousands of faces because of the hated Germans having been whipped, crushed, routed, annihilated and exterminated. Bismarck's phrase 'that every country has the government it deserves' could be changed to read, every country has the newspapers it deserves. Thus it is the spirit of the American people that asserts itself in the broad heavy headlines of the American papers that have the effect of sledge hammer blows. The papers allow their impartiality to be indorsed and some even go to the trouble of registering a doubt as to the credibility of their dispatches. But we invariably hear of the death of the crown prince, the destruction of his army, the corraling and capture of the guards, the extermination of divisions of Ulans, in every issue the large headline informs us of the heroic deeds of French, British, Belgians, Russians and Serbs, while the wireless reports from Berlin to the German Ambassador of Washington, of which so far not one word has been contradicted, seldom find a space in the columns of these papers, although day after day not only the reports of the correspondents trotting around in the rear of the armies but the official statements from Bordeaux and London have been branded as lies by the events of the day, the thought has never struck our esteemed colleagues that it is the duty of honest journalists to shut the columns of their papers to such commercial lie manufacturers, but on the contrary, the falsifications are given a prominent space while the truthful German reports, that however do not fill columns, are stuck in one corner of the paper. Press and public joined hands in commission of these sins, and we are inclined to be suspicious when an American gives expression to such liberal views of the European war as Mr. Vanderbilt, the present head of the financial dynasty, did to a German newspaper man not long ago:

"Aside from all cultural attainments of the German nation, which are equalled and will never be surpassed by England, no country has a greater interest in the welfare of Germany than North America. Under no conditions can we allow ourselves to be deprived of our best customers. Our trade relations with Germany are so strong and close, that a blow struck at the heart of Germany would also strike and seriously affect-us. I do not hesitate to say that it is the disgrace of the 20th century that England lent a hand in committing the greatest crime ever perpetrated since the existence of civilization by the idiotic fanaticism and weak minded chauvinism of the combined French barbarians, and as I am confident that history will even more strongly condemn those of France and Russia. I do not think that the English government will have the support of her people very long, and I am inclined to believe that they will make short work of their responsible statesmen and bring the war to a close. For next to America, England has the greatest interest in the preservation of Germany. Degenerated France is due for collapse. By losing France, America loses as much and as little as by losing Russia, who for us is the essence of the dastardly. Our hopes are with Germany and that it will succeed in wading through its ocean of blood and misery and preserve its strength to establish a new beautiful and peaceful Europe under German leadership. Those that have produced such precious treasures of culture, have excited the unreserved admiration of the past and present by their discipline, organization, industry and creative genius, have the full right to live and to thrive. It would be doubting heaven and eternal justice if this Germany be wrecked by a single infamous act of barbarity."

It is the voice of a preacher in the desert which we hear and we know full well that Germany must win to be on the right side.

The Golden Opportunity Is Now

(By E. S. Jordan in the Tradesman.)

Twenty-five years from now the children-of-the-men-who-are-leaders in business today will be commenting upon the fact that if their fathers had had foresight in 1914 they would have recognized in the present situation the greatest opportunity for business development and actual money making in the history of the world. I have on my desk before me a list of five hundred separate articles ranging in value from $5,000 to $30,000,000 which have in past years been imported exclusively from European countries into the United States. The cessation of these imports open new markets to American manufacturers of similar products. Furthermore, American substitutes for all these European articles must be produced henceforth in America.

For instance, we imported more than $2,000,000 worth of handkerchiefs last year; $22,000,000 worth of dye stuffs, $16,000,000 in laces and embroideries, $22,000,000 worth of linens, $3,000,000 worth of yarn, $4,000,000 worth of green or pickled sheepskins, $2,000,000 worth of glove leather, $27,000,000 worth of diamonds, $6,000,000 worth of toys and $1,500,000 in dolls and parts of dolls.

When the civil war broke out every little town in Massachusetts had a half dozen shoemakers or cobblers pounding away at shoes each in his own separate shop. The war called these men to the front, and necessity, the mother of invention, forced the production of a shoe manufacturing machinery. That made the great shoe industry of Massachusetts, and now the United States lead in shoe manufacturing.

The world, outside of the United States, may fight for months on its present supply of food, clothing and shoes, but this supply cannot last. These nations must look to the United States for food, clothing and shoes, not to mention a thousand other necessities of life.

Suppose that you are operating a small general store. You are one of the half dozen other merchants in the same line of business. Your business has been meagre in the last few months. The general condition of the country has been one of depression. Suddenly all other merchants in your line of trade close up their shops and go off into a forty-acre lot to fight tooth and nail. You are left suddenly in control of the market. This is the situation of the United States today.

The greatest event of the history of the world is now transpiring in Europe. The greatest business opportunity in the history of the world is before every business man in America today.

Something About Rates

As a public service corporation we are servants of the public and as such should discharge our duties efficiently.

To give the most efficient service, the construction, equipment and operation of this Company must conform to the best known practices.

To meet these requirements, the Company must charge such rates as will meet necessary operating expenses, provide adequate reserves for replacing worn-out or obsolete plant, and give a return on the money actually invested in the business that shall be reasonable and sufficient to invite new capital as required for expansion.

Should any earnings be made over and above those necessary to meet these requirements, we feel the amount should be used for the benefit of the public to further increase the efficiency and reliability of the service.

Wayne is the logical place for a majority of the citizens of this county to do their fall trading. Why? Ample and well-selected stocks of merchandise...

When British subjects from India wished to settle in some of her other possessions, such as Canada, they were told to remain in their native land, but when needed to stand in front of the army of a foe...

A message sent from London the 10th says that the Prince of Wales expresses a desire to go to the front and get into service. Let him go—let every member of the royal families of all the warring nations take their places in the front ranks...

You can lead a horse to water but cannot make him drink, according to the old saying. So too can President Wilson offer the good offices of this country in the interest of peace in the old world, but he cannot make them accept the friendly offer...

One of the good things which has come with a democratic senate aided by progressives—yes led by progressives—is to cut the river and harbor appropriations from $57,000,000 asked by the committee to $10,000,000, which is to be spent as needed by the army engineers...

Some of our republican exchanges are not good at figures. They say that a proposed tax of 3 per cent of the freight charge as a war tax is terrible, but the worst of it is that the railroads are to retain one-third of the sum for collecting the tax. Read again, please, the measure proposed said the railroads be allowed one per cent for collecting the revenue. One per cent of the amount collected, not one per cent of the freight bill. If your freight bill should be $1 the war tax would be 3 cents, and the railroad would receive one per cent of 3 cents for its trouble. But then no need to worry, that is not the law yet, and probably never will be in that form. But it is hard matter to levy a tax which will be gladly paid by the one who must pay it.

The Democrat wishes to say a word on the school situation in this state as we view it. The school matters of the state have long enough been the football of politicians and interests that have profited by the control of the office of superintendent. In the primary there were organizations that as organizations worked for or against certain candidates, and especially in the republican camp was this true. The democratic candidate who was nominated, P. M. Whitehead, won on a platform declaring against the strife which has been engendered, and promised service, not politics or the punishment of his enemies if nominated and elected. On this platform he was nominated, and on this platform he is making the campaign for election. In this spirit we ask that he be given loyal support. He is competent to discharge the duties of the office ably and impartially. If you believe that honest service and not the reward of friends or the punishment of enemies should be the ruling motive of the head of the greatest institution in the state, we ask that you study the situation. We hope to see the day when this office, like that of the judge, shall be nonpartisan.

Roosevelt On State Ticket

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 22.—Personal delivery of Theodore Roosevelt's message to Nebraska bull moosers and republicans was made by the colonel here tonight. It was his only speech of the campaign in Nebraska—but his words burned in the minds of his hearers so that their import will not soon be forgotten. It was a message of hope and inspiration for the infant party, the expression of the firm conviction of a sophisticated man of national affairs that the new political unit would live in this state and in the nation.

The colonel's train was two hours late and diners at a banquet to be given in his honor sat down without the honor guest. Fully 900 people were at the banquet, including leading suffrage workers and those who have learned to love the colonel because of his first advocacy of their doctrines.

H. E. Sackett of Beatrice, the new party's candidate for governor, was presiding officer of the evening. His reception was of sufficient degree to warm the cockles of many a progressive worker's heart. He paid a glowing tribute to the party creator and the colonel, emphasizing the fact that he "refused to sacrifice principles for political harmony or political emoluments."

The colonel did not wait long to respond to the curiosity of the thousands as to his stand on the state ticket.

"I feel doubly glad to be here tonight," he said, the first moment of his address, "because I am honored to support this splendid man, Mr. Sackett, for governor, and every one of his colleagues for the office to which they aspire and for which they were nominated at your primaries."

The Tango Coon

One of the most successful features in Terry's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co's., Parade that is creating a riotous applause wherever seen is the exhibition of the Tango Dance, performed by a specially constructed mechanical toy. Everyone is talking of the Tango and its many variations that have been introduced to that popular class of Torpscherean art, but to witness the production of it, a multitude of steps, one should not miss this exhibition which is one of the special attractions in the Terry Shows Parade this season. It is highly amusing, a wonderful, a novelty in mechanical constructive ability.

Notice For Bids

The Wayne State Normal asks for bids on the hauling of 600 tons of coal from the tracks at Wayne to the bins of the Normal school. Bids should state the charge per ton and should reach the office of the school not later than Saturday noon, September 26.

State Normal Notes

President Conn made a business trip to Omaha Wednesday.

Rev. B. P. Richardson was a chapel visitor Friday morning.

The chapel exercises Wednesday morning were in charge of the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. enjoyed a hike to the country Saturday afternoon with a picnic dinner in the Von-Seggern grove.

Mrs. Burrill Wright will have charge of the work in grades one and two until the return of Miss Stocking.

The orchestra under the direction of Professor Coleman has organized with fifteen members. Some new instruments have been purchased and there is every assurance of a good orchestra this year. The chorus class has also commenced work and promises to be a success both in number and in talent.

A plan of extension work was presented by President Conn at the first meeting of the faculty for this year, which was held on Monday afternoon. The details have not yet been definitely worked out, but the plan as submitted by President Dick of the Kearney normal is substantially as follows: At any convenient place where ten or more teachers will assemble on a Saturday, asking for some special subjects, a member or members of the faculty will meet them, outline the work and give all possible assistance. After careful study, covering sufficient time, examinations will be given at the school conducting the extension work. In this way the benefits of normal training may be carried to many more teachers than at present, and much help and inspiration may be given, especially to the rural school teachers who today are being neglected in teacher-training.

On Tuesday evening occurred the regular reception that is given by the faculty to the students of the school at the opening of each semester. The students passed down the receiving line and were seated in the chapel, which was tastefully decorated with asters, marigolds and zenias. An address of welcome was given by President Conn followed by a witty response from Miss Grace Hedglin, a newly registered student and a member of the present senior class. The musical numbers consisted of two vocal selections by Mrs. E. A. Johnson with piano accompaniment by Izetta Johnson; a vocal solo by Mrs. Reba Nangle Jones accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James Miller; and a vocal selection by Marjorie Kohl with Bessie Crockett accompanist. Following the program all repaired to library and science hall, where the remainder of the evening was spent in the playing of games and in a good social time.

MAN AND MICROBES.

Human Beings Might All Be Giants if There Were No Bacteria.

If there were no microbes men would grow to gigantic stature and have intellectual powers far in advance of those which they possess at present. What is more, it is possible, at least to live without microbes. Anyway, these are the conclusions of no less an authority than Dr. Roux, who heads the Pasteur Institute in Paris. They are based upon the result of some experiments carried on by one of his pupils, Dr. Michael Cohendy.

The latter placed some guinea pigs under glass at the moment of their birth. The air which they breathed was thoroughly sterilized, as was all the food administered to them. Unquestionably many germs were able to reach them, but every precaution known to science and possible with the application of one of the complete laboratories in the world was exercised to protect them.

The results rather astounded the doctor. The subjects grew with amazing rapidity, three or four times as fast as guinea pigs of the same age subsisting under normal conditions. In the brief span of twelve days they were for the most part a third larger.

It is a far cry from the guinea pig to the man of course, but Dr. Roux concludes that the latter, if under perfect antiseptic conditions from birth, would develop very far beyond what is possible as things are at present. He even hints that, with advancing knowledge, such conditions, if not attained, will be so approximated as to materially enhance the physical welfare and mental vigor of the race.—Boston Herald.

An Excellent Shampoo.

The following is a recipe for a shampoo that will make the hair fluffy and easy to dress: Take half a cake of white castile soap, shave it up finely and boil in a pint of water until it jellies. Allow it to become cool; then beat up the yolks of three eggs and add them to the soap jelly with a teaspoonful of eau de cologne. Shampoo the hair in the usual way, rubbing the mixture well into the scalp and rinsing out with soft water.

Among the Churches of Wayne

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The subject of the lesson will be "Review—Jesus the Judge of Men"—John 3:14-21.

Regular Divine worship every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and evening at 8 o'clock.

The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be, "Waiting for God"—Isaiah 25:9. It was waiting time for the Godly people in the land of Judah, when the prophet Isaiah spoke the words of the text. In his own country, disobedience and sin were bearing the nation on to some terrible doom. In the nations about Judah the cup of iniquity was getting full, and overwhelming judgments were falling on one after another. Every man who believed in the covenant was placed in an attitude of waiting. Thus it was waiting time for many in the land of Judah. But going back to the period before Isaiah prophesied, we find, that the history of God's chosen people, is a series of waitings. Through a long and cruel Egyptian bondage, they were called to wait the day of their deliverance. Surrounded by perils, they stood at the shores of the Red Sea, and were bidden to wait for the salvation of God. Forty years they wandered in the wilderness, waiting to cross into the land of promise. At last they were forced to hang their harps on the willows in a strange land, waiting the completion of the 70 years of captivity. So today as we look about us, at sin and the judgment pronounced upon it, are we not brought into the attitude of waiting, for the salvation of the Lord?

The subject of the evening sermon will be "Life's Center and Circumference"—Col. 3:11.

The Luther League which was just organized will meet at 7 o'clock in the evening. The subject for next Sunday will be "What Makes the Church Strong?"—Matt. 16:13-20. All are invited to attend the league service.

The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Miss Adda Stambaugh on Thursday, September 24.

All who wish to enter the catechetical class please speak to the pastor as soon as possible.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor

Last Sunday was a great day with our church in all its departments. The audiences were large and a splendid spirit of earnestness was put into every service. It was worth while to put forth a little special effort.

Prof. Davies and his choir rendered exceptional service throughout the day.

The special program arranged for the opening of the Sunday school session was most fitting. Some think we should have a similar program for the Sunday school, frequently.

The enthusiasm of the young people in their meeting was noticeable. The orchestra adds very much to the interest of the meeting. It makes the singing full of life and movement. We are glad to have members of the orchestra help with the regular evening worship. If young people have talents, they are to be used and nowhere else can they be so well used as in religious work.

What we gained last Sunday we want to keep and increase week by week. The world needs an awakened church. The Lord can work only with willing, courageous, enthusiastic Christians.

Let us have a strong service next Sunday. The pastor's subject will be, "Life's Best Success." One essential work of the church is to hold before men and women the true ideals of life.

The young peoples' meeting will be in charge of the missionary committee. The topic will be "Work in the American City."

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the missionary society will meet with Mrs. Huff.

Prayer meeting next week, will be our covenant meeting. Bring something good and take away something good.

Are you going to the state convention?

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

Rev. George F. Williams, D. D., of Columbus, Nebraska, will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath both morning and evening. Dr. Williams is one of the leading ministers in the Nebraska Synod and it is requested that the membership be present in as large numbers as possible.

The Sunday school will meet as usual at 12:00 o'clock next Sunday after the morning service. The C. E. society meets at 7:00 o'clock and the evening service at 8:00. Morning worship begins at 10:30.

Governor's Proclamation—Seed Corn Selection Week

In view of the fact that our successful farmers and experiment stations find that early selection of seed corn is advisable, it seems, in a matter of such great economic importance, that a time should be set aside for its early selection.

The following reasons for early selection are apparent:

1. Early selected seed is less liable to be injured by freezing.
2. Seed selected in the field enables the farmer to obtain ears from plants of the proper type and from plants growing under normal conditions.

3. From various reports received, the present crop has ripened early, and seed may be safely selected at the end of the month. It appears essential, however, that such corn once selected should be stored immediately in as dry a place as possible.

A special reason why farmers should select their own seed will appear from data of the Nebraska Experiment Station showing that native seed produced 6.2 bushels more per acre than excellent seed brought in from other districts.

With these facts in mind, I designate the week beginning September 28 as Seed Corn Selection week and urge its general observance as the proper time for this important task.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Nebraska, this twenty-third day of September, 1914.

JOHN H. MOREHEAD,
Governor.

Out of Bondage

For many years the public educational system of Nebraska appears to have been dominated somewhat by a powerful organization, commonly termed "the book trust."

In Nebraska the state buys practically all the books for children, and it is a big card for a book manufacturer when he can get his books adopted as the standard for Nebraska. Many ugly stories are afloat with reference to the manner in which the book trust has dominated the school book situation in Nebraska. The Telegram does not know all the facts, but we do positively know that some sort of a combination between school book manufacturers has been strong enough to control the situation in Nebraska—strong enough to have large voice in selecting the managements of the state normal schools—strong enough to practically place its own kind of teachers in charge of many state and county schools.

But now the time has arrived to divorce the Nebraska educational system from the school book trust. The democrats have nominated for state superintendent of public instruction a man who is at enmity with the policy of the book trust—a man who will administer that high office in the interests of public education, and not in the interest of any combination of manufacturers of school books.

Prof. P. M. Whitehead is the name of the democrat nominee for state superintendent of public instruction. The Telegram suggests to all Nebraskans who want to see the school book trust thrown out of the saddle that they ought to begin now the work of promoting the cause of Professor Whitehead. Talk to your neighbors about him, and tell them that Whitehead is the man the state needs to protect the public schools from the ravages of the book trust.—Columbus Telegram.

Better Get Busy

The information office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has recently learned that the much despised little English sparrow, individually, is one of the most effective enemies of the alfalfa weevil, which for several years past has been doing enormous damage to the alfalfa crops, especially in the west.

If that be true, they better quit fooling around the streets of Wayne and go to the country, for "China" O'Neal is after 'em with a slingshot.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

Reports differ as to the progress of the great battle in northern France between the allied British and French armies and the Germans. Some indicate that there is extremely heavy fighting, while others tell of the great masses of troops lying in flooded trenches, many of them at the stage of exhaustion. At some points, at least, fierce engagements have been fought, with the tide flowing first in one direction and then in the other. The allies have won a position here, and the Germans have gained one there.

The Britishers in the trenches say: "We are slowly beating them back." The French official statement declares that though furiously counter attacked by superior forces and obliged to yield some ground, this was retaken almost immediately.

The western wing of the German line has been thrust back about seven miles as a sequel to continuous fighting night and day. Both armies, despite almost superhuman fatigue, show the utmost determination not to yield an inch of ground without a terrible struggle, but the fresher troops at the disposal of the allied commanders have gradually forced the Germans to recede.

In the fighting around Rheims, the matter of greatest general interest has been the destruction of the famous cathedral, one of the most noted structures in the world, dating back to the thirteenth century, which is reported to have first been pierced by many German shells and then to have been burned.

From Petrograd it is announced officially that the Russian troops have captured the fortified positions of Senjava and Sambor, in Galicia. The Austrian rear guard has been repulsed beyond the San river, and the Russians have taken 3,000 prisoners.

As had been anticipated, a check has been given to the operations of the victorious Russians in Galicia by the strong fortress of Przemysl, which has opened fire with artillery on the Russian invaders.

A report from the Austro-Italian frontier from Rome says that 300,000 Austrian troops are watching the Italian border.

A Montenegrin army is only ten miles from Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia. The Austrian army is retreating rapidly before the Montenegrins, abandoning rapid fire guns and stores.

The British authorities have issued a list of officers killed in action during recent days. The list contains the names of Captain R. N. Grenfell, the polo player; Captain Lord Guernsey and Colonel F. R. F. Boileau of the general staff.

The British merchant cruiser Carmania has sunk a German merchant cruiser, supposed to be either the Cape Trafalgar or the Berlin, off the coast of South America, but the German cruiser Koenigsberg has completely disabled the British cruiser Pegasus while the latter was overhauling her machinery in Zanzibar harbor, killing twenty-five men and wounding more than three times that number; and the German cruiser Emden has sunk six British steamers in the bay of Bengal.

The Austrian dreadnought Viribus Unites, one of the largest ships in the navy, is reported to have been badly damaged in an engagement in the Adriatic, but escaped her pursuers.

A quarter of a million Jews are with the Russian forces. This is the largest Jewish army ever gathered since the fall of Jerusalem.

In proroguing parliament King George said that he was compelled to go to war for the protection of the public law of Europe and the vital interests of the empire, and that, fighting for a worthy purpose, Great Britain would not lay down her arms until that purpose had been fully achieved.

Austrian advices report that the Servians have evacuated Semlin, the town which they seized when they began their invasion of Hungary. Servian reports are to the effect that their successes continue.

The Germans, successful in driving the Russian invaders from east Prussia, are reported pushing their way into Russian Poland. The Austrian armies, following their disastrous clash with the Russians in Galicia, are believed to be attempting to reform at Cracow.

Japanese aeroplanes, throwing bombs, have destroyed two of the important forts at Tsingtau, China.

The allied squadrons are mistress of the sea and are blockading the German and Austrian coasts.

Throughout the British Isles enlistment continues unabated and a noteworthy feature is the high standard of the recruits. Students and young professional men are conspicuous in every squad seen on the London streets.

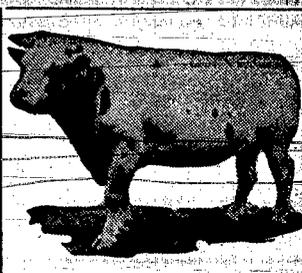

"All my troops and resources" is the latest offer of the Gaekwar of Baroda to the British government.

An authorized spokesman of the Russian government declared that it "might be desirable" after the cessation of this war to follow the emperor's plans for world peace as expressed in the calling of The Hague conference, by establishing the "United States of Europe," which organization should have the power to control armaments.

The Germans have expelled from Walverthem, Belgium, all of the male population above ten years of age. Only the women and little children remain.

The Germans continued bombarding the principal buildings of Rheims.

Would Make Race For Congress In Sixth District—Two Hunting Accidents Near Lincoln—Superior Company Seeks Better Cement Rates.

Lincoln, Sept. 22.—An examination of the herd of 101 cattle at the Hastings insane asylum has developed that thirty-five of them are reactors, or cattle that show signs of tuberculosis. These cattle, according to State Veterinarian Kigin, will be taken to South Omaha and will again be tested by government experts and if their examination discloses the same condition these cattle will be killed.

At Hastings a new barn has been completed for cattle and stock, but none which shows any signs of disease will be permitted to enter.

Ask Better Cement Rates.

A hearing on the complaints of the Nebraska Portland Cement company of Superior, asking for better rates on its products over the railroads of the state, was begun before the railway commission, but was continued to Sept. 30, because of a lack of proper rate schedules on which to base the demands. All of the railroads were represented. The company was represented by E. E. Bruce, H. G. Calkins and C. H. Walrath. Several others interested in the hearing were present.

Would Submit Sunday Bill.

Petitions are in circulation in Lincoln asking that the city commissioners submit the proposition of playing baseball on Sunday at the regular park in this city. LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Market Rules Steady to a Shade Lower.

HOGS GENERALLY DIME LOWER

Lambs Steady to a Dime Lower—Receipts Large, but Quality is Lacking. Aged Sheep About Steady and Feeder Lambs a Little Easier.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Sept. 22.—Cattle receipts were the heaviest of the year, about 12,000 head arriving. As usual, there was very little in the way of corn-fed stock in the yards and the market was nominally unchanged. Trade in western range cattle opened out slow today and the feeling was rather weak than otherwise. It soon developed, however, that there was a healthy demand for the beef cattle of good weight and quality, and prices were pretty close to steady for this class of stock. On the other hand the fair to medium grades were in liberal supply and ruled weak to a dime off. Cows and heifers were also slow to a dime lower than Monday. In stockers and feeders there was a broad demand and desirable grades sold about as well as on Monday, the medium and common kinds going about a dime lower and slow sale at that.

Cattle quotations: Good to choice beefs, $9.50@10.25; fair to good beefs, $8.00@9.30; common to fair beefs, $7.75@8.50; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.50; good to choice cows, $6.25@7.00; fair to good cows, $5.50@6.00; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.50; veal calves, $8.00@10.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@7.00; prime feeding steers, $8.30@8.60; good to choice feeders, $7.50@8.25; fair to good feeders, $6.80@7.40; common to fair feeders, $6.00@6.75; stock feeders, $5.75@7.00; stock cows, $4.75@6.25; stock calves, $7.00@8.50; choice to prime heaves, $8.00@8.75; good to choice range beefs, $7.50@8.00; fair to good range beefs, $6.80@7.40; common to fair beefs, $6.00@6.75.

Some 4,300 hogs showed up today. Trade was dull all the way through. The general killer trade is largely 10c lower, but with shipping grades holding firm, the average does not show any more than a 5@10c decline. Today $3.35 was the most popular price paid. Light shipping hogs sold up to $3.85.

Sheep and lamb receipts totaled 40,000 head. The last sales of lambs on Monday's market averaged 75c lower than the close of last week. The general run of aged offerings averaged 40@60c lower than last Friday, while feeders showed about a 10@15c decline. The market was rather active today, with lambs generally steady to a dime lower and about steady for the light supply of mutton. There was also a good demand for feeders and prices were weak to a shade lower. The best grades of feeder lambs were quotable at $5.85@7.30.

Quotations on range sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.40@7.65; lambs, fair to good, $7.15@7.40; lambs, feeders, $6.30@7.20; yearlings, good to choice, $5.75@6.00; yearlings, fair to good, $5.50@5.75; yearlings, feeders, $5.40@5.90; wethers, good to choice, $5.20@5.50; wethers, fair to good, $5.00@5.20; wethers, feeders, $4.30@4.85; ewes, good to choice, $5.00@5.25; ewes, fair to good, $4.75@5.00; ewes, feeders, $3.80@4.25.

Ideal Feminine Form.

The Medicin Venus is five feet five inches in height, and this is held by many sculptors and artists to be the most admirable feminine stature. For a woman of five feet five inches 138 pounds is the proper weight, and if she be well formed she can stand another ten pounds without greatly showing it.

Shopping in Brazil.

In Brazil it is considered undignified for a lady to go shopping. Usually a servant is sent for samples, and if it is a hat the senorita wants to buy a box or basket containing several of the latest styles is sent for her inspection. —St. Louis Republic

Good Manufacturing!

If you know where to look, you will find on the outside of every case of Safe Home matches certain numbers, letters or symbols. To you these mean nothing. To us they mean a very great deal. They tell us many things, and enable us to determine:

- (1) When the matches were made—year, month, day and hour.
 - (2) Where they were made—in which of five factories and on which of several hundred machines!
 - (3) The temperature and humidity in the air at the time of manufacture!!
 - (4) The names of the men and women who made them!!!
- Does this impress you as good manufacturing? Or doesn't it? We refer to it, not in a spirit of boastfulness, but to give you an idea of the extraordinary care that marks every step in the making of Safe Home matches. The experiments and tests which we have made, in an honest effort to produce a perfect match, have cost us about a quarter of a million dollars. Why did we do all this research work? Because it is good business—because, in the long run, it will pay. We do not ask you to pay more money for matches than you have been paying—merely to see that you get better matches for what you do pay. This you can do if you ask for Safe Home matches by name.

All grocers. Five cents a box.

The brook goes on forever—but no more so than "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is billed for its annual stop at Wayne. But the brook sometimes becomes a river—as it goes on—and so with this show, it grows and gathers size as the years go by. Yet it is not safe to miss "Uncle Tom" as he comes along, for sometime Lagree will surely kill him so that he will stay dead, and the angels will keep little Eva for sure, and Topsy will grow up and cease to be cute.

Some even intimate that the east side fellows are afraid. This must be a mistaken idea, for what is there to be afraid of? Perhaps they will wait until near Christmas, as the gate receipts are to be given to a Good Fellow fund. The Democrat will be glad to announce the game.

S. E. Auker returned home Monday from a visit in the western part of the state, where he was called by his father's sickness about three weeks ago. He reports that he left his father feeling better. Cattle are plentiful and the price had a tendency to decline slightly while he was there, but they did not get down in his reach. Speaking of his candidacy, he said the people who know him are to pass on the case at the proper time.

Last Thursday evening Misses Fern and Fay Oman entertained a party of young ladies, classmates of Miss Lucile Corkey at the Oman home, a farewell surprise for Miss Corkey who is soon to move to Bellevue with her parents. It was an evening most happily spent, the young people playing games, visiting and conducting a mock marriage, in which the boys were not considered, though a considerable number of them gathered for a lawn party on the Oman lawn, in spite of the dampness of the evening at that particular place. The many classmates of Miss Lucile regret her departure greatly.

"Safety Always" ESPECIALLY WITH MEDICINE

Where health is concerned, "Safety always" should be uppermost. It is best to take extra precaution that no unforeseen fatality may result. Medicine is taken for its curative power in bringing about recovery from illness, but unless it is compounded absolutely right in every respect it cannot accomplish all it should. Even if it is not right in the smallest way, medicine is no medicine at all and there is danger of it doing more harm than good. That's why "safety always" in having medicines made is most important. You are safe when you have them compounded at our store. Prescriptions brought here are filled carefully and accurately, with the best materials, equipment, and experience. Let us fill your next prescription for safety's sake.

Does Your Wife Show Clothes-Interest?

Most wives know that men of active vocation necessarily subject their clothes to rigid test in wear and shape retention.

Since you can get clothes made especially for you—that will last—hold their shape—and cost no more than a suit which is now stacked in a pile of clothing somewhere— isn't it better to let us take your measure and get real satisfaction?

CHAPTER V.

The Problem of the Sealed Box.

"Gone!" Jones kept saying to himself that he must strive to be calm, to think, that he. Despite all his warnings, the warnings of Norton, she had tricked them and run away. It was maddening. He wanted to rave, tear his hair, break things. He tramped the hall. It would be wasting time to send for the police. They would only putter about fruitlessly. The Black Hundred knew how to arrange these abductions.

How had they succeeded in doing it? No one had entered the house that day without his being present. There had been no telephone call he had not heard the gist of, nor any letters he had not first glanced over. How had they done it? Suddenly into his mind flashed the remembrance of the candlelight under Florence's door the night before. In a dozen bounds he was in her room, searching drawers, paper boxes, baskets. He found nothing. He returned in despair to Susan, who, during all this turmoil, had sat as if frozen in her chair.

"Speak!" he cried. "For God's sake, say something, think something! Those devils are likely to torture her, hurt her!" He leaped against the wall, his head on his arm.

When he turned again he was calm. He walked with bent head toward the door, opened it and stood upon the threshold for a space. Across the street a shadow stirred, but Jones did not see it. His gaze was attracted by something which shone dimly white on the walk just beyond the steps. He ran to it. A crumpled letter, unaddressed. He carried it back to the house, smoothed it out and read its contents. Florence in her haste had dropped the letter.

He clutched at his hat, put it on and ran to Susan.

"Here!" he cried, holding out an automatic. "If anyone comes in that you don't know, shoot! Don't ask questions, shoot!"

"I'm afraid!" She breathed with difficulty.

"Afraid?" he roared at her. He put the weapon in her hand. It slipped and thudded to the floor. He stooped for it and slammed it into her lap. "You love your life and honor. You'll know how to shoot when the time comes. Now, attend to me. If I'm not back here by ten o'clock, turn this note over to the police. If you can't do that, then God help us all!" And with that he ran from the house.

Susan eyed the revolver with growing terror. For what had she left the peace and quiet of Miss Farlow's; assassination, robbery, thieves and kidnapers? She wanted to shriek, but her throat was as dry as paper. Gingerly she touched the pistol. The cold steel sent a thrill of fear over her. He hadn't told her how to shoot it!

Two blocks down the street, up an alley, was the garage wherein Hargreave had been wont to keep his car. Toward this Jones ran with the speed of a track athlete. There might be half a dozen taxicabs about, but he would not run the risk of engaging any one of them. The Black Hundred was capable of anticipating his every movement.

The shadow across the street stood undecided. At length he concluded to give Jones ten minutes in which to return. If he did not return within that time, the watcher would go up to the drug store and telephone for instructions.

But Jones did not come back.

"Where's Howard?" he demanded.

"Hello, Jones; what's up?"

"Howard, get that car out at once."

"Out she comes. Wait till I give her radiator a bucket of water. Gee!"

He leaped against the wall, his head on his arm.

When he turned again he was calm. He walked with bent head toward the door, opened it and stood upon the threshold for a space.

sonal." She took the newspaper at once to Jones, who smiled grimly.

"You see, I trust you."

"And so long as you continue to trust me no harm will befall you. You were left in my care by your father. I am to guard you at the expense of my life. Last night's affair was a miracle. The next time you will not find it so easy to escape."

Nor did she.

"There will be no next time," gravely. "But I am going to ask you a direct question. Is my father alive?"

The butler's brow puckered. "I have promised to say nothing, one way or the other."

She laughed.

"Why do you laugh?"

"I laugh because if he were dead there would be no earthly reason for your not saying so at once. But I hate money, the name of it, the sound of it, the sight of it. It is at the bottom of all wars and crimes. I despise it!"

"The root of all evil. Yet it performs many noble deeds. But never mind the money. Let us give our attention to this personal. Doubtless it originated in the same mind which conceived the letter. Your father would never have inserted such a personal. What! Give his enemies a chance to learn his secret? No. On the other hand I want you to show this personal to all you meet today, Susan, the reporter, to everybody. Talk about it. Say that you wonder what you shall do. Trust no one with your real thoughts."

"Not even you, Mr. Jones," thought the girl as she nodded.

"And tell them that you showed it to me and that I appeared worried."

That night there was a meeting of the organization called the Black Hundred. Braine asked if anyone knew what the Hargreave butler looked like.

"I had a glimpse of him the other night; but being unprepared, I might not recognize him again."

Vron described Jones minutely. Braine could almost see the portrait.

"Vron, that memory of yours is worth a lot of money," was his only comment.

"I hope it will be worth more soon."

"I believe I'll be able to recognize Mr. Jones if I see him. Who is he and what is he?"

"He has been with Hargreave for 14 years. There was a homicidal case in which Jones was active. Hargreave saved him. He is faithful and uncommunicative. Money will not touch him. If he does know where that million is, he'll grow careless. No man is always on his mettle; he lets up sooner or later."

"He is being watched, as you know."

Vron nodded approvingly. "The captain of the tramp steamer Orient, by the way, was seen with a roll of money. He was in one of the water front saloons, bragging how he had hoodwinked some one."

"Did he say where he'd got the cash?" asked Braine.

"They tried to pump him on that, but he shut up. Well, we have agreed that Felton shall watch from the street and Orloff from the window. Orloff will whistle if he sees Jones removing anything from any of the rooms. The rest will be left to Felton."

"And, Felton, my friend," said Braine softly, "he always spoke softly when he was in a deadly humor—Felton, you slept on duty the other night."

Hargreave stole up, consulted Jones, and got away after knocking me down. The next failure will mean short shift. Be warned!"

"I saw only you, sir. So help me. I was not asleep. I saw you run down the street after the taxicab. I did not see anyone else."

Braine shrugged. "Remember what I said."

Felton bowed respectfully and made his exit. He wished in his soul that he might some day catch the master mind free of his eternal mask. It was an iron hand which ruled them and there were friends of his (Felton's) who had mysteriously vanished after a brief period of rebellion. The boss was a swell; probably belonged to clubs and society which he adroitly pilfered. The organization always had money. Whenever there was a desperate job to be undertaken, Vron simply poured out the money necessary to promote it. Whenever Braine and Vron became engaged in earnest conversation they talked Slav. Braine was never called by name here; the boss, simply that.

Well, ten per cent of a million was a hundred thousand. This would be equally divided between the second ten of the Black Hundred. Another ten per cent would go to 80 members; the balance would be divided between Vron and the boss. But his soul rebelled at being ordered about like so much dirt under another man's feet. He would take his ten thousand and make the grand getaway.

The next afternoon the princess called upon Florence. Nothing was said about the adventure, and this fact created a vague unrest in the scheming woman's mind. She realized that she must play her cards more carefully than ever. Not the least distrust must be permitted to enter the child's head. Once that happened good-by to the wonderful emeralds. Was it that she really craved the stone? Was it not rather a venom acquired from the knowledge that this child's mother had worn what she herself, with all her cleverness, was not sure of—Braine's love?

"Did he really care for her or was she only the cat's paw to pluck his hot chestnuts from the fire?"

When Florence showed her the "personal," her vague doubts become instantly dissipated. The child would not have shown her the newspaper had there been any distrust on her part.

"My child, your father is alive then?" animatedly.

"We don't know," sadly.

"Why, I should say that this proves it."

"On the contrary, it proves nothing of the sort, since I have yet to discover a treasure in this house. I have hunted in every nook, drawer; I've searched for panels, looked in trunks for false bottoms. Nothing, nothing! Ah, if I could only find it!"

"And what would you do with it?"

"Take it at once to some bank and offer the whole of it for the safe return of my father, every penny of it. I don't know what to do, which way to turn," tears gathering in her eyes and they were genuine tears, too.

"There are millions in stocks and bonds and I cannot touch a penny of it because the legal documents have not been found. I can't even prove that I am his daughter, except for half an old bracelet, and my father's lawyers say that that would not hold in any court."

"You were born in St. Petersburg, my dear. Have the embassy there look up the birth registers."

"That would not put me into possession. Nothing but the return of my father will avail me. And there's a horrible thought always of my not being his real daughter."

"There's no doubt in my mind. I have only to recall Katrina's face to know whose child you are. But what will you five on?" Here was a far greater mixup than she had calculated upon. Supposing after all it was only a resemblance, that the child was not Hargreave's, a substitute just to blind the Black Hundred? To keep them away from the true daughter? Her mind grew bewildered over such possibilities. The angle and only way to solve all doubts was to make this child a prisoner. If she was Hargreave's true daughter he would come out of his hiding.

She heard Florence answering her question: "There is a sum of ten or twelve thousand in the Riverdale bank, under the control of my father's butler. After that is gone, I don't know what will happen to us, Susan and me."

"The door of Miss Farlow's will always be open to you, Florence," replied Susan, with love in her eyes.

This interesting conversation was interrupted by the advent of Norton. He was always dropping in during the late afternoon hours. Florence liked him for two reasons. One was that Jones trusted him to a certain extent and the other was that she liked him. She finished this sentence in her heart defiantly.

Today he brought her a box of beautiful roses, and at the sight of them the princess smiled faintly. Set the wind in that quarter? She could have laughed. Here was her revenge against this meddling who took no particular notice of her while Florence was in the room. She would encourage him, poor grubbing newspaper writer, with his beggarly pittance! What chance had he of marrying this girl with millions within reach of her hand?

The peculiar thing about this was that Norton was entertaining the same thought at the same time: what earthly chance had he?

In the second story window of the house over the way there was a worried man. But when his glasses brought in range the true contents of the box he laughed sardonically.

"This watching is getting my goat. I smell a rat every time I see a shadow." He wiped the lenses of his opera glasses and proceeded to roll a cigarette.

When the princess and Norton went away Jones stole quietly up to Florence's room and threw up the curtain. Two round points of light flashed from the watcher's window, but the saturnal smile on Jones' lips was not observed. He went to the door, opened it cautiously, a hand to his ear. Then he closed the door, turned back the rug and removed a section of the flooring. Out of this cavity he raised a box. There was lettering on the lid; in fact, the name of its owner, Stanley Hargreave. Jones replaced the flooring, tucked the box under his arm and made his exit.

Florence Gray.

The man lounging in the shadow heard a faint whistle. It was the signal agreed upon. The man Felton ran across the street and boldly rang the bell. It was only then that Florence missed the ever-present butler. She hesitated, then sent Susan to the door. "I must see Mr. Jones upon vitally important business."

"He has gone out," said Susan, and very sensibly closed the door before Felton's foot succeeded in getting inside.

It was time to act. He ran around to the rear. The ladder convinced him that Jones had tricked him. He was wild with rage. He was over the wall in an instant. Away down the back street his eye discovered the man in full flight. He gave chase. As he came to the first corner he was nearly knocked over by a man coming the other way.

"A Hundred If You Overtake That Boat."

"Who are you bumping into?" growled Felton.

"Not so fast, Felton!"

"Who the devil are you?"

The stranger made a sign which Felton instantly recognized.

"Quick! What has happened?"

"Jones has the million and is making his getaway. See him hiking toward the water front?"

The two men began to run. There followed a thrilling chase. Jones engaged a motorboat and it was speeding seaward when the two pursuers arrived. They were not laggard. There was another boat and they made for it.

"A hundred if you overtake that boat," said Felton's strange companion. Felton eyed him thoughtfully. There was something familiar about that voice.

Great plumes of water shot up into the air. It did not prove a short race by any means. It took half an hour for the pursuer to overhaul the pursued.

"Is that Jones?"

"Yes," Felton fired his revolver into the air in hopes of terrifying Jones' engine; but there was five hundred dangling before that individual's eyes.

"Let them get a little nearer," shouted the butler.

The engineer let down the speed a notch. The other boat crept up within twenty yards. Jones sought a perfect range. He would have to find this spot again.

"Surrender!" yelled Felton.

In reply Jones raised the precious box and deliberately dropped it into the sea. Then he turned his automatic upon his pursuers and succeeded in setting their boat afire.

All this within the space of an hour. During dinner that night (there was now a cook) Jones walked about the dining table, rubbing his hands together from time to time.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL

AMENDMENT NO. ONE.

The following proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of Nebraska, as hereinafter set forth in full, is submitted to the electors of the State of Nebraska, to be voted upon at the general election to be held Tuesday, November 3rd, A. D. 1914.

"FOR a joint resolution to amend section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska, relating to the people of the State of Nebraska:

Section 1. That Section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 1. The rules of taxation shall be uniform as to any given class and taxes shall be levied upon such property as the Legislature shall prescribe. Taxes may also be imposed on incomes, privileges and occupations, which taxes may be graduated and progressive and reasonable exemptions may be provided. In addition to those heretofore specifically mentioned in section 2 of this article.

More About the War

Last week we told of the experiences of the Misses Aegerter, who had just returned from Europe. The Randolph Times gives an interview with their father, who came on a later train, and we reproduce a part of it, as follows:

"The day that war was declared the scenes in Switzerland were those of panic. The people were wildly excited and everywhere were crowds, mostly clamoring for their money at the banks. The banks were only opened a few hours each day and the stringency in money matters made things look dark. I was fortunate to have several hundred francs in gold and managed to keep these pretty well and whenever I could to add more gold which was good anywhere.

"After the promise of help from the United States, money was easy, yet at no time were we in need. Our hotel man volunteered credit and even offered loans. But the first days of the war were alarming. I didn't know what to do, and no one could give advice for nobody knew what the end would be or what might happen. I consider that we were very fortunate, for Switzerland was the very best place we could be in.

"In Berne we witnessed sights never to be forgotten. The mobilization of the Swiss army to the number of 300,000 was grand. I saw from five to ten thousand soldiers raise their hands as one man and take the oath of allegiance, and there was scarcely a dry eye in the crowds that looked on. I talked with officers in the hotels and found that the Swiss have a remarkable army organization. The country is only one-sixth the size of Nebraska, yet supports three times our population. Her army was mobilized in a few days. Every one had his uniform and gun in his home. Telegrams were sent for the men to be at a certain place at a certain time. They donned their uniforms shouldered their gun, and started. The mobilization of the army is costly to Switzerland. The factories are idle and the harvest left to the women, children and old men.

"I was told that the Swiss have every mountain pass and road mined with terrible explosives and that a hostile army could not pass her border's without being blown to atoms. The mountains are dotted with cannons that sweep every avenue of entrance and little Switzerland was prepared for any event.

"The people are about one-third French and these sympathize with their mother country, while the German population are with the fatherland. All classes deplore what happened to Belgium and think she would have been better off to have allowed the German army free passage.

"I went for one day to Basel near the French frontier and could hear the cannon booming during the battle of Mulhausen in Alsace. This city has been the scene of fierce fighting in three scenes of battles. I saw in Basel thousands of wounded Germans being cared for by the Red Cross. It was awful. It was thought there that the Germans have lost over 300,000 men. I didn't care to stay but had I been alone might have taken some risks to get a closer view of this greatest of all wars to which I was so near.

"On the whole we enjoyed the trip. Switzerland is a great country. We had a fine trip over, but on the return I was sick for a week and lost 15 pounds in weight. The experiences and sights incident to the war we will never forget. That we are again on American soil is a pleasure."

Our Share of War Costs

In our thankfulness that we are not involved in the great struggle which is going on in Europe we must not degenerate into a smug complacency. The fact is that we are helping to pay for this conflict and that every day it continues the whole world is the more impoverished. Judge Elbert Gary, of the United States Steel corporation, recognized as one of the ablest and most sagacious of our great business men returned to this country from Paris about the first of September. He graphically states the woe and desolation that this war is causing and will cause when he says: "Statistics have been published showing the actual expenditures of the war amount to forty million dollars daily, and this is perhaps conservative. And the unfavorable effects upon the economic conditions of other nations, which will be realized sooner or later, is of great magnitude. The destruction of property aggregating billions of dollars in value will be felt through the entire world. Add to this the consequences of the awful destruction of human life, and it is understood how much we as Americans are interested in a speedy termination of the war."

Vote On Campus Question

The necessity of bringing out a full vote on the question of the location of the state university campus is well stated in a letter to the press just issued by Chancellor Avery. While it does not take sides, it urges that every voter record his preference on the question of campus consolidation or campus extension. In order that the matter may be settled by the voters it is estimated that 88,000 votes must be cast on one side or the other to fulfill the constitutional requirements. Chancellor Avery's letter is as follows:

The United States is threatened with a famine of coal, tar chemicals, drugs and other products indispensable to our health and to our industry. The reason is that the Germans, who have previously supplied our markets, are now engaged in war and can neither make nor ship these goods, and besides, this means much of the raw material used by the German chemical manufacturers comes from England and is not now obtainable.

The industry in Germany is a direct result of the encouragement of chemical study in the universities of the empire. Organic chemistry has become almost a German science. The great leaders in the manufacture of artificial dyes, aniline dyes and similar articles were university professors and graduate students.

Can we make these products in New York, Chicago, Omaha or Denver? Only in a limited way at present. We haven't the trained men. Can we get the trained men? Yes, by developing chemical studies in the United States. We must do this if we are to be economically independent. We have the raw material and the potential ability.

The first great step to build up this industry in America must be done by chemical teaching on the proper basis. Is Nebraska prepared to do this? No, we have a little chemical laboratory costing originally $25,000. Minnesota is building a new building costing $400,000. I recently visited Ames, Ia., and found that they were building a new chemical laboratory, which covers, they say, including the basement, a total of five acres of floor space. I do not know the exact cost, but estimate it at ten times the amount that we originally invested in our laboratory. Illinois is doubling its plant. The schools that I have mentioned are not yet so very much better equipped than we are, but if we do not build a new building soon, I cannot conscientiously advise young people to do advanced work in chemistry here when dozens of splendid new laboratories in neighboring states are placed at their disposal.

How can we get the new building that will do its part in developing the chemical industry of the country and save sending millions of dollars to Germany every year? You have it in your power. Vote to settle the location question. A part of the money released can be expended in providing adequate chemical facilities for our students. The money is now locked up and is idle. If a sufficient number of votes are cast, either for extension or consolidation, the question will be settled and the university can go on making progress.

The university does not need a chemical laboratory any worse than it needs a great many other things, but the war in Europe emphasizes at the present moment this particular need.

Voters of Nebraska! Study the location problem and be prepared to vote so as to release the money now tied up pending the settlement of the question.

Mr. Bryan Speaks For Himself

Under the heading "Nebraska Strong Ticket" Mr. Bryan's paper, "The Commoner," says in its September issue:

"The Nebraska democracy selected from its many candidates at the recent primaries a strong state and congressional ticket. The state ticket is composed of men who are well known throughout the state and their records they have made as public servants, and their well-known qualification for the positions to which they aspire, should insure their election in November. Congressmen Maguire, Lobeck and Stephens have been renominated in their respective districts. Rhodes, Shallenberger and Taylor, nominated in the other three districts, give to Nebraska a democratic congressional ticket that ought to appeal to all democratic and all independent progressive voters. If the splendid record of achievement made by the national administration meets the approval of the people of Nebraska, they should support the men at the polls who not only helped make that record, but who are needed to maintain the advanced position taken by President Wilson."

Seed Corn Pointers

When corn reaches the glazed, dented, or stiff dough stage, it may be safely picked. Seed corn selection week this year begins September 28.

Choose mature ears from plants in the field that have grown under average rather than favored conditions, even tho the ears may not be large.

Select ears growing at a convenient height on upright stalks that are sturdy and of moderate size. Spindling shape, excessive size and leafiness do not associate well with drought resistance.

Upright ears are much less protected from rain, frost, and mold, and consequently are liable to have low germinating powers.

As soon as the seed is picked it must be stored away immediately in as dry and airy a place as possible. The attic of a kitchen or granary or above the driveway in a double corner, the University farmers have found, is better than a haymow.

Seed if left in a pile may mould in a few hours. One device for separating the ears is the corn post, or corn tree. This consists of a post erected on a standard, with finishing nails (preferably with the heads off) driven in the sides. This may hold enough to plant 10 to 25 acres of ground. The see-saw method with the use of twine is also efficient.

The Amendments

All three of the constitutional amendments submitted to the voters by the last legislature were endorsed by the major parties at the recent primaries. This means that straight party votes will be counted for them at the general election this fall. Their adoption is, therefore, assured. One of these amendments provides for increases in salaries of state officers, another provides for a verdict by five-sixths of a jury in civil cases; and the third, which is the most important of the trio, unties the hands of the legislature so that it may reform our system of taxation. The present constitution requires that all property be assessed alike for taxation, a plow the same as a farm. The amendment will permit classification of property, will permit exemptions to be made, or will permit the adoption of an income tax. Taxation reform will begin in Nebraska with the adoption of this amendment. The direction that reform will take is squarely up to the people themselves. It is time to do some hard thinking on the taxation question. —Nebraska Farmer.
