ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, AUGUST 17, 1916

$1.50 PER YEAR

POSTOFFICE SITE FOR WAYNE

Appropriation of $5,000 for Building Site for Public Building at Wayne Included in Committee Plan

Postmaster Berry was greatly surprised a few days ago when he received a package from Congressman Dan V. Stephens in the form of a copy of a bill introduced in the house of representatives by Congressman Clark of Florida, carrying with other items an appropriation of $5,000 for the purchase of a site for a government postoffice at Wayne. The bill provides for a number of other sites in different states and for repair and extension of buildings in different places, and through the efforts of Congressman Stephens the item carrying $5,000 for the site of a building at this place.

Postmaster Berry kept the matter under his hat for a few days that it might be given as a surprise to the members of the Public Service club at their regular monthly dinner which was held Monday noon when nearly fifty of the club members met at the Gem cafe where a social hour was spent over a most excellent dinner.

All will be glad to see Uncle Sam's business at Wayne housed in more commodious and convenient quarters, though it will naturally be several years before the necessary red-tape can be gotten over to bring the matter to a successful conclusion.

Congressman Stephens evidently knew the present needs of Wayne and easily sees that it is a growing city, and that it will be economy for Uncle Sam to get in on the ground floor and purchase a site before realty goes higher.

All present were pleased with the news, and it was voted to invite the congressman to meet with the club soon.

Changes in State Normal Faculty

Several changes in the faculty of the State Normal school have been announced to take place at the opening of the school year, which begins September 12.

Miss Edith E. Beecher, intermediate training teacher, has been granted a leave of absence and will spend the year in Columbia University. Her work will be in charge of Miss Mary Constance Moses, at present time a student of the University of Chicago.

Miss Mary E. Mahood, head of the department of Household Science, will also spend the year at Columbia and during her absence, Miss Agnes F. Finigan will be acting head of the department. Miss Alma C. Fritchhoff has been elected assistant and will direct the work in cooking.

The addition of a Junior high school in connection with the Training school has called for additional help for this part of the work. Superintendent A. F. Gulliver has been elected principal of the Junior high school, and will assume his duties at the opening of the school year. Mr. Gulliver is peculiarly well qualified for this responsible position. He is a graduate of Doane college, and has been superintendent of the Bloomfield schools for ten years. He is regarded as one of the most successful school superintendents of northeast Nebraska.

Carl Sund Struck by Lightning

Carl Sund, section foreman on the railroad was struck by lightning Saturday morning, August 12, about 8:30, as he was pushing a gasoline car along the track toward the tool house, which is about 300 yards west of the depot. Mr. Sund was stunned by the shock and badly burned on the left arm and shoulder and side around the neck and sustained cuts on the head due to falling and striking same against the rail. His condition is much improved at this time, and it is believed no serious results will follow.

The story of the accident as told by Martin Pearson, Mr. Sund's helper, is as follows. The men had gone about a mile and a half west to work when the rain struck them and they returned home in the heavy down pour. They stopped the gasoline car a short distance west of the tool house and Mr. Pearson went ahead to open the door, Mr. Sund pushing the car ahead by hand. A heavy shock of lightning struck, it is assumed, about a half a mile west on the rail and followed it down passing through the iron wheels of the car up through the iron works on the car to Mr. Sund. Mr. Pearson felt the shock and turned to see if his companion was alright and saw that he had fallen with his head on the rail. He ran back and pulled him off the track and then ran to the depot and summoned help. Engine on No. 21 was sent down and the injured man was brought to the depot. Medical aid was summoned and Mr. Sund was taken to Dr. Hess' office where his wounds were taken care of. It was late in the afternoon before Mr. Sund recovered sufficiently to be able to talk. It has been figured out by eye witnesses of the bolt of lightning, that it struck the rail quite a ways up the track for otherwise the shock would have been strong enough to fatally injure a man. It was fortunate that more dire consequences did not follow.

Death of Elizabeth Milligan

Miss Elizabeth Milligan, age 27 years, 5 months and 16 days, died August 14, 1916, 5 a. m., at her mother's home, her death being due to general paralysis.

Miss Milligan was born in Stanton county on a farm near Stanton, February 14, 1889. Strong and healthy in youth she attended the little country school near her home and helped her parents on the farm. Finishing school she took up the dressmaking trade until October 29, 1909 she was stricken with infantile paralysis causing her to lose the use of her lower limbs. With her mother in 1914 she moved to Wayne where she has resided up to the time of her death. Besides her mother and father, Miss Milligan leaves two sisters and a brother, Mrs. J. Denney of Clearwater, Mrs. Robert Paulsen and Ralph Milligan.

Miss Milligan was a sweet girl of admirable traits and well loved by her many friends both in Wayne and in her former home of Stanton. These people will miss her kind smile and cheery words. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the Catholic church, Father Kearns having charge of the service.

Relatives from out of town were: Mrs. Milligan's sisters, Mrs. R. Filter and husband of Omaha, Mrs. W. Quigley and children of Loretta, Mrs. I. Johnson and children of Stanton, Misses Mary and Sarah Ryan of Pilger and Mrs. Milligan's brothers, William and George Ryan of Pilger.

The Democrat extends sympathy to the mother of this young woman, who although afflicted, gave the world a smile and a word of hope to make it just a bit brighter by her giving.

From Down by the Rio Grande

Llano Grande, Texas., August 13, 1916.

Editor Democrat:—This fine Sunday morning finds us directing our thoughts homeward again. Would like to be there to attend church. At present neither 4th nor 5th Nebraska regiments have a chaplain so we do not have any religious services of our own.

The Y. M. C. A. building which I spoke of some time ago was for Indiana troops, but Nebraska boys will soon have one of their own as for last two days building has been going up lively. It is situated about 100 yds. from end of our company street. This building will be equipped with papers, magazines, pens, ink, tables and seats, with perhaps a phonograph for music. This will no doubt be a favorite resting place for the boys in their leisure hours.

Our guard duty last Saturday night and Sunday was rather a unique experience. Had a heavy rain storm which lasted almost all night. Imagine then our boys carrying their guns and pacing to and fro on their posts in the utter darkness while in the distance the wildcat chorus pealed out its very unharmonious music, which reminds one of the howling coyotes of early Nebraska days. Add to this the water through which we had to wade which meant that we were wet to the knees, then you know about what it was like. The boys took it all in good spirits, however.

Again Thursday night and Friday we were on guard up at head quarters, or up on Broadway, as it is called. In other words we were the police force of Llano Grande for 24 hours. One guard was placed at postoffice, one at lumber yard, one at commissary, one at wood pile, one in rear of picture show to keep boys from climbing 12 foot fence to see the show, one at guard house, one at bakery and various other places which I do not remember.

For equipment this week we have been fitted with new hats, trousers, belts, shoe strings and laces for our leggings. Thing most needed now we believe is cots for which we have been so patiently waiting. This is getting to be no joke for we have no straw tick under us. We understand they will be issued soon. Seems as though they couldn't get them sooner.

Another thing which we have been patiently or rather impatiently waiting for, is a little of Uncle Sam's cash. So far, we have not received a cent of pay, while nearly every other regiment in camp have received pay at least for June.

Fifth Nebraska arrived here nearly a week after we did, yet they received June pay nearly two weeks ago. We are unable to understand the situation.

Was talking to a farmer Friday, who came down here three years ago, from Central Missouri, because it was too cold up there. He said this land was selling from $100 to $150 per acre with brush on it. Says although corn is staple crop many raise cabbage, onions, tomatoes, potatoes, peppers and egg plant. In case of good crop the returns on most of these will be from $100 to $250 per acre, while peppers bring as high as $1200 per acre. However, some years they do not make expenses, as crops do not do the best without some rain with irrigation water.

As to the health of our boys most of them are in good condition. Chas. A. Rogers has received his discharge from our company. Charley was a lively boy and we were sorry to lose him. Gil Weber and Archie Wright have been sent to base hospital.

With best wishes from all,
JAMES J. STEELE.

Alvin Conley Dies at Long Pine

The funeral of Alvin Conley, age eleven years, who died in the Long Pine hospital, Monday August 14, 1916, was held at the Baptist church this morning at ten o'clock, his death being due to tuberculosis of the bone. Rev. Gaston preached the funeral sermon. The body was interred in the Greenwood cemetery.

Alvin is the eldest of six children born to John Conley and wife, formerly of this place, but now residing in Cody. He was sick but a short time before his death, the poison caused by the disease spreading rapidly over the body and causing death before any remedy could be brought to bear in checking it. Alvin was a bright little fellow, well liked by all and his death brings much sorrow to his parents, relatives and friends.

John Conley, the father of the deceased is a brother-in-law of O. S. Roberts and John Good of this place. He is well known here and his many friends will heartily sympathize with him and his wife in their loss.

Mrs. Jennie Porter from Huron, South Dakota, came today to visit at the home of Mrs. Liveringhouse a few days.

Two Sides of a Question and a Street

Last week the Democrat made mention of the petition before the city council, asking that body to vacate 26 feet of the south side of 7th street along the four blocks between Main street and Sherman street, and the appointment of a committee to view the property and appraise damages. This committee met and viewed the scene of proposed street contraction and have notified those who have title in property on the opposite side of the street that they will meet at the city hall at 8 o'clock Monday evening the 21st to "assess damages" of all persons by reason of vacating 26 feet of Seventh street immediately adjacent of and butting on the north side of outlots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 of Crawford's and Brown's" etc.

If other citizens were notified to appear other than those on the opposite side of the street, we are not aware of it; but to us it seems that every property owner in Wayne, and even citizens with no realty holdings are or should be interested in the disposition made of the streets by the city council. Thousands of people annually travel this particular street and their rights should be protected. Property owners in other parts of the blocks on this street should have an interest. At least no street should be vacated until the street owners—the people—can pass on the same, not the few who may desire or oppose it for the reason that they have abutting property, though they may be more vitally interested than many others.

Members of the council about 14 years ago tell us that the same question was before them, and at that time they supposed the question was settled, and the walks built about that time along the north side of the street, were ordered laid the same as other walks, one foot from the lot line, the road grade was ordered for the center of the street and a wide parking was provided for and the same order was supposed to apply equally to both sides of the street. The street was laid out 40 feet on the south side of the section line and 66 feet on the north of the line, one side in one addition and the other in another. If the people want it cut to an 80-foot street let them say so and from which side the cut shall be made.

New York progressives or moon followers declined to fuse with republicans against Wilson. Why should they? Is not Wilson the progressive candidate? Does he oppose the income tax? did he oppose a reduction of railroad passenger rates? No. But he insisted that congress keep its platform pledge and enact a law to protect the children of the south from the greed of the capitalists of that section, who would gladly mint the sweat of children for their profit. And some republican papers are claiming that because the President is urging congress to legislate on this question and some others before adjournment, that he is wielding the big stick worse than Teddy did. Possibly it is jealousy that is prompting Teddy to oppose Wilson.

Over in the vicinity of Battle Creek they have a great time with cattle. About three weeks ago a bunch of cattle disappeared, and no trace of them could be found—but it was quite sure they had not been shipped out. Last week a man came to the owner and said that they were in his pasture, and had come there without his knowledge, nor could it be learned where they came from. About two years ago a bunch of cattle was stolen in that vicinity, and after a long time one of the animals strayed back to her old home much disfigured but still recognizable. And this led to the discovery of the others. They had all been disfigured by cutting ears and tails.

Even An Editor Convinced

When a single city (Spokane) in the state of Washington gains thirty millions in bank clearings in four months, while the number of arrests and charity cases drops off in the same ratio, one wonders if there's a reason. The editor of the Daily Chronicle thinks he has it, says The Christian Advocate. His paper did not take a hot hand in the fight of 1914 that brought in prohibition. The editor shared the notion that paralyzes the voting arm of some other good people. He thought the liquor people were right when they said that the law would stifle liberty and that business would go to the dogs. So he sat tight on his tripod and made it harder for others to do the hard work of voting Washington dry—a state worthy of its name. Four months of prohibition have changed his mind. "This paper is ready at ten seconds' notice," he writes, "to fight its best against any serious effort to repeal or cripple the prohibition law."

For four months now, Spokane has honestly tried prohibition; and it has prohibited. Not perfectly; but better than speed laws prohibit fast driving or larceny laws prohibit theft. Drinking has not stopped. Close to one thousand persons a week get permits to ship liquor into this country, as the law allows. Reckoning each of these thousand permits at the maximum, the total amount would have given each Spokane saloon of one year ago just six quarts of whiskey, and seventy-two bottles of beer for a week's supply—enough to last a small saloon till Tuesday night.

Then he quotes the police records for the corresponding months of 1915 and 1916:

January 1-May 1, 1915, drunks, 501; vagrants, 411; disorderlies, 256.

January 1-May 1, 1916, drunks, 159; vagrants, 128; disorderlies, 89.

The county jail has one hundred cells to let that had tenants a year ago, and the poor farm has lost one-fourth of its boarders. Add to this that unemployment is less, destitution is less, poverty less, than twelve months ago; divorces are fewer; collections are better; dives have closed; white slaves are not to be found; burglaries and hold-ups have dwindled; the panhandler has vanished; grocers, clothing merchants and shoe dealers report gains in business, ranging from 5 to 35 per cent; new business blocks are being built; the banks hold millions more in deposits than they held last April; and hotel men, who at that time were near panic over the coming of the new law, are wearing smiles as they turn surplus guests away. The dry way is the way of economy, of safety, of righteousness.—The Continent.

A German scientist has discovered that paper can be made from cotton stalks. The striking thing about the discovery is that Germany produces no cotton and so can't use the discovery, but it is highly important to the United States which is the greatest cotton producing country in the world. Editor Harris has been figuring out an ice pond for skating in the winter and the necessary supply of ice for the city in summer, as well as a bathing pool of one-third of an acre. We gather from reading his figures that the city already owns the site. He figures the excavating at $200; the concrete at $300. Other expenses including the filling the tank from the city well he estimates brings the investment up to $1,800 for the tank once full, and after that the cost would be nominal. On this investment he would make a saving of $500 per year in cost of ice to the people of Coleridge and be able to assure them pure ice. We publish these figures because the idea of a swimming pool has been considered here, but we think his estimate far too low. We doubt if the excavating could be done for the price named, and then a two-inch concrete covering would not, we believe, be near heavy enough, nor could it be put in at 4c the square foot in this man's town.

There Is a Big Difference IN COFFEE

A traveling salesman offered me a bargain in coffee. He said it was a brand his firm was closing out. It had not been a good seller, his firm was going to put in a new line of coffee, and that I could buy the old brand at several cents less. I told him that I was afraid if I bought it I would be closing it out some day at less than I paid for it. I further stated that I would rather stick to for in the five years I have sold this line I never had to close out a single pound of it. Instead I have closed out all other brands.

In Chase & Sanborn's coffee you get every cent's worth of value you pay for. We don't have to cut the price to sell them.

A PENDING RAILROAD STRIKE

Today, President Wilson is facing a question of gravest importance to all of the American people, and all hope that a basis for settlement of the differences between managers and men without a strike. Such a strike as is threatened would practically tie up every line of business. The railroads would suffer millions of loss—the employees of all roads would sustain great loss, but greater and more important would be the loss inflicted upon the innocent public. Let us hope that the meeting today results in an understanding.

The foreign war goes merrily on with the forces from all sides closing in on the Austrians and Germans.

Hughes spoke in favor of protection for the farmer at Fargo last week—but we did not notice that he gave any thought for the consumer.

Postal deposits are growing, and are now nearly $100,000,000 which looks much like prosperity, for at the same time bank deposits have greatly increased.

Fairbanks, who is running with Hughes on the republican ticket, does not appear to be with him in his views of the administration's Mexican policy. Fairbanks approves and Hughes opposes. That is great harmony for the head of the ticket.

Now that the local prohibition people have joined the campaign of educating by taking advertising space in the local papers it is fair to assume that the public will have opportunity to study both sides of the liquor question before voting. This is right and proper, as we view it.

We have just been reading in our republican exchanges that Hughes is the man of the hour—the one for the place and a master man in every particular which will make him an ideal president if elected and he does not have to answer to the fellow who will claim that they put him there—provided, of course, that no one is mistaken in the estimate they have made.

If—if the party label should be hidden from the name of a candidate, and a brief statement of the plans and policies for which he stands be placed before the people, thus freeing the election of party prejudice, it is safe to predict that the Wilson position on a great majority of public questions would please a great number of people who have long been bound by a party label. Why not look at the policy for which the men stand rather than the party label?

Last week was official touring week, and while it was the first nation-wide move in that direction, and will doubtless have many more adherents another year, it was a pronounced success, and it is safe to say that more people than ever before at one time gave attention to touring their own and nearby states. One good thing which is promised for this country from the European war is a better knowledge and appreciation of the scenery and resources of our own country by those who have been following a fad and spending vacations and money abroad for attractions inferior to those at home.

The origin of the plank in the republican platform that calls for the nationalization of the railroads and the virtual destruction of all state railroad commissions is no longer in doubt. Minority Leader Mann, in one of his intermittent spells of frankness, said on the floor of the House, July 15, referring to this very plank:

"The attorneys for the railroads succeeded in getting a plank in the republican platform of 1916."

Considering the record of Governor Hughes in vetoing the two-cent passenger rate in New York, we presume that the railroad authority of this platform plank will rather commend the proposition to him.

According to Candidate Hughes we are "shockingly unprepared." That may be true; but in considering this one should remember that in the past 40 years under republican rule most of the time, we have spent practically as much for preparedness as has Germany, and the difference is that Germany got the worth of her money to the extent of being prepared while we are as the candidate says, lacking in preparedness—and in the three and almost a half years since Wilson's inauguration no very extensive work of preparation could be carried to completion. So it may well be understood that Hughes is criticizing his own party for the condition.

As Don Cunningham was riding into Fremont from the grounds where the tractor show was held last week, on a heavily loaded passenger truck, in some manner he was crowded or fell from the vehicle, striking almost under the wheels of another car which was speeding past the truck. But beyond a few bruises and some soiled and torn clothing, no injury resulted.

There has been a sort of an old soldier reunion at Wayne this week. W. H. Vanderbilt from Randolph and James Warren from Los Angeles, both of the 27th Iowa volunteers of 1861-5 were guests of S. Taylor of the same regiment, and it is small wonder that they visited so hard that they missed the train to Randolph Tuesday evening. It was the first meeting of Warren and Taylor since they were mustered out more than 50 years ago. Mr. Taylor says that Mr. Vanderbilt was an officer over him and it was his pleasure and duty to keep him in the guard house most of the time when not under marching or fighting orders. They had too little time to review their years of service together in their brief stay. Mr. Warren is spending some time this summer among the old soldiers in this and other states. They went to Randolph Wednesday morning.

The work of installing a new oven at the Wayne bakery is practically finished, the first fire being put under the oven Wednesday evening. Quite a delay has been caused by waiting for a new set of proof boxes, the old boxes not being of the class he wished to move in for use with the new oven. This makes the baking equipment modern and will assure an improvement in the good work they have been doing there.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sala returned last week from a visit with their son at Colome, South Dakota. Mr. Sala says that it is the first time he ever saw hot nights out there, but that crops are looking fine, except the spring wheat, which was a fine prospect until black rust struck it just as it was filling and it did not fill. He says they now have plenty of rain, though some of them were wanting it a week before it came.

S. R. Theobald, Dr. E. S. Blair and daughter, Alice, returned home Tuesday morning from their two week auto trip to Denver. They report a pleasant trip only encountering about 80 miles of mud the whole trip which was remarkable as quite a bit of rain has fallen in the west during the past few days. Crop conditions were fine all long the way and with the rain promises to make Nebraska and Colorado rich in corn, wheat and oats.

Paul Mildner was over from Madison the first of the week and drove home in his father's car to have it at his home and keep it from rusting out while the owner is seeing the sights in Montana. By the way, word comes back from Mr. Mildner when they had reached Glendive, Montana, that himself and party were getting along nicely, that they had made a record of 800 miles in four and one half days, which is not bad for strangers in a strange land.

Prevention Better Than Cure

The one remedy which leading stockmen agree is not only a preventative of worms and indigestion, but also a remedy to overcome these conditions, is SAL-VET, the worm destroyer and stock conditioner.

It costs less and is so much easier to give than other treatments, that it is rapidly replacing all other remedies, everywhere.

SAL-VET is a scientific compound of Wymo salt and several medicinal ingredients, all of which are plainly printed upon the label. It destroys worms in stock, corrects and aids the digestion—enabling the animal to keep healthy, and to derive the greatest good from its food. It is the logical conditioner and disease preventive, for these reasons:—

It stimulates the appetite. It is an effective tonic and blood builder. It absorbs noxious gases in the stomach and bowels, thus rendering these organs fit to perform their natural functions. It rids the stomach and intestines of worms, and better still, it prevents infection by these parasites.

Don't make the mistake of waiting until disease breaks out in your herd or neighborhood before you begin to feed SAL-VET. Don't be like the man who locked the stable door after the horse was stolen. A single attack of disease, can wipe out your whole year's profits, in a single week. Be on the safe side. Don't neglect the simple, easy means of prevention, which I offer you. Begin now to feed SAL-VET. Let it put every animal on your place in condition to get the full good of what it eats. Stop the unnatural drain on the strength and vitality of your stock. Prepare to fight off contagion when it comes, and protect yourself from heavy loss.

SAL-VET is sold under my personal guarantee—money back if unsatisfactory.

CHIROPRACTIC!

Cause vs. Effect

The principle of chiropractic (adjust the cause and the effect is eliminated) is right. Clinical observations of tens of thousands of cases, as far as can be learned, every known condition of the human body is subject to, shows conclusively that this science is reaching all conditions and correcting the cause of disease, opening the way for nature to cure.

Chiropractic is not a theory any more; it is a science of facts and is doing for suffering humanity that which other professions have been striving to do for ages.

Chiropractic should be thoroughly investigated by those who are sick, or by those whose dear ones are suffering from disease. Chiropractic courts investigation. A science which is based upon logical principles delights in being investigated; while a pseudo evades analysis. Do not insult your intelligence by ridiculing the great science with which you are unfamiliar; nor will you be a stumbling block to those who want to come in touch with this science. Chiropractic invites suffering persons to come and see her and get well. Do not abuse the best friend of poor suffering humanity, chiropractic.

Lady patients. In no line of disease do we have better success than in the various diseases and ailments which affect womankind. Benefits are promptly shown without the annoyance which they are subjected to under other treatments. The proper nerve supply being restored, normal functions are quickly re-established.

Your health and happiness depend on the condition of your nervous system. Investigate this wonderful science. It's a pleasure to tell you about it.

THE PLAY IN CHINA

It Is a Curious Mixture of Noise, Costume and Strut.
DIN FROM START TO FINISH.

It Begins When the Curtain Rises and Continues Until the Last Scene Ends the Agony—The Property Man a Mighty Important Personage.

I was all tired and knocked out when I reached China, so I thought to myself, "I'll just go to a Chinese theater and spend a quiet evening. I won't understand anything, so I can doze off when I want to and come out as refreshed as a sprig of celery."
"What time does the play begin?" I asked as the guide led the way to the gallery, for in a Chinese theater the farther away you are the more aristocratic. No Chinese of caste would be caught in orchestra A.

"It have begin," he answered.
"How could that be?" I demanded, for it was still a few minutes of 8.
"It begin yesterday. It run two piecee days. It No. 1 play."
And so I found out. The better the play the longer it lasts. A Chinaman doesn't think he is getting his money's worth unless the play lasts a couple of days. Some of them continue a week. They consider a play that lasts only a night a curtain raiser and tag it on to a real play just to try it out.

The Chinese believe in noise. A theater isn't a theater to them unless it has a ladies' annex to a boiler factory just off stage. The hammering begins when the curtain goes up and continues until it falls. I soon found out that I erred seriously in coming to a Chinese theater to sleep. A person might drop off for a few minutes in a car shop, but he could never get near the knitting up of the raveled sleeve in a Chinese theater.

Chinese acting consists of the actors coming on again in another outfit of clothes. They come on, whirl a baton a couple of times and exeunt. While they are off another delegation of actors arrive with another collection of clothes. They whirl their clubs a few times and file out Indian style as another lodge arrives. There is no more expression on the face of a Chinese actor than on a punching bag.

When they want to show that the intrepid hero will a handful of men is trying to take a fortification against a vastly overwhelming enemy the property man hurries around in front of the hero with a black cloth stretched over a frame. This is the fortification, even though you can see his fingers gripping the breastworks. The dauntless hero marches across the stage, stops before the impregnable barrier, casts his eagle eye over it, draws his long sword and rips it asunder with one fell blow, the property man holding the swaying corner, while the hero marches through to victory. The intrepid hero stops to explain to his subordinates how he was able to accomplish the feat, while the property man drags the ramparts into the wings and begins pinning them up for the attack in the next act.

In a Chinese play there are no girls, their parts being taken by boys, speaking in a high, quavering voice as if something were too tight. When an actor wants to show that he is old he ties on a beard that comes to his waist. The beard works off to one corner and hangs grimly by one string, but the audience doesn't worry about that. They know that he is an old man because he has a beard.

I was constantly alert to figure out what kind of show it was. When I first got there and saw the constant change of costume I thought that it must be a musical comedy, but after studying it more closely I saw that it was a farce. When they began to kill people I came to the conclusion that it was an opera. Later, when the hero found his wife in another man's arms, I decided that it was a problem play.

The most important person in a Chinese show is the property man. Alongside him the lead sticks into insignificance. He has charge of the show. The show opens when he says and closes when he wants to go out to a tea house. He keeps his properties where they are handy—down stage by the proscenium arch—right out where the audience can lean over and almost touch them. To know what is coming next all the audience has to do is to look over and see what the property man is getting ready.

Hour after hour the play continued without an intermission. Midnight came and the actors seemed to be just going into the spirit of the play. When I remembered that the play had been running for two days I felt sure that the next five minutes would see the last costume, but the show still continued.

I hung desperately on, determined to be in on the finish when the last hot, feverish kiss was pressed on the upturned lips, but it didn't end that way. It ended when the leading man came rushing out with a chess cutter and killed twelve men in breathless succession. He whined and wined, the thoughtfully crawling to the wings to die, thus ending the leading man the center of the stage until the evanescent property man came up and spitefully yanked the curtains to—Homer Crox in Leslie's.

The more one judges the less one loves.—Balzac.

RUNDELL'S COLUMN

When Mr. Bryan was a candidate for president, the proprietor of a leading republican paper denounced him as a dishonest leader of dishonest men, when at the same time this golden patriot was practicing unlawful graft that landed him in the penitentiary.

State Treasurer Bartley and all of the national bankers in the pen, and all that followed to keep them company agreed with this Chicago criminal that the 6,000,000 men who voted for Bryan were dishonest.

But the majority of the G. O. P. were more tolerant. They deemed Bryan an addle-pated boy and his adherents had the appearance of having a mild attack of the softening of the brain. Bryan was not a leader, but was led by men who began the study of the gold and silver question when Bryan was but 16 years old. Had Bryan understood the question, his election was easy and overwhelming. In all his speeches he left the impression that the increase of money that would come from the restoration of the law of free coinage would be silver money when the opposite was true, otherwise precedent is no guide to future events. Permit me to state a few undisputed facts and ask a few questions: In 1837 congress said that 16 ounces of silver should equal an ounce of gold and permitted the free coinage of both without limit to any one, native or foreign, making both legal tender for debt without limit, and receivable for all taxes, dues and demands.

During the 37 years prior to 1873 there were only about one million silver dollars coined, and why? Because 16 ounces of silver were worth more than an ounce of gold, which induced the foreign merchant to take the silver bars and leave us the gold, until in 1853 merchants resorted to their individual script to make change.

Why didn't Mexicans and South Americans dump their silver at our mint and take away gold, so often predicted? Because their silver dollar, like ours was worth $1.03 in gold, and would be again the day that our congress would restore the law. Was it the wonderful increase in the yield of American silver mines that made the suspension of the standard silver dollar a necessity? No; for notwithstanding the yield of the Comstock lode of 15 million ounces annually, and others altogether yielding over 50 million ounces annually, yet the dollar of our dads maintained its price of $1.03 in gold up to the day when John Sherman secretly struck it down.

Now let some wise guy explain why during the period from 1869 to 1873 when the mountains of America promised such fabulous yields that silver maintained its price per ounce as staple as that of gold per ounce. Silver bullion is almost exclusively an American product, with the old world as almost constant customers by its artisans and for use as money. England and France are coining hundred of millions of money during this war from silver bullion bought in America at 60 cents an ounce. Under our law of free coinage they had to pay $1.29 per ounce, and would again if we would restore the law. In the spring of 1865 President Lincoln said to Colfax, who was going to the mountains, say to the people that during the war I suppressed as well as I could the news of rich silver mines found there. I needed men for soldiers, but since the war is ended the more gold and silver they mine the easier will be the payment of the great war debt. Was Lincoln dishonest to encourage the production of silver to pay debts? Senator Sherman said that of other men a few years later.

During the years 1862-3-4 the most of the emigrants to the mountains were men who went to escape the draft and deserters from both armies. Perhaps John Sherman should be credited with administering them a deserving dose.

History proves that the owners of silver bullion refused to have it coined to lose three dollars on a hundred which accounts for so few silver dollars. Sherman says he doubts if more than 1,000 American dollars were out in 1873. Then why did he substitute in the act of that year the trade dollar, heavier and more valuable? And like the standard dollar it displaced made a legal tender for debt. Over 30 million of these trade dollars were coined and put into circulation at par. But in 1876 they were quietly demonetized and suspended from further coinage. Senator Sherman fails to give any reason. Perhaps some wise Wayne defender of the rotten record of the G. O. P., who can swell up and inform you that our present silver dollar is as good as gold because the government is back of it, can tell you. What was wrong with this dollar? It carried the regular lawful designs, even, in "God we trust."

No longer a legal tender, they became bullion, worth what they would bring, but being 7 1/2 grains heavier than the standard dollar they were received on deposit until silver bullion fell in price to a point that rendered them worth less than their face value, and bankers knowing they lacked the fiat possessed by the standard dollar refused them on deposit. They declined in price with that of silver bullion until an Englishman could buy 32 ounces of American silver with an ounce of gold and a syndicate of bankers gathered in these trade dollars at 50 cents each. A Pender banker paid 100 of these dollars to a farmer, who being distrustful of banks deposited them in his bureau, and when he wanted to use them, to his horror learned that they were worth only 80 cents each. Senator Sherman denounced a man as a hoodlum who asked him, when speaking at Toledo, why the government didn't redeem the trade dollars? It did when that syndicate got possession of them. Not only were the people deprived of the use of these dollars, but they were deliberately robbed of over $15,000,000 when the "invisible government" obtained their redemption at face value in gold by a republican congress.

Remember that the 600 millions silver certificates and silver dollars now in circulation, legal tender for any amount and not redeemable in gold is the result of a democratic measure forced over the veto of President Hayes in 1878. If Wall street can succeed through the election of Mr. Hughes and a republican congress, do they intend to do to these democratic dollars what they did to the republican trade dollar. To even limit their legal tender character you will hear no more of $200 land in Wayne county. If this is not the purpose, why are there practically no silver dollars or silver certificates in circulation in the east?

Rev. Gaston, in one of his brilliant lectures said that every voter should be posted politically. Now let some well-informed republican defend the record of his party or if it is indefensible, let him pitch into the record of the democrats, by which, through misrepresentation, they have carried elections and maintained at Washington an "invisible government" for fifty years, and leave the mudslinging to Hughes and Roosevelt.

On Buying Land

"How long would it take a farm hand to save sufficient money to buy a farm outright," a prosperous soil tiller was asked.

"In the settled sections of the United States, where the price of land ranges well over $100 an acre, he could never do it," answered the farmer.

He looked up and down the Cedar county road, gazed at his own fine fields, and then took to figuring.

"The average cost of an acre of land in the United States is now about $45," he said. "Two years ago it was $40, three years ago $38, and four years ago $36. I remember the figures well from having read a farm paper the other day.

"To make a farm pay you have to get enough land to raise enough to cover expenses and yield a profit. The way land is going up the chances for an ordinary farm hand to be a landowner is smaller and smaller. I remember the time when my land sold for $8 an acre. You couldn't get it for many times that at present. Land around here brings up to $175 an acre. The farm hand would have to rent or establish credit. The first is easiest of the two, and accounts for the increased number of farm tenants we have nowadays.

"It is beyond the reach of a man without quite a bunch of capital to buy a farm outright, and that's the main reason for tenancy, which in some parts of the country, notably the southwest, has been considered an evil."

This Cedar county farmer had the situation well sized up. It indicates pointedly the necessity of arranging conditions so that the man who has worked on a farm can look forward to possession, something to which he is logically entitled to attain.

The question has already been taken up by law-makers and it is only a question of time when steps will be taken by the government to remedy the situation, something that has been done in lands where a similar problem developed generations ago.—Cedar County News.

Among the Churches of Wayne

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

The time draws near for the big FIVE meetings. Are you doing all you can to spread the news? It pays to advertise.

It behooves every christian to get into the anti-saloon column. The other side seems to have all the other folks, and some of the church members, to boot. Don't you ever believe these horrible examples of moral and commercial decay (?) under prohibition. Just ask Kansas.

Friends of the Y. P. S. C. E. are especially invited to attend the six o'clock meeting next Sunday evening. Mr. A. R. Davis has been asked to be present and lead the meeting. The topic for discussion will be, "Growth in Body, Mind and Spirit." We shall be pleased to see the Endavor room full at this meeting.

Visitors in Wayne and members of vacationing churches are very cordially invited to attend our Sunday morning services next Sunday. The subject of the sermon will be, "The Beatitude of Forgiveness." A special song service will be rendered under the direction of the chorister, Mrs. W. E. Johnson.

Come to the Sunday school. Be altruistic enough to come even if you do not feel a personal need of it. You can help a great deal, just presence, in one of the greatest lines of Christian effort in the world. We do not like to have to coax people to do their duty, but we very much need every church member in the Sunday school.

The current number of the Continent is filled with entirely new and helpful articles. There is some valuable information on the community service work in which Wayne is now interested.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

There will be no services in this church next Sunday either morning or evening.

The annual Sunday school and church picnic will be held in Bressler's grove, a mile north of town, Thursday, August 24. It is hoped that the parents will bring their children that old and young may spend a pleasant day together. Bring your baskets well filled. Those having no way to get to the grove are asked to meet at the church at 10 o'clock and transportation will be provided for all.

All the young people who intend to be in the confirmation class are requested to meet the pastor at the church Saturday, September 9, at 2:30 p. m. The class will not begin its regular weekly meetings until October 28, but we desire to get the class together once so that all may be supplied with catechisms and the first lesson assigned. Then when the regular instruction begins there will be no delay caused by organization. The class this year should have no less than twenty five or thirty members. Parents should encourage their children to take this course of instruction.

German Lutheran Church
Rev. Moehring, Pastor

Next Sunday the Sunday school will be held at 10 o'clock, and regular church service at 11 o'clock in the morning.

In the afternoon the pastor will preach at Winside.

CITIES HONOR EDITORS

Nebraska Press Association Ends Tour Throughout State.

Entertaining and instructive describes, only in a very faint way, the very successful trip of the Nebraska Press association in its tour of the western part of the state last week.

If any one ever had the least doubt of Nebraska hospitality, its warmth, magnitude and diversity, the illusion was dispelled once and for all, for from the inception of the trip at Grand Island to the return, Nebraska cities outdid themselves in honoring the Nebraska editors.

More than 100 took advantage of the trip, which included the cities of Grand Island, Broken Bow, Hyannis, Crawford, Chadron, Bridgeport, Bayard, Chimney Rock, Gering, Scottsbluff, Mitchell, Minatare, North Platte and Kearney.

After five days' tour of this chain of cities and connecting country, every editor returned thoroughly stuffed mentally and physically with good things. The Nebraska Press ministers gave shows in every city and were warmly received.

Omaha was chosen for the 1917 meeting and these officers elected: Clark Perkins, Aurora, president; C. B. Cass, Ravenna, vice president; A. D. Scott, Edgar, secretary-treasurer; Miss Anna Hunt, Ponca, corresponding secretary. An adjourned meeting was ordered to be held at Omaha or Lincoln at the call of the president. Both retiring officers, President Horace M. Davis of Ord and Secretary C. C. Johns of Grand Island, were affectionately remembered for their services to the association with beautiful gifts. Neither was a candidate for reelection to the office vacated.
