WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, MAY 17, 1917

$1.50 PER YEAR

Asks Saloon Men $20,500 Damages

An important case has just been filed with the clerk of the district court, in which Andrew T. Hodgkins asks damages in the above sum from a number of ex-saloon men in this part of Nebraska, alleging that they sold him intoxicants and aided him in acquiring the drink habit until he is a wreck. That while intoxicated because of the excessive quantities sold to him while in that condition he was unable to reach home on the night of February 2nd, and fell from his buggy and was so badly frozen that he had to have the fingers of both hands amputated, and that he suffered other material damages to the extent of $20,500. The defendants named are W. F. Hickey of Jackson; W. G. Franklin of Goodwin; John Dimmel and Chas. Sokol of Winside; W. F. Booth, N. R. Ryan and Alex Weinand of Emerson; Jake Welch of Dixon; John Waugh of Hubbard and their surties, which includes a number of bonding companies and private individuals. The case will be one of much interest. The evil which men do lives after them, some one has said, the good is oft interred with their bones. So it may be with the ex-saloon men.

Weber on Corn Planting Time

Last season W. H. Weber gave the Democrat a list of dates when corn should be planted in order to secure best returns, and a number who watched the result on different fields planted in favorable and less favorable times were convinced that there must be something to his system—or else he was very lucky. At the request of some of these and others he has selected dates for this year, by the signs as he used last year, and while some of the dates have passed, and some corn has been planted, he asks those who may have happened to use the dates, as well as those who plant on the dates yet available to kindly watch results and report results. His 1917 corn planting dates: May 5 and 6 were the best; next comes May 9, 17, 20, 21 and 26, then June 1, 7 and 10. It is well to note results.

The weather for May 13 to 20 is fair, with some wind. His weather prediction came true last week, when he said with wind in southwest it would be wet—but with wind from some other quarter when the moon changed favorable weather would follow. The moon change came with the wind from the northeast, and it remained dry.

Some of The Court Doings

Wednesday there was a case before Judge Britton of the county court, in which Olive B. Bragonier was plaintiff and T. A. Jackson, C. W. Brandon, Emil Tietgen, W. H. Root, C. Bragonier, B. Stevenson, G. Root, members of the Farmer's Store Company were defendants. Plaintiff claimed of defendants the sum of $394 and a few cents for services rendered to the company in their store, as assistant. Defendants claim that they had not hired the lady, nor had they authorized the husband who was manager of the store, to do so, and that they were not therefore indebted to the lady. The judge held a different view, and gave judgment for the sum asked, and this morning defendants filed bond of appeal to the district court. The parties to the action are all of Sholes.

Doings at the Hospital

There has been constant coming and going to and from the Wayne hospital.

Wm. Splitgerber was there yesterday with a broken nose, which a horse had mixed up with in some manner, and it had to be nailed together. When the swelling is out and the soreness gone he will be as handsome as before.

Mrs. Hays from near Pender, underwent an operation last week, expects to be released to go home this week.

Tuesday Leonard Gildersleeve was operated upon for appendicitis and an ulcerated stomach. He is showing signs of improvement.

A number of minor operations and treatments have been passing thru almost daily.

Some special prices this week and next on a fine line of summer dresses, at Mrs. Jeffries.—adv.

Free Trip For Old Soldiers

Many old soldiers are looking forward to a grand reunion this fall on the scene of one of the great battlefields of the Civil war, which is to be held at Vicksburg national military park October 16th to 19th. A generous people has provided for the railroad fare of all old soldiers of Nebraska who served in the civil war, whether federal or confederate. E. Henderson of the G. A. R. post of this city hands us a circular letter which tells of the coming reunion, and what is necessary for one of the old soldier boys to do to enjoy the trip.

The 1917 Nebraska Legislature passed an act, authorizing an appropriation of $20,000 to be used under the direction of a commission to be appointed by the Governor, Hon. Keith Neville, to provide transportation to and from Vicksburg for all veterans both union and confederate, who contemplate attending that reunion, who served in the Civil war of 1861 to 1865, who now reside in, or who have continuously resided in the state of Nebraska for a period of at least one year prior to the passage of the Act.

Said Commission having been appointed and organized, all such veterans will indicate their desires, by sending in their names company, and regiment in which they served to the secretary, state house Lincoln, Nebraska, at their earliest convenience so as to enable an approximate estimate of the number to be provided for. This trip being one of over 2,000 miles and one of more or less hardship and inconvenience each comrade should very seriously consider the matter as to whether he will really be physically able to make the trip or not before making his application.

Officers of the war department representing the U. S. Government as host to the Veterans, will have charge of this reunion and the veterans will be its guests while in Vicksburg.

The Nebraska Commission will have charge of the Nebraska Division while enroute, and see that all comrades are properly cared for during the journey as well as in camp.

Each comrade who plans to undertake this trip should study this letter carefully, then make up his record as above directed and give his postoffice address, box or rural route, over which he receives his mail, in order that he may be properly listed by the commission. All further information will be cheerfully furnished by J. H. Presson, Secretary.

Firemen Called Tuesday

A fire alarm turned in Tuesday morning from the home of Richard Helt in the north part of town gave the fireman a run which demonstrated the need of liberal contributions from the outlying districts, and even the near by farmers for equipment for the automobile fire truck, for time is what counts in case of a fire. While the firemen made good time for the mile run they had it seemed mighty slow to one sick in bed with the house on fire—and beyond a doubt a fire truck could have been at the scene in less than half the time required by the present method. We want an equipment by which the firemen can get to a fire before the ones who discover it have time to put it out themselves, as was the case in this little blaze, which started from an incubator in which a setting of eggs was just coming to a hatch.

The damage was slight, not even the chicks already out of the shell being killed.

A MASS MEETING

To Discuss Preparedness Plans Will be Held at the Wayne State Normal Auditorium Sunday, May 20th, at 3:00 o'Clock p. m.

This meeting is called to determine in what way the people of Wayne County can best serve the common cause.

We cannot all go into Naval or Military service, but we all can and want to do something.

Let us meet and discover what are the most needful things to be done and plan a way of concentrating our efforts on those particular duties.

A great many plans and suggestions as to what we should do are coming to us now from state and national organizations. Some of these plans are good, some are not good. If we attempt to follow all of them we will waste a great deal of energy and not accomplish much on any of them. So let us figure out the important and needful things our community can do and plan on a way to get them done. Then our work and time and money will get results, we will accomplish something really worth while.

In the conduct of their every day affairs there are things which every housewife, farmer, business man, teacher, banker, preacher and boy and girl can do which will help greatly toward a successful termination of the war.

We have asked men and women representing all these classes from Carroll, Winside, Wakefield, Wayne and the surrounding territory to think about these things and they will give short speeches Sunday afternoon telling what they have discovered can be done by those engaged in their line of work. Let us be at the Normal and listen to these ideas and then form a league for getting them done.

We have asked the Governor to send us a speaker who is informed about our State and National preparedness campaign and with his help we hope to develop a plan that will co-ordinate our local work with that of the state and national organization.

Every family in Wayne county should be represented at the meeting Sunday and help determine how we can best serve our country in the present crisis.

Shall Wayne County Organize?

Lincoln, May 9th, 1917. Mr. John T. Bressler, Wayne Nebr.

It is the consensus of opinion of the members of the State Council of Defense that I should designate a citizen in each county to take the initiative in organizing a County Defense council to co-operate with the state council in all matters pertaining to public welfare, in the event that such a council has not already been organized.

A meeting of the citizens should be called and an organization perfected by the election of a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary and treasurer. I will, as Governor, issue commissions to the officers of the County Associations, and officers and members should subscribe to an oath, as subscribed to by state officers.

A representative should be appointed in each precinct and the County Defense council should appoint the following committees from its membership: Finance; Publicity; Food Production; Conservation and Distribution; Co-operating Agencies; Hygiene, Medicine and Sanitation; Recruiting.

As soon as organization is perfected, the names of the officers should be sent to the secretary of the State Council of Defense.

Yours very truly,

Keith Neville.

The above letter is self-explanatory, and all people interested in the proposed organization are requested to meet at the city hall, Wayne, Monday evening, May 21, at 8 o'clock. It is a patriotic cause, and all should respond.

John T. Bressler.

The Villisca Murder Case

With the arrest of Rev. L. G. Kelly, an itinerant preacher, who spent at least a part of that fateful night at Villisca, on charge of being the murderer of Joe Moore, wife, four children and two neighbor girls who were sleeping there, the murder of nearly five years ago is again in the public eye. A recent session of the grand jury of Montgomery county after a session of nearly a month, brought indictment against Kelly, and upon advice of his attorney he surrendered to the authorities and was lodged in the county jail.

Kelly maintains his innocence and that he will be able to establish it. An effort was made to have him taken to Des Moines for trial in Polk county, but the judge at the hearing ordered that the prisoner be sent to Logan in Harrison county for trial. The members of the grand jury maintain that they had ample grounds for their indictment, and Kelly maintains that he can establish that he is innocent. Being a small man, he says that in the first place it would have been a physical impossibility for him to have performed the deed. Sure it is that some one or two was equal to the task, and it will take something very convincing to show the innocence of a man against whom suspicion is aroused.

A Wayne Manufacturing Concern

Not many days ago the editor happened into a business place here, and noticed that a fanning mill was running, something he had not seen in years. Remembering the weary hours at the crank in other days, he became interested, and found that the mill was not just like the old ones, and it was at a new work. The output was a corn meal or grit graded to uniform size, with all chaff, cob and dust taken out. It looked fine. Are you making a new breakfast food here? the editor asked. Yes, and no, came the reply; we are preparing a breakfast food for little chicks, said George Fortner, and everything which goes to make it a perfectly balanced ration for the little birds, is just as carefully cleaned and graded as is the corn.

Chickens are worth too much now, said the man at the crank to kill off or even stunt with inferior chick food. Fortner's chick food is proving to be the best and most satisfying that can be purchased, and besides it has the merit of being made at Wayne, is all feed and splendid value.—1.

A cottage prayer meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the H. A. Masten home, at which prayers were offered for the president and cabinet, and asking for world peace. The meeting was led by Mrs. Riggs. At the close of the devotional service light refreshments were served by Mrs. D. F. Masten, assisted by Mrs. Patchen.

The Endorsement of Home Folks

That is what the excellent patronage given the Savidge Amusement company here last week was. Walter Savidge is one of the very few show men who has the ability to repeat year after year in the same territory and have a constantly growing patronage. The reason is simple—he does not yield to a call which wrecks most carnival and amusement concerns—the call of graft and fake. Mr. Savidge played his talented company four nights here last week to full tents, in spite of the very busy season on the farm and the rather chilly evenings. He presents a series of strong plays—and pays for the talent required to present them right and it is appreciated.

With a good band, splendid orchestra and a line of concession and sideshows as clean and instructive as can be secured for such travel, he puts his personal guarantee of "everything as represented and satisfactory or your money back," and that is the only guarantee which wins. His ostrich farm; trained rat exhibit were features which amused many. Professor Ernest Filer has an army of white and spotted rats which under his training have had the rat cunning directed to the performance of many amusing stunts, and show what training can accomplish with what is considered one of the hardest animals to retain and tame by captivity. Mr. Filer tells us that it takes at least three generations of rats born in captivity before they even begin to forget their wild ways.

Mr. Savidge's closing night was the best, and the sign "standing room only" was hung at the entrance of the big tent almost before the curtain raised, and when the curtain fell for the last time nearly 2,000 satisfied people wended their way home or remained for a final visit to some of the other attractions.

His open air free entertainment this season is something entirely new to nearly all, and was most pleasing, and those who saw it once wanted to return for a second, third and fourth time.

If Mr. Savidge shall close here this fall, and the weather man permits, it is safe to say that it will be to a larger business than he had at his opening.

A happy party of twenty seniors of the Randolph high school were here Wednesday morning. They were observing "sneak day," and were ticketed to Crystal Lake. They had plenty of lunch for the party, a ball bat and a ball and were out for the time of the year. Beyond a doubt they had a good time, but we venture to say that the folks at home felt better when they were counted in that evening and it was learned that the fish had not eaten any of the party.

A thousand people is estimated to have been in the Allen crowd when flag day was observed last week. A flag was raised in the public square. Pupils of the village and rural school had a part in the celebration.

J. S. Carhart went to Sioux City Friday morning to attend a meeting of the Schrieners at that place. He was joined there Saturday morning by Mrs. Carhart, and together they went to Hutchinson, Kansas, for a visit at the home of their son, Dr. Carhart.

G. S. Mears and Ernest Paulsen and wives drove to Beemer the first of the week to get the automobile which Mr. Mears left there because of mud when returning from the legislature. The weather and roads have both improved since the legislature adjourned.

The folks who happen to have met the young pedestrians the other evening, learned later that the auto balked, and they decided to walk home with the young ladies, which was not so bad—but while walking back the lads realized that "it's along way to Tipperary," but they got in just as the first blushes of approaching day began to show in the eastern sky. But they were not feeling very poetical over the beauties of a Nebraska sunrise just at that time.

One of our exchanges has a reader who takes the editor or editors in general to task for printing the war news. Yet we will bet a cookie that the fellow objecting to war news is the first one to read that kind of news. Had an experience once of a fellow who saw a certain book, and said it should be suppressed—was not fit for any one to read. He then proceeded to take the book and turn from one place to another without the least trouble to find a dozen different places which he thought proved his assertion. But then he was a fellow who always wanted the other fellow to be good; and a little sin or indulgence would not hurt him, for he was almost sanctified. According to last reports from him he had just put a good deal over on the son of a preacher who had supposed this brother not capable of doing a mean act.

Emil Weber from Hawarden, Iowa, was here a short time Monday visiting his brothers Will and Walter. In the afternoon he went to Laurel for the rest of the day. He is now in mercantile business and must make his vacation trips short.

Pender is coming to the front this year as the fact gathered from one of the local papers shows when it says that "an effort is being made to effect an organization to take charge of memorial day exercises at Pender this year. It has been a long time since a service of this kind took place at Pender."

Henry Kay returned Tuesday from St. Louis, where he went last week with wife and little son for treatment for the lad. He reports that after examination, the specialist gave them much hope of a cure, but told that it would probably require a treatment of six months. Mrs. Kay is planning to remain during the necessary time.

Harry D. Gildersleeve of this place, who went from Lincoln to Ft. Snelling to enter training camp, sends word back to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, that he passed the rigid physical examination and is now enrolled for the work. Mr. and Mrs. Gildersleeve went to Omaha Friday to meet him while on his way to camp, and traveled with him as far as Sioux City, while he was en route to camp.

One of our farmer friends remarked a few days ago that he had just bought the cheapest sack of flour that he had ever purchased. The remark caused some comment in the crowd, who were familiar with the high price of flour, and an explanation was called for. Let 'em off easy at Neligh. Fined a man $1 for exceeding the speed limits, driving without lights and minus his license number—three offenses for one little dollar which will scarcely buy a peck of spuds. No particular danger of any c—m speeding on Main street at Wayne—for they could not stay in the car—not that our streets are so very bad, but just at this writing they are undergoing a grading process which makes trouble in spots for the present.

We have received a copy of that most useful and handy little volume of 48 pages, Booklet 272, "Roster of the sixty-fifth congress of the United States," published by The American Protective Tariff League, New York, and mailed with the compliments of the league to all of its connections. The roster is a convenience which should be on every man's desk. It contains a full list of the senators and representatives of the sixty-fifth congress, and the congressional tariff committees. The large number of letters from congressmen and business men expressing unabated interest in protection as the right American policy in peace or in war are very interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mick of Carroll were Wayne visitors last week, and so was Byron Young.

David Herner from the southeast part of the county was a Wayne visitor Tuesday. He tells us that things in that part of the vineyard are much the same as in other parts. Alfalfa and winter wheat suffered from winter weather to quite an extent, but fortunately the acreage of wheat was not large. Corn planting is just beginning, which is about ten days late for the start, one year with another.

H. James and wife were here from Carroll Saturday.

Mrs. Kate Robinson from Cseighton was a Wayne visitor the first of the week, visiting friends here Sunday, and returning to Norfolk in the evening.

Farmers report that there has been quite a loss of alfalfa from winter killing during the past winter. Fields that were given a fourth cutting late suffering the worst. It is probable that where a half stand or more remains that the alfalfa crop may be worth as much for this season as any crop which might now be put in—considering the cost of plowing and planting to secure some other crop. Alfalfa is not much given to spreading, so that patches that are frozen out will fill in slowly, if at all.

The Bell System —What It Is

Years ago, before telephone communication was practicable beyond local service, this company and other telephone companies started, each in a certain territory.

When telephone communication beyond state boundaries and for considerable distances became possible, we connected our lines with those of the companies operating in neighboring states.

These connected companies, with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, now form a nationwide telephone organization known as the Bell System.

There are now nearly 19,000,000 telephones, or more than half of all the telephones in the world, connected with the companies comprising the Bell System in the United States.

RABBI EMANUEL STERNHEIM
Who will preach the Baccalaureate Sermon.

In a few weeks or months the people who have contributed to the food panic by wild and reckless buying may find themselves smartly penalized by having their storehouses full of food that will steadily deteriorate in quality while prices decline, says the State Journal. Control of food distribution and prices is inevitable. Instead of having $5.00 wheat, we shall more likely see the governments of the world decide that a much lower price than now prevails will be fair for all concerned. Some short cuts in distribution will be effected. Perhaps permanent changes of great significance may be made in our business habits. Some of the western states long ago decreed that there could be no such thing as private property in running water. It may be that some day an analogous principle will be established concerning food commodities. It will be a serious wrench to old-fashioned ideas if the right of property in food is denied, and yet under the stress of war that denial has already taken place in Europe and is apparently about to be established in the United States. It takes a limber mind to adapt itself to the startling new conditions brought upon us by the war.

Emanuel Sternheim, M. S. P., a Jewish clergyman, was born in London, England. He received his education at University College, London, and at various European universities, England, Belgium, France and Germany. Dr. Sternheim was trained for social work and was connected for many years with Toynbee Hall, London. Before leaving England he was prominent on English lecture platforms with both Jewish and non-Jewish bodies. He has been in America six years. His work in this country includes the following: Official lecturer, American Peace Society; contributor to the American Review of Reviews; President of the Louisiana State Social Hygiene Association; Official speaker, Purity Congress, Kansas City, Missouri; Lectured at Boston, New York City, Harvard University, Cambridge, and a host of smaller cities. His subject at Wayne on the evening of May 20 will be "The Reconstruction of Religion for Humanity."

John Wanamaker will be joined by an immense number of sound business men when he issues a warning against a feeling of panic and a false idea of patriotic economy. He speaks for the elimination of waste and extravagance, the conservation of food products, our natural wealth, our health, our energies, our labor, our very lives. It means putting more efficiency in everything, so that each unit of money, energy and intelligence may accomplish its utmost. It does not mean the lowering of the American standard of living. It does not mean the abandonment of such improvements as are needed for the proper transaction of business. "Keep business going for our country's sake," is Mr. Wanamaker's final advice. "Our country prosperous can pay our war costs, as they come, and have enough left over to aid our allies. Our country unprosperous, with business halting, money hoarded, thru fear or false economy, will be hard pressed to keep food on the table and clothing on the back."—State Journal.

We notice that a large number of publishers are sending a protest to congress because of the proposed postage rate for newspapers in the pending revenue law. That does not seem the patriotic thing to do. We will all have to pay some tax—why should the magazine and newspaper publishers be exempt?

The proposed new revenue law as outlined in the bill now before congress brings to mind of the rich, the very rich and those who are amassing fortunes from the manufacture of war munitions the truth of that trite saying credited to Sherman. For the proposal to take from these slick fellows, who planned to flourish and fatten by war, the cost of maintaining war, is for them all that the General said it is—"hell."

David City has an association of business men who are working for and with the co-operation of the patrons to reduce the cost of living and the cost of doing business. They claim that they can and are selling commodities cheaper than many other places, and are asking their patrons help by putting all business practically on a cash basis. Make a full and complete cash settlement as often as the salary is paid, be it daily, weekly, monthly or twice a month. That is the burden of the talk in the first of a series of advertisements they are starting in the papers of the city. It is a very safe way to do, and should benefit both purchaser and seller.

Perhaps the citizens of Wayne and Wayne county are not making as much of hurrah, and great public demonstration and display of loud and oratorical patriotism as some communities, but we are constantly adding to the list of those who have left to give their services to their country. Four young men from the county have been accepted for training at Fort Snelling, and others have offered, but not yet been called. Some have failed to come up to the physical requirements, and others are in the waiting line, to go when supplies and equipment shall be ready that they may be used. James Steele, Harry Gildersleeve, Warren Closeen and Elmer Jones are the first to go from the county to Fort Snelling. Then we have nearly a half hundred boys who went to the border with a company of the National Guards, and many of them are with the company now on duty near Sioux City. Wayne citizens will do their full share for the government in any emergency which may come, whether they shout it from the housetops or not.

When the war will terminate is a question to which one may hear many answers—or rather opinions. One man says that it may continue for three years yet, and it is now nearly three years old. When it started some were confident, like some at the time of the flood, that it was not going to be much of a shower, and predicted that peace terms would be under considerations within three months. We now know that they made a poor guess, and we do not know now who is making the best guess, the one who says three months or three years. One cannot understand why there should have been any war, much less why it should continue indefinitely. We know that war is, and that it should not exist. It must continue until settled right—and two mighty forces are contending as to which shall be able to establish the right. One is contending for the right of autocratic rule over a people by divine or inherited right—the other is contending for the right of the people to rule and say who shall serve them and how serve. One says the voice of the people is the voice of God—the other claims the order of a king is the command of Deity.

A Few Farm Facts Told

Until recently, when wireless stations were dismantled, 270 stations in northern and western states regularly received the weather bulletins.

If you have a tractor, keep it busy this spring, either at home or helping a neighbor. Time is too valuable in crop planting to allow one to be idle.

Keep your place clean and thus stop breeding flies. Then there will be small need to "swat him." Who remembers when the impression prevailed that flies were very useful in eating and thus removing matter which would cause sickness?

The onion is very loud article of food—loud smelling we mean.

Some wise man has advised the farmer that it is a wise thing to keep his good brood sows for future needs, for while they are now worth a neat sum, they are of greater value to keep than to market for slaughter.

Crop increase may be gained in most parts of this state by breaking out new sod. Many crops will produce as well on sod as on older ground, and sometimes better. Beans and broomcorn, and flax, all good crops to put in on new land.

The olive crop for 1916 in California was nearly two million gallons—where is the "olive branch of peace?"

TO CONGRESSMAN STEPHENS

Dear Dan:—A lot of us fellows out here on the Nebraska prairies read with delight how the members of the senate are standing in their places and throwing pet names at the food speculators, and asking that they be hanged, or fed to the kaiser. Now that is not a very entertaining and dignified manner for members of the world's greatest deliberative body to cut up. We have known for years that the professional speculator lived by robbing both producer and consumer, and his graft was only limited by what the people would stand for. We are glad this fact is beginning to leak into the senate chamber, but it soaked in very slowly—deliberately. The common people have been calling these fellows thieves, robbers, etc., and now the senators have heard and taken up the cry. But that is no way for them to do, or you either, Dan. All of you fellows are supposed to be there to do something for the people, and now while the senate is awake, why not, as a war measure, puncture that balloon which is trying to carry prices out of sight and scare people into buying and hoarding food supplies, while prices go higher and higher? The more they rise the more eagerly the frightened people bid up and up for them.

Now if you will just have the fellows quit calling names and fix up and pass an act entitled An act to discontinue all dealing in futures in grain, or any commodity grown and consumed by the people you will be returned to Washington again, dead easy. You may fix any penalty you please for violation of this act, but would suggest that the fellows who violate the law be made to go to the farm and raise all of the grain they are permitted to sell—and while doing so purchase what they need for seed and a living in a market such as they have inflated in times like these. The board of trade operations are the rankest kind of gambling, and after this little law is passed as a war measure, just add a clause making it perpetual, and cost what it may, the war will not have been in vain.

Some say that the farmers will object to having the government fix a price on their grain—why?

They have let the board of trade fix it at their pleasure for years, and they fixed it, not for the farmer or the consumer, but for themselves. Bad as the senate is they cannot do worse than the gamblers have done. Oh, Dan, get a move on you before they corner the coal for another winter.

BLACK SAFETY TREAD TIRES

THE balance line for the Ford car is drawn, and the sum total of its perfection struck with that new Goodrich tire, the bigger and better Ford car tire—Goodrich's "Three-Seventy-Five."

Of SUPER-SIZE and SUPER-STRENGTH it not only meets the INDIVIDUAL NEEDS of the Ford car, —but DOUBLES its VIRTUES.

Now as today, it is nevertheless already familiarly known by the knowing as—

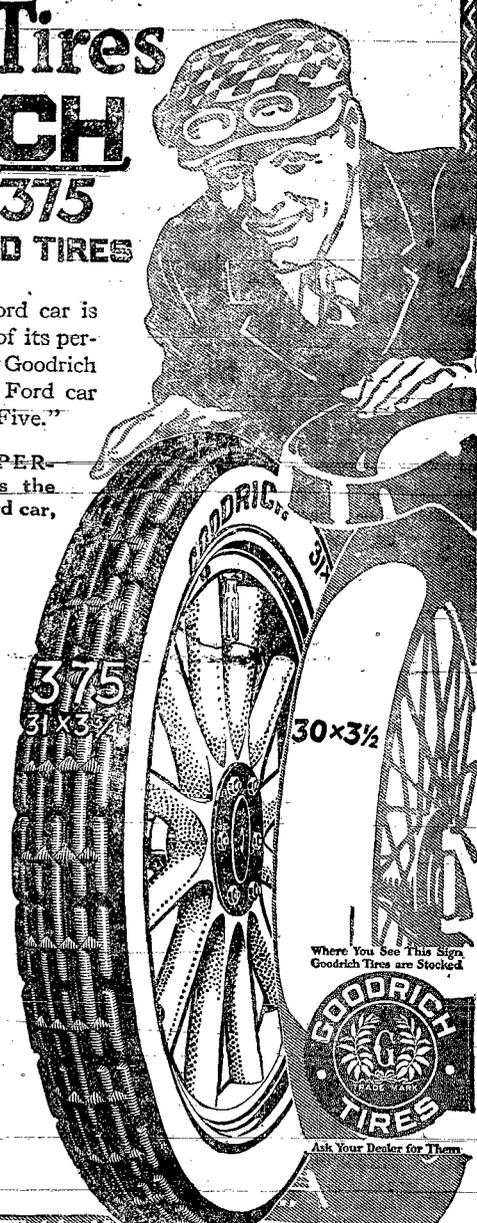

Goodrich's "Three-Seventy-Five"

That's its size: Three and seventy-five hundredths inches in the cross section. And it's an inch bigger too in the circumference.

Its heroic size, however, is designed to fit 30-inch rims on Ford cars. It is made solely with the five-finger safety tread.

It costs but little more than ordinary tires at the outset; and the natter appearance and added comfort it gives your Ford car, and its own greater dollar ECONOMY, make it the better buy in the end.

About Listed Corn

Weeds appear quickly in the furrow because the seed turned under by the plow have absorbed moisture from the soil and germinate quickly when the sun warms the soil around them. Some farmers make a practice of going over the field just as the corn is about to appear with a listed corn harrow which has narrow sections that go down into the furrows; others drag endwise in the furrows a rough log about four feet long and about ten inches in diameter, thereby rubbing off those small weeds that have appeared before the corn. Four or more of these logs may be attached to a drag bar and spaced the same as the rows.

Practice Economy at the Table!

Eat Meat—Good Meat

In these days of advancing prices on all foods, if one will simply stop to figure how flour has advanced to more than twice the price of a short time ago; that corn is trying to keep pace with it; potatoes have gone out of reach, while butter has been pushed up in price, and eggs never came down from their winter perch, then go to the Central Meat Market and get the prices on any or all kinds of choice meats, fresh, cured, cooked or pickled and compare them with prices of the past few months and learn how truly economical you are when you buy a choice roast which provides both meat and gravy, or a soup bone even from which you get meat, and the foundation for hash if you can get the potatoes to go with it.

That's All—just wanted to direct your attention to the way to live most economically.

We are hearing some pretty good fish stories this spring about the fine lot of channel cat being taken from the Logan since the dam at Wakefield is no more, which makes the stream navigable for some of the larger fish. Two different ones have had fish estimated at from 12 to 20 pounds almost out when their hook broke. Of course, the editor could tell a bigger and better fish story about those channel cat fish if he was permitted to see them.

While coming home the last time he met two young men, brothers by the name of Liese, from east of Harrington, at the foot of the Lessman hill about three miles out from Wayne. They were in the creek with their car and their companions, and no serious harm done. Driving down the hill, which is quite rough, they turned from the track and the car attained such speed that they feared to try to make the turn to get into the track before reaching the bridge, and so did not try to do so, but applied the brake and went for the creek. They went in, but slow enough to keep right side up, and do no damage. They had to get a team to pull them out, and went on without trouble. It was a time when to have lost their head for a moment might have spelled a wreck of the most serious kind, and landed them in the water under the car.

Eric Thilman, who for the past two years has been barbering with Homer Wheaton, has purchased the Boyd Dewey shop under the Gaertner furniture store, and taken possession. Eric is a Wayne lad, and he has been making good at his work, and we can see no reason why he should not have a very nice business and be his own boss. Mr. Dewey has been acting as deputy for the Modern Woodmen for some time, and will now give that work his entire time.

Most Wayne people know Bob Skiles, and know that when he says he has a good cow he thinks it is so—but he never knew just how good. But he may when he reads this. Bob went to South Dakota to look after his farm up there, and some college boy is evidently milking the old brindle cow, or whatever color she happens to be. The young fellow knew that the cow was just living on a ration of alfalfa and corn with a few oats, and that she was giving a good flow of milk. To test it to a finish they took a sample to the college and gave it a real test for butterfat, and then they knew, and Mr. Skiles may know that he has a cow worth keeping and caring for well, for the milk tested 5 8 butter fat. Few cows on common rations will do better, and if they do not one owner in 50 will ever find it out until they test the individual cow. Some more of you fellows had better take a sample of milk to rutledge and have it tested and see which cow is paying her keep—and a salary to the one who milks her.

The Fremont Gun club is going to help some. They have voted to plant their 10-acre tract to beans instead of keeping it exclusively for shooting purposes. Ten acres of beans should make quite a lot of ammunition at present prices.

Mrs. A. H. McCormick of the Wynot Tribune was a Wayne visitor Wednesday, coming down from Emerson where she had been as a delegate to a district convention, to visit her daughter at the college. She was accompanied by Mrs. A. Thompson who also was at the convention. Ruth McCormick came with her mother, and remains until the close of the week. Mrs. McCormick was speechless, almost, having so lost her voice that she could not speak above a whisper. She laid it to the drouth at Emerson or Wynot, we could not understand which place she was joking about.

Assessor Auker, who has just finished visiting the farmers of Hunter precinct, tells us that he found but 600 bushels of wheat to assess in the entire precinct and that the farmers have sold themselves much shorter than usual on corn, and it was his opinion that there is really not grain enough for horse feed in the precinct to last until the harvest comes. No doubt he has a pretty accurate survey of the situation, for the high price of corn was a temptation to sell, and then the cold, backward spring has made call for much more seed than was expected or that to be necessary six or eight weeks ago. He estimated the fall wheat at not more than two-fifths of a normal stand. Alfalfa has been damaged in many fields, too, he says. Corn planting is late, and but few have started, or at least any more than just got nicely into the work. He has a field of wheat on his place which is very thin stand, and but for the fact that he sowed grass on the land he would put in some other crop. We will watch the result from this field with interest, for cases have been known where a very high stand of wheat produced more than an average crop, and we believe the tendency is to distribute too much seed for the maximum crop.

There was a family reunion at the Wm. Fleetwood home Sunday, their son Willis, who has just finished a three-year course at Simpson college, at Indianola, Iowa, giving most of his time and attention to music, being home for a short visit, before leaving to enter the medical corps of the Navy, he having been accepted for that work. Mrs. Ed Johnson came from Sioux City, accompanied by Mr. Johnson, Miss Izeta and Miss Helen Blood; and Mrs. G. K. Johnson and daughter Geraldine from Stewart, with Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fleetwood of this city in honor of his departure. The young man left Monday morning to report at Des Moines to enter upon a four-year term. Willis Fleetwood has a host of Wayne friends who will wish him well in his work for humanity; and the father and mother, who much regret the need of the sacrifice he may have to make, find a consolation in the fact that he goes to aid in saving life and relieving suffering rather than perhaps being where duty might compel him to inflict pain and suffering, or possibly take life. He did not know where he might be stationed first, but it was that that he would go to the training station near Chicago for his first lessons.

HISTORY OF FORT SNELLING

Ground Where Officers For War of 1917 Will be Trained Important in History of Middle West. Col. Zach Taylor Commandant of Fort From 1829 to 1831

Fort Snelling, Minnesota, where 2,500 men and boys from Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and the Dakotas will undergo training to become reserve officers has a most interesting history, according to Marcus L. Hansen, a graduate student of the State University, who has been delving into old records on this subject.

It had its beginning in August, 1819, when Lieutenant Colonel Henry Leavenworth ascended the Mississippi river with ninety-eight men of the Fifth infantry, and at the mouth of the Minnesota river where now is situated the village of Mendota, former New Hope cantonment.

Two-Thirds Died
The first winter was passed in rude log huts which were inadequate protection from the biting cold, and in the sickness that resulted, sixty men of the small garrison died. In the early spring, Camp Coldwater was erected to the north of the present fort, and Col. Josiah Snelling, who followed Colonel Leavenworth in command during the summer began the construction of the permanent fort to which was given the name of Fort St. Anthony from the Falls of St. Anthony a few miles up stream.

In 1824 the name was changed to Fort Snelling in honor of its builder. The rapid growth of the surrounding settlement after 1850 persuaded the government that it was unnecessary to maintain a garrison any longer at that point, and in 1858 the post was abandoned. But its use as a place of concentration for volunteers during the Civil War, and the outbreak of the great Sioux massacre in 1862 demonstrated that it still had its value. Federal troops again occupied the barrack in 1865, and since that time it has been one of the most important posts in the middle west.

There is no phase of the development of the great Northwest which Fort Snelling has not influenced. In the history of the fur trade, the Indian relations, the Indian wars, the Indian treaties, the great exploration expeditions, the missionary activities, the first settlements and the early government, Fort Snelling has an important part.

Zach Taylor Commanded
Col. Zachary Taylor, later president, was commandant of the post from 1829 to 1831. The negro boy Dred Scott, who later figured in one of the great decisions of the Supreme Court, lived at the post from 1836 to 1838.

Many legends and stories have grown up about the old Round Tower all that remains of the original fort.

As early as 1849 there was much agitation to establish a military academy. A second West Point at Fort Snelling; and in recent years the subject has again been discussed. The national crisis has now brought this about to some extent. And old Fort Snelling maybe about to enter upon a new and larger chapter of its history.

Hurrah For Hoover

If Herbert C. Hoover, the hero of Belgian relief, can do what he says can be done, he will have done more than an army brigade could do to put America into shape to win the war. Mr. Hoover's declaration in New York Thursday on the possibilities of keeping from exhaustion by exorbitant prices the vast mass of people on whose enthusiasm and service the war must depend in the last analysis, is full of hope for millions. By a reasonable control over wheat distribution and price, Mr. Hoover says, the costs of bread can be reduced from 40 to 50 per cent. Meanwhile there would be no discouragement to production.

Mr. Hoover sees what many others know, that the present price of wheat is not a scarcity price. It is rather a scaredness price, plus a monopoly price. He knows also that the present price of wheat is not a farmer's price. A few farmers have had wheat to sell at present prices. These are the richer farmers who are able to operate as speculators as well as farmers, a small minority of the whole. Mr. Hoover says the average price received by the farmer for last year's wheat was $1.30. Certainly it was not above $1.50. The difference between this and the present three dollar price of wheat represents what the speculator has made. In the last three days wheat has gone up 35 cents a bushel. Every cent of this and of every raise yet to come is money ground out of the American consumer.

Obviously, Mr. Hoover is right in saying that no injustice would be done any one, while vast masses would be saved from exploitation, if the government were to see to it that wheat sells for not much over half the present price. Farmers would be pleased enough to grow wheat at $1.50 a bushel. They have been growing wheat in satisfactory quantity in the past for not much over half that. The government should set Mr. Hoover to making good on his talk, and the quicker the better. Let the people see that they are not to be oppressed permanently by war conditions, and their heart for the war struggle will receive an impulse, the effects of which will be felt as far as Berlin.—State Journal.

Sentiment for County Agent Grows

The sentiment in favor of a county agent for Knox county is evidently growing among the farmers of the county. One of the largest crowds ever gathered at Center met here last week to hear Professor Pugsley of the State University and other prominent speakers discuss the county agent movement. A petition asking the county board to appropriate $1500 out of the general funds of the county for the employment of a county agent and bearing more than the required number of signatures was filed with the county clerk. Not wishing to take snap judgment in the matter and wishing to give all sides an opportunity to be heard, the board, however, deferred action on the petition until its June meeting.—Wausau Gazette.

The Selective Draft

"American" writes the World-Herald to ask: "What is meant by the selective draft? Does it mean that the working class will be selected to fight and the idle rich will be selected to stay at home?"

It is discouraging that people will remain in ignorance on a subject that has been so frequently explained. President Wilson only recently elucidated the workings of the proposed system, and his letter was published prominently in every newspaper throughout the country. Many other explanations have likewise been published, and repeatedly commented upon, yet the same questions are asked over and over again. The selective draft means that men will be selected to fight or to stay at home, without regard to their being rich or poor, prominent or humble. It means that rank and fortune and influence shall have exactly nothing at all to do with the decision as to where and how they shall serve their country.

With the selective draft system in operation there would be taken, as quickly as possible, a census of all the men of military age. All those who were found to be able-bodied and fit would be alike subject to military service. From among them would be selected for soldiers those who could best be spared. The young man who was working in a machine shop, in a factory, on the farm, or in any other industry needed for support of the nation would be the last to be chosen. Young men who were supporting their families would not be chosen. The idlers and loafers, whether rich or poor, would be the first to be drafted, since they could be most readily spared to serve in the army.

It is this feature of the selective draft that makes a peculiar appeal to a democratic and a practical people. It is democratic because it places all men within the military age limitation on equality. And it is practical because it means the filling of the army ranks with the least subtraction from the industrial and economic strength of the republic. Its purpose is a scientific organization for war, with each man in the place where he can give the best service.—World-Herald.

Bulletin About Farm Machinery

The department of agriculture is just now very much alert in matters of vital interest, not only to the farmers but to all. Owing to the government position regarding the output of the steel mills to the country during the time of war the allotment of this necessary commodity for use in building farm machinery is to be but half the amount normally used. This means a curtailment of machinery—an increased demand for all that is made with possibly much inconvenience to the farmer. Obviously the thing to do is to at once take invoice of your farm machinery—good, bad and worse. Find out how much if any of it can be used, if not by yourself, by a neighbor perhaps. Overhaul all machinery and have it put in repair. Some old machines that have been out of commission for several years may easily be made to do service with a few dollars expense—not as good as new, but far better than none. Broken castings may now be welded and made as strong as new.

Neighbors should co-operate and use each others machinery, adjusting a fair compensation either in money or by the exchange of machinery for use. Too much machinery is permitted to idle and rust out because the owner did not happen to have use for it, while the neighbor might have saved the purchase of a new machine had he looked around and found an idle machine.

It will pay every farmer to write to C. W. Pugsley at Lincoln for a copy of Emergency Bulletin No. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Carlson of Ong celebrated their golden wedding recently. They came from Sweden in 1865, landing in New York on the same day, but on different ships. Later on they became acquainted and were married in Minneapolis and came to Ong in 1882.

By voluntary agreement the butchers of Hastings, who supply nearly all of the local trade, have decided not to slaughter calves nor to sell veal until after November 1. The action was taken without local legislation or official suggestion and is intended as the butchers' part in the movement to conserve the food supply.

John D. Evans, Frank S. Perkins and Floyd Smith, Fremont boys, have been notified by the government to report at Fort Snelling for admission to the officers' reserve training corps. Smith is a student at the University of Nebraska. Claire Gurney, son of E. R. Gurney, who has been attending the University of Chicago, will enlist for services with Uncle Sam.

G. W. Stevens, a resident of Nebraska since 1865, died at his home in Beatrice after a prolonged illness, aged 86 years. Mr. Stevens located at Brownsville, when he came to Nebraska, and moved to Beatrice in 1887, where he resided until his death. He and his wife celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary July 13, 1916.

Twenty convicts at the state penitentiary have been given uniforms of blue—overalls and jumper—and have been enlisted in Uncle Sam's great army of the farm. These men, all inmates of the prison for some time, asked that they be paroled to nearby farmers and after being subjected to severe oral examinations they were allowed their temporary freedom.

Eight big truck loads of liquor, consisting of approximately 1,000 cases of beer and vast quantities of whisky, high-priced wines, gin and other intoxicating wet goods were seized by Sheriff Clark and his deputies, when they swooped down upon Anton Larson's dairy farm near Omaha. It was the first big seizure under the prohibition law. The value of the contraband is estimated at $4,000.

Frank J. Curtis, held in Omaha on a charge of murdering a Policeman Connelly in Minneapolis, attacked local police with a razor when caught trying to escape from jail. He had the razor in his shoe when arrested, he told police.

The Red Cloud chamber of commerce voted to celebrate the Fourth of July this year. Although the voters of the village of Odell defeated the pool hall proposition at the recent spring election, the village board has granted a license to an applicant and thereby stirred up considerable indignation. The proposition was submitted on the ballot at the election and the majority against pool halls was decisive. In spite of this fact the village board, with one member absent, acted favorably on an application, four voting in the affirmative. It is not as yet decided whether the matter will be taken into the courts.
