Sales Pavilion Annual Meeting

Monday the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wayne Stock Sales Pavilion association was held at the city hall. The only change made in the board of directors was placing Chas. B. Thompson on the board in place of Eph. Cunningham.

The new board, consisting of Frank Strahan, L. M. Owen, Chas. B. Thompson, W. H. Gildersleeve and Henry Lev, elected Strahan president, Owen vice-president, Lev treasurer, and L. C. Gildersleeve secretary and sales manager.

The treasurer's report showed $139.35 cash on hand with about $50 outstanding accounts. During the past year city water and electric lights have been installed, an improvement worth much to the property and a convenience to the patrons. No dividend was declared this season.

Proclamation

By virtue of the authority vested in me by law, as Mayor of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, I hereby proclaim APRIL 10th to 15th, 1916, as GENERAL CLEAN UP DAYS for this city. All residents and property owners are respectfully requested to observe this notice and by a united effort we can do much toward making the city of better appearance, and more sanitary. D. H. CUNNINGHAM, Mayor.

Home From California

John Larison and family arrived here Sunday from southern California, where they spent the winter, and enjoyed it greatly. Mr. Larison told of the nice things there and of some of the former Wayne people now thriving on the climate. He says it will be hard for those who knew the former editor of the Democrat, W. S. Goldie, to imagine him classed among the fat men. The same is true of Mr. Feather, and we think that Mr. Larison would suffer the same fate should he remain long there, for he shows some gain already.

But the change which he seems to notice most, is coming from the well paved streets of southern California towns to the dirt roads and mud streets of Nebraska towns. Mr. Larison has always been a consistent booster for a prettier Wayne and hopes to see the paving matter agitated and pushed to a successful start, confident that once a start is made the question will be settled, for after that it will be but a question of time until it will spread to all parts of the city.

Another matter which he spoke of is the establishment by the city of grades and curb lines—especially in the residence portion of the place, where property owners wish to plan parking to permanently beautify their homes. Some curb and gutter have been put in, but there is really no assurance that it prove to be where it should be when grades are established as they must be in time. He has some curb in and will put in more.

In his opinion in the residence district on streets of the usual width the curb line should be set about 15 feet from the street center, thus leaving 30 feet to be paved when the paving time comes and the balance be given for walks and parking and trees. It is good of citizens who travel, to suggest the incorporation at home of some of the good things seen, and we hope that the council and citizens will give consideration to these good suggestions.

While the subject is open for consideration the editor's attention has been called to a little change which would be an improvement for the pedestrian and the drayman. It would be for the city to put a crossing for teams to and from the depot in the walk on the south side of 1st street and close the crossing from the depot to Main street. Since the new lights were installed there is about 12 feet of this crossing available, making it congested at times besides leaving a muddy piece of walk for all who visit the depot. Should this change be made it would be far safer for the footmen, women and children and more convenient for those with teams. It was a good suggestion, and should be heeded.

Wayne Hospital Opening

Friday and Saturday of this week the new Wayne hospital will be open to the public, and all are invited to make the place a visit and see what it is like, before it is necessary to be taken there, perhaps. The new furniture arrived but last week, though several rooms have been occupied for the past six weeks. The fact that the hospital was here has probably been the means of saving the life of at least two since it could be occupied. Let's all show our appreciation of the enterprise by accepting the invitation to attend the reception between 9 o'clock in the morning and that hour in the evening, Friday or Saturday.

Some Late Election News

Emerson continues wet by a vote of 127 to 70, and petitions will be circulated to continue their four saloons.

At South Sioux City a dry council was elected, and that town will remain in the dry column another year, we are told. The question of license was not submitted direct.

At Dakota City each side had 58 votes, according to returns, and it is the claim that the place will remain dry as it now is, as it takes a majority to change.

Chicago went democratic, that party winning 21 out of 35 wards in which councilmen were elected. Daniel Hoan, a socialist, is said to have won over the combined republican and democratic votes at Milwaukee.

The dries made numerous gains in a number of Illinois places.

Many Nebraska towns change. Fairbury switches to the dry side. So does Beatrice, and McCook followed the others. Long Pine changed to the dry side. Columbus, Hartington, Leigh and Madison remained wet, so did Pilger, Winside and Pender. West Point, Stanton and Wisner along the Elkhorn remain wet as well as Norfolk. Chadron came within two votes of being dry, which was pretty close for that place. Valentine went dry for the first time in its history. Ainsworth voted dry with a majority of 22. Blomfield will continue to be wet unless the amendment makes the state dry.

Fremont voted paving bonds and Pender voted sewer bonds in the sum of $18,500. One would think that a city of that size, getting a big lump of saloon license money each year could build a bit better sewer without the bond.

At Neligh there was a tie vote, leaving the question for the new council to decide the saloon question.

North Platte, the home of the only wet democrat for the nomination for governor, Keith Neville, went dry by a safe majority, and the World-Herald has made him such a hero at home—did Bryan do it by his meetings there?

Doings of the School Board

At a meeting of the board of education Monday evening the present efficient corps of teachers were re-elected, so far as they expressed a desire to remain by application. Those who did not apply are Miss Garlow of the kindergarten, and Miss Heckert was elected to fill that place. Miss Meyer of the high school will be succeeded by a Miss Nelson of Orchard. Prof. Lamb of the manual training department, and Misses Mullen, Hawkins and Killian have no successors elected. The contract was let for an equipment of fire-escapes to comply with state requirements.

The old ward school building was sold to the highest bidder, E. M. Laughlin, to whom it was sold for $300, surely a bargain price.

Normal Junior Class Play

The Junior play has had a good deal of ill-luck in securing a play date, but have finally decided upon Thursday, April 13th. The cast for "Don" is as follows: Canon Bonnington, Maurice Philleo, General Sinclair, Clarence Sabin, Stephen Bonnington, Myrl Hyatt, Albert Thompson, Louis Leuck, Mrs. Bonnington, Hallie Lamberson, Mrs. Sinclair, Elizabeth Schrad, Ann Sinclair, Louise Wendt, Elizabeth Thompson, Elizabeth Buell, Fanny, Elsie Beale. Practice is progressing nicely. The class of 1917 anticipates a large attendance.

Yosemite Tuesday Night

The lecture on Yosemite by W. L. Gaston, which was to have been given on the 23d of last month, but which was postponed on account of rain will be given next Tuesday evening at the Baptist church. All who have tickets purchased for last date can use them next Tuesday evening and they are urged to do so. If you have not secured your ticket do not fail to do so at once. You cannot afford to miss the lecture, which is being given for the benefit of the young people's society.—adv.

Social Notes

There was a largely attended, enthusiastic meeting of the Union Bible Study circle at the A. P. Gossard home Tuesday afternoon. The lesson topic, which was of unusual interest was led by Mrs. D. W. Noakes. The secretary then read the long list of answered prayers for the past quarter, among them being some of the most remarkable in the history of the organization. Special requests were remembered from many quarters, both in this and other lands. Miss Thilda O. Jacobson, who is expected to speak at the State Normal Y. W. prayer meeting service next week, will also be a guest at the next circle meeting, when she will have some interesting experiences to relate of her work in the war zone. All are cordially invited to come and hear this young lady at Mrs. E. B. Young's Tuesday afternoon.

Eight young ladies (quite young) responded to appropriate invitations to meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. House Saturday evening with Miss Mary House and Miss Lila Gardner hostesses, at an April 1st party. The house was decorated in appropriate designs for such a time, and the young folks were all on guard against April 1st jokes. The evening was spent in games and contests and the day was forgotten by the time a neat two-course luncheon was served so that all "bit" the tempting chocolate coating which covered a bunch of cotton which was enclosed where the cream was supposed to be. Miss Madge Rippon won the prize of a pretty plate in the bean contest. The guests voted the evening a happy one.

The Shakespeare club met Tuesday evening in the college library lecture room with Miss Sara Killen, hostess. Constantinople with its surroundings was the subject of the program. Mrs. M. A. Phillips described the geography of the district and reviewed the legends attributed to that locality. Miss Alwine Leurs, the modern city and sketched the history of its development. Miss Lillian Jewell discussed its institutions, and Miss Sara Killen discussed Byzantine art and its influence upon European art, especially architecture. She illustrated her talk with lantern slides that presented typical art features. The club will meet next Wednesday evening with Miss Edith Beechel at the Homer Scace home.

The junior Music club held its regular monthly meeting Saturday afternoon. Besides the regular members of the club who took part in the program, Neva Lackey and Francis Cherry each contributed a number. Mrs. House played the Moonlight Sonata by Beethoven, which was preceded by a reading relative to the origin of that Sonata. Mesdames J. C. Coleman, J. M. Cherry, Ernest Rippon, Anton Learner and Miss Lila Gardner were guests of the club. The annual banquet of the organization will take place April 14th. The closing meeting of the year will be held the first Saturday in May.

On Monday evening the P. E. O. sisterhood met with Mrs. J. Woodward Jones. An evening with Russia gave opportunity for some very interesting subjects. Miss Fairchild read a paper, "Russian Peasantry"; a reading, "Stoddard on Russia," by Mrs. Main. At the close of the program, Mrs. Jones, assisted by her daughter, Ruth, served dainty refreshments. Mrs. John Kate of Des Moines and Mrs. Walter Norris of Hastings were guests of the evening. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Rollie Ley, April 17.

Early Hour club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fanske Friday evening. "500" will be played and at the close of the evening a dainty lunch will be served. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Craven, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ley, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reynold, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morris, Mrs. Heckert, Mrs. Norris and Miss Marjorie Wells are guests of the club.

Mrs. Frank Morgan entertained a few of her friends last Saturday evening in honor of those who are home visiting, Mrs. Walter Norris, Miss Alma Craven, Miss Marguerite Heckert, and Miss Helen Blair. Other guests were Mrs. LeRoy Ley,

Mrs. Don Cunningham, Miss Neva Orr and Miss Nellie Strickland. The evening was spent in playing cards. A dainty luncheon was served.

The Monday club met with Mrs. T. W. Moran last Monday. Each member gave a five minute talk on "What we Would do to Beautify Wayne." The hostess served a very fine lunch. Mrs. Kate of Des Moines, Mrs. Whittaker of Omaha, were guests of the club. Mrs. Robert Mellor will be hostess next Monday afternoon.

The U. D. club met with Mrs. Charles Craven Monday afternoon. The members responded to roll call by naming an Italian city and some facts concerning it. Mrs. Morris read a very interesting paper on "American Industries Developed Since the War." Mrs. James Miller will be hostess next Monday afternoon.

The Acme club met with Mrs. Mines last Monday afternoon. Roll call answered by a description of some nature loving novelist. Autobiography of Helen Keller by Mrs. Britell. Short Story Writers and selections by club. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Walter Weber.

Mrs. Mellor and her committee entertained the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Shultheis. At the close of a social afternoon a supper was served. There was a good attendance and a good time was enjoyed by all.

The Girls' Bible circle met at Mrs. Payne's last Saturday evening and an interesting meeting was held. The girls will meet with Mrs. H. Griggs next Saturday evening at seven-thirty.

Miss Marjorie Wells of Sioux City will come Friday morning to spend the week-end in the home of her sister, Mrs. L. A. Fanske.

There will be election of officers at the regular meeting of the Eastern Star next Monday evening.

The Minerva club will meet next Monday afternoon with Mrs. Lewis.

Next Sunday Evening

There will be a confederated service Sunday night at the Presbyterian church in which the congregations of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches will unite. It is proposed to have an extraordinary service and one that will be both helpful and pleasing to all who attend. The sermon-lecture will be delivered by W. L. Gaston upon the very suggestive theme, "The Market." This will not be a discussion of the price of hogs and cattle or hay and corn. Quite the contrary it will discuss the facilities that men and women have today for marketing their products of heart and brain.

The lecturer will declare that hearts, brains and souls are subjects to the law of barter and sale and if we are good business men, the immortal part of man will not be trifled away or squandered on a profitless market. It's a lecture that young people and grown people will enjoy and without any exception all can profit by it.

The regular morning services will be held in both the Baptist and Presbyterian churches.

Wayne City Election

That is what it was called Tuesday. About 30 votes per ward were cast and as there was no opposition to the present officials they were all elected to continue their duties.

D. H. Cunningham, mayor; J. M. Cherry, clerk; H. S. Ringland, treasurer; Guy R. Strickland, engineer; W. O. Hanssen, councilman 1st ward; G. A. Lamberson, 2d ward; L. C. Gildersleeve, 3d ward. On the school board, Rollie Ley and J. G. Mines were elected.

Flège Again Wants Hearing

It is reported that the attorneys for Wm. Flège have filed with the Board of Pardons at Lincoln an application for Flège's pardon. Attorney C. H. Hendrickson of Wayne and C. A. Kingsbury of Ponca announce that they will most vigorously oppose the application, believing that a person found guilty of murdering a sister in cold blood without provocation, should remain in the penitentiary until released by old age. Flège has served about one year of his sentence.

Dr. J. T. House was at Bancroft Monday on a business mission and to visit with his friend, John Neihardt.

Sam Barley went to Sioux City Saturday to spend Sunday at the home of Jay Jones and wife, his daughter.

Mrs. Wm. Anderson from Winside was a Wayne visitor last week and a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Riese.

A. E. Anderson of the state agricultural college was at Wayne Sunday morning on his way to visit home folks near Concord. He made favorable comment on the seed corn test at the Ahern window.

D. M. Davis of Carroll went to Luverne, Minnesota, Tuesday to visit a daughter living at that place. He was accompanied as far as Sioux City by his daughter, Miss Maggie Davis.

Dan V. Stephens in this district has no opposition within his own party for the democratic nomination for congress. He will, however, have an opponent at the November election.

Mrs. Geo. Wiltse of Randolph, one of the officers of the Nebraska Federation of Women, was here Monday on her way to attend a state meeting at Fullerton. She stopped at Norfolk Monday to council with other state officers.

Richard Forbes, who has been visiting home folks for several weeks past, while getting his bearings for the best location for a promising young attorney, went to Lincoln last week, then to Omaha, and possibly he will return east this week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Oman were here from Winside Monday. We learn that it was 50 years ago today that they were married, and they are "at home" to relatives and friends this afternoon at Winside. Many are the friends both at their home and all through the county who join today in wishing them many happy returns of the day.

H. C. Bartells was a Wayne visitor Saturday, and is making plans to capture the nomination from the democrats for sheriff if he can. Mr. Bartells has twice represented the county in the legislature with much credit to himself and the county. At the request of many friends he has decided to ask the nomination for an office which will keep him on duty 12 months in the year, if nominated and elected.

County Commissioner Rethwisch has added an automobile to his list of assessable property, and beyond a doubt it will come in very handy for campaign purposes, as well as for looking after his bridges after election.

P. C. Crockett was at Hubbard the first of the week to do a bit of work in his line for Mr. and Mrs. Brown Palmer. Those who have visited them at their new home tell us they have a fine little farm near Hubbard.

A. T. Witter, who served the county as assessor in efficient manner for one term, ending four years ago, is again asking the republican nomination. He will try to vault the first hurdle April 18, and once over that go into training for the finals, which this year is a sort of an endurance test, lasting from April to November.

Miss Agnes Richardson of Newcastle was at Norfolk to attend the annual meeting of the Northeastern Nebraska Teacher's association last week, and stopped at Wayne Saturday to visit at the home of her parents, A. R. Richardson and wife. Another daughter, Miss Emma, was also here, and returned to her school work at Laurel Sunday.

Saturday morning John Gaertner, who has been spending several months here, left for his home at Baylor, Montana, near which place himself and son and daughter have homesteads. Mrs. Gaertner is not planning to go for several weeks. M. T. McInerney and daughter, Miss Agnes went with him to look at the country and perhaps drive a homesteader's stakes if it looks good to them. They leave the railroad at Glasco.

R. H. Jones, county surveyor, went to Wakefield Monday morning to meet there E. C. Simmons of Thurston county and together they were going to make a survey of the line between this and Thurston counties, and try to establish a line. As stated two weeks ago there is a small wedge-shaped strip between the two counties that belonged to both or neither, just according to the way it was looked at. It is proposed to now establish a line which will be recognized by all as the line.

One of the pleasant gatherings April 1st, was quite a surprise to both guests and hosts, and might be termed fitting for the day. On the morning train M. T. McInerney and daughter left to make quite a stay in Montana, and the afternoon trains and automobiles brought a number of relatives and friends, coming to make him a farewell visit before he entered the wild, uncultivated west. From Clarkson came John Caledy and family and William and Chas. Busch. From Bloomfield, Mrs. A. H. Philson came by the afternoon train, and in the evening Mr. Philson came by automobile. The guests, however were well entertained by Mrs. M. T. McInerney, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McInerney, so it seems that the joke is on the man who started west so early and missed so much good company.

A survey of central Ohio shows that it is within the easy range of possibilities to so construct reservoirs for impounding flood waters of the Miami river as to greatly reduce the great floods which have periodically visited that part of the state. The cost of the work would be considerable, but if it handle the floods without the usual damage, it would be money well spent.

In western Iowa a number of the streams, all of which are as crooked as the proverbial ram's horn, are being straightened and the floods and overflows averted by giving the stream a short cut, which puts as much fall into a mile of channel as there was in three or four miles of the winding channel, saving distance for water travel and speeding it up materially.

Mrs. Emma Baker, who returned last week from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Jas. Mulvay at Winner, South Dakota, tells us they are doing nicely there, but a letter the day after her arrival home told her that a prairie fire had almost taken their improvements, but that by hard fire fighting they had saved their buildings and feed. Some farmers lost hay, but no buildings were reported lost in that neighborhood.

Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of the U. S. department of agriculture, will deliver the commencement address of the School of Agriculture at Lincoln on April 20. The graduating class consists of 98 members, the largest class in the history of the school with one exception. The class is composed of 34 girls and 64 boys. The prospective graduates come from 38 different Nebraska counties. Iowa and Kansas are also represented.

Mr. Geo. Buskirk, sr., one of the progressive farmers from the south part of the county, seems also to be in favor of town progress. Mr. Buskirk happened to be in the office of Dr. Lutgen while one of the salesmen of the W. G. Cleveland Co., was making a call on the Doctor, and upon hearing the arguments of the salesman in favor of the oxygen generating machine ordered one as a gift to the hospital. The machine will cost $40, and is intended for use in pneumonia and other diseases where the patient finds difficulty in breathing. The gift was very much appreciated by the hospital and we should all feel grateful for so valuable an addition to the life-saving equipment of the community.

FOR STATE TREASURER

HARRY ADAMS

Democratic Candidate Present Treasurer of Dawes County A vote for him means, placing the State Treasury on a proper footing and the elimination of the present method of public office for personal and family benefit.

GEORGE J. HUNT

A Lawyer of Wide Experience For Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Twenty-five years in Omaha, ten years in Bridgeport, western Nebraska, has made George J. Hunt a most desirable candidate for the State Supreme Court.

MAYOR CHARLES W. BRYAN

Democratic Candidate for Governor Mayor Bryan favors the re-election of President Wilson. Endorses business administration of Governor Morehead. Mayor Bryan is urging a reduction of telephone rates. He defeated fire insurance combine bill in last legislature, saving fire policy-holders probably $800,000.00 annually, and will continue to favor competition in rates. Favors scientific good road building under supervision of state and county engineers. Favors rural credits system for farmers. Favors state hall insurance. Urges public development of water power to furnish cheap electric current to light homes and operate machines on farms and in factories, to supply heat and to operate interurban railways. These practical and constructive measures are in operation in other parts of the country but impossible in Nebraska on account of interference of special interests under leadership of booze interests and their lobbyists. Help drive them out and legislate for Nebraska people the same as has been done for Lincoln people. Free the party and party machinery from interference of the special interests, and elect all county and state officers under the leadership of Mayor Bryan as candidate for governor, who has had experience in executive affairs and who has a record of achievement in Lincoln. MCKELVIE FOR GOVERNOR.

His Legislative Experience. Of all the candidates for governor it is generally admitted that S. R. McKelvie is best fitted for the place in point of legislative experience. He served one term as a member of the house of representatives and one term as lieutenant governor. This gives him a practical knowledge of both the legislative and executive branches of state government. Not only that, but his record in both places was entirely above reproach. He was found at all times active in the interests of the people. This is one of the many reasons why he is usually referred to as The Popular Candidate.

ARTHUR F. MULLEN

Omaha, Neb. Candidate for Member of the National Committee of the Democratic Party for the State of Nebraska

Primaries April 18—VOTE FOR HIM To the Democrats of Nebraska: My candidacy for National Committeeman is submitted to you for the reason that many believe that I can be of service to the party and its nominees. Those who are acquainted with me, know that I have managed with some degree of success, all kinds of political contests. My wide acquaintance in this state and with the national leaders of the Democratic party, is such that I believe I am in a position to be useful in the pending campaign. Practically all of my efforts in politics have been made in behalf of others. My record has been one of service of the party, rather than one of office seeking and office holding. I am very much interested in the nomination and re-election of President Wilson. A desire to assist him is one of the main reasons why I am a candidate for National Committeeman. His administration is the best asset that the party has. If elected to membership in the National Committee, I will co-operate with the friends and supporters of the President and the national administration. I am the friend of Senator Hitchcock. His record as a Senator has been such that he will be re-nominated. The people will, without regard to party lines, show their appreciation of a faithful and conscientious public official by giving him a second term. I am willing to give whatever time is necessary to properly discharge the duties of the office. My knowledge and past experience in politics will be used to give the electoral vote of Nebraska to Woodrow Wilson, to re-elect Senator Hitchcock to the United States senate, to elect Democratic representatives in congress and a Democratic state ticket. I am opposed to boss rule; if elected National Committeeman, I will be the servant of the rank and file of the party and not the representative of any faction or individual. ARTHUR F. MULLEN.

HARRISON C. PALMER

"THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE" A lifelong experience as a farmer, teacher, lawyer, legislator and judge makes him truly "The People's Candidate."

Does Many Things to Bring That City Forward. Same Results Could Be Accomplished Here.

During the Omaha Commercial club's good road auto trip last summer, one of the first-rank towns in the matter of enthusiasm and entertainment was the little village of Elgin, away up in Antelope county, as was attested by all who made the journey. And this recalls that others who have had the occasion to test the hospitality of Elgin, and their number is legion, are unanimous in their testimony of its progressiveness. Its business architecture, banks, and hotel building are the topic of many a conversation between the traveling men who make that territory, says the World-Herald.

The latest proposition in Elgin is to establish a community building, to house the activities of the club, and the story of what the community club is, and how it came into being, is the purport of the article. Quoting from the letterhead of the club, it is found the object of its organization to be: "Organized for the promotion, in all ways possible, of the welfare, industrial and social development; commercial, agricultural and general public interest of the community of, and adjacent to Elgin, Nebraska."

The club first came into existence last July as a result of a gathering of the citizens in an attempt to properly finance the village band. Success along this line led to formation of the club along permanent lines. Elgin has maintained for a long while a village band, chautauquas, lecture courses, farmers' institutes, etc. It rejoices in the distinction of being the second town in the state to establish public supervised playgrounds, and is the first (so far as is known) town smaller than Lincoln to take such action, and has received special mention in the organ of the National Playground association.

In the organization of this club, it is proposed to make it a general clearing house of all public and semi-public activities, and in this direction it has already become the owner of the band property and supports that organization; it has materially assisted the Farmers' Institute, encouraged road improvement and is extending the scope of its influence throughout its legitimate territory.

The proposition of a club home became acute and the club has taken an option on the present opera house location; a seventy-five foot frontage in the heart of the business district. It is proposed, if pronounced feasible by competent architects, to rearrange the building so that the upper floor shall contain a modern kitchen, banquet hall, boys gymnasium and reading room, committee rooms. The first floor will contain an up-to-date auditorium, with a large stage and seating capacity of about 400—offices for the general secretary manager, a ladies rest room and public comfort stations opening upon the street.

The basement will be well fitted up with bowling alleys and other recreational features, shower baths, and lockers, while a space upon the vacant lot adjoining will be available for the later erection of a plunge. It is estimated that in addition to the purchase price of $7,500, an expenditure of $5,000 will be necessary for remodeling and furnishing.

The club contemplates the employment of a paid commissioner, who shall be competent to act as manager of the opera house, be general secretary of the club and have oversight and direction of its several activities.

The financing of the project is particularly worthy of special mention. It is proposed to issue series of 125 first-mortgage bonds of $100 denomination, upon which an interest of 5 per cent per annum will be paid, to cover the cost of the building.

The following data of estimated expenses and income will be interesting:

Income—200 memberships at $15 per year, $3,000; income from opera house rents, percentages, etc., estimated, $1,800. Actual figures for 1914, $2,771.20; actual figures for 1915, $2,282.35. This makes a total income of $4,800. Expenditures—Salary of commissioner, $1,200; janitor and assistant, $600; operator, ushers, etc., $400; heat, light, incidentals, $1,000; interest on bonds (first year), $625; for retirement of bonds, $975. Total expenditures is thus shown to be $4,800. Among the many advantages that will be gained under this plan will be, first: The character of the man employed as commissioner will be an additional asset to the community. Second: It is felt that with the community interest behind the movement a much better class of attractions can be had. Third: It will place the matter of general oversight of amusements in the hands of a company of representative citizens. Fourth: The net revenues of the amusements will be spent for the betterment of the community in the matter of recreation grounds, parks, etc. There will be no profit-taking by the members, as it will not be a stock company. After the retirement of the bonds, the profits of necessity, will have to be spent in improving and developing the property of the club.

A statement of the occupations of the various officers will indicate the far-reaching scope of the organization, as well as its representative capacity. They follow: President from organization to January 1, 1916, John G. Haads, auctioneer; new president, J. H. Johnson, merchant; secretary, Karl W. G. Hiller, pastor Methodist Episcopal church; treasurer, Frank Horst, banker. Directors: James Alderson, farmer; J. J. Schulte, farmer; W. H. Cratt, lumberman; C. H. Stockdale, printer; J. J. Trainor, stockman.

A Wall Street Platform

It is now conceded that Woodrow Wilson will be nominated at the St. Louis convention without a dissenting vote.

The only contest in the convention will be as to the platform, and possibly as to the nomination for vice-president. This being true, the state delegations are liable to be made up without particular reference to the views of the delegates as to platform. When the people sleep the big interests are very wakeful. Those interests are now planning to control the platform-making at St. Louis. They know it would be folly to oppose the renomination of the president, and so all their delegates will be instructed for him, but at the same time they will have a care that the delegations will be doers of the Wall Street will when it comes to the making of a platform. The war trust is a Wall street enterprise. The war trust wants preparedness, and it wants war, because both preparedness and war mean millions of money for the Wall street interests behind the war trust. Their plan will be to compel the democratic platform to declare in favor of a preparedness program which will call for a great standing army, and a navy strong enough to whip all other navies off the seas.

In the face of the Wall street plan, what shall be the stand of the Nebraska democracy? Shall we bow to the will of Wall street, or shall we send to St. Louis a delegation which will forbid Wall street the privilege of committing the democracy of the nation to the doctrine of militarism?

In the view of The Telegram the democracy should fight to the last ditch the arrogant and insolent demands of the war trust. We should send to the national convention a set of delegates known to be opposed first, last and all the time to the war trust plan. A thousand good reasons might be given for the need of W. J. Bryan as a Nebraska delegate in the national convention, but it should be sufficient reason for his election that he will be needed there to prevent the writing of a war trust platform. He was the one great leader of the anti-Wall street forces in the Baltimore convention in their great struggle with the Wall street and Tammany forces there assembled. He should be sent to St. Louis to fight the same mighty foe which he bested at Baltimore.

Democrats, remember what happened in Nebraska in 1904, after a national convention had been practically controlled by the same interests which are planning to control this year's national convention. Remember that after that shameful surrender to the Wall street program we lost Nebraska by 87,000 votes, and practically all state and county democratic candidates went down with the national ticket.

Let's fight for principle to the end. And in this case the part of principle will also be the part of good politics. With a national platform written by Wall street, there will be no more show for democratic local candidates in Nebraska than for a republican in Texas. With a progressive platform, and an anti-military platform, we can elect every democratic candidate in Nebraska, all the way from road supervisor to governor.—Columbus Telegram.

The W. F. Stoecker wet campaign for the democratic nomination for governor appears to have suddenly dried up. Perhaps he saw the hand-writing on the wall—perhaps his bosses called him in. But when at Wayne a week ago, he confidently told the editor of this paper to hurry and get into the band-wagon, for he would surely be nominated. A few days before that a wet candidate on the republican ticket for the same office said if one wanted to bet to win, he should place his money on him, for he had the nomination all but counting the majority. Will he also fly the track?

Senator B. W. Newberry of Clayton county, Iowa, better known, not only in Iowa, but neighboring states, as "Pure Food Newberry," because of the active and aggressive part he took in putting a pure food law on the Iowa statute, which contained much that was good for the people and much that was bad for the grafters, who would starve or poison a people for profit, is again a candidate for the senate. He suffered defeat at the close of his first term, being a republican in a democratic district and because of the enemies his aggressive fight for the people made him among the fellows who were profiting by adulterated foods and partitionism. We have known Newberry ever since he was six feet tall (he is now 6 ft. 6 in.) and while of different political complexion, we want to say that the democrats would have to put up a pretty good man if we supported him against a man who has served the interest of the people as did Newberry while senator. Service is what the people need, no matter from which political party it comes.

Elsewhere is the advertisement of Harry Adams, who is asking the democratic nomination for state treasurer, against Mr. Hall, the democrat who now occupies the office. Mr. Adams is the present treasurer of Dawes county, and is said to be an efficient and popular official. He criticises Treasurer Hall for the manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the office. Mr. Hall's acts, we know, have not always been looked upon with favor, by many—especially among the county treasurers—but we believe the courts have generally held that Mr. Hall complied with the law, and in that event the law and not the official should be changed, if wrong. We have admired Mr. Hall for his strict compliance with law and making the county treasurers do the same, but there may be two sides to the question, and Mr. Adams certainly has the right to give his side. He claims that Hall has been a trouble maker and that he has exceeded his proper authority in the matter of the disposition of the premium on official bonds. Every voter owes to his state the duty of careful investigation of all candidates and policies.

LOCAL NEWS

Ewing has voted $35,000 bonds for a new school building in that city.

Fred Vlopp of Scribner was a Wayne visitor Tuesday, coming on a business mission. He greeted numerous friends during his short stay. He was accompanied by Paul Whooper of Beemer, and they came by automobile.

Mrs. L. N. Sears writes to the Democrat from Kersey, Colorado, saying that Irwin and William Sears have gone to Oskaloosa, Iowa, to assist their brother, C. L., in a tea and coffee house, and that all are doing well. The Democrat will keep them posted as to events at Wayne.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hagemann came from Leeds, Iowa, to visit at the home of their son of the same name. They will also visit with their old friend, Conrad Frevert, who is said to be quite ill at his home. They were neighbors in Germany before coming to America.

Willis Noakes, who is taking a dairy course at the Ames, Iowa, school, is home for the week of spring vacation. He has been there since the first of the year, and reports that the work is great and bound to be of practical benefit to him or any young man who wishes to make a success of the dairy end of a farm proposition.

The nine-month old child of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Henegar died at their home in the northwest part of the city last Thursday of pneumonia. A funeral service was held from the home Saturday, conducted by Rev. Fetterolf, and the little body was laid to rest in the Wayne cemetery. The bereaved family have the sympathy of all in their sad loss.

The Presbyterian church had a congregational meeting Monday evening and voted to build an annex on the north end of the church to be used as a dining room and kitchen. This has been a long felt want and the Ladies Aid have worked very faithfully with this end in view. A committee was appointed to make arrangements to begin at once.

Amandus Krause of West Point, who has been spending the winter at St. Paul, stopped here Wednesday to visit his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer, while on his way to his home. He worked here one summer about 30 years ago and helped build the buildings on the Slater ranch and the Slater residence at Wayne and the building now occupied by the State Bank.

There is a demonstration in the Ahern window this week which is worthy of careful study by many of the farmers. It shows a corn test which Clyde Oman and some of the college people put up at the city hall nearly three weeks ago. The corn tested was of the 1914 crop, and was fine looking seed corn. Seven ears in the 100 were not fit for planting as shown by the test, and that, according to the amount of corn which it is estimated would have been short of a full stand would have amounted to $3 per ear, or a total of $21 if those ears were thrown out and others substituted that would have made a perfect stand. When the farmers of Nebraska take the time to test their seed corn and treat wheat, oats and potatoes, the state will rank higher as a farming state.

Gus Bohnert closed the Calumet cafe Saturday evening for a short time, the building in which he had been conducting the business having been sold and the new owners wished to make some changes and improvements in it and later occupy it themselves. Gabe Wells returned Tuesday evening from a visit with home folks at Princeton, Illinois, where he went the last of the week. From there he went to Chicago for a day before coming home. Saturday, Mrs. Wells made up her mind to join her husband in his visit and remain to attend the wedding of Miss Edna Wells, which was to take place Wednesday. Miss Wells made her home here with her brother part of the winter, and attended the normal.

Mrs. J. J. Ahern was suddenly summoned to Huron, South Dakota, Saturday afternoon by word of an accident which befell her sister-in-law, Mrs. H. A. Smith. The first report was that her hip was broken by a fall, but it is now learned that it was a dislocation, which is bad enough, but not thought to be as bad as a fracture. Mrs. Smith moved from Wayne to Huron about two years ago, and many of her Wayne friends will sympathize with her in her affliction. Mrs. Ahern returned this morning.

Of Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, who lectures at the Normal this evening, the American Magazine says: "He was transplanted from Wales to the backwoods of Wisconsin in his early boyhood. He has lived a simple, straightforward life of constant and cheerful fighting. When 'Father Abraham' called for troops to save the Union, this boy found his conscience compelled to choose between college and battle. Hating war, he chose the latter and served his country's cause until the close of the civil conflict, though several times disabled. In 1882 he organized and became the pastor of All Souls church, on the South Side of Chicago. He soon perceived that the fence around a denomination is exclusive, as well as inclusive, and so dropped the word 'Unitarian' that, even by remote implication, his church might not exclude any one. 'Abraham Lincoln once said that if he could find a church that had for its only creed the Golden Rule he would join it. This was the church that Jenkin Lloyd Jones conceived, and, as a civic and religious tribute to the great Illinoisian this community centre was christened 'The Abraham Lincoln Centre.'"

The Word Tramway.
Tramway is the term applied in Great Britain to all kinds of street railroads, whether using horses, engines, a cable or electricity. The word tram originally meant a log or stump. The evolution of the word into modern English use is given as: End—fragment—stump—log—pole—bar—beam—rail, in the earliest forms of railroads the tracks consisted of trams of wood or flat stones, at a later period of wooden stringers covered with strap iron and lastly of iron rails.

Effects of Lying.
Lying is a great sin against God, who gave us a tongue to speak the truth and not falsehood. It is a great offense against humanity itself; for where there is no regard to truth there can be no safe society between man and man. And it is an injury to the speaker; for besides the disgrace which it brings upon him, it occasions so much baseness of mind that he can scarcely tell the truth or avoid lying, even when he has no color of necessity for it, and in time he comes to such a pass that as other people cannot believe he speaks the truth, so he himself scarcely knows when he tells a falsehood. As you must be careful not to lie, so you must avoid coming near it. You must not equivocate, nor speak anything positively for which you have no authority but report, or conjecture or opinion.—Sir Matthew Hale.

Christening Boats.
The modern custom of christening vessels is without doubt an adaptation of an ancient custom; just as so many of our other customs and habits have been adapted from ancient ones. The ancients used to place the image of a titular deity at the stern of their vessels, in the tutela, or shrine. Do you remember that the boat mentioned in the twenty-eighth chapter of the Acts, the boat that carried Paul from Malta to Rome, was "under the sign of Castor and Pollux?" It was, so says Acts. The ceremony of breaking a bottle of wine on the bow of a new vessel as it is launched is another ancient adapted custom, for the ancients offered a libation to Neptune or Poseidon, who ruled the seas, as they launched their boats.—Exchange.

Playing Safe.
"I'm surprised to see you riding in the suburban smoker every day. You never use tobacco in any form, do you?"

"No, but if I ride in one of the other cars my wife expects me to be able to tell her what every lady on the train was wearing and whether it was becoming or not, and if I tell her she accuses me of taking too much interest in other women. If I can't tell her she says I'm too stupid for any kind of use."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Babylonia.
The northern part of Babylonia is generally dry during the greater part of the year. The lower part, near the junction of the rivers, is generally a great malarial swamp-overgrown with reeds. In the springtime one may sail almost anywhere across the country from the Tigris to the Euphrates, and in the dry season great herds of camels, buffaloes, donkeys, sheep and goats graze over the same place.

Nothing Rude.
"I suppose your daughter will start her scholastic career with some special rudimentary studies?"

"No, indeed. There ain't going to be nothin' rude about it. She's got'n to take only polite literature."—Baltimore American.

His Opposite.
"They say people with opposite characteristics make the happiest marriages"

"Yes; that's why I'm looking for a girl with money."—Brooklyn Eagle.

MR. FORD OWNER:—

You can improve the appearance of your car by having it equipped with this radiator ornament. Aside from its ornamental value, it tends to aid, rather than hinder in the cooling of the motor, as it causes the air to concentrate into the fan, which in turn creates a greater blast.

JUDGE MORRISSEY HAS FILED FOR RE-ELECTION

CHIEF JUSTICE OF NEBRASKA SUPREME COURT HAS MADE EXCELLENT RECORD.

HIS JUDICIAL OPINIONS CLEAR

Work of Court Expedited Under His Leadership — Gain of Six Months on Docket.

Chief Justice Andrew M. Morrissey, of the Nebraska supreme court, has filed as a candidate for re-election. Petitions for his candidacy from all parts of the state, signed by several thousand voters in excess of the 3,000 required by law, are in the secretary of state's hands.

On account of the excellent record Chief Justice Morrissey has made on the supreme bench and the manner in which the work has been expedited since he became its head, it is expected he will have no serious opposition for re-election. Under his leadership the court has gained six months' time on its docket during the last year, and is now hearing and disposing of cases more rapidly than ever before. Being in the prime of life and in vigorous health, Chief Justice Morrissey has not only handled his own part of the work in a manner satisfactory to litigants and to attorneys having cases before the high tribunal, but some of his energy has been infused into the entire machinery of the court.

Clear-Cut Opinions. His judicial opinions are models of clear thinking concisely expressed. The chief justice gets to the point of a case without indulging in superfluous verbiage. This quality has won for his decisions the undivided respect and esteem of the legal profession, which calling he has followed for twenty years.

Between his associates on the supreme bench and himself there has been the utmost cordiality, and he enjoys their respect and good will. During the incumbency of Chief Justice Morrissey nothing has been heard of the personal animosities and disagreements which formerly existed between members of the court.

Judge Morrissey is a native of New York state. He came to Nebraska twenty-five years ago and has lived here ever since. Before coming to Lincoln, his home was at Valentine. — Lincoln Daily Star.

It will be well for voters to bear in mind that judges are no longer nominated or elected on party tickets. Nominations for judicial positions are now made in a somewhat similar way to the method employed in electing city commissioners in cities under the commission system. The names are printed on a ballot separate and distinct from the regular party ballot, no party designation is allowed, and the candidate runs on his merits. Under one system or another a number of states have provided for taking the courts out of politics. The same year that we adopted our non-partisan law, Minnesota passed an act which not only takes the courts but also takes the county offices and candidates for the legislature off the party ballots. In that state judges, county officers, and members of the legislature are elected without a party designation and in utter disregard of party affiliation. Last year Iowa passed a non-partisan judiciary law very similar to ours, and in the future party lines will be disregarded in Iowa, as in Nebraska.

This year we elect one chief justice and three associate justices. At the primary the voter is allowed to vote for one chief justice and three associate justices, but there will be twice as many nominations as there are of seats to fill. Thus two candidates will be nominated for chief justice and six nominated for associate justice.

C. L. Wright and wife from Beemer, where he is head of the schools, were visiting his parents and brother here last week while the pupils of the Beemer school enjoyed a spring vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittiker and children came Saturday evening to visit in the home of Mrs. Whittiker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Coyle and other relatives. Mr. Whittiker returned Monday morning. Mrs. Whittiker and children remained for a longer visit.

Word comes to Wayne neighbors of Mrs. S. L. Winsor, who went to Cherokee, Iowa, Friday for a visit, that she was injured in an automobile accident near that place Saturday, and taken to a local hospital for treatment. Particulars are not to be had at this writing.

Wm. Goldsmith was called to Plainview Tuesday by news of the death of a young friend of the family, Miss Ella Peterson, one of the teachers of that place. It is thought that pneumonia was the cause of her death, as the last reports from there told of her suffering from a severe cold.

There is some very profitable reading in the advertisements of this issue. Why you should buy your wire fencing and steel posts now is told by the Phillo & Harrington Lumber company. Frank Gaertner tells of cedar chests and shows a fine assortment in the furniture store window marked down to a remarkably low price. Then there is some political advertising in which all are interested. The regular advertisers are offering the best to the buyer as usual, and the readers look for their announcements as regularly as for births and deaths and marriages.

Mrs. C. Madden, who has not been able to be at her dressmaking school for several weeks, is improving in health, and asks that the people be told that she will re-open the school April 18th, at which time she will have the aid of an efficient Kiester assistant from Omaha.—1

Fifty-four years ago today Jim Harmon says that he was playing hide and seek with the "Johnnies" at the battle of Shiloh, and the next day the same game continued. James lost his canteen, one of the southerners carelessly shooting it while he had it strapped to him, much as William Tell shot the apple, we suppose. The canteen did not count for much but the water was valuable there.

The Neligh high school will this year have a class of 28, of whom 17 are girls and 11 boys.

Herman Lundberg was off duty Monday at the Wayne State Bank, the day being given him as a sort of a vacation that he might get a bit of outside exercise, and he improved, the opportunity wisely and helping his good wife move their household goods into their new home, but recently purchased on Logan street between 6th and 7th streets from Mrs. Ada Rennie. The property is a neat, modern place. The next day Herman gets off from duty at the bank he is hoping to find some more congenial exercise than moving, even if it is into a home of their own.

Miss Ellen Stone of this place underwent an operation at the Wayne hospital this week. An injury to the skull caused by a fall about five years ago, caused constant headaches. An opening was made and a puss cavity found above the eye, cleaned out and closed, and the patient is rallying nicely from the operation.

F. S. Berry was looking after legal matters at Hoskins the first of the week. The people there are going to try again to vote bonds for water works, there being some irregularity in their start the first time, and the second attempt failed for want of one or two more affirmative votes. If at first you don't succeed, try again, is the old adage.

Treasurer Hall and Different Boards Adjust Differences as to Funds for Payment. Calls Public Attention to

State Treasurer Hall, basing his action on an opinion given out by Attorney general Reed, has decided to pay claims against the cash fund of the several boards which he has been holding up for several months because the legislature failed to make specific appropriation of these funds. The boards affected are the pharmacy, optometry, osteopathy, veterinary, embalmers and the cash funds of the state board of health. Claims against the state board of nurses, chiropractors and dental boards, which were at first held up, have been allowed for some time past because the state treasurer, under his ruling, found a provision of law pertaining to these several boards that would admit payment. This clears up the clouds that have been hanging over the cash funds of all departments and boards of the state excepting the pure food and oil commission. A recent injunction of an Omaha Oil company has thrown the funds of this department into the care of the supreme court, and by order of the court, the balance of fees not used to defray the running expenses of the department are turned over to that body and do not reach the treasurer's office. It is not likely that State Treasurer Hall will take up the matter of paying food commissioner claims until the supreme court has had a chance to rule on the question at issue.

The state board of health, under the supervision of Dr. H. B. Cummins of the board of secretaries, will issue bulletin No. 2 for April, which will feature sanitation and the fly pest. It will be filled with valuable information on the sanitary requirements to insure health and prevent disease during the spring and heat of the summer months. A copy may be secured free by sending a card to Dr. J. D. Case, of the state board of health, State House, Lincoln.

Adjutant General Hall of the Nebraska National Guard has just completed the purchase of 900 acres of land about three miles northeast of Ashland, to be used as a range for the promotion of rifle practice and for mobilization purposes. The cost of the site was $26,269.00, and was paid for out of the U. S. government funds which have accumulated since General Hall was inducted into office. The land is splendidly located for a rifle range, and is said to be one of the finest sites for army mobilization and maneuvers in the west.

One of the best laws placed on the statute books in the 1918 session of the legislature was the Smith Bridge law, so called because of its introduction by the present state auditor, Wm. H. Smith, at that time a member of the state senate. The law provides that county boards shall let contracts for bridges based on uniform plans furnished by the state engineer. This stimulates competition, as no favored firm is allowed to furnish the specifications. The act also provides that the bridge shall be inspected by the state engineer if he is asked to do so by the county board or taxpayers. M. C. Eysong, a member of the supervisor's board of Cuming county, declared while in Lincoln the other day, that his county, building bridges under the provisions of this law, had built more and better bridges for $18,000.00, last year than it did with an expenditure of $52,000.00, the year before under the old system. This is merely one instance of how very effective this law has been in preventing the wholesale bridge graft that has heretofore prevailed in the various counties of the state.

Good Roads and Goodrich

"American motorists will reap an immense benefit from approximately $250,000.00 expended last year on highway construction," said E. C. Tibbitts, director of advertising of the E. F. Goodrich Co. "The big national highways of which we have been reading so much, are, in my opinion, only the forerunners of a network of good roads that will have a tremendous effect on increased motor and tire sales. Automobile owners should not overlook the important part played by the Goodrich Touring bureau in promoting more and better highway building. Tire owners will realize a tremendous amount of additional mileage per casing this season due to good roads. While this big saving will come to the tire owners individually—tire sales will increase materially, nevertheless, on account of the new fields opened up and the increased sale of automobiles."

Better Watch Out

With the withdrawing of Berge from the gubernatorial race, the candidacy for that office is simplified and simmers down to three candidates, Stoecker of Omaha, Charley Bryan or Lincoln, and Kieth Neville of North Platte. It is an open fight and the issues are clear cut. Stoecker is a wet candidate, but wants to change the liquor laws so that the state will collect a revenue similar to the plan of the national government, and to pay a tax on what they dispose of and not a license to run a saloon and sell all you can. Kieth Neville is in favor of the present saloon and opposed to the dry amendment. Charley Bryan is the only dry candidate and is in favor of the dry amendment. This is the attitude of the three candidates and it is up to the voter to choose the man representing the issue you stand on. There is a little history connected with the wet and dry issues in some of the states where elections have been held in recent years. In Colorado two years ago, the democratic party took the side of the brewery interests and the republicans the dry side. The republicans won out and elected their governor. The same issue was at stake in Idaho a few years ago. The democrats championed the wet side, the republicans the dry side and the democrats lost. The same stand taken in Ohio has almost lost the state to the republicans. In Iowa the democrats there always have championed the wet side and the republicans the dry side and as a result the democrats have to work hard there to elect a road overseer. This is also true of other states that we could mention. Do you want history to repeat itself in Nebraska? It is up to the rank and file of the democratic party to be cautious.—Sherman County Times.

Neglecting Home Duties

Preparedness, like charity, should begin at home. If Congress could only spare time from its feverish hunt after "foreign invasions" mare's nests, and if it had some capable, forward looking leaders, there are worth-while problems awaiting attention. The question of fuel and power has long past the best point of settlement. Coal and oil are approaching the prohibitive point, and waterpower will fall in line as an auxiliary, if some such measure as the Shields bill becomes law. The government owns a large amount of coal and oil land, both in the States and in Alaska. If that were handled on a commercial basis it could be used as a curb upon these insatiable monopolies. Or if congress cares to exercise its power over interstate commerce, it can regulate the fuel supply business as it does the common carriers. And whether or not the enhanced value of fuel, as the natural supply approaches exhaustion, is to be conserved for the people of the country, the time is fast approaching when every ounce of water-power will be needed for the service of society. A little more attention, please, Mr. Congressman, to home affairs.—S. C. in The Public.

The Cedar County Farmers' Telephone company wants to raise the talk rates and patrons of the lines objected, and the result was a hearing before the railroad commission, when evidence and arguments were given. The decision has not been given at this writing.

When the Green Gits Back

By James Whitcomb Riley

In the spring, when the green gits back in the trees,
And the sun comes out and stays,
And yer boots pulls on with a good tight squeeze,
And you think of yer barefoot days;
When you ort to work and you want to not,
And you and yer wife agrees
It's time to spade up the garden lot,
When the green gits back in the trees—
Well, work is the least o' my ideas
When the green, you know, gits back in the trees!

When the green gits back in the trees, and bees
Is a-buzzin' aroun' ag'in
In that kind of a lazy go-as-you-please
Old gait they lum roun' in;
When the groun's all bald where the hayrick stood,
And the crick's riz, and the breeze
Coaxes the bloom in the old dog-wood,
And the green gits back in the trees—
I like, as I say, in sich scenes as these.
The time when the green gits back in the trees!

When the whole tail feathers o' winter-time
Is all pulled out and gone,
And the sap it thaws and begins to climb,
And the swet it starts out on
A feller's forred, a gittin' down
At the old spring on his knees—
I kind o' like jest a-loaferin' roun'
When the green gits back in the trees,
Jest a-potterin' roun' as I—durn—please—
When the green, you know, gits back in the trees!

TEACHERS AT NORFOLK
Attendance Record Broken. Patriotism
the Dominant Feature of Gathering of School People
at Norfolk.

WAYNE MAY GET NEXT MEETING
The attendance record for seven years was broken at the thirtieth annual convention of the North Nebraska Teachers' association which came to a close at Norfolk Saturday. President Price announced that 456 teachers had enrolled. He declared the session had been a successful one and that the program had been both interesting and vitally educational to the teachers. Just before adjournment the teachers adopted a set of resolutions and elected new officers. There was a marked patriotic spirit noticeable in the convention and in practically all of the lectures the "preparedness" of the country was traced to the lessons to be taught by the teachers to the growing population of the United States, says the News. The stars and stripes were eulogized frequently and although some of the speakers brought messages of importance regarding class studies they invariably turned to lessons of patriotism which the teachers should teach. American ideals and the free American spirit with respect to the flag and early training in patriotism appeared to be the theme of the convention. It was a popular theme and there was unanimous sentiment in favor of new plans by which patriotism could be more widely spread throughout the school system of the country.

NOTABLE LECTURES HEARD.
The teachers were fortunate in hearing some remarkable addresses this year. The illustrated lecture on Switzerland by Dr. Preston W. Search of California and his interesting address on the difference in children gave some new thoughts to the teachers and found them vitally interested in both topics. Chancellor Samuel Avery had an important message to deliver to the teachers and his wide knowledge of the gifts of Nebraska soil and the benefits of living in the United States appeared to be entirely new to many of the teachers. Dean Hahn delivered one of the closing addresses of the convention Saturday morning on "The Teaching Product and Its Measurement." This subject had to do solely with the teacher and the lesson it taught was highly appreciated by the individual teachers.

The address by Inspector R. D. Moritz, inspector of normal training of the state department of public instruction, was another interesting speaker of the convention. TALKS ON KINDERGARTEN. Miss Katherine Martin, an instructor in kindergarten primary education, University of Chicago, was a favorite among the teachers. She brought a message from the Chicago kindergarten department, the work of which she illustrated splendidly with slides and by her word pictures of the work being done.

Prof. N. W. Gains of the Fremont normal was added to the staff of speakers and his address on unity of the home, the teacher and the pupils was highly appreciated. Combined, these speakers gave a program which will be long remembered by the members of the association. To President Price and the officers of the association is given credit for this interesting program which will benefit most of the schools in north Nebraska.

THE NEW OFFICERS.
President, A. F. Gulliver, Bloomfield.
Vice-president, E. E. Lackey, Wayne.
Secretary, Elizabeth Beechel, Wayne.
Treasurer, N. A. Housel, Madison.

WAYNE INVITES CONVENTION
Just before President Price called for nominations for new officers, U. S. Conn of the Wayne Normal read the resolutions and immediately invited the teachers to come to Wayne next year. He made a motion that the convention recommend a change of meeting place to the executive board and when informed by President Price that this motion would be unconstitutional, he demanded an expression from the convention. This demand resulted in a good-natured contest between Norfolk and Wayne forces. President Price declared that the expression would not be representative, a majority of the teachers having gone home. It later developed that more than 300 of the teachers had left the convention in order to catch returning trains and the question was put up to the 105 remaining members. The vote resulted 55 to 50 in favor of Norfolk.

After losing the expression from the floor the Wayne faction started a move to secure a preferential vote from each member of the association.

This was intended to be done by mail, but Lehr, who had put the motion withdrew it and the question was left to the executive committee.

GULLIVER IS ELECTED.
The Wayne faction took a leading part in the election of officers and won this campaign by a close margin. It appeared from the vote that a number of the 105 teachers there previously had left the hall. A. F. Gulliver of Bloomfield was the unanimous choice of the convention for president. Mr. Gulliver's election was predicted when the convention opened. Then the Wayne normal started a campaign for E. E. Lackey of the Wayne normal and he was elected vice-president by a narrow margin. The same race was made for Miss Elizabeth Beechel also of the Wayne normal and she was elected 38 to 37 for secretary, succeeding E. D. Lundak of Wakefield.

Clinching the three officers who compose the executive committee the Wayne faction gave N. A. Housel of Madison their solid vote. This, with the solid vote of the Norfolk teachers, put Mr. Housel back as treasurer for the sixth term. The contest was carried on good naturedly throughout but much interest was caused in the successful manner in which Supt. Crosier parried the efforts of Mr. Conn. Both gentlemen shook hands cordially after the convention adjourned.

Marketing By Parcel Post
Marketing by parcel post is to be put to practical trial in Sacramento. The grangers of that part of the country, under the direction of David Lubin, who has a national fame for his activity in rural welfare work, are developing the details of a plan to bring the producer and the consumer of farm products closer together.

The object of the present experiment is to procure reliable data for pushing national legislation for a farm-to-table exchange via the P. O. "Make the parcel post the great medium of exchange," is Lubin's slogan.

Farmers desiring to register would buy forms and be given numbers. Consumers desiring to place orders would obtain a purchasing book. Products would be determined by colors, white for eggs, blue for butter, pink for chickens, and so on.

The mail order business of the country now amounts to over $100,000,000 a year.

Marketing by parcel post would be of far greater value to the people, therefore the Sacramento experiment will be worth watching. —Sioux City Daily News.

Pro and Con
Conservatives can always be found who object to every improvement. Two men stood watching a steam shovel at work. With a clatter and a roar the shovel bit into the steep bank, closed on a car load of earth and dumped it on a waiting freight train.

"It makes me wild," said the first onlooker, "to see that monster taking the bread out of good men's mouths. Look at it. Why, it's filling up those wagons faster than a hundred men with picks and shovels could do it!"

But the other onlooker shook his head and answered: "See here, mister, if it would be better to employ a hundred men with picks and shovels on this job, wouldn't it be better still by your way of thinking, to employ a thousand men with forks and tablespoons?" —Chicago Herald.

Florida has a well from which two kinds of water may be obtained. One a sulphur water at a depth of about 160 feet, the other a salty water at a depth about 150 feet greater. A small casing is put down to the lower depth and brings up the salt water through the sulphur water.

At Alliance the people and the council are considering the question of installing a municipal heating plant, utilizing the steam from the city power plant to heat the down town or business district. It is claimed that the waste heat under present plan of letting it escape will provide heat enough except in the colder weather, when it would require extra firing. Red Oak, Iowa, installed such a system a number of years ago, and after they got things adjusted so that they knew what amount of coal extra to put in, it was fairly satisfactory.

Thirty lumber dealers, or about that number were represented at a gathering at Hartington last week. Hartington, Fordyce, Crofton, Wynot, Obert, Newcastle, Maskel, Bloomfield, Wausa, Magnet, Randolph, Coleridge, Laurel and Concord were represented. The managers and auditors of the different companies with line yards were present. The papers do not say what was done at their business session and no organization or officers are reported. Knowing the tendency of the times the Democrat would advise people within the district represented at the gathering to buy early or pay more later. This cruel war is a mighty handy excuse to advance prices for which there is no just reason.

Crab Orchard is trying the experiment of making all dealings on a cash basis. That is, no business will be conducted unless cash, produce or bankable paper is made the basis of every transaction. Merchants and other business men of the town have entered upon a binding agreement to do no business unless on this basis. It is an experiment that will be watched with interest by all other communities, for if successful, it will place the town on a basis that will make it a most healthy rival for other communities in that territory. With everybody paying cash, and receiving it, the merchants should be able to do business on a much smaller margin. The buying public is going to be forced into economy and the whole of the city's business put on a solid foundation.

A conference for rural life workers will be held at the college of agriculture from June 14 to 23, 1916. It is not the purpose of the conference to provide instruction in technical agriculture, but rather to discuss means and methods for bringing about a better rural community life. The program will include lectures and discussions on the rural church, its function and program; the consolidated school; recreation in rural communities; boy's and girls' clubs; farm management; rural economics; value of soil culture; and animal husbandry. It is expected to have present Professor C. J. Galpin, lecturer on rural sociology of the University of Wisconsin; O. H. Bensen, national leader of Boys' and Girls' clubs of the U. S. department of agriculture; Mrs. Nellie F. Snyder, evening demonstrator of the same department; and Herbert M. Morse who has had extensive experience with religious and social surveys.

Twenty-three cities and villages of Nebraska will make gardening a part of the regular school work the coming season, in co-operation with the extension service of the college of agriculture. Each child will undertake not only to raise the vegetables but to market them, dispose of surplus products by canning, and keep a careful record of expense and receipts as well. The local work will be in charge of a garden supervisor hired by the school board. The extension service will furnish blanks, records, instruction sheets, and special instructors during the season. Credit for the completed project will be allowed in school work. The towns which have undertaken the project are Alliance, Ashland, Auburn, Beatrice, Benson, Blair, Central City, Chadron, Columbus, Crete, Crawford, Fairbury, Fremont, Fullerton, Grand Island, Holdrege, Howell, Kearney, Lincoln, Neligh, Peru, Superior, Stromsburg, and University Place.

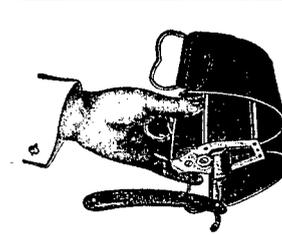

MANY people in this section think that Ivory is a laundry soap. So it is, but that is not all. It is equally fine for the toilet and for the same reasons that it is fine in the laundry.

Because it is pure, because it is mild, because it lathers freely and rinses easily, Ivory Soap is unequalled for all laundry work.

Are not these the qualities you desire in toilet soap? The fact is, you cannot get a better soap for the toilet than Ivory. Do not let its low price make you think otherwise.

The band boys realized about $28 on their concert and moving picture show given at the Royal last Friday evening. The place was not large enough to accommodate the people, and standing room along the aisles and at the rear was completely taken up. The music furnished by the band was the very best that it has been our privilege to hear rendered by the Carroll band.

The address given at the Carroll high school March 17 by Mrs. Crossland of Wayne to the mothers of the community, was very interesting and instructive. She also gave splendid talk to the young girls which was very much appreciated. Mr. J. H. Kemp gave the young boys some splendid advice and the W. C. T. Munchausen.

Perhaps the most volatile liar that ever lived was the Baron Munchausen—that is, the fictionalized baron. The real baron was a kindly soul who lived in Germany and who in nowise deserved the evil reputation that attached to him through the use of his name in a series of highly colored adventures that appeared in print in London in 1785.

The authorship of the absurd tales is a mystery. It is generally believed that Rudolph Erich Raspe, a questionable character, wrote the stories first, but there is no absolute confirmation. Following the original series a number of additional adventures were written by less skilled pens.

The real baron found little in life to enjoy after the stories became generally circulated. Curious tourists haunted his estates and tried to trap him into relating some wild story. At first he resented their attention in a vigorous fashion, but in his declining years he grew sour and morose and finally died, a most unhappy person, in 1797.—Kansas City Times.

HOGS LOWER; LAMBS STEADY

Beef Steers 10@15c Better Than Monday; Keen Demand for Cow Stuff; Hogs 5@10c Lower; Sheep and Lambs Steady.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Neb., April 5, 1916.—With a light run of cattle, and a good fair demand from all sources, the day's offerings were cleaned up at an early hour at prices ranging from 10@15c better than Monday, and all of 25c better than the close of last week, pretty good 1,200 to 1,300-lb. heaves bringing from $8.70@8.90, and fair 1,000 to 1,300-lb. heaves selling at $8.30@8.60. Very light supply of cows and heifers on the market Tuesday, the demand being good from all sources, choice heifers grades bringing $7.25@7.35, and on up. In the stocker and feeder line the trade brightened up somewhat, some choice fleshy steers selling at $8.50, the bulk of the good kinds, and fair grades going at $7.40@7.85.

Prime heaves, $9.10@9.30; good to choice heaves, $8.75@9.00; fair to good heaves, $8.30@8.70; common to fair heaves, $7.25@8.25; good to choice heifers, $7.25@8.25; good to choice cows, $6.75@7.75; fair to good cows, $6.00@6.75; canners and cutters, $4.50@6.00; veal calves, $7.00@10.25; bulls, stags, etc., $5.50@7.50; good to choice feeders, $7.85@8.40; good to choice stockers, $7.75@8.25; good to fair feeders, $7.40@7.70; common to fair feeders, $6.50@7.25; stock heifers, $6.75@7.75; stock cows, $6.75@7.00; stock calves, $7.00@8.00.

Tuesday's receipts of hogs was an extremely moderate run, the arrivals totaling only about 98 cars or 7,300 head. Shipping demand not very keen, and other markets reporting lower bids had a tendency toward bringing out prices that ranged generally five to ten cents lower, with the result the bulk of the hogs went at $9.35 to $9.45 with a top of $9.55 for the day.

Sheep and lamb receipts were very nominal, but 19 cars or 4,500 head being reported in. With a fair demand and only light receipts to select from everything desirable was cleaned up at an early hour at about steady prices with Mondays sales, a good bunch of Mexican lambs bringing $11.10, other Mexicans going as high as $11.00, while weighty offerings were cashed around $10.50. Very few ewes on the market but 3 cars of good stuff brought $8.10.

Farm and Garden

TO GROW ALFALFA.

Some First Principles Outlined by Math Michels.

They are calling alfalfa the queen of all the clovers in many sections of the great central west, says the Iowa Homestead. It yields mammoth crops under favorable conditions, and the hay is most nutritious. Furthermore, it is a soil enricher, so that crops that succeed alfalfa always yield bounteously. Those who have attained success in growing this crop as well as those who are without experience will be interested in the following paragraphs taken from an address recently delivered by the president of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association, Math Michels.

CUTTING ALFALFA.

consin Dairymen's association, Math Michels. Much good alfalfa doctrine is packed into the following lines:

Use home or western grown seed with a germination test of 95 per cent or better.

Select any soil that will grow corn. Fall plowing is preferable.

Thorough but shallow cultivation in the spring.

Sow fifteen pounds of alfalfa seed and one bushel of barley per acre.

If a drill with seeding attachment is used drop seed ahead of disks or shoes. No harrowing necessary after seeding. If the barley is sown first and the alfalfa seed put on by a hand seeder follow with light harrowing.

If the barley should happen to lodge cut for hay; if it stands up allow it to ripen. In either case get it off the field as soon as possible after cutting.

Do not cut again nor pasture the first year. The heavier the growth in the fall the better. This applies to old as well as new fields. No danger of smothering itself even if knee high.

Cut as soon as new sprouts grow out from the crown. This is usually at the time the first blossoms appear.

Alfalfa should be cut high. Tilt cutting bar a notch or two higher than you would for other grasses, so as not to injure the new sprouts, thereby getting a quicker start and more hay at the next cutting.

Alfalfa must be cut three times and only three times to keep it in the best of health.

If alfalfa fields should appear a little thin cultivate as soon as dry in the spring with a spring tooth harrow or hoe seeder, the same as you would a strawberry bed.

If possible give your alfalfa a light dressing of stable manure during the fall or winter. It will show results.

Do not overdo the curing in the field. Alfalfa can be put up easier and quicker than clover and still cure out well in the mow. Do not pile up high in mow in order to keep each cutting separate, but spread out as much as possible.

Remember as a weed destroyer the growing of alfalfa has no equal.

If you have alfalfa hay for sale get in touch with feeders and sell direct.

In selling alfalfa remember that the standard is set so high on the grade called "choice" that it is impossible for us to bale a car to meet the requirements of this grade.

In certain parts of the central west it might be necessary to qualify or alter one or two of the sentiments expressed above. While alfalfa, in the main, gives a good account of itself when seeded in the spring along with barley, yet, on the other hand, many growers are having splendid success by seeding it early in the fall. This method is particularly applicable to land that is foul with weeds. The annuals that germinate in the fall give no more bother, because when they freeze down it is the last of them. However, on clean soils that are sweet and ready for the crop the plan of sowing in the spring answers the purpose well, and no combination answers this purpose better than that of barley and alfalfa. If barley is seeded lightly and a good yield will be obtained, and yet there will be plenty of room for the alfalfa to make a showing even while the nurse crop is making headway.

To Utilize Mild Days.

The open, moderate days of winter can hardly be used more profitably than in hauling out the manure and spreading it on the wheat and alfalfa fields or those fields that will be planted to corn in the spring.

ALFALFA CULTURE.

An exchange speaks very aptly of the conquest of the farmers of the Mississippi valley by alfalfa. That is the right way to put it. The only parties to lie down and surrender are the farmers, for it is certain that the alfalfa does not change. Wherever it conquers a farmer's ignorance, prejudice, lack of courage, and all that, it goes ahead and makes a success of itself. But some farmers put up a stubborn fight and will not surrender, and there is no alfalfa grown on that man's farm.—Hoard's Dairyman.

SOW SPINACH NOW.

Good Results Are Obtained From Winter Planting.

September planting of spinach for early spring use is generally advised by vegetable gardeners. Failures with this method, however, are not infrequent, and it is not always convenient to sow spinach in the autumn. Better results on the whole can be had by winter planting.

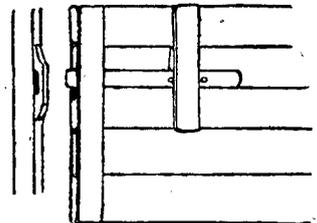

A well-enriched section of the garden, preferably a spot upon which well rotted manure has been spread in liberal quantities in the fall. No spading or forking of any sort is necessary. Select a still day in February, when the ground is bare of snow, sow the seed on the frozen soil and cover with a light layer of leaves or straw. If this is disturbed by later winds recover and weight down with bits of boards.

Early in March remove these weights, but let the cover remain. As soon as the seedlings are an inch high dress with nitrate of soda at the rate of an ounce to the square yard. Cultivation will not be necessary. As the plants increase in size thin to three inches apart. When these crowd take out every other plant. They will be large enough for cooking. Those that remain should be again dressed with nitrate of soda and used as rapidly as they show signs of crowding. By the middle of May only fully matured plants will remain. Some of these may measure eighteen inches in diameter.

When the bed is finally cleared—a space five feet square, by the way, will provide spinach enough for a family of four—early sown beets planted elsewhere in the garden will be high enough to demand thinning. Fill the spinach bed with these beets. This second crop will mature and be out of the way by the last week in June, when the bed should be well spaded, turning under rotted manure in the process, and planted to still a third crop. Late celery, especially the self blanching sorts, is excellent for that purpose.

Latch For Farm Gate.

A good latch for a gate may be made as shown in diagram—a sliding board placed above the middle board and an opening left in the end for it to slide through. Bore holes in this latch, one for peg to keep it from sliding out and one for peg to lock when closed. This peg should be attached with a string. For a nosing make as shown on post.

An Easy Celery Crop.

There are many ways of growing celery in the home garden, says the Country Gentleman, but one of the easiest and best ways is to sow the seed in May in a rich, damp place and then to cover it with a wet sack or a piece of burlap until it sprouts. The plants should be set out between the middle of July and the middle of August. They do not begin to grow well until the cool, rainy weather of late summer. They are set in trenches a foot wide, about nine inches deep and two feet apart. The plants are placed four inches apart in the row. As they grow the earth is filled in about them.

MATING PENS.

(C. S. Anderson, Colorado Station.)

Now is the time to mate up the breeding pens for hatching eggs. Make the final culling, retaining only the strongest, thriftiest individuals.

See that these layers are receiving a good laying ration, supplying plenty of protein, green feed and oyster shell. This is the time to feed the surplus vegetables that are stored away in the cellar. A cabbage head suspended by strings a couple of feet from the floor will be relished by the hens. Be sure you are giving them plenty of exercise. Whole grain should be fed in a ten inch litter.

Clean up the incubator and get it in running order. It might be advisable to run a trial hatch before the season opens.

There is always some new equipment such as brooders and feed toppers, and this is the time to order all such supplies.

Have you considered any addition to your poultry yard? A small trial with ducks, geese, turkeys, capons or pigeons may prove profitable.
