TO DEDICATE NEW BUILDING

Friday to be Devoted to Pleasing Program Dedicating New Normal Administration Building

Arrangements are now complete for the dedication of the new administration building, and the event will be celebrated on Friday, July 9, with appropriate ceremonies. An all-day program is planned and a most cordial invitation extended to the public to be present during the entire day. All who can attend should be present at the forenoon session which begins at ten o'clock. A musicale to be given by the Stanton Ladies' Quartette will be a pleasing feature of the day. President Conn will extend greetings. Then follow addresses by two prominent Nebraska educators, Chancellor Avery of the university of Nebraska and Dr. A. O. Thomas, state superintendent, are announced for the morning session.

From 12 to 2 a large number will participate in the picnic dinner on the Normal campus.

At the afternoon session, which begins at 2 o'clock, the Normal male quartet will sing. Then follow brief talks by visitors. An interesting part of this meeting will be the student demonstration, part of which will take place in the auditorium and part on the campus.

The evening program will begin at 7:30 with a formal reception to the public by the faculty of the school.

At 8.15 Miss Helen Axe Brown of Chicago, who last winter so delighted the people of the community by her singing, will give a complete recital. Mrs. Marie Monfort Keckley, with whose abilities this community is well acquainted, will read Act I from "The Taming of the Shrew".

Death of R. A. McEachen

Robert A. McEachen passed from life at his Wayne home Wednesday, July 7, 1915, after an illness which had kept him at home for about two months, following a gradual decline extending over a period of several years. He had attained the age of 60 years and 17 days.

Robert McEachen was born at Perth, Ontario, Canada, June 20, 1855. When a mere lad he went to New York state, and for a number of years followed the calling of a sailor on the great lakes. From this work he went into the great lumber camps of Michigan where he toiled hard and saved his earnings. In the early seventies he went west, and was among those who helped to make Leadville what it was in its days of boom. Here he made a stake by industry and saving—though meeting with some reverses common to those who seek to find riches in a mining camp. When the glory of Leadville began to fade he came to Nebraska in 1882, and with his savings he purchased a large farm near West Point, which he continued to own until the present time.

June 1, 1886, he was united in marriage to Miss Addie Burke, who with six sons and two daughters survive him, two daughters having died in early life. The children living are George, Ben, Esther, James, William, Gertrude, Howard and Grant, Mabel and Alice having passed on before. Two sisters, Mrs. Crampton of Canada and Mrs. J. B. Burke of University Place, and three brothers, John Allen and Dan, all of Canada survive him.

Leaving his farm in 1886 they spent four years at Omaha, where he followed different lines of work, after which they returned to their farm in 1893, and made their home there until 1901 when they moved to Wayne, purchasing land near this place where he made his home until about 18 months ago when the present home in Wayne was purchased, leaving the farms here in charge of his sons.

With his death a successful life comes to a close, for by industry and economy he provided a competency for himself and family, starting in life with nothing in the way of worldly goods. As a citizen and neighbor he was all that could be desired, honest, energetic, economical, and he leaves as his successors a family of industrious, honest children.

The funeral services will be from the Presbyterian church Saturday at 10 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. S. X. Cross, and the body be laid to rest in the Wayne cemetery.

Stock Shipments

The past week has seen considerable stock moved from here to the market. Wm. Gildersleeve sent in 9 car loads to Chicago from his ranch, and has about as many more to go when prices look good within a short time.

John Shannon sent three cars by the same train of long feed stuff from Harry Robinson's place which topped the market for Wayne cattle at home, he paying $9.50 for the bunch at the local yards. They had been on full feed since September and were the fattest cattle shipped this season.

Henry Klopping sent four loads to Chicago the first of the week, and it is reported that they were good enough to bring $10.30 on the Wednesday market. John Grier also sold a load of good ones to John Shannon for the same market.

Nels Herman sent two or three loads to South Omaha the first of the week.

Several car loads of hogs have also been forwarded to the Sioux City market.

Chautauqua Begins Sunday

Sunday is the first day of the Wayne chautauqua, and the Democrat wishes to urge upon its readers the fact that no expense has been spared to make the sessions this year the best that have ever been in the history of the association. We feel that we are but telling a truth which should be known to all when we assert that we have not seen a chautauqua program this season that we think excels this one in strong attractions. Read the advertisements of the different events and their dates—secure a program which may be had for asking and arrange to attend.

The Winside Celebration

To some of the home folks the celebration at Winside was a disappointment. They said that the crowd of two years ago was lacking—owing to other near-by celebrations, rough and muddy roads and uncertain weather. They also said that the parade was not up to specifications in quantity—but that the quality of what they had was not complained about. But then some people will kick at the best.

The editor spent three hours in the place and saw another side of the picture. Every one seemed happy and contented, happy greetings were exchanged with friends not met with every day and nearby neighbors visited as though they had not had a like chance before. The band gave a plenty of good music. Prof. I. H. Britell gave an address that was said to have pleased all who heard except one man, and he could not stand it to hear a republican speaker praise the worthy acts of a pair of democrats—Wilson and Bryan, so he got out of earshot. That was the wise thing to do. The orator made a peace talk—compared our celebration and fireworks with what was taking place on the other side of the big water—compared a government of, by and for the people with the system of government in Europe—predicted that the cause of liberty and self government would come to more and more people in the years to come—and had strong hope that the day was not far distant when a government similar to the one we enjoy would become worldwide, and all nations work together for the good of all. It was a splendid address and well did it meet with the approval of the people who heard it.

A ball game—cut short by the rain, and a dance at the opera house provided amusement to many. But the rain left many stranded for the night and all of the regular sleeping places were full as well as the halls and office at the hotel, the barber chairs, the benches and the automobiles, and the morning train brought away a weary but happy crowd of young people who had stayed until the day was done.

Bastian-Leer

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Leer and Adam Bastian was solemnized at the home of Rev. Martin Hyink in Lemmon, S. D., on Tuesday, June 29, 1915, at 1 p. m., Wm. Montgomery acting as best man and Laura Kurth as bridesmaid. The bride is a highly esteemed and accomplished young lady from Port Washington, Wisconsin, and the groom is well known in this vicinity, being a successful sheep rancher near Chance. After the wedding ceremony the bridal party autoed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Sexauer, where the wedding dinner was served. The dining room was appropriately decorated in lavender and white. Miss Stella Settle furnished music during the evening. The Record and its friends extend hearty congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Bastian.—Chance (S. D.) Record.

The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bastian of this place, a young man who grew to manhood in this county, and his many friends will join the Democrat in extending congratulations.

Weather Notes and News

Last July we were all prying for rain, and now we are getting it.

An advertisement on the sprinkle wagon this season is no good, for the wagon has poor circulation these muddy times.

Some of the heavier growth of small grain was lodged quite badly, and we fear it is too late for it to come up again.

If it ain't one thing it's another most of the time.

The fellow who is growing ducks this year might be said to be strictly in it, if he can only keep the little fellows in out-of-the-rain.

The rainfall Tuesday night and Wednesday forenoon was almost one and a fourth inches.

It is only the very leaky cisterns that are dry this season. Some say that the leaky ones are full too, for it leaks in.

German Store Change

A deal was concluded last week by which Hermon Mildner and J. A. Wendte become the sole proprietors of the German Store, buying the interest in the stock and business of Carl Furchner of Plankington, South Dakota, who has long held an interest in this prosperous mercantile house. As the two owners have been in charge of the business here for the past two or three years, there will be little if any change noted in the affairs at the store. The new owners will need no introduction to the trade or the public, and they are in position to cater to the needs of the community and their patrons in the future as in the past. The retiring member of the firm has many business interests at Plankington, and it has been a number of years since he has been at liberty to give the business here any personal supervision, but he still has friends and acquaintances here who will wish him well, and continue loyal to the German Store where their wants have been supplied for years, though the various changes in ownership which have from time to time occurred in other years. The firm has changed but the German Store, like the brook goes on and on.

Social Notes

The Pricilla club, composed of a number of young ladies near Wayne, met in a Kensington Wednesday afternoon at the home of J. C. Forbes and wife, and were entertained by Miss Marguerite Forbes. At the close of a social afternoon, choice refreshments were served by the hostess. This was the first meeting of the club since last fall when a number of the members went to their school work for the year either as pupils or teachers.

Mrs. Neely and Mrs. Wendte entertained at Kensington Tuesday afternoon for the young married people of Wayne. The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The guests listened to selections of fine music from a Victrola throughout the afternoon. A delicious two course luncheon was served. A delightful afternoon was spent discussing the little ones.

The members of the Rural Home Society held their usual 4th of July celebration, on Saturday this year, meeting at the pleasant country home of C. J. Forbes and wife. A splendid picnic dinner was served and the day far more happily spent than at the average celebration. In fact a quiet neighborhood picnic is an ideal way of observing any summer holiday.

Tomorrow evening the Rebekahs will have installation of officers at their hall in this city, and Mrs. Julia Welch, president of the assembly will be present to assist. Refreshments will be served, and it is expected that the membership will all be present to enjoy the event.

The Girl's Bible Circle met last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Lackey. The lesson study was led by Mrs. Young. The meeting was especially interesting. They will meet next week with Mrs. Beckenhauer.

Dr. and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Craven, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Craven had a picnic supper at Chas. Craven's home Monday.

The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Shulteis this afternoon.

The Guild of St. Mary's church will meet this afternoon with Mrs. Lantaff for a social hour.

The young folks had a dance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ley Wednesday evening.

The Tennis Tournament

The Northeastern Nebraska Tennis Meet now being staged at this place is meeting some reverses in the form of bad weather. Much rain and no sunshine make it almost impossible to get the courts in condition for the matches.

With forty entries in spite of the bad weather it is evident that but for the rain this meet would have been among the best. A few matches were started Tuesday evening, then more than an inch of rain followed by a day of misty drizzling weather put a stop to play until this afternoon, when it is hoped the weather will permit the matches to go forward.

Local News Items

The horseshoe players of Pilger are spoiling for a chance to show their skill at quoits, and have published an open challenge to all Northeastern Nebraska. We venture the assertion that they will find plenty to accept. Beyond a doubt Wayne has as fine a lot of shoe pitchers as are to be found in the state and it is not their nature to let this challenge go unanswered. We have here a fine selection who do little else summer or winter, and if ever the Pilger bunch are met by this gang they are done for. If the old soldier boys cannot do them up, we have a bunch of college men and an attorney or two who take a hand at the game, and they always win, because they know so well how to keep the score. So unless Pilger has a pretty shrewd, all-round crowd they are doomed to defeat.

The tall young man with a serious look marched down Main street the other evening, sandwiched between two grips, and beside him walked the girl in blue, bound for the station and home for a vacation visit. Unattended they reached the station and awaited the train—but a storm was brewing. Some practical joker had whispered "newly weds" and passed out the rice, and they boarded the train amid a shower of the favorite food of John Chinaman—but it was all a mistake for the young man had evidently lost courage and deposited his valise in a convenient shop and given up the idea of going the whole trip—just at this time.

T. F. Bracken, foreman of the railroad bridge force on this division, has moved to Wayne, his household goods coming from Blair this week. He was recently assigned to work along this line and the Bloomfield branch, and naturally wanted to live in the best town in this part of the state, and where he could be at home as much as possible, so purchased a lot on north College avenue and has erected a comfortable home thereon, which himself and family are taking possession of this week.

The electric slicer at the Central Meat Market proves to be just what the "best trade" requires. Cuts bacon, dried beef, minced ham, boiled ham, the way you want it cut. Two phones—66 and 67.—adv.

The party who went to Crystal lake for an outing July 3, 4 and 5 report a splendid time. Of the two score or more from here there happened to develop a fisher or two who kept the camp supplied with fresh fish. The weather was not all that could be desired, but there was enough of sunshine some of the time to put a rich brown hue on the faces and necks of part of the crowd.

G. H. Lindell, foreman of the Wausa Gazette was a caller this morning. He is the District Deputy Grand Master, I. O. O. F., for a district in this part of the state, and installed the subordinate lodge officers at Randolph last evening, and came to spend the day here at the tennis courts, and this evening goes to Carroll to obligate the new Odd Fellow officers for that lodge.

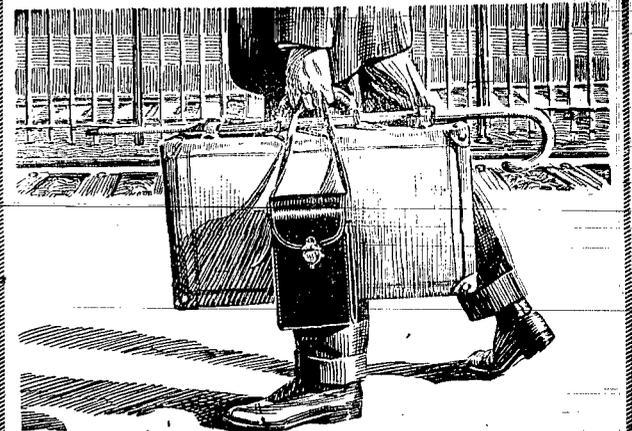

Mrs. Wickersham, from Des Moines, Iowa, accompanied by a cousin from Ohio, and her brother, C. W. Kelley from Laurel came Wednesday evening to visit at the home of W. S. Elder and wife, her sister, for a time. Mr. Kelley returned to his home this morning but will return next week to join the others at the chautauqua.

E. B. Young is taking water—to his house from the city main, and has sewer tile laid to the sewer, has torn away a part of the house and will add in its place bath and toilet, thus modernizing their home to the extent of about $500—if that is the proper way to measure it.

W. R. Main from Foochow, China, is here visiting at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. D. C. Main, while home on a furlough. He is president of a bible society and has been in China for the past 19 years in the good work.

The extension to the Crystal is nearly completed, and the house will be closed next week on account of chautauqua, and on Monday the 18th the enlarged building will be thrown open to the public with a fine grand opening program.

Mrs. Baker and her daughter, Mrs. Bolinger from Chicago are visiting Wayne friends this week, guests at the home of James Miller and wife. Mrs. Baker is wife of the late Rev. Baker, who was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church.

The city is lining up and putting a bunch of new posts for hitch racks on the south side of west 1st street, a needed improvement—but the beauty of the work is marred by posts of such difference in height. Whoever wrote the following did it well: "It is not what people eat, but what they digest, that makes them strong. It is not what they make, but what they save, that makes them rich. It is not what they read, but what they remember, that makes them learned. It is not what they profess, but what they practice, that makes them righteous."

At Pueblo they claim to make the largest and the smallest nails cut anywhere in the world. The small ones are cut at the rate of half a million per minute, and it takes 30,500 of them to weigh one pound. In length they are 3-16th of an inch. The larger size weigh one-third of a pound each and are 12 inches long and 3/4 of an inch in thickness, and are made at the rate of 200 per minute.

The sticking together of two sheets of the reporter's note book last week caused the neglect to mention the home coming of Mrs. Mary E. Jones, who spent the winter in California. Mrs. Jones says that it was a cold winter for southern California, compared with others she has spent in that delightful clime, but compared with our winter it was not so bad, and in fact she seems to think that our summer weather since her return is very similar to their worst winter weather.

C. L. Coon, who lives in the east part of the city left a sample of new potatoes at this office taken from a patch he planted on Good Friday, when the ground was not entirely free from frost. He plowed the seed in, and they were a month coming to the surface, but he kept the ground well harrowed whenever it was in condition to work, and says that he has been using from them for about two weeks. They are of good size and the yield is from 6 to 12 table size potatoes from the hill. Yet he is of the opinion that this season it happened that this patch is but little in advance of those planted later.

J. E. McGinty was here from Huron, South Dakota, to visit his father, J. W. and with friends here. He was formerly employed at the depot here. He reports crop outlooks there the same as here, good for the small grain and corn backward. He does not like our muddy streets, saying that at Huron they have them oiled and not bothered with mud. He says that the cost there for the oil is about $3.00 per 25 foot lot the first season when they have to be oiled twice and $1.50 per season after that, when one application of oil is sufficient. It not only prevents mud but holds the dust down as well.

The frequent light showers have been the means of putting the streets of Wayne in better condition for the road drag than they were left by the heavier rains preceding them, and we are glad to note that the opportunity has been improved very generally until there is now far less need to apologize for the street condition in the city than a few weeks ago. We are told that the first two miles west of Wayne on the Wayne-Winside road is the worst between the two towns, and that there are some culverts down which need immediate repair. It is to be hoped that the proper authority will take notice that some one is getting a bad name because of the condition of this piece of road.

THE WAYNE CHAUTAUQUA IS BETTER THAN EVER

The chautauqua is a great feature in education; there is nothing in America, apart from the church and the public schools, of higher value for the culturing and healthful stimulation of the masses; and therefore it has a claim on the support of all good citizens. An assembly whose activities do not make for education is not a chautauqua.

While former programs have been arranged along these lines the management feels sure that this is an improvement on any that has gone before and that in it there is something for everyone.

As an independent the management has gone to a big expense, has added an additional day, making eight full days. Speakers and companies are contracted for separately. The local management furnishes the tents, hires all help needed, does its own advertising, and runs the chautauqua the same as any business man runs his own business. The management assume everything and any surplus remains at home and must remain in the chautauqua treasury for future work. No individual can receive any dividend or profit. All speakers and companies engaged are known to be first class. Everyone of them will make good.

The program this year is just as good as is offered by the older and larger chautauquas. The outlook was never better for a successful chautauqua than at the present time. You are urged to speak to your friends of the advisability of attending this season. The cost is low, the talent of the best. Get your tickets early, ask your neighbors to purchase tickets, do all the boosting you can as it is needed to make this year's session a success.

Fable and Fact

The following event never occurred:

A corporation, organized to build a railroad, owned the right of way and every inch of land on both sides thereof. The stockholders put up $35,000,000 to pay all expenses. At a director's meeting, one of the board, named Bailey, offered a suggestion. He showed that the new road would make accessible some rich coal deposits, would cause towns to spring up along the route and that a fair sized, if not a large city, would quickly grow at the terminus of the road on tide water. "Since this will cause a tremendous increase in land values," he said to his fellow directors, "I move that these values be appropriated by us to reimburse our stockholders for building the road."

"Do you mean," asked a director named Standpat, "that we should keep the values our road creates for ourselves, instead of giving them away to any one who chooses to grab them?"

"That is what I mean," answered Bailey. "I am opposed to such cranky notions," said Standpat, and a great majority of the board expressed themselves the same way. So Bailey's motion was defeated and a motion prevailed to give all the corporation's land to whomsoever would take it, the board declaring at the same time that the stockholders should not expect to get any direct return for their expenditure of $35,000,000.

Accordingly there was a rush for the land of the generous corporation. As soon as the selection of a terminal was announced the land for miles around it was grabbed. Those lucky enough to get any of this became wealthy over night without producing an iota of wealth.

The corporation's charter was an unusual one. It required that the road be run at cost of service. So while individuals who had done nothing profited from increment produced by the road, the stockholders, who produced the money to build it, did not even get their money back.

Though this never happened, something very much like it did occur. The United States Government owns practically all the land in Alaska, and is about to build a railroad, to cost $35,000,000, from some rich coal fields to tidewater. This will affect land values along the way as in the story. Congressman Warren Worth Bailey, of Pennsylvania, proposed to the House that these values be appropriated to pay for the road. Only 26 members were wise enough to join with him in this demand. The majority voted to let the first on the scene grab the values created by expenditure of $35,000,000 of the taxpayer's money.

The road is not yet built, but already the land is being grabbed. A place called Seward has been selected as the terminus on tide water. Three hundred and fifty individual have accordingly taken possession, and staked out the most desirable parts. More are rushing in. All that they are going to do is to hold the sites so that they may, without doing any work themselves, exact tribute from later comers who want to make some use of the land. Because they can do this some of these grabbers have already become wealthy. The Alaska correspondent of the Chicago Evening Post says that one of these early birds has become a millionaire over night. Yet there was not a dollar's more of wealth in his possession now than the day before Seward was selected as the terminal site. What is there is the certainty of power to exploit future workers. This prospect, capitalized, is considered worth a million dollars, and that is how the idle man has become a millionaire. And what do the people get who put up the $35,000,000 which has made these lucky individuals rich? They get the pleasure of reading statistics, and listening to standpat speeches telling of "our marvelous prosperity", though they have none of it themselves. But perhaps the next Congress will be wise enough to adapt the Bailey measure. Jesse C. McNish of Wisner, and president of the Nebraska Bankers' Association says: "Conditions are above par in all sections of Nebraska, and it looks as if we ought to reap the biggest harvest of crops we ever had. Winter wheat looks absolutely superb. In the irrigated region about Scottsbluff where in 1914 approximately $1,500,000 was paid out to beet growers planting 23,000 acres, the acreage this year is about 34,000 and so they will undoubtedly pay out about $2,000,000. This is the second largest beet sugar factory in the United States. "Motoring through the dry farming districts of Cheyenne county one finds their wheat crop larger than ever before and fully as far advanced. The wet season has, of course, retarded growing the corn out in this state and it cannot be laid by, as usual, by about July 4. But I believe hot weather will shoot it ahead and I do not look for much soft corn. Nebraska is certainly fortunate in such times as these when we have the European war conditions and the reported unemployment and unsatisfactory business conditions on the east and west coasts. The unparalleled demand for food-stuffs should certainly lead to intensive farming."

Believing that when the European war is over there will be a Belgian immigration, Mr. McNish wishes for an organized effort to land some of the Belgians, whose intensive farming is famous, in Nebraska. A colony could not but influence neighboring farmers to avail themselves of results of some of the great agricultural experiment stations of Nebraska. In brief, he thinks this is the time for the farmers to get more in crops and more in dollars consequently out of the soil. See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

The Democrat receives a publication entitled "Facts About Sugar" which may contain some facts, but it devotes a great part of its space to telling how the new sugar tariff is ruining the sugar industry in this land, and crippling the industry in the Hawaii Islands.

And now comes the Fort Dodge, Iowa, Chronicle and suggests that perhaps there is no prohibitory law in Iowa and will not be following the first of next January. This paper claims that the Iowa constitution provides but two ways for laws to become effective in that state.

A Fortunate Overdose

A Story For Independence Day.

By F. A. MITCHEL

Our manner of celebrating Independence day has greatly changed since the first anniversary in 1777. Doubtless, until the independence declared was achieved, our forefathers were chary about celebrating its birthday at all, and if they did so it was with misgivings.

When the war broke out it found Robert Morrison, an American, a commissioned officer in the British army. His regiment was sent to the colonies to establish the authority of the king. Lieutenant Morrison was inclined to favor the opposite side.

In one of the battles in New Jersey Morrison was taken prisoner by the British, was recognized as a former British officer and sent to Philadelphia, then occupied by the English.

The outcome of the influence she had exerted over her lover was a great shock to Alice Douglas. Some time must elapse while the finding of the court was being sent to New York for the approval of the commander in chief, General Howe, before Morrison could be executed.

She asked for permission to visit him in his place of confinement, but was refused. Morrison's desertion to the enemy was considered a heinous crime, and he was not kept with other prisoners of war, but in solitary confinement.

This ink, which was pink, he prepared and showed her that while the letters written with it were made visible by heat they reappeared in green. Alice wrote a letter to Morrison with ordinary ink, ending it with the words, "Mrs. Prynne sends her love and sympathy."

Unfortunately it occurred to the officer whose duty it was to examine any letter sent to the prisoner and who was an educated man that the Greek word "pyrus" meant fire in English.

He returned the letter to Alice. Quite likely, being a gentleman, he felt disposed to let the sender know that her device had failed.

Alice was much depressed at her failure. Nevertheless she did not give up her purpose. She took delicacies to Morrison, which he was permitted to receive, though she was not allowed to take them in to him herself.

It now occurred to Alice to try her device again, trusting that the new officer in charge would not be so bright as his predecessor.

military hospital as a nurse and designed bringing Morrison there that she might have greater advantages than were to be expected while he was in solitary confinement.

But since it was best that Morrison should know her intention, for he must be sure to eat what she would send him, she wished to communicate her plan to him.

Alice wrote Morrison a letter in ordinary ink, as before, and on the same paper wrote in invisible ink that the day after the sending of the letter she would send him some eatables, including some apples.

Now, it happened that there was an Englishwoman who took care of the building in which Morrison was confined whose sympathies were with the British. When Morrison received Alice's letter, not understanding the mention of M. Chaud, he laid it aside while he thought of the matter.

The woman, suspecting that something was wrong, told the officer in charge what she had seen. Meanwhile Morrison, who was nearsighted, holding the letter close to his face, breathed on it and noticed a slight diminution of the strength of the pink letters.

Later the officer in charge came in and asked to see the letter. Morrison handed it to him. He looked it over and called to the woman who had reported it to come to him.

When the apples arrived he ate one of them, and the expected result not coming as soon as he anticipated, he ate all of the others. The result was that when next visited by the guard he was in collapse.

Night came on, and Morrison continued to feign unconsciousness. The nurse finally fell asleep. Morrison looked at the man between closed lashes and when the fellow began to snore slid off the cot on which he was lying.

That was the longest journey of a dozen feet that Morrison ever traveled. He feared that the slightest creaking would awaken the nurse and used the utmost care, after trying a board on which he trod, before bearing his weight on it.

No one was up and about below, and he had no difficulty in making an exit. Then, putting on his shoes, he ran like a deer till he suddenly brought up against the watch.

The man was no Tory, and when Morrison confided to him that he was an American prisoner of war escaped from the British he was permitted to proceed and before day came had left the city and was on his way to Trenton, where he found his comrades.

Capitain Morrison's flight was kept a secret, the British commander hoping to recapture him before it should become necessary to report his escape to headquarters.

The arrival of Weldon Crossland home from England, where he is attending school at Oxford, was another of the missed items which will bear mention at this late date. Mr. Crossland was glad indeed to escape the war country of the east and reach this land of peace and plenty. He arrived in New York about two weeks before coming on to his Nebraska home.

The people and officials of this country are naturally anxious regarding the situation with Germany, and the fact that Germany has submitted an outline of their proposed reply to the American note shows that they too are anxious and cautious not to ask too much. If the spirit of fairness shall be manifest on both sides trouble will be averted.

He cannot see why people from the east cannot come and settle the west and help to equalize land values and by getting in first profit by the raise that will surely come to western land in the near future.

F. E. Abbott and wife from Belmont are here visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. Flora Abbott. It is seven years since he left Wayne and this is his first visit in that time, and he naturally notices many improvements in the place and changes in the people. He says that they are having a plenty of rain with them, but that no one kicks about it, for it is making grass plenty, and while they are farming more land there than ever before and making it pay, it is still a range country to a great extent, but they are trying to provide winter feed for their cattle now instead of letting them chance it on the range as in days when cattle were cheaper.

We read but little of the damage of the Zeppelins in England, and the opinion naturally forms that they are not worth the cost of maintenance, but a friend hands us the following clipping which tells the word which came in a private letter to friends in America; dated at London, June 3d: "Just a line to let you know we are safe after the Zeppelin raid on London. The Shore-ditch railway station was completely destroyed, also the East Indian dock yards. The papers say practically nothing of the damage but it is known that nearly all the area between Bishopsgate, Houndsditch and the upper part of Commercial Street is laid waste, so you see they were only a little northeast of the Bank of England which is the very center of the City of London. The damage done is estimated at 7 million Pounds ($35,000,000). The English air-men got excited—as usual—and instead of putting the enemy to flight they fired on one another in the darkness, doing much damage to their own machines and killing many of their own companions."

The "Money Question"

A great many editors are trying to explain to their readers what the great fall in exchange means. It is a pretty difficult task. That the money of the United States, even the despised silver dollar, should be at a premium in London and Paris, appears to the ordinary man to be unreasonable. The Saturday Evening Post undertakes to explain it as follows: "A cash credit of four dollars and eighty-seven cents in London is worth only four dollars and seventy-eight cents in New York, and by paying down the equivalent of five francs and seventeen centimes in New York you can get a cash credit of five franc and forty-three centimes in Paris—though a foreign exchange expert, accustomed to figure with the point of a fine needle, would shudder at these rough approximations."

Of course, in figuring foreign exchange the experts run the figures into three or four decimals, but at the time that was written it was approximately true. Since that time matters have grown still worse. The pound sterling is now only four dollars and seventy-six cents in New York instead of four dollars and eighty-seven cents, and English credit is at that much discount in this country when compared with silver dollars or Uncle Sam's promises to pay. To put it in another way: If the English and French had American money with which to pay for the enormous amount of goods they are buying in this country, they could get them three per cent cheaper.

We not only have "money that is good in Europe," but money that is about three per cent better than any other money they have there.—World Herald.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Higher Assessment Will Bring In Much Larger Amount of Taxes.

THIRTY-SEVEN COUNTIES ARE IN

Only Five Show Decrease and Some of These May Be Raised by State Board—State Accountant Will Examine Twelve Trust Companies.

Lincoln, July 6.—The European war is responsible for increasing the assessed valuation of Nebraska $7,000,000, if returns from remaining counties bear out the gains shown by the first thirty-seven counties. By raising the value of agricultural produce the war is exerting its influence.

The total increase for the thirty-seven counties heard from amounts to $2,100,000. The combined valuation for purposes of assessment, which is one-fifth of the actual valuation, was just a little below $145,000,000. The grand total in 1914 for the ninety-three counties in the state was but $471,933,972. At the same ratio of increase, the valuation would show a gain of $6,817,000.

Only five of the counties reporting have shown a decrease. They are Box Butte, Boyd, Cass, Chase and Dixon. Some of these will be raised by the state board of equalization if the assessors in these counties do not voluntarily increase them.

If the $7,000,000 gain is realized, it will mean about $300,000 additional in taxes for the state. The average rate of taxes paid last year amounted to 43.3 mills, and it is not expected there will be much change in the rate this year. The state levy last year was 7.8 mills, and it will remain unchanged.

Equality Aim of True Government.

Attorney General Willis E. Reed was the speaker on the program held by the Sons of Veterans at the Electric park. Two thousand veterans and their families attended the program. Speaking of the increase in number of persons having great wealth, Mr. Reed said: "No human form of government is perfect, but in one such as ours it is the duty of each generation to consider the injustice and restore it to a sound condition. We should seek to establish a type of civilization where want is unknown, where the cry of hunger is not heard, and where oppression is a stranger. The laws should be so framed that no individual, company or corporation could rob another of the wealth which it has created."

Ridgell Will Try the Courts.

To determine if he has the right to draw from the state treasury funds belonging to his department without specific legislative appropriation, Fire Commissioner Ridgell may bring mandamus proceedings against State Auditor Smith to compel the issuance of warrants for salaries and expenses of the fire commission. Auditor Smith has been waiting for an opinion from the attorney general as to whether he can legally draw the warrants on fees when the legislature failed to make specific appropriation.

Secretary Pool's Receipts Are Heavy.

Receipts of the secretary of state's office were exceptionally heavy during June, according to a report issued by Secretary Pool. In the automobile department, licenses were issued for 2,891 new automobiles, to say nothing of several hundred motorcycles and thousands of renewals for machines. No money is received by the secretary of state's office under the new registration law, but receipts from other sources brought in a total of $30,051.31.

Reavis Indorses Pension Measure.

Congressman Hammill of the Twelfth Congress C. F. Reavis indorsed the Hammill pension measure in speaking before the meeting of the Nebraska Carriers' association here. He said he was opposed to two of the provisions of the bill, however, one of which would retire a man at the end of thirty years' service and the other providing for pensions in the case of injured employees.

Five Elevators Under New Law.

Only a small portion of the 3,000 elevators in Nebraska are expected to take advantage of the warehouse bill. Conferences have been held at the railway commission all week, under whose direction the warehouse bill will be administered. The feeling expressed there was generally against the measure and but few firms are expected to come under the provisions of the law.

Will Examine 12 Trust Companies.

State Auditor Smith will have the twelve trust companies doing business in Nebraska examined by State Accountant De France instead of employing a special examiner for the purpose. As De France draws a regular salary from the state, the fees collected from this examination will go into the state general fund.

School Values Higher.

A dozen tracts of state school lands will be raised in valuation, as the result of a trip last week made through Cherry and Brown counties by Secretary of State Pool and Land Commissioner Beckman. The total increase will be in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Road Pays Its Tax.

The Northwestern railroad has paid to the secretary of state its occupation tax for 1915, the maximum amount of $2,500. The Burlington and the Missouri Pacific had heretofore paid the same amount.

KILLS WIFE, SON AND SELF

Appearances Indicate Ravenna Farmer Was Insane.

Ravenna, Neb., July 6.—Ole Mohlfeld, a farmer, aged thirty-five years, shot his wife and boy each two times through the body with a shotgun and shot himself through the body at his home, eight miles west of Ravenna. The crime was discovered by neighbors. One shot was fired through the door of the house.

No cause is known for the act. Mohlfeld left a letter that was scrawled so that none could read it. He was in good standing in the community and no one had noticed anything wrong. Appearances indicated that he was insane. The boy was five years old. There are no other children.

The National Fraternal Society of the Deaf was organized in 1901 and now has a membership of over 2,000 men. J. Schuyler Long is president of the Omaha division. Mrs. Ota Blankenship is chairman of the ladies' committee.

Lincoln, July 6.—Citizens of Ashland, through Dr. G. W. Meredith, have asked permission to appear before the city council and show how the residue from the Lincoln Gas company has floated down Salt creek and is killing the fish in the Platte river. Mayor Bryan has announced that the commission will gladly hear complaints.

Mayor Bryan has written the post-office department asking that the Lincoln office be allowed to close an hour Friday in order that the employees may see the Liberty bell on its way to the exposition.

Not Fault of State Rates.

Omaha, July 5.—Three days were spent in taking evidence in the federal court room in Omaha in the so-called freight rate discrimination cases, which were started before the interstate commerce commission by Sioux City, Council Bluffs, Atchison, St. Joseph and Kansas City against the Nebraska railroads. Examiner F. B. Dow of the interstate commerce commission was present and took the evidence offered by the Nebraska state railway commission, which is endeavoring to show that if the Nebraska rates are discriminatory to the other river towns out of the state in competition for Nebraska business, then it is not the fault of the Nebraska rate.

Pawnee Pioneer Is Dead.

Table Rock, Neb., July 6.—Nelson Bacon, who settled on a farm five miles southeast of here fifty years ago, died at his home in Pawnee City after a brief illness, aged seventy-six years. Mr. Bacon moved from his farm to Table Rock in 1871, when the old Atchison and Northern railroad first came through here, being landlord for a time of the City hotel and later of the Abell house. Funeral services were held under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, as he was an old soldier of the civil war. He is survived by a widow, two sons and two daughters.

Two years ago the meet was held at Wymore and was very successful.

Auditor Holds Back Many Warrants.

Lincoln, July 6.—State Auditor Smith is still refusing to issue warrants for the board of embalmers, the secretaries of the state board of health and other boards whose fees were not specifically appropriated by the 1915 legislature. The attorney general is expected to give an opinion soon, holding that these fees are not strictly state funds, and can be used without being appropriated by the legislature.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

The campaign in the Dardanelles has again been brought to the forefront by an official report from General Sir Ian Hamilton, commanding the British forces, which tells of desperate fighting on the Gallipoli peninsula.

In the eastern war zone the strong Russian opposition to the Austro-German advance is being offered between the Pruth and Dniester rivers.

While comparative calm has reigned during the last twenty-four hours in the western theater, the Germans report a very considerable success on the previous day on the border of Le Pretre forest, where the French were compelled to evacuate a number of trenches.

German assaults in force on the French lines are continuing and have been successful in regaining grounds previously lost on a front two-thirds of a mile long between Fey-en-Haye and the Moselle. The French official statement admits this, while recording the breakdown of the attacks along other parts of the front.

In southern Poland the Russian armies, driven over the Gallician border, are fighting determinedly to check the Teutonic thrust at Warsaw. The most recent Austrian official statement admits that the Russians have been "strongly attacking" in several sectors.

Petrograd tells of desperate engagements between the Vistula and the Bug rivers and claims to have checked the Austro-Germans at different points, but concedes a retirement in east Galicia to the Gnifa Lipa and to the Ziota Lipa.

Twelve persons were killed and eight injured on the British steamer Anglo-Californian, from Montreal, by shell fire from a German submarine.

Petrograd reiterates the claim that a Russian submarine sank a German battleship of the Deutschland class in the Baltic. This is semi-officially denied in Berlin.

It was officially announced by the French ministry of marine that the French steamer Carthage, of 5,275 tons gross, was torpedoed by a German submarine and sunk.

Three accomplices of Colonel Miasoyedoff, an interpreter on the staff of the Tenth Russian army, who some time ago was hanged as a spy, have been convicted by court martial and also hanged. The men were accused of giving Germans information which resulted in the Russians losing 50,000 prisoners in the Mazurian district.

German submarines' activity in the war zone drawn around the British Isles has accounted for five more British and one Belgian vessel. The lives of all the members of the crews were saved before the ships were sent to the bottom by torpedoes or shell fire.

A Russian submarine in the Black sea sank two Turkish steamers and a sailing ship carrying provisions and coal, and later engaged and drove aground three armed schooners near the mouth of the Bosphorus.

The battle in the Baltic sea has simmered down to an encounter, in what Germans allege were Swedish territorial waters, between Russian cruisers and a German mine layer. The Germans admit the loss of the mine layer and twenty-seven men.

A continuation of the advance of the Austro-Germans along the great extent of the fronts in Galicia and Poland is reported, with the Russians still continuing their backward movement at nearly all points.

The old British torpedo boat destroyer Lightning, the British admiralty announces, has been sunk by a mine or torpedo, fifteen members of the crew being lost.

In the western zone the districts north of Arras and west of the Argonne have been the scenes of heavy bombardments, and in the latter region the Germans, by the use of shells containing asphyxiating materials, according to the French, forced the first French line, but were checked by the second line and driven back by counter attacks.

The Italians, in their Austrian campaign, are now coming up to the more strongly fortified positions, held by the Austrians. Their operations have been hampered by weather conditions in the Tyrol, while along the Isonzo front their numerous attacks, though in some instances yielding them small gains, have been in a large measure held in check by the Austrian guns.

TENT CATERPILLAR CONTROL.

Depredations Are Widespread—Effective Measures Described.

[Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.]

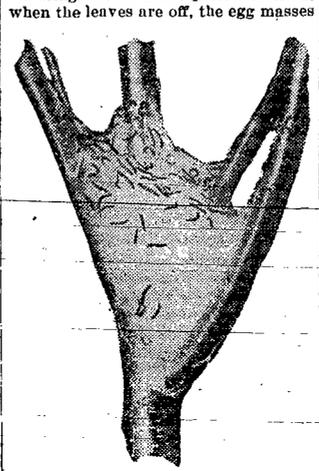

A very familiar sight in the spring is the unsightly nests or tents of the tent caterpillar, found in trees or bushes along the roadways, streams, fences, in neglected orchards and elsewhere.

These gregarious caterpillars construct the tents for their protection, and these, at first small, are gradually enlarged often to a foot or more in height and diameter, the size varying with the number of individuals in the colony.

Species of the tent caterpillar are found quite generally over the entire United States. The moths deposit their eggs by early midsummer, or earlier in the south. By fall the embryonic larva is practically full grown within the eggs, where it remains until the following spring. With the coming of a warm spell the larvae escape by gnawing through their eggshells often before there is foliage out for food, and under these circumstances they may feed upon the glutinous covering of the egg mass.

The tent caterpillar feeds principally on wild cherry and apple trees, but will attack many other plants, and where such trees can be removed without disadvantage this should be done, thus lessening its food supply.

During the dormant period of trees, when the leaves are off, the egg masses are fairly conspicuous, and with a little practice may be readily found; it is then that they should be cut off and burned. Trees infested with larvae during the early part of the year, or those in the immediate vicinity, are perhaps more likely to be chosen by the parent moth for the deposition of her eggs, and such trees at least should be searched if it is not practicable to extend the work to the orchard as a whole. This work may be combined with pruning to good advantage, and a lookout should be kept not only for the eggs of this insect, but for the eggs and cocoons of other injurious species which pass the winter on the trees.

When two egg masses are deposited close together, the resulting caterpillars may form a common nest. These nests are gradually enlarged and soon furnish ample protection. If the caterpillars are destroyed as soon as the small nests are detected, this will prevent further defoliation of the trees, and the rule should be adopted to destroy them promptly as soon as discovered. In this work either of two practices may be adopted, namely, destruction by hand or with a torch.

When in convenient reach, the nests may be torn out with a brush, with gloved hand, or otherwise, and the larvae crushed on the ground, care being taken to destroy any caterpillars which may have remained on the tree.

The use of a torch to burn out the nests will often be found convenient, especially when these occur in the higher parts of trees. An asbestos torch, such as is advertised by seedsmen, will be satisfactory, or one may be made simply by tying rags to the end of a pole. The asbestos or rags are saturated with kerosene and lighted and the caterpillars, as far as possible cremated. Some caterpillars, however, are likely to escape, falling from the nest upon the application of the torch. In using the torch great care is necessary that no important injury be done the tree; it should not be used in burning out nests except in the smaller branches and twigs, the killing of which would be of no special importance. Nests in the larger limbs should be destroyed by hand, as the use of the torch may kill the bark, resulting in permanent injury.

Tent caterpillars are readily destroyed by arsenicals sprayed on the foliage of trees infested by them. Any of the arsenical insecticides may be used.

On stone fruits, such as cherry, peach and plum, arsenicals are likely to cause injury to foliage and must be used with caution if at all. On such trees the arsenate of lead is preferable, as it is less injurious to foliage and on all trees sticks much better. In spraying for the tent caterpillar only, applications should be made while the caterpillars are yet small, as these succumb more quickly to poisons than those more nearly full grown, and prompt treatment stops further defoliation of the trees.

ABOUT LIVE STOCK.

Feed the calf lightly until it is five to seven weeks old, giving not over ten to twelve pounds of milk daily. Later the amount may be increased to fourteen or sixteen pounds and at three months may, though not always go to about twenty pounds. The amount fed, however, must be carefully regulated by the ability of the calf to handle it without scouring.

Cleanliness is a big factor in the successful raising of sheep.

Raise roots for the sheep. They are relished, and it improves their health. Sugar beets rank first, rutabagas next then pumpkins. Four to five pounds daily to each sheep will improve their general health and make the meat tender and juicy.

MISS LAMKIN AND THE CHILDREN.

The splendid results of Miss Lamkin's work remain long after she has gone. While the children are intensely interested and amused, and think it all good fun, there is not a game played, not a story told, or an exercise given that has not been scientifically selected on account of certain developments of lagging muscles, or certain influences on young minds. It is about the most scientific attraction appearing at any of the chautauquas and from first to last is working with definite aims in view. It inculcates a spirit of liberality and fairness in sports, absolute submission to authority, a healthy interest in God's great out doors, and leaves the young people all vastly better for their experience, and with an enthusiasm for right things for the future that is invaluable.

"We did not believe in organized play before Miss Lamkin came. At the end of her week with us we had set aside ground for a playground and when she returned to us the following year we had the playground equipped and a physical director in our schools."

Miss Lamkin is writing a series of articles, giving suggestive work in physical training for the primary grades—in Primary Plans—one of the largest school magazines in the country. The articles include rhythms, games and folk dances.

Miss Lamkin has examined during the last ten years over 10,000 boys and girls and has told the parents of the physical handicaps which were retarding growth either physical or mental.

"Teachers and parents who are alive to the value of organized play and the health of the child will not miss any of Miss Lamkin's lectures or play periods with the boys and girls."

My acquaintanceship with Miss Lamkin extends over a period of more than ten years. During that time I have watched with keen interest the development of her work.

To few are given master-minds, few possess the talent of gaining and holding the undivided attention of children; Miss Lamkin is one of the few endowed with this rare gift and her work deserves none but the highest praise.

"Das Garten Spiel" is not a fancy or military drill, not a display of costume effects but real organized play in which every child is directed in the best forms of recreation, in which they learn to be true to all the noblest and best impulses of life.

Surely such a course is worth while for your girls and boys of any and all ages. Miss Lamkin's Round Table Talks have a message for every teacher, parent and prospective parent in the land.

I unhesitatingly recommend Miss Lamkin and her courses which make for strong, clean and noble characters.—Alice M. Ridge, M. D., Ogden, Utah.

The Great Pageant.

Upon the last day of her stay Miss Lamkin will present, with the assistance of the young people, the Tournament and Pageant. She brings with her much of the material to be used in the pageant, and this is made a different feature each year. The details and materials are worked out at the State Normal school, Macomb, Ill., where she is an instructor.

THE CIGARETTE BEETLE.

This Tough Little Pest Will Flourish Even In Cayenne Pepper.

A tiny but withal practically omnivorous little fellow, the cigarette beetle is known to science as Lasioderma serricornae. It is common in nearly all tropical and subtropical countries, and, as a sample of its catholic tastes, we may mention that it will breed in raisins, rhubarb, cayenne pepper, rice, ginger, dried fish, upholstery, ergot, turmeric, books, cane work, gun wads, liquorice, saffron, belladonna and in pyrethrum powder strong enough to kill cockroaches—a varied catalogue to be sure. It is chiefly as a pest of tobacco, in various forms, however, that the cigarette beetle has become notorious. The greatest damage is done to the wrappers of cigars and cigarettes, through which it eats small holes.

The larvae live upon the tobacco leaf, and a very interesting fact is that the size of the adult beetles, into which the larvae eventually develop depends not only on the quantity, but also on the quality of tobacco that has been devoured in the immature stages.

Experiment has shown that in every case beetles obtained from selected cigars were double the size of those from low grade tobacco. It will be remembered that the cheese "skipper" is partial to the better cheeses; similarly, the cigarette beetle is somewhat of a connoisseur, for given a free choice cigarettes are always the first to be infested, while cheap grade tobacco and cigars kept in the same room will remain uninfested for years.

Apart from the actual destruction of the tobacco leaf, the larvae spoil its aroma and accordingly depreciate its value; it is some consolation to know that the adults themselves do no damage. This little beetle is most difficult to eradicate, and, to that end, an experimental X-ray machine was specially built at great expense in America. The machine was to be capable of "sterilizing" cigars, on a commercial scale, at the rate of 40,000 a day; voltages of 64,000 to 75,000 and exposures as long as an hour were tried without the slightest effect upon eggs, larvae, pupae or adults—the experiment was a failure.—"Insects and Man," by C. A. Baland.

VICTOR HUGO'S VISION.

The Day When Weapons of War Will Be Regarded as Curiosities.

A day comes when you, France—you, Russia—you, Italy—you, England—you, Germany—all you nations of the continent shall without losing your distinctive qualities and your glorious individuality blend in a higher unity and form a European fraternity, as Normandy, Brittany, Burgundy, Lorraine, Alsace, all the French provinces, blended into France. A day will come when war shall seem as impossible between Paris and London, between Petersburg and Berlin, as between Rouen and Amiens, as between Boston and Philadelphia.

A day will come when bullets and bombs shall be replaced by ballots, by the universal suffrage of the people, by the sacred arbitrament of a great sovereign senate, which shall be to Europe what the parliament is to England, the diet to Germany, the legislative assembly to France. A day will come when a cannon shall be exhibited in our museums as an instrument of torture is now and men shall marvel that such things could be.

A day will come when we shall see those two immense groups, the United States of America and the United States of Europe, in face of each other extending hand to hand over the ocean, exchanging their products, their commerce, their industry, their art; their genius clearing the earth, colonizing deserts and ameliorating creation. To you I appeal, French, English, Germans, Russians, Slavs, Europeans, Americans, what have we to do to hasten the coming of the great day? Love one another.—Victor Hugo.

Too Costly.

King George II. once wished to add the Green park, in London, to his palace grounds, whether the people liked it or not. He inquired of his minister as to the cost. His lordship, mindful of the general discontent then prevalent, answered: "The cost, sir? Oh, it would be a matter of three crowns!" The king took the hint. The people kept their park and the sovereign his triple throne.

The Cuming County Democrat is running an automobile contest, which closes the 24th.

The Laurel commercial club is considering the question of working for adequate electric light plant for the city.

The Norfolk commercial club has a new secretary and is said to be showing signs of a new lease of life, with a large influx of new members.

W. F. Norris of Ponca was orator of the day at Wayne July 4, 31 years ago, according to the ancient news in the Ponca newspapers. Wonder what he talked about, and who is here today who heard him.

A David City veterinary has built a horse hospital for his patients. It is a fine modern building, covering two lots near the center of the town. Here we have four automobile hospitals and none for horses exclusively.

The races at West Point are on this week, closing tomorrow. They have a splendid track there, and Wayne is always well represented among the spectators at their annual meet, and this season will be no exception if the roads are at all passable.

The postoffice at Madison by reason of the increased business last year became an office of the second class, and the salary will be $2,000 annually, and there will also be some changes in the office hours. Nebraska is not only growing in spots but all over.

Nebraska and Iowa are the most prosperous sections of the United States is proven by the bank clearings for the year. An analysis of the clearings, which reflect business accurately, show that for the entire year the business activity has been ten per cent greater than last year and for the last three months it has been 18.2 per cent greater.

Quoting from that paper of 31 years ago the Nebraska Leader-Journal says that corn looked pretty well that spring in spite of the fact that many had used poor seed and had to re-plant once or more, which reminds us that there was a time when the farmer did not test his seed corn until it was in his field—the most expensive test he could give it—thus we live and learn a little at least.

Referring in his speech in Lincoln Tuesday evening to statement by a German sympathizer several months ago, says the Butler County Press, that of course the secretary of state would be in favor of England since he had a son-in-law in the British army. W. J. Bryan said: "If I had been able to reply then, if I had dared to talk, I would have replied that relationship does not always control. The kaiser has a cousin on the English throne and a cousin on the Russian throne and the relationship hasn't biased him a bit."

Norfolk's Boy to Serbia

Ralph H. Luikart, young Norfolk doctor and surgeon, is going to Serbia as a volunteer, and on the eve of departure was married in Philadelphia, where he has just graduated from the University of Pennsylvania.

Change of plans is a surprise to relatives of Dr. Luikart. He graduated at the head of his class and had accepted the offer of an internship at a hospital in Philadelphia. He was born in Norfolk, son of the late G. A. Luikart, and graduated from the University of Nebraska about four years ago, taking his medical studies in Philadelphia.

E. H. Luikart of Omaha has a letter from a sister in the east, Mrs. James R. Fain, telling him that Dr. Luikart goes to Serbia with a doctor's corps. It is presumed that this is the American Red Cross and that Serbia is chosen because it is most in need of surgeons and doctors.—Norfolk Press.

Varnished Wall Paper

I have varnished wallpaper in the bathroom and was told by the agent when taking the house that it "washed like oil paint." Is that true? If not, is there any way of cleaning it? I would be very grateful for an early reply.—Housewife, Lansdale, Pa.

Varnished paper can be washed quite satisfactorily by adding two tablespoonfuls of ammonia to a half pail of water and washing with soft flannel. Dry off and wipe down again with a chamois skin wrung out of warm water to which two tablespoonfuls of turpentine have been added. This gives a very good polish to the paper and makes it look as good as new.

Comment From Exchanges
Creighton Liberal:—
An overland trip of several hundred miles conversing with people in all walks of life convinces us that Senator Hitchcock's paper will be buying antiseptic by the ton next year to cauterize the wounds it is making in using a hoisting jack made of innuendo and ridicule to lift a political peanut.

The average western newspaper has to take its cue from the metropolitan press the same as the talking machine takes its tone from the record.

Senator Hitchcock's paper knows differently. It is either in accord with the nation-wide campaign of vilification or it has adopted the school girl tactics "you can't play in our yard". There are only a few hundred voters deeply interested in the federal pie counter scrap in Nebraska.

There are only a few thousand who will dig up money to delay the woman suffrage, prohibition and incidental campaigns.

There are tens of thousands, however on whom party ties rest lightly when it comes to the semi-socialistic wave which is sweeping this country in opposition to big business perpetuating the public service monopoly it now exacts.

If Mr. Bryan would forget his utopian idealism for one day and use David Harum's philosophy and do others as they would do him, and tell the means big business has employed to retain the strangle hold it has secured through the national debt and retains to this day, the capital stock of Bourbon would soon find its way into the sewer.

The fact that Mr. Bryan conceals the weak spots in the administration's defenses should earn him some consideration at least from democratic office holders.

Norfolk Press:—

There are hundreds of thousands of dollars beneath the soil all around us that have never been dug out, and the humble opinion of the editor is it is about time for us to dig deeply. We would like to see every foot of waste ground in this community put under cultivation and yielding something that brings in the yellow metal. We would like to see every arm in the community at work, every arm devising means of advancing our common interests. There is a cash market in foreign countries for every ounce of foodstuffs that we can produce, and at high prices. We as a community are abundantly able to vastly increase our output of foodstuffs, and just why we are allowing so much land to go uncultivated is a mystery which we confess ourselves unable to solve. Every man wants more money, and right here at our door opportunity goes begging day by day. What's the matter with us, anyway?

Some Savory Recipes

Swedish Meat Balls—Buy top sirloin by the pound and get the butcher to grind it before your eyes. Mix the meat with a pinch of kitchen herbs, some fresh chopped parsley, a little chopped onion, a sixth of the quantity of stale, fine bread crumbs, salt, cayenne and fresh cream to make a manageable paste. Roll into balls, sprinkle with flour and fry brown in butter or olive oil.

Boiled Rice—Take a cupful of well-washed rice and mix it with double the quantity of cold water; add salt to taste and let the rice boil fast for 20 minutes, when the liquid will have disappeared. Then set the vessel, tightly covered on the back of the stove for the rice to "soak" or finish the cooking with the steam. Care must be taken to protect the pot from too much heat, as rice cooked in this dry manner will soon burn. Together with the first boiling, it takes about fifty minutes or an hour, to cook rice in this way. It must never be stirred, as this makes a soggy mess; but many good cooks often turn the edges up with a fork so as to let the steam out when the rice is nearly done. Any rich gravy or butter is a proper accompaniment, but it does splendidly with curried chicken.

Lincoln Letter

The Hotel Commission has been busy this week sending out notices to all the hotels in the state calling their attention to the fact that a registration fee of two dollars is due. This notice is sent to all hotels, restaurants, rooming and apartment houses in the state. The commission has sent out fourteen notices this week to different hotels in the state to clean up. The tendency among the hotel men over the state is to comply with the requirements of the law. Quite a noticeable change for the better is being observed.

There is under the personal supervision of Deputy Fire Commissioner Ridgell, 600 special deputies, which Mr. Ridgell has recruited from the ranks of the volunteer fire departments of the state and this has been found to be quite a potent force in preventing fire loss in the state of Nebraska. Mr. Ridgell has made it a point to become personally acquainted with every fire department man in the state.

In response to a letter from the editors of the International Encyclopedia, State Auditor Smith has written them as follows concerning Nebraska's bank guaranty law and its operations:

"In 1909 Nebraska passed a bank guaranty act under the provisions of which all deposits in state banks are protected by a fund raised as a result of an assessment based upon the deposits carried by the banks, this fund containing at this time $1,020,000. At the time this law went into effect there were 662 state banks in Nebraska and 220 national banks. There are now 772 state banks in operation and 217 national banks. In 1909 the deposits in the state banks aggregated $73,283,625.75, while according to a report submitted to the department at the close of business on April 21, 1915, the deposits were $103,828,809.71. Since the enactment of the bank guaranty law, there has been but one failure, and that being a savings bank, operated in connection with a national bank which went to the wall."

Along Came Ruth

"And now," said Ruth's father, "when I can least afford to have it fixed the lining of the kitchen range has cracked in two places, and I shall have to call in a stove man to make dirt all over the kitchen and bring in a big bill afterwaras."

"Why, I was just reading this morning how all that might be avoided," declared Ruth, "let me see, I remember the formula exactly. You purchased some fire clay, cut up some straw very fine and make a paste of a consistency that will fill the cracks, then rub it smooth with a wet knife blade. After it is in place let it harden for twenty-four hours, and you will have a new lining, as hard and substantial as the original, with no dirt to speak of, and no bills outside of the cost of the fire clay, which is very little. You can also mend your grates and furnace pots in the same manner."

"Ruth, why don't you hang out a 'First Aid to the Troubled 'Sign'?" asked her delighted father, preparing to follow her advice.

Household Helps

Be systematic—even the odds and ends of housekeeping should be attended to regularly. Set a day to attend to the drawers in dressers and closets; examine store-rooms and closets and see what is needed; look over the fruit and vegetables that need attention and see that they are used before too late. Mildew can be removed by rubbing the spots with green tomato and salt and exposing the spots to the sun.

Tincture of camphor, ten to twelve drops to a tumbler of water, makes a good daily wash for the teeth.

If you wish your eyebrows to look pretty be sure no powder is left in them.

A spotless tablecloth, smooth and straight, is essential to the enjoyment of a meal.

Keep eggs in a cool, dry place. Eggs absorb flavors, and should be kept in a covered dish.

Among the Churches of Wayne

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We are glad to see some new scholars coming into the Sunday school, we bid them welcome. The Bible Class has been growing some but we would like to see all of the parents in the Bible Class on Sunday, what an encouragement it would be to the young.

Regular divine worship in the morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Significance of the Cleansed Leper", Matt. 8:1-4. Christ had just closed his most memorable discourse upon the Mount. Many people had been impressed with his words and were moved to follow him. Some, that they might hear more of his teachings, while others, out of mere curiosity came after him as he descended the Mount. When the Christ and the multitude reached the foot of the Mount, a man afflicted with the dreadful disease of leprosy came to him saying, "Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean". Here was an opportunity for Christ to put the stamp of authority upon his late teachings, and to set his seal to all that he had taught. He therefore put forth his hand and touched the leper and said "I will; be thou clean."

The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. D. Erickson on next Thursday afternoon. The Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary society will meet on the 14th of July at the home of Mrs. N. J. Juhlin. All the women of the church are invited to this meeting.

There will be no evening services or Luther League this Sunday evening, because of the chautauqua. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Baptist Church
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Why support a church? What does the church mean to your community, your home, your children and your own life? Is the church a vital factor in the building of charity? Are its ideals and messages and inspiration needed in our modern age. Will the family that neglect the church have the same type of home life, the same kind of children, the same kind of influence as the family that gives the church a large place in its life. Look around and think of the families you know and judge for yourself. The fact is this, the things for which the church stands are so fundamental to the good of all life, that no one can ignore it, without great loss. There is no other institution anywhere, that yields such great returns, as does the church. If you have children, be careful how you act towards the church. The real life of the child is determined by what it feeds upon.

"Vigilance", will be the subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning.

Sunday afternoon and evening the church services will give place for the chautauqua.

There will be no prayer meeting next week.

Tomorrow (Friday) the prayer circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Soules. Miss Nora Gilbert will lead.

Methodist Patriotic Services

The Epworth League gave a patriotic service in the church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock following the union service in the English Lutheran church.

Mr. Weldon Crossland, recently returned from Oxford University, England, led the meeting. He opened the meeting with a discussion of the following topics: What is Christian patriotism? What demands does it make upon us? How are we to satisfy these demands? Would it be right to us to contend for our own nation whether right or wrong? Should the pagan content for pagan ideals? In what do pagan and Christian ideals differ? Pagan ideals are selfish; selfish ideals are pagan. Christian ideals are altruistic while pagan ideals are always selfish. Rev. A. S. Buell spoke on the church and patriotism, Professor I. H. Britell spoke of the school, or education and patriotism. Mrs. S. A. Lutgen presented a paper on Patriotism and the Home which was in part as follows.

"The church has ever been a sacred spot. In it the family is the unit of the social organization which has been in the past and is still the great conserving agency in human society, preserving and transmitting from generation to generation both the material and spiritual possession of the race. We find in Genesis' the account of 'The lands being divided every one after his tongue, after their families in their nations,' and all through the leaves of sacred history we find the family binding all together. Great lessons of patriotism and love for tribe and country are given there. Joseph the husband of Mary, a carpenter in Nazareth was a native of Bethlehem, but no matter where one lived they always carefully guarded their citizenship in the place of their birth. So, descending from the royal house of Israel, he kept his name on the roll of the royal city, therefore for registration to Bethlehem he must go. Thus it was that the Holy Child was born in the Bethlehem manger. We recall how Abraham sent back to his old home for his son Isaac's wife, how Jacob fled back to the land of his ancestors and there secured his wife, and so all through the scriptures we read of the family and the home.

It is in the family that children learn to love, and obey, to be of service, and to respect one another's rights. The idea of human brotherhood has no meaning unless family affection gives it that meaning. If the child fails to learn what law is and to get proper ideals of the relation of the citizen to the state and nation in his family life, there are good prospects of his being numbered among the lawless element of society. Compte, says 'The nation whose family life decays, rots at the core and dries up the springs of all social and civic virtues.' When Rome was at its best, when leader of the nations, its home life was strongest. For 250 years after it was founded there was not a single divorce in Rome. However that great evil finally undermined the nation, the same as it will any nation—for the home must be maintained, must do its work for the nation to thrive.

The value of home training is so recognized that many states are doing away with the institutions and asylums for rearing homeless children, and instead are caring for them only long enough to find suitable homes—homes where they have mothers to love and teach them, and fathers to love and direct and provide for them. We are learning that the first aim, not only for the welfare of the individual, but for the nation as well is to teach individuals to be good fathers and mothers, good neighbors and members of a community, even more than that they be taught the accomplishments of life.

In olden times it was the strength of the armies and the extent of their conquests that determined the greatness of the nation and the patriotism of its people; today it is the bigness of the ideals, the wonderfulness of the achievements and the strength of his love for humanity that stamps greatness upon the nation. As the home is the unit of the nation so as James Russell Lowell says: "The many make the household but only one the home," and as Ross Wallace in his well known verse says: "But a mightier power and stronger, man from his throne has hurled; for the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world." How in keeping are these sayings with the words of the book, "Bring up a child in the way that he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." As the father is the breadwinner and provider, so the mother is responsible for the care and culture of home and children. She must implant in their young minds lessons of truth, of virtue and of patriotism. And well she can, for her patriotism as well as the valor of the man helped to make our country what it is today. Through her great love she can teach a passion for liberty, a liberty that lifts up the fallen and redeems and blesses humanity; a brotherhood if you please, that will far outdo mere patriot-nations statutory law. For peace and murder, whether between individuals or nations must sometimes yield to intelligence and reason. The greatest patriotism is not shown in a willingness to risk life in order to destroy others, but in the willingness to stand for that which will lighten the pathway of the human race to higher ground. And who can teach these truths better than the mother? The Greek mother instructed her son to return on his shield or with it. Shall we as modern mothers not advance with the times. Shall we not rather teach him the principles of brotherhood, to be clean within or without, to be prepared to fight if need be for the principles of his country. Let us remember that Christ said, "Children are a heritage of the Lord," and with His help raise them to be patriotic. For God, home and country.
