What About City Drainage?

There seems to be an unfortunate condition existing in relation to drainage in certain parts of the city. In the southeast part there has been some obstruction owing to too small an opening under the railway, as well as an obstructed drain ditch below. The railroad people, we are told, have agreed to place a larger waterway beneath the tracks at this point if the city authorities will make provision to carry the water beyond the right of way. This the city council appears willing to do, but they have not got it, and there are those who think the delay is unnecessary and liable to be costly. Why not now?

In the southwest part of the city is a pond of dead water covering a part of the Simon Goeman property and a part of the property owned by J. T. Bressler. Here, too, the railroad has a fill across the land, and the claim is that they have neglected to provide adequate waterway at the proper place, and because of the fact this condition prevails. The railroad people make a counter claim to the effect that they will make ample provisions to care for the water which naturally comes to their right of way at the surface of the ground, and that the water on the Goeman and Bressler properties are lower than the natural surface at their right of way, hence not for them to care for if brought to their right of way below the surface of the ground, and therefore the best they can do is to permit the city or the property owners to convey this water beneath their road bed in an iron pipe laid under the tracks, the estimated cost of which is not less than $800. Meantime this dead water remains a menace to public health, and if not soon cared for the threat is that the aid of the state board of health will be invoked. The situation is such as to demand immediate attention. Citizens generally should investigate the situation and if convinced of the need of action, demand it at once.

Simon Goeman at Court

When Simon Goeman appeared before county Judge Britton last Monday to answer to the charge of selling intoxicating liquors contrary to law, the court held that he should give bail to answer to the district court and make his plea there, as the evidence seemed ample to justify such a ruling. There are two counts for selling Fred Learner. There is also another charge awaiting a hearing in which five counts are involved, and yet back of that he will have to answer to the city on charge of selling intoxicants without license. The facts are, that if all reports are true, it is time for Mr. Goeman to listen to the talk of some friends who would tell him that it is best not to carry a game too far, rather than to the advice of those who are supposed to be indulging in drinks that intoxicate, at his expense. We do not think any one would care to see Mr. Goeman in trouble, but there are those who will make trouble for him unless he ceases to handle goods in an illegal manner.

Newman-Forney

Miss Millie Newman and Mr. Claude Forney were quietly married Wednesday noon, October 13, 1915, Rev. Buell of the M. E. church officiating. They took the afternoon train from Wakefield for Omaha and Tabor, Iowa, where they will spend several weeks before returning to the farm, 5 miles east of Wayne.

The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. John Newman and has resided on the home farm for the past 13 years. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Forney of Tabor, Iowa, where he has resided until he came to farm the Newman place at the death of the bride's father two years ago.

These estimable young people have a host of friends who will wish them much joy in their wedded life.

Smith-Kelly

At the Methodist parsonage by Rev. A. S. Buell, Monday, October 11, 1915, Mr. Carl E. Smith of Carroll, Nebraska, and Miss Ursebe Kelly of Carroll, Iowa, were united in marriage, in the presence of L. G. Stephens and Mrs. Essie Stephens.

Death of Mrs. John C. McDonald

Monday, October 11th, 1915, death took Mrs. John C. McDonald from the home near Sholes, a cancerous tumor being the cause of her death. She had been in poor health for a number of months, and two weeks before was taken to Rochester, where all that could be done to relieve her suffering was done, and as there was no hope of ultimate recovery she returned home again.

She was born in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, August 13, 1861, and was 54 years, 2 months and 2 days of age. She came to America in her youth, and to Schuyler in this state in 1882, and was united in marriage to John C. McDonald May 9, 1884, at Niobrara, where they lived for a time. In September, 1890, they moved to Wayne and have since made this county their home, living at Wayne a number of years where he was in the employ of the railroad company as section foreman. They lived for a number of years on a farm just east of town, and about six years ago purchased a farm near Sholes, where she passed away. She is survived by the husband and six children. The youngest son and daughter are yet at home, and the others married live near, except the oldest son who is in California.

The funeral is being held from the Presbyterian church of this city this afternoon, Rev. S. X. Cross officiating.

Mrs. McDonald was born into the Presbyterian church, so to speak, and has been faithful to its teachings through life, and in her death the family and community lose a most excellent wife and mother and a kind neighbor and friend.

Fall Festival and Carnival

The Walter Savidge Amusement company will play the concluding engagement of their season here, opening on Tuesday, October 19th, and continuing for five days. It is to be hoped that the weather conditions will be more favorable than on their last appearance here, for in the event of good weather a large attendance of out of town visitors may be expected.

The Savidge Dramatic players will open on Tuesday night presenting the rural comedy-drama "The Parson's Romance," a play of true heart interest containing many tense dramatic situations, also a bright vein of comedy. Vaudeville features of the better class will be introduced, and both play and vaudeville acts will be changed each night during the engagement. Free concerts and feature acts will be presented on the streets both afternoon and evening. The ferris wheel, the merry-go-round and the numerous other attractions will be in operation, both before and after the dramatic performance. Don't forget the dates and be sure and bring the children.

A Business Proposition

I believe my recent experience in shipping and marketing my own, and a few neighbor's hogs, that I can make some good money for the hog raisers of this community and make Wayne a better market town by marketing your hogs as your agent, and with your aid, will try. My fee for the work is 10 cents for each animal sold, and I will be able to make the best of your hogs net you at least $8 per cwt. on present market. I am in position to fill your part loads, and am willing at any time to go with others of the community to form a shippers' co-operative association and handle all marketable stock and farm produce direct for owners. Call me up on Phone 427, or come and see me. Yours for more hog money.

M. T. MUNSINGER,
Wayne, Nebr.

Fire Burns Grain

Last Saturday afternoon while J. W. Getchell was threshing for S. G. Rice, a mile east of Neligh, fire caught in the straw from the machine and burned six large stacks of oats and all the straw. The threshing crew lost all their belts and the separator was scorched. The cause of the fire was from friction. An iron became loosened and was in contact with two wheels on the separator, making sparks fly which caught in the straw.

Wireless Messages at Normal

Professor Britell of the department of Physical Sciences has worked up considerable interest in wireless telegraphy. Every morning at 8:55 a wireless message is received from the Nebraska Wesleyan university, students being placed in charge of the receiving station. During the past three years, the department has sustained, in connection with the work in College Physics, a course of lectures on the electro-magnetic waves, their propagation and detection and, in connection with this course, the students have been permitted to take laboratory work in the construction of a receiving set for wireless waves.

A number of students who are now teaching science in the high schools, or serving as superintendents of schools, have taken this course and are using the receiving sets which they made in the laboratory while taking the subject at Wayne. One of the conveniences the department plans for these men and women who teach in the public schools, is to send each day short messages by wireless, consisting of the time signal, the weather report, information relative to athletics, or other things of general interest, sending slowly so that the students of the various schools can receive them. This, it is expected, will stimulate the desire for the study of science, particularly relative to the application of scientific facts to everyday life. The reports received from other schools are placed on the bulletin board in Science Hall, and this method of communication with other schools furnishes an excellent practice for members of the class and aids much in the spirit of the work.

Burkett News

The latest word from T. J. Murrell is not particularly encouraging, although there is no noticeable change for the worse. He is conscious of what is going on, apparently, and recognizes his friends and acquaintances, but is seldom able to make known his recognition except to those who are with him and understand his almost inaudible voice, as we gather from a report just received from J. W. Malholm. He also adds that the Wayne friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Roush will be sorry to learn that they are poorly. Mrs. Roush is confined to the bed all the time with complications common to elderly people, and she expresses herself as confident that she will not get better. Mr. Roush is up and about, but quite poorly and suffering from neuralgia and other troubles.

Another comrade who lives in the cottage with Mr. and Mrs. Malholm has had to have a leg amputated above the knee, and is rallying nicely from the operation.

Wreck at Wakefield

A special to the Democrat from Wakefield gives the information that passenger train No. 9 ran through an open switch in the Wakefield yards just east of the station this morning when coming in to that place and collided with a string of box cars on the siding, wrecking five of the cars and putting the engine out of commission for the time being. No one was hurt beyond a slight shaking up. The train was delayed until another engine could be brought from Emerson and the track cleared. No. 9 arrived here about an hour late. The wreck is the first on this line in several years, and was fortunate in the small loss of property and the fact that none were hurt.

Building Good Roads

A contract has been let to Slater Bros. to grade three miles of road in Leslie precinct and put in proper shape. It is to be hoped that the county commissioners will do more of that work another season. To us it looks like economy to hire or contract with some one who is fully equipped and competent to grade roads where there is any considerable grade needed rather than leave it to the road supervisor who is not equipped with the necessary machinery often, and is more or less inexperienced in the work, and who has to work with both men and team unaccustomed to such work. Put it in the hands of trained men and teams and get more for your money.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

Social Notes

Mrs. W. E. Beaman entertained the Minerva club at her home Monday afternoon, and an interesting hour was passed. Mrs. F. S. Berry gave an excellent book review on "The Immigrant Tide." Current Events, by Mrs. Lewis referred mostly to the war in Europe. Guests of the club were Mrs. Strinker of Aurora, Illinois, a cousin of Mr. Miner and Mrs. Owen of this place. The club was represented at the state federation meeting at Norfolk last week by Mrs. H. Ley and Mrs. J. T. House as delegates and Mrs. Rennick as a visitor. Mrs. Ley gave an interesting report of the state meeting, and Mrs. House will give her report at the next meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Halley of Bedford Hills, New York, was the honored guest of the Women's Bible Study circle which met with Mrs. E. B. Young Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Halley has long been interested in this circle work and her beautiful words of encouragement after the helpful lesson were very much appreciated. A message from F. E. Lindgren, Burke, S. D., telling of the great success in the work there, a letter from Mrs. F. L. Snelser assisting Miss Saxe in the Sunday campaign, Omaha, a word from O. L. Cottrell, were read and enjoyed. Luncheon was served. Mrs. Lutgen is hostess next Tuesday afternoon.

The Acme club met with Mrs. Bressler Monday afternoon. Roll call—Hospitality. Mrs. Blair read a paper on "Making Home Attractive for Young People." Mrs. Jacobs read a paper on "Duties of a Hostess and Guest." Discussion, "True Hospitality—Has it Decreased or Increased." Mrs. Bressler served a luncheon. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Carhart, next Monday afternoon.

The U. D. club met with Mrs. Hufford last Monday afternoon. Lesson was on hour current events. Remaining time was spent in looking at views from the California expositions which Mrs. Harry Jones collected while in California. She has a very fine collection. Club meets next time with Mrs. Chas. Craven.

When the Monday club met with Mrs. Bowen, this week, Mrs. Chace read a paper on "Glacier National Park." Mrs. Kiplinger read a paper on "Glaciers." A number of stereoscopic views were thrown on screen, showing glaciers and glacier mountains. Club meets next Monday with Mrs. Chace.

The ladies of the Methodist Aid society had a fine tea and talk at the S. E. Auken home Wednesday afternoon, and a chicken supper was served to those who came on time. The 11th hour folks were too late for chicken, and then they almost cried.

Eastern Star met last Monday night and voted to have a Halloween party on Friday evening October 29. The proceeds will be used for the Masonic home for orphan girls at Fremont.

The Guild of St. Mary's church meets this afternoon with Mrs. Wm. McInerney. The afternoon will be spent in working, after which a luncheon will be served.

The ladies of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church are having a picnic dinner in the church parlors today.

P. E. O. meets with Mrs. Chace Monday evening.

Traut Officers For Wayne

At a meeting of the Board of Education this week Geo. Miner and Peter Henkel were elected traunt officers, and at the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening the work of the school board was confirmed and the two are now duly authorized to see that the law is enforced. The state law provides that all children under the age of 15 years shall attend school regularly during the school year, and the Democrat hopes that the few who have been failing to do their duty take warning and come in without bothering the traunt officers. It will be a lot better that way for all concerned—and especially will it be of benefit to the youth who may have been neglecting to attend school.

How about your subscription.

Death of Geo. W. Wiltse

News has come of the death of Hon. Geo. W. Wiltse, which occurred at his home in Randolph, Tuesday afternoon, October 12. Mr. Wiltse's death was caused by cancer of the tongue. The deadly malady was discovered in March last and for more than seven months he fought an heroic battle for life. He spent several months at Rochester, Minn., undergoing several operations, but to no avail. The end came Tuesday afternoon, following a hemorrhage.

Mr. Wiltse is a citizen whose loss will be keenly felt, not only by the people of his home town, but in all parts of Nebraska, where he was esteemed and loved and honored. For years he had been a prominent attorney of northeast Nebraska, and twice represented the eighth senatorial district in the Nebraska legislature, first in 1907 and again in 1909.

The deceased had a host of friends in Wayne and was frequently invited to speak at public meetings held in the town. While a member of the senate he gave loyal support to the bill to make the Nebraska Normal a state school, and he has always been a staunch friend of the Wayne institution.

Mr. Wiltse was 53 years of age and leaves a widow and one daughter. The funeral will be held at Randolph Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

To Hear Sunday, Sunday

About thirty-five citizens of Wayne took advantage of the special train to Omaha last Sunday, and attended the meetings of Rev. Wm. A. Sunday.

The train reached Omaha at 10:20, and members of the Wayne crowd were fortunate enough to secure seats in the choir for the morning service. At the afternoon temperance sermon, it is reported that, while nearly every one secured good seats, Sam Theobald and George Fortner carried too long over a ninety-five cent dinner at one of the fashionable Cafe's, and as a result were assigned to a back seat in the rear end of the large tabernacle.

The special was due to leave Omaha at 10:00 o'clock, but a disabled engine caused a delay of nearly two hours, and the Wayne contingent did not reach home until four o'clock.

The party report a pleasant trip, and all express themselves as being well pleased with Billy Sunday.

R. E. K. Mellor was taken to a hospital at Omaha the first of the week for treatment, and possibly an operation. According to the last reports he is resting easy and able to take a little nourishment. His friends hope for a speedy recovery to usual health.

City Fathers Meet

At the regular session of the council Tuesday evening, at which all were present, the following bills were allowed:

Ed Ellis was home Saturday and Sunday, having sold his knife rack which he has been running this season with the Savidge carnival. Himself and wife went to Sioux City Sunday afternoon to visit their son there. He informs us that he has purchased a restaurant at Pierce and taken possession and will soon move to that place. Mr. Ellis has been a resident of Wayne for a number of years, and himself and family will be missed from here much by their many friends.

Some Pumpkins—that is what Fred Sebald raised from seed he brought from New York where they grow the real old-fashioned pie timber. Mr. Sebald has one of the smaller specimens on exhibition at the Citizens bank window, a sort of a brindle or mottled kind covers the goodness within. Some of his pumpkins weigh as much as 30 pounds, and he thinks they are full of seed which will be for sale another spring. We have the promise of a slice for some real pumpkin pie.

A Lincoln man who is charged with selling Timothy seed to Lincoln people under representations that it was a superior grass for lawns, under name of "Minnesota Evergreen," is being prosecuted. Timothy seed retails in Lincoln at about eight cents a pound. The man who sold it as "Minnesota Evergreen" got 75 cents a pound for it. His profits will be materially cut down for each offense proven against him, as the penalty is a fine of not exceeding $100 for each false representation of seeds.—Butler County Press.

The storm which called Wayne people out Sunday morning was worse in Cedar county than here. The rainfall at Hartington was 1.62 inches, more than twice as great as at Wayne.

The commercial club at Hartington gave a banquet last week Saturday evening to about 200 members and guests, and a splendid time is reported. Just to give them a good appetite for the feed 162 men and 106 teams spent a day during the week on the roads, and did what was estimated as $600 worth of road work on 52 miles of road. Farmers and business men worked together and ate together and together they will reap the benefit which comes of good roads in a community.

By the aid of power-plants on the Loup, Elkhorn, Platte and Blue rivers the people of Nebraska could secure electric power at less than two cents per kilowatt. At that low rate every farm home in this state would be lighted by electricity, every coal or cob cook-stove displaced by an electric cooker, and every threshing machine and corn sheller propelled by electricity. State-owned water-power plants on the Nebraska rivers are coming, and coming quickly. They will come within the next four years.—Columbus Telegram.

Alliance is planning a "Market Week" from October 25 to 30. They have a program for each day, starting with a free exhibit by the members of the fire department Monday. Tuesday there will be a big dance and a fiddler contest, a barbecue and amateur theatricals. A relay race on Wednesday, with automobiles and a slow race in the same kind of vehicles, also an obstruction auto race and one for speed. In the evening there will be a chicken show. Thursday there will be a stock exhibit, agricultural exhibit and a dance in the evening. Friday and Saturday will be dollar days at the stores. A baby show will be on Friday and street band concerts. Saturday there will be a stock parade and also a burlesque parade which will take the shine off from the regular circus show. Then comes the boys and girls races. The merchants will give free tickets to the matinees and evening shows with purchases Friday and Saturday. It looks like a big week on paper.

Armor Plate Patriotism is World Wide

From remarks of Clyde H. Tavenner

There appears to be no real competition between the armor manufacturers of the various countries. Once, in 1893, the American armor ring made a noise like competition, when it sold armor to Russia for $249, while charging the United States $616, and for a time great consternation prevailed in the ranks of the war trusts of the various nations.

But during this period the armor manufacturers of the world met in Paris, and since then there has been little or no competition worthy of the name. The armor manufacturers asked themselves why they should cut each other's throats and why it would not be to their advantage to receive $500 or $600 a ton instead of $200 or $300.

In his report (H. Doc., vol 58, p 22, 54th Cong.) secretary of the navy under Cleveland, Hon. H. A. Herbert, in commenting on the question of the trust says:

"I am informed upon authority which I believe to be good that about, or perhaps before, the time of the last contract of the Bethlehem company with Russia, there was a meeting in Paris of the representatives of the principal, if not all, of the armor manufacturers of Europe and America."

This was in 1894; and commenting upon the prices charged in Europe and America, he says, on the same page:

"These facts seem to lead to the conclusion that there is at least a friendly understanding or agreement among the principal manufacturers of the world that prices shall be maintained at about the same level."

Here we find evidence 20 years old of a world-wide armor plate trust.

In the naval hearings for 1914, page 621, the present secretary of the navy, Josephus Daniels, used the following language in referring to an advertisement for bids for armor plate for the dreadnaught Pennsylvania:

"When we came to the armor we rejected all the bids, and were then absolutely in a situation from which it appeared there was no relief. Though you can not establish it in black and white, there is no doubt of an armor plate trust all over the world. That is to say, the people abroad who make armor plate will not come here and submit bids, because they know if they do our manufacturers will go abroad and submit bids. They have divided the world, like Gaul, into three parts."

Methods of the War Traffickers.

There are tricks in all trades. If the peoples of the several powers can be incited to mutual distrusts, suspicion and hatred, for instance, it means increased dividends for the stockholders of the war traffickers in each country.

The several leading powers aim to increase their naval strength in the same proportions. If one of the powers can be induced to take on an additional superdreadnaught, it is used as an argument as to why the other leading powers should do the same. It works as an endless chain, with the war burden ever and ever increasing on the backs of the taxpayers of the world. As the armor and powder makers of the world work hand in hand, it is to the interest of the war trust of one country to have a foreign nation increase its building program.

If a new design can be worked out, that, too means more grist for the shipbuilders. It calls for the speedy "scrapping" of the vessels already on hand as "obsolete," "scrapping" meaning throwing on the scrap heap as old junk. So the life of the battleship is ever lessening.

Another trick in the trade of the war trader which is obviously profitable, otherwise it would not be continued, is the hiring of retired army and navy officials and ex-members of congress by the powder, armor, and shipbuilding concerns. These ex-officials know the inner workings of the military branches of the government, know the personnel in an intimate way, and by private conversation, by correspondence, and in various ways are in a position to obtain much useful information. They know how to go about things for results. Through these ex-officials the war trust has become thoroughly entrenched in the governing power.

There seems to be no limit to the extremes to which the war traders are willing to go for business.

Hartington Lodge No. 40, A. O. U. W. initiated a class of eight candidates last week under the direction of Jacob Jaskalek and A. B. Dillon, state deputies for the order. After the initiatory ceremonies, several talks on matters pertaining to the order and the work it accomplishes were given. Luncheon was then served. The A. O. U. W. was founded at Meadville, Pa., in 1868 by John Jordan Upchurch and is the parent of all fraternal beneficiary orders. It is successfully operated in every state in the Union and Canada and since 1905 has been operated under state jurisdiction. The Nebraska jurisdiction is the largest in beneficiary membership of any state, having over 40,000 members. The A. O. U. W. of Nebraska makes special inducements to young men to become members.

TO-DAY Is The Time

"The tongue ever seeks the aching tooth."

—Benjamin Franklin.

Attend to your teeth to-day;
to-morrow may be too late.

Decay eats night and day and will not rest on Sunday.

The larger the decay the greater the loss of tooth structure.

Mrs. Chas. Linn from Laurel was here the first of the week, visiting at the home of Herman Lundberg and wife, her brother.

John Morgan returned last week from a short visit at the home of his son in Minnesota, and reports that the ducks were fine.

A. A. Welch went to Sioux City
Tuesday, returning that evening with Mrs. Welch who had been visiting there a few days.

Miss Minnie Carstens from Winside was a Sunday guest at the home of Chas. Van Norman and wife, returning home Monday evening.

Among the visitors from Carroll
last week were Mrs. Geo. Yaryan and Mrs. Irvin Porter, who were guests at the home of Geo. Porter and wife.

Mrs. Fred Martin went to Walt-hill Wednesday to visit at the home of her sister, and with her son Lyle who is working there. She plans to return Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. Heady went to Omaha
Wednesday, going with her father,
Wm. Southwick from Hartington, who goes there for treatment from a specialist. They met at Wakefield.

Ed. Chace of Stanton was here
Sunday visiting at the home of Mr.
and Mrs. C. A. Chace. He was on his way to the Pacific coast and the expositions.

Mrs. Daniel McManigal left Friday for her visit in California and Texas, something having delayed
the start contemplated from Wisner earlier in the week.

Miss Mabel Johnson went to Omaha Tuesday to visit friends, and hear the evangelist. She was accompanied by Miss Christena Lundquist of Hoskins.

Mrs. C. C. Hurley and children came Tuesday from Glendive, Montana, to visit at the home of her parents, Robert Skiles and wife here, and with her sister at Randolph, and brother at Crofton.

Mesdames August and Charles
Thun and A. Franzen went to Sioux City Wednesday to spend the day with their mother, Mrs. Jacobson, who is at a hospital in that city,
recovering from a fractured leg.

Mrs. Elson, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Henry Cozad, her daughter, left Wednesday to visit a son, Thomas at Granite Falls, Minnesota. Mrs.
Cozad accompanied her as far as Sioux City.

Miss Charlotte Larison left Thursday to visit at Oberlin, Ohio, where she attended school, then will go to Washington, and later to visit relatives in New York City. Mrs.
Larison accompanied her as far as Sioux City on the journey.

The potato crop of this vicinity is good and the yield so far as reported is above the average. On low ground there is a little rot among the early potatoes, due to the wet weather. The prevailing prices for the home product is about 30 cents the bushel.

Mrs. Blessing, accompanied by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, came the first of the week from Huron, Kansas, to pack and ship her household goods to that place, where she plans to live near the home of her parents.
They expect to depart today for their home.

The West Point Electric Light and Power Co. has inaugurated an all night light service for West Point. This is the first time in the history of the city that light has been available for street lamps at all hours of the night, and it is a great convenience to the citizens and much appreciated by them.

Rev. J. B. Wylie, the new pastor of the Methodist church at Winside, arrived last week and preached there Sunday, and his sermons were spoken of in terms of praise. He came from Buchard, in the southeast corner of the state, and his household goods arrived Monday.
He thinks we have a splendid country here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis, who have been spending the summer here with her parents, L. E. Panabaker and wife, returned to Des Moines Tuesday where Mr. Dennis will resume work at the X-Ray Incubator factory. He has been assisting Mr. Panabaker during the summer in the erection of a residence near the college.

The school house in No. 34, known as the Gildersleeve school, has been undergoing repairs. The building has been newly plastered, and the time between Friday night and Monday morning was used to install new seats for the pupils. Miss Hazel Norton is teaching a successful school there, and has an enrollment of 14 pupils.

Bur Cunningham from Bloomfield was greeting friends at the Wayne station last week while on his way to Omaha, and again this week while returning. He is hale and hearty, and a man whom his friends are glad to greet. At the city he heard the evangelist, and thinks he is a great man because he believes he is doing good to his fellows. Not just the way some of us would think the best way, but if it brings results, Mr. Cunningham says "Amen" to it. On the way down he looked about at the strangers at the station, and said that thirty years ago when the trains pulled up to a little depot he knew practically every man, woman or child who was to be seen there.

Mrs. Geo. Nuss and children, who have been visiting at the home of J. C. Nuss and wife for two weeks while the two Nuss men were starting a variety store business at Winner, South Dakota, left Tuesday to join her husband there, where they will make their future home.
Mr. J. C. Nuss, who returned Monday from that place, tells us that the new business started off in fine shape.

Elsewhere, M. T. Munsinger has a little advertisement in which he tells the farmers that he will act as their agent and market their hogs for them, and he believes to their profit. He has had much experience in handling live stock and commission men, and he rather promises to make Wayne a better market town in that line. He favors the idea of an organization to market
all stock and grain for the members.

J. E. Johnson and wife and son, accompanied by his father, came
last week from Oakland, California,
to visit relatives and friends here.
They are guests at the homes of "Sandy" Scott and family and at the Carl Englert home. Mr. Johnson was a resident here about thirty years ago and while he notes many improvements he also sees some familiar landmarks and not a few of the friends and acquaintances of other days.

Mrs. Peter Baker, who has been slightly ill for the past two weeks, is said to be better and not only that, she is grateful to the kind neighbors who saw to it that she had the best of care while ill. Beyond a doubt she has paid in advance for the care given her, for she is a motherly woman who has not lived to be a grandmother to many children without doing her share for those overtaken by misfortune or ill health.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bastian returned last week from their visit at the homes of their sons at Chance, South Dakota, and report a pleasant visit. Mr. Bastian tells us that they had a great crop of small grain there, and owing to the weather and the big crop there are not machines enough there to thresh
it as promptly as usual. Corn conditions there are much the same as here—too much wet and cold weather to properly mature.

At Los Angeles the officials, or a committee, had in charge a systematic movement among the pupils of the schools to make a "Beautiful City", and offered competitive prizes for the prettiest and best gardens. It has been the means, says the Wilmington Journal, of beautifying the homes, supplying the parlors with flowers, the kitchen with vegetables and some good practical education to the young folks. In the list of prizes awarded we noted that Katherine and Pirie Goldie were among those who won.

Just 423 years ago Tuesday we were discovered by Christopher Columbus who followed his nose across a trackless sea out and on into the great unknown, and when he came to land way down near Florida he thought he had reached India and that it would be a short walk across the land to his native Spain. He did not take into account that the western continent and the Pacific, the greatest of all oceans, would have to be crossed before the continent from which he started could be reached. He had never measured the size of the earth by its shadow on the moon,
so his little mistake was quite natural.

After considering two plans for the selection of a postmaster to succeed A. T. Rowe, a democratic caucus or an open primary, the committee has decided upon the latter. Candidates are given until the 15th to make their nomination filings and select their representatives at the primary. From indications the election will be held early in November. The plan selected gives all the patrons of the office, regardless of party affiliations, the right to say which democrat they prefer. Full information as to the method of voting and other details will be given as soon as the primary date is named.

It is difficult to fully realize the mental change that has come over the farmer of this country since 1885, the year that Hoard's Dairyman was first published under that name. We may also say that there is a thousand times more activity of thought and desire for knowledge today than then. What has wrought the change? Think of the number of pure-bred herds of cattle that have come into being in that thirty years! Think of the wonderful increase of farmers who keep registered sires as compared with thirty years ago! Think of all the increased mental activity today as compared with then! Thousands of farmers have been changed over to reading, thoughtful men in that time and all for the better, too. —Hoard's Dairyman.

weeks visit at the home of their son and daughter at Pipestone, and Russell, Minnesota. Mr. B.

C. A. Grothe is home from a sojourn of a month or more in the Dakotas. He was first at his farm in North Dakota, where they threshed between rains for two weeks and shelled out over 11,000 bushels of grain of good quality and generous yield. He visited near Huron, South Dakota, on the way home, and says that they have a good corn crop there this year, considering that it is this year, and he brought some of it home and left it on exhibition at the State bank, a fine looking ear, for Dakota.

H. B. McMullen and wife from Glenwood, Iowa, have been here for two weeks visiting at the home of their son, H. A. McMullen, leaving Tuesday for a visit with relatives at Brownville, Kansas.
This was their first visit here, in fact they had never before been far west of the Missouri river which flows near their home, and they were much pleased with the looks of this country, and Mr. M. said we had fine land here if we but had some one to farm it just right, implying that we should come to Iowa to see how it should be done.

The editor has been trying to find out something of the yield of potatoes in this vicinity, but with poor success. So few people grow potatoes, except for home use, that they do not measure the land, and a guess is uncertain. It is safe to say that the yield is nearly twice the usual crop, especially on the high ground. E. Beckenhauer tells us that he harvested 200 bushels from just a little more than an acre. Mr. Keiper would not tell what he raised for fear it would be thought a big story, but it was far above an average yield, and he always grows potatoes, and nearly always has good ones for the home market.

Weddings at Carroll

(From index)

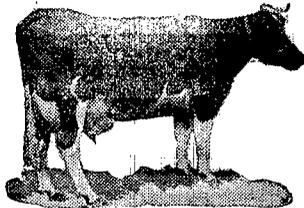

A wedding occurred at the M. E. parsonage Wednesday morning, October 6, 1915, when Miss Maud Mary James and Mr. Elmer F. Fisher took upon themselves the vows that made them man and wife. This young couple are both well and favorably known in and about Carroll and have a large circle of admiring friends who will join in wishing them God speed out upon life's journey. They are now visiting relatives in Iowa and upon their return home will reside on a farm six miles southeast of Carroll.

Miss Mildred Hill, sister of Mrs. H. V. Garwood, was married Thursday, October 7, 1915, to Mr. E. A. Langford of Kansas City. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister with Rev. R. J. McKenzie officiating. The bride is a young lady of many graces of mind and person and is honored by old and young alike. The groom is a traveling agent with the Chicago Portrait Co., and is a stranger to us, but judging from what the bride is worthy of, he is a good man. Immediately after the ceremony a three-course wedding dinner was served by Mrs. Garwood, after which the young couple left by auto for Wayne where they boarded a train for Detroit where they will spend the honeymoon. The bride will travel with her husband as he goes about his work for the above named company. Best wishes from a host of Carroll friends will be with them always. Miss Edna Jones played the wedding march and red and white roses were used as house decorations.

Married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hurlbert Monday October 4, at 2:30 p. m., Miss Ina Hurlbert of Sholes, Nebraska, to Mr. Hobert Fisher of Tower, Wyoming. Rev. Keller of the Carroll Baptist church officiating. The bride wore a dress of cream colored serge with a net overdrap. The groom wore a suit of blue serge. Eighteen guests witnessed the ceremony, after which a three-course dinner was served by Mrs. Hurlbert. Thirty-two friends of the bride surprised the young couple Friday evening at the Hurlbert home and gave them a miscellaneous shower. The bride is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asher Hurlbert of Sholes. She has grown to young womanhood among us and has a host of friends who extend best wishes and congratulations to the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will be at home at Tower, Wyoming after January 1st.

Lincoln Letter

Fire commissioner Ridgell has filed a friendly suit in the supreme court to test the state treasurer's technical interpretation of the law in regard to the payment of the fire commissioner's claims. Hall refuses to pay them because he claims there is no specific appropriation. The suit is in the nature of mandamus proceeding and will come up for hearing about October 15th.

Among the numerous letters of inquiry relative to state and other matters which auditor Wm. H. Smith receives in his mail from time to time, was one a few days ago, evidently from a Kansas pro-woman suffragist, who desired information as to whether it would be possible to secure a petition containing 250,000 to 350,000 names of the electorate of Nebraska in order to submit the question of woman's suffrage to a state wide vote. Inasmuch as the vote at the last election was only 241,941, auditor Smith was compelled to inform the gentleman from Kansas that it "couldn't be did."

The Live Stock Sanitary board put in a busy month in September. In addition to its multifarious duties between twenty-five and thirty glander and durane horses were destroyed. The largest number killed for one owner was at Hecla, Nebraska, where three stallions and seventeen mares were condemned for Donald Thomson, the appraised value of the twenty horses being $1,901.50. These animals were all effected with durane, and in accordance with the state and national laws the state pays one-third and the government one-third, while the owner stands the other third. In the case of glander horses the state pays two-thirds, while the owner is responsible for the other third.

Secretary of state Pool is making a record as a collector of delinquent corporation taxes. Corporations that failed to pay as the law provides are penalized by the addition of a 15 per cent penalty, and during the first four days of the present month the secretary received as such fines the sum of $278. It will not be surprising if the penalties alone, collected during the month of October, exceeds $1,000. The road fund of the different counties has also been greatly increased through the efforts of secretary of state Pool during the past few months, something like $25,000 in back taxes having been collected by the different county treasurers since the new automobile law has been administered by him.

The total amount of money expended by the state for the month of September in the different funds was $307,853.59. Of this amount $66,445 of the permanent school fund was used to purchase bonds as an investment. The general fund warrants included in the above total amounted to $144,018.88. According to state treasurer Hall's monthly report at the close of business September 30, 1915, there was a surplus of $215,793.67 in the general fund and a total in all funds of $137,585.49. This is somewhat of a contrast to a year ago on this date when the general fund showed a surplus of only $48,210.08, with a half million dollars of registered interest which the state had to pay, at the same time the holders of these warrants were compelled to discount them at the bank in order to get their money. State treasurer Hall's vigorous method of enforcing payment of moneys obligated to the state, in a great measure, is responsible for the present prosperous condition of the state treasury.

Not a Nature Fake

The new maid came in and made this announcement:
"The cat has had chickens, mum!"
"Chickens? You mean kittens, don't you Norah?"
"No mum. She's just had that poultry the grocer's boy brought."

Cupid at the White House

Congratulations and good wishes go out to President Wilson from the 100,000,000 Americans who acknowledge him as their chief executive upon the announcement of his engagement. In his life at Washington he has had more than his share of sorrow, loneliness and responsibility, and he is entitled to whatever happiness fate may now bring into it.

No doubt the burdens which have pressed upon President Wilson, one after another, have seemed doubly heavy because of the circumstances under which he has had to bear them. It is not to be wondered at if in his hours of tension he has longed for a companionship which means more to a man of his temperament than it might mean to men who are less given to reticence with those of their own kind. There is no inspiration like that which comes out of a heart that is filled with sympathy and confidence—no counsel that will take the place of that which is begotten of absolute trust and affection—no support like that which is to be found in the companionship of a good wife. Hail to the presidential groom-elect and to the prospective first lady of the land!

Two other presidents have married during their terms of office, Tyler in 1844, eight months before the expiration of his term, and Cleveland a little more than a year after his inauguration. Tyler married in New York; Cleveland was married in the White House. It is a creditable commentary upon the principal's sense of the fitness of things that the Wilson-Galt ceremony is to take place without fuss or feathers at the home of the bride in Washington. Thus Cleveland will continue to hold his place in history as the only president to have been married in the White House.

Four presidents have married a second time—Tyler, Fillmore, Benjamin Harrison and Roosevelt. Tyler married in 1813; his first wife died in 1842, and he married again in 1844. Fillmore married in 1826, his first wife died in 1853 and he married again in 1858. Harrison married in 1853, his first wife died in 1892 and he married again in 1896. Roosevelt married in 1880, his first wife died in 1884 and he married again in 1886. Buchanan and Cleveland are the only ones who were bachelors at the time of their inauguration; Buchanan remained a bachelor all his days. Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Fillmore and the second Harrison married widows. Jackson married a divorcee.

Cleveland's wife was the youngest mistress of the White House at less than 22. Madison's wife as a bride was just over 22.—Sioux City Journal.

Storing of Vegetables and Fruits

Fruits and vegetables for storing should not be bruised.

Do not expect vegetables to keep successfully in a heated cellar. If no cave or portion of a cellar is available, dig a trench as long as desired and about a foot deep. If sand is available, however, it is usually preferable to heavier soil. Providing proper drainage is maintained, cabbage and celery, as well as potatoes, carrots, beets, and in fact all of the other root crops may be stored in a trench. The outer leaves of the cabbage should be removed, and the tops should head downward. Celery may be placed in the trench when mature, to be bleached, and later stored where it will not freeze. Beets, carrots and salsify may be buried as soon as the tops are frozen. Parsnips may be left unpulled, but if buried in a trench may be more easily handled.

For storing apples, the hole should be deeper. Usually the apples are protected by being surrounded by straw before the soil is placed on them, says the department of horticulture of the university farm.

Middle-Age Fatalities

It appears that while we have been waging a great and successful campaign against the germ diseases, particularly tuberculosis, we have been ignoring another class just as important and fatal—"the degenerative diseases," says an article in the Norfolk News.

Such ailments seem to constitute a peculiarly American menace. According to doctors who have been making researches along these lines, our national vitality is being wasted in middle life to an appalling extent. In three decades, we are told, the death rate has increased 100 per cent from the breaking down or wearing out of the heart, arteries and kidneys.

These "degenerative diseases," which are declared to be in nearly all cases preventable or postponable, seem to be particularly fatal to the working classes. In the ten years ending in 1900 there has been an increase of 52 per cent in their prevalence among over 4,000,000 workmen in the mechanical industries and the laboring servants and agricultural classes.

In 1913, says Dr. Eugene Lyman Fiske, director of hygiene of the Life Extension Institute of New York, approximately 130,000 citizens between the ages of 30 and 40 years died of these "chronic diseases of the vital machinery." Among well conditioned industrial workers at the average age of 38 he found more than 40 per cent representing some degree of arterial change and 39 per cent showing varying degrees of kidney disorder.

There seems to be no distinction of city or rural districts, of native or foreign population. But the condition is local to America.

There is one great difference between these degenerative diseases and the germ disease. The latter are in general attributable to community negligence; the former, to individual carelessness. The men whose arteries hardens or whose heart weakens, kidneys break down prematurely, is usually to blame himself. He may be a victim of a physical or mental overstrain which he cannot help. It is more likely however that he is eating too much or drinking too much or smoking too much, or all three; that he is either working harder than he needs to, or running to the opposite extreme and, for considerable periods neglecting the exercise necessary to digest and assimilate his food and keep his vital organs working normally.

It is recognized that there is great need of education along this neglected line. "Is a life saved from tuberculosis of any more value to the family or the state than a life saved from Bright's disease?" asked E. E. Rittenhouse, president of the institute. "If the state can afford to fight germ diseases, why not teach degenerative diseases? If it can teach community hygiene to check one,

why not individual hygiene to check the other? Action is needed. Every possible encouragement should be given public health officials to take up the important work."

The Sunflower Crop

Most of us grow the sunflower for its beauty only; but it is a useful crop. Mixed with some legume and corn it makes excellent silage, its protein helping to balance the ration, and its oil making animal heat. Oil from sunflower seed is as good as olive oil for all purposes. In Russia, where it is an important crop, the large seeds of some varieties are sold to be eaten as we eat peanuts. It takes about the same handling as a growing crop as that required by corn.

The above is from a farm paper, and should teach the Nebraska farmers that they may make money and have a pretty farm at the same time by growing sunflower seed. That the sunflower thrives here is evident. But a few days ago A. Bressler was bringing a sunflower top from his garden which was fully a foot across, and it was full of seed, much more seed, we would judge, than any ear of corn carries. We do not know that we would care to live on sunflower meal, but we do know that the seed makes great parrot feed, and also that chickens thrive on them.

British losses in killed, wounded and prisoners for the first ten days of October were reported at 21,000. That is thinning them out pretty fast.

At Omaha Sunday, Sunday went after the saloon men hot and heavy and Monday night he went to Council Bluffs and spoke much the same piece again. He was very emphatic in his remarks, and most of the audience were with him or kept still about it.

Sowing fall wheat, putting up the last crop of alfalfa, digging the potatoes, threshing, hauling manure, picking apples and building new cribs and barns is keeping the rural population busy in this part of Nebraska these days when the weather man permits them to work.

The price of eggs has advanced over 50 per cent in the last 30 days. With thousands of eggs on hand, dividends may be advanced to 80 per cent next June. How do you like it? The egg-laying period has passed so the producers will not be benefited much, but how about the egg eaters? This is the only country where the cornering of the necessities of life can be safely engaged in.—Crete Democrat.

Why should the United States or any of its capitalists loan a billion to any European country now engaged in war? The hazard is too great and besides we have use for every dollar at home, and there are other places where it can be loaned with safety and profit. Furthermore those who profess to make this loan will be loaning money, more of which belongs to other people than themselves.—Oakdale Sentinel.

Not all of us can visit the great art galleries of the world and view the paintings of the great masters, but we are privileged to gaze in admiration upon the beauties of a Nebraska sunset sky, the glories of which no great artist can ever reproduce. The morning sky too is frequently painted by more than human hands, and it is well worth the while to leave a warm bed and witness the orb of day come to dispel the darkness of night and put the stars to sleep.

In spite of the $600,000,000 loan the English credit is again dropping. Why not? If the money lenders of this country—the big ones we mean—can get a grip and start an endless chain affair they will continue to loan that half billion dollars to those fellows as long as they can sell them more goods for it—that is up to the point where the mortgage is liable not to pay out if foreclosed. Guess they don't know our big moneyed men here as well as we do right here at home, where we borrowed any old money in war times and then let them fix the law so that we had to pay it in gold. Suppose you rent a farm and agree to pay grain rent, and then let the landlord come around and tell you that grain means wheat when your crop is three-fourths oats and corn—it would be about the same.

The first dry day Chicago has seen in more than 40 years was Sunday. When it is reported that there was but 16 arrested for drunkenness against an average of 243 for the past year. But 28 places were caught violating the ordinance and 7,152 drink shops stayed closed, 20,000 men were off duty for the day and the volume of business shrunk $400,000 for the day. That is a pretty good showing. But it is a safe bet that a lot of fellows were out for an early Monday morning drap.

Now that Germany has gracefully submitted to the reasonable demands for our rights as a neutral nation, and Mexico is coming to her own in a way that has the official sanction of this country and the South American republics, the search light of just demands is now focused on Great Britain, and the "proud Mistress of the Seas" will undoubtedly have to submit to our just claims, and submit without much fuss, for she is not in a position just now to do otherwise should she so desire. You may give the credit to Bryan, Wilson or Lansing, or the sentiment of the great American people who are back of the public officials, who have so patiently, persistently and effectively brought about this condition without war or without talk of war.

Northeast Nebraska editors are invited to meet at Norfolk tomorrow and Saturday and talk over matters of interest to the pen pushers. As this is the first meeting and no organization exists no especial program has been mapped out, but shop talk will no doubt be freely exchanged, and it is to be hoped that some needed reforms will be started. The newspaper folks of Norfolk and the business men of that place through their commercial club, are planning to give us a royal entertainment. They even promise to take us to see the institution where it is quite generally supposed most of us belong, only we do not always happen to show violent symptoms, the state hospital. A splendid meeting is promised.

Dan Cavanaugh of Fairbury declines to enter the primary race against George Hall, but affirms that Hall ought resign or else trudge along with the democrat party. Indeed, we have heard of Dan Cavanaugh before, and what he now declares, only impresses us with the fact, that the Dan Cavanaugh's are mighty good fellows to keep out of the state treasury. Bartley went along with the republican party in his day and the adroit party leaders he served. Moores went along with the same breed of cattle and Nebraska's school fund has suffered ever since. The democrat party isn't asking its state treasurer, or any other officer, to trudge along with it when to do so is to override state law, and when the time comes that it does demand such things, then the party had better be removed from power. But Dan Cavanaugh doesn't represent the democrat party in the making of any such declaration—he labels it—and what is more, he has made it fairly apparent to all that he is the last man in the state who ought be entrusted with the responsibilities of the great office of state treasurer.—Riverton Review.

Delegates numbering over a thousand and from all stations in life and all political parties, assembled in Lincoln the past week and affected an organization to carry on the campaign voting on state wide prohibition at the 1916 election. The form of the prohibition amendment to be voted on is as follows: "Be it enacted by the people of the state of Nebraska: That the constitution of the state of Nebraska be amended by adding thereto the following, to be known and designated as article 17 thereof: On and after May 1, 1917, the manufacture, the sale, the keeping for sale or barter under any pretext, of malt, spirituous, vinous or any other intoxicating liquors are forever prohibited in this state, except for medicinal, scientific, mechanical or sacramental purposes." Mayor C. W. Bryan of Lincoln, is at the head of the movement. Leading state men, who heretofore would not have dared to express an opinion on this subject, are openly identified with the movement, and nearly every paper in the state is supporting it. Nothing can stem the tide of Nebraska voting dry in 1916.—North Nebraska Eagle.

The Democrat editor has enjoyed looking over the excellent booster edition of the Burt County Herald, published at the good town of Tekamah, and the Sutherlands, J. R. and Douglas C., may well be proud of their big edition in honor of the 60th anniversary of the establishment of the county, a county rich in natural resources of soil, water, clays and climate, but we want to take just one shot at the concern and say that if we were running a paper in as good a town as they claim Tekamah to be, in as good and rich a county as Burt, with an equipment such as this edition shows the Herald to have, we would make it an all-at-home paper before the next issue was printed. We would never patronize a monopoly that is doing more to keep the country press from coming to its own in the field of foreign advertising than all other things combined. So long as the county seat papers of Nebraska will aid their only competitor in the foreign advertising field to keep a strangle hold on the field, so long will they fail of the recognition they should deserve as a force to be dealt with by those who wish to make the merits of their goods known in this great state. From a reading of the history of the county we learn that Wayne is within the bounds of the original Burt county, for its lines were from the Missouri river on the east at the southeast corner, west thence north to the Missouri river again at the mouth of the Niobrara. It is now less than 24 miles square, and like Wayne is one of the small rich counties of the state.

Children's Automobile Contest

The Wayne Bakery started something last week when it placed that fine Juvenile Auto in the window at the bakery and announced that it is to be a Christmas present to the boy or girl under 15 years of age who can bring the most business to the Wayne Bakery before noon of December 24 next, as measured by the votes given. Mr. Fisher has laid down some good rules, assuring equal chance to all. Votes are only given with CASH sales.

Votes must not be solicited at Bakery.

Voters must write name of candidate on ballot and deposit it or give to candidate.

$1.00 trade books sold will count double votes.

No one in employ of Bakery or connected with firm can compete. Contest will positively close at time and day stated, and all will have equal opportunity.

A number of contestants have already registered, and now is the time for you to begin, and you may earn this fine car by diligent work. See the car in our window. Names and standing of contestants will be published later.—adv.

Mrs. W. H. Whitaker from Omaha was here this week visiting her parents, Peter Coyle and wife, and her sister, Mrs. T. W. Moran. She was accompanied by Miss Sadie Gates. L. J. Coyle of Lincoln was also here visiting the same relatives.

Cattle continue to be shipped in here to care for the surplus feed the coming winter. Wednesday John Rosacker took a car of cows to his farm for the winter. They appeared to be young animals, and many of them showed the Short-horn in their breeding. J. T. Bressler and Wm. VonSeggern each brought in a car of good white-face steers.

W. E. Beaman has moved to the new residence just completed by L. E. Panabaker, not far from the college. Wm. Rennick is to move into the property vacated by Mr. Beaman. Carl Benson and wife are today moving from the Nick Hansen property north of the court house to the Piepenstock house two blocks west of Main street and between 1st and 2d street.

The Wayne market has just installed a fine new meat slicer, a machine so nicely adjustable as to make it possible to slice bacon, dried beef or any of the loaf meats or cured sausages any desired thickness. It will cut a shaving as thin as a sheet of paper, or a third of an inch thick and so feed as to make all slices uniform thickness. It is quite a help in getting accurate weight on valuable meats.

Wayne Normal vs. Trinity College

Playing only straight football and not being obliged to exert themselves in the least, Wayne Normal defeated the Trinity college football team at Sioux City Saturday by a score of 21 to 0. But for penalties the score would have been at least doubled, and Wayne lost two touchdowns because of alleged infractions of the rules.

There was no comparison in the work of the two teams, Wayne failing to make first downs but once when not carried back by penalties, and Trinity failing to make their downs at all except when aided by penalties. Trinity's defense was ragged and their offense failed miserably. On the offense Wayne's interference failed to form at times and the line, composed mostly of men who had never played football before, did not always open holes for the backs. But, for the most part, the work was all that could be expected and showed great promise for games to come. Ellis and Dale were the most consistent ground gainers, and Dawson showed good form in running when the interference failed to work. Ellis, Stonebraker and Hering played great defensive games, Hering the big center, making over half the tackles when Trinity had the ball. Fumbling the punts was costly for Wayne, one in the first quarter giving Trinity the ball on Wayne's 10 yard line. The currents of air caused by the wind coming over the high fence of the "Sioux City pill-box," where the game was played, made the proper gauging of the ball impossible. It was on a fumbled punt that Trinity had their only chance to score. Recovering the ball on the 10-yard line and losing 10 in three downs, a drop kick on the fourth down failed by only a few feet. At no other time was there even a remote chance of a score against the Normal.

Trinity won the toss and chose to defend the east goal. Wayne then chose to receive and Trinity kicked off. The ball then zigzagged back and forth across the field, Wayne carrying it in five and ten yard gains toward the Trinity goal and the referee carrying it back for 15 yard penalties. Neither side scored during the first period, the quarter ending with the ball in Wayne's possession on the 50 yard line. Wayne was penalized at the beginning of the second quarter and was forced to punt. Noonan fumbled and fell on the ball on Trinity's 10 yard line. Three plays lost 8 yards, and on the fourth down a Trinity man was tackled behind his own goal line for safety, scoring 2 points for Wayne. The referee then forced Wayne to kick off, although the rules call for scrimmage on the 20 yard line. Trinity returned the ball 20 yards and was held for downs. Ellis on a split play went 40 yards for a touchdown, which was disallowed and Wayne penalized 5 yards for off side. Bucks and end runs took the ball to the 15 yard line and Dawson went over for the first touchdown. In the third quarter bucks, splits and end runs took the ball to the 5 yard line and Dale went over for the second touchdown. Penalties then kept the ball in the middle of the field during the remainder of the quarter. In the fourth quarter Wayne worked the ball to within 10 yards of the goal. Wayne was then penalized for Coach Gross being on the sideline, although his presence there was by agreement with Coach Parsons, who was on the other side and who had twice been on the field of play, talking to his men and to the referee. Trinity then took the ball on downs, and on the first play

Dawson intercepted a forward pass and ran 40 yards for the last score of the game. On the kick off Wayne took the ball and after several short gains, Dale ran 70 yards to the Trinity 3-yard line, where he was downed. Time was then called.

The Normal boys played a clean, aggressive game of football throughout. Not a word was spoken to any one during the entire contest, and there was not a hint of rough work on the part of the Normal team.

A return game will be played at Wayne on October 23, in which the Normal hopes to run up a still larger score.

Geo. Buskirk was at Wayne today, coming in to deliver some of his pure bred stock in this vicinity. He brought a duroc Jersey boar and a yearling Shorthorn bull from his farm 12 miles southeast, and took some lumber home with him.

Arthur Newman was taken to Omaha last Thursday, and underwent an operation for bowel trouble, and according to last reports he is fast improving and has every promise of soon enjoying better health than has been his privilege for several years. He was accompanied by Dr. Lutgen and C. R. VanHorn, and with them went Mrs. Haas who a few days later underwent an operation for appendicitis, and is recovering nicely from the ordeal.

If ever there has been a week since the present owners of the Democrat have been publishing the paper when we felt like advising every reader to carefully peruse the advertisements it seems to us this is the week. We have frequently carried a larger volume of advertising, but this week they all appear so reasonable and appealing to the person who is looking for reasonable goods, safe investment or a good home. The land offerings should not be overlooked nor should the merchant's news fail of careful reading. The man who wishes to purchase purebred stock will find something of interest, and just now looks like a proper time to buy good stock. It is getting so that the editor has to go some to have his stuff read before the advertisements are considered.

Resolution

Inasmuch as it has pleased the Allwise Creator to remove from our midst our beloved pastor, Floyd E. Blessing,

Therefore, Be it Resolved: That we, the members of the council of the St. Paul's Lutheran church of Wayne, Neb., hereby express our profound sorrow at the death of our pastor Floyd E. Blessing: That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, still we congratulate them in the remembrance of his life and we feel that the result of the great work of his life will not be limited to present time, but, through the people who have come under his influence, will extend far into the future.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this thirteenth day of October, 1915.

Brains and Hands

Everybody has brains and most everybody has hands, and the two combined should chase the wolf from the door.

A few people begin life working with their hands, and as opportunity presents they throw their brains into the fray and make a success in their chosen vocation. Later we speak of them as self-made men.

Others start life with their hands, never use anything but their hands, and die as they began. And we speak of them as failures.

Now why can't everybody in this town use their brains as well as their hands? Begin today to concentrate your thoughts upon performing your labors just a little better than you did yesterday, and each day strive to move upward on the ladder of efficiency.

When you do this you will find your boss behind and pushing you about as energetically as you are climbing. Through your efforts and his you will soon reach the top, and when the proper opportunity arrives you will become somebody else's boss.

You will then be fairly launched upon your career, and a careful exercise of the brains and a liberal use of your hands will lead you on to success in life.

Brains without hands seldom accomplish much, and hands without brains will most assuredly never startle the world.

Brains and hands should work together and in complete harmony.

Together they will surmount the obstacles in life's pathway, but singly they will skate through existence on the fringe of adversity. Many young boys are growing up in this town whose future is to be carved out. If taught the proper use of their brain power while young they will become self-made men of the future. If allowed to drift along until they arrive at man's estate they will find greater use for the hands than for the brains. They may not become failures, but at best they will simply be cogs in the machinery of better men.

Start your boy right and he will travel the rest of the way on his own mettle.—Humphrey Democrat.

Bixby of the State Journal has the following bit of common sense mixed up with his foolishness. We cannot understand how one so foolish as that man Gardner ever broke into congress and was allowed to remain, but suppose the combines have managed it as a part of their plan, and possibly they were unable to secure a better man for their use. But read Bix:

Idiocy is quite as contagious as the flu. Congressman Gardner started the scare by demonstrating in his own vivid way how easy it would be for anybody with a hammer and gun to come across the ocean and take Philadelphia. Now a scheme is hatching among our naval strategists to encourage the immediate building of bigger battleships than ever were, to frighten our enemies across the water who are already scared to death over perils nearer home. England has the greatest array of battleships ever set afloat, and the most they have done in the present mighty conflict has been to sink. One little old submarine sent the Hague, Aboukir and Cressy to the bottom in less than half an hour.

Now England's mighty ships are seen Safe anchored where no submarine can find safe passage under seas. To sink the same as she may please.

And so I say what is the sense Of all this generous expense In building boats which are, when done, Of no real use to anyone? Let's spend our substance more and more

To educate away from war; To foster in all ways we can The common brotherhood of man. All nations spring from common dirt, And if we help instead of hurt Our brothers far across the sea, We shall be safe—take it from me.

Ruth is Home Again

"What makes this butter crumble so?" inquired Ruth's sister, as she was trying to cut butter that had been upon the ice a long time.

"Very cold butter is likely to do that unless you know how to cut it properly," answered Ruth. "So you might just as well learn how to cut it properly right now. Let me show you." And taking a piece of waxed paper in which the butter had been wrapped, she put it over the sharp edge of the knife and cut into the butter. The butter did not crumble, break in pieces or stick to the knife, but separated in nice smooth layers, as good butter should.

"Ruth," ejaculated her sister, "I don't like to be continually praising you, but I must say that you are the eighth wonder of the modern age."

The Death of Joseph E. Wing

Death, the grim reaper, with whom there is no respect of persons, has removed from this part of the field of life one of the very brightest men working in the field of agricultural journalism, Joseph E. Wing, of the Breeders' Gazette.

To us, his death seems untimely, for Mr. Wing was but fifty-three, and all we have said that he had at least twenty years of life and usefulness before him. He was so bright, so cheery, so enthusiastic, so optimistic, so entranced with visions of better things—visions many of which are rapidly becoming accomplished facts—that we do not see how we are to get along without him. He had such keen appreciation of nature in all her moods, and was such a delightful mixer among men, because he really liked folks, just folks—and especially farm folks—that his loss will be keenly felt even by those who felt the living touch of his personality only through the printed page, and still more keenly by those of us who knew him in the flesh. The agricultural world needs men, who can see clearly the best, and work for it with high enthusiasm long before it becomes the actual.

This is not a case of "mourning the worth we needed not while it dwelt among us," but of mourning the departure of a life which gave us constant pleasure.—Wallace Farmer.

Without Advertising

Manson (Iowa) Democrat—Of course a man can get along without advertising. He can also get along without shaving and go around looking like a Russian mojuik or a cross between a bald-headed eagle and a monkey. He can get along without polishing his shoes and having his clothes pressed and cleaned occasionally, but what will people say about him? He can hold his pants up with the suspender or no suspender at all, using the hand with which he is not scratching himself to keep up his trousers where they belong. He can get along without haircuts and look like a Fiji Islander. He can get along without paying any church dues and go to church and be the biggest bawler on the mourner's bench, but everybody will know that he is a moocher and a sponge. It is just as easy to get along without advertising as it is to eschew other comforts of life. We know several business men who get along without advertising, but look at their business! They don't live—just exist—and nobody ever goes near them unless they just have to. It's a lonely life, this getting along without advertising, but it can be done.

TOO GOOD TO KEEP

A Story of Intentions Turned Awry.

By EUNICE BLAKE

Edgar Beverly, from the time he was born, was all boy. There was absolutely nothing feminine about him. When he was three years old a doting aunt presented him with a doll. His father was not in sympathy with this gift, averring that dolls were exclusively for girls. But the aunt insisted that boys, as well as girls, in their infancy played with dolls. So a doll was provided, with a china head, waxen locks and a pair of beautiful blue eyes. Edgar accepted it, but showed a lack of intelligence as to what it was for. Ten minutes after it had been given him he took it by the ankles and scattered the head down on a stone step, scattering fragments of the china head over the garden walk.

When Edgar was ten years old he lost his mother and was turned over to a bachelor uncle of thirty, Robert Cooledge, the uncle, had been a wild fellow and was just beginning to realize the chances he had taken and the time he had wasted in sowing his wild oats. He had barely escaped losing at the gaming table a fortune he had inherited and had just in time put a check on himself in too close association with the bottle. He had madly loved three different women, any one of whom, if he had married her, would have wrecked his life.

When Robert Cooledge assumed the care of his little nephew he had become fully aware of his own imperfections and realized by what a narrow margin on many occasions he had escaped calamity. His experiences with the women he had loved, or thought he loved, had caused him to believe that he was a very poor judge between good and bad women. Nevertheless he considered matrimony, the wife being a good woman, as a sheet anchor for men. Having convinced himself of his own inability to discover the good or the bad in a woman, and being horrified at the mistakes he had made, he eschewed matrimony for himself, while he advocated it for others.

For these reasons he determined that Edgar Beverly should be brought up very carefully, that some woman, who knew her own sex perfectly, should select a wife for the boy and that he should marry the girl selected, whether he loved her or not, when he came to manhood. He would bring the boy up to consider him more as a companion than an uncle, and in this way would be the better able to shield him from the dangers through which he himself had passed.

When Edgar came to be eighteen years old he displayed the same proclivities his uncle had displayed in his youth. He was not bad, but reckless. He was very generous, and when his own interests came in collision with those of any one weaker than himself he would invariably give way. He did not conceal what he was doing from his uncle, and Cooledge had every advantage in guiding him, having from the first invited his confidence.

But it is one thing to have an advantage and another to attain success. Edgar benefited by the advice of his uncle so far as to escape certain pitfalls, but the trend of his disposition could not be turned. He had inherited the same wild oats fever as his uncle and it must run its course.

For several years the uncle was in a constant state of anxiety with regard to his nephew, for such was the relationship between them that Cooledge knew exactly what Beverly was doing. Finally he determined to make an effort to put in practice the expedient he had intended from the time when

Edgar had come to him as a little boy. He would try to marry him to some good girl!

But, since he had failed to manage his own affairs in this respect, he did not see how he would have better success in managing those of his nephew. He determined to consult the wife of a friend of his, a Mrs. Jernegan. The lady heard his story and promised to think the matter over. Musingly she said, was a risky and thankless task. In the case of a young man inclined to be wild it was very difficult. However, she would try to think of some young woman of good sense, good character and amiable disposition for the purpose.

Mrs. Jernegan was herself a woman possessing what is commonly called horse sense. She did not especially relish advising any girl to marry a man for the purpose of reforming him. He might make an excellent husband after being reformed, but suppose the reformation never took place? Mr. Cooledge had passed safely through the danger period of a man's life and had arrived at an age wherein he saw those dangers in their true light. The fascination of danger inherent in a manly man had passed and left him a splendid fellow. But that was no reason why his nephew could run the same course and escape ruin.

These were some of the thoughts that passed through Mrs. Jernegan's mind before she acted upon Mr. Cooledge's request. Then when she had the matter all thought out she sent for a young lady friend of hers, Miss Laura Dudley, and the two had a long conversation on the subject of snatching young Edgar Beverly as a brand from the burning.

The next day Mr. Cooledge received an invitation to call on Mrs. Jernegan and upon doing so was informed that she had fixed upon a young lady who would be a fit person to reform his nephew. The only question was, would she consent to make the effort? She was three or four years older than Edgar, but Mrs. Jernegan recognized the fact that very young men are more easily won by women older than themselves than by immature girls. She proposed that the young woman upon whom she had decided meet the uncle and the nephew, and after the meeting, if she consented to make the desired attempt, that Mr. Cooledge be informed of the fact and give her every opportunity to accomplish her mission.

The result of these interviews was that Mr. Cooledge, Mr. Beverly and Miss Dudley met at Mrs. Jernegan's at dinner. Cooledge kept a close eye on Miss Dudley to observe whether or no she seemed pleased with his nephew. He saw no evidence that she was pleased or displeased with him. As for Edgar, there was evidence that he was not averse to Miss Dudley. The dinner passed very pleasantly, and since Miss Dudley was to go home alone in Mrs. Jernegan's runabout, Edgar Beverly accompanied her.

A few days later Mr. Cooledge was informed that Miss Dudley had acceded to his request, and Mrs. Jernegan suggested that he call upon the young lady for the purpose of talking the matter over. He lost no time in making the call and found Miss Dudley in a very complaisant frame of mind.

"I was much pleased with your nephew, Mr. Cooledge," she said, "and since our mutual friend, Mrs. Jernegan, has apprised me of your intentions, we may as well begin where she left off. If I am to win your nephew I can only do it by being thrown a good deal in his company. This, of course, cannot be without management. Now, I propose that we make up a little party for the balance of the summer to go to the mountains. That there may be two men and two women I propose to invite a lady friend of mine—for chaperon if you like—and I feel great confidence that your plan of marrying your nephew will succeed before the end of the summer."

Mr. Cooledge fell in with the plan, and in due time a party of four was domesticated in a mountain hotel. Mr. Cooledge was somewhat surprised to find the lady who was added to the party to be several years younger than Miss Dudley, but the latter explained that she was the only one of her friends whom she could get to make up the party. She was scarcely out of her teens and a very attractive young woman. She was introduced as Kate Millard and the name Kate is often synonymous with the word fascinating.

The quartet passed a very enjoyable month together. But from the first the plan to marry Beverly to Miss Dudley went awry, because he preferred Kate Millard. Cooledge was much put out at the turn the affair had taken, for he approved very highly of Miss Dudley, but considered her friend of very light caliber. Instead of his nephew being attentive to Miss Dudley he was devoted to her friend. This left Cooledge and Miss Dudley in constant companionship. Cooledge after awhile instead of being troubled at this turn of his intentions was so delighted with Miss Dudley's companionship that when one day his nephew swung to her from his friend he showed his spleen perceptibly.

Not only did Beverly notice his uncle's being ruffled by his attentions to Miss Dudley, but Kate was immensely delighted with it. The two younger persons were evidently out for a frolic, and if they could get any fun at the older man's expense they were quite inclined to do so. Beverly would for a time leave Miss Dudley quite free to receive the attentions of Mr. Cooledge, then he would veer about and appropriate her to himself. To make matters worse, Miss Dudley made no objection to being monopolized by the young scapegrace, and when he was devoted to her his uncle was left out in the cold.

And so the game went on. Mr. Cooledge when his nephew was devoting himself to Miss Dudley declared that the plan was working out admirably, but he felt like throwing the young rascal over a precipice. Then when Beverly swung back to Kate Millard and left the field to him he voted the boy a fool, but in his heart was delighted.

When the autumn came round and the party returned to the city Mr. Cooledge one day received a message from Mrs. Jernegan asking why he had not called upon her. He at once put in an appearance, and the following dialogue ensued:

"How did the plan for marrying your nephew work?" asked the lady.

"It didn't work at all. Miss Dudley invited a friend of hers, a chit, to be of our party in the mountains, and the chit got away with Edgar."

"Indeed!" said the lady. "That was very hard on Laura, wasn't it? Who was the friend that Laura invited to complete your party?"

"A Miss Kate Millard."

"You mean Mrs. Kate Millard."

"What?"

"Kate Millard is a widow."

Mr. Cooledge was thunderstruck.

"You wished to marry off your nephew, and I wished to give you a wife. I got up this party for a summer outing myself. It was all arranged beforehand that Kate Millard should win your nephew and Laura Dudley should win you. The plan has been successful in both its parts. Edgar Beverly is engaged to Kate Millard, and you are engaged to Laura Dudley."

"Well, I'll be jinged!" exclaimed Mr. Cooledge. "How did you learn that?"

"From both Laura and Kate. It was too good to keep."

For the Hirsutely Ornamented.

Mrs. Vermonte Brown—Why on earth don't you get your husband to cut off his whiskers? Mrs. Smiffan Jones—I wouldn't have him do it for the world. I want him to let them grow and get them all out of his system.—Ohio State Journal.

Don't Dodge.

Do not dodge. Whatever the difficulties to be met, they are not made easier by trying to dodge them. In trying to dodge a missile from one direction you may come in line with one from a different direction. When we dodge trouble we are more than likely to get into other trouble no less easy to endure. Look with courage on what must be met. Faced with courage difficulties are half conquered. Better meet and conquer difficulties than to dodge them. Do not dodge duties that devolve on you. Duties performed add strength and dignity to character. It matters little what these duties are; though they be the simplest and humblest, well and truly done, they acquire dignity. Stand up bravely and squarely to meet the difficulties of life. With courage you will conquer. You will come through life with fewer scars than by trying to dodge duty or difficulty. Trying to evade begets in a man a cringing spirit. He gets a habit of truckling, and upright, self-respecting manhood is gone. Don't dodge if you would hold yourself above meanness.—Milwaukee Journal.

Creek Names of Iowa.

That Iowa is a farming state is reflected in the names of many of the streams that flow through it. First there is Farm creek, so that Farmers creek is not out of place; then there is a Chicken creek, a Duck creek, a Goose creek, a number of Turkey creeks, as well as Pigeon creek. There are Fox, Hawk and Rat creeks to devour the domestic animals, and some Crow creeks, while there is also a Fly creek and Mosquito creek. Water creeks are present, likewise a Hog run and a Mud creek, so that Bacon creek is not strange. It is fitting that with a Bee creek and a Bee branch there should also be a Honey creek. There are a couple of Cherry creeks, a Crab-apple creek and plenty of Plum creeks, and for the wild animals we have Bear, Beaver, Buck, Crane, Deer, Doe, Elk, Otter, Panther, Raccoon, Skunk and Wolf creeks. With a Keg creek there is a Whisky creek and a Whisky run. Finally there is a Purgatory creek.—Argonaut.

The Editor Soliloquizes

When a dearly loved subscriber writes to us in irate vein; "Stop the paper. Never send the vile sheet to my home again." We just puff our sweet old corn-cob, and we stroke the office cat; editors "don't have no feelings"—never mind—we're used to that.

When a typographical error sometimes creeps in by mistake, and our friends rush up and tell us what a first-rate ass we'd make, we just overlook their errors, never giving tit for tat; editors are pachydermic, and—Oh well; we're never used to that.

When our advertisers cancel, telling us the sheet's no good; when subscribers choose to pay us in tomatoes or cord wood, well, we simply grin and bear it, though it leaves us rather flat; editors can exist somehow—somehow we get used to that.

When your daughter's graduation, or her wedding day comes round, you expect the kind of write-ups that in adjectives abound, do you ever stop to thank us, though 'tis done with great "eclat" that's what editors are there for, and—Oh, well! We're used to that.

Making a New Kind of Plum Jelly

This fall when making your plum jelly, try this plan: Get fresh mint, and while the jelly is cooking add some of the mint leaves to it. Pour the jelly into glasses so that a few leaves will be in each. The mint gives a flavor and point to the jelly that makes it especially delicious.

Why Pay the Peddler or Canvasser Twice These Prices?

You can save a good deal of money by buying your stock tonic at this store, instead of paying the peddler big, fancy prices for goods of unknown quality. Look at these prices for that old reliable and guaranteed stock conditioner and worm expeller—

DR. HESS STOCK TONIC

25-lb. pail costs $1.60 100-lb. sack costs $5.00

Why pay the peddler twice these prices? Dr. Hess Stock Tonic is highly concentrated and will go as far as any preparation, no matter what price you pay. Dr. Hess & Clark, of Ashland, Ohio, manufacturers of the famous Dr. Hess line, do not have to pay for expense of horse, wagon and peddler; that's the reason they can sell their product to you through this store at rock-bottom prices.

You get your money back right here if any Dr. Hess preparation doesn't do what is claimed for it. We also handle

Dr. Hess Dip and Disinfectant Dr. Hess Poultry Pan-a-ce-a

Brains and Hands

Everybody has brains and most everybody has hands, and the two combined should chase the wolf from the door.

A few people begin life working with their hands, and as opportunity presents they throw their brains into the fray and make a success in their chosen vocation. Later we speak of them as self-made men.

Others start life with their hands, never use anything but their hands, and die as they began. And we speak of them as failures.

Now why can't everybody in this town use their brains as well as their hands? Begin today to concentrate your thoughts upon performing your labors just a little better than you did yesterday, and each day strive to move upward on the ladder of efficiency. When you do this you will find your boss behind and pushing you about as energetically as you are climbing. Through your efforts and his you will soon reach the top, and when the proper opportunity arrives you will become somebody else's boss.

You will then be fairly launched upon your career, and a careful exercise of the brains and a liberal use of your hands will lead you on to success in life.

Brains without hands seldom accomplish much, and hands without brains will most assuredly never startle the world.

Brains and hands should work together and in complete harmony.

Together they will surmount the obstacles in life's pathway, but singly they will skate through existence on the fringe of adversity.

Many young boys are growing up in this town whose future is to be carved out. If taught the proper use of their brain power while young they will become self-made men of the future. If allowed to drift along until they arrive at man's estate they will find greater use for the hands than for the brains. They may not become failures, but at best they will simply be cogs in the machinery of better men.

Start your boy right and he will travel the rest of the way on his own mettle.—Humphrey Democrat.

Bixby of the State Journal has the following bit of common sense mixed up with his foolishness. We cannot understand how one so foolish as that man Gardner ever broke into congress and was allowed to remain, but suppose the combines have managed it as a part of their plan, and possibly they were unable to secure a better man for their use. But read Bix:

Idiocy is quite as contagious as itch. Congressman Gardner started the scare by demonstrating in his own vivid way how easy it would be for anybody with a hammer and gun to come across the ocean and take Philadelphia. Now a scheme is hatching among our naval strategists to encourage the immediate building of bigger battleships than ever were, to frighten our enemies across the water who are already scared to death over perils nearer home. England has the greatest array of battleships ever set afloat, and the most they have done in the present mighty conflict has been to sink. One little old submarine sent the Hague, Aboukir and Cressy to the bottom in less than half an hour.

Now England's mighty ships are seen

Safe anchored where no submarine

Can find safe passage under seas, To sink the same as she may please.

And so I say what is the sense Of all this generous expense In building boats which are, when done,

Of no real use to anyone? Let's spend our substance more and more

To educate away from war; To foster in all ways we can The common brotherhood of man. All nations spring from common dirt,

And if we help instead of hurt Our brothers far across the sea, We shall be safe—take it from me.

Ruth is Home Again

"What makes this butter crumble so?" inquired Ruth's sister, as she was trying to cut butter that had been upon the ice a long time.

"Very cold butter is likely to do that unless you know how to cut it properly," answered Ruth, "So you might just as well learn how to cut it properly right now. Let me show you." And taking a piece of waxed paper in which the butter had been wrapped, she put it over the sharp edge of the knife and cut into the butter. The butter did not crumble, break in pieces or stick to the knife, but separated in nice smooth layers, as good butter should.

"Ruth," ejaculated her sister, "I don't like to be continually praising you, but I must say that you are the eighth wonder of the modern age."

The Death of Joseph E. Wing

Death, the grim reaper, with whom there is no respect of persons, has removed from this part of the field of life one of the very brightest men working in the field of agricultural journalism, Joseph E. Wing, of the Breeders' Gazette. To us, his death seems untimely, for Mr. Wing was but fifty-three, and we would all have said that he had at least twenty years of life and usefulness before him.

He was so bright, so cheery, so enthusiastic, so optimistic, so entranced with visions of better things—visions many of which are rapidly becoming accomplished facts—that we do not see how we are to get along without him. He had such keen appreciation of nature in all her moods, and was such a delightful mixer among men, because he really liked folks, just folks—and especially farm folks—that his loss will be keenly felt even by those who felt the living touch of his personality only through the printed page, and still more keenly by those of us who knew him in the flesh. The agricultural world needs men who can see clearly the best, and work for it with high enthusiasm long before it becomes the actual.

This is not a case of "mourning the worth we heeded not while it dwelt among us," but of mourning the departure of a life which gave us constant pleasure.—Wallace Farmer.

Without Advertising

Manson (Iowa) Democrat—Of course a man can get along without advertising. He can also get along without shaving and go around looking like a Russian mojuik or a cross between a bald-headed eagle and a monkey. He can get along without polishing his shoes and having his clothes pressed and cleaned occasionally, but what will people say about him? He can hold his pants up with the suspender or no suspender at all, using the hand with which he is not scratching himself to keep up his trousers where they belong. He can get along without haircuts and look like a Fiji Islander.—He can get along without paying any church dues and go to church and be the biggest bawler on the mourner's bench, but everybody will know that he is a moocher and a sponge. It is just as easy to get along without advertising as it is to eschew other comforts of life. We know several business men who get along without advertising, but look at their business! They don't live—just exist—and nobody ever goes near them unless they just have to. It's a lonely life, this getting along without advertising, but it can be done.

Notice to Non-Resident Defendants

To CORNELIUS MCGREEVEY, ADMINISTRATOR of the ESTATE of FRANK UEDING, DECEASED, CHRISTINE UEDING, JOSEPH UEDING, SOPHIA UEDING, PAULINA UEDING, IDA UEDING ANTOINE UEDING, and the INTERNATIONAL HAVESTER COMPANY of AMERICA, non-resident defendants:

You, and each of you, will take notice that P. D. Corell, as plaintiff, filed his petition in equity in the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, on the 10th day of September, A. D., 1915, against you, and each of you, impleaded with Minnie B. Reynolds, formerly Minnie B. Hamilton, the object and prayer of said petition being to foreclose a certain real estate mortgage given by Frank Ueding on October 8th, 1907, conveying the East 50 feet of the West 100 feet of Lot 1, in Block 7, of the original town of Winside, Nebraska, said mortgage having been given to secure the payment of a certain promissory note of even date therewith, for the sum of $1,500 with interest thereon, from date, at the rate of 6 per cent per annum until paid, said mortgage being recorded in Book 35 of Mortgages, at page 264 of the records of Wayne County, Nebraska, said note and mortgage having been for a valuable consideration sold, assigned and transferred by the said Minnie B. Reynolds, formerly Minnie B. Hamilton, to the plaintiff, P. D. Corell, who is now the owner and holder of said note and mortgage. Default having been made in the payment of said debt, plaintiff prays for foreclosure of his said mortgage, for costs of suit, and general equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before Monday, November 22nd, A. D., 1915.

TOO GOOD TO KEEP

A Story of Intentions Turned Awry.

By EUNICE BLAKE

Edgar Beverly, from the time he was born, was all boy. There was absolutely nothing feminine about him. When he was three years old a doting aunt presented him with a doll. His father was not in sympathy with this gift, averring that dolls were exclusively for girls. But the aunt insisted that boys, as well as girls, in their infancy played with dolls. So a doll was provided, with a china head, tawny locks and a pair of beautiful blue eyes. Edgar accepted it, but showed a lack of intelligence as to what it was for. Ten minutes after it had been given him he took it by the ankles and brought the head down on a stone step, scattering fragments of the china head over the garden walk.

When Edgar was ten years old he lost his mother and was turned over to a bachelor uncle of thirty. Robert Coolidge, the uncle, had been a wild fellow and was just beginning to realize the chances he had taken and the time he had wasted in sowing his wild oats. He had barely escaped losing at the gaming table a fortune he had inherited and had just in time put a check on himself in too close association with the bottle. He had madly loved three different women, any one of whom, if he had married her, would have wrecked his life.

When Robert Coolidge assumed the care of his little nephew he had become fully aware of his own imperfections and realized by what a narrow margin on many occasions he had escaped calamity. His experiences with the women he had loved, or thought he loved, had caused him to believe that he was a very poor judge between good and bad women. Nevertheless he considered matrimony, the wife being a good woman, as a sheet anchor for men. Having convinced himself of his own inability to discover the good or the bad in a woman, and being horrified at the mistakes he had made, he eschewed matrimony for himself, while he advocated it for others.

For these reasons he determined that Edgar Beverly should be brought up very carefully, that some woman, who knew her own sex perfectly, should select a wife for the boy and that he should marry the girl selected, whether he loved her or not, when he came to manhood. He would bring the boy up to consider him more as a companion than an uncle, and in this way would be the better able to shield him from the dangers through which he himself had passed.

When Edgar came to be eighteen years old he displayed the same proclivities his uncle had displayed in his youth. He was not bad, but reckless. He was very generous, and when his own interests came in collision with those of any one weaker than himself he would invariably give way. He did not conceal what he was doing from his uncle, and Coolidge had every advantage in guiding him, having from the first invited his confidence.

But it is one thing to have an advantage and another to attain success. Edgar benefited by the advice of his uncle so far as to escape certain pitfalls, but the trend of his disposition could not be turned. He had inherited the same wild oats fever as his uncle and it must run its course.

For several years the uncle was in a constant state of anxiety with regard to his nephew, for such was the relationship between them that Coolidge knew exactly what Beverly was doing. Finally he determined to make an effort to put in practice the expedient he had intended from the time when

Edgar had come to him as a little boy. He would try to marry him to some good girl. But since he had failed to manage his own affairs in this respect, he did not see how he would have better success in managing those of his nephew. He determined to consult the wife of a friend of his, a Mrs. Jernegan. The lady heard his story and promised to think the matter over. Matrimony, she said, was a risky and thankless task. In the case of a young man inclined to be wild it was very difficult. However, she would try to think of some young woman of good sense, good character and amiable disposition for the purpose.

Mrs. Jernegan was herself a woman possessing what is commonly called horse sense. She did not especially relish advising any girl to marry a man for the purpose of reforming him. He might make an excellent husband after being reformed, but suppose the reformation never took place? Mr. Coolidge had passed safely through the danger period of a man's life and had arrived at an age wherein he saw those dangers in their true light. The fascination of danger inherent in a manly man had passed and left him a splendid fellow. But that was no reason why his nephew could run the same course and escape ruin.

These were some of the thoughts that passed through Mrs. Jernegan's mind before she acted upon Mr. Coolidge's request. Then when she had the matter all thought out she sent for a young lady friend of hers, Miss Laura Dudley, and the two had a long conversation on the subject of snatching young Edgar Beverly as a brand from the burning.

The next day Mr. Coolidge received an invitation to call on Mrs. Jernegan and upon doing so was informed that she had fixed upon a young lady who would be a fit person to reform his nephew. The only question was, would she consent to make the effort? She was three or four years older than Edgar, but Mrs. Jernegan recognized the fact that very young men are more easily won by women older than themselves than by immature girls. She proposed that the young woman upon whom she had decided meet the uncle and the nephew, and after the meeting, if she consented to make the desired attempt, that Mr. Coolidge be informed of the fact and give her every opportunity to accomplish her mission.

The result of these interviews was that Mr. Coolidge, Mr. Beverly and Miss Dudley met at Mrs. Jernegan's at dinner. Coolidge kept a close eye on Miss Dudley to observe whether or no she seemed pleased with his nephew. He saw no evidence that she was pleased or displeased with him. As for Edgar, there was evidence that he was not averse to Miss Dudley. The dinner passed very pleasantly, and since Miss Dudley was to go home alone in Mrs. Jernegan's runabout, Edgar Beverly accompanied her.

A few days later Mr. Coolidge was informed that Miss Dudley had acceded to his request, and Mrs. Jernegan suggested that he call upon the young lady for the purpose of talking the matter over. He lost no time in making the call and found Miss Dudley in a very complaining frame of mind.

"I was much pleased with your nephew, Mr. Coolidge," she said, "and since our mutual friend, Mrs. Jernegan, has apprised me of your intentions, we may as well begin where she left off. If I am to win your nephew I can only do it by being thrown a good deal in his company. This, of course, cannot be without management. Now, I propose that we make up a little party for the balance of the summer to go to the mountains. That there may be two men and two women I propose to invite a lady friend of mine—for chaperon if you like—and I feel great confidence that your plan of marrying your nephew will succeed before the end of the summer."

Mr. Coolidge fell in with the plan, and in due time a party of four was domiciled in a mountain hotel. Mr. Coolidge was somewhat surprised to find the lady who was added to the party to be several years younger than Miss Dudley, but the latter explained that she was the only one of her friends whom she could get to make up the party. She was scarcely out of her teens and a very attractive young woman. She was introduced as Kate Millard, and the name Kate is often synonymous with the word fascinating. The quartet passed a very enjoyable month together. But from the first the plan to marry Beverly to Miss Dudley went awry, because he preferred Kate Millard. Coolidge was much put out at the turn the affair had taken, for he approved very highly of Miss Dudley, but considered her friend of very light caliber. Instead of his nephew being attentive to Miss Dudley he was devoted to her friend. This left Coolidge and Miss Dudley in constant companionship. Coolidge after awhile instead of being troubled at this turn of his intentions was so delighted with Miss Dudley's companionship that when one day his nephew swung to her from his friend he showed his spleen perceptibly.

Not only did Beverly notice his uncle's being ruffled by his attentions to Miss Dudley, but Kate was immensely delighted with it. The two younger persons were evidently out for a frolic, and if they could get any fun at the older man's expense they were quite inclined to do so. Beverly would for a time leave Miss Dudley quite free to receive the attentions of Mr. Coolidge, then he would veer about and appropriate her to himself. To make matters worse, Miss Dudley made no objection to being monopolized by the young scoundrel, and when he was devoted to her his uncle was left out in the cold.

And so the game went on. Mr. Coolidge when his nephew was devoting himself to Miss Dudley declared that the plan was working out admirably, but he felt like throwing the young rascal over a precipice. Then when Beverly swung back to Kate Millard and left the field to him he voted the boy a fool, but in his heart was delighted.

When the autumn came round and the party returned to the city Mr. Coolidge one day received a message from Mrs. Jernegan asking why he had not called upon her. He at once put in an appearance, and the following dialogue ensued:

"How did the plan for marrying your nephew work?" asked the lady.

"It didn't work at all. Miss Dudley invited a friend of hers, a chit, to be of our party in the mountains, and the chit got away with Edgar."

"Indeed!" said the lady. "That was very hard on Laura, wasn't it? Who was the friend that Laura invited to complete your party?"

"A Miss Kate Millard."

"You mean Mrs. Kate Millard?"

"What?"

"Kate Millard is a widow."

Mr. Coolidge was thunderstruck.

"You wished to marry off your nephew, and I wished to give you a wife. I got up this party for a summer outing myself. It was all arranged beforehand that Kate Millard should win your nephew and Laura Dudley should win you. The plan has been successful in both its parts. Edgar Beverly is engaged to Kate Millard, and you are engaged to Laura Dudley."

"Well, I'll be jinged!" exclaimed Mr. Coolidge. "How did you learn that?"

"From both Laura and Kate. It was too good to keep."

For the Hirsutely Ornamented.

Mrs. Vermonte Brown—Why on earth don't you get your husband to cut off his whiskers? Mrs. Smiffan Jones—I wouldn't have him do it for the world. I want him to let them grow and get them all out of his system.—Ohio State Journal.

Don't Dodge.

Do not dodge. Whatever the difficulties to be met, they are not made easier by trying to dodge them. In trying to dodge a missile from one direction you may come in line with one from a different direction. When we dodge trouble we are more than likely to get into other trouble no less easy to endure. Look with courage on what must be met. Faced with courage difficulties are half conquered. Better meet and conquer difficulties than to dodge them. Do not dodge duties that devolve on you. Duties performed add strength and dignity to character. It matters little what these duties are; though they be of the simplest and humblest, well and truly done, they acquire dignity. Stand up bravely and squarely to meet the difficulties of life. With courage you will conquer. You will come through life with fewer scars than by trying to dodge duty or difficulty. Trying to evade begets in a man a cringing spirit. He gets a habit of truckling, and upright, self-respecting manhood is gone. Don't dodge if you would hold yourself above meanness.—Milwaukee Journal.

Creek Names of Iowa.

That Iowa is a farming state is reflected in the names of many of the streams that flow through it. First there is Farm creek, so that Farmer's creek is not out of place; then there is a Chicken creek, a Duck creek, a Goose creek, a number of Turkey creeks, as well as Pigeon creek. There are Fox, Hawk and Rat creeks to devour the domestic animals, and some Crow creeks, while there is also a Fly creek and Mosquito creek. Water creeks are present, likewise a Hog run and a Mud creek, so that Bacon creek is not strange. It is fitting that with a Bee creek and a Bee branch there should also be a Honey creek. There are a couple of Cherry creeks, a Crabapple creek and plenty of Plum creeks, and for the wild animals we have Bear, Beaver, Buck, Crane, Deer, Doe, Elk, Otter, Panther, Raccoon, Skunk and Wolf creeks. With a Keg creek there is a Whisky creek and a Whisky run. Finally there is a Purgatory creek.—Argonaut.

The Editor Soliloquizes

When a dearly loved subscriber writes to us in irate vein; "Stop the paper. Never send the vile sheet to my home again." We just puff our sweet old corn-cob; and we stroke the office cat; editors "don't have no feelings"—never mind—we're used to that.

When a typographical error sometimes creeps in by mistake, and our friends rush up and tell us what a first-rate ass we'd make, we just overlook their errors, never giving tit for tat; editors are pachydermic, and—Oh well; we're never used to that.

When our advertisers cancel, telling us the sheet's no good; when subscribers choose to pay us in tomatoes or cord wood, well, we simply grin and bear it, though it leaves us rather flat; editors can exist somehow—somehow we get used to that.

When your daughter's graduation, or her wedding day comes round, you expect the kind of write-ups that in adjectives abound. Do you ever stop to thank us, though 'tis done with great "elation" that's what editors are there for, and—Oh, well! We're used to that.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

A great deal of good may be derived from the united movement, just adopted by the boards of this church, provided everyone will get together and work together.

At the morning service next Sunday, the sermon theme will be: "The Church." Come to church and stay for Sunday school. At present, the two are in one "united" service.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will meet at 6:30, as usual, next Sunday. Miss Cella Gildersleeve is the leader. The topic will be "Unions." There should be a "Union" of the young people's societies of Wayne.

The 7:30 church service will be omitted that all may repair to the Baptist church to say "Goodbye" to our brother Richardson. We shall sorely miss the friendship and fellowship of this good man.

Come to Sunday school and stay to church, November 7th, 1915. The Sunday schools of Nebraska invite you to attend the Sunday school of your own choosing. Read Governor Morehead's proclamation.

The annual county Sunday school convention will be held at Carroll, November 14th. We hope to be able to send several delegates to this county convention. A fine program has been prepared.

We extend to you who read this the most cordial greetings of our church and a hearty invitation to all the services and privileges of our church. We would be pleased to meet you at the church next Sunday.

Baptist Church

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor)

Sunday was a splendid day with us. The morning service was largely attended and at the close of the service, two came forward professing faith in Christ. There will be baptismal services next Sunday morning at the Sunday school hour. We are glad to have such a service on our last Sunday with the church.

"The Life that Ministers," will be the theme of the sermon Sunday morning. It will be from the same text that the pastor used for his first sermon in Wayne. It summarizes the gospel story. It gives us a great ideal and a great inspiration.

Prof. Lewis is the leader of the young people's meeting Sunday evening. Let every member be present and help make it a great meeting.

At 7:30 in the evening, there will be a union service at the church. It will be a sort of a farewell meeting. The pastors of the other churches will have charge of the service.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon the Prayer Circle meets with Mrs. Puffet.

Wednesday evening our regular prayer meeting will be held. The pastor will lead this meeting.

Be sure to get your package of envelopes for next year's offerings. Call for them Sunday.

The ladies have planned to have an apron sale and chicken pie supper on Friday of next week.

The pastor plans to leave the last of next week for his new work at Hastings.

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)

The theme for next Sunday morning's sermon will be, "Cleaning Up," from the text, "And He Was Clean."

In the evening at 6:30 there will be a special program, the regular church choir will have charge of the music. The pastor and members of the League will appear on the program. This service will be held in the auditorium and will take the place of the regular evening service beginning at 6:30 and closing at 7:20 so that all may go to the farewell service at the Baptist church.

The churches unite in a union farewell service for the Rev. B. P. Richardson and family at the Baptist church Sunday evening at 7:30. We greatly regret to see so splendid a family move out of Wayne. We are glad however to know that they will be a blessing to the church and community wherever they go and in their larger field may do even a greater work for the kingdom. I am sure that the well wishes of a host of friends in all of the Wayne churches will go with them.

The Epworth Leaguers will serve an oyster supper in the dining rooms of the church on Friday evening for everybody. They will begin to serve at 6:30, the price is 25c. Everybody cordially invited to attend.—adv.

We shall be delighted to welcome you at the regular church services next Sunday.

German Lutheran Church

Rev. Moehring, Pastor

Next Sunday morning, Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock.

In the afternoon the pastor will preach at Winside at 3 o'clock.

Advertising North Dakota Land

That is what the Democrat has been doing and is doing because we believe that there are bargains there for those who are seeking to own a farm home and do not feel that they can quite reach it in this good country where the prices are a little stiff. But if they will look about they may find a place quite as good as this where the prices have not yet raised, but where they surely will do so unless the Lord makes more land, and that is not likely to happen. But surely there is an advance coming in land that is near a good market, land that will produce good crops of small grain or corn, three cuttings of alfalfa, when it is selling at $30 or less per acre. In the letter just received we find some crop reports from this kind of land, and the following guarantee by Geo. E. Wallace, one of the tax commissioners of the state. He says:

North Dakota has raised a phenomenal crop of small grain this year. It is estimated by the government that the wheat crop will amount to 140 million bushels. The oats and barley crops are record breakers. The wheat all grades No. 1 hard.

Capt. I. P. Baker raised over sixty-one bushels of wheat to the acre in a large field within a mile of the city of Bismark. Phenomenal yields of oats are reported, in many cases being far above 100 bushels per acre. Remember that this land is located near the coast line of the Northern Pacific railway, and there is no transportation or market problem. The price will double in a short time. This country has never been exploited nor boomed. We need good, hard working farmers to make their homes here. Neither do we have any fuel troubles. Coal is mined within the county and delivered for three dollars per ton. Hard times has never struck the state. An opportunity now presents itself to the investor and home-seeker which may never come again. Come and look at the country. If we have misrepresented the yield, we will pay your transportation charges both ways. We make this offer to show good faith. Particulars may be had at the Democrat office.

Mother's Pantry Shelf

I Wish I were a boy again,
That I might help myself
To all the things used to see
On mother's pantry shelf.
So many good things hidden there
Just suited to my taste—
To take a bite of this or that I often was in haste.
I'd help myself to her mince pies,
All raisins and much spice,
They used to be so lapping good
I'd want a gen'rous slice
I'd help myself to doughnuts, too,
The kind she used to make,
To cookies from her cookie jar,
To lovely pink frost cake,
I'd taste again her marmalade,
Her jellies and her jam
That stood upon the highest shelf,
Just to the reach of man,
There were so many kinds of tarts
Right near the pantry door—
Filled with every sort of jelly
And many good things more.
I wish I were a boy again,
Just for the fun of it,
To look inside that pantry door
And eat a little bit,
I wish I were a boy again
That I might help myself
To all the pies and cakes and things
On mother's pantry shelf.

To Better Things

At midnight between Thursday the seventh and Friday the eighth a band of men stole furtively into Lockerbie street, Indianapolis, and silently surrounded a house. Was a crime to be committed or a criminal caught, or was this the outbreak in America of the European war? It was none of these. We do not know how well the invaders could sing, and from the point of art the act may have had criminal elements. But the soul of the mysterious throng was pure, they were only come to serenade James Whitcomb Riley on the arrival of his birthday.

Before noon yesterday the poet of the frosted pumpkin had on his hands as many bushels of congratulatory letters, telegrams and gifts as there are bushels of corn in an average Nebraska corn field at this minute. There was a good word from the president of the United States. There was a handsome line from the dean of American letters, William Dean Howells. There was a hand-made silver horse-shoe from an appreciative blacksmith. There were cablegrams from Europe and messages from all America and a theatrical performance in his honor, and the newspapers tell about it to the extent of a column or two.

What of it? Only that an important part of the United States stopped contemplating the war and the world's series long enough to pay some little attention to a poet. There has been danger that everybody would forget that the poets and poetry are of greater importance than war or even a baseball championship. We know now that the danger has passed if, indeed, it ever existed. There is hope for the country as long as it contains the makings of a surprise party for a poet, says the State Journal. And then the Wayne school had a Riley day and celebrated the event, but perhaps Jim never knew it, with so many friends congratulating him. He was 62 years of age.

A Dozen Postmaster Applicants

Novembr 8, Wausa is to have a postmaster primary, and there are said to be 12 candidates now in the field. Only democrats are eligible to file, but it is proposed to allow voters who patronize the office to vote.

The following candidates have announced themselves: P. J. Boedeker, C. H. Peterson, P. W. Holst, Dick Kool, E. L. Swanson, Lew Hanson, Alfred Johnson, John Guss, Joe Swanson, H. R. Bosse, C. P. Lundgren and W. C. Peters.

It looks like a hungry for the spoils of office. We believe if the Swanson vote could remain united it might win, but with it divided it is doubtful whether they can overcome the Johnson, Peterson, Hanson or Lundgren vote. Let us hope for the best, and it is a safe bet that some Swede will be named.

You've Seen 'Em

He boasts he never took a cent that wasn't truly his, and hosts of friends will tell you what a square old chap he is. A pillar in the church is he and leader of the choir. He's surely got a berth reserved aboard the Zion flyer. But strictly straight and righteous as he says he tries to be. He can't pass up a chance to "beat", a railroad company.

?? QUESTIONS ??

How Can We Economize ?

You can do so by using Wayne Superlative Flour.

How ?

Store your milling wheat at the Wayne Roller Mill.

Why ?

You will receive 30 lbs. of Wayne Superlative and 10 lbs. of bran for a for a bushel; or 33 1-3 lbs. of Wayne Superlative and no bran.

Where Does the Economy Come In ?

Three bushels of good dry milling wheat will get you 100 pounds of Wayne Superlative. If such wheat is worth 85c per bushel. Three bushels would cost you $2.55. Can you beat it for Economy ?

If you have no wheat, let us buy it for you, store it with us, and use the flour as you need it. The European war is still on. Can anyone foretell where prices will go?

DELINQUENT TAX LIST FOR THE YEAR 1914.
Treasurer's office, Wayne county, Nebraska, October 1, 1915.
Notice is hereby given, that in compliance with the revenue laws of the state of Nebraska, I, L. W. Roe, the county treasurer of Wayne county, will on Monday, the first day of November, 1915, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. at the office of the county treasurer in the county courthouse in Wayne in said county, offer at public sale and sell the following described real estate, or as much of each tract of land or town lot as shall be necessary for the amount due thereon for taxes of the year 1914, as herein stated, together with all expenses for advertising, costs and fees that by law have or may be accrued at the time of payment.
I will adjourn the sale from day to day until all the said real estate has been offered for sale.
L. W. ROE,
County Treasurer.

Winside Notes

(From the Tribune)

Mrs. Faithful Jones and Miss Elsie Horby were passengers to the Pacific coast this morning. They will spend the winter sojourning in the west.

E. W. Cullen is excavating under the kitchen of his residence and will build a laundry therein. We imagine the ladies of the household appreciate this move on the part of Mr. Cullen.

The Farmers State bank is progressing nicely and will soon be showing up above ground. The foundation is completed and before the week is ended will be assuming shape above the foundation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hodgson received word Saturday of the arrival of a daughter in the home of their grand-daughter, Mrs. Goldie Hendrickson of Gresham. The great-grand-daughter was named Charlotte Virginia.

John Hall, living west of town is erecting a new barn 32x32x18 that will be modern in every way. The foundation and basement is now completed and Wm. Kallstrom, the contractor and builder will commence work on the building Monday morning.

Saturday some of the young people assembled for a farewell party on Ralph Connell in the form of a wienie roast. The party comprised of the following participants, Misses Gladys Fletcher, Lorene Michael, Ruby Reed, May Clayton; Messrs. Ralph Connell, Wm. Fletcher and Gerald Leuck.

The Royal Highlanders went with well filled baskets to the home of Rev. Connell Thursday evening and surprised Allen Connell. The evening was spent very pleasantly after which they presented him with a little token of remembrance, and at a late hour departed for their homes wishing him success in his new home.

Ed Berger and wife returned Saturday evening from a four weeks visit with relatives and friends at Rosebud, Mo. They report a very enjoyable time and pleasant trip. They brought home among numerous other things, a pair of tortoisés and the largest hornets nest we ever saw, measuring nearly two feet high.

G. E. French closed a deal last week whereby he disposed of his interests in the Merchants State bank at this place, to E. R. Gurney, G. A. Pestal, of Fremont, and Walter Christensen of Leshara. Mr. French had been director and president of this bank for the past twelve years, and during that time it has become one of the soundest banking houses in the state. His resignation was regretted by the directors and patrons as well. He will continue his residence here for the present. Messrs. D. B. Carter and I. F. Gaebler will retain their positions under the new management. The three new members of the banking board are all experienced bankers. G. A. Pestal was elected president and will move his family here in the near future.

Carroll Items

(From the Index)

Dan Martin has sold the property, which he recently acquired from W. R. Thomas to Chas. Meyers.

Frank Davis has rented the Killinger farm for next year and Mr. Killinger will live on the Jas. Killinger farm just south of Carroll.

The electric light is spreading like a contagious disease. The First National bank was wired last week and the Citizens State bank and Index office were wired this week. Resident users of the juice are becoming numerous.

Misses Edna Jones, Hazel and Marie James, entertained at the V. H. James home Friday evening in honor of Miss Mildred Hill, an October bride. The evening was spent in a jovial manner and a two course luncheon served, after which the bride-to-be was presented with a beautiful chafing dish and a few other useful articles. Twenty young ladies were present.

It was discovered before it had gained much headway and was extinguished by the fire boys before much damage was done to the house. Mrs. Howell lost about seventy-five quarts of her choicest canned fruits and pickles.

Northwest of Town

Andrew Stamm is at Ainsworth this week buying hogs to feed.

The ladies of the H. H. S. are spending the day with Mrs. Oscar Jonson.

Miss Esther Nordgren attended the teachers' meeting at Emerson Saturday.

Miss Emma Fenske of Hopkins spent the week-end at the Andrew Stamm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hanson of Concord visited Sunday at the Wm. Buetow home.

Miss Mabel Jonson went to Omaha Tuesday morning for a few days visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. White had as guests for dinner Sunday, Rev. B. F. Richardson and family and Miss Eya Graves.

An unusually large crowd attended the services at the Stamm school-house Sunday when Rev. Richardson preached his farewell sermon. Rev. Cross was present also. Special music by Miss Graves and Prof. Davies was very much appreciated.

We regret very much to have Rev. Richardson leave us, but feel that we have been greatly profited by the good thoughts which he has brought to us. There will be a reception for Mr. Richardson and his family at the Andrew Stamm home Friday evening, October 15, at eight o'clock. All who have attended Sunday school and preaching services are welcome.

The fifth grade pupils are devoting their gymnasium period to target practice with bean bags.

New signs have been placed on the doors at the high school rooms. The lettering was done by Frank Gaertner.

The first grade began the use of the reader this week. The children had acquired a vocabulary that enabled them to read the first nine pages the first day.

The classes in German are organizing a German Club which will meet bi-weekly for pleasure and profit in the study of German songs, games and customs.

Miss Janet Garlough was ill this week and two of the senior girls, Miss Olive Huse and Miss Anna Granquist had charge of the kindergarten Tuesday, and Miss Leta Fisher, yesterday.

The Wayne football team played the Laurel team at Laurel Friday evening, winning an easy victory. The score was 47 to 0. The Wayne boys will play Wakefield here tomorrow. Wakefield has a strong team and an exciting game may be expected.

Considerable enthusiasm is being developed in debating. The O-Ran-Ing team composed of LeRoy Owen, Ward Randol and Ralph Ingham, challenged any other team in the school for a debate. This challenge has been accepted by the junior team composed of Jesse Randol, Marion Grothe and Floyd Conger.

President U. S. Conn of the State Normal addressed the high school Friday morning in a thoughtful and inspiring talk. He drew upon his experience as a high school superintendent and college man, and emphasized some principles essential to success. Among other things Mr. Conn said, "The business world is watching young men and will not receive into its circle the loafer." "It is the habit of doing something, completing something that counts."

The senior class gave an interesting program last Thursday morning. As that was the anniversary of the birth of the poet, James Whitecomb Riley, the numbers, with the exception of the piano solo, "The Sextette" by Miss Nita Foster were Riley features, Florence Gardner read a selection, "Riley and the Kids"; Olive Huse gave a personality sketch of the noted author; Albert Watson read the poem, "Wet Weather;" and the Senior girl's quartette sang, "The Goblins'll Git Ye." This was the first appearance of this quartette and they so delighted the audience that they were obliged to respond to an encore. For their second number they sang, "The Tack."

The time is at hand when farmers and stockmen are planning to dispose of their surplus. Those who are to move to some other parts and those who wish to clean up the stock which has been coming of marketable age are planning an auction. There will be a lot of sales this fall and winter, no doubt, and the Democrat wishes to impress upon those who are to hold a sale that the most important thing to do is to let the people whom you expect to bid on your offering know what you have, its condition and where and when it is to be sold. Then with a good auctioneer the battle is won. We are interested in helping you inform the people, and we are well prepared to do this with the greatest economy to you.

Suppose you want 1,000 people to know about your sale, you might have 1,000 bills printed and make a list of the people you think would be interested and mail each one a bill, and then be sure they did not throw it away as a circular before it was known what it contained. That would cost some money. It would take at least $10 for postage. It would take $2.50 for 1,000 envelopes properly printed to cause them to be opened. The bills themselves would cost—then there is the work of addressing and mailing.

Now suppose you should come to this office and say can't you beat that method? We would say, "Yes think we can." We can print your advertisement in the Democrat, telling what, when and why. This will go into the farm and city and town homes all over the county, and beside your advertisement is the home news which makes the paper welcome and gives it a place at the family table, and many will almost unconsciously read your advertisement, others will be looking for it. We have readers who take the paper during the sale season more to find out what is being offered at auction than most any other reason. The paper is not cast aside like a bill but is kept and frequently referred to. It is a frequent occurrence to have men come in to look through our exchanges to find out about some sale they have heard of, so we know that the buyers are interested.

Then we are prepared to print additional such bills as you need for posting at other sales prior to your own, and putting up in public places, also print your smaller cards or catalogues in case it is a sale of pure bred stock. We will be glad to help you arrange your copy so that it will show to the best advantage and tell at a glance what you have to offer, whether it is printed as a bill or an advertisement, or both. It takes publicity, and a newspaper can give publicity circulation cheaper and better than any other agency. Let us show you.
