SHALL WAYNE PAVE STREETS?

A Majority of Property Owners on Main Street, Between 1st and 4th Streets Answer Yes. A Great Improvement.

For several months there has been talk of paving Main street in the air and the more mud we had the more talk there seemed to be and the more paving seemed to be the solution. Last week the editor of the Herald suggested that property owners on Main street between 1st and 4th street be interviewed on the question, and in this work the Democrat gladly assisted. We are gratified as well as surprised to find so many who are willing to make this improvement. The owners of the Democrat have believed that Wayne and Wayne property in a paved district would find paved streets a paying investment. The reason for this belief is founded on observation. In numerous Iowa towns we have watched the fights for and against paving. Where paving won practically all opposition appears to disappear as soon as the work is complete, and when property owners outside of the paved districts are shown they begin to ask for extensions. If it is good for Iowa towns and small cities it is good for Wayne. If it is good for Wayne, Wayne wants it.

The cost depends upon what kind of paving is put in, but the best is the cheapest in a series of years, and it is estimated at about $4 per front foot on a street the width of Main street in Wayne. When the contagion reaches the residence district, as it will, the cost per front foot is but about half the above amount, for the reason that it is not there necessary to pave the full width of the street—a 24-foot paving in the center of the street being sufficient.

Aside from the real, everyday practical value of a paved street, it gives to a place an air of stability and permanence that inspires confidence and respect. That the downtown district will be better lighted by a system of electroliers seems to be assured, as the city has provided for a part of the initial cost, and many have signified their willingness to aid in bringing this improvement to a successful conclusion.

This paper will be glad to publish articles from those interested in this move, either for or against—in fact we especially invite expressions of opinion. Some of the property owners could not be seen in the short time given to this work, and no one at great distance has been written to for an expression, but they are welcome to a hearing.

Following we give a list of those who have property in the district most likely to be first paved and their opinion on the subject, and are glad to say that the majority favor the enterprise, and but few of those who do not now favor it would offer any serious opposition:

C. E. Jones of Carroll, who owns the Gem Cafe building does not favor paving at this time. It is but fair to say that Mr. Jones has made much improvement on the building since he purchased it, and he thinks it time for him to wait a bit.

William Dammeyer: "For both paving and electroliers I will be pleased to pay my share of the expense. I am heartily in favor of the improvements, and the sooner they are made the better I will be suited."

Philleo & Harrington are "very much in favor of both paving and the electrolier lights."

Wm. Broschiet is not in favor of paving or light improvement at present.

Nels Swanson: "Would not favor paving or electrolier unless both could be paid for by a general tax on all property instead of assessment on abutting property."

T. B. Heckert: "Is not anxious for paving, but would not oppose."

Electroliers should be put in by city at expense of all tax payers."

L. L. Way: "I own 140 feet of frontage that would be subject to a special paving tax, and I would be glad to pay it to have the improvement made. Wayne will never be the town it deserves to be until its business district is paved. I am for it with a ton of emphasis, and will be delighted to pay my full share of the cost."

C. A. Chace: "I am in favor of paving and electroliers just as soon as the money for the purpose can be provided."

F. E. Strahan: "I am ashamed of Wayne's business district when I return to it from smaller towns—numerous in Iowa—that are free from poles and are both paved and modernly lighted. While I would not insist on doing too much at once, I think the business district should be freed of unsightly poles and systematically and attractively lighted. As to paving, Wayne ought to have the improvement as soon as practicable."

Art Norton Seriously Hurt

Monday afternoon, Art Norton, who was painting one of the stacks of the city pump and power plant, fell from a point more than fifty feet from the ground and sustained injuries which will probably cripple him for life, be it long or short.

His injuries as reported by one of the attending physicians consist of the fracture of both forearms, one of them being what is termed a compound fracture—broken in two places and the bone crushed. On this arm the broken bone was forced out through the flesh of the arm; three ribs on the left side broken from the breast bone, and depressed so that it was necessary to make an incision and raise them to their proper place, and the left ankle badly sprained. A dislocated nose and some minor cuts and scratches and a severe jarring all over constitute the other injuries.

He had started to paint the pipe, and was down about 30 feet from the top when the hook which held his swinging seat at the top of the pipe gave way and let him down. It was thought by his friends and those who worked with him that the hook he had provided for this purpose was too light, but he thought not and would not change it.

Physicians were immediately called to the scene and he was made as comfortable as possible and taken at once to his home where his bones were at once put in the best shape possible. At present he is as easy as could be expected, and awaiting developments. It is thought that he will recover in time if nothing un-known sets in to complicate the case.

An Appointment for Mrs. Crossland

Mrs. Geo. Crossland has been named by Governor Morehead as a delegate from this state to the congress of the American Prison association, which is to meet at Los Angeles, California, October 9 to 14. Mrs. Crossland is as yet undecided as to whether or not she can go, much as she would like to do so. But as these places are merely honorary with no expense money allowed, it becomes a question of sparing the time and money. She was named as a delegate to a meeting of similar nature at Baltimore this spring, and attended, and made a splendid report of the work. Mrs. Crossland takes a deep interest in charity work, prison reform and kindred subjects. She says that California is in the van of states in the matter of prison reform work.

A Menace to Public Health

In the southwest part of the city or adjoining the city, we know not which side of the line it lies, is a pond of stagnant water which should be drained if Wayne does not expect to have use for a hospital long before one is completed here. If the local health authorities have no power to act in the matter, state authorities should be notified. This is on the Simon Goeman place, and was bad last season, and many think that the few cases of typhoid here last season may be traced to the same foul place. We are told that several members of the Goeman family are now ill and the nature of their sickness is not yet definitely known.

Painting 'Um Red

The railway watertank has a new coat of red paint with the hoops making black stripes around it, causing it to look like new. The paint crew have also painted the freight depot red, adding much to its beauty—or at least improving it very much in appearance.

The Cradle

WILSON.—Wednesday, August 5, 1915, to Frank Wilson and wife, near Winside, a son.

Two Children Burn to Death

Tuesday forenoon two children of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Willers were burned to death in a fire of their own starting in the barn on the Willers farm near Stanton, the county line, southwest of Wayne about twelve miles. Three children aged five, four and two and a half years were playing with matches in the barn, when they lighted the hay in the driveway and the building was soon enveloped in flame. The little ones could not get out and retreated to the granary part of the building where two of them were burned to death. The older boy managed to make his escape by climbing to a small opening left to shovel grain through and with the aid of his mother from the outside was pulled out, but her efforts to save the others were unavailing, the opening being too small to admit an adult.

The mother helpless to rescue the children after the fire was discovered, and the father at work in a distant field hurried to the scene, but too late. The barn, granary and corncrib were all burned, and other property narrowly escaped.

All that remained of the bodies of the little boy and girl was laid to rest in the cemetery west of Altona, Tuesday, with but a slight service at the grave. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all in this sad loss.

The Mexican Situation

The troubles of our sister republic are becoming acute. This country uniting with the leading powers of South America to restore order brings matters there to a crisis. It appears that the one hope of the leaders there now is that they may unite that people in opposition to intervention from outside friendly powers.

The morning papers say there is a move on foot to take from this country by force a portion of Texas with an area of 140,000 square miles and a population of 165,000, more than half of which is Mexican. They may make some trouble for this country, but there will be more for themselves and that will be as far as they will get. Several gunboats and some transports of troops have been started to the waters of Mexico and the border land between this country and that. There has been a little guerrilla warfare along the border, but nothing of any magnitude.

Wayne Boys at Camp

Below is a list of the Wayne soldier boys who are members of Co. G. of Stanton, who left Monday morning to join their company and go to state encampment at Fremont for a week of drill work. With this bunch of young men in the service it looks as though Wayne might be in line for a company in the state militia if they desire when a vacancy occurs.

A. Jenks, Corporal; R. Meier, C. Duncan, A. Chinquist, P. Leslie, C. Foster, W. Briggs, Corporal; G. Church, E. Jones, F. Luerner, G. Weber, H. Mears, Corporal; D. Rickabaugh, M. Powers, R. Hunter, E. Hoguewood, L. Miner, C. McMakin, E. Duell, F. Mildner, J. Pile, 1st Sargent.

Small District Hailed

A bit of hail visited a strip about two miles long and quite narrow, southeast of Wayne Tuesday. Frank Pritchard, Otto Lutt, Chas. Johnson and several others were touched slightly. Mr. Pritchard says that it stripped his corn leaves freely and injured tassels that are out. It was not heavy enough to destroy the crop.

A later report tells that a corner of Emil Hansen's corn was struck, and a small place looked as though a little twister had been there. Wm. Malmberg's place was in the path of the storm and so was that of Mike Lowry where the rainfall was heavy, gathering water enough in his field to move grain shocks.

Special Teachers' Examination

There will be a special examination held just one day, Saturday, August 21st. Examinations will cover county certificate subjects only. Reading Circle questions will NOT be included.

PEARL E. SEWELL,
County Supt.

The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church will go to the Forbes farm and have a picnic supper this afternoon.

The Farmer Union Picnic

Tuesday was farmer day at Carroll, and a large number laid work aside for the day and came to hear the orators and take a day to study their condition and its relation to other interests. The morning meeting was called to order by Wm. Morris, the president of one of the local unions who presided with ease and dignity throughout the morning session.

Rev. McKinzie was presented to deliver the address of welcome, and he did it in a happy manner. He had been a farmer and said that the farm life experience had been far more valuable to him than the school life. He had visited the agricultural school at Ames, Iowa, recently, and when he saw what they were there doing in fitting men for farming to best advantage had become a more enthusiastic advocate of special education for the farmer and the employment of competent farm demonstrators to aid the busy farmer in solving in the best manner, questions he had too little time to give careful study. He urged all to not allow a prejudice to stand in the way of their getting the best that was to be had for the farm.

C. F. Gustafson, president of the Unions of this state, of which there are now more than 600, was next introduced to the audience, and he talked for nearly an hour in a free and easy manner, telling the objects of the Farmer Union organization. He first denied some of the assertions that the press of the state had credited him with, and said that the report of his stenographer proved that he had been misquoted when he was made to talk against favoring an increase in production. But he said that he did urge the people to not give their time to production to the exclusion of everything else—that they should see that they got a square deal in the matter of distribution—and the right prices both in selling and buying.

To work together for these things as well as the best method of production was his claim as the objects of the Union. He urged the farmer to know that those who offered them aid and advice were not actuated as much or more by selfish interests as for the good of the farmer. The only way for the farmer to win was to organize, work together and continue to watch and work—not for one season nor one year, but constantly. Established conditions not beneficial to the producer but to those who have been manipulating the products of the producers for an 100 years are not going to surrender in a season. He would have the Union men enlist for life.

To divide communities will not help to win against a common foe—the real enemy or leech that is draining the life from producers is not in the small towns, and he suggested co-operation of town and country. The farmer and the resident of the nearby small town should work together. Each needs the other. Neither should ask or expect special privilege, nor should they be willing to grant it monopoly.

He would have the people know no party except for the real good it can do. They should know who is nominated for office and see that good men are elected from the bottom to the top, and they should be very careful about trusting their interests in the hands of those who are selected for office by the great private interests. Speaking of the last legislature in this state he said the senate was not bad, but that the senate was hand-picked by the corporate interests of the state, and that they were responsible for some of the legislation and lack of legislation by that body.

He wants the farmers to stand for a real rural credit system and work until they get it. All wealth comes from the earth and the producer should have his full share, and the way to get it is to defend it from the non-producers when necessary.

He told of the need of co-operative creameries and the effort to start one at Fremont. Said that the spirit of co-operation should build creameries in every county.

His talk was well received, and frequently applauded. It was temperate and not unfriendly to the business interests of small communities—provided there is not too much difference of opinion as to what is right compensation for the merchant, the mechanic, the mill, the railroad and the men who aid in the collection and distribution of the products of farm and factory. Each side claims to simply want justice—can they agree as to what is just?

A social hour was passed about the many picnic dinner parties, and the afternoon session was given to a talk by state organizer Woods, which it was not our good fortune to hear.

Amusements filled the last part of the afternoon. The farmers beat the Carroll business men at base ball and in the tug of war. Horse races were run for fun and many games and sports were indulged in.

In the evening W. R. Meller, secretary of the Nebraska fair was present for a talk at the last session of the day.

The meetings were held in a tent which was provided jointly for this meeting and the chautauqua which is to open at Carroll shortly.

Death of Jorgen Peterson

Death came to Jorgen Petersen Wednesday morning at the home of his son-in-law, James Nelson, following an operation for rupture, at the age of 82 years. Mr. Petersen has been a resident of Nebraska for about 11 years, coming with his wife from Denmark then to join his children here. The wife died about four years ago. Eleven children survive him, all except one daughter who remained in Denmark, living in this country. The place and hour of the funeral is not yet set, as they are waiting to hear from the children not living here before deciding.

Jurors Drawn

The following names were drawn to serve as jurors at the September term of the district court in this county, and are due to report on the 13th:

The City Fathers Meet

Tuesday evening was regular meeting of the city council and all were present except Councilman Lamberson. Bids were opened from eight different firms who wanted to sell the city 750 feet of new hose. After considering the bids the council accepted the bid of the New York Belting and Packing Co., of New York, and ordered Atlas hose at $600 for 750 ft., f. o. b. Wayne.

The plans of City Engineer Strickland for sewer district No. 4 were placed before the council and adopted and bids will be received for the work. The matter of the extension of water mains on Pearl and E, 10th sts., was discussed, but for lack of funds the extension could not be made this season. The extension is needed, but to install it would take a mile of main pipe. The following bills were allowed:

Light Fund:

J. M. Cherry, freight on coal, $104.44
Sheridan Coal Co., coal, $78.16
J. M. Cherry, freight, $22.83
Western Electric Co., fuses, $13.20
Melba Boiler Compound Co., $29.75
Korsemeier Co. insulators, $1.05
H. B. Craven, hardware, $152.80
J. R. Rundell, $8.40
Gasoline Supply Co., oil, $16.23
General Fund:
Nebr. Telephone Co., $8.25
Fire Department, Theobald fire, $20.25
H. J. Felber, 25 cents.
C. E. Conger, dray, 50 cents.
R. L. Will, dray, $1.00.
J. H. Vibber, feed boilermaker, $1.80.
H. W. Barnett, dray, $2.50.
F. H. Jones, office supplies, $2.75
Perkins Bros. Co., record etc., $12.61
Herald, printing, $11.00.
J. R. Rundell, supplies, etc., $5.15.
Simon Goeman, hay, $10.60.
Chas Barham, labor, $45.00.
H. B. Craven, hardware, $16.05.

Wils K. Hiester left Monday morning to visit his brother at Wayne, Pennsylvania, a suburb of Philadelphia. It is ten years since he last went to visit there. He has been a pretty faithful employee at the German store and richly deserves a vacation.

M. S. Davies and wife returned Monday evening from a visit of six weeks in California. They report a splendid time. They made headquarters at the home of W. S. Goldie and wife, their daughter, and tell us that the Goldie family are all in fine health and in love with California country.

Senator Lafayette Young of Iowa, editor and proprietor of the Des Moines Capital, was a Wayne visitor Monday enroute to Randolph, where he spoke at the chautauqua that afternoon. He visited the library building here, as he takes a deep interest in such work in the country places as well as the cities.

Look for the program of the concert that is to be given Monday next, at the Methodist church, by the Apollo Club. It is one that ought attract all lovers of good music, and because the price is cheap don't think that it will be a cheap affair—the price was put that way so that it would not over-reach any pocket book.

The W. C. T. U. picnic on the court house lawn Friday afternoon was a decided success. Miss Widman, Mrs. Helt's sister, gave in a short talk a fine idea of the campaign in West Virginia in which state she is a teacher. Rev. Cross' suggestion that we need temperance work by the business men, even in dry towns, should be heeded.

Owing to the economic conditions in Nebraska two of the biggest implement firms are seeking space on the Nebraska state fair grounds. These companies did not show last year. Nebraska manufacturers of implements were on the ground in 1914 and will make a strong bid for trade this year. It is believed that the implement exhibit will be a great feature at the fair grounds September 6-11.

Henry Kellogg and wife are home from a visit with their sons near Verdel. Mr. K. reports that crop prospects there are splendid. A little too much water in a bunch two or three times, but it was too early to seriously damage small grain. Corn there is about the same as elsewhere, good, but a little late, so that it will require good weather from now on and a late frost to make a perfect crop of sound corn.

Shall Wayne Pave Streets?

Philip H. Kohl said: "I am in favor of both paving and electroliers, though the former appears to me to be the more important and urgent. I know of towns in southern Nebraska, not so rich nor so favorably situated and supported as Wayne, with paved streets and modern lighting. It will cost something to make these improvements, but they are necessary if we expect to place the business district of the city where it belongs. People like paved streets, which give special advantage during wet weather, and they will come out of their way to a town offering such advantage. I am especially anxious for paving, but will of course cordially support both proposed movements."

"As between paving and electroliers," says J. C. Nuss, "I much prefer the former and would back up my judgment with my full share of support."

"In regard to proposed paving and electroliers," said John T. Bressler, who is a large property owner in the business district, "I am heartily in favor of both enterprises, and will gladly pay my full share to have them accomplished. I think we should at least at this time pave Main street from the depot to the site of the old standpipe and side streets for a half block in the business district, paving is more important than ever, because people always prefer to go to a town whose streets are smooth and clean. And I would want paving that is smooth and free from bumps. It is unfortunate that improvements in the business district of Wayne have lagged behind those of the residence section and those of other towns of this class, and as I think more of Wayne than any other town in the world and am vitally interested in its future, I will do anything I can at any time to make it a more conspicuous and attractive center. As to better lighting through a system of electroliers, I shall give such enterprise due support. Another thing I want to mention is the importance of lighting the park, and I am pleased to know the city propose to take steps in that direction."

Ellis Girton says: "I am opposed to paving any small portion of the streets, but if all could be paved by tax would not oppose it."

I. W. Alter says to "Quote me as favoring paving for Wayne." Wm. Piepenstock would not be particularly anxious to pave at once, but believes it an improvement which should be in the not distant future, and will be ready when the majority think it time to move in the matter.

Herman Mildner would not oppose paving, but had not given the question much thought, and says he would "go with the majority." He thinks electroliers would be a fine improvement.

A letter from W. S. Goldie who owns a building on Main street, received about two months ago said that what Wayne needed now was paving and a modern system of street lighting.

J. H. Kate of Des Moines, former mayor of Wayne, who owns a corner lot on Main street, and who was here last week, expressed himself in favor of paving. "Start on a small scale, and paving will grow. Evidence of the advantage will be sufficient to stimulate extensions in the future."

ADD PAVING
Henry Ley: "While I am not at this time sufficiently conversant with the affairs of the city to know how extensive improvements can be judiciously made, I am in favor of paving and electroliers or any other worthy public enterprise that will raise the status of the city, and can be depended on to do my share in shouldering the cost."

Grant S. Mears: "I believe a town never looks like a city until it is paved, and I have observed that towns that start to pave are so well pleased with results that they soon make extensions and spread benefits certain to be derived from the enterprise. Yes, I am in favor of both paving and electroliers, handled, of course, in the most practical and economical manner."

F. H. Jones: "You can count me in favor of paving, electroliers and everything that will make the town more substantial and attractive, and keep it in the progressive column. I think Wayne has reached a point where it needs improvements consistent with its reputation for leadership."

John S. Lewis, Jr.: "As to paving, I don't believe we have arrived at a point where we can afford to do it. I don't believe the town is ready for it. However, if a majority favored it, I wouldn't oppose it."

P. L. Miller: "I don't think the city can afford to pave. It is now in debt all it can stand."

"Wayne has reached a point where it must either progress or deteriorate, and I am for progress," said A. R. Davis. "Besides supplying an actual need, paving is one of the distinguishing marks of a live town. To show that Wayne's business section without paving and without modern lighting is a joke only needs to be contrasted with many Iowa towns of less size and less consequence."

J. G. Mines: "While I was in Iowa recently I noticed that towns which showed up best were those that had electroliers and a paved business district. Of course I am in favor of both propositions."

Dr. E. S. Blair: "I would support electroliers without question. As to paving, I would want to know the probable cost before expressing myself definitely."

J. F. Wilson: "I am in favor of both paving and electroliers."

H. C. Henney: "I am willing to stand my share of expense to accomplish both paving and better lighting."

H. B. Jones: "I believe I express the feeling of the Citizens National Bank when I say we are heartily in favor of both paving and electroliers, and we will gladly carry our share of the burden of expense."

John S. Lewis, Jr.: "As to paving, I don't believe we have arrived at a point where we can afford to do it. I don't believe the town is ready for it. However, if a majority favored it, I wouldn't oppose it."

P. L. Miller: "I don't think the city can afford to pave. It is now in debt all it can stand."

"Wayne has reached a point where it must either progress or deteriorate, and I am for progress," said A. R. Davis. "Besides supplying an actual need, paving is one of the distinguishing marks of a live town. To show that Wayne's business section without paving and without modern lighting is a joke only needs to be contrasted with many Iowa towns of less size and less consequence."

J. G. Mines: "While I was in Iowa recently I noticed that towns which showed up best were those that had electroliers and a paved business district. Of course I am in favor of both propositions."

Dr. E. S. Blair: "I would support electroliers without question. As to paving, I would want to know the probable cost before expressing myself definitely."

Mrs. Emil Hansen is home from a visit with relatives in Iowa.

Prof. R. H. House, a former superintendent of the Ulysses schools, has been elected teacher in one of the schools in Denver, Colo., for the coming year, says the Butler County Press. He is a brother of Dr. J. T. House of the normal faculty.

Speaking of sweet clover, A. C. Dean in remarking on what he had seen in the Democrat about the plant said that he had put 30 acres of this soil know into the crop and is satisfied that it will be worth the while as a fertilizer if he got no other good from it. An examination of some of the plants shows that the roots are storing up nitrogen in great quantity. He plans to pasture it another year, and perhaps this fall. He sowed it with a nurse crop of oats.

In writing from Minneapolis, Minnesota, for a change of address for the Democrat, Carlisle Campbell writes the following: "Kindly change my address from Pine City to Barnum, Minn. I will teach agriculture and manual training here this year 1915-16. Before going to Barnum I will spend a few weeks in Fairview, Mont., where Mrs. C. and daughter have been visiting for some time. Minnesota is excellent in potatoes, small grain and hay this year, but it is too cold and wet for corn it seems."

The slightly belated condition of the corn crop this season might make a silo a valuable addition to one's farm buildings. Should an early frost catch the corn all that can be put into silage is worth much more for feed than any other way. Mr. . . . who was visiting here, tells us that the farmers of his state—Wisconsin—nearly all have silos on their farms and that the matter of an early frost is of small importance to them, for they expect to put their corn in silos when in a good hard roasting ear condition. An exchange tells us that the annual saving of the feed value of corn is enough to pay for a silo the first season. There is time enough yet—just about, for you to get a silo up and ready to get the best value from this year's corn crop.

A. E. Anderson from Lincoln took the train from Wayne Sunday after a visit at the home of his folks near Concord. Mr. Anderson is connected with the agricultural department of the university of the state, and was here several times last winter in connection with the farm demonstration work, and then there was a time or two when he was not here, nor were several others who planned to be here, the rail roads and wagon roads being snow blocked to such an extent that travel was impossible. He says that farm demonstration work is coming on nicely and good results are being shown where ever the counties have a demonstrator. He asked about the cause here, and stated that there is now and will be until fall at least, an excellent man who could be secured for Wayne county if they but organize and say so. The Democrat hopes to see the work of organization taken up and completed after harvest, for we believe that good comes from it. Perhaps the work would not have failed of success this season had the weather man been more quiet last winter.

Cleaned From Democrat's Exchanges

One of our exchanges tells how and what to eat to avoid sunstroke—it hardly seems necessary to apply the remedy this year.

At Coleridge they have established a rest room for ladies. They have long had one of those kind of places for the men who visit that place.

One of our exchanges in a news item regarding the church of the place says, as a partial vacation there will be no mid-week prayer meeting that week. The Devil—he don't take any vacation, we are told.

Saturday the 14th—that is this week, the 25th annual harvest picnic of Dixon county, at Dixon. O. E. Wood is the speaker. Base ball, auto hill climbing contest, races and minor sports will make it a happy day for all who attend.

Entries for the Better Babies Contest of the Nebraska State Fair close August 17. Horses and cattle entries also close on that date. The 2:50, 2:25 and 2:14 trots, 2:20, 2:16 and free-for-all paces with running derby and 3 year-old Nebraska bred all close on the 23rd. Rush your entries to Secretary W. R. Mellor, Lincoln, Neb.

There will be plenty of shade and cold water at the second annual fair of Dixon county, to be held at Concord September 1, 2, 3, says a bill advertising the event. Those are good things to have at a fair, and then on top of that there is to be stock and agricultural exhibits such as but few counties can duplicate. There will also be races, a ball game each day and a splendid band. Better fix the date in your mind.

Harry Koch of Omaha retained his laurels as state tennis champion in the singles last week by defeating Coach "Jumbo" Stiehm of the University of Nebraska in three straight sets. Koch gets a silver cup and Stiehm gets a silver cup for being runnerup. In the doubles Harry Ellis of Lincoln and Guy Davis of Lincoln carried off the honors by defeating McKillip and Geeson in three straight sets after the latter pair and succeeded in eliminating Clarke Powell and Harry Koch of Omaha in three thrilling sets in the semi-finals.

Secretary Whitten of the Lincoln Commercial Club has established a bureau for the convenience of Nebraska state fair visitors. All the available rooms in the city are listed with this bureau. The state fair patrons may call at the Commercial Club rooms, be assigned to quarters, pay for the accommodations and go to the location and find conditions exactly as represented. Under this plan there can be no increase in prices for fair week and no overcharge of visitors. Those who wish comfortable rooms at reasonable prices should communicate with Secretary Whitten at once.

At last Emerson is to have a new depot—or the old one enlarged and rebuilt like new. The railroad company is commencing work at that place and the improvement plans call for the expenditure of about $30,000 in railroad improvement at that place. About $12,000 is to be expended at and about the depot, and a new five-stall brick roundhouse is to be built also. Brick platforms will take the place of the wooden ones now in use there. A great many people change cars at Emerson in the course of a year, and the company certainly are entitled to provide for their comfort and convenience.

A Letter From Panama

The following excellent descriptive letter was written to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vibber by their friend R. H. Gowdy, who is one of the men who helps Uncle Sam in the navy, and who is on duty on the gunboat Annapolis, which has been in the vicinity of the Panama canal for considerable time. Mr. Gowdy is not much known here, but he was one of those wise yankees from Maine who had the good judgment to select a young lady who grew to womanhood at Wayne as his life partner, Artie O'Connell. Miss O'Connell was for a time head waiter at the Vibber cafe, and went west last fall and was united in marriage in November to Mr. Gowdy. As the letter implies, she is at San Francisco while her husband is away on a cruise.

We have just received glad tidings of great joy—the Annapolis will proceed to Acapulco, Mexico, where she will be relieved August 16th by the Yorktown. The Annapolis will coal from the collier Hector and proceed to San Diego, Cal., then to San Francisco.

This is the wireless message from Washington to-day and posted on the bulletin board. On or soon after September first I ought to be home again with Tieter, and this time I come home to stay, that is the joyous part of it all.

This is our second trip to Balboa on this southern cruise and perhaps right here a word of explanation will be in place.

Balboa is very little heard of in the States, in fact, to some it is entirely unknown, but down here it stands for a whole lot more than Panama. Balboa is an American city, the Pacific port of entrance to the Panama canal. What Balboa is to the Pacific side, Cristobal is to the Atlantic side. Balboa and Panama are adjacent cities, something on the same order of Omaha and Council Bluffs. But there is as much difference between the two as there is between day and night. Cristobal and Colon are situated approximately the same way. Cristobal is in the Canal Zone, and Colon is in the Republic of Panama, likewise Balboa and Panama.

No person who has never seen it can commence to realize what an enormous piece of work this canal is. Not only the canal itself, but the whole zone. The very air seems to breathe of the everlasting untiring American perseverance and determination, yet things run here so smoothly and with so little apparent effort that these mighty achievements seem little short of miracles wrought by the hand of God. From a tropical jungle saturated with typhoid, yellow fever, and every disease and affliction imaginable, mangrove swamp on one side, and rugged, almost impassable mountains on the other, a country practically uninhabitable, except perhaps to barbarians, Americans in ten years have changed to a clean sanitary and industrious strip of land ten miles wide and fifty miles long.

Here they have a railroad across the isthmus, the equal of the best in the States for comfort and service. There are about twenty-five towns and cities between here and Colon, all American in every sense of the word, with every modern comfort and convenience in the world. Here Americans are making their homes, and they are model homes too.

Balboa is the foremost of them all, here they have an administration building that would do credit to any state in the Union as a state capital. Here are all government offices, including the office of Governor Goethels, the man who built the Panama canal and is now governor of the canal zone. Here as fast as they can be built the canal employees are occupying the most modern of concrete buildings, rent free. The buildings are all alike each building containing four apartments of five and six rooms each with screened sleeping porches and everything for comfort. People of $10,000 salaries occupy the same kind in the states. The entire canal zone is run on a military basis, it is a military government. Everything is run and handled by the government, even the railroad, although the employees live a civilian life.

There are no stores here such as would be found in the States, one selling dry goods another groceries and so on. Instead there is a government commissary store where things can be bought by canal employees only, at cost price. And in this store can be bought anything from a needle to a threshing machine. There is one commissary store in each town and this commissary department supplies the entire population of the zone with groceries, meats, clothes and every necessity and luxury of life cheaper than they can be bought in the States.

The Panama canal commission operates a line of first-class steamships on a bi-weekly schedule between here and New York. Here in Balboa they are building a dry dock 1,000 feet long which will be the biggest on this coast and a coal-in station with a capacity of over 1,000,000 tons of coal. Just as an example of the magnitude of this thing, there is a hill here of solid rock 800 feet high and covering an area half the size of Wayne. They are cutting it away, merely because it is in the way. They expect to have the job done in three years.

The people here are banded together like one big family, there is no "society" nor poor and rich class. They have two places of gathering, the Y. M. C. A. on week days and both church and Y. M. C. A. on Sundays. This Y. M. C. A. is not such a radically religious organization as they are in the States, nor are they restricted to men. But everybody comes here. The Y. M. C. A. is the social center of each town. Here they have their ice cream parlors, reading rooms, library, gymnasium, bowling alleys, pool room, dance hall, moving picture theatre. This is the only theatre there is in the town, but they don't want more. Every Saturday night they have a social dance.

I went into the Balboa Y. M. C. A. and they insisted on my staying there and making it my home the entire time I was ashore which I did. They have a restaurant there where I ate my meals and all. One evening I was watching a basketball game in the gym; there little girls were cheering their big brothers. Mothers and other brothers were there too. After the game as I was on my way to the soda fountain I glanced into the lounging room and found it occupied by women with their sewing and men with their newspapers, and the kids of the whole community arguing over a game of checkers. Just like one big family. It is wonderful, this place, and so unlike anything I have ever seen. But the entire canal zone is a thing that is far ahead in some respects and equal in others to any port of the United States. The person that thinks the people down here are living in mud huts and eating tortillas and fryjoles, will experience an awful shock if he ever has occasion to come down here. He will immediately commence to figure how many years behind the times his own home town is. I can't begin to tell you all about this place, nor make you realize the enormity of this thing, one has to see it to appreciate it. All I can say is of all the places on earth I have ever seen this canal zone is the one place where I would like to live.

Seeing this canal makes a man proud that he is an American, when he thinks that France and England have both tried to dig it, and have failed. Lying in the marshes near where we are anchored, is some of the old discarded French machinery still. I have been across the isthmus to Colon and Cristobal and I wouldn't have missed the trip for anything in the world. I only wish Tieter could have seen it too. But at the Frisco exposition there is a miniature model of the Panama canal. I will take her to see that and I can show nearly all of it to her then.

We are moored just inside the Pacific entrance to the canal. From all appearances it is the mouth of a river. The first locks, the Miraflores, are about two miles inland and not visible from here. At Ancon, a suburb of Balboa there is one of the finest equipped hospitals in the world where canal zone employees are cared for free of charge, in fact all medical attendance is free to employees on the zone.

I have a little souvenir book here, I'm going to send you, but this book was made up some five years or so ago before the canal was completed and some of the pictures, particularly those of Balboa, look entirely different than it does today. The old city of Panama is not changed much except that it is a little more modernized, and it is surprising the number of people who speak English there, nearly everybody understands it, altho Spanish is the native tongue.

HIGH-TESTING CREAM

There Are Advantages for Both the Farmer and the Creamery in Handling This Kind

The average fat content of cream delivered to many creameries is approximately 25 percent. This means that, in some instances, the test is above and in others below this average. It is evident that many creamery managers, as well as many farmers, do not understand the loss involved in handling thin cream.

Cream testing 30 to 35 per cent is the most satisfactory to the farmer and to the creamery man. A comparison of low-testing with high-testing cream reveals, for the high-testing cream, these advantages:

(a) To the creamery man—
(1) Less bulk to handle, hence less labor, fewer churnings, smaller equipment and building.

(2) Less buttermilk, hence less loss of fat in buttermilk.

(3) Less cost to pasteurize, about one-half as much steam being required per 100 pounds of fat in 34 per cent cream as in 17 per cent; two-thirds as much in 33 per cent as in 22 per cent cream. In cooling the cream less water or brine is required for the handling of the same amount of fat when the cream is rich than when it is thin.

(4) In pasteurizing sour cream, the formation of large surd particles, with the attendant loss of butter fat, is avoided to a great extent if the cream contains more than 30 per cent fat.

(b) To the farmer—
(1) Less bulk to handle, hence fewer cans and smaller cooling tank required. Fifty pounds of 34 per cent cream and 100 pounds of 17 per cent cream both contain the same number of pounds of fat.

(2) Less bulk to cool, hence less ice or cold water required; quicker cooling, hence less deterioration. Cream spoils in a short time if not cooled quickly and held at a temperature below 50 degrees F.

(3) Less bulk to haul to creamery.

(4) Better keeping qualities of the cream. It is not the fat but the other solids in the cream which become sour and spoil. As thin cream contains more of these solids it sours sooner than thick cream.

(5) More skimmed milk kept on the farm. The farmer who delivers 100 pounds of fat in 17 per cent cream delivers 294 pounds of skimmed milk more than if he delivered 34 per cent cream. Unless the buttermilk is returned free this is a dead loss to him. At 25 cents a hundred pounds it amounts to nearly 75 cents or three-fourths of a cent on each pound of butter fat delivered.

Farmers sometimes offer the following objections to high-testing cream: (1) Thick cream may stick to the can and be a loss to the farmer; (2) improper samples may be taken because of insufficient mixing; (3) a high test is more likely to be cut than a low one. In a properly operated factory, however, these objections do not hold good, and the creamery man who would have his patrons deliver rich cream will manage the plant so efficiently that there will be no grounds upon which to base such objections.—Alliance Herald.

Eye Don't

Here are some good eye don'ts. Don't rub the eyes. Don't read while lying down. Don't sit facing the light when reading or writing. Don't paper your living rooms with red paper. Don't use red lamp shades. Don't try to read or write in twilight. Don't try to sew upon black goods by lamplight.

A Good Year to Built Silos

This year, of all years, is a good time for the farmer who feeds live stock to build a silo. There is prospect of much soft corn and that can be utilized best as silage. In fact, the silo is the only form of insurance that the farmer can command to protect himself against considerable corn loss in such a backward year as this.

As to the feeding value of silage there is no question. That has been demonstrated in numerous tests at the agricultural experiment station at Ames and on many Iowa farms. Beef cattle fattened with silage in the ration regularly show the largest profit, and dairy cows give best returns when fed silage. Twenty-four farmers in Clinton county reported on their silo experience an average annual profit per silo amounting to $360.48. These 24 farmers, through their silos, made a profit of from $25 to $30 per acre on the corn used above a price of 60 cents per bushel. The average profit on each ton of silage fed was nearly $2.50. Better than all this, in a year like the present, the farmer with a silo is sure to have good corn feed for his live stock; the man without is not.—Sioux City News.

ON the surface all high-grade wagons look about alike. But if you could size them all up before the paint goes on it would be a different story. You'd pick

Reische Seated On Normal Board

In the face of protests that it had no authority to pass on its own membership the state normal board Tuesday gently but firmly ousted Mr. J. R. Gettys from membership, recognized H. E. Reische, of Chadron, in his place, again elected Dan Morris president of the board and awarded a contract for the building of an auditorium at the Kearney state normal school.

Incidentally the board would not even give Mr. Gettys a chance to go to the governor's office and tender his resignation, which he offered to do. Incidentally the board turned down a score of bidders on heating and lighting apparatus for the Kearney auditorium. It permitted W. N. Crossley, a Kearney contractor, to amend his bid by saying it included light and heat, and refused to consider the many bids on light and heat, which it had asked in advertisements to be submitted separately. Mr. Crossley was given the contract for the building complete, with light and heat, his bid being $67,867.

The second election of Dan Morris of Kearney to the office of president in a measure re-affirmed that portion of the slate carved in the corner stone of the T. J. Majors building given by the state to the Peru state normal. The stone was laid July 4, after Mr. Morris had been elected president, an election that occurred at the last meeting of the board, but the stone contains the name of A. H. Viele as president.

Mr. Viele took the chair when the meeting was called to order and stated that as Mr. Morris had not signified his intention of serving as president, he thought it his duty to act as president. Mr. Morris sat silent. Mr. Majors arose and moved that the secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the board for Mr. Morris for president and the motion carried without comment.

Growth of Live Stock Industry

The growth of Nebraska as reflected by its great live stock market at Omaha reads like a "best seller" of fiction. Here's how it has grown within the memory of men yet young: In 1884 the receipts of live stock at South Omaha were such as to justify the belief in a great market in the future. Compare them with 1914, thirty years later:

Receipts 1884, cattle 88,603, hogs 3,686, sheep 5,593, horses 489.
Receipts 1914, cattle 938,817, hogs 2,258,620, sheep 3,118,889, horses 30,688.

During this thirty years the Omaha market has received and disposed of one hundred twenty million head of stock of all kinds. It has kept pace with the great territory for which it is the natural trade terminal, steadily passing its competitors until it is now the second largest live stock market in the world, being led only by Chicago.

The ten big packing plants at South Omaha manufacture and ship over 52,000 cars of products every year, valued at over $115,000,000. During this same period Nebraska has developed the largest creamery and butter business in the world at Omaha. From this industry nearly seven million dollars worth of finished products are sent to the world's market every year.

Obituary of Mrs. J. P. Conley

(By Her Pastor)
Mrs. Mandana King Conley was born in Boone county, Indiana, April 26, 1838, and died in Wayne, Nebraska, August 3, 1915, at the age of 77 years, 3 months and 7 days.

About three months ago, Mrs. Conley became very low and little hopes of her recovery was held, yet she rallied from this attack sufficiently to get around in the house. She got worse again and last Monday became unconscious and did not have sufficient strength to throw off death's grip. On Tuesday evening the spirit left its home of clay, to enter that higher mansion, not made with hands, eternal in the heaven.

When a young woman with her parents, she moved to Black Hawk county, Iowa, and in September 1857, was here married to John P. Conley. Of this union eleven children were born, ten of whom survive. The husband and father was taken away four years ago last February. Besides these of her home, she leaves two brothers, one sister and two half-brothers.

The family moved to Wayne county in April, 1884, and since that time have made their home here. Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Conley made her home with her daughter, Mrs. O. S. Roberts of Wayne.

Though frail and delicate in body, yet she was nearing the four score year period of life, when the summons came.

Mrs. Conley had been a Christian for many years and three years ago she was received into the Baptist church. Though unable to attend a great deal, yet she was a woman of quiet faith and strong confidence in her Saviour. During her weeks of illness her conversations constantly turned towards the Christian hope. She believed in the reality of the heavenly home, and had in her heart the abiding assurance that it would be hers, when she left earth's dwelling place.

She leaves to those who knew her best, the legacy of a good life, quiet, submissive and kind. Her going adds one more to that innumerable throng, who shall share the blessedness of that eternal Kingdom and who wait for the coming of those yet among us.

Weather Report

For Plains States and Upper Mississippi Valley: Fair weather for four or five days, probably followed by showers the last two or three days of the week. Moderate temperature.

Social Notes

In honor of Henry Lessnair's birthday a large number of his friends and relatives gathered at their pleasant country home Sunday at the invitation of his sons, and much to the surprise of this genial citizen. Ten or a dozen automobile loads came rolling in about three o'clock, and gave him their best wishes for long and prosperous life. The Logan Valley band, a neighborhood band, were there and furnished fine music. The visitors brought abundance for a fine picnic supper which all enjoyed. At the close of the evening the host served a lunch and all repaired to their homes. It was one of the most happy gatherings of the year.

The Chace, Philleo, Welsh and Jacobs families had a picnic supper in Bressler's grove last Tuesday afternoon. The young folks prepared the supper and invited older ones to join them. They roasted weinies and sweet potatoes and had a very fine supper. Afterwards they sat around the campfire and sang songs and had a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. Noakes entertained the Union Bible Study Circle Tuesday afternoon. After the lesson study led by Mrs. Young plans were made to petition Rev. W. A. Sunday to give Wayne a great noon meeting during the Omaha campaign which opens September 5th. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Goldsmith Tuesday afternoon. All are cordially welcome.

Dorothy Jones entertains ten little girls at a sleeping party this evening. A victrola will furnish the music. Dainty refreshments will be served before retiring and a delicious breakfast will be served at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

A few little girls met at the home of Edna Hanssen and organized the U. N. S. club. After the regular meeting was held the hour was spent in having a good time. It will meet next Wednesday at the home of Grace VanHorn.

Mrs. A. M. Jacobs entertains a number of young folks this evening in honor of Carl Kieser and Herbert Welsh. The evening hours will be devoted to auction bridge and delicious refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Shulteis entertained a few of her friends last Saturday afternoon. A two-course luncheon was served. The afternoon was spent in playing cards. Mrs. John Kate was an out-of-town guest.

Miss Margaret Heckert entertained her friends at a bridge party Monday afternoon and a delicious two-course luncheon was served.

Mrs. Jacobs entertains at auction bridge this evening, a number of young people in honor of Carl Kieser and Herbert Welsh.

Along Came Ruth

"When I lay down my dust cloth I can never find it again," complained Ruth's mother, "and when I do find it, it twists about in my hand so that I frequently find myself rubbing things with my bare palm instead of the cloth. It's a nuisance, that's what it is."

"Well, I saw Mrs. Jones doing a sensible thing along that line the other day," commented Ruth. "She had cut the legs off an old pair of Balbriggan drawers, had sewn up one end, slipped it over her hand, drawn it up over her sleeve to her elbow and held it in place with a rubber band. In this way she could not mislay it, nor would she find herself rubbing the furniture with her hand instead of the cloth. She also told me that she used the same sort of thing for cleaning the bath tub and I know it must have been fine for this purpose."

"Why? Ruth, that's a great idea!" answered her mother, "why didn't you tell me about it before. I'm going to try it right now!"

Kitchen Kinks

Vinegar should not be kept in a stone jar—the acid may affect the glazing and the vinegar become unwholesome. Glass jars are best.

If a rug is small enough to shake with both hands, always hold the rug at the middle at the sides and not at the ends; the fringe and corners will not fray or pull off.

Wash shelves with camphor water and then a little turpentine. Rub this up a ways above the shelf and danger of moths and roaches will be lessened.

Newspaper is a preventive from moths and each shelf should be covered with them placed across each end so as to cover ends as well as over top.

For lilac or purple wash goods vinegar has been found very successful in setting the colors—soak for an hour in tepid water, two gallons of water to one pint of vinegar, drain and wash in the usual way.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)
vacation visitors especially welcome at all the regular services of this church.

We are glad to announce that one of the visiting Baptist brethren will preach for us Sunday morning. Nearly twice as many were present at Sunday school last Sunday as were in attendance the corresponding Sunday a year ago.

Send the children to Junior Endeavor at 3 o'clock, sharp, on Sunday afternoon. They will be interested and come next time voluntarily.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society will hold their annual business meeting at the home of Mrs. J. C. Forbes, today. There will be a picnic supper.

Mr. Carl F. N. Clasen leads the mid-week prayer meeting this week. The topic next week will be: "The Blessing Upon Simple Faith". Remember the time, Wednesday, 8 to 9 p. m.

Dr. Frank E. Gamble has been asked to lead the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting at 6 o'clock next Sunday evening. This is to be an honorary members' meeting and you are invited to be present.

The fine union spirit manifested in the "union" vesper services is reassuring. One of the visiting delegates at the Baptist convention will be the preacher this coming Sunday evening.

A large number of new subscriptions were sent in to the Continent this week. Every church home should have a church paper. Only by reading a good church paper can we be well informed on the work of the Kingdom.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)
We were glad to have so many of the Methodist people at our morning service last Sunday. Come again.

Everything is shaping up nicely for the meeting tomorrow (Friday) afternoon of the Northeastern Nebraska association. The entertainment committee has made provision to have, as guests, in our homes, noble Christian men and women. It is not only good, but it is required of us to practice hospitality. The coming together of these earnest people to study and plan concerning their work, will be an uplift to our different churches, as well as to our community.

The following is the program for the various sessions of the association:

C. Peterson announces that his new Modern Shoe Repair Shop

Is open for work, and that the people are already showing their appreciation of a modern repair shop with a liberal patronage. The work can be so quickly done, returned to the owner so like new footwear that he feels that the suc- cess of the shop is assured.

You are invited to drop in and see the wheels go round while he makes an almost worthless shoe almost like new at a reasonable cost.

To the farmer community he asks that they leave their repair work at the shop when coming to town so that it may in most cases be ready to be taken home with them the same day.

He is located in the first room south of the Lewis harness shop, and asks that you give his work a trial.

Is especially well prepared to repair fine shoes.

 Eph Cunningham went to their ranch in Idaho last week, and word comes back from him that they are harvesting a fine crop of winter wheat, and that oats are showing well, and an abundant yield is as- sured.

Robert Skiles left Wednesday morning to look after the harvest- ing and threshing on his place near Vayland, South Dakota. He ex- pects to be absent a month at least. His absence will be noticeable by other members of the "horse shoe club" of which he is an honored member.

Mrs. J. M. Ross returned Wed- nesday from a visit of a month at the home of C. E. Persinger and wife, her daughter, at Fullerton, North Dakota. Just before coming home Mrs. Ross accompanied her daughter to Minneapolis where the little Persinger boy underwent a slight operation. His grandmother left him doing nicely.

J. M. Levine, who comes to Wayne as manager of the clothing stock of the Cleveland Woolen Mills, which is opening a stock in the building on lower Main street form- erly occupied by the Brunswick billiard hall, informs us that they locate in Wayne to remain, and will shortly add greatly to their open- ing stock so that when the time comes for fall and winter clothing to be sold they will have a full stock of all grades. In their advertise- ment elsewhere they announce that they compete with the mail order houses. The Democrat welcomes any worthy enterprise to Wayne which is calculated to make it a better trade center, any that will give better service to the community.

A short trip in this county shows that the harvest of small grain is well advanced, so far as the cutting is concerned. There is an im- mense crop of straw, and opinions vary as to the amount of grain con- tained therein. But few jobs have been threshed yet, and it will require a week yet to get a fair opinion of the yield. Some few fields that have been harvested show that there has been some loss from down grain, and doubtless there has been more loss from the im- perfect development of the grain which went down than from failure of the harvester to get it. Corn looks well in the majority of fields, and is fully two weeks late this season. Not more than one-third of the fields were in fairly full tassel the first of this week, but corn is wonderful stuff to push at this season of the year with proper weather conditions. Hay crop is heavy, but not all secured in prime condition. Pastures are heavy and there is no shortage of roughness. Cattle in the fields and horses too have a well-fed satisfied appear- ance. Late potato fields look well, bright and thrifty vines and many fields well in bloom.

J. H. Kate, wife and daughter left last Sunday for their home at Des Moines after a week of solid visit with their many Wayne friends. Mr. K. says that when he has made his fortune and is ready to retire he knows of no place he would prefer to call his home than Wayne. He would be most welcome here when that happy day comes or any old time, for he is a live wire in a community, and sees and appreciates the things which make for the good of a place. Wayne looked pretty good to him after a visit at Lincoln where they are making hay on the state house grounds and neglecting many parts of the city; and Holdrege where the weeds hold right of way, not to mention numerous other places through which they drove. While talking to the Democrat, he suggested a plan for the uplift of Wayne. We wondered if he was joking when he began. He said to have the commercial club hire a quarter page in the papers for a month and then use the space to educate the people on the way to make Wayne more beautiful. Since it is sug- gested that the paper space be bought, we will just outline the plan to see what you think of it. It was to plant flowers—have them in your yards at home, your place of business, put shelves on your win- dow sills, fill the shelves with flowers, have vines entwining about the electrolier posts and anywhere and everywhere have flowers. Make it contagious so that all will catch the disease—and do it as one should all good and big things—by the use of brains and printer's ink. Will some one please awaken the commercial club and read this aloud to them.

Rev. S. X. Cross and son Foy have gone to visit relatives at Cedar Falls, Iowa, this week, where the pastor is to officiate at the mar- riage of a brother who is forsaking the life of a bachelor to join the benedict's.

Word was received here the first of the week of the death of Rev. Buell's mother, which occurred at her home where she was ill, and had undergone an operation. Rev. and Mrs. Buell were at Lincoln when called to her bedside as she suddenly began to fail.

Death has claimed two men known well in this part of Ne- braska. Thos. S. Martin, a pioneer merchant of Sioux City, of pneu- monia Wednesday morning and Judge W. H. Munger of Omaha last night. Mr. Martin was but 63 years of age, Judge Munger 70.

Geo. E. Gardner, who has been working near Wayne for the past nine months, left this morning to visit his old home at Strawberry Point, Iowa, and there meet his sister who is there from the state of Washington visiting old home friends and relatives. He is un- decided whether or not he will re- turn to Wayne.

G. W. McVicker from Winfer, Pennsylvania, is here visiting at the home of his brother, D. S. McVicker. He finds this land very different from the home state, where coal mining is one of the great industries, and many factor- ies abound. He can now see where food—for these toilers may be grown, and there is also a field for much of their product to find market.

American Girl's View of Germany

The following account by one of four Nebraska ladies who but recently returned from a year in Switzerland, followed by a visit to Germany and France is most interesting. In the party were Misses Hermoine Hatfield and Dorothy Pettis of Lincoln and Eleanor Carpenter and Margaret Wright of Omaha.

In Monday's Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln, there is account of the young women's impressions of German affairs and German belief in relation to the war, the account being from an interview with Miss Hatfield by a representative of the Journal. From it the following is taken:

"The Germans show no bitterness toward America. They merely show unconcern. If the United States wants to go into the fight, all well and good. It will make little difference one way or another. America, the belligerent, would be no more harmful to the kaiser's cause than America, the neutral. Anything Uncle Sam may or may not do will have no effect on the final outcome. Germany is going to win. Perhaps not tomorrow, perhaps not next week nor next month, nor next year, but when peace is declared Germany will be on top and the allies will be at the bottom.

"America's attitude is inexplicable. The Germans cannot conceive of a people desirous of peace rather than of war. As for themselves, they want war and plenty of it. No compromises, no backsliding, no peace measures of any sort until the allies shall have been humbled."

The young women's tour of Germany included Freiburg, Muenich, Schwarzvald, Nurnburg, Dresden, Berlin, Cologne and down the Rhine to Heildelberg.

"Their arrival at Karlsruhe, Germany, on June 15, was three hours after a raid by French aeroplanes. Seven such machines appeared, and hovering over the city dropped numerous bombs. About thirty people were killed and a large number were wounded. Claiming that if the civilians had stayed indoors during the attack, the casualty list would not have been so large, the city authorities announced that in the future the people must get off the streets as soon as the warning whistle had been blown. At noon while the American girls were at lunch, they heard the whistle. Disregarding the instructions, they hurried into the street. They did not get a sight of the aeroplanes and did not hear of any further damage."

"At Berlin the effects of the war were scarcely noticeable. The restaurants and cafes were crowded, and the diners were as gay as ever. The prevailing prices, instead of being higher, as the girls had anticipated, were lower than usual—due, it was said, to the fact that the imperial government had taken a hand and was in active charge of everything. Three courses of meat were served, with no thought of the possibility of near-future scarceness in rations at the front.

"In marked contrast to the helter-skelter conditions in France, everything in Germany ran with a machine-like precision. Not only in the big cities, but in the rural districts as well, the whole system was worked out with startling results. Every bit of tillable land was in use. Vacant lots, long grown up to weeds, had been transformed into garden plots and small fields. Women and children by the hundreds were at work in the fields, and the crop already promised to be as much of a bumper as ever.

"In France on the other hand, no one worked, and no signs of thrift or industry were visible. Last year's crops were still standing, black and useless, where they had been at the outbreak of the war. Everything was bleak and dead. Even the harvesting machinery had been left to rot and rust in the fields. In going from Paris to Bordeaux, a trip lasting from early morning till late evening, the girls saw six men in the fields. All the rest evidently either had gone to war or were idling away their time in the towns and villages.

"In Germany the whole family goes to war. The wives and children follow their husbands to the camps and stay with them as long as the officers allow. Each day the trains are filled with women and children on their way to and from the camps and training stations.

"On one occasion the girls rode for some distance on a transport train full of soldiers. There was nothing unusual about the ride, and everything moved as smoothly as in times of peace. Sights of troops were common, but nowhere did the party get in personal touch with the conflict. Passports generally were honored after short delays, and little trouble was experienced in any of the warring countries. There was nothing to fear at any time.

"In talks with editors, doctors, lawyers and other persons in and around Berlin the members of the party were assured that Germany bears no ill will toward either America, Russia, France or Italy. The last named is beneath notice and the other three will be friends again as soon as the contest is over. But it is different with Great Britain. The Germans always will retain a certain bitterness for their neighbors across the channel. They may forgive, but they will never forget. Their hatred is deep-seated, and time will not wear it away.

"Nothing abroad is half so nice as America," said Miss Hatfield. "We liked France and Germany, and we were charmed with little Switzerland, but our own country never before looked so good to us when we sighted the statue of liberty. All the beauty of Europe cannot compare with the beauty of America."

From Congressional Record

Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner

After the paragraph providing for the purchase of the armor plate I offered the following amendment: "Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy shall not consider any bid for the supplying of the armor or armament herein provided for unless such bid is accompanied by a sworn list of stockholders and bondholders of the corporation submitting such bid, such list of stockholders and bondholder as to be taken from the books of said corporation as of date of July 1, 1914; And it is further provided, That such list of stockholders and bondholders shall be transmitted to Congress in a separate report by the Secretary of the Navy."

This amendment went to its grave on a point of order made by the chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee.

My purpose in offering the amendment was to ascertain the names of the shareholders of the war trust, the names of the men who profit from the manufacture of war munitions by private construction. Those who are advocating the taking of profit out of war and preparation for war by having all Army and Navy equipment manufactured in government plants can make a more intelligent fight if they know exactly who they are fighting. Until the identity of the stockholders of the war trust can be established, it might, perhaps, even though unpleasant, be logical to assume that those patriots who cry out in anguish every time the government manufacture of war munitions is mentioned have been struck in the region of the pocketbook, an exceedingly tender part of the anatomy.

Comparisons are odious, but in 1909 the Investors' Review of London examined the stock holders' lists of several British war-trafficking concerns and it found in the list of one company alone (Armstrong-Whitworth) the names of sixty noblemen, their wives, sons or daughters; fifteen baronets; twenty knights; eight members of Parliament; twenty military and navy officers; eight journalists.

Later lists revealed a marked connection between stock holding in armor and munition companies and active membership of "purely patriotic" organizations, such as the British Navy League.

In this country it is impossible to obtain lists of the stockholders in the war-trading concerns. The Stanley Steel investigating committee was unable to obtain them, and when I applied to our Federal Bureau of Corporation I found it did not possess them, and that there was some question as to whether the Bureau had the authority to attempt to obtain them.

Why not permit the public to know the identity of the patriots behind the War Trust?

Hints On Potato Seed Selection

(1) Good seed is a determining factor in the production of maximum crops of potatoes.

(2) Good seed may be obtained by the tuber-unit and hill-selection methods of selection through the elimination of unproductive and weak plants. These methods are explained in Farmers' Bulletin 533, "Good Seed Potatoes and How to Produce Them."

(3) Like produces like. If tubers from unproductive or weak plants are used, a similar harvest will be reaped.

(4) All tubers showing marked discoloration of the flesh should be rejected.

(5) Purity of seed stock is an essential quality of good seed. Serious losses are sustained by the grower through mixtures.

DOINGS AT THE STATE HOUSE

Taxes Reduced and More Accomplished With Less Money in Nebraska This Year Than Last. Efficient Administration

John W. McKissick, of Beatrice, has been appointed deputy inspector of weights and measures and has entered upon his duties. "Mac" was a member of the house in 1913 and was one of the daddies of House Roll 345, over which arose the University removal problem which was solved by the voters last fall.

The twelve trust companies reporting to Auditor Wm. H. Smith for the year ended June 30, 1915, show a prosperous condition of their affairs. They, combined, have capital and surplus as follows:

Capital.....	$1,605,412.50
Surplus.....	231,838.40
Total.....	$1,837,250.90

Collectively these twelve companies hold various trusts in the sum of $2,210,386.63, and owe $249,046.52 on bills payable. On the other hand these companies have resources, the principal items of which are as follows:

Bonds.....	$ 97,494.00
Mortgages.....	1,730,418.64
Stocks.....	341,819.20
Collateral Loans....	107,070.44
Real Estate.....	77,930.08
Warrants.....	88,159.19
Cash in banks.....	217,595.23

A $400,000 Saving

Except for adjustment of the levies against Douglas, Lancaster and Burt counties, the state board of equalization and assessment has completed its work of making the 1915 levy. The grand assessment roll for this year shows a two per cent increase in assessed valuation, but the levy is nearly 13 per cent lower than in 1914 with the net result that the state taxes for 1915 will be more than four hundred thousand dollars smaller than last year.

Primarily the people of Nebraska are interested in having an efficient government—an administration by men who do things, and do them well; but in addition to this, they prefer to have no more money spent in state business than is necessary to keep the service at its best.

Accordingly, Governor Morehead, Auditor Smith and Secretary of State Pool, after carefully estimating the needs of the state in supplying funds to cover the 1915 appropriations to be used this year, and acting as a quorum of the board of equalization and assessment, found it possible to cut down the total state levy one mill as compared with 1914. And they cut it down to 68 mills, in the face of considerable opposition. The tables following show in graphic form the main facts regarding the two levies:

1915 grand assessment roll.....	$481,376,092
1914 grand assessment roll.....	471,933,972
Increase over last year.....	$ 9,442,120
A 2 per cent increase.
1914 total state taxes levied.....	$3,681,085.03
1915 total state taxes levied.....	3,270,621.12
Decrease below last year.....	410,463.91
A 12.8 per cent decrease.

There are different methods of showing a saving in running the state government, but all will concede that every dollar cut off a tax

You can make a horse do more work by using a whip. But it doesn't pay. You might kill the horse.

Drugs have the same effect on the body that the whip does on the horse. Drugs will make certain organs do much more than they would otherwise do, but the result is sometimes fatal.

Is there a part of your body that can't do its duty without being forced by drugs?

Let me see if it is not because the nerve controlling that particular part is pinched by a misplaced bone in your spine.

It will not cost you anything to find out.

levy is a dollar surely saved. It cannot be spent if it is not taken out of the people's pockets. And this one act of the board shows better than many speeches where they stand on the questions of efficiency and economy. The levy will raise every dollar really necessary—and no more. That is surely enough!

Carroll Items

(From the Index)

A drinking tank for horses has been placed on the corner south of the livery barn.

Mrs. Robert Pritchard is at Lake Crystal, Minnesota, where she is visiting at the home of J. W. Jones.

Interest among the band boys is running high at this time. If it continues long enough Carroll will again have a band, and a good one, too.

Last Friday W. B. Hornby received his appointment as manager of the new Farmers Union Co-operative Association elevator. We believe the farmers have chosen wisely, and that Mr. Hornby will make a first class man for the place.

James Wollam and family experienced quite an exciting moment Sunday when returning home from church. The carriage tongue broke and the vehicle was overturned and for a few seconds they were all very busy trying to extricate themselves from the entanglements. Fortunately no one was seriously injured, although a few minor bruises were experienced.

Recently a little change was made in the mail service on this road. The Sunday papers now come up from Omaha on the Sunday evening freight and distributed early Monday morning, and the letters that used to come on the ten o'clock train Monday are now taken to Bloomfield on the Sunday evening freight and return Monday morning on the 7:45 train. It is a change that is gladly welcomed by patrons on this line.

Hoskins News

(From the Headlight)

Mrs. John Pofahl and two children arrived home Wednesday from Norfolk, where they attended the wedding of Ed. Pofahl.

Emil Marotz took his wife to Omaha on Monday of this week where she will undergo an operation at a hospital in that city.

The first threshing of the season in our locality was done by the Voss Bros. when they threshed for W. F. Eckert one day last week.

Miss Kate Armstrong, who keeps house for O. A. Richey, went to Norfolk Sunday forenoon to undergo an operation at the General hospital for tumor.

Pete Brumel was the first farmer in our locality this season who sold new oats at the Farmers Grain Co. The oats were of extra good quality and weighed very heavy.

This writer was informed that farmers living north of Hoskins are losing some of their hogs from cholera. Irven Porter and Mr. Hughes are among those who lost some of their porkers from the disease.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Kibler and daughter, Gretchen, were called to Leigh, Nebraska, Tuesday afternoon to be at the bedside of Mr. Kibler's mother who was reported to be very low. They made the trip in an auto.

Mrs. E. Schemel and three daughters, Francis, Lucile and Margaret and the Messrs. Elmer and Leo Machmueller went to the Elkhorn river near Pilger, in an auto Sunday morning where they spent the day out picnicing.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Rotter and two sons, Louie and Lyle, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilkin and baby returned home Friday afternoon from Peotone, Illinois, where they visited Mrs. Rottler's and Mr. Wilkin's mother and sisters the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Ruhlow and H. E. Ruhlow were summoned to Pierce, on Tuesday evening of this week to be at the bedside of Mrs. Wm. Ruhlow, who is very low. She is 84 years old. They returned home early Wednesday morning, leaving Grandma Ruhlow somewhat better.

The Postmaster went around on route two the forepart of last week on a motorcycle with the mail carrier and found some of the roads in very poor condition. Patrons who live along this route should see that the roads are kept in good condition. Otherwise a change will be recommended to the department on account of bad roads.

Rev. E. Franz and family left Tuesday of this week for their new home at Melbourne, Iowa, where Rev. Franz will be pastor of the German Reform church. Rev. Franz was pastor of the German Reform church three miles southwest of Hoskins for almost seven years, and has made many friends in our locality during the time he was here. His friends here wish him and his family happiness and prosperity in their new home.

The Sunday School Committee of the English M. E. church have secured the services of Rev. E. B. Young of Wayne, to preach on Sunday forenoon, August 15th, services to begin at 10:30 a. m. At this time we expect to organize a new Sunday school. Rev. Young is one of the state's Sunday school organizers. Good music will be provided. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and help organize a live school and elect officers.

The picnic of the German-American Alliance of America which meets at Omaha, September 28, will be an address on "The Farmer and a Merchant Marine" by Congressman Dan V. Stephens of Nebraska. This will be of special interest to farmers because of new trade conditions growing out of the European war. Senator G. M. Hitchcock will speak on the effect of recent banking and tariff legislation on the farming interest. A leading feature of the four day program will be consideration of the relations between local business interests and the farmer. Prominent business men of national reputation will present the view point of trade interests.

Small Grain Crop Will Break Record. The biggest wheat crop ever harvested at Sidney is now in full blast and many fields will run from thirty-five to forty-five bushels to the acre. Hands are scarce and the farmers begin work at 5 o'clock in the morning and remain in the field until 9 o'clock.

Deposits Fees.

Colonel Philip Ackerman, hotel commissioner, deposited with the state treasurer $1,776 fees collected in connection with the hotel commission.

Eight Paroles Granted.

The state pardon board held a short session and granted eight paroles. There were no applications for pardons or commutation of sentences.

Suggestions for Navy League

A navy league has been organized in Omaha at the request of a national organization, because the middle west has been backward in yelling for the expenditure of a few hundred million more dollars to increase our navy.

During the last couple of years the United States has spent as much as any other nation for naval purposes, with the possible exception of England. Thus we appropriated $140,000,000 in 1913-1914, as compared with Germany's $111,000,000 and with Japan's $46,500,000. But while we appropriated, we did not get nearly as much for our money as other nations.

Our suggestion is that the Omaha Navy league urge the United States congress to get better value for its money—and do it by having the United States government itself make all ships, armor and ammunition, instead of letting a few private contractors enjoy fat rakeoffs.

Such a policy would give several ships without additional appropriations. When congress meets in December there is every reason to believe that congressmen like Clyde Tavenner, Frank Buchanan and others will go to the bottom of this Navy League and show who and why.

The investigation will show that the J. P. Morgan interests ably interested by Mr. Herbert Satterlee as general counsel. Mr. Satterlee is a son-in-law and heir of Mr. Morgan. General Horace Porter is president of the league and at the same time a moving spirit in the Pullman company, another Morgan organization. Chas. D. Glover president of Washington the Wall Street mid-wife, is treasurer of the league.

This is the same Morgan interest which is charging our teutonic neighbors seven times as much for their long distance telephone and telegraph messages as they would have to pay in Germany or Austria and then taking those extortionate profits and loaning them to the countries at war with those nations.—Creighton Liberal.

Farmers Discuss Merchant Marine

A leading feature of the Farmers National Congress which meets at Omaha, September 28, will be an address on "The Farmer and a Merchant Marine" by Congressman Dan V. Stephens of Nebraska. This will be of special interest to farmers because of new trade conditions growing out of the European war. Senator G. M. Hitchcock will speak on the effect of recent banking and tariff legislation on the farming interest. A leading feature of the four day program will be consideration of the relations between local business interests and the farmer. Prominent business men of national reputation will present the view point of trade interests.

State House Watchman Touched.

W. H. Combs, the state house watchman, whom highwaymen held up in the state house one night last month and relieved of 28 cents, was not quite as lucky when he went out to Electric park to spend the evening. While getting in a car to return up town he was relieved of his pocketbook containing about $20.

Horses Are Shy.

While government reports credited Nebraska with 1,080,000 horses on Jan. 1, assessors were only able to find 910,000 head. There were 166,000 mules, or 9,000 more than a year ago. Custer is the leading horse county with 34,654, and Cherry county is second, with 33,280. Lancaster county has 17,450 and Douglas county 10,175.

STATE TREASURER OBDURATE

Food Commissioner on Sept. 1 Will Have Nothing to Pay Salaries.

Although the food commissioner has paid into the state treasury $97,000 more than the expenses of the office he is unable to get it out again for expenses of the department, because State Treasurer Hall has decreed that when the money drops through the slot it is as if it were a boy's bank which has no opening to get the pennies out without using a hammer.

The departments are using the hammer all right, but do not seem to be able to make much of an impression on the bank. Beginning with Sept. 1 the food department will have used up all its appropriation and as the legislature did not provide any way for the department to use its own funds, it will be up to the commissioner to discharge his force of inspectors and do away with the work of the food commission. This will mean that all the work of the last three years will have availed little. Notwithstanding the food commission has turned into the state treasury thousands of dollars more than its expenses, it cannot run under the ruling of the state treasurer.

FIGHT RAISE IN RATES

Farmers Object to Advance in Phone Charges at Syracuse and Elmwood.

The Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company is engaged in a rate raising campaign in two towns that is resulting in the usual protests among the farmers. The Germans are continuing their the patrons and causing talk and some action toward establishing independent lines. At Syracuse the company's endeavor is to increase the switchboard rates maintained with the farmers and mutual lines. The owners of the sub-license lines do not think an increase is justifiable. At Elmwood the company wants to rebuild its lines, changing over from the grounded system to the metallic system. The company has applied to the Nebraska state railway commission for permission to raise its rates to metallic rates, which are from 25 to 50 per cent higher than present grounded rates. A number of the Elmwood patrons have organized with the intention of starting an independent line.

HARMAN NOW IS PUBLISHER Food Commissioner Issues Paper Devoted to His Department.

State Food Commissioner Harman has entered the journalistic field and has begun the publication of the Nebraska Food and Dairy Journal. The paper will be a monthly publication and will be edited by the food commissioner himself. It is an eight-page, four column sheet, and is intended to be of assistance to the department in getting closer to the dairyman and the creameryman. In order to show that he is not ashamed of the first number, he has his picture at the head of the editorial columns.

Irrigation District Accepts Contract.

A Scottsbluff dispatch says the Farmers' Irrigation district by vote of 226 to 18, has adopted what is termed the "carriage contract," whereby the government acquires the right to one fifth of the capacity of the district's big canal. This is for the possible extension of federal irrigation of 2,000 acres north of Bridgeport using Pathfinder storage water. The practically unanimous vote is a strong factor in favor of the government taking over the system of the district on some such a basis as the twenty-year extension plan, the holders of the bonds—which is the old Tri-State Land company—being favorably inclined.

Aeronaut Jameson Falls 150 Feet.

A. C. Jameson, an aeronaut from Council Bluffs, was seriously injured while making an ascension at Eagle. He had risen 2,000 feet when he cut away his double parachute. His first descent was perfect, but when he cut away the second parachute it split, causing him to fall a distance of 150 feet to the ground. He was taken to a local hospital, where it was found several ribs were dislocated and his spine also injured.

Omaha Jitney Men Charge Bad Faith

Attorney Sutton, representing the jitney drivers of Omaha, declares City Solicitor Fleahy did not act in good faith when he allowed the jitney ordinance to be passed by the council. At a meeting of the jitney men in Mr. Sutton's office a proposal will be made to recall the city commissioners and also to recall the last jitney ordinance through the referendum, notwithstanding the emergency clause of the measure.

New Ferry In Operation.

A new ferry across the Missouri river at a point near Bellevue was put into operation last week. The work of stringing the wire across the river to check the force of the current was finished. Passengers may now come direct to the Nebraska shore at Bellevue.

Madison Woman Asks Divorce.

Mrs. Clara Vollbrecht began action in district court for divorce from her husband, Otto F. Vollbrecht. They were married at Madison in 1907 and have three children. Mrs. Vollbrecht in her petition charges cruelty. She also asks for the custody of the children.
