ATTORNEY AND DOCTOR
IN QUARREL AT WINSIDEAttorney and Doctor Quarrel and Resort to Physical Encounter in which Knife is Used Freely by Doctor

Last Saturday evening H. E. Simon went to the office of Dr. J. C. Neely relative to stories reported to have come from the doctor relating to his son Dr. Victor Simon and his practice which reflected upon the good name of one of Simon's patients, Dr. Neely, without admitting just what he had said insisted that he had not told anything which was not true. When he finally admitted that he had said certain things the attorney used one of Teddy's favorite expressions and emphatically said the doctor lied. At this, he avers, the doctor came at him with a knife—an ordinary jackknife with blade about four inches in length, according to description given, but as the attorney was superior to his antagonist in size and length of reach, and also knowing something of the art of boxing, he felt no fear of injury from his antagonist who was smaller, older and crippled in one hand and one leg, and his endeavor was to fend off the attacks of his assailant and manage to take the knife from him without cutting his own hand. In this way they moved about the office room and in the encounter Simon was stuck by the knife in the left breast just above and to the left of the heart, but he did not feel any ill effects from the wound, but insisted upon telling the doctor a few more things from his view point of the controversy. The doctor then drew a gun and ordered Simon to leave the place, which he did, and went to the office of his son where Dr. McIntyre was called to assist in examining and dressing the wound. It was found upon examination that the knife had penetrated the left breast above and to the left of the heart to the depth of about an inch and one-half but no vital organ had been struck. Examination of the clothing showed three other places where the outer clothing had been cut by the knife, two over the left breast and one near the right shoulder.

Dr. Neely makes the statement that he was fighting only in self defense and that Simon had assaulted him as he thought to do him great bodily injury and that in his crippled condition he had defended himself as best he could. But, although their encounter had lasted several minutes and he was crippled and struggling with a larger and stronger man he was in no manner injured and had received no mark or scratch to show for the attack. There were no witnesses except two little daughters of Dr. Neely.

Such is the story as near as we have been able to secure it. No arrests have been made. The county attorney has interviewed both of the men in the controversy and has not announced what his action in the case will be. At last reports Mr. Simon was resting easy with but little prospect that any serious results will follow from his injuries.

The Norfolk News of Monday contained the following simple account of the affair:

H. E. Simon, a lawyer here, was stabbed Saturday night while in the office of Dr. J. G. Neely. Various reports of the affair have been circulated but it is known that considerable feeling has existed between the two for some time. Mr. Simon's son is a doctor here. Mr. Neely says Simon came to his office and renewed the quarrel, called him a name and struck at him and he claims he acted in self defense. Mr. Neely's two small daughters, 5 and 8 years old respectively, were said to have been in the office at the time. No arrests have been made. It is understood that Mr. Simon's condition is not critical.

The Local Weather Prediction

Will Weber says that he cannot promise a long continuation of fair weather after the 18th. The indications point to a week of rain and snow. Rain in the south and snow in the north, with a prospect that we may get some of both in Nebraska. We hope it will be no worse than he predicts.

The Passing of a Landmark

The past week has witnessed the completion of the task of taking from upper Main street in this city the standpipe placed there in 1892 during the administration of Judge James Britton as mayor of the city. Judge says that there were two reasons for putting the standpipe in the street. One was that it was thought the owners of available lots in that vicinity held them too high, and on top of that was the fact that the city had no money with which to buy the site. Hence the use of the street.

It was in 1891, according to the city records, that the water works were proposed and bonds voted for the purpose, but Wayne bonds in those days were not at much of a premium, and money was not seeking investment in the wild and wooly towns of the west. The bonds were never sold, but during the following year a trade was made and the plant was installed instead of an annual pay week.

Meantime a disastrous fire had burned a half block in spite of all of the water that could be gathered from the cisterns which had been built to supply water for such an emergency. By tearing out a building where the Theobald store now stands and using plenty of salt and a little water on the building south of the alley where the Central meat market now is, the progress of the flames was stayed.

In May, 1891, A. A. Richardson was engaged as the city engineer for the waterworks plant, his compensation to be 1 per cent of the cost of construction. The members of the council were Northrop, Corbit, Russell, Miller, Gaertner and Grub, the last named being absent at the meeting which passed the first resolution relative to waterworks. Four members voted for the improvement. Frank Fuller was mayor at this time.

From the records during the next year one learns that the site of the wells and present power house was purchased from James Britton, 2 lots for $650. Finally in July, 1891, bids were opened, and it was found that the standpipe would cost $3,600; water mains were to bring $29.85 per ton, and hydrants were valued at $26.95 each.

N. P. Savidge dug a test well to ascertain the quantity and quality of water to be had, for $107.10. Then there appears to have been a vacation, so far as waterworks were concerned, until the spring of 1892, when the contract was let to Page & Co. James Britton was then mayor, and there had been a slight change in the council. The work moved slowly and must have been completed sometime that fall, for in December the council purchased 500 feet of service hose.

On a bid John Maher was awarded the contract for digging the wells necessary, for $1,500. Another bid had been $300 greater.

Thus, without money was the start made for a fine system of waterworks, to which much has been added as the years went past and the needs of the city grew. The last improvement was the laying of a mile of new main in the northwest part of the city and completing a new and modern standpipe on a lot purchased for the purpose near where the old pipe stood. Beyond a doubt the waterworks have been the means of saving much Wayne property from destruction by fire and have been of much benefit to the city, always providing an abundant supply of water clear and pure for every need.

Among things noticed while looking for a record of the building of the water works was the allowance of the bills to pay 14 special police who served Thanksgiving day, 1891, which indicates that they must have had something of a time for them. Among the number were some who are yet with us, or well known by many now. Grant Mears, Fred Volpp, Peter Coyle and Siemon Goemann being among the number. W. H. McNeal was city clerk, and about this time George Miner became marshall, as his name appears on the pay roll of orders allowed.

Let's Toot Our Horn

There is to be a meeting this (Thursday) evening at the Wayne bakery of those who wish a band organized at Wayne. This is by authority of a committee of the commercial club, and is notice to all who would in any way advance such a worthy enterprise.

Pay Up Week An Assured Success

NEXT WEEK—February 21 to 26—has been designated as "NATIONAL PAY-UP WEEK" by a large portion of the business enterprises of this country, and the communities that have entered into the matter with an organized effort are meeting with phenomenal success and encouragement. It is a right and proper thing to do. Drive a peg down and take a snub hitch on it and bring things up standing, then loosen up and start out with a clean slate. Once square and even in the matter of small accounts it will be easier to keep that way, and the longer one keeps to a cash basis the less they will desire to return to a credit system, both the buyer and the seller. Cash business is the most desirable—the most economical. The railroads do a cash business, the government does the same, the big corporations are all on practically a cash basis, and the man who deals with his fellow neighbors will soon or late come to substantially a cash basis, and the sooner he does so the better off both will be. Pay-Up Week is educating for a monthly pay day instead of an annual pay week.

Wayne merchants and business men are in the swim with both feet, and good results are already reported. Many have seen the inevitable coming and have dodged it by coming in out of the wet early. One business man tells that he has already felt an inflow of the medium of exchange beyond his fondest hopes. Last week the Democrat gave an invitation to its readers and the returns have been gratifying. We all look for more this week and the week to follow. The real Pay-Up week we expect such an inflow of cash as we have not before seen at Wayne.

Pool Hall Safe Robbed

Saturday morning it was discovered that the cash was missing from the safe at the W. M. Hostettler pool hall in this city to the amount of about $175 to $180. The proprietor tells that one man called Duxey had been loafing there part of the time and at other places a part of the time and that he was the last man seen near the safe, and had been warned away from that part of the room several times, but persisted in coming back.

Mr. Hostettler states that he had made up his cash and placed it in the safe and was about to close when quite a crowd of young people came and began to play. In the course of a few minutes he had to go to the safe for change and accidentally locked the money drawer open instead of shut, turning the key before the drawer closed. Coming back soon after he found his persistent friend back by the safe apparently trying to write a letter. In the morning the loss was discovered and the stragglers of the few days before was absent, and has not since been heard from.

Of the money taken about $40 to $45 belonged to John Hostettler of the Crystal, who had come in before going home and placed his evening receipts and other money in the safe.

Stock Shipments for Week

There has been an unusually heavy run of hogs here during the past six days, and a few cars of cattle. During the week 27 cars of hogs, 1 car of cattle and 1 car horses were shipped to Sioux City. Omaha received 6 cars of cattle and one car of hogs during that time. One car of cattle was shipped to Waithill during the week, making a total shipment of 37 cars of stock. Ten cars of hogs went to Sioux City Tuesday, being perhaps the largest run. Prices have ranged around $6.50 to $6.70 for hogs. At Sioux City the top was near the $8.00 mark.

Paulsen vs. Paulsen

Such appears to be the proper title for an encounter between Gus and Pete Paulsen, two brothers who live at Wayne. It occurred at the home of the latter Friday last. Intoxicating drink is the cause. The brothers, both past middle age, it is reported, fought for some time, Pete having ordered the brother from his home and attempting to enforce the ultimatum. Gus resisted and fought back, and finally resorted to the use of a knife, cutting the brother seriously. One thrust in the neck was very close to the big vein, another slash across the abdomen had to be sewed up. Pete is recovering from the wound and the brother is at the county jail charged in the warrant for his arrest with assault with attempt to commit murder. It is with regret that the Democrat chronicles such news—it is no credit to the community and is very unpleasant for their relatives and friends.

Death of Mrs. Jane Lilly

Tuesday, T. W. Moran received word from Jackson of the death of his mother at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry O'Neill, that day, and he left on the afternoon train for that place to aid in arrangements for the funeral, which was held this morning at that place.

Mrs. Lilly was born in Ireland, 87 years ago and came to America a young girl, and has for many years been a resident of Nebraska.

In 1887 and 1888 she lived at Wayne, and of late years had made extended visits here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moran, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends here. Four children survive her, T. W. Moran, Wayne; Mrs. Henry O'Neill, Jackson; John Lilly, Sioux City, and Frank Lilly of Newell, Iowa. Mrs. Moran went to Jackson Wednesday morning and Mrs. Huntener, a granddaughter, Wednesday afternoon to be present at the funeral this morning.

Special Meetings Close

Wednesday evening witnessed the close of the special meetings which have been conducted by the local pastors assisted by Prof. G. I. Waltz, since the 6th of the month, with great interest and good attendance. The cause of the sudden ending was due to death and sickness in the family of Mr. Waltz, which made it necessary for him to go to his home at Boston. One child died during his sojourn here and the wife and another child were reported seriously ill, and it was decided not to attempt to continue the services without his aid.

The usual Sunday evening services will be held at the different churches next Sunday evening.

Caviness, secretary, Kearney; Col. T. J. Majors, Peru; A. H. Viele, Norfolk; H. E. Reische, Chadron; Dr. A. O. Thomas, state superintendent, Lincoln; George E. Hall, state treasurer, Lincoln. A meeting of the registrars was called by the secretary for the purpose of working out a uniform system of records and accounts. The Peru school was represented in this meeting by Registrar R. D. Overholst, Kearney by Registrar J. L. Elliott and President Sparks acted for the Chadron school.

At noon the members of the Board were guests of the domestic science classes at a luncheon served in the rooms of that department.

The regular routine of business was taken up at the forenoon session and vouchers for the various institutions were passed upon. In the afternoon the Board listened to the reports of the presidents and of the executive committee-men, and granted requests for the purchase of equipment and supplies.

At six o'clock adjournment was taken until eight p. m. and the members were then entertained at dinner by President and Mrs. Conn.

The business at the evening session consisted very largely of the consideration of plans for permanent improvements during the biennial period which will close on March 31, 1917. The Board recognized the need of additional buildings at Wayne and President Conn was authorized to have plans prepared for a new gymnasium and manual training building and submitted for approval at the next meeting. This matter will receive definite action at the April meeting. At 11:15 the Board adjourned to meet at Peru on April 10.

Busby's Milk Food

How It Secured Its Position as a Prime Favorite

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Dennis Malony and his wife, Ellen, were taken ill about the same time.

Both being unable to earn anything, kind friends made up a purse for them and sent them articles that they needed. But Dennis recovered his health slowly and Ellen was a long while getting well. Finally both were able to be out again, though Dennis was hardly fit for work. So Ellen took the burden upon herself again and earned enough to keep the wolf from the door. After a while a baby was born to the couple, and the difficulty was enhanced not only by Ellen's being unable to go out to work, but by her not being able to nurse the little fellow. Milk must be purchased, and there was no money with which to buy it. The doctor who had attended Mrs. Malony, being loaded down with samples of prepared milk for babies, supplied some of the deficiency with these gratuitous preparations.

"How did you get 'em, doctor?" asked Dennis, puzzled.

"The manufacturers send them to me with the request that I recommend them."

In the sample cases came advertisements in great superfluity. Dennis read them and looked at the pictures of fat children that had been brought up on them with much interest. Little Dennis thrived on what the doctor gave his parents for awhile, then the supply was exhausted.

"What'll we do now, Ellen?" asked the husband, despairingly.

"I'll tell you, Dennis," replied Ellen. "We'll let 'em take a picture of the child and publish it for more milk."

"That's a good idea, Ellen; only I'm afraid Dennis isn't beautiful enough."

"Beautiful enough! What d'ye mean, Dennis? He's the most beautiful boy in the world."

Dennis had his doubts, however, for the baby resembled him, and he had never been called an Adonis.

"We haven't the money to pay for a picture to take to the man that makes the milk, Ellen."

"What'll we do?"

"There's a young fellow on the floor above that has a machine for takin' pictures. We'll get him to come down and take a photograph of the baby, and I'll take the picture to the man that makes the milk, and mebbe he'll give us a few bottles for it."

The young man on the floor above was appealed to. When he saw the baby he was surprised, for the boy was really not a prize infant. But, realizing that it would not be in good form to say so to the parents and being ready to photograph anything, beautiful or homely, he took the picture, and when it was developed the mother was in ecstasies over it and Dennis declared that even if the boy did resemble his father the picture was not so bad after all.

One morning the manager of Busby's milk food was sitting at his desk when Dennis, unannounced, approached and said:

"My little boy has been takin' your milk, and it's put ten pounds of the finest flesh on to him ye ever seen. I'm thinkin' that ye might like to print his picture and send it out with your milk."

Dennis drew the photograph of his son and handed it to the manager, who looked at it and with difficulty suppressed a desire to laugh. Then glancing up at the proud father he asked, by way of chaffing him, what he wished for the right offered. Dennis replied that a few bottles of milk to feed the child alive was all he expected. This won the heart of the manager, for he was a kind man, and, cutting for a dozen bottles of his prepared milk, he gave them to Dennis, telling him he would consider the proposition. With this he dismissed the happy Dennis, who went back to Ellen loaded down with milk enough to last till they could devise some other scheme to carry little Dennis farther on in his world's pilgrimage.

"I'm thinkin', Ellen," said Dennis the next morning, "that the reason Mr. Busby don't sell more of his milk by puttin' it into the papers is because he don't know just how it helps the babies. I'm goin' to write an ad, meself, and take it to him, givin' him the free use of it for bein' so kind in givin' us the milk."

"We owe it to him, Dennis."

Dennis sat down and after an hour's hard work finished his task. This was what he had written:

"Busby's prepared milk is the finest milk for babies of all 'em. If you don't believe it just go and see Mrs. Dennis Malony, 75 West Ninety-fifth street, and see the fine child that has been brought up on it. The baby has gained a pound a day on it for a month at a time and looks like a genuine little angel that you see in oil paintings."

Dennis gave the advertisement to his wife to read, and she said he hadn't said half enough good things about the food. She suggested that he show it to Tom Murphy, the young man who had taken the baby's photograph, to see if it was all right. So Dennis took it upstairs, where he found Tom and asked him to edit his production. Tom, who had a keen sense of humor and was a bit of a wag, said it was a fine piece of work, but he thought it could be improved. Dennis asked how, and Tom said that if he would leave it with him overnight he would make some additions which he thought would render it more effective. Dennis was only too glad to do so, and as soon as he was gone Tom brought his pen to bear on it and produced the following:

"Busby's prepared milk food is made of the best buttermilk that can be procured in the market. The flavoring spices used in it are gathered on the shores of Hudson bay by the Indians. Its ivory whiteness is obtained "not from any deleterious ingredients, but is distilled from myriads of white roses grown on the Busby farm under the supervision of a graduate of an agricultural college. The fatty substances used in the food are obtained from the blubber of walruses shipped on trains running on the ice of Bering sea, thus preventing delay and insuring the delivery of the blubber in the best condition at the milk factory."

"Some rare instances of development of children using Busby's food are testified to by mothers. Charles Deitrich when seven months old weighed only twenty ounces. After taking a bottle of Busby's milk he gained so much in one night that in the morning his mother took him for the five-year-old son of her next door neighbor and sent him to his supposed home with a lump of sugar. At the end of a year, having drunk 200 bottles of Busby's, he had gained a pound a day.

"Benny Harkaway, who weighed only two pounds at birth, was blown about in every draft, keeping his mother in constant dread lest he be carried out of the window. Ten bottles of Busby's food gave him so much flesh that his father having tossed him playfully, when the child came down was crushed by the enormous weight."

When this production was shown to Dennis he asked its author if it was not somewhat overdrawn.

"Overdrawn?" cried Tom. "Suppose it is! That's the art of writing an ad. If you write it in plain, unvarnished terms nobody will notice it. I'll guarantee that it will increase the sales of Busby's milk enormously."

"All right," replied Dennis. "I'll take it to Mr. Busby."

"I wouldn't do that," said Tom. "You had better insert it yourself. I'm a reporter for a newspaper, and I can get it put in at cut rates."

Dennis gave him a carte blanche to insert the ad, and went down to his office to report what he had done, adding that he was going to make Mr. Busby's fortune for him on account of his kindness in giving them the milk.

The baby's milk ran out one day, and Dennis, thinking that Mr. Busby might have heard from his advertisement and on account of increased sales be disposed to give him some more food, went to the gentleman's office and stood as before beside the desk.

"Mornin', sir," said Dennis.

The manager looked up from hundreds of letters and seeing the man to whom he had given some of his milk food asked him what he wanted.

"Have you heard from the advertisement?" asked Dennis.

"What advertisement?"

"The one that came out in the paper."

The manager looked at Dennis as if groping for something, then suddenly exclaimed:

"See here, my man, did you have anything to do with that game that was played on me in a statement got up to ruin my business?"

"No, sir; I put in an ad, at my own expense for the favor you done me for giving me the milk for my little baby."

The manager stared at Dennis for a time, then said: "I don't know that it will do any harm after all. It may call attention to my goods." He took up a handful of letters from the pile on his desk and ran them over. One, evidently a lady who had never had children or run a dairy, wrote to know whether the cream was left on the buttermilk used in Busby's milk. Another, a nurse, entered a protest against using spices in baby's food. "I should think," she said, "that it would injure the child's stomach." A young man who said that he was a student of chemistry asked for the process by which the white substance was distilled from roses.

There were on the desk a number of comic papers containing illustrations of the marvelous developments of children who had been fed on Busby's milk. One was a picture of a very small man being crushed under an enormous baby; another, a drawing of a woman giving a fat child a lump of sugar, while beneath were the words, "Now run home to your mother." There were numerous letters from advertising agents and advertisers asking for the name and address of the person who had invented the clever scheme for attracting attention to Busby's milk food, and one man who was about to put a patent washing machine on the market offered $500 a month for the services of one who had so cleverly drawn the public attention to the milk.

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FEBRUARY 17, 1916

Holds Wayne County Best

J. C. Forbes, who returned last week from a visit of two or three weeks at different points in northern Illinois, where they hold farm lands to be worth from 25 to 50 per cent more than here, tells us that he investigated crops and land conditions there pretty carefully and came home with the conviction more firmly fixed in his mind than ever before that Wayne county is as good as the best of the country. They had a good crop of small grain, and so we did, but their corn was far from being equal to the corn crop here in either quantity or quality. He does not believe their soil equal to that of this vicinity, and the only excuse they can have for holding land higher than here is the fact that they are a bit nearer the great population centers—their values are created by the people living near—just as the greater portion of land values are created here and elsewhere. To be sure the natural fertility of the soil counts for something, but take the people away and the most fertile land becomes of little value—populate a community thickly and by aid of fertilizers and other artificial and scientific methods the poorest of land is made to produce.

That makes it plain that it is for the interest of this community to build home institutions which will attract the people. We have the natural fertility to be developed—we now want the developer. We need more diversified and intense farming.

Grow broom corn and establish a broom factory.

Grow alfalfa and have an alfalfa mill to put the crop in a marketable condition that will almost double its value.

Grow cows, and the best cows that can be had; make butter and cheese—it is more profitable than to buy all of your cheese from an eastern factory where it costs twice as much to feed a cow as it does here, and you have to pay the freight and two or three profits to dealers between producer and consumer.

Establish an nursery (for growing trees we mean) and supply your community and other communities.

Raise the best of poultry and sell eggs and pure bred chickens—use a home made incubator—or at least one made in the state, to produce the chicks.

Take your cream to your home creamery—it has been the means of keeping the price of cream here above the price of almost any other district in the state. We can ship butter with less freight cost than we can cream, and have the butter milk with which to make pancakes and pigs.

Patronize your home merchant home papers and home butchers. And that last word opens up another thought. How much does it cost this community to pay freight on our live stock to market, pay for the selling, killing, curing, commissions and dealers profit before it gets back to be eaten here at Wayne? It costs just as much as the packer's combine think we will stand. A community packing house might not be bad—certainly more farmers would profit if they killed and cured their own pork.

These are some of the things which aid in making land higher in Illinois than here and it is within our power to overcome them to quite an extent. We cannot do it in one year or two, but we can begin, and we have all future time to work out these and other problems. Shall we begin?

Hoskins Votes for Waterworks

At the election at Hoskins last Friday the citizens of that place voted $8,500 bonds for waterworks for the city, there being but a half dozen votes against the measure. It is a wise move for any community to install waterworks for the protection it will give from fire, and we believe that a good system of waterworks should so reduce the cost of insurance that the saving thus made should at least keep up the interest on the bonds. We are glad to see Hoskins people progressive.

NOTICE—This is to say that Mr. F. C. Drake is no longer in our employ. His place is to be filled by Mr. Jos. Warga, who is a gentleman of ability and experience in plumbing, heating and kindred lines. CARHART HARDWARE adv.

Public Sale Advertising

There is no man who can use advertising more effectively than the farmer who is holding public sales, or having anything to sell or trade in the way of animals, vehicles, implements or grain, says an auctioneer. It must also be said that there are few men who lose so much money through failure to appreciate the value of advertising and the necessity of spending money for it.

It is true that sales are advertised better than they were a few years ago, but it is also true that a great many farmers are so averse to letting lose a little money for advertising that they indulge in false economy and they greatly reduce their receipts on the day of sale. The average farm sale should be advertised to the extent of $15 to $25, and there may be many that could spend twice as much and have more returned on the sale day; there are men who expect to sell several thousand dollars worth of property who think they have advertised liberally when they have stuck up a few bills and cards. They save a few dollars by leaving the newspapers alone, but one additional buyer would more than compensate for all the advertisement, and the average newspaper is read by hundreds of prospective buyers whom the bills and cards never reach. That newspapers are the most valuable medium for advertising the public sale will be admitted by everyone who gives the matter a little thought. The cards and bills may be all right and should by all means be used, but the territory they reach is limited. If no advertising at all were done, even if the bills and cards were not printed there would be some of the near neighbors that would know you were going to have a sale, but it is the newspaper that gives the most valuable advertising. The farmer thinks nothing of driving fifteen or twenty miles to a sale if, in reading over the list of stock offered, he sees some horses or cattle that he thinks would suit him, and it is these farmers that live several miles away from the sale that would not learn of it from the bills, but must depend upon the newspapers for information concerning it. A farmer sits in his home and reads in his paper a description of the property that some one at a considerable distance is offering and makes up his mind to attend. And that kind of a visitor to a public sale is worth a dozen who come for the purpose of visiting, with no definite intention of buying unless things are extremely cheap. The farmer who is going to have a sale should look well to the advertising proposition, for more money is lost by those holding public sales by advertising too little than is wasted by advertising too much judiciously.—Colman's Rural World.

A Spelling Contest

The Lake Preston (South Dakota) Times gives the following story of a hotly contested spelling match at that place. The winner, Gladys Porter, is granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Larson of this place, and she was a pupil in the Wayne schools for a time, leaving about two years ago for South Dakota:

Nine contestants appeared to take part in the spelling contest. They were as follows: Spring Lake twp., Maria Baars; Iroquois twp., Phila Bushnell; Mathews twp., Anna Callahan; Denver twp., Anna Olson; Baker twp., Gladys Porter; Hartland twp., Verna Jensen; Whitewood twp., Mary Jodozi; Spirit Lake twp., Blenda Nordlund; De Smet twp., Aural Jones. Five out of the nine contestants still remained when the list which contained 312 words was completed.

Another list of words which none of the contestants had studied was then used. The first prize of $5.00 was won by Gladys Porter, the second prize of $8.00 by Blenda Nordlund, and third prize of $2.00 by Aural Jones.

The Editorial Meeting

Oakland Independent: Whatever other people think of the matter, the fact remains that a newspaper man's life is composed mainly of hard work and long hours at it. Therefore it is proper that he should get away from the grind occasionally and mingle with his fellows. That was the burden of several talks at the recent editorial meeting at Wayne.

Something was mentioned last week about the banquet, which was in all ways excellent, but the main purpose of getting together was to discuss problems of the printer and to find a solution for them. There were some good things brought out by the different speakers, among whom were Dr. J. T. House of the state normal school, J. J. Ahern, a Wayne merchant of the wide-awake variety, and a number of editors. These men spoke along practical lines and from the viewpoint of men outside the newspaper sphere.

Among the post-prandial speakers, who aimed to please rather than instruct, were such men as John L. Kennedy, candidate for U. S. senator; Eugene O. Mayfield of the World-Herald; Victor Rosewater of the Bee, N. A. Huse of the Norfolk Daily News and Rev. W. L. Gaston, a Baptist minister with a happy faculty of saying pithy things in a pleasing manner.

A teacher of English at the Wayne high school spoke pretty austorially of newspaper English. Her leisurely prepared paper, couched in polished English was good, but if she had to do as the average country editor, attend to a half dozen other things while writing a paragraph, she might be a little less severe on the scribes.

There is much slovenly writing in the newspapers, it is true, but every editor receives so much poor copy from people from whom one would expect better, that criticism of the kind impresses these same editors very little.

A word should be said about the splendid institution, the state normal. Most of the editors were agreeably surprised to find such model buildings and so well equipped. The auditorium in the new central building is one of rare beauty. Wayne has a high school building of which it may well be proud. There, as at the normal, the visitors were enthusiastically entertained.

Of the editors it might be said that their papers reflect pretty accurately the personality of their publishers. There are those who are inclined to be a little bumptious, and others who are modesty itself. Of the latter kind are the editors at Wayne. They publish two of the best weeklies in the state, and yet do not feel impelled to boast about them.

Obituary

Andrew Jerden Honey was born in Ashana, Ontario, Canada, April 4, 1838, and died at his home northwest of Carroll, February 2, 1916, being 77 years, 9 months, and 28 days of age.

He moved from Canada to Lockport, New York, when a small boy, and a few years later to Mason, Michigan. In 1878 he moved to Blair, Nebraska, and in 1886 came on to Carroll and here resided until the time of his death.

Deceased enlisted for three years in Company A, twentieth Infantry on August 4, 1862, at Lansing. He was mustered into service August 18, 1862, and honorably discharged on February 19, 1863.

In 1864 he was married to Jane A. Woodriff and to this union three children were born. This wife died in 1872 and three years later he was married to Emma Elta Lyne. To this union seven children were born, they being Charlie of this place, John of Carson, N. D., George of Verdel, Ella Mossman of Creighton, Ed of Carson, N. D., Fannie who recently passed on to her reward, and Herbert of Leith, N. D.

The funeral was held at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. R. J. McKenzie, after which burial took place in the Carroll cemetery. He served his country in an hour of sore need and was one of the heroic band who stayed the dissolution of the great American union, thus aiding the immortal Lincoln to crystallize the theory that a government of the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

A Test Whether Advertising Pays

In talking recently with a man who has made a large success as an advertising salesman in another place, this question was asked him: "When a merchant says it doesn't pay to advertise, what would you tell him?"

"I just ask him this," was the reply. "What proportion of the population of this town has been inside your store during the past two months?"

Very few merchants ever claim they have had 10 per cent of the population. Most of the non-advertisers would be glad to get one per cent. A lot of them probably get only a small fraction of one per cent with any regularity."

"Then I say, how are all the rest of the people going to know about your goods? How can they tell whether it would be for their advantage to patronize you or not? If you have good values, or special bargains how do they know about it? A great many of them rarely or never pass your store. The great majority that pass give you only a glance. You are not getting their business, having done nothing to interest them."

"Then I go on," he continued, "to say there are just three ways to get some of this trade now slipping past them. They can send around solicitors from door to door, distribute circulars or hand bills, or advertise in newspapers. The newspaper notice is read carefully where a solicitor is summarily turned down, and besides the advertising is 20 times cheaper than canvassing. And hand bills are chucked into the waste baskets, while newspapers are read. If you don't care to use any of these methods, I tell them, most of the people of this town will continue to pass you by, without knowing anything about your goods."

These remarks fit here as well as in the town where they are made. A merchant must tell the public about his goods in order to get trade.

Death of Martin Muth

Martin Muth was born in the province of Hessen Nassau in Germany, December 31, 1842, and departed this life at Bloomfield, Nebraska, February 7, 1916, at the age of 73 years, 1 month and 7 days.

He came to America in the year 1859 and settled at Davenport, Iowa, where he lived until 1887, when he came to Wayne county, where he made his home until about six years ago, when he moved to Bloomfield. He was married in this county to Elizabeth Pfleffer, July 7th, 1887. To this union 11 children were born, three of whom preceeded him in death.

His death is mourned by the wife, eight children and 22 grandchildren and three great grandchildren, besides many friends and neighbors. The funeral was at Bloomfield last Thursday from the German Lutheran church, by the pastor, and the burial was at that place.

Rev. C. B. Leeper from Council Bluffs, Iowa, has accepted a call from the Presbyterian church at Hartington, which has been without a pastor for some time, and will begin his work there at once, but will not move the family there until the close of the school year.

At Sloan, Iowa, several rural school districts have consolidated and voted bonds for a $50,000 school building for a consolidated school, and the talk is that the people of that vicinity will give the children as good care as lots of people have given their stock in times past and are now doing.

Laurel has an electric light plant now except the engines, which have been mislaid somewhere between the New York factory and Laurel. Just wait a bit and they will come and then hurry to unload them or pay demurage. That tax is all right if they will work it both ways and make the railroads pay if the goods are so long delayed.

Ray Hurst and family left this week for their Iowa home, having purchased a place near Malvern, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Hurst have lived at Wayne and vicinity for a number of years, and the worst report we have heard of them was that they were splendid neighbors.

What more could be said. A good neighbor is a good fellow. He lends of what he has, including his time and energy to aid those with whom he is thrown in contact.

That term "good neighbor" is enough to give a man a passport into the best that belongs to earth, this life and perhaps the life to come, if one may believe the parable of the man who fell among thieves. They go with the well wishes of many friends.

Bloomfield will be busy tonight dedicating their new city hall. They had plenty of grief getting the building, holding several elections to properly issue the bonds. The people always voted the bonds, but there happened to be some little irregularity each time, except the last, in the election procedure or election notice, and the bonds were not without flaw, and they must now be that way before any financier will put his money into bonds. They do not take any long chances in loaning money, if they know it. But now they have a fine building and are going to properly observe the opening of it to the public. The state fire marshall is on the program for an address and some local talent and also some musical features.

The city attorney of Columbus tells that council that they cannot legally vote bonds for electrolleys for the city, nor can sufficient levy be made, so if that city is so lighted it will have to be by popular subscription. So it is up to the public spirited men to say what shall be done. They are however proceeding to find out what the cost will be.

The lecture course at Coleridge came to a close last week with the cash account about $400 in the red, which will cost those who guaranteed the expenses of the course about $18 each. That makes their entertainment come a little high; but if they gave the community something of merit it won't seem so bad. The writer was once stuck on a lecture contract, but we did not get the lecture—just a bit of dress parade business on the first number and the last and worthy number did not show up, but had to be paid for just the same—because the contract was made that way to catch suckers.

The state free employment bureau is out in a statement that it is unable to supply the demand for farm hands and requests that any one wanting a position on the farm file their application with the bureau at Des Moines. The wages range from $30 to $40 per month, including board and room and in some cases washing and mending. Here is an opportunity for any unemployed to get in. It costs nothing. If any "I. W. W." or other person comes along looking for work "cite 'em." Hear about the unemployed from the "Political Calamity Howlers" that are going over the country preaching hard times.—Corning, (Iowa) Free Press.

The Omaha Nebraskan of last week devotes considerable space to criticising an un-American speech or utterances of Mr. Vollmer of Davenport, Iowa, at the Creighton Founders banquet at Omaha a few days before. The speech was un-American and ill-fitted for such a time and place—but when one becomes familiar with Vollmer and Vollmerisms his utterance will not worry, though they may annoy. He is a German, but we do not think he represents the American-German sentiment. Mr. Vollmer appears to be so built that he is simply a representative of self. If he likes a thing it is good—if he does not like it it is bad and those who do not dislike it with him are also bad.

Edgar Howard gives the following in the Columbus Telegram for the consideration of his readers regarding the senatorial situation:

Governor Morehead may decide to file for the democratic nomination for United States senator. His views in opposition to all military programmes meet the approval of Nebraska people. Nebraska democratic opposed to militarism will certainly have an antimilitary candidate in the field. If Governor Morehead shall not consent to make the race, the candidate of the anti-militarists will be I. J. Dunn, or perhaps Senator Allen. The next United States senator to be elected in Nebraska will not be a militarist, and his relations with the war trust will be the relations of a fighting enemy.

J. H. Foster returned Thursday evening from his former home in eastern Tennessee. Said that he was having a fine time when he met with the accident which kept him more quiet, as a man with two or three ribs cracked is not very much given to fox hunting, and that is what he was doing when hurt. The dogs had the fox trail warm and things were exciting, the mountains ringing with the music of the hounds—then the bark slipped from the log he was on for a jump and he fell with the above disastrous result. The weather has been warm there, and flies were numerous and some mosquitoes bothered. He said that vicinity was his home for many years but he never remembered it being so warm there before during the winter.

Last week one of our good farmer friends jokingly remarked that he was going to serve an injunction against paving Main street of Wayne on the ground that it is a public highway, and the only one over which a large scope of rich farming country can get to the stock yards at Wayne, and that it would not do frequently to drive a bunch of fat cattle worth $125 a head over such streets and have one slip and break a leg. He finally agreed to compromise if the city would get busy and do just what a lot of us have wanted done for some time past—open a street across the railroad right of way in the east part of the city where cattle and hogs too could be driven to market. The Main street is really not the best place to drive cattle—as they interfere with traffic and the traffic interfere with the cattle drive. Let's investigate that matter some more.

Bloomfield will be busy tonight dedicating their new city hall. They had plenty of grief getting the building, holding several elections to properly issue the bonds. The people always voted the bonds, but there happened to be some little irregularity each time, except the last, in the election procedure or election notice, and the bonds were not without flaw, and they must now be that way before any financier will put his money into bonds. They do not take any long chances in loaning money, if they know it. But now they have a fine building and are going to properly observe the opening of it to the public. Hugo Linke, who has been here and in Iowa and South Dakota visiting relatives, left Monday to return to his home in western Canada. He is farming there, and says that he may be called to fight with the soldiers of his adopted country. He is a brother of Henry Linke.

Adam Pfeiffer was a visitor from Winside last week, coming over to purchase a team which he drove home. He tells us to change his paper address March 1st to Stanton, as he has been induced to move back to the farm he formerly had before coming to this county. He is a good farmer and such are the ones who can "come back."

Saturday evening A. T. Claycomb and family arrived from Sycamore, Illinois, to make their home in this vicinity and are going to take possession of the Henry Linke farm just northeast of Wayne before the first of March. Meantime they are visiting at the home of J. T. Bressler and wife, her parents. They are certainly to be congratulated on coming to this good farming country for a home.

Miss Elisabeth O'Brien, who has been chasing the elusive news items for the Herald for about two years, resigned her position, finishing Saturday evening. This week she will return to her former home at Springfield for an indefinite stay.

Sunday morning Mrs. T. B. Heckert received word of the sudden death of her brother, Wm. Shipley, at New London, Iowa, and left on the afternoon train to go to his home to attend the funeral. Dr. Heckert accompanied her as far as Omaha, returning the next day.

With the old standpipe, which for so many years stood at the summit at Main street, down and out, there is now nothing to obstruct our vision clear up to the north pole—and from the way the weather felt some of these days it was mighty easy to mistake that landmark for the real north end of the shaft on which the earth revolves.

John Berry was here Monday visiting his brother, F. S. Berry and his father-in-law, Nels Orcut for a time while awaiting trains, as he had business missions at Randolph and Norfolk. Mr. Berry returned last week from a trip in the south, where he went some weeks ago for relief from bronchial trouble, and has returned much improved in health.

F.O. Gamble went to Omaha Tuesday to attend the meeting of the Nebraska Retail Clothiers, which holds its first annual meeting this week. Mr. Gamble was at the organization meeting a year ago, and a charter member of the organization, which started with a greater membership for its initial meeting than any other state organization of its kind in the history of such gatherings.

Frank Bressler of Pender (that is his postoffice) was a caller Monday and planted a little corn advertisement in this paper. He tells us that he has about 1,500 bushel of good 1914 crop of the famous Iowa Gold Mine corn which has been in a good crib and will make ideal seed and he wants those in need of good seed to come and see the layout. He wants his neighbors to have a chance at this corn if they need it.

The editor heard some talk kicking the other day, for it was a verbal "kick," about the neglected condition of the walks in some parts of our city, the kicker averring that where he came from such neglect of snow on the walk would mean a fine in addition to pay for removing it. But the kick of the fellow who goes dry shod over the frozen snow is not to be compared to the "cuss words" one feels coming up when this same snow and ice is converted into a mushy slush and must be waded through. Let's reform some.

The firemen were called out at Neligh last week and soon discovered that they could do nothing fire fighting, as the hydrants were frozen, and in addition banked with frozen dirt so that it was impossible to attach a hose without first chopping the dirt away with an ax. Fortunately the fire was extinguished without the aid of the firemen, and the hose, but had it been different there would have been no help for it. Inspection was made in the fall, but report of the condition failed to reach the council, is the claim. They were lucky once.

Sunday evening Mrs. E. B. Young slipped and fell on an icy street crossing, and was picked up in a dazed condition by friends and placed in a sleigh and taken home. Next morning she was able to be about, but rather sore, jarred and bruised. It was on the crossing between the Henry Ley and Walter Weber homes, where the water from melting snow had frozen over the walk, and on which a number of people have fallen during the past ten days. At the alley crossing above that was another place similar, but not so dangerous, on which several people fell. Both places should have at least been sprinkled with ashes, but were not, for what is everybody's business is nobody's business in particular, and so all had opportunity to fall.

Editor E. H. Ruhlow of the Hoskins Headlight was a Wayne visitor Monday, coming over on a business mission. He says that it is nearly two years since he last visited Wayne before, as it keeps him pretty busy to read all of the post cards and distribute the mail and get out the Headlight every week, for he is postmaster as well as editor. He regretted that he missed the editorial meeting here last month, but it so happened that the train was on time that day and he was late—just enough to miss the train and one of the times of a lifetime.

Sources of Revenue

Under the above heading C. J. Rundell asks some leading questions in the Public Pulse column of the Omaha World-Herald, and offers some suggestive ideas. His letter was dated at Wayne February 9th, and follows:

I am a constant reader of the World-Herald and admire your stand on most public questions. Now that we are to have preparedness on a large scale, will our popular congressman from the Third district be chargeable with insurgeney for urging the taxing of large incomes in lieu of articles proposed by the president?

Or would the able member from your district be deemed rebellious if he should propose a tax on national banks instead of gasoline to the amount of the interest on their bonds deposited to secure the notes loaned them without interest. Since a democratic comptroller has forced a report from the national banks that they are collecting from 10 per cent to 100 per cent interest from the people, could Mr. Shallenberger be charged with "fighting the president" if he should propose that all interest charged by them exceeding 6 per cent be paid into the preparedness fund, which would provide such an ample fund that our one time popular governor would escape the proposed tax on both his buzz wagon and gasoline?

It is all right to tax fabricated steel provided you spell it "steal," and what more colossal "steal" was ever proposed than that of the national bankers at their late convention, that the $346,000,000 of United States legal tender notes be retired and canceled by the issue of interest bearing bonds? These pampered pets of g. o. p. have had the use of $500,000,000 without interest for fifty years. Compounded at 6 per cent it is a gift by the government of $8,600,000,000; exemption from local taxation to build streets, roads, bridges, school and court houses and pay salaries of teachers and judges and state officers, $100,000,000; total to date, $4,600,000,000. No wonder they can loan billions of dollars to the allies.

If the democratic members of Nebraska can name a more just or popular source of revenue to build the "largest navy in the world," I will be pleased to hear from them. C. J. RUNDELL.

The sinners are being rounded up in unusually large numbers this winter, as may be seen by reports in many exchanges. At Fremont a series of tabernacle meetings closed with about 800 sinners promising to be good boys and girls. E. E. Young receives papers from his son Ensign, who is one of the musicians with an evangelistic party at Scottsdale, Pennsylvania. They are closing their work there to go to a Michigan city, with something like 800 conversions reported. At Wisner a tabernacle meeting started last week and much interest is reported. At Villisca, Iowa, a series of successful meetings brought a bunch of bad fellows to repentance in a good community where it was generally supposed that all of the sinners had moved away or died—but they were brought to repentence. Billy Sunday had a big time at Omaha and made that a good city. Then he went to Syracuse, New York, and took on as many bad folks as he did in the Nebraska metropolis. Even way back in Strawberry Point, Iowa, an evangelist found a few sinners who confessed the evil of their ways—they must have been some new comers, for they were all good people there when the writer was a lad. At Wayne the local preachers are conducting a campaign with effective vigor, and bright prospects of success. So we might mention other places, but the foregoing is sufficient to prove the truth of the opening statement. We say, let the good work go on.

Credit, Big Thing in Business,

Helped by Pay-Up Week

The late E. H. Harriman, wizard of finance, once said: "I never particularly consider a man who is worth a million. The man I like to talk to, the man with whom I like to do business, is the man who can go out and borrow a couple of hundred thousand dollars any time he wants to."

There is a volume of wisdom in this sentence. It means that in the business world credit is the one big thing. Once a man loses his credit in business he has a hard time to succeed. He pays the penalty in other ways. There may come an opportunity for an enlargement of his enterprise. There may come a chance to get goods cheaply for cash. If he stands right at the bank he can borrow. If he stands right with his neighbors he can borrow from them. The moral is obvious.

If you have been a laggard in your payments you are not helping your credit. Credit is the very life of business. Boost your credit by being an enthusiast in the Pay-Up week movement. This Pay-up proposition means a lot to you. It means a lot to the community. Get in it. Get your neighbor in it.

Other cities have tried out Pay-Up Week and marvelled at the beneficial results. What has been accomplished in other cities can be accomplished here. Do your part by paying every bill, large and small. When you pay your bill the man to whom you pay it will feel impelled to pay his obligations, and so on until everybody will enter the spirit of the movement. Join the Pay-Up Week throng. Be one of the Pioneers in this boom campaign.

The dates are February 21 to February 26.

Just A Word to Farmers:

Announcing the fact that we are now ready for the spring trade in Implements and Farm machinery, and have made a timely purchase of the most complete and largest stock in our line ever shown at Wayne. But quantity did note alone have consideration. Quality counted more than price, and with our experience in purchasing used to best advantage we think we can offer you the best that is to be had in the way of farm tools. Just now we ask you to consider our TRACTORS—the coming motor power for the farm. Better and cheaper than horses in many ways.

Spring is almost here and that will call first for plows, harrows, discs, seeders, then planters, cultivators, hay and harvest tools, not forgetting the corn binder and wagons towards the close of the season.

Then always we have the repairs, and the lesser things on the side, gasoline engines, DeLaval cream separators, washing machines, hog oilers, tanks and tank heaters, buggies and that most valuable vehicle on the farm known as the Manure spreader.

From time to time, you will hear from us as the season advances, but we want this week to impress upon all that for the season of 1916 we are going to put Wayne on the map as the place to buy implements, and that the center of attraction for the farmer from now until fall will be

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Poultry raisers who occupy restricted quarters can broaden their business and enlarge their earnings by running incubators and selling day old chicks. In nearly every community there is a large trade of this kind.

It is feasible for a city family or for any one living near a good shipping center to manage a hatchery. This does not require any more room than a house and lot will afford. Without a regular poultry plant it is necessary to buy all the eggs for hatching purposes and to dispose of the young chicks as promptly as possible, thus avoiding feed bills and other expenses. One essential in starting such a business is to have a regular supply of fresh eggs for the incubators. Contracts should be made with poultry owners in the neighborhood for a definite number; otherwise it will be necessary to keep two or three hundred hens in order to keep up an even supply of eggs for the hatchery. Any one having taste and talent for managing incubators will succeed in the chick industry.

There are many large plants devoted almost exclusively to the day old chick business and custom hatching, and all are apparently doing well. Some of these contract with the small breeder to take all of his eggs—provided he keeps the breed or breeds in which they specialize—from January to June or even for a longer period and at a price which makes the project attractive. The price paid for such eggs varies with the merits of the breeding stock. The usual charge for custom hatching is figured on a per chick basis ranging in price from about 5 cents for each chick hatched in small quantities to 3 cents a chick in larger quantities. Among poultry raisers it is becoming more and more the practice to buy day old chicks rather than to manage the hatching for themselves. Exchanging eggs for chicks appeals to many who keep poultry. There is quite a risk about hatching eggs, and in many cases it will pay to place the task in the hands of those who are expert in the management of incubators.

Potatoes at from 50 cents a bushel are the cheapest form of starch food, and starchy foods are absolutely necessary for the human system for a production of heat and energy. Nearly 5 per cent of the dry substances of the potatoes consists of salts, largely potassium. These salts have the medicinal properties of purifying the blood from acids produced by the eating of meat, which, in the human family, is the chief cause of burdening of the arteries, gout, rheumatism, Bright's disease and apoplexy. These salts are located just under the skin of the potato, for which reason potatoes should not be peeled before cooking. The comparative nutritive value of potatoes is as follows: One pound of baked potato has the same food value as five and seven-eighths ounces of beef, one pound of chicken, ten pints beef tea or seven ounces of bread. Baked potatoes are unexcelled as a change in the ration for hogs and cattle. The nutritive value is just as great for animals as for the human family, and stock particularly need the blood purifying medicinal properties. It has been known for some time that if hog rations were occasionally varied with the feeding of boiled potatoes the results would be beneficial, and the change would bring about a more healthful condition.

Good Winter Vegetable. A very fine winter vegetable and one that should be more widely grown is salsify, the so called vegetable oyster, says a contributor to the County Gentleman. This plant, a root, is grown in the same manner as the parsnip or carrot. Seed should be sown early in the spring at the rate of one ounce to seventy-five feet of row. The tops of the young plants resemble new blades of wheat.

After growth is well started than the plants to about four inches apart. Proper thinning and a deep, loose soil are necessary.

Salsify may be dug and stored in the fall or allowed to remain in the ground. When left outside, however, it is often difficult to dig when wanted. The flavor in soups or escalloped is very similar to that of the oyster. This vegetable is very scarce or almost unknown in the smaller towns, and a small planting should prove profitable.

Lincoln Letter

The special motor vehicle registration department under direction of Secretary of State Pool is sending out 400 to 500 automobile plates daily. Over 50,000 of the 1916 plates have been sent by parcel post to their respective owners.

Dr. J. D. Case, state health officer, has been advised by a member of the Board of Education at Ft. Calhoun, that the last death among the students of the public schools of that place was in August 1909. This speaks well for the sanitary conditions on their schools, and incidentally, for the health conditions of the community.

During the past month the clerical force of the auditor's office has been rushed with the work of checking up the county treasurer's annual settlement with the state. At this writing all but two counties have submitted their reports and all but four others have made final settlement.

On February 10th Governor Morehead made his longest speech—and yet he talked less than five minutes! It was a speech of greeting by long distance telephone to the national chamber of commerce at Washington, D. C. President Wilson was present at the Washington meeting and with Governor Morehead were 30 or 40 invited guests who were supplied with headpieces and listened to all the conversations. The governor's speech was delivered in his happiest mood and was loudly applauded when he said: "At this particular time the American people have great cause to rejoice and our president is to be congratulated on being able to steer this nation clear of any foreign complications and retaining the good will of all the unfortunate nations that are now involved in such a great conflict."

A report by the state accountant covering his audit of the state institution cash fund, as shown by the books of State Treasurer Hall and State Auditor Smith, shows more than a million dollars receipts since the fund was created in 1907. On December 31, 1915, the treasurer had $210,223.33 of institution cash on hand, but there were $2,073.48 of unpaid warrants against it still outstanding, leaving a net balance of $208,149.90 available. In a summary of the items of this balance, the state accountant reports—

Active appropriated accounts.....$ 67,829.00
Unadjusted accounts (in doubt).....45,486.25
Unappropriated (transferrable) accounts.....94,834.65
Total unexpended balances, $208,149.90

The item of $94,836.65 will probably be transferred to the state general fund and used in paying expenses of government.

A Growing Business

Is that of Messrs. Kay & Bichel, who deal in implements at this place. Just now their room is being fitted with an elevator which will give them the use of the second floor of the building they have occupied since starting in the business here. They will also have more benefit from the basement from the fact that their elevator will enable them to store part of their stock there more readily. While they need more room than they have this addition will help greatly in properly handling their growing business.

TWO DOLLARS A BLOCK

This is the sum promised Chief of Police for Carrying a Message in Great Blizzard of 1888, by Banker Oxford.

Something seen in the papers recently of the great blizzard of January 12th, 1888, caused Geo. Miner to remark that he was offered $25 to take a message from the depot to the Oxford home in the northwest part of the city and bring a reply back. The man who wanted the word sent to his family that he was safe and wanted to know that they were safe was at Randolph, and he kept bidding up for some one to deliver his message. Soon after he had offered $25 for the job, Mr. Miner came to the depot and accepted. He made the trip, found all well, came back and wired his reply. A few days later when the sun was shining and things looked different to the banker, he came home and gave Mr. Miner 50 cents for the trip.

What is the Danger?

The country is splendidly loyal to President Wilson, but it finds great difficulty in understanding his present advocacy of a preparedness program which he himself so recently said was wholly unnecessary. In one of his earlier addresses our president said:

"We are threatened from no quarter."

During his recent western trip our president made fervid appeals for immediate preparedness, and in one of his addresses he said:

"Every hour makes the situation more difficult to handle."

What did our president mean by such an intimation of military trouble? Did he mean that he has information about an impending attack by some foreign foe? Our good president plainly intimated in one of his addresses that he was appealing to the American people to have supreme confidence in him if they expected to keep our country out of the European conflict. Indeed the American people do have supreme confidence in President Wilson, and they will stand by him in any emergency, but he must understand that the American people do not have any confidence at all in the great combinations of wealth which are promoting all this scare. And since our president asks for the confidence of the people, and receives it so generously, why should he not, in return for that confidence, plainly tell the people the name of that foreign nation against which the country is now asked to arm so heavily and so hurriedly? A little while ago he said: "We are threatened from no quarter." Who is threatening us now? The Telegram yields first place to no man in loyalty to our good president, and yet we frankly say that we would be in better position to show our loyalty if he would take the country into his confidence and plainly name the nation which is about to attack us, and for the repelling of such an attack "the strongest navy in the world" and a mighty standing army are so urgently demanded.

Perhaps some of the president's new-found friends in Nebraska may have inside information as to that particular foreign foe which our good president clearly intimates is getting ready to attack us. And perhaps they will be kind to name the foreign foe which is going to destroy the American republic unless we shall immediately build the "strongest navy in the world," and enroll a standing army of a million men. Very respectfully, but also very earnestly, The Telegram pleads with all preparedness friends for the name of that foreign foe who threatens to wipe the American republic off the map unless we shall immediately grant the demands of the war trust for a mighty army and "the strongest navy in the world." Columbus Telegram.

Bad Days for Small Potatoes

Colliers Weekly: "Times like these and issues like the national defense are fatal to the common place politician. It is barbarous to ask him to face such a problem in a presidential year and tell him his place depends on the kind of answer he gives. He has no landmarks to go by, no precedents to guide him, and no leader whom he is not afraid to follow. Vainly pleading for time and protesting his spiritual unpreparedness, he is dragged to his unhappy fate. Life was very soft for him before the flash of gunpowder in Europe revealed the world in a searching light, forced us to consider the realities of our national existence, and made us understand how intimately our own lives and fortunes are bound up with it. There was no public question which he could not answer out of the campaign book of slang, and no patriotic longing that he could not gratify (seal). JAMES BRITTON, adv.-6-3. County Judge.

More About the Editors

Hartington Herald: The criticism of Mrs. Phillips, teacher of English at the Wayne high school, which were directed against the newspapers at the recent editorial meeting at Wayne, have been considerably discussed by the newspapers. Mrs. Phillips criticised two things especially: the newspaper's use of English and the comic supplements. She censured the newspapers—some of them anyway—for their poor English, and condemned the funny papers as degrading. Victor Rosewater, replying to Mrs. Phillips, said he believed that the English employed by the newspapers would compare favorably with that used by any other class of writers, and, in regard to the comics, he said he did not believe they were any more degrading to the minds of children than many of the juvenile books that had been written. We are inclined to agree with Mr. Rosewater. Of course, the average newspaper English is not what it ought to be, but most of it has one redeeming virtue, which some of the more classic English lacks—it is virile. And as for the comic supplements, we do not believe they exercise a corrupting influence upon the minds of children. We have not observed that the funnies exploited human weakness or deformity, but that Mrs. Phillips charged, but that their entertainment, while far enough from being intellectual, is not unwholesome and their characters such extravagant caricatures that there is not much danger of their being imitated.

On reading the petition of Rollie W. Ley, executor, praying a final settlement and allowance of his account filed in this Court on the 4th day of February, 1916, and for distribution of the residue of said estate in his hands. It is hereby ordered that you and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said county, on the 3d day of March, A.D., 1916, at 10 o'clock a.m., to show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Nebraska Democrat, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

The Great Cheap Wheat Lands of Canada

Are not now considered desirable for homes and settlement by citizens of this land of the free, because of the war taxes for the man who simply goes there to live, and because of the demand for men as targets for the rifles of their foes if one becomes a citizen as he must if he get the greatest benefit to be derived as a land owner, but this will tell you of a is possible and profitable.

Ask us about the fertile Missouri River Valley lands of North Dakota, and we will tell you of opportunity to secure a farm home that will increase in value rapidly—near railroads, schools, churches, civilization. Where fuel is cheap and plentiful, where wheat, oats, barley, flax, timothy and alfalfa make good crops, and where corn and potatoes thrive, at better prices and on better terms than we know of elsewhere.

JAMES BRITTON,

County Judge.

Chas. E. Jones, one of the progressive citizens of this county, who lives at Carroll but owns business property in this good town of Wayne was a visitor here Saturday, and while here put his name on the petition for paving Main street, and talked as though he would not feel right if an additional petition was not gotten out for west 2d street where he owns one business house front. It is such enterprising property owners who make a town worth while, and worth living in.

PREPAREDNESS

For Defense

The President and Congress will probably attend to the first, but preparedness for comfort is up to you.

We are still selling our furniture and rugs at a discount. We will have to reduce our stock; must have money to meet our bills, so will give you some real bargains. Everything has advanced. Furniture and rugs have not escaped. Mattress materials have advanced from 200 to 400 per cent. Brass and iron beds have advanced in almost the same way. Wools and dyestuffs entering into the manufacture of rugs have advanced from 500 to 2,000 per cent. Our large stock, bought before these advances allows us to sell you furniture and rugs at about wholesale prices. Make your selections this month.

One reason why so few are filing for office this year may be given as the fact that work is so plentiful, prosperity at such a high stage that few care to seek a political office.

President Wilson must be a true middle-of-the-roader. The secretary of peace resigned because too warlike—the secretary of war follows now because the chief is too much of a man of peace. Next:

What worries us is the fact that none of the politicians in this county appear to have sand enough to file and put up a V for an announcement fee, and pay-up week right at the threshold. Be a game sport.

Some of the newspapers are telling that their readers will have to take a choice between Wilson and Roosevelt for the next president. If that be true, a lot of standpatters will probably be busy at home on election day.

Richard L. Metcalfe has issued a challenge to W. J. Bryan for a series of six joint debates in this state during the primary campaign on the stand taken by the president on preparedness. Mr. Bryan has not yet accepted, and he may not do so.

For the past twelve years A. H. Backhaus has been editor of the Pierce County Leader, and starts the thirteenth round boosting for Pierce. The persistent boosting of such a man is of great worth to a community, and should be appreciated.

Our standing candidate for governor, George Washington Berge, is again on the ballot. If George thinks it is his mission to save the party by making this sacrifice once in two years he cannot be expected to do otherwise than slap his hat in the ring.

President Wilson has given his consent that his friends may use his name as a candidate for the office of president in the Ohio primary, thus signifying that if the voters of the party want him to again become their candidate he will not shirk.

Editor Perkins of the Fremont Herald is treating C. W. Bryan eminently fair in editorially notifying him that he is against him for governor and will be opposed after nomination if he becomes the candidate, yet Bryan does not appear to withdraw. Will some one else please vote now or forever hold their peace.

Eighth Grade Examinations

Eighth grade examinations will be held at Wayne, Carroll, Winside and Hoskins, March 9 and 10 and May 5th, says County Superintendent Pearl Sewell.

To pave or not to pave—that's the question some are debating. Why, pave of course. We found one citizen the past week who wants the paving to extend from the bridge to the north city limits for a starter. But seriously a paving district should be established, one where most needed, and a start made. The extensions will come fast enough to suit our progressive friend.

Social Notes

A party of about 60 of the neighbors in the district just east of Wayne met at the John Lauman home Tuesday for a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Lauman, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Auker and George Timson and wife, all of whom are soon to leave for new homes.

Mr. Lauman is one of the pioneers of school district No. 19, and our informant thinks he was born and always lived in that vicinity.

Himself and family will move to a farm near Bloomfield before the month expires. George Timson and family also go to that neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Auker will move to a farm recently purchased near Ponca. The people came with well filled baskets and served a splendid feast, besides having one of the most enjoyable social times. All regret the departure of these families, but they think they may better their condition by going.

Last Friday afternoon the Ladies Aid society of St. Paul's English Lutheran church met at the home of Mrs. Juhlin, and from there went in a body with well filled baskets to the home of Mrs. Hurstad to surprise Mrs. Lyngen, the president of the society, and her mother Mrs. Floks, the oldest member, who with the rest of the family had accepted an invitation to dinner at the later home. A two course luncheon was served. There were over forty present and a delightful time enjoyed. The society presented Mrs. Lyngen with a set of silver teaspoons, and Mrs. Floks with a knitted scarf. Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lyngen and Mr. and Mrs. Christ Floks expect to leave for North Dakota the first of next month.

Mrs. J. Woodward Jones and Mrs. Harry Jones were hostesses at a dainty three course luncheon given Monday afternoon to the U. D. club.

The decorations were red and green which was also carried out in luncheon. About fifteen guests found their places at one table. The afternoon was spent socially and at Kensington. Mrs. Hale of Fort Dodge, Iowa, once a member of the club, Mrs. Von Seggern, Mrs. Claycomb and Mrs. Jacobs were guests. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Harry Jones.

A happy social event was the valentine party at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright, in Brenna, Monday evening. About fifty of the young married people of that vicinity were guests and enjoyed the evening greatly. The hosts served a splendid supper and when the guests departed the unanimous verdict was that a happy evening had been passed.

Commissioner's proceedings of February 3d, 1916, read and approved.

WHY PRINCE ALBERT WINS

Patented Process is Responsible for its International Popularity

Smokers so much appreciate the flavor and coolness and aroma of Prince Albert pipe and cigarette tobacco that they often marvel that this one brand could be so different from all others.

The answer to this question is to be found on the reverse side of every Prince Albert package, where you will read "Process Patented July 30, 1907." That tells the whole story. Prince Albert is made by a patented process that cuts out the bite and parch, which makes the tobacco so mighty agreeable and satisfying to men of every taste of every civilized nation on the globe.

Smokers should realize that this patented process cost three years' continuous work and study and a fortune in money to perfect. But the result has proven to be worth all that was expended upon it, because it has set free men who believed they never could enjoy a pipe or a makin's cigarette.

Prince Albert makes it possible for every man to smoke a pipe or to roll his own cigarettes. And, no matter how tender the tongue, Prince Albert cannot bite or parch. That is cut out by the patented process, leaving for the smoker only the joys of the fragrant tobacco.

It is a fact that since Prince Albert "arrived," just about six years ago, it has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked a pipe before!—adv.
