

The Nebraska Democrat

ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA. NOVEMBER 19, 1914

$1.50 PER YEAR

DEATH OF WILLIAM P. AGLER

Came to Wayne County in 1870.
Died at His Late Home at LaPorte November 14.

In the passing of William P. Agler of LaPorte one more of the few remaining pioneers of this country has gone never to return. Coming here with neighboring families from Paw Paw, Illinois, when this country was an unbroken prairie he took a homestead near what was to be the county seat of the county, aided in organizing the county and remained here through all of the trying times of those days of privation to see the wonderful development of this land. About twenty years ago he left his farm and moved to his place at LaPorte where he has since resided, and much of that time has been the keeper of the very few unfortunate ones in this county who have had to live in county home.

An honest, sturdy citizen he leaves many to mourn his death, and his funeral was attended by many of those who had long known and respected him. His brothers, B. J. Agler from Thornton, Iowa, and S. C. Agler and wife from Marathan, Iowa, and his son John from Prince Albert, Canada, were in attendance at his funeral.

Following is a brief history of his life:

William Pemberton Agler was born in Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, July 21, 1835. At the age of 14 he moved with his parents to Lee county, Illinois, where he grew to manhood.

On September 28, 1860, he was united in marriage to Pamelia L. Harmon. To this union three children were born, Mrs. C. A. Fox of Wayne, Mrs. A. E. Folck, now deceased and John E. Agler of Prince Albert, Canada.

In 1870 he moved to Nebraska where he helped in the organization of Wayne county and where he resided until his death which occurred on November 14, 1914.

Funeral services were held in the M. E. church at Wakefield, conducted by Rev. E. C. Cornell of Winside. Services at cemetery were in charge of the Masonic order of which he was a member.

Denbeck-Harder

Today, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Harder, occurs the marriage of her daughter, Miss Emma and Mr. John J. Denbeck, both of this city. Following the ceremony which will be witnessed only by the family and immediate friends, and a wedding dinner the bride and groom will leave for Omaha where they will visit a short time and go to Iowa to visit relatives at several different places, returning to Wayne the last of the month.

The bride grew to womanhood here, and has long served at the local switch board of the telephone exchange, resigning as chief operator the first of this month to unite for life with the man of her choice. Mr. Denbeck has been a resident of Wayne for the past two years, and is employed at the Central market. Both bride and groom have many friends here who will be glad to know that they are to be "at home" in this place after their wedding trip.

New Corn Shucking Record

During the past week new records have been made for corn husking in this county for this season. The men were husking in the Von Seggern fields where the crop is good, because he used pure bred seed (Reed's Yellow Dent) and did not plant too thick, so that the ears are large and well developed. Chas Murphy one day husked 137 bushels, and a day or two later Carlos Martin gathered 142 bushels from the field in eight hours actual husking time, and it took him three-fourths of another hour to put it in the crib. That is a good record for this year, when there is but few fields of corn that come up to the standard of other years when the rain was more seasonable. Mr. Von Seggern is doing good farming and has the results to show for it.

Hunting and Shooting Forbidden

All persons are hereby notified that hunting and shooting are forbidden on the farm lands of C. J. Lund, one mile north and one and one-half miles east of Wayne, under penalty of law. Ray Robinson, adv. 473-pd.

Roy Landanger Loses an Eye

Sunday afternoon Roy, son of J. N. Landanger and wife, who live six miles west of Wayne had the misfortune to have his left eye knocked out by a golf ball. A number of Wayne people have golf links on the Christ Hanson place about six miles west of Wayne, and when they play there young Landanger is "caddy" for them, and he was thus engaged when the accident happened. He was just coming up a bank from the waterway that runs through the field as one of the players struck his ball for a long drive. The lad was about fifty feet away when the ball struck him, cutting the flesh through at the upper edge of the eyelid, but not striking the skull bone with force enough to save the eye.

A physician was at once summoned, who pronounced the eyeball injured beyond hope of repair, and dressed the wound at once, and Monday the boy, accompanied by his father went to Omaha, where after an examination, it was decided to remove the eye. He withstood the operation well, and is said to be doing nicely, and will probably be able to return home within a day or two. It is to be hoped that no complications set in to endanger the other eye.

Echoes of The Campaign

The official canvas of the voters give Governor Morehead a plurality over his opponent of 19,197, and he carried 64 counties to Howell's 29. The progressive leader failed to carry a single county and probably no precinct. Sackett, progressive, received 8,665 votes.

The total vote was 246,315, which was 18,909 less than the number voted two years before.

The vote on suffrage was 90,284 for and 100,842 against the amendment. About 50,000 failed to vote on the question.

The campaign fund was $4,625.68, according to the report of the treasurer. More than 400 of the rank and file of the party contributed to the fund, and it was all expended except $1.41. A good fight was made on a very modest sum and beyond a doubt there was much volunteer work which is far better than paid work because the volunteer has his heart in the work for sure, while the paid man may be for revenue only.

A Sunday Blaze

About noon hour Sunday the fire alarm called the volunteer firemen to help extinguish a small blaze which had started, evidently from a spark, on the roof of the residence occupied by John Riddle and family, in the north part of the city, owned by the Misses Olmstead. The fire was almost under control before the firemen reached the scene, and the chemical made short work of what was left without the aid of water. The loss is slight—being little more than a hole in the roof.

Great Foot Ball Thanksgiving

On Thanksgiving day one of the best foot ball games ever staged in this part of the state is expected at the Normal grounds. The Wayne team will contest with the Bellevue college team, and there is promise of a well matched contest. Last season Wayne won from this team, and they want to even the score, but with the line-up at Wayne this year it is doubtful if they can do so.

Help Us Out--Early

The next issue of the Democrat is due for Thanksgiving day, and if our advertisers, correspondents and all friends who have news to contribute will be prompt with it we can get the paper out Wednesday evening and feel truly thankful the day following. Correspondents please take notice. We are not asking for a turkey just a little promptness all round.

The Weather

Zero weather this morning, the temperature being quoted from zero to four below, according to the thermometer and when it was looked at Wednesday morning the report was from 12 to 16 above. There was no snow to speak of and today is clear, still and bright.

City Buys Lot For Standpipe

The deal has been concluded between the city fathers and the school board whereby the city acquires the north lot of the old school grounds as a place on which to plant a new standpipe—one which will be better than the old one in many respects beside that of furnishing more pressure. Now if the school board can sell the building and the rest of the ground an idle property might be put to some good use. The building might be converted into a commodious rooming house, and we believe that it might be converted into a hospital—and there certainly appears to be ample need of a hospital here. Week in and week out there have been people enough from Wayne in some city hospital to keep one here comfortably filled, to say nothing of the people from nearby places who would prefer to have treatment nearer home if possible. Why allow this good building to remain idle? When the new building at the normal is completed the little use they make of it for kindergarten work now will be discontinued. It has been suggested that a company would find a hospital here a good investment if properly conducted.

Notice to Bidders

The City Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, will receive sealed bids for the construction of a steel water tank and tower to be erected on Lot 3 in Block 4 of Lake's Addition to Wayne, Nebraska, of about 60,000 gallons capacity and 100 feet to the top.

The tank shall be covered and have a 4 foot riser pipe from the tank to the ground. The bids shall include foundations and the extension of the 8 inch water main and connecting with the tank and not to exceed 150 feet. There shall also be an overflow pipe within the riser pipe and extending to the top of the tank and connected with the sewer, same to not exceed 50 feet, and be fitted with a suitable trap, and also an opening in the bottom with quick opening valve for flushing out the tank.

All bids shall be for a lump sum and filed with the City Clerk on or before December 1st, 1914, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Each bidder shall furnish their own specifications.

The Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the City Council. J. M. CHERRY, 47-2 City Clerk.

We, the undersigned Medical Physicians of Wayne, Nebraska, in consideration of our mutual promises, hereby given do hereby agree to present a statement of account, on the first of each month to those persons residing in Wayne and vicinity, who are indebted to us.

New Pump Here

The new pump for the city waterworks is here and on the foundation—but the motor power, has not yet arrived, and there is no telling when it may come, for it was shipped on Friday the 13th. The new pump looks like the real thing, and is quite a machine compared to the old one.

Union Thanksgiving Service

The union Thanksgiving service will be held at the Presbyterian church on Thanksgiving day evening at 7:30. Rev. Buell, of the Methodist church, will be the preacher. As usual, at this service an offering will be taken for some charitable object outside of Wayne.

Foot Ball Game

Rev. B. F. Richardson will preach at the Stamm school house Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be special music.

Social Notes

The Shakespeare club met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mabel Dayton and enjoyed the following program: Discussion of the present war situation by Miss Edith Stocking, in which the movements of the armies were made clear by the use of maps. Miss Stocking also discussed the probable effect of the entrance of the Turks into the combat, and the difficulties England is facing through the disturbance in the colonial possessions, Africa, Egypt and India, aggravated in some parts by the attitude of the Mohammedan element of the population. Miss Mary Mason then gave a review of the career of the late Lord Roberts, incidentally calling attention to the number of great men who are far past middle age. She also gave a very comprehensive description of the American hospital in Paris and the great work it is doing. Mrs. M. A. Phillips then reviewed the effect of the war on the literature of the time, reading "A Chant of Hate Against England" by Ernest Lissauer. By many critics this is considered the greatest poem of hate ever written. The study of these burning modern questions is proving highly interesting.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent by the members of the U. D. club Monday at the home of Mrs. Maude Miller. Members came arrayed in their wedding finery, then each one was called upon to do an original stunt, which proved to be very entertaining. Letters from former members were read with interest, after which a delicious luncheon was served. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clara Jones.

This is an occasion for fun. What harm in a little mirth, When lessons have been well done Play has its proper worth.

Wedding dresses taken down from the shelf.

Bring back memories worth preserving;

Let us tell them about ourself, With all the respect they're deserving.

An original stunt each must do, Something funny, I have guessed, I could think of nothing new But have tried to do my best.

Letters from old members have come

Filled with greetings for the day, Though we couldn't hear from some We will cherish what these say.

When we uncover the dishes, And each her plate doth fill You all have my very best wishes And hope you live through it still.

A Member.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Forbes was the scene of much merriment last Friday evening when the Rural Home Society entertained their husbands and families, about 40 in number. Various games were participated in by all present, after which an elegant lunch was served by the ladies of the society. At a late hour the guests departed, thanking Mr. and Mrs. Forbes for their hospitality and wishing that the Rural Home Society would entertain again soon.

The Early Hour club met with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ley Friday evening. The hours were spent socially and with cards. There are no prizes but the defeated ones give the winners a banquet at the close of the season. Light refreshments were served. The club meets with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Strahan next Thursday evening.

The Junior Bible Circle met at the home of A. P. Gossard and wife last Saturday evening. The lesson was the last of the second chapter of Thessalonians, which was led by Mrs. Young. After the lesson Miss Emma Abbott sang a beautiful solo. Next meeting will be with the Misses Gilbert.

A new club has been organized called the O. N. S., which met for the first time with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blair on Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in card playing and socially. Light refreshments were served. The club meets in two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Garhart.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Moran. Answer to roll call by giving quotations from Hiawatha. Mrs. Hahn read a paper, prepared by Mrs. Zoll, on Indian Schools. Mrs. Moran read a paper on Indian Arts and Crafts. The club will meet with Mrs. Main next Monday.

The Acme club met with Mrs. Davies last Monday afternoon. Roll call answered with Roman games. Mrs. Davies read a paper on the Coliseum of Rome. Mrs. Williams also read a paper on Roman Religion. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Jacobs.

The Bible Study Circle met at the home of Mrs. Laase Tuesday afternoon. The lesson discussion was led by Mrs. A. P. Gossard. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. H. Hickman. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Parish of St. Mary's church had a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Moran last Friday evening. A delicious two-course luncheon was served. About eighty were there.

Miss Camilla Hanson celebrated her 16th birthday Friday evening, a party of her young lady friends being asked in in honor of the event. It was a jolly evening for all present.

The Sick Improving Daily

There are yet a few cases quarantined here for scarlet fever, and for diphtheria, and we are happy to say that thus far they are in a very mild form—so mild that it scarcely seems necessary to shut them in—and it would not be but for the fact that from these mild cases comes an occasional one which develops alarming symptoms. The physicians, health officers and teachers are working together to keep the disease down, and are succeeding admirably. If each one will report symptoms of either disease promptly and obey quarantine conscientiously no trouble need be feared. Those who first showed symptoms of the fever are now out of quarantine.

Last Friday the Democrat asked for the more appropriate passage of scripture telling the situation politically, as Roosevelt saw it, and before the issue was an hour old the verse was laid on our desk by one of our Bible students, who awarded the prize to one of the local pastors. Here is the verse, II Peter 2:22: "But it happened unto them according to the proverb, 'The dog is returned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed to her wallowing in the mire.'

Miss Hyuck, the Art and Crafts teacher, is much pleased with the grades in her department.

Recent visitors in the high school were Mrs. J. G. Mines, Mrs. Lamberson and Miss Grace Havens.

E. J. Simmonds gave a talk to the high school last week on clean habits. Mr. Simmonds is a prominent man in the Y. M. C. A. organization and his talk was appreciated.

Kashi Asaka of Japan was here the first of the week, a guest of J. E. Ott and wife. Mr. Asaka is on the Orpheum circuit, and is a star vaudeville performer in which work he became acquainted with Mr. Ott while he was playing for the same management and paid them a visit while having a few spare days before going to Des Moines for a season.

E. H. Dorsey left Tuesday evening to enter the old soldier sanitarium at Hot Springs, South Dakota, where he expects to spend the winter at least, and hopes to come back in the spring feeling as sprightly as a younger man, and one who was not soldiering more than 50 years ago.

The senior class at the Normal bought "No-tair" sweater-coats at Morgan's Toggery because it was the best sweater-coat in town and the price is no higher. Aren't they beauties?—adv.

It's The Box Elder Bug

The annual presence in large numbers at this time of the slate back colored bugs variegated with red arouses, as usual, the curious interest of those who are not acquainted with their name or habits.

The insect that is invading residences and many other buildings is the box elder bug. A report of the office of the state entomologist at the University Farm, Lincoln, says that the eggs of the insect are deposited throughout the spring and summer in the crevices of the box elder tree, walls, lumber and stones. As soon as the red-colored young emerge, they obtain food from the box elder trees. By fall, they seek the crevices of houses and other places suitable for hibernation quarters. Although they have been known to stunt the young box elder trees, they hardly rank as a second-class pest of trees.

The only effective method of fighting the bugs is to spray them with a kerosene emulsion in the spring and early summer while on the trees.

The Million Dollar Mystery

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Illustrated from Scenes in the Photo Drama of the Same Name by the Thanhouser Film Company

(Copyright, 1914, by Harold MacGrath)

CHAPTER XIII.

An Agent From Russia.

The Black Hundred, not as individuals but as an organization, began to worry. Powerful and often reckless and daring because it was powerful, it began to look about for some basic cause for all these failures against Hargreave's daughter and Hargreave's ghost. They had tried to put the inquisitive reporter out of the way; they had laid every trap they could think of to catch the mysterious visitor at the Hargreave home; they had thrown out a hundred lures to bring Hargreave out of his lair, undriven, and they had lost a dozen valuable men and several thousand dollars. This must end somewhere, and quickly.

The one ray of hope for the conspirators lay in the fact that Florence had never seen her father and knew not in the least what he looked like. They determined to try again in this direction.

"Give it all up," said the countess to Braine. "I tell you, whatever is back of all this is stronger than we are. He knows the organization, and for all we know he may be a ghost."

"I never go back," smiled Braine. "There's something more than the million. There's the sport of the thing. We've been bested in a dozen bouts, and nearly always by a fluke. They have the breaks, as they say out at the Polo grounds."

"But the time and expense when we might be getting results elsewhere! I tell you, Leo, I'm afraid. It's like always hearing some one behind you and never finding anybody when you turn. I have told you my doubts. I have also asked you to trap that butler, but you've always laughed."

"You are seeing ghosts, Olga. A new man from holy Russia," shrugging, "is coming tonight. Evidently the head over there thinks our contributions of late have not been up to the mark, and they are going to stir us up. I am willing to wager my soul, however, that that box is simply a hoax to befuddle us. Either that or it holds the key. But the rest of them insist that the box must be recovered. When I leave this room tonight I am going over to Riverdale and stalk a scripted by the rules, and Count Paroff was given his chair. He spoke for a while, rather pompously.

"The head organization is not satisfied with its offspring in this Hargreave affair," he said in conclusion. "You are slow."

"Then you have come with some suggestions for the betterment of our business?" asked Braine ironically.

"Sir, this is not the hour for flippancy," said the agent coldly.

Braine made a sign with his hand, a sign not observed by every one. Instantly Paroff bent lowly. He recognized that the speaker was the actual, not the nominal, head of the American branch.

"What are your suggestions?" inquired the nominal head from his chair, anxious to avoid a clash between the newcomer and the truculent master of them all.

"I have been informed that Hargreave's daughter has never seen her father, not even a photograph of him," said Paroff, more amiably.

"We are absolutely certain that this is the case," said the nominal head, who was known as the president. "But we tried one play in that direction, and it failed miserably."

"I have the story," replied Paroff. "It was clumsily done. The ruse was un old one."

Braine was frank enough to admit the truth of this statement, however much he disliked the admission. He nodded.

"I have authority to take a hand in this affair. We cannot waste all summer. Those government plans of the fortifications of the Panama are waiting. There's your millions. But the fact remains that it is the law of the Black Hundred never to stop down till absolutely defeated. The hidden million is but half; we must find and break this renegade Hargreave."

"If he lives," said Braine.

"Who can say one way or the other?" brusquely asked Paroff. "The fact that all your plans and schemes have come to naught should prove to you that you are not fighting a ghost. There is but one way to bring out the truth."

"And that is to make a captive of his daughter," supplemented Braine. "And we have worked toward that end

"Is that so?" murmured Braine. "Olga, I want you to play a trick on this handsome delegate-at-large. I'm not very enthusiastic over his talk. I want him humiliated. All you have to do, he says, is to walk into the Hargreave house and walk out again. Well, let's you and I see that he does that and nothing else. I'll have no one meddling with my own game."

Some one sneezed, and everybody looked at his neighbor. The sneeze was repeated, but muffled, as if some one was desperately anxious to avoid sneezing.

"It came from above!" whispered Olga. "Don't look up!"

Braine was cool. He walked idly across the room to where Vroon sat. "Very well, Paroff; we give you free rein." To Vroon he said: "Some one is watching us from the room overhead. I thought that room belonged to us."

"It does," said Vroon stolidly.

"Then how is it that some one is watching from up there? No excitement. I'm going to bid every one good-night, then I'm going to investigate. When I leave you will quietly send men to all exits to the building. I want the man who sneezed, and I want him badly."

Olga departed with Braine, only she immediately sought the taxi that brought her and was driven home. It was always understood that when any serious exploit was under way hereabouts she was to make her departure at once.

Vroon stationed his men at the several exits and Braine went upstairs. The man who had sneezed, however, had vanished as completely as if he had worn that invisible cloak one other you in the least."

"Have I really a father? Sometimes I doubt. Why couldn't he steal into the house and see me, just once?"

"Perhaps he dares not. This house is always watched, night and day (though you'll look in vain to discover any one). Your father knows best what he is doing, my dear girl. You see, I met him years ago in China; and when he started out to do a certain thing he generally did it. He never botched any of his plans. So we all must wait. Only I'm going to marry you all the same, whether he likes it or not. The rogues will try to impose upon you again, but do not pay any attention to notes or personals in the papers. And it was a lucky thing that I was on the freighter that picked you up at sea. I shall always wonder how that yacht took fire."

"So shall I," replied Florence, her brows drawing together in puzzlement. "Sometimes I think I must have done it. You know people out of their heads do strange things. I seem to see myself as in a dream. And this man Braine is a scoundrel!"

"Yes; and more than that, he is the dear friend of the countess. But understand, you must never let her dream—or suspect—that you know. By pulling her into overconfidence some day she will naturally grow careless, and then we'll have them all. I think I understand what your father's idea is: not to have them arrested for blackmail, but practically to exterminate them, put them in prison for such terms of years that they'll die there. When you see a snake, a poisonous one, don't let it get away. Kill it. Well, I must be off to work."

"And you be careful, too. You are in more danger than I am."

"But I'm a man and can dodge quick," he laughed, picking up his hat.

"What a horrid thing money is! If I hadn't any money, nobody would bother me."

"I would," he smiled. He wanted to kiss her, but the eternal Jones might be watching from the windows; and so he patted her hand instead and walked down the graveled path to the street.

It was difficult work for Florence to play at friendship. She was like her father; she did not bestow it on every one. She had given her friendship to the Russian, the first real big friendship in her life, and she had been roughly disillusioned. But if the countess could act, so could she; and of the two her acting was the more consummate. She could smile and laugh and jest, all the while her heart was burning with wrath.

One day, a week or so after her meeting with Norton in the summer house, Olga arrived, beautifully gowned, handsome as ever. There was not the least touch of the adventuress in her makeup. Florence had just received some mail, and she had dropped the letters on the library table to greet the countess. She had opened them, but had not yet looked at their contents.

"They were chatting pleasantly about inconsequential things, when the maid came in and asked Florence to come to Miss Susan's room for a moment. Florence excused herself, wondering what Susan could want. She forgot the mail.

As soon as she was gone the countess, certain that Jones was not lurking about, picked up the letters and calmly examined their contents; and among them she found this remarkable document: "Dear daughter I have never seen: I must turn the treasure over to you. Meet me at eight in the summer house. Tell no one as my life is in danger. Your loving father."

The countess could have laughed aloud. She saw this man Paroff's hand; and here was the chance to be fool and humiliate him and send him off packing to his cold and miserable country. She had made up once as Florence, and she could easily do so again. The only thing that troubled her was the fact that she did not know whether Florence had read the letter

"friend," returned Florence with a smile that quite deceived the other woman. "I shall be glad to go to the tea—but I shall not promise to dance."

"Not with Mr. Norton?" archly.

"Reporters never dance themselves—they make others dance instead."

"I shall have to tell that," declared the countess; and she laughed quite honestly.

"Then I have said something witty."

"Indeed you have; and it is not only witty but truthful. I'm afraid you're deeper than the rest of us have any idea of."

"Perhaps I am," thought Florence; "at least, deeper than you believe."

When the countess fluttered down to her limousine, Florence hated the sight of it—and drove away. Florence remembered her letters. And when she came to the one purporting to be from her father, she read it carefully, bent her head in thought, and finally destroyed the missive, absolutely confident that it was only a trap, and not very well concealed at that. Norton had given her plenty of reason for believing all such letters to be forgeries. Her father, if he really wished to see her, would enter the house; he

Memoirs of Napoleon

In Three Volumes

This man caused the last general European war.

His personal memoirs, written by his secretary, Baron De Meneval, are full of the most absorbing incidents, especially in view of the present great European struggle.

Just a hundred years ago, his ambitions bathed the Continent in a sea of blood. France alone, under his leadership, fought Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy, and Great Britain—and won.

Get these Memoirs Free

By special arrangement with the publishers of COLLIER'S, The National Weekly, we are enabled to offer a limited number of these three-volume sets of the Memoirs of Napoleon free with a year's subscription to Collier's and this paper. The offer is strictly limited to 1000 copies.

To get advantage of it you must act promptly.

Sherlock Holmes Stories Exclusively in Collier's

All the Sherlock Holmes stories published in 1913 will be printed exclusively in Collier's.

For the "Last-Minute" pictures of the European War will appear every week in the photographic section of Collier's.

The finest fiction written will appear each week in short story and serial form.

Mark Sullivan's timely Editorials and his quoted Comments on Congress will continue to be an exclusive feature.

Special Offer to our Readers

Your own home paper and COLLIER'S, The National Weekly, together with the three volumes of Napoleon's Memoirs—all of these you get for the price of Collier's alone, plus 50¢ to cover the cost of packing and shipping the Memoirs.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)

The religious census of the town taken by the pastors of the churches is completed and plans are being worked out whereby the pastors and churches will be of the greatest possible service to the community. It is certainly a great pleasure to have the pastors and churches doing together that part of the work which can best be accomplished in unison. The Methodist church is anxious to be of service in the community, and cordially invites the members and friends to be regular attendants and helpers in all her activities.

The first of the Community Socials was held in the church parlor last Friday evening. The program was late in starting owing to a special program at the college, but when the activities began all were alert and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The young people voted enthusiastically for the continuance of these gatherings.

The Little Light Bearers and Kings Heralds will give their Annual Bazaar which will include a program followed with light refreshments on Friday evening of Thanksgiving week. Every body most cordially invited. The young people of the Community social will meet and enjoy the program and refreshments with the Little Light Bearers and Kings Heralds.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society will be held with Mrs. A. S. Buell at the parsonage Friday, November 20th, at 2:30 p. m. All of the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited to attend.

The Thanksgiving service will be a union gathering in the Presbyterian church at 7:30 Thursday evening.

In our Sunday school next Sunday we expect a new class of boys with Mrs. Senter as teacher. Wish the boys all take note and try and be there?

The theme for Sunday morning worship will be "Thy will be done", or "The will of God and the will of man" this being a continuation of the Lord's prayer series.

The Epworth League topic for the devotional meeting at 6:30 Sunday evening is "A song of thanksgiving", found in Psalms 103. The evening message by the pastor will be on "Facing the morning," or "The sunny side of life".

"Oh come, let us worship and bow down;

Let us kneel before Jehovah our Maker:

For he is our God,
And we are the people of His pasture, and the sheep of His hand.
Today, oh that ye would hear His voice!"

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The subject of the lesson will be "Jesus and Pilate," Matt. 27:11-31.

Regular divine worship every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 7:45.

The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Christ in Whom Christians Believe", John 9:36. Every man born into the world has to do something with Jesus Christ. True, there are a great many people who do not care to have anything to do with Him, but it is not a Next Sunday there will be Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching services at 11 o'clock.

Wedding at St. Luke's

The marriage of Miss Alice Kate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Kate, and Mr. Merton M. Welton was solemnized Wednesday evening in St. Luke's church, the Reverend Alexander H. Grant, rector of St. Paul's church, officiating.

Preceding the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock Miss Hazel Poland of Fairbury, Neb., sang a group of bridal songs. The organist, Mr. Leonard Kirwood, played Lohengrin's wedding march for the procession and Mendelssohn's march for the recessional. Mr. Louis Hart of Omaha served the groom as best man and Miss Stella Ladd of Albion, Nebraska, was the maid of honor. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a Duchess lace trimmed gown of white crepe meteor, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Ladd was gowned in pale blue crepe and carried pink roses.

Immediately after the church service a reception for fifty guests was held at the Kate home, 1603 West Eighth Street. Among the wedding guests were Mrs. A. H. Ellis and Mrs. J. E. Hufford of Wayne, Neb., Miss Florence Riddell of Manchester, Miss Verne Stocking of Denison, Miss Hazel Poland of Fairbury, Neb., Miss Stella Ladd of Albion, Neb., Mr. Don Neely and Mr. Louis Hart of Omaha. Mr. and Mrs. Welton will be at home after Dec. 15 in Lincoln, Neb.—Des Moines (Ia.) News.

More About Farm Demonstrator

One of our farmer friends, who does not agree with the Democrat as to the wisdom of engaging a farm demonstrator for this county says that our taxes are already too high.

That he has to pay a tax of $1.12 per acre on his land, and that his personal taxes are already too much. That to pay $1,500 per year for some one to tell the farmers what they already know or should know is too much.

He would like to be able rather to hire some dependable farm help. He would pay a good faithful hand $80 per month the year round if he will come and stay the year or forfeit.

Our friend mixed his taxes, prices, yields, farm management and farm work all in a bunch so that we cannot pick them apart and begin to tell of the good things he said, but will be glad to have him put his objections to the farm demonstrator in form to present to the people, and we will furnish the publicity. We do not think he is in any manner opposed to the results that should be accomplished by a demonstrator, but he thinks that some other method of producing the results would be better. Come on, friend, with your good ideas—others should have them—perhaps you can do some good work as a demonstrator—and that is what we want.

Another fact revealed was that when both the parents were faithful in their religious life, the children almost always were likewise faithful. And that the reason for children neglecting the church, was often found in the spirit and life of the parents.

Later on we shall have more to say regarding this canvas.

Last Wednesday evening four splendid young people were received into our church for baptism. On Sunday evening another young lady accepted Christ, and wants to come into our church fellowship. "The Expanding Kingdom," will be the subject of the sermon Sunday morning. The careful study of the parables is a most fruitful field of thought.

"Faith and the Christian Life" will be the theme Sunday evening.

The young people's meeting will be led by Miss Ethel Huff.

The prayer meeting next week will be different. You do not want to miss it.

dition and needs of every family in your block?

Obituary of Andrew Spike

Andrew Spike was born in Elfoden, Sweden, in 1870, and came to America with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Spike, about thirty years ago, and settling in Wayne county, which place has been his home most of the time since.

Two years ago he moved to a farm in Pierce county, between Pierce and Osmond, where he died by his own hand Wednesday, November 11, 1914, aged 44 years, 2 months and 1 day.

He leaves besides his aged parents a sister, Christina Anderson of Winside, two brothers, Lars at home, and William of Tracy, Minnesota, a wife and seven children, ranging in age from 2 to 17 years.

He was an industrious man, but not strong mentally, having twice been sent to a hospital for treatment.

Worry over a short crop and his health and fear of being again sent to the hospital are thought to be the cause of his act.

He was at Wayne the first of last week, and relatives whom he visited knew that he was not well.

He was a member of the A. O. U.

W. of Pierce and of the Highlanders of Wayne.

The body was brought here for burial beside that of one of their children.

The funeral was held Saturday afternoon from the English Evangelic church.

Rev. Blessing preaching the funeral, to a large number of relatives and friends.

THANKSGIVING

Cold weather brings out the overcoats.
Let yours be a good one.

Go where you will and pay what you choose, you will feel that your friend in his STYLEPLUS made a better buy. He had you beaten from the start. He knew the quality and the price. He was simply busy getting the one coat that looked best on him.

Same principle applies to suits here. No wonder we make new friends every day with these clothes. Always high quality and always one price.

Carefully selected all-wool fabrics for $17. Style imparted by a great designer for $17. Workmanship including hand tailoring for $17. Guaranteed satisfaction for $17.

You get what you want and what you ought to have—incidentally save money.

Styles for all men.

We bought heavy for this fall anticipating a good season. But the weather conditions have been decidedly unfavorable. The result of this is that we must dispose of our stock and to do it speedily and effectually have decided to offer our stock for one third and one half and in some instances less than half regular prices.

Sale begins Saturday morning, November 21st and will continue until the desired amount is disposed of. Not one dollar's worth in our big stock will be reserved. Everything reduced unmercifully.

For that Stubborn Cold

Prompt treatment of a cold may prevent the development of chronic catarrh or a chronic cough; may guard the individual from being overcome by bacteria of influenza, pneumonia, or consumption.

REXALL Cold Tablets

will be found excellent for the relief of a heavy cold. Frequently they serve to check such a condition, clearing the head, easing the tight feeling, relieving hoarseness and difficult breathing, inflammation of the nasal passages, throat and bronchial tubes.

We recommend these Tablets in the treatment of Coryza, Hay Fever, Rose Cold and Rhinitis, which are all practically due to the same general cause—germ irritation, leading to intense inflammation of the lining of the nasal cavities.

In treating a cold which has, as is generally termed, "settled on the lungs," Rexall Cold Tablets are advisable as an emergency remedy until competent medical advice may be obtained. Such a condition is serious, and usually medical advice is not only advisable but necessary.—25 Cents.

Nebraska farmers planted 25,482 acres of speltz in 1914. Last year the acreage was 29,305, there being a decrease of 3,823 acres as compared with 1913.

The A. O. U. W. of Nebraska last month allowed 26 death claims, amounting to $51,000. The average term of membership of those who died was 22 years. Their average was 60 years.

According to the estimates of the state board of agriculture there are 128,451 men over 21 years of age on Nebraska farms. The women number 103,018. In 1913 the assessors reported that there were 130,199 men and 104,850 women.

Base ball has not been a financial success the past season in many places, and as a result the salaries of many players have been reduced and the number of games to be played has been reduced fourteen in number in the western league at least.

The Norfolk Press of last week came out with a new, bright, clear look, and an item saying that the sheet was printed on a new Huber press explains the reason. We are glad to note that prosperity has come to the Press to the extent necessary to add such a press to their plant.

The Columbus Telegram has won a judgment for $2.35 subscription due from a reader who refused his paper after this amount was due, and refused to pay same. Suit was brought in lower court and the decision was for the paper. Defendant appealed, and last week the judge of the district court took the case from the jury and ordered a judgment for the sum in question. The Telegram was not lawing especially for the $2.35, but to know what the court would hold as the rights of a publisher in such a case, as they frequently occur in the newspaper game.

They found our missing battleship all right, but some other nations are not so fortunate.

Roger Sullivan is reported as saying: "It is regrettable," and in so doing he but echoes the sentiment of certain special interests that stood by him most loyally.

So long as both the Germans and the Allies claim a victory at the same time and place, this cruel war will go on, no doubt—but if they should happen to both admit defeat on both sides at the same time and place that should end the trouble.

There is one improvement of late in the war "news". The dailies are devoting less space to big black head lines and more to an attempt to tell in a simple way what is being done, where and why. By following the summary one may find some news which appears reasonable.

When the woman who tends to the hens and sells the fruit thereof at but 17 cents the dozen and the consumer in New York or other large cities has to pay 50 cents per dozen for the privilege of cracking the shell on these eggs, as it is shown they have to do, there is "something rotten in Denmark" besides eggs.

One of the big questions before the people and the coming session of the legislature is the school law question. It needs some revision, but where to begin and when to stop to produce the best results for the vast sum of money now expended for educational purposes is a question that will require careful consideration.

Our "German" friend who sends a communication from Winside forgot to sign his name to the letter. There are so many Germans that it is not fair to publish the letter over such a signature—and it is not customary at this office to give place to such letters unless we know who the author is, and we fear that little or no good would come from the publication of such a letter.

The republicans are looking for a new Moses to lead them out of the wilderness, and a number of them are going to watch Charles S. Whitman, who was elected governor of New York by about 130,000. The man who is elected to the presidency on the republican ticket will need some other qualifications than the opposition of Roosevelt to elect him. He will not be running against M. H. Glynn either.

The most serious phase of the eastern war is that now confronting the English if not the several allied nations, is the attitude of the Moslems under British civil rule in her colonial possessions and under the spiritual guidance of the sultan of Turkey. There are about 300,000,000 of these people, and they are in position to make untold trouble if they should unite in a "religious" war, if such a thing is possible except in name. At least religion and war are not supposed to work well together. But there are many wars which are not called by their correct name.

Free sugar helps Louisiana is the claim we see made in a good republican paper, and we are glad they have found it out. Farmers of that state are learning that they have a land and soil better adapted to growing some other crop, and the fact that they are to be pried loose from their "sugar teat" is not going to be so much of a hardship as they thought. In fact, they appear to be getting on a diversified diet that will make as much fat as the sugar and a lot more good flesh. A man might as consistently try to lift himself by the boot straps as for a people to try to tax themselves into prosperity. In either event every pound pulled up in one place bears down that much harder on another spot.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

The battle in Flanders continues with the same ferocity which has consistently marked this crucial struggle since it began more than a month ago. From French sources came reports of minor advantages in the fighting, but the great issue there, as on the eastern frontier of Germany, still hung in the balance.

Berlin made the statement that three British warships, part of the fleet which had been assisting the allies to stem the German onslaught toward the English channel, had been disabled.

Of greatest importance to Great Britain was the question of the attitude in the world war to be taken by the millions of Moslems in its colonial possessions.

Reports emanating from Germany were that the Moslems in some instances, at least, were siding with the sultan of Turkey, to whom they owe spiritual allegiance, as against Great Britain.

The German attack on the extreme west is shifting slowly southward in Belgium, toward the French border. The country to the west of Dixmude has been transformed, by the tapping of canals and the heavy rains, into a vast swamp, in which heavy fighting is almost impossible. South of Dixmude, the French war office said, renewed German efforts to cross the Yser canal had been beaten back, with the destruction of a German regiment. The French claim the recapture of positions taken recently by the enemy. Elsewhere along the lines the fighting has once more relaxed, being limited chiefly to artillery engagements.

In London it is rumored that a large force of Germans around Dixmude, has been cut off by the floods. The inundated country now extends south of Dixmude to within three miles of Bixhooft, about half way to the French border.

Four persons were brought to the police station in connection with the shooting. Tom Carr, a man who gave his name as Conran and two women, said to be the wives of the two men. A little girl, daughter of one of the women, was prevailed upon to tell of the shooting and she did so, implicating Carr and Conran, but was unable to tell which one of them shot the officers, as the shooting was so rapid she was confused.

Lincoln Asylum Crowded.

According to Dr. Williams, superintendent of the Lincoln asylum for the insane, that institution is so crowded that no more dipsomaniacs can be received.

He thinks that a good many counties have sent "dypsos" to the state institution more as a punishment than for the purpose of curing them of the booze habit.

He says that the financial condition of the institution is good and that if nothing unforeseen turns up there will be a surplus of about $12,000 at the end of the biennium.

Admissions during the month of October were in excess of previous months, fifty-two patients being received.

Forty-one patients left the place during the month.

In speaking of the surplus "dypsos," Dr. Williams said that he thought the first duty of the state was to the sane and therefore the former must wait.

What They Are Out on Race.

Candidates who spent money to get elected to office still continue to send in their statements, among the most important being the following: Frank J. Taylor, Democratic candidate for congress in the Sixth district, spent $618. W. T. Willis, candidate for attorney general on the Progressive ticket, spent $99.36. P. M. Whitehead, Democratic candidate for state superintendent, spent $522.80, and W. L. Minor, Republican candidate for auditor, spent $643. All the above are in the "also ran" class.

Organized Agriculture Meeting.

Dean E. A. Burnett and Professor C. W. Pugsley of the state farm are planning for the meeting of the twenty-five societies which compose organized agriculture Jan. 18-23, at Lincoln.

A number of the societies will meet in Lincoln, but the majority of the agricultural, live stock and dairy societies will hold their sessions at the state farm, where all the apparatus and data collected by the agricultural department of the University of Nebraska will be placed at their disposal.

Arson Charge Pressed.

H. P. Riquette, deputy fire commissioner, returned from Chadron, where he was successful in having Ora and Ira Phillips of Marsland, in that county, bound over to the Dawes county district court on an arson charge.

It is charged that the men, who are brothers, attempted to burn a store containing goods on which there was insurance.

Ora went to Texas, but was returned this week. Ira did not attempt to get away. The trial will be held Dec. 7.

State Endeavorers Elect Officers.

The state Christian Endeavor convention selected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Rev. Edgar Price of Friend; vice president, Rev. B. M. Shively of Calloway; secretary, Miss Addie Wagey of Cambridge; statistical secretary, Mrs. Emerson Drouard of Beatrice; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Pantel of Falls City.

Brown Assumes Charge.

It is now Postmaster Frank W. Brown, the commission, which has been on the way for some days, having arrived. According to report there will be no changes made in the office for the present at least.

Ed E. Sizer, who has been postmaster for twelve years, will retire to private life.

Vote on Suffrage Amendment.

According to the vote of eighty-seven counties which have reported to the secretary of state the suffrage amendment initiative proposition has lost by 10,000 votes. There were 201,408 votes cast on the amendment in these counties, 71,946 being for and $1,029 against.

Thomas Gives Up in Favor of Barr.

State Superintendent elect A. O. Thomas of Kearney has withdrawn his name from the ballot for president of the Nebraska State Teachers' association.

Superintendent R. J. Barr of Grand Island will be the sole nominee, insuring his election.

NEBRASKA NEWS

NATION'S FARMERS TO UNITE

American Federation Will Be Organized at Omaha Next Month.

Omaha, Nov. 17.—The formation of a system of county or district clearing houses for crop conditions in America is contemplated by a national farmers' organization that is to be perfected in Omaha at a convention Dec. 10, 11 and 12. The organization was temporarily organized in Kansas City in August. It is known as the American Farmers' Federation.

The plan contemplates a national bureau, or clearing house, to which all the local or district clearing houses would report regularly on crop conditions in the locality. A typical example of the work of the system could be drawn from the situation in which one locality might have a great crop of highly perishable fruit. The man owning the fruit farm would report the approximate date of ripening to his local bureau, or clearing house. The local manager would report it to the national clearing house. The national clearing house would likely have on file a record of the market conditions all over the country, with especial notes on certain localities where just such fruit might be marketable at the particular time.

Thousands of bushels of apples, peaches and other fruits rot beneath the trees in Nebraska and other states every year simply because the fruit grower or farmer does not know where to market at the particular moment when his crop is ripe. The assumption is that there is nearly always a profitable market somewhere for these products, if it could only be systematically found at the right moment.

SOUTH TO FORCE NORTH DRY

Dr. Landrich Says Dixie Will Free North From Drink.

Omaha, Nov. 16.—"If you don't go dry in Nebraska, it's your own fault. If you don't do it we southerners are going to come up here and do it for you, just as you made us abolish slavery. We down south think you ought to know enough to free yourselves from the slavery of alcoholism as we have done."

So declared Dr. Ira Landrich, a native of Tennessee and a member of the third division of the "flying squadron" which attacked the liquor traffic at the Auditorium. He spoke in behalf of state and national prohibition to be achieved by 1920.

Dr. Landrich delivered other pointed remarks, in which he informed the residents of Nebraska that a generous share of common sense on the part of voters was the chief requisite for bringing about prohibition and reminded his hearers that Nebraska had failed to give votes to women, which, he said, went along with the prohibition movement.

MORRISSEY REED'S DEPUTY

Attorney General Elect Appoints Governor's Secretary.

Lincoln, Nov. 17.—Andrew M. Morrissey announced that he had accepted the offer of Attorney General elect Willis E. Reed to be his deputy for the next two years. It was also announced that Mr. Reed would retain the present deputy, George Ayres, for a while and that Miss Josephine Murphy, who has been in the office several years, would also be retained, possibly permanently, as she is an expert in the line of work she has been doing.

State Treasurer elect George Hall also gave out that he would retain Bookkeeper W. B. Poor and one or two others of the present office force in the treasurer's office, at least until after the legislature adjourns.

South Omaha Has Big Blaze.

South Omaha, Nov. 17.—Oil and gasoline to the value of about $8,000 was destroyed when the Standard Oil tanks at Twenty-sixth and U streets caught fire from a passing locomotive. Three large tanks, two of coal oil and one of gasoline, each containing about 8,000 gallons, were destroyed. When the fire reached the gasoline tank an explosion followed. The head of the tank was blown almost a block. Bolts and rivets were scattered in the air and several people had narrow escapes.

Brings Damage Suit.

Stanton, Neb., Nov. 16.—Harry Barr, as administrator of the estate of Fred Barr, has sued the county of Stanton for damages because of the death of Fred Barr in an auto accident, five miles northeast of Stanton. Both petitions allege that the county was negligent and careless in the construction of the highway at the point of the accident.

Hogs Dying With Cholera.

Arcoa, Neb., Nov. 16.—There are a number of farmers near Murray that are losing a great many of their hogs from cholera. Several farmers have herds of over 100 that are suffering with the disease. A large number have vaccinated their herds in hopes of checking the malady.

Vote on Suffrage Amendment.

According to the vote of eighty-seven counties which have reported to the secretary of state the suffrage amendment initiative proposition has lost by 10,000 votes. There were 201,408 votes cast on the amendment in these counties, 71,946 being for and $1,029 against.

The Colonel and Belgium

"It will never be possible in any war to commit a clearer breach of international morality than that committed by Germany in the invasion and subjugation of Belgium. Every one of the nations involved in the war, and the United States as well, have committed such outrages in the past. But the very purpose of the Hague conventions and of all similar international actions was to put a stop to such misconduct in the future."

The United States and all the great powers now at war were parties to the international code created in the regulations annexed to The Hague conventions of 1899 and 1907. As president, acting on behalf of this government, and in accordance with the unanimous wish of our people, I ordered the signature of the United States to these conventions. Most emphatically I would not have permitted such a farce to have gone through if it had entered my head that this government would not consider itself bound to do all it could to see that the regulations to which it made itself a party were actually observed when the necessity for their observance arose. I cannot imagine any sensible nation thinking it worth while to sign future Hague conventions if even such a powerful neutral as the United States does not care enough about them to protest against their open breach. Of the present neutral power the United States of America is the most disinterested and the strongest, and should therefore bear the main burden of the responsibility in this matter."

Theodore Roosevelt.

Col. Roosevelt's point is this: That the inviolability of the territory of a neutral nation was guaranteed under The Hague treaty, and that as a signatory to that treaty the United States was under moral obligations to protect the neutrality of Belgium. When Germany was throwing troops into Belgium, in accordance with a plan at least twenty or thirty years old, the United States should have reminded Germany of the provisions of the Hague treaty and requested her to observe them. Would the incident end there? Certainly not—not logically at least.

When the German troops began moving into Belgium Great Britain was not involved in the war. Great Britain's main treaty interest related to preservation of Belgium's neutrality. London called Berlin's attention in which the absolute neutrality of Belgium was specifically guaranteed by the countries in that immediate vicinity—the only ones likely to violate it. Berlin scornfully referred to this treaty as a scrap of paper and went ahead with its plans to use Belgium as a highway for pouring troops and military supplies into France. Her protest against the violation of Belgium's neutrality having gone unheeded, Great Britain did the logical thing. She called upon her navy and her army to exhaust the last ounce of strength in an effort to compel Germany to live up to her treaty obligation to Belgium and to the rest of Europe.

Col. Roosevelt tells us in effect that had he been in the White House he would have protested to Berlin at the same time London did. His protest would have been based on alleged violations of The Hague treaty obligations. Does anyone think the American protest would have changed the course of Germany? When Berlin had disregarded Washington intervention as it ignored London intervention, what then? Great Britain went to war with Germany to enforce her protest. Would Col. Roosevelt have the United States likewise declare war on Germany to back up her protest? If not, wherein would the protest accomplish anything except to make the United States ridiculous? Knowing Col. Roosevelt as we do, it is difficult to avoid the impression that his disposition would be to pursue his course to its logical conclusion and get us tangled up in the world war in fulfillment of our share of the moral obligation of The Hague treaty as affecting Belgian neutrality. All who are sorry that Col. Roosevelt wasn't running our foreign policy in August last will please rise.

However, it is possible Col. Roosevelt, had he been president, might have made his protest and still have found a loophole through which to avoid a subsequent declaration of war. The treaty obligations growing out of the 1907 convention at The Hague were somewhat complicated. As a rule a nation did not sign up for any obligation which it did not like. The understanding in this quarter is that Germany was one of the nations refusing to subscribe to the clause forbidding belligerents to move troops or supplies across the territory of a neutral power. If this impression is correct the colonel's protest might have been politely answered by Berlin with a reminder that Germany had signed no such treaty obligation.—Sioux City Journal.

Chace—Wachob

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Jessie Wachob, formerly of the North Side, to Nathan Chace of Stanton, Nebraska. The wedding will take place the evening of November 10, at the home of Miss Wachob's sister, Mrs. Oliver K. Eaton, Foster road, McKeesport. The Rev. Charles F. Wishart of Chicago, Illinois, will perform the ceremony.

Gazette Times, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The above tells of the marriage of one of our most competent business men to a young lady that is well known and universally liked. We congratulate the newly wedded couple and wish them nothing but happiness all their married life.

The above is from the Stanton Register, and will be of interest to the Wayne friends of both bride and groom.

Concrete Growing in Use

In going about over the state it is gratifying to note the ever increasing number of concrete culverts and bridges that are being put in. Three types of culverts are in general use on Nebraska roads—plank, galvanized tube, and concrete arch, and it doesn't take a very close observer to tell which is the best. The only objection one hears to concrete bridges these days, is the seemingly high cost, and this objection is rapidly losing its force for it will not stand inspection. The expense of concrete is very little greater than that of the other materials and there is no comparison in the length of time they will last. Besides most of the money spent for a concrete bridge stays in the township in the form of wages paid for labor.

Built of any other material, a large part of the money goes out of the neighborhood at least.—Nebraska Farm Journal.

Odd-Fellows-to-Sholes

On Wednesday evening three auto loads of Randolph Odd Fellows went to Sholes and assisted the members of the lodge at that place in the work of conferring the first and second degrees. They arrived there about nine o'clock and the work as completed a trifle before midnight. After the lodge was closed the members of the Sholes organization served an oyster supper. The members and visitors having indulged to their utmost capacity, the cigars were passed and the Randolph delegation loaded into their cars and returned home. All those who were down to Sholes are very pronounced in their praises of the hospitality and expertise in cookery of the members of the Sholes lodge.—Randolph Enterprise.

A Farm Woman's Exchange

Bayfield, Wis., will try out the experiment of a farm woman's exchange. Co-operative effort is well understood in Bayfield where the fruit growers have built an industry by organization. Now the farm women, encouraged by town women will apply the well-known principles of a woman's exchange to the marketing of eggs, butter, poultry, vegetables, and even skimmed milk, cottage cheese and butter-milk.

It is purely a housekeepers' enterprise. Twenty-five farm women have enrolled in the informal association for a try out in comparison with the crude method of kitchen door peddling. They have agreed to cut the market quotations in consideration of the saving in energy and labor. The committee of town women will grade and inspect all food products.

The State of Trade

Of the conditions of business the country over, Bradstreet says: "Improvement. Money matters eased by release of reserves—Federal banks to start. Large foreign buying of war supplies and cotton. Exchange rates normal for the first time since the war. Domestic trade slow to respond, warm weather retards buying. Industry, except where war work offers, at low point. Winter wheat area enormous and condition high. The south is planting grain. Export trade greatly expanded. Livestock trade, except in horses, disorganized. No cattle receipts at Chicago. Wool feels war embargoes and quarantine regulations. Securities prices better. Cotton higher."

This is not a bad report, taken as a whole. Some things should be better no doubt, but it is seldom that all things considered, a better report is made.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

Romances of Some of the World's Rarest Issues.

THE "DEATH MASK" MYSTERY

Curious Case of the Servian Stamp issued After the Murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga. The One Cent British Guiana Stamp of 1856.

Not a little of the fascination which the study and collecting of postage stamps holds for enthusiasts lies in the fact that the story of their origin and subsequent history is in many cases of an exceedingly romantic character.

The single known copy of the rarest stamp in the world, valued at $10,000—the one cent British Guiana issued in 1856—was discovered by a young collector in the colony among some old family papers stored away in an attic.

Knowing nothing of its secrecy and not being favorably impressed by its appearance, he sold it to another collector for a trifling sum, the purchaser being also ignorant of his great bargain. Ultimately it found its way to Europe and now reposes in the collection of M. Philippe de la Renouiere of Paris, who purchased it many years ago.

The value of $7,250 is placed upon the famous "Postoffice Mauritius" stamp, which was crudely engraved on a small copper plate by a local watchmaker of Port Louis and issued on Sept. 21, 1847. A total of only 500 copies of each of these stamps were tediously printed off one at a time from the plate, and the majority of these were used on invitations to a ball sent out by Lady Gomm, wife of the governor of the colony.

It was not until nearly twenty years after their issue that the first two copies of these rarities were brought to light by a young stamp collector of Bordeaux. The most perfect used copy of the 2d. Postoffice Mauritius was sold by auction in 1904, and is now included in King George's collection.

To the story of the watchmaker who designed this stamp may be added that of the baker's boy who engraved a stamp of the republic of Corrientes, now forming part of the Argentine federation.

In 1855 it was decided by the authorities to issue stamps, but they could find no engraver to cut the die or prepare the plates. While one of the officials was discussing the situation with the head of the state printing office on his veranda one morning a baker's boy arrived with the daily supply of bread and, overhearing the conversation, volunteered to undertake the work, stating that before immigrating to South America he had been apprenticed to an engraver in Italy.

Ultimately the boy was given the work to do, and he turned out a stamp which, although crude, served for all the postage stamps issued in Corrientes from 1855 to 1880.

Probably few people are aware of the fact, by the way, that King George of Britain (then Prince of Wales) was responsible for the design of the 1903 postage stamps of Canada, universally acknowledged to be the most artistic stamps of the last reign. About the time of the late king's coronation the postmaster general of Canada, then on a visit to England, took the opportunity of consulting his royal highness on the subject of the proposed new issue of postage stamps for the Dominion.

The prince at once took the keenest interest in the work, designed the stamp in conjunction with a member of the Royal Philatelic society and superintended the preparation of the "master die" in England. The Edward VII stamps of Canada can therefore lay claim to the distinction of being designed by a king.

A stamp around which centers one of the foulest political crimes of modern history is the so called "death mask stamp" of Servia, issued in 1904 to commemorate the accession of King Peter I. The dastardly assassination of King Alexander and his queen, Draga, by military officers on June 11, 1903, wiped out the Obrenovitch dynasty from the throne of Servia and paved the way for the present king.

After the tragedy one of the most famous of French stamp engravers was commissioned to prepare a stamp from a design by a Servian artist showing on a single plaque the twin profiles of Kara George, the founder of the dynasty which bears his name and King Peter, his descendant.

The stamps were issued at the time of King Peter's coronation, in 1904, and hardly had they got into circulation when it was discovered that the "death mask" of the late King Alexander had been skillfully and subtly introduced into the design and, on the stamp being inverted, could be plainly traced in the reversed features of the two heads.

This discovery at once caused an outcry, the strategem being ascribed to ex-Queen Nathalie, mother of the murdered king, and her supporters, but all connivance in the plot was indignantly repudiated by the engraver, and the mystery of this extraordinary happening has never been satisfactorily cleared up.—London Strand.

A Scene Before the Mirror.

What the jungle ladies of Africa lack in clothing they make up in hair adornment. Some styles are pleasing, while others are very grotesque. Their hair combs are made of a very tough wood, and they need to be tough, for one of the feminine customs is to put gum all through their hair to keep it in place. A very strong comb is needed to get it apart, but the women contrive somehow to do it, and as time is not money in Africa they are never in a hurry.

One is not surprised to learn that sometimes it takes a woman a week to have her hair properly arranged.—Christian Herald.

Aftermath.

"Aftermath" is a persistently ill used word. Early July is the time of the "mow"—that is, the first mowing of the meadow. The short grass with a sufficiency of rain will grow again, and later will come the "second mow," or "aftermath." The phrase "The storm and its aftermath" seems a favorite with some story writers, but it is difficult to understand how a storm can have a second mowing.

No Place For Letters.

A learned young woman of Boston was spending her vacation in a little country place. To the local bookshop of the village she went one afternoon and made known her mental wants to the clerk:

"I should like the 'Letters of Jane Welsh Carlyle.'"

"I beg your pardon, miss," said the clerk, "but this ain't no postoffice."—New York Globe.

The Hohenzollerns.

The family name of the German emperor is Hohenzollern. If the emperor were just a plain man of the people his name would be William Hohenzollern. The family began to gain political distinction about 1417, when Frederick of Nuremberg became elector of Brandenburg.
