Death of Mrs. J. Bruce Wylie

Death has claimed the wife of Rev. J. Bruce Wylie, pastor of the Winside and Grace Methodist churches, leaving the husband and children to face the world alone, it must seem to them, who are but new comers to this part of the state. The following account of her death and funeral comes to the Democrat:

Emma T. Houk was born April 30th, 1881, in Barry county, Mo., and departed this life November 15th, 1915, at the Methodist hospital at Omaha, Nebraska.

She was married to J. Bruce Wylie, July 25th, 1897, at Calvin, Indian Territory. To this union were born three sons and five daughters, seven of whom are still living, one daughter having died in infancy. Her father, Wm. S. Houk, was a Methodist minister, serving many years in the Arkansas conference, and as missionary in the Indian Territory. She united with the Methodist church in early childhood and was a faithful member until the last, always willing to render any service that would make life more pleasant for those about her. She never complained if the parsonages were poor or the salary small, she always said, "That won't make any difference, if it is God's will, He will take care of us." She was a faithful wife, a loving mother, a devoted servant to God, and the church.

Besides the immediate family, she leaves to mourn her loss, a loving aged mother, two sisters, and one brother, and a host of friends in each charge that they have served. To know her, was to love her.

When we knelt to see our baby die, And heard its last faint moan, Each wiped away the others tear, Now one must weep alone. But who can paint our mutual joy, When all the wanderings are o'er, We both shall clasp our infant there, On that celestial shore. And higher shall our raptures glow, On yon celestial plain, When the loved and parted here below, Meet ne'er to part again.

The funeral was conducted in the Methodist church at Winside, by Rev. E. E. Hosman, of Norfolk, superintendent of this district. Pastors of the near by churches acting as pall bearers. Interment in Pleasantview cemetery, at Winside.

Those present from a distance were, Mrs. Nancy Hammond of Belvidere, Nebraska, sister of Mrs. Wylie; Mrs. E. F. Diggins of Beatrice, mother of Mrs. Wylie; Robert Wylie of Blue Springs, Nebraska, and Harry Wylie of Ellis, Nebraska, brothers of Mr. Wylie; George Leonard and Mr. Harry DeWeber of Pawnee City, Nebraska; Mr. and Mrs. Mart of Charleston, Nebraska.

Directs Playground Supervision

Miss Edith E. Beechel visited Battle Creek last Saturday to give directions to grade and high school teachers in playground supervision. Superintendent Ericson has arranged with Miss Beechel to prepare a schedule covering four weeks of work, and she will meet the teachers at least once a month for the purpose of demonstrating indoor and outdoor play for the children. While a student at Columbia University, Miss Beechel took a course in play ground supervision, and the success of her work in that line during the summer session has caused her to be in demand elsewhere in the state. Miss Neva Milner accompanied Miss Beechel to Battle Creek and presided at the piano.

Organize Current Education Club

The supervisors and superintendent of the Training school have organized a club for the purpose of studying current education. They meet twice each month and discuss the articles published in the different educational magazines. In this way they hope to keep abreast with the present state of educational progress.

City Affairs of Interest

The work of installing the electroliners has been going steadily forward, and at this writing more than half of the cable has been placed, the pits mostly made ready for the poles, and the poles are nearly all wired ready to be set and connected.

The broken dynamo was returned Monday as good as new, which was quite an improvement over the one sent away, as it was well worn before the shaft was broken. It was ready for service Tuesday night and street lights once more gleamed over the city, after three weeks or more of dark streets, except for the friendly aid of the moon, and it was full part of the time.

The renovation of one of the old boilers is well under way and within about two weeks it is expected to be again ready for business, thus giving an extra boiler at all times, with two for use.

Paving is much talked of now that the new lights are so near a reality. We believe that there are more people now who favor paving than there was when a canvass was made and a list printed. One citizen who has much property between Wayne business center and the college said he would favor paving to the college as soon as possible, if they would follow the street on which he has the greater part of his property. He would not consider it an expense, but a wise investment.

Dean Hahn Withdraws

At the close of the state teachers' association at Omaha, a canvass of the votes cast for president showed that Dean H. H. Hahn was among the five highest on the list for president of the association in 1916, his vote standing second to that of Dean G. W. A. Luckey of the University of Nebraska. Dean Hahn was not in any sense an active candidate for the place, and the large vote given him is evidence of his standing as an educator, and also suggests his popularity with the school people of the state.

From the five thus selected as nominees of the association, the choice for president will be determined from a vote taken by mail, only teachers registered at the meeting having the right to vote. Dean Hahn has decided not to accept the nomination for president, and has so notified the executive committee. Other school men whose names will appear on the official ballot unless they decide to withdraw are: Dean G. W. A. Luckey, University of Nebraska, Lincoln; Superintendent E. U. Graff, Omaha; Superintendent R. V. Clark, Industrial School, Kearney; Superintendent F. M. Cline, Nebraska City.

Lou T. Genung Dead

The Omaha papers tell us that L. T. Genung died at his home at Glenwood, Iowa, Monday, November 15, 1915, of apoplexy, at the age of 72 years. Mr. Genung formerly had interests in this county which caused him to frequently visit this place a number of years ago, and there are many now living in Iowa who knew him in Iowa before they moved to Nebraska. The editor had a pleasant acquaintance with Mr. Genung formed when he was a candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket in that hopelessly republican district, the 9th Iowa. But Lou made a gallant fight in 1896, but the "blocks of five" plan adopted by the enemy was too many for our friend.

A farmer, first after returning from a rebel prison at the close of the great Civil war, in which he served faithfully, he began the study of law soon after coming to Iowa in 1868, and by diligent work won recognition of the best and was admitted to the bar upon examination at the completion of his home course of study.

He was popular where ever known, an enthusiastic democrat who was ever willing to work for the cause of the people as he saw it. He was popular and efficient on the stump and exposed the fallacies of a protective tariff and a single gold standard of money in a way that made them clear to many. A wife, and four sons and two daughters mourn his death.

Our Frog Pond in Court Again

Last week J. T. Bressler, who has land north of the railroad in the southwest part of the city, and others, by their attorneys, Kingsbury and Hendrickson, had a hearing before Judge Welch and the court issued an order for the railway company whose track and grade it is charged, obstruct the natural flow of the surface water, to show cause, if there be any, why they should not provide adequate waterway across their right of way and beneath their tracks. November 27 is the time set for the company to make reply to this order.

This tract of land is adjoining the land owned by Siemon Goemann on which he had previously been given damages for water obstruction, and on which a trial was held at the last term of the district court, Judge Oleson of Wisner, presiding, when the court instructed the jury to find for the railroad, as they were not obliged to provide for surface waters. Under all of the circumstances, the result of this hearing will be watched with much interest. To us it appears of more importance than an ordinary damage case, for a condition exists that appears to be detrimental to health, and dangerous to those residing in the vicinity of the lands not properly drained.

Surprised on Wedding Anniversary

The home of Rev. and Mrs. W. Fischer was the scene of a most pleasant surprise one Saturday evening lately, it being the anniversary of their marriage and also the pastor's birthday. Rev. Fischer lives about six miles southwest of Wayne and preaches at the German Lutheran church there, and also at the church near Altona, southeast of Wayne. On the 20th anniversary of his marriage the entire congregation gathered at their home laden with an abundance of the good things for the inner man and also bearing gifts suitable for such an occasion. The evening was happily spent and all seemed to have passed off very nicely, but the end was not yet, for on the following evening the members of the congregation southeast of here, with their families, invaded the pastor's home on a like mission and passed a happy evening with the doubly surprised couple. Such gatherings of congregations indicate that Rev. Fischer and family are truly popular with the people they serve so faithfully.

A missionary from South Africa will be present and give a great message.

Welch, the "Main Stay"

According to the report in the Sunday New York Tribune of the football game last Saturday between Amherst and Williamstown colleges at the latter place, Herbert Welch was the "mainstay" of the Williamstown college team, and in spite of his efforts the Amherst college won. Herbert was a favorite and a dependable player on the college team at Wayne, always playing the game fair and for all there was in him.

Mrs. Hannah Campbell Kelly

Hannah Campbell was born at Montpelier, Vermont, October 11, 1839, and passed part of her early life there. Married at Rome, New York, to Mr. Kelly, April 14, 1857. They made this place their home until 1876, when they moved to Wilton, Iowa, which was their home until 1889, when they became citizens of Wayne county, settling on a farm not far from Winside. This was their home until the death of her husband, February 15, 1907.

Following his death, Mrs. Kelly went to Waterloo, Iowa, where she lived with her son Thomas, until her death, November 9, 1915, at the age of 78 years and 28 days.

Four sons survive her. Thomas of Waterloo, Iowa, and J. F. and George from McClusky, North Dakota, came with the body to attend the funeral at this place Friday the 12th. The service was conducted by Father Kearns of the Catholic church of which she had been a life-long and consistent member. The body was followed to its last resting place beside that of her husband and a son in the Wayne cemetery by a number of her former Wayne county friends and neighbors. She was a most excellent woman, we are told by those who knew her well.

A Victory for Coach and Team

The excellent showing made by the Normal football team last Saturday, a detailed account of which appears under separate heading, is highly complimentary to the work of John J. Gross, who has held the position of football coach since October 1. The first game with Buena Vista college was played a few days after Coach Gross began his work at Wayne, and the score was 26 to 6 in favor of the college. When the same teams met last Saturday, a decisive score against the Normal was reversed and a victory of 25 to 3 registered for the home team. It was a victory for the coach as well as for the team.

Normal Male Quartette at Pilger

The Normal Male Quartet will give a song recital at Pilger Friday evening under the auspices of the high school at that place. Superintendent E. R. Rogers of the Pilger schools was a member of the quartet last year and he will assist in the program.

The Walter Savidge Players

Thanksgiving Attraction

The term guaranteed attraction is one that has been greatly abused of late years. But Mr. Walter Savidge uses it advisedly in connection with the Walter Savidge Players, which he has the pleasure of presenting at the Wayne Opera House, for three nights commencing Thursday, November 25th.

Mr. Savidge makes this guarantee: That any person attending a performance of the above company that is not thoroughly satisfied will receive their money back and no questions asked. This guarantee demonstrates Mr. Savidge's confidence in his ability to please his patrons. He has devoted much time and intimate care to both the selection of his company and the elaborate scenic equipment, each play presented will be a complete production as to scenic and electrical effects. "Why Lindy Ran Away" will be the opening play on Thanksgiving night. This play tells a romantic story of the Kentucky mountains. Lindy, the mountain girl, it's leading role is one that makes a strong appeal for she runs the full gamut of human emotion, from light comedy to the deepest pathos.

High class Vaudeville features will be introduced between the acts. Both play and vaudeville features will be changed each night during the engagement.

As an added attraction the Savidge Concert Orchestra will render the latest and most popular music at each performance. A special children's matinee will be given on Saturday at 2:30 p. m. Seats on sale at Roberts Drug store.

Come Early, Please

Next issue day (Thursday) is Thanksgiving, and the editor and entire force ask that all correspondence, notices, advertising copy be prepared a day earlier than the "devil" and the rest of the force may have the day to be thankful for the many good things which come to the editor and printer in this land of plenty, and eat roast fowl of whatever kind fails to roast out of reach.

The big Monarch cheese in our window, will be cut Saturday. Mild flavor, full cream. Secure a supply for Thanksgiving dinner. Rundell's Grocery.—adv.

The Randolph Times and Enterprise has installed a linotype, and from now on the type for that paper will be cast on the machine. It is quite an improvement in any office to go from hand to machine composition. If Brother Peck can speed up a bit after he is relieved of the duty as postmaster and make his paper all at home it will soon fix him so that he can make the machine mean much to himself, the town and the patrons of the paper.

According to a report issued by the United States National Bank of Omaha, Nebraska's corn crop is over 225,000,000 bushels, and it is 60 per cent marketable corn. They place the Wayne county crop for this year at 4,550,700 bushels of which 54 per cent is marketable. How does that look to you farmers? The Democrat has not averaged its reports, but the crop situation here as related to corn is not viewed the same by any two people we have asked, except a few who pronounce it the worst they have experienced.

The little town of Crawford has a preacher who is almost the whole town, if one may believe what is told him in the papers. At any rate he appears to be able to grab a lot of helpful newspaper publicity, and if he can make good with the newspaper boys their advertising will soon make him too famous to be held in a small town, if he can deliver the goods. Rev. Walter C. Rundin is his name and he is preacher and three times secretary of civic organizations and president of the Associated Commercial Clubs of Western Nebraska. That is mixing some things with the soul-saving business for sure.

During the past few weeks a place of amusement has been being gradually improved, until now the Wayne bowling alleys beneath the Crystal, of which Link Welbaum is proprietor, are second to few if any in the state. Three good hardwood alleys on a concrete floor assure stability and solidity. Last week a new pinsetter was installed for each alley, and by these devices the pins can and are always set quickly and accurately. Accuracy of the pins in their proper place means much in bowling. The room is well lighted and scientifically ventilated and the comfort of the patrons is carefully looked after. Mr. Welbaum tells us that there is some talk of the ladies organizing a club and asking for an occasional evening. He is willing to furnish the equipment if they decide so to do, but thinks that some of the women should take the lead in the matter and see that only congenial ones are invited to become members of such a club.

"Folk-Songs of Nebraska and the Central West" is the title of a book of 90 pages just issued by the Nebraska Academy of Sciences, edited by Addison E. Sheldon. The book is the result of ten years' special research of Miss Louise Pound, of the State University. It contains a short sketch and one or two stanzas of each of the songs remembered and sung by the people of Nebraska, so far as gathered. Many of these are old songs which came across the ocean with our great, great grandmothers and we have often heard, but never seen in print. The chapter on pioneer and western songs, gives the text of each, in full. Among these are many Nebraska favorites, including the famous Cat Creek Glee Club song of the Farmers' Alliance days, "We'll Meet You By and By," and the "Kinkaiders' Song." The book is illustrated with half-tones of Moses P. Kinkaid, and typical scenes of the Nebraska frontier. This book is the first step toward a complete volume containing the words and music of all Nebraska folk-songs. All persons interested in this subject are asked to write Miss Pound, sending copies of songs not in print, which they have heard sung in the state.

Boiler Values, like most other merchandise depends on the quality or weight of the material it is made of. This boiler body is built of Bright Charcoal Anti-Rusting plate, the heaviest tin plate put into any boiler. The top is wired with a half inch steel rod. The handles are riveted on with six Norway rivets to each handle and this handle is so shaped that it will not slip from a tub or washing machine when pouring water from either end. The cover is equipped with a soap shaver and also a hook to hang it onto the side of the boiler out of the way. The bottom of the boiler (the most important part) is of pure 20 ounce copper which will wear two or three times as long as lighter weights used in the cheaper grades of boilers.

Back to the Farm

Country editors in Southern Illinois have taken up the back-to-the-farm idea. Fourteen of them have agreed to devote one page of each issue to this movement. The need of it is shown by the fact that 93 of the 102 counties of the state lost population between 1900 and 1910 in two or more rural townships, while 50 counties actually declined in population. Similar conditions prevail in Iowa and Missouri.

These editors can do much to turn the tide if they go about it in the right way. Population has been forced out of the rural districts through inflation of land values. In some cases this inflation has tempted farmers to rent their farms and retire, to live at leisure off of their rents. In other cases, it has discouraged the sons of farmers from remaining on the farm. When there are several sons in a family, the old farm is too small for all, and inflated land values prevent them from buying additional land. In the same way, newcomers who do not want rent are kept away. This situation must be met if the back-to-the-farm movement is to succeed.

The way to attack this price inflation is through taxation that will force into use land that is now withheld. That means the single tax on land values. Perhaps some of these editors are prejudiced against that idea, or do not understand it. If so, it is up to them to lay aside prejudice and inform themselves properly on the matter. The single tax will be a benefit to every farmer who uses his land, and will be burdensome to none other than the land speculator.

Illinois farmers are now taxed on everything they own. Under the single tax, they would pay no taxes on their live stock, furniture or other personal property, or on their buildings, fences or other improvements. They would pay on the value of their bare land alone. That means that the improved farm would be relieved while the owner of farm land held out of use would have his taxes increased. The speculator would then find it to his interest to either use the land himself or let some one else do so. Either event would make it necessary for some one to go back to the farm. The forcing of land into the market would put an end to inflated prices.

Until the tendency to inflate land prices will be checked, the tendency to leave the farm must continue.

The Anti Treat

Dear old London, owing to the exigencies of war times, has abolished treating in the pubs. For the benefit of those who may have to obey a similar order in this country if certain reforms are inaugurated, we make the following suggestions to apply when our citizens are called by business, to some city where they have an open bar: Patrons of a public house must observe the forty foot rule, that is, they must not approach within less than forty feet from one another. Persons recognizing friends at this safe distance may shout through a megaphone:

"Hello, old codger, what'll I have?"

Old Codger in return may answer, "Thanks, I don't care if you do."

Then the first may say, "I'm drinking hearty, old chap," to which Old Chap may reply, "Here's looking at me." After which the first may observe, "Well, will I have another?" and the second will respond, "Thanks; make it the same." This ceremony will be known as an anti-treat.

Henry Seg, President

Interesting Texas Letter

Editor Democrat:—According to my promise, before leaving Wayne, I will tell the readers something of my trip and first impressions of Texas:

I started from Wayne, Monday morning, Nov. 1, purchasing a ticket to carry me over five different railroads. Before I got to Omaha all of the passengers had to be transferred to another train as there had been a wreck on the early train, but luckily no one was hurt. Left Omaha about 2:30 and arrived in Kansas City at 8:35, where some friends met me and I spent a few days visiting.

While there I was in some of the large department stores and went out to Swope's park, composed of 1,300 acres. There is a zoo, which has many animals unseen in Nebraska, among which were the bison, ostrich, peccary, camel, deer, prairie-dog, lion, leopard, also many beautiful birds.

Left Kansas City Friday afternoon and at break of day, the next morning, crossed the Red river in northern Texas. Rode all that day until 11:30 p. m., arrived in Houston and remained over night. At 8:45 started to Buckeye, where I spent a day with J. M. Spence's, formerly of Laurel and on Monday came to Collegeport. Could see the homes of Vern Towers and Gus Carlsons on the way and in town Mrs. J. Tower and Swan Anderson reside.

As soon as I arrived in Texas, I noticed no beautiful, big draft horses like we see at home, mostly the small ponies and donkeys. About one house in 25 has a foundation and later found out that only about that number is plastered. So it is not surprising that they dread the "Northerners" so much during the winter.

Have seen banana trees, palms, sweet potatoes and cotton growing. In this section of the country rice is much grown too. A colony of 50 families from New York is expected to settle in and near Collegeport within a fortnight to put in rice, so another boom is expected here.

This town is very much scattered out, but one church called the Federated, in which representatives from many denominations are workers, and a small Episcopal church.

I am staying one block from the bay, some call it the Palacios Bay, others the Matagorda, so you may take your choice. We can see, and hear the noise from Palacio, a city across the bay, which can be reached by a boat from here.

Mr. Anderson, formerly of Concord, went fishing this morning and caught 22, so we had fresh fish for dinner. All use artesian water here and at Buckley.

Will stop now hoping you will enjoy reading this and send regards to any inquiring friends.

Yours Respectfully,
LAURA LYONS.

Why Inject Politics?

President Wilson is not the president of the democrat party, but of the United States of America. The national defense program which he will submit to congress is for the benefit of the republic and its people, and not for any social clique or political faction. Is there, then, any reason why he should not appeal to the sense and patriotism of the republican members of congress to aid in carrying through this, or any sound substitute, which is calculated to secure national preparedness?

There are certain theories of the value of a critical political opposition, but assuredly they fail in a situation like this. If the defense program is rational and approvable, is there any reason under heaven why the republicans should oppose it in congress simply because it had its origin in a democratic administration? Would republican leadership in congress lose in prestige or in the respect in which it is held through the nation if it should cast partisanship to the winds and support the measure because it is right and patriotic to do so?

The appeal of the president will be regarded in quarters as a shrewd play. We prefer to believe that he is actuated by the same sentiment that would prompt him to ask unanimous support for a measure that proposed a great sanitary measure, a relief from financial distress or other emergency which appeals not to political differences, but to the common welfare and the general good.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Easily Worked Editors

Dean Talcott Williams is the head of the school of journalism of Columbia university. He is the man who is drawing the increment on a million dollar bequest left by Joseph Pulitzer, to teach the coming generation of editors how to be editors and still be decent and respected. In a recent article published in a trade magazine the dean touches on the modern demand for free advertising made upon newspapers, in a way that commends itself to publishers, however, much it may run counter to the wishes of those who systematically, and all too successfully, "work" the press. He lays down this broad and indisputable proposition: "No newspaper ought to print any free matter on any subject upon which it would not be ready to advocate a remission of taxation such as is conferred by the state on realty devoted to religion, education and charity." That's good business sense, for the man who simply because he is foolish enough to invest his money in printing material ought not to be so sap headed as to cost every fellow's game at his own expense. The blame for the situation in which newspapers find themselves as easy marks for every exploiter rests solely upon the newspapers. When they hang out a sign, "Kick me," or "Come and Ride Me," you may rest assured the invitation will be widely accepted, and the public will do both, does do both. Every newspaper has a constant struggle with the contingent that undertakes to determine for it what is news and what is advertising, and it requires a good deal of firmness on the part of the able editor to tell a man who carries a big display ad and that the reader he brings in "to help fill up the paper" is also advertising and must be settled for at the business office. But as Charles E. Hughes, Justice of the Supreme Court, and formerly governor of New York, is to have his name placed on the primary ballot of Nebraska this coming primary by his friends, for the republican candidate for president. Mr. Hughes is said to be protesting, and he may not make the race. Root seems to be out of the running since the New York election showed how he stood with the people, and to some it seems that the republicans feel that they must have a New York man on the ballot to win the vote of that state. If they would look over their right shoulder they might see Teddy waiting.

The Dakota County Record tells how the people are taxed because of democratic fallacies and sites the emergency revenue act as a "war tax" in time of peace. It is the same dope we have seen in other papers and the Record evidently forgot to give credit to the American Economist which is the mouthpiece of the American Protective Tariff League. No one who wants to be honest in regard to the tariff tax will fail to admit that the war in Europe has practically stopped all imports and that a higher protective tariff would not have produced revenue, because it would not have cleared the seas of war ships and submarines; it would not have increased the imports from Europe, in fact it would have tended to decrease imports and therefore reduce revenue, and that is the purpose of a high tariff, a protective tariff. No doubt the Record man would not kick if he could pay ten dollars tax to some trust in this country for every dollar of tax to be paid to the government. That is what the protective tariff has enabled combines it has built to do. Never has man invented a better scheme for one class of citizens to tax the people and put the tax in their own pocket. The man who objects to the slight tax levied because of lack of imports is dishonest or misinformed. Even the protectionists should not kick, for the war has given them a more complete protection than even their high tariff could have done in time of peace.

The Good Old Times.
At one time in Rome political offices were auctioned off in public to the highest bidder. In ancient Greece theft was not considered so much of a disgrace as being caught at it.
Our prisons are not ideal, but we have made progress in dealing with crime. There were formerly fourteen offenses in Delaware punishable by hanging. In the early history of Connecticut lying, "that foule and gross sin," was punishable with five stripes at the whipping post and confinement in stocks; people were imprisoned in awful dungeons for debt. In Rome men were sold into slavery to pay debts; creditors could tear the body of the debtor to pieces, each receiving a piece according to the size of his credit.
Today is the best day creation has ever seen. For 2,000 years the Sermon on the Mount, like leaven, has been permeating the hearts of men. At last only that which is good can endure. The fires of time burn out the dross.
There is "one faroff divine event, toward which all creation moves." It is perfection—but it is not here.—Leslie's.

Setting a Fashion.
Some years ago the coral fishers of Torre del Greco, near Naples, were in hard straits. The value of coral had fallen so low that they were no longer able to find purchasers for their harvest. At last in their despair they besought the queen to come to their aid. At the first great court ball that was held that year at the Quirinal the queen, to the surprise of all beholders, wore about her neck a collar composed of six rows of coral instead of her superb collar of pearls, and her black hair was crowned with a diadem of coral and brilliants. From that evening the mode changed. Old coral ornaments that had been hidden away for years and years were again displayed at the jewelers' and were snapped up by eager purchasers. Queen Helena's object was attained, and that court ball marked the beginning of more prosperous days for the coral fishers of Torre del Greco.

The Chinaman's Wardrobe.
In "Home Life in China" Isaac Taylor Headland tells the following story to illustrate the conveniences of the Chinese costume:

A Chinese government representative who was new to American ways came to the home of an eminent New York banker for a week's visit. It was winter, but he came without luggage, and yet every day he appeared at dinner with a change of garments. At first his hostess wondered how he managed it, but soon she discovered that his body was his trunk and that instead of putting his clothes into his trunk he put his trunk into his clothes. His garments were like the layers of an onion, except that any layer might be worn on the outside, and as some of his gowns—for such they might be called—were of silk, lined with fur, or fur, lined with silk, he could wear them either side out at will.

A Rare Bird.
The lowest form of bird life which exists is believed to be the kiwi, or Apteryx nantell, of New Zealand. It is so scarce, however, that scientists consider themselves lucky to get a specimen in any condition. It is without wings or tail; its legs are short, but very strong, and are used for digging. The chief food of the bird is earthworms. The body covering is a cross between hair and feathers. The kiwi develop great speed and make a desperate fight when attacked. A peculiar characteristic is that during the day they conceal themselves under rocks or roots of trees and when at rest resemble to some extent a hedgehog when it is curled up. Efforts to breed them in captivity have utterly failed, and only a few museums can boast of specimens.

Explained.
When he came in late he said to his waiting wife, "See the nice present I brought you."
"Where is it?"
"Here it is. A point lace handkerchief."
"Oh, ain't it beautiful!"
"Yes, it cost a dollar, marked down to 99 cents."
"My, what a horrible odor!"
"Oh, that's the scent of the dollar!"

"When you are once well dressed for the day," wrote Chesterfield, "think no more of it. Always and without any stiffness or fear of discomposing that dress let all your actions be as easy and natural as if you had no clothes on at all."

An Unkind Retort.
"You made a fool of me!" exclaimed the angry husband.
"Call yourself a fool if you wish, my dear," calmly rejoined his tantalizingly placid wife, "but remember that you have always claimed to be a self made man."

NEWS OF NEBRASKA

Justice Hughes Desires Copy of Petition.

ASKS REPORT BY TELEGRAPH

Justice of United States Supreme Court Wires Secretary of State Pool For Information About Filing—Foreign Language Publishers to Meet.

That Justice Hughes of the United States supreme court has heard of Nebraska and is interested in the attempt to make him a candidate for the Republican nomination for the presidency is evidenced by the following telegram received by Secretary of State Pool:

"Newspapers report that petition naming Justice Charles E. Hughes as a candidate for nomination for president has been filed with you. Please answer by wire at my expense whether such petition filed and if so date of filing. Also please mail copy of petition, omitting signatures, and state your charges for same."

Mr. Pool answered by wire as follows: "Petition signed by forty-five electors filed in the office Nov. 13, requesting name be placed upon official primary ballot for president. Copy of petition by mail."

Mortgage Records For Counties.

Data gathered from fifty-eight counties of the state and compared to similar data gathered from eighty-four counties of the state for 1913 show that during the year of 1914 there was an increase in the total sum of money involved in farm mortgages filed and a decrease likewise in the number of farm mortgages released. In the town and city total there was a falling off for 1914 and a falling off in the number of this class of mortgages released. On chattel mortgages the year of 1914 shows a vast decrease in the total involved—about $30,000,000—and about the same amount of mortgages paid off.

Rowden Proud of His Turnip Patch.

Colonel Dave Rowden, commandant of the Milford Soldiers' home, walked into the office of the state board of control at Lincoln swinging a couple of turnips which he had raised in the garden of the home. They are part of a crop of about fifty bushels. The home farm consists of nine acres and Colonel Rowden has been able to produce 650 bushels of potatoes and 328 bushels of corn from the tract, besides other crops of a minor nature. The colonel feels proud of his farm and thinks other state institutions will have to go some to beat his record on a nine-acre tract.

Ministers Report Many New Members

A total of about 3,300 new members have been gained by the churches of Omaha as a result of the Billy Sunday revival, according to estimates made at a meeting of the Omaha Ministerial union. Forty-nine pastors made reports of gains in their enrollment. Actual new members totaling 2,695 were reported. Rev. F. T. Rouse, presiding, said that about 25 per cent of the gains from the revival had not been reported, making the grand total membership gain of the evangelical churches about 3,300.

NEBRASKA'S CROP OF OATS

State Board Gives Estimate of 72,751,284 Bushels This Year.

According to figures prepared by the state board of agriculture, the state of Nebraska raised 72,751,284 bushels of oats this year on 2,077,803 acres, an average of 34.9 bushels per acre. Knox county led in the number of acres, the amount being 94,580, on which was raised 3,452,170 bushels, an average of 36.5 bushels to the acre, which was also the largest number of bushels raised in any county. Arthur county raised the least number of bushels, only 4,730 bushels being raised on 220 acres, an average of 21.5 bushels per acre. Dawes county raised the highest average per acre, the report showing 69½ bushels. Other counties which raised fifty or more bushels to the acre were: Deuel, 50; Morrill, 51.6; Scottsbluff, 50; Sheridan 50. Boyd county was the only county which failed to report.

West Wing of Capitol May Fall.

Plans have been drawn and a call for estimates made by the board in charge of the state house at Lincoln for the purpose of doing something to save the west wing of the ancient structure from falling down. It has been known for several years that the east wing of the building was on the verge of collapse and considerable money has been laid out in an effort to keep the southeast corner from falling out, the foundation having already settled about eight inches, but nobody knew that the west wing was in a dangerous condition until about a week ago when a part of the foundation in the basement crumbled and fell inside. The matter was kept quiet by the board, but the fact that estimates had been asked for at the time indicates that the board considered the matter serious.

Blouser Will Upheld by Jury.

The Blouser jury returned a verdict sustaining the will executed by Mrs. Maria A. Blouser in Fairbury, Aug. 1, 1907. During the sixteen hours of deliberation fifteen ballots were taken. C. L. E. Blouser, who represented the Thirty-second district in the legislature last winter, was chief beneficiary, receiving a half section of land valued at $32,000. Eight other children were given a quarter section worth $16,000, while Mrs. D. W. McLoughlin, who sued the Blouser estate to bring about a specific performance of a contract purported to have been made by her father, was set out with only $100.

L. B. Wilson of Columbus and E. M. Morsman of Omaha, representing the Bell Telephone company, with C. J. Garlow of Columbus, representing the Platte County Independent Telephone company, held a conference with the state railway commission looking to a consolidation of the two companies in Platte county, the Bell selling out to the independent company. The conference was nothing more than an effort to find out what would be necessary in order to meet the approval of the commission in making the deal.

Petition on File Nominating Hughes.

A petition signed by prominent Republicans of the state was filed with the secretary of state formally nominating Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hughes as a Republican candidate for the presidency in 1916. His name will consequently be voted on at the presidential preference primary under the Nebraska law. A note accompanying the petition says the filing is without the knowledge of Justice Hughes. It was filed by Chairman A. C. Epperson.

Mears in Joint Debate

The following from the Omaha Nebraskan fully explains the situation, and why Mr. Mears hurried home from Omaha last week: Grant Mears, who represented Wayne in the last session of the Nebraska legislature, visited in Omaha a few days the latter part of this week. Mr. Mears was sheriff of Wayne county for ten years and knows everybody in that section of the state. While in Omaha he is doing a bit of boosting for Senator Burton for the republican nomination for president. Incidentally Robert Christian Drusedow was also lending a hand in this campaign. "Bob" Drusedow and Grant Mears served together in the last legislature and when they met on Farnam street Bob immediately brought up a subject which is very near Mr. Mears' heart. While in the legislature Grant Mears received word from Wayne that a new grandson awaited his return. The members dubbed him "Grandpa" and that title has stayed with him until this day. When Mr. Drusedow mentioned Mr. Mears' grandson, that gentleman threw out his chest and said, "He's the finest boy in all the world." Now it just happens that Mr. Drusedow was presented with a baby boy the other day and he immediately questioned not only Grant's veracity but also his presumption in thinking such a thing as this possible, and he commenced an argument on the fine qualities of his boy saying that there was only one "finest boy in the world" and "Bob" Drusedow was the proud father of that boy. For a minute it looked as though these gentlemen would come to blows but a passing republican shouting for Theodore Burton claimed their attention and the discussion ended.

Rural Credit and Rural Thrift

The south and the west and the northern agricultural states have much to learn in the way of rural thrift from the New England rural communities. The constant cry is easier credit for the farmer, but what the farmer most needs is more thrift. Some of the southern states are cursed with crop lien laws which are holding back the rural communities by allowing a man to mortgage his future work and hopes and keeps him continually in debt instead of allowing him to lay something aside. It is an astonishing fact that Massachusetts has five times more savings bank deposits than have twelve southern states. In Massachusetts there are 3,300,000 people and 2,250,000 of them have savings bank deposits. In three years the savings banks in connection with the public schools showed 1,400,000 deposits. Every school in the rural communities ought to have a course of "thrift talks," whereby the teacher could lay before the pupils the necessity of saving a portion of whatever money they might earn. This money could be deposited in savings banks and, later, when it has grown, could be used to purchase good, safe bonds paying three and one-half to five per cent interest. The child mind, as well as the minds of those who are older, should be impregnated with the fact that it is not what one earns that makes a competency for old age, but what one lays aside.

If the democrats of Nebraska win any political prize next year it will be at the end of a campaign along radical lines. The first fight will come in the primary, and there the anti-monopoly element in the party must try to procure the nomination of candidates who will not be under obedience to the stockyards trust, old line insurance trust, nor to the electricity trust. There would be hope in democratic hearts if at the primary the cohorts of special privilege might be rebuked, and men of approved loyalty to the public welfare be nominated for all the offices. Who are the Nebraska democrats of proved loyalty to the cause of the people? There are thousands of them, but just now I am calling particular attention to one of the very best among them all. His name is Will H. Green, and he lives at Creighton. He has done splendid work in fighting the arrogant special interests in this state. He has been of most service in aiding the government prosecution of some of the gigantic corporations engaged in criminal practices. If the democrats of Nebraska can only nominate men of the type of Will Green for the office of governor and senator, then democratic success will be assured, and a democratic victory would mean something for the cause of the people, says Edgar Howard.

Normal Wins from Buena Vista

Playing the best foot-ball of the season, Wayne Normal easily defeated Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Iowa, Saturday by a score of 25 to 3. The visitors were completely outclassed and the whole game was played in Buena Vista territory. Their lone score came in the fourth quarter as the result of recovering a punt which one of the Normal players accidentally touched.

No one Normal player stood out from the rest as a star. The victory was the result of excellent team work and the fighting spirit of the team.

Dale made several long runs from tackle back formation, while Ellis Stonebraker, Dobry, Rockwell and the rest failed to gain when given the ball behind the fine interference of their team-mates. Fulton was the big man for Buena Vista, both on the offense and the defense. He was the only man able to get past the Normal line and he stopped two-thirds of the plays that were stopped. Buena Vista presented a better team than that which beat Wayne in a game earlier in the season by a score of 26 to 6, but the Normal team was so much improved that their opponents seemed weak in comparison. The day was cold and disagreeable to the spectators. Because of the wind, both teams had to resort to straight foot-ball and only three forward passes were successful, two for Buena Vista and one for Wayne.

Buena Vista won the toss and chose to defend the north goal with the wind at their backs. Wayne kicked off and Buena Vista carried the ball to Wayne's 40-yard line, where they were held for downs. Receiving the ball, Wayne marched without a halt to Buena Vista's goal, and Dale went over for a touchdown after five minutes of play. Wayne kicked off and Buena Vista was forced to punt. Wayne then carried the ball to Buena Vista's 20-yard line by the time the quarter ended. On the second play in the second quarter Church, on a fake tackleback play, went 15 yards for the second touchdown. With 50 seconds left to play in the second quarter, Dale, on a tackle back play, ran 30 yards behind perfect interference for the third touchdown. In the first three minutes of play in the third quarter Wayne again rushed the ball over for another touchdown. After holding Buena Vista for downs they again took the ball but were unable to gain. Dale's trial for a field goal missed by a few feet. In the fourth quarter with the wind in their faces Wayne was unable to gain consistently and both sides resorted to punting. Here one of the Normal players touched a punt which it was impossible for him to handle and Buena Vista recovered on their 40-yard line. Three plays failed to gain and Fulton placed a perfect field goal from the 42-yard line. This ended the scoring and time was called with the ball on Buena Vista's 14-yard line.

But one more game remains on the Normal schedule, that with Omaha University on Thanksgiving. Should the team play as it did Saturday, Omaha should be beaten by a decisive score and give Wayne the right to claim the championship of the smaller colleges of the state.

S. R. McKelvie Wants to be Governor

S. R. McKelvie, who has served one term as Lieutenant Governor of this great commonwealth now wants to be the first man. He is a republican, and a newspaper man, or rather to speak more correctly, a farm paper editor. He issues quite a lengthy statement, giving his views on different questions which are or which he thinks will be issues. He will favor prohibition and law enforcement, no matter what the law is, as matters of principle.

Efficiency of government he terms economy of the kind he would favor. Legislation which would aid the farmer to properly finance his business and facilities to market his crop, so that more money would come to the producer and less be taken from the consumer, in other words to cut out the graft of some of the middlemen. On educational matters, road improvement and rural school efficiency he makes a good platform, if he can bring his party to it. He would safeguard the water power development for the people. If he can do as he claims he would like to, we know of no man we would rather see the republicans nominate, for if both parties name good men and they can go into office without being tied by the corporations, the color of his political hair is of secondary consideration.

Among the Churches of Wayae

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell Pastor).

Dr. E. E. Hosman from Norfolk, will preach in the Methodist church next Sunday morning. There was a splendid and appreciative audience present last Sunday morning, and we hope to see you again next Sunday. We have another special treat in store for the people of Wayne next Sunday evening. Walter Lindberg, of Chicago, gives a sacred concert and tells the story of his remarkable conversion from the infidel's standpoint. Everyone interested in music or sermon will want to hear this service. For ten years Mr. Lindberg was a member of leading American Opera companies. His message "From the stage to the pulpit" will be heard with great interest and profit at the Methodist church next Sunday evening. The following are a few of the comments on Mr. Lindberg and his work. "A wonderful message in song and story," Dr. J. R. Gettys, University Place. "A man of remarkable consecration and ability," Presbyterian and Herald, Cincinnati. "A voice of the most astonishing power and range," Music News, Chicago. "A magnificent voice of great beauty and richness," Capital, Des Moines.

A free will offering will be taken. All of the churches are invited to join with us in this service. Tell your neighbors and bring them with you to the Methodist church Sunday night.

The Union Temperance meeting under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church was well attended and the audience was delighted with the message. Professor I. H. Britell gave a masterly address. He stands for a reasonable preparedness for our nation but suggests that the abolition of the American saloon as the first and most important step in that direction, and that an expenditure of $30,000,000 for food to be sent to the starving people of Europe would make a better defense than that amount expended for battleships. At the close of the address an initiative petition was signed by the voters present asking for a vote on a constitutional prohibition amendment in 1916.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

There was a very good attendance at all the services on last Sunday. Encouraging reports were made by all the visiting teams at the meeting of the United Committee, Monday evening.

Prof. I. H. Britell gave an inspiring and instructive lecture in connection with the W. C. T. U. program, last Sunday evening. The service next Sunday morning will be appropriate to the season of Thanksgiving. The sermon topic will be "A Table in the Presence of Foes."

The spirit of Thanksgiving will permeate the Sunday school next Sunday. A foreign Missionary lesson should always breathe the spirit of Thanksgiving.

The United Committee will meet on next Wednesday evening at the prayer meeting hour for the purpose of discussing the Annual Financial Canvass of the church to be made in December.

Next Sunday's Y. P. S. C. E. meeting is to be a Thanksgiving meeting. The topic is: "The Way in Which God Wants to be Thanked." Miss Ruth Ingham will lead this meeting. All are invited.

The congregation will join with that of the M. E. church in the evening for the one-night evangelistic service. Would that we might be all together more frequently in the service of the common cause.

Plans are being made to hold the Union Thanksgiving service on Thanksgiving day in the Baptist church, in the evening. Rev. A. S. Buell has been asked to preach the sermon. Let us all get together for a great mass meeting on that occasion.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Making Street Improvements

The street committee of the village board has started some important improvements of the streets of the village. They have secured the services of Ole Klanderud, one of the most expert roadmakers of the county, and with a force of helpers, he began work Tuesday, and if the weather will permit much good work will be accomplished in grading and otherwise bettering the condition of our streets.

The board's idea is to get the streets in such shape that when a flood comes, such as we had at various times last spring, the water will get away without running over and damaging private property. You may not agree with all the board does in this regard, but if you will please refrain from "knocking" and instead give the board co-operation and friendly help in this matter, much more good will be accomplished.—Wynot Tribune.

NEWS OF NEBRASKA

Ex-Police Chief of Benson Is Slain From Ambush.

DIES IN ARMS OF HIS WIFE.

Joseph Maney, former chief of police of Benson, was shot from an ambush at the Douglas county fair grounds, near Omaha, and died a few moments later at his home in the arms of his wife.

Before he died, Maney, who had been employed as night watchman during the last week, said that a man hiding behind a pile of lumber in the fair grounds shot him. He died without being able to make further explanation. He was only shot once, the bullet entering his left breast and going out in back through his shoulder. Death resulted from loss of blood.

After being shot, Maney staggered several hundred yards to the street and hailed a passing street car by firing of his revolver several times. A lumber thief is supposed to be the murderer.

Bread Wrapping Is Up.

Prosecution of the Tiptop bakery of Lincoln for delivering bread without complying with the law regarding the manner it should be wrapped, was begun by the food department. Commissioner Harman changed to be a certain Lincoln store when a delivery wagon of the company drove up and the driver brought in a basket of bread and not knowing the commissioner, sat it down immediately in front of him. The bread was not wrapped nor did it have the covering required. Mr. Harman at once ordered the driver to take the bread back to the bakery. He started at once to argue the matter, but discovering who he was talking to, wilted and obeyed the order of the commissioner.

Ten Counties Hold Off.

Ten counties failed to send representatives to the assessors' meetings which have been held in different sections of the state by Secretary Bernecker of the state board of assessment during the past week. These counties were Holt, Keya Paha, Knox, Garden, Dundy, Garfield, Loup, Blaine, Harlan and Gage. These meetings have been held in sections of the state where each county interested could send its assessor or some other representative who could take part in the meeting. The main object was to get things lined up for the real estate assessment which will be made next year.

Nuckolls Jail Declared Unfit.

Jefferson, Thayer, Nuckolls and Webster county jails and poorfarms were inspected by Secretary Shahan of the board of charities and corrections last week and in his report to the governor on the condition of the same indicates that with the exception of the Nuckolls county jail, everything is in good shape. The Nuckolls county jail is in a building erected forty-six years ago, which is in a very dilapidated condition, the walls cracked, the finishing stones crumbling and falling out and in most respects the building is utterly unfit and unsafe for the purpose used.

Editors Take Referendum.

The executive committee of the State Press association decided to take a referendum vote of newspaper men of the association with regard to their desire to hold the next convention in Scottsbluff. Expected arrangements with regard to a special train conveying the association to the western Nebraska city have not been fulfilled, and newspaper men will be asked to vote whether they desire to bear the expense of the trip themselves.

Need Not Be Registered.

State Treasurer Hall is of the opinion that it will not be necessary to register state warrants or use money from other funds to pay warrants against the general fund. The books show a balance of $121,000 in the fund, and, as all county treasurers except Douglas county are making monthly remittances, he believes there will be no trouble in keeping the general fund in such shape that there will be no need to register warrants.

Insurance Board Backs Down.

The state insurance board has backed down from its former intention to enforce the so-called electrical clause in fire insurance policies. In company with Senator Burkett, attorney for the insurance association, Thomas Bates of Chicago appeared before the board and made a showing which convinced the board that its former ruling might possibly be a little off.

Oil Inspection Fees.

Oil inspection fees for the month of October amounted to $10,680.85, according to Food Commissioner Harman, and is considerable higher than for the corresponding month of last year, although about $200 less than last month.

MELLOR BACK FROM COAST

Finds Road Making at Its Best in California.

Secretary W. R. Mellor of the state board of agriculture and Mrs. Mellor have returned from a trip to San Francisco and other points along the Pacific coast and to places of interest between Lincoln and the western cities. Mr. Mellor says people of Nebraska who are interested in good roads in this state ought to take a few pointers from California, where they have road making down to an almost perfect condition and the roads there are in fine shape. They stopped off at Boise, Ida., on their return home and visited with Mr. Hendershot, former president of the Nebraska state fair. Mr. Hendershot was recently elected secretary of the Idaho state fair and the 1915 exhibition was his first attempt. It was a success in every way, the first time that the Idaho fair has been made to pay, and as a consequence the people there feel Mr. Hendershot is the whole thing. The secret of the success was due to the fact that Mr. Hendershot put a few Nebraska ideas into the scheme and with his Nebraska push the fair just had to pan out on the right side of the ledger.

Agree Upon Place to Build Bridge.

The controversy which has been on for some time between the people of Boyd and Holt counties, over the location of a state aid bridge across the Niobrara river, has been settled. Some of the people were anxious to have the bridge put in at Butte, while others insisted that it should be built at Parshall crossing, about five miles northwest of Butte. The matter has been settled and the bridge will be put in at the latter place.

It will be 400 feet long and will cost in the neighborhood of $35,000. Bridge Inspector Albert of the state engineer's office is up there now making the surveys for the location. The state engineer's office is also preparing plans for a new bridge across the Elkhorn at Gretna. This structure will be about 300 feet long and will cost about $2,800.

Prairie Fire in Lincoln County.

Thousands of dollars' worth of hay in stacks and many farm buildings were destroyed in a prairie fire which swept a path four miles wide and twenty-five miles long in Lincoln county. The fire started eighteen miles south of North Platte from lightning at the Griffith and Latimer ranches near Dickens. At the William Sole ranch 100 tons of hay were consumed. Telephone warnings in advance of the fire prevented loss of life. Hundreds from miles around turned out to fight the fire.

Fire Adds to Aurora Mystery.

The mystery in the Nelson-Luff assault case at Aurora became deeper in the discovery of a fire at Nelson's place. An old shed close to his barn was burned. County attorney Whitney and others found tracks of an automobile which they followed to the Chapman bridge. They also found the following placard pinned to a wagon in Nelson's yard: "This is a second and last warning." The authorities have accounted for Luff, and no suspicion attaches to him as to the fire.

Soldier's Case Is Put Over.

When the injunction case of William Kearney against Commandant Walsh of the Soldiers' home came up in court at Grand Island an adjournment was agreed upon. The case is the one in which Kearney appealed to the law against the commandant's determination to discharge him from the home. Kearney is alleged by the commandant to have an income of about $5 per day, and that others needy are waiting for his room and maintenance.

Damage Suit Sent to Federal Court.

Judge Pemberton of Beatrice ordered the case of Della Underdown, administratrix, against the Burlington railroad, for $30,000 damages for the death of W. C. Underdown, who was killed by a passenger train Dec. 14, 1914, at Ashland, transferred to federal court at Lincoln, where it will be tried.

Dies After Auto Accident.

A GOOD BREAD RECIPE FOR THE GOLD MEDAL MAID

FIRST, mix a lukewarm quart my daughter, One-half scalded milk, and one-half water; To this please add two cakes of yeast, Or the home made kind if preferred in the least.

NEXT, stir in a teaspoonful of nice clear salt, If this bread isn't good, it won't be our fault, Now add the sugar, table-spoonfuls three; Mix well together, for dissolved they must be.

POUR the whole mixture into an earthen bowl, A pan's just as good, if it hasn't a hole. It's the cook and the flour, not the bowl or the pan, That—"Makes the bread that makes the man."

NOW, let the mixture stand a minute or two. You've other things of great importance to do. First sift the flour—use the finest in the land. Three quarts is the measure, "GOLD MEDAL" the brand.

SOME people like a little shortening power, If this is your choice, just add to the flour Two table-spoonfuls of lard, and jumble it about, 'Till the flour and the lard are mixed, without doubt.

NEXT, stir the flour into the mixture that's stood Waiting to play its part, to make the bread good. Mix it up thoroughly, but not too thick; Some flours make bread, that's more like a brick.

NOW grease well a bowl and put the dough in, Don't fill the bowl full, that would be a sin; For the dough is all right and it's going to rise, 'Till you will declare that it's twice the old size.

BRUSH the dough with melted butter, as the recipes say; Cover with a bread towel, set in a warm place to stay Two hours or more, to rise until light, When you see it grow, you'll know it's all right.

AS soon as it's light, place again on the board; Knead it well this time. Here is knowledge to hoard. Now back in the bowl once more it must go. And set again to rise for an hour or so.

FORM the dough gently into loaves when light, And place it in bread pans, greased just right. Shape each loaf you make to half fill the pan, This bread will be good enough for any young man.

NEXT let it rise to the level of pans no more, Have the temperature right—don't set near a door. Be very careful about draughts; it isn't made to freeze, Keep the room good and warm—a y seventy-two degrees.

NOW put in the oven it's ready to bake,— Keep uniform fire, great results are at stake. One hour more of waiting and you'll be repaid By bread that is worthy "A Gold Medal Maid."

The Mushroom. It is commonly believed that the mushroom literally grows in a night, so that it has come to be emblematic of sudden development, but the truth is quite otherwise. It is very likely to require several weeks for its formation, and up to the time of its appearance in the light of day it remains beneath the surface, very much compressed and held in small compass. Then comes a moist night, and the cells of which the fungus is composed are greatly expanded, so that it thrusts itself out above ground. But it is no heavier, though so much bigger, than days before, when it lay hidden in small compass under the top layer of soil, a perfect mushroom. Exchange.

There is a value far greater than the initial cost of the improvement in the saving of feed and stock to be gained by being prepared to properly care for the animals in both summer and winter. If the shelter enables a bushel of corn to do the good done by a bushel and a peck under the other treatment, it means much in a season.

The weather for the past week has been good for corn-husking, except a day of wet weather. The cooler air has been favorable for both the work and the curing of the corn. Beginning Monday most of those who had not been shucking started the task. It is said that there is plenty of opportunity to work if you can and will husk corn. There are a number of special Thanksgiving advertisements in this issue of the Democrat which it would be wise for you to read at an early date. In fact, the wise reader does not fail to read the advertisements as regularly and as religiously as he does the local and editorial. Crater Lake's Gamy Trout.
Whether it be from the temperature or the quality of the water is not known, but it is the testimony of experienced anglers that, pound for pound, Crater lake trout are harder fighters than trout found elsewhere. "Around the edges of the lake," said the general superintendent of the park, "there is no foliage to entangle your hook and line, and it is the ideal place for the amateur fisherman. When I was there the lake was so clear that you could see to a depth of forty feet. The first fish I caught I saw take the fly. I saw every motion of his body until I finally landed him on the bank, which I only did with the aid of one of the concessioners in the park. I do not know of any other place in the world where an amateur fisherman can swing his fly in any direction without danger of catching it on some twig and when he hooks his fish watch every motion as he fights for freedom. I agree with Emerson Hough in every word that he has said about fishing in Crater lake."

District of Columbia.
The municipal government of the District of Columbia, including the entire city and adjoining territory, is vested by act of congress in three commissioners, two of whom are appointed by the president from citizens of the district having had three years' residence therein immediately preceding their appointment and confirmed by the senate. The other commissioner is detailed by the president of the United States from the corps of engineers of the United States army and must have lineal rank senior to captain or be a captain who has served at least fifteen years in the corps of engineers of the army. The commissioners appoint nearly all the subordinate official service of said government except the board of education, which is appointed by the supreme court of the District of Columbia. There is not an elective officer in the District, and the people living there have no vote in a presidential or other election.

Legends of the Red Rose.
As to the origin of the rose there is a legend that a Jewish maid of Beth lehem (whom Southey names Zillah) was beloved by one Ham'ull, a brutish sot. Zillah rejected his suit, and Ham'ull vowed vengeance. He gave out that Zillah was a demoniac, and she was condemned to be burned, but God averted the flames, the stake bled, and the maid stood unharmed under a rose tree full of red and white roses, "then first seen on earth since paradise was lost."
From other sources it would appear that the rose was first white, and the Turks say it was colored with the blood of Mohammed and will never suffer the flower to lie on the ground, while, contrary to this, the Greeks hold that it derived its color from the blood of Venus when she trod on a thorn of the white thorn when going to the assistance of the dying Adonis.

The Jocose Gods.
What humor could be wider than that of life itself? Franz Schubert on his deathbed read the complete works of J. Fenimore Cooper. John Millington Synge wrote "Riders to the Sea" on a secondhand forty dollar typewriter and wore a celluloid collar. Richard Wagner made a living during four lean years arranging Italian operas for the cornet. Thomas Henry Huxley's wife called him "Hal." Herbert Spencer sang bass in a barber shop quartet and was in love with George Eliot. William Shakespeare was a social pusher and bought him a bogus coat of arms. Bismarck was afraid of his mother. The greatest soldier in Hungarian history was named Hungadi Janos.—Owen Hatteras in Smart Set.

Harvest Time in Shantung.
Now, come and see a harvest in Shantung. Here, too, it is the time of supreme interest to the whole family. Life in the country is practically measured by so many wheat harvests, and every old man and woman hopes to live to see one more. For weeks before all plans are made with reference to it. Carpentry, masonry, work of every kind must either be finished before "pulling wheat time" or laid aside at that time to wait until the harvest is over. No matter how important in the eyes of a foreign resident the work in hand may become, he cannot beg or buy his workmen to continue when once the wheat is ripe. In the hospitals all the patients want to get well by wheat pulling time. Some must stay on, but many a one incapacitated in hand or foot for real work goes home to take his or her place in "watching the gate," that all the rest of the family may go to the field and thrashing floor.—Christian Herald.

It Was a Nice Stone.
General Sir John Younghusband, the well known writer on military subjects, was once cleverly victimized by some Indian natives. At a village where he was encamping the dusky inhabitants brought to his tent a number of sapphire-like stones which they stated had been dug up at a spot some distance from the village. Sir John was convinced that he had luckily hit on a treasure mine. He bought every stone the natives possessed. "I had dreams of boundless wealth," said Sir John when relating the story, "and on my arrival at Calcutta I hastened to have the stones valued. 'Lovely color, light, perfect, not a flaw, worth 50 gulmeas apiece—if they were not made of Birmingham paste' was the expert's crushing criticism."—London Tatler.

Story of a Postal Card.
Don't despise the badly written postal card, moralizes a writer in Business. He received a card that was written in a scrawl and showed signs of having been in the writer's pocket for some time after he had signed it. But it was answered just as if it had been written by a reputable business man. And it was. It seemed that the card had been hastily written on the cars, put into the merchant's pocket, discovered several days later and then mailed. "We have since," concludes the writer, "done a very nice business with this man."

Dunn Defines Democracy

The announcement made by C. W. Bryan some days ago that he intends to support at the primaries next spring as candidates, persons who are opposed to the nomination of the democratic party by the corporation-liquor interests, seems to have sent a chill down the spinal column of the spokesmen for these interests.

The criticism of Mr. Bryan, however, by the representatives of the special interests need cause no alarm. The democrats of Nebraska who are opposed to the manipulation of their party by a faction whose chief purpose is to serve the "interests" will no doubt make an effort to rescue the party from the control of this faction.

The representatives of the "interests" now protest against democrats taking into consideration the attitudes of candidates with reference to these interests.

And this protest comes from a thoroughly organized element within the democratic party who for years have made subservency to the decrees of the corporation-liquor interests the supreme test of democracy with reference to every office from road overseer up.

Furthermore, they have already injected the liquor question into democratic politics by taking the liquor side. They have taken that side on the proposed prohibition amendment, and they will support as candidates for office on the democratic ticket at the primaries for state and national offices those who are recognized as being right along these lines.

The representatives of these interests and their leaders might just as well get out in the open and take their stand. Those who believe that the democratic party in this state has a mission other than that of serving corporate greed and liquor domination intend to draw the line squarely so that the voter will know where every candidate stands. With them, prohibition will not be the test of democracy. But loyalty to democratic principles, as against subservency to the corporations and liquor interests, will be made a test. The proposition that those interests shall not be permitted to fasten themselves upon the democratic party in Nebraska and compel it to serve them will be urged as good democratic doctrine.

We intend that democrats shall be given a chance at the primaries to make their choice along these lines and to vote for candidates who represent their convictions.

We believe that every democratic voter ought to have an opportunity to vote for candidates who are not now and will not, if nominated and elected, be under obligation to the interests mentioned, or influenced by their paid lobbyists, who for some time have been exceedingly active in the democratic organization and in various departments in the state house.

The spokesmen for the "interests" have also discovered that opposition to their plans means antagonism to President Wilson. For what element of the democratic party do these gentlemen and newspaper speak when they assume that opposition to the corporation-liquor traffic faction within the democratic party in Nebraska would indicate opposition to the president?

In the primaries of 1912 these same gentlemen and their following supported Harmon, the candidate of the "interests," in opposition to Wilson. His campaign in Nebraska was financed from Wall street and they knew it, and it was backed by the national corporation-liquor alliance. At Baltimore, while W. J. Bryan was opposing these forces and trying to nominate Woodrow Wilson, the very men, and newspapers in Nebraska, who are fearful that his attitude against the liquor traffic now means opposition to the president, were denouncing him as a traitor and giving such influence as they had, here and in the convention, to the Wall street organization, whose slogan was "Anything to beat Wilson; destroy Bryan at any cost!"

And they are the same gentlemen representing the same influences, who have thrown every obstacle in the pathway of the president for three years to hinder and embarrass him in his efforts to aid congress in carrying out the pledges of the Baltimore platform.—J. J. Dunn.

Anton B. Helms was selected by the patrons of the office to be the next postmaster at Randolph last week. He received more votes than the other three combined. The vote was 680 and the winner received 453.

A. A. McCoy forged a check to sport on with his newly married wife, and is now in jail at Alliance and the bride has gone to papa. It was a case of the young lady hurrying to marry a comparative stranger, and having a lifetime to repent her hasty action.

The Empending Conflict

There are those who see or profess to see dark days ahead for democracy because all democrats do not look at the issues alike. President Wilson and members of his cabinet have, through a speech by the President, placed before the public for their consideration, a plan for preparedness for war, or rather defense of home and native land, which to them looks necessary and to be a wise expedient, on the ground that a little prevention is worth much more than a whole heap of cure. In this they are to a great extent right.

On one hand the administration finds the "jingo" element representing those who would expect to profit by fat contracts in case of war, and who plan to sell to the government much at a good price on all that they can make it appear is needed for protection from a foreign foe. To the average citizen their motives are selfish.

Then we have another class who appear to honestly fear an invasion of this land of ours by force of arms and also of our markets, they would fortify our coasts with great forts and our industries with a wall of protection so strong and high that none could enter in a commercial way to save us from the robbers already with us, who are as merciless if given the opportunity, as any foreign foe either in battle or commercial array.

Another part of the people believe that we can command peace by honestly adhering to the right, that the moral influences of a right position toward all other nations and people will compel them to a like view and that to give and take only what is just will solve all difficulties, these are called idealists and Christians. They would honestly try to live up to what has been taught during at least 1,800 years of war and bloodshed, would try to practice what they preach and have so long been asking the peaceful heathen nations to endorse and practice.

To which class do you prefer to belong? A great majority will say to the one last named, but can we do that? Many of those who profess the choice of peace, will ask, thus showing that they are not honest or that they lack the faith they have long professed.

In the first class we have the selfish interests and the aggressive bad people and some of the timid ones.

In the second class are those who would preserve peace by being able to demand and enforce it if what they considered right did not go without force. Then those who would depend almost entirely upon moral suasion.

Roosevelt, Wilson, Bryan perhaps are the best known representatives of the three classes, and the choice of the American people will be between the policies represented by the last two named. The conflict will be one of words, arguments as to which is the better and safer way to attain the end the great majority of the people truly want, peace with honor.

This conflict is coming, and the hope of the "jingo" class lies in the division of the people who favor peace as to the best means of retaining it. Therefore let us think much and study the situation with care, and honestly seek the best.

We would modestly suggest that the people urge upon congress the necessity of providing for government manufacture of all arms and munitions of war, and in this manner taking from the people who are clamoring for profits all chance of gain, the representatives of the people will be free to act upon their judgment. They can in this manner learn more of the true sentiment of the people. Those who hope to make millions from the government in the future as they have done in the past, can and have retained a long list of followers who are for war, right or wrong for the money there is in it, and they try to so influence matters as to bring their plans to pass. Cut out the graft and you destroy most of the clamor for war and undue preparedness.

We are very sorry to learn that Bixby has been at home in bed sick. Thought he had left again in his auto, with Mollie, to enjoy Indian summer once more, like we used to have it here. The mud caused him to turn back early last month, and knowing his persistency in a good cause, we were sure he had gone for that delightful experience on the higher plain. Try it again Bix, so you may be able to see the need for dams and water storage. —Creté Democrat.

Many thanks, but on that first trip (may the saints preserve us from another like it) we recognize the need of a greater variety of "dams" than a good Christian could decently endorse, but the value of water storage nowhere seemed apparent. Everything was "soused," including some of the drivers along the Lincoln high-

One Extra Buyer at a Sale Often Pays the Entire Expense of the Sale

Get That Man

You don't leave your rig in the middle of the road, go to a fence post and read a sale bill, do you? Then don't expect the other fellow to do it.

Put an adv. in this paper, then, regardless of blustry weather, the fellow you want to reach reads of your sale while seated in his home, and, having the soaking-in spirit, he soaks in your list of property.

If he is a prospective buyer, you'll have him at your sale; if not, you don't want him at your free lunch.

A news item from Wymore, says that there is to be no more box car peddling there because of a recent order from the Burlington railroad officials.

The peddling of fruits and vegetables from freight cars on the Burlington tracks has been stopped by the rule which went into effect last week.

The rule provides that the sale of fruit or vegetables or other articles from freight cars on the Burlington sidetracks is forbidden.

This action is taken, according to Freight Agent H. L. Lewis, because of an accident which recently occurred on the Burlington in this state, when a Burlington switch engine backed into a car in which a shipper was selling produce to the public. Quite a number of people were around the car and a number were injured seriously.

As a "safety first" proposition the railroad officials decided to prohibit further sale of produce from cars on its line in this state.

James Ballard Acquitted

Many from this community were at Hartington Tuesday and Wednesday, some as witnesses and some as spectators in the case of the state vs. James Ballard in which he was charged with rape upon the person of Ada Jefferson. The prosecution had practically the same evidence as at the preliminary hearing. The defendant denied positively that he was never in the company of the complainant but once and that no intimate relations of any sort occurred at that time.

Several witnesses testified to Jim's good character and reliability. The defense rested after the examination of but a few witnesses and the jury was dismissed at 11 o'clock Wednesday forenoon while the attorneys argued the case before the Judge.

When the jury returned at 1 o'clock the Judge advised the jury that the evidence left no room for a reasonable doubt and instructed them to return a verdict of acquittal, which they did without leaving the jury box.—Coleridge Blade.

Ladies need not feel modest about consulting a chiropractor. Take a kimono with you, remove the clothing from the waist up, and slip the kimono on open in the back. There is no exposure whatever, except the spine. The chiropractor reads your spine like you read a book, and does not need to embarrass you by asking useless questions. He knows when he looks over the master keyboard (the spinal column) just what keys are out of order, just what nerves are impinged, just where those nerves lead to, and just what particular part of the body is affected.

You may have no pain or soreness in your back, but this is no sign your back bones are in perfect order. If a nerve leading to your stomach or liver is impinged, the DIS-EASE will appear in your stomach or liver, not in the back. A chiropractor KNOWS just how to find your trouble and just how to correct it.

News of State Officials
That the state of Nebraska is enjoying a large degree of prosperity is indicated by the number of domestic corporations that are being organized in this state. During the past months the records in the office of secretary of state Chas. V. Pool, show that eighteen large corporations have filed, the combined capital of which is nearly $3,000,000. Besides these there was filed a long list of smaller corporations with capital stock from $5,000 to $25,000 each.

The live stock sanitary board has raised the quarantine on horses and mules on the five western counties of Blaine, Cherry, Grant, Hooker and Thomas. This quarantine was established Nov. 7, 1914, during the epidemic of durane which existed in that territory. During the year over 2,700 horses, mares and stallions were tested and about thirty-five killed. Another important change the board has made is that where formerly animals shipped into the state required only health certificates, they can only be admitted now in compliance with the stallion registration law. This it is said will save the farmers and horse owners of Nebraska a good many thousands of dollars a year in the betterment of stock conditions generally.

The word "cure" on the labels of packages or bottles containing proprietary medicines will hereafter be tabooed in Nebraska, according to a decision just handed down by a local court, in which the state pure food and drug commission was plaintiff, and the defendant a local drug store, selling patent medicines. The defendants took an appeal to the district court, but eventually decided to pay the lower court's fine of $50 and costs, on condition that they be given time to get their stock in shape to comply with the law. The case grew out of the interpretation by Food Commissioner Clarence E. Harman, of the drug law that the word "cure" on labels of proprietary medicines was misleading and not in conformity with the statutes.

The total amount of expense for assessing the state of Nebraska for 1915, as certified to by Secretary O. E. Bernecker of the state board of equalization, is as follows:
Salary, county assessors, $47,01.00.
Office help, $24,155.15.
Salary of precinct assessors, $132,761.57.
Books, schedules and blanks, $11,734.56.
Total, $215,657.28.

E. J. Hainer, a Lincoln lawyer, who is interested in properties and also a stockholder in a creamery, last week filed a brief in the supreme court, as amicus curiae, or friend of the court, relative to the case now pending in that tribunal, in which Fire Commissioner Ridgell is mandamising State Treasurer Hall to compel him to pay fire commission warrants issued by the state auditor. The outcome of the case will probably decide the food commission's right to draw fees from the state treasury. The brief of Mr. Hainer takes the position that inasmuch as these fees are paid into the treasury for the specific purpose of maintaining these departments, and no provision being made for any other use of this money, that these funds take the form of trust funds, and that the state treasurer has no legal right to use them for any other purpose without the proper legislative action. Mr. Hainer quotes various court decisions and authorities in substantiation of his view of the case.

Live Stock Exports and Imports
The system of records adopted by the Live Stock Sanitary board is very interesting and are compiled for the protection of stockmen and farmers in securing the very best class of live stock.

The board's report covers the period between April 1 and October 31, 1915. During that period exportations of live stock have been sent out to 35 states and Canada and are as follows: 145 stallions; 3,489 horses; 2,714 mares; 291 mules; 7,338 cattle; 1,574 dairy and breeding cattle, to 731 of which was applied the Tuberculin test; 317 sheep and 790 swine. A great record for a great state. This report does not cover live stock shipped to public markets for immediate slaughter.

The figures compiled by the board also show that from April 1st to November 1st the state of Nebraska imported from Iowa 60 stallions; 211 horses; 142 mares; 12 mules; 846 cattle; 408 sheep; 624 swine, 231 of which were stock hogs and 393 breeding pure bred.

S. B. Knutson of the Hartington electric light and power plant is considering the matter of contracting with Coleridge to furnish light and power to that place from a central plant at Hartington. He claims to be able to do this for less than it will cost the people of Coleridge any other way. At Coleridge they are planning to vote on a $10,000 bond proposition for lights. Coleridge should make the best bargain possible if she wants light and power. But the Democrat is looking for some way to be discovered to pick power without limit from the waters which flow along our eastern borders in the mighty stream which carries the water from almost a continent to the sea. To the man who can extract but a 100th part of this waste power a fortune is assured.

Interest in Nebraska history grows as we near the semi-centennial of our statehood. The Nebraska History Seminar of the State University has just issued in pamphlet form an address by Prof. C. N. Anderson of the Kearney State Normal on "Local and Nebraska History in Nebraska Public Schools." The address presents a plan for interesting children in the grade and high-schools in Nebraska history and in preserving the local history of their own region. The plan has the merit of having been tried out successfully at Kearney Normal. The pamphlet is of interest to every teacher and every lover of Nebraska history.

A little excitement prevailed in Winside Tuesday morning, when a team driven by Will Buehine, Jr., became frightened at the heavy smoke from a switching engine, and ran away. They broke loose from the buggy in front of the Lantz drug store and took a 70-mile gait down Main street in the direction of home. They were halted two miles west of town and tied to the fence where Mr. Buehine found them a few minutes later. Fortunately the buggy stayed right side up and no one was injured.

Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Walcker and Wm. Brune were in attendance at the China wedding anniversary given Rev. and Mrs. Fischer of the German Evangelist church, four miles east and one mile north of Winside, on Saturday, November 6. A 100-piece set of China was given Rev. and Mrs. Fischer as a remembrance of the occasion. The evening was passed in music and singing, concluded with a two-course lunch.

Sloth and Diligence.

Sloth said to Diligence: "You work too hard. For two days now you have been busy plowing that field. I hear Ingenuity has invented a plow driven by steam. Why not get one to plow for you while you sit with me in the shade and enjoy life?"

Diligence bought the plow which would plow a field in a fraction of the time it had taken him to do it. But instead of sitting in the shade he put more land into cultivation, and it took all his time to attend to the plow and see that it worked properly.

When harvest time came he had more to do than ever on account of the new land he had cultivated.

Harvest over, Sloth went to pay Diligence a visit, saying to himself, "Now he will have a little more time to talk to me." But he found him conferring with Ingenuity in regard to a larger, more powerful plow, that he might next season put still more land in cultivation.

Moral.—There is no cure for diligence.—Boston Journal.

Pigs as Watchdogs.

In some parts of Mexico the wild hogs, which the natives call Jabalis (hah-bah-lee), savage beasts in their natural state, are used as watchdogs. If they are caught young and brought up with goats they will go into the hills with the herd and fight off coyotes or other wild animals; if they are raised with chickens they will protect them, and round a ranch house at night they are as useful as any dog.

Although fierce by nature, they can be tamed until they follow their master round like a dog. The landlord of a hotel in one of the border towns even keeps one of the wild hogs as a playmate for his baby son.

The Jabali is only first cousin, however, to the domestic pig. Swine are divided into two main branches. In one line is the farmer's pig, descended from the wild hog of Europe, and in the other is the Jabali, which is really a peccary. But the Jabali is quite "piggy" enough with his small flexible snout, long mottled bristles and long sharp tusks.

Ways of the Butcher Bird.

Some call it the butcher bird, but the real name is shrike. It is one of the oddest birds we have, because it represents a creature that is changing its type. Should you happen to walk through the country and come across a thorn tree with a small garter snake or a mouse impaled on a spike you may know that a shrike is around. Originally the bird was insectivorous and spent its time eating grasshoppers and such like. Somehow it got a taste of mouse or perhaps a smaller bird that it killed in a fight. It liked the meal, and naturally the bill of fare was extended to include mice, snakes and lizards. Very foxy is the shrike. It had no talons to tear its prey apart, so it hit on the plan of impaling the victim upon a thorn, where it could dine leisurely and on the installment plan. The butcher bird is about nine inches long and looks something like a mocking bird.—Philadelphia North American.

The Tyranny of Wills.

Many petty tyrants have sought to impose their will on posterity. Henry Budd, who died in 1862, gave proof in his will of a prejudice against mustaches. "In case my son Edward shall wear mustaches," he stipulated, "then the devise hereinbefore contained in favor of him of my estate called Pepper Park shall be void, and I devise the same estate to my son William, his appointees, heirs and assigns. And in case my said son William shall wear mustaches then the devise hereinbefore contained in favor of him of my estate called Twickenham Park shall be void, and I devise the same estate to my son Edward." Presumably the sons accepted that close shave for a fortune.—London Spectator.

A Mighty Workman.

Mrs. McTavish (to neighbor)—Is it true that your Jock start to work in the pit last Monday? Mrs. Christie (her face glowing with pride)—Quite true, Mrs. M., and, what's more, I see by the papers that there's been two thousand man tons of coal shipped last week than ever has been before! I say said Jock had the makin' of a guid collier!—London Globe.

Fires in Holland.

Fires of any size are so scarce in Holland that the city of Rotterdam, with a population of over 400,000, has practically no fire department, while the prevalence of canals offers an ever ready water supply to fight any fires which might occur.

Farm and Garden

VALUE OF THE SILO.

Adds to Worth of Farm More Than Its Cost to Build.

More and more farmers of the central west are thinking in terms of interest on investment, says the Iowa Homestead. Where there is a shortage of horsepower it is an easy matter to determine the value of a good team, compute the interest on the money required to buy the team and then in turn figure the earning capacity of this extra pair of horses. The same principle applies in the building of a corn crib or a granary. As a rule, small grain hits rock bottom prices just about the time thrashing begins, and the man who has to haul grain directly to the elevator invariably holds the short end of the horn. One can build a combination corncrib and granary that will hold 2,000 bushels of corn and as much small grain for $300. This investment, reckoned at 6 per cent, amounts to $18 a year, and yet every man knows that this amount may often be made up on three or four loads of grain.

Just as good an illustration of the principle is obtained when reference is made to the silo. Money invested in a silo that is well constructed is just as valuable an asset to the farm as a good corncrib. It will pay much bigger dividends, all things considered. On a pinch one can pile ear corn upon the ground and yet market it later on in fairly good condition. This is not the case with the material that is ordinarily put into the silo. Cornstalks worth $1 an acre in the field, when put in the silo, grain and all, are worth anywhere from $4 to $7 per ton for feeding to the right kind of live stock. By saving practically the full feeding value of the crop it is often possible to more than pay for the silo in one year, whereas it is well known that even a wood silo will last fifteen or even twenty years if it is given good care. The hollow brick silo, if well built, is permanent, so that in figuring its cost in terms of interest on investment one would be safe in spreading it over a period of fifty years.

Those who have silos are to be congratulated this year. There will be some late corn, and this will be largely wasted when it is not converted into ensilage. Corn that reaches the glazed condition will make good food if put in the silo, and yet every man knows that to husk out such a crop means, in most cases, the piling up of a lot of useless feed. It will mold if put in the crib, and the good ears invariably are rendered worthless by contamination with the soft ears. Corn of the same degree of maturity, put in the silo, will feed out well and can be used to great advantage for dairy cows, stock cattle or fattening steers.

One thing is certain—namely, that a $300 silo built on a farm will always add to the value of the farm more than the cost of the silo. Its erection will invariably start the farmer on a better program of stock feeding, resulting in building up the land, and in this way its effect on production will virtually mean that it will pay for the original cost every year.

The White Grub Pest.

Farmers who have suffered losses from attacks of white grubs in their fields this year should plan their crops for next year so as to avoid a repetition of the loss. Although the actual numbers of white grubs in the fields next year will probably be less than this year, those remaining will be larger and more voracious and do a great amount of injury, says William Moore of the Minnesota experiment station.

All fields infested with white grubs should be fall plowed as early as possible, not later than Oct. 1. Badly infested fields should be planted with grain or some crop not in hills, as such crops are least affected by white grubs. Only fields slightly, or not at all, infested should be planted with corn, potatoes, strawberries, or other plants grown in hills. Fields which have been in sod in 1914 and 1915 should be considered as infested fields and, if to be used next year for susceptible crops, should be plowed this fall.
