Hospital Notes

Wednesday morning, Angon Grandquist from southwest of town underwent an operation for appendicitis, which has been bothering him slightly for several years.

Tuesday Dr. Simon of Winside came with Mabel Lewis, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lewis, who was suffering from acute appendicitis, and the cause of her trouble was removed.

Arthur Strate from near Carroll had tonsils and adenoids removed the first of the week.

Wm. Whoeler, who lives about ten miles southwest of Wayne, was brought to the local hospital the first of the week for treatment. Last June, we believe, Mr. Whoeler had the misfortune to break a thigh, and for some reason the bone failed to unite, and it has caused him much suffering. Since being in a place where he can be given the best of nursing and care the swelling of the thigh has been reduced materially. When he improves more, as now seems probable, there will be an effort to get at the cause of the trouble.

Lyle Olson from Carroll, a young fellow, has undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Wayne hospital.

Former Wayne County Pioneer Dies

In the death of I. P. Martin of Sioux City, which occurred at the sanatorium at Battle Creek, Michigan, Saturday, November 25th, one of the men who had to do with the early history of Wayne county, passed away.

I. P. Martin was born at Huntington, Pennsylvania, about 61 years ago. He came to this country in 1878, and seven years later moved to Sioux City, which place has since been his home. He was active among the early business men of Wayne. He had a sheep ranch near LaPorte, and in 1882 came to this place, where he was for a time in the furniture business, and was for a time owner of the Boyd hotel.

At Sioux City he was in the real estate business and gathered a comfortable fortune at that work.

In 1895 he was united in marriage to Carrie Gamble, who with one son, Richard, survives him, both living at the Sioux City home, 119 Bluffs street. A brother died about one year ago.

John Holst to Norfolk

Ill health has made sad havoc with John Holst, who was farming one of the Emil Hansen farms near Wayne. Several weeks ago he was taken to a hospital at Lincoln for treatment, but appeared to receive no benefit, and the first of the week Mr. Hansen went down and accompanied him to this place. Examination and a hearing given here resulted in his being taken to the state hospital at Norfolk.

He is an industrious young man, and a splendid farmer when well. A wife and two small children are left on the farm, the wife's brother coming to look after the work when his health failed.

A. O. U. W. Take Notice

At the regular meeting Thursday, December 7th, in addition to being election of officers, there will be matters of importance to act upon, there being a special meeting of the grand lodge called to meet at Omaha, January 3rd to amend the laws relating to rates and other questions of importance to the members. We will, therefore, have to elect and instruct delegates to this meeting. Come and vote your sentiments. L. E. Panabaker, M. W.

Trappers Successful Here

A fur dealer came out from Sioux City Wednesday to deal with two sons of F. M. Griffith and wife for a bunch of muskrat furs. Last season must have been a good season, for the boys have succeeded in getting the pelts from more than 550 muskrats this fall by diligently trapping along the little stream north of town, known as Dog creek. It should be renamed Rat river.

Marriage Licenses Issued

Fred B. Hill and Miss Clarice Giegar were married by County Judge Jas. Brittan November 26, 1916.

A Special Meeting of the

A. O. U. W. Grand Lodge

The Nebraska Workman for December contains a call for a special meeting of the grand lodge of the order at Omaha January 3rd to consider a number of changes in the laws of the order, the most vital question for consideration, doubtless, is the rate for assessment. The Nebraska grand lodge of that order has never adopted the rate of many of the other states, and the time appears to be at hand when they must make some change and they will doubtless make a rate similar to the one made by other states.

Frank Pilger on Normal Board

Governor Morehead has named Frank Pilger of Pierce as a member of the state normal board to succeed A. H. Viele of Norfolk. In-as-much as there is a member of this board from each of the other towns having a normal school many Wayne people had hoped that a Wayne man would be appointed, as a matter of fairness to this school. However, no fault can be found with Mr. Pilger except that he is not a resident of Wayne, and perhaps he can move over and overcome that slight disability.

Program at the M. E. Church

Social Notes

A surprise party was held at the W. A. Hiscox home last Wednesday evening complimentary to Mrs. Hiscox's birthday. Guests were Earl Merchant and wife, E. E. Fleetwood and wife, Mrs. Calla Laube, Wm. Fleetwood and wife and daughter, Miss Winifred Fleetwood. A picnic supper was served at 6:30 following which a pleasant social evening was spent. The present that was to be given had been neatly enclosed in a box by the ladies the night before while the men looked innocently on. But the next day the men also fixed up a package and during the supper the two parcels were quietly changed so that when Mrs. Hiscox opened said package she was treated to a surprise that the ladies never intended she should be. But "all's well that ends well," and things were finally straightened out. If further particulars are wanted concerning what was in the package it is suggested by the writer that you ask E. E. Fleetwood, alias "Bunt" who is always glad to tell just how it all happened.

The Monday club closed their study of Spain November 27 at the home of Mrs. Chace. Mrs. Bowen read a discussion of "Barcelona the City of Pleasure," Mrs. Carhart on "Modern Madrid" and Mrs. Hahn, "Position of Women and Marriage Customs of Spain". Every member of the club was present and the papers and discussions were enjoyed by all. The club sent two dollars to Anna Holmburg of Sioux City, the little girl who lost both of her legs in an accident sometime ago and for whom the Sioux City Tribune is striving to raise one thousand dollars for in order that she may have artificial limbs. The club meets at the home of Mrs. Jones next Monday.

The Woman's Foreign missionary society of the Methodist church met with Miss Bressler Friday afternoon. Mrs. Grothe, who has long made a study of missions and who has personal friends in the foreign field, was elected president. During the past year the head society expended over $1,036,000 for foreign missions. The local society takes up the work for the new year with enthusiasm. Caroline Atwater Mason's World Missions and World Peace will be the text book studied for the next six months.

The Acme club met at the home of Mrs. Jacobs November 27th. Current events dealing with items of interest taking place in Europe today were given by the ladies in answer to the roll call. Discussion of the progress in science was led by Mrs. Jacobs in the absence of Mrs. Crawford. Mrs. Bradford of South Sioux City a former member of the club was guest. The club meets with Mrs. Ellis next week.

Miss Victoria Jenik entertained about a dozen of her friends Monday evening. The party was given in honor of Mr. Howard Kirk of Lodge Pole, who was here visiting in the Jenik home. The evening was spent in games and at a late hour a delicious three course supper was served before the guests departed all saying that they had spent an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Herbert Rigg was hostess at the fine meeting of the Women's Bible Study circle Tuesday afternoon. The lesson in the book of Revelation was heartily entered into and greatly enjoyed by all. After the meeting the ladies went to the home of Mrs. J. F. Lane, their secretary who plans to move to Omaha in the near future, where light refreshments were served and a small gift presented to Mrs. Lane bearing signatures of the members, as a token of their esteem for her faithful service. This fine family will be greatly missed from the community. Mrs. D. W. Noakes will be their next meeting place and Mrs. C. A. Dean will lead the lesson study which continues on in Revelation. Mrs. Dean was heartily welcomed back to the city from her long eastern visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Craven were hostesses to the Early Hour club Thursday evening, November 23. Five Hundred and music by the Edison was the evening's entertainment. A two course luncheon was served by the hostess at the close of the program. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carhart and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reynolds were guests of the club.

Monday the 27th the U. S. D. club members were guests of Mrs. H. B. Jones at a musicale. Mrs. Felber, Mrs. Ringland, Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. J. Miller played selections upon the piano and Mrs. H. B. Jones sang a solo. The program was well planned and enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon. Mrs. Kemp is hostess next week.

The Philathea class of the Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Miss Wilma Gildersleeve Friday evening, Nov. 24. A "travel" game was played by the girls, score cards being in blue and white, Philathea colors. Later in the evening the girls were divided into groups and a chafing dish lunch prepared.

The Young Peoples Worker class of the Methodist church entertained the members of the Y. M. C. A. of the Wayne normal, Friday evening in the parlors of the church. The evening was spent playing games. Refreshments were served at the close of the program. Over a hundred young people were present.

The Music and Art club met in the music conservatory at the Administration building Monday evening. President of the club, Miss Eva Graves gave a discussion of the "Early Christian Art", Miss Florence York, "Early Christian Music", and Miss Cassidy sang a solo that was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnham and Miss Bernice and Mary were Wayne shoppers Saturday.

Seven were taken into the church Sunday afternoon by baptism and confession of faith.

Mrs. Hans Weitgen, Amanda and Nettie Grankau were shopping in Wayne Friday afternoon.

Miss Gusta Dekowitz has gone to Council Bluffs to visit her brother in the hospital at that place.

Miss Anna Simonson of Lyons came on the evening train Monday to help Mrs. Simonson with the packing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stevens are rejoicing over the arrival of a new boy born Sunday morning, November 19, 1916.

Joe Mattingly took his car Wednesday evening and drove Ed and B. Stevenson to Randolph to attend the Masonic lodge.

The Farmers Elevator Co. are shipping a car load of corn a day, and are continually blocked on account of shortage of ears.

Be sure and attend the basket social to be given after the play by Miss Beth's room. Lots of fun is promised. Help the school buy a Victrola.

Chas. Peters purchased "Lengthy" last Saturday for his wife, and it is safe to say Mrs. Charley Peters will drive one of the best all-round horses in the county.

Mrs. Swazik of Denver, who has been visiting at the John Horn home, left Wednesday for her home. Joe, Mrs. Lou Horn and Dorothy accompanied her in the Horn car as far as Wayne and visited at the Will Perdue home.

Lucille Sundahl met with a painful accident Saturday. She was playing with her pet colt when it kicked her in the mouth loosening three teeth. Dr. Hartman braced them back in place and the little lady is doing as well as could be expected.

Not a large attendance was present at the Foreign Missionary society held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Root, but an interesting program was carried out and refreshments were served at the close. In connection with the next regular subject, a review and additional work on Ceylon will be taken up.

F. C. Bragonier manager of the Farmer Store Co., has purchased the building, pool hall and barber shop business formerly operated by R. F. Simonson. Bragonier expects to continue the pool hall and a new barber will be in town within a day or two. The building will be remodeled and rearranged for the use of the Farmers Store Co.

The Epworth League is coming right along and those who attend report interesting meetings. Mr. Obst will lead next Sunday night. The subject for the Sunday school lesson is to be found in Rom. 12: 1-3. New officers were elected Sunday afternoon. A. B. McDowell, superintendent; A. Butterfield, assistant superintendent; Daisy Larsen secretary; Leslie Rutherford, treasurer and organist. Mid-week prayer meeting is held every Wednesday evening.

The Farmers Store have a fine bouquet of pansies picked from J. L. Beaton's flower garden. The snow seem to have made them all the brighter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Peters and little daughter left Tuesday noon for Rockville, Wisconsin where they will visit two married daughters.

Thursday Mr. Dekowitz's team became unfastened and walked out of town with 10 sacks of flour in his buggy. There was some excitement until a man two and one-half miles in the country telephoned in that the team was there. Mrs. Dekowitz came on the evening train from Omaha and Hans Tietgen took them in the car to the farm where their team was put up.

Winside Notes

(From the Tribune)

Christien Cartens was born in Rehman, Germany on July 22, 1863, and died at his country home near Winside on November 14, 1916, from blood poisoning, at the age of 53 years, 3 months and 22 days.

He came to America in the year 1886. Was married to Miss Dora Wulf in September, 1889; to this union was born eleven children.

In the spring of 1890 he moved to Western Iowa and ten years later moved to Nebraska and settled in Wayne county, where he spent the remainder of his life.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, eleven children, an aged mother, four sisters and three brothers.

The funeral services were held at St. Paul's Lutheran German church this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with short services at the home at 1 o'clock, Rev. H. G. Press, officiating. Burial made in Pleasantview cemetery.

Many tender and touching tributes were paid by those who knew him best.

Mrs. Henry Long was a passenger to Norfolk Wednesday morning where she will enter a hospital for treatments.

Mike Lyons was a passenger to Omaha Tuesday, where he will spend a few weeks' visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. August Ulrich and little babe were passengers to Davenport, Iowa, Wednesday morning, where the baby will be put into a hospital for treatment. They expect to be gone about three weeks.

Mike Jordan is mourning the loss of his new Ford car. Last Thursday evening he drove to town and parked his car on the street. A short time later, when ready to return home, he went to get his car only to find it gone. No trace of it has been found as yet. The same evening a Mr. Christensen of near Carroll lost a Ford car in a like manner. Automobile stealing in Nebraska is becoming an every day occurrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rehms entertained a number of their friends at their home Tuesday evening, the occasion being Mrs. Rehms' birthday. Dainty refreshments were served during the evening and all report a fine time. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Press, Mr. and Mrs. John Rohl, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Koplin of Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rehms, Misses Helen Graef, Irene Peterson, Helen Rehms and Minnie Graef.

MORGAN SUIT BUILDER

Where Johnson Made a Blunder. The present Blackhawk bridge is a comparatively modern structure, which replaced the bridge of Robert Mylne after the latter had endured, with much alteration and repair, it is true, for nearly a hundred years. Mylne's design, it will be recalled by those familiar with their Roswell, was attacked by Johnson with that arrogance and, let me sadly add, ignorance which he was too wont to display in subjects of which he knew very little. Johnson, with a weight of words which might have tested any bridge, declared that no structure with elliptical arches could bear heavy weights. Mylne's bridge has gone, but the elliptical form of arch remains, and very beautiful it is and adequate for a weight of traffic which Johnson never dreamed.—Westminster Gazette.

Lakes of Blood.

The name Lake of Blood or its equivalent has been given to places as far apart as England and South America. "Sanguelac"—i. e., the Lake of Blood—was the name given by the victorious Normans to the battlefield at Hastings, where the Saxons were overthrown and slain with terrible carnage.

For a similar reason Lake Trastevere has borne the name "Sanguinetto" because its waters were reddened during the second Punic war by the blood of some 15,000 Romans who fell before the troops of Hannibal.

Yet another Lake of Blood, called also "Yaguar Cocha," is situated in the state of Ecuador. It is one of a series of lakes formed by the extinct craters of volcanoes on the towering heights of the Andes range of mountains.

Daughter of Western Farmer—Well, it means an awful lot of spooning, but I guess we can do it, can't we?—Life.

The Little Fruit Seller

A Story of a Mexican Girl

By F. A. MITCHEL

One afternoon Leonard Hardman, a young man who had gone to Mexico to assume a position as station agent on a railroad, was in his ticket and telegraph office when he saw a little Mexican girl on the platform outside selling fruit to persons waiting for trains. The girl might have been fifteen, though in the short dress she wore she looked like a child. Among others she approached a man who, judged by the leather whip in his hand, was a driver of a team. He was talking to another man, and when the girl nudged him to attract his attention he looked down at her with a scowl, then gave her a cut with his whip.

Hardman was a strapping fellow, used to fighting his way wherever it became necessary and with enough humanity in him to feel enraged at so inhuman an act. He jumped through the open window beside him and, taking the teamster by the collar of his shirt with one hand, gave him a cuff with the other. The man put his hand to his hip, drew a revolver and fired at Hardman, but the latter grasped the weapon in time to turn the shot, wrenched it from the man and threw it to a distance. Then he pummeled his adversary with his fist till he cried for quarter. By this time others interfered, and the two were separated. The teamster picked up his revolver and his whip and went away, muttering.

Hardman when he had rearranged his disordered apparel returned to his office. The first thing that attracted his attention was the little Mexican girl standing on the platform before his window holding out an orange to him. Taking some coppers from his vest pocket, he handed them to her and took the orange, but she refused pay for the fruit. It was only an orange, but it was a token of her gratitude to her benefactor.

"Senior is very good," she said, expressing emotion with her fringed eyes. "You mean the other fellow is very bad," he replied. "What's your name, little one?"

"Peppita."

"Well, Peppita, if he troubles you again call on me."

"Senior is very brave, but to be brave against such a man will do no good; he will stab you in the back."

"Don't you worry, little girl," he returned. "That kind of a man is a coward, and I'm not afraid of a coward any day."

The arowal was lost on Peppita. She said nothing more and showed no concern, but from that time the teamster was seldom out of her sight when he was watching Hardman. She went about selling fruit as usual, but in her basket was something besides oranges and bananas; a bag in which some living creature was evidently confined, for there was a constant wriggling within.

A few days after the fracas between Hardman and the teamster Peppita was following the latter toward the station. The man lounged along without any evident purpose, but he did not deceive Peppita. She fitted after him, now slipping behind a bush, a fence—any object of concealment. When the man stepped up on to the platform, snatching her bag from the basket she made a dash for him, on tiptoe so that he might not hear her coming, and caught him just as he reached the window of Hardman's office. There she shook the bag bottom side up, landing a tarantula on the back of the enemy's neck. The villain uttered a yell and dropping a revolver he carried in his hand, grabbed the viper and flung it away from him.

Meanwhile Peppita had darted back behind a corner of the station, where she was out of sight. Hardman hearing the yell looked out through the window in time to see the teamster beating a retreat. He recognized the teamster who had maltreated Peppita, but was ignorant of the cause of his flight, holding both hands to the back of his neck. Presently Hardman saw Peppita walking away with her basket on her arm as carelessly as if she had no object in view but the sale of her fruit. He called her to the window and asked her if she knew what was the matter with the teamster. For a reply she pointed to where the tarantula was crawling about.

"Well?" inquired Hardman.

"Senior, he come to kill you. I follow him. Just before he come to the window I put the tarantula on his neck."

Hardman looked grave. He had escaped being shot through the window by such defense as this little Mexican girl was capable of. It was not a man's method, but it had sufficed. A mere child had sent a strong man away howling and saved the life of another strong man whom he had intended to kill. This was too much for Hardman's equisense of feeling. He reached out through the window, took the girl in his arms and drew her close to him.

Hardman was twenty-seven years old, and Peppita was fourteen. Had he not been a stranger to Mexico he would have realized that a girl of thirteen there was as developed as one of twenty in a more northern climate. He caressed her in a fatherly way, and she received his caresses apparently as a child. He asked her if there was not something she needed that he could give her, but she declared that there was nothing. This surprised him, for never before had he met one of the peasantry of the country who would decline a gift. Indeed, many of them did not even confine their acceptances to gifts.

Hardman sent Peppita away after exacting a promise from her that she would not attempt thereafter to defend him against any attack from his enemy, but in case she suspected the man of being about to attack him at a disadvantage she might warn him.

Peppita made the promise with as innocent a mien as if she fully intended to keep it. Conscience was a matter that did not concern her. She was a child of nature, governed entirely by her emotions. As for a truth or a lie, that was simply a matter of requirement. How she kept her promise is best illustrated by the next episode in her eventful childhood, though perhaps, despite her few years, she was already a woman.

The teamster disappeared for a time. He was fighting the poison of a tarantula bite. He recovered in time, but he knew who had put the viper on him and feared her. One thing that deterred him from making another attempt on Hardman's life was the fact that Peppita was a witness that he had tried to murder the man he hated. He had counted on doing the deed without the murderer being known, but now he was aware that the little Mexican girl was watching him. He did not often see her, but felt sure that her eyes were constantly on him.

And so they were. One night he was improvising a hand grenade. He was working in a hut where he lived with a ragged curtain over the window. There was a fear in it, and through that fear Peppita was peeping. When he had finished his weapon he began to destroy certain articles. The crafty girl surmised that he was intending to kill Hardman with his bomb, then light out. He was evidently afraid of his grenade, for before going to bed he took it outside, scooped out a small hole in the ground, put it in and covered it with earth and leaves.

As soon as all was quiet in the cabin Peppita possessed herself of the bomb and carried it away. Coming to a window within which was a bright light, she examined her find, a tobacco box with explosive contents. She had seen the teamster place percussion powder under a certain point in the side of the box and mark it with a cross. She noted the cross, and returning to the cabin with the weapon which she knew was intended for Hardman, she scrapped out just enough earth before the door to set the box in, leaving its crossed side uppermost and nearly on a level with the ground. Then she placed dry leaves over it.

The next day a report was heard, and later persons passing the teamster's cabin found it a wreck. The occupant was missing. Supposing that he had been killed or injured by the force that ruined his home, a search was made for him, but neither he nor any part of him was found.

For a time Peppita said nothing to any one as to her part in the explosion, but as time passed and the teamster did not reappear she revealed the secret that she had seen him making a bomb. Then it was surmised that it had been accidentally exploded, but that he had not been within striking distance. How the explosion came about without his being its victim was not known to any one except Peppita, who, remembering where she had placed the bomb, was enabled to look more directly than others for the cause. At the time of the explosion there had been a violent windstorm. Peppita, looking for the cause of the explosion, cast her eye on the limb of a tree that had been broken. The detached fragment she found some distance from the cabin blackened as if by an explosion. She felt sure that this fragment had been blown down upon the bomb. The explosion occurred in the daytime when the teamster was away, so that he was not injured. But it is likely that when he saw his cabin blown to atoms he surmised the cause and concluded that it was time for him to depart.

Meanwhile Peppita was wandering about selling fruit apparently as unconcerned as if she were not mixed up in an affair of a tragic nature. Every one else in that region was discussing the matter of the explosion, but the little Mexican seemed content to carry her basket about, taking in a few coppers at a time for an orange or a banana, paying no attention to the talk.

There was one who looked upon Peppita with very different feelings from the generosity of persons; that was Leonard Hardman. He had learned that she was not a child, but a woman; that she loved him with all the passion of a girl of the south. He questioned her about the explosion and had learned the facts. Twice he owed her his life. What was he to do? Respond to the passion of a Mexican girl but little more than a child and a fruit peddler?

Notwithstanding her ignoble position the fact that she had been so devoted to him affected him seriously. His life belonged to her. Without her protection he would not be living. After much thought he came to a conclusion. "Peppita," he said one day, "how would you like to go to school?" She looked at him inquiringly.

"If you go to school you and I might some day be more to each other than we are," he added.

"Yes, senior; I will go to school."

This proposition and its acceptance were the keynote to the future of these two persons. Peppita went to school, and there came a remarkable change in her. She is now Senora Hardman. She worships her husband and he worships her.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Market Steady to Stronger; Moderate Receipts

HOG TRADE 5-10c HIGHER

Lambs Move Back Towards High Spot—Market More Active and 10c Higher. Quality Better Than on Monday—Many Sales Bring $11.75—Deck $11.80. Feeders Higher Again—Share Advance in Killers, Several Loads Sold to $10.80.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Nebraska, November 22, 1916.—A moderate run of cattle showed up for Tuesday, some 316 cars, or about 9,000 head being reported in up to noon. On the more desirable grades, such as all classes of buyers were after, prices were somewhat stronger in cases, but on the short-fed and warmed-up steers it was a rather irregular and uncertain deal. Really choice heaves were very scarce, but right good beef cattle brought $9.80@10.30. Pair to pretty good 1,050 to 1,300-pound cattle sold around $8.50@9.50. Supplies of cows and heifers were not very extensive, but the demand from both packers and outside butchers was very good.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice yearlings, $9.75@11.00; good to choice heaves, $9.50@10.25; fair to good heaves, $8.50@9.25; common to fair, $7.50@8.25; good to choice heifers, $6.75@7.50; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.25; fair to good cows, $5.75@6.50; canners and cutters, $4.25@5.50; veal calves, $8.00@10.00; bologna bulls, $5.00@5.50; beef bulls, $5.50@6.75.

The largest run of hogs for the season to date put in its appearance Tuesday, when 196 cars, or some 14,500 head were reported in. General conditions were much reversed, and an upturn was noted all along the line. Buyers made concessions fairly early, and desirable hogs, especially the weightier grades, started moving early at 5@10c higher prices.

A decent run of sheep and lambs showed up for Tuesday, some fifty-eight cars or 13,000 head. The fat lamb trade was a little more active than on Monday, but it was well along in the forenoon before much of an idea could be gained of what the general market would be. While the first packer offers were in most cases a little better than steady, buyers had to raise their hands before they were able to do much, and when first lambs sold it was on a 10@15c higher basis. A number of sales were reported as high as $11.75 before 11 o'clock.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $11.50@11.80; lambs, fair to good, $11.10@11.50; lambs, feeders, $9.50@10.80; yearlings, good to choice, $9.00@9.75; yearlings, fair to good, $7.75@8.75; yearlings, feeders, $7.00@8.00; wethers, fair to choice, $7.00@8.50; ewes, good to choice, $7.50@7.75; ewes, fair to good, $6.50@7.50; ewes, plain to culls, $4.00@5.75; ewes, feeding, $4.50@6.25; ewes, breeders, all ages, $6.00@8.50.

Barrie and "Peter Pan."

The birth of J. M. Barrie's play, "Peter Pan," was full of romantic interest. Barrie had agreed to write a play for Frohman and met him at dinner one night at the Garrick club in London. Barrie seemed nervous and ill at ease.

"What's the matter?" said Charles. "Simply this," said Barrie. "You know I have an agreement to deliver you the manuscript of a play?"

"Yes," said Frohman.

"Well, I have it all right," said Barrie, "but I am sure it will not be a commercial success. It is a dream child of mine, and I am so anxious to see it on the stage that I have written another play which I will be glad to give you and which will compensate you for any loss on the one I am so eager to see produced."

"Don't bother about that," said Frohman. "I will produce both plays." "Now, the extraordinary thing about this episode is that the play about whose success Barrie was so doubtful was "Peter Pan," which made several fortunes. The manuscript he offered Frohman to indemnify him from loss was "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," which lasted only a season.—Charles Frohman, Manager and Man.

Married Money.

"Glad to see you looking so well, old man," said the friend of a newly made benedict. "This is the first opportunity I have had of offering my congratulations on your recent marriage. From the look of things I guess you've married money. Well, it was the right thing to do. That shop-walking berth of yours must have been awfully boring. Is she in? I should like to be introduced."

"Oh, she's at work," said the husband, with a placid smile.

"At work? What do you mean?" asked the friend.

"Well, you see, it was this way," replied the benedict. "She had a much better position than mine—head of her department, $8 a week. Wouldn't give it up. So there was nothing for it but for me to retire from business and keep house, and here I am, you see. You have to let women have their way in some things."—London Tit-Bits.

Hospital Notes

Wednesday morning, Anton Grandquist from southwest of town underwent an operation for appendicitis, which has been bothering him slightly for several years.

Tuesday Dr. Simon of Winside came with Mabel Lewis, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lewis, who was suffering from acute appendicitis, and the cause of her trouble was removed.

Arthur Strate from near Carroll had tonsils and adenoids removed the first of the week.

Wm. Wheeler, who lives about ten miles southwest of Wayne, was brought to the local hospital the first of the week for treatment. Last June, we believe, Mr. Wheeler had the misfortune to break a thigh, and for some reason the bone failed to unite, and it has caused him much suffering. Since being in a place where he can be given the best of nursing and care the swelling of the thigh has been reduced materially. When he improves more, as now seems probable, there will be an effort to get at the cause of the trouble.

Lyle Olson from Carroll, a young fellow, has undergone an operation for appendicitis at the Wayne hospital.

Former Wayne County Pioneer Dies

In the death of I. P. Martin of Sioux City, which occurred at the sanatorium at Battle Creek, Michigan, Saturday, November 25th, one of the men who had to do with the early history of Wayne county, passed away.

I. P. Martin was born at Huntington, Pennsylvania, about 61 years ago. He came to this country in 1878, and seven years later moved to Sioux City, which place has since been his home. He was active among the early business men of Wayne. He had a sheep ranch near LaPorte, and in 1882 came to this place, where he was for a time in the furniture business, and was for a time owner of the Boyd hotel.

At Sioux City he was in the real estate business and gathered a comfortable fortune at that work.

In 1895 he was united in marriage to Carrie Gamble, who with one son, Richard, survives him, both living at the Sioux City home, 119 Bluffs street. A brother died about one year ago.

John Holst to Norfolk

Ill health has made sad havoc with John Holst, who was farming one of the Emil Hansen farms near Wayne. Several weeks ago he was taken to a hospital at Lincoln for treatment, but appeared to receive no benefit, and the first of the week Mr. Hansen went down and accompanied him to this place. Examination and a hearing given here resulted in his being taken to the state hospital at Norfolk.

He is an industrious young man, and a splendid farmer when well. A wife and two small children are left on the farm, the wife's brother coming to look after the work when his health failed.

A. O. U. W. Take Notice

At the regular meeting Thursday, December 7th, in addition to being election of officers, there will be matters of importance to act upon, there being a special meeting of the grand lodge called to meet at Omaha, January 3rd to amend the laws relating to rates and other questions of importance to the members. We will, therefore, have to elect and instruct delegates to this meeting. Come and vote your sentiments.

Trappers Successful Here

A fur dealer came out from Sioux City Wednesday to deal with two sons of F. M. Griffith and wife for a bunch of muskrat furs. Last season must have been a good season, for the boys have succeeded in getting the pelts from more than 550 muskrats this fall by diligently trapping along the little stream north of town, known as Dog creek. It should be renamed Rat river.

A Special Meeting of the A. O. U. W. Grand Lodge

The Nebraska Workman for December contains a call for a special meeting of the grand lodge of the order at Omaha January 3rd to consider a number of changes in the laws of the order, the most vital question for consideration, doubtless, is the rate for assessment. The Nebraska grand lodge of that order has never adopted the rate of many of the other states, and the time appears to be at hand when they must make some change and they will doubtless make a rate similar to the one made by other states.

Frank Pilger on Normal Board

Governor Morehead has named Frank Pilger of Pierce as a member of the state normal board to succeed A. H. Viele of Norfolk. In-as-much as there is a member of this board from each of the other towns having a normal school many Wayne people had hoped that a Wayne man would be appointed, as a matter of fairness to this school. However, no fault can be found with Mr. Pilger except that he is not a resident of Wayne, and perhaps he can move over and overcome that slight disability.

Program at the M. E. Church

Social Notes

A surprise party was held at the W. A. Hiscox home last Wednesday evening complimentary to Mrs. Hiscox's birthday. Guests were Earl Merchant and wife, E. E. Fleetwood and wife, Mrs. Calla Laube, Wm. Fleetwood and wife and daughter, Miss Winifred Fleetwood. A picnic supper was served at 6:30 following which a pleasant social evening was spent. The present that was to be given had been neatly enclosed in a box by the ladies the night before while the men looked innocently on. But the next day the men also fixed up a package and during the supper the two parcels were quietly changed so that when Mrs. Hiscox opened said package she was treated to a surprise that the ladies never intended she should be. But "all's well that ends well," and things were finally straightened out. If further particulars are wanted concerning what was in the package it is suggested by the writer that you ask E. E. Fleetwood, alias "Bunt" who is always glad to tell just how it all happened.

The Monday club closed their study of Spain November 27 at the home of Mrs. Chace. Mrs. Bowen read a discussion of "Barcelona the City of Pleasure," Mrs. Carhart on "Modern Madrid" and Mrs. Hahn, "Position of Women and Marriage Customs of Spain". Every member of the club was present and the papers and discussions were enjoyed by all. The club sent two dollars to Anna Holmberg of Sioux City, the little girl who lost both of her legs in an accident sometime ago and for whom the Sioux City Tribune is striving to raise one thousand dollars for in order that she may have artificial limbs. The club meets at the home of Mrs. Jones next Monday.

The Woman's Foreign missionary society of the Methodist church met with Miss Bressler Friday afternoon. Mrs. Grothe, who has long made a study of missions and who has personal friends in the foreign field, was elected president. During the past year the head society expended over $1,036,000 for foreign missions. The local society takes up the work for the new year with enthusiasm. Caroline Atwater Mason's World Missions and World Peace will be the text book studied for the next six months.

The Acme club met at the home of Mrs. Jacobs November 27th. Current events dealing with items of interest taking place in Europe today were given by the ladies in answer to the roll call. Discussion of the progress in science was led by Mrs. Jacobs in the absence of Mrs. Crawford. Mrs. Bradford of South Sioux City a former member of the club was guest. The club meets with Mrs. Ellis next week.

Miss Victoria Jenik entertained about a dozen of her friends Monday evening. The party was given in honor of Mr. Howard Kirk of Lodge Pole, who was here visiting in the Jenik home. The evening was spent in games and at a late hour a delicious three course supper was served before the guests departed all saying that they had spent an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Herbert Rigg was hostess at the fine meeting of the Women's Bible Study circle Tuesday afternoon. The lesson in the book of Revelation was heartily entered into and greatly enjoyed by all. After the meeting the ladies went to the home of Mrs. J. F. Lane, their secretary who plans to move to Omaha in the near future, where light refreshments were served and a small gift presented to Mrs. Lane bearing signatures of the members, as a token of their esteem for her faithful service. This fine family will be greatly missed from the community. Mrs. D. W. Noakes will be their next meeting place and Mrs. C. A. Dean will lead the lesson study which continues on in Revelation. Mrs. Dean was heartily welcomed back to the club from her long eastern visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Craven were hostesses to the Early Hour club Thursday evening, November 23. Five Hundred and music by the Edison was the evening's entertainment. A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess at the close of the program. Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carhart and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reynolds were guests of the club.

Monday the 27th the U. D. club members were guests of Mrs. H. B. Jones at a musicale. Mrs. Feiber, Mrs. Ringland, Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. J. Miller played selections upon the piano and Mrs. H. B. Jones sang a solo. The program was well planned and enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon. Mrs. Kemp is hostess next week.

The Philathea class of the Presbyterian church were entertained at the home of Miss Wilma Gildersleeve Friday evening, Nov. 24. A "travel" game was played by the girls, score cards being in blue and white, Philathea colors. Later in the evening the girls were divided into groups and a chafing dish lunch prepared.

The Young Peoples Worker class of the Methodist church entertained the members of the Y. M. C. A. of the Wayne normal, Friday evening in the parlors of the church. The evening was spent playing games. Refreshments were served at the close of the program. Over a hundred young people were present.

The Music and Art club met in the music conservatory at the Administration building Monday evening. President of the club, Miss Eva Graves gave a discussion of the "Early Christian Art", Miss Florence York, "Early Christian Music", and Miss Cassidy sang a solo that was enjoyed by all.

This is a happy season of the year for some people, for they may now witness the beauties of a Nebraska sunrise without disturbing their morning nap before 6:30. The summer sunrise paints the sky as artistically as these colder mornings, but one must arise so much earlier to see it. Every try it either time?

The ones who are fighting prohibition most are those who are interested in the manufacture or sale of the liquors to be prohibited from sale, and yet, strange to say, they set up the claim that the per capita use of liquor is greater than it was more than half a century ago, because of the attempted restrictive legislation. If it increases consumption we fail to understand the why of the fight.

Mrs. J. Tower from Citrus Grove, Texas, who has been visiting relatives and friends in different places in northeast Nebraska, where they resided until a number of years ago, and where she has a large circle of friends, is a guest at the home of Mrs. Mary Gamble. She had been at Belden and Laurel before coming to Wayne. While here she received a letter from her son Vern, which will interest some of his former Wayne friends. The letter tells that the ducks have come back to the rice fields, and are plentiful. Vern and a companion managed to bag 35 ducks at four shots, lacking but one of averaging nine to the charge.

G. Hicks and wife of Paw Paw, Illinois who have been visiting with Mrs. Hick's sister, Mrs. James Britton and family left Friday morning for Santa Barbara, California, where they will spend the winter months.

J. M. Coleman and his daughter, Mrs. Gittins from Guthrie county, Iowa, who are here visiting at the home of son and brother, J. J. Coleman and wife, have been visiting relatives near Pitzer and Stanton, the lady meeting a number of cousins she had never before seen. Mr. Coleman was one of the pioneers in Iowa, coming to that state when but nine years of age, and as a boy he helped to cut timber on what is now the site of the beautiful state house, and had he left a lot of those trees of other days as he found them, they might not now have to go to so much trouble and cost to park their grounds about the state buildings at Des Moines. So while he perhaps never attended the legislature of his state, he was on the ground before any legislature ever met there.

Presbyterian Church

(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

The best we offer this week is the "Sunday School Folks" program on Sunday evening at 7:30. Don't miss it!

The subject of the Sunday morning sermon will be "Growth". There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, chorister.

Mrs. Horace Theobald is preparing an excellent program of music for the "Sunday School Folks" meeting next Sunday evening at 7:30. The big choir will sing and the new orchestra will play.

There were 194 persons in attendance at the Sunday school on last Sunday morning. If the interested reader of these lines will do his part, we will pass the 200 mark next Sunday. The classes are now all organized and will soon be recognized.

Supt. F. H. Jones and his faithful teachers and other helpers are working and planning to make the "Sunday School Folks" service next Sunday evening at 7:30 a great event in our church and Sunday school life. Each class will have a place assigned in the gallery or in the main room and it is expected that every pupil will strive to be in his place.

The following officers and chairmen have been nominated by the Christian Endeavors for the ensuing year: President, Esther McEachen; Vice President, Beryl Maxwell; Cor. Sec., Ruth Ingham; Rec. Sec., Wilma Gildersleeve; Treasurer, Joe Ringland; Organist, Bessie Durrie, Jr.; Supt., Bessie Durrie; P. M. Ch., Gertrude McEachen; Lookout, Elizabeth Mines; Social Ch., Mae Hiscox; Missionary, Cynthia Gilbert.

Carl F. N. Classen will lead the Christian Endeavor consecration meeting next Sunday evening. Then all Endeavors are urged to remain for the "Sunday School Folks" meeting at 7:30. This meeting will be just as interesting and helpful to Christian Endeavors as to Sunday school workers. Among other brief addresses, by our representative workers, the pastor will speak on the subject: "The Child as Leader." Please feel free to mention his interesting meeting to your friends with an invitation to be present.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church

(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

The thank offering service on Sunday night, conducted by the missionary society exceeded our expectation both in attendance and interest shown by the congregation. The pageant by ten boys and girls representing as many nationalities of immigrants gave an explanation why so many people from other lands are looking to America for their future homes. It was one of the most pleasing numbers on the program.

The program for next Sunday will be the regular worship with sermon at 11 a. m. The evening sermon at 7:45 will be the first in a series on the life of Joseph—"Joseph the Dreamer." The public invited and members urged to hear the entire course on one of the most interesting characters in the old testament.

It has been found necessary to postpone the December missionary meeting until the first Wednesday in January.

Thursday December 7 Mrs. E. C. Tweed will entertain the Aid society. This should be an interesting meeting. The different groups will then report the money each circle made in the past four months. If you come you will hear secrets that have been kept four months.

All the children of the Sunday school who are willing to take part in the Christmas program are to meet at the church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30 to have their parts assigned.

The ladies of the English Lutheran church will hold their annual bazaar and food exchange at the new Rennie & Wright garage on Saturday, December 9th at 1 p. m. Many beautiful things will be on display. At the same time the ladies of the Luther League will conduct a doll hospital.—adv.

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell Pastor)

A crowded house characterized the services Sunday with a special Thanksgiving message by the pastor and special music by the choir. We are glad to have our organist Miss Bessie Crockett with us after her long illness and are glad to welcome the scores of new people into our church and Sunday school.

The sermon theme for next Sunday morning will be "The Christian Family."

In the evening the pastor will preach on "The Prince of the House of David." These sermon messages will be worth hearing. The choir will render special music at both services.

Extra Power if You Want It

Most everybody does in an automobile. Sometimes on a hill. Sometimes in passing the car ahead. Sometimes in the mud. Sometimes in sand. Sometimes when you are in a hurry. When prohibition has put the distiller of drink out of business we may be able to use the plants to produce alcohol for fuel and thus break the strangle hold which the oil interests have on the country.

Here is a good point to remember in writing your advertisement—it is pointed, and the fact it was used first about something besides advertising does not detract from the points:

"A business man's conversation should be regulated by fewer and simpler rules than any other function of the human animal, they are:

- "Have something to say.
- "Say it.
- "Stop talking."

We have heard of the mountaineer who had a fight with the bear, and when the scarp got right interesting for the bear, he, the man, called for some of his friends to "help him let go." That appears to be the condition with the warring powers of Europe. Deep down in their heart we venture to say they wish some one could help them let go. But that is also a difficult job, and dangerous. It might be like trying to separate man and wife when they are doing battle royal—both pitch onto the peace-maker.

Here is what is said by a republican candidate for nomination for governor of this state about a democratic official, Secretary McAdoo: "He is one of the ablest students of money and banking in the country, and is a complete match for designing men who would control credit and currency for their own selfish purposes." Small wonder that S. R. McKelvie was defeated by the republicans of Omaha when he aspired to be their candidate. Might almost as well have a democrat as a republican who will give expression to such treasonable talk.

There seems to be a demand for a law creating a counting board to aid the election board, so that we may know sooner just what was done on election day. The matter of waiting a few hours more for the result is not so important, though we are always impatient to know; but the fact that it will, without extra cost, let the members of the board quit after rather tedious day's work. It will also enable the fellow who cannot sleep until he knows who is who an opportunity to get in home before the approaching of a new day begins to show red in the east.

The Young Ladies Bible circle had a very interesting meeting with Miss Mae Hiscox, Saturday evening. Miss Anna Granquest presiding, Miss Blanch Heath led the lesson study very ably. Miss Mable Gossard will entertain the circle Saturday evening and all the girls are welcome.

Getting Ready for Housecleaning

Now that the election is over, the state house family has resumed its wonted calm and serenity.

State officers are buckling into the work of preparing for what is expected to be one of the most interesting sessions of the legislature in many years. This session will be overwhelmingly democratic in both houses.

Food Commissioner Clarence E. Harman will not be an applicant for re-appointment to his present position at the head of the Pure Food Department. He has issued a statement to that effect declining to be a candidate. For four years Mr. Harman has worked with an energy and an effectiveness that has placed the Nebraska Pure Food Commission on a high plan of efficiency where it ranks with the best in the nation both in point of adequate laws and law enforcement. It will take an exceptionally good man to fill his place and to keep up the standard and follow the pace which he has set during the past four years.

The plan of renting the city auditorium for the sessions of the lower branch of the legislature this winter had not met with very enthusiastic approval, owing to the extra expense and inconvenience attached thereto. The east wing of the state house, which has been under discussion for some time past because of its alleged instability, and of which the representative hall is a part, will be propped up and made as safe as possible. It is conceded by most everybody that if the incoming legislature cannot be made to see the necessity of a new state house, that a few props removed at an opportune time, allowing the wing to fall in on the members, would have a tendency to compel those who survive such a catastrophe, to see this necessity in its true light.

There is always something to take the joy out of life, so think some of those who have been holding down fair to good appointive jobs in the state house during the past two to four years. From the janitors on up since the election there has been a noticeable restlessness. Governor-elect Keith Neville quietly slipped into the state house last week, consulted with a few of the faithful and slipped out again before hardly any one outside of those interviewed knew he was in town. The result of Mr. Neville's visit, however, was voiced in the rumor that he intended to change many of the present heads of departments over which the governor alone has the appointing power. This has caused much speculation and perturbation of mind among those who are directly interested. It looks, from all signs, as though Mr. Neville was going to do a little house cleaning when he gets down here in January.

For the first time in the history of the state all the executive officers will be filled by democrats for the next two years. Only one other instance of the complete overturning of the political traditions of the state house is recorded, and that was in the election of 1896, when the populists, led by Silas A. Holcomb, who was the gubernatorial candidate for re-election, filled all of the state offices with populists, with the exception of one lone democrat. That year there were elected in addition to Governor Holcomb, Lieut. Gov. James E. Farris, Secretary of State W. Porter, Auditor John F. Cornell, Treasurer J. B. Meserve, State Supt. W. R. Jackson, Attorney General C. J. Smyth, and Land Commissioner J. V. Wolfe, all populists except C. J. Smyth, who was the lone democrat. For the first time, also, since its inception one member of the state railway commission will be a democrat for the next six years, Victor Wilson having been elected over his republican competitor, Mr. Clark, who was a candidate for re-election.

RUNDELL'S COLUMN

Since the eastern republican press is lambasting their western brethren for defeating Hughes, denouncing them as molyoddles "wedded to the soft side of life" let us analyze the causes of the result.

In the mill cities of the east, except New Hampshire, are employed millions of foreigners mostly from southeastern Europe, to whom patriotism is a stranger. It was easy thru their bosses to deliver their votes to suit the boss and it is an insult that will not be forgotten to praise these men as braver than and more patriotic than the men and women of the west. Then add the unfriendly German vote and you have the explanation of the results in the mill states of the east. But why should Ohio go for Wilson and Illinois for Hughes? There is a reason. A Christmas Hint

REALLY such things should be kept secret, rather than publicly discussed, but so long as we promise not to divulge the identity of our Xmas gift purchasers or the fortunate recipients of those gifts, no harm can be done; but we digress—

The Hint

Could anything be more appropriate, more useful, more enduring or more highly appreciated than some article chosen from our large stock of high-class, dependable furniture? Think it over.

Decay of the Teeth

The relation of the diet to the welfare of the teeth is an important one, and parents should give it consideration. There have been recent investigations which seem to prove that a child that has been fed upon wholesome food with very little or no sweets, is quite certain to have good teeth, and the child that has been fed upon unwholesome food with much sweet is just as certain to have poor teeth. It should be remembered also that a diet that makes good teeth will also make a healthy child

The print paper combine and their enforced shortage of pulp and paper might be shattered shortly if the tax levying powers were used to prevent land being held for speculative purposes. Good authority states that half of the area of the state of New York is idle land, and nearly all of this idle land would naturally produce material for wood pulp for paper, and some of it is good for little else. The same is true of more than half of Maine. If the taxing powers were used to kill the speculative values of idle land it would be used.

Christmas Opening At the Christmas Store SATURDAY, DEC. 2

When you select your Christmas Gifts this year, come to the WAYNE VARIETY STORE. Toys and holiday lines are ready for your inspection. For the next twenty days good hearted, generous old Santa Claus will have full charge of this store and will give you an opportunity to remember every one of your friends with some token of cheer and happiness.

For months I have been preparing for this Holiday Opening. I was determined to have the best possible line of Christmas Goods and I think I have. You will realize it when you look the different lines over.

There is a mistaken idea about the high prices of Christmas Goods this year. Many articles of course have advanced in price but the bulk of the goods sell at the same prices as last year, and if you consider that you can purchase in a good many cases a suitable little present as low as 10c or 25c, there is really no reason why you should not remember all of your friends with some Christmas Gift.

I have prepared a little eight-page leaflet "200 Answers to the Question—What Shall I Buy for Christmas Gifts?" If you did not get one of them ask for one. It will materially assist you in picking just the right thing for the right person.

THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT

Some of the Many Good Objects of this Organization Told by Local Scout Master. All Should be Interested

Every boy scout is pledged to do at least one good turn each day, but in addition to these individual acts of kindness, whole troops and often all the troops in a whole community will unite to do something which requires organization and concerted action.

"Safety First" campaigns, "Swat the Fly" crusades, and "Clean-up Days" have been conducted or assisted by scouts in scores of places. Very often the courteous appeal of a scout has proven more efficacious in securing permanent results than the prompt order of a public official. There can be no question that the boy is working for the good of his community and that his suggestions are free from any connection with petty graft or policies.

Mrs. Housekeeper swatting the advance guard of the summer's swarm of flies, cannot fail to be interested in the scout who, half scared perhaps, at his own temerity, points out to her the fact that her own garbage can and dishwasher drain are responsible for her unwelcome visitors. If she has ordinary common sense—and what housekeeper has not—one micro-photograph showing how the deadliest of germs are picked up by the house fly's feet and then deposited upon the bread and butter which her children eat, makes her a red-hot recruit for the militant forces of sanitation. Woman's tongue has been the subject of many unkind remarks. Let us pause and reflect upon what it accomplishes when it is set wagging for a cause like this. It means less flies and more scouts before the sun goes down.

"Safety First," is second nature with a scout, for the prevention of accidents is one of his earliest subjects of instruction. Most accidents can be foreseen. Every scout is taught to look for them and, by removing the causes to prevent the consequences.

Many communities are indebted to the scouts for the distribution of literature on fire-prevention and other subjects of vital importance, for planting trees, protecting parks, painting fire hydrants, establishing town clocks, testing street lights, helping in public playgrounds, cleaning sidewalks, assisting in campaigns for good roads, cooperating with the S. P. C. A., serving on relief committees aiding blind refugees, providing seats for outdoor meetings, reporting unsanitary conditions, destroying tent caterpillars, maintaining scout wells, securing community Christmas trees, distributing Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, taking flowers to hospitals, "adopting" friendless old people, gathering clothes for the needy.

selling Red Cross Seals; searching for lost persons, acting as ushers at public gatherings, conducting first aid tents at fairs, fighting forest fires, removing furniture from burning houses, arranging for safe and sane Fourth of July celebrations, decorating the graves of veterans on Memorial Day, guiding convention delegates, removing unsightly signs from public highways.

In Washington D. C., the boy scouts saved the women's suffrage parade and the fair name of the city in 1913. In Salem, Mass., after the fire of June 1914, they served like so many men until the tremendous problem of caring for the homeless thousands was well in hand. Their service has a double value—it helps the city and educates them. The accomplishment of a piece of service for his town or city will do more to develop a boy's civic and national pride and prepare him to be an intelligent voter and office holder than a year's study of civil government from books. A community which neglects to foster an organization which produces such results deserves whatever it may have of unjustly high taxes, law enforcement and juvenile delinquency.

Only a Dad

Only a dad with a tired face, Coming home from the daily race, Bringing little of gold or fame To show how well he has played the game, But glad in his heart that his own rejoice To see him come and hear his voice.

Only a dad, of a brood of four, One of ten million men or more, Plodding along in the daily strife, Bearing the whims and scorns of life With never a whimper of pain or hate

For the sake of those who at home await.

Only a dad, neither rich nor proud, Merely one of the surging crowd.

Totling, striving, from day to day, Facing whatever may come his way

Silent, whenever the harsh condemn, And bearing it all for the love of them.

Only a dad, but he gives his all, To smooth the way for children small,

Doing, with courage stern and grim, The deeds that his father did for him;

This is the line that for him I pen, Only a dad, but the best of men.

State Normal vs. Buena Vista

The Wayne state normal football eleven defeated the fast Buena Vista college team of Storm Lake, Iowa, Friday afternoon on the local field by a score of 14 to 13. Despite the hard, close playing and close score the game was one of the cleanest exhibitions ever seen on the home grounds, neither side being penalized and only one player on the Buena Vista team being so hurt that a substitute had to be put in. Both sides were very evenly matched and under the ideal weather conditions the contest was "snappy" thru out every period.

Buena Vista scored first in the first quarter when Chaney received the ball on a pass and made a fifty yard run before he was downed. Capt. Fulton carried the ball over the line for the first down on the next play. Goal was kicked, score 7-0.

The second quarter was warmly contested Wayne trying end runs with small gain and Vista forward passes that the local team were able to break up by good interference work, a thing they have sadly lacked previous to this time. The ball was kept mostly in the centre of the field thru out the remainder of the half.

Wayne began the use of new tactics at the opening of the second half. Failing to make gains by end runs and forward passing, line smashing and line plunging by the back field was used. The ball was thus carried to Buena Vista's ten yard line, Captain Ellis going around the end for a touch down. Goal was kicked, score 7-7. Vista came back strong in the next few minutes of play, holding the Wayne line for downs and on the following play Fulton threw a forward pass to Chaney who again made a long run for a touchdown. Goal was not kicked, score 13-7.

In the final quarter Wayne resorted to line smashing and literally plowed her way to Vista's very goal line and on the fourth and last down Munsinger, Wayne's full back was pushed over for the score. Goal was kicked, score 14-13. During the remaining few minutes of play Buena Vista tried again and again to use the forward pass but Wayne's interference once more made itself prominent and all attempts were broken up with loss usually to the Vista team, Fulton being slow in throwing the ball. The final whistle blew with the teams on the forty yard line with the ball in Wayne's possession.

Fulton (Capt) and Chaney starred for the visitors, Capt. Ellis, Munsinger, Rockwell and Christensen for the local team. Wayne played a good defensive game the first half and proved their ability to put across scores in the last half.

Buena Vista have a fine set of fellows, clean players and gentlemen and they put up a very strong fight every minute. This will be their third defeat this season having won the remainder of their games, or four out of seven.

Wayne meets Union college of LeMars, Iowa, here Thursday afternoon, for the closing game of the season.

BETTER MORTGAGES FOR OLD

A Story from the Saturday Evening Post Illustrating the Practical Application of the Federal Farm Loan Law

What we wanted our loans for brings up a matter that seems to me very interesting. We happened to have in our association one of every sort of loan the law permits. You know, of course, that money can't be borrowed through National Farm Loan Associations for any and every purpose. I suppose the reason Congress had for passing the law was to make the farmers more prosperous. So if a man wants the money to spend in high living—or in living at all, for that matter—he has to borrow in some other way. If a farm won't support a man in his living expenses, the loan isn't very good, anyhow. I wouldn't belong to a National Farm Loan Association that made loans for other than productive purposes, even if the law allowed it.

Each one of us had to subscribe 5 per cent of his loan to start the capital of our association, which was to be paid only if the loan was granted, then to be invested by the association in the stock of our Federal Land Bank. In case of a default in any of our loans—that is, in case any member fails to pay his installment when due, and in case our association defaults also—we are liable to an assessment of another 5 per cent, just like stockholders in a national bank. We can protect ourselves against any assessment by being careful about the loans, and if we aren't the Government appraiser who has to approve them will be careful for us. So the danger is much less, I figure, than it is for a stockholder in a national bank. On the 5 per cent—it was $125 in my case—I expect to get dividends from the Federal Land Bank until my loan is paid off. Then I shall get the $125 back, or use it to pay the final balance on my loan, and then cease to be a member of the association. You see, these are associations of borrowers, and nobody else.

The law agrees, as one of the purposes for which money borrowed may be put, first, to provide for the purchase of land for agricultural uses. Will Allen came under this head because he wanted to buy his brother's share in the farm. And when we were about through organizing, a tenant farmer, Oliver Adams, who has worked the Sweetzer place for years, came in and joined, making affidavit that he expected to buy the farm he was working.

Sweetzer was going to California, and Oliver gave him a cash payment of $950, which he had saved, applied for one of our loans for $1,500, which is 50 per cent of the value of the farm, and gave Sweetzer a second mortgage for $450. He will make good, we feel certain; and we are glad to have in our association, perhaps the first tenant farmer in the United States to use the Federal farm-loan act as a means of getting a farm of his own. I hope there will be millions of them in a few years.

The second object for which money may be borrowed is "for the purchase of equipment, fertilizers, and live stock necessary for the proper and reasonable operation of the mortgaged farm." My underdraining and silo and better cows came under this head, I suppose. So did the loan of Ira Daniels, who wanted to buy a maysure spreader and invest the rest of his loan in a contract for stable manure in the city. He had under contract enough manure to cover a hundred acres of land—and, with freight added he was getting it cheap. This loan will actually be more productive, I believe, than any other made through us.

The third class of loans is for money to provide buildings and for the improvement of farm lands. Jason Williams simply had to have a barn and a little house for his hired man. His loan came under this, and his farm is good for it, even if he had spent the money for toy balloons; but of course, the law wouldn't allow a thing of that kind, no matter how safe it might be.

The fourth kind of loan is the kind most of us took out—even a part of mine was of the fourth kind—"to liquidate indebtedness of the owner of the land mortgaged existing at the time of the organization of the first National Farm Loan Association established in and for the county in which the land mortgaged is situated, or indebtedness subsequently incurred for purposes mentioned in this section." I quote from the Federal farm-loan act, a copy of which is owned by each member of our association.

M. B. Smith's case is a special one under this section. M. B. owed $1,500, which represented the most unproductive investment I know of. When Dan Cullom was running for sheriff three years ago he induced M. B. to indorse his notes for money for his campaign—and he lost. M. B. had to pay the notes; and Dan skipped to Alaska, declaring with his parting breath that he would pay Smith to the last penny. This certainly was a foolish thing for Smith to do, but the debt existed before the first association was formed in the county, and M. B. had the right to borrow money to take up the obligation.

"But," said Will Allen, "now that the rural-credit system is organized, we had all better look out how we get into debt for such unproductive things if we expect to join in the future. The Federal farm loan act will not allow farmers to indorse notes, speculate on the stock exchange, or go into debt for wildcat stocks after the associations are in existence, and then borrow money through the system to liquidate the debt."

"That's all right with me," said M. B. "From now on my debts will be for productive purposes. I shall pay cash for my foolishness!"

I suppose such a limitation is necessary. If the policy of confining the loans to productive purposes, or to the purposes specified in the bill, is to be pursued—and we think it ought to be—this limitation must be made. Otherwise a man who wanted money for some other purpose could beat the law by going into debt for a patent right or a gold brick, and then claim the loan for the liquidation of an old debt. Such must go to other lenders for accommodation.

The American farmer may object to having his purposes inquired into, but I notice that the banks wish to know what a business man wants money for if he asks for very much.

We were glad Oliver Adams came in, because he made 14. We aren't superstitious, but we would rather not have started, with 13 at the amortization table. We should have had 15 if Walter Wells hadn't quit us at the last moment. He is pretty well off and is farming on a scale a little larger than the rest of us.

"I'll have to beg off," said he. "Why?" asked Will Allen. "You promised faithfully you'd come in, and we need you."

"Well," said Walter, "if you insist, I'll stick; but you don't really need me, and this Farm Loan Association isn't quite equal to the demands of my farming. I have been figuring it over, and I don't see how I can get along with less than $15,000. The law forbids loans of more than ten thousand. My present mortgage is nine thousand. I owe at the bank, for things that won't pay me back for two years or more, thirty-five hundred more. I want to take that up. And I want a six-cylinder car!"

"You plute!" said Will. "And then," went on Walter, "they are organizing a joint-stock land bank down at the State capital, and I believe I will be able to get adequate accommodations from it."

His case shows the necessity—or, at least, the propriety—of having banks authorized under the Federal farm-loan act that can do business with farmers like Walter Wells, who either want more money than the cooperative association can get, or want it for purposes not justified by cooperative associations; or who, for any reason, do not wish to borrow through the cooperative associations. Walter went away with the approval and good wishes of all.

After we were organized Ira Daniels did most of the business. I know we got our charter and I know we got our money on the loans. The Widow White came in as soon as she saw the color of money borrowed by the rest of us.

Funny thing, too, our banks have had more farmers' money and money derived from farmers' business than ever before. It all gets into the banks sooner or later anyhow.

I have told this story to show that there isn't anything mysterious in the matter or anything difficult about organizing to borrow money under the Federal farm-loan act. Any body of people who know enough to go to the post office for the mail know enough to organize. The children in school could do it. After that, the question of providing the money is up to the Federal Land Bank.

We farmers have few and simple duties in the matter; but they are very important. We must work with the Government appraisers in good faith. We must have good men on our loan committees, so that all loans approved by us will be fit to go through. We must use judgment in passing on the loans, both as to the amount in comparison with the value of the farms and as to the purposes of the loan. Above all, we must see to it that each of our members meets promptly every obligation and every installment as it falls due.

The law is a great new agency for furnishing money to finance the business of farming. For thousands of years, I suppose, other business men have had their own systems of finance. We have had to get along with a financial system designed for the uses of other business. Now the Government has opened up a loan system especially for us.

This is a very great and important thing. It may be the greatest blessing the farming world has ever had bestowed on it since the passage of the homestead act. It gives the farmers control over their own finances if they care to assume it. If they assume it they owe it to themselves to do everything they can to carry out the purposes of the Federal farm-loan act intelligently and in good faith.

If they do not assume control of their own loan business the Government has opened a way for a new kind of loan company—the Federal joint-stock banks—which will, no doubt, take control of the whole business. So far as our neighborhood is concerned, we prefer the cooperative association of borrowers to the joint-stock association of lenders; but everybody to his taste. Men like Walter Wells can not get what they want from such associations as ours, and there are, of course, others situated as he is.

The National Farm Loan Association, like ours, is especially adapted to the uses of farmers doing a small or medium-sized business and to the undeveloped regions where land is cheap. I hope other associations will be as well pleased with its working as we are.

The End

Such tobacco enjoyment

as you never thought could be is yours to command quick as you buy some Prince Albert and fire-up a pipe or a home-made cigarette!

Prince Albert gives you every tobacco satisfaction your smoke-appetite ever hankered for. That's because it's made by a patented process that cuts out bite and parch! Prince Albert has always been sold without coupons or premiums. We prefer to give quality!

On the reverse side of this tidy red tin you will read: "Process Patented July 30th, 1907," which has made three men smoke pipes where one smoked before!

PRINCE ALBERT

has a flavor as different as it is delightful. You never tasted the like of it! And that isn't strange, either.

Buy Prince Albert everywhere tobacco is sold in tippy red bags, 5c; tidy red tins, 10c; handsome pound and half-pound tin hand-drawn—and that corking fine pour crystal-glass holder with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such clever trim—always!

Men who think they can't smoke a pipe or roll a cigarette can smoke and will smoke if they use Prince Albert. And smokers who have not yet given P. A. a try-out certainly have a big surprise and a lot of enjoyment coming their way as soon as they invest in a supply. Prince Albert tobacco will tell its own story!

Public Sale Advertising

There is no man who can use advertising more effectively than the farmer who is holding public sales, or having anything to sell or trade in the way of animals, vehicles, implements or grain, says an auctioneer. It must also be said that there are few men who lose so much money through failure to appreciate the value of advertising and the necessity of spending money for it. It is true that sales are advertised better than they were a few years ago, but it is also true that a great many farmers are so averse to letting loose a little money for advertising that they greatly reduce their receipts on the day of the sale. The average farm sale should be advertised to the extent of $15 to $25, and there may be many that could spend twice as much and have more returned on sale day; there are men who expect to sell several thousand dollars worth of property who think they have advertised liberally when they have stuck up a few bills and cards. They save a few dollars by leaving the newspaper alone, but one additional buyer would more than compensate for all the advertisement, and the average newspaper is read by hundreds of prospective buyers whom the bills and cards never reach. That newspapers are the most valuable medium for advertising the public sale will be admitted by everyone who gives the matter a little thought. The cards and bills may be all right and should by all means be used, but the territory they reach is limited. If no advertising at all were done even if the bills and cards were not printed there would be some of the near neighbors that would know you were going to have a sale, but it is the newspaper that gives the most valuable advertising. The farmer thinks nothing of driving fifteen or twenty miles to a sale if, in reading over the list of stock offered he sees some horses or cattle he thinks would suit him, and it is these farmers that live several miles that would not learn of it from the bills, but must depend upon the newspapers for information concerning it. A farmer sits in his home and reads in his paper a description of the property that some one at a considerable distance is offering and makes up his mind to attend. And that kind of a visitor to a public sale is worth a dozen who come for the purpose of visiting, with no definite intention of buying unless things are extremely cheap. The farmer who is going to have a sale should look well to the advertising proposition, for more money is lost by those holding public sales by advertising too little than is justified by advertising too much judiciously.—Coleman's Rural World.

Sectionalism may exist in political chatter, but there is none of it this year in the celebration of Thanksgiving Nov. 30. It is country wide and bountiful, according to the proclamation of Governor Morehead. He also calls attention to the fact that next year Nebraska will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its admission to statehood and that this calls for more than an ordinary recognition of the things in which this state has been so richly blessed.

Fire damaged the Bishop block, one of the principal business buildings of Norfolk, to the extent of over $30,000. The blaze started in the Fair store, which occupies the lower floor of the block. Damage to the store was estimated at $25,000, mostly by smoke and water. The second floor of the block is occupied by offices. Firemen got the fire under control before the building was destroyed and most of the damage is confined to merchandise in the department store.

Suffering from a compound fracture of the lower part of his right arm, which was also broken above the elbow, a wrenched knee, a sprained wrist and with a wheat stubble driven through his upper lip, Ross J. A carload of cattle infected with the foot-and-mouth disease has been received at Kansas City from Nebraska and is being held there, according to a report made to Governor Capper by J. R. Kountz, general freight agent of the Santa Fe railway. Mr. Kountz stated that his company had been notified not to make shipments from the stock yards in either Kansas City or St. Joseph to points in Kansas or Missouri by officials of the two states. The embargo is thus far purely a precautionary measure. The infected cattle came from the high plains of western Nebraska, near the Colorado line, where the foot and mouth disease is not known.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Market About Steady; Fair Receipts

HOG MARKET 10-15c LOWER

Fat Lambs Active; Steady to 10c Lower. Considering Size of Run, Market Highly Satisfactory. Biggest Run of Month, Ewes Are About Steady—Early Trade at Least Shows Little Change—Feeders Firm—Bring $11.00, a New Record.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Nebraska, November 29, 1916.—Cattle receipts for Tuesday were of fair proportions, some 319 loads, about 8,600 head being reported in at noon. There was practically no change in the market for corn-fed cattle Tuesday, the good to choice beefs finding a ready sale at steady prices. Reports from outside markets were of a bullish tenor and the demand from dressed beef men was lively for anything at all desirable. Some choice heavy beefs brought $10.50 and the fair to pretty good 1,050 to 1,350-pound cattle sold at $8.75@9.75. Demand for cows and heifers from both packers and outside butchers was active, and prices held firm with Monday.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice yearlings, $9.75@11.00; good to choice beefs, $9.50@10.25; fair to good beefs, $8.50@9.25; common to fair beefs, $6.50@8.25; good to choice heifers, $8.75@9.75; good to choice cows, $6.50@7.25; fair to good cows, $5.75@6.50; canners and cutters, $4.25@5.50; veal calves, $8.00@10.00; bologna bulls, $5.00@5.50; beef bulls, $5.50@6.75.

Another liberal run of hogs was reported in for Tuesday, receipts being estimated at 270 loads, or 20,000 head, which is the heaviest one day supply here since February. Shippers' early purchases were about a dime off, while the first hogs packers bought were generally 10@15c lower, and the outlet was somewhat restricted on that basis, most buyers wanting hogs at 15@25c reduction.

The largest run of sheep and lambs so far this month put in its appearance here Tuesday, arrivals being estimated at ninety-eight cars, or 22,000 head. Only part of the offerings had been yarded when packers started out, but they took hold of the stuff that was ready in good shape, and by mid-forenoon bulk of the lambs that had arrived had changed hands at prices that were steady to in no case more than 10c lower. Several bunches of the best lambs reached $11.90@12.00.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $11.75@12.00; lambs, fair to good, $11.25@11.75; lambs, clipped, $9.50@10.25; lambs, feeders, $9.75@11.00; yearlings, good to choice, $9.00@10.00; yearlings, fair to good, $7.75@8.75; yearlings, feeders, $7.00@8.00; wethers, fair to choice, $7.00@8.75; ewes, good to choice, $7.50@8.75; ewes, fair to good, $6.50@7.50; ewes, plain to culls, $4.50@6.25; ewes, feeding, $4.50@6.50; ewes, breeders, all ages, $6.00@8.50.

We wish all who enjoy their Thanksgiving meats purchased from this ideal, sanitary meat market, and also all people, much for which to be thankful today. When your normal appetite again returns, that you will always find at this market a meat assortment which is seasonable and complete and as good as can be procured. This morning we hope to serve you with turkey, duck, goose, chicken, or prime beef, mutton, pork, or veal. In oysters, celery, sausages, and cured meats of all kinds we can please you always, all ways.
