ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, APRIL 27, 1916

$1.50 PER YEAR

Death of William G. Wieland

In the passing of Wm. Gottfried Wieland of this city, one of the sturdy pioneers of the county has passed to his reward. Born December 20, 1846, at Oberstendfeld in the Kingdom of Wurtemberg, he came to America at the age of 22 years, and four years later was united in marriage to Katherine Roesch, who with six children survive him. For ten years they lived in Logan county, Illinois, then came to Nebraska, settling on a farm near Altona in 1882. This farm was their home until six years ago when they moved to Wayne.

Death came to Mr. Wieland at the Methodist hospital at Omaha the morning of April 21. He was taken to the hospital several days before, an operation for gall gravel being the only hope of prolonging life, but his seventy years of life and the advanced stage of his disease were against his recovery. The body was brought to his home in this city Friday evening, and the funeral services were held at the German Lutheran church by the pastor, Rev. Moehring Sunday afternoon, attended by a large number of relatives and friends, attesting the high regard in which himself and family have come to be held by those who have long known them. The burial was in the Wayne cemetery.

Two sons and four daughters, all of this vicinity, besides the wife, live to mourn his death, Osear and William. Mrs. Adolph Brinkmann, Mrs. Chas. Mau, jr., and Misses Bertha and Sophia Wieland. Two sisters, Mrs. Greenwald and Mrs. Gaebler of this county also mourn the death of their brother. The family have the sympathy of the many friends of this worthy neighbor and citizen.

Wayne Hospital Notes

Mr. O. R. Stukas of Laurel, was at the hospital this week where he had his nose attended to. The nose had been broken about four years ago. The operation was successful and Mr. Stukas left for his home in a few days.

Miss Olive Ulrich from near Hoskins was at the hospital this week and had her tonsils and adenoids removed, and Miss Esther Ankeny was there Monday for a like operation.

Mr. P. Saul of Silverton, Colorado, who has been visiting at Winside for a few days, was taken seriously ill and was brought to the Wayne hospital on Tuesday. Mr. Saul's condition is said to be critical and the chances are that he will have to undergo an operation on the stomach.

Gladys, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Halliday, while playing with a young colt on the Halliday place about six miles from town, was kicked in the face. The upper lip was cut open, inflicting a very painful wound. The child was taken to the hospital at once where the injury was cared for.

Mr. Phillip Sullivan, who underwent an operation about four weeks ago for the removal of a tumor from the bladder, is now up and around his room at the hospital and is out of doors part of the time.

The Dates for Corn Planting

Will Weber, who gives considerable study to weather conditions, and the best time to plant different crops has been giving his attention to the coming corn planting time, and has the belief that conditions will be right for best results on the following dates: May 5th and 6th, May 11th, 15th and 16th, and also on June 3d, 4th, 8th, 9th and 13th.

We do not know by what method he determines these dates, but he hopes that if those who read these lines do not take the matter seriously enough to follow the dates, that they will at least compare results of any corn put in on above dates and report whether or not there appears to be any marked difference. We all know that a difference of a few days in planting frequently makes an apparent difference in the returns, and perhaps Mr. Weber has the solution.

Local Weather Forecast

For the week from May 2 to 9, frequent showers, says Will Weber. Get an umbrella if you can find one advertised.

Vath-Piepenstock

A quiet home wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Piepenstock, Tuesday, April 25th, 1916, when their daughter, Miss Mollie was given in marriage to Mr. Lester W. Vath of Sidney. Rev. Rudolph Moehring performed the impressive ceremony in accordance with the ritual of the German Lutheran church, in the presence of a small party of relatives and immediate friends. Mrs. Martin Ringer played the wedding march as the bridal couple approached the altar, and Mr. Martin Ringer and Miss Gladys Vath, a sister of the groom, were groomsmen and bridesmaid.

Immediately following the ceremony, which was at high noon, an elaborate wedding dinner was served, after which the bride and groom left by automobile and drove to some point to catch an Omaha train, from where they may go to Denver before reaching their home at Sidney.

The bride is an accomplished young lady who grew to womanhood here, and numbers her friends by the hundred. The groom formerly clerked at the Felber pharmacy here, and also has many Wayne friends and all join in good wishes.

They will be at home at Sidney, where Mr. Vath is proprietor of a prosperous drug business. The only out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Vath and their daughter from Columbus.

Likes Montana Prospect

Last week M. T. McInerney returned from a trip to northeastern Montana, where himself and daughter Agnes went two weeks before. He was much pleased with the appearance of the country there, and himself, son John and the daughter who accompanied him each filed on a half section, two of the claim joining and the other about four miles distant. Mr. McInerney is now busy getting things in shape to load a car for his new home and plans to leave the last of the week with horses, cattle, pigs and poultry, besides machinery, etc., for the place. He arranged for some plowing, and is expecting to get in a crop this season. R. E. Tweedy, who is at the Model Pharmacy has the fever and is planning to accompany Mr. McInerney to his western home and if suited secure for himself a farm.

Telephone Manager Meeting

Wayne was visited last week from Monday until Thursday by the telephone managers from a number of northeast Nebraska towns which comprise the Wayne district. The towns represented were Laurel, Dakota City, Emerson, Randolph, South Sioux City, Wakefield and Winside. The sessions were devoted exclusively to business and were largely in the nature of schools of instruction, each giving experiences and plans, with Mr. F. B. Butt, division, special agent of the Nebraska division as instructor. Efficient methods for improved service were discussed. Much help is thought to result from these meetings. Although the meeting continued three days it was all devoted to business.

Commercial Club

There will be a called meeting of the commercial club of Wayne Monday night, May 1st, at the city hall. Matters of importance are to be considered. A new constitution will be submitted and the proposition to increase the membership and admit to membership farmers, clerks and all citizens of the community, will be up for action. It is an important meeting and every member of the club is urged to be present. Remember the time, day and place—eight o'clock in the evening on Monday the first day of May at the city hall. J. J. AHERN, Pres. W. L. GASTON, Sec.

Special Meeting of Casey Post

There is a special meeting called for the members of the Casey Post, No. 5, department of Nebraska, at the Odd Fellows hall, Saturday afternoon, April 29, at 3 p. m. Important business to be considered. By request of the Commander.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

Mrs. Mabel Stevens—Evangelist

Splendid reports continue to come to us about Mrs. Mabel Stevens and her work. There certainly has never been an evangelist like her in Wayne. The Wayne people have always had an idea and an ideal for an evangelist. It must be a person of marked ability, with a deep and vital experience of Salvation; one who will be courteous at all times; one with an absorbing interest and serving all of the people; who does not work primarily for effect, numbers or offering. They must have a big enough grip upon the community to compel attendance and interest, actually winning people to Christ. And when you have described your ideal evangelist you might as well write her name for it is Mrs. Mabel Stevens. The lady who begins meetings in the Methodist church Thursday evening the fourth day of May. Wherever Mrs. Stevens holds meetings, business men, bankers, farmers, merchants, school teachers, housewives, and children are won to Christ and hundreds are added to the churches. A neighboring pastor who has had Mrs. Stevens in meetings said to us the other day, "I do not know of any evangelist anywhere that I would rather have to conduct a meeting in my church. She is absolutely a wonderful woman, wholly consecrated to God and the work." The young man who is with her to conduct the singing is splendid. A pastor who knows his work says that Wayne will be agreeably surprised and greatly pleased with Mr. Hudson and his work.

Our Sunday school has purchased the Rodeheaver song book entitled, "Songs for Service." We begin using this book with the orchestra next Sunday evening. We will expect to learn a large number of these rousing songs during the meeting. Let all of the christian people of Wayne pray and work that this may be a blessed meeting opening the way for the tabernacle meetings next winter. Let us make this a great year in evangelism for Wayne and Wayne churches. A. S. BUELL.

School Notes

The date of the senior class play has been fixed for Friday evening, May 12. The class is working hard to make this year's play, "The Lion Tamer," one of the best plays ever given by the high school.

The board of education recently filled the vacancies remaining in the high school faculty by electing the following teachers: John Branigan, manual training, science and athletics; Maud Flock, Latin and German; Clara Hoese, domestic science and sciences.

Miss Irene Carpenter of the senior class has the sympathy of the entire school in the death of her little brother.

The high school boys enjoyed a banquet and social evening in the Baptist church parlors Tuesday evening in honor of H. L. Heinzmann, secretary of the student department of the international Y. M. C. A., who was in the city this week. Toasts were responded to by several of the high school boys, and Mr. Heinzmann made an address.

Harry L. Heinzmann made an interesting and inspiring address before the high school yesterday afternoon. Several visitors were present. Mr. Heinzmann vividly described scenes he had witnessed in training camps, hospitals, transportation ships, trenches, battle fields, and industrial centers. His audience was made to feel the awfulness of war. He made a strong plea for peace, and expressed the hope that America should stand for a real brotherhood of man in these troublesome times.

Recent visitors were Mrs. F. S. Berry and mother, and Mrs. E. B. Erskine.

The German club enjoyed a six o'clock dinner in the high school parlors yesterday evening. Rev. Moehring was present and addressed the club on German institutions. This club has enjoyed several social meetings this year. This is the last meeting for the year.

The school is fortunate in securing for the baccalaureate address, Dr. L. D. Young, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Lincoln.

Social Notes

An indoor picnic was given by the ladies of the Acme club to their husbands at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs last Monday evening. The rooms were very beautifully decorated. In the hall a table was filled with potted plants, while in the living room the mantle was banked with Easter flowers. On the buffet was a miniature farm yard scene, the house, barn, haystacks, pond with ducks, the chickens and people, giving the house a picnic atmosphere. The guests came attired in picnic garb and were ushered into the living room where a long table stood. Each guest was given a tiny bouquet with a paper attached. The gentlemen had the question and the lady the answer, which was the name of a flower. After the partners were secured, the dining room doors were thrown open, disclosing another table which was filled with baskets, and each was told to take one and find their places at either of the tables. The baskets were found to contain a picnic supper with plenty of fried chicken and all the other good things which make a supper complete. After supper the tables were removed and Mr. Britell in a few very well chosen words welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Senter as members, who responded very nicely. After a social hour all were told to get their wraps and baskets and follow and soon found themselves at the Crystal in time for the last performance, which closed a most enjoyable evening. Mrs. Harris of El Paso, Texas, who is visiting her brother, Prof. Davies, was a guest of the club.

The music club, a number of young people under the direction of Mrs. House, gave a banquet Friday evening, each club member inviting a guest. They met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. House, where a delicious two-course luncheon was served at six o'clock. The evening was spent in games and music, piano selection being given by members of the club. Later in the evening they all visited a number of homes of the club members and friends serenading them. The writer knows from experience that their singing was very entertaining. When the last home on the list had been visited they dispersed, each seeking home and sweet sleep.

Mrs. Harry Fisher and Mrs. Chas. Craven were hostesses at a delightful 3-course luncheon served at one o'clock Monday afternoon, to the ladies of the U. D. club. The house was very beautifully decorated with Easter flowers. Color scheme was pink and white with sweet peas as centerpiece and place cards. The afternoon was spent in playing 500. Guests of the club were, Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Mrs. Don Cunningham, Mrs. Rollie Ley and Miss Ella Morrisson. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Morris.

Easter Sunday being Mrs. W. L. Gaston's birthday—the last one, this year at least—the ladies of the Aid society and their husbands invaded the Baptist parsonage Monday evening to assist in properly celebrating the event, much to the surprise of both Rev. and Mrs. Gaston. The occasion was a most enjoyable one, and it was at a late hour that the guests departed with the best wishes for a long and happy life.

Monday evening the town orchestra, composed of the town's young musicians gathered for practice at the home of Elizabeth Mines. The evening's entertainment terminated into a farewell party for Mr. Tweedy, its organizer. Light refreshments were served by the girls of the orchestra after which the members departed wishing Mr. Tweedy success in his new western home.

The Minerva club met this week with Mrs. Hickman on Monday afternoon. Current events with Mrs. House as leader. Mrs. Coleman gave a book review entitled, "Immigrant Forces." Mrs. Hickman gave several selections on the phonograph. The regular meeting, May 8th, with Mrs. Lackey will be an election of officers and a social afternoon.

The Minerva club party which was to have been given Friday evening has again been postponed, the hostess having an injured foot and Mrs. Grothe, one of the committee, being called away.

The Union Bible Circle met with Mrs. Hickman last Tuesday. The meeting was well attended and was very interesting. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. B. Young, Tuesday afternoon.

The Girl's Bible Circle met with Miss Ella Benschoff last Saturday evening. Next meeting will be with J. G. W. Lewis next Saturday evening.

The Monday club did not meet this week, the hostess, Mrs. Heckert, being seriously ill. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Bowen.

The Westminster Guild will meet next Tuesday evening with Mrs. Wendte.

To the Electors of Wayne County

At the urgent request of a committee of prominent democrats I have accepted the nomination for representative from this county, and I shall endeavor to be both fair and efficient in striving for the election. President Wilson will undoubtedly be nominated and re-elected which renders national politics of little interest to a Nebraska democrat.

The prohibition problem is a purely personal matter in which the legislature will have no voice. If elected I shall strive for the re-submission of the constitutional amendment that was defeated by the Omaha bankers in 1914, who were ashamed to sign their names to a libellous 11th hour circular they sent to farmers warning them that it provided for the single tax, making land alone taxable, which was false. This amendment called for an income tax, reasonable exemptions, and progressive taxation, which means that the more land a person or corporation owns the higher would be their rate of taxation. The British government forced the owners of large Irish estates to sell their renters on 75 years' time at 2 per cent interest. Nebraska can do the same through the power of taxation.

As a sister bill I would also strive for the re-submission of the Suffrage amendment and have both bills submitted to the electors at a special election. The friends of one measure would yield their objections to the other thereby insuring the adoption of both.

I favor an amendment to the primary law, providing that all candidates other than governor, United States senator, district, county and precinct candidates be nominated at a state convention.

I favor regulating the stock yards as Congress is regulating the armor plate factories. Let the state either construct or purchase. C. J. RUNDELL

State Normal Notes

The next meeting of the board of education will be held at Lincoln on May 12.

Among those recently elected for grade positions are: Gladys Dennis, Algona, Iowa, and Lillie Goldsmith, Wisner, Nebraska.

Miss Frances White, a Junior, won the nomination for county superintendent of Harlan county. Her majority was more than 300.

Friends of John J. Gross, formerly football coach at the Normal, are pleased to learn that he won the nomination for county attorney of Cuming county at the primaries held on the 18th.

H. J. Plymmer, class of 1915, principal of the Pierce high school, was nominated for treasurer of Pierce county. Mr. Plymmer was formerly deputy in the treasurer's office.

Miss Kingsbury writes that she is now at the home of her brother in Ithaca, New York, and that she is greatly improved in health.

The young men of the school have had some helpful suggestions from Mr. Harry L. Heinzman, secretary student department of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Heinzman addressed the school at convocation Wednesday morning and in the evening he gave a talk to the young men. Last spring he went to England and France in the interest of his work, and for four months was in close personal touch with the soldiers and with life in the trenches. In his convocation talk he spoke on conditions in the warring nations, and in support of any movement that would bring about world peace. As evidence of the effects of war, he spoke of the students who are now serving in the ranks, of college buildings turned into barracks and hospitals, and of women doing the work of men. In Paris he called at the office of the Y. M. C. A. secretary and found a woman in charge. The secretary had gone to the front and the work of the association was being directed by women. Mr. Heinzman is an interesting speaker, and he made many friends as a result of his first visit to the normal.

The order of exercises for the sixth annual commencement will be as follows: Sunday evening, May 21, baccalaureate services; Tuesday evening, May 23, Senior class play; Wednesday afternoon, May 24, field day exercises; Thursday, May 25, May Festival; Friday, May 26, graduating exercises. A class of sixty will be graduated this year, and the commencement address will be given by Hon. John L. Kennedy of Omaha.

Miss Relyea, who is teaching at Neligh, was home for Easter Sunday with her parents, S. D. Relyea and wife.

Mrs. Geo. Bumgarner from Laurel was here Sunday to visit her little daughter at the Panabaker home.

At Neligh they are trying to turn the river back into the old channel which it wandered from last summer during one of the seasons of high water.

Miss Mabel Shurtliff returned to her home at Walthill Sunday after a visit at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin, north of Wayne.

Miss Maude Grothe was home from Sioux City for Saturday and Sunday, and a young man—quite young—Master Medford Daugherty, came with her for a Saturday outing.

C. L. Culler of the Hartington school, and well known at Wayne where he lived for a number of years, has resigned to accept the superintendency of the South Sioux City schools, where the salary is more enticing.

W. E. Watkins has joined the army of commercial travelers, and adds one more to the list of "knights of the grip" who make Wayne headquarters. He is selling in this territory and northwestern Iowa meats for the Morrell Packing Co., of Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Nebraska has promise now of a large fruit crop with the exception of peaches. If the apple crop comes on good after the danger of frost has passed, it will be the part of wisdom to arrange to spray in order that the fruit may be marketable if there is any to sell, and eatable for the grower as well as giving it better keeping qualities.

Pete Lewis came over from the Madison county farm Friday and after a day with home folks here went to Lincoln for a few days visit at the university and with school friends. He reports that they have been doing a nice bit of business in seed corn this spring, sold two valuable Shorthorn bulls and a span of mares that brought above the $600 price.

It has been figured out that there is enough land in the right of ways of several railroads of the state to make 1,000 farms of 100 acres each. True, no doubt, but what would those farms be worth without the railroads. Many thousand acres of Nebraska land are given to public highways, but that is no sign we could farm them without the roads. Both road and railroads are needlessly wide in places, but no one wants to take all of their right of way. And they do not want the roads to rule the state because they have the right to run trains on their own track.

Mel Norton went to Sioux City for a day or two Saturday.

Mrs. W. R. Thomas of Carroll went to Sioux City Monday.

Mrs. Frank Gaertner is home from a month treatment at Rochester, and is improved in health greatly.

Miss Virginia Hale of Norfolk was here last week a guest at the home of her cousin, W. A. Hiccox and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stanton and son and daughter Matt and Madeline from Carroll were visitors at Sioux City Monday.

G. F. Harper of the Democrat force went to Storm Lake, Iowa, Saturday to spend Easter with home folks, returning Monday evening.

August Loberg and son W. J., were at Sioux City Saturday with two cars of hogs that were good enough to bring $9.50. They shipped from Carroll, near which place they have an excellent farm.

Prof. I. H. Britell and family were visitors at Sioux City Saturday, Miss Fannie coming down from Bloomfield Saturday morning and joining the other members of the family here.

Double Discount Checks given on all Men's and Boy's Summer Underwear next Wednesday, May 3rd, Gamble & Senter.—Adv.

A stranger on his first visit to Wayne looked up Main street and having had a partial view of the place while approaching by train, remarked that it seemed strange to him that a place of this size was not paved. Yes, it is, but some fine day it will be different.

Fred Stone, who has been having treatment at Sioux City for his head, went in Monday morning for what he expects to be the final work in connection with the operation. After several years of suffering from headache he appreciates the relief which the work thus far has afforded him. He now has reasonable hope that his relief will be permanent. His brother from Sioux Falls, met him there and spent the day with him.

Rev. F. G. Schaler and W. R. Schmidt of Altona were Wayne visitors Monday, coming in with the class which was confirmed at the German Lutheran church at that place a week ago Sunday to have a picture of the class taken. In making mention of the confirmation two weeks ago the Democrat item in relation to the event used the name of Mr. Schmidt, who is the teacher there in place of Rev. Scholler. Mr. Smith informs us that their school began again this week with 47 pupils, many of them little ones.

Bert Atkinson, editor of the Carroll Index and family, were through here Sunday morning, being called to Pilger to meet her brother, Vern Kuntzelman, who came to make them a visit. He has just completed a four-year term in the navy where he won a place as a crack gunner. He saw much of the world during his term of service and had some startling experiences. He was on the battleship which a few months ago had so much boiler trouble, a number of the boilers exploding, and which was left in such a disabled condition so far as power was concerned that she had to call for help and be towed back to port. He will probably remain on land now for a time, at least if he will listen to the wish of relatives.

Miss Ruth Fortner returned to Laurel Sunday evening, where she is teaching, after spending Easter with home folks.

Aug. Dangberg went to Omaha Monday evening with a car of cattle from his farm feed lot, a bunch of pretty, well-finished stuff.

Pay less and dress better—Styleplus Clothes $17. Gamble and Senter.—Adv.

Saturday was a splendid day, clear and cool with excellent roads for this season of the year, and the result was what might be expected. A large number of shopper were at Wayne all afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Geo. Hofeldt went to Rochester, Minnesota, Monday to visit a daughter, Mrs. W. W. Shinkal who lives there. The cause of the visit just now is that word came that it would be necessary for the young lady to undergo an operation for appendicitis this week.

Miss Elisabeth O'Brien, who attended normal here and later worked for the Herald, spent Sunday at Wayne. She is at present engaged at Omaha making copy for the printer from the notes of some one who has recently returned from a trip in South America, and is going to publish a book of the sights seen during his sojourn.

County Commissioner George Jorgensen left Wednesday for Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo an operation for the removal of a growth on his left jaw. George had a tooth treated some time ago and soon noticed the swelling, which has failed to respond to treatment and so an operation was decided upon. E. P. Ekman of Wausau has recently invented and applied for a patent on a device for fastening storm windows and window screens on the house from the inside, doing away with the use of a ladder for upper windows, and a chair or bench for the first floor windows, as well as being supposed to eliminate all need for cuss words sometimes carelessly dropped while trying to put the things up in the old way.

The western division of the American Union of Swedish Singers will hold a convention and festival in the Municipal auditorium, Omaha, June 19 to 22. Thirty-six singing societies with a total of more than six hundred voices will make up the chorus. Three soloists of national reputation will supplement the choral part of the festival and are: Miss Corinne Paulson, pianist, an Omaha girl who has received much favorable comment abroad; Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano, who has been in great demand among the Swedish Singing societies both as a festival soloist and recitalist, all uniting to honor the voice and art of their gifted country woman, and Albert Lindquist the celebrated young American tenor.

Men! We've your size in overalls, just received 60 doz. German dyed ones. Gamble & Senter.—Adv.

Last Friday afternoon O. C. Lewis returned from McDonald, Kansas, with the body of his little grandson, Robert Lewis Leebrock, who died at their Kansas home the first of the week. The body was taken to the cemetery and placed by the side of his grandmother, after a short service at the grave by Rev. Buell. Mr. Lewis reports that the other grandchild had been quite ill, but appears to be improving slowly again.

Students of the University of Nebraska have accepted the invitation extended by the Bureau of Publicity to spend a day in Omaha. They will arrive from Lincoln early in the morning and will be given a day of sight-seeing and varied entertainment. Tours will be conducted to all parts of the city and it is expected the students will take advantage of this opportunity to study their metropolis.

Omaha is today the second greatest live stock and packing center in the world. Figures compiled at the leading packing centers of the country for the first three months of this year prove this conclusively. The stock yards at Omaha made new records in all three months of the first quarter of this year, the receipts being: Hogs, 1,116,434; cattle, 385,342; sheep, 586,597.

Miss Hilda Larson came home from Omaha to spend Easter at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Larson. Miss Hilda is a member of the junior class at the school for mutes at Omaha, and naturally enjoyed this little vacation spent with home folks where fresh eggs in plenty were to be had for an Easter occasion. She returned Monday and her mother accompanied her for a short stay in the city.

"Dick" Russell, one of the pioneers of this county, came over from Tilden Monday to look after his property interests here and visit old friends, for he still finds a few who knew him in the earlier days. He tells us that he walked from Fremont to this county in 1869 and took a homestead right on the south line of this county, and it so happened that when the railroads were built a few years later, it proved that he was just half way between the two lines—the one through Wakefield and this place and the one up the Elkhorn through Wisner. It is 10 1/2 miles from his homestead to Wakefield and the same distance to Wisner. He is about the same distance from Pender, and a half further from Wayne. He talks of moving back to Wayne another spring, had planned to come this spring, but failed to complete arrangements. He has seen a wonderful development in this county in 47 years since he plodded out from Fremont by the foot and walker line.

MARKETING THE EGG CROP

Woman Farm Agent Arouses Interest in Subject. Answer to This Problem Would Mean Much to Any Community.

AN EGG CIRCLE IS PROPOSED

From Norfolk Press.
Marketing the egg crop was a topic of special interest to the ladies attending the cooking demonstration by the woman farm agent at the home of Mrs. Wm. Rice in Warnerville Thursday last. And it is with good reason that this subject is discussed, for it is one of vital interest to every farm home in the county and state. The country merchant finds it a problem fully as perplexing to him and every town and city dweller finds it more or less a problem.

When it is estimated that the annual production of poultry and eggs in the United States is in excess of $600,000,000—equal to the value of the hay or wheat crop—and when it is estimated that there is a total loss of nearly 8 per cent of the eggs marketed, the importance of this subject is evident.

This great loss is due largely to improper handling between the farm and market. Most farmers look upon eggs as a by-product, and the returns as so much clear gain. The hens forage for a living, eggs are gathered when convenient and kept almost anywhere. With such carelessness and a combination of mongrel stock, dirty nests, stolen eggs of broody hens, unconfined males, late maturing pullets, and other undesirable conditions, is it any wonder that the product includes such a high per centage of small, cracked, dirty, stale, heated and even rotten eggs?

Occasionally the accumulations of all these kinds of eggs are taken to the country merchants and exchanged for merchandise. The merchant usually buys these eggs "case count" paying the same price for all kinds and sizes, provided they are eggs with an unbroken shell. Small production results in smaller infrequent shipments.

Many of these losses can be prevented by:

- Selecting pure breeds that lay more and larger eggs, such as the White Leghorns, Wyandottes, Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, Orpingtons, etc.
- Giving better, care, food, and shelter, with dry, clean, vermin-proof nests.
- Confining males except in breeding season.
- Collecting eggs frequently, especially in hot or muggy weather.
- Storing eggs in a dry, clean, cool place.
- Using small and dirty eggs at home.
- Marketing frequently, with protection at all times from heat.
- Selling for cash on a basis of size and quality, "loss off" instead of "case count."
- Using an attractive package.
- Combining shipments as a matter of economy.

By uniting several egg producers in an association more can be accomplished in these essentials. One very successful egg company has a large incubator house with 12,000 eggs capacity, where early chicks are produced for the members at a low cost. This is done in order to obtain early maturing pullets, thus securing eggs during the fall, when eggs are usually scarce. The company also has a receiving room for eggs where they are candled, sorted to weight (about 24 ounces to the dozen), packed in cartons, and shipped on contract orders. Their eggs are all guaranteed to be according to grade, they advertise the fancy grades on their cartons and cases, and market prices are paid to the members. Twice a year dividends are paid each member in proportion to the amount of eggs marketed through the company and the time of the year eggs were brought in, a larger dividend being paid per dozen for eggs brought in during the fall and winter than for those brought in during the spring and summer, estimated by months. A regular trade is established with discriminating consumers, with city clubs, with the best class of hotels and restaurants, and with fancy grocers for a supply each day or week.

The reputation thus established enables this association to fix its price several cents per dozen above the regular market quotations, as fancy trade is willing to pay a premium for a guaranteed article. Most egg circles co-operate in buying their chicken feed and other poultry supplies.

All food products should be delivered in a clean, attractive package. Some of the most successful egg shippers have discarded the dirty wooden cases and are using a heavy fiber-board gift case, which will hold from 15 to 30 pasteboard cartons. Each carton has compartments for 12 eggs. Upon both the cartons and the case can be printed such advertising as may be wished. This style of package is especially desirable for the fancy retail grocer who can have his firm name included in the advertising. The fiber-board case is not expensive, forms a good protection to the eggs in shipping, and is worthy of trial.

With a firm container, parcel post can be used for small shipments to private homes within first and second zones; that is, 150 miles. Each egg should be wrapped in paper to hold it snugly on end, in its own individual compartment of the container, so that it has no play; and after the container is closed it should be securely wrapped in strong wrapping paper and tied with coarse strong cord.

Wayne County Grown Lumber

The early settler hardly expected to see the time when Wayne county would be operating sawmills and cutting lumber from native grown trees, yet this has come to pass in a number of instances. J. E. Mahaffey and J. H. Wright last week finished sawing a cottonwood grove for Lon Hunter not far from Wayne from which they made about 30,000 feet of lumber. This week they are making sawdust for E. Meyer. Cottonwood is not a very high grade of lumber but for inside work, once it is in place, it is as good as many another which costs more.

Does Wayne Need Demonstrator?

At the risk of being called up on the carpet by some of our good farmer friends as the editor frequently is, "yes" is the Democrat answer to the question. Only a short time ago a good friend who does not agree with the editor on the question of farm demonstrator, intimated that the farmers should "butt in" and secure a boss to show us how to make a newspaper, and we agree with him, for we need all the help and good advice we can get in the task we have on hand. He seemed to hold to the idea that a demonstrator was a "boss" for the farmer, but we hold that that is a mistake, and that the demonstrator is an advisor and an assistant for the man who tills the soil. But before our friend finished his talk he gave us another reason why there should be a demonstrator in this county.

This man implied that if they raised more stuff they would glut the market and cited the fact that he had lost several hundred bushels of apples last fall, because no one wanted them—yet the people of Wayne and his own town have been shipping apples in and selling them with the cost of freight and dealer's profit added, ever since this man let his apples rot in the orchard, because he did not know how and where to sell them. To find a market for surplus perishable crops is a part of the work of the demonstrator, and had this county a demonstrator last season he would doubtless have known that this county would have more than enough apples to supply local demand. He could easily have found a market for the surplus with all the Dakotas and northern Minnesota shipping apples right past our door. Beyond a doubt the aid of a demonstrator last season, in this one matter, would have paid this man more profit on the one crop than his share of the pay for such a man would have amounted to the rest of his life time.

Apples rot every season in Nebraska, somewhere for several reasons. One is, they are not properly sprayed and cared for during the growing season. Another, the proper varieties were not grown to have first place in the market. Still another, they are not properly handled and graded and packed.

The farmer needs a demonstrator because his business embraces such a wide and varied scope that few men can encompass them all and take the time which the farmer must give to the physical exercise necessary to even keep the weeds from his crop and harvest them. Besides, many of the farmers of this state today have not had opportunity to learn much that is profitable to know of farming. But the farmer is moving forward with great strides, and when he sees that he can speed up a bit by hiring an assistant in the form of an advisor, he has the little five cents an acre, which is all it would cost the average Wayne county farmer, to plank down for the man.

We favor the employment of a demonstrator, but will be glad to give space for those who oppose one, too give the public his reason for the faith which is in him.

Tells of Early Days in State

From Columbus Telegram:

One of the real pioneer farmers in Platte county visited Columbus yesterday. His name is Henry Gardner, now residing in Emerson, Nebraska. He came to Nebraska early in 1861, walking the distance from Omaha to Columbus, because there was no railroad in those days. His father took a claim five miles west of Duncan, and the railroad siding at the point was named Gardner in his honor. Columbus was then the nearest town, and the nearest postoffice. Mr. Gardner circulated a petition for a postoffice nearer his home and the government established Cherry Hill postoffice on the site where the village of Duncan now stands. Just how they came to call it "Cherry Hill" is not disclosed by the records, but it is quite likely that the name was given because of the abundance of choke cherries in the hills north of Duncan. Mr. Gardner left this county in 1873, moving to Sherman county, where he resided fifteen years. He then went to the Pacific coast country, remaining there until 1908, when he came back to Nebraska, and has since resided in Wayne, and also at Emerson, his present home. His business in Columbus at this time is to give testimony in the suit of the Union Pacific railroad company against several land owners, in an effort to establish railroad title to 400 feet of right of way. The company's suit against Martin Karges and other Platte county farmers, is expected to be called in court during the coming week. The stories which Mr. Gardner tells about life in Platte county in the days before the birth of the average inhabitant of this day are very interesting.

State Tennis Meet at Wayne

The Sunday World-Herald gives place on its sporting page to the announcement of the coming state tennis tournament at this place some week in July, the exact date of which is not yet fixed. This will be the second meeting of the association here within three years. The World-Herald story is partially given below:

So successful was the tournament two years ago that when Wayne asked the state tennis association at Lincoln last summer for another chance to entertain the request wielders of the state again this year there wasn't a dissenting voice to be heard from any section.

Already the boosters here, whether they are tennis players or not, have united in an organization to bring every seasoned tournament player in the state to this city during the week of play. More than 100 men are expected.

The clay courts at Wayne are among the very best in this section of the country. They are carefully taken care of all the time by a man who understands the art, and a player can rest assured that he will get everything that is coming to him insofar as the courts are concerned.

The proof of this lies in the fact that Wayne entertained the Northeast Nebraska association players last summer, and that although it rained every day during the tournament, play was completed on schedule time. Tournaments are not new in Wayne, either. The city has entertained six different championships during the last seven years.

But it's easy for Wayne. With a tennis club that numbers fifty men, every one of whom is a hard worker to see that nothing is left undone, it's very simple to get the work completed on time.

At the state tournament two years ago every visiting player was housed and entertained in the private homes of Wayne's best citizens, absolutely gratis. It is intended to do the same thing again this year, only on a much larger scale. Added to this will be an elaborate program of evening entertainment.

The secret of all this booster stuff may be found in the organization here of the Enway Sinner Club, which proposes to devote its entire energy toward making the visitors feel perfectly at home, no matter where they may be while in this city.

Among other Omaha men who have been elected to take the third degree in this new secret organization are Clarke (Ivory) Powell, president of the state association; Harry Koch, treasurer; Johnny Madden, Club Potter, Art Saribner and maybe, Spike Kennedy. Kennedy's name is before the committee as a doubtful prospect.

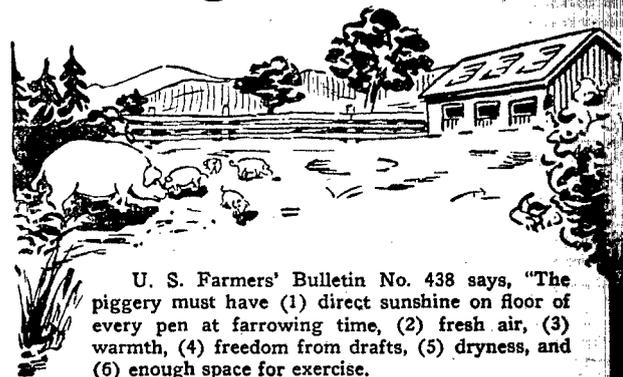

However, it takes thirteen black balls to keep a man out of this organization, so it is hoped Kennedy will get through on the third or fourth ballot.

Not only are the tennis players all solidly united in the scheme to make this the biggest and best tournament ever held in the state, but the citizens who do not play—the mayor, the president of the Commercial Club, the ministers—everyone, in fact, men, women and children, are hard at work preparing for a grand blow-off when the meet is scheduled.

About 18 years ago now we were handing an ultimatum to Spain. The rest of the story will be found in the history of the war and the life of Teddy.

Now let's find out who they are and what they stand for since they are nominated. The chaff is now supposed to be sifted from the grain and those supposed to be best fitted are to make the race to see who can first top the next hurdle.

The unofficial returns from Pierce county indicate that A. H. Backhaus, editor of the Leader, who aspired to the democratic nomination for representative was defeated by about 17 votes. Florian Fuchs was the man who held high place. Well, the newspaper man who does his duty is not apt to win a majority of the people unless he has been on duty long enough for the public to understand him and that his motives are good, and the three score and ten allotted to man is not enough.

Teddy says that if Germany now accedes to the demands of this government and is good, Pres. Wilson is in the hole for not making his demands earlier. And if Germany still stands pat it will be just as bad for the president because he did not find out months ago just where he was at. Mean time the vote for Henry Ford for president is getting sufficiently large for Teddy to begin to set up and take notice that there is a wonderful sentiment in the republican party for peace as well as in the democratic ranks. It is evident that the majority of the people do not want war, and do not want to name a warrior as their president.

SECONDHAND GLASS.

Interesting Methods of a Business That is Quite Extensive.

The salvage glass industry is of such importance and extent that many dealers in secondhand glass specialize in one branch or another. Some, for instance, handle only plate glass that comes to them by reason of the demolition of old buildings, razed to make place for new structures. Salvage glass of this sort brings prices not far below those of new glass.

A considerable quantity of the salvage glass dealer's stock emanates from the plate glass insurance companies. The methods of these companies in taking over glass vary. One concern may keep no stock on hand, simply buying whatever is required to replace a broken pane, disposing of the broken glass, if enough remains to be sold, to the salvage dealer. Sometimes a company will have a warehouse of its own, to which it will remove broken glass that may still be in condition to use. Frequently it will happen that only one corner has been broken from a large pane and that this may be cut down to fit a smaller window.

Most plate glass is insured, but there is much that is not. In the case of an uninsured plate that is broken the owner must, of course, go to a dealer for a new plate. He will sell the broken plate to the salvage dealer. It follows therefore that from insurance companies, from building wreckers and from owners of uninsured glass the salvage glass dealers accumulate great quantities of secondhand plate glass. Much of this is in such a condition that it may be reset anywhere. Should the injury consist, for instance, of simply a deep scratch in the center it is easy to make that plate salable. The secondhand dealer cuts out a strip containing the scratch and thus have left two smaller plates, quite suitable for smaller windows.

When injured plate glass is too much scratched to be available for windows it is sometimes made into ground or frosted glass for office partitions or doors. Salvage plate glass too small for use in windows is employed for the glass doors of refrigerators, and larger pieces are utilized in the making of glass table tops. Small fragments go to the making of hand mirrors, although only clear pieces may be so employed. Other pieces, too small for other purposes, enter into the manufacture of glass signs.

Eventually, when the last piece of merchantable glass has been cut from the damaged piece, there remain the scraps and fragments accumulated in the cutting. Even these have their uses, although they do not bring much. They are melted and used in the manufacture of bottles.—Washington Star.

Men Who Fear Opportunity.

In the American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton says: "Thousands of us who are making fairly comfortable livings for families pass plain turning points, refusing to turn or to attack the opening, through sheer timidity. There is no class so timid as the man with a family, who refuses to change because he fears he will risk the small sum he has accumulated to educate the children and provide for the family in case of his death. Ninety-nine out of a hundred men in this class keep straight ahead when they see a turning point clearly."

Among the Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church
(Rev. A. S. Buell Pastor).

Our people enjoyed a delightful Easter. The morning congregation entirely filled the large auditorium. The floral decorations were simple but tasty. The sermon was from Luke 24:5, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" and from Ephesians 5:14, "Arise From the Dead and Christ Shall Give Thee Light." A good attendance and interest was manifest in the study of the Easter lesson in the Sunday school. In the evening the choir rendered a very beautiful cantata, entitled, "The Lord of the Eastertide," which was much enjoyed by the audience. The choir had had but a short time in which to prepare this program, nevertheless they rendered the various parts with credit to themselves and delight to the audience.

On next Sunday morning the message will be on, "The Living Word," from the text, "Ye are Our Epistle," 2 Corinthian 3:2.

The evening message will be "The Ripened Grain and the Sharpened Sickle." We expect to begin using our new song book with the orchestra at the Sunday evening service.

The Worker's class of the Sunday school will have a progressive May party Friday evening. Four green houses are to be visited. All of the Methodist young people and all of the young people who should be in the Worker's class are invited to meet at the church at 7:30.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Carrie Bruner on Friday afternoon. The ladies always have a delightful time at Mrs. Bruner's.

The ladies of the Aid society served supper to more than three hundred people last Thursday evening. These suppers besides bringing in the cash, afforded a fine social evening to the church people of the community.

All of the regular services next Sunday. Remember that the special revival meetings begin on Thursday evening the fourth of May. Pray for the meetings. Come to the meetings the first week.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)
Rev. John E. Farmer, D. D. will speak at the morning service on next Sunday morning. Dr. Farmer is a speaker of power and attractiveness and should be heard by all who have this opportunity.

Mr. F. H. Jones will take charge of the Sunday school work next Sunday as superintendent. Mr. Jones has had large and successful experience as superintendent of Sunday school and we are glad he has consented to take this work.

The hour of evening services change with this week's services. The C. E. hour will be 7:00 and the preaching at 8:00 o'clock. The mid-week meeting will also be at 8:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Mable McIntosh Beckman has been asked to lead the C. E. meeting next Sunday evening. The topic is "Using Sunday For This World and the Next."

All attend the federated meeting at the Baptist church next Sunday evening. A large union choir will lead the music. A good program is assured.

The union Brotherhood is just waiting to be organized. No greater work for Wayne could be done than can be done by such an organization.

The union committee on arrangements for Union Evangelistic meetings has extended a call to James Rayburn for meetings next fall. Now is the time to begin to prepare for these meetings.

Baptist Church

(Publicity Committee)
The publicity committee of the Baptist church announces that next Sunday will see staged the usual attractive services and attendants at the brick church on the corner will in no way be disappointed. The pastor will speak at the morning service and in the evening at the federated service of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches which will be held in the Baptist church. It is expected that an out of town man will speak. If he does not Rev. Cross will deliver the sermon of the evening. It will be lively, wide awake, full of interest and current in its appropriateness.

Every Baptist and every Presbyterian and every one who is not an attendant at some other church should be present and help to boost these services.

Big Conference Coming

Rev. E. Gehrke of the Logan Precinct Lutheran church, five or six miles northeast of Wayne, tells us that in June the Northern Nebraska conference of the German Lutheran churches will meet at the Emanuel church. In this district are about 100 churches, and it is expected that all will have representatives here at that meeting. It will be a busy time for the people of that neighborhood to entertain all these visitors, but it is safe to predict that they will meet the emergency.

About 18 years ago now we were handing an ultimatum to Spain. The rest of the story will be found in the history of the war and the life of Teddy.

Now let's find out who they are and what they stand for since they are nominated. The chaff is now supposed to be sifted from the grain and those supposed to be best fitted are to make the race to see who can first top the next hurdle.

The unofficial returns from Pierce county indicate that A. H. Backhaus, editor of the Leader, who aspired to the democratic nomination for representative was defeated by about 17 votes. Florian Fuchs was the man who held high place. Well, the newspaper man who does his duty is not apt to win a majority of the people unless he has been on duty long enough for the public to understand him and that his motives are good, and the three score and ten allotted to man is not enough.

Teddy says that if Germany now accedes to the demands of this government and is good, Pres. Wilson is in the hole for not making his demands earlier. And if Germany still stands pat it will be just as bad for the president because he did not find out months ago just where he was at. Mean time the vote for Henry Ford for president is getting sufficiently large for Teddy to begin to set up and take notice that there is a wonderful sentiment in the republican party for peace as well as in the democratic ranks. It is evident that the majority of the people do not want war, and do not want to name a warrior as their president.

SECONDHAND GLASS.

Interesting Methods of a Business That is Quite Extensive.

The salvage glass industry is of such importance and extent that many dealers in secondhand glass specialize in one branch or another. Some, for instance, handle only plate glass that comes to them by reason of the demolition of old buildings, razed to make place for new structures. Salvage glass of this sort brings prices not far below those of new glass.

A considerable quantity of the salvage glass dealer's stock emanates from the plate glass insurance companies. The methods of these companies in taking over glass vary. One concern may keep no stock on hand, simply buying whatever is required to replace a broken pane, disposing of the broken glass, if enough remains to be sold, to the salvage dealer. Sometimes a company will have a warehouse of its own, to which it will remove broken glass that may still be in condition to use. Frequently it will happen that only one corner has been broken from a large pane and that this may be cut down to fit a smaller window.

Most plate glass is insured, but there is much that is not. In the case of an uninsured plate that is broken the owner must, of course, go to a dealer for a new plate. He will sell the broken plate to the salvage dealer. It follows therefore that from insurance companies, from building wreckers and from owners of uninsured glass the salvage glass dealers accumulate great quantities of secondhand plate glass. Much of this is in such a condition that it may be reset anywhere. Should the injury consist, for instance, of simply a deep scratch in the center it is easy to make that plate salable. The secondhand dealer cuts out a strip containing the scratch and thus have left two smaller plates, quite suitable for smaller windows.

When injured plate glass is too much scratched to be available for windows it is sometimes made into ground or frosted glass for office partitions or doors. Salvage plate glass too small for use in windows is employed for the glass doors of refrigerators, and larger pieces are utilized in the making of glass table tops. Small fragments go to the making of hand mirrors, although only clear pieces may be so employed. Other pieces, too small for other purposes, enter into the manufacture of glass signs. Eventually, when the last piece of merchantable glass has been cut from the damaged piece, there remain the scraps and fragments accumulated in the cutting. Even these have their uses, although they do not bring much. They are melted and used in the manufacture of bottles.—Washington Star.

Men Who Fear Opportunity.

In the American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton says:

"Thousands of us who are making fairly comfortable livings for families pass plain turning points, refusing to turn or to attack the opening, through sheer timidity. There is no class so timid as the man with a family, who refuses to change because he fears he will risk the small sum he has accumulated to educate the children and provide for the family in case of his death. Ninety-nine out of a hundred men in this class keep straight ahead when they see a turning point clearly."

Getting His Orders.

"So you're summoned as a witness, hey? Now you be keeful."

"Keeful about what?"

"I see a judge rebuked a man fer not coming into court with clean hands. Look out fer that, and also be keeful to wipe your feet."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell Pastor).

Our people enjoyed a delightful Easter. The morning congregation entirely filled the large auditorium. The floral decorations were simple but tasty. The sermon was from Luke 24:5, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" and from Ephesians 5:14, "Arise From the Dead and Christ Shall Give Thee Light." A good attendance and interest was manifest in the study of the Easter lesson in the Sunday school. In the evening the choir rendered a very beautiful cantata, entitled, "The Lord of the Eastertide," which was much enjoyed by the audience. The choir had had but a short time in which to prepare this program, nevertheless they rendered the various parts with credit to themselves and delight to the audience.

On next Sunday morning the message will be on, "The Living Word," from the text, "Ye are Our Epistle," 2 Corinthian 3:2.

The evening message will be "The Ripened Grain and the Sharp-ened Sickle." We expect to begin using our new song book with the orchestra at the Sunday evening service.

The Worker's class of the Sunday school will have a progressive May party, Friday evening. Four green houses are to be visited. All of the Methodist young people and all of the young people who should be in the Worker's class are invited to meet at the church at 7:30.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society will meet with Mrs. Carrie Bruner on Friday afternoon. The ladies always have a delightful time at Mrs. Bruner's.

The ladies of the Aid society served supper to more than three hundred people last Thursday evening. These suppers besides bringing in the cash, afforded a fine social evening to the church people of the community.

All of the regular services next Sunday. Remember that the special revival meetings begin on Thursday evening the fourth of May. Pray for the meetings. Come to the meetings the first week.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

Rev. John E. Farmer, D. D., will speak at the morning service on next Sunday morning. Dr. Farmer is a speaker of power and attractiveness and should be heard by all who have this opportunity.

Mr. F. H. Jones will take charge of the Sunday school work next Sunday as superintendent. Mr. Jones has had large and successful experience as superintendent of Sunday school and we are glad he has consented to take this work.

The hour of evening services change with this week's services. The C. E. hour will be 7:00 and the preaching at 8:00 o'clock. The mid-week meeting will also be at 8:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Mable McIntosh Beckman has been asked to lead the C. E. meeting next Sunday evening. The topic is "Using Sunday For This World and the Next."

All attend the federated meeting at the Baptist church next Sunday evening. A large union choir will lead the music. A good program is assured.

The union Brotherhood is just waiting to be organized. No greater work for Wayne could be done than can be done by such an organization.

The union committee on arrangements for Union Evangelistic meetings has extended a call to James Rayburn for meetings next fall. Now is the time to begin to prepare for these meetings.

Baptist Church

(Publicity Committee)

The publicity committee of the Baptist church announces that next Sunday will see staged the usual attractive services and attendants at the brick church on the corner will in no way be disappointed. The pastor will speak at the morning service and in the evening at the federated service of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches which will be held in the Baptist church. It is expected that an out of town man will speak. If he does not Rev. Cross will deliver the sermon of the evening. It will be lively, wide awake, full of interest and current in its appropriateness. Every Baptist and every Presbyterian and every one who is not an attendant at some other church should be present and help to boost these services.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor.)

Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Preaching at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m.

Luther League at 7 p. m.

It will be a busy time for the people of that neighborhood to entertain all these visitors, but it is safe to predict that they will meet the emergency.

Miss May Schwenk from Norfolk was here last week, coming over to spend Easter at the home of W. E. Beaman and wife, her sister. Wednesday morning she came from home and joined Mrs. Beaman here in a trip to Sioux City for the day.

Chas. Thompson went to Butte Wednesday to be absent a few days looking after farm interests there. He informs us that he has just purchased a Belgium stallion of the best of breeding and individually a fine animal, which will be kept at Wayne the remainder of the season.

Wm. Orr and family are this week moving to the Barrett house in the north part of the city.

Linn Hanson from north of Wayne shipped two cars of pretty well finished cattle to Omaha Tuesday.

A. G. Adams has been re-arranging the interior of the Model Drug store for the summer season. He has moved the fountain to the front of the room, arranged the space further back for tables and also has a few places for a party of four or six, while on the deck is a rest and smoke room for the weary men. It is quite an improvement.

Last week Gus Bohnert went to Rochester to take treatment for a growth on his face, and word comes back to home folks that he is doing nicely and his Wayne friends hope the good results will continue. Mr. Bohnert returned Tuesday evening with the assurance of a specialist that his trouble will yield to correct treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Hanssen of Randolph have the sympathy of their many Wayne friends in the sad loss of their little son William H., who died the 22d from measles at his home. He was not quite two years old. The funeral services were held Monday. W. O. Hanssen and wife and Mrs. John Sherbahn and Mrs. Wm. Norman going from here to attend.

L. J. Courtright and wife were suddenly called to Dow City, Iowa, Sunday morning by a message telling of the death of Mrs. Levi Igou, mother of Mrs. Courtright. Have you planted a bed of flower in the garden this spring? If not, do so without further delay. If you have, plant some more. The wonderful influence of a garden of flower is a real pleasure to the owner, not in material profit in dollars and cents, but in happiness from the satisfaction you will obtain—and that is what you spend money for. Help to make the world a little brighter for yourself and your neighbor.

The fame of the Wayne Model Shoe Repair shop is spreading. Only a few days ago a Bloomfield man was at Wayne on business, and because his Wayne friends had told him of the quality of the repair work turned out by Mr. Petersen he not only brought a pair of his own shoes along, but two or three other pair. His shoes he was just going to put in the scrap pile, when the thought came to him to try the shop. When he took them home they looked like a new pair, and were also almost as good as new—and all for 125 cents.—adv.

Oscar Milliken went to market with a load of fat cattle Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Wm. Mellor and children left this morning to visit home folks at Lexington, Missouri.

W. H. Root of Sholes was a Wayne visitor Wednesday, and paid the Democrat a friendly call.

S. E. Aufer, who went to Omaha last week on account of his health, has continued his journey to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, and will take a bath there—or a number of them.

Miss White and Mrs. J. G. Mines and Mrs. H. S. Ringland went to Ponca this morning as officers and delegates to a meeting of a district meeting of the Women's Missionary society.

C. M. Christensen came over from Harlan, Iowa, last evening to take his car home, it not being the best of road and weather for a joy ride when he moved there last winter. He reports all well.

Mrs. W. D. Hughes of Winside accompanied her uncle, P. Saul to the hospital here the first of the week, and remained until Wednesday, when his sister, Mrs. Hester Hughes of Plainview came to relieve her.

Clarence Johnson came this morning from Columbus Junction, Iowa, for a visit with Wayne relatives and friends. He has been with O. P. DePew at that place and reports that they are prospering in their Iowa home.

Mrs. G. C. Tiech of Bancroft, who has been for a time at the home of Forrest Hughes, left Wednesday evening to visit at Norfolk and West Point before returning home. Her daughter was one of the Wayne teachers last year.

Ernest Herrigfeld came over from Emerson the first of the week to assist his son of the same name in getting two cars of fat cattle and a car of hogs from his farm west of Wayne to the yards here for shipment. The cattle were well finished.

Winifred Sparks, a little Miss of about nine years, came from Carroll last week to visit at the I. D. Henderson home. She walked alone two miles to the station and made the trip by herself, returning Tuesday to her uncle's, Geo. Dotson, near Carroll.

The following from the San Pedro (Cal.) Pilot, taken from the Wilmington Journal is said to refer to a former citizen of Wayne:

Thomas J. Holtz of Terminal is being given medical treatment at the police station today to relieve his belief that he is suffering from an electrical shock while employed by a motion picture company, weird and fanciful stories he tells about being bound in an electrical chair and given a jolt of the real juice just to show on the movie screen just how a man is electrocuted.

An acceptable and deserved promotion came to Henry Soules this week when he was transferred from the Wayne office of the Express company at this place to run as messenger between Emerson and Omaha. He is on the train which leaves Emerson in the morning for Omaha and returns in the evening. The promotion carries with it an increase in salary of $240 per year with prospect of promotions ahead.

They all tell us that Henry will make good and we believe it. Louis Moran is his successor here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson, who spent the latter part of the winter at Pomona, California, reached home Monday evening. Mr. Ferguson says that they had a fine time, and kept in good health all winter, but thinks they met with a rather cool reception from the weather clerk as they came east. With the nights and mornings hovering near the frost line, it no doubt did seem a bit chilly to those who have been basking in the sunshine of southern California while we were feeding a furnace or base burner to secure by artificial means what they received gratis—heat. They were too chilly to talk much when the Democrat representative met them at the station, but as the weather warms a bit and Mr. F. gets a bit used to the atmosphere he will doubtless tell you something of the time they had.

Community Club Doings

The Community club held another interesting meeting Monday night at Poellet's hall and in spite of the stormy conditions a good crowd, mostly farmers, was out. The farmers seem to take more interest in the welfare of the club than do the business men of the town, perhaps because the farmers are more interested in good roads, good seed, good stock, advertising the community abroad, and looking to the general welfare, which subjects are the main topics of interest with the club, than are the town men. Whatever the reason, it is the farmers who are taking hold and are the farmers more and more push the affairs of the club more of them are joining and several prominent farmers union members have joined lately as they consider the efforts of the Community club and of the Unions are toward almost identically the same object.

The membership of the club has now reached one hundred ninety and Fred Sherer, chairman of the membership committee, assured the club that he and his assistants would get busy and make a persistent effort to raise the membership to three hundred.

The evening program opened as usual with music and was given over to reports of committees and various discussions of many subjects, interspersed with a lot of good natured raillery.

The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Jarvis, an expert on dairy subjects, with whom it is felt certain that a date for a lecture can be arranged.

There was considerable discussion as to where the posts marking culverts should be placed and Hon. Henry Korff, who helped frame this law, explained that they should be right at the ends of the culverts regardless of the width of these culverts.

It was decided to adopt an emblem for the club and have pins made and a committee of three was appointed by the chair for this purpose.—Coleridge Blade.

World's Leading Tobacco Town

Following are extracts from an address delivered by Col. A. D. Watts, Collector of Internal Revenue for the Fifth district of North Carolina, at a smoker given by The Twin City club, Winston-Salem, recently:

"Winston-Salem is supplying one-fourth of all the chewing and smoking tobacco consumed in the United States, besides exporting vast quantities to foreign lands. This statement is taken from the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the first quarter of the present fiscal year and from private advices from Washington, as to the second quarter, which ended December 31st, last.

"Your city is making one-seventh of all tobacco products—chewing and smoking tobacco, cigars, cigarettes and snuff—manufactured in the United States. Your manufacturers are paying on an average about $37,000 a day revenue taxes to the government and the amount is increasing from month to month. When your government building, much the handsomest in the state, was completed last July at a cost of $250,000 your newspapers made the statement that the taxes paid in your city to Uncle Sam for the first eight days of its occupancy would pay for it. Since September, it has taken only a fraction over seven average days collections here to equal its cost. So far this week, Mr. Cranford has taken in $206,428.50. I predict that before 1916 shall have ended your average weekly payments to the government on tobacco will more than pay for this magnificent building, leaving the collections for the other fifty-one weeks as clear profit to the government. adv.

Bumping the Bumps

Matters of state shall not my thoughts inveigle
In this glad time of bud and bloom, my brother;
Nor "jaybird pecking at a wounded eagle."
Shall eke the joys of gentle springtime smother.

Experience betimes is sad and bitter,
But here is something worthy to remember—
The "eagle" we allude to is no quitter;
The jaybirds will be routed next November.

All over Nebraska on the occasion of the late primaries, "the jaybirds were pecking at a wounded eagle;" and the eagle will come right back at them, one of these fine days, and strip them of their gaudy plumage even as the monarch of the Bixby forest is stripped by a tornado.

See the Democrat for wedding invitations.

Funny Things

We find them in the game of politics, as well as in other places. One of the funniest features of the late primary contest was the claim of Senator Hitchcock that Mr. Bryan and his associates were not friendly to President Wilson. Our reactionary friends appealed for votes on the grounds that they were the divinely appointed guardians of President Wilson's interests in Nebraska, and they begged the voters to be ware of Mr. Bryan and other false friends of the president.

No finer piece of political comedy was ever played on any political stage. The answer to the claimed friendship of the reactionaries for President Wilson may be found in the figures of the voting in the democratic primary in Platte county. In some of the Platte county voting precincts the race between Woodrow Wilson and Robert Ross for the presidential preference vote was very close. In some other districts it was three-to-one against the president. Each of the districts which humiliated Pres. Wilson by casting a majority preference vote for an unknown freak opponent was absolutely under the control of the elements which opposed Mr. Bryan and the progressive primary candidates.

How do we know that Senator Hitchcock's friends cast those votes against President Wilson, and in favor of the horse-jockey? We know it because of the positive fact that in one township which slapped the president in the face at the rate of 2 to 1, all of the democratic ballots with four lone exceptions were marked in favor of Senator Hitchcock and all his reactionary mates on the ticket.

We do not claim to hold any brief for President Wilson, but we suggest to Secretary Tumulty that if he is committing the interests of the president to Senator Hitchcock here in Nebraska, one glance at the primary election returns from Platte county ought to send the whole presidential family to its knees in recitation of the prayer: "God Save the President." Indeed funny things do happen in the game of politics, but none so funny as the funny doings of reactionary democrats in Platte county.—Columbus Telegram.

Fish Car Busy

The state fish car was in Valentine last week on the way to Harrison. It started from the Gretna hatchery on the 4th with a load of young trout, which were distributed along the North Western between Fremont and Valentine. 200,000 young trout, 1,000 full frog tadpole, and 1,000 sun fish were put on the car here for distribution in the water between Valentine and Harrison. On the return trip the car stopped at Valentine and was loaded with 15,000 yearling sunfish and 4,000 tadpoles for distribution in the small lakes in the eastern part of the state. There remains at the hatchery 300,000 young trout, brook and rainbow, which will be planted in the streams in Brown and Cherry counties, within the next three weeks. The new hatchery that was started last fall is nearing completion and is up-to-date in all respects. The two dams lost last summer are now rebuilt stronger and better than before and the ditch being built to carry off this flood water is almost finished. Supt. M. E. O'Brien says that he now has things in shape to make this the banner year for the hatchery. Visitors are always welcome and the place is always open to the public for inspection.—Valentine Democrat.

State Capitol News Notes

State Auditor Smith has just issued his first quarterly report of state expenditures for the present year beginning with January 1st. The report shows that the state expenses for the past three months amounted to $1,421,811.85. This total includes $454,411 of school apportionment made in January. Without this disbursement from the state treasury, which is only indirectly a part of state expenditures, this amount including bond interest, game and fish licenses, interest and leases on school lands and miscellaneous licenses, the expense of conducting the state's affairs, including the state university and other educational institutions, will be less by $145,000 than the previous quarter, or a total of $986,733, as against $1,107,220 for the three months preceding. During the quarter just closed the university expended $339,468.81; the four state normals, $85,673.66; while the board of commissioners for the fifteen state institutions spent $350,481.32, including $33,122.07 for permanent improvement. The balance of $221,196.79, which does not include the school apportionment, comprises all other state expenses, both cash and general fund.

The board of commissioners saved about $1,000 on the coffee bill for the fifteen state institutions last week. Every three months the board buys something like 15,275 pounds of this article on competitive bids. Heretofore they have paid 25c per pound, and have divided the purchase among several bidders. However a bid was submitted at the last quarterly meeting quoting a price of 13 1/2 cents on a sample of coffee, which the board considered, after giving it a thorough test, was as good as any they had paid 25 cents for in the past, and as a result one firm will get the entire allotment this time.

State Auditor Smith has refused to issue a state warrant for $100 in payment of a claim presented by Norris Brown of Omaha for "legal services and assistance in preparing a report and proposed laws in forestration matters on the request of the state forestration commission of Nebraska." Carl Rohde of Columbus, chairman of the forestration commission, appointed three years ago, presented the claim to the state auditor. The auditor has ruled that the appropriation of 1915 does not cover such expenses. The forestration commission was one of the little jobs created by the legislature of 1913. Governor Morehead appointed a commission of which Mr. Rohde of Columbus is chairman. No funds were appropriated for its use. The commission made a report that was soon forgotten, but the commissioners did not forget to ask the succeeding legislature to appropriate $2,000 for something which on the start was to cost nothing. The commission went out of existence but the legislature of 1915 appropriated $2,000 to pay it "traveling expenses, printing of report and publicity work of forestration commission." State Auditor Smith believes none of this can be paid to an attorney employed by the old commission.

The Scrap Book

A Modest Wish.

Montague Glass, the creator of "Potash and Perlmutter," says an acquaintance of his, a clothing manufacturer on the east side of New York, received a call from a city salesman representing a notorious, trimming and button house. The visitor began to spread out his samples.

"Put 'em up! Put 'em up!" said the manufacturer in a tired business man tone. "I wouldn't care to look at nothing what you got."
"But, Mr. Cohen—"
"S' nough! I won't look. Please go away."
The salesman gazed at him admiringly.
"Mr. Cohen," he said, "I only wish one thing—I wish I had only fifty customers like you."
"I told you I didn't wish to see nothing what you got."
"Sure, you did, and that's why I says I wish I had only fifty customers like you. Instead, I got 200!"—Saturday Evening Post.

IT is true that Ivory Soap is used for laundry purposes. But the kind of laundry purposes for which it is used is just another proof of its excellence for bath and toilet. For Ivory washes safely the exquisite linens and laces, the gossamer-like silks, the delicately colored materials that you would not dare risk to the average toilet soap.

In other words, Ivory Soap is the mildest, purest, best soap for the bath and toilet that can be made.

Stuck to the Ethics.
A celebrated specialist once attended a young medical student through a long illness. Though the embryo doctor knew that, according to professional etiquette, physicians do not accept fees from each other, he felt that since he was only a student and had taken so much of the famous doctor's valuable time he ought to request a bill for services rendered.

When he approached the matter, however, the gruff old man spoke out brusquely: "Don't you know the etiquette? Dog doesn't eat dog."
"Yes, sir, I'm well aware of that," replied the young fellow, "but, you see, I'm not a doctor. I'm only a medical student."

"Well, then, if you like it any better, dog doesn't eat puppy!"

A Well Spent Day.
If you sit down at set of sun
And count the acts that you have done
And, counting, find
One act of denying act, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard,
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then you may count that day well spent.

But if through all the livelong day
You've cheered no heart by yea or nay,
If through it all
You've nothing done that you can trace
That brought the sunshine to one face,
No act most small
That helped some soul and nothing cost,
Then count that day as worse than lost.

A Hot Weather Price.
Charley Murray, who manages sporting events at Buffalo, has a positive gift for expression in telegrams. He keeps in touch with his friends by wire—with his enemies, too, sometimes.

During a midsummer hot spell he organized a boxing carnival. Being anxious to secure for one of his ring attractions Ted Lewis, the English fighter, he sent the following message to Jimmy Johnston, manager of the Britisher:

"Hope the heat has not affected you. Will give two-fifty for Lewis next Tuesday night."

Johnston answered: "Feeling fine. Want one thousand for Lewis."

To which Murray promptly wired back:

"I see the heat has affected you."—Saturday Evening Post.

Tricked the Colonel.
Some Irishmen are nothing if not ingenious. Here is a good story told of one, a terrible scamp serving in South Africa under Colonel Hamilton-Browne. On discharge he asked for a character and was given one by the colonel so bad as should ordinarily have barred him from employment forever.

Some time later the colonel met him, a most prosperous man and about to embark for the mother country.

"But," said the colonel, "how was it that people, reading such a character as I gave you should have been so taken in?"

"Read it," the scamp replied. "Never a one of them read it and for a very good reason, as not one of them could read a word of English. It was the lion and the unicorn fighting for the crown on the top of the official paper that did the trick, and that's what I wanted when I troubled you for a character. So long, colonel. There's the 'all for the shore' bell ringing. Good luck, and many thanks, as it's through you I'm in for a high old time."

Twain and the Rivermen.
Mark Twain once told to a party of friends the following story on himself: On one occasion when he started on a trip down the Mississippi river on a flatboat he was advised never to answer the questions asked by rivermen on other boats and never to bandy words with them, as he would be sure always to come out second best. He followed the advice religiously for a time, but one day he thought he saw a chance to get the better of a riverman who called out:

"Hey, thar, what yer loaded with?"
"Jackasses. Don't you want to come aboard?" yelled back Twain.

"That's what I reckoned seemin' as how they let ther biggest donkey hev ther run of the deck!" came back. Twain made a dive below as all the rivermen in the neighborhood set up a derisive laugh at his expense.

Modified It.
Some university students ambitiously undertook to play "Hamlet" for the benefit of a charity. The man who was to act the part of Horatio was extremely timid, and when the night of the performance came he was so overcome by stage fright that he could hardly remember the lines he had so carefully studied. During the scene where Horatio and Marcellus tell Hamlet of the appearance of the spirit of his father and the prince asks, "Stayed it long?" "While one with moderate haste might tell a hundred," Horatio managed to stumble out, but so confusedly that Marcellus forgot his cue and instead of rejoicing "Longer, longer," stood staring at Horatio. The prompter, with a view to helping out Marcellus, began to whisper from the wings, "Longer, longer." Unfortunately Horatio, having lost all control of himself, was inspired with the idea that the man playing Marcellus was looking at him because he had made an error and that the words from the wing were addressed to him. With a great effort he straightened himself up, cleared his burning throat and said loudly, "While one with moderate haste might tell two hundred, then."

ED WAS UNTRUTHFUL.

Mark Twain First Proved It and Then Bragged About It.

Sam Clemens read more than any one guessed. At night, propped up in bed—a habit continued until his death—he was likely to read until a late hour. He enjoyed smoking at such times and had made himself a pipe with a large bowl which stood on the floor and had a long rubber stem, something like the Turkish hubble bubble. He liked to fill the big bowl and smoke at ease through the entire evening. But sometimes the pipe went out, which meant that he must strike a match and lean far over to apply it, just when he was most comfortable. Sam Clemens never liked unnecessary exertion. One night when the pipe had gone out for the second time he happened to hear the young book clerk, Brownell, passing up to his room on the top floor. Sam called to him.

"Ed, come here!"
Brownell poked his head in the door. The two were great chums.

"What will you have, Sam?" he asked.

"Come in, Ed. Henry's asleep, and I'm in trouble. I want somebody to light my pipe."

"Why don't you light it yourself?" Brownell asked.

"I would, only I knew you'd be along in a few minutes and would do it for me."

Brownell scratched a match, stooped down and applied it.

"What are you reading, Sam?"

"Oh, nothing much—a so called funny book. One of these days I'll write a funnier book myself."

Brownell laughed.

"No, you won't, Sam," he said. "You are too lazy ever to write a book."

Years later, in the course of a lecture which he delivered in Keokuk, Mark Twain said that he supposed the most untruthful man in the world lived right there in Keokuk and that his name was Ed Brownell.—Albert Bigelow Paine in St. Nicholas.

A Wise Life.
The great guiding marks of a wise life are indeed few and simple—to do our duty, to avoid useless sorrow and to acquiesce patiently in the inevitable.—W. Lecky.

Reserved.
Two sailors, retiring from the sea, invested their joint savings in a country inn.

On rising on the first morning of their ownership, one suggested they should go into the bar and have a drink. This they did and continued to do for the next hour or so.

"WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO OPEN?"

Then they became aware that for some time there had been several people knocking urgently at the door. For a time they ignored the noise, but the knocking became so insistent that at last they went to see what was the matter.

"When are ye going to open this public 'ouse?" demanded a husky voice from outside.

"Open it? What for?" replied the sailors. "We've bought this 'ere place for ourselves."—London Answers.

Witty.
The following epigram was written on Dr. Isaac Letson, a once well known English physician:
When folks are sick and send for me
I purge, bleed and sweat 'em.
If after that they choose to die
What's that to me? I Letson.

Had Been Higher and Lower.

The New York Giants were exercising in Texas one night when Mike Donlin crept into the Pullman that was sidetracked at Waco a long while after hours, greatly to the rage of John J. McGraw. Now, according to Donlin, there is supposed to be but one complete humiliation for a ball player who goes against the winter training rules. The culprit is assigned to an upper berth in the sleeper.

McGraw was awakened when the belated Donlin climbed into the car, and says he, "Just for that, Mike, you take an upper."

The manager had forgotten the player's previous servitudes and stealths in the way of personal transportation across the country. But Mike had not forgotten. He said merrily: "All right, John. I've ridden 'em higher than uppers and lower than lowers."—Chicago News.

DOMESTIC LIFE IN AFRICA.

A Warning to Little Boys Who Would Like to Be Heathens.

I went with my lantern into Ze's little hut, says Jean Kenyon Mackenzie in the Atlantic Monthly. I sat down by the fire, and there was the family too. Mendom was heating some water in a big black kettle. The youngest, Mploga, still without teeth, was howling in the arms of little brother. Presently to the light of my lantern Mendom brings her three-year-old. She empties her hot water into a wooden bowl; with a sponge of crushed leaves she washes first one little foot and then the other. Kid howls.

His feet are sore, poor little duffer! He holds out his hand for his father to hold. Mother is relentless until both feet are soaked; then she opens a little leaf packet. There is salve made of the bark of the redwood tree. She adds a little palm oil to this, and very carefully she anoints the little feet. The sobs subside, and the child walks off on his heels.

Now the mother pours more water into the bowl, takes the fretful baby out of the hands of little brother, stands the weeny thing in her belt of beads on the clay floor and swabs her down with water. There is the familiar initial gasp. With her maternal hands she cleanses that little person all glittering with wet, and she says, looking at me and smiling, "God has sent me much trouble." And the father says, apropos of nothing, "All these have been baptized." I sit on my stool by the fire and feel steeped in the most human domesticity.

Everywhere in the world at this hour little children are whimpering over their evening ablutions. It is a mistake to think that any child of a good mother escapes. So much for the illusions of little boys who would like to be heathen.

The Term "Bully."

The term bully in the days of Shakespeare had quite a different meaning from that which it has at present, being an expression of endearment and good fellowship. Some suppose that the word, when it is used in approval, is derived from the Dutch boel or German buhle, which stands for the English lover. The harsher use of the word is, however, to be traced to below, the root of bull, with a significance of noisy blustering.

Now is the time to wage warfare on the gopher. Here is one way which has been tried with great success in Iowa. With an endgate wagon rod or some other sharp pointed instrument, find the runway near a fresh mound and open up, put in a piece of cotton, a corn cob or something which will easily absorb, pour on a couple of table spoon fulls of carbon bisulphide and cover. The carbon evaporates quickly and seeks the lower levels of the runway which effectually puts Mr. Gopher out of the running. Abstain from smoking while working at this job for it is dangerous to have fire of any sort near this stuff. Another way. Take your automobile and run the exhaust in the runway; not more than two or three minutes, and cover. This method is said to be sure death to prairie dogs also.

Winside Notes

(From the Tribune)

At the regular meeting of the O. E. S. Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: Mont V. Chapin, W. M.; G. E. French, W. P.; Josephine Carter, A. M.; Grace Cavanaugh, Secretary; Walter Gaebler, Treasurer; Stella Kieffer, Conductor; and Mary B. Wilson, A. C.

Mike Lyons and son Earl returned from Chicago last Thursday. Earl is now a full-fledged veterinarian, having graduated from the Chicago Veterinary college last week, and will engage in the practice in Wayne county. He will have his office building in the old bank building in East Winside. The Tribune joins with Mr. Lyons' many friends in wishing him success in his chosen profession.

H. T. McManis of Omaha, brother of Mrs. B. M. McIntyre, was a guest of the former last Thursday. He returned to his home on Friday, making the trip overland in an auto which he had purchased the previous day, and while enroute between Beemer and West Point the car skidded on some sandy roads and turned turtle, with the result that he received a broken arm and a dislocated shoulder. He is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

J. T. Sullivan of Omaha, a plant engineer for the Nebraska Telephone company, is in Winside today drawing plans for the new telephone plant to be installed in Winside during the next year. Active work is expected to commence within the next three months. It is now up to the village board to see that the unsightly and obstructive poles are removed from our main street. Let us have them removed to the alley, or better yet, have underground cable. We want a clean open main street and now is the time to get it, as the entire system will be rebuilt to meet the demand for from 15 to 20 years. Are you awake to this fact?

The Tom Thomb wedding given by the sixty children in the opera house Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society drew an unusually large crowd, and we are satisfied they were pleased with the entertainment which lasted about an hour and a half. The children's costumes were the latest styles, the boys were dressed in long pants, low cut vests and full dress coats, while the girls were dressed in low-necked and short-sleeved dresses in full train, the bride in the usual white silk dress with veil and flowers. The flower girls and ring-bearer were dressed in white short dresses. Only three rehearsals were given the children, with the exception of those who sang; they being under the instruction of Mrs. A. T. Chapin for the past week. The entertainment netted the society $29.67.

John Neikles passed out of this life Saturday evening about 5 o'clock. Saturday morning about 9 o'clock he experienced a rupture of a blood vessel, due to hardening of the arteries, or (arterial sclerosis.) He called at the office of Dr. J. G. Neely about 10 o'clock for treatment, but owing to his advanced years and the loss of a great amount of blood, relief was beyond the medical skill, although his life was prolonged several hours by hard labor on the part of Dr. Neely. Very little is known of Mr. Neikles, although a resident of Wayne county for more than fifteen years. He was born in Germany, was past 70 years of age, lived for a time at Blair. The only known relatives are, a wife living at Laure) and a daughter in Canada. During his residence in Winside he had been a man among men, honest in his dealings and expecting the same courtesy in return; never entering a complaint to any misfortune that came his way. He was proprietor of the South Side pool hall up to about a year ago and at the time of his death was conducting a lunch counter next door to the pool hall. The remains were laid at rest in Peasant View cemetery, with services at the grave by Rev. J. Bruce Wylie.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, it swells and shuts off the perfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are cured by the use of the only medicine that cures catarrhal deafness. It is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. It will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Miss Esther Boehler left Tuesday for Cheyenne, Wyoming, where she will visit for a month with her parents and also enjoy a vacation from her duties at the First National bank.

Irvan Lyons had quite an exciting runaway recently when four horses ran away with a sulky plow. Irvan says they wrote his name in the plowing, and even went so far as to dot the capital "I", and all this was done without his consent. Luckily, no damage was done.

Twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tietgen Sunday, April 16. The joy experienced by the parents upon their arrival was turned to sorrow the following day when one of the twins passed from this world to the great beyond to dwell throughout eternity with Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." The little form was laid to rest Tuesday. At this writing (Tuesday evening) the mother and other child are getting along as well as can be expected.

Elizabeth Jane Jones was born in the Parish of Llandduasant Angly, North Wales, on October 23, 1883. She emigrated from Wales in 1912. Was married to R. H. Roberts January 7, 1913, and to this union were born two children, Elizabeth Ann, aged two years and a baby son two weeks old. Mrs. Roberts died April 9, 1916. Funeral services were held in the Welsh Methodist church and interment made in the cemetery at that place. She leaves to mourn, a husband and the two children in this country and a mother and sister and brother in Wales, beside many friends in both countries. The sympathy of all is turned toward the bereaved ones in their hour of sorrow.

Mrs. Celyn Morris and Mrs. Iva Morris experienced quite an exciting time for a few moments Monday afternoon. They had been calling on Mrs. Lawrence Jenkins and were returning homeward when a part of the harness broke and the horse they were driving began to run away. In vain they worked to gain control of the animal, and after staying in the buggy for a distance of perhaps half a mile over the hills, and knowing that a long downward slope was ahead of them, they decided to jump from the buggy. Mrs. Ivor Morris was the first to make the attempt and it proved to be alright except for a few bruises and a bad shaking up. Mrs. Celyn Morris then sprang from the buggy, but was not quite so lucky. The line became entangled about one foot and she was dragged a few yards until her foot caught against a clump of earth and caused the line to loosen its hold letting her free with a bone cracked in the lower limb to which the line was fastened. They were picked up by Enos Davis in his auto and taken home where they received such attention as was necessary.

Will Establish Street Grades

At the meeting of the city council Tuesday evening it was unanimously resolved that the city engineer take levels and establish grades on all the streets of the city and set permanent markers and report elevations of same together with his recommendations of grades to be established.

This is doubtless a matter which should have been given attention years ago, but as it was not, the sooner it is done the better. It is quite probable that the grade recommended will conform as far as possible to the lines now quite generally accepted or established by common usage.

Bankers Meet at Norfolk

Last Saturday was Arbor Day and also the banker's day for the members of Group 3 of the North Nebraska bankers. Norfolk evidently does not propose to take any more chances on losing a monopoly of having this meeting come repeatedly to that place, so they passed a resolution making that city the permanent annual meeting place for the bankers. But then the organization which made this ruling can unmake it when the time comes that they want to meet at Wayne and have a real big time. The News sums up the results of the meeting as follows:

The new officers:
President, L. P. Pasewalk, Norfolk.

Vice-president, Harry Miller Stanton.

Secretary, J. E. Haase, Norfolk.
Treasurer, W. L. Mote, Plainview.

Deciding on Norfolk as the permanent location for all future conventions and passing resolutions advocating improved farming methods and encouraging young men to attend agriculture school, the nineteenth annual convention of the Northeast Nebraska Bankers' association came to a successful close Saturday night in Elks' hall where 258 persons enjoyed the annual banquet. All future conventions of Group 3 will be held on Arbor day in order that all officers and employees may attend the conventions. The motion to alternate the date of the convention by agreement with Group 2 was rescinded at the afternoon meeting. A paragraph thanking all the speakers and those who aided in making the convention a success was included in the resolutions. Another paragraph commended C. E. Burnham of Norfolk director of the federal reserve bank of Kansas City, for his efficient services in his work as a federal reserve bank director. The new trustees as elected are: A. J. Limebaerg, Creighton; H. S. Ringland, Wayne; Uhas, Jordan, Belden; John Lemley, Tilden, and F. C. Ferguson, Clearwater.

The official attendance was 275 and, according to Secretary Haase, that figure beats all previous attendance records. With the decision to make Norfolk the permanent location for the convention, the local bankers will start to make arrangements for next season. It was announced that the auditorium would be secured for future conventions.

The delegates highly commended the eloquent address of Rev. John F. Poucher of Omaha. The former Norfolk minister gave the laymen's view of the banking business in his theme: "Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the bankers." Mr. Poucher concluded his address by touching on the religious side of the banking business.

Secretary Wm. B. Hughes of the state association came to Norfolk unexpectedly and was given an ovation by the delegates. He was placed on the program in place of W. G. Edens of Chicago.

The concluding feature of the convention was the big banquet served by the members of Trinity Episcopal church guild. Covers for 210 had been laid and the efficiency of the guild members was exhibited in the way they took care of the surplus when the tables overflowed with 258 banqueters. So well pleased were the delegates with the service of the Trinity guild ladies that a voluntary subscription was started around the table. This netted the ladies $91.65.

F. A. Cuscaden of Omaha made an elaborate toastmaster. His remarks were witty. Likewise the address of E. W. Caldwell of Sioux City was filled with witty sayings and funny stories which brought out much applause and laughter.

WINTER LINGERS LONG

by M. S. Englert.

The robin and blue birds have spoken,
And all of us now must admit
The backbone of winter is broken
But why don't the cold weather quit?

The season for planting and sowing
For driving the cattle to graze;
The season for sprouting and growing
Is here, so the almanac says.

But out on the street I am chilly
Whenever I bravely fare forth;
The breath of the breeze knocks me silly
Whenever it blows from the north.

This winter has sure been a hummer
With many a frigid surprise;
Now mine for the joys of the summer,
I want to be swating the flies.

To battle with weeds is my glory,
From morning till far in the night
And this is the end of the story
That I had intended to write.

A WEATHER MYTH

The Idea That the Old Fashioned Winter Was a Fury.

FAMOUS FROSTS WERE RARE.

Records Show That Remarkable Snowstorms and Long Seasons of Hard Freezing Were Not All the Rule. Testimony of Pepsys and Evelyn.

Perhaps the greatest of weather myths is the legend of the "old fashioned winter"—that prolonged season of ice and snow which is supposed to have held the land in its grip every year. So firmly has this idea been held for many years that it came as a shock when meteorologists first began to delve into the records of the past and prove its inaccuracy.

There can be no doubt that Charles Dickens, Washington Irving, artists who depicted winter scenes, and, in a later era, the Christmas number and the Christmas card are mainly responsible for the belief that up to about half a century ago the British winters were always extremely severe. Such records as we possess prove the fallacy of the idea. No records of the weather were kept up to about fifty or sixty years ago, so that we have to rely on the statements of private diaries and old family records, and therefore it takes a lot of research to obtain any data at all.

In older times no one troubled to make note of average weather, for writing was an art possessed only by few, and writing materials were hard to obtain; hence it is that mention is made only of something unusual, some abnormally mild winter or heavy fall of snow or prolonged frosts.

And when all is said there are comparatively few of the latter, although they were likely to be recorded, while the milder ones would be passed over. A few years ago there were published in France some notes concerning very mild winters in early times. Gregory of Tours tells us that 584 was exceptionally mild, as were the winters of 808, 834, 844 and 1007, when influenza was rife.

Another mild season occurred in 1220, when the birds are said to have hatched their young by February, while the weather journal of the Rev. William Merle, which is in the Bodleian library at Oxford, shows us that during the middle of the fourteenth century the weather was very much as it is now and that mild winters were not uncommon.

There were one or two mild winters during the next hundred years, the most notable one being that of 1495, when barley and corn were in the ear at the end of January. Writings of the sixteenth century have similar testimony to offer, the one or two exceptions only going to prove the rule because they aroused so much comment.

Pepsys and Evelyn come to our aid from the middle to the end of the seventeenth century and prove conclusively that the old fashioned winter is a myth. The diaries of these famous writers have been analyzed, and as a result it is found that falls of snow are mentioned only thirteen times over nearly sixty years, while exceptionally heavy storms are referred to only three times.

In the same period there were but six prolonged frosts, and apparently only the famous one of 1683-4 and another a few years later were so severe as the modern ones of 1890-1 and 1895. In January, 1661, Pepsys comments on the mild winter, and in December of the following year he notes that he awoke to find the roofs covered with snow, which he had not seen for three years.

Evelyn has the same story to tell—a few hard winters and many mild ones. Such years were 1686-7, Dec. 29, "Little appearance of winter as yet," and 1692-3, Feb. 4, "Hitherto an exceedingly mild winter—an extraordinarily dry and warm season, without frost and like a new spring, such as has not been known for many years."

Here and there we come across references to the weather which are just like the letters written to modern newspapers informing readers that "roses and primroses were in bloom in my garden on Christmas day." Gilbert White's record of the weather between 1768 and 1798 helps to end the myth, for the same number of years at the present day would show pretty much the same sort of weather, as thirteen of the Decembers were mild and wet.

There were mild winters in the beginning of the nineteenth century, as well as one or two severe ones, so that we may rest assured that the "old fashioned winter" was just like the new fashioned ones.—Ernest C. Fulbrook in London Family Herald.

Stuck to His Rule.

He had just been discharged from the service, owing to wounds, and thought to raise a few pounds by writing his reminiscences of twelve months' fighting. Having completed the manuscript while in hospital, he offered it to a publisher for £100. It was a very small volume, and such a price made the publisher raise his eyes in surprise and inquire the reasons for such a demand. "My dear sir," replied the author, "it has been a point of honor with me, as a soldier, always to sell my life as dearly as possible."—London Chronicle.

It is his whole life, not a few incidents of it, that proves the man.—Bovee.
