Infantile Paralysis at Wayne

It is reported that there is an epidemic of this dread disease in Wayne and vicinity, and the Democrat is glad to be able to truthfully deny this report. There are two places in Wayne under quarantine for the disease—Henry Kay, who has two little ones sick, and who lost a little boy last Friday, and Jay Jones of the Union hotel who has a daughter who has a slight attack that has been pronounced infantile paralysis. The little one, we are glad to say, is up and playing about the room and seems to be in almost perfect health. At the farm home of Curt C. Thompson there is a case or two, but they are said to be improving, as is the case with the Kay children. No new cases have developed for a week, and no other cases than these three have been reported.

True it is that the nature of the disease was not detected by the attending physician at first and there may have been some unnecessary exposure as a result, but fortunately no new cases appear to have developed because of that fact.

As a precautionary measure the school rooms have been thoroughly fumigated, and the pupils are closely watched for any symptoms. Children known to have been exposed at the homes now under quarantine before the places were closed have been kept from school. It is thus confidently expected that the disease will not be permitted to spread through any lack of care to guard against it. Physicians tell us that the disease is not considered as highly contagious as many diseases, such as scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough, mumps and smallpox. One of the dread features of the disease is the tendency to leave children permanently crippled and its large percentage of fatalities. To keep the health as near perfect as possible is one of the best safeguards, for it is doubtless a climatic condition that tends to spread it, and those in an unhealthy condition are more susceptible to the germ.

Death Of Theodore Kay

Theodore, the oldest son of Henry Kay and wife died at their home Friday morning, September 17, 1915, of infantile paralysis, at the age of 9 years, 6 months, and 25 days, and the body was laid away in the Wayne cemetery the following morning.

Owing to the quarantine regulations no funeral service was possible, but the sympathy of the community went out to the afflicted family never-the-less, for death and burial under such conditions seem doubly sad, and there are none who do not feel a deep sympathy in such hours of sorrow.

Two younger children have been ill with the disease, but at this writing are improving and are thought to be past the danger point, though it is not yet known whether they will be crippled when they recover.

Stock Show At Carroll

The citizens of Carroll and the farmers of that vicinity are planning for two big days, October 13 and 14, when they will assemble an exhibit of the fine stock, excellent farm products and the work of the ladies in domestic science for the entertainment of all. Prizes will be awarded to that judged to be the best in the various departments, and it is thought that a showing will be made which will be well worth the time of any who can attend.

There is no entry fee for the exhibit unless it win a prize. No admission will be charged to enter the pavilion and see the sights. There is an advertisement on another page telling of the show.

Celebrates 73d Birthday

Sunday a number of the friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Wm. Lue on 1st street to assist him in celebrating the passing of the 73d milestone of life. The party was made up of Wayne friends, except a relative, Chris, Kohlhof of Norfolk, who came to do honor to this gentleman. Those present report a splendid time, and enjoyed a feast of good things to eat and drink. All hope that their friend may be spared to celebrate many such annual events.

Sandahl-Mathiesen

A quiet little wedding took place at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Mathiesen of Wakefield, when their daughter Myrtle was given in marriage to Fred Sandahl, Wednesday, September 22, 1915.

After the solo, "At Dawning," rendered by Miss Nettie Sandahl the bride descended the stairs on her father's arm to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Edna Sandahl and was given to the groom. The pretty double ring ceremony was used, the rings being carried on a large red rose by little Anna Mathiesen. Rev. Kraft of the Swedish Lutheran church officiating.

The bride wore a blue military suit trimmed in fur, a large black velvet picture hat trimmed with bronze and bronze military shoes. The bride's bouquet was lilies of the valley. The only jewelry worn was a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Agnes who wore a gown of gold crepe de melle. The groom wore the conventional black and was attended by his brother Ernest.

After congratulations a four course breakfast was served, during which Miss Alice Henry rendered some musical selections.

The bride and groom left immediately for an extended wedding tour to the Pacific coast and will also take in the exposition.

The bride is a prominent Wakefield girl. The groom is a well known Wayne county farmer. They are highly esteemed by all who know them. They will reside on the groom's farm four miles east of Wayne.

Those present from out of town were Miss Agnes Mathiesen of Omaha, Axel Mathiesen of Leudin, S. D., and Henrietta Moler of Wayne.

Wayne Creamery To Churn

A. P. Gossard was at Omaha last week and completed arrangements to again start the churn at the Wayne creamery. For nearly a year past the churn has been shut down here and there has been a drouth of buttermilk in this land of plenty of rain. During this time the cream has been shipped to Omaha and the butter supply used for the local trade has been shipped back again. After figuring both sides of the question—freight two ways on part of the goods, and freight on lots of buttermilk—it was decided to return to the churn at this place.

The Democrat is glad to have this so—the business men of Wayne, who have been instrumental in bringing this change about are glad, for it means more work here, more cream delivered here at a better price and butter from our own creamery for home consumption.

It is to be hoped that all the members of the co-operative association here as well as others will remember that Wayne is again on the map as a creamery town and deliver the goods accordingly.

Not So Many From Here

Owing to the very busy season on the farms, largely because of the abundance of rain, the attendance from this vicinity to the Interstate fair at Sioux City is much less than last season. Agent Moran tells us that the ticket sales this year is but a small part of as many as the year before. Starting in with 12 tickets Monday, 26 Tuesday, 70 Wednesday and less than 40 today, the total sales were not greater than the best day last year. The Bloomfield branch brought but 161 Wednesday compared to 345 for the corresponding day last season, and this morning but 109 crossed the platform here to board the special.

The railroad has furnished ample room for many more than they have carried this season, and there has been no crowding or platform riding, nor would there have been had the usual number gone from this section. Some other localities must have turned out better this season, for the reports show that Sioux City is having about the usual number of visitors.

Electrifiers Soon To Arrive

According to report work is to begin yet this week for the installation of our new street lights. At this writing none of the material has been received, but the order has come to begin some of the necessary digging.

Goeman vs Railroad

That is not quite the correct title of the case which took the attention of the district court last week until Thursday afternoon, when the plaintiff rested, having introduced more than twenty witnesses. Here on motion of attorney for railroad company, the judge instructed the jury to find for defendant, giving as his reason, if we have it correct, the injury shown was due to surface water which the railroad company could not be held liable to provide for. This implies that Mr. Goeman did not have grounds of complaint against the railroad company—and on that ground there is difference of opinion, and the appeal papers have been filed and the case will go before the supreme court for final settlement.

It is not for us to render a verdict in the case, for we did not hear the evidence, but there are those who did who feel that a mistake was made in this instruction.

Certain it is that the community as a whole is vitally interested in the case, for a condition prevails which must if longer neglected continue a menace to public health. If the city is at fault, as some have intimated, it is time to act. If it is the Railroad, they should be compelled to act; if Mr. Goeman, steps should be taken to have the stagnant water about his place removed by proper drainage, at his expense. In the minds of many the typhoid cases of a year ago are traceable to this stagnant water—the sickness at the Goeman home now is frequently attributed to the lack of proper drainage. Let the health officers, if necessary, see that the place is cleaned up and allow the courts then to take their time to determine who shall pay the cost.

City Attorney Berry informs us that the city has taken the matter up with the railroad people and also with Mr. Goeman, and word comes back this morning which looks to an early solution of the draining problem. It is very probable that the company will make additional waterway beneath their track, and in that even Mr. Goeman has agreed to properly drain the railway right of way.

Duerig--Wilson

The following wedding announcement appeared in the Lincoln State Journal in the issue of Thursday, September 16:

"The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Wilson of Ashland, Neb., and Glen Duerig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Duerig of Long Pine, took place at noon Wednesday at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Howard R. Chapman, 1332 K street. Miss Wilson's parents are old residents of Ashland, Mr. and Mrs. Duerig will make their home at Long Pine where Mr. Duerig is engaged in business."

The newly-wedded couple are well known in Wayne. Glen Duerig lived in this vicinity continuously until about two years ago when he moved with his parents to Corning, California, later returning to Nebraska to engage in business at Long Pine. The bride has been a successful teacher of Saunders county, and was for one year a student of the Wayne State Normal. While in Wayne Miss Wilson made her home with her sister, Mrs. Orlando Adams.

The Democrat joins a host of friends in extending heartiest congratulation and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Duerig.

The Weather and The Corn

Much interest in this and all other corn growing communities now centers on the weather and its effect upon the corn. The past week has been all that could be expected in the last half of September. We have had no killing freeze, though a slight frost came Monday night which nipped the corn leaves a bit in the very low places—but the greater part of the corn was not even marked. Tomato plants in most of the Wayne gardens do not show any sign of freeze.

Tuesday morning there was a slight rain and again this morning, accompanied by lightning. Sunday was just the kind of a day—had been asking for—warm and windy. A perfect day for the corn. The past week was the best one for the threshing of any since harvest, and all machines were working full time, so much so as to keep many home from the fair at Sioux City, because they must improve the opportunity.

A Change In Mill Ownership

For the second time in thirty years there has come a change in the ownership of the Wayne flour mill, and Walter R. Weber now becomes sole proprietor by reason of the withdrawal of William H. Weber from the firm of Weber Brothers. In 1881 Walter R. and Emil H. Weber formed a partnership and started a flour mill at Tekamah. Two or three years later William Weber joined the firm which was still known as Weber Brothers.

In 1885 they disposed of their property at Tekamah and came to Wayne where they built the Wayne Roller Mills and commenced to convert wheat into flour and the by-products, shorts and bran. They added to the mill from time to time as the needs demanded, and a number of years ago discarded steam and coal as the combination for furnishing power and installed a large oil engine, one of the first purchased in the west after they were proven to be practical and economical. This has since been their power, so satisfactory did it prove.

About four years ago Emil Weber disposed of his interest in the mill, it being taken by the two brothers who had so long been working together in the business. Tuesday a deal was completed whereby Will Weber retires, leaving the mill in the hands of his brother who will continue to operate it on the same fair and safe basis which has builded for them a substantial business.

Will Weber is not planning to at once leave Wayne, though he hopes to be ready in the spring to join his wife and sons on their ranch in Baine county. He plans to assist at the mill much as usual during the winter months. He has many friends who will regret his severance of his interest in the mill, but all are glad to know that the business is still in the hands of one of the founders of the business which has been a great help in adding to the volume of business at Wayne.

Wayne County Winners at the Fair

Competing with the best from four states at Sioux City this year Wayne county again demonstrates the sterling qualities of our feed, water and climate in producing the best and most perfect live stock, at the great fair.

When judges had made their reports it was found that Gus Hanson had again won first place on a car of fat cattle. Not only that, but Wayne county also won the second place in the same class, C. W. Anderson of Hoskins being awarded that place.

In the Poland China hogs Paulsen & Son of Carroll won 3rd on aged boar, 1st on aged sow, and also championship on sow with their sow "Daisy Surprise." They also won a 3rd place on produce of sow.

Billiter of Carroll also made a great winning, a championship and 1st in 2-year-old class on Percheron mare.

Roy Fisher, who is now at Bronson, Iowa, made some winnings on stock he took from this good county when he moved. He was awarded a 2d, 3d, and 4th, and had he kept his stock here doubtless would have got under the wire first. The fact that his best animal went lame so that she could not be considered in the contest, else he might have had a champion ribbon.

The Hanson cattle were sold to Armour & Co. at $10.50. The Anderson cattle were bought by the same firm at $10.25.

The prize winning individual steer was from J. W. Karr, Ireton, Iowa, and sold at 19 cents a pound and brought more than $300.

No report has yet been received of the Duroc Jersey swine in which class Wayne county has some animals competing.

Wayne Delegation At Norfolk

A number of Wayne golf and tennis enthusiasts drove to Norfolk yesterday and spend the day as guests of the Norfolk Country Club. Among those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craven, Mr. and Mrs. James Ahern, Paul Herington, F. S. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Orr, and Chris Hansen.

The above is from the Norfolk News, and the Wayne men report a fine day at Norfolk, where they also met a similar party from O'Neill.

Late News Notes

The following persons have been indicted for criminal carelessness in connection with the Eastland disaster at Chicago two months ago:

George T. Arnold, president of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Co., owners of the Eastland. William Hull, vice president and general manager of the same company.

Walter K. Greenbaum, manager of the Indiana Transportation Co., which chartered the Eastland for the fatal excursion.

Harry Pederson, captain of the vessel.

Joseph Erickson, chief engineer. Robert Reed and Charles C. Redcliff, government steamship inspectors at Grand Haven, Mich.

W. C. Steele, secretary-treasurer of the St. Joseph-Chicago Steamship Co., and the Indiana Transportation Co., as corporations.

It is claimed that Rev. Sundry has added more than 1,000 converts to the ranks of those who are trying, or at least professing, to lead a christian life in Omaha. The total attendance up to Wednesday is reported at 225,000, and the collections amount to about $27,000, which is practically enough to pay the expenses incurred in building the tabernacle and other expenses, except the pay for the preacher.

The Russians have again escaped the trap set for them by the Germans. That reminds us that we have been trying all summer to trap a few rats, but they must have all been Russians from the manner in which they escaped—but did not leave, for they are still about.

Bulgaria is about to enter the war as aid to the German, Austrian and Turkey combine—then Greece is expected to come next, but on the other side. Holland is in danger of being drawn in, and if this goes on all Europe may yet taste blood.

Germany is said to have issued orders to give all liners the benefit of a doubt and even permit one to escape torpedoed rather than make any more mistakes where Americans are concerned. Let us hope they live up to instructions.

The loan of more than half a billion dollars to the Allies is assured—the bankers think. Wonder if we can borrow a bit, for we think we can give a good security as is a mortgage on a nation engaged in an uncertain war.

It has been demonstrated in Iowa that it is profitable to "hog corn down" in the fall after it is ready to cut—or when the ears are well dented. Several years ago he put in about $3,000 worth of tile on another part of the place, and this season shows the difference between the tilled and the land not drained. After tiling, this land will be broken and cropped and again put into hay, it now having too much blue grass to make it the best of hay land.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Westphall left Saturday for Correctionville, Iowa, and then their home at Manning, following a visit of two weeks or more with Nebraska friends and relatives. At Wayne they visited Dick Hansen and wife. Messrs. Hansen and Westphall were comrades in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870. They naturally like to meet and fight the battles over again—especially at a time like this when another and greater conflict is being waged over the same battlefields by the same nations and others. Neither of these veterans, however, express any longing to again enter the field of battle.

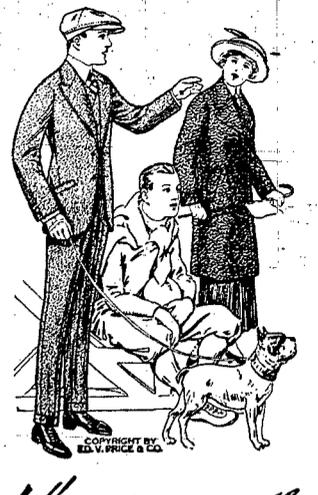

Corn is not the only fattening grain raised, but perhaps it is the best. In the great range country to the west the growing of some grain crop on which to fatten cattle from the range is yearly increasing, and it is not far distant to the day when some of the finished beef and mutton will go direct from the grass country to the block. When that day comes, perhaps the farmer in the corn belt will learn that he can grow quite a large percentage of his feeders as cheaply as he can buy them. There is too much killing of young she animals the country over to keep the supply of meat equal to the demand. When the small farmer goes to growing his feeders there will be an increase in the beef supply.

The third largest church conference in the United States began its session in Omaha this week, when the annual conference of the First M. E. church convened. Five hundred ministers and about the same number of lay delegates started their deliberations, which will extend for a period of one week. Bishop Bristol is presiding. Former Bishop Oldham of New York City has accepted an invitation to attend the conference and will deliver many addresses during the sessions. All sessions will be held during the morning hours, leaving the visitors free to go as they will during the afternoon. The lay members will meet at the First Congregational church. Once in every four years the lay members meet with the ministers. Ministers will be assigned their churches for the coming year at this session.

The National Farmer's Congress is to meet at Omaha Tuesday of next week, and it will be a meeting that all who can from this community should attend. The sessions will contain much of interest to farmers and others, for whatever interests the farmer of Nebraska or the entire country should be of vital interest to all—for it is upon the success of those who till the soil. There will be delegates from every state in the Union and some of the most eminent speakers who have made an especial study of agriculture will be heard there. Great economic questions of vital interest to all will be considered, and it is possible that a little politics will be injected into the talks in spite of the fact that it is non-political, for it will be an opportunity which the politician will hate to pass up without using. The Democrat hopes that a large number from this county can and will attend.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the noted suffragist, says that half the husbands are unsatisfactory and disappointing. Her figures are conservative. Women are queer people. When a fellow is doing the best he can to make the home happy: buying everything he is told to buy, selling everything he is told to sell; when he turns over his wages to the woman he loves, and goes about looking "tacky" himself that she and the children may dress like Solomon in all his glory, it would seem that the woman of the house should be contented and happy, but the chances are ten to one that she will nag the poor devil for not earning money enough to dress so his folks won't be ashamed of him when he presents himself in company. Woman is dissatisfied with man because he isn't an angel, and by reason of her dissatisfaction he becomes an angel much sooner than he otherwise would, and so she marries again so she can have somebody to scold.—Bixby in State Journal

Boys' State Fair Encampment

Last spring early it was announced that each county would be entitled to send two boys to the state fair this fall—the county superintendent to say who was entitled to go. So far as we have learned Wayne county did not send a representative, but Cuming county did and Robert Knight, McGaughey made the following excellent report of the week in the Wisner Chronicle. The reading of this report should induce the Wayne county boys to compete for a place next season:

According to the rules of the camp, each boy is required to make a report of the week, so I guess I shall begin.

I arrived with most of the boys at camp Saturday evening and then registered. We then received our tag, which permitted us to go into the grounds or grandstand at any time. We also received our U. S. mess kit, which we kept in our tents when not in use.

We were provided with square, permanent tents. Each tent had a solid top and wooden floor, and the sides were made of canvas. There were ten tents in all, each provided with twelve solid bunks for the boys, besides a cot in the middle which the camp leader used. The camp leader was some outsider chosen. I was in tent two.

Supper was served at 5:30 p. m. in true army style. The camp was provided with three professional cooks, who certainly knew what they were doing. The food in all meals was plain and wholesome, but there was always enough of everything for a second dish. The meals in general consisted of tea or coffee, beans, potatoes, meat, soup, bread, butter, prunes and sometimes apples. We had prunes at every meal except one, and the meal following we had prunes fixed in two different dishes. Do you like prunes, too?

At about 8:30 p. m. Camp No. 1 made the camp fire. Camp No. 2 did the same the second night, and so on. All the boys were initiated into the order of "The Stuck-ups." We retired at ten o'clock each evening.

The next morning everyone was rolled out of bed at a quarter past six, and lined up outside our tents. We then had morning exercises for about ten minutes under the direction of Mr. Anderson, Physical Director of the Lincoln Y.M.C.A. Mr. King, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. had charge over the entire camp. The morning exercises were, in short, shirt-tail parades.

Breakfast was served at about seven o'clock, after which we had fifteen minutes to prepare for tent inspection. We (Tent Two) captured the banner the second day. After tent inspection Sunday morning we marched down town and attended the Presbyterian church. It is needless to say we heard a fine sermon and enjoyed it very much. We then went back to camp, had dinner, and spent the afternoon to suit ourselves.

At eight o'clock Monday classes began. We had four classes of forty-five minute periods each day. The instructors, who numbered sixteen in all, were professors from the University Farm. One of the instructors was Prof. L. Bruner, a former West Point boy, and who has lately been honored by being named as the most distinguished citizen of Nebraska, and was sent to San Francisco as a delegate from Nebraska.

Usually one class each day was illustrated up at University Hall on the Fair grounds.

The classes were very interesting, especially those such as when we judged horses, worked with ropes, chose best dairy cows, tested milk, inspected machinery, etc. Prof. C. W. Pugsley was Principal and Prof. H. E. Bradford, Assistant Principal.

After classes we would have dinner, and then one section of the camp would go on duty as ushers at the grandstand, which holds a little over seven thousand people. Forty ushers are required at a time. Each usher has his own section, and so everything works very smoothly. After supper the next section of ushers would go on duty, and so on.

The night of the wrestling match, two groups of ushers were used, as the match was held in the Coliseum. I happened to be in the Coliseum group although the grandstand ushers were let off in time to see the match. Most of the soldiers, whether on duty or not, were also in the building to see Joe, roll the big Canadian champ over twice in about five minutes.

Wednesday afternoon our group went out to see the State Farm and go through the buildings. Everything is certainly kept clean, even the cow-barns are scrubbed twice a day. We then went up town to the Y.M.C.A. building and in for a good plunge. We then went through the First National Bank building, and then back to camp. The next group made the trip the next afternoon.

Thursday forenoon after the classes we went over to the Coliseum to see the parade of prize winning stock. One section of the seats was reserved for us. The stock was all very good, of course, but it certainly looked good to me to see that the cattle division was led by the herds of Howell Rees & Sons and Owen Kane.

Saturday afternoon we did not have classes, and so the entire group went out to the penitentiary and the insane asylum, for, as the captain said, it would probably be a long time before any of us would get to go to both places again.

The last meal was served Saturday noon, after which we handed in our mess kits, ushered for the last time, shook hands and said good-bye. We all made many friends from all over the state, and I am sure that none of us will ever forget the good times we had. About the only thing during the week of which I felt sorry, was that the other delegate from Cuming county was unable to attend. Each county is entitled to two delegates, but only about half of them were present. Let us have two delegates from our county every year after this. I am quite sure that if everything was understood, each boy in the county would want to go. If you would like to go next year and are between sixteen and twenty-one years old, just write your County Superintendent about it sometime in the early part of next summer. Let us boost our county and have it as well represented as any in the state.

Interested In County Agent

About 25 farmers, representing every township in Butler county, heard a talk on the county agent farm demonstrator service on Wednesday, Sept. 15, in the Library and Gymnasium building. They were guests of the David City Commercial club at dinner and the talk followed the dinner.

A. E. Anderson, of the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture faculty, having supervision of Farm Demonstration Work in Nebraska for the state in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture, was the speaker. He told of the province and purpose and advantage of having a county agent. There are about 100 of them in the United States, some eight or ten in Nebraska. Instances of profit from them were given, notably from treatment for smut in oats in Gage county, and saving of hogs from cholera in Seward county and Gage county. He stated that the United States government gives $1200 a year to a county in support of a farm demonstration work on conditions that an equal amount be raised in the county in co-operation. A farm demonstrator must be a resident of the state, must have been brought up on the farm, and must be a graduate of an agricultural college.

Following Mr. Anderson's talk there was a session in the supervisor's room at the court house lasting two hours or more, a result of which was the forming of a temporary organization for furtherance of the project.—Butler County Press.

Time To Plant Bulbs

It is advisable to plant bulbs as early as they appear in the market. Well rotted manure should be spread over the flower beds and spaded into the soil after they have been cleaned of rubbish.

Tulips and hyacinths are the best flowers for formal effects. Iris looks well when planted in masses. Plant the narcissus and jonquil in the shrubby and hardy flower beds. The following planting table is one recommended by the landscape gardener at the University Farm: Crocus and snowdrop, two inches deep and two inches apart; tulip, four to six inches deep and four inches apart; hyacinth, five inches deep and five inches apart; lily, six or seven inches deep and a foot or more apart.

Cedar county had a good fair last week and broke even on the money end of the deal, which is doing nicely considering the work and the weather. The exhibit, the News says, was good, and their entertainments were appreciated.

A Letter From W. L. Hurlbert

Dear Editor and readers of our Wayne County Democrat:—

As I promised last spring to write you and let you know about our trip, I'll endeavor to do so at this time. We left home on June first with a team and wagon. Our first route was westward and a little south through the great canyons of Nebraska. Crops were fine and everybody happy. We then went south to Grand Island, visiting there with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Maholm and Dan Burruss.

We took the Lincoln highway to Kearney, and from there we went south to Kansas. Corn was backward, but all small grain was beautiful. Let me say—here the roads were so well marked by the auto clubs from county to county that we seldom had to ask which road to take. Madison county was simply perfect, not a side road but what there was a sign board telling where it led to. There were two things I noticed in particular that our Wayne county was behind all other counties in Nebraska that we passed through and these were the road guides and postoffice buildings. We saw so many beautiful county buildings, even in Phelps county where their crops have failed for seven years. Yet they had just put up a beautiful tile roof building.

We reached Oberlin, Kansas, in time to celebrate the 4th of July, where Mr. W. L. lived in his childhood days. We had lovely roads through Kansas and saw immense crops of small grain.

We reached Colorado Springs July 17. Scenery was lovely there. It rained most all the time we were there, yet we were used to it as we had dodged the hail and rain all through Nebraska and Kansas. We visited the Garden of the Gods, the Cave of The Winds and tried to climb Pike's Peak. The awful hail-storm that destroyed so much in Colorado Springs came up and we were compelled to turn back. Well, we were tired enough to last for a week anyway.

We drove through Ute's Pass which is a grand drive. We drove through canyons, over passes and dodged autos and cut a figure-eight, and looped the loop so many times, that we really believe we could go any place that a mountain goat could go. At Glenwood Springs, Colorado, we saw the prisoners at work and traveled over thirty miles of their road down the Grand river, as beautiful as a park.

We saw the great electric power house that supplies almost the whole state of Colorado. The water force is terrific to see. It is tunneled for three miles, besides the wonderful fall of the river. We were also at Leadville and saw the largest smelter and dump in the world; it is also the largest city with so high an elevation. Crossed the Tennessee pass where it was very cold, then followed the railroad to Rifle, Colorado. Here we leave it and turn north to Meeker and Vernal, a town of 12,000, and the largest city known without a railroad. It has 22 miles of paving and lovely buildings. We came this way to avoid the desert at Grand Junction, and well we did, as it is very hot and sandy.

We got to Lehi, Utah, about thirty miles from Salt Lake City. As we wished to stop at Salt Lake City a while and would have the great desert to cross immediately after leaving the city we sold our team and wagon, and here took the train for the city. Here we found it very warm, and a nicely built city—clean, very wide streets, large houses and buildings. We attended services at the tabernacle and heard Rev. Russell of Ohio, and also D. D. Essart of Michigan, on their tour from ocean to ocean over the Lincoln highway. They lecture every day on their way west, and east again on their way home. Salt Lake is a beautiful place for a vacation.

September 1 we arrived in San Francisco. Here we are located in an apartment house furnished for light housekeeping. We have two nice rooms three and a half blocks from main entrance to exposition grounds, No. 2044, Green Street. Don't forget our number and any one coming out to the fair just please call. I must say this is a very accommodating place. Rent is not unreasonable and provision is much cheaper than at Salt Lake City. We are just one block to street car line and can see all over the fair grounds from our porch. The lights are beautiful at night, especially the Suffragat monument—a lady with a drum standing about 60 feet in height—is outlined with electric lights. The Tower of Jewels and the Ryans Fire Works we can see from our door and even the aeroplane flights. Prof. Niles has been very successful so far. He flies at 3 and 11 o'clock each afternoon and evening. At night he has a fine fire display. Prof. Petty Rosset fell in the bay last Thursday afternoon, and his Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Hogs and Poultry, and the Grain and Fruit Products of the farm, as well as Domestic Arts, such as baking, canned fruits, preserves, bread, cakes, pies, butter, and all manner of plain sewing and fancy work by the ladies.

Premiums given for the best exhibits. NO ENTRANCE FEES CHARGED except from prize winners. But $1.00 a pen will be charged those showing stock for sale purposes only.

☞ The farmers and citizens of Carroll and vicinity can and do produce live stock and all products of the farm and home equal to the best in this or any other state, and it is for the purpose of inviting the public to see what we are doing along this line that this great show is inaugurated. One of its missions is to show one-half the people what the other half are doing—we know too little of our own possibilities.

☞ Plan to attend and learn what your neighbors are doing—see what you may and show what you have accomplished—help your neighbor and let him aid you by an exhibit that will show to the world the possibilities of our home community—it will make it a better and richer place.

aeroplane was badly damaged so he has not been able to fly since.

We have been here a week and have been to the grounds three days. The exhibits are neatly arranged, buildings about all on the same plan so it is hard to tell where you have been. We don't think it compares with the St. Louis fair at all. The Zone is a very small affair compared with the Pike. So far we have not been able to find any Nebraska exhibit. We have no building. Almost all the buildings have a rest room, and plenty of seats all over the grounds. Instead of the ferris wheel they have a house they lift up about 270 feet high. We have not been elevated yet.

We expect to be here for some time.

If this country is not reasonably well prepared for war—or at least to protect ourselves from foreign invasion—the people have been robbed, for we have squandered many millions of money along that line.

In announcing the candidacy of S. R. McKelvie of Lincoln for the republican nomination for governor the Beatrice Express makes one truthful assertion when it says that the republicans can hope to win only by the nomination of a man in every way fitted to fill the position. We are glad that two business administrations by a democratic governor has caused our republican friends to recognize the fact that the people of the state want a real man for governor—and that any old-wind bag or corporation tool will not be acceptable. As to the ability and merits of Mr. McKelvie the voters must pass their opinion.

The Beatrice Express is worrying about the revenues of the government under democratic rule and seems to think that the proper thing to do is to put the republicans in power again and let them raise the tariff tax. Yes, but without imports the tariff tax will not raise revenue—and the war has knocked the import business almost entirely out. An increase in the income tax to give the government a share of the millions now being made by manufacturers of war munitions and other war supplies, because the democratic administration has kept this nation at peace with the world, would be a better, more just and sure manner of dealing with the tax question. The tariff, if it raise revenue, takes from those who have nothing but labor to sell and gives it to those who buy labor at the lowest possible price.

If Great Britain were putting into battleships the money now being put into the war the end of a twelve month would find the British naval register recording the presence of about 365 new superdreadnaughts. If all the war expenditures were going into submarines a twelve-month would give the British navy about 10,000 new sea going submarines. The moral of which is that if war could be effectually warded off by preparations it would be cheaper to prepare than to fight.—Sioux City Journal.

There is that IF—let us say if the moneyed men of this country will honestly use the money they are planning to loan to European warring nations into development at home it will bring an 100-fold better returns. Think of our undeveloped riches and see how criminal it is to loan wealth to a war of destruction instead of using it for the upbuilding of a mighty nation. Give us but one tenth of the cost of the war daily and a prosperity will spread over this land the like of which has never before been witnessed.

Proposed.
Grubbs—I hear that old Skinem has given the committee his views on the proposed new charter.

Stubbs—That must be a mistake. Skinem never gave anybody anything. If the committee had his views he has the committee's note providing for the return of the views with something more than legal interest.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

The German censor has passed a dispatch from Berlin which records the beginning of the expected Teutonic drive through Serbia. It is indicated that the aim of the Austro-German armies will be to force their way toward Constantinople through the Morava valley, in which railway lines lead to Bulgaria and Turkey. The gradual slowing up of the Austro-German offensive was the chief development of the last week on the eastern front. Under the leadership of Czar Nicholas the Russians have been able to check the rapidity of the Teuton advance nearly all along the line.

The "dug in" armies on the western front have confined their activities along the whole battle line to continuous and heavy bombardments by gigantic guns except in the Verdun region, where the Bavarian and Wuertemberg troops, commanded by the crown prince, have engaged in infantry actions, which resulted in the capture of some French trenches. What fragmentary news drifted through from the Dardanelles during the week indicated that the allies were preparing for a big effort to gain the narrows of the passage to Constantinople.

Italy's campaign in the clouds is practically at a standstill except as the heavy Latin artillery is pounding its way slowly through the mountain defenses of Austria.

Concern is expressed in London for the safety of the Russian forces retreating from Vilna, estimated to number from 250,000 to 300,000. Petrograd correspondents express confidence that the Russian armies will be safely withdrawn from the Teutonic net in the Vilna region, as they have been previously from the grasp of other German encircling movements.

A dispatch to a Petrograd newspaper from Kiev contains a statement that the evacuation of this important city of southwestern Russia is proceeding normally.

Paris reports intense activity by artillery along the Franco-Belgian line. The entente allies have presented a joint note to the Bulgarian government asking in effect that it declare itself as between them and the central powers.

Two French aviators were killed at Deylingen, Alsace, when their machine struck barbed wire entanglements as they were making a landing, causing the explosion of bombs aboard the aeroplane. The airmen were buried by the Germans with military honors.

A dispatch from Berlin says that a full settlement of the submarine problem can probably be arranged by negotiations in Washington. Count von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, has been given power to negotiate terms of settlement with the United States subject only to final revision and approval by the German government.

Indications that relations between Greece and Bulgaria are improving and that the former nation is tending toward a determination to continue its neutral policy are noted by a correspondent in Athens. Paris, on the other hand, has reports from the Greek capital that several classes of Greek reserves have been called to join the colors on Oct. 1. The Germans have lost twenty submarines since the beginning of the war, according to a London paper, while the British losses have been only seven.

Hard fighting is chronicled from the east and artillery actions from the west. Additional successes for the Germans in the region of Dvinsk, in northwest Russia, are reported by Berlin. The Russians are strenuously resisting on many fronts, but the Austro-German forces are making progress, according to their versions, at all points along the eastern battle front.

On the western front and along the Austro-Italian lines of battle there has been nothing but heavy artillery engagements, which, seemingly, are without important results.

Nun Sent to Jail.

Precautions have been taken by the German military administration to prevent uncensored letters from leaving Germany. A sister superior of the Order of Sainte Christiana at Metz was searched on her departure for a trip to Switzerland. Various letters intended for mailing outside of Germany were found upon her and she was sentenced to fifteen days in prison. A sister who had written one of the letters was sentenced to a month's imprisonment.

Byzantium Crown For Bulgar King.

The Turin Stampa says it has learned "from a diplomatic source" that Germany has made extensive promises to Bulgaria to obtain that nation's benevolent neutrality. It stated that these promises were made to King Ferdinand of Bulgaria by the grand-duke of Mecklenburg on behalf of Emperor William, and that among them was the stipulation that King Ferdinand should have the crown of Byzantium.

Mexican Train Falls Into Canyon.

The wreck of a Mexican military train, resulting in the death of ninety persons, occurred one mile out of Saltillo. Spreading rails caused it to leave the tracks at a point near a canyon, precipitating two coaches with their occupants to the rocks below. Soldiers, women camp followers, children and babies literally were ground to pieces in the debris.

The young people of the Y. P. S. C. E. are pleased to see visitors at their 7 o'clock Sunday evening meetings which are growing splendidly in every way.

Boost the Sunday evening service; help by being present and doing your part toward making a cheerful and prayerful atmosphere, and invite others to come.

The mid-week prayer meeting has been called the thermometer of the church and it should be interesting, at least, to come and take your collective temperature.

School Notes

The annual State Teacher's association will be held in Omaha November 4, 5 and 6.

John Hufford Jr., has returned to his place in the eighth grade, having recovered from an attack of pneumonia.

Recent visitors in the high school were Misses Helen Reppert and Ruth White and Mesdames E. A. Johnson and D. H. Cunningham.

In the reading circle work this year the teachers will study "The Discipline of the School." The first meeting for the discussion of this subject will be held next Thursday.

As last year, absence from class results in a loss to the pupil of 3 per cent of the term's grade. It is highly important, therefore that each pupil be absent as little as possible.

Last Thursday morning the junior class gave the following very interesting program: Piano solo, Julius Hurstard; reading, Cidne Macklin; vocal duet, Izetta Johnson and Helen Main accompanied by Mrs. E. A. Johnson; reading, Jesse Randol.

Miss Eva Graves, music and drawing supervisor, will spend four days each week in the Wayne schools, devoting three days to music and one to drawing. Each Wednesday she goes to Wakefield where she has charge of the music in the city schools.

Rev. S. X. Cross addressed the high school last Friday morning on the importance of high scholarship, emphasizing the fact that achievement is always measured by effort. Mr. Cross is always a welcome caller at the high school, and especially when he brings to it one of his helpful messages.

The pupils of the Fifth grade have been enjoying real, live language lessons relating to different occupations. Thursday, the class made a visit to the W. A. Wollert blacksmith shop where Mr. Wollert welded iron, polished a plow lay, and showed the children about the shop. Some very interesting papers were written about the visit. The next visit will be to a carpenter. This class is learning some very pretty folk dances taught by Miss Eva Graves.

The Wayne High School football season will open Friday with a

The lineup will be as follows: Hoguewood, center; Jones, left guard; Rickabaugh, left tackle; Carhart, sub-tackle; Porter, right guard; Conger, right tackle; Tielman, a u b t a c k l e; McVicker, right end; Tielman, left end; Rennick, sub-end; Moran, full back; Mildner, left half; Miner, right half; Gildersleeve, quarterback. E. J. Huntermer, the State Normal coach, will act as referee. The game will be called at four o'clock sharp. The team this year is light and fast; therefore it will resort to much open work. A good crowd and plenty of noise will help immensely.

NEBRASKA NEWS

Will Seek to Impose Penalties Upon State Treasurer.

HAINER TO PROSECUTE CASE

Shippers' Instructions Held Void in Test Case—No Funds to Prosecute Passenger Rate Case—Must Disinfect Stock Cars.

Fire Commissioner Ridgell will bring suit against State Treasurer George Hall to force the treasurer to pay the penalties alleged to be due because of his failure to pay warrants of the fire commission when funds were in the treasury for that purpose.

It is understood that Mr. Ridgell has retained E. J. Halber to prosecute the cases.

The statutes provide that in case the state treasurer refuses to cash warrants when there is money to do so he is subject to an action for the payment of four times the amount of the warrants and also subject to a fine of $500.

The treasurer refused to pay the warrants because he was under the impression that it required a specific appropriation for the fire commission to draw the funds, later finding that on account of the failure of the session laws to index the provision, the act of its appropriation was not discovered until a few days ago, when Hall then offered to cash the warrants and Ridgell refused.

METHODISTS IN SESSION

One Thousand Churchmen Attend Annual Conference in Omaha.

The third largest church conference in the United States began its session in Omaha this week, when the annual conference of the First M. E. church convened.

Five hundred ministers and about the same number of lay delegates started their deliberations, which will extend for a period of one week. Bishop Bristol is presiding. Former Bishop Oldram of New York city has accepted an invitation to attend the conference and will deliver many addresses during the sessions. Ministers will be assigned their churches for the coming year at this session.

Shippers' Instructions Void.

"A common carrier is not bound to comply with every arbitrary request made by a shipper of live stock as to the place where such stock shall be unloaded and fed while in transit. It is only obliged to comply with such requests and instructions regarding the case of the shipment as may be reasonable."

Such is the holding of the supreme court in an opinion written by Judge Barnes in an appeal brought from Douglas county by the Northwestern railroad on a judgment secured by Richard S. Keat for $129.65 for alleged damages to two carloads of cattle, which, it was claimed, were not properly cared for.

The cattle were shipped from Passett to the Omaha stock yards, with instructions to the company to unload and feed them at Fremont, which instructions, it is alleged, were not followed.

Game Wardens Agree.

State Game Warden Rutenbeck of Nebraska and State Game Warden Hinshaw of Iowa have come to a satisfactory agreement over hunting at Carter lake and Lake Manawa. Heretofore there has been much trouble over just how far Nebraska and Iowa hunters could go when hunting in either of the lakes, the line between the two states being somewhere on the waters of the two lakes. The matter has been arranged so that Nebraska licenses will be good on all of Carter lake and the Iowa licenses good on all of Lake Manawa. This makes the present bed of the river the dividing line.

Boosting New Highway.

Five delegates have been selected by the Auburn Commercial club and five by the city of Auburn to send to New Orleans on Nov. 15 and 16 to attend the organization meeting of the Jefferson Highway association. The proposed Jefferson highway is a national highway to extend from New Orleans to Winnipeg, Canada. Omaha, Kansas City and Sioux City and intermediate towns are along a direct route from New Orleans to Winnipeg and so are interested in the routing of the new highway.

Switch Rate Hearing Put Over.

The hearing before the state railway commission on the complaint of the Peters Milling company of Omaha against the Great Western Railway company covering certain charges in switching rates has been postponed for a couple of weeks.

Must Disinfect Cars.

The state live stock sanitary board has issued an order that all cars and other receptacles for shipping live stock coming from Illinois must be thoroughly disinfected before they can come into Nebraska.

Mrs. Callen Thompson Is Dead.

Mrs. Callen Thompson, clubwoman and social worker, died very suddenly after a short illness with pneumonia at the College View sanitarium.

SUNDAY SCHOOL DAY NOV. 7.

Governor Morehead Issues Proclamation Indorsing Movement.

The Nebraska State Sunday association is inaugurating a state-wide campaign to get 500,000 people to attend Sunday school on Nov. 7, 1915. The governor's proclamation setting aside Nov. 7 as the day to be observed throughout the state as "Come to Sunday School Day," follows:

"It has come to my knowledge that certain societies who have for their object, among other things, the special study of the Bible, have indicated a particular day for the purpose of studying those portions that would tend to promote harmony among people and nations.

"I have been requested to give emphasis to the movement as chief executive of the state, the day to be known as 'Nebraska Get-Together Sunday School Day.' Believing that nothing other than good could come of a conscientious study of the Bible on the general topic of peace, and to subserve the best interests of all, I cheerfully indorse the proposition in setting apart Sunday, Nov. 7, 1915, as the day when a state-wide Sunday school be held for the purposes indicated, and commend it to the attention of all churches, and the people generally."

931 HIT SAWDUST TRAIL

Expense of Sunday Revival at Omaha Nearly All Met.

No more collection will be taken in the Billy Sunday tabernacle at Omaha, with one or two exceptions, until the final Sunday of the campaign, when Billy gets all the collections for himself.

So successful has been the solicitation of the committee during the last week and so splendid was the response to the call for personal contributions and pledges that Mr. Sunday announced the heavy Omaha budget, $27,000, had been almost met and no collections will be taken up until Friday. And next Sunday it is expected everything will be "cleaned up" and the campaign will go on collectionless to the end.

The total attendance for the first thirteen days is 225,000; trail hitters, 931; collections, $22,000.

ARTHUR ENFORCES DEMAND

Brings Suit to Be Included in Thirtieth Judicial District.

Suit was filed in the supreme court by Attorney General Reed against Judge Grimes of the Thirtieth judicial district for the purpose of compelling the judge to hold court in Arthur county.

When the last legislature changed the judicial districts of the Eighth and Ninth districts it was necessary to include in the bill all of the districts. The clerk who copied the bill took an old statute, which was printed before Arthur county was organized, and consequently when the bill was passed that county was left out. The territory embracing Arthur county has always been in the Thirtieth district and the suit is one to make legal the holding of the terms of court so that Arthur county may become a part of the Thirtieth district.

WARNED AGAINST LOAN

German-Americans Personally Tell Bankers to Keep Hands Off.

Following adoption of resolutions by Omaha Germans protesting against the proposed $1,000,000 loan to the allies, it has become known that many Omahans of German descent and sympathies have personally warned local bankers not to participate in the gigantic loan for war purposes.

"We have told the bankers that if they have anything to do with the loan to the allies, we Germans will withdraw all our accounts from the participating banks and put our money in other places," a prominent German business man stated.

Val J. Peter, German editor, says that in some cities of the country German-American societies have gone so far as to publish similar warnings in newspapers.

No Funds For Rate Case.

It is understood that the state railway commission has no funds with which to prosecute the Missouri Pacific passenger rate cases in the federal court. It has been the intention of the commission to hire a special attorney, but lack of funds will not allow them to do this, and it is understood that the matter has been put up to the attorney general to prosecute.

New Six-Story Building.

Lincoln's principal business corner, Thirtieth and O. is to have another new building, the Meier Drug company having made a lease of the property, where they now have their business, for ninety-nine years, with the contract that a building not less than six stories nor more than ten shall be erected thereon, work upon the same to begin as soon as possible.

New Beatrice Building.

The board of control is working on the bids for the erection of a new building at the home for feeble minded at Beatrice. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000 and bids are being made on that estimate. A large number of bidders were present.

Stenographer Appointed.

The supreme court commission has selected Miss Laura J. Mayer, daughter of Mayor Mayer of Beatrice, as its court stenographer. Miss Mayer is at present employed in the law office of John L. Webster in Omaha.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Trade a Little Slow and Generally Lower.

SHARP ADVANCE IN HOGS.

Another Steady Deal in Sheep and Lambs—Bulk of Killing Lambs $8.25—Feeding Lambs $8.10@8.20. Biggest Run of the Year.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Sept. 22.—Another fairly liberal run of cattle showed up yesterday, about 8,700 head. Monday's run of 17,183 was the largest run in the history of the yards. This makes 25,883 cattle for the two days, or 9,000 more than were here last Monday and Tuesday, and 3,000 more than for the same two days one year ago. As on Monday, the receipts were made up almost entirely of western rangers and there were only a few bunches of corn fed stock in the yards. Demand was good and prices steady for anything at all useful in the way of dry lot stock. Good heavy heaves going at $9.15@9.20. Demand from dressed beef men for range heaves seemed to be fair and there was quite a little competition from feeder buyers, but 25,000 cattle in two days appeared to be a little too big for the trade to absorb without forcing declines in prices. Steady to a dime lower would about cover the market yesterday. Cows and heifers were also a dime lower than Monday, while a good share of the business in stockers and feeders outside of toppy kinds was done at prices averaging 15@25c lower than last week.

Cattle quotations: Good to choice heaves, $9.00@9.85; fair to good heaves, $8.30@8.85; common to fair heaves, $6.75@8.25; good to choice yearlings, $9.00@9.85; fair to good yearlings, $8.50@9.00; common to fair yearlings, $6.50@8.00; good to choice grass heifers, $6.25@7.25; good to choice cows, $5.25@5.75; canners and cutters, $4.00@5.00; veal calves, $8.00@10.00; bulls, stags, etc., $5.00@6.50; prime grass heaves, $8.00@8.40; good to choice grass steers, $7.40@7.90; fair to good grass steers, $6.85@7.25; common to fair steers, $5.00@6.75; prime feeder steers, $7.80@8.25; good to choice feeders, $7.35@7.75; fair to good feeders, $6.00@7.35; common to fair feeders, $6.50@6.50; good to choice stockers, $7.85@8.35; fair to good stockers, $6.75@7.75; common to fair stockers, $5.50@6.50; stock heifers, $5.75@7.00; stock cows, $5.50@6.25; stock calves, $5.50@8.50.

Some 3,700 hogs showed up yesterday. Shipper trade opened fairly active and generally a dime higher. There were practically no choice loads of lights here, best offered bringing $7.35. Anything real good and weighing 200 pounds or less ought to bring $7.50 easily, and might beat that. The general trade in packing hogs was fully 5@10c higher. A good share of the packing hogs sold at $6.55@6.85.

Sheep and lamb receipts were the heaviest of the season, some 45,000 head arriving. Receipts are larger than Chicago, Kansas City and St. Joseph combined. The fat lamb trade opened in good season on about steady basis, with the bulk selling at $8.25 the same price as was paid both Monday and Friday for the bulk of the good to choice killing lambs. The greatest interest centered in the feeding lamb trade again yesterday, and prices held about steady. A good percentage of the desirable lambs brought $8.10@8.20. Breeding ewes were in good supply, but the demand was very broad, and the strong tone that has featured the market in this class was again very prominent. Yearling ewes set a new high mark yesterday, selling at $7.75. Fat sheep were notably steady. Ewes sold as high as $5.35.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $8.15@8.25; lambs, fair to good, $8.00@8.15; lambs, feeders, $7.75@8.25; yearlings, fair to choice, $5.75@6.50; yearlings, feeders, $6.00@7.00; wethers, fair to choice, $5.00@5.50; ewes, good to choice, $5.00@5.35; ewes, fair to good, $4.50@5.00; ewes, feeders, $4.50@5.25.

Rev. and Mrs. Buell are at Omaha this week attending the annual conference of the M. E. church, mornings, and the Sunday meetings afternoons and evenings. L. M. Owen was elected as a lay delegate to represent the church here in the meeting of the lay members.

G. and H. Garwood, both from Carroll, returned Saturday evening from a visit of several weeks at their old homes in western Ohio, not far from the West Virginia line—but they say it makes no difference where they looked out at the crops and country, all appeared to have been having the same sort of a summer as we have had—more rain than was really needed. Some parts were not as well drained as Wayne county and show bad results of the water not felt here.

Dr. G. H. Leisenring from San Diego, California, has been spending a few days with former friends here, looking after his property, while on his way home from Rochester, Minnesota, where he went to attend clinic, and add to his knowledge of the X-Ray uses, as he is devoting his time to that branch of the profession. He notes many changes in Wayne in the four years since he left—some for the better and others for the worse. To the business section of the place he gives no praise—but there has been much improvement in the residence part of the city and the college has made much gain. He expressed the idea that he would like to again live at Wayne but for the winter climate.

J. E. Hufford is looking after business at Omaha this week.

G. W. and J. W. Nelson from Garden City, Kansas, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holmes from Kansas City, left for their homes Wednesday morning following a visit here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Randol. They travel by automobile.

Francis Gaertner, who has been staying at Rochester, Minnesota, taking treatment for asthma, was home the first of the week, but returned Tuesday, as this climate does not agree with him and he was not able to sleep here except while sitting up.

Elwin Strong and a splendid company will open a weeks engagement next Monday night, Sept. 28, in their beautiful tent theatre, absolutely waterproof. Mr. Strong is carrying one of the finest orchestras traveling, and a week of real enjoyment is assured. Ladies free Monday night. —adv.

E. W. Cullen of Winside was here Wednesday with Alger Hansen from six miles west of Wayne. He was giving Mr. Hansen instruction in handling a new Ford he had just sold him. They left for Winside with Mr. Hansen at the helm, and as we have heard of no wreck he must have made good.

Sam'l Hurlbutt returned to his home near Carroll Wednesday from a trip to look after his land in Sioux county. He said they were threshing a big crop, the top on wheat being 62 bushels per acre from a 20 acre field, and oats 95 bushels. All grain was good but not up to these figures.

You can save more than $100 per acre on land from the price you now have to pay in this county and secure land that has a coming value as great as this land had 20 years ago, and you can learn of the proposition by writing to Geo. E. Wallace Land Co., Bismarck, North Dakota. Or you can get government reports of the land at the Democrat office. —adv.

G. K. Johnson from Greeley, Colorado, stopped here last week to visit at the home of his father-in-law, Wm. Fleetwood and family, while returning from a commercial trip in the south where he has been selling hay for a Kansas City firm. He was on his way to the hay fields of Western Nebraska for the same people, and then on to his home. He said that the south seemed very warm to him, and that wet weather prevailed nearly everywhere he went.

Will Weber returned the first of the week from six weeks at the Weber ranch in Blaine county, tells us that his sons Harold and Gillman have raised about 80 acres of good corn this season and put up the hay on 600 acres. This they plan to feed—partly to their own stock and by taking stock to winter. From the story he tells us of the manner of making hay there, the writer is reminded of the way visitors from the farming lands of New York used to tell of the wasteful method of stacking hay and grain in northeastern Iowa in early days. To them, coming from a land where they had to cut off the timber and burn it or make it into barns before they could grow a crop, it seemed wanton waste to stack hay out of doors and feed it out in the wind. But we had the hay in those days and the easterner did not and could not seem to realize the difference. So, when Mr. Weber tells us that they cut with a mower which drops it in winrows and that if not left that way it is simply bunched with a rake and left thus to await winter and hungry cattle to eat it from the bunch. A little of it is stacked in small stacks of a ton or ton and a half, and near the shed, provided for the worst of weather, a larger stack is put for emergency.

The Banner Oat Field

The best yield of oats reported so far was threshed this week for H. J. Miner, when John Kay's machine run out 1,546 bushels in the forenoon. The oats yielded 75 bushels per acre by measure, and carried weight enough to weigh out 80 bushels. That helps to redeem the Logan valley land this season.

M. E. Church Closes a Busy Year

Monday evening the official board of the Wayne Methodist church held its last official business session of the year, and the report is that the year was a successful one in the business matters of the church, and that the organization is ready to begin the new year in good shape after the conference has passed on the work of the past year and named the pastor for the next twelve months. There is little doubt but that Rev. Buell will be returned as he has been here but one year, and so far as we know has given splendid satisfaction.

In place of the regular services Sunday morning a representative of the child saving institute will speak. The Sunday School will be held at the usual hour, 11:45, and the League at 7 o'clock. Now that the pastor is away is a good time to play "hooky" perhaps, but you should not do that, if you believe in your religion, for they may need you worse Sunday than when he is here.

An Interesting Missionfest Service

The observance of the annual missionfest at the German church northeast of Wayne, where Rev. Gehrke is pastor, last Sunday, was a most successful service from all view points. Both morning and afternoon there were services. Rev. Ollenburg from Bloomfield, who was accompanied by his wife, spoke and Rev. Scheips from Pierce also spoke. In the afternoon there was a talk in both English and German. Rev. Borne-man from south of Wakefield being one of the speakers. The day was perfect, the roads as good as they have been this summer, and a large number were in attendance, some coming from long distances to attend.

Silver Filling for Teeth

Silver or Amalgam filling is an alloy of silver, with other metals. Fillings from this alloy, when mixed with mercury, produce a plastic material that becomes hard in from six to 12 hours.

It is equally as good for preserving the teeth, as gold—is much easier to use, and not so expensive. On account of its color it cannot be used in the front teeth.

John Harrington returned this morning from a trip in the western part of the state, and while away stopped at Central City to inspect the new lights just installed there. They have adopted the same material that is to be used at Wayne, except a pole of different pattern. The lights there are spaced about as the Wayne plan contemplates, and are very fine in appearance as well as useful.

C. J. Nuss of the Wayne Variety Store is branching out, having purchased a variety store and stock at Winner, South Dakota, to take possession the first of October. This store will be in charge of his brother, George Nuss, who visited here a year ago, and who is now on his way from his Pennsylvania home for this place. By establishing a chain of these stores Mr. Nuss will be enabled to buy better because of buying in larger quantity, and the Democrat is glad to see him weld a link to the one he has here.

A. Hurlbert from Sholes and C. E. Closson from Carroll each bought feeders at Sioux City this week.

It will always pay you to read the advertising in the Democrat. We reject some advertising because we do not believe it fair, and we try to keep the advertising honest.

C. J. Rundell blew in the first of the week from the southern part of the state, followed by two cars of apples—Grimes Golden and Jonathan. Speaking of the apple crop he says that it is light in this state except the two varieties mentioned.

The worm did not bother apples much this season, and they are not colored as they would have been with more sunshine and less foliage. When asked about the corn he said that in Cass county he saw lots of corn the greater part of which appeared to be out of the way of a frost, which looked like 80 bushels per acre. In Missouri, where he spent a few days along the river, the water had almost ruined all crops. In the Nebraska corn, he said the farmers told him the lightning bugs were all working themselves to death, for the growth is so dense that the little green bug out in the corn fields does not know when it is day, and he is running his electric light both day and night.

A Correction

Editor Nebraska Democrat—The item appearing in last week's Democrat in regard to my sister's (Mrs. Cannon) death is very misleading. Your informant likely did not know the facts, hence the mistake. Mrs. Cannon died in South Chicago at her home, the 6th of September. The body was taken to Syracuse, Indiana, for interment.

I visited my sister last November when she was in very poor health, as she had had cancer tumors removed a year before; had had her whole right side to her hips scraped to her ribs.

The latter part of December her only daughter Glenna passed away. She had stood by the side of her mother faithfully through her terrible suffering until death called her.

Mrs. Cannon was for over two years a resident of Wayne where she is well known, as she and myself were in the dressmaking and millinery business.

WHO PAYS FEDERAL TAXES?

And logically following that question comes another one: "Who gets the money when it is collected and spent?" In other words, what are the people who pay the good money in taxes receiving. This is a question about which too little attention has been given in the past, and one which should be of interest to every tax payer, and the Democrat believes it can be of no greater service to the people who pay the taxes than to call attention to the question. Just now the question of army and navy appropriations is one that is in the fore front, so we are printing a bit from the Congressional Record giving views of Congressman Clyde H. Tavenner, who has been doing a good work in calling public attention to the use made of the tax money you pay in good faith to your government. When you have read this if the use that has been made of the money does not look right to you, make a protest, for it is your money—you pay the bill and should get the goods you need and desire.

First he says that in the last 24 years the navy appropriations have increased from year to year from $20,000,000 in 1890 to $140,000,000 in 1914. During this period the tax paid for each man, woman and child has increased from $6.15 each to $11.09 each—almost double. Then he adds: "It is pertinent to inquire where the millions that have been poured into militarism to the enrichment of the armor and ammunition capitalists came from. These millions were not icked up in the streets, and they were not contributed by the rich. Our citizens have not contributed in proportion to their wealth, but the poor man has paid on an average almost as much as the rich; and since there are 99 poor men to every rich man, it means that the millions that have piled up in the pockets of the armor plate magnates have come from the pockets of the poor.

And this is the feature of militarism-gone-mad that strikes home, the fact that the wasted millions did not come from an income tax or inheritance tax levied on those best able to bear the burden, none of it having been collected by a direct tax, but that practically every penny of the $20,000,000,000 expended on the Army and Navy in the last 10 years came through the customhouses and the internal revenue offices. Since customhouses and internal-revenue offices do not levy taxes on men according to their wealth or ability to pay, but solely upon things the people eat, wear, and use, it means that the people pay the armor-plate makers' bills in the increased cost of living.

Therefore it is but logical that the cost of living must increase in proportion to the cost of militarism and it does, as the figure heretofore given shows beyond successful contradiction. The people may as well know that at the cost of militarism increases in the future so will the cost of living.

To make clearer my statement that the poor man has been paying almost as much toward defraying the expenses of the federal government as the rich man, permit me to correct the impression of the average person that some part of the taxes he has been paying to his local tax collector has been sent to Washington for the purpose of maintaining the federal government. The truth is that not one penny of the taxes we have been paying our local tax collectors has come to Washington. Every penny of such taxes has gone toward defraying the expenses of township, city, county and state. Therefore if a millionaire pays a heavy state tax none of it goes toward defraying the cost of the army and navy or maintaining the federal government. The manner in which the people have been supporting the army and navy and meeting all other federal expenses has been by paying increased prices for things eaten, worn or used. The local grocer and drygoods merchant has been the federal tax collector without knowing it, or without his average customer knowing it. To the extent that the average poor man eats the same amount of food as the rich man he has been paying as much tax. Funds for the maintenance of the army and navy, as well as all other federal expenses have thus in the past been raised wholly in the form of increased cost of living.

It is true of course, that we now have an income tax law on the statutes, and this will help some; but until the tax on incomes in excess of $10,000 annually is increased much above the present rates and until there is a stiff Federal inheritance-tax law, so that those who derive the greatest benefit from military expenditures will bear the heaviest burden of their cost, as they should, the poor man will continue to carry the heaviest load in proportion to his ability to pay, just as he always has done and just as the stone in the bottom of the wall bears more weight than his more fortunate brethren on the top."

Community Club At Waterloo

A community club was organized at Waterloo, a town of 402 population, in August. Already the original membership of the club has nearly doubled. Farmers are taking an active part in it, and are interested in what it is seeking to accomplish. Plans have already been made for the improvement of roads, for the erection of a dyke and other things of general interest to the community. The purpose of the club is to "create a spirit of brotherhood among all those interested in building up this community and to put into operation such plans as will accomplish general improvement and development." The membership fee is between $5 and $10. There are the following committees: Good Roads, Publicity, Community Improvement, Membership, Entertainment, Commerce and Trade, and Employment. Meetings are held on the last Monday of each month at Waterloo.

M. E. Dillehay, secretary and treasurer of the club, a lumberman, at the request of the Tradesman has written the following of what is being done and what is being planned:

"Our club was organized August 6, 1915, with a membership of twenty-six. This has been increased to forty-six at the present time, of which number ten are representative farmers of our community. The farmers are interested and shortly our number is going to be increased materially by them. We have promises from several, and there are others progressive enough to take right hold of a movement of this kind designed for the betterment of all alike.

"There can be no doubt of the fact that the organization will bring the farmer and the business man into closer touch. In fact we have endeavored all along to eliminate the imaginary 'dead line' which has seemed to exist at the corporate limits of all municipalities, against the farmers. We are all inter-dependent, one upon the other.

"In the election of officers, directors and committeemen, the farmer is maintaining his place. The president, E. L. Linquist, is a banker; the vice-president, J. C. Moore, a general merchant; the secretary-treasurer, a lumberman, one director is a seedsman, the remaining three are farmers. There are four farmers on the standing committees. We have already put on foot a movement to build a dyke along the Elkhorn river, which will prevent the floods from inundating our village, and the contract has been let for the work.

"An effort will be made to put our stretch of the Lincoln Highway on a par with the best in the state, and to pave it at an early date. Entertainments for the winter are being considered, and in every sense the work of the club is moving."—The Tradesman.

It will be well for Nebraska if the question of prohibition can be made a purely side issue in the campaign of next year. Men say this cannot be done, some contending that either one or the other of the two great parties will be compelled to adopt a platform plank for or against the proposed amendment. The Telegram admits that the hot-heads on both sides will seek to drive both the political organizations to a declaration, and we are aware that success may crown their efforts. But it would be far better for Nebraska if the question might be considered along non-partisan lines, because if that question shall be made paramount in the state campaign it will mean that candidates for the congressional, the state, and even the county offices, will be nominated without reference to their worth, but wholly with reference to their advocacy of the amendment, or their opposition to it. And then to, important national questions will appear in the campaign, and it would not seem wise that all should be thrust aside to give the proposed amendment right-of-way. The Telegram has heretofore stated that it will be very difficult for either of the two political parties to sidestep the situation, because of the activity of the leaders on both sides. The record will show that The Telegram has never tried to dodge any political question, and yet, even at the risk of being branded as a dodger, we frankly state that we would be pleased if some plan might be devised to have the amendment fight conducted along lines entirely free from political sides of next year's state and national campaign. In the nation there will be larger issues than the amendment. In Nebraska there will be issues which should not be mixed up with the campaign for or against the amendment. We sincerely hope that men may be nominated for political offices in Nebraska next year without reference to their stand for or against the amendment, but we doubt it. The leaders on both sides are very impetuous. They seem to desire that the question of the amendment shall be regarded as above all other questions, and so treated in the platform of the two parties.

The editor of the Telegram recalls a dramatic scene in the democratic state convention twenty-five years ago. Many democrats then said, as democrats are saying now, that the prohibition amendment should not be mentioned in the state platform. It was quite generally believed that the convention would dodge the question. Then something happened. Hon. T. J. Mahoney arose to address the convention. For two full minutes he faced the great assembly in silence. Then his lips moved, and out came a sentence which brought nine out of ten delegates to their feet. What was that sentence? What was the slogan which caused that convention to go on record in opposition to the pending prohibition amendment? It was made up of four short words: "God hates a seoward!" And what was the result? Why, ten minutes later that democratic convention, by an overwhelming vote, went on record in opposition to the prohibition amendment. Will there be another Mahoney in the next democratic convention? The Telegram does not know, but we do know that if he shall appear the result of 1890 will be the result of 1916.—Columbus Telegram.

City Lets Sewer Contract

At a special meeting of the city council Thursday evening bids were opened for the new sewer, and the contract let to Geo. L. Vlasnik of Lincoln at $42c per foot and $43 each for manholes. J. F. Devlin of Sioux City was within a half a cent per foot of the price for laying the pipe, but his figure was $49 each for the manholes. The work is to be commenced before October 16 and be finished before December 1 next.

Suggestions On Seed Corn Selection

Because of unusual conditions this year, many farmers will find it desirable to practice early field selection of seed corn.

Seed corn may be safely selected in the stiff dough stage, if properly cured. The vitality of corn selected earlier than this is likely to be uncertain.

Early picked seed corn must begin drying rapidly at the earliest possible moment. If left lying in a pile for as much as a few hours the growth of mold is likely to start.

In drying immature corn, it is important to keep the ears from close contact.

While drying, rain-proof buildings which provide a free circulation of air and a temperature above freezing are highly desirable.

Well-preserved seed corn a year old is very satisfactory.—Department of Experimental Agronomy, College of Agriculture.

Sunday at The Capitol Monday
The Rev. W. A. Sunday went to save the sinners at Lincoln Monday, and had two large audiences, according to the Journal report. It is too bad that the governor had not called the legislature in special session so that the members might have come under the influence of his wonderful magnetism and passed some better laws. Bixby of the State Journal failed to find a place within earshot of the preacher and went back to his den and started his machine going and produced the following lines of regret and consolation:

RULED OUT
When Sunday came to throttle sin, I strove to crowd my fat form in Where I could hear the thunders roll And find refreshing for my soul; But there was such a motly crew Outside I couldn't worry through; Although with patient strength I tried,

I came away dissatisfied, And didn't hear a single word The great man uttered—how absurd I take some comfort in the thought That those who heard were helped a lot;

And my own failure to pull through, Made standing room at least for two And if those two, brought face to face With Sunday now are "saved by grace,"

'Twere well I couldn't put across My plan to be the winning hoss. I still may read from day to day About all Sunday has to say, Inspired by which, if I am wise To where the path of duty lies, I, too, may rise and smite Old Nick And fight him off, and make him sick,

And in the finals score a win Against the scerried host of sin, And have, when life's short day is done, A crown as big as anyone. Some things Bill Sunday says don't strike

Responsive chords—I do not like
The way he sometimes carries on About good people dead and gone, Nor the assurance he has shown In dealing with the great unknown, As though he really can discern The land from which none can return;

And, in words rather unrefined, He passes judgment on mankind, And in the long run, sad to tell, Sends almost everyone to Kansas City.

I'm not inclined to offer kicks, But let's not get excited. BIX.

Wood Alcohol.
The greatest danger in inhaling the fumes of wood alcohol is their effect on the optic nerve, which often results in total and incurable blindness.

Stringhalt of Horse.
Stringhalt of horses may be a nervous condition or may be caused by a shortening of a tendon which runs downward and forward across the outside of the upper third of the cannon bone, says the National Stockman. If the stringhalt is a nervous condition no treatment will help the animal. If due to the shortening of the tendon it can be cut, which will prove beneficial in a majority of cases. A veterinarian should perform the operation. Following an attack of distemper it has been noticed that some horses will develop a crampy condition of hind legs resembling stringhalt.

PASTURE FOR COLTS.

Alfalfa an Excellent Green Feed For Developing Young Horses.

There probably is no better pasture than alfalfa for developing young horses. Horses do not bloat as do cattle, says the Kansas Farmer. They have small stomachs and consequently cannot consume such large quantities of alfalfa in grazing as can cattle. On many of the farms in Kansas where considerable attention is given to the growing of draft horses alfalfa pasture is used almost the year around. It seems to supply the bone and muscle making material absolutely essential in properly developing the draft horse.

Horses at hard work cannot be so satisfactorily grazed on alfalfa, as it is too laxative. The hard working horse must of necessity have a considerable portion of his feed in a more concentrated form. On many farms, however, even the work horses are permitted to run on alfalfa at night. This practice effects some saving in the grain ration, but the best results will not follow if the alfalfa is made to substitute for any considerable portion of the grain ordinarily fed to horses performing hard work.

The alfalfa farm is especially fitted for properly developing draft colts. It is about the only kind of pasture that supplies an abundance of feed during the hot part of the summer. Colts that have the run of alfalfa will continue to grow and develop all summer long. Colts run on prairie pasture very frequently suffer for feed during the hot portion of the summer.

CARING FOR RUNT PIGS.

When Properly Handled and Fed They Return Good Profits.

From the sows I remove the runts when they are only a few days old, writes a correspondent of Orange-Judd Farmer. For their feed I use warm separator milk and with it mix enough shorts to thicken it somewhat. I feed while it is warm. Once a day I put into this mixture a small amount of kankage and twice a week I use some of the condiments generally recommended for inducing thrift in farm animals. Then I keep before them practically all the time wood ashes or charcoal and find that they not only eat large quantities, but thrive on it. This method of handling runts has enabled me to fatten many an unpromising pig so that at marketing time he is just as good as the pigs that remain with the sow.

Then if a sow has a larger litter than she can well take care of I leave with her what I think she can properly handle, remove the others and place them with the runts. If this is not done

The Mescal Button.
Peyota known commercially as mescal, is a species of cactus grown in northern Mexico. The mescal button, about one and a half inches in diameter, is to the uninitiated disagreeable in both odor and taste. Although a tea is made from it, it is more generally eaten in its dry state, and has hence been called "ury whisky." The effect upon the user is different from that of any other drug. There is trembling and nausea, a sense of dual existence, in some cases a delirium somewhat similar to delirium tremens, and an overestimation of time—minutes becoming hours and hours long periods of time. The most extraordinary effect, however, is the visual hallucinations and the effect upon the hearing. The habitue enjoys "a regular kaleidoscopic play of most wonderful colors, an incessant flow of visions of infinite beauty, grandeur and variety, while each note produced on the piano becomes a center of a medley of other notes which appear to be surrounded by a halo of color, pulsating to the music."—Leslie's.

The Difference.
Herman Frasch, chief chemist of the Standard Oil company, who died worth $5,000,000, made many millions for his employers by his utilization of waste.

In an interview in New York, discussing the discovery that turned coal tar from a waste to a highly valuable byproduct, Mr. Frasch once said to a reporter:

"That one little change, that little chemical change, did it all. There is never more than a tiny difference, you know, between a waste and a byproduct, between wealth and poverty, between success and failure.

"Look, for example, into some great business office. Here is a haggard man in his shirt sleeves on a high stool working for dear life—he checks the cash. Then, in a little glass office all by himself, look at that other frock coated man leaning back in a tufted green leather arm-chair, smoking a cigar and reading the paper—he cashes the checks."—Boston Record.

QUEER HAWAIIAN NAMES.

Such as Mrs. Oyster and The Man Who Washes His Dimples.

The natives of Hawaii are singularly picturesque in their choice of names. Mr. Scissors, The Thief, The Ghost, The Fool, The Man Who Washes His Dimples, Mrs. Oyster, The Weary Lizard, The Husband of Kanela (a male dog), The Great Kettle, The First Nose, The Atlantic Ocean, The Stomach, Poor Pussy, Mrs. Turkey, The Tenth Heaven, are all names that have appeared in the city directory.

They are often careless of the gender or appropriateness of the names they take. A householder on Beretania street, Honolulu, is called The Pretty Woman (Wahine Maikah); a male infant was lately christened Mrs. Tompkins; one little girl is named Samson; another, The Man; Susan (Kukena) is a boy; so are Polly Sarah, Jane Peter and Henry Ann. A pretty little maid has been named by her fond parents The Pig Sty (Hale Pua). For some unknown reason—or for no reason at all—one boy is named The Rat Enter (Kamea Oie Oie).

The Rev. Dr. Coan of Hawaii possessed the love of his flock. One morning a child was presented for baptism whose name was given by the parents, Makia; when the ceremony was finished the parents assured the doctor that they had named the baby for him. "But my name is not Michael," said the doctor, supposing Makia to be aimed thereat.

"We always hear your wife call you Mikia," answered the mother. She had mistaken Mrs. Coan's familiar "my dear" for her husband's given name.

An old servant in Dr. Wight's family at Kohala caused her grandchild to be baptised in church, The Doctor (Kauka); that was its only name. By way of compliment to the early physicians, many children were named after their drugs, as Joseph Squills, Miss Rhubarb, The Emetie, The Doctor Who Peeps in at a Door.

Names uncomplimentary, or even disgusting, are willingly borne by their owners; others convey a pleasing and graceful sentiment. Among the latter are the Arch of Heaven (Ka Iria Lan), The River of Twilight (Ka Wia Lihia), The Delicate Wreath (Ka Lei ma Lia). The name of Liliu O Kalani, the queen now in retirement, means A Lily in the Sky.—Youth's Companion.

Telephone Rate Problems
To give good service it is essential that our telephone plant should be well constructed, kept in good repair and efficiently operated, and that extensions and improvements should be made from time to time to take care of new patrons.
Our telephone rates are as low as possible and yet pay living wages to our employees, pay our taxes and other expenses, and finally earn for our present stockholders enough interest on their investment so we will be able to get new money for extensions and improvements.
Telephone Costs Going Up
For some time the price of telephone equipment has been increasing, and in some localities there has been a feeling that we should pay higher wages or allow shorter working hours.
These conditions have made it a serious problem for this company to get enough money at the present rates to pay expenses and earn a fair rate of interest for the men and women who have their money invested in the property.

The True Philosopher.

The true philosopher makes a considerable do over his love of and his search for knowledge. But if he is a truly wise philosopher and if he values his reputation he will stop safely short of ever acquiring exact information. Exact information is fatal to the philosophical temperament. A philosopher is a man who can make solemn and profound remarks about any matter whatsoever without knowing anything about it. As soon as he learns something about a matter he is to that extent excluded from philosophizing about it. He is no longer a pure philosopher; he is now part scientist. This explains why there are so few prominent and prosperous philosophers these days. With the vast development of our means of communication, the multiplication of books and newspapers and the obtuseness of reformers, it is almost impossible to get through the world without picking up a great deal of correct information, and consequently it is well nigh impossible to be a philosopher.—Life.

That "Dead Man's Chest."

The rendering of the first line of Stevenson's immortal story as "Fifteen men on a dead man's chest" spoils the significance of the phrase, writes a correspondent. License is permitted to poets, but no fifteen men could ever find room on the chest of any man, dead or alive, unless they were Lilliputians on the top of a Gulliver. The actual phrase is "the Dead Man's Chest," which is the name of one of the Virgin Islands, lying to the east of Porto Rico. It is said that when Columbus discovered the group he named them after St. Ursula and some of her mythical virgins, but the English buccaneers rechristened them in homelier terms, such as "Dutchman's Cap," "Broken Jerusalem," "Rum Island" and "The Dead Man's Chest." Kingsley refers to the matter in the first volume of "At Last," and Stevenson acknowledged, in his account of "Treasure Island," that he had lifted the phrase from the older novelist's pages.—Manchester Guardian.

How to Sharpen Your Knife.

In the Woman's Home Companion a contributor gives boys the following advice as to how to keep their knives sharpened:

"Few boys who undertake to sharpen a knife have any great difficulty in getting a sufficiently keen edge. It is in keeping this edge that the trouble arises. This is due to holding the knife blade too flat when sharpening.

"By holding the knife blade very flat a sharp edge can be readily produced, but is so very thin that it is easily broken and the blade is marred by jagged necks.

"The men who are employed in factories to sharpen the best grade of knives hold the blade at an angle of about 45 degrees and really sharpen only the cutting edge itself. This method leaves the blade behind the immediate point of contact sufficiently thick and strong to stand any ordinary usage."

Temperament.

"What the dickens do they mean by artistic temperament?" asked young Arbutnot of his talented pa.

"Why," explained pa, "if you go to a tailor and ask him to make you a suit the tailor is satisfied to go ahead and make you any kind of suit you want any way you want it made. If you go to an architect he's tickled to build you any kind of house you want any way you want it built. But if you go to a man and ask him to write you a certain kind of book or poem in any particular way, or if you want him to paint you a picture or sculpt you a statue of any particular kind the man with the artistic temperament, instead of being tickled to get the job, will say:

"Now just look what this darn fool wants now!"—Judge.

Perspiring School.

"Seymour Hicks is an English actor who has never visited America," said a Chicago manager. "Hicks is a comedian of the violent school. He's all over the stage at once. In his efforts to please he perspires in a way that is painful to witness.

"At a dinner I once gave Arthur Pinero made fun of Hicks for his strenuous methods, his lack of repose.

"Hicks, my boy," Pinero said, "I see you've got upon your bills 'Doors open at 8.' Why don't you change it, Hicks, to 'Doors open at 8?'"—Detroit Free Press.

POULTRY and EGGS

FEEDING FOWLS PROPERLY.

Balanced Ration Suitable for Both Winter and Summer.

Following is a ration for fowls that has been used successfully in many plants, says the Iowa Homestead. It is very easily compounded, and the grains are available on almost every grain farm:

By weight, wheat, ten parts; corn, ten parts; oats, five parts. This should be fed in litter at the rate of about two quarts at each feed for fifty hens, though it is safe to give busy biddies and especially Leghorn biddies all they will consume. It is not how little but how much our layers can be coaxed to change into high priced eggs.

In the matter of the proportions we would change the corn to five parts and the oats to ten parts for the summer months. From actual experience we would not change oats for any other two grains in existence.

In addition, this dry mash is kept before the hens in the afternoon only: Middlings, six parts; cornmeal, six parts; bran, three parts; oilmeal, six parts; alfalfa meal, one part; beef scraps, five parts. This ration is compounded by weight.

In the summer freshly cut alfalfa, clover or any green feed that grows so abundantly may be given. In the winter mangels, sprouted oats or anything available in green feed may be given, together with crushed oyster shells, grit and, if you have it, milk, either sweet or sour.

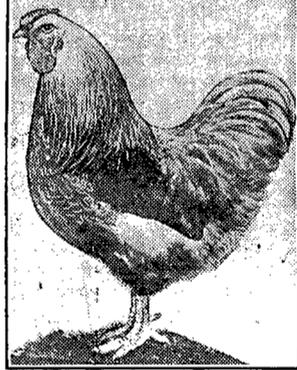

SELECTING BREEDERS.

Only Fowls of Vigorous Constitutions Should Be Chosen.

Every poultryman should understand that the general health of his flocks, both young and old birds, depends in a large measure upon his system of management. Perfect physical condition is a barrier against most diseases. It is all important, therefore, that the health and vigor of the breeding stock shall be carefully preserved and the chicks from which this stock is renewed shall have every painstaking care and attention, so that they will resist the infection of disease and grow thrifty and strong.

Good hatches of strong, vigorous chicks must come from breeding stock having strong and vigorous constitutions. This statement cannot be made too emphatically, as the success or failure of the poultry keeper depends upon the vitality and vigor of the breeding stock.

Breeding stock for next season should be selected now. The 1914 pullets which have shown their ability to produce large numbers of eggs during the past six months and have continued to develop into strong, vigorous hens should be set aside for breeders.

Of the several varieties of Wyandottes the white is the most popular, although all are well liked. All Wyandottes are generally recognized as good winter layers. As table poultry the Wyandotte cannot be beaten, being excellent market birds at all ages, from broiler size to roasters. The build of the fowl makes this possible. It has small bones, is full in breast development, and grows large evenly, maintaining good flesh at all ages. The fowl pictured is a Buff Wyandotte cock.

Careful selection should be made of the pullets which have best withstood the effects of close confinement and heavy feeding of highly concentrated rations. These are the pullets which have proved their right to be selected as the parents of the future flock. They should be given special attention. The regular egg producing ration should not be cut off too suddenly, but the feeding should be arranged so that there will be a gradual reduction of concentrated, stimulating feeds with the substitution of a complete diet of green foods.

The prospective breeding flock should be removed to quarters where the birds have access to free range, absolute quiet, plenty of grass and clover and, above all, ample shade and an abundance of pure cold water.

If the change of environment and diet has been gradual there is little danger of forcing the molt, which is exhausting to the fowl.

The male birds are much better when kept by themselves in runs, where each bird may remain quiet and not be annoyed by the others. The males must be kept in perfect physical condition and not reduced to the extreme, which seems to benefit the hens. Their diet should always be nutritious.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Sheep like a short bite. Do not let the pasture grow too high before putting them on it.

The hog with a sloping shoulder cannot work with any ease or profit in a collar made for an upright shoulder.

When water is not present in the hog pastures, in springs or creeks, it should be supplied fresh in troughs each day or two.

The better your sire the better your lambs, and so the more money you will get from your flock next year.

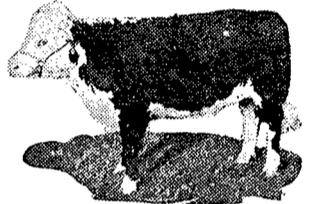

Bring the colts to the stables during the day while the flies are so vicious. Put them in the pastures at night.

The hog house if left open will supply a cool place for the pigs to lie in and also protect the young from heavy storms and from the hot sun.

PURE BRED CATTLE FOR BEEF PRODUCTION

I figure that each of my twenty Hereford cows is making me at least $50 a year, writes an Iowa farmer in the American Agriculturist. Some are doing better than that. I believe I would still make a profit just from selling stuff at beef prices regardless of the sale of pure bred stock.

My cattle are partly Polled and partly Horned Herefords. The cows are fed roughage and some grain through the winter months. They have access to straw, mixed hay, millet and corn fodder, which gives them a variety.

Hereford cattle are good rustlers and have long been popular for their grazing qualities. They make their best beef at an early age. Because of their early maturing qualities they are excellent for the production of baby beef, and thousands are annually marketed as such. As meat producers they rank high, but as milk producers are inferior to the other breeds. They are sturdy, rugged beasts of distinctly superior quality. The steer pictured is a true specimen of the Hereford breed.

One of these feeds is always kept in the rack. The calves are fed oats as soon as they will eat any grain and get all the milk from their mothers. In the fall I give them a mixture of half corn chop and half oats by bulk.

I believe beef production is a safe undertaking and that a man could start in now and make good at it on Iowa land. If a man wants to produce only beef cattle for market, then good grade cows of a beef type and a pure bred sire would be all right. I would emphasize that the cows must be of the beef type. However, if pure bred cows are kept there is always a good demand for the young stock at a price considerably over the beef price. The increase in price, however, large or small, is practically net profit, since a pure bred calf takes no more feed or care than a grade and gives a good deal more satisfaction.

Pasturing Work Horses.

It will be found as a rule that horses at hard work had best be kept off pasture. The hardworking horse cannot be expected to secure any considerable portion of his food by grazing. It is a good plan, however, to let work horses have the run of a good pasture on Sunday since it gives them a change from the regular heavy rations of the week. The grass acts as a laxative and a tonic and tends to keep the horses in better condition than where they are kept up and fed the same Sunday as any other day. All horsemen are familiar with the practice of feeding work horses warm bran mash once a week. A run on pasture serves the same purpose.

Fattening Hogs on Buttermilk.

Fattening hogs on buttermilk is carried on successfully near large creameries. A short time ago a Chippewa Falls (Wis.) stock feeder marketed a fine lot in Chicago. This stockman feeds all the time from 300 to 500 hogs, using the entire output of the buttermilk from the local creamery. He has put as much as 100 pounds per head on thin sows in the course of thirty days. In connection with the buttermilk he is in the habit of feeding salvage grains from self feeders, and this results in rapid gains in weight.—W. W. Foote in Ohio Farmer.

Provide Water For Sheep.

It is often said that sheep need no water when on pasture. Do not listen to such folly, writes E. Leslie in the Iowa Homestead. On very succulent grass they will live without it and, as a rule, take but little. They should always have it, however, to take when they desire. Like any other animal, sometimes their systems require more than at other times. This is especially true during sucking time. See that they have it, and of pure quality. Sheep, above all other animals, should never drink from stagnant pools.
