

NORMAL CLOSES BEST YEAR IN HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL

Closing Exercises Held in The New Auditorium Were Well Attended. Graduating Class Largest in History of The School.

The Commencement exercises at the State Normal school, which continued during the entire week, closed at ten a. m. Friday with the graduating exercises held in the new auditorium. Unfavorable weather conditions made it necessary to cancel the field-day contests on Thursday, but all other events were carried out in accordance with the printed calendar. Last week's issue of the Democrat included a report of the class play, which was held on Tuesday evening, May 25. The other events follow in order:

Commencement Concert

The opera "Martha", given on April 8 under the direction of Professor Coleman of the department of music, was, by request, repeated during commencement week. This delightful musicale was held in the new auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 26. The part of Lady Harriet Durham, the heroine of the tale, was sung by Miss Grace Adams, who was supported in the duet parts by Miss Ina Hughes. Miss Eva Graves, also had an important part in the program. Solo parts by Messrs. E. R. Rogers, J. G. W. Lewis, E. E. Lackey and J. J. Coleman, received enthusiastic approval. Miss Rachel Fairchild was accompanist.

Alumni Reunion and Banquet

A very delightful event of the week was the alumni and reunion and banquet on Thursday evening. At seven o'clock members of the alumni association and their friends gathered in the auditorium to listen to a short musical program. Glen Hickman of the class of 1913, presided, and the following program was rendered: Piano solo, Mrs. J. T. House; vocal solo, Miss Eva Graves; selection, Normal Ladies' Quartet; vocal solo, Professor E. E. Lackey.

The program was followed by a short business session, in which officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Miss Edith E. Beechel; vice president, Miss Charlotte M. White; secretary, Miss Alwine H. Meyer; treasurer, Mr. Rollie W. Ley.

The guests then repaired to the dining-hall, where an excellent banquet was served. The dining-room was artistically decorated in the Normal colors, black and orange. Candles with orange and black shades shed a soft light over the tables, and vases of yellow roses and daisies placed at intervals added much to the beauty of the table decorations.

Miss Mary Mahood, whom the older students were glad to see again, took the toast of the regularly appointed toastmaster who could not be present. She promised her remarks by saying "It is an ill wind that blows nobody good", and without a disparaging thought for Superintendent Culler, as she proceeded to throw in her jokes as she introduced each speaker, those present felt that it was surely true.

Miss Beechel, who welcomed the class in a most effective manner, emphasized service. One pertinent thought was "Don't teach unless you feel that you want to teach". Ray Hickman responded on behalf of the class in a straight forward, pleasing manner.

C. R. Chinn, just back from Columbia, especially suggested the mistaken views of the people of the East in regard to the West. The address of Rev. Cross' devoted to Miss Beechel's in a most surprising manner, following Isaiah's thought, "a man, a shelter of a rock in a dry and thirsty land" he brought out the idea of service. We would like to quote literally from his address but space forbids.

Miss Madsen was called upon for poetry. Miss Monahan preferred to remain neutral. Representative Mears who was present gave an apt story. Miss McGraw stood up, spoke up, and shut up; and Mr. Rogers was excused from speaking until 1916. Miss White was called upon and gave a very excellent impromptu address.

Graduating Exercises

The commencement day program was a success in every particular.

The exercises were held in the beautiful new auditorium; the graduating class was the largest in the history of the school; the attendance, despite the inclemency of the weather, was a record breaker, and the oration and other numbers of the program were all that could be desired to make the fifth annual commencement a noteworthy event in the history of the school.

Following the procession, a Turkish march by Mrs. J. T. House and the Misses Beith, Gildersleeve and Sutton, a men's chorus under the direction of Professor Coleman sang, "The Stars and Stripes Forever". The invocation was given by Rev. A. S. Buell, and Madames A. R. Davis and T. T. Jones rendered a vocal duet.

Senator Hitchcock was introduced by President Conn. Introductory to his subject Mr. Hitchcock referred to his own school days, mentioning the advice given to the graduates of the law department of the University of Michigan by one of the professors, who said that while he hoped they would all be

The May Rainfall

According to the rain gauge at the State Bank the total rainfall for the month of May was 5.71 inches, and the most of it came during the last half of the month, the dates and amounts being as follows:

May 2, .25; 4, .10; 11, .47; 19, .42; 20, .40; 21, .28; 23, 1.01; 25, .46; 26, 1.06; 27, .48; 28, .68; 29, .10. The beauty of the rainfall was in the fact that it was so deliberate in coming that practically all of it was absorbed by the soil, so that it was worth much to this county. Only on one evening did the rain fall faster than the ground could take it up practically as fast as it fell, hence there was but little damage and the much needed soaking was secured, placing the land in the best condition as to moisture, than it has been in for several seasons.

Much of the corn was planted before the wet weather started, and some of it was up. While the weather was rather cool the corn that is up looks well, and seed planted later is reported to be coming good. In a few places near here the corn was washed out and a few have had to replant a portion of their fields. This work as well as listing and planting the fields not planted has been going on rapidly, the work beginning Monday even though fields were most too wet to work well, but it was getting late.

Monday and Tuesday the work of cutting alfalfa began again, and the first crop is falling before the sickle as fast as it is possible to get to it.

The Savidge Carnival

Monday afternoon the wheels commenced to roll and the Savidge carnival was set in motion for the summer. We do not know that the president pressed the button in fact think he was otherwise engaged just then with a push due at Mexico and the prospect of having to tell the Kaiser's little fellow at Washington to take his doll and go home. But merry-go-round commenced to play with the seats all taken—for the free ride—and the big Ferris wheel went round with seats filled. The side shows, the free attractions and the band all joined to let all know that the season was on. Every evening under the big tent there gathers a crowd to listen to the plays—and a most excellent troupe is putting on a new play each evening—and by new plays we mean fresh from the publisher and not something that happens to be new to this troupe.

Tonight is a new play, Friday evening "The White Slave Traffic," Saturday afternoon a musical comedy, "Mutt and Jeff," will please all, and the week will close Saturday evening with the "Game of Life".

Of the numerous carnival concerns we have happened to know something of, we are glad to say that the one which claims Wayne as its home is the squarest, cleanest and best we have known.

Celebrates Seventy-Second Birthday

Last Thursday evening a very pleasant social event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrin, the occasion being the seventy-second birthday anniversary of Mrs. Perrin. Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Benshoof of Lindsay, California, and Mrs. Blanche Perrin Luckey and three children of Gothenberg, Nebraska.

A six o'clock dinner was served by the hostess and those who by experience are acquainted with the culinary skill of Mrs. Perrin will understand that there was no lack of good things to eat.

A noteworthy incident in connection with this gathering is that there were assembled at the Perrin home last Thursday three couples whose golden wedding anniversary will occur within the next year. On June 10, 1915, Mr. and Mrs. Benshoof will have been married fifty years; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrin were united in marriage on December 12, 1865, and on April 14, 1916, will be the "golden wedding day" of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hyatt.

Quite remarkable, too, that each member of this sextette remains hale, hearty and happy, notwithstanding that the allotted time of three score years and ten has been passed. The only exception possibly would be that of "Uncle Jack Hyatt", whose extremely dignified demeanor, mournful countenance, grouchy disposition, dyspeptic appetite and serious attitude toward life generally are so well known to his neighbors and bitterly regretted by his friends.

Mrs. Perrin, retaining not only the health and vigor of youth, but possessed of beauty of character, face and figure, looked queenly that evening as she prepared, the birthday dinner, her youthful appearance challenging the truth and veracity of the family record, which claims she was born on May 27, 1843.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrin came to Wayne county in 1883, locating on a section of land about twelve miles from town. In 1888 they moved to town; and having retired from active business life, these estimable people live happy and contented in the affection of a large family of children, now grown to manhood and womanhood, and enjoy to the fullest degree the confidence, the esteem and the love of the entire community.

Jacobson-Laase

At the Methodist parsonage in this city, Wednesday forenoon, June 2, 1915, occurred the marriage of Mr. Sim I. Jacobson and Miss Pearl Laase, Rev. Buell officiating. The groom is a worthy young man who has made many friends during his residence in this county. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Laase of this city, and a member of the junior class of the high school the past year, a young lady of most excellent character and popular with a large number of young friends.

Only immediate family of bride and groom were present at the wedding, and wedding dinner which followed the ceremony at the Laase home in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson left on the afternoon train for a short visit with his brother near Sloan, Iowa, followed by showers of rice and good wishes. They will return to Wayne within a few days and be at home here until fall at least.

THOMPSON—Monday, May 31, 1915, to C. B. Thompson and wife, a daughter.

Shippers and Breeders Organize

The Northeast Nebraska Live Stock Breeders and Shippers association held its first annual meeting at Wayne on Tuesday, June 1st and perfected its organization and elected the following officers: President, Frank E. Strahan, Wayne; vice president, H. C. Bartels, Carroll; secretary, Charles E. Clossen, Carroll; treasurer, W. H. Gildersleeve, Wayne; and the following board of directors: W. C. Ryan, Emerson; John Shellington, Wakefield; John Shannon, Wayne; John Prince, Winside; C. W. Anderson, Hoskins; W. H. Stageman, Randolph; E. W. Clossen, Sholes and appointed John Shannon and E. Cunningham as a committee to solicit membership and among other things passed the following resolution: "That the secretary be instructed to secure a copy of the contract issued by the railroads to shippers under the Cummins law and forward, same to Interstate Commerce Commission and ask for an opinion as to the validity of same." This is the law passed by the recent congress for the purpose of fixing upon railroads full responsibility in case of loss instead of the limited liability heretofore enforced by the railroads. The association seemed to be under the impression that the railroads were putting into effect a new contract by which they are seeking to raise the freight rates because of the additional responsibility assumed in compliance with the law above named. It seemed to be the opinion of several members of the association that the railroads of the country had submitted the proposition of increasing rates on live stock shipments because of the added expense they would incur on account of this law and that the Interstate Commission had refused to allow the increase asked. This association seems to be composed of live ones and it is very evident they propose to look after shippers' interests in a much more effective manner than has been done in the past and they feel that they are entitled to the heartiest support from every shipper in the state.

Hughes-Douglas

Mr. Forrest L. Hughes of Wayne and Miss Opal E. Douglas of Tekamah, Nebraska, were united in marriage at the home of the brides' parents near Tekamah, at high noon on Wednesday, June 1, 1915, Rev. A. S. Buell of the Wayne M. E. church officiating. Only the immediate members of the families were present. The bride was beautifully attired in white. The house decorations were carried out in pink and white, a beautiful rosebower arching the young couple during the ceremony.

Mrs. Hughes is quite well known in Wayne, having attended the Wayne State Normal College. The groom is clerk of the district court for this county, and a young man who has made his home in this county for the greater part of his young life. Since moving to Wayne four years ago he has won a host of friends here, while at Carroll, his boyhood home all will join in extending congratulations. They started on their wedding trip to the Rocky mountains Wednesday. They have their home furnished and ready for occupancy in the northeast part of Wayne.

The Kasier's Reply

The reply from Germany to the American protest, received Monday was not satisfactory for the reason that it evades the real question at issue and casts a reflection upon the integrity of this government—in fact it appears as a plea to gain time before making known the intentions of the Imperial government.

The daily press in forecasting the reply of this country to this evasive note indicates that this government will stand firmly by the position taken in its first, note demanding that the right of neutrals be respected upon the high seas according to the established international regulations which have long been recognized as proper in case of war. This government asks and doubtless will insist that the warring nations of Europe abide by international law. That, it is thought, will be the position held by this country and other neutrals. We have the right to demand it—we are expected to abide by it, and are honestly trying so to do. War should not give any nation license to violate international law.

Memorial Services

Decoration day was fittingly observed Monday, a large audience gathering at the opera house to participate in and listen to the exercises in honor of the soldiers of 1861-5 both the living and the silent majority.

The stage and building were appropriately decorated with flags, bunting and pictures of Lincoln and President Wilson. "America for Peace" was the motto across the front of the stage, and the dove of peace alighting on a cannon at one side with a stand of guns stacked opposite were typical of the sentiment expressed by the motto.

In the line of march both to the hall and from there to the cemetery were the Savidge band, 100 pupils of the schools with flowers, military escort of the resident members of Co. G., N. N. G., who also acted as the firing squad during the impressive ceremony at the cemetery where the ritual service of the G. A. R. was followed, excepting that the first prayer ever spoken in the United States senate was added, the flower girls decorating the graves while the service was held. There were but 16 veterans in the line of march of the 22 members of the post at this place.

The program as published was followed, F. S. Berry, president of the Commercial Club presiding. A quartet of male voices composed of Messrs. Davies, Lackey, Lewis and Rogers sang—Ralph Ingham gave the Lincoln Gettysberg address. Rev. Cross made an excellent talk, paying liberal tribute to the veterans of the audience and urging the formation of strong sentiment against unrighteous war—and taking the ground that no cause save that of humanity should warrant any nation going to war.

Year by year as the number of soldier survivors decrease decoration day becomes a more solemn occasion, and its influence upon the growth of true patriotism appears more marked. We are growing away from the idea that to fight and die for one's country is a higher mark of devotion than to unselfishly live for it.

Police Make Raid

Too much noise attracted the attention of Chief of Police Minor to the Union hotel Saturday night, and investigation resulted in the arrest of three, a fourth man making his escape. Before Judge Britton Tuesday morning two of the offenders, F. O. Elder and Jos. Stanley, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor and were fined $5.00 each and costs, amounting to nearly that much more. To the charge of gambling Jones waived examination and was bound over to the district court, and is out on bail pending trial.

Sioux City-Norfolk Road Selected

At a meeting of representatives of the different towns interested in the proposition of selecting routes for automobile travel between Sioux City and Norfolk and Sioux City and O'Neill at this place Wednesday afternoon the committees named at the Allen meeting two weeks ago reported, their reports were discussed and passed upon.

The meeting was called to order by W. S. Hart of Allen and E. Cunningham selected to preside at the meeting and E. W. Huse was named as secretary. The object of the meeting was to locate the best routes between the above named points and arrange for marking the roads selected and organizing to keep them in the best shape possible for travel.

Allen, Belden, Laurel and Randolph were represented along the line of the proposed Sioux City-O'Neill road, and their committee reported on a route through those towns on west through Osmond, Plainview and Orchard, and the report was adopted. This line will be marked by blue and white painted on the telephone poles along the route, and an arrow or index of some kind will also be painted to indicate the approach to a bad turn or a place considered dangerous from any cause.

Emerson, Wakefield, Wayne, Hoskins and Norfolk were represented along the proposed southern route to Norfolk, where the road will strike another road to the northwest to unite at O'Neill with the north line. This line selected a route by the way of Dakota City, Homer, Emerson, Wakefield, Wayne, Winside and Hoskins to Norfolk. The marking will be black and white along the line on the telephone poles.

There was some sentiment in favor of routing this last road from Wakefield to Allen, thence to Sioux City over the same line as the other road, and it is probable that the road between Wakefield and Allen will also be marked for the benefit of any who wish to travel that way. It is a good move and we are glad to see it so well started. It will mean much not only to the tourist but to the home folks to have a good, well-marked route between the different towns. Better roads mean better towns and the farmers will also profit thereby.

At Omaha Wednesday, June 2, 1915, occurred the marriage of Miss Mabel Clark, daughter of A. B. Clark of this city and Lt. Glenn Wilhelm of Galveston, Texas. Miss Clark has a host of Wayne friends who will wish her a life of happiness. Among the guests who went from Wayne to be present at the marriage were D. H. Cunningham and wife, C. H. Fisher and wife, Mrs. Ellis and daughter Dortha, and Miss Magdeline Hahn.

Round Oak Moist Air Heating System

Note that the dome of this heater is made in one single-piece casting, compressing the smoke flue and lead flue elbows, having also a dove-tailed flange which is filled with asbestos—rope and cement arranged to seal the joint between the boiler—iron body and dome when furnace is set, thus making any leakage of gas, dust or smoke impossible.

The horizontal lead flue into which all vertical flues enter, is made in the form of a horseshoe, and is a single-piece casting like the top and ash-pit. Its position is just above the ash-pit which it partly encircles.

All soot and ash that settle into this flue are easily removed through clean-out doors conveniently placed.

The lead-flue feature of the Round Oak Furnace has proved to be a valuable one; experience showing that with the increasing radiating surface arranged to prevent a direct flow of heat to the chimney, nearly all of the heat generated by the check is retained inside the casting, and utilized instead of passing up the chimney, as is the case when furnaces without this feature are used.

The flues are all inside the casing, none outside in the cellar.

After being twice postponed, the annual field meet of the Northeast Nebraska High School Association, which was to have been at Hartington, has been declared off for this year on account of the heavy and continuous rains which have been falling in this vicinity for the past few days.

A class of 37 graduated from the high school at Columbus this year. It is encouraging to note that nearly all high schools are having larger classes than in former years, which means that there are more people, better schools and still better than that—it means that a larger proportion of those who start in at the bottom come out at the top instead of dropping out half way up.

Calves can be raised on skim milk, says a bulletin issued by the agricultural department of the university. They say to make the change gradually after two weeks of age, daily increasing the supply of skim milk and reducing the whole milk ration. That may work all right with a calf on the two kinds of milk, but the fellow who tried to keep his horse by substituting sawdust for bran should get with the skim milk.

A count of the Columbus people made while getting out a new city directory places the population of that place at 6,488. The population by government count five years ago was 5,014. If the estimate is correct Columbus has done well; but is it? But in either event Columbus is too large in number and importance to not have paved streets and a sewer system—but some large places have some very small people. So small that they obstruct every public enterprise possible.

A newspaper is an institution that should always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privilege classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.—Joseph Pulitzer.

All farmers' institutes are to be cut down to one-day sessions and but two speakers will be furnished by the state. This action on the part of the Agricultural Extension Service is made necessary owing to a lack of funds. The decision does not come as a surprise to those familiar with the work, inasmuch as the report of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska laid before the last legislature read in part: "If the amount given two years ago for agricultural extension in Nebraska, including farmers' institutes, is not increased, it will be necessary to drop part of the work of the farmers' institutes." The legislature did not increase the amount. If more than a one-day institute is desired, the Extension Service will recommend speakers. All expenses, however, must be met locally.

The petitions signed are to be presented to Mr. Mann on his return from Honolulu at a place somewhere between San Francisco and Chicago, probably Denver. ### To Pave or Oil Streets

The recent rainy season has revived talk of oiled and paved streets, and it is in a time like this that we realize the need of better roads, and the good road agitation that started this spring is timely indeed. Of late one hears but little about oil for the roads, and if it were available here the Democrat would venture the guess that a four-inch dressing of good gravel well rolled down would be better than oil. We would be glad to see the streets of Wayne paved in the business district as soon as it could be done, and then once a start is made, extend it out a few blocks each season.

Below we quote a rather non-committal item from the Blair Pilot. It does not say that oil is a success as road improvement, but it implies that it may be the cause of the loss of shade trees, and that is something which should be known before experimenting at Wayne. Whatever our views may be in regard to Blair's oiled streets they are certainly performing one function which was not on the bill board at the time the oiled street agitation was ripe. Several months after the application of the oil it was noticed that the big trees which for many years have been a source of shade to the business district as well as a menace to the upper windows and roofs of the business house, were dying. Whether or not they had already begun to die is not recorded but the application of the oil did not tend to preserve their health, be it good or otherwise. Therefore the mandate has gone forth from the city dads that all such trees shall be cut down, to the end that human life and property shall not be endangered by reason of their fall during the next period of zephyrs. And right here we want to commend those city dads for the action taken in felling the old trees, most of which have been in a process of slow death for some time, and hasten to add that their predecessors builded better than they knew when they poured oil, not on the troubled waters, but on Blair's dusty streets. They may not have settled the dust question any better than the oil has settled the dust but they have hastened the downfall of the trees which after all were but of doubtful value. Blair will now present a more civilized appearance rather than resembling an ancient New England village. Now if that pavement ever gets put down and a sewer system installed we will not be so far behind the other towns of our size after all.—Blair Pilot.

Wise and Otherwise

Good digestion is needed when a fellow has to eat his own words. Anyway, when a woman argues she can always convince herself. No farmer has much time to devote to his artistic temperament. A dangerous man is one who fights and cries at the same time. Agriculturally speaking, and otherwise, a cabbage comes to a head, while corn comes to a foot.

A new breeders' directory of the improved live stock breeders of this state has just been issued, and may be had by applying to J. H. Gramlich at the University Farm, Lincoln.

Great Peace Conference

The great st peace conference that has assembled for many years in session in Washington, and Andrew Carnegie and his peace foundation have had nothing to do with it. It is the assembling of the representatives of eighteen South American republics at Washington to hold conference with the representatives of the people of the United States. If the propositions that have been advocated at the conference are adopted and put into operation they should insure peace on this hemisphere for generations to come, for it will be to the interest of all to preserve peace.

One of the propositions is for the adoption of one money unit for all of these countries. Another is to mobilize the credit of all these nations. Another is to secure means of transportation by sea and land for the development of the commerce of the whole western world. If these things are accomplished this hemisphere will become practically one nation, with local self-government in every part and there will be no more cause for war than between the several states of this union. That is a peace movement based upon a solid foundation.

It is well to preach the "sentiment" of peace, but the only foundation upon which it can permanently rest is economic freedom and equal opportunity for all. The "Prince of Peace" will rule on this earth when those conditions are secured. It is along those lines that the delegates of all the republics of this hemisphere are working, and that makes it the greatest peace conference ever assembled. There may not be any permanent plan adopted by this conference, but putting a peace propaganda on a sound basis will be a great thing for the world, and the agitation for such a peace will be continued.—World Herald.

Who's Who in America

For several months there has been a complaint that our export food stuffs have been practically confiscated by the British Government. The German element of our population have pointed to this issue as one that did not look like a strict interpretation of neutrality. The American Packer Kings however have now taken hold of the situation and it will be worth while to watch and see the result. The warehouses of those packers are filled with beef which cost the feeders more than they received at the market.

While this beef was being fed there is no evidence that those beef and pork barons made any loud outcry. This embargo was used to bear down on the prices.

Now however when those monopolist have this meat in their warehouses they want their price to soar and they will succeed. Those financiers behind this movement are closely allied with British financiers in our railroads, telephones and many other public and private enterprises and they talk in language that is just as plain as that written by President Wilson.

Our teutonic neighbors should familiarize themselves with this financial alliance before they too severely censure the present administration. Money talks in America.—Creighton Liberal.

A Civil War Precedent

The hint that Germany discontinue her submarine warfare even against the merchantmen of other belligerents is the most interesting proposal in the American note. This hint, which is likely to cause a responsive echo among the allied nations at war with Germany, was carefully considered by the president.

Before the president, when he made that carefully veiled suggestion, was the precedent of Admiral Semmes, one of the greatest international lawyers of his time, who commanded a confederate ship during the civil war. He seized more prizes than any confederate commander. The time came when he had too many captives on board his own ship.

When new prizes fell into his grasp he let them go free because he could not sink them with all on board and yet comply with international law. The submarines of Germany, unable to put prize crews on board merchantmen or take off the passengers, are in the same position according to the president. Submarine warfare on merchantmen, therefore, he says must cease.—Washington Post.

The Storm in Cedar County

One of the fiercest, most prolonged and most destructive storms that have ever visited his locality occurred on Tuesday night when rain of flood-like proportions, accompanied by a terrific wind, fell over Cedar county and left in its wake a scene of desolation and destruction. Massive bridges were swept away, houses were moved from their foundations, basements were flooded, barns and silos were blown down, fences were obliterated, livestock and chickens were drowned and in some instances even human beings scarcely escaped with their lives. The rain resembled a cloud burst and four inches of water fell in the space of a short time. The rain was accompanied by a terrific gale and the wind probably contributed as much as the water to accomplish the damage that was done. People who were awake while the storm was raging realized that there was a heavy rain falling, but no one realized until the next morning how fierce the storm was nor how much damage was being wrought. In town, the rain and wind combined to do a great deal of damage while in the country its destructive effects were general and wide-spread. In town, cellars were flooded, chicken houses carried away and chickens drowned, road and foot bridges destroyed, fences swept away, residences inundated and in the low localities it is reported that some families barely escaped from their homes before the flood waters came rushing in and filled the rooms to a depth of several feet. In the country, the damage wrought by the wind and rain was far more serious. Several of the best and most important bridges of the county, such as the Lammers bridge, the Pietz bridge and others were swept from their foundations or badly damaged, granaries and silos were destroyed, huge trees were torn up by the roots, large numbers of hogs and chickens were drowned, fields were made impassable by the rushing waters.—Hartington Herald.

Dad and Sis.

By dad we mean all the daddies. By Sis we mean all the girls. Dad and Sis ought to be friend—not merely father and daughter—but chums.

Dad is a good fellow. Of all the lovers that Sis has, none loves her better than dad. None has done so much for her, or is willing to do more for her than dad.

Down in the bottom of dad's heart there is a picture of the girl he courted when he was a young man. That picture is of mother, and Sis probably looks a great deal like mother used to look, so dad can't help but love Sis.

Dad is the fellow who brings home the bacon. Dad is the man who prays and hopes for good luck and health to the end, so that he can take care of mother and Sis.

Down in the bottom of sister's heart there is a picture of her ideal husband—and very often he looks and acts like dad.

So Sis ought to get better acquainted with dad.

Dad and Sis ought to clasp hands and face the world together.

Dad knows many things that Sis ought to know, especially about young men.

Sis can make many of dad's hard days easier by being his chum.

If a boy's best friend is his mother, a girl's best friend is her father.—Ex.

Two More Victories.

The "dry" element in the two Dixon county towns of Martinsburg and Waterbury won a victory over the "wets" at the special session of district court here Friday.

The petitions for saloons at both had been signed and filed but remonstrances were then filed against them and case came before the district court.

The first case to be tried was that of the Waterbury saloon. It was proved, among other things, that the petitioner had, during the period of his last license, sold liquor to minors and hence disobeyed the law. Judge Graves rendered a decision in favor of the remonstrators. The next case was that of J. Patton, the applicant for a license at Martinsburg. This case was very similar in most particulars to the other one and the decision was the same. With these two towns on the "dry" list it leaves but two towns in this county where a saloon may be kept, namely: Emerson and Dixon.—Ponca Journal-Leader.

Old Indian Grave Found Near Martinsburg.

The Wm. White place was the scene of considerable excitement last Thursday afternoon when two of the boys came in from the pasture with several small bones which had apparently formed part of a human body at some time. They were on their way to the house when in crossing the hill just east of the home buildings they stopped to look at gopher mounds where they had caught several rabbits in traps during the past year. They found two or three bones which the gopher had brought up out of his home and not knowing that they were human bones the boys took them home.

As soon as it was found that the bones were not from an animal as had at first been thought, work was begun to dig down and find out what was there. Several human skeletons were soon unearthed, and after considerable work about 25 skeletons were found. They were all in a shallow grave about 18 feet wide and 20 feet long. None were in the ground more than three feet while some were within less than two feet from the top.

The skeletons were all in good condition when found, although they were broken up badly in the process of digging. The thick, heavy set jaw bone, high cheek bones and sloping forehead were proof enough that they were the remains of Indian bodies.

The bodies were found in almost all conceivable positions, some face down, some on one side, some in a sort of twisted reclining position, and many piled crosswise of one another.

Several small skulls and skeletons were found which presumably belonged to small children, while the teeth in nearly all of the larger ones were so badly worn as to suggest that they were old men and women.

A few pieces of charcoal and two or three pieces of clay pottery with carvings on them, were also found in the grave, but no other dishes, utensils or implements were to be found.

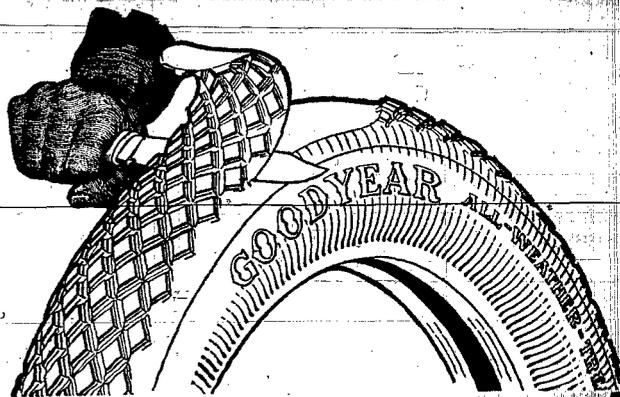

Everything was indicative of great haste and little care in the burial. This was rather unusual for Indians, as they usually had quite a ceremony at a funeral, and especially when most of a village died.—Ponca Journal-Leader.

Suppose We Pared These Tires

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or so resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our No-Rim-Cut feature—
Our "On-Air" cure—
Our rubber rivets—
Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450,000 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give these extras?

Cost Added
Prices Lowered

Instead of that, we all the time add costly betterments. We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to seek out new improvements.

Our All-Weather tread—always double-thick—is made still thicker in some sizes.

Our Inner Tubes have been thickened 14 per cent on the average.

Our fabric has been strengthened.

Yet on February 1st we made our third big price reduction in two years, bringing the total to 45 per cent. Now you are getting in Goodyear Fortified Tires the best value ever known in tire making.

It is due to yourself that you this year join this army of contented tire users. It is by far the largest army in Tiredom. Any dealer will supply you. (233)

WAYNE MARKET REPORT

Table with market prices for various goods like Oats, Corn, Spring wheat, Wheat, Eggs, Butter, Hogs, Fat Cattle.

Even the worst chronic kicker now admits that the sub-soil is slightly moist.

This wet spell should and will set people to seriously considering the question of paving now.

With railroads out of commission in some parts of the country the buy at home movement should thrive materially.

A building and loan organization at Wayne would make possible more new homes than are now being built, and there are several under course of construction.

It is estimated that the cash cost of the war in Europe is $2,000,000, an hour. At that rate we would go broke in less than ten seconds should they call on us to stand the expense.

If one of our merchants would learn and practice the thorough advertising methods of the circus man, and adhere strictly to fair business methods he would be the leading business man of the place.

A. B. Brandow, a pioneer of Cedar county, died last week after three years of suffering, and was buried at Hartington. He leaves several sons and daughters and a host of friends of the early days.

A druggist has to give several years of time to study to be permitted to sell drugs, and he learns how little he knows by attending school, and is willing to engage an expert to tell him a few more things—that is what the Nebraska druggists have done for their state meet at Omaha next week. It is never too late to learn.

The papers in Cedar county are again dating their news from the outside world "up to the time railroad communication was cut off," much as they did last winter when the snow was king. We might add that there are others doing the same, especially in the Rosebud land, where the people drew a "white elephant" in the shape of a circus train, and nothing to feed the animals.

At the beginning of the European war the Wall street gang of financiers were all but distracted because they feared this people would go broke paying the foreign debts which they felt sure would be demanded in cash. But now that the debt is largely wiped out and the over-sea people are borrowing about a quarter of a billion dollars on this side of the pond, the same gang is getting powerful nervous for fear that they will never be able to pay their debt—and thus is demonstrated the truth of the wise saying that life is just one thing after another—if you are a "financier".

A Cattle Train

A number of cars of cattle came down the branch Tuesday afternoon, and to it seven cars were added at this place. The Wayne cattle were shipped by Frank Erxleben, one, Chas Erxleben two, Wm. Mellor two, and L. M. Owen and W. Y. Miles each one. All went to South Omaha. Most of the bunch were in splendid condition and the two loads of Wm. Mellor contained a bunch of choice baby beef, which was in condition to bring well toward the top of the market.

Normal Closes Rest Year In History of the School

good lawyers, they should not make the mistake of closing their eyes to the world outside, but keep in sympathy and touch with the rest of the world. Taking up the subject of his address, "The Development of Government", the speaker said he did not mean simply our government but the development of government generally. "We all realize," he said, "if we have read history at all and kept intelligent track of things, that the world during the past centuries has changed enormously. Society has changed; business has changed; morals have changed; habits of life have changed. There has been a development of civilization, with all that revolutionary change has brought about, such revolution that the world today is an entirely different thing from the world of centuries ago."

"I think, perhaps, you fail to appreciate what an enormous change has occurred in government. Originally government was nothing but domination of power. It was force. Force enabled a class or an individual to grasp and hold the power and demand subserviency from those who were governed. It might have been tyranny, monarchy; sometimes a patriarchal form of government, but in whatever form it was, the real essential of the government was the ability to command. In those days, whatever nation referred to, whatever country was considered, the government did very little for the people. About all it assumed to do was to protect them, by its organizations, from outside aggression, from other people, other nations. It levied taxes upon them and used those taxes as it pleased. Taxes in those days were very much in the nature of plunder."

"But gradually there developed among the people of the world the feeling that the government was for the people and not the people for the government; and from very early times the people claimed a right in the voice of the government and a benefit from that government."

"I have not time today to show through history how these different governments developed and changed, how one empire has risen and fallen, how the seat of an empire has changed from one part of the world to the other. But, coming down to more recent times, to the history that immediately interests us, we know that in the world after medieval days, after feudal days, there has been an almost steady rising of the people, and a constantly increasing effort on their part to secure the benefits derived from self-government. But it has had such great, dramatic epochs as were marked when the king of England was forced to grant the Magna Charta; such great tests as when the people have overthrown government and established a republic; and it had, perhaps, its greatest and most pronounced chapter written, when upon the American continent a few millions of people raised the banner of independence."

After discussing the government of the United States, and showing how the example of self-government as exemplified on the American continent has benefited the rest of the world, Senator Hitchcock said:

"Eight thousand miles beyond San Francisco across the Pacific ocean, is an archipelago of something like three thousand islands, known as the Philippines. In area they are almost as great as the British Isles. They are inhabited by a population of about seven and one-half millions. They fell into the lap of the United States by accident of war, and to them the American people realized that they have a great responsibility. For fifteen years they have been under American rule, and those fifteen years have marked the most remarkable progress ever made by any people in an equal period of time. The Filipinos have no language; they speak seven or eight different dialects but they have no one language. Today there are in the Philippine schools established by the United States government, over five hundred thousand Philippine children studying, not only the studies which the American boys and girls of the lower grades study, but studying the English language. We can easily imagine that the time will come, possibly not in the near future, when all the Philippine people will be speaking the English language."

"They have had Christianity for three hundred years. It was taken there by Spain when she occupied the islands, and, with the American occupation of it, Protestantism has gone in to cooperate with Catholicism in giving to the people of the island a standard of Christianity, an American standard."

"Already a marked difference is seen in their physical, mental and moral condition. Culinary art is being taught in the schools, and the Filipinos, instead of being a weak and anaemic race, because of improper food and improper living, are gradually becoming a strong and virile race and the prospect is that they will become like the Japanese in that respect."

"The government is being gradually turned into the hands of the people. More and more they are being given the reins of government. They already elect the lower house, called the Assembly. While the upper House is still appointed by the President, he is giving to the Philippine people the majority of that House. More than half of the judges are Filipinos. All their local governments in towns and villages are in the hands of the people. The government is merely exercising a check and restraint, which is necessary to a people learning the art."

"Now the suggestion comes to me, that in the thousands of years before Christ, there existed upon the Asiatic continent a Chinese civilization which rose, blossomed, and fell into decay. Then another empire rose to the west, another to the west of that—quite gradually the procession moved westward. And so the empire went across the seas—Persian, Assyrian, Babylonian, Greek, Roman civilization, and finally the civilization of Great Britain. This civilization leaped the Atlantic ocean and found its place with the founding of the American republic in our own land."

"The thought I have in mind is that it may be the destiny of the United States, which has taken such a keen interest in these Filipinos, to plant within four hundred miles of the coast of Asia the new western civilization, with the Christian religion, that it may spread to the mainland and then start anew that progress of civilization across the great continent of Asia, which is now a sort of wreck to what it once was. And so generations may see rise in the Philippine people under the American civilization, guided by the Christian religion, a newer, a higher development than has ever been known, and may go on in its process in the future centuries. If so, it will have been the destiny of the United States to have implanted a new and higher civilization, a modern government, and a religion which is a saving grace of the world. I hope that is the destiny of the United States."

At the close of the Senator's most excellent address the diplomas and certificates were presented to the class by President Conn, and the winners of the prizes offered by two business men of Wayne announced. The gold medal offered by J. G. Mines to the student of the Normal who makes the greatest improvement in scholarship during the year was won by Eva M. Gilmadal, a member of the Freshman class, residing at Winneton, Nebraska. The cup offered by Frank S. Morgan to the young man, who in the judgment of the faculty rendered the greatest service to the school, was presented to William Ray Hickman of Wayne. The exercises closed with the benediction by Rev. F. E. Blessing.

State Normal Notes

Registration for the summer session will open Monday, June 7. Class work begins the following day. Pupils of the training school should register at 9 a. m. Monday.

Miss Mary E. Mahood, who will have charge of the domestic science department during the summer, arrived in Wayne a few days ago and expects to remain until the close of the term.

The office force is taking advantage of the vacation period to close the financial records for the year and make the regular semi-annual report to the Governor. This includes a detailed statement of receipts and expenditures from December 1 to June 1.

One of the pleasing features of commencement week was the large representation of the citizens of the town in the graduation exercises last Friday morning. The seating capacity of the lower floor of the new auditorium was taxed to almost the limit, and the large attendance was all the more appreciated because of very unfavorable weather conditions.

We take this opportunity of thanking Rev. Mr. Buell for the report of the baccalaureate services furnished by request. The almost verbatim report of Dr. Wharton's sermon that appeared in last week's issue of the local papers was due to the complete and accurate notes furnished by Rev. Buell. Thanks are also due Miss Anthony and Miss Maud Koser for a stenographic report of the commencement oration by Senator Hitchcock.

Dakota, schools. The following is an extract from a letter received since his return from one of the business men of the city: "I am prompted to write you at this time, advising you of the result of your address at this place at the commencement. You certainly did yourself proud, as everyone who was there made very flattering compliments. From the reports which I have been able to gather I am sure your college will have a very goodly number of students from Fairfax and vicinity this year."

Grades from the kindergarten to the sixth inclusive will be maintained during the summer session. A beginner's first grade will be in session, and, because of this fact, there will be room in the kindergarten for at least a dozen new pupils. Any children who have reached the ages of four or five years will be admitted. The kindergarten will be in session from 9:00 to 11:15 a. m. daily, part of time being spent in the shade out-of-doors.

A word of explanation in regard to graduation may be of interest at this time. The work of the state normal schools is so organized that a student may complete at any one of three different periods during the year; namely, at the close of the first semester, the close of the second semester, or during the summer session.

The time when the work is completed depends almost entirely on the number of credits presented at entrance, and indicates nothing as to the student's rank in the class. The number of college hours that the average student will complete is twenty for a semester or ten during a summer term. Hence, if at entrance a student lacks fifty hours for graduation, she will complete the work at the end of the following summer; if she lacks sixty hours at entrance the work will be completed at the middle of the second year; if at entrance eighty college hours remain to be done such student ranks as junior and will remain for two regular school years.

In the present year four students completed the higher course on January 25, thirty-two on May 28, and the work of fourteen will end at the close of the summer term. Public graduating exercises are, however, held but once a year and all who are to receive diplomas participate in these general exercises.

Remaining for a summer term scarcely ever means that a student has failed in some required subject. On the contrary it often implies strength as a student, enabling her to complete the higher course on the minimum time attendance.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

One young lady was baptized last Sunday evening and one of our Sunday school girls gave her heart to Christ. This should be the natural way in which a church ought to grow.

We shall very greatly miss members of the senior class of the Normal this year. Some of our most useful young people belong to this class. They have been a blessing to our church. We are glad, however, that some of them shall remain with us during the summer months. We shall gratefully remember their helpful services, as they leave us.

Sunday morning will be our communion day again. This service, different for others, should be helpful, especially to Christians. The subject of the brief sermon will be: "The Unexpressed". Some facts of life are too big to be put in words. Talking can never be substituted for being.

Mrs. Linton will be the leader of our young people Sunday evening. She always has a message for us. Let us help make this meeting a good one.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the prayer circle and the missionary circle will meet with Mrs. Huff.

"The Secret of Living", will be the subject Sunday evening. Many people are dead, while they live. In the higher sense, they are not really living. If one half of the people lived like the other half do, this old world would become a veritable hell in twenty-four hours.

Our Wednesday evenings are reserved for your higher good. Take an hour, church member, and meet with your God, in his sanctuary at this mid-week service.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday School Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Morning worship at 11 o'clock.

Luther League at 7 o'clock.

Evening worship at 8 o'clock.

At the morning services next Sunday morning the pastor will speak on the subject "The God Planned Life"—Genesis 1:28-29. It is only necessary to read the first few chapters of the book of Genesis, to note God as a great architect. What wonderful creative genius he reveals in forming the great temple of the universe. We greatly admire the architect who planned Paul's Cathedral London, because it is a building revealing wonderful architectural skill. But we admire a great deal more the architect who planned such a temple as this old world in which we live. But all of the creative genius of God in regard to this old world itself gives away when we note his wonderful creative ability as revealed in the life of man, when He planned that life.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

In the Zeppelin raid over London nine bombs were dropped. Four persons were killed and others injured. Official announcement was made that no public building was damaged.

Austrian aviators have dropped bombs in Bari and Brindisi, in Italy.

The Italian army which is invading the Austrian province of Trent from the east, having previously captured the town of Cortina, sixty miles northeast of the city of Trent, has now occupied thirty-seven villages in the surrounding districts.

The Austrian city of Rovereto, whose elaborate defenses are relied upon to check the Italians from pushing up the Adige river valley and besieging Trent, is now threatened by the invaders. Rovereto lies thirteen miles south of Trent, capture of which is one of the great objectives of Italy.

Servia apparently has begun a new campaign, its army having been re-organized during the long lull since active hostilities were under way against Austria early last winter. Transportation of Turkish reinforcements to the Dardanelles from Constantinople is said to have been interrupted by the operations of a British submarine which is cruising in front of the city.

Heavy reinforcements, which have been coming to the support of the closely pressed Russians in middle Galicia, apparently are making themselves felt, as the latest reports from the Russian war office declare the battle on the San is developing in favor of the Russian troops. The fortress of Przemyśl, now held by the Russians, has been the object of an Austro-German enveloping movement for some weeks past, and against the completion of the circle the Russian commanders have been striving.

A strong offensive has been undertaken by the Russians on various fronts and in the Dniester region they report the capture of 7,000 prisoners, and nearly 19,000 between the Pilica river and the upper Vistula in the period from May 12 to May 24.

The Italian invasion of Trent is proceeding steadily.

Germany's reply to the American note is in the hands of the state department at Washington. In its reply the German government, with respect to the Lusitania, urges its self-defense, in that it alleges the Lusitania was carrying war munitions for the destruction of German soldiers. It, however, withholds its final decision on these particular demands pending the receipt of an answer from the American government on certain important facts having a direct bearing on the sinking of the Lusitania.

The Austrian war office reports naval airmen made a raid on Venice, dropping many bombs. An arsenal was damaged by fire and an explosion occurred in Fort Nicolò. No news of this raid has come through official Italian sources.

New progress is reported by the French war office to have been made in the sector north of Arras.

The Italian campaign is developing toward the Austrian cities of Trent and Trieste.

The capture of fourteen Austrian villages along the Corinthian frontier by the invading Italian forces is reported in an official dispatch from Geneva.

Italian troops are pushing steadily into Austria along the line running north of the Gulf of Trieste. Apparently the Austrians as yet have offered no serious resistance, although farther west there has been severe fighting.

The advance of the Austrians and Germans toward the Gallician fortress of Przemyśl, threatening its investment, remains unchecked. The communication from the Berlin war office stated additional territory had been occupied and that determined attacks of the Russians had been repelled. One Russian regiment had been wiped out. A statement from the German war office concedes the victory to the Russlans in a battle along the San river, in central Galicia.

The capture of 9,000 more prisoners is announced by the German war office, which represents the situation in the east as favorable to Germany, with the exception of the retreat from the San river near Slenlaw.

A German submarine sank the steamer Cadeby off the Scilly isles by shell fire. The crew of eighteen men and the four passengers were saved.

TORPEDO STRUCK NEBRASKAN

Officials Draw Inferences From Naval Officer's Report.

The evidence forwarded to the state department gathered by Lieutenant John H. Towers, naval attache at the American embassy at London, indicates that the American steamer Nebraska was torpedoed by a submarine.

Lieutenant Towers made a technical examination of the Nebraska on her arrival at Liverpool. The chief engineer stated that he saw the wake of a torpedo just before the vessel was hit.

Portugal Reported "Perfectly Calm."

Dr. Abel Pinho, president of the high court of justice, probably will act as president of Portugal until the expiration of the term of Manuel de Arriaga, who resigned his office. Congress has adopted an electoral bill, fixing June 13 as the date for a general election. A president will be elected by parliament. A ministerial declaration stated that perfect calm prevailed through the country.

David Davis from Black Fork, Ohio, returned home Wednesday after spending a month visiting his son David J. at Carroll. Mr. Davis first visited this county about 25 years ago and comparing with those days he sees a change that to him appears almost magical. Then there were great stretches of the unbroken prairie where now he sees well-tilled fields, substantial farm buildings and beautiful groves. He paints a word picture of this county then and now that shows great contrast.

Some idea of the damage of the rains of last week at other places may be gathered by the following from the Norfolk News of Monday regarding the track conditions in the Rosebud country, and the boys at Bloomfield who were out early Monday morning to see the Golmer Brothers' circus unload may make a guess as when to go again: It will be another eight or nine days before railroad trains can reach the Rosebud country from Norfolk. Great activity continues on the repairs to the eighty foot span bridge between Verdigre and Niobrara and approximately eight miles of track will have to be repaired before the line is finally opened. The driving of about 290 pilings is in full progress on the east side of the break where a temporary telegraph station and private cars of railway officials are located. It was expected the trains would be able to reach Niobrara from Winner by Tuesday night. Temporary mail service has been established with the affected country. Mail which was routed to Running Water, S. D., was sent across the river to Niobrara by the ferry boat and some mail from Dallas and Colome came to Norfolk over this route Sunday. Other mail going over the star route O'Neill to Dorsey, is reported as reaching its destination somewhat delayed.

Waters in Nebraska Streams Are Rapidly Receding.

SOME BRIDGES ARE STILL OUT.

All Washouts Not Repaired on Northwestern and Wabash Roads—Weather is Clear and Temperatures Rising in the West.

Omaha, June 1.—Clear and much warmer weather, according to the reports to the railroads, is general all over the country between the Missouri river and the mountains. The same reports are to the effect that the waters in the streams are rapidly receding, and that by the middle of the week the ground will be sufficiently dry so that farmers will be able to go into their fields and renew the work that ceased nearly two weeks ago on account of rain. With the exception of the Northwestern and the Wabash, the railroads operating in and out of Omaha have come out from under the floods of the last ten days and are again running trains on schedule.

The trouble experienced by the Northwestern is on the Bonesteel line and along the Verdigre river, in northern Nebraska. There miles of grade is washed out and several bridges are thrown out of place or entirely washed away. Many men are at work night and day, but it will be the last of the week before train service will be restored.

The Wabash is having its trouble along the Gallatin river, in northern Missouri, and on its Omaha-St. Louis line. The Gallatin river is out of its banks and at the town of Gallatin water is three feet deep over the track. Several bridges are reported out and considerable grade washed away. It will probably be two or three days before trains will run through from Omaha to St. Louis. Regular trains are run from Omaha to Pattonsburg.

Wheat Outlook Best in Years.

The outlook for wheat was never better at this time of the year than it is now, according to the Burlington railroad's weekly crop report.

Hessian fly and chinch bug mischief in Nebraska wheat fields has been checked by the cold, wet weather of the last ten days, while premature growth that comes with hot May weather has been offset by a slow development that will produce better wheat, the report says.

The Omaha division estimates the crop outlook at 101 per cent; Lincoln division, 103 per cent; Wymore division, 102 per cent; McCook division, 109 per cent.

Corn is getting a late start, and much that had begun to grow has been washed out, the report states. In many places seeds have rotted in the ground and the soil is at present too wet for replanting.

Indications for all crops except for sugar beets and corn are good. Beets, like corn, are getting a late start.

BACK IN REFORMATORY

Young Gallington Again Steals Hogs and Sells Them Back to Owner.

Broken Bow, Neb., June 1.—Forrest Gallington, a minor, who was recently paroled from the reform school at Kearney, has been taken back to that institution by Sheriff Wilson. Gallington it is alleged, went to Merna, ten miles northwest of here and stole five hogs from the Farmers' Elevator company and then sold them back to the owners. After his arrest the superintendent at Kearney was notified and his return was at once ordered. This is practically the same game Gallington worked on a stockman at Berwyn some time ago and for which he was originally sent to the reformatory.

Made Long Journey to Get His Victim.

Lincoln, June 1.—Requisition papers for Fedele Penna, said to be a member of the Italian Black Hand society, convicted of the murder of Angelo Romanini in Trumbull, O., were granted by the governor. Penna is said to have followed his victim across the United States until he caught him in Ohio. The chase was a lively one, the doomed man seeming to know that his life was in danger. Penna was convicted of murder in the first degree, but escaped, and is now in the custody of the authorities in Omaha.

Rock Island Freight in the Ditch.

Fairbury, Neb., June 1.—Train No. 608, the Fairbury-Horton Rock Island freight, was wrecked east of Harbine, in this county, and a number of cars piled in a heap and the track damaged. Conductor Jones of this place was in charge of the train, which was traveling twenty miles an hour when the wreck occurred. It was attributed to soft track. Both crews escaped injury.

Go to Cheyenne to Fight Denver Plan.

Sidney, Neb., June 1.—Twenty-seven autos loaded with citizens of this city went to Cheyenne to attend the boosters' meeting to remonstrate against the action of Denver in endeavoring to divert the travel from Big Springs, Neb., to Denver and thus cut off all the Lincoln highway territory between Big Springs and Cheyenne.

Fire in Nebraska City Brewery.

Nebraska City, June 1.—A fire broke out in the department where barrels are pitched at the Otos Brewing plant and before extinguished it did $2,000 damages.

HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD

Memorial Services Are Held by Patriotic Societies in Lincoln.

Lincoln, June 1.—Memorial services were observed by the patriotic societies here. Forming at their headquarters, the Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish-American War Veterans, Woman's Relief corps and Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic were escorted to St. Paul's Methodist church by Nebraska camp, No. 141, Sons of Veterans, and the sermon was delivered by Dr. T. W. Jeffrey.

Dr. Jeffrey said that he was opposed to war, but against peace that carried with it any cowardice on the part of the American people. He believed that the best way to keep peace was to be in a position to enforce it at all times. His sermon was repeatedly applauded by the large audience.

Governor Morehead delivered the Memorial day address at Broken Bow and ex-Secretary of State Addison Watt delivered the address at Bennett. Colonel J. H. Preston of the governor's office delivered the memorial address at Adams.

GREECE AFTER AN AIRMAN

Aviator Shaffer of National Guard Receives Offer From Abroad.

Lincoln, June 1.—C. W. Shaffer, chief aviator of the Nebraska aviation corps connected with the national guard of this state, has received a letter from Venzelour, Greek consul at San Francisco, asking him for terms on which he would go to Athens to take charge of the work of building aeroplanes and instructing in their use.

Mr. Shaffer built twelve aeroplanes for the Chinese government when he was living in San Francisco and the consul became acquainted with his work, which is probably the reason of the offer.

However, Mr. Shaffer will refuse the offer, as he is making arrangements to go into business for himself.

Chamberlain Charged With Larceny.

Tecumseh, Neb., June 1.—The troubles of Charles M. Chamberlain, former cashier of the Chamberlain Banking house of Tecumseh, seem to be many. He is now and has been for several years at Spokane, Wash. He was convicted of forgery in connection with the affairs of M. C. Gray of Pullman, Wash., a former Nebraska horse buyer. A new trial was secured and the jury hung. He was then charged with grand larceny for the alleged embezzlement of $8,000 from Mr. Gray, was recently tried, and the jury in this case did not agree. Justice Hyde of the Spokane superior court has now bound Chamberlain over for trial on a charge of grand larceny. Bond was fixed at $500 in this case. He is charged with embezzling $200 which belonged to W. P. Russell.

Cut Worms Begin Work.

Beatrice, Neb., June 1.—Farmers report that in some sections of Gage county cut worms and high water have damaged corn considerably the last week. Many fields, or part of them at least, will have to be replanted. Chinch bugs have stopped operations on account of the cold, wet weather, and farmers are of the opinion that Gage county will produce a bumper crop of wheat this year.

Nebraska Semi-Centennial March 1.

Omaha, June 1.—The Nebraska Historical society has set on foot plans for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the admission of Nebraska into the Union. In accordance with this plan a committee has been appointed to finance, plan and carry out the details of the celebration. A meeting of this committee will be called for a conference in June. The date is March 1, 1917.

Night Operator at Lincoln Slugged.

Lincoln, June 1.—Joe Ryan, night operator at the south branch of the Lincoln Telephone company in the city, was seriously injured by thugs, who broke into the exchange. Ryan was only able to give a partial description of the men. Nothing of value was taken from the exchange and it is the belief that the men must have had a personal grudge against Ryan.

Many to See Stecher Meet Serb.

Pierce, Neb., June 1.—A special train will be run from Dodge to accommodate the crowd of supporters who are preparing to back up Joe Stecher when he meets the big 235-pound Serb champion, Govedorica, in the open-air arena of the Pierce Athletic club today. Neither wrestler has ever been thrown.

Missionaries Home From Africa.

North Bend, Neb., June 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, missionaries of Sudan, Africa, arrived here and will remain in this country for one year on a furlough. They will spend their vacation with her people, M. C. Mitchell and family here, and his parents, who live near St. Paul, Neb.

Culivan Appeals From Jury Verdict.

Hastings, Neb., June 1.—John T. Culivan filed bond for an appeal to the supreme court from the district court's disallowance of the purported John O'Connor will leaving him the O'Connor estate. The jury in the district court held the will to be a forgery.

Corporations Paying Tax.

Corporations are sending in their state tax very rapidly to get away from paying the penalty for nonpayment, which will come, after July 1. The largest amount received was $1,115 from the Transmississippi Grain company of Omaha.

Along Came Ruth

"Oh, I wish I knew a way to reheat the cabbage and Brussels sprouts we had for dinner yesterday," muttered Ruth's aunt, as she pattered about the kitchen, "for I haven't time to cook much today, and they are not good cold."

"I heard you," said Ruth, poking her head between the kitchen screen and the door frame, and I can tell you how to do it. First, you plunge the vegetables into a saucepan of slightly salted boiling water, and keep it boiling for two or three minutes. Then you strain and serve them. And you will find that they look and taste as well as if they were freshly cooked. I'll do it for you, while you are doing something else, if you like."

"Ruth, I don't know what we should do if you didn't make us a daily visit," declared her aunt, "for you get us out of more trouble than a policeman."

Something About Sweet Clover

We have heard much of the sweet clover and there are those who are sowing it on the strength of what has been said about it and we hope they are right. But this week we learn that Edward Auker lost three calves from pasturing on sweet clover—or as S. E. Auker calls it, Bitter Clover, for he says that it is bitter. Be that as it may, the condition of the stomach of the dead calves indicated that the clover had caused their death, that organ being packed full of the clover. We know that cattle are lost from eating red clover and alfalfa under certain conditions, and are not ready to condemn sweet clover until we know more of it, but it is well to let people be on their guard. The clover is very rank this season, and the weather was very wet, and such a condition with other clovers makes trouble.

S. E. Auker states that the gall bladder of the dead calves was filled to their utmost, and he is of the opinion that this clover is not the best of feed. Regarding the purchase of seed that will grow the right kind—the clover with the white blossom, he says is all bosh—or some word like that—for the plant grows a white blossom the first blossom from the seed, and this blossom does not form any seed—but the second year the same plants will bear seed, and always form a yellow blossom. Now if we had a farm demonstrator he might tell us something definite about this matter—the editor cannot at this writing. By the way, what a fine thing it would be for the farmers to be organized under a demonstrator for the purpose of learning quickly and surely all of the facts that could be learned about this and similar cases. The man who thinks that a farmer does not need help to get best results with the fewest mistakes is a mistake himself.

Government Work on Missouri

To any one who would go down to Keyser's Park and thence down the river a short way, a busy but interesting scene would present itself. A large force of men is busily tearing out the face of the bluff with pick and maul, and the more powerful agency of dynamite and rolling the huge boulders to the foot of the bluff some 40 or 50 feet below them where other workers break the stone into smaller pieces and load them onto a nearby barge. Directly across the river another gang of men is at work cutting willows and loading them on another barge. After being loaded these barges are taken up the river by a steamer to a point near Elk Point where the government is having some rip-rapping done along the river.

The government has an order of 2500 tons of rock to be obtained here. Three loads have already been sent up river, as well as the same amount of willows to be used in making the huge "mats." Rip-rapping and such work would be done in some particularly bad place along the "old muddy" and people would begin to breathe freely again and think it would quit changing its course. Then after the next spring flood the river would begin cutting the banks in an entirely different place and probably pile a nice little sand bar over the next to the location of the last year's repairs. And so it keeps congress something to quarrel over and make apportionments for and supplying work to hundreds of men annually while the old Missouri, itself, goes muddily on its way laughing at the ways of man. —Ponca Journal Leader.

Preventing Odors from the Kitchen

Cabbage, that worst of all offenders, will not smell if a piece of bread or charcoal is laid upon the top.

Onions must be drowned out by using another odor. Powdered cedar wood is the best thing for this. Sprinkle just a pinch upon the range and let it burn. That's all that is necessary. If onions are peeled underwater, or held under a running tap, they will not smell, nor will they smart the eyes.

Fish smells may be eliminated by sprinkling the range within spluttering distance, with a layer of salt. When the frying is done, sweep the salt into the fire. The salt absorbs the grease, and prevents the smell. After cleaning fish, remove the smell from your hands by rubbing dry mustard upon them.

Boiling over smells can only be prevented in one way: By not filling the cooking vessels quite so full.

Dull lifeless eyes, colorless lips, sallow yellow cheeks give a girl little chance for a "man" these days. Don't lose heart, just take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea—helps to make you attractive and fair. Don't delay, begin today. At Felber's.—adv.-j.

AMONG THE CHAUTAUQUA ATTRACTIONS AT WAYNE

Following references to a number of the attractions secured for the chautauqua assembly in Wayne, July 11-18 will be of general interest:

Charles Edward Russell.

The same modesty that pervades his literary work has hindered Russell from taking advantage of his magazine notoriety to force himself on the platform. The loss is not his. Chautauqua and Lyceum patrons who are missing Russell are the losers. He is so modest in the presentation of his message, so forgetful of self, that the people, too, forget the messenger in their breathless interest in the message. He paints picture after picture in words that burn, telling the story of the "Soldier of the Common Good"—sombre pictures of the homes of the lowly in the great cities, of the trials, the heart aches, the tragedies, yes and sometimes the comedies, of the down-trodden, and at last the audience takes into its heart a portion of the vast pity for the hordes of plodders who without hope, without inspiration, without common comforts plod on day after day to obtain the few necessities that will keep soul and body together.

The Apollo Concert Company

Appollo Concert Company

The Appollo Concert Company, which will give the musical programs at the chautauqua on July 13 and 14, is one of the two or three best known concert companies upon the American platform. Some time ago they played fourteen dates in Canada, twelve of which were under the auspices of the local military bands. Owing to the fact that Messrs. Holmes, Smith and Wells are so well known to band men everywhere on account of their band compositions, they have been in demand for engagements of that kind. Mr. Holmes has just placed five new musical compositions with the Carl Fisher Publishing company, of New York, to be brought out during the present year.

THE TEETH AND HEALTH

Thorough mastication depends upon sound teeth. Since chewing food is the first step in the process of digestion, a mouth filled with broken, and defective teeth and, diseased gums, cannot properly perform its functions; nor does an unclean mouth, and decaying painful teeth, contribute to the pleasure of eating. Dental cripples cannot get full nutritional value from food.

T. B. HECKERT, Dentist

20 Years in Wayne.

now on the platform is Nat. M. Brigham. Without doubt he has done more to make the ordinary citizen acquainted with the masterpieces of natural scenery in America than any other living man. He brings to your presence the famous wonders of the New World.

Marvels in Electricity.

Those who are seeking for the spectacular and the marvels will be abundantly satisfied with the program which will be given by Louis Williams at the chautauqua. Those who believe that every program should be educational should be equally pleased. It is doubtful if there is an entertainment upon the platform that offers more to catch the eye, to mystify and to entertain. Mr. Williams carries with him an elaborate equipment of dynamo, generators, motors and electrical and chemical apparatus which have cost him thousands of dollars.

Columbus Telegram

I believe women ought to be given the ballot, but I also believe that those fool suffragists who constantly pester President Wilson, ought to be given six months in jail. A fool can often do injury to a good cause. Those fool women who persist in pestering the president work as great injury to the cause of woman suffrage as the Omaha brewery combination works to the cause of personal liberty in Nebraska. As an advocate of universal suffrage I am often shamed by the lawless antics of spectacular women. As an advocate of personal liberty I am often disgusted by the lawless doing of the Omaha brewery combination. If the foolish suffragists in New York shall continue their lawless course they will drive away so many men sympathizers with their cause that equal suffrage will be delayed for a decade. If the foolish brewers in Omaha shall continue to spit on and defy the good Nebraska liquor laws, they will drive so many liberal men into the prohibition camp that prohibition will not be delayed for a half a decade in Nebraska.

There are country editors in Nebraska who are writing better things than high-salaried metropolitan writers for the great city dailies. In the line of old-fashioned philosophy there is no city writer superior to Ole Buck, the Swede who writes a "buckshot" column for the Newman Grove Reporter. In the difficult task of writing argument to sustain the claims of the republican party I find in none of the metropolitan editorial writers one superior in logic or language to the talented Clark Perkins, of the Aurora Republican. The metropolitan world has not produced greater exponents of Jeffersonian principles than Charley Bowlby of the Crete Democrat, and Charley Casper, of the Bridgeport Herald. Among all his best writing champions in the great cities has appeared no nobler champion of Rooseveltian principles than the courtly Ladd, of the Albion News. Sometimes Nebraskans are in the habit of thinking that they must go far from home for excellence in any calling. It is a bad habit, and very false. Nebraska not only excels in hogs and alfalfa. In the intellectual world Nebraska's stars are always effulgent.

In conversation with one of our live merchants last week he volunteered that his advertising thus far this year cost him 54 cents for every $100.00 worth of goods sold. He has used from a half to a quarter page of The Call each week for his business announcements, and he says that as long as people read newspapers he will advertise. There's a man possessed of a good head.

Just as sure as merchants begin to look upon advertising as a branch of the business which requires careful preparation and thought then will advertising pay. Honesty, force, originality and perserverance in advertising make it a paying investment.

The above is from the Pierce County Call, and is doubtless true and yet in Pierce and every other place are those who claim to be in business who do not seem to realize that one dollar judiciously spent in advertising is a good investment if it brings but another dollar of profit, but it is a safe proposition that it will bring ten.

SIAM'S ROYAL ETIQUETTE.

Only Specially Polite Talk Allowed at Court Functions.

The king's person is by far the most sacred thing in Siam. Court etiquette is exceedingly strict, and the ceremonies connected with the throne, such as coronations, are all of a religious nature and are strongly imbued with Brahman influences.

Twice a year the princes and the noble or official classes throughout the country make oath of allegiance to the king. This ceremony is called "Teu Nam," or "The Holding of Water," and is of ancient origin, having been observed at the court of the kings of Brahman India more than 2,500 years ago. In Bangkok the rites are observed in the presence of the king in a temple adjoining the palace. Within the precincts are gathered together the princes and the leading officers of state, while beyond, upon the wide lawns of the outer palace inclosure, detachments of cavalry, artillery and marines, battalions of infantry and white elephants are drawn up in the panoply of glittering accouterments.

To the sound of drums and the blare of the royal trumpets the king appears from the inner palace, seated upon a gilded throne carried shoulder high. A thousand bayonets flash to the royal salute, guns thunder and the massed bands play the national anthem as his royal majesty is borne along the front of the troops.

Arrived within, the king seats himself and watches the court and officers of state walk in, two by two, take from a table a small cup of water specially prepared for the function by powerful Brahman charms, touch it with their lips and retire through an outer door.

In the provinces this same ceremony is enacted before the official representatives of the king, and thus the whole country binds itself to the loyal observance of the royal commands.

Politeness and respect demand that in speaking to royalty a special set of words be used—a custom which seems to be due to the common feeling that the use of a foreign or unusual word to express a vulgar object makes the object appear less vulgar. In other words, as the royal ears might be shocked at hearing a spade called a spade, it is necessary to call it an agricultural implement. This so-called palace language is so complete that not only are the crow, dog, cat and other common animals expressed by special words, but the actions of royalty, such as eating, sleeping, walking, speaking, bathing, dying, are spoken of in words much more distinguished and polite than those used to describe similar actions of ordinary people.—Exchange.

Ants Have Combs.

No creature is more tidy than an ant, which cannot tolerate the presence of dirt on its body. These little creatures actually use a number of real toilet articles in keeping themselves clean. Their toilet articles consist of coarse and fine toothed combs, hairbrushes, sponges and even washes and soap. Their saliva is their liquid soap, and their soft tongues are their sponges. Their combs, however, are the genuine article and differ from ours mainly in that they are fastened to their legs. The ants have no set time for their toilet operations, but stop and clean up whenever they get soiled.—St. Nicholas.

The Word "Budget."

The origin of the word "budget," meaning an estimate of government revenues and expenses, is thus explained:

Almost from time immemorial it was the custom in England to put the estimates of receipts and expenditures presented to parliament in a leather bag, the word budget being thus borrowed from the old Norman word bougette, which signifies a leather purse. Curiously enough, the word has passed back again into France from England.

Wind Wheelbarrows.

One of the strangest sights in China is the wind wheelbarrow. It is drawn by a donkey, and when the wind is fair a sail is set. The wheel turns in the middle of a wooden frame, sustained by iron bars. Upon the frame are hung all kinds of utensils. The donkey is generally mounted by the waterfamilies, the son and heir is at the stern assisting all he can, while the mother and younger ones ride on the vehicle.

A Monster Octopus.

An octopus which had been in a fight with some other monster once drifted ashore on the Malay peninsula. He had feelers, or arms, which were from twelve to seventeen feet long and weighed altogether 350 pounds. It was calculated that he was big enough and strong enough to drag a two ton fishing boat under the surface by main strength.

AROUND THE DAIRY.

The milking qualities of a cow are a result of inherited tendencies, but at the same time they can be materially stimulated with the right kind of care and feed.

One of the fortunate things about dairying is the truth that a cow that is a good milker usually produces a healthy calf.

The dairy farmer realizes that the comfortable cow is the most profitable cow, and that induces him to look after the comfort of all his stock.

It is best to keep the cows from developing objectionable traits. This will sometimes happen, but the right kind of handling is usually the best preventive.

The amount of milk a cow gives is important, but the trait of milking for a long period is still more important. This can frequently be developed by handling.

FEEDING THE DAIRY COWS FOR PROFIT

"The milk flow is most abundant in May and June; hence the wise dairyman tries to duplicate May and June conditions—in other words, study nature and follow nature," was the advice of Professor O. E. Reed, head of the dairy department, Kansas State Agricultural college, in a recent address on "Feeding Dairy Cows." "The feed at that season is not only the most

It is said by admirers of the Ayrshire cow that while she gives a good flow of milk as a two-year-old, she steadily increases it until nine or ten, thereby having the advantage of most of the dairy breeds in at least two more years of usefulness. She is hardy and tough, a good feeder and not dainty in her appetite and thrives on rough food, but is far from slow to respond to good treatment. She is a very persistent milker, giving a uniform quantity well up to another calving. The cow pictured is a pure bred Ayrshire.

abundant of the year, but is also palatable, succulent, easily digested and balanced for milk production; hence the wise dairyman sees that his cows have a ration that combines the above characteristics.

"When the pastures dry up or get short some provision should be made to supplement them. Silage or green crops may be fed at this time. This is the most critical time in the milking period of the cow, and she must not be neglected.

"Winter feed should also be patterned after the abundant pastures of May and June. Dry roughage does not do this. Silage or roots are needed to supply succulence. Silage does not meet all the requirements. It is not a 'balanced ration.' The ration to be balanced must contain protein, the muscle builder, and hence important in milk production, and also carbohydrates, which furnish heat, energy and fat. Such feeds as alfalfa, cowpea and clover hay, cottonseed and linseed meal and gluten feeds are high in protein and bran and oats are fairly high. Such feeds as silage, timothy, corn millet and Sudan grass hay and the fodders and straws are low in protein and high in carbohydrates. The grains of corn and the sorghums have the same characteristics; hence grain and roughage both chosen from one of either of these groups is not properly balanced. We should choose feeds from both groups. Silage or any roughage of the second group should be fed with bran, oats, etc., and not with corn, oilmeal or kafir chop. Alfalfa or any roughage of the first group should be fed with corn, kafir and grains of this class. Silage and alfalfa make a most excellent roughage ration; but the high-producing cow will need some grain also.

"The dry cow should receive special care. She should be fed a liberal ration of bran and oats in addition to considerable flesh. This will give her more vigor for the next year's work and enable her to produce more and cheaper milk."

Spreading Abortion.

The practice of using the same bull that is being used in an abortive herd on cows and heifers free from abortion is a very dangerous practice and one that is unwarranted. There is no method more certain of spreading contagious abortion than this. As a precaution, however, in case it seems advisable or necessary to follow this practice, the sheath of the bull in question should be thoroughly cleansed before and after service by injecting therein a solution of an efficient, non-irritating, disinfectant. The heifers that have been bred to this bull should be treated in the same manner as though it were known absolutely that they were infected with the contagious abortion germ.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

TRUE MADSTONES.

Any Value They Possess Lies In Their Absorbent Qualities.

Most persons, especially those in rural districts, have seen so called madstones. Frequently physicians are asked whether there is actually any virtue in these stones. Their answer is that they do possess some value, but that they would be of still more value were their limitations understood.

There is no particular variety of stone or substance that may be designated exclusively as the madstone. Many madstones, so called, have been examined, and it has been found that but few of them were, geologically speaking, identical.

Madstones, it appears, act on the same principle that blotting paper does when absorbing ink, and there is nothing that makes a better one than baked pipe clay. A new clay pipe, costing a cent, cannot be excelled by any madstone, no matter how much it may be "cracked up." The action can be clearly demonstrated by placing a common dry red brick in contact with the margin of a puddle of water and observing what capillary attraction will accomplish.

In order to be efficient therefore the prime requisite is that the stone shall be porous and show strong adhesive and absorbent qualities. There is nothing mysterious about the true madstone. Some have appeared to be concretions, either vesical, renal or biliary, that were found in the bladder, kidney, or liver of some animal. Those from the deer are supposed to be best.

When a person is bitten by a dog supposed to be mad and the porous stone is applied to the wound the blotting paper action begins, and the blood saliva from the mouth of the animal and whatever poison these fluids contain will naturally, by capillary attraction, be absorbed by and into the substance applied, whether the madstone be the madstone of the superstitious or not.

There is no truth in the statement that if a stone sticks the wound is poisonous and that if it does not take hold there is no venom present. If the stone be clean and dry it will adhere when moisture is within reach until the stone becomes saturated. For example, a new brick will absorb a pint of water. After the venom has been taken into the circulation the madstone is worthless, but as the victim is usually filled with whisky at the time the stone is applied the spirits may counteract the effects of the poison.—Minneapolis Journal.

Moore's Greatest Poem.

"Lalla Rookh" was read universally and translated into several European languages. The poem has no lofty Miltonic flights, no hall of Eolis reaching the height of the sublime, but it is calculated to suit the taste of every order of the mind. Young and old, educated and uneducated, comprehend its luxurious imagery, sweet passages, fascinating descriptions and gorgeous voluptuousness; hence the uncommon popularity of the poem. Those who have hearts for the deeper things of humanity—what enjoyments come not from external color, orient hues and tyrian purple!—will prefer the heart which is shown in many of Moore's other productions.—Westminster Gazette.

Municipal Amenities.

A member of the Isle of Wight board of guardians thus answered a colleague from whom he had received what he took to be an insult: "I am not a bigger fool than you are, and I do not come here to be made a target for a censorious, cantankerous, scurrilous, insolent and illiterate cad from a Ventnor stable. Mr. Chairman, if you will allow him to turn upon me the rapier of insult I shall plunge into him the dagger of sarcasm, and it will not be my fault if it does not go to the hilt!"—St. James' Gazette.

Older Than His Father.

A curious tombstone has been discovered at the Hiracombe churchyard by a correspondent. The inscription reads as follows: "In memory of William Griffiths, died October 25, 1835, aged 127 years. Also William, father of the above, who died October 2, 1845, aged 72 years." According to the dates given, the son was sixty-five years older than the father.—London Standard.

Genre.

The term "genre" is French and means "man, his customs, habits and ways of life." A painter of domestic, rural or village life, or the writer who deals with the strictly human rather than the more romantic and unreal human situations. For instance, by the drama Victor Hugo introduced the genre system in lieu of the stilted and unnatural style of the Louis XIV. era.

Lincoln, May 10.—The state board of public lands has just issued an order forbidding the cutting down of trees on leased school land and has directed Land Commissioner Beckman to enforce the edict of the board and compel every man, who cuts down a tree to pay $20 into the state treasury.

Recently H. C. Rose of Harlan county, who has a lease on some state land, cut down some cottonwood trees on the land in order that they would not stand in the way of alfalfa growing. The board fined him $20 each on the trees.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Supply Heavy and Market Steady to Shade Off.

HOG SUPPLIES VERY LIBERAL.

Lamb Values Take Turn For Better. Prices Steady to 15@25c Higher. Clearance is Made Early—Native Springers at $12.25.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, June 2.—A comparatively heavy run of cattle arrived yesterday, some 6,300 head. Trade was very slow in opening and while both local dressed beef men and shippers went after the good to choice cattle of all weights and bought many of them at fully steady figures their bids on the general run of steers were all of 10@15c lower than Monday and a good share of the offerings had to sell on this basis. There was not a great deal of life to the trade in cows and heifers and the trend of values was lower all along the line. Business in stockers and feeders continues rather quiet, as very few stock cattle and feeding steers are coming in at this time and there is no urgent demand for them from any quarter.

Cattle quotations: Good to choice yearlings, $8.50@9.00; good to choice heifers, $8.40@8.90; fair to good heifers, $8.00@8.30; common to fair heifers, $7.50@8.00; good to choice cows, $6.75@7.50; fair to good cows, $5.75@6.75; canners and cutters, $1.00@1.50; veal calves, $8.00@10.50; bulls, stags, etc., $6.00@7.25; good to choice feeders, $7.50@7.80; fair to good feeders, $7.00@7.50; common to fair feeders, $6.25@7.00; stock heifers, $5.75@7.00; stock cows, $5.50@6.50; stock calves, $6.00@8.00.

Hog receipts were very large yesterday, about 20,000 head arriving. Shippers, who bought their hogs high Monday, demanded a 10@15c concession yesterday and in most cases it was granted, the bulk of their purchases being made at $7.35@7.45. Packers paid prices not quite 5c lower than Monday. The big bulk of their droves was purchased at $7.37@7.40. Sheep and lamb receipts totaled 2,200 head. Lamb values took a turn for the better yesterday. Prices quoted were anywhere from steady to 15@25c higher. Some native springers brought $12.25. Good clipped lambs sold at $10.20. Only a few ewes arrived and they were just about steady with the close of last week.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, shorn, light, $9.40@10.00; lambs, shorn, heavy, $8.90@9.70; lambs, spring, $10.09@12.25; ewes, shorn, $4.50@5.75.

Saltmaking in Spain.

The Spanish method of producing salt, as employed near Cadiz, is by allowing the sun to evaporate the water from what are known as "pans," small ponds prepared for the purpose of a uniform depth of about eighteen inches. These are flooded directly from the sea three or four times a year, and in time there is left a deposit of about three inches of salt, which is piled in the open in the form of small pyramids until sold. This method has the advantage of being inexpensive and of not requiring machinery. The only requisites are a hot sun and a soil which will not permit the water to filter through, as the salt in solution would then be lost. Something depends also upon the analysis of the water. For instance, the water of the Mediterranean has a greater specific gravity than that of the Atlantic.

The Ultimate Consumer.

"Now, here," said the man in authority at the public library, "is a rare old book that cost us $250, and we're glad to get it even at that." "Shade of Jogen Gutenberg!" exclaimed the frequent visitor. "Does anybody ever want to look at it?" "No." "Then what satisfaction is there in having it on hand?" "Oh, well, perhaps a hundred years from now some antiquarian will find it here and will be half tickled to death to look it over." Chicago Tribune.

Unappreciated Efforts.

Unselfish goodness is seldom appreciated in this world of ours. There was that man in the electric car, for instance. Having rung up three fares in his efforts to stop the car for the lady that sat on the opposite side, he tossed after her the umbrella that belonged to the little gray whiskered man on his right. Neither the gray whiskered man nor the conductor liked the thoughtful Samaritan for his altruistic efforts.—Boston Transcript.

ELECTRICITY.

Some Facts About This Wonderful and Puzzling Medium.

Here are some of the known facts about electricity that will enable those who know nothing about it to understand how it behaves. It must be understood that no one knows what electricity is. Only through its behavior can we arrive at an idea of its nature. The following facts are condensed from an article in the Electrical Experimenter:

All substances, from the heaviest metals to the lightest gases, are electric, but they differ widely in their electric qualities. Electricity is called positive when it exists or is excited in any body in an amount in excess of the amount natural to that body. It is called negative when it exists or is excited in any body in an amount which is less than the amount natural to that body. All electrical phenomena in nature depend upon the tendency of electricity to find an equilibrium between its positive and negative states.

Electricity resides in all substances and is, perhaps, an essential ingredient of their conditions, so every change in their state, whether from heat to cold or from cold to heat, from a state of rest to a state of motion, from solid to liquid or to aeriform, or vice versa, or whether substances combine chemically or are chemically separated, in every change the electrical equilibrium is disturbed, and in proportion to the degree of disturbance is the force exerted by electricity to resume its balance.

Electricity seeks to gain its equilibrium by passing through substances that are favorable to its diffusion. These are called conducting or non-conducting, according as they favor or oppose the passage of the electrical current.

Among the conductors are metals, charcoal, animal fluids, water, vegetable and animal bodies, flame, smoke, and vapor. Among the nonconductors—also called insulators—are rust, oils, phosphorus, lime, chalk, rubber, camphor, marble, porcelain, dry gases and air, wool, silk, glass, transparent stones, wax and amber. Some of these become conductors when wet.

When electricity in considerable force, seeking its equilibrium, meets with insulating bodies intense heat and light are produced. In the evolution of which the electric force becomes expended. When the electric force is checked in its course by an insulator a spark is emitted if the current be strong. When currents pass toward each other along wires at the ends of which charcoal points are placed and these ends remain in contact, the electrical communication is uninterrupted and no light is emitted, but the instant the charcoal points are separated a layer of dry air, a nonconductor, is interposed, and the electricity in forcing its way through that nonconductor evolves intense heat and brilliant light. Such is an arc light.
