

ORN, THE GREAT CROP KING

Standing Before Chart Declaring Corn is King Prof. P. G. Holden Proved it to an Audience of 500 People at the Normal Auditorium Tuesday.

No two meetings ever held at Wayne have been fraught with greater possibilities for good to the community than the two held here Tuesday, addressed by Prof. P. G. Holden, the great corn authority. That is a broad statement, but we believe a true one. It will be our own fault if these possibilities are not achieved. Will we follow the pointers given and move forward as we should? Will we adopt the simple motto he said his old school teacher gave him in his boyhood days, which he has tried to follow. It is, "This day I will beat my own record." Always be doing something and if energy is rightly directed good results will come. He told how the "knocker" happened, and made him appear a bad lot—then told of what the booster is made.

Standing before a chart which told of the grain production of Nebraska he showed by the figures that corn outnumbered in bushels nearly three to one its nearest competitors. In market value it too led all others. The same was true of corn in all of the states that make a pretense of being in the great corn belt. In this state corn was valued at 43 percent of the seven leading crops of the state. In Iowa, (where more attention has been given for more years to scientific corn culture) the corn value is greater than all of the other leading grains combined, being 53 percent of the entire grain crop value. He started a procession of teams to haul the Iowa corn crop to market, allowing 32 feet for each team and wagon and fifty bushels for each load, he kept the teams starting out to the west until teams headed west having traversed the entire circumference of the globe began to come back to Des Moines from Davenport, and then he found that but half of the 1914 corn crop had been started from the great pile into which he had dumped the 390,000,000 bushels grown in that great corn state.

Then why should not the corn producers of this county seek every opportunity to get best results from each acre planted to corn? He brought the figures to show that the average yield of 26 bushels per acre for corn is but one 8-ounce ear per hill on an average. He showed that if to that one ear per hill we can add a 3-inch stubbin it will mean 1,000,000 bushels more corn in Wayne county annually, an increase of 10 bushels per acre on the 100,000 acres usually planted in this county. He even said he would like to contract with the good farmers of this county as their county agent and take for his full pay only one-half of the increase of the corn crop which he could assure the farmers if they would simply follow carefully his instructions as to seed selection, planting and cultivation. He proved by the records of the agricultural department that the difference between raising corn at a profit or a loss depends upon the intelligent care given the crop. He showed why crops should be rotated, and why corn should never be raised more than two years on the same ground in succession, aside from depriving the soil of the needed elements which could in a measure be restored by fertilizing. The root worm will find a home in the root of your corn, sap the life to a great extent, and render it easily blown down when the ear will not develop well—the cause is not in the blowing over, but in the worm in the root. This parasite feeds exclusively on corn roots and never migrates, and the egg from which the worm hatches is deposited in the late summer by a small green beetle which lives exclusively on the silks and soft corn at the tip of the ear, and it eats nothing else, deposits its eggs no where else than in a corn field, hence to escape this pest the corn must not be grown continuously on the same ground.

Proper rotation has been shown to practically double the product of the corn field—proper rotation and manure thrives the return. The average yield is not enough to properly pay for growing the corn; double it and you get a nice percentage of profit; thrice it and you more than double your profit, and the profit is what belongs to the man who grows the crop.

Poor seed, he said, was the greatest cause of low yield. He would have at least six kernels taken from each ear and tested, and then throw out all ears which showed weak or dead kernels. The finding of two weak or dead grains in the six tested indicates that there will be more than 200 stalks missing or barren if you plant that ear, and the work you put on those worthless stalks is labor lost. After thoroughly testing your seed, shell the tips and butts and keep separate so that your seed will be of uniform size enabling you to adjust your planter as to secure a uniform stand. He would also keep the corn from ears giving overly large or overly small grains in separate sacks for the same reason. When seed is fully tested and shelled put it in a gunny sack and hang in airy room free from steam and moisture.

Tests of Wayne county corn made at the college which were shown the audience went to show that corn is particularly treacherous as seed here this year, about 25 percent of that brought for testing failed to prove good, and we all know that the poorest corn was not selected—but generally the best.

The great burden of his corn talk was to be sure of good seed and home grown or as near home grown as possible to get, for corn is not a migratory bird and thrives best planted near where it was grown.

Selection before hard freezes in the fall and proper care were strong points, and of especial value as applied to last season's crop. One farmer near Wayne was telling the editor his experience this spring. Of the corn selected early and properly cared for something like 80 per cent was proving good. To satisfy curiosity he took samples from his crib of corn from the same field and found that it was practically all dead. Now is none too early to test the corn for seed—and in fact if you happen to strike a bad lot or two you may have to hurry to get it out of the way of other spring work. In closing he gave six corn commandments to be considered, as follows:

Thou shalt test six kernels from every ear for planting.

Thou shalt grade thy seed corn for the planter.

Thou shalt harvest and properly store thy seed corn before freezing weather.

Thou shalt improve thy seed corn by selecting the 100 best ears.

Thou shalt not import seed corn from a distance.

Thou shalt rotate thy crops.

These are a few of the many practical things which Mr. Holden told an audience of perhaps 150 farmers and other adults, supplemented by as many more perhaps of the college students and 100 pupils and teachers from the high school. In addition to these practical hints as to corn growing his whole talk was filled with truths which could be applied in any walk of life. The little experiences he told and their application to the questions of every day life doubtless found a receptive place in many of the young minds before him. The hope of great good from his talk lies in the fact that so many of his audience were just about to step into the places of the older ones who may not think it worth while to start reforms at their time of life. We wish it possible to have every farmer in this county know what that lecture was, but weather and business matters kept many away who would have been glad to have heard.

Prof. Bright and others of the college as well as the class in agriculture at the college may well be thanked for the part they had in bringing this great corn man to us, and if his suggestion that we secure a county demonstrator could be fulfilled as the result of this meeting the impetus given a good work might be carried more rapidly to a successful completion.

His evening lecture on the "Great Forward Movement in Education" was a wonderful inspiration to better work and better methods and an equally wonderful showing of lack of progress of our schools toward getting the children to know real life and directing their course along lines of the greatest practical benefits and of least resistance. His definition of education was "That training which fits one to live" told much in few words. In the evening audience were many students who are preparing to teach and they certainly should have learned many little points that will be most valuable to them in their work. We regret that we cannot now give a more complete review of the valuable part of his production.

Death of Mrs. Haas

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hansen and family returned from Cushing, Iowa, where they had been called by the sickness and death of their daughter, Mrs. Regina Caroline Haas. She passed away Saturday after a week of great suffering from pleurisy, at the age of 27 years and 9 days, leaving to mourn her loss father, mother, sisters and brother, a husband and four little children. The funeral was at Holstein Monday, and was attended by many, for she was popular in her new home community as she had been here at the home of her birth. Born and raised in this county, her home until six years ago, there are many friends who join with the afflicted family in sympathy and sorrow at her early death, for she is said to have been of most genial disposition and the friend of all who knew her.

Wayne Meat Market Scorched

Friday evening the Wayne Meat Market of which J. W. Kinsey is proprietor, was discovered to be burning. The firemen were soon at the scene, and in a short time had the fire under control, but not before it had pretty well destroyed the contents of the back room in which it started, apparently from the stove which had been filled with coal for the night at closing, not more than two hours perhaps before the fire was discovered. Mr. Kinsey estimates his loss to stock and fixtures a $700 or $800 which is fully covered by insurance. The chemical gases rendered all meat exposed to it unfit for use.

The building is the property of S. Ludwick of Norfolk, and was amply insured to cover the damage of perhaps $300 to it.

Mr. Kinsey is having to wait for adjusters, who appear to be slow coming, before he can plan when he can re-open.

Attend the Boy Conference

Quite a delegation of the Wayne boys were at Sioux City last Saturday and Sunday, going down to attend and take part in the Boys' Conference held in that city at that time, when many of the lads of the different parts of this and three adjoining states met to aid a general movement for the uplift of the boys and young men. A number of the boys were with W. R. Ellis, who teaches a class at the Sunday school. Our reporter noticed Marion Grothe, Ralph Carhart, Joe Ringland, Knox Jones, Cooper Ellis, Ward Randol, Alvin Rennie, LeRoy Owen, Hays Main and Fred Mildner on the train headed for the dry side of the Missouri.

Asking Nominations

Filings have not been numerous in this county yet. Since last week Gilbert French of Winside has filed for the republican nomination for treasurer. F. O. Martin, one of the pioneers of the county will ask the democrats to nominate him for sheriff. On the other side Geo. Porter and Fred Benschhof have filed for the sheriff place. Henry Rethwisch asks a republican nomination for commissioner. No one has yet filed for representative from either party, and the last week of the open date is at hand. F. S. Berry will file today for county attorney.

Mrs. E. Zitz of Norfolk, who was here as one of the judges of the contest last evening was a guest at the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hiscox.

Mrs. C. Wells of Sioux City came Monday evening to visit her daughter, Mrs. L. A. Fanske.

The State League Debate at Wayne

The state league debate which was to have taken place at Pierce last Friday was, at the request of Pierce, postponed until Friday evening, March 10, and will be held in the high school auditorium in this city instead of at Pierce. The Wayne team has been working hard and is prepared to present a strong debate. It is hoped that a large audience will lend their support. An admission of 25c will be charged to meet the expenses of the judges. Let everybody rally to the support of Wayne high.

The judges are Prof. Maxey, Mr. Raymond A. Smith and Guy C. Chambers, all of the Nebraska university. A. R. Davis will preside.

Emil, a lad of about 14 years while at Winside fainted and fell to the floor evidently striking his head in such a manner as to partially locate the cervical vertebra rendering the lad unconscious in which condition he remained most of the time for a week. After the trouble was located it required several treatments to reduce the congestion so as to enable the bones to be replaced. At this time the lad is getting along nicely although he broke out with the measles as soon as his neck was put in shape so that he became fully conscious of what was going on.

Article is needed in every rural home and benefits every member of the household, bringing cheer, comfort and happiness into the home. Not necessary to be away from home nights. Pay from $6.00 to $15.00 per day according to ability and number of homes visited. In writing Mr. Johnson, mention what townships will be most convenient for you to work in; what your regular occupation is; your age; married or single; how long you have lived in the community; what kind of a rig or auto you have; whether you wish to work spare time or steady; how much time you will have to devote to the work; when you can start, and about how many homes are within six miles of you in each direction. This is a splendid opportunity for several men in Wayne county and counties adjoining to make good money, working steady or spare time. A special train from Grand Island will take the pen pushers to Crawford, from which point they will go by automobile to Chadron and return, then to Alliance and Scotts Bluffs and see what the west part of the state is like. It will be a fine trip, and if western Nebraska shall be in the pink of condition the publicity it will receive will be great.

Jacob Kaiser, one of the pioneers of Cedar county, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Otilla Pick, at Row Valley, at the age of 83 years. Mr. Kaiser was born in Westphalen, Germany, on May 18, 1833. He came to America in 1861 and to Cedar county in 1866 and the year following filed a claim to 480 acres of land in Row Valley. In 1868 his sister, Mrs. Pick, and her husband arrived from Germany, and the next year Mr. Kaiser suffered a paralytic stroke, from which he never recovered.

McKELVIE FOR GOVERNOR.

The Logical Candidate.
Long before S. R. McKelvie, publisher of the Nebraska Farmer, signified his intention of being a candidate for governor it was freely remarked that his many qualifications would make him the most logical man for that position.

His successful business career, his lifetime of close association with Nebraska farming, his several years of legislative experience, first in the house of representatives and next as lieutenant governor—all of these things, together with his splendid character, make him especially worthy of the title The Popular Candidate.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1/4 oz. of glycerine. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the desired shade. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for mixing and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and removes dandruff. It is excellent for falling hair and will make harsh hair soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp. Is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

Half Million Dollars Saved on Bridges Last Season. Bull Moose Names on Nebraska Ballot.

MORE AUTOMOBILES

Nearly 57,000 new automobile licenses have been issued by Secretary of State Pool during the months of January and February and the good work continues.

At a meeting of the state insurance board last Thursday, Charles Q. DeFrance, who has been holding the position of expert accountant in the state auditor's office, was appointed actuary of the insurance department. Mr. Horace E. Wiggins, who has held the position of actuary for a number of years past, resigned last week to take up other work. Mr. DeFrance is one of the ablest accountants in the state, and the insurance department will not lose any of its efficiency in the change.

The young men's democratic association has lately been organized in Lincoln, and is composed of the young democratic voters, all under thirty-six years of age. At the initial meeting held a few evenings since, officers were elected, a constitution adopted, and on April 4th a rousing meeting is to be held. The new organization promises much for democratic success in Nebraska.

That the progressive or Bull Moosers will put a full ticket in the field in Nebraska this year is evidenced from the filings already made for state offices and presidential electors. This course was decided on a short time ago at a meeting of the progressive party leaders, and while the standpatpers and those filing for office on the republican ticket made light of this meeting, and poked fun at the action taken thereat, it seems to have had a more far reaching effect than was at first anticipated by the standpat element of the republican party. Progressives are up in arms and by March 18, the last day for filing for the primary election, a full progressive ticket will be in the field, for both state offices and delegates to the national convention. The names already filed are as follows: For governor, John F. Hanson, Fremont; state treasurer, Wm. C. Crocks, Lincoln; Presidential electors at large, Eric Morrill, Oakland; John Lewis, Omaha; Nelson T. Thorsen, 2d district; Frank Vedder, Franklin, 5th district.

State supervision of state aid bridge building and cooperation of county boards with the state in the construction of county bridges resulted in a saving of over half a million dollars in 1915, according to a report made by State Engineer Johnson to the state board of Irrigation and Highways. The saving on state aid bridge work was principally the result of more efficient design while the saving in county work was accomplished by better cooperation between the county boards and the engineer's office, which furnished 7000 bridge plans to the counties of the state and advised with them in regard to the proper size and kind of bridges to be used, as well as in the matter of letting contracts. This cooperation between county boards and the state engineer's office was brought about by the passage of the uniform bridge plans law by the 1913 session of the legislature, which measure was introduced by State Auditor Smith, who was then a member of the state senate. Prior to the passage of this law bridge plans were invariably furnished by some bridge contractor who was thus given a decided advantage in bidding on the proposed work, while there was no supervision over the construction of bridges by the state engineer.

Here is an account of how Dr. Boyd of the Live Stock Sanitary board conducted his professional and other business affairs for several months with a partly dislocated neck. Dr. Boyd, while in the performance of his duties last October at Hecla, was thrown down and trampled on by wild bronchos. He seemingly soon recovered from the accident with the exception that he frequently suffered severe headaches, and during the latter period of his suffering he would lapse into unconsciousness, and remain in that state for some hours. He consulted several specialists, and finally it was learned that the atlas of the neck and a vertebra was out of place. He is now taking treatment and rapidly recovering.

From the Sunny Southland

Editor Nebraska Democrat: As I was crossing the Mad Island ranch, composed of over 30,000 acres, south of here recently I saw thousands of the real Texas cattle, also some of the big Brahmas (the cattle with a hump), I thought of my Nebraska friends and wished they could see some real level land, also the view of the beautiful Natagarda bay, which it was my privilege to see. We saw the real Mad Island where thousands of the ducks and geese winter, could see many of them within gunshot, too, but the season closed here February 1st.

The blackbirds are such pests here that the 14th inst., was called "Blackbird Day" and all farmers were supposed to put out poison for their destruction.

Tuesday evening the annual banquet in honor of Washington was given at the Federated church which was well attended and a splendid time had by all. By the way I wish you could step into this church and see the real unity which is very evident, although representatives of fourteen denominations are worshipping there. If any one is at all interested in this matter send name and address to the minister, Rev. Murray A. Travis, Collegeport, Texas, and he will gladly send their booklet, "Five Years of Federation."

The Gust Carlson family is leaving to reside in the Concord vicinity after a five years residence near here. They, Mrs. E. Tower and 20 friends were here at the 41st anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Anderson's marriage on February 16. We had our "faces shot" as a memento of the happy occasion.

Mr. Anderson planted his potatoes Monday. His spring garden looks fine. Strawberries are beginning to ripen. Wild primrose and the Spanish daggers are in blossom now.

I have been across the bay once, in the launch "Laura E." to the town of Palacios. The streets there are paved with oyster shell as there is a big oyster reef near there. The shells are scattered and then crushed with a tractor crusher.

Will close now with best wishes to all.
Yours respectfully,
LAURA E. LYONS.

On the Move

The Leslie correspondent to the Wakefield Republican tells of the many changes in the precinct from which the following was written:

The following changes in places have or will take place by March 6th. We wager there isn't another neighborhood that has such a radical change as this one has just had. Henry Kahl's have gone to South Dakota on a claim; Henry Utchen's will live on the farm just vacated; Mr. Stople will live near Plainview and Jim Bennett's will take his place; Ed Dolph moved east of Wisner and his brother, Abe, who has purchased the farm vacated by him will move thereon; Martin Rugge's place will be taken by the new bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jahde; Chas. Arp will live on one of Fred Utecht's places and Madison Bressler will live on that place; Ferdinand Fisher's have moved to Wakefield and Chris Rasmussen will work his farm; Louis Heinemann has moved south of Wisner and Herman Suke has moved onto that farm; Mrs. Fisher and Harry have gone to Wakefield and Mr. Buhl's have rented her farm; Neal Mack and wife expect to farm in Canada; James Mack and wife, who are expected home this week from their visit in Chicago, will still remain on that farm.

Sudden Change in Court Program

Last Thursday afternoon, when the news report from court was all in and on the press a change in the program was made necessary by sickness. Jurymen had been summoned for the fourth of the series of Goemann trials, but the defendant went to bed and sent word that he was not able to attend court. His attorney, C. H. Hendrickson was also stricken with an illness that was real for a time. County Attorney Kiplinger also had to give control to the grip which had been stealing a hold on him, and go to bed. All are now out except Mr. Kiplinger who developed a quite serious case of tonsillitis which has kept him in for the week.

Court adjourned until tomorrow when some minor matters are to have a hearing before the judge, and the jury was excused until the 15th at least, and it is possible that their leave of absence may be extended longer by notice from the clerk of the district court.

Goemann has not yet been sentenced on any of the counts on which he was convicted.

The young man now in jail charged with robbing the safe at the pool hall which we are told, he admits doing has not yet plead before the court.

A Standardized School

Wayne county is soon to have and perhaps more standardized schools. A. B. Teed, state rural school inspector, was here from Lincoln the first of the week, and with the county superintendent visited the school at district No. 10, which passed an examination sufficiently good to make it eligible to become a standardized school. Miss Sarah Milliken is the teacher, and her work there has helped put the school in position to pass the examination successfully. The new school house, the grounds and a number of things enter into the question. But two or three other schools in the rural districts of this county are now eligible to become standardized, the older buildings in the other districts not being of a style of architecture which will admit of their passing if other points were made, as they doubtless could be in many of the schools.

Dr. Guttery Dismissed at Norfolk

For some weeks there has been more or less in the Norfolk papers and the press of this part of the state concerning the charges brought by the Norfolk News against Dr. Guttery, superintendent of the state hospital at that place. The removal came Saturday after both sides had had a hearing. The statement came with the dismissal that there was nothing in the record to impeach his moral character. It is supposed that he will return to his former home at Pilger.

Mrs. Culler's Sister Very Low

Advice from Mrs. C. L. Culler, who is at the bedside of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Duschl, at Mapleton, Iowa, states that Mrs. Duschl is steadily growing weaker and no hope is now held out for her recovery. Mrs. Duschl has been ill for some time, but until recently it was hoped that she would get well. Mrs. Culler will remain at Mapleton for some time.—Hartington News.

At the Presbyterian manse, on Saturday, March 4th, Mr. Clyde Hatfield and Miss Ruth Barrett were joined in the bond of marriage. Mr. Hatfield is a young farmer of Hoskins and Miss Barrett one of the well known and highly respected young ladies of Wayne. The young people will make their new home on a farm near Hoskins. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. S. Xenophon Cross.

Have you filed? But ten days remain for the getting into the race.

There are five candidates for the republican nomination for governor, at least at the coming primary unless some of them take their hat out of the ring. The more the merrier.

The days are few now for the filing for county office, and the filings in this good county as yet are few. It looks like a good year in which to dip in if one wants a chance at the public crib.

Wayne Roller Mills, Wayne Feed Mill, Wayne brick and tile, Wayne bakery, Wayne cigar factories, Wayne made incubators and brooders and Wayne printing offices all bring business to Wayne and are just as much entitled to united home patronage as are the Wayne merchants. In fact every worthy home enterprise should have home support. We will all be better off in five years if we patronize each other to the fullest extent possible.

W. F. Stoecker of Omaha, who is asking the democratic nomination for governor, is not trying to carry water on both shoulders—in fact does not seem to belong to the water crowd. His announcement tells where to find him, and we like that feature. He wants more tax on whisky and less tax on beer. He wants license money proportionately distributed among all public schools. Incidentally wants good roads built by the state out of the higher tax on whisky. He would have the business under the control of one man, a commissioner appointed by the governor. In short his platform appears to be devoted largely to taxing and regulating the liquor business.

With Chas. Bryan, for governor; Edgar Howard for lieutenant governor and I. G. Dunn for the United States senate, the dry and progressive democrats of Nebraska will have ample chance to stand up and be counted. You may not like Bryan, you perhaps think Howard is a fanatic and that Dunn has some falling which you do not like, but the question comes right down to one point—if you agree with the policy they stand for they are the men to vote for. They are not trying to carry on both shoulders. It is time for the rank and file of the party to stand up and be counted and see if the party is a tool of the corporate and liquor interests or the progressive people of the state. Both sides claim the right to rule the party because of number—let's know who is who.

Among the Churches

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

"Unto Me" is the subject of the sermon for next Sunday evening. A good service of song has been arranged.

We believe in social service. We believe that the best thing one can do for a young man is not to help him to play, but to teach him to work.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Sunday will be led by Miss Elizabeth Mines. The topic will be: "The Cause of Failure in Life." Let the slogan be Industry, Stick-to-it-iveness, Hard Work, Honesty.

There were about thirty boys and girls out at the "Junior" meeting last Sunday afternoon. Parents can encourage these boys and girls to raise their efficiency record by seeing to it that they can come every Sunday. We have an excellent superintendent and the best of assistants.

Remember the meeting of the "United Evangelistic Meeting of 18" at the Presbyterian church next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It has been decided to postpone the tabernacle meetings to the month of October. There is a sub-committee provided to secure information in regard to evangelistic teams and parties. Wayne will demand the best that can be obtained.

As far as we are concerned, we would be pleased to continue the mid-week union meetings till after the tabernacle meeting in the fall. We would also like to see a Union Christian Brotherhood organized. Such an organization would prove to be a great help in carrying forward any community welfare work. A feature that should characterize a forward movement in parish community work is some bureau to encourage industry as well as to provide entertainment.

Your presence is needed and will be appreciated in the Sunday school.

The morning service will be especially attractive. There will be extra music on the program. The subject of the morning sermon will be: "The Ministering Master." The desirable life to live is the life of helpful ministry.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

Sunday school Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Morning worship at 11:00 o'clock.

Luther League at 6:45 Sunday evenings.

Evening worship at 7:45 o'clock.

At the morning service the pastor will begin a series of sermons on, "The Lord's Prayer." The first sermon will deal with the introduction to the prayer. Next Sunday being the first Sunday in Lent, the pastor is very anxious that every member of the congregation be present to hear the first as well as all the following sermons in this series. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

The Luther League will be led on Sunday evening by Miss Rose Assenheimer and the topic discussed will be, "Christ's Last Friendly Talk with His Disciples." All Lutheran young people are earnestly urged to attend.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet Thursday afternoon, March 16th at the home of Miss Addie Stambaugh.

Sunday, March 12, the annual congregational meeting will be held immediately after the morning service. It is urged that all members be present as the officers for the year are to be elected.

THE ARMED SHIP CONTROVERSY

(Baptist Church Publicity Committee)

The agitation in congress over the proposition to warn travelers not to take passage on armed ships of belligerent nations is the subject which Mr. Gaston proposes to discuss at the Baptist church next Sunday evening.

That there is a great deal of interest in the matter goes without saying and no doubt a large number of men will want to hear the matter publicly discussed. It is of very grave importance and if you are not as well read on the subject as you care to be do not fail to attend. If you have been posting yourself you will want to hear the views of some one else who has read and has an opinion on the matter. Young men should be in attendance.

Mr. Gaston says that the subject is not only up to the minute but in its application has the essence of the gospel and is a good foundation for anybody's sermon or lecture.

In the morning there will be the regular sermon—helpful and timely, new and fresh without any time worn methods and ideas. Good music will play an important part and constitute an attraction feature at both services.

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell Payton)

Miss A. J. Holland, a returned Foreign Missionary, will speak in the Methodist church next Sunday morning at the usual hour for services. It is hoped that a large congregation will be present to hear Miss Holland, who will have many things of great interest to present from the foreign field. If you are interested in missionary work do not fail to be present.

Holden Axioms

Not more acres of corn, but more corn per acre by testing every year, should be the motto of every corn grower.

We owe it to ourselves and to humanity to produce a maximum crop.

No one has a right to plant an ear of seed corn without knowing it will grow.

Testing does not hurt the corn. It costs only a little work to test our corn.

It can be done at a time when other labor is not pressing.

It is only good business to know what we are planting, and we can find out only by testing each year.

Weak and dead seed means a poor stand; a poor stand a poor crop.

To plant a dead or weak ear means about 900 missing or weak or barren stalks.

Missing hills and barren stalks mean wasted labor, wasted time and wasted land.

The most precious thing in the world is the labor of a human being. Yet by not testing our seed corn we waste hours every day on vacant ground and worthless stalks.

"Like tends to produce like." If we want good corn we must plant good seed.

Planting "just corn" means harvesting "just part of a crop."

We cannot afford to gamble that every ear will grow. Test and play safe.

In the corn belt, test between February 20 and March 20.

By testing we have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

TEST—DON'T GUESS!

McKELVIE'S STATEMENT REGARDING THE "DRY" AMENDMENT

In order that all voters may be apprised of the attitude of S. R. McKelvie, candidate for the nomination of governor on the Republican ticket, regarding the "dry" amendment, we publish herewith his statement which was a part of his formal announcement made last November.

The Prohibition Amendment

"In this my position is not a matter of policy—it is my conscientious belief that the prohibition amendment should prevail. On this question my record is clear. In the legislature of 1911, of which I was a member, I voted and worked for all measures intended to restrict the liquor traffic. So in keeping with my views I shall feel obliged to make a clear statement of my position upon this important question. Further than this I shall not go, except to say that it will be my purpose to enforce the law regardless of whether the prohibition amendment prevails, or not.

"While no doubt should be left in the minds of the voters regarding the honest attitude of the candidate on the prohibitory amendment, I think one's candidacy should not be so restricted by a support of that question as to lose sight of equally important issues over which the chief executive will have much greater influence and responsibility in the enactment.

"I was one of about a dozen Republican members of the house in the year 1911 who aided a majority of the members of the party, then in control, to pass the initiative and referendum. Without our aid the bill could not have been passed. We did this so that the liquor question with all its pernicious connections might be removed from politics. Through that law, the question is now in the hands of the people to decide, and candidates should be relieved of the odious effects of a rough and tumble fight on the excise question.

"I shall deem it my duty to vote for the prohibition amendment, and to aid in the passage of laws which will make it operative if through the votes of the people it should prevail, but to announce my candidacy upon that issue alone I should consider an evidence of my incapacity for the office."

Grunder and his son and stock belonging to them and some other farmers in the neighborhood. That it was clearly a case of rabies the doctor is convinced. The two men bitten have been taken to Kansas City. Cattle which were bitten show violent symptoms of the disease.

A big victory for victims and future patrons of so-called "loan sharks" is found in the action of the state supreme court in declaring the present loan shark law to be constitutional. The high court affirmed the judgment of the district court in the test case against Jules Althaus, an Omaha money lender, who was convicted and fined for lending money without license and for charging an excessive rate of interest.

Roy Redman is this week loading out for his new home in the southwestern part of North Dakota, shipping to Heil. According to the records at the railroad station here there has been far less both going and coming this season than usual. People located here seem of the opinion that they will not better themselves much by a move, and that does not leave much of an opening for the new renters. Besides farm rents here are now well near equal to that of Iowa, and those who leave that state for lower priced lands are passing on to newer fields than Wayne county.

During the past week the Ahern store in this city has finished a work that has been in process of construction for some time. We refer to their new arrangement of their store windows for the display of merchandise. On a neatly fitted and highly finished base about the window floor the name "AHERN" appears in raised bronze letters, making a most appropriate place for the attractive window display with which this house supplements its advertising. It is becoming more and more conceded that newspaper publicity and window display of merchandise are the two methods which bring the advertiser the best returns for the amount invested. If you look at those windows you will know what we are trying to tell you about.

Cooper Ellis has been suffering much from blood poisoning during the past week, and for a time was considered in a critical condition. Some time ago he received a slight scratch on the left elbow, hitting it against the wall while playing basket ball. The fact that it did not heal just as it should was not taken seriously and he went on playing basket ball and following his usual routine until it began to make trouble and became very painful, a lump finally appearing on the inside of the arm at the elbow. While at Sioux City it became so painful that he consulted a physician who urged him to go home at once and have the arm lanced and proper drains put in. At this writing he is showing signs of improvement and his friends hope that he will soon be considered out of danger. His brother Leslie, who is attending school at Lincoln, was called home because of his serious condition.

Quimby's Po

Laurie J. Quimby returns, one of the real progressive Democrats of the state is asking the nomination for congress from the Democrats of the second congressional district, and builds the following platform from which to make his appeal for the place:

I believe that any candidate for the suffrage of the people is morally bound to make his constituents a candid statement of his attitude upon those questions which, from time to time, are presented to them for consideration.

I am an American. I believe in the freedom of America.

I desire that America shall remain the haven of refuge for the oppressed of every land.

Subjects of old-world monarchies, having found refuge here and having renounced their allegiance to other governments, I believe, owe their sole allegiance to America. They should not permanently accept its hospitality and the protection of its institutions, while holding a foreign allegiance. I believe this is the thought and desire of the vast majority of our foreign born citizens.

The present administration up to the present time, truly interpreting the democracy of the nation, as expressed at Baltimore in 1912, has enacted the most progressive and constructive legislation in half a century. Its achievements for democracy have been such that no Democrat need regret or apologize. In the past three years the people of this nation have had repeated occasion to thank God for the Wilson administration. Where rabid jingoes would have embroiled us not alone in the war of the revolutionists in Mexico, but made us one of the belligerents in the old-world war, the policies of the present administration have kept us free from all. Though the leading nations of the world ran red with blood, President Wilson has maintained for America an unbroken record of sanity. That he did not lead us into war with Mexico nor make us one of the belligerents of Europe has earned for him the gratitude of the American people.

Upon the question of "preparedness," which just now is being forced to the front in this nation, President Wilson has asked the people to speak. In order, therefore, to secure an expression of the people of this district, I announce the following as my attitude upon it:

I am opposed to a large standing army in this nation in times of peace, subject to the independent control of any President. It is un-American, undemocratic and dangerous to the welfare of the people of America. Disguise it how we may, it would be the opening wedge for militarism. Militarism and democracy cannot exist side by side. No one can fortell the time when a self-seeking militarist might be President. Such a man in control of a large army could destroy American liberty.

I am unqualifiedly opposed to enforced military service in times of peace.

I would prefer the perfection of the National Guard in keeping with modern enlightenment, but always in times of peace under control of the respective states. Congress might appropriate liberal sums, conditioned upon the National Guard conforming to certain Federal regulations as to discipline, sanitary education, etc.

I am for a moderate defense program providing for coast armament, submarines and aircraft. I am for the government manufacturing its own munitions of war and constructing its own naval vessels. This will limit "preparedness" to the actual needs of America, rather than cater to the greed of armament makers. It will further solve the question of embargo upon exportation of arms.

I believe in defense, but not in conquest. American soldiers can have no just cause for being invited upon foreign soil, except to rescue our citizens unjustly in peril.

There is no occasion for haste and ill-considered action. I am opposed to panic and frenzied fear in such matters. The best protection for America is in warm hearts and cool heads, rather than in cold hearts and hot heads.

Our policy should be such that when peace is achieved, we may approach other nations with clean hands, and lead in disarmament and international arbitration.

There is one form of preparedness that I earnestly advocate. I would have this nation so just in its laws, so fair in its dealings with our citizens, so true in its attitude toward the rest of the world, so solicitous for the economic welfare of our own people that not only will we love our country with a passionate devotion, but so inspire the producers of other lands that they will refuse to bear arms against us at the command of any monarchy of the old world.

I am opposed to the protectionist system of taxation, since it lays the main burden for the support of government upon the shoulders of the producing masses of the nation.

I am opposed to it because it nourishes monopoly, because it is an aid to Privilege and because it closes the door of opportunity against the masses of the people.

Where there is an income tax, there can no longer be any excuse for taxing the food and clothing of the people. I am with the present Democratic caucus of Congress in its desire to increase the income tax upon swollen fortunes, without lowering the exemption, in order that those who are best able shall pay at least the main cost of additional defense equipment.

To the income tax there should be added a tax upon large inheritances. This would at least be just. Whatever the government might take in inheritance taxes can be no burden to any one, since such taxes do not come from any fund which is the result of industry of the owner. No one could inherit any wealth except for the presence of government. Therefore let those who do inherit great wealth pay to the government in taxes for the service received.

In the United States today there are 80 billions of dollars in land values that pay not one dollar in taxes to the general government. Government should secure more of its revenues from Privilege and less from Industry and Enterprise; more from Greed and less from Poverty.

Congressman Stephens on Safety

Our congressman introduced the first bill presented in congress to keep Americans out of danger by forbidding them right to travel on the ships of the warring nations, a most righteous and just measure. In an interview relative to the bill he is quoted as saying:

"No one citizen or group of citizens can justly claim rights that imperil the interests of all the citizens. This bill simply prevents foolhardy citizens from plunging this nation into a wicked war to vindicate a right they claim to travel in the war zone on a belligerent ship under a belligerent flag. The claim becomes the more absurd when one understands that under the law these so-called innocent merchantmen can legally carry cannon for their defense. For an American to claim the right to travel on such a ship under a belligerent flag is in my judgment to claim the right to sacrifice his own country to his own selfish end.

The situation is critical and the regrettable feature of it lies in the fact that the need of this legislation did not impress congress until the President and the German government came to a deadlock. But in view of the facts as since developed it is evident that Congress should have passed this bill long ago and saved the President from this most extraordinary hazardous position.

"The present law allowing merchantmen to arm for defense was designed to protect commerce in days when pirates infested the seas and became obsolete with the passage of those free booters a half century ago. No merchantman carried guns for defense before the European war broke out. It is apparent, therefore, to anyone that merchantmen are armed to defend themselves from attacks of submarines. That being true an armed merchantman becomes a warship capable of defending itself and has instructions to defend itself from attacks of submarines. To claim that American citizens should demand the right at the price of war to ride on such ships is indefensible.

Here we are building submarines as rapidly as we can for our own defense and at the same time defending an obsolete law that would destroy half their value or more in case this nation would be involved in war with a nation having a superior navy. We would be in exactly the position Germany and Austria are now in. Our fleet would be driven from the sea. Our only means of injuring the enemy would be to attack her commerce with our submarines, but we would be stopped from doing so because we had established the right of merchantmen to arm and carry passengers. We would not dare to sink a merchant ship without warning and we wouldn't dare warn it lest it sink us with its defense guns, and if they didn't sink us we would still be helpless because we couldn't take off the passenger to a place of safety as we now demand. We would be so hampered in our struggle against the enemy that it is a moral certainty that we would repudiate the law that some people are now ready to go to war with Germany to enforce.

"The only safe course to pursue is to let European nations settle their own troubles, and keep our citizens at home. Merchantmen who want protection should go unarmed and I am ready to fight for their defense but if they arm themselves for defense let them defend themselves.

"Many crimes have been committed in the name of national honor. In her name Europe is bleeding at every pore. Shall we follow in her footsteps and snuff out the last light of hope left burning in the world in the name of the great illusion—a sham cry of patriotism that leads to death? I vote No, even though I vote alone."

In the old days when everybody used wood for everything as a matter of course, the lumber people piled their goods in their yards and waited for people to come and take it away. Since it has been found that other substances can take the place of wood in general building and industry, a revolution has taken place in the lumber business. The old cry of a shortage in the timber supplies, which was used to justify high prices, is now rarely heard. The mill men and the dealers are joining in a campaign of salesmanship that is designed to restore wood to its old vogue. One of the most interesting of the new developments in the business is the opening of miniature lumber yards in department stores, where single pieces of any sort of wood may be bought in short lengths for household use. The lumber people are starting an extensive campaign for the use of wood "where wood is best." One of the pleasant features about the new attitude of the business, as the average man sees it, is the admission that there is no timber famine and that no reason exists for crowding prices to an unreasonable figure. Frame construction is the cheapest and most satisfactory kind of building for the average home. It is fortunate that the present generation will not be forced to give it up.—State Journal.

Compounding is the secret of rubber manufacture, it is said. With pure rubber of good quality as a basis, tougher rubber may be made by mixing it with certain ingredients and vulcanizing the product into shape.

In the great Diamond Experimental laboratories at Akron, Ohio, a great fund of rubber compounding knowledge is tabulated. Mr. H. M. Bacon of the Diamond Rubber Co., says, "In a methodical way we are building on the experience of over 45 years with the big purpose in view of putting more toughness, elasticity and long-wearing qualities into rubber goods.

"Thus we came to the Black Velvet Rubber" found in the new Diamond Tires.

"After testing this rubber by putting experimental tires on a fleet of ten factory test cars which, running night and day, piled up over 900,000 miles in the course of a year on every conceivable kind and condition of road, it was found that these new Diamonds gave mileage beyond expectations."

Best Record Yet
The Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway points with pardonable pride to the splendid record made by them during the year 1915 in handling 5,067,587 passengers without a single severe injury. This is a remarkable demonstration of what can be accomplished by the hearty co-operation of all employes in conjunction with that active and persistent campaign—Safety First—which organization is maintained by this company.
During the same period there were 23 trespassers killed on the system, which demonstrates very clearly that the "Omaha" is a safe road to ride on but very unsafe to walk upon.

Baker-James
At Omaha, Wednesday, March 1, 1916, Mr. J. W. Baker of Fort Gage, Illinois, and Miss Elma James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. James of this city, were united in marriage. They will reside on the farm of the groom near Fort Gage. The marriage of Miss James is a surprise to her many Wayne friends. She has spent the greater part of her life here, and has been for some time one of the central force at the telephone exchange. She has the best wishes of friends.
At Bloomfield or in that vicinity, last week they had a big wolf drive and managed to get two or three wolves and a bunch of jack rabbits. For last Sunday another hunt was planned to surround an entire township and drive the wolves to the center and kill them. All who arm are to carry shotguns only. It is expected that there will be at least 20 men to the mile at the start, and as the center is approached they will be much nearer, until when it comes to forming the 500 men expected to take part about the last quarter of a section they will form quite a compact line.

You cannot begin too soon to use Ivory Soap for washing dishes. For the sooner you do, the sooner you will save your hands from the injurious effects of the ordinary soaps usually used.

Ivory Soap being made for toilet, bath and very fine laundry purposes, contains only the highest grade materials. It cleanses the dishes but does not injure the hands.

They become only softer, smoother and whiter for its use.

The junior class of the high school enjoyed a chafing dish party in the high school parlors by their class sponsor, Miss Sterling. The table and walls were skillfully decorated with the junior class colors, maroon and cream. They enjoyed the evening by some leap year games and a three-course luncheon. Before leaving they gave a class yell in her honor.

Grant Young started serving his mail route Monday of this week, he being off duty most of the winter due to sickness. He now has a new span of mules, a new harness and a new buggy. W. L. Hurlbet accompanied him Monday, the fore part of the trip being made in a wagon which was abandoned at Cradac Morris' for a buggy. They also invited themselves to dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Morris while there. It sure do beat all what these civil service folk will do.

About 15 members of the Carroll Tennis association, together with their wives and lady friends, gathered at the hotel Tuesday evening and partook of a banquet supper. It was arranged as a kind of a get-together meeting to arrange plans for the coming season. Plates were laid for thirty, and after the banquet a short program was rendered, in which Miss Mabel Linn sang. C. E. Closson was supposed to give a number of toasts unassisted, but we haven't learned the particulars.

In keeping with the National Week of Song, the Carroll school children led by the superintendent and other members of the faculty marched down town in a body and lined up in front of the drug store and after spreading old glory to the breeze and a short talk by Supt. Jones, they proceeded to sing a number of old familiar school and national songs. After this Rev. McKelzie led in giving three cheers for the flag. The motive behind the movement is to awaken new interest in the songs of the nation.

The children conducted themselves in an orderly manner, and the calibre of the singing was just a little above what one might expect to hear from a bunch of school children.

Mrs. Harry Brown from Pender bought some nice pure-bred Light Brahma cockerels from the flock of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roggenbach, one half west of Altona.

Monday was butchering day: Aug. Matthes, two hogs and a beef; Robert Roggenbach, six hogs; Carl Wolter, two hogs; Broscheit Bros., one hog and John Kattégat, five hogs and a beef.

Webstrs unabridged dikshunary, to keap kount of awl my losses. I no lme loozn with out hirein a expert to figgr it up.

That fellr had the subjeckt of loozn on the brane. Made me think of that oald song I yewst to heer:

"Sweet Soozn Vandoozn, lme loozn My roozn—"

And so foarth. And the fellr that goze to sutch a terribl site of trubbl to figgr himself out in the hoal certoly is loozn his roozn.

The neckst speekr was an oaldish man, and I didnt heer his speatch, only the oapenin wurdz uv it.

"I've got five boys," sez he, "raingin in aige from 12 to 22 yeers old," sez he; "and nun of em has shoed enny sines of wantn to leev the farm," sez he, "be-kawz lve took em in2 pardnrship with me an treated em right," sez he.

And that set me tu thinkn about my Joe. I doant no whether lve toald yew about my Joe er not. I doant like tu tawk about him enny moar than I can help. Its a rair thing when we menshn his naime.

Joe left hoam when he wuz sevntean. Afr Fred didd he wuz our only wun left. He wuz a brite boy, but hedstrong. I thot his muthr spoilt him, but mebbly I was a littl sever. I didnt whip him only when he neadnt it, an not alwaze then. I give him his bored and cloze and wuz entitld to his ernins till he wuz 21, but he got mad at me becawz I borried five dollrs he had ernd selln blakberrys and hickry nuts.

He wantd me tu pay him back, but I was hard up, an kep puttin him off. He calld me an oald theef, an of coarse I whipt him. He sed heed leeve hoam, an I toald him to dig out when he got reddy. An the neckst day he was gon.

We nevr hurd from him sents then.

Well, as I say, I got tu thinkn' about Joe, and I didnt heer the speatch at awl. Awl I know is that it was about keapn boys on th farm by treetn em rite. I didnt eavn no the fellr was throo till I felt Marthy pullin at my sleeve.

"Cum on Ben, less go," sez she, and I sea thay wuz ters in her ixe, I guss sheed been thinkn about Joe, too. I think she kinder hoalds a grudge against me, about it, but she nevr sez ennything.

So, talkin it by and large, the vizet to the instychute was not a very pleazn eckspieriense, espeshilly as the harniss 'broak cummin' up the mile' hill, an Marthy set in the waggn an froaze foar I our while I tiukrd it in shaip with my nife an sun twine.

I bin aimn to rivit that britchin evr sents last fawl, but I kep puttin it off.

But I got lidee at the instychute. They say them fellrs get 100 $ a munth for lecksurin. What dew yew think uv that? Eezy munny is no naim for it. lme goin to hav 1 uv them jobs, or no the rezin why. It wood joost soot me. I no all about farmn, and lme a pleasant and entrtranin speekr.

Now, Mr. Editr, I want yew to yewse yewr infloozense, if yew have eny, in my bhaf. I want to be an instychute leckshurer. Thay aint enny man moar fitted for it than me, and thay aint enny man that wants it werse. Let me no by retern male.

Yewrs ankshusly, BEN PUTTIN-IT-OFF.
