BIG MEETINGS OPEN SUNDAY

After Weeks of Preliminary Work, the Stage is Set for Great Opening Sermons, Choir of 300 Voices and Eloquent Speakers

The evangelistic meetings will open at the new tabernacle Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, when Rev. Clyde Lee Fife will preach for his opening sermon, "A Defense of Revivals." The second meeting will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon for everybody with "Prayer," as the sermon subject. The evening sermon will be on "Sins of Today," and is said to be a "Head-Liner." Such is the program outlined for the opening of what is promised to be the greatest battle with the hosts of sin ever undertaken at Wayne or in all this part of Nebraska. The evangelistic party is made up of seven members, part of whom are now here, and superintending the work preparatory to the opening of the great meetings. Other members of the party are to be here Saturday morning. Following are members of the party: Clyde Lee Fife, evangelist; Earl H. Fife, musical director; Sherman L. Lyons, secretary; Mrs. Nell Fife-Kuhn who superintends the household and assists in the singing and music; Miss Julia Yockey, who comes from Indiana, and is to have charge of women and girl's work, a soloist of great charm; Robert S. Fife, assistant to the evangelist and an accomplished musician; and the advance man Fred H. Kuhn, who came the first of the week and has been a busy man arranging all manner of details for the success of the meetings.

The meetings will be held in the commodious new garage building now practically ready for occupancy. This building 150x75 feet will all be at the disposal of the committee and is now being seated so as to comfortably accommodate the choir of 300 voices and an audience of nearly 2,000 people, and a comfortable rest room. Delegations from all surrounding towns are to visit the big meetings from time to time, plans and arrangements having been made to see that all such parties are properly cared for. Not only the local ministers, but those of the neighboring towns are deeply interested in the work, and from the opening Sunday morning until the close it is promised that there will be no lack of enthusiasm and pep until the lights go out the night of October 8th.

A $100.00 Birthday Present

When the Brotherhood of American Yeomen was young, the plan was told to D. M. Davis of Carroll, while he was yet living in Iowa, and it appealed to him to such an extent that he joined, and though not living near where any lodge of the order he kept his membership and dues up, and now he is getting his reward. This order has a provision to pay 10 percent of a policy as an old age disability benefit annually, beginning at the age of 70 years, and as Mr. Davis passed that mark three years ago, he came to Wayne Wednesday upon notice of the correspondent of the Homestead of the order at this place where there is a small membership, that his annual payment was here for his acceptance.

School Notes

The public schools opened Monday morning with very flattering prospects for a successful school year. The building was thoroughly renovated during the vacation and is convenient and inviting in appearance. A fire escape has been added, and every effort has been made to insure the comfort and safety of the pupils. The enrollment is as follows: Kindergarten, 25; First grade, 30; Second grade, 32; Third grade, 39; Fourth grade, 28; Fifth grade, 20; sixth grade, 40; Seventh grade, 35; Eighth grade, 31; High school, 94; total 374. Teachers in charge were given last week.

Marriage Licenses Issued

Acting County Judge J. E. Brittan issued a license to Harry Willis and Miss Anna Grubel, August 30, 1916.

G. S. Mears and wife visited their son Archie at Sioux City last week, and with their son and family motored to Merrill and LeMars.

Earle Lewis Hurt by Runaway Team

Earle Lewis, son of John A. Lewis, was seriously injured last Saturday morning about eight o'clock when the team he was driving became frightened and unmanageable on the main road north of the Strahan place which Earle and his father are farming this year, and threw him to the ground striking on his head and rendering him unconscious.

Earle was starting to the field northwest of the home with a load of manure and had gone about a quarter of a mile when the team in some way unknown to Mr. Lewis ran. His father heard his son shouting to the team and knew something was wrong but was unable to see just what the trouble was as the heavy mist hid a view of the road. He ran down the road until he came upon his son lying unconscious near the place where he had fallen. Help was summoned and the injured boy was taken to the farm home and a doctor sent for. An abrasion above the left eye where he had struck the road when he fell was the cause of the unconscious condition, and the body was found to be bruised quite badly. Earle was unconscious until Monday morning when he recovered partly so that he recognized his parents and friends. It will be some time before he recovers from the concussion wound and the shock of the fall, but if no unforeseen condition arises he will recover although it may be very slow.

September Moving

A. F. Gulliver and family are moving here from Bloomfield this week, and will soon be at home in the Burret Wright house vacated by W. E. Beaman. This house was made available by the completion of the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Forney, who last week returned to their farm vacating the Laering house formerly occupied by the Beaman family, to which they have returned.

The purchase of the place occupied by G. H. Thompson and family, by Mrs. Hoskins made it the Thompson family's turn to move, and they have gone to a residence in the west part of the city for a month, when they will be able to secure possession of the Tharp house, which Mr. Thompson's father purchased last week from Dr. Williams. Wayne is rather unfortunate in the fact that it is seldom that those who would like to move here can rent a home without waiting for someone already here to move out or build a new home. Many have built, we are glad to say, about sixty or seventy fine residences having been added to the available houses in the past few years, but still the demand seems to exceed the supply.

An active home building and loan organization should be a help in giving more people a chance to own their homes. Why not increase the size and wealth of our city in that manner?

Bush-Glenn

Miss Georgia Bush, daughter of George Bush and wife, left Wednesday afternoon for Chicago, where she was married today at noon to Mr. Charles Glenn of Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. Glen and Miss Bush were married at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Johnson of Chicago. Only immediate friends and relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Glen will make their home in Detroit, where Mr. Glen holds a responsible position.

Miss Bush is one of Wayne's most liked and respected young women. She has a host of friends here who will wish her much happiness in her new home. Mr. Glen is a worthy and talented young man, working with a company which designs and cuts figures and statuary for building front adornment. The Democrat extends congratulations and the hope that these young people will receive much joy and success from life.

"Ethics and Occupation"

Dr. J. T. House is home from Chicago, where he spent several weeks applying the finishing touches to the manuscript of a book he has written, "Ethics and Occupation." Dr. House has given much time and study during the last four years to produce a work which will be helpful to the people at such a time as this, when attention is being given more than in any previous period to the selection of an occupation and specializing in study and training to make the chosen line a success—doing away as far as possible with a sort of hap-hazard method of drifting along and finally stopping in some chance eddy in the life current, perhaps to sink because beyond the depth of the victim of aimless methods—possibly to strand upon some sand or mud bank which might easily have been detected by careful preparation for some definite line of travel along the stream of life.

It is the hope of the author that the work will prove practical aid for study by the members of the different literary and social clubs as well as a text book for high school and college students. Of its success even the author is yet uncertain, but is most hopeful that it has merit which will bring recognition.

Death of Mary Andersen

Wednesday, August 30 1916, death claimed Mrs. Mary Andersen, who had for several years been in failing health at the home of her son, William Andersen near Winside. She was born at Rerslöv, Denmark, June 12, 1857 and was therefore 59 years 2 months and 18 days of age at time of her death.

She came to America in 1880, and two years later, April 17, 1882, was united in marriage to Ole Andersen, and to this union three sons were born, Wm. and C. A. of Winside and James Andersen of Riverbend, Colorado, all of whom were at the funeral, besides her brother Nels Andersen of Washington county and Mrs. Petersen of Winside. They came to Wayne county in 1893.

The funeral service was held at the home of her son William where she died, conducted by Rev. J. Bruce Wylie of the Methodist church, and the body was laid to rest beside that of her husband in the Winside cemetery, where his body has reposed since February 22, 1905. Many friends attended the funeral paying a tribute of love and respect to the memory of one who had long been a friend and neighbor.

Mahoney-Brown

Clifford C. Brown of this place was married to Miss Mary Helen Mahoney of Randolph Tuesday morning, September 5th at 7:30 at the St. Frances church, Father Kearns of Wayne officiating.

Only immediate friends and relatives were present. Ed Mahoney of Randolph was best man and Miss Catherine Seery of Iowa was bridesmaid. The bride was dressed in a dark traveling suit the bridegroom in a dark suit. Following the ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, Mrs. Mahoney.

The newly married couple left on the morning train for Sioux City where they will visit with relatives and friends for a short time. Later they will go to Montana where they plan to make their future home. The Democrat extends with the many friends of this young couple, congratulations and best wishes for a successful and most happy life.

The Letter from Camp

Llano Grande, Texas, 9-2-1916. Editor Democrat:—Since writing to you last week there has, or is, about to be published an order forbidding enlisted men from acting as correspondents for newspapers, so am writing this to explain to friends of Company E, the reason, if they hear no more from us through columns of your paper. This order was brought about through misrepresentation by some of the writers.

Our boys are all well and in the best shape since their arrival here. Most of them are beginning to enjoy their labor but home and all that goes with it is a picture that constantly hangs in the foreground.

The railroad strike which is about to be called will mean a lot to the boys if carried through. Many regiments have been called home already and it may come our turn soon. Again if we remain here, the supply situation may become serious. True the freight trains are busy hauling foodstuffs but they can not haul fresh meat, fruit and ice to last so we will have to depend on canned goods.

We received a rumor this forenoon that we will be back in Nebraska by Oct. 1st. This is not official and we can depend on it no more than the one that we will be in Mexico before long or that we will be here till next spring.

George Church returned to camp this week. He reported Nebraska as still his favorite camp ground.

Monday we took our brand new rifles and marched out west of camp for two or three miles to a temporary target range. The background for targets was banks of an irrigation canal which is not being used at present. There was some little excitement for one not used to a like experience. Both 4th and 5th Nebraska were out and they were lined up 12 men out of a company at a time or about 275 men firing at once. First five shots were slow firing and as much time could be used as wanted. The next five was rapid fire and time limit 30 seconds. Scores were mostly above 20 points out of possible 50. One of our men made second highest in regiment, score 44. Many of us trembled as it came our turn and we recalled that the army gun as reported had a mighty kick or recoil. We found that our rifles did have life but would not harm if used carefully. There is something about it that thrills the soldier boy as he pulls the trigger and feels a gentle push on his shoulder. It is much the same as a man likes to pull down the throttle of his new automobile and feel it jump forward. However we hope we may never be called to shoot at anything but targets.

Wednesday was field day again and athletics was the program throughout the day. Our company captured some of the prizes, Ed Jones receiving prizes for high and broad jumps, Ed Jones, Fritz Milder, Lee Miner winning in relay race. Ball game between Indiana team and 4th Nebr., was won by the Indiana boys.

Thursday being last day of August, was muster day and every soldier, mule, wagon and automobile was out to be counted, so that our Uncle Sam would know he was not paying for imaginary things. This included the whole camp. The supply wagons, ambulance wagons and auto trucks were lined up side by side across a half mile field east of camp. We counted 147 supply or provision wagons, 21 ambulance wagons and 30 auto trucks. All of the above wagons except seven were drawn by four mules. This does not include saddle horses.

Yesterday morning we went for a 12 mile hike with heavy equipment. Sun was shining hot but there was nice breeze where there was no wind break. We were gone four hours and 20 minutes and preserved our record as to our ability to stand the hike. There were 14 to fall out of entire regiment. If any of you folks want to find out what it is like just strap a sack of flour on your back and hike to Winside or Carroll, then you may come join our band if you don't fall out before ending the trip.

Last night we had the pleasure of listening to a lecture by Mr. Sayre on the work of Dr. Grenfal in Labrador. Dr. Grenfal was a young doctor who felt that he was making a failure of life if he lived only for himself. He sought Labrador as his field of labor. Here he found people without doctors, preachers or teachers. There are three tribes of people in this land; the Eskimo in the far north, then the Indians which are few in number, then the white settlers. The Eskimo says Mr. Sayre, look like, act like Chinese and as Bering Strait is frozen up tight every winter and many people pass back and forth he suggests that Eskimo of America are descendants of Chinese of Siberia. Their occupation is principally whaling.

The white people make their way south in summer time along banks of Newfoundland and fish. A good catch of fish means a good winter, a poor catch a hard winter. Late in the fall after their return from fishing they take their dog teams and go to interior of country for wood for the northern coasts are barren of wood. This interior is heavily timbered and is not inhabited except by a few trappers. Mr. Sayre spoke of one and a friend being curious to know what the interior was like, strapped their blankets and food on back and started out on foot. They traveled many and many a day hoping to find caribou or deer but it was too late in season and they had all gone south. At last they came in sight of a cabin, so they celebrated right away by eating their last can of corned beef. They found the cabin to be inhabited by an old man who was only too glad to take them in and keep them over night. This being quite a treat to see someone who could tell them of what was going on in outside world.

Dr. Grenfal rigged out a hospital ship and every year he starts north just as soon as ice will permit him. He stops at every village caring for sick best he can, he must hurry, so that he may make round trip before ice imprisons him. He has in last few years established six hospitals, established co-operative stores where people may trade fish and furs for necessities of life; he has also preached to them and made it possible for them to keep up with the rest of world. It is six years since Mr. Sayre was with Dr. Grenfal in Labrador. He spoke of the doctor being a very happy man, which goes to prove "it is more pleasant to give than to receive" or in other words "he that would be great must be servant of all."

Today we are having our regular weekly inspection and have no drill. Next week we continue our hikes and sham battles and deployments.

With best wishes of all the boys, I am as ever, JAMES J. STEELE.

The Denver Post tells of twins born at that city, a black son and a white daughter lie in a crib side by side—a freak of nature of which there is no previous parallel known. The mother is white, the father unknown, the mother saying that she was married but divorced. The state will have charge of the children.

It Cooks as good as It Looks

Did you ever try to run a neat seam on an old worn-out sewing machine? You worried and fretted, and every time you looked at that seam, you felt like apologizing for it.

Did you ever have to apologize for your cooking? Is your range a perfect piece of machinery—does it do the same thing the same way every day?

With good machinery work becomes a pleasure, because we turn out a class of work that we are proud of. With poor machinery, it is fuss, fret and discouragement.

Surely a woman is entitled to good machinery in the kitchen. The food prepared there is not for horses, nor cows nor hogs. It is for human beings. Of all the manufacturers in the land she manufactures the most important thing—food for you and me. Then give her the best machinery, the best range, a range that cleans easily, that lasts long, that performs perfectly—a Copper-Clad range. Do this and she will be Range Happy.

OLD PAPERS FOR SALE AT DEMOCRAT OFFICE

State House Letter

The increase of lands added to the taxable land values of the state since the levy of 1915, according to the official report of O. E. Bernecker, secretary of the state board of equalization, totals 1,507,213 acres. The total decrease in acreage for the same period was 31,411. The largest increase was in Cherry county, with 233,577 acres. Seventy-one counties are credited with an acreage increase, while 18 counties show a decrease. Personal property, based on a one-fifth valuation shows an increase of $1,675,086.

In quite contrast to the gloom which hangs over republican state headquarters at the Lindell hotel, is the jubilant activity which prevails at the democratic state headquarters over at the Lincoln hotel. Not a day goes by but what Chairman Langhorst of the democratic state committee receives large tracts of mail from every part of the state, containing words of encouragement, not only from democratic county committeemen, but from voters of every political hue, assuring him of their support for Woodrow Wilson and the state ticket. Not in years has there been such an encouraging landslide to democracy as seems apparent thus far in the state and national campaign. Over at republican headquarters it is reluctantly admitted that so far the democrats have all the best of it. One republican member was heard to remark that "the political outlook for the republican ticket in Nebraska was pretty gloomy, while the Wilson tide was much stronger than the committee had at first anticipated." Already it is being predicted that Woodrow Wilson will carry Nebraska by 40,000. Hence great gloom at republican headquarters.

As a result of the reduction in the state levy by the democratic state board of equalization, a number of county boards in several counties of the state will be enabled to reduce their levies this year. Several have already made a reduction and others will no doubt follow where it is practicable. A few days ago the Lancaster county board of equalization reduced its levy for all purposes about $20,000, while the state levy charged against the county for 1915-1916 by the state board reduced the total state tax approximately $46,000 for the two years. York and Seward counties are two others that have imbibed the democratic spirit of economy and efficiency and have cut their county levies this year.

A meeting of the legislative committee which was appointed by Governor Morehead, consisting of Senator Phil Kohl of Wayne, Senator E. J. Spirk of Wilber, Speaker Jackson of Nelson and Representative C. Petrus Peterson of Lincoln, met with the state board of public lands and buildings a few days ago, to consider plans for repairing the old east wing of the state house which state engineers report in an unsafe condition. After going over the matter with Engineer Johnson of the state board of irrigation, it was decided to formulate a report of the exact status of the structure and submit it to the next legislature, no funds now being available for the extensive repairs which are necessary. Engineer Johnson with his assistants has gone over the wing very carefully, and his measurements and other scientific data show that the building has been settling for a number of years, and while he is of the opinion that there is no immediate danger, there is no telling when it may become acute. According to the chronology bearing on the history of the Nebraska state house, this wing was built in 1882. The legislature of 1881 appropriated $100,000 for its construction. The contract was let to W. H. B. Stout for $96,300, and the building was completed and accepted on December 1, 1882, the cost of building and furnishings amounting to $108,247.92.

Successful Farmer Union Picnic

In spite of the unfavorable weather last Thursday, the big farmer-picnic at Winside was a success. One source of disappointment to the management was the unavoidable absence of one of the speakers, O. F. Dornbler, the national organizer from Texas, who failed to reach this prosperous corner of Nebraska. But as the program was confined to the afternoon, on account of the weather there were speakers able to fill the program, C. H. Gustafson, president of the state organization and C. E. Woods, state organizer, both being present. One present tells the Democrat that there was a magnificent audience of sober men and beautiful women, who listened attentively to the speakers and enjoyed the Olympic quartett many times.

This quartet consisting of E. G. Evans, baritone and director; J. L. Davis, bass; W. Owens, 1st tenor; R. Pankram, 2d tenor, should not confine its talents to Wayne county.

The state president made a fine address but it left to Mr. Wood the "Billy Sunday" of the promoters to get the applause.

These speakers said 40 per cent of the farmers of Nebraska were HOMELESS RENTERS. Including the cities, a majority of Nebraskans are without a place to call home. The lesson to be drawn from this was the want of organization by the farmers and whereby they could avoid the profits of the middlemen and all become owners of the land they are now renting and have a Ford thrown in for good measure.

Candidate Rundell asked Mr. Gustafson at the close of his speech if the large estates gobbled up by speculators at $1.25 per acre which they refused to sell, is not the principal cause of such a large percentage of renters but got no reply. The speaker preferred to leave the impression that the huge profits of the merchants had robbed the farmers of their homes and Rundell further asked him if it was not a crime to offer the public lands to speculators in violation of the pre-emption and homestead laws, passed to preserve the public domain for actual settlers.

The program of sports for the afternoon amused many. The numbers of the Union membership grew and the work of the organization will continue to progress, and it is to be hoped that their acts will such as to advance community interests in all walks of life.

Prohibition Helps To Conserve Health and Self Respect

In Chicago:

"Of the 155 cases of heat prostration treated at the county hospital in three days during July, 98 per cent were due to the use of alcohol."

Dr. Karl Meyer.

(These cases came from the open saloon district)

In Milwaukee:

They are becoming ashamed of that which once made the city famous. For the first time in their history, the Milwaukee Advertising Club LEAVES BEER OFF THE BANNER in their boosting trips. There is a good reason.

Shall Nebraska be Behind Other States?

The last legislatures passed even more stringent Prohibitory laws in the following states: Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi. They do this because they find out that It Works, i. e., Prohibition Helps in Community Uplift.

Think This Over

If we are opposed to Prohibition because it does not absolutely prohibit, why not repeal all laws against theft, murder, adultery (and all other crimes) on the ground that crime is still committed?

If booze hurts and if the open saloon supplies most of the business, it is good business and ethics to CLOSE THE SALOON.

Water Extension Let

The city council met at the council room Friday evening, pursuant to adjournment, all being present.

This being the time for receiving bids for the extension of the water system, the bids were opened as follows:

- Ward & Weighton, Sioux City, Iowa, $10,110.00.
- Katz Construction Co., Omaha, Nebraska, $9,670.00.
- Des Moines Bridge & Iron Co., Des Moines, Iowa, $11,000.00.

- Alamo Engine & Supply Co., Omaha, Nebraska, $9,632.00.

Also bid of Bourbon Copper & Brass Wks., Co., Cincinnati, on hydrants and valves.

After a careful consideration of the bids, a motion was made by Gildersleeve and seconded by Hixcox, that the proposition of the Alamo Engine & Supply Co., be accepted, and that the Mayor and Clerk execute a contract on behalf of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, with said company for the sum of $9,632.00, that is to say:

- 13470 feet of 4" C. I. Pipe Class "B".
- 30 4" Tees
- 1 6" x 4" Cross.
- 5 4" x 4" Crosses.
- 1 8" x 4" Reducer.
- 27 Iowa fire hydrants and 4 4" Iowa gate valves and boxes.

All to be constructed and installed as per specifications on file. All ditches to be refilled after work is accepted and thoroughly settled with water, the city to furnish the water without cost to the contractor, and also the use of the city hose. All work to be completed by December 1, 1916, contractor to give bond in the sum of $10,000.00 and said work to be paid for on completion and acceptance by said city.

Should the city decide to extend the system farther, said extension shall be settled for as follows:

61 cents per foot for 4" C. I. pipe, $33.00 each for Iowa hydrants, and $4.50 each for Tees or Crosses, all installed ready for use.

The motion was put by the Mayor and on roll call all voted, "Yes."

Checks deposited by the unsuccessful bidders were returned to them.

The council adjourned to Tuesday, September 5th.

New Game Law

Rules and regulations governing the federal game law have been changed a trifle this season so as to provide for an early spring season for the hunting of ducks, geese and other water fowl hereafter.

The old regulations made the closed season run from December 21 to September 5, inclusive, thus prohibiting any spring shooting whatever. Now the bars are let down to hunters from February to March 1, inclusive. To offset this, one month and fifteen days are taken from the open season in the fall, which will run in future from September 16 to November 15, inclusive. It will be lawful hereafter to shoot water fowl from the banks of the Missouri river north of Nebraska City, during the open season. This has been prohibited by the federal government up to the present time. There will be no open season on plover until 1918. Plover cannot now be legally shot in Nebraska.

The Long Way Round

Judge Hughes is a good lawyer and when he favored equal suffrage by national act he knew the states would have to send to congress men who would vote to submit a constitutional amendment—that it will have to be a congress wherein two-thirds of the members favor suffrage. He really didn't trade much to the ladies for their votes. —Sioux City Journal.

President Wilson has accepted the democratic nomination for the presidency, and he did it in a speech which made the opposition sit-up-and-take-notice. The press of both parties spoke highly of it as an unanswerable argument for retaining the democratic party in power for another term.

It is predicted that Iowa will go democratic this year. If it does, and we believe it will, the writer would like to have a half day to visit his former home in the banner republican county of the state and add a bit of salt to the wounds on some of the battle-scarred stand-patters who used to console him when news came in from Scott precinct—300 to 30.

A number of exchanges are trimming the size of their papers to the least number of pages that will carry home news and the advertising, and it stands well in hand to do this—for the price of print paper appears to be in the hands of some very hard hearted speculators, and they are demanding all the traffic will bear. From $54 to $130 per ton is something of a hunch in the price.

Unless some one has misrepresented R. R. Smith, he is of the opinion that nothing less than a 14-hour day will keep the farmers of this country from going flat broke, to say nothing of chance to accumulate wealth which the assessor cannot see and plunk the taxes on. R. R. was brought up to the old time method of farming—and he will not depart therefrom. The writer had a taste of that for several years, and has not bettered the matter any by getting into his present calling.

Some people in this great land of ours are truly thankful that the great threatened railroad strike was averted. It came just near enough to make us realize what a calamity such an event would be—and that should tell us to shape the law of the land that such a calamity can never again even threaten this nation. We hope to see the day in the not distant future when the government will own at least 51 per cent of the stock and thus control all railroads in this great land. Uncle Sam should never have been less than the senior partner in all of the railroads he has helped to build. Instead he has given without even so much compensation as carrying the mails, the means to build numerous railroads. With the power of taxation in his hands Uncle Sam might manage to buy them at what they are worth and no more.

Henry Kloppling came home from Omaha Wednesday morning with two cars of cattle for feeding. He says they cost plenty this fall, but as he feels confident of the continuance of a democratic administration for another four years he thinks it will be safe so long as he has plenty of corn in sight. But then Henry won't care, so much about the profit and loss of the venture, for he had such a royal good time in the city Monday evening when he went to the "den" of Ak-sar-ben as a guest of one of his friends, and as it was editor's night he saw the works put on in full. For Henry it was royal sport to have a reserved seat and see the newspaper men go through the various stunts to make a knight of the shears and pen a Knight of the Ak-sar-ben. Was there once and know it must be sport for the spectators, even if they have changed the initiation, for in all of their changes they never make them for the benefit of candidates. In fact, Henry was still smiling when he reached Wayne.

Twenty-six years ago, if one could have stepped into the building now occupied by the German store, he might have seen Mr. Henry Ley and his nephew, Henry S. Schreiner serving the wants of their customers with groceries and dry goods from behind the counters, as Mr. Ley owned the store at that time. Twenty-six years is quite a long time and in a progressive community such as Wayne; it has brought about many changes in improvement, in the land value, in the scenery, and in the homes of the people in comparison to what Mr. Ley and Mr. Schreiner looked upon in those days. And for the first time since he last filled out grocery bills for the old settlers, Mr. Schreiner is back again noting that change. Mr. and Mrs. Schreiner and daughter, Charlott, who now reside at St. Paul, came home with Rollie Ley and wife, via auto Monday when they returned from their trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis, where they had been visiting for a few days, and he is comparing the Wayne he knew in 1890 to the Wayne of 1916. The writer was told by Mr. Ley and Mr. Schreiner that Wayne then had a very short Main street and a very unpretentious one at that. A few wooden buildings housed the prosperous business establishments. People then came ten, twenty, thirty and even more miles to the little town and bought groceries by the wagon load for it was not possible then to run to town in a "silver" and buy a loaf of bread in twenty minutes. Mr. Ley's grocery store bought and shipped in twelve and even more carloads of groceries every year not to count the cars of flour shipped in from Ponca. Stores that then housed the millinery, grocery, restaurants, and hotels are used so no more and there is a number of buildings standing today on Wayne's Main street that were once used for houses of trade one would never suspect of them. The old race track that once was located in the eastern part of town, the sporting blood that once ran riot in the veins of the race track fans, many who still live here, is all gone and race horses gone years ago, that put up game fights for supremacy and often brought audiences of rough outspoken old settlers to their feet with their gameness, are spoken of with a touch of sadness. Those were great days, those days of yesterday.

A listener to the tales, these true stories of the blizzards that swept the almost barren prairies, of the dry years that burned up most everything, of the pleasures and sorrows of the men and women who braved much, can comprehend—perhaps in a vague way—but still understand just what must have been the general feeling in those days. Brotherhood of men bound close together by a sacrifice to bring this country to its present prosperous and happy state was found more strongly then than it is now. When one hears these tales about the good old fashioned picnics, the good old fashioned way of travel, the good old fashioned way of religion and social life, he can agree with the old settler that "those were great days." Yes, the days are gone but they will always live in the memories of those that lived through them for the hardships, the toil, the pleasure, the life in all, was one that exacted a rugged and sturdy type of strong manhood and womanhood.

A number of years ago the editor was running a paper in an Iowa town where a progressive firm used advertising space to praise a "gas roasted" coffee, and in the course of time they had put a competitor's coffee business on the blink. Asking the competitor, one day for an adv. he declined saying that he was not "trying to sell any dog-gasted boom roasted coffee," but our grocer Rundell, is as one may see if they will look at the new roaster just installed. James Harmon returned Sunday morning from Ft. Collins, Colorado, where he has been staying with his daughter, Mrs. Stephens, for the summer. James is looking as though the mountain air and scenery agreed with him, and no doubt he has been out with rod and line whipping the trout streams part of the time. Mr. Harmon tells us that he went to Loveland a short time before coming home and mingled with a crowd estimated at 20,000 to hear his candidate for the presidency talk. He was fortunate in securing a place close to the speaker so was enabled to hear what was said and get a good view of the speaker. Of course, we did not ask him how many of the 20,000 were won over to President Wilson by that particular talk, for that would be more than he could tell.

Down at Plover and surrounding towns along the Elkhorn the farmers gave notice of an advance in the price of hair cuts to 25 cents and as a result they all came in out of the woods and creek bottoms and got a good close cut before the new price went into effect and it is not expected that the farmers will have any excess transient cuts before getting back to the regular price of the place and shears held out long enough they will automatically get the new price, unless the men adopt the habit of shaving in that neck of the woods or let their wives put a basin over their heads and trim to the edge all round. In that event the matter should be seen that the price is set on time.

The Laurel Advocate was one of a few papers that refused to accept the advertising of the state liquor interests, the editor being opposed personally to local option and in favor of prohibition. Bro. Nevin is human, like the rest of us has his prejudices to contend with. In the writer's opinion, this was one case where his prejudices precluded fair judgment, and as a proof to show this let us turn the matter squarely about. Suppose the Advocate editor were opposed to prohibition and the dry people of the state wished to buy advertising space of him but he refused to let them have it, would they laud his "principle" and his consistency or would they dub him a bigot and positively unfair with his paper? We must all remember that every one has a right to be heard and that it is much the best that all should be heard fully and completely. Then the balanced judgment of all will bring in the jury verdict and while in all probability the radicals neither way will be satisfied with this verdict, yet it is safe to say that the most just solution will have been reached and the path will have been pursued along which all progress has traveled. All men with earnest desires for the general good of mankind have had to meet with the disappointment after another waiting, waiting, waiting, for conditions to shift so that the change should not be radical. Possibly radical changes always have to be effected by time and frequently at a loss of more than was naturally gained. It seems to be a set law of providence that all change must be made by a slow and gradual growth. Cartridge

Miss Hallie Lamberson went to Wynot Saturday morning where she will teach the kindergarten in the school this year. Raymond Fox, who is principal at that place went earlier in the week.

Heroes of the war take second place when the best known woman in Germany is mentioned, Hedwig Heyel, kitchen strategist, the woman who would not let Germany starve. Mrs. Heyel has surely demonstrated that the women of Germany are no less important in that nation's scheme of life than are the men. The German appetite is the only thing the Germans have thus far been unable to find a substitute for, and while confessing their inability in that matter, they do claim Mrs. Heyel has taught that appetite to keep its place. And what Mrs. Heyel has done for Germany, could be done in the United States, and to good advantage. The Press editor even dares to hope that there shall be a Mrs. Heyel for every community in the great land of ours. Right here in Norfolk we hope to see cooking classes organized as they were organized in Berlin, and in those cooking classes we hope to see the lessons taught by the German kitchen strategist learned by the hausfrau of Norfolk, the lessons of meat substitutes, their uses, the necessity of saving, of old fashioned preserving and drying, the use of the fireless cooker, the proper methods of cooking, the food values and their relations, the use of measurements, of modern appliances and conveniences, the heating value of fuels, refrigeration, the hygiene of the home and the thousand and one other things that go to make up the housewife's problems. — Norfolk Press

Most people of Wayne observed labor day Monday, we know for there was many a washout on the line, and all business houses save the bank and the postoffice were on full time. Some of the banks the force was at work behind closed doors getting in shape for the rush of next day.

There has been quite an exodus from Carroll this week to Sidney, among those going are Thomas Edwell and Wm. Morris, John Davis, Albert Jenkins and F. M. James and wives, W. H. James, Ward James, Ruth Hamer, Robert and Ellis Morris. Most of them went by automobile.

Miss Bertha Wieland left Wayne Tuesday morning followed by the well-wishes of her relatives and numerous friends, for she was going to meet and wed the man, who of all others she thinks the best. Fred E. Chichester, of Ordway, Colorado, is the happy man. It was their plan to meet at some appointed place, where we did not learn, marry and proceed to their home at Ordway, where Mr. Chichester has a homestead, on which they plan to move in the spring. The bride grew to womanhood here, and has a host of friends. The groom has relatives here, and has visited and worked in this county and is known to be a worthy young man. The Democrat will keep them posted as to what happens in her old home county.

Dan McManigal, who went to Happy, Texas, about two weeks ago returned home the first of the week, and reports that the "Lone Star" state appears to be all there, but they had been needing water—rain water to make it show up to best advantage. On another occasion Uncle Dan intimated that one other notoriously hot place would have a better reputation if water were more plentiful there. However rain came to Texas about the time of his arrival, and it was raining when he left, so there is hope that the big state will be ahead of the other big place in the end. He said he discussed some politics down there, and is of the opinion that Wilson will carry the state this fall without the aid of the Germans, who are not unanimous for the President. It was quite a trip for a man who is more than four score of years to make alone, but as Mr. McManigal used to carry a gun in the south in the days of the late "unpleasantness" he thought he could get along with less trouble now than then.
