ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, APRIL 29, 1915

$1.50 PER YEAR

Christian Endeavor Convention

Delegates from many towns in District No. 1, Nebraska Christian Endeavor, to the number of about 60 are at Wayne this week attending the annual meeting of this organization. The following towns are represented by from one to ten delegates, Lyons, Wakefield, Tekamah, Friend, Allen, Bethel, Crete, Laurel, Randolph, West Point, Plainview, Coleridge and Ponca.

The program given last week is being quite closely followed, Rev. W. O. Harper leading the opening devotional exercises. Rev. Cross bade them welcome and responses were made by Revs. McCarthy and Seel. The response of the last named was quite interesting in view of the fact that he did not hear the address of welcome, making a bit of pleasantry that was enjoyed by all.

During the afternoon session a helpful conference was held, followed by a debate, and a paper from the Rev. Tudor of West Point, who was unable to be present. Miss Grace Hooper gave an interesting talk, telling of the growth of Endeavor societies and the development of the Junior into regular Endeavor societies.

The first evening session was given partly to entertainment, and Miss Elizabeth Mines and Joe Ringland gave a violin duet and Ralph Ingham gave an appropriate reading. Miss Edith White sang a solo. Mr. Price's lecture "Have Dominion", in which he showed man was God's masterpiece and each dawn given him new opportunities. The time to begin using these opportunities is in early life. An informal reception was held at which the delegates became more acquainted with one another. Charters and general plans were informally compared. Punch and wafers were served.

Wednesday morning the Quiet Hour led by Mr. Beith contained many helpful suggestions for private devotions and the importance of keeping the quiet hour, was appointed out as one of the essential things in Christian Endeavor efficiency and in the conference which followed it was shown how the observance of the "Quiet Hour" would solve the problems. Miss Hooper's talk showed how the Junior Endeavor trained the children for Christian Endeavor and general church work by teaching the children loyalty and leadership. She emphasized the importance of the pledge and the proper keeping of the pledge by the Juniors. Mr. Price was very beneficial. He used the blackboard and thereby showed the relation of the society's officers and committees to each other and the society.

Miss Helene Hildreth sang a solo "Hold Thou My Hand".

Wednesday afternoon, Miss Vida Leamer gave a lecture on missionary work and suggested each society would have something definite in view to give to, there being more interest in giving to missionary work when we know exactly what the results are. Mrs. Dr. Jones sang a solo.

Mr. Price spoke of the work of the state convention. The goal being 50 attendance from District 1, followed by an open discussion of the state convention, and an open question box.

Some Late News Notes

England is seeking to employ American mechanics to work in the English factories, and is said to be offering free transportation both ways across the big pond.

It is reported that the Germans have contracted for a four-year supply of food. That does not look like early peace unless the other fellows quit.

The International Womens' Peace Congress is in session at the Hague. More than forty women from this country are there as delegates.

The school for the deaf at Omaha was discovered on fire at an early hour yesterday morning and but for the prompt work of the boys' fire fighting apparatus the building might have burned. The boys had drilled in the work of handling the hose, and did such good work that the fire was under control before the city firemen arrived.

W. S. Witte of Stanton had an arm broken by being struck by a passing train Tuesday. He had been walking the track and did not hear the approaching train.

Three New Dwellings for Wayne

Work begins on no less than three new dwellings here this week. Wm. H. Gildersleeve has completed the purchase of a building site two blocks west of Main street, securing a part from Wm. H. Weber and a part from John Sherbahn. He will build a fine modern home, we are told.

Mrs. Mary Pryor has commenced work on a neat cottage for a home for herself and daughter on the corner east of the opera house. This is to be a small modern home, we are told.

Geo. Fortner has sold his house and is having it hauled to the back part of his lot in the north part of town to make room for a modern cottage on which work is to begin at once. Burret Wright has bought the old house and will move it to a lot of his as soon as the new Fortner home is finished so that he can occupy it.

Wayne is growing every week, and a dozen good houses would find tenants here now if they were here.

Reading the above over makes the Democrat man ashamed of the place in one particular. He has been in Wayne for more than four years, and the above descriptions of the locations of these new houses were about as accurate as he could make them without going to some dark corner in the office of some real-estate man and looking up an old map to get the names of streets, and had we got them and used them we doubt if one reader in ten would have been able to have told where the new houses would be.

Is it not time to have the names and numbers of the streets put up where they may be seen, so that in directing a stranger one does not have to say, "see that stand pipe? Well, go up to within a block of it and then turn east and go two blocks, and then two blocks north and it is somewhere in that neighborhood that he lives." We should have a system so that people may know the town in which they live.

A Small Fire and Soon Out

The firemen were called to the house on West 1st street belonging to Mrs. Wm. Blecke, Wednesday at about ten o'clock to put out a fire. The origin of the fire is hard to determine. It appears to have started in a closet or bed room judging from where the fire was hottest. The house is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bonewitz, and no one was at home when neighbors saw the smoke coming from the house and gave the alarm. Mrs. B. had gone out for a short time, leaving an oil stove burning in the kitchen, but that does not appear to have been the cause of the fire.

The loss is estimated at about $150 on the contents, clothing and bedding having suffered worse. The damage to the building was about $100, and both losses are covered by insurance.

The fire was controlled by the use of the chemical engine and a few buckets of water, and the hose was not used.

The Car Turned Turtle

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hanssen went to Randolph to visit friends and he to look after business matters. Sunday Mr. Hanssen and Geo. Kinkaid from Randolph drove to Pierce and were caught by rain before reaching Randolph again. While on a clay hill between the two places the car skidded on the slippery clay and landed upside down before it stopped, catching both men beneath it, but fortunately not injuring either one. Mr. Hanssen managed to get from under the car without aid, and then got his companion out. They were traveling at very slow pace else there might have been a different story to tell.

McQuiston-Hanson

At the county court house, by Judge James Britton, April 27, 1915, Mr. John R. McQuiston and Miss Gertrude Hanson were united in marriage. These young people are from Leslie precinct, where they will continue to make their home, he being an industrious young farmer. Their many friends will extend hearty congratulations. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Quiston and the bride daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson. They were accompanied to Wayne by R. McQuiston and Miss Hayman, who witnessed the ceremony.

A Pioneer Visits Wayne

Frank Puls and wife, who live south of Hoskins, but over the county line in Stanton county, were here Monday spending the afternoon with friends of other days. They had driven to Belden in their car and were caught by the rain, and as he had to be home to attend to some matters of business, such as shipping a car or two of cattle from his farm to market, they returned by train. Mr. Puls said that he was born across the water and grew to manhood there, spending much of his time in some parts of the country now torn by warring nations, where he learned the trade of brickmaker, an art which he practiced here in an early day, making brick for some of his buildings when building material was pretty hard to get in Nebraska. It will soon be 47 years since he settled on the farm where he now lives, and had to go by ox team to Sioux City for all of his supplies. While waiting for the train he told of one of his trips made in the fall when there was no house on his trail after leaving a ranch house near where Wakefield now is, until he reached his home, and how he made the trip of more than 35 miles in a day with oxen, which was a big day travel for that kind of a team. He has prospered, and now owns much of this good land. He is getting along in years, but appears hale and hearty, and expects to continue to enjoy life in the home he has made from the wilderness.

Mrs. Crossland National Delegate

This week Mrs. Geo. Crossland of this place received from Governor Morehead an appointment as a delegate to represent Nebraska at Baltimore, Maryland, at the National Conference of Charities and Correction May 12 to 19, and is planning to attend the meeting. Mrs. Crossland was a member of the Nebraska conference, representing this part of the state in the meeting at Omaha a year or more ago, and at that time she presented a strong paper at the conference which called forth much favorable comment because of its practical application to everyday conditions. We are glad that the Governor has seen fit to recognize her peculiar talent for this line of work, and feel that Nebraska will be well represented in this great work. She hopes that her son, Will, who is at St. Joseph, Missouri, aiding in a work which comes in close touch with the good work hoped to be done by the conference of charities and corrections, will be able to accompany her for the meetings.

Mulvey-Baker

A quiet wedding took place at St. Mary's Catholic church, Wednesday morning, April 28 at 6:30, where Miss Margaret Baker and James Mulvey were united in holy matrimony.

Miss Helena Baker, sister of the bride, acted as bride's maid and John Massie, as best man.

The bride wore a blue traveling suit and the groom wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony a delicious two-course breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Emma Baker.

The young couple departed on the morning train mid showers of rice to their new home in Winner, South Dakota.

Both bride and groom are well known to many Wayne people. The bride grew to womanhood here and has a large circle of friends, while the groom, who came from Illinois, has made Wayne his home for several years past, and both have the best wishes of all for a happy life.

Crop and Weather Report

Lincoln, April 27:—The week was warm, the temperature averaging 9 degrees above the normal. In most of the state the rainfall was heavy, exceeding two inches in many western counties and exceeding one inch generally, except in the extreme eastern counties where in places less than  $\frac{1}{4}$  inch fell. While work was retarded some by the rain, in general good progress was made. The oats are mostly sown and early sown are up nicely. Alfalfa, winter wheat, and grass have grown rapidly. In places in the southwestern counties the stand of winter wheat is thin, due to dry weather last fall. Fruit trees are full of blossoms. Plowing for corn is in progress.

Social Notes

The Minerva club met Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Huse. The address of the evening was delivered by Professor Charles H. Bright and dealt with the policy of this country in the Philippines. Professor Bright had been to the pains to link up his thoughts and the incidents of his life in the Islands with the principles of social psychology as treated by Professor Ross in the volume that the Minerva club has been studying the past year. He showed that the American government had been successful in its dealing with the natives because it has followed the fundamental principles that lie at the base of the life of these people. Thus, the Philippine natives imitate the Americans and adopt their suggestions because they admire them, the conquering group. On the other hand in some things the Americans imitate the Islanders. So successful has been the policy of this country that the Dutch and the British have taken over some of the methods of the Americans in colonial dealings. Professor Bright said with a good deal of feeling that the American people have in their educational policy toward the Philippines given the world the greatest exhibition of altruism that history reveals. Professor Bright believes that under proper guarantees the Islands should become self-governing, but he is distinctly of the opinion that the time is not yet ripe for the inauguration of such policy. Rather a generation must pass allowing old feuds to die out before the new republic will be ready for the task of self-government. The music of the evening was a piano duet by Miss Durrie and Miss Garlow and several numbers by the Normal school quartette. The music was very much enjoyed by all. At the close of the program dainty refreshments were served by the club committee, Mesdames Huse, Lutgen, Rennick, Roe, Beaman and Keckley. The invited guests were Misses Charlotte White, McNeill, Stocking, Durrie, Garlow, Mesdames Kohl, Mines, Phillips, Crossland; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blair, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Neely, Mr. Elmer Rogers and the Minerva husbands.

The members of the Acme club and their husbands enjoyed the annual picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bressler last Monday. The guests, as they arrived found the parlors closed and an air of mystery pervading the place but at the appointed hour partners were selected by matching cut pictures and every one was told to follow the leader. The guests were led out the front door to the rear of the house, down the cellar stairs through several basements to the one in the front of the house. Here the tables were spread and attractive they were with apple and plum blossoms. The hostesses were assisted in serving an exceedingly appetizing dinner by Dorothy Bressler, Alice Blair and Dorothy Ellis. Returning to the upper part of the house the parlors were thrown open, where everything was arranged for the evening's program. These rooms were also decorated with apple blossoms. Pleasing solos were rendered by Mrs. Ingham, Mrs. Blair and Prof. Davies. Mrs. Bressler gave an interesting talk on a trip through the Yellowstone Park, Prof. Britell throwing the pictures upon the screen. One picture shown was that of Mrs. Hannah Crawford a charter member of the club. Music and games made the evening pass all too quickly and at a late hour the guests departed feeling that the picnic had been a great success and a fitting close for the year's work. The special guests were Mrs. Harker, Mr. and Mrs. Von Seggern. The ladies having the affair in charge were: Mesdames Bressler, Blair, Crawford, Carhart, Ellis, Wilson and Williams.

Friday evening the members of the Monday club and their husbands gave a farewell party at the home of Mrs. Agnes Kiplinger, in honor of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Zoll. The house was arranged to represent a district school-room, and all the guests came dressed as school children. Mrs. Charles Beebe, of Wakefield, acted as school-mistress, and proved a very efficient and "crabby" one. When she rang the school bell, all the guests took their seats in the school room and a program of recitations and songs by the supposed school children was given. Anson Welch was a typical bad boy and utterly disregarded the law of the school room. Cheny Chace recited an original poem composed especially for the occasion, and which was much appreciated by the other scholars. The guests left at a late hour, all convinced that second childhood is more childish than the first. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Chace, of Stanton, Nebraska, were out of town guests.

The Acme club entertained the lady teachers of the Normal and the wives of the professors at a kensington Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hamer Wilson. The living room was prettily decorated with pink snapdragons and apple blossoms and in the dining room the apple blossoms were combined with sweet peas. The hours were spent in general sociability after which a dainty two-course luncheon was served. The out of town guests were, Mrs. J. A. Piper and Mrs. W. A. Sellick of Lincoln. The Wayne ladies invited were Mesdames Conn, Hahn, House, Lewis, Bright, Hickman, Lackey, Hunter, Ringland, Mellor and the Misses Piper, Killen, Hancock, Jewell, Anthony, Fairchild, Beechel, Stocking, Luers, Woosley and Sellick.

Mrs. U. S. Conn and Miss Elsie Ford Piper are entertaining a number of about eighty ladies this afternoon at the home of the former at kensington in honor of Mrs. J. A. Piper and Mrs. W. A. Sellick of Lincoln. The ladies will be entertained during the afternoon by a reading from Mrs. C. U. Keckley, and a number of solos by Miss Grace Adams. Miss Mary Hicks served punch in the upper hall. Refreshments will be served, the color scheme of pink and white being carried out. Those assisting with the serving are, Mrs. Anna Daer, Nan Hehtan, Alice Sabin, Grace Hedglin. The house is decorated in apple blossoms and sweet peas. Mrs. C. A. Chace introduced the guests to Mrs. Piper and Mrs. Sellick.

The Girls Bible Circle met last Saturday evening with Miss Florence Gardner. Eighteen delegates from Thurston circle were present, making the attendance about fifty. An address of welcome was given by Miss Elsie Gilbert. Response by Mrs. Beeber of Thurston. The lesson study was led by Miss Ella Benshoof. Special music was rendered by Miss Emma Abbott, also Mrs. Earl Lewis. After the meeting dainty refreshments were served by the Wayne girls. The Circle meets next Saturday evening with Miss Mae Hiscoc.

The Bible Study Circle met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. P. Gossard. The attendance was good considering the bad weather. Mr. Dietrick led the lesson and many beautiful thoughts were brought out, and made plain to us. Next Tuesday the meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. B. Young. Let us make an extra effort to be at this meeting. Everybody is invited to come.

Mrs. Charles Shulteis was hostess at a pretty little kensington Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Walter Norris of Hastings and Mrs. Stanley Huffman of Elgin. The house was beautifully decorated in white and green. The hostess served a delicious two course luncheon. The guests were Mrs. Stanley Huffman of Elgin, Mrs. Walter Norris of Hastings, Mesdames Jones, Ahern, Mellor, Shulteis, Morgan, Cunningham, Misses Helen McNeal, Welsh, Hahn and Harris.

The Early Hour club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher last Friday evening. The evening was spent in playing cards, the men being pitted against the women, and winning. A 6:30 dinner was served, and Mrs. Henry Ley responded to a toast, "The Difference Between a Good Husband and a Bad One". The decorations and place cards were sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Theobald and Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham were guests of the club.

On Monday evening, April 26, a party of young ladies surprised Margaret Baker at her home with a miscellaneous shower. Many beautiful gifts were received. The evening was spent in playing games and music. A delicious luncheon was served after which the guests departed, reporting a most enjoyable evening.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Hahn Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hahn read a splendid article on "Interstate Commerce Commission". Mrs. Johnson read a paper on "Historic Ruins." The next meeting will be with Mrs. Beebe at Wakefield.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Theobald were hosts at a Sunday dinner, having as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Chace of Stanton, Dr. and Mrs. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chace.

A new dentist is to locate at Wayne early next month. Dr. C. A. McMasters, who has been practicing dentistry at Pawnee City for the past five years will move to Wayne and be associated with Dr. J. G. Green at his dental parlors, thus assuring his patrons prompt service.

Just now the busy man with a large lawn to mow is wondering whether or not he should run the mower Sunday while his neighbors are out joy riding or get out in the morning twilight and disturb their morning nap. It is apt to cause unfavorable comment either way, and if the lawn is neglected you get the name of being lazy.

For information of those who are curious to know why the street lights were burning last Thursday afternoon the Democrat is requested to say that City Clerk Cherry spent most of the afternoon looking for a "bug", which is the term applied to the place where electric wires are crossed, thus short-circuiting one set of wires with another. The little spot was found before dark and the street lights could then be shut off.

Dick Russell from Meadow Grove was a visitor at Wayne last week, looking after some city property which he still hangs onto in this good town of Wayne. He was one of the pioneer settlers of this county, and we are told that he still holds title to the farm land he settled on when first coming to the county, and the opinion was expressed that he might return to make Wayne his home in the not far distant future. But that was but a matter of opinion.

Here is the republican platform advocated by the Marion, Iowa, Register: "It should be written in the republican platform of 1916 that the party is in favor of—adequate protection; protection that will start every idle factory and furnish employment to every earner, and let it go at that." That is a beautiful sentiment—but the Register does not say how high that high enough should be. If it is a high tax that is to bring about the above results it will have to be higher than any yet have been, for at no time in the history of a protective tariff has such a condition as that asked for prevailed.

James McIntosh went to Sioux City Monday night with a car of fine red hogs from his feed lot. It is an interesting sight to see $1,200 to $1,500 worth of farm product taking itself to market as this bunch of porkers was doing Monday evening. To be sure that is not all profit this year, but we believe that there is more net money in it for the farmer to market his grain in cattle, horses, hogs, sheep, milk or butter than to sell the grain for shipment. The per cent age of freight is far less and there should be some margin in manufacturing meat from grain more than the meat trust demands.

During the past week the editor has had a little time to visit with different citizens, and without trying to lead the conversation in any line, but just listening to others talk he finds that there is a desire on the part of some for the organization of a building and loan association. Two different business men have said that they secured their nest egg with which to start in business from savings made while working on a salary and investing their spare change in building and loan stock. Another told of the condition in neighboring towns, where many of those on a salary were paying for homes through a building and loan—it costing them but little more per month than rent would have cost, and eventually they have a place of their own.

This was not only a help to the people, but it aided in the upbuild of the place and tended to make permanent citizens out of what otherwise would become a floating population. And that feature is a great help to a place. Merchants who indulge in the least bit of credit business nearly always lose from the class of floaters who rent their dwelling house and are here one month and in some other place the next.

Another man told of the need of a modern hotel and the benefit it would be or should be to Wayne, and several traveling men said that the hotel business of the place would easily double with a strictly modern hotel building here properly conducted. That it is only when they cannot help it that the average traveling man will sleep in a frame hotel building—they have a fear of fire, and they do not want to singe before their time comes.

Paved streets, pole lines in the alleys with a fine string of electroliers was the dream of another citizen or two who believe in being modern in every way, and think that such a public improvement would add to Wayne's prestige in this corner of Nebraska.

Another good citizen had noted the lack of enterprise on the part of some one in not starting a small green house, growing not only a few flowers, but early vegetables, and the plants are shipped in each spring, as well as conduct a regular truck garden and supply vegetables during the entire season. Much of this latter class of stuff is purchased each season from a gardener who makes a drive of ten miles to sell his daily load here.

Death of Mrs. Jesse H. McMath

The Democrat has received from Portsmouth, Iowa, a letter containing the following obituary of Marguerite Ann Dornberger, who grew to womanhood at Wayne, and was at one time a compositor at this office. She was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dornberger well known at this place. The obituary follows: Marguerite Ann Dornberger was born in Frankfurt, Germany, July 31, 1886, and died in the St. Joseph's hospital in Omaha, April 10, 1915, of heart and stomach trouble following an operation for rupture. She came with her parents to America when one year old. They located at Wayne, Nebraska, where she grew to womanhood, receiving her education in the Wayne schools, finishing at the State Normal college. Securing a position as a compositor in one of the newspaper offices, she held this position until her marriage to Jesse H. McMath, July 5, 1906, at Harlan, Iowa. God blessed this union with five children, four boys and one girl, the two older being twins Jay and Jessie, a boy and girl of seven years, Dean, Russell and baby Donald, one and one-half year old. Mrs. McMath's death leaves the husband with five motherless children to mourn her loss, together with a father, one brother and eight sisters. Five sisters and the brother were present at the funeral, which was held at the Harris Grove M. E. church, conducted by the pastor, E. W. Bates. When a girl Mrs. McMath was baptized and confirmed into the Lutheran church, living and dying in this faith.

We lay her body to rest in the grave, believing that her Savior and ours, laid in the grave for us and in the morning of the resurrection she shall walk forth from the grave victorious over death.

A beloved companion, an indulgent mother, a kind neighbor, a true friend, has been called from among us and awaits our coming, let us so live that we can meet again and clasp glad hands where separation never comes.

Elvia Johnson, who was formerly in business here, was visiting friends here Sunday, coming from Spencer, Iowa, where he moved from this place about a year ago. He is much in love with Spencer and Spencer enterprise. Says they are a live, growing and progressive city—and that they are putting up the cash when needed to include industries to locate there.

Death of Mrs. Jesse H. McMath

The Democrat has received from Portsmouth, Iowa, a letter containing the following obituary of Marguerite Ann Dornberger, who grew to womanhood at Wayne, and was at one time a compositor at this office. She was daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Dornberger well known at this place. The obituary follows: Marguerite Ann Dornberger was born in Frankfurt, Germany, July 31, 1886, and died in the St. Joseph's hospital in Omaha, April 10, 1915, of heart and stomach trouble following an operation for rupture. She came with her parents to America when one year old. They located at Wayne, Nebraska, where she grew to womanhood, receiving her education in the Wayne schools, finishing at the State Normal college. Securing a position as a compositor in one of the newspaper offices, she held this position until her marriage to Jesse H. McMath, July 5, 1906, at Harlan, Iowa. God blessed this union with five children, four boys and one girl, the two older being twins Jay and Jessie, a boy and girl of seven years, Dean, Russell and baby Donald, one and one-half year old. Mrs. McMath's death leaves the husband with five motherless children to mourn her loss, together with a father, one brother and eight sisters. Five sisters and the brother were present at the funeral, which was held at the Harris Grove M. E. church, conducted by the pastor, E. W. Bates. When a girl Mrs. McMath was baptized and confirmed into the Lutheran church, living and dying in this faith.

We lay her body to rest in the grave, believing that her Savior and ours, laid in the grave for us and in the morning of the resurrection she shall walk forth from the grave victorious over death.

A beloved companion, an indulgent mother, a kind neighbor, a true friend, has been called from among us and awaits our coming, let us so live that we can meet again and clasp glad hands where separation never comes.

Elvia Johnson, who was formerly in business here, was visiting friends here Sunday, coming from Spencer, Iowa, where he moved from this place about a year ago. He is much in love with Spencer and Spencer enterprise. Says they are a live, growing and progressive city—and that they are putting up the cash when needed to include industries to locate there.

Creighton Liberal:
The Pierce Call whines because the strong democratic county of Cuming has been added to this Judicial district. The Call is advised to put its foot on the soft pedal on that partisan stuff. The present incumbent Judge Welch enjoys a splendid relation with the democrats of this district and if Governor Morehead makes a wise appointment there is no need for any partisan clamor. Let us forget this partisan antagonism and elect one judge from each party.

Our republican friends, of high tariff fame are sorely beset to explain why wool should touch a high water mark under a democratic administration. The democrats knew that it made very little difference about the tariff that those manufacturers would buy the wool as cheaply as possible and then if labor was higher here than in Europe they would bring the European labor over here. What those fellows wanted the tariff for was to monopolize the home market and keep out any kind of competition.

Humphrey Democrat:
Did you ever take a jaunt up through the alleys of this beautiful little city. You can tell more about the inhabitants of a town by a trip through the back alleys than many persons imagine. Some of the back yards are neat as pins, while others would put an old brush fence hog lot to shame. We are glad to say that the latter are few and far between. Backyards reflect the character of the owners. Sometimes the front yard will be bubbling over with flower beds and posies and the back yard will be chiefly slop barrels, scrap iron and brick bats. You can guess what kind of people live there. Sometimes both front and back yards correspond and are wrecks alike. You can easily place the owners. Sometimes both front and back yards show the utmost care and attention and it is hard to tell which is the cleaner. You have no trouble in classifying the people who live here. If either the front or back yard must be neglected, friends, let it be the front one. Don't try to present a Queen Ann front with a Mary Anna back. An ill-kept back yard is dangerous and a menace to good health.

Cedar County News:
One of the many growing evils of this country today is the city department store. Here, in Hartington, where we have the best of stores, the most honorable merchants, and where goods are sold at a margin so small as to afford a respectable living to our business men, thousands of dollars are annually sent to the department stores of our great cities. There is neither economy or honor in such a manner of doing business. You can write it down in your hat that, as a rule, the city department store is a swindle. There is not a business man in this city who will not duplicate their prices for the same quality of goods, and he who turns down his home merchant to patronize these concerns is far from being a loyal, patriotic and good citizen.

We have just been thinking about present day "hobbies" and they create within us a longing for the return of the good old days of our forefathers; days when calloused hands warmly clasped each other and kid gloves were unknown; days when at eventide the family gathered at the old place and enjoyed the pleasures of home. How different now. Take the average family today and the servant girl is usually the only one home after the evening meal. The father has gone to lodge, the mother to her club, Jane's to the music circle, Kate to the card party, Robert has gone down town for a game of "buck euchre", Peter to the reading room. Verily, we live in a progressive age.

Hartington Herald:
The longer one lives, the more one is convinced that the life of the office, the store, the shop, the kitchen or any other form of in-door life which cramps the body or mind is essentially wrong and that men and women will never come into their own until they throw off these shackles of a perverted civilization and enter into the glorious freedom of the great out-of-doors where God intended them to spend at least a part of their time. People who spend their lives shut up in the stifling atmosphere of an office or a shop becomes accustomed to it that they do not realize, except in a vague sort of way, what they are missing, but, when they do tear themselves loose for a time, the knowledge of it all comes upon them like a revelation and then they realize that the artificial life they have been leading is essentially and fundamentally wrong, and that, in order to attain a normal life, a thorough-going reconstruction would be necessary. There are only a few things which are really essential to happiness and these few things are not to be attained along the beaten track of modern civilization. They are to be found only when one is freed from hampering and artificial conventionalities, when one allows himself to breathe deep and to think true in the big out-of-doors, when one communes with nature on the one hand and fellowships with his fellow men on the other and when one lives the simple, honest, carefree, primeval life which he was intended to live. Then only, do men and women realize the fundamental meaning of life and revel in that liberty of mind and body which is their birthright.

Campers and Horse Traders
This vicinity, as well as others, has been troubled considerably in the past with campers, and that you may know how to govern yourself in the future in handling these campers and horsetraders, we publish the following bit of advice:
"The statute provides that it shall be unlawful for any person to camp continuously upon any public highway in this state, for a period longer than 20 hours, without obtaining the consent of the occupants of the adjoining land on both sides of the highway. It is also unlawful to camp upon any public highway within forty rods of any dwelling house, school house, or church, without having first obtained permission from occupants of the dwelling house, the school board, or the church trustees, and it is unlawful for any person to camp at two places within a radius of five miles upon any public highway in this state, within a period of thirty days. Any person violating the provisions of the statute shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction, be fined not less than $5.00 nor more than $25.00, or be confined in the county jail for a period not exceeding ten days." — Winside Tribune.

The agricultural department has compiled some interesting figures in regard to farm products in these great middle-west states, and from it we obtain the figures used here. The per capita crop value of the four leading crops in different states shows Kansas first with a per capita production of $2.42, Nebraska comes second with $2.35, and North Dakota third with $2.29. Iowa is fourth, producing $2.06 and thus it runs along down to Kentucky with a 65c production. This is figured on the rural population and for the four leading crops only for the state. Thus in Nebraska and Kansas alfalfa instead of hay is one of the four. In Texas and Oklahoma cotton was one of the leading crop values, in Wisconsin barley, and tobacco in Kentucky. In total value of the four leading crops without regard to population Iowa was first and Illinois second and Nebraska fifth. In analysis of the values as given by the first place occupant Kansas in comparison with Nebraska we find that Kansas values corn at 63 cents per bushel as against 53 in Nebraska, oats at 42 cents as against 40 here, and alfalfa at $8.00 as against $7.00 here. Wheat is figured at same price. If all the four crops had been the same price in both states the per capita Kansas valuation would have been $2.29 as against Nebraska's $2.35. Why should farmers leave Nebraska to better their condition?

Our President and Our Country
In a speech that was both fair and dignified, to the Associated Press club at their annual meeting in New York last week the President made clear his views as to European questions and also his opinion as to what is the duty of the American people in a time like this. He is right, we believe, in his opinion that the great silent majority of the American people are in most heart sympathy with him in using every possible means for peace with honor. He speaks of the duty of America to remain in a position to aid when aid will be needed to heal the great wounds now being made across the water. Here are a few bits of the sentiment of the talk:
The neutrality of the United States, Mr. Wilson said, had a higher basis than a petty desire to keep out of trouble.
"There is something so much greater to do than fight," he said. "Let us think of America before we think of Europe in order that America may be fit to be Europe's friend when the day of tested friendship comes. The test of friendship is not sympathy with one side or the other, but getting ready to help both sides when the struggle is over."
"I am thinking, however, their lives much more than ours touch the very heart and stuff of the business; whereas we have rolling between us and those bitter days across the waters, 3,000 miles of cool and silent ocean. Our atmosphere is not yet charged with those disturbing elements which must be felt and must permeate every nation of Europe. Therefore, is it not likely that the nations of the world will some day turn to us for the cooler assessment of the elements engaged? I am not now thinking so preposterous a thought as that we should sit in judgment upon them. No nation is fit to sit in judgment upon any other nation, but we shall some day have to assist in reconstructing the process of peace. Our resources are untouched; we are more and more becoming by the force of circumstances the mediating nation of the world in respect to its finances. We must make up our minds what are the best things to do and what are the best way to do them. We must put our money, our energy, our enthusiasm, our sympathy into these things, and we must have our judgments prepared and our spirits chastened against the coming of that day. So that I am not speaking in a selfish spirit when I say that our whole duty for the present at any rate is summoned up in this motto, 'America first'. Let us think of America before we think of Europe, in order that America may be fit to be Europe's friend when the day of tested friendship comes. The test of friendship is not sympathy with the one side or the other, but getting ready to help both sides when the struggle is over."

Remarks On the Name "America"
Our attention has been called to what seems to be a common error found even in our textbooks of American history. The New World is supposed to have been called "America" in honor of Amerigo Vespucci (Americus Vesputius), an Italian, a native of Florence, but resident at Leville, who had made at least four voyages across the Atlantic between 1499 and 1503. His pamphlet on the "New World (Mundus Novus)", created a sensation in Europe and was translated into several languages. A German professor, Waltzemuller (some write Waldeseemuller) suggested the New World to be called America in honor of Americus in a pamphlet "Cosmographia introduction", written in 1507. The same year he is supposed to have used the name on a map which is still to be seen.
But the name of the explorer is Albericus (instead of Americus) Vesputius. And this name even appears on his report on the New World 1502. Hence the New World does not bear the explorers' name. The map, which first has the name "America" dates from 1522 and is to be seen in Basel.
There is a mountainous part of Nicaragua between Juigalpa and Liberad (Chontales) which by the natives was called "Americ" or "Amerigue", when 1522 Avila conquered Nicaragua. In the language of the Toltecs, "ig" means large, big; and "meric" means mountain. It is to be concluded that our New World owes her name to this mountainous part of Nicaragua and not to the name of the explorer Albericus Vesputius.

ABOUT NORTH DAKOTA
Two weeks ago the Democrat editor told of an offering of land in North Dakota which looked good to him, from his slight knowledge of the part of the state in the vicinity of Bismarck, and so many inquiries came about the land that a letter was sent for some more definite information, and from it we learn that a united effort is being made to attract people to North Dakota, and that means that the present low price for land will not long be maintained. Where the settlers come in prices will advance. We personally know some people who are prospering on farms in this section of the state—men who were renters are becoming independent home owners.
These lands are in Burleigh county, a county in which 85 percent of the land is susceptible of cultivation, the banner corn county of the state, and strange as it may seem to us, North Dakota grows corn in increasing quantities, for their corn output increased from six million bushels to eighteen million bushels in two years. This land also grows alfalfa—the usual season cutting three crops of good hay, and all kinds of small grain. Potatoes of excellent quality also return good yields here. Many are turning their attention to dairying, and with good results. The county now has five creameries and prospect of more. It is a prairie country, gently rolling, with some timber along the streams. A good quality of lignite coal is found in the county, and the price per ton is said to be but $3.00. Excellent water is found at a depth of from 30 to 50 feet, and the soil is of that black loam which makes the entire section along the east side of the Missouri river from Montana to the Mississippi river the very garden of the world. It is such a land as lies along the east side of the Missouri river in Iowa and there is no discount on its fertility. The price asked for it is from $20 to $35 per acre, which is more than $100 per acre less than is asked for no better soil in Iowa, and this part of Nebraska. The Democrat will have more literature of that country as soon as it comes from the hand of the printer, and in mean time will be glad to furnish information to those who want to secure a home or make a profitable investment.

The following is an extract from article by Geo W. Fitch in Collier's Weekly which is all worthy of reproduction, but lack of space forbids that at this time. After going on to state what a difference the incoming of a democratic administration has made to those who had socially been in good standing and hobnobbing with the republican high officials for so many years it cites that the blame for it all is laid at the door of the secretary of state, and also shows how little it worries him, concluding thus:

"There has been a great disposition among republicans to be fair with the new administration as far as comment goes. They have given the president the benefit of the doubt and have been as unpartisan toward the cabinet as could be expected from a party which hopes to eject the said administration with loud shouts in 1916.
Everybody speaks a kind word for our honored president and then gives the secretary of state both barrels with nails in the charge. It is a beautiful system and keeps the republicans feeling broad minded and virtuous, because criticizing Bryan doesn't count. The open season on him has lasted about twenty years now.
"That everything he does is regarded with cold disapproval by a large number of spectators does not seem to lessen his weight, his cheerfulness, or his activities. Undoubtedly he fell heir to the largest mess of international snarls since Seward's time, but, in addition, he has another duty, the size of which would appall any ordinary man. Since the opening of the administration he has been unofficial introducer of the democratic party to the president.
"Bryan, of-course, knows every democrat of prominence who has worked at it for more than four years, while not long ago the only Wilson known to vast numbers of democrats was the one who made the highballs. In the job of fitting democrats to several thousand newly vacated positions the secretary of state had to help out a whole lot—and as it sometimes happens that two or more democrats have consented to take the same position, the amount of time required to sort them out has been very great.

"It is said that more applicants check in at the secretary of state's office than anywhere else in Washington, not excepting the White House."

There were plenty of people who honestly believed with the new lower tariff coming into effect that certain great industries were bound to suffer. Others were equally sure that they would not and that a freer trade would mean more trade and no less price in many lines. Wool was a great article of contention. Certain interests had been built up and were profiting under an extortionate protective tariff, and they argued that to put wool on the free list would mean the destruction of the sheep growing interest because of the decline of the price a 6-lb. fleece at this season of the year, (4 pounds would come nearer an average), which shows that the wool was estimated to be worth more than 20c per pound right where it grew. Free wool will not hurt the farmer who grows sheep, and we believe that more of them would find it profitable to keep more sheep than they do.

The wave of prosperity is said to be rolling higher and higher, as is indicated by the reports of Bradstreet, who simply gathers and compiles statistics relative to the business world. In the report for last week, issued Saturday, we find the following summary of the week:

Trade is moving into new and higher ground, and some slow lines waking up. Buying for future more marked in textiles, with cottons leading in strength. Consumption is enormous. Good crops are reported and needed rains have helped wheat and hay prospects. A large wheat area is coming to harvest. Export trade is at a new high level. Collections are better.

pay a tribute of interest to the money power eternally. Pay as you go is the better plan.

With hogs selling on foot under the 7 cent price and the consumer of pretty fair bacon paying up to 30 cents a pound for a slice of hog, it looks as if there was more than a legitimate profit for some interests between producer and consumer, and with such a suspicion the farmers of several Wisconsin communities have established co-operative packing plants, and it is said that they are paying. They think that it is better than trying to fight the packers with anti-trust laws.

of wool and consequent loss to the farmer. Prices have shown that they were wrong in regard to the farmer end of the deal. Wool has seldom sold for more money on the open market than today, and the price of sheep on the market is well up, and in the quotations there is a big difference on the flocks going to slaughter whether they come with or without wool. A recent report of sales was sent to the Democrat from the Chicago stockyards which was intended to show how excellent are the markets there, and we are using it to show the value placed on the wool that goes to market with a lamb. 506 wooled lambs, averaging 78 pounds each sold at $10.85 at Chicago April 19, and on the same day 790 clipped lambs averaging 84 pounds sold at $9.15. This shows a difference of $1.70 per cwt. in price whether they had the fleece or not, and figuring the average weight of the two lots showed that the wool from each lamb was valued at $1.33 right on the back of the animal. Not many lambs will shear

Export of wheat is large and bank clearings gain over recent years.

In the face of such a report from impartial sources it does not look as if the country was going to be entirely ruined by the calamity howlers. Many authorities say that 1915 will be the biggest and best business year in the history of this country.

Some of the republican press at this late day are commending Grover Cleveland for issuing bonds to secure money to pay government expenses when he succeeded a republican president and found the treasury empty and the bonds already engraved and printed ready for issue. They claim that it was better policy to borrow the money and pay the interest thereon rather than to make an income tax or a revenue tax and pay the same therefrom. There is a class of republican statesmen who think the taxes should be levied that the common people will have to pay all of the expense of government, and always be behind time in paying so as to

State Normal Notes

The Freshman class will entertain the Sophomores Saturday evening, May 1.

Professor I. H. Britell addressed a meeting of the county teachers at Butte Saturday afternoon.

The next number of the Goldenrod will be issued by the junior class. Mr. J. E. Blievernicht is editor-in-chief.

Leave of absence for the summer session was asked for, and has been granted to Miss Edith Stocking, primary critic, and to Miss Lillian M. Jewell, assistant in mathematics.

At a recent meeting of the board of education the following special teachers were employed for the summer session: Superintendent O. R. Bowen of Wayne, Superintendent E. S. Cowan of Albion and Miss Fannie Britell of Bloomfield.

The class of 1915 are fortunate in the selection of speakers for the graduating exercises. The commencement oration will be delivered by Hon. G. M. Hitchcock of so satisfactory that the following year she was promoted to the high school. Again found unusually efficient both as an instructor and as a disciplinarian, at a recent meeting of the board she was re-elected and asked to assume the duties of high school principal.

Last Wednesday morning at convocation Professor Lewis gave an illustrated talk on the European war. By means of the reflectoscope he threw upon the screen maps to show the location of the various points of interest in the war zone, pictures of the soldiers in the trenches and views of the battle field. A relief map of the Dardanelles was also shown and an explanation given of why Constantinople is an objective point of the war and the reason its capture is proving a difficult undertaking for the allies.

The following is a schedule of events announced for commencement week at the Normal: Thursday, May 20, Commencement Concert by State normal chorus; Sunday, May 23, Baccalaureate ser-sixth grade last week. S. E. Auker and Mesdames John Scofield, F. G. Philleo, C. U. Keckley, G. J. Hess, Wm. Beckenhauer, and Abbott.

The eighth grade recently engaged in a story writing contest, the best story to be published in the "Watchword." Ralph Carhart's story, "Lost" was selected and will appear in the next issue of the "Watchword."

Tuesday, each pupil of the fifth grade told his favorite story and read from it the paragraph he liked best. This grade is now highly interested in the study of Europe. The changed map and much outside material has been brought in.

S. E. Auker addressed the high school on Arbor Day, relating many experiences in pioneer times. He described the Nebraska of those days as a treeless plain, and told of the efforts of early settlers to get groves started. Mr. Auker also visited several of the grade rooms and talked to the children there.

Among the Churches of Wayne

German Lutheran Church
Rev. Moehring, Pastor

There will be no services at this church next Sunday nor any Sunday school as the pastor preaches at Winside the first Sunday of each month.

Methodist Church
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)

Arrangements are being made so that either Rev. Harry C. Wilson of Chicago or Rev. Ralph Wallis Keeler of New York will be with us at our Church Home Coming next Sunday. Rev. J. O. Randall of Philadelphia has been called home on important business and cannot be with us, but with one of the other men our program can be carried out. Each of the men are strong in their work and will bring us a great message. We expect every member of the church within five miles of the church to be present Sunday morning. We also expect all who for any reason think of the Methodist church as their church home and any and all others who may desire to attend to come at 10:30 for the morning worship and stay for Sunday school. Then come again at 7 o'clock to the Epworth League devotional meeting and stay for the evening sermon at 8 o'clock. The Epworth Leaguers are planning a community social for Friday evening.

The Dietricks who were in the town last week in the interests of the Sunday schools did us splendid work and we expect that all Sunday schools will be greatly helped by their work.

The District meeting at Norfolk this week is being attended by Rev. Buell, Frank Roe, Claude Farrell, Hattie Crockett, Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, James Steele and Professor I. H. Britell. Rev. Buell and Professor Britell appear on the program.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the missionary society will meet with Mrs. Richardson, instead of with Mrs. Ross, as announced Sunday.

Sunday morning three of our Sunday school children were baptized. We rejoice to see these young boys and girls willingly coming not only to Christ, but also into the church. Such work is largely the result of faithful Sunday school teachers.

Next Sunday morning will be our communion service. This is most generally the best service of the month. Just before the communion all those who have recently been baptized, and have not yet received the hand of church fellowship will be thus welcomed Sunday morning. The pastor will make a brief address at this service on the subject, "A Beatitude of Jesus."

The young people meeting will be held by Miss Tenny Henderson. At 8 o'clock the subject of the sermon will be, "Mortgaging the Future". We were very sorry to learn that last Sunday evening several people came to the Baptist church, and found no service there. We enjoy the union services, but also do not like to disappoint any who desire to come to our own service.

Try to be present on Sunday mornings, so as to keep in touch with all the work during the week. "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving and into his courts with praise". Read the rest of Ps. 100.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

We wish to express our appreciation of the good work done by the Dietricks among us. The only regret is that the folks who are interested in Sunday school work did not turn out in larger numbers and make the best of this splendid privilege.

The morning theme for next Sunday will be: "Spiritual Wrestling". The subject at the evening meeting will be: "A Conservative Reform". You are cordially invited. The United service beginning at 10:30 lasts exactly two hours. The combined service in the evening, which ought to be "United", will, from now on, last just two hours.

The graduating exercises of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Omaha was held this week, on Wednesday. Mr. John T. Bressler is a trustee of the Seminary and a member of the Examining Committee. The pastor and Mr. Bressler were in attendance at the commencement. The exercises were held at the Seminary building and at the North Presbyterian church.

The attendance upon the District convention and other items are given in another place in this paper. The only regret is that our people do not have a larger appreciation of the value of the work of the Christian Endeavor society. There is no auxiliary of the church that will do better service for the local church, if the church will just encourage as it ought.

At the meeting of the Niobrara Presbytery, Wednesday, May 5, was appointed as the day of the installation of the pastor of the Wayne church. Rev. Thos. W. Bowen of Elgin was appointed to preside and propound the questions; Rev. A. G. Martyn, D. D. of Pender to charge the pastor; and Rev. Lloyd Cunningham of Atkinson to charge the people. Rev. Samuel McComb of Sioux City was invited to preach the sermon. We hope to install the two new ruling Elders at this meeting. The Elders elect are Pres. U. S. Conn and Prof. J. H. Kemp. All are invited to these installation exercises.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. Blessing, Pastor.)

Sunday School at 10 o'clock. Morning Worship at 11 o'clock. Luther League at 6:45 o'clock. Evening Worship at 7:45 o'clock.

The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Call of the Age". When Jeremiah prophesied, the people to whom he spoke were very sinful and disobedient. At one time he said: "I had planted thee a noble vine, wholly a right seed; how then art thou turned into the degenerate plant of a strange vine unto me?" The call to this age was "Return ye backsliding children and I will heal your backslidings". Through every age down to the time of Christ this call was the same. When Christ came to earth he did not change the call but its wording. "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest". In the age of Paul the same call was sounded, though again in different wording "Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. As this call rang in the ages past, so does it ring in this age.

The subject for Luther League will be "The Spirits Call".

At the evening service the choir will give a sacred service of song. There will be solo work by Miss Eya Graves, Mr. Axel Vennerberg and others. We sing truths, as well as preach them into the lives of men. We can pray in song. Many of our most precious hymns are prayers in meter. We can win souls by song. How often the hardest heart finds the voice of praise irresistible. Our hearts would warm to the mercies of God if our lips would break more often and more earnestly into singing.

The Ladies Aid society met at the home of Mrs. W. C. Martin last week. There was a very good attendance and a good meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Victor Carlson, May 6th.

We were glad to have with us Paul Simpson Dietrick, the Sunday school evangelist, and hope that the good things he gave to us will be an inspiration in our Sunday school work. Everyone come to Sunday school.

A special invitation is given to all who wish to worship with us.

Farm Instruction

The Democrat has favored the idea of a farm demonstrator for Wayne county and does yet favor such an aid to making this fertile land come nearer producing what it is capable of, nor do we hold that it is any disgrace for the farmer to need and receive aid and instruction from one who had made a special study of scientific farming and the cure of the disease of grains and vegetables. When a horse is sick he sends for the horse doctor; when scab and blight come to the orchard of the fruit grower he applies to one who has scientific knowledge of the diseases and the proper remedy. So when the farmer has sick oats, wheat or potatoes, he should not use the sick grain for seed and breed a larger crop of sick grain—he should engage a specialist to diagnose the disease and cure it.

The following editorial in the Omaha World-Herald was the cause of the above outbreak, and if it will help Wayne county to secure her share of wasted work and crop we will be glad that we hung it on the copy book:

"Farmers of Nebraska lost three or four million dollars last year from dry rot, scab and other diseases among potatoes and smut in oats and other grains. In some sections there were also heavy losses from pocket gophers and ground squirrels. These losses could all have been prevented by a little work on the part of the farmers. The fact is that the farmers of Nebraska need instruction as to fungus diseases and other matters, and although some of them claim that they know all about farming, the fact is that they do not. In western Nebraska potato diseases have got a firm foot hold, a thing that would never have occurred if the farmers knew all about farming and had nothing to learn. The encouraging thing about the matter is that the most intelligent among them are very eager to be taught and measures are being taken so that in that section competent instruction will be given and the diseases will be eradicated.

It is little use to say to the ordinary kind of farmer: 'Treat all seed potatoes with either corrosive sublimate or formaldehyde.' He will have to be shown'. There are other people besides those from Missouri who have to be shown before they can understand. The state university has done all it could to teach them, but reading instructions from a printed bulletin is not what a great many require. They must be shown.

Next year there will be more men in the state who will be able to show them. There will be 104 graduates from the School of Agriculture this year, each of whom has taken a full course. One unfortunate thing is that a large number of these graduates have already secured positions in other states. The farmers of Nebraska would better wake up. They lost last year more than $2,000,000 from smut in oats which could easily have been prevented, besides the loss from dry rot in potatoes."

Glenn Wallace has taken out a livery license for his automobile this year, a new state law making it necessary for any who wish to drive a car for hire to take out the license, thus making a little protection to people who regularly engage in the business from the one who simply goes when road conditions are good and it is convenient for him—taking a passenger or two at half price, perhaps, because he had to go anyhow. There may be a fine of $50 attached to each offense of those who charge for carrying people, unless they have the license.

Thomas Rhinehart of LeMars, Iowa, who had the contract for the heating and plumbing at the new college building, was here this week closing up the work, the contract having been completed. In a short visit at the Democrat office he said that during the year that he has been visiting Wayne in connection with his contract he has come to recognize it as a splendid town, and that he was surprised to find so rich an agricultural country as we have. When asked about prospects in his line of work for the coming season he said that he had never before had so much work both contracted and in sight. He said that in Iowa alone there would be more than 300 school houses built this year of a size large enough to interest him in a business way, and added that he did not take the time to compete for the smaller jobs such as the ordinary dwelling house. Speaking of the school house proposition, he said that Iowa would build many consolidated schools this summer. That as fast as they are tried there is no desire to return to the single district school. He spoke of the impossibility of the average young and inexperienced teacher of the country school attempting to teach everything from the primary to the sixth or seventh grade, and how impossible it was for one to do justice to the pupils. In his opinion the consolidated school is coming fast and coming to stay. We too, believe that.

Miss Vallie Armancoast, who has been teaching in No. 43, the Wm. Gildersleeve district, is shut in by a quarantine which came upon the home she was visiting in town, and Miss Eugenie Palmer is taking her place at the school, she again being able to teach.

Tipperary

The war song of the English, which has been taken up by the Germans, and no doubt by the French, comes from Ireland, the last place we would expect an English war song to originate:

It's a long way to Tipperary;
It's a long way to go;
It's a long way to Tipperary,
To the sweetest girl I know.

There's no mistake about that, and no mistake about the sentiment in it; and it will be a long way to Tipperary for the boys who are singing it, particularly as at present they are going in exactly the opposite direction, with strong chances that many of them will never get back, and that the "sweetest girl I know" will have to pine in sadness the rest of her days, unless she happens to take up with some other fellow who, as the grocers say when they offer a substitute, "is just as good."

"It's a long way to Tipperary" in any walk in life, and we all find it so. It's a long way to an ideal. We have to go a long way before we realize any lofty, noble sentiment. It's a long way for the boy who is leaving school to go before he finds himself established in life, influential, a leader in his community or state or nation. It's a long way for the boy who leaves the farm and goes to town. Eventually he may be a power in business, or a leader of men, but "it's a long way to go." It's a long way for the boy with nothing but his hands and his brains, who hopes some time to have a home of his own, with the "sweetest girl" he knows as his life partner. Then "it's a long way to go" before his children are educated and well settled in life; and by that time he is pretty nearly ready to go. "It's a long way to go" for a young man to obtain complete mastery over his appetites and his passions, to train his mind to work smoothly at will, and his hands to turn out a satisfactory product. It's a long way to the realization of any good thing.

We all have our Tipperaries, where we hope for happiness and satisfaction insofar as that can be reached in this world of ours. The only way to get to any Tipperary is to keep on going, doing the best we can, even if the way is winding and tortuous and sometimes seems to be going in the wrong direction. The only way is to keep bravely on, determined to do our best, and keep the thoughts of our Tipperary, whatever that may be, constantly in mind as an inspiration.

If Tipperary is well-rounded old age, mellow, sweet and charitable, with children and grandchildren settled about us to comfort us, "it's a long way to go," and on the way, if we have achieved sweetness and ripeness of character, it is certain that somewhere along that long way there has been the baptism of sorrow and affliction. "It's a long way to Tipperary," whatever that may be; "it's a long way to go." The poet had the same idea when he wrote "Excelsior." If we are to go anywhere successfully, there must be a vision, an ideal, a touch of sentiment that will help us over the hard places, and keep us ever "still achieving, still pursuing."—Wallace's Farmer.

Another Jingo Crisis

Suddenly, and as a bolt from a clear sky, the news flashed over the country that three great Japanese warships, manned by more than four thousand men, had taken possession of Turtle Bay, Lower California, within 409 miles of San Diego. On the unquestioned authority of an anonymous correspondent of the Los Angeles Times, the men were encamped on the shore, the bay had been mined, and no effort whatever was being made to relieve the warship Asama that was lost on a reef last November. One inference, and one only, was to be drawn: The Japanese had at last shown their hand; they had begun their campaign for the subjugation of the United States. Hobson had at last been vindicated; Gardner could say, I told you so; and the grape-juice administration of Mollycoddles was covered with confusion and shame. The fact long known to every Jingo that the Japanese will never be satisfied until they have reduced the United States to a state of vassalage was on the point of realization.

But alas for the bogey-chasers! Before the fighting Congressmen could mobilize the Loyal Legion word comes back by wireless from an investigating American commander:

"The Asama still aground in San Bartolome Bay. Only other vessel present one repair ship and two colliers. No indications of other than salvaging work."

"But let not the Jingo's despair; General Huerta is now in the United States, and there is every reason to believe that he has designs on this country. Possibly instant mobilization of the Loyal Legion may avert the disaster."—S. C. in The Public.

A DEEP SEA MYSTERY.

Strange Migrations of Fish Upward and Downward Daily.

Experiments by Professor Agassiz on the exploring steamer Albatross and by other oceanographers have clearly demonstrated that various species of deep dwelling fish practice an up and down migration from the lowest depths, where they pass the day, a mile or two beneath the surface, to higher levels of the ocean, half a mile or a mile or two miles higher, to which levels they rise at night. This seems to be their regular scheme of existence, up at night, down in the daytime. Some of these deep dwellers when darkness falls ascend almost to the ocean surface and then, having accomplished their purpose, descend again.

What is their purpose? It is the simple and natural one of getting food for themselves, food being more abundant in the upper levels than in the depths. And they come up at night because many of the fierce top dwelling fish—swift darting mackerel, for instance—are unable to see at night, which leaves the slow and puny depth dwellers free to feed on small shrimps, crustaceans, fish larvae, etc., that float abundantly at and near the surface, whereas in daylight they themselves would be devoured by their powerful enemies. These upward migrators from the depths have enormous eyes, which doubtless enable them to see perfectly in the moon and starlight, diffused through the upper levels, that must seem to them brilliantly illuminated after the utter darkness below.

It may be mentioned that the method by which these deep sea fish accomplish their nightly vertical migration is very much of a mystery, as there is a difference between the near surface water pressure and that at a three mile depth of several tons to the square inch. How do these weak, frail creatures accommodate themselves to this enormous pressure below and then to the release of this pressure above?

What saves them from the double peril of being crushed as they go down or blown to pieces by the force of gases released from their bodies as they go up? And how do they alter their specific gravity so as to ascend for a mile or two at will and then descend for a mile or two, it being noted that they have no air bladders?—Cleveland Moffett in American Magazine.

The Co-operative Tire

Goodyear has always built co-operative tires. Every saving has gone to the user. The more men bought the better we built them, and the lower we sold them.

That is why Goodyear has held top place, outselling any other tire.

3 Reductions

Note that in two years we made three big price reductions. The last—on February 1st—brought the total to 45 per cent.

Yet in costly ways these tires have been bettered. In not one iota were they ever skimped.

wires to make the tire secure. It embodies hundreds of rubber rivets, formed to combat loose treads.

Our All-Weather tread is still double-thick. It still has the sharp, tough, resistless grips.

Those extras—all exclusive to Goodyear—are all retained, despite our price reductions. And we still spend $100,000 yearly to discover new ways to better them.

Your Ally

In all these ways, Goodyear is your ally. You do injustice to yourself when you fail to secure this advantage. Never in tire history was such value given as you get in Goodyear tires today.

No smaller makers can ever give so much.

Any dealer will supply you. [232]

Dirt fattens flies and kills babies.

Wake Up and Paint Up

Don't overlook the fact that it is as important to paint up as it is to clean up while the renovating war is on hereabouts.
Paint is not only a cleanser and a beautifier, but it is a disinfectant as well. Also it preserves the life of buildings, fences, wagons, etc. Many a barn is leaky because Farmer John would not spend a few dollars and a few hours on the simple job of giving it the needed coats of paint from year to year.
Many a community has attracted new residents, new business and new reputation by having a bright, prosperous appearance. Well painted buildings and fences, cleanly kept streets and sidewalks and neatly trimmed grass plots do more to give the impression of prosperity than any other things we can suggest.

And where you consider the use of Model For Americans.

STREET CLEANING SCIENCE.

No Refuse Should Be Placed on Sidewalk—The Sweeping Process Should Be Started When No Traffic is on Street—Early Morning Best Time.

By FRANK KOESTER.
The lack of system and want of technical training on the part of many American officials in charge make street cleaning unnecessarily expensive.
leave the streets in a bad condition and cause the cleaning to be carried out in a disagreeable, insanitary way.

In foreign cities engineers specialize on this subject. Street cleaning has been reduced to a science, and economy, efficiency and the comfort and convenience of the public are considered.
The purpose of street cleaning is to remove as quickly and as cheaply as possible all foreign matter in the streets and thus to conduce to the health of the public by minimizing the circulation of germ laden dust.

The cleaning of streets should be carried out in a systematic and thorough manner. The cleaners should proceed in crews with the necessary apparatus both to clean the streets and the sidewalks as well, if necessary, and the layout of the work should be such that no member of the crew needs to wait on the progress of the other, but all proceed simultaneously, and when they have passed through the street the work will be done. The method of piecemeal street cleaning, with the householder sweeping dirt into the street, the street cleaner sweeping it into piles and the piles being removed by wagons, with the occasional passing first on one side of the street and then on the other of some piece of street cleaning apparatus, results in a continual stirring up of dust to the great discomfort and inconvenience of all concerned, while the street never really gets cleaned.

The number of men in the cleaning crew depends on the kind of machinery used. As no machine is capable of reaching all parts of the street, a certain amount of manual sweeping is necessary, especially when the sidewalks are cleaned in conjunction with the machine sweeping, so that, as indicated, the whole width of the street will be cleaned at once.

Must Be Clear of Traffic.
In order that such cleaning may proceed with efficiency and dispatch, and consequently with economy, the streets must be practically clear of traffic, as the presence of vehicles, especially those standing at the curb, greatly delays the work of the crew.

As the operation of such a crew also handicaps traffic and as the public prefers to see the streets clean, rather than to see them being cleaned, it is essential to select a suitable hour for cleaning. German cities have conducted numerous tests for finding out the most favorable hour. The city of Dresden adopted the practice of cleaning
the main streets in the early morning hours, beginning about 4 o'clock and

HORSES IN SPRING.

Changes of Ration Should Be Made
Slowly and With Care.

When spring work approaches the feed can gradually be increased, not perhaps to hard working ration, but materially above the winter ration, says Professor Van Es, North Dakota experiment station. In horses which during the winter have acquired what we commonly call a hay belly, the roughage ration must be shortened and the shortage compensated for by a corresponding increase above the normal increase of the winter ration.

In all horse feeding we still must attach the greatest importance to hay and oats, and in preparing the horse for spring work we should confine ourselves to these articles of diet. It is proper to add a little corn to the ration after work is well under way and when the horses commence to show a little wear and tear on this account.

When work actually begins the horses must be used with considerable caution, because no matter how judiciously we have fed and managed them during the winter the lack of muscular strain will have produced a little "softness," which can only be overcome by bringing the animals by degrees up to their accustomed labor capacity.

CLOVER FOR SWINE.

Brood Sows and Their Litters Should Be Fed on Pasture.

The number of hogs that can be kept on an acre of clover pasture naturally depends upon the kind and size of the hogs and the natural fertility and productiveness of the land on which the clover is growing, writes W. F. Purdue in the National Stockman. Much also depends on the weather, for if there is an abundance of rainfall more feed will be produced on a given area than during a dry season.

In estimating the number of animals
that an acre of pasture will support it should be remembered that individuals of the improved breeds that have been well handled and fed on a variety of feeds will eat more grass and get more out of it than animals that have been confined in yards and pens and fed almost entirely on concentrates. With the latter class the stomachs have not been expanded, and they are not capable of holding much coarse feed, and consequently such hogs cannot give us good returns for grass consumed.

It is safe to say that pigs weighing from 125 to 150 pounds will consume
ten to twelve quarts of grass per day while being fed slops and a fairly good ration of grain feeds. An acre of clover growing on good rich soil in the early part of the season will furnish pasture for at least ten pigs of the size mentioned. Four or five brood sows, with their litters of pigs, can er flesh forming ration he will produce bacon of the finest quality.

In fact, some sections of the United States prefer Berkshire pork to that of any other breed. Advocates of the Berkshire have never a fervent ally as a bacon hog because of the fact that in the minds of many people the term bacon hog is associated with the long nosed, slab sided hog possessing inferior feeding qualities. The illustration shows a Berkshire boar
of excellent type.

Also be pastured on an acre of clover.
Good judgment necessarily must be used in this matter. Overpasturing is not desirable, but an effort should be made to keep enough animals on each acre of pasture to keep the grass eaten down before it attains a rank growth.

Swine eat only the short and tender grass. Few of the rank and coarse stems are consumed. In case a sufficient number of animals to keep the grass eaten down cannot be kept in a field, as soon as the clover blossoms
it should be mowed and cured for hay,
after which a new growth will start,
which the pigs will relish. In this way the maximum results from the clover will be secured.

Another point that should be considered is that in order to get the greatest benefits from the pasturage grain must be fed in connection therewith,
as the grass alone furnishes only a little more than a sustaining ration, and progress without some grain will be slow. Where hogs have the run of good clover pasture it has been variously determined that they should have from one-half to two-thirds, as much corn as when corn alone is fed.

He is known as a young man of sterling character and fully capable of providing a home for the one he has chosen as a life companion. that the shoes undoubtedly disappeared on Saturday afternoon. There was a goodly sized crowd in the store, when two strangers came in and asked to see shoes of this brand. The shoes were placed upon the counter for the strangers to examine while the clerk served another customer. On his return the two men were gone, but he did not miss the shoes or notice the empty boxes at that time. Fleeer Bros. keep a record of every pair of shoes sold and the buyers name. The style, size and number is also recorded. No doubt but the shoes were stolen as none of the clerks had sold shoes of this particular brand or style.

 Mortz Brakemeyer, who has been principal of the Sholes school, has left that place, and his whereabouts are unknown. His family has gone to her home near Belden, we believe. Miss Fontanelle Wright has been engaged to take his place in the Sholes school until the end of the year.
 Mrs. Crawford went to Sioux City this morning to make the acquaintance of a great grandson who but recently came to that place. The little fellow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larison, and the mother may be remembered here by some as Marie Donnell. To be sure Mrs. Crawford is a proud woman to be so young looking and a great grandmother.

The Modern Woodmen at this place initiated three new members at their meeting Tuesday evening and had a good meeting. At that time they arranged for a moving picture show of three reels at the Crystal, on the 18th of May, when they will show the sanatorium this order has for its members at Colorado Springs. They also expect a deputy here to boost for new members.
 F. M. Griffith and family were robbed of their Sunday dinner Saturday night. They had purchased a liberal beef roast, celery, lettuce, and various other groceries and stowed them into the back of their buggy before time to go home, and before they left someone had just helped themselves to the good things. Thus it was that home folks and guests at the Griffith home on Sunday were served with chicken instead of roast beef. The one who stole the food should choke on the meat to serve him right.

Single Tax Urged

At a meeting at Norfolk Tuesday evening the Nebraska tax laws were discussed and some of the speakers advocated the single tax. From the News account of the meeting we learn that D. Rees spoke on the single tax declaring that it would remove the penalty on industry imposed by the present system of taxation, would decrease rents, lower the cost of living, increase the amount of work available by stimulating building, practically abolish poverty and greatly reduce crime. He held it was not right that the increase in land values given land by society should go into the pockets of individuals. He held the single tax would operate against the land speculator and would put land, now idle, into productive use. He cited the operation of the law in Canadian provinces.

Single Tax and Farmer

A paper written by G. L. Carlson on the subject, "Will Single Tax be Good for the Farmer?" answered the question in the affirmative. Mr. Carlson pointed out the danger from the increasing number of tenant farmers in this country. He cited figures compiled in Madison county to show that the single tax would decrease the taxes of farmers who worked their own land 8.6 percent, would increase taxes of owners of improved farms who rented them 17.9 percent and increase the tax on unimproved land 33 percent.
 "Since it is urged by all students of economics", he continued, "that the best tax is the one that will encourage home and farm ownership, discourage speculation and the holding of land out of use, what need have we for more convincing proof that a land value tax is the best tax, when in the case of our own county and minor subdivisions, we find that while the changes would be neither great nor radical, yet they would be in the direction of encouraging a more general farm ownership, and a decreasing tendency to hold land for speculation. While the subject may be discussed from many view points, how is one to make a case against such a showing in our own community?"

Albert and M. F. Jones each shipped three cars of fat cattle to Chicago for the market early this week, and got in with a lot of other cattle, which hurt the price some. D. A. Jones and Sam Barley made the trip with the cattle, and Mr. Barley remained for a time to visit with his brother who lives in that city.
