Ellison-Swanson

Tuesday evening, September 29th, at the bride's home occurred the marriage of Miss Mary Swanson of Wayne to Mr. John Ellison of the Concord community. The rooms were beautifully decorated with ferns, smilax, white roses and carnations while carrying out the color scheme of blue and white. Promptly at 6 o'clock, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Oliver Ellison, brother of the groom, the bridal party took their places before a bank of ferns where they were pronounced husband and wife by Rev. Blessing of the Lutheran church. The impressive ring ceremony was used. The bride wore a gown of white silk messaline with shadow lace and pearl trimmings, an embroidered silk tulle veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Cora Ellison, sister of the groom, who wore a cream lace dress over blue silk. The groom was attended by Mr. Julius E. Swanson, brother of the bride. Both groom and attendant wore the conventional black. After the ceremony Miss Selma Johnson assisted by the Misses Hulda Johnson, Minnie Lundahl, Hanna Dekker and Meta Kirchner, served a bountiful four course dinner. The bride and groom will be at home to their many friends after October 10 on the groom's farm, 9 1/2 miles northeast of Wayne, where he has grown to manhood and is very highly esteemed as a man of sterling qualities. The bride has lived in Wayne but two years prior to which time she has also resided in the neighborhood to which she goes as a bride. She leaves many friends in Wayne who join their best wishes to those of her host of friends in the community of which she goes.

The out of town guests were: Miss Selma Johnson, Newman's Grove, Nebraska; Mrs. Elvin Youngberg, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Mr. Lewis Beckley, Laurel, Neb.; Mr. Ed. Carlson, Kandoyhi, Minn.; Julius E. Swanson, Wakefield.

Donahy-Clark

At Morningside, Iowa, today occurs the marriage of Dr. R. N. Donahy and Miss Hattie Clark, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Grace C. Clark, in the presence of a few relatives and friends. The groom has been a citizen of Wayne for two years and has won many friends as well as a life companion. He stands well in business and social circles, and is a successful optician. The bride has made this place her home for several years past and is a most worthy and accomplished young lady to whom congratulations will come from a host of friends.

They will be at home at Wayne after the 15th of this month.

Among those from Wayne who are at Morningside today to attend the wedding are her brother, Ralph Clark and sons, A. B. Clark and daughter, uncle and cousin, and Dr. Mabel Cleveland.

The Democrat congratulates.

Bartels-Sitton

At Omaha, Nebraska, September 30th, 1914 at 4:30 p. m. occurred the marriage of Florence E. Bartels to Mr. C. Cyrus Sitton, at the St. Paul's Lutheran church. Rev. E. T. Otto officiating. The bride wore a blue traveling suit with hat to match, the groom the conventional black.

The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bartels of Carroll and has for five years been a teacher in the public schools of Nebraska. She is an estimable young lady possessing many desirable accomplishments. The groom is engaged in the Smith-Havelson Lumber yard at Carroll and is a popular young man. Their host of friends will unite in extending congratulations and best wishes. They will be at home to their many friends after October 15th at Carroll, Nebraska.

Our Subscription Offer

Made to the readers of this paper last week, is bearing good fruit, and the interest shown from the time the announcement was given indicates that this will be the greatest campaign for new and renewal subscriptions ever made by this paper. We are not planning to say a whole lot about it, in the paper, but will keep before you while the campaign lasts the fact that those who promptly remit in person or by mail make a very substantial saving.

Briefly stated the plan is to make a direct from publisher to subscriber offer, for a short time, and make it to the advantage of every person in the county who wants a local paper to accept the offer. We are making a special opportunity for you to secure the Nebraska Democrat from now until January, 1916, fifteen months, for one dollar. Like all subscription offers made by the Democrat, the old and new subscribers fare alike. They all look alike to us. Do not delay until the opportunity is gone. The earlier you subscribe the more you get for the dollar.

At the City Power House

These are busy days at the city power and pump house, and the work of getting ready for the new pump is progressing nicely. One of the big jobs in connection with the change was moving and resetting the old pump to make room for the new one in the pit where it is to be placed. To do this the pump had to be disconnected from both the main and the wells, moved and hitched on again. When all was ready, the tank was filled with water and the work started. It was a 24-hour job without stop for feed or water. A few people below the power house were without city water Sunday, and by a mistake a portion of the west part of town was dry for an hour. There was no water for street sprinkling until noon Monday.

The foundation for the new pump is being made, and the entire city administration is anxiously waiting its arrival.

The new hydrants are here and the new main pipe is expected soon, when the work of installing will begin. Every year Wayne is growing and expanding, and the city is trying to do its part in providing water and sewerage to the outlying districts.

A New Factory For Wayne

People interested in the rebuilding of Wayne will be glad to know that inquiries and correspondence that bid fair to lead to the rebuilding of industry at Wayne are coming daily. Publicity is the cause of this correspondence, and it comes from an advertisement here last July in the street parade. In the comic section of the parade was an awkward, illshaped animal commonly known as a giraffe. A photographer secured a good snap shot of the animal, the picture found its way into several of the leading magazines of the east which devote time and attention to clothing and advertising the same, and it is becoming quite common for F. S. Morgan to receive letters of enquiry and even orders for duplicates of the "bird," and he may have to employ help to care for this new business. The field is large and he has the only pattern.

Dr. Corkey Returns to Wayne

Owing to serious illness in his family, which will prevent him from moving to Bellevue, Dr. Corkey returned to Wayne on Wednesday of this week, and expects to resign his position in Bellevue College. The family had expected to move to Bellevue some weeks ago, but before the packing of the household goods was completed sickness of a serious nature compelled them to postpone the removal, and finally called Dr. Corkey home from Bellevue where he had already entered upon his duties as a professor. He will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and evening and expects to continue his pastorate in this city.

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr's Talk

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr of New York, gave a very interesting and enlightening talk at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

Mrs. Dorr is spending the month of September in Nebraska in the interest of equal suffrage. She has had a wide experience as social worker, newspaper reporter, magazine writer and author.

Mrs. Dorr's subject for Sunday evening was Child Welfare and it was fairly kaleidoscopic in its different phases of interesting personal experience. Her study of delinquent children and conditions existing among working women of the industrial classes makes her statement come with the ring of authority.

While her talk on the whole was not to be interpreted as a political address, the last ten minutes of her time were devoted to giving important reason why the voters of Nebraska should, on November 3d, extend the right of the ballot to women of Nebraska.

A New Work For Children

The Juvenile Music Club conducted by Mrs. J. T. House will have its first meeting Saturday, October 3rd. Officers will be elected and a general outline of the years work arranged. Piano and violin pupils under the age of fifteen years are eligible. All pupils who are interested in the cultivation of god music through a music club are invited to attend the first meeting Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. House. Several young people in Mrs. House's class are already on the membership list, and Miss Brainard, the violin teacher, has enlisted the interest of a number of her pupils.

Pumpkin Pie Social

The ladies of the Wilbur Union Sunday school will give a pumpkin pie social next Wednesday evening, October 7th, commencing at 8 o'clock at the Harry Lessman home two and one-half miles north of Wayne. Supper 15c. Everybody invited.

Social Notes

The Minerva club had its first meeting of the year with Mrs. Fred Berry, with Mrs. Bright as leader. The new book for the year's study is "Social Psychology" by Prof. Ross. Mrs. Bright asked Dr. House to assist the club in defining the field of Social Psychology and in interpreting the points of view from which Prof. Ross discusses the subject. At the conclusion of the program delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and club committee. Mrs. Myers was presented with a souvenir spoon in view of the fact that she is soon to leave Wayne.

A very profitable meeting was held by the Bible Circle at the pleasant home of Mrs. C. E. Sprague Tuesday afternoon. The bible lesson in Mark 14 was led by Mrs. C. Clasen. An interesting letter was read from Rev. W. A. Main of China, who soon expects to visit Wayne.

Mrs. Coleman was welcomed back to the circle after an absence of some time. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Beckenhauer.

The young people of the Evangelical Lutheran church were responsible for a happy surprise shower for Miss Mary Swanson last Thursday evening, in which they were joined by other friends. They came in a body to her home near the high school building, bringing bountiful refreshments, and many beautiful presents—a silver shower, as well as the best of wishes for future happiness.

A group of W. C. T. U. ladies called on Rev. Myers and wife at the home of Dr. E. S. Blair last Saturday evening. They carried with them tokens of esteem for her whose leaving is so deeply regretted by members of the union by whom she will long be remembered as a strong and beautiful christian character with whom it was a pleasure to associate.

The Rural Home society met with Mrs. Anderson Bressler south of town Thursday, September 24. A literary program was rendered by Mrs. W. A. K. Neely and Mrs. Perry. Plans were laid for a contribution to be made to the Christmas ship which will be sent to war ravaged Europe. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Clarence Corbit.

The Monday club meets with Mrs. A. A. Welsh next Monday and will adhere to the following program:

Roll call—What I learned during vacation.
Surrendering the gavel—Mrs. C. A. Chase.
Music—Mrs. E. Johnson.
A social hour by club.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday with Mrs. Kiplinger. Response to roll call will be "The song or story my child liked best." The program will be in charge of Mrs. Crossland, superintendent of Mother's Meetings.

The P. E. O. open their year's work next Monday with an 8:30 breakfast at the home of Mrs. James Miller, the hostesses being Mesdames Miller, Morris and Heckert.

Wayne Bunch Scooped at Carroll

Tuesday our "horse-shoe gang," who have established a great reputation here at home as good pitchers, loaded themselves into the automobiles of some of the candidates for office who no doubt hope to get the solid vote of the entire bunch, and went to Carroll to try for a championship with the pitchers from that place. Among the crowd our detective noticed the following characters: Henry Kellogg, J. W. Morgan, O. C. Lewis, Cole Koser, L. A. Kiplinger, June Conger, C. H. Hendrickson, S. E. Auker, Ed. Sellers, Geo. T. Porter, Ellis Gerton and W. C. Martin. The score is not available for publication, except that Mr. Sellers says that but for himself and Mr. Morgan the Carroll bunch would not have known that Wayne (Sellers is out of town—don't for him) and that they saved the reputation of Wayne as much as was possible, winning 10 out of 15 games, which implies that the rest of the gang must have lost more than 10 out of 15, else Wayne would not have been so quiet about the game.

Council Proceedings

At the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening there was little real business transacted beyond allowing the bills listed below. A poll list of about 275 was certified to the county clerk. Prof. Hahn petitioned for a light on the corner near his place, and President Conn asked that College street be lighted from the college south to where the lights now are in, and the matter was referred to the proper committee.

$11,225 For a Foot

At Norfolk last week the jury awarded the above sum to Herman Bottger of Emerson, damages for the loss of his foot, which was cut off by a train of the M. & O. railroad. The plaintiff was a mere lad, and the accident happened early in the year 1913. The little fellow's foot was caught in between a plank and the rail, at a crossing, and he was thus held fast while the train passed. The jury was out but a short time, and the time was spent mostly in agreeing as to the amount that should be awarded.

The Governor at Wayne

A crowd of interested voters gathered Wednesday morning to hear Governor Morehead speak here on the political issues in this state. He made a clean straight talk, standing squarely on his record, which from all we can learn is the best made by a governor of this state in many years. It is a business administration, and any who may not agree with him respect him for having the honesty and courage to openly advocate what he believes and stating candidly for what he stands and why, as well as what he opposes and the reason therefor. His talk covered too much ground to be fairly reviewed in this issue, and we would not want to fail to do it justice, so will not enlarge at this time. He expressed just indignation at the attacks unjustly made upon him, and courted investigation of his every act both in public and private life. The more we see and hear Governor Morehead the larger he looks as a man of the required ability to successfully conduct the business of a great state. The people of Nebraska are not going to "trade horses in the middle of the stream" if they realize what is best for them.

Chiropractor Loses Case

Lincoln, Sept. 2.—The judgment of the district court of Thayer county was affirmed in the supreme court Saturday in part and dissented to in one count in a case involving the rights of Earl E. Harvey, a chiropractor to practice in this state. In the main the high courts hold against Harvey, the only one of the nine counts on which the case was brought being one in which it was not shown that he received pay for his services. The conviction on the other eight counts was for practicing medicine without a license. He was fined $50 on each count and appealed.

The Gun Club Meet

There was a gun club meet here Tuesday, attended by a number of clubs from different parts of northeastern Nebraska, and some excellent scores were made by both visitors and the home club. The attendance was not as large as on some previous occasions, for it is now the open game season and some of the good shots were out after the real birds instead of pegging away at clay pigeons. The secretary has not yet been able to report the score, which we hope to have for the readers next week.

I graduated from the law department of the University of the state of Nebraska in June 1906, have been actively engaged in the practice of law ever since. If elected to the office of County Attorney of Wayne County, I shall faithfully and conscientiously attend to the duties of the office, and so far as in my power give the taxpayers an economic and business like administration.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Newton of Carona, California, came Friday to visit old friends and relatives here, while returning from a visit in the east, where they have relatives. They are guests at the home of C. A. Berry and wife, the lady being a sister-in-law to Mr. Berry.

Richard Closson and his wife were here Saturday morning on their way to spend Sunday with relatives and friends at Sholes and vicinity. He went to Sanburn, Iowa, about 18 months ago, where he is now editing and managing the newspaper of that place, and reports business good.

Chan Norton returned the first of the week from Madelia, Minnesota, where he went to close the deal for a farm he purchased near that place. He is well pleased with his purchase, and brought home with him some sample ears of corn from that neighborhood which may be seen in the window at the State Bank.

Mrs. Walter Savidge came from O'Neill last week to visit at the home of her parents, F. M. Griffith and wife. She informs us that the carnival company has been having a good season, and they make a long jump to Fall City this week, and will continue to jump south until they get where there is carnival weather all winter.

A postmaster down in Arkansas had sent the editor of a farm paper half a dozen notices to stop his paper addressed to Hiram Dobkins, as he had long since moved away and his whereabouts were unknown. But the paper kept coming. Finally, in desperation, the postmaster sent the editor the following notice: "If you want Hiram D. to get your paper, you'll have to print it on asbestos!" The paper was stopped.—Ex.

T. J. Plumb of Malvern, Iowa, was here over Sunday, coming with his family to finish the transfer of the Plumb farm six miles northwest of Wayne to C. E. Sprague, who purchased the place from the heirs of the Plumb estate, through the agency of Hanssen Bros. J. L. Kelley has been on the place, being one of the joint owners, and he will be looking for a new home in the spring. Mrs. Plumb is here yet visiting at the Kelley home.

The Declaration of Independence was the greatest document ever formulated for the public welfare. It was signed by John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress and fifty-six members of that body representing the thirteen original states of the union. The next greatest thing since then is the car of Montgomery's apples now at the depot but they need no public document to proclaim their virtues and their freedom from impurity.—adv.

C. E. Jones of Carroll was a Wayne visitor Saturday, or to speak more truthfully, he was looking after some property he has in this good town of Wayne—fixing it for occupants. Those who know him well say that he is a good landlord. He likes to get his rent when due, which is natural, but that he puts a part of it back to keep the place in shape. He also has a few properties at Carroll, and works at carpenter work to keep the blues away, and for exercise, and thus keeps his digestion good and he is happy. It is a great thing to be happy.

Mrs. J. Primrose and two daughters, Mary and Elnora, came last week from Eugene, Oregon, for a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McClure, and with friends of her girlhood days.

They're off in a bunch in the great race for Montgomery's apple car now at the depot. And the winner will carry off the best prize ever offered in the shape of some of the finest apples to be had in this part of the county.—adv.

C. T. Duncan of Delpoehs, Iowa, who for a number of years made his home here, stopped Saturday to visit old friends a few days, while returning from Oakdale, near which place he has a farm he had been looking after. He thinks Wayne a good country yet.

Mrs. Chas. Sabs from Oak Lawn, a suburb of Chicago, left for home Saturday morning following a visit of two weeks here at the home of her brother-in-law and sister, John Sabs and wife. It was fourteen years since she had last visited Wayne before, and naturally she noted numerous changes in that time. Mr. and Mrs. Sabs went as far as Sioux City with her Saturday, and all attended the fair.

When war was declared in Europe the people of America had the good sense to remain neutral. They wisely came to the conclusion to fight their battles down by the railroad tracks with Montgomery's car of prize apples as the spoils of war.—adv.

Mrs. F. J. Page and baby from Flagler, Colorado, left Monday morning, following a visit at the home of her brother-in-law, E. M. Laughlin and wife. Mr. Page formerly made his home here with Laughlins, but has lived in Colorado since marriage.

S. N. Houghton went to Stanton Tuesday for the double purpose of fishing in the Elkhorn and stopping to visit his old friend Otto Piller, who has just arrived at that place on his way from Germany, where he was when the present unpleasantness broke out. Mr. Piller lives at Portland, but formerly lived in this state, and has a son now at Stanton whom he is stopping to visit.

Fred Wright came Sunday morning from Spokane to visit his mother for a time. He reports that times are quiet there—in fact they are quiet in most any place tributary to the coast on either side of the continent, the European war so checking business with other nations that it is felt not only in the seaport towns but in all of the tributary country. It takes away their markets and throwing men out of work connected with the shipping business leaves a surplus of both men and produce in the interior. The fruit growers of all of that country feel this keenly.

Wm. Pehrs, who lives southeast of this place about ten or twelve miles, was a Wayne visitor Saturday, himself and wife coming here on their initial trip in a new Buick car of the latest model, and we shall expect to see himself and wife in Wayne much more frequently from this on, for their home was a long drive for a team that was used only to farm work, and they did not often take the time and horse power necessary to come so far. But now that 30 to 40 minutes will set them down at this place it is but natural that they will come often to the largest and best town to which they can conveniently drive.

Dick Hanson and wife are home from a visit with relatives in Iowa, where they went about six weeks ago. Many of his friends, missing him, thought possible he had gone back to his native Germany to again help conquer France as he did in 1870. But instead of that he went to Manning, Iowa, while away, and there attended a reunion of the old soldiers of the France-Prussian war. The men who stood shoulder to shoulder in that bloody campaign and live to tell of it, realize as few of us do the great struggle now going on in northeastern France. They were at Correctionville, Portsmouth, Cushing and other places in Iowa.

Rev. C. L. Meyer and family have left for their new home at Red Cloud. Mary and Herbert left Saturday to visit at Geneva until the goods arrive at their destination. Mrs. Meyer and Russell left Tuesday and will visit her old home at University Place while the goods travel. Rev. Meyer remained until the car was ready to start before taking his departure. Many friends regret their change to a new location, but the Methodist minister like the militant soldier must obey orders and make the best of it whether or not it pleases his friends. Miss Lincoln, who came from Geneva to make a home with them and attend college here returned to her home Saturday.

Zeph Morgan and family, who have been residents of this county for the past four or five years have moved to a farm which they recently purchased near Red Oak, Iowa. Mr. Morgan bought and farmed a place seven miles south west of Wayne, which he sold last spring, and after deciding to leave this county, which was a hard thing to do, he elected to locate in the county he was born and raised in, though land there is higher than here. He purchased an unimproved farm northwest of Red Oak, and has been having a house and set of buildings erected thereon. The house being finished he has moved to be there to look after the other improvement work which is rapidly going forward. A force of carpenters from here under C. Clasen are there now at work on out buildings. Their goods and horses went forward by freight Monday, in care of Albert Donner, and Mr. Morgan and family left that morning by automobile for their Iowa home. During their stay in this county they made many friends who regret their departure, but wish them well in their old home county. The Democrat will follow them to their Iowa home, and may be able to induce them to some day return to this county by keeping constantly before them the many advantages to be had here.

"Safety Always" ESPECIALLY WITH MEDICINE

Where health is concerned, "Safety always" should be uppermost. It is best to take extra precaution that no unforeseen fatality may result. Medicine is taken for its curative power in bringing about recovery from illness, but unless it is compounded absolutely right in every respect it cannot accomplish all it should. Even if it is not right in the smallest way, medicine is no medicine at all and there is danger of it doing more harm than good. That's why "safety always" in having medicines made is most important. You are safe when you have them compounded at our store. Prescriptions brought here are filled carefully and accurately, with the best materials, equipment, and experience. Let us fill your next prescription for safety sake.

The Better Rural Life
(Yoeman Shield)

A farmer and his wife in Pennsylvania carried water up a steep bank from a spring until a family of nine children had grown to manhood and womanhood—forty years—and had all left the home except the "baby." This youngest son did a little digging one day, laid $18 worth of one inch pipe between this spring and the house, set a small pitcher pump on the sink at the upper end of the pipe, and his wife with a few strokes of the pump handle had a bucketful of pure, soft, cool spring water right by the side of her kitchen stove.

A farmer went to bed six miles from town, knowing that if any member of his family was taken sick in the night he must hitch up and drive that six miles—whatever the weather—to call a doctor. He got a vision and by the time he slept again he could step to his telephone across the bedroom and call the doctor in two minutes.

The bathing in this home had been a task for three generations. In the summer the boys took to the river for this healthful exercise—the fun of the plumb being the chief incentive. In the winter the bathing of these lads depended upon the mother's tact, perseverance and sense of cleanliness. By accident one of the boys spend Christmas with a city cousin. While on that visit he had the privilege of taking a wash in a bath tub in a well heated bathroom. It was a novel experience—a real joy and a satisfaction. He caught—not a bad cold—but the bath fever, and didn't get over it until there was a bathing plant in his father's house. A little planning, a little labor, and the price of the pet pig did the business when that lad caught the vision—or rather caught the bath fever.

A young woman, city bred, with a fine sense of the beautiful, found her way to a rural community to teach a district school. She was an attractive schoolmarm and was wooed and won by a young farmer.

The new home was made in the country. The good taste of this young farmer's wife soon began to show itself about the home. First, in the planning of the house, then in the selection of the furniture, afterwards in the planting of the trees and shrubs about the doorway, and in the roadside. It became a very beautiful home, yet it was simple, inexpensive, and so restful and home-like. An appropriate name was chosen for this home and painted on the barn. In fact, this farm home was so unusually attractive for that neighborhood that it commanded the attention of every passerby. People would exclaim in passing the road, "How beautiful!" "How perfectly lovely!" It became the talk of the whole country side. Home beautifying became a contagion there, and it was good to see so much unsightliness and ugliness disappear. All this came about in a very short time—quite suddenly, indeed.

A certain farmer received from a friend a magazine which described a successful consolidated rural school. There were pictures given of the splendid building, the model class rooms, the modern equipment, and the children riding to school in the wagonettes. That article set the farmer to thinking. He said to himself, "Why can't we have such a school in our township?" He talked the matter over with his wife—a sensible thing to do in all important things. They two considered it with a neighbor and his wife. They four held a conference with two other neighbors and their wives! When a few people get their heads together in a good purpose in good earnest something is going to happen. It takes only a few. They said "Something must be done." They set to work and their vision of a splendid consolidated school in their community was soon realized. It came suddenly.

A certain minister came to a country church that was in great straits. And it is said to say, there are many such churches. This church was not growing. It had been on the down grade for some time. But this minister had a vision of a progressive church. He set to work in earnest, with his people, to realize that vision. It came to pass in a short time.

In all these instances the thing lacking was vision—the vision of a better country home, a better country school, a better country church. "Where there is no vision the people perish."

Thousands and thousands of farmers could install into their homes today many of the modern comforts and conveniences which our civilization affords if they only realized that they could do it and knew how to do it.

There are thousands of rural communities that could have consolidated schools today—thoroughly equipped and taught by able teachers that think it worth while to devote their lives to country uplift, if the country people knew their possibilities.

There are thousands of country communities today with practically useless churches that could have real, live progressive churches, if they had the right conception of what the rural church of the present should be.

There is no good reason why the country people should not have the best of everything our civilization affords. The farmer as a class is too willing to do with what he has always had, or with what his father had or his grandfather. Especially is this true when it comes to improving his home and adorning himself and his family with the finer graces of character which come through education and culture.

Education in civil government has been so neglected in the country schools that the city people have been allowed to run away with almost all public officers. Three out of every five people in the United States live in the country, yet the country districts have a very small representation in our legislative halls or in other public offices.

What kind of music do the country people have to listen to? Mostly uncultivated, untrained. What about their recreations and entertainments? For the most part they go out of the community for them or do without. Is the farmer ever to be running away from his own home and community to get his recreation and entertainment? Is he ever to be sending his children away from his home and neighborhood to get the education that is needed for wholesome country life?

They don't get away from home. Those who do go to college are educated for something else than the country, for few of them ever come back to the country to live.

Is it not about time that you, Mr. Farmer, do something at home along the lines of the higher education?

Only a very few of the country people are able or have time to go to a private school or college or university for education.

The country schools should be improved and enlarged so as to bring an adequate education within reach of the mass—the average farmer. The nearer the institutions of learning can be brought to the rural people the better. The country people must get rid of a lot of this nonsense about education, in thinking that the higher education (so called) is for somebody else than they, before much progress can be made.

How can the farmer keep up with the procession without the learning our civilization affords when his friends, in the city, with whom he must constantly deal, have it.

The new country life will abound in everything that enriches and adorns human life anywhere. There will come to be as good schools, as efficient churches, as beautiful, comfortable, convenient homes, as fine music, good art galleries and libraries, as well educated and cultured people as are found anywhere in the world.

This is not saying that all these things do not already exist in the country. They do. But they will become a thousand times more common, and they will come fast—when our tillers of the soil once get the new vision—and discover that they can do it.

Good Stock Coming to Wayne

The Democrat is glad to note that the farmers in this vicinity are coming more and more to appreciate the value of good stock—the pure breed of some well known kind and seek for the best individuals. Saturday morning there came to Wayne four aristocratic hogs. Two Poland China boars came for H. J. Miner to head his herd of that breed. One of his purchases was a yearling boar, brother to a first prize winner in this class; the other a younger animal, the son of a sow which won first place at Sioux City in her class.

J. H. Conley received 2 fine young Chester Whites about six months of age. Others came in the evening.

A Business Administration

One act of the last legislature, says an exchange, means more to the people of the state at large than the one giving teeth to the anti-discrimination statutes. This measure corrected the defects of the sadly impotent law that existed previously to that session. It compels large firms of all kinds—firms that occupy commanding ground in the commercial world—to sell and buy on even bases. There must be an equality in dealing—transportation costs and legitimate costs considered—to people of every town and village in Nebraska. There can be no freezing out of weaker firms, no suppression of competition, and no killing of infant industries. Institutions that have been guilty, in the past, of extensive and irritating, and often times ruinous, discrimination must now deal fairly and squarely with all. There is no alternative for them—they must either behave or run afoul of his grippingly effective law.

This law was one which Governor Morehead saw was badly needed, if trade conditions were to be bettered and the people of the entire state benefited. He urged its introduction. He bespoke of his party mates—and of all the legislators—its earnest consideration and speedy passage. His business training, sharpened by years of contact with actual conditions in Nebraska, detected the cause of the trouble and he was alert in his efforts to mend it. His business judgment suggested a remedy that would not alone cure, but which would actually exterminate the evil altogether.

Over the state hundreds of monuments might be erected where business failures have been caused by unfair trade methods of competitors. Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been virtually confiscated of the property of men who would have succeeded had they been given a fair deal. The fact that no law intervened between them and their competitors to protect them, weighed them down in the balances of business life and death. And communities where these failures have occurred have suffered indirectly to the extent of many thousands of dollars, in addition. Thus a statute preventing such wrongs not only saves the possible victims but makes it impossible for there to be "victims of victims."

The new law is a distinct blessing to farmers and to small town business men. And being a blessing to those two classes it reaches nearly every other class of people in the state. It wipes out the things that retard town and country growth. It stimulates and invigorates every trade condition. It provides golden guarantee of protection for every business man, great and small. It gives all a right to live and makes every one a contributing factor to the advancement and upbuilding of the state.

This manifestly forward step in legislation is just one of the tangible accomplishments of Governor Morehead's administration. It is the response of business men to the treatment of a business man. It marks the wisdom of a people who wanted a business administration of the state government, and who elevated to its head one who was primarily and genuinely a business man.

Swine Disease Worse Than Ever

Fremont Tribune: J. G. Widhelm, of this vicinity, an expert who keeps in close touch with diseases of swine, made an interesting statement today with respect to the widespread nature and virulence of the plague just now.

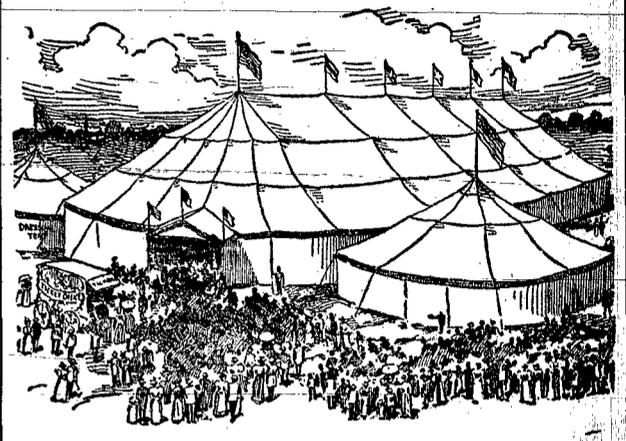

"There has never been a time," said Mr. Widhelm, "when swine plague was as bad in Nebraska as it is now. I think I am safe in saying that in Saunders county for instance one-half of this year's crop of hogs is now dead. And the disease is of such a different character that it does not respond to treatment that has heretofore proven effective. Where the greatest care has been given herds almost complete losses have been had. Medical treatment, vaccination and immunizing in every way have proved futile. It looks very much as if we had a new thing to cope with, even before we have learned how to effectually treat what has heretofore been familiar to us. From my knowledge of the situation I know that this condition prevails all over the state, and that hog growers in Iowa are having the same sad experience we are having here in Nebraska."

This war must stop. Teddy can only get three inches at the bottom of a column for a day of fierce talking in a state campaign. That should never be.

It is possible that some of the republicans of this and other counties will remember on election day that two years ago their candidate for president came very near being denied a place on the ballot at the instigation of the same R. B. Howell who is now asking them to place him in the governor's chair. He carried his case to the supreme court, so confident did he appear that the republican candidates had no right to a place on the official ballot. In fact he then evidently wanted to wipe the republican party from the slate. Perhaps his nomination, due mostly to his being egged and arrested at the psychological moment, has resurrected the party in his good graces and given it a place on the ballot.

The bankers have in times past rightfully urged the people not to hoard their money, as it tended to make times close. Now the secretary of the treasury is quite within his rights in applying that same rule to the bankers, and forbid them from needlessly hiding the money of the people for a higher rate of interest or to create a depression in crop prices just at a time when many who produce crops must dispose of the product of their year's work. If the coming legislature will enact a law for system of state owned and operated elevators, it would be a great help in breaking certain interests from profiting by forcing prices down just after harvest until they have bought up a large part of the crop, for then the man who did not have storage could use the public warehouse. Some who think that would be a great expense to the state forget that there are in many places elevators already for use that the state could doubtless buy or lease at a price which would make the investment a paying one. It should be given a serious consideration.

Miss Edith Stocking after an exciting experience among the warring nations of Europe arrived in Wayne Wednesday and has resumed her work in the primary department of the training school. President Conn and Registrar Redmond are today in attendance on the meeting of the Board of Education at Lincoln. Plans for a temporary gymnasium drawn by Professor Hupstner will be presented to the Board in the hope that the building will be available by December 1.

The football team will go to Yankton tomorrow to meet the team of Yankton College in a game on Saturday. This is the first game in the history of the state normal which has been played in Dakota. The Yankton team ranks high in this sport, and the fact that they have given the Normal a game is recognition of its class.

The Philomathean literary society held its first meeting last Friday evening. After a short program the following officers were chosen: President, Don Mayfield, Stanton; vice president, Grace Hedglin, Hartington; secretary, Nell Flaherty, Dixon; treasurer, E. R. Rogers, Inman; reporter to the Goldenrod, Mary Monahan, Sioux; critic, Miss Killen and advisers, Dr. House, Mr. Redmond, Misses Piper, Fairchild and Luers.

On Wednesday morning of last week the chapel exercises were conducted by the young men of the Y. M. C. A. Ray Hickman presided, Clarence Linton conducted the devotional exercises and Arthur Hughes, Glen Chenoweth and Paul Becker made a short address. The tone of the meeting was that the Y. M. C. A. is not a mere ascetic organization but rather is interested in all the activities of the institution with a spirit of helpfulness for all manly endeavor. The Y. M. C. A. Glee Club sang.

The lady members of the faculty, Misses Kingsbury, Killen, Piper, Jewell, Hancock, Fairchild, Stocking, Beechel, Luers, Anthony, Woosley and Mrs. Bright entertained all the young women of the school on the afternoon of September 24 at a Kensington in the library. Miss Beechel gave a talk, and tea and wafers were served. This gathering is to be followed by others of a like nature, it being the purpose of the women of the faculty to come into the closest and most helpful relation possible with the young women who are entrusted to their care by the parents of the state.

The members of the board of control have been elected and their tasks assigned as follows: Goldenrod committee, W. D. Redmond, H. H. Hickman, Eugenia Madson, Viola Donelson. Entertainment committee, J. J. Coleman, Lillian Jewell, Lena Andrew, Frank Roe. Athletics, C. U. Keckley, J. M. Wiley, Paul Becker, Glen Chenoweth. Eugenia Madsen has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Goldenrod and Don Mayfield, business manager. Tuesday morning the chapel hour was turned into a rally for the student activities of the institution. Paul Becker, president of the board of control, presented to the students the proposition of increasing the price of the season ticket from $1.50 to $2.00 and made a rousing speech in behalf of the program of the year. Pledges were then sought at the advance price. It is the determination of the board of control to furnish the best paper, the highest class of entertainment and the strongest athletic events that have ever been enjoyed in the local community.

What Milk Is Worth

When you buy a quart of milk, did you ever stop to think what it is worth? As a matter of fact, it is worth as much as 44 cents worth of dried beef, 35 cents worth of oranges, or 23 cents worth of beef, and it is equal in food value and cheaper than the following amounts of food at the given market value: Wienerwurst, 0.47 pounds; mutton, .77 pounds; Catfish, .76 pounds; dried beef, .89 pounds; beef chuck, .85 pounds; pork loin, .55 pounds; beef sirloin, .79 pounds; Eggs, 1.00 pounds; Oranges 4.11 pounds; potatoes, 2.25 pounds; tomatoes, 6.65 pounds.

On the other hand, milk costs more than rice, dates, cornmeal, cheese, prunes, and wheatbread. The above data prepared by the dairy state department are being shown in the county fair exhibit of the Nebraska College of Agriculture.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

School Notes

Prepared by Loretto Croghan, Senior

The first grade is studying "Hiawatha."

The sixth grade began the study of the leaf this week.

Blue prints of leaves are being made by the fifth grade.

Eleven pupils preferred not to take music, which has been made optional.

The eighth grade has been learning "How and Why" by Edmund Vance Cook.

The second grade reports two weeks of perfect attendance and punctuality.

Those absent this week on account of sickness are Jessie O'Connell, Byrle McClure, and Alfred Hanson.

Lucile Corkey and Pearl Madden have enrolled in the senior class; Arno Jones and Lyle Martin, in the freshman class.

The seventh grade has been studying the bones, and their composition. Various experiments have added interest to the work.

The beginning class in domestic science is working on carbohydrates; the advanced class is making pickles. Interest in this work is growing, and the students are working overtime.

This week's visitors were Miss Katherine Lewis, Mrs. V. Senter, Mrs. M. A. Senter, Franklin Philleo, Mrs. Wendel, Miss Piepenstock, Miss Goldie Chace, Mrs. H. Theobald and Mrs. A. R. Davis.

The program given Thursday by the Sophomores consisted of four numbers: Piano solo by Marsaline Lewis, reading from Riley by Louise Bowen, recitation by Byrdice Marstellar, vocal solo by Izetta Johnson.

Work in arts and crafts is progressing nicely. The tools have not arrived yet. Several who are taking the leather work are making their second design. The Lazy Squaw stitch is being used in the basketry work.

The staff selected for the high school paper is as follows: Loretto Croghan, editor-in-chief; LeRoy Owens, business manager; associate editors, Pearl Laase, Helen Main, Cecelia Meister, and Harry McIntosh, from the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes respectively.

Last week the daily work in the home was the topic of the morning talks in the kindergarten, leading up to this week's discussion of the special work now being done to prepare for winter. Both Brownies and Fairies will help in making something to fill fruit jars for future use.

The foot ball boys were defeated Friday by Wakefield, 41-0. Their line up has been strengthened this week by two new men, Lyle Martin and Arno Jones, and will give them a better show in the game they will play at Wakefield a week from Friday. There are prospects of a game at Neleigh Friday or Saturday.

Friday morning, the high school listened to an address by President Conn, of the Wayne State Normal. After expressing his appreciation of the pleasant relations existing between the State Normal and high school, he put before his auditors the advantages which the normal course offers to the student just out of high school. While commending the educational work done by the University for the junior and senior years, he regretted the inefficient work done by the tutors and teachers for the freshmen and sophomores. The University could not, he said, give to its younger students the personal consideration and the home-like environment offered by the Wayne State Normal.

John S. Lewis, jr., reports the sale to Wm. Morgan, one of the Wayne county fine stock men, of a roan Shorthorn bull at $250. The record name and number of the animal sold is Beauty's Goods, 395, 325; sire Britton Goods 339,757, (a son of the great imported Choice Goods 186,802) head of the Lewis Shorthorn herd, than which there are few if any better. The fact that Mr. Lewis refused $1,000 for Britton Goods when but a calf, shows that he has been seeking to produce the best, and breeders looking for good young bulls of high class at small price will do well to look at the Lewis herd, and you will doubtless do as did Mr. Morgan.

Dr. W. F. Lewis, who has been here visiting his brother, John S. Lewis, jr., left last week for Herick, South Dakota. Dr. Lewis was in Mexico, where he has interests, through all of the revolutionary times there recently, and says that in northern Mexico at least the citizens of this country were not molested more than was incidental to such a time in any country, where a rebellion was under way. He is planning to return there again, as we understand.

Local Items

Miss Goldie Chace left the first of the week for Washington, D. C., where she will be a student at Fairmont college for the coming school year.

When Dr. Vail was down in Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas he bought a car of apples that will be here tonight, for sale. He says they were the choicest he saw and are A No. 1.—adv.

Rev. and Mrs. Meyer were given a farewell reception at the church parlors last Friday evening, and given the best wishes of their many friends, and a silver offering of over $60. It will leave a pleasant remembrance of their year at Wayne.

A. G. Bohnert is now nicely at home in the restaurant, and things are moving nicely. Elsewhere he invites you to come and see. Familiar as he has long been with this line of work he soon fits into the new place as though he belonged there.

J. H. Vibber and wife are visiting at Neleigh this week, and next week, we are told they plan to leave for a visit in California, where they will look around to see if it is better country than Nebraska, and then perhaps come back contented to remain in this state. In fact, they are simply going for a visit.

It was not a house, threshing outfit or barn that was seen from town, burning on the R. Lauman place three miles east of this place. It was a monster brush pile trimmed last spring, and when the threshing was finished while there was plenty to see the big bonfire, wind and weather being right, the pile was fired. It showed plainly from town.

Saturday evening Chas. W. Reynolds, county clerk, was taken with what is said to be an attack of appendicitis. He has been confined at home since, and reports this morning are to the effect that the attack is passing away, and that he will be able to be about again in a few days. This is his first serious attack, if not his first, and all hope that he will not indulge in another one.

The new factory for the Radio-Round incubator and brooder is fast approaching a stage of completion which will admit of the resumption of the work of manufacturing the machines. While the building has been in course of construction, the material for making incubators has been coming in and soon the new machines will begin to come out finished.

The prize of which Wayne may feel the most proud, of all that came to this county, was the one awarded to Master Charles Ingham, the 13 months old son of Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham of this place, who won the second place in the baby show, in the class B, composed of boys between 12 and 24 months old. He was the youngest in the class, and when it is remembered that they are judged on mental points as well as physical points it means much to come so near the best. He is a bright, healthy little fellow.

Justice Alter held a special session of "Juvenile Court" Wednesday when several young men and boys plead guilty to the charge of borrowing an automobile belonging to Julius Swanson while he was attending the wedding of his sister, and riding about the town or country therein, at the risk of their lives and the owner's car, which it was reported came back in condition which indicated that it had been driven fast and perhaps far by inexperienced drivers. His Honor assessed the larger and leaders boys a fine of $5.00 each and the smaller ones $1.00 each. We are sorry to have to report such acts, but they are becoming too frequent, and it is not to the good name of Wayne to have them occur, and it is to be hoped that this lesson will be heeded by all. It is humiliating to citizens of this place to have guests, from out of town especially, treated as rudely as were some at this wedding party.

V. L. Dayton's DUROC JERSEY BOAR SALE

Saturday, October 24 at Wayne, Nebr.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Ed. H. Dotson was a visitor at Sioux City Saturday.

Miss Alta McClary went to Ponca and Martinsburg Tuesday to visit friends for a few days.

There was a sort of jewelers convention here the first of the week, when E. B. Fanske of Pierce and Ed. Durant of Creighton were here visiting at the home of L. A. Fanske of this city, all three being jewelers.

Mrs. Dr. Zoll and children went to Sioux City Tuesday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Zoll of that place, who had been visiting here. After a day at Sioux City they left Wednesday to visit her old home at Indianola, Iowa.

A full measure of happiness is here and hereafter, but many are disappointed in this respect. Should you want a full measure of apples certain to insure happiness all that is necessary is to visit the car now at the depot and take home some of Montgomery's best.—adv.

One of the improvements in which the public is much interested is the new walk being put in about the First National Bank, replacing the old walk, which had seen its best days. The old walk was put in when the knowledge of what was required to make a good walk was not as general as now, and the propositions of sand and cement were not quite right to stand.

Fred Meyer, who has been farming southeast of Wayne, was out to the edge of Pierce county Monday, where he closed a deal for a quarter section of improved farm land at $100 per acre, to take possession next spring. Mr. Meyer bought what is known as the Ferguson farm, eight miles south of Randolph. It is so near Wayne county that it is probably a good farm, only half the width of the road separating the place from this county. Mr. Meyer is one of the good farmers who will make a success in his new home.

Officer Soules had a little job the other day, he happening at the station as train west bound came through. Some one who was rather small was trying to beat his way, evidently, for he came in from the east without paying his fare from Wakefield to Wayne, according to the claim of the conductor. The passenger claimed that he bought a ticket to Wayne, however. Here he purchased ticket to Norfolk, and was refusing to pay for the ride here until the officer was told to take him unless he paid, which he then did and went on his way.

Mrs. Mina Blake from Tabor, Iowa, has been visiting at the home of her brother, M. T. Munsinger and family. She was accompanied from her home by Mrs. J. Cornell from Denver, a friend of long standing in the Munsinger family, who was visiting at Tabor. While here they made several trips to Sioux City, attending the fair and seeing the country. This was the first visit that Mrs. C. had ever made to Wayne, and her impressions of the city and surrounding country except the hills this side of Sioux City, were most favorable. On their return to Tabor, Mrs. Munsinger accompanied them as far as Emerson on her way to Sioux City.

A. G. Adams, Prop.

Jesse C. McNish, president of the First National Bank of Wisner, was elected president of the Nebraska State Bankers' Association at their meeting at Omaha last week. This is an honor which has heretofore been bestowed upon older members of the association, men who have grown gray in the financial circles of the state; therefore it was a surprise to our fellowtownsman, with little more than a third of a century of years to his credit on the ledger of Father Time, when he was given this distinguished position by acclamation. Mr. McNish is deeply sensible of the honor received at the hands of his business associates of Nebraska, and blushing accepts the congratulations of his friends, who are proud of and gratified at this recognition of a fellow-citizen and neighbor.—Chronical.

A recent dispatch in a North Dakota paper tells of the adventure of Lieutenant N. A. Way, in arresting and bringing to justice a party of sports or smugglers, who had been bringing whiskey across the line from Canada. The officer is a brother of L. L. Way of this place, and has long been in the service of Uncle Sam, and has for several years held the place as second best rifle shot in the United States. L. L. says that his brother is proud of his skill with a gun, quite justly too, but that he feels more satisfaction in selling automobiles than shooting. He planned a year ago to sell 100 automobiles this season, and is doing it in spite of the war. He has done a cash business of more than $100,000 in automobiles this year, and if he can manage to sell two cars in the next three months he will have hit the mark he aimed for in the spring.

Mrs. Sam'l Allen from northwest of Wayne left Saturday morning for Wichita, Kansas, where she was called to appear as a witness in the Federal court in a case against some one charged with using the mails to defraud, as she was among the many who had answered his advertising, which represented that he wanted women to make hand bags for him. For $1 he sent a sample bag and material and instructions for making another bag, which was to be made up and sent in as a sample of the work, and if well done, he was to furnish material for as many as she could find time to make. Mrs. Allen found that she could make from four to five per day at this, but the material for more handbags never came. And now the man is trying to explain why. She was there some time ago and testified before the federal grand jury, and evidently he was indicted.

C. Cleberg, who was near Huron, South Dakota, last week says that they are not blessed with the best of crops there this season. Wheat was hurt by rust. It was too wet early, and too dry late. Some of the best corn will go about 20 bushels per acre, but some like other places will not make enough to pay for husking. He saw one patch of ten or twelve acres which had been put in on stubble, cultivated once, and an old cow was harvesting it, and he did not think there was enough to keep her busy two weeks, and what she was to live on after that was hard to tell. He thinks that the man who farms right there will get returns. Says that the farmers who are doing best are those who are keeping cows and milking. They find that the good dairy cow is to be the salvation of that country. Cream cans are numerous, and the price received is about two cents a pound less than the prices received here.

One who is looking for inconsistencies in this day and age does not have far to look as a rule. The writer saw a woman devoting time, elbow grease and spoiling a sweet disposition ironing a ruffle on a certain undergarment—and at the same time regretting that it was very uncomfortable to wear such ruffled and lounced and starched—(we almost said pants)—under garments. When asked if they were worn for show the ironer admitted that it would be immodest to show them except on the line with the rest of the wash. Admitting that the garment would be more comfortable and more easily cleaned and ironed if made plain she could give no excuse for the frills except that it was the style—and style that was always hidden. Then in the name of overworked mothers, both in making them and caring for such garments, why not make them plain and comfortable, and have a little time for recreation instead of so much sewing and ironing? If that be treason, hang us.

Seed Room vs. Corncrib

It makes a good deal of difference where seed corn is stored. Some time ago the Nebraska Experiment Station divided a lot of seed corn into two parts. One part was placed in a seed room and the other in an ordinary corncrib. The next spring when the seed was planted 90 per cent of the first lot and only 70 per cent of the crib-cured lot produced plants. In Iowa it was found that corn stored in a seed room showed a germination of 95 per cent, that stored in a tool shed 91.7 per cent while that left on the stalks showed a germination of but 55 per cent. Hartley in a similar test, found that his carefully cured seed corn yielded 12 per cent more corn on poor soil and 27 per cent more on fertile soil.

Are Your Cows Like These

Two cows were in the Nebraska University Farm herd a short time ago which looked very much alike. Most people, perhaps, would have judged one to be a little better than the other. The average feed of one for two years cost $64.15. The average feed for the other was 35 cents a year more. The one that it cost $64.15 to feed produced about $10 a year more than she cost. The one that it cost 35 cents a year more to feed returned five times the income of the other above cost of feed. Not even the dairy experts could have guessed that. The way they found out was to weigh and test the milk, the same as they do with all of the cows of the state dairy herd. As a small milk tester and scales cost but a few dollars, this practice can be carried on by any farmer.

Premiums Come to Wayne County

It is safe to say that no county carried off a greater number of premiums from Sioux City Inter-State live stock show in proportion to the entries made than did the breeders of the good county of Wayne.

Gus Hanson won first on a car load of fat steers, which he entered there, and in addition to the prize they sold on the market at $11.25 per 100, which on the sixteen head made a neat premium of itself.

Wm. Morgan was there with a bunch of his Duroc Jersey hogs and captured no less than five first prizes and a number of other ribbons. He took first on boar under six months old, and sold the animal to a breeder, F. F. McElhane of Akron, Iowa, for $250, which is a pretty good price for a shoat. His other firsts were on produce of sow, get of sire young herd and young herd bred by exhibitor. In addition to this he was awarded 2nd and 3d on sow under 6 months; 4th on sow under one year; 3d on boar under 6 months and 3d on boar under 2 years. A nice string of ribbons.

Roy Fisher was there with his Hampshires, and made a nice showing, but at this writing they have not learned how many firsts and seconds he carried off with him.

Geo. Luders won second place with his barred rock pullets and third place on hens of the same popular breed.

300 LICE Or More on One Hen

Is by no means uncommon. No one would expect to fatten a steer with that number of "ticks," sucking lice, but many expect the old hen to go ahead chattering out eggs while lice and mites are sapping her very life. We have counted over 2000 dead lice under a row of ten hens, on a roost board painted the night before with red kerosene. This great litter does double duty—containing the mites, bedbugs, etc. about the roosts; the vapor kills lice on the chickens sitting over it. Put up only in airtight cans. For sale at over 10,000 tons.

Why C. M. Christensen Resigned

Two weeks ago when the Democrat announced the resignation of C. M. Christensen as manager for a district for the Northwestern Insurance of Milwaukee the reason was not plain for Mr. C. had plans forming under his hat that he was not ready to let be known. In an interview Monday before he started to return to Minnesota where he is shaping up three farms for sale at an early date to have necessary capital to inaugurate his new work, he outlined his plans for the future work.

What he has in mind is a real estate loaning institution of such a nature that it will be of benefit to both the farmer and the man of money. He has been studying on the plan for several years, and knows that in the past lots of people with money have been investing it in bonds which brought a low rate of interest, and which a series of years has proven very frequently to lack stability, and while this otherwise idle money has been bringing from nothing or worse to 4 per cent, the progressive farmer has been handicapped for want of money on which he would pay as high as 6 per cent. As to the plan of his organization, whether it will be in the nature of a trust company, a state bank or some other form that is safe and legal he is not fully settled. If a bank, it is not his idea to make it in any sense one that will do commercial banking. He prefers gilt-edged paper at a lower rate of interest. He is right in his analysis of the situation, as we see it. There is millions of idle money in the east—or worse than idle when invested in such stocks as the New Haven, and the owners of that money when once assured that it may be profitably loaned on real, valuable tangible producing properties, to improve farms in such a rich section as northeastern Nebraska would be most willing to change their investment from one that ranged from uncertain to "blue sky" pure and simple to one founded on pay dirt.

When asked as to whether he would continue to make Wayne headquarters he said that he hoped to do so, but was not sure, as some of the Nebraska laws are not as favorable as some other states, but as a land of great future possibilities to be developed he knows of no place better than this corner of Nebraska, and no part of that garden spot better than right here at Wayne. He hopes to have the enterprise launched and in running order before next spring, but admits that the war condition in Europe may so unsettle money matters that it will be longer delayed.

Mr. Christensen was born and raised on a farm in Iowa, schooled after leaving the grades at the Woodbine normal at the town of the same name. He taught school for several years, and served four years as register of deeds of Shelby county, Iowa. Since moving to Wayne nearly four years ago he has been district manager for this corner of the state for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company, and has made good—in fact has put northeastern Nebraska on the map with that company. He has large real estate holdings, and is willing to venture his own money in the enterprise, for he possesses sound judgment as to values of real estate and the best means of having them produce good returns. With his executive ability, energy and push, backed by his reputation for success, the Democrat feels safe in predicting that the plan he has so long and carefully been maturing will win out and prove a good thing for himself and those who may help to finance the enterprise as well as be a great help to the territory where it is worked, and we hope that Wayne will be headquarters for the venture.

Weed Clubs

Teachers form the school children into Weed Clubs. Now is the time to make a study of weeds and consider means for their eradication. An active interest in destroying weeds by the school children of the district will undoubtedly prove beneficial to Nebraska agriculture, says a bulletin from that department. Yes, and if the teachers will write to Washington and get a copy of a bulletin which tells of weeds and the value of some for medicinal properties and other uses the children may find that they have in and near the school yard something that if gathered, cured and marketed will bring them a fund with which to buy a school bell, found a library or pay for most any needed improvement. Many of the so-called weeds have a great market value. Plantain, dandelion, jimson and others of which this bulletin will tell. The fact is that we little know what a source of wealth we walk over and dig out and destroy as we mow along through life.

Central Fruit Growers Will Take In More Territory.

DEAL DIRECT WITH RETAILERS

Nebraska Organization Falls to Secure Co-operation of Wholesalers—Railway Commission Hearings On, Chiropractors Will Seek Recognition.

Lincoln, Sept. 29.—Efforts of the Central Fruit Growers' association to have the jobbers of the state co-operate with them in an effort to secure Nebraska apples for Nebraska people have not been wholly successful, according to Secretary J. R. Duncan of the state board of agriculture. Wholesalers prefer to handle the fruit in boxes, paying from $1.25 to $1.65 a box to Coloradoans and growers of the northwest for the apples grown there instead of paying Nebraska growers $3 to $3.25 per barrel for the apples grown here.

This will make a difference of from 75 cents to $1.70 per barrel in favor of the Nebraska apples, which are well known to be of a superior flavor. The reason given by Mr. Duncan why the Nebraska apples are not boxed is that the right kind of help cannot at this time be secured in Nebraska for packing in boxes, consequently only a portion of the apples can be boxed.

As a general thing the retailers prefer the Nebraska apples and by dealing direct with them the association will be able to place the crop of 1914 without much trouble.

In an effort better to control the situation the original organization is being reconstructed and under the name of the Central Fruit Growers' association is taking in more territory. This territory will embrace all the apple lands along the Missouri river on both sides, reaching back about fifty miles or so from the north line of Nebraska south to about Kansas City.

Hearing on Flour Rates.
Rate Expert U. G. Powell of the state railway commission will go to Chicago on Oct. 9 to be present at the rehearing of the flour rate case before the Interstate commission. The case is one in which California millers are demanding a higher freight rate on Nebraska flour, because it comes into competition with the flour manufactured on the coast. However, they are anxious that the present rate should remain on wheat, which they are glad to get, so they can make flour as good as that made in Nebraska. Nebraska wheat is wanted, but Nebraska flour is not. The Interstate commission had ruled against them once, but they are coming before them again for another try to keep cornhusker flour out of California.

Will Seek Recognition.
Members of the chiropractic profession will not yield because the supreme court has decided against them, according to reports coming to Lincoln. They propose to make another attempt to gain recognition through the legislature and it is understood that a meeting will soon be called for the purpose of discussing a line of work to be carried out, which will embrace the drawing of a bill to be presented to the next legislature legalizing the practice of that profession. A bill of a similar nature was introduced at the last session, but failed to secure enough votes to make it law, but the friendly consideration it received leads the members of the organization to believe that it may meet with a better reception next time.

Rowden Needs Cook.
Commissioners Gurdas and Kennedy of the state board of control went to Milford to investigate the new well just completed at the soldiers' home there. They will also see if Commandant Dave Rowden has found a new cook. Commandant Rowden bought some eggs the other day and some of them were not as fresh as they should be. He called his cook to account and was told that the eggs were good enough, and that there was no kick coming. As a result of the controversy Rowden is now after a cook who can unscramble the eggs.

Insurance Consolidation.
Insurance Commissioner Brian, who went to Asheville, N. C., to attend a meeting of the national organization of insurance commissioners, upon his return will find a proposition before him of settling the matter of the consolidation of the Fraternal Aid association of Lawrence, Kan., with the Fraternal Union of Denver. The consolidation is said to have been made without any advance notice to the Nebraska members of the Kansas society, but is said to have had the approval of the insurance departments of Colorado and Kansas.

Rural Credit Affairs.
Hiram Lyree of New York, president of the American Rural Credit association, accompanied by Frank G. Odell of Omaha, secretary of the Nebraska branch, were in consultation with the state railway commission relative to securing a permit to do business in this state.

Royse Issues Call.
Secretary Royse of the state banking board has issued a call for reports from state banks for Sept. 21. There are 757 of these institutions coming under the jurisdiction of the board, the largest in the history of the board.

GIRL SLAIN BY HOLDUPS

Josephine Sensoni of South Omaha is Instantly Killed by Bandits' Shots.
Omaha, Sept. 28.—Josephine Sensoni, seventeen years of age, was shot through the heart at midnight while returning to her home in South Omaha in company with her father, Mariano Sensoni, and a neighbor, James Bondi. They had attended the Harvest Home festival and when they reached Twenty-fifth and Y streets three men accosted them and ordered them to throw up their hands. Instead of complying all ran.

Two bullets struck the young woman, one penetrating her breast and the other her liver. The two men were unhurt.

Two negroes were arrested on suspicion in the raid that followed, but no evidence has been secured against them. They gave their names as Oliver Brown and Phil Mitchell.

COUNTY GETS INSANITY FEES

Verdict Against Former District Court Clerk is Upheld.

Omaha, Sept. 28.—When the state supreme court in an opinion handed down in what is known as the "insanity fee case" sustained a verdict secured by Douglas county against Frank A. Broadwell, former district court clerk, it wiped out, with one exception, fee grafts in the court house.

The exception is the naturalization fee "rakeoff" of the clerk of the district court and this has not been passed upon by the supreme court, although suit has been started against Clerk Robert Smith by the county board in the district court.

The supreme court overruled a motion made by attorneys for Sheriff McShane for a rehearing of the decision that he was entitled only to reasonable compensation from the county for feeding prisoners.

MAY SECURE WAR CONTRACT

Lincoln Firm Has Chance to Supply Artillery Harnesses.

Lincoln, Sept. 29.—Some of the warring countries of Europe would like to secure 30,000 heavy artillery harnesses and have taken up the proposition with a firm of harness makers in this country with the idea of letting out the job. Rumor has it that Harpham Brothers of this city, one of the leading firms of harness makers in the country, has been given a part of the contract.

C. F. Harpham of the firm said that the matter was still up in the air. At first he denied any knowledge of the matter, but finally admitted that there was something to it, but only that they had received a letter asking if they would fill a part of the contract, as it was too big a job for one firm to handle and would have to be divided up.

PIONEERS NAME COMMITTEE

Twenty-eight Will Have Charge of Convention Arrangements.

Omaha, Sept. 28.—A great committee of twenty-eight members has been appointed as the general committee in charge of the arrangements for the convention of the Association of Nebraska Territorial and State Pioneers, which is to hold forth in Omaha, Sept. 30 to Oct. 3.

All the meetings of the convention are to be held in the Douglas county court house, where a temporary pioneer museum is also to be established. Old settlers will bring from the hiding places in the state many of the old relics of sentimental connection with the early history of the state and territory.

CORN OUT OF WAY OF FROST

Condition of Crop Along Burlington Road in Nebraska.

Omaha, Sept. 29.—Weather conditions during the last week, according to the Burlington's crop report, has materially helped the Nebraska corn, which it is asserted has reached the stage where it would not be injured by frost. According to this report there is no portion of the state that yet has been visited by a killing frost. This estimate is made on the condition of this year's corn crop on the several divisions of the road: Omaha division, 97 per cent; Lincoln, 80; Wymore, 89; McCook, 88 per cent.

Wymore Hotel Appraised.

Beatrice, Neb., Sept. 29.—Sheriff Schlick, Adam McMullen and J. A. Mohrbacher appraised the Touzalin hotel property at Wymore, which was recently ordered sold at sheriff's sale by Judge Pemberton, at $19,000. The property will be sold Nov. 3 to satisfy a judgment of $9,500, held by the Rock Island Savings bank. The property was erected years ago at a cost of about $50,000.

Superior, Neb., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Leo Vautrain arrived home, having been a month traveling here from Heidelberg, Germany. She says the Dutch boat was stopped three times by English warships on the way over. German crops are the best seen in years and the country has enough to feed the people for close to two years.

Beatrice Fire Loss Nine Thousand.

Beatrice, Neb., Sept. 29.—The total property loss as a result of the fire which destroyed Ayers' cafe and bakery here is placed at $9,000. Ayers Bros. place their loss at $3,500, with $2,000 insurance, and the LePoidevin block, in which their store was located, is placed at $5,500, fully covered by insurance.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

For four long days without cessation the Germans have hurled their masses against the French and English in northern France. The French officials' view is that these operations, the fiercest that have yet taken place, are by high command, meaning possibly direct instructions of the emperor himself.

The purpose has been to break through the allies' lines, but both French and English official reports say they have failed. From Paris it is announced that not only have the Germans not been able to achieve their object, but they have lost a flag, guns and men in the attempt. One of the remarkable things in this great battle, which has now entered upon its nineteenth day, is the spirit maintained by the troops. British, French and Germans have withstood the most terrific shelling the world has ever known, an almost constant rain of bullets from the rifles, and hand-to-hand encounters with gun and bayonet, but all reports agree that they are fighting with the same determination and tenacity as in the beginning.

The German general staff, by way of Berlin, reports that the allies are using their railroads in a general attack on the extreme end of the right flank of the German army. The general staff also reports slight gains on the center of the battle front and an engagement with artillery south of Verdun.

Germany is prepared to finance a long war. This assertion is made in a dispatch from Berlin. The war is costing Germany, it is stated, $5,000,000 a day. The war loan has proven a success. It will be possible for Germany, it is stated, to continue the struggle for a year, with the money now in sight.

The total German casualties in dead and wounded and missing, as officially reported to date, are 104,589. Eighteen trainloads of wounded Germans passed through Aix-la-Chapelle from France.

The hour for the battle which will determine whether the Russians will make their proposed invasion of Germany, with Berlin as the final objective, appears to be drawing near.

From the east comes reports of actions from almost every section of the Russian frontier. The Austrian forces are still retiring on Cracow, and besides having taken some of the forts around Przemysl, the Russian cavalry is said to be pouring through the defiles of the Carpathians on to the plains of Hungary. The Russian general staff reports a battle between the Russians and Germans in the region of Druskeniki in the government of Suwalki, Russian Poland, bordering on Prussia, but gives no details. The general staff also reports the retirement of the Austrian army westward on Cracow.

The Netherlands government has declared martial law in the eastern provinces in order to prevent the exportation of contraband of war to Germany.

Prince Oscar, the German emperor's fifth son, according to announcement from Berlin has been forced to retire from active service on account of an attack of heart disease, due to over exertion.

A dispatch from Amsterdam says that further attacks have been made by Zeppelin dirigible balloons. Four bombs were dropped on Deynze and two thrown on Hhielt. At the former place the convent of St. Vincent was badly damaged.

Latest reports indicate that the Austrian seaport of Cattaro, in Dalmatia, has been bombarded by the French and British warships, and that the fortress of Pelagosa has been dismantled and seized.

The Russian advance guard is said to be before the Austrian fortress of Cracow.

It is reported that the Montenegrins have captured Montak, which controls the only railroad in southern Herzegovina.

A dispatch from Rome says that 300,000 troops have been assembled at Pola, the great naval port of Austria, and that thorough preparations have been made against an attack from the sea.

Four bombs were dropped on Paris from a German aeroplane. One missile, exploding in Avenue du Trocadero, blew the head from the shoulder of a man who was with his daughter and crippled the child. The other bombs did little damage.

In the far east the Japanese-British attack on Kiauchau, the German leased possession in China, moves slowly. A battle between land forces has been fought on the outskirts of Tsingtau, the seat of government of Kiauchau. Tokyo claims a victory in the engagement, which does not appear to have been on a very great scale. German reports say their forces fell back to their first line of defenses around Tsingtau.

Occasional fighting continues in Belgium. Amsterdam reports a sharp encounter between the Germans and Belgians four miles east of Antwerp and other clashes sixteen miles east of Ghent. Results are not known.

Great Britain has asked the United States to investigate who was responsible for sending the American ship Lorenzo with coal to the German cruiser Karlsruhe in British West Indian waters. The Lorenzo was caught by a British cruiser. The departments of commerce and justice will determine who may be prosecuted under the neutrality laws.

Most everybody figures out that the war in Europe will result in a wonderful change in the map of the world. We don't dispute that at all but we positively assert that a half dozen European wars could not change the flavor of Montgomery's apples.—adv.

Otto Voget, who but recently returned from Germany, where he went last spring, was over from Norfolk this morning. He had many exciting experiences before getting back to America, the land of the free. He talks as though he was glad indeed to get home.

Carl A. Baker and L. G. Koch each received a Chester White boar from a herd at Pierce this week for their herds. There is no part of farming in which we think the farmer shows better judgment than when putting the best of pure bred animals at the head of his herds.

R. E. K. Mellor left this morning to again join his family at Colorado Springs, where they are staying on account of the health of their daughter, Miss Eva, returning there earlier than he had planned to go. We are sorry indeed to report that the young lady is not improving as they had hoped in that climate.

It's an old proverb that "everybody loves a lover" and it is likewise proverbial that most everybody loves a nice ripe, juicy apple. There is a car load of the finest ever grown by Montgomery now on the railroad tracks near the depot and they are going like a house afire.—adv.

Frank Crahan and wife from Bloomfield were here the first of the week. He was participating in the shoot of the gun club, and was good enough with his gun to divide honors for first place with another equally good shot. The wife visited at the home of J. H. Massie and wife.

The Democrat believes that in making the move to establish a juvenile music club at this place, Mrs. J. T. House is doing a good work. The aim of the organization is to create a love for music of the better and higher kind among the young people. Children under the age of 15 are eligible to become members. In starting the children right in the matter of music—teaching them the difference between the better and trashy music, much may be accomplished toward the best education in this line.

Oscar Anderson of Des Moines arrived at Wayne Tuesday evening for a few days visit with friends here and with his parents at Randolph. He reports a good year for the X-Ray people and that they are preparing for a larger business next year.

George McEachen was at Florence the first of the week where he purchased a Poland China herd boar. He selected one of the big, rangy kind, a very fine appearing pig that tips the scales at 450 at the age of less than 11 months. His father and grandfather kept on growing until they weighed more than 800 and 1,100 pounds each, so there is some hope that the pig will get his growth.

J. C. Forbes send us a good crop report and it is a nice thing to publish, and the Democrat would be glad to give place to more of them, but some of our friends seem reluctant to give reports for publication. There is no feature that helps to show what a farm country really is like crop reports. On the Forbes farm the threshers found that 22 acres of spring wheat raised 20 bushels per acre, and 60 acres of oats returned 35 bushels per acre.

When opportunity knocks at your door it's a sure sign that luck is coming your way. The grandest opportunity the people have had in a long time came by rail in the shape of a carload of Montgomery's apples now standing on the tracks waiting for the lucky ones to grab them up.—adv.

C. A. Grothe is home from his farm in eastern North Dakota, where he has been for several weeks superintending the harvesting and threshing. He was accompanied by his brother, J. J. Grothe from Massachusetts, who owns land adjoining and had been there for a time with his brother. They report a fair crop, that from a section they threshed more than 10,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat and oats, and that the year has been a fairly satisfactory one. C. A. Grothe brought with him samples of the corn they are growing there, showing that they are not out of the corn belt. A rather small variety of yellow dent does very well there, and some fields return as much as 25 bushels per acre besides the fodder, which is a valuable asset—or will be when they get to keeping more cows, as they will eventually.

CHAPTER VI.

"Did you get the range?" asked the countess, when late that night Braine recounted his adventure.

"Range!" he snarled. "My girl, haven't I just told you that I had to fight for my life? My boat was in flames. We had to swim for it till we were picked up by a Long Island barge tug. I don't know what became of the motorman. He must have headed straight for shore. And I'm glad he did. Otherwise he'd be howling for the price of another boat. Olga, for the first time I've had to let one of the boys have a look at my face. Doesn't know the name; but one of these days he'll stumble across it, and the result will be black-mail, unless I push him off into the dark. It was accidental."

The countess leaned forward, her hands tightly clenched.

"But the box!"

Braine made a gesture of despair.

"Leo, are you using any drug these days?"

"Don't make fun of me, Olga," impatiently. "Did you ever see me drink more than a pint of wine or smoke more than two cigars in an evening? Poor fools! What! let my brain go into the wastebasket for the sake of an hour or so of exhilaration? No, and never will I! I'm keen about the gray matter I've got, and by the Lord Harry, I'm going to keep it. There's only one dope fiend in the Hundred, and he's one of the best decoys we have; so we let him have his coke whenever he really needs it. But this man Felton has seen my face. Some day he'll see it again, ask questions, and then—"

"Then what?"

"A burial at sea," he laughed. The laughter died swiftly as it came. "Threw it into eight hundred feet of water, on a bar where the sands are always shifting. He'll never find it, even if he took the range. He could not have got a decent one. The sun was dropping and the shadows were long. He threw the chest into the water and then began peeing away at us, cool as you please, and fired our tank."

"It looks to me as if he had wasted his time."

"That depends. Between you and me and the gate-post, I've a sneaking idea that this man Jones, whom nobody has given any particular attention, is a deep, clever man. He may have been honestly attempting to find a new hiding place; the advertisement in the newspaper may have drawn him. He may have thrown the box over in pure rage at seeing himself checked. Again, the whole thing may have been worked up for our benefit, a blind. But if that's the case, Jones has us on the hip, for we can't tell. But we can do what in all probability he expects we'll cease to do—watch him just as shrewdly as before."

Olga caught his hand and drew him down beside her. "I wasn't going to bother you tonight, but it may mean something vital."

"What?"

For reply she rose and walked over to the light button. She pressed it and the apartment became dark.

"Come over to the window, quick!" She dragged him across the room.

"Over the way, the house with the marble frontage."

A man emerged, lit a cigarette, and walked leisurely down the street.

"No!" she cried, as Braine turned to make for the door doubtless with the intention of finding out who this man was. "Every night after you leave he appears."

"Does he follow me?"

"No. And that's what bothered me at first. I believed he was watching some apartment above. But regularly when I turn out the lights he comes forth. So there's no doubt that he watches you enter and takes note of your departure."

"But doesn't follow me. That's odd. What the devil is his idea?"

"I'd give a good deal to learn."

The shadow and the glowing cigarette disappeared around the corner, and the lights in the apartment were turned on again.

"He's gone. You really think he's watching me?"

"He is watching this apartment, I know that much."

And even at that moment the watcher was watching from his vantage behind the corner.

"Suspicious!" he murmured, tossing the cigarette into the gutter. They're watching me for a change. I'll drop out. I know what I know. It's a great world. It's fine to be alive and kicking on top of it. He went on without haste and took the subway train for downtown.

"Is there any way I could get near him?" asked Braine.

"Tomorrow night you might leave by the janitor's entrance. I'll keep the lights on till you're outside. Then I'll turn them off and you can follow and learn who he is."

"It's mighty important."

"Don't scowl. At your age a wrinkle is apt to remain if you once get it started."

He laughed. "Wrinkles!" She could talk of wrinkles!

"They are more important than you think. Every morning I rub out the wrinkle I go to bed with."

"I wish you could rub out the general stupidity which is wrinkling my brain. I've made three moves and failed in each. What's come over me?"

"Perhaps you've had too many successes. The wheel of chance is always turning around."

"May I smoke?"

"Thanks. At least it proves you still have some consideration for me. You would smoke whether it was agreeable or not. But I like the odor of a good cigar. And it always helps you to think."

Braine lit the cigar and began his customary pacing. At length he paused.

"Suppose we have a real old-fashioned coaching party out to the old mansion we know about?"

"And what shall we do there?"

"Make the mansion an enchanted castle where sometimes people who enter can't get out. Do you think you could get her to go?"

"I can try."

"Olga, I must have that girl; and I must have her soon. Sometimes I find myself mightily puzzled over the whole thing. If Hargrave is alive, why doesn't he turn up now that it's practically known that his daughter presides over his household? I might understand it if I didn't know that Hargrave is really afraid of nothing. Where is the man with the five thousand, picked up at sea? What was the reason for Jones carrying that box out in broad daylight? Who is the chap watching across the street? Sometimes I believe in my soul—if I have one—that Hargrave is playing with us, playing! Well, flinging the half consumed cigar into the grate, 'the Black Hundred always goes forward, win or lose, and never forgets.'"

"We are a fine pair!" said the woman bitterly.

"We are exactly what fate intended us to be. They wrote you down in the book as a beautiful body with a crooked mind. They wrote me down as the devil, doomed to roam earth's top till I'm killed."

"Killed?"

"Why, yes. I'm not the kind of chap who dies in bed, surrounded by the weeping members of the family, doctor, nurse, and priest. I'm a scoundrel; but it has this saving grace, I enjoy being a scoundrel. Now, I'm going up to the club. There's nothing like a game of billiards or chess to smooth that wrinkle which seems to worry you."

In the great newspaper office there was a mighty racket. Midnight always means pandemonium in the city room of a metropolitan daily. Copy boys were rushing to and fro, messengers and printers with sticky galley in their hands; reporters were banging away at their typewriters, and intermingling you could hear the ceaseless clickety-click from the telegraph room.

The managing editor came out of his office and approached the desk of the night city editor.

"Editorial page gone down?"

"Twenty minutes ago," said the night city editor.

"I wanted a stick on that Panama rumpus."

"Too late."

"Where's Jim Norton?"

"At the chamber of commerce banquet. The major is going to throw a bomb into the enemy's camp."

"Nothing on the Hargrave stuff?"

"No. Guess I'd better put that in the cubbyhole. He's dead."

"No will found yet?"

"Not a piece as big as a postage stamp."

"That will leave the girl in a tough place. No will, no birth certificate; and, worst of all, no photograph of the old man himself. I don't see why Jim sidestepped this affair. He the only man in town who knew anything about Hargrave."

"He hasn't given it up; but he wants to cover it on his own, turn the yarn over when he's got it, no false alarms."

"Ah! So that's the game?"

"Yes; and Jim is the sort every paper needs. When the time comes the story turns up. If there is one. Here he is now. Looks like an actor in the fourth act of a drama. Good-looking chap, though."

Norton came in through the outer gates. He was in evening clothes, top hat. A dead cigarette dangled between his lips.

"How much do you want?" asked the night city editor.

"Column and a half."

It was one o'clock when Norton turned in his last sheet of copy and started for home. Just outside the entrance to the building a man with a slouch hat drawn down over his eyes stepped forward.

"Mr. Norton?"

"Yes," Norton stepped back suspiciously.

The other chuckled, raised and lowered his hat swiftly.

"Good Lord!" murmured the reporter.

"Will you take a ride with me in a taxi?"

"All the way to Syracuse, if you say so. Well, I'll be tinker d—d!"

"No names, please!"

What took place in that taxicab was never generally known. But at ten o'clock the next morning Norton surprised the elevator boy by going out.

Norton proceeded downtown to the national bank, where he deposited $5,000 in bills of large denominations. The teller had some difficulty in counting them. They stuck together and retained the sodden appearance of money recently submerged in water.

Florence was delighted at the idea of a coaching party. Often during her schoolgirl days she had seen the fashionable coaches go careening along the road, with the sharp, clear note of the bugle rising about the thunder of hoofs and rattling of wheels. Jones was not enthusiastic; neither was he a killjoy.

"But you are to go along, too," said Florence.

"I, Miss Florence?"

"The countess invited you especially. You will go with a hamper."

"Ah, in my capacity as butler; very good, Miss Florence." To her he gave no sign of his secret satisfaction.

The hour arrived, and the gay party bowled away. They wound in and out of the streets toward the country to the crack of the whip and the blare of the horn. Florence's enjoyment would

"I wanted a stick on that Panama rumpus."

"Too late."

"Where's Jim Norton?"

"At the chamber of commerce banquet. The major is going to throw a bomb into the enemy's camp."

"Nothing on the Hargrave stuff?"

"No. Guess I'd better put that in the cubbyhole. He's dead."

"No will found yet?"

"Not a piece as big as a postage stamp."

"That will leave the girl in a tough place. No will, no birth certificate; and, worst of all, no photograph of the old man himself. I don't see why Jim sidestepped this affair. He the only man in town who knew anything about Hargrave."

"He hasn't given it up; but he wants to cover it on his own, turn the yarn over when he's got it, no false alarms."

"Ah! So that's the game?"

"Yes; and Jim is the sort every paper needs. When the time comes the story turns up. If there is one. Here he is now. Looks like an actor in the fourth act of a drama. Good-looking chap, though."

Norton came in through the outer gates. He was in evening clothes, top hat. A dead cigarette dangled between his lips.

"How much do you want?" asked the night city editor.

"Column and a half."

"Off with your glad rags!"

"Anything good?" asked the managing editor.

"The lid has been jammed on tight. No wine in any restaurant after one o'clock. There'll be a roundup of every gunman in town."

"Good work! Go to it!"

party is being given. And . . . maybe she's in danger."

"Danger? What about?"

"The Lord only knows. But show me about the house. I've not been here in so long I've forgotten the run of it. I remember one room with the secret panel and another with a painting that turned. Have they changed them?"

"No; it is just the same here as it used to be. Come along and I'll show you."

Norton inspected the rooms carefully, stowing away in his mind every detail. He might be worrying about nothing; but so many strange things had happened that it was better to be on the side of caution than on the side of carelessness. He left the house and ran across Jones carrying a basket of wine.

"Here, Norton; take this to the party. I want to reconnoiter."

"All right, m'lud! Say, Jones, how much do you think I'd earn at this job?" comically.

"Get along with you, Mr. Norton. It may be the time to laugh, and then it may not."

"I'm going back into the house and hide behind a secret panel. I've got my revolver. You go to the stables and take a try at my car; see if she works smoothly. We may have to do some hiking. Where is the countess in this?"

"Leave that to me, Mr. Norton," said the butler with his grim smile. "Be off; they are moving back toward the house."

So Norton carried the basket around to his lawn, where it was taken from his hands by the regular servant. He sighed as he saw Florence, laughing and chatting with a man who was a stranger and whom he heard addressed as count. Some friend of the countess, no doubt. Where was all this tangle going to end? He wished he knew. And what a yarn he was going to write some day! It would be read like one of Gaboriau's tales. He turned away to wander idly about the grounds, when beyond a clump of cedars he saw three or four men conversing slowly. He got as near as possible, for when three or four men put their heads together and whisper animatedly, it usually means a poker game or something worse. He caught a phrase or two as it came down the wind, and then he knew that the vague suspicion that had brought him out here had been set in motion by fate. He heard "Florence" and "the old drawing room;" and that was enough.

He scurried about for Jones. It was pure luck that he had had old Meg show him through the house, otherwise he would have forgotten all about the secret panel in the wall and the painting. Jones shrugged resignedly. Were these men of the countess' party? Norton couldn't say.

Norton made his hiding place in safety; and by and by he could hear the guests moving about in the room. Then all sounds ceased for a while. A door closed sharply.

"No; here you must stay, young lady," said a man's voice.

"What do you mean, sir?" demanded the beloved voice.

"It means that no one will return to this room and that you will not be missed until it is too late."

The sound of voices stopped abruptly, and something like scuffling ensued. Later Norton heard the back of a chair strike the panel and someone sat heavily upon it. He waited perhaps five minutes; then he gently slid back the panel. Florence sat bound and gagged under his very eyes. It was but the work of a moment to liberate her.

"It is I, Jim. Do not speak or make the least noise. Follow me."

Greatly astonished, Florence obeyed; and the panel slipped back into place. The room behind the secret panel had barred windows. To Florence it appeared to be a real prison.

"How did you get here?" she asked breathlessly.

"Something told me to follow you. And something is always going to tell me to follow you, Florence."

She pressed his hand. It was to her as if one of those book heroes had stepped out of a book; only book heroes always had tremendous fortunes and did not have to work for a living. Oddly enough, she was not afraid.

"Who was the man?" he asked.

"The Count Norfeldt. Some one has imposed upon the countess."

"Do you think so?" with a strange look in his eyes.

"What do you mean?"

"Nothing just now. The idea is to get out of here just as quickly as we can. See this painting?" He touched a spot in the wall and the painting slowly swung out like a door. "Come; we make our escape to the side lawn from here."

At the stable they were confronted with the knowledge that Norton's car was out of commission; Jones could do nothing with it. Then Norton suggested that he make an effort to commandeer the limousine of the countess; but there were men about, so the limousine was out of the question.

"Horses!" whispered Jones. "There are several saddle horses, already saddled. How about these people, the owners?"

"Oh, they are beyond reproach. They have doubtless been imposed upon. But let us get aboard first. There will be time to talk later. I'll have to do some explaining, taking these nags off like this. We won't have to ride out in front where the picknickers are. There's a lane back of the stable, and a slight detour brings us back into the main road."

The three mounted and clattered away. To Florence it had the air of a prank. She was beginning to have such confidence in these two inventive men that she felt as if she was never going to be afraid any more.

When the Countess Olga saw the three horses it was an effort not to fly into a rage. But secretly she warned her people, who presently gave chase in the limousine, while she prattled and jested and laughed with her company, who were quite unaware that a drama was being enacted right under their very noses. The countess, while she acted superbly, tore her handkerchief into shreds. There was something sinister in the way all their plans fell through at the very moment of consummation; and that night she determined to ask Braine to withdraw from this warfare, which gradually decimated their numbers without getting anywhere toward the goal.

Jones shouted that the limousine was tearing down the road. Something must be done to stop it. He suggested that he drop behind, leave his horse, and take a chance at putting a tire from the shrubbery at the roadside.

"Keep going. Don't stop, Norton, till you are back in town. I'll manage to take good care of myself."

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Trade Slow and Values Tending Lower.

HOGS ARE GENERALLY LOWER.

Packers Buy Lambs Weak to a Dime Off—Trade Sluggish All Day—Mutton Generally Steady—Good Demand For Feeders.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Sept. 29.—Another liberal run of cattle arrived today, some 9,000 head, making 23,270 head for the two days. As far as corn-fed cattle were concerned there was little new in the situation aside from the fact that a bunch of fancy baby beef sold at $10.50, the highest figure ever paid for cattle at this market. Trade in western range beef was slow right from the start, and while some of the more attractive beef cattle, as well as cattle on which the killers and feeder buyers came in competition, sold at pretty close to steady figures, the bulk of the stuff had to sell fully a dime lower and it was a very sluggish trade at that. Cows and heifers suffered a further decline of fully a dime. Business in stockers and feeders was decidedly draggy, with strictly choice kinds about steady, but the general trade fully a dime off and 15¢ to 25¢ lower than the latter part of last week.

Cattle quotations: Good to choice beefs, $9.50@10.25; fair to good beefs, $8.60@9.30; common to fair beefs, $7.75@8.50; prime feeding steers, $8.25@8.65; good to choice feeders, $7.40@8.10; fair to good feeders, $6.75@7.25; common to fair feeders, $6.00@6.60; stock heifers, $5.75@7.00; stock cows, $4.75@6.25; stock calves, $7.00@8.50; good to choice heifers, $6.50@7.50; good to choice cows, $6.25@7.00; fair to good cows, $5.50@6.00; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.50; veal calves, $8.00@10.50; bulls, stags, etc., $5.25@7.00; common to prime beefs, $8.00@8.75; good to choice range beefs, $7.50@8.00; fair to good range beefs, $6.80@7.40; common to fair beefs, $6.00@6.75.

About 6,000 hogs showed up today. Movement in hogs was fairly active today, with shipping hogs about steady and killers mostly a dime lower than Monday. Bulk of the sales was made at $8@8.15, and tops reached $8.30, same as Monday's top.

Sheep and lamb receipts were the heaviest of the year today, some 48,000 head arriving. Like Monday, fully 60 per cent of the receipts consisted of feeders' offerings. Trade in the fat stuff was slow and draggy, with lambs weak to a dime lower and about steady on anything in the line of mutton. While the feeder trade was liberally supplied with plenty of feeder lambs, there were lots of feeder buyers here in search of some desirable grades, and as a result the best kinds of feeder lambs held up about steady, while the common to medium grades were a shade lower. Feeder sheep moved at prices generally steady.

Quotations on range sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $7.20@7.40; lambs, fair to good, $7.00@7.30; lambs, feeders, $6.10@7.10; yearlings, good to choice, $5.75@6.00; yearlings, fair to good, $5.50@5.75; yearlings, feeders, $5.10@5.50; wethers, good to choice, $5.20@5.50; wethers, fair to good, $5.00@5.20; wethers, feeders, $4.30@4.85; ewes, good to choice, $4.75@5.60; ewes, fair to good, $4.50@4.75; ewes, feeders, $3.60@4.10.

I have a few choice pure-bred Duroc boars and Shorthorn bulls for sale. See me at the harness shop. JOHN S. LEWIS JR.—Adv.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Baptist Church

Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.

Sunday our new church year begins. Do you look upon your church work and obligations with a sense of joy or of drudgery? Do the fifty-two Sundays of the new year suggest moments of highest fellowship to you, or days of lounging and idleness?

Lost!—Somewhere between October 1, 1913, and October 1, 1914, several golden Sabbath days, by church members. No reward offered, if they are lost forever.

The faithfulness of God in the past year, should be a strong appeal to ever one of us, to pledge our highest faithfulness to him this coming year.

How about it, fellow-pilgrim? Does the beginning of this church year find you a little higher up the hill, than you were a year ago? Or have you been slipping?

The attitude of Jesus is the only fitting attitude of his followers. He set his face steadfastly towards Jerusalem. Nothing was strong enough to change him. Jerusalem, to him, was the test of obedience to the will of God.

Let every one of our members, at this time of the year, read his church covenant. Remember back of its statements, is the will of Christ.

Sunday morning the pastor will present a motto-text for the coming year. It will be the subject of his sermon. Here it is: "We are workers together with God." Let this be your text every day companion.

Miss Grace Adams will lead the young people's meeting Sunday evening at 6:30. It will be a lesson on trust. Notice change of time. At 7:30 the pastor will preach on the subject: "Life's Best Friendship." Sunday morning will be communion day—day of renewed consecration.

Get in the habit of attending the Wednesday prayer meeting.

The state convention meets at Calvary church, Omaha, October 10-15. Have you decided to go yet?

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday at 10 o'clock. The subject of the lesson will be "Christ Anointed for Burial". Mark. 14: 1-11.

Regular divine worship every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock. The subject of the Sunday morning sermon will be "Excuse Me" Luke 14: 16-25. One of Christ's most impressive methods of teaching was by parables. The reason Christ's parables were so impressive was because they were based upon something familiar to the listeners. Upon one occasion Christ went into the house of a ruler of the Pharisees and sat down to eat bread. While He was eating He was teaching. One who sat eating with Him, moved by His great words said, "Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the Kingdom of God." Christ taking advantage of the expression, spoke the words of our text, revealing man's indifference to his great opportunity, and how easy he allows the little expressions, to escape his lips, "Excuse Me."

The evening sermon will be the last of the series on the subject of "Life." It will be "Making Good in Life," Philippians 3:12

The Luther League will meet at seven o'clock. Every young person in the church should be present at the meeting. Come, let us enjoy the hour together.

The Ladies Aid society met with Miss Adda Stambaugh last week. The attendance was very good and the afternoon was well spent, being delightful and profitable. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Christ Flohr.

At the meeting of the Aid Society held September 10th, the ladies decided to hold their annual Bazaar, December the 12th. Please keep this in mind.

The pastor would like to have the names of all who intend to enter the Catechetical Class.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church

Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.

Next Sabbath morning Rev. Alexander Corkey will preach on the subject, "My Gospel", and in the evening he will deliver a discourse on "Things which Make for Peace." Dr. George E. Williams of Columbus, who was expected to preach next Sabbath will not be present. His co-pastor in the Federated church of Columbus died this week, leaving him as the sole pastor of the congregation.

Methodist Church

There will be regular services at the Methodist church next Sunday. Rev. Buell will be here to fill the pulpit at that time.
