LARGE ATTENDANCE AT NORMAL SUMMER TERM

Nearly 500 Students in Attendance at the Summer Session Which Will Continue for Eight Weeks.

The largest summer session, and the largest enrollment at the Wayne State Normal since the school was established opened Monday morning and will continue eight weeks. For some time the correspondence and inquiries from prospective students indicated a large attendance of teachers. Every dormitory room has been engaged for more than a week prior to the opening day, and of those in attendance nearly two hundred had to be assigned places in private families. The people of Wayne very gladly opened their homes to the students and have, in this way, been of great assistance in providing for the school.

The registration took place in the new administration building, the members of the faculty serving on the enrollment committee and greatly expediting classification. Monday evening 259 had been enrolled, which Tuesday's registration increased to 375. The total enrollment to date is 415 and indicates an attendance of nearly 500 before the close of the term. The total for the first three days one year ago was 340, and the increase over the attendance last year is quite marked.

The registration cards show that thirty counties of Nebraska are represented in the enrollment with students also from Iowa, North and South Dakota, Colorado and Missouri. With the exception of Wayne, from which up to the present time 79 students have enrolled, Knox county leads with 39. Then follow in order: Boyd, 34; Cedar, 32; Holt, 26; Dixon, 22; Madison, 20; Burt, 17; Antelope, 15; Thurston, 13; Pierce, 10; Dakota, 9; Platte and Stanton, each 8; Dodge, 6; Colfax, 5; and Washington, 5.

A pleasing feature of the attendance is the large number of students who are taking advanced work and planning for the completion of the higher course of the institution. The enrollment also includes the following who have completed the advanced course and will take graduate work during the summer: Ivil Montgomery, Bernice Beebe, Ray Hickman, E. L. Coleman, C. L. Wright, Lois F. Corzine, James E. Britton, Harry D. Gildersleeve, Eva Graves, Hilda Aron, Florence Welch, E. R. Rogers, Lotus Relyea, James McEachen, and Martha J. Woosley.

The faculty list includes the following special instructors: Superintendent O. R. Bowen, Superintendent E. S. Cowan, Miss Ella Hill, Miss Josephine Huse, Miss Mayne Anthony, Miss Mary Mahood, Superintendent G. E. Cress and Miss Fannie Britell. Misses Stocking, Jewell, Piper and Hancock are not teaching in the summer session, having been granted a leave of absence from their work until the opening of school in September.

Mrs. Ella K. Morrison Dead

Wednesday Mrs. J. Woodward Jones received a message from Rochester, Minnesota, telling of the sudden death of her mother, Mrs. Ella K. Morrison at a hospital at that place that morning. Mrs. Morrison, whose home is at Lincoln, had gone to Rochester for treatment and an operation was found necessary, and she had rallied nicely from the ordeal which was more than a week before her death, and all reports indicated that she was on the way to recovery until the sad news came. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left on the afternoon train for Lincoln where the body accompanied by a son and daughter who had been at her bedside is to be sent.

Mrs. Morrison had extensive land interests in this county and frequently visited here almost since the organization of the town, and occasionally spent part of summer here, so that she had many acquaintances and friends who will miss her visits and who can sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Jones in their sudden bereavements.

Rev. J. S. Harris, pastor of the Baptist church of Norfolk, came this morning to visit for a time with Rev. B. P. Richardson, and help him pass the lonesome hours in the absence of his family.

Death of Henry B. Miller

Henry Bowen Miller was born in Knox county, Ohio, Nov. 10th, 1828, and moved with his parents to Mount Gilead in 1880; then to Henderson county, Illinois, in 1839. Went with some others across the plains to California in 1850 and returned in the fall of 1853, moved to Montgomery county, Iowa, March, 1877, and to Wayne county, Nebraska, in the fall of 1881. After an active life of 21 years in Nebraska, he closed out his business and moved to Chelan, Washington, where he remained until called to the better home, June 5, 1915, at the age of 86 years, 6 months and 25 days. From twelve children born to the Miller family, only seven remain to mourn the loss of a great, good, and kind father.

The above brief sketch does not tell all we would say of this man who endeared himself to all who knew him by his many kindly acts and fair and generous business methods. He was a live wire and made and lost a competency several times. Politically he was by some considered wrong, but he followed his convictions, and was among the pioneers in the great populist move which swept the land in its day. With him their doctrines were matters of principle and he lived to see some of the great ideas of those days recognized as the true solution for economic wrongs by many who once ridiculed them. Not all of them have been adopted—not all of them will be, but much real wheat has been winnowed from what so many thought but chaff. We hope to give a more extended history of his life later.

The body, accompanied by his son Chester, and daughter Mrs. Cherry, is enroute to Wayne to be placed beside that of his wife of earlier years. It is thought that it will arrive here Saturday morning at 10:10, and arrangements are being made to go with it at once to the cemetery where after a brief service the body will be laid away.

Giese-Gildersleeve

At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning occurred the marriage of Miss Anna Giese to Mr. Lloyd Gildersleeve. The wedding took place in the presence of a number of relatives and friends, at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Giese. As a prelude Mr. Glenn Gildersleeve, accompanied by his sister, Helen, sang, "Beloved, it is Morn." To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Miss Bessie Crockett, the wedding party entered and took their places under a floral canopy. The groom was attended by Mr. Geo. Dixon. Miss Lavina Giese acted as bride's maid. The bride wearing a beautiful white serge suit, entered upon the arm of her father.

The ring ceremony was read by Rev. Lloyd Cunningham, sealing the union of these young people. After the congratulations the guests were seated to a five course breakfast. The tables were beautifully decorated in pink roses, ferns and smilax.

The young couple were recipients of a number of beautiful and useful presents. The bride and groom were driven to Winside where they took the west bound train. They will be away for a month, visiting the Panama exposition at San Francisco and other coast cities, returning over the N. P. via St. Paul. Congratulations from their hosts of friends are extended to these young people.

The Wayne Hospital Moves

At a meeting Tuesday evening of a few of those who are interested in securing a hospital for Wayne it was decided to draw up articles of incorporation to be submitted at a later meeting for approval, then to be sent to the state authorities for their O. K., when they will be in position to solicit subscriptions for the stock, or so much of it as may be necessary to sell to get the move under way. The Democrat believes that a properly equipped and conducted hospital established at Wayne would be one of the good investments which might well be made toward making a greater and better Wayne.

Word received from Rochester this morning, states that Mrs. Nettie Conover successfully underwent a second operation there Wednesday and was doing as well as could be expected.

RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY BRYAN

The resignation of William J. Bryan as secretary of state, which was announced late Tuesday evening removes from the president's cabinet its central figure—and the effect upon the future policy of the administration and our foreign affairs at this critical time is very hard to determine. It is to be hoped that it may not make the situation more acute. The cause of the tender of the resignation and its acceptance is to be found in the fact that the secretary of state and president and some other members of the cabinet could not agree upon the nature of the note to be sent in answer to the German reply to the American claims as to the sinking of the Lusitania. The reply will not be made public until Friday so it is impossible at this time to judge as to its merits, but it is generally conceded that the reply is in the nature of a demand as to whether or not the German government will accede to our protest against the use of submarines upon merchant ships without warning or without due regard for the safety of passengers and crew. The president and the majority of the cabinet desired to make the note in this form. The secretary of state, who has been the world's most noted exponent of peace, and who has during his term of office concluded more than twenty treaties binding this and other nations to a policy of arbitration before an ultimatum, thinks that to take any other course in such a crisis as this would be inconsistent. True, Germany had not accepted or signed such a treaty, although it was under consideration at the time of the breaking out of the war. Bryan, as we all recognize, has principle as the foundation from which to build all of his political acts. The arbitration treaties to him are matters of principle, and from this view it is easy to see how inconsistent—how impossible—it would be for him to put his name to a paper which he considered was contrary to the principle he had been seriously advocating and to which he had committed himself and the government to in so many cases.

The president is undoubtedly equally sincere in the position he has taken that it would be an evidence of weakness to recede from the stand taken in the first note on this subject, and that there are questions of right which do not admit of arbitration or quibbling discussion. With both men firm in the conviction that their course was right, there could be no other honorable solution of the question and the resignation was given and accepted in recognition of such a situation, and the severance of their official relation seems to have in no manner chilled their warm personal regard for each other, a situation which will do much to reduce to the minimum unfavorable comment or criticism which may be injurious to the cause of peace with all the world with honor which they both so much desire.

There is much speculation as to the political future of the two men in the light of this disagreement, but we doubt if either of them is considering that question for we believe them both to be men with a purpose to serve their country and mankind. Now is not the time to enter the field of speculation as to the future position of these two great men—history will give to each his proper place. But rather let each loyal citizen do well his duty as a citizen, as his conscience shall dictate and trust that it will be well in the end.

Thirty Years Ago Today

June 10, 1885, Weber Brothers, proprietors of the Wayne Roller mills, came to this place and began the erection of the mill they have since owned and operated here. It has been improved and enlarged from time to time as the growth of the business demanded, and it has always kept well abreast of the needs of the community, and has been one of the factors in making Wayne the leading town in this part of Nebraska. Had we known earlier of the event, it would have been possible to have given a bit of interesting history in connection with this item.

Henry Wolfe, who was once widely known in this county, where he lived for many years, had the misfortune to fall from a ladder last week and quite seriously injure his back and hips. Mrs. H. E. Griggs, his sister-in-law, who went to visit at his home at Springfield, South Dakota, writes back to home folks that he is improving, and able to be about on crutches at present, but that it is not known yet how long his injuries are liable to keep him from his usual work.

Obituary—James Hiscox

(By the Pastor)

Mr. James Hiscox was born in Bradford, Wiltshire, England, January 12, 1835. He quietly went to sleep in the Lord in his own home in Wayne a little after noon on Thursday, June 3d, 1915, aged 80 years, 4 months and 21 days.

Mr. Hiscox came to America when about nine years of age, taking up his residence in the state of Ohio. He was married to Miss Elizabeth J. Endly, at Lisbon, Ohio, March 29th, 1864. To this union were born four children, as follows: Mary L., deceased; Mrs. Harriet E. Cook of Hastings, Nebraska; Charles W. and William A. Hiscox, both of Wayne, Nebraska. Mr. Hiscox came with his family to Nebraska in 1868, where he settled on a homestead ten miles north of Fremont. He resided in Leigh, Nebr., for a time and then in 1907, came to Wayne. Mr. Hiscox united with the Methodist Episcopal church during his young manhood in Ohio, and remained a consistent and faithful member of that church until the time of his death. He was a true soldier of the cross and although suffering severely during his last sickness, he was never given to complaining at his lot, but bore uncomplainingly whatever was his to endure. He will be greatly missed and kindly remembered by all who knew him.

Funeral services were held at the home at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. S. Buell of the Methodist church officiating. Rev. Jacob Adriance of Fremont offered prayer. Rev. Adriance had been an intimate friend of Mr. Hiscox since 1873. A double quartet furnished the music. Out-of-town people in attendance at the funeral were: Mrs. Springer of Fremont, Mr. and Mrs. Redcliffe of Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Cook and son and daughter of Hastings, H. C. Hooker and L. J. Springer of Leigh, Mrs. Craft of Stewart, and Miss Minnie Reeves of Madison.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation for the beautiful floral offerings and for the kind sympathy and services of friends and neighbors of Wayne, so generously given; during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father.

Mrs. James Hiscox.
Mrs. Harriet E. Cook.
C. W. Hiscox.

Wm. Piepenstock was taken suddenly ill Sunday morning while at his shop, and taken to his home where he remained since, but is reported to be improving from day to day.

Mrs. Claud Courtright has been critically ill at the Courtright home in this city of scarlet fever, and while said to be improving, is not yet out of danger. Her father came this week to be with her.

CONFESSES TO BANK ROBBERY

Winfield Scott of Carroll Makes Confession of Bank Robbery and is Arrested at Downs, Kansas.

Saturday Sheriff Porter was called to Downs, Kansas, by a message from detective V. B. Hanson of the Burns detective agency, stating that Winfield Scott was under arrest at that place on charge of robbing the Citizen's State Bank of Carroll, and had confessed his guilt and turned over to the authorities of the bank $624.90 of the money taken. He also stated that he had thrown about $25 in silver back in the yard at the rear of the bank where it had been found, as he feared it would lead to his detection.

The confession tells that he was ill and in need of money, having had to discontinue his business as a drayman, and watching the daily routine of the president of the bank, Vaughn Williams, thought it would be easy to go in while he was out and pick up the money, while he was at the postoffice for his mail. This he did. He hid the money in an old saloon building, in a partition, and went out and stood on the street until so weak he could stand no longer, then went to his room. When arrested the next day he denied his guilt, and no evidence was found to hold him. May 31st he took the money from its hiding place and on June 1st he left for Downs, Kansas.

He agreed to return with the sheriff without any trouble, and arrived here in charge of Sheriff Porter Wednesday morning and is now at the county jail.

He is 63 years of age, and has been in the dray business at Carroll for a number of years, and his conduct there has been such that it was more because of the fact that he lived where he could have such ready access to the rear of the bank that directed suspicion to him than the reputation he had made as a resident of the place. He says that no one was with him in the venture.

The date of his hearing has not been set.

Browder-Benshoof

At Van Tassel, Wyoming, Thursday, June 3, 1915, occurred the marriage of Miss Ethel Benshoof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Benshoof, and Mr. Eugene Browder, both of VanTassel. The bride is a Wayne county girl, who went to VanTassel three years ago and took a claim and evidently lost her heart. The groom is one of the pioneer farmers of that new country who reclaimed a homestead from the wilderness and won a most excellent helpmate. The Democrat wishes them well.

John and Dan McEachen from up in the Saskatchewan country in Canada, came last Friday to visit their brother, R. A. McEachen, who is not in good health. They were joined here by their sister, Mrs. J. A. Burke of Lincoln, and Sunday they went with her to visit at her home.

James E. Harmon, who left here for Colorado three weeks ago to get into a country with a nice climate, thought it was rather a cool reception when he stepped from the train at Fort Collins into a foot of snow—but it was soon gone, and a May snow is a great crop builder in that dry land.

John Stallsmith went to Sioux City Tuesday to visit with the veterans of the Iowa G. A. R. now in session at that city. It is said that large delegations of the old soldiers from Nebraska, Minnesota and South Dakota are invited and expected to be present at the meetings, as members of the order from the corners of the three states will find it very convenient to visit their comrades while they are near their home.

Prof. Edward Coleman, who has been superintendent of the schools at Lecher, South Dakota, came last week to spend part of the summer vacation at the home of his father, Patrick Coleman. He is elected for another year at Lecher.

Mrs. Lee Young from Percival, Iowa, came Monday evening to visit at the home of her parents, W. H. Gildersleeve and wife. She reports that their crops appear a little ahead of those here, which is but natural, as their home is nearly 200 miles south of Wayne.

Henry Rethwisch, who owns the east half of the northeast quarter of section five in 27-2, knows as Deer Creek precinct, has registered a name for the place, "Union Farm", with the county clerk, thus adding another to the growing number of farms that are officially named in this county.

Mrs. T. E. Anderson, who came last week from Colorado to visit at the homes of her daughters here, Mesdames J. J. Coleman and Ben McEachen, left Tuesday morning for Dexter, Iowa, to visit relatives for a time. She plans to return to Wayne for a more extended visit before returning home.

Prosperity has struck Bert Hyatt, and he has been busy for the past three weeks when the weather would permit and roads were at all passable hauling material to his farm southeast of Wayne for a new, modern 2-story house, 28x30 with a basement under all. He thinks it takes a heap of stuff for a house.

Mrs. Nathan Chace entertained the young ladies of the Kensington club Tuesday afternoon in compliment to Miss Elsie Piper who is a house guest of Miss Lou Chace. Ten members attended. The afternoon was spent socially and the hostess served an elaborate lunch. Miss Floy Hoch was also a club guest.—Stanton Pickett.

Perry Benschhof and wife came last week from Van Tassel, Wyoming, to visit relatives and friends here, and join other members of the family in helping to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. The Ord Quiz sold last month, and price paid shows that the country town newspaper is coming to have a higher standard of value in cold cash than it once had. The sale price is reported at $18,000. Below we quote the sentiment of his farewell issue, after 33 years of the grind. W. W. Haskell expressed himself as follows: "Maybe you think it is a light thing for a man who has put the active portion of a lifetime into the building up of a newspaper to step down and out. Something about a newspaper grips its owner's heart as no other business may. It is an inanimate thing, to be sure, but no newspaper man can make himself feel toward his paper as toward other inanimate things. But the very love he has for his paper prompts him to see that it declines not into dotage with him nor goes with him to his grave. Though his heart may rebel at the thought, his mind says let go when it can be done with honor and when all is well."

John and Dan McEachen from up in the Saskatchewan country in Canada, came last Friday to visit their brother, R. A. McEachen, who is not in good health. They were joined here by their sister, Mrs. J. A. Burke of Lincoln, and Sunday they went with her to visit at her home.

A Feature of Wayne Chautauqua

This season the Wayne chautauqua promises to be something different, and is in the hands of a competent local committee, and they have arranged a program with reference to merit, and have more specialists and less of the job-lot sort of entertainers such as the organizations that have been farming the chautauqua in other years so frequently provide. Another feature is that if the meet is a success financially the home association will have the surplus and it is known that it will be used for the good of Wayne. If it be not a success financially the home organization would have to pay the deficit, so we really stand two chances to gain by the plan this season.

Among other good features to be used this year is a special course for the boys and girls, who will work in groups according to age and sex, and all between the ages of 6 and 18 years are wanted to be interested. Miss Grace Lamkin is to have supervision of this work, and on the last Saturday of the chautauqua she will have the home boys and girls put on a program similar to the following which was given at the close of a chautauqua in Oregon last year. All of the young folks should plan to take a part in this feature of the week, for the training received and the pleasure of the preparation will be great:

1. Grand Pageant March—Members of the Organization.
 2. Folk Dance (Looby Loo). Game (Trip Around the World)—Butterflies and Brownies.
 3. Pennant March and Drill. Game (Ball'oon Ball)—Hansel and Gretel Group.
 4. Dance (Benita Caprice)—Wood Nymphs.
 5. Free Hand Work.. Game (Touch Down)—Forresters.
 6. Snail March. Folk Game (Round and Round the Village)—Butterflies and Brownies.
 7. Folk Dance (Ace of Diamonds).
 8. Rose Dance. Game (Dodge Ball)—Wood Nymphs.
 9. Drill with Flower Sticks. Squirrel Game—Butterflies and Brownies.
 10. Tournament. Game (Pass Ball)—Hansel and Gretel Group.
 11. Dance (Woodland Mazurka). Game (Guard Ball)—Wood Nymphs.
 12. Game (Ball Hustle). Game (Snatch Ball)—Forresters.
 13. Game (Criss Cross Ball)—Wood Nymphs. (Pyramide)—Forresters.
- A Volley Ball Game will follow the program and you are invited to remain and watch it.

Death of Mrs. Bradford

Mrs. W. R. Bradford, was born in Hamilton County Ohio, November 13th, 1860. Some few years later she moved with her parents to Jefferson county Illinois, where she remained for some time, from thence she moved to Mills county, Iowa, where she was married to Mr. W. R. Bradford. She died at Omaha, Neb., June 2nd, age 54 years and 7 months. She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, five sons, and three daughters, an aged mother, two brothers and one sister.

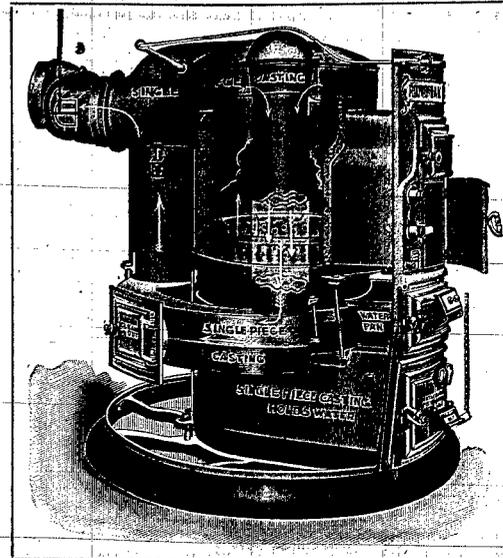

The body was brought to Wayne for burial, and the funeral was held from the English Lutheran church Saturday morning, Rev. Blessing preaching the sermon. She was for a number of years a resident here, and was held high in the esteem of her friends.

Annual School Meeting

The second Monday in June under the new law is the time for holding annual school meetings in Nebraska. One of the things which should have consideration is the time of opening the fall term. Would it not be profitable for the teachers and pupils of Nebraska to have this opening set for second Monday so as to give all an opportunity to attend the State Fair the first week in September where more education can be absorbed by teacher and pupil alike than in a full month of ordinary school. All children under twelve are admitted free. School boards should be patriotic along these lines and start school accordingly.

Mrs. J. G. Shaffer and daughter came from Lyons last week to visit at the home of their former friends, W. Y. Miles and wife. The young lady will remain for the summer school. Mrs. Miles and Mrs. Shaffer were pioneer neighbors in Nebraska in the 70's, and they found much satisfaction in recalling the days when they were two homesick young women on the treeless prairie of this state. But they are agreed that were they now compelled to leave and live in some of the other states the homesickness of other days would be as nothing compared what they believe they would feel for Nebraska.

ROUND OAK HOT BLAST

All Round Oak Furnaces are equipped with a special hot-blast attachment, for use, principally, when burning soft coal. Its function is to supply hot air above the fire, and thus produce perfect combustion and economize fuel.

Many extravagant claims are made for the different hot-blast devices, but the truth is that the maximum effect that can be produced by the best, is to make the usual black smoke from soft coal clear; when this effect is produced the best results have been attained—no device will burn all the smoke or all the soot. THE ROUND OAK HOT BLAST will make black soft coal smoke clear, and in the durable and substantial manner of its construction lies its superiority.

In Comparison

Quite generally the democratic newspapers of Nebraska are now discussing the problem of securing a sure enough progressive as a candidate for United States senator next spring. Many good names have been suggested, but the name of Ignatius Dunn, of Omaha, appears to be winning special favor over the state. That always standard teacher of progressive democratic thought, the Fairbury Journal last week offered the following:

"It seems likely that the democrats of Nebraska will need a candidate for United States senator at the primary next April. One of those who shines brightly in comparison is I. J. Dunn, of Omaha. Mr. Dunn is a progressive democrat who can be depended upon to support President Wilson at Washington as well as in Nebraska. He has given no hint of his intentions, but progressive democrats are urging him to let his name go before the people."

The Fairbury Journal very correctly interprets the democratic desire in this state when it offers the name of a democrat who can be depended upon to support President Wilson in Washington as well as in Nebraska.

And sure Ignatius Dunn is that kind of a democrat. He has been a real progressive all his days in politics. He has never been a candidate for any public office, but for twenty years he has been a worker in the democratic harness, and there is not enough money in the world to buy him away from the pathway of his pledges. As an orator his fame is nation-wide. In the last national campaign he was one of the ablest and most-demanded campaigners in behalf of President Wilson. If the Fairbury Journal and other progressive state papers of that high type can induce Ignatius Dunn to become a senatorial candidate, and if the people should choose him to that high office, then Nebraskans might read the United States senate proceedings with as much interest and pride as in the old days when Van Wyck began giving this prairie state a place on the national map—Columbus Telegram.

Obituary

Lydia Elizabeth Sivers, daughter of Mr. John and Mrs. Ann Sivers, was born in Glenwood, Iowa, Nov. 17th, 1860, and died at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. O. Keast west of Macedonia, Friday, May 21st, 1915, age 54 years, 6 months and 14 days.

On December 31, 1877, at Glenwood, she was united in marriage to Mr. Amos B. Evernham. To this union four children were born, two sons Maurice Evernham of Lewistown Mont., and Geo. A. Evernham of Shenandoah, Iowa, and two daughters, Mrs. J. O. Keast, and Miss Olive Evernham of Macedonia, Iowa.

In 1889 Mrs. Evernham joined the Methodist Episcopal church at West Liberty, Iowa, and at the day of her death held her membership in the Methodist Episcopal church of Wayne, Nebr. Not only was she a member of the church, but was also a true and constant Christian, and a devoted and active worker in the church. Though in recent years, because of ill health she was unable to attend church, her heart and mind were with the church, and she remembered Zion.

In 1892 she, with her family, moved to Wayne, Neb., where they lived till 1903 when they came to Pacific Junction, Iowa. In 1906 they returned to Nebraska, locating at Huntley, where they lived till 1914, when they came to Macedonia and made their home with their daughter, Mrs. J. O. Keast.

Of a family of twelve children, only four survive Mrs. Evernham, three brothers, John Sivers of Boulder, Col., Edward and Mathew Sivers of Glenwood, Iowa, and one sister, Olive of Glenwood. Seven brothers and sisters of her family preceded her to the home beyond.

Besides her devoted husband, the two sons and two daughters, she leaves to mourn her departure, three grand-children, and a large circle of friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Evernham was kind and gentle, loving and affectionate, thoughtful and grateful. Though suffering great pain, she did not murmur nor complain. Patiently she bore her afflictions, and peacefully she passed out into the sweet silent life of immortal glory.

Short funeral services were conducted at the Keast home by Rev. Glassburn, after which the remains were taken to Glenwood where services were held in the Methodist church. Interment was in the West Liberty cemetery.—Botna Valley News.

Where and How They Served

Last week the Wakefield Republican published the following bit of soldier record of the few survivors of the war which closed 50 years ago now living at or near our sister village:

Only nine or ten soldiers of the civil war are still living in this community. Of these, only J. O. Milligan, J. W. Agler, J. I. Brown, Chas. Oliver and Levi Dilts were present at Memorial services. Believing our readers will be glad to have some account, however brief it may be, of the soldier record of these veterans who still live among us, we have secured the following data:

E. E. Driscoll, Company K., 14th Iowa infantry. Spent three years in the Western Army; in the campaigns against and battles of Ft. Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, etc. Mustered out in Nov. 1864. Enlisted in Company B., 4th U. S. Veteran Volunteers; at Washington under Gen Hancock; started for Richmond just a few days before it surrendered; helped hunt conspirators who killed Lincoln.

Albert Chase, Company K., 141st Pennsylvania infantry. Enlisted in 1862, and remained 35 months. In the army of the Potomac; at Gettysburg and in the campaigns against and around Richmond.

J. Rhoads, Company F., Hatcher's battalion, Minnesota cavalry. Was not quite twenty-one when he enlisted. Mustered out in fall of 1865.

J. W. Agler, Company K., 75th Illinois infantry. From August 1862 to July 1865. Was in the Army of the Cumberland; in the battles of Perryville, Nashville, and many others. Orderly at headquarters, first division the Corps, under the command of Gen. Kimbell. Mr. Agler's brother enlisted with him, they served together through the war and returned home together.

Levi Dilts, Company I, 46th infantry. Served during summer of 1864; along Mississippi as far down as Tennessee. About twenty-one when he enlisted. Discharged in Autumn of 1864.

J. I. Brown, Company K., 2nd Wisconsin volunteer cavalry. From January 3, 1862 to August 18, 1865. Two and one-half years in the southwest (Mo. and Ark.) then in the army of the Mississippi. Orderly. Only seventeen when he enlisted.

Lewis Cooley, Company F, 86th New York infantry. Served the last year of the war. In Virginia in the campaigns against Richmond.

Chas. Oliver, Company L., 6th Mich. cavalry. Enlisted in August 1861 and served to the end—three years and eight months. Under Sheridan in the east; battles of Gettysburg, Winchester, and many others. During last six months carried the headquarters flag in Gen. Custer's command.

J. O. Milligan, Company C., 93rd, Illinois volunteer infantry. Enlisted in 1862. Under Grant and Sherman in the department of the Southwest. Wounded and in hospital, then transferred to government clerkship in December 1863. Returned home in August 1865.

The above gives only a brief hint of actual soldier service of these veterans. It shows that some of them were through the hardest and bloodiest campaigns of the war; all answered their country's call and performed the service required of them. The community honors itself by honoring their soldier records and the principles they fought for.

BROTHERHOOD

For the Public

Comrade, give us your hand,
We care not in what land
You first saw light.
Join us; we do not heed
Your language, race nor creed;
Let us united plead
For human right.

If we degrade our quest,
Seeking class interest
Or private gain;
If with misguided zeal
For our own nation's weal
We lose this high ideal,
Our work is vain.

From History's earliest page,
Even in this present age
Millions have bled.
No fratricidal strife
Urged on by drum and fife
Brings man his right to life
Or to earn bread.

Freedom to use of land
Is and must ever stand
Foremost of rights.
Till his as been secured
Men by false hopes are lured,
Peace can not be assured;
Injustice blights.

Democratic Denmark

The final adoption last week of a new constitution for Denmark completes the political revolution which has been pending in that little country for a year past. The change gives the world another country whose democracy approaches that of Switzerland. It exceeds that of Switzerland in its removal of the political disabilities of women. Danish women are hereafter to vote on equal terms with men, as now they do in only eleven American states. Denmark lacks Switzerland's initiative and referendum, a necessary ingredient of complete democracy. Denmark also has a king, but kings, in these modern times, are not necessarily a sign of lack of democracy. In Denmark and Great Britain they are more souvenir than sovereign. They are kept for their relation to the past, tolerated because they have left no autocratic power.

We say that the new constitution is a political revolution for Denmark. It is so only in form. Denmark has come to this day by a process of evolution extending over generations. The industrial development of Denmark in recent decades has been a mark of Denmark's growing democracy, for it has been in the direction of widely distributed wealth and individual efficiency. The small farms of Denmark and the way they are conquering European markets with their butter and eggs have been notable the world around in recent years. A democratic industrial development marks democratic political ideals, whatever the forms of government. The United States, a sister nation feeling its way in the same direction, will wish Denmark godspeed in its new undertaking. Every such advance gives a world-wide impulse to corresponding movements.

We should not care to argue the sequence, but the fact cannot be overlooked that democratic Denmark, like democratic Switzerland, is a nation whose efforts are not bound up in war-like plans. These little countries are too small to hope for protection by armed force. Trusting from necessity in other sources of safety, they find themselves free to develop on other lines, human and economic. We see Great Britain's movement for popular liberty stopped by a war; a progressive government admitting to its councils the arch-reactionaries of the nation. Without advancing the post hoc, propter hoc of the politician, we are bound to suggest the extreme probability that militarism and democracy are incompatible elements.—State Journal.

Hog Cholera Serum

One of the laws enacted by the last legislature which is undoubtedly of great benefit to the farmer and which in a way affects each hog raiser of the state, was what is known as Senate File 197, regulating the manufacture and sale of anti-hog cholera serum and virus. The federal government sometime ago saw the necessity of regulating the manufacture of these products and it has been partially under the supervision of the federal B. A. I. for the past year or more. However, the Nebraska law makes it imperative that all serum and virus in the state procure a permit from the Live Stock Sanitary Board and file bond for $5,000.00 with the Board for the fulfillment of the law regulating their product.

The one feature of the law which affects the farmer or user of either of the two products is that reports must be made by both the party administering the serum or virus and the party owning the hogs. The one who administers the dose must make a report to the Live Stock Sanitary Board at Lincoln immediately, and the owner of the hogs must make a report at the end of thirty days. The Live Stock Sanitary Board furnishes blanks for making these reports free of charge to owners and users of serum.

It would be well for the swine owners who contemplate vaccination to look up this law before vaccinating and to make sure that they procure the right kind of serum by buying only from companies licensed in Nebraska. If they buy from companies licensed in Nebraska report blanks are sent out with each lot of serum sold by such company.

Kitchen Kinks

Brown sugar frosting which will not crack is made of one tablespoonful vinegar, brown sugar enough to mix and beaten white of half an egg. Beat all well together and add sugar enough to spread.

A pair of long wooden knitting needles are most excellent for draining doughnuts. As the doughnuts are fried slip them on a needle and when it is full rest it on the top of a pan to cool. The doughnuts do not crush and the lard drains off.

The proper exercise of the taxing power of the state would do much to make impossible such conditions as prevail most notably in Colorado where the Rockefeller interests have acquired such a grip on the natural resources of the state as to make men say in all seriousness that if you want laboring men to receive what they are entitled to you must humbly ask this right or take chances of being turned out in the mountains to starve.

Last month Denver voters rejected an opportunity to apply the single tax system locally. One argument against it was that it would destroy $160,000,000 of land values. Would it? The only value such a tax would destroy would be the capitalized or speculative value of land. If the people in Denver who do not own land for speculation wish to release that sum from the land and pay it themselves who should object? Not the man who is speculating in Denver corner lots.

Some people appear to expect that for each dollar they invest in advertising they should receive in return at once at least twice the amount invested. We suggest that people with such an idea go and purchase and eat during the month 150 pounds of provision, taking care to carefully weigh both before and after to note the gain—and if it is less than 100 per cent consider the idea of quitting eating. What you eat will not always fatten you, but it will keep you alive. So with business and advertising. It is not always immediate gain, but it keeps business alive.

It is a poor rule that don't work both ways, is evidently the opinion of that radical protectionist organ known as the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. For years they have been telling the consumer here who did not like the idea of taxing himself with a tariff to enrich the other fellow, that the "foreigner pays the tax." One almost is led to believe that the editor means it. But only the other day they turned the table round, and speaking of the added cost of ocean freight and insurance because of the war conditions on goods exported from this land of plenty to the hungry on the other side of the big pond, the G.-D. says these high charges will make no difference to us, for "The foreigner pays the tax."

Among the Churches of Wayne

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor)
Sunday School every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Judge Fawcett of Brooklyn, New York, recently gave strong commendation to the work and value of the Sunday School, as an agent for the moral protection and guidance of children and young people. In sentencing a nineteen year old burglar to the reformatory he said, "I have been sitting on this bench for five years, and in that time I have had twenty-seven hundred boys before me for sentence, and not one of them was an attendant of a Sunday School. Had you gone there, I am sure you would not be before me today." If one in such a position can give such a high testimony to the Sunday School, certainly its value is great. Will you not take advantage of it?
Morning services at 11 o'clock.
The subject of the morning sermon will be "The Great Supper"—Luke 14:15-21. As Christ won the favor and admiration of the common people, he also excited the enmity of the Scribes and Pharisees. They sought many times to get him out of the way, they laid many traps to catch him. Upon one oc-casian as Christ went into the house of one of the Chief Pharisees to eat bread on the Sabbath day, they watched him and planned his downfall. A man was introduced who labored under a severe illness—dropsy, but Christ knowing their intentions, by his wonderful wisdom put them to silence, so that "they could not answer him again to these things". This supper was the text of one of the most beautiful of our Lord's parables.

Evening services at 8 o'clock. The subject will be "The Wisdomless Life"—Proverbs 29:18.
Luther League at seven o'clock. The subject will be "The Lutheran College and Its Support".
The Womans' Home and Foreign Missionary society held its first regular meeting with the President, Mrs. A. D. Erickson on Wednesday. The Ladies Aid society was very pleasantly entertained on last Thursday by Miss Rosa Aisenheimer. The meeting was well attended.
One week from next Sunday the third quarterly communion will be held. All members are requested to be present.
A cordial invitation is extended to all who care to worship with us.

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)
Next Sunday is Children Day in the Methodist church and will be observed in an appropriate manner. A special program is being prepared by the Sunday school and will be given Sunday morning, taking the time of the regular preaching service. The program beginning at half past ten. All of the young people in the town for the summer are especially invited to become members of the Sunday school while in town.

The Epworth Leaguers and young people of the Sunday school, are planning to give a reception to new students in the church parlors on Friday evening; everybody most cordially invited to be present. Epworth League devotional meeting will be held as usual in the League room at seven o'clock on Sunday evening. Professor Redmond is the leader.

The subject for the Sunday evening sermon will be "Abiding Treasure and the Open Door."
It is our constant purpose to make every service the best that it is possible for it to be made. We are always glad to share the services with any visiting friends. Whether you are in town for one Sunday or for summer or are moving here to make this your home you will always find a cordial welcome in the Methodist church. Our singing is under the efficient leadership of Professor J. J. Coleman and a splendid choir, also a large male chorus composed of some fifteen or eighteen men. The Sunday school chorister is Professor E. E. Lackey. You will miss it if you miss the Methodist services next Sunday. You are most cordially invited to attend.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)
A good number of members were present at the communion service last Sunday. One was given hand of fellowship.

Last Friday afternoon about twenty ladies met at the home of Mrs. Huff. After a bible study, the regular mission study was taken up, led by Mrs. Sprague. Definite plans also were made regarding the supper to be served on Saturday.
The prayer-circle meets with Mrs. Ethel Norton on Friday afternoon.

The young people elected officers for the year as follows: President, Miss Ina Hughes; vice president, Shirley Sprague; secretary and treasurer, Nora Gilbert; organist, Miss Myrtle Evans; chorister, E. R. Rogers. Earnest work is being planned.

The subject of the morning sermon Sunday will be: "The Tried Christian."
Preceding this sermon the pastor will give a sermon to the children. We want parents to bring their children with them.
The young people will meet at 7 o'clock. The meeting will be especially for young men. One of our young men will lead.

The regular preaching hour will be given over to Children's Day exercises. A splendid program has been prepared. Something full of interest to all who love children. Little voices will praise the Savior. All departments will have part in the program. An offering will be taken for the missionary department of our Sunday school work. If Sunday schools are good for our children let us give them to other children.

German Lutheran Church

Rev. Moehring, Pastor
There will be no Sunday school here next Sunday, but there will be preaching at three o'clock in the afternoon. Members are requested to remember the Mission-quest the 4th Sunday of June, the 27th.

Social Notes

The music pupils of M. S. Davies met at the Davies home Monday afternoon and gave a musical program. The following taking part in the program: Helen Henkel, Pearl Stone, Winifred McInerney, Irene Dulin, Alvin Hurstard, Lowell Henney, Julius Hurstard, Emma Abbott and Ina Hughes. The following were in attendance: Mrs. Herman Henney, Mr. and Mrs. Hurstard, Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Abbott and a friend. Mrs. Davies served ice cream and cake. A good time is reported by those present. A musical program will be given next Saturday evening by pupils who could not be present at the Monday recital.

Mrs. J. H. Wright was hostess at the delightful meeting of the Union Bible Study circle Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. A. P. Gossard led the discussion of the advance Sunday school lesson, one of the most beautiful hymns from the Jewish Psalter, David's repentance song. The Circle will meet with Mrs. J. J. Coleman next Tuesday afternoon and a splendid meeting is in view.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington and Dr. and Mrs. Williams entertained the Early Hour club in the beautiful new home of Mr. Harrington Tuesday evening. The house was beautifully decorated in roses and other cut flowers. The evening was spent socially and with cards. A delicious lunch was served by hostess.

The P. E. O. met with Mrs. W. M. Orr Monday evening. Nearly all members were present to initiate and welcome into the sisterhood Misses Faye Britton and Florence Welch. Mrs. Orr served delightful refreshments. Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Chace go next week to Fullerton as delegates to the State P. E. O.

Misses Marguerite and Goldie Chace were hostesses at a pretty little informal party Tuesday afternoon in honor of Miss Ermine Carmean of Chadron. The afternoon was spent in visiting and at cards. A delicious luncheon was served at 2 o'clock.

Miss Margaret Heckert entertained a few of her friends at a dancing party Tuesday evening. A new Edison Victrola furnished the music. Luncheon was served. A delightful evening was spent by the young folks.

The Girls' Bible Circle met at the home of Rev. S. X. Cross. The lesson study was led by Hattie Crockett. They will meet next Saturday night at Prof. Hickman's.

A Class of 66 Promoted

The county court room was filled with the pupils and patrons of the schools of the county last Saturday afternoon when a class of 66 who had successfully passed the 8th grade examinations received their diplomas of promotion from County Superintendent, Miss Pearl Sewell. A pleasing program had been arranged and it was followed in the order given last week. The music by Alice Blair and Joe Ringland and the song by Miss Nellie Baker were appreciated and heartily applauded.

State Superintendent A. O. Thomas made the address of the occasion, and he talked school and school only—but in a most interesting manner. He stated that Nebraska schools needed much intelligent attention if we are to keep pace with the rest of the country. While this state as a whole stands first in the nation in the small percentage of illiteracy it is because the smart people of other states were the ones who came to Nebraska. The same test applied to natives of the state of school age makes Nebraska rank as 13th. Then he said that a measure of the efficiency of the schools of the state, measured by an adopted standard of efficiency as applied to schools of other states, places Nebraska in the list well toward the bottom, being 31st. These figures show the need of improved methods of teaching to so standardize our schools as to cut the figure three out of both standings and leave the "1" to designate our rank. He stated that the law as amended by the last legislature gave us a sort of local option as to the kind of schools we may have, but he hoped that whatever kind a community had, nothing short of the best of the kind would be considered. If a community elect to continue the one-room school make it the best one-room school possible. If the communities favor a consolidated school that should be made the best of its kind—and if a township or community high school is established make it the best that could be had.

The writer gained the impression from the address that personally the superintendent would favor consolidated schools with a course of study including the 10th grade, and a township high school for the next two grades, so that the pupils might not be compelled to go far from home to secure their education, for he as well as others had noticed how prone they are to remain away from home after their school work is completed, and putting the matter tersely he said that the present system had a tendency to separate the family at a time when the young folks were badly needed at home and just at a time when they needed a home as much or more than anything else or any time in their life. Recognizing the defects in the school system of the state, he hopes to see the people take advantage of the new law and start a reform that will place Nebraska schools in a more enviable position among the sister states.

He said the ox cart of the pioneer days had given place to the automobile, but we still had the same school system that was in vogue when Nebraska was in the ox cart class. He did not think that either teacher or pupil could do their best in a one-room school with from one to eight pupils, and that is the range of number in fully one-half of the schools.

Superintendent Bowen of the city schools presented the diplomas, and urged these pupils not to stop school now, but to select a good high school as convenient to home as possible and at least complete the high school course. This he was most anxious to co-operate with both pupils and parents to see accomplished.

At the conclusion of the program the pupils, their teachers and the county superintendent posed for a group picture which will tend to recall the events of the day and those who participated in them to mind vividly whenever the picture is seen by any of the group whether it be next year or in 50 years.

A. A. Grant arrived here from Texas Wednesday for an extended visit at the home of his uncle, R. R. Smith, six miles west of Wayne. Mr. Grant has been in charge of one of the agricultural experiment stations in Texas, and as the failure to market the cotton crop there last year, due to the war, made it seem wise to discontinue this work for a season, he has come north to learn a bit of northern farm methods. It is his plan to attend the agricultural college at Ames, Iowa, this fall or winter. He thought it pretty cold here the morning of his arrival, when it was but a few degrees above freezing. In his home state he left folks sweating in the midst of wheat harvest.

Mrs. Stewart came this morning from Minneapolis to visit at the home of her parents, James Britton and wife.

Mrs. Grace Clark and daughter, Miss Emma, from Morningside are here visiting at the home of R. N. Donahey and wife, her daughter.

Paul Moseman of Lyons came the first of the week to visit at the Farrell home in this city, and last evening his parents, A. Moseman and wife came to join him here, it having developed that it was advisable for him to undergo an operation for adenoids and enlarged tonsils. He is in the hands of the physician at this writing.

W. F. Richardson from New Castle was here the first of the week visiting his parents, A. R. Richardson and wife, while on his way to Winner, South Dakota, where he has land to look after. He remained here longer than he had planned because of the track washout of Saturday making it impossible for him to reach his destination Monday or Tuesday.

Dr. E. S. Blair is about to enjoy an event he has had in anticipation for several years, and Monday will leave with Mrs. Blair to visit his old school, Allegheny college at Meadville, Pennsylvania, on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the school. This anniversary is to be the great event in the history of this school, and every member of the alumni who possibly can do so is planning to be present at this time and join in the great reunion and attend the commencement exercises which occur at that time. The program will occupy an entire week, and some of the most noted divines and school men of the land have place on the program. The doctor received his A. B. degree there in 1884, and then went to Ann Arbor, Michigan, where he took up his study of his chosen profession, graduating there in 1887. His home was in Illinois, but Meadville had been the home of his parents, and it was that fact which influenced him to decide to attend college there where he could learn something of the people of his father and mother's childhood home. Their Wayne friends wish that Doctor and Mrs. Blair may have as much pleasure as they are anticipating in this his first return visit to the scenes of his college days.

A Minneapolis threshing outfit, engine and separator came here the first of the week for Lawrence Brown, and is on the siding at this writing. Looking backward, the writer remembers the threshing machine of other days, when a horse power with sweeps for eight or ten horses treked over the prairie from one farm to another, a mere toy beside the thrasher of today with its 30 or 40 horse engine, a band cutting attachment and self feeder and capacity to care for as much grain as two men can pitch in at the ever hungry maw. The grain is now delivered into a wagon and an automatic weigher measures the output of the machine. It used to be measured with a half bushel—a man to empty into sacks and a boy to hold the sack. Then the old timer had a straw carrier which took all of the straw and chaff and dirt up an incline and threw it in the face of the kid who held the responsible place on the straw stack to keep the straw clear from the stackers. It was a dirty, thankless job, and the only relief the fellow at the tail end had was when he could slip his fork handle under the chain that run the carrier and put it out of commission long enough for him to draw a clean breath. Now the machine has a blower, and it is so arranged that it can be made to pile the straw on almost any part of the stack, and the man on the straw pile can do the work comparatively free from dust. The machine of today will shell as much grain in an hour as one of the old pioneer machines would thresh in half a day.

Dr. Guttery reports that the patient had suffered violent spells previously and had been in the institution several years. Mr. Newsome has an excellent reputation, having handled patients in violent wards for many years. The man's death is the result of an accident to be regretted.—Norfolk Press.

E. L. Jones, who moved to Lockhart, in northwestern Minnesota, last year, came Wednesday for his automobile and left today for home with the car. He reports that crops look well there—some of the corn now being cultivated, small grain a trifle shorter than here, but in the pink of condition. He wanted to find some one to travel with him, and offered free passage, but his notice was too short for most people to get ready.

The war across the water goes merrily on. The Germans have made several Zeppelin raids over England and London, and London is trying to suppress the details of the damage done. Then a Canadian bird man has outwitted the German air fighters and succeeded in dropping an explosive on one of the giant Zeppelins and destroying it with its crew of 28 men. They lit too hard when they came down, and their foe almost shared alike fate. During the week the English losses totaled 21,000, an average of 3,000 daily.

David Herner from Leslie precinct was a Wayne visitor Tuesday. He had returned the day before from a trip to Rock county, and in reply to some questions about the weather and the rain he said that at his home they had had plenty, but no excess, and that things were fine. But of the country from Norfolk west he could not say so much. Things are literally soaked in Rock county, and the water is everywhere at present. It was his opinion that it would be a week before the farmers there would be able to get into the fields and work. When one reads the weather doings elsewhere the conclusion comes that Wayne was one of the favored spots on the map.

Who was it that said it would be far better to pave the streets of Wayne than to plod through the mud as all did last week and the week before—and then we now have the expense of putting our dirt roads in shape again, and in some instances that is no small job. It would be a mighty fine thing in a wet time like that of last week to send a man or two out about the city under a rain coat with a shovel to see to it that water is turned into the gutter instead of being allowed to take the middle of the road. In many places five minutes work while the rain was coming would have kept the water where it belonged, and saved an impassable mud hole.

At Randolph Saturday a sudden downpour in and near the town put the little waterway that runs through the place out of banks and over the low land, and filled cellars and washed away walks and ruined gardens. In the nearby farm lands considerable corn was washed out and will have to be replanted.

Prof. C. U. Keckley has gone to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, to try the medicinal properties said to be in the waters there, for a stubborn attack of rheumatism.

Dr. Wiley says:

flours doped with chemicals and acids are not pure foods and are injurious to the human stomach. Dr. Wiley is a food expert and is recognized as the highest authority on pure food subjects. When Dr. Wiley makes the statement that bleached flours are directly responsible for thousands of cases of stomach trouble he knows what he is talking about. When Congress passed a law making it unlawful to ship bleached flour from one state to another, there was a reason. When mills operating within its own state are permitted to dope flour and sell it to their home people they are doing what they cannot do in an adjoining state. Why? Because the strong arm of the law forbids, under penalty of confiscation of the entire shipment and a handsome fine besides. And again why? Because the flour has been infected with chemicals, which has removed some of the life-sustaining properties, to conceal and imperfection of milling. Dr. Wiley the greatest food expert, says it's NOT PURE FOOD.

How easy it is when buying flour to ask, "is this flour absolutely pure or is it bleached? Could this flour be shipped from one state to another lawfully?" You have taken the proper precaution—if in doubt forward a sample to Mr. Harmon, the state pure food commissioner.

Hundreds of people have stomach trouble in some form. Don't contribute to your own discomforts by using bleached flour. Doctors will tell you 35 per cent of their practice is for stomach trouble. Dr. Wiley says bleached flour is largely responsible for this condition. This store takes pride in the fact that it is a dispenser of pure foods and flour has received special attention.

Splendid Flour is not bleached. No poisonous acid fumes has been administered to conceal old milling methods and imperfect materials. Splendid Flour stands today among the headlines and may be LAWFULLY SHIPPED INTO ANY STATE IN THE UNION.

Housewife! Which do you prefer? Splendid Flour which is absolutely pure or some other brand which is bleached and not absolutely pure?

Comment From Exchanges

Stanton Picket:

In conversation with a close friend of the Picket man the other day it was suggested that the city of Stanton hire a superintendent to run the affairs of the city and do away with the offices of city council and all minor offices and let the superintendent hire his own men to run the business of the city. In this way he says the city will have better service, as the superintendent will be held responsible to the city. This idea has been advanced quite often in running county affairs and it probably would work as well in running cities.

Omaha Nebraskan:

Judge Gary of the steel trust says that a business revival is due. But there is no trouble with business—except fear.

Crops are plentiful; the chances are that this year America will reap the most bountiful harvest in its history. Why, then, should anyone worry about business conditions? Do away with the fear and the pessimistic predictions of some of our so-called "business leaders" and there will be nothing over which one need worry.

Bixby:

"One must first overcome the fear of disease in order to combat it successfully," says Dr. S. A. Knopp of New York city. The doctor is treading dangerously near to ground broken by the Christian Scientists.

Suppose Bowlby's theory entirely workable; and suppose his ambitions to install a frog-pond on every Kinkaid homestead had been realized early this season, how would he head off precipitation in time to harvest the wheat? Mark Hanna was in favor of letting well enough alone. If we are not content with the natural rainfall of this latitude and longitude, storage for irrigation is the only answer.

It is unlawful to carry concealed weapons about ones clothes, but one may sleep with a loaded revolver under his pillow without offending the statutes or giving the peace and dignity of the state any the worse of it. But what is the profit of this preparedness for war when burglars are liable to enter your dwelling at midday and carry off both gun and ammunition? Have we no beligerent rights that a burglar is bound to respect? That every breach of good manners has happened there in Lincoln, the seat of government and of such culture as we have in the west.

Hartington Herald:

It is surely a thousand pities to see the fine manhood, splendid ability, great resources, historical treasures and immense scientific wealth of the nations of the old world being ruthlessly sacrificed to feed the rapacious appetite of the War God.

There is nothing nicer in the world than a well edited, neatly printed newspaper, filled to the brim with news and carrying a worth-while message to the public which eagerly scans its pages. A good newspaper is a thing of power and beauty and, if publishers and editors realized this fact more fully, they would strive to bring their product up to a little higher standard.

A Busy Nation

The United States is floating large issues of government securities for Switzerland, Germany, France, Argentine and China; it is extending credit to practically every European nation; it is feeding all Europe, excepting the Teutonic allies; it is exporting commodities of all kinds at the rate of $10,000,000 every day; it is keeping alive 7,000,000 Belgians by the most gigantic system of organized charity the world has ever witnessed; it is extending help to starving Poland, revolution torn Mexico, and typhoid stricken Serbia; its Red Cross organizations and privately supported staffs of physicians, nurses, ambulance corps and hospital units are on every battle front in Europe; it is the mecca at present of commercial delegations from every South American nation and from China, who are asking for financial assistance in developing their resources and for building their national enterprises and also seeking reciprocal trade relations. This is a busy nation, a thrifty, prosperous nation, in fact, the most prosperous and fortunate nation on the face of the globe today.

Along Came Ruth

"What do you think Ruth?" began her aunt, as Ruth came in. "Johnny has been using my carving knife in the garden, and he left it on the back porch in the rain last night, and this morning it is covered with rust. Don't you think I had better throw it away and get a new one?"

"By no means!" answered Ruth, "let me tell you what will take all the rust off the blade. Put the knife in a basin and cover it with coal oil, then set it aside for several hours. At the end of that time, take it out and stick it in the ground for a short time, then by working it in and out of the soil for a bit, you will remove all the rust. Easy isn't it?"

"Why yes, and if I have a new edge put upon it, I will have a new one at the mere cost of sharpening, and I was sure I should have to buy a new one."

Midwest Magazine for June

With a handsome new colored cover, in an especially handsome design, Midwest Magazine for June is as welcome as a cool breeze in August. "See Nebraska," is the keynote of this issue of Midwest, and eight thousand copies have been distributed in the east to prospective exposition visitors. The invitation extended to eastern people to see Nebraska on their way to the Pacific coast is hearty and the attractions offered can not help impressing the minds of Midwest's readers. "Two Thousand Miles Through Nebraska" is a clever story of the editor's recent journey four times across the state. "Opportunities in the West" is another feature calculated to advertise Nebraska and the midwest country.

The Week in History

Notice

L. N. Porter will take notice that on the 20th day of May, 1915, I. W. Alter, a justice of the peace of Wayne Precinct, Wayne County, Nebraska, issued an order of attachment for the sum of $25.00 in an action pending before him wherein Burret W. Wright, is plaintiff and L. N. Porter is defendant; that property consisting of one range cook stove, one parlor rug, one table, one lounge, and other furniture and property, has been attached and garnished under said action, said cause was continued to the 30th day of June, 1915, at 9 o'clock, a. m.

21-3 BURRET W. WRIGHT, Plaintiff.

Judging from their vote on the question of saloons at Bloomfield about a year ago, one infers that they are not favorable to water at all times and under all circumstances. Hence it is that a petition has been presented to the council of the city asking that they take some steps at once to prevent having so much water forced upon them as was in the recent flood. It is the idea that the proper thing to do is to take the kinks out of the little waterway which meanders through the place. This waterway is said to be as crooked as the ways of a ward politician, and an engineer is to be engaged to suggest the best plan of straightening the stream and estimate the cost. The chances are that the damage of the recent flood would more than pay for the work.

The attorney is said to demand and receive bigger and better pay on a case where it is known that only by "legal" knowledge of some error in the proceedings of the opposite side, can he hope to win than on a case that is dead easy—as a rule the newspaper man is not discriminating enough and does a vast amount for some people too cheap. Realizing this fact an exchange has established the following rates, and as they are not copyrighted the Democrat thinks of adopting them, so by watching these columns it will be easy to learn just how much revenue the editor is extracting from the different ones who seek newspaper praise: "For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen when everybody knows he is as lazy as a hired man, $2.70. Referring to the deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when we know he will only be missed by the poker circle $10.13. Referring to some gallavantin' female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet, when every business man would rather see satan coming, $8.10. Calling an ordinary pulpit pounder an eminent divine, 10 cents. Sending a doughy sinner to heaven, $5. Referring to a deceased merchant who never advertised in his life as a progressive citizen, $4.90."

Torrential rains in north Nebraska Saturday night for the third time this spring cut the Rosebud country off from railroad communication and early Monday morning the railroad officials believed that train service north of Niobrara would probably be resumed Tuesday. Streams are swollen and the Elkhorn river at Norfolk Monday morning had risen a foot in twenty-four hours going up to the highest point of the season. Neligh, Monowi and O'Neill were among the points affected by the high water. The break in railroad communication again held back the circus which has been marooned in the Rosebud country for more than a week. Water ran two feet deep on the Main street in Verdel. Ponca creek was out of its banks in many places. The tracks between Niobrara and Verdigris were badly washed out and the approaches to the bridges were damaged. Some piling had to be driven to make the repairs Monday morning. Trains were running over a soft bed of tracks on the main line of the Northwestern road, says the News. The telephone office in Norfolk reported that most of the bridges between O'Neill and Clearwater were badly damaged Saturday because of the heavy rains, says the News.

Double Service AUTOMOBILE TIRES

Guaranteed 7000 Miles Service ABSOLUTELY PUNCTUREPROOF

Double Service Tires are double the thickness of the best standard make tires.

This 100 per cent greater wearing surface naturally gives that much more mileage and service. The average of 12 miles of tough fabric and one inch surface tread rubber make these tires absolutely puncture proof.

These tires excel all others for use in the country over rough and rugged roads as well as on hard pavements. They are as easy riding and resilient as any other pneumatic tire—the air space and pressure being the same.

They are the most economical and "care free" tires made and are used where tires must be depended on and tire troubles cannot be tolerated.

Many Double Service style tires are in use in the United States government and European War service.

Our output is limited to a certain amount, but for a short time we offer the following reduced special offer as an Introductory Offer:

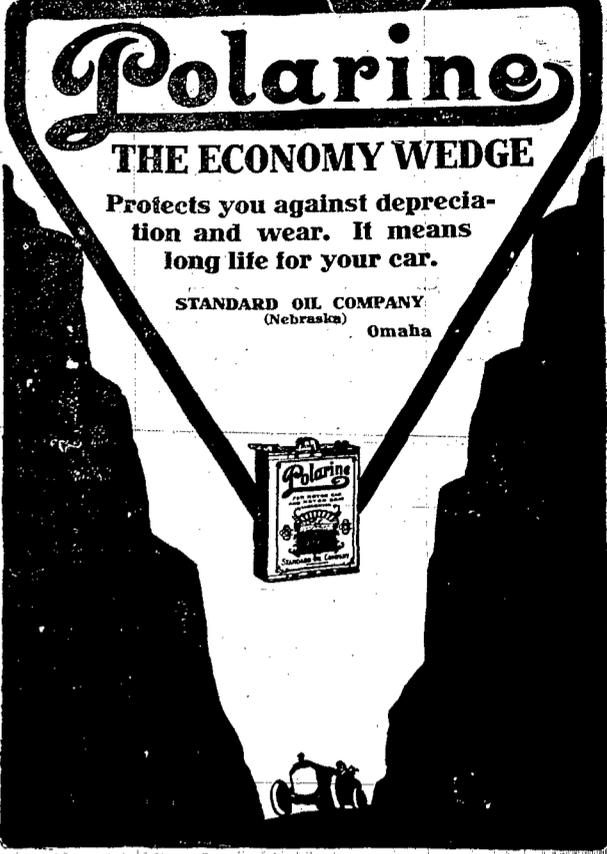

| | Tires | Extra Heavy Tubes |
|--------|---------|-------------------|
| —3x3" | $ 7.52 | $ 2.20 |

Saturday was a day of heavy showers and much wind in places.
Wayne escaped with a smart shower about 6:30 and no damage. The report that Carroll was visited by a twister was not true, but between here and that place there was a heavy shower, accompanied by wind and a little hail, and also another deluge similar to the northwest of the place.

There was a heavy damage at Neligh, the river raising 33 inches at that point and overflowing banks in a very short time, indicating a very heavy rain.
Near Newman Grove a team belonging to Gunder Qualsett was killed while he was driving them along the highway about a mile from town. Mr. Q. escaped with a slight shock.

CANOE HURDLE RACES.
Maori Women Are Experts in Handling the Frail Craft.

On the great North island of New Zealand, at the town of Waikato, in Auckland, I chanced to be present at the last of the many regattas the natives hold during the season, says a writer in the Indianapolis Star.
More than any other people that I have ever known, the Maoris of New Zealand, who live near the coast, are endowed with amphibious powers.

In the handling of these canoes, both the male and female are expert. Perhaps the first thing a Maori child learns after it is able to walk is how to handle a canoe, and until they die of old age most of their days are spent in carrying on the business of life in those heavy canoes upon the waters that wash the island's shores. Knowing this, it was not surprising to me when the hurdle race was announced and three canoes pushed off from the shore, "manned" by women.

The hurdles were stretched close to the highland from where I was watching the races with the judge of the events. They were stout bamboo poles, supported about sixteen inches above the water by cross sticks rising from the soft bottom of the bay and guyed to keep them rigid even under pressure.

At the word the three canoes jockeyed at the starting line, a pistol rang out and they leaped forward toward the hurdles. Well chosen were those teams, for the half mile they came on neck and neck and began the negotiation of the hurdles at the same instant.
Working frantically, paddling from the stern to lift the bows over the hurdle and shoot the canoe two-thirds over the pole that the canoe's weight might lift them safely over at one try, the three teams leaped the hurdle neck and neck and passed the finish line together.

If I had been the judge I could not have decided between them, but the Maori judge was cunning. He gave the prize to the canoe that had shipped the least water in the race.

KILLED IN AUTO OVERTURN
Frontier County Superintendent Meets Instant Death Near Curtis.

Cambridge, Neb., May 11.—H. J.
Auddule, county superintendent of Frontier county, was instantly killed by his auto overturning twice and breaking his neck and back. His wife and two children, who were with him, were not seriously hurt.

According to Mrs. Auddule, they had just crossed the railroad two and one-half miles west of Curtis and had come to a turn, when Mr. Auddule turned the car in the opposite direction and went over a steep embankment. Mrs. Auddule tried to lift the car off her husband and badly sprained her ankle. They had to go one-half mile for assistance.

Mr. Auddule was elected county superintendent this year on the Republican ticket. He recently bought a new car in order to inspect the county schools better and was an inexperienced driver. He was the father of six children, the youngest being three years old.

The Scrap Book

Wanted Her Body.
"An American woman invited to an English country house was assigned to the room of a gaunt looking governess, who solemnly transferred herself to another bedroom. The visitor, tired, soon fell asleep, and then:
"Not until the first dismal streaks of dawn began to show did I wake, and then because of a presence in the room.

"I could plainly make it out, standing near the door—a tall form in white —and, while I looked, it moved, and,
having moved, it spoke in a deep,
throaty voice.

"I want my body!" it said.
"I don't know what kept me from fainting. I do know what kept me from screaming—it was because I was too frightened. I watched that dreadful figure move to a tall wardrobe in the corner and thrust its head and shoulders inside. I saw it tug and wrench something, and then turn toward me, holding the something in its hands. And then, in the brightening dawn, I saw that it was the stern looking governess, holding the waist of her dress!

"How on earth was I to know that in England a waist—even a shirt waist —is called a 'body,' I'd like to know?"
demanded the young woman energetically. "I think I had a perfect right to be scared."—Youth's Companion.

Unattained.
Deal gently with us, ye who read.
Our largest hope is unfulfilled—
The promise still outruns the deed;
The tower, but not the spire, we build.
Our whitest pearl we never find;
Our ripest fruit we never reach.
The flowering moments of the mind
Lose half their petals in our speech.
—Holmes.

Quaintly Described.
President Lincoln frequently showed that he knew how to avoid a direct answer and evade inquisitive visitors when he thought it was impolitic to make known his opinions. "One" wanted to know his opinion of Sheridan, who had just come from the west to take command of the cavalry under General Grant. Lincoln said:
"I'll tell you just what kind of a chap he is. He is one of those long armed fellows with short legs that can scratch his shins without having to stoop over."

took No Chances.
John Sharp Williams stepped out of the senate chamber in response to the card of Bob Gates, who is a Washington correspondent of distinguished appearance and much political sapience.
Bob asked him a number of questions,
and then in parting he asked:
"By the way, senator, have you got a good cigar about you?" putting the request under the head of unfinished business.

"No, I haven't but one left, and I just now bit the end off it preparatory to lighting it," replied John Sharp.
"If I'd just been a minute or two sooner," suggested Bob.
"Not exactly," said the senator. "The fact is, when I started out here I bit the end off the cigar just for fear you might ask for it."—Detroit Free Press.

"Good Credit."
At a very fashionable and equally expensive tailor shop about town a certain middle aged, out of town customer discovered that he lacked sufficient change to pay for his humble purchase—a pair of gray gloves.
"May I charge them?" he asked. "I find I haven't my check book with me."
"What was the name," demanded the rather displeased tailor in peremp-tory manner.
He was told the name and address.
"Oh, that's all right, sir," exclaimed the tailor, now beaming with exaggerated affability. "Your son trades here."
—Yale Record.

The Other One.
A tourist relates the following reinsistence: "I was traveling through England on foot with a knapsack on my back and in company with a facetious friend of mine, and in our wanderings we came to an inn. It was late at night, but by the bright moonlight we were able to see that the sign bore a counterfeit presentation of two asses' heads, with this legend over the picture. 'When shall we three meet again?' We stood for a moment gazing at it. Then my friend went to the inn door and began thumping upon it with his cane, while the echoes rang through the house. I was just going to expostulate with him over his unseemly conduct when an upper window was thrown open, and the innkeeper thrust out his head and demanded what we wanted. 'That's all right, old man! Don't get excited!' called up my friend in the most affable voice. 'There are only two asses' heads on the sign, and I just wanted to see the other one!'"

An Amended Epitaph.
Duncan's wife had the reputation of being a first class shrew. When Duncan died his neighbors put a tombstone over his grave with the epitaph "Asleep
In Peace."
Widow Duncan was wild. It was meant as a slam at her, and she knew it was. It meant that she did not let him sleep in peace when alive. The neighbors assured her that it was not meant that way.
"Then it ought to say so."
To please her they got a stonemason to add, "We all believe that he did have peace here—when he slept."— Baltimore Star.

A TARDY PURITAN.

The Way He Was Moved to Speak by His Demure Cousin Ursula.
Woolings brought tardily to a successful climax by the tactful intervention of the woman were no less frequent long ago than they are now.
Puritan Priscilla inquiring shyly, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"
may be poetic license, but it is a well authenticated historical fact that Ursula Wolcott, daughter of Governor Roger Wolcott of Connecticut, quite pointedly suggested the all important question to her second cousin, Matthew Griswold, also a Connecticut governor.

The story of the wooing of her backward relative is told by Mary Caroline Crawford in her book, "Social Life in Old New England." This is how she did it:

"In early life Governor Griswold had been passionately in love with a young lady of Durham, Conn., who, in turn, was enamored of a physician, whom she hoped would propose to her. Whenever Griswold pressed his suit she pleaded that she wished for more time.
After he had been told this repeatedly her suitor one day said with dignity:
"You shall have more time; you shall have a lifetime."

And so he left her. But he suffered sorely, and oftentimes, to ease his aching heart, spoke of her whom he had loved to his sweet faced Cousin Ursula.
After a time, however, Matthew began to think a good deal about the charms of his sympathetic young cousin; yet, dreading another repulse, he looked but did not speak his love. Often Ursula would break the silence by observing gently:

"What said you, Cousin Matthew?"
To which, suddenly panic stricken,
he invariably replied:
"I said nothing."

Then one day, feeling that she must,
Ursula precipitated the climax, according to Charles Knowles Bolton, who has verified the story in "The Love Story of Ursula Wolcott" and gives us
the final chapter thus:

And Matthew riding toward the door,
Heard her light step upon the stairs
And, entering, he found her there.
She leaned upon the banister
With finger clasped about the spindles;
And tears, he saw, were lingering
To dim her eyes.

His pulse was quick,
And yet he checked his eagerness.
"It cannot surely be," he thought,
"It could not be that she would care."
The clock beat loudly through the hall
To make the stillness yet more still.
And Ursula, with steady voice
That trembled ere the words were done Began, "What said you, Cousin Matthew?"

And he, as one who comes almost
To comprehend, said thoughtfully,
"I did say nothing, Ursula."
The color faded from her cheeks;
She spoke so timidly and low
He scarcely heard her plaintive words,
"This time you did."

Be Ever Ready.
There is scope for chance everywhere; let your look be always ready.
In the eddies where you least expect it there will be a fish.—Ovid.

They All Stood Up.
Recently in a small town in New York state four young women snubbed a young man whom they knew at the door of a theater. He at once determined to get even. The girls occupied the first four seats in the sixth row, while he took the fifth seat in the same row. The girls paid no attention to him during the early part of the program, but later on a comedian came

"PLEASE LET ME OUT."
out on the stage and began to talk about love. Suddenly the comedian asked:
"Will all the girls who are in love please stand up?"
Then the young man saw his chance to square his account with the girls.
Turning to the girl next to him, he said:
"Please let me out."

Naturally the four arose, one after another, to let him by. When they were once on their feet he settled back in his seat and grinned, while the rest of the audience roared with glee.—Exchange.

Bound to Be Obeyed.
Some years ago a bridge was built in Japan which was so slight that a notice was put up, "No animals allowed to cross." But rats were seen crossing on it, and as they could not be stopped the sign was changed to read, "No large animals allowed to cross."

Fortified Tires
Have Pushed Millions of Rocks from the Tire Road
They have saved waste and trouble to hundreds of thousands of motorists. The result is that last year, despite some hundred rivals, men bought about one Goodyear for every car in use.
The rocks that remain are Mishap and Misuse. No tire can ever avoid them. But if you'll judge tires by merit, not by luck, you are bound to come to Goodyears. You'll find they average best.

Carroll Items

(From the Index)

Carroll people were somewhat shocked Thursday morning when news reached here that Celynin Morris had passed away in the St. Joseph hospital early that morning. He left Carroll Monday in good spirits for Omaha to undergo what he thought to be a slight operation, and was returning to us Friday morning a corpse, his spirit having fled to its home on high. He had rounded into full bloom of life's young manhood, being 26 years of age with a bright life's journey before him, but it was not thus to be. He was a member of the Welsh Congregational church and taught a class in the Sunday school. His brother, Avonynic, and sister, Blodwin, are the only immediate members of his family living in this country. His parents and three sisters are living in Wales and have been notified of his death. Upon arrival the corpse was taken to the home of an uncle, John R. Morris, and from there to the Welsh Methodist church where services were conducted by Rev. Perry Davis assisted by Rev. D. T. Davies and three other ministers who were here to attend the Presbytery meeting. After the services the body was laid to rest in the quiet churchyard cemetery, there to await the final call for judgment when it will arise and go forth to meet its God and receive the reward gained by earthly labors. The sympathy of this community is wafted back across the billowy deep to the ones who are waiting to hear from their loved ones and will receive the sad news of Celynin's death.

Prof. and Mrs. G. A. Jones entertained the members of the faculty and seniors at a delicious three course breakfast Wednesday morning.
