Moseby—Fortner

At Sioux City today will occur the marriage of Mr. B. F. Moseby of Belden, and Miss Ruth Fortner of this city. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fortner of this city, a most estimable young lady. Mr. and Mrs. Fortner accompanied them to the city this morning.

Decoration Day Exercises

Decoration day at Wayne yesterday was not a pleasant day. Following several showers during the night before, rain began to fall before eight o'clock and continued to slowly fall during most of the day. Yet all the morning the people with relatives and friends sleeping in our beautiful cemetery plodded thru the rain carrying, a wealth of floral offering to the graves of loved ones. Some were costly bouquets from the greenhouses; others went laden with lilies and other flowers from their own or other home yards—but all had the one thing—the expression of love and tender remembrance to the ones gone before. Others sent flowers to the sick and to old soldiers who were not able physically to take a part in the exercises of the day.

At the opera house, which had been neatly decorated with national colors and national emblems, a large number gathered to listen and take a part in the exercises, which were under direction of the Public Service club. On the stage sat the remnant of the old soldiers of this place able to attend, about 20 in number. Mr. Chas. Bright called the roll of those present and those living here who were not present, and told briefly of the service of each, an interesting part of the program.

Rev. S. X. Cross gave the address, which was timely and patriotic. He referred to the wars in which we had as a nation taken part, and said we had no reasons to be other than proud of the part we had taken in them, except that war with Mexico, in which his ancestors had had a part. He believed that the war in which we are now engaged as holy and honorable as any war ever waged—a war for human rights—for true democracy for the people of the world. A nation or an individual, he thought, was justified in entering the present war if acting in the spirit of unselfishness shown by this nation in the pending conflict. The boy scouts and the flower girls, together with a firing squad preceded the old soldiers and their wives to the cemetery where the soldier graves were decorated with flowers and the simple ceremony of the G. A. R. was followed by members of the post.

Another Train of Fat Cattle

That the feeders of Wayne and vicinity are doing their share toward furnishing meat to the hungry was evidenced again last Saturday when a train of fat cattle and hogs—24 cars—were shipped from this place to Chicago. The following cattle feeders were represented in the shipment: Ted Perry 8 cars cattle, John Shannon 4 cars cattle 1 hogs, John Greer 5 cars cattle, Ben McEachen 4 cars cattle and 1 of hogs, John Bressler 1 car cattle.

When the returns came back after the sale on the Monday market it was found that they brought good prices, selling from about $13 to $13.85. It is safe to estimate that the train load figured close to $100,000 in value.

No other county of its size in the state, we believe, feeds and markets more cattle and hogs in a year than does this little county of less than a dozen townships.

Sunday night August Kruse sent a car of cattle to Omaha. Tuesday Ted Perry had two cars of hogs to Omaha, and Wednesday evening F. M. Griffith shipped a car of hogs to Omaha.

Stray Notice

About May 10 a stray hog came to the undersigned on the Gamble farm northeast of Wayne, and it is there fed and cared for, and owner may have same by proving by description his ownership and paying cost of keep and advertising. Arthur Dempsey, Wayne Nebr.—adv.—22-3.

The Recent Rainfall

May has not been a very wet month, according to the report of the gage at the State Bank. May 3 there was 7 tenths of an inch. On the 25th and 26th the total recorded was 1.97, of which .58 was Friday and 1.39 Friday night and Saturday morning.

Mrs. Chinn came from Fremont this morning for a visit with Wayne friends.

Canning Demonstration at Wayne

Nebraska householders are preparing to meet the threatened food shortage by planting a large acreage of garden products. Much of this, it is to be hoped, is in such crops as potatoes, beans, cabbage, and the like which require no other care than a good vegetable cellar. It is true, however, that a larger amount of land than usual has been planted to such vegetables as string beans, spinach, tomatoes, and corn, which must be canned or dried in order to be available for winter use. It is likely that much of the excess can be dried, but canned vegetables are superior to the dried both in flavor and in convenience in using. It is to be hoped, however, that every woman in Nebraska has an opportunity to learn to can vegetables in time to take care of the surplus from her garden.

To meet the need for demonstrators to teach the canning of vegetables to women, a series of canning schools are to be held in June, under the direction of the University Extension Service. The plan is as follows:

1. Attendance at these schools will be made up of men and women who pledge themselves to teach others how to can vegetables. All organizations, such as Woman's Clubs, Aid Societies, lodges, are entitled to representatives. Women are asked to come who will later volunteer their services as canning teachers; these will likely be used in teaching canning to groups of women in their own localities, or in teaching groups of girls to can vegetables. Garden supervisors and their helpers will be privileged to attend.

2. Location—There will be 27 schools in Nebraska. You are privileged to attend where it is most convenient.

3. Cost—You will be charged an enrollment fee, sufficient to cover the expense of fuel, and of vegetables.

4. Enrollment—Make out the enrollment card and send to Herman Siems, Box 251, Wayne, not later than June 1st.

5. Program—The school will last two days. The morning periods will be devoted to laboratory work. That is, the students will actually can each type of vegetables. The afternoons will be given over to demonstrations and discussions. We will not only discuss methods of canning fruits, vegetables, and meats, but methods of teaching as well. Those who have had a good deal of experience in cold-pack canning will not need to come for the morning sessions.

PROGRAM

Forenoon

1st Day 9:00 to 11:30, Beans, Peas, Tomatoes, Corn.

2nd Day 9:00 to 11:30, Greens, root vegetables, pumpkins, and squash.

Afternoon

1st Day 2:00 to 4:30, Beans, Peas, Tomatoes, Corn.

2nd Day 2:00 to 4:30 Greens, root vegetables, pumpkins, and squash.

7. What students will bring with them.—Bring notebook and pencil. If enrolled for laboratory work—Apron and cap, Notebook and pencil, Dishcloth and towel, hand towel, 4 pint jars, if it is not convenient for you to bring these, the instructor will furnish them to you at cost.

The canning school will be held in Wayne June 22 and 23 at the Domestic Science room at the State Normal under the direction of Miss Agnes Finnigan. Obtain your enrollment cards from Herman Siems at the Wayne High school on Friday afternoon from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. in the music room. Each club organization or community can send one representative that is willing to go back and show others how the work is done. The regular canning for Wayne will be taken up by the garden supervisor a little later. Watch your local paper for further announcements.

County Soil Survey for Wayne

B. W. Tillman and several assistants, representing the federal government and the state as well, came last week to make a soil survey of this county, and have already commenced this important work. What they will make known will be of great value to the community, beyond a doubt. We hope to give an article next week which will tell much of their work and its objects.

Gem Cafe Changes Owners

A deal was concluded this week whereby F. A. Salmon, for a number of months owner and proprietor of the Gem Cafe in this city, becomes the owner of a half section of Cheyenne county land and J. A. Kelly of Bancroft and A. H. Philson of Bloomfield become owners of the restaurant building and business, possession having already been given. D. Barnett, who has been managing the place for several weeks, will give place to a new manager under whose care the place will continue to serve the public most efficiently. The help will be retained as before.

Mr. Kelly and Mr. Philson met here by appointment one morning this week, and much of the preliminary work having been done the deal was closed in short order and possession soon passed to the new owners. One of the owners tells us that they have plans for improvement, but that they have not yet been worked out sufficiently to tell the public of them.

It is predicted by those who know the proprietors that the place will continue to be a popular eating house. Mr. Salmon, we are told, will resume his duties as passenger conductor on the run between Wayne and Bloomfield.

Baker-Shanek

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Baker Tuesday, May 29 when Miss Francis Shanek was united in marriage to Elmer Baker, both parties of Verdel, Nebr. The groom being the first grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Baker.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful white silk Crepe de Chine dress and wore a white picture hat and also carried a beautiful bouquet of brides roses, and lilies of the valley. The groom wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony a dainty three course dinner was served with Miss Helena Baker acting as toastmistress and the color scheme being carried out in pink and white.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Hickenbotham and sons Herald and Gerald, of Aberdeen, South Dakota, and Anna and Katherine Baker of Omaha.

The young couple will leave today on an extended wedding trip, for a visit with relatives at Lincoln and other points in the west and will be at home in Verdel, Nebraska, after July 1st.

The Democrat joins with their many friends in wishing them happiness and success in the future.

Norfolk Canning Factory Burned

Fire discovered at 1:30, Wednesday of last week totally destroyed the canning factory at Norfolk. One of the workmen first noticed it in the south end of the building. The Norfolk fire department was called but on account of lack of chemicals could do nothing to stay the flames. There was no water protection whatever at the factory and all that could be done was to stand and watch the fire do its work, after removing several cars that were being loaded with the canned product out of reach of the destroying element. The sheds north of the factory, containing the corn machinery and the cement silo were saved.

No one knows how the fire started. There was an old stove in the south end of the building which some of the operatives some times used for warming their coffee and some think the fire originated from this source.

Only the walls of the factory remain. It is the intention to rebuild at once, for it would be a losing game to defer operations, with the summer season almost upon us.

The insurance carried was about $45,000. The exact loss has not been established, but the building, shares, equipment and everything was estimated at $150,000.

The canning factory took the place of the old beet sugar factory and the building was erected in 1890. It was located almost a mile from the city and no provision had been made for fire.

Flag Raising Postponed

Because of the unfavorable appearance of weather Saturday evening, and reported bad condition of roads, the flag raising and presentation announced for Sunday afternoon was called off, and as yet no new date has been set.

Social Notes

The Gardner home was a scene of a merry gathering last Friday evening when Miss Lila entertained the Campfire girls at a slumber party. Candy making occupied their attention for some time, the remainder of the evening was spent socially. At 9:30 the next morning a two course breakfast was served. The girls departed declaring they had a lovely time.

The Rebecca Lodge met in regular session last Friday evening. They initiated three candidates and elected the following officers: Mrs. W. J. Hansen, Noble Grand; Mrs. Broscheit, Vice Grand; Mrs. Erickson, Secretary; Mrs. Mabbott, Treasurer; Mrs. Dotson of Winfield, delegate. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

The Rural Home society meets this afternoon with Mrs. E. Beckenhauer. Officers will be elected for the coming year after which a social afternoon will be spent. A delicious two course luncheon will be served at five o'clock.

The Christian Endeavor held a backward social at the Presbyterian church Monday evening. The time was spent in playing games, ice cream and cake was served.

The P. E. U. will meet with Miss Faye Britton, June 25. The report of the convention will be read. Arrangements have not been made for the annual picnic.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church will have a business meeting at the home of Mrs. W. O. Gamble Friday afternoon.

The L. L. W. will meet with Mrs. Fetterolf Friday afternoon.

John Wright in Trouble

Two weeks ago two young men were arrested for drunkenness and given the minimum fine and a warning. We published no names at that time out of regard for their friends. But the edict has gone forth in Nebraska that the sale and excessive use of intoxicants must cease, and when this man came for a second time before the judge on a charge of drunkenness and having intoxicating liquor in his possession he was fined $25 on the first count and $100 on the latter charge, and committed to jail until paid. It is but right that others should know the fate which will come to them if they monkey with the forbidden drink. Sorry for John and for his friends, but the strict enforcement of this law will be the salvation of just that class of good fellows, for once they are made to forego the use of liquor there are no better fellows if they are kept free from drink.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Scace and Mr. and Mrs. Negley came this week by automobile from Lusk, Wyoming, and are guests at the home of Homer Scace and wife. They were joined here by Miss Ina Mahood of Columbus, sister of Mrs. Negley, who will accompany them when they return to Wyoming.

Local News Items

Mrs. George Crossland and son Paul left Monday afternoon to visit for a month. They plan first to go to Detroit, and there visit Key, Weldon Crossland and wife for a week. Then Chicago will next call them, as they wish to be present when the son Clem graduates from the Chicago university, he being a member of the class of 1917. He has been taking a special course, and is now said to be competent to master all manner of intricate accounts, having taken special work to fit himself for a public accountant. He has offered his services to Uncle Sam until the war closes, to work in the class of work he has chosen to follow, and beyond doubt there will be much need of that class of work. An unexpected honor came to Clement as a mark of meritorious school work. He was one of five elected from more than 100 candidates as a delegate to Industrial Administration Research society, and is to be a member of the first national gathering of members of the organization. From Chicago, they plan to go to visit at Culver, Indiana, with a brother of Mr. Crossland, and then to Stockton, Illinois, where they will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Graves, formerly of this place. It will be a fine vacation trip.

Mrs. Emma Baker this week closed a deal whereby she sells her place in the west part of Wayne to Henry Weserhouse, possession to be given December 1st. Mr. Weserhouse is one of Wayne county's successful farmers and is now ready to retire and move to town and shows good judgment in coming to Wayne, where he will find a hearty welcome, and where he will have one of the nicest homes in the city as the house was recently made modern thruout and everything about the place convenient.

Dr. E. B. Erskine started for France this morning, via Lincoln, where he is to appear for examination prior to entering the medical corps. He expects to return for a month yet before joining his regiment.

Mrs. Frank Roubach and baby came from Pierce Tuesday to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Roskopf. Their daughter, Miss Katherine, who has been teaching in Butler county, came on the same train to spend vacation at home.

As I will start for the ranch within two weeks I will sell my chicken house and scratching shed cheap. You can use lumber for hog houses, cattle sheds or chicken houses. You can see it at the Mill grounds. Wm. H. Weber.

A. J. Linstrom, a bank cashier at Rock Island, Illinois, was here last week while on his way to visit at Wausa and Bloomfield, in both of which places he had been engaged in banking before going to Illinois.

Misses Lynette Rennie and Lila Gardner left Monday morning for Nebraska City, where they will spend part of their summer vacation on the R. W. Bloomingdale farm with Lila's uncle and aunt. Mrs. Ada Rennie accompanied them as far as Omaha, returning Tuesday.

Willis E. Reed, attorney general of Nebraska, was here between trains Friday and Saturday, going to and from Bloomfield, where he was called to make a talk before the high school graduates. He reports a good meeting there in spite of bad weather. The Democrat enjoyed a friendly call, and a half hour chat with Mr. Reed. While not interviewing him for publication, we asked him a few questions about the dry law, and he said that in his opinion it was good, and that Nebraska can be made bone dry just as fast as it is possible to get at law violators.

V. L. Dayton, one of the Wayne farmers who appears to be troubled by the dairy cow disease left Sunday to visit a number of Holstein herds and sales in Illinois and Wisconsin and see if he can find any relief for his trouble. His delusion seems to incline him to investigate and then invest in some of the best strains of the dairy breed to be secured. Over in Iowa, whole communities have that same trouble, and it is making them rich. Today a whole lot of Clayton county, Iowa, farmers will leave their homes by automobile to visit a number of the dairy farms of Wisconsin, making an auto trip of two or three hundred miles simply to see and learn more than they know of the dairy cattle and dairy business, and they are no novices in that branch of farming either, for they began dairying there quite extensively more than forty years ago. They have arrived at a stage when they realize that with all their experience they may profit by studying the experience of others, and there is much hope for any to make advancement as soon as they realize that some other people know some good things which would not hurt them to know. We hope that Mr. Dayton comes home with a lot of new and good ideas and also some more good dairy stock to add to his present herd, which the small is strictly high class.

Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Westlund returned Monday evening from a visit of several days with friends at Council Bluffs, Iowa. Mr. Westlund tells us that they had rain there much the same as here, he would judge, but expressed the opinion that the rain was much heavier south from Emerson than it had been in this vicinity.

J. E. Hufford is at Chicago this week to locate and purchase needed supplies for building incubators next season. The season just closed is said to have been a very good one for them in spite of the constant struggle to secure material on time to keep machines made as fast as the orders came in.

Miss Mary Weber, who has been teaching near Pender during the past school year, is home. J. R. McQuistian and wife, with whom she made her home, came with her Sunday and made a visit at the home of her parents, Frank Weber and wife.

J. E. Blivernicht and wife, who came from Hartington last week to visit Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lamberson, went to Merrill, Iowa, and will spend the summer vacation there at his home. He is to teach at Bonesteel, South Dakota, next school year, and they will go to that place in August or early in September.

THERE IS A PLACE FOR YOU IN MONTANA

"Harlowton, Wheatland County, is the Place"

Note:—Wheatland Co. has just been created; formerly a part of Meagher Co. Harlowton the Co. Seat.

Montana is the only state in the union today, wherein lies opportunity to get a good farm home, at a reasonable price and on terms as they used to be in the "good old time" of years gone by, when our fathers were buying land in Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota. Today we offer the homeseeker the opportunity to get a home on easy terms where you will have every advantage as to railroads, good schools, churches, lodges and other conveniences.

Harlowton, in the Musselshell Valley, where the Judith Basin line joins the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry., is the chief town of Wheatland County and has experienced a great growth in the past five years in population and business houses. It is a well built, busy city in every respect. In the city you will find a modern hotel, extensive flour mills, business houses, banks, newspapers, and it is the distributing point for a large agricultural and stock district. The railroad yards and shops of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway contribute to its prosperity.

Within a few miles of Harlowton, you will find thousands of acres of choice lands waiting for the plow. The soil is the best on earth, consisting of a chocolate colored clay loam, intermingled with limestone and pebbles, carrying a considerable quality of free lime, which, in the process of cultivation, gradually disintegrates, feeding and enriching the soil and escorting the elements required by the growing crops. The percentage of lime in the soil of this district is so high that it is of very great value for use in place of the manufactured fertilizers, where such products have to be used.

The climate is as good as any one could wish and the rain fall is sufficient to always assure crops, two-thirds of the moisture falling during the growing season. You will never hear of droughts, hot winds, black rust, or cyclones in this part of Montana.

Of the wheat grown in the Harlowton district, at least 95 per cent is of the high class hard varieties, which is the best flour wheat produced. The large flour mill at Harlowton is able to use all the wheat that can be produced in this district, assuring you of a home market for your crop. During the past seasons, the farmers of this locality have produced on an average from 20 to 61 bushels of wheat per acre and other crops in proportion. In many cases the money value of the crop, per acre, has been equal to or even greater than the price of the land on which it was grown.

In the line of fruits, we have apples, plums, cherries, currants, raspberries and strawberries, as well as garden stuff of all kinds.

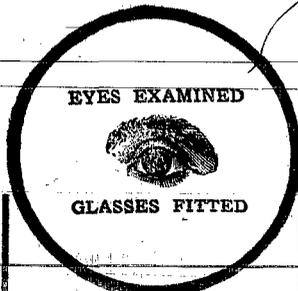

We quote here the aggregate resources and liabilities of the 235 banks, trust companies, investment companies, etc., that you may from an idea of the wealth realized from last year's crop. On December 27, 1916, the above totaled $108,036,993.00, an increase of $3,751,526.00 compared with the $104,287,467.00 which was reported November 17, 1916. Does this not look to you as if Montana "The Treasure State" was the place for you? We bid you WELCOME.

We have 20,000 acres in this famous valley which we will sell in quarters, half sections and larger tracts on easy terms. Come early and get your choice of this land. Please write for any desired information.

J. H. Porter and wife were down from Randolph Monday visiting and looking after business matters. Mrs. Porter tells us that their daughter, who is a nurse, has returned from the border where she was on duty all winter with the soldier boys, and is located at Cedar Falls, Iowa. She hopes that it will not be necessary for her to go to the front in Europe, but like every other one of her calling, she will respond to the call of duty if it comes.

The talk that this country is liable to be up against starvation on account of a lack of food is the merest rot. There is no doubt a shortage which calls for economy and for every effort being made to increase production. If any one starves it will not be because there is not sufficient to feed them, but because the food gamblers are allowed to hoard the food, making prohibitive prices for poor people. Proper government control and hanging for the robber gambler will cure this sore spot.

McCormick No. 6 Mowers Didn't Happen!

THE NEW MACHINE IS NOT AN ACCIDENT--

IT'S A DISTINCT IMPROVEMENT

The No. 6 Replaces the New 4

McCormick harvesting machines are never changed unless decided improvements can be made either in the machine itself or in the work that it does. Sixteen years of satisfaction in the field has made the McCormick new 4 a popular machine. But we predict even wider success with the No. 6 which replaces it this year.

Now the No. 6 is not a New 4 mower made over. It is a new mower with all the good features of the New 4 and with many distinct improvements. Not only has the No. 6 mower been O. K.'d by expert mechanics, but it also has made good in the field.

Special care has been taken with the No. 6 to make it easy to replace all parts. Busy farmers will be quick to appreciate this advantage.

Rigid Frame Cast in One Piece

To guarantee good work season after season a mower must have a substantial main frame. If the main frame did not remain perfectly rigid, the gears and shafts would be thrown out of line, causing all kinds of grief. That is why the No. 6 frame is cast all in one piece and thoroly braced.

Get into the seat of a McCormick No. 6 and test out these other new and exclusive features:

1. Effective raising leavers without the detent handle.
2. Flexible Gag Arrangement for rough, uneven ground.
3. Tough pitman of second growth hickory.
4. Coupling Bar of extra heavy steel without welding.
5. Countershaft Clutch which acts instantaneously.

Steele Writes From Fort Snelling

Dear Sir:—Received your paper last week and of course was glad to glean the news from a "home sheet". It found us rather busy but well. We are well housed, well fed, plenty of exercise so we just have to get along. There are about 2200 here to date, about 300 from Nebraska, I believe, or in other words 2 companies at war strength. The common remark is when asked where we are from and give the answer, "Nebraska". "Well how does it come there are so many from Nebraska?" Have met a number of Nebraska boys, besides Harry Gildersleeve, Jay Baughan, Waldo Hahn, Charlie Chinn, Kenneth Hecht, there are scores from Omaha and Lincoln, among whom are Ted Metcalfe and S. M. Bryan whose fathers both have a political record in Nebraska.

Taken altogether they are a fine lot of fellows who show by their vigilance that they are here for a purpose.

First 12 companies are housed in six branches, each 100 yards long, and two stories high, with basement. The men are supplied with cots, mattresses, pillows, sheets and blankets and after a days labor may rest to their heart's content providing it does not go beyond 5:15 a. m. next morning. The instruction so far has been on school of the soldiers, school of the squad in both closed and extended order, bayonet exercises, sighting and aiming drills, general customs of army life, manual of guard duty, organization of army units and a few short hikes. We are to start with school of company tomorrow. We, Co. 5, now have Captain Parker in command of our company, he was formerly teacher of military tactics at Nebraska University. He is well versed and is well liked.

There are now at work on the reservation a large number of men erecting quarters for the three regiments to be formed here out of the 36th U. S. Infantry which will divide into 3 sections and recruit to war strength. There is also a likelihood that the division of troops coming from North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota will be trained here. Members of war department are now considering different locations, they ask for 4000 acres of land, good sanitation, good location and absence of vice. There will be about 35,000 in the camp which will constitute the above named states share in the first conscript army.

Was over to St. Paul last Saturday to see the big "Liberty Loan" demonstration, when Sec. McAdoo was there. There was a parade which was fine. Mr. McAdoo's carriage which was draped with flags and flowers was drawn by 36 ladies who wore the stars and stripes as caps hanging from the shoulders and their heads crowned with Liberty caps. From each of these fair ones was a line running back to the fair lady who was driving this unique team. We also had the pleasure of gazing upon Abraham Lincoln with his negro driver followed by General Grant on horseback, with General Lee following in the rear.

We also had the veterans of '76 who were dressed in the uniforms of that time, then there was a large representation of Veterans of '61. Also First Minnesota Infantry, Corps of Cadets from St. Thomas Military Academy and the Home Guards. There was also six brass bands and seven drum corps. There was quite a unique advertisement for the sale of the bonds. It comes from the old familiar rhyme "Rich Man, Poor Man, Beggar Man Thief", "Doctor, Merchant, Lawyer Chief." Each of these characters were lined up with their proper uniform, on a wagon with platform, all marching past a desk at one end and each purchasing Liberty Loan Bonds. The above rhyme was printed on a large banner which hung above their heads.

Must now close and get my lesson for the morrow. So good bye. James J. Steele.

Our Great Egg Waste

Mrs. Weekes, deputy state food inspector, and editor of the Norfolk Press, writes an interesting article in that paper of eggs, showing that it annually costs Nebraska $2,000,000 for neglect, and suggests a remedy in part at least. We cannot now tell the whole story, but here is a part of it, the part which will perhaps be of most advantage to our readers, if they heed and avoid the causes of trouble mentioned, they may avoid the trouble which is sure y due and coming to those who violate the law and market rotten hen fruit:

"At the present time the common method of marketing eggs in Nebraska is not what it should be and to the end that this method be improved every food inspector is instructed to do his part in educating egg producers and dealers. As it is, we find the farm wife gathering eggs at her own convenience, sometimes every day, sometimes two or three times a week. The eggs are brought into the house and kept until the egg case is full or a least until the farm lady decides to market the same. No particular attention is given to the conditions under which the eggs are kept. Sometimes they are in the cupboard back of the kitchen stove, sometimes on the floor of a dirty, damp, ill-smelling cellar.

The eggs are bound to undergo considerable deterioration in quality if not to become actually spoiled in the period of waiting. Moldy eggs from dirty cellars are to be found at every hand. Those of us who have resided on farms recall the happiness of hunting and finding stray nests; the eggs from which bring no happiness to either grocer, consumer or pure food inspector.

The average farm basket contains on its weekly visit to town not only wholesome and strictly fresh eggs but also dirty, stale, spoiled and all-but-ready-to-hatch eggs and which the grocer buys "sight unseen," paying "in trade" for the same and after holding them until he has enough to make a shipment to some egg wholesaler from whom he gets regular quotations. He may keep them a day and he may keep them a week but the delay in the grocery added to the time that must be allowed for transportation makes for a still further deterioration in the eggs which are intended for somebody's consumption. After the eggs leave the hands of the grocer and pass into the possession of the packer or wholesaler they undergo a grading process, the man who buys "case count" naturally and finally reaching the candling stage that should have been put into effect by both farmer and grocer. As a result he "throws out" the bad and broken eggs and pays a lower price than that quoted. This lower quotation of course must be passed back eventually to the farmer, all losing by the process. The merchant often stands the loss thru fear of giving offense to the farmer, preferring to try to make it back out of him by manipulations in trade.

The food department under Mr. Murschel's regime has no desire to persecute or even to prosecute but only to help, to be of service and especially in the matter of the marketing of eggs to assist in bringing about a carefulness on the part of the producer and dealer and an improvement in the quality of the eggs, to eliminate waste and to co-operate in every way in the national movement toward food production and food conservation. Bulletins have been issued by not only the state food department but by the federal government covering the care and handling of eggs and these should be carefully studied by egg producers and by dealers. Inspectors have been instructed to post egg bulletins in every grocery store and newspapers are asked to lend their aid in making the public feel its patriotic duty in this particular line.

The Advised Farmer

They are having pig troubles in England. A correspondent of the London Times tells the sad tale. A buy-a-pig movement arose. Let every Englishman grow a pig on the weeds, plate scrapings, champagne corks and waste paper of his home, and England is impregnable. The movement developed great momentum. Philanthropic enterprises were set on foot for providing an infant pig for every poor family. What is home without a pig?

A pig literature arose. Exhaustive tables were prepared by big actuaries showing the exact profits of the patriotic pig producer.

One enthusiast installed a pig in his rose garden, estimating that the animal could live upon the aphids that preyed upon the rose leaves and the worms that worked at its roots. Another important consideration was the air. Great Britain had air to spare. Why not conserve its surplus air by growing living, breathing pigs. Everybody who could, plumped into pigs. Englishmen strained their purses to buy growing pigs as we wrench ourselves to buy liberty bonds.

Now when all this had been done the government began to think. The upshot of the thinking is the discovery that pigs are profitable and endurable under present conditions only in case they eat nothing but waste. The order goes forth. Only inedible stuff shall be fed to pigs. About the same time the pig proprietors discovered that the waste from their cottage tables would not nourish a pig satisfactorily. Under war pressure the core had disappeared from the apple and dinner plates were scraped so clean that a pan of dish-water could be used over and over for a week. Where does the poor pig come in? There is squeling in the pen and consternation in the parlor.

Something of the same sort has happened to chickens. Chickens were to live on what the pigs wasted. Everybody was advised to turn to chickens. The ladies stocked up with chickens. Now they find that even a chicken cannot live on current garbage. At this moment the government steps in and prohibits feeding chickens anything else but bona fide garbage. Confusion again.

The American farmer is sometimes designated as a stick-in-the-mud because he takes advice so badly. Perhaps he has been thru experiences like these of the British amateurs. Sure it is, if after three years of war England is running up pig hills and down again and chasing chickens in circles, America may expect some rare experience from the many enthusiastic experiments which it is now going, under war pressure, to undertake.—State Journal.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the Creighton Roller Mills, owned by Frank Jirous, early Friday morning, involving a loss of $35,000, partially covered by insurance, amounting to $9,000, says the Liberal. Six hundred bushels of wheat, three hundred sacks of flour and quite an amount of other grain were burned.

The fire started in the small power house just north of the mill, soon spreading to the mill, which was in flames before the fire was discovered and the alarm given.

The fire laddies were almost immediately on the scene, but did not have enough hose to reach more than half way to the fire from the nearest hydrant, so they sent to Winnetoon for their fire hose. But before the hose could be connected, the wind had carried the fire by means of burning brands to the barn, which was soon burning rapidly. The fire also spread to the hog house and was gaining rapid headway, but the quick work of the bucket brigade saved the building.

Now let us tell the heathen nations to cease to war—for we can point to the "horrible example" produced by Christian warfare.

When we read of the members of the senate calling the food speculators a lot of hard names, we wondered how many of the great deliberative body were drawing dividends on sugar or oil stock which in other days was said to have been used to oil the legislative machine.

There appears to be men who are objecting to government price fixing who have let the grain gamblers fix the price for forty years without a protest. If Uncle Sam cannot do a job more fair to all, and especially the producer, than did the sharks, the farmers then have a right to complain.

The Iowa people have waited more than 60 years to find an attorney general who was as foolish as the legislature which passed a lot of the "blue laws" of that state, and they do not like him very well now that he is theirs. In fact, perhaps that old law-making body was not to be blamed so much, for they evidently copied a bunch of laws which proved harmless so long as they were not enforced—and they seldom have been since a free people threw off the yoke of a king.

A new conductor comes to trains 11 and 12 between Sioux City and Norfolk, W. J. Reinsch, who succeeds H. I. Mr. Miller has been fortunate in buying and selling land on an advancing market and is said to be financially fixed to quit the game.

PYORRHOEA

Pyorrhoea is caused by irritation from decayed food or tartar, working under the loose margin of the gums, and gradually progressing until there are deep pockets which are filled with pus and bacteria of many varieties.

In the early stages this disease may be treated and cured. More teeth are lost from Pyorrhoea than all other causes combined.

Cleanliness and correct diet, are necessary, on the part of the patient, to control the disease. Tartar must be removed often by the Dentist.

Rev. Chas. S. Hughes Dead
Wednesday morning the body of Chas. S. Hughes, formerly newspaper man and preacher, passed thru here on its way to Bloomfield for burial. Mr. Hughes was for a number of years pastor of the Methodist church at Carroll, and later preached at Pender, and also edited the Pender Republican. He was noted as an editor for his prohibition sentiments. About five years ago he sold his Pender paper and located on a claim in Wyoming. Here he was recently injured in some accidental manner, and taken to Hot Springs, South Dakota, where he passed away. The wife was with the body, which was delayed by washouts and other troubles until it reached its destination 36 hours later.

Eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stone, northwest of Wayne. Robert never learned to read music, and is just now commencing to take instruction from A. G. Bohnert; but he plays by ear nearly anything he hears. He has a size violin, as shown in the picture, as his hands are yet too small to finger the full size instrument. He plays the piano some, but the violin is his favorite, and from it he brings all kinds of music—popular airs, sacred music, dance music, etc. He appears to be a natural musician and was singing, and following tunes almost before he could talk, and took part in social programs before he was four years of age.

State Normal Commencement

Commencement week at the Normal closed Friday with the graduating exercises held in the auditorium. After the processional by Mrs. J. T. House, there was a selection by the Normal Ladies Quartet and a vocal duet by Professors Coleman and Lackey. Rev. A. S. Buell gave the invocation. President Conn then introduced the Honorable Henry H. Wilson, who gave the commencement address. The theme of Mr. Wilson was America as a World Power. He pointed out from the inception of the American Republic, it had exercised a profound influence on world affairs. Through the Declaration of Independence, the Monroe Doctrine, the Mexican episode during the Civil war, the Venezuelan controversy in the time of Cleveland—to the present day, America has stood as a challenge to autocracy, and an advocate of world peace, founded on the only possible basis of world peace, the rule of the people. Her influence and touch have been beneficent wherever felt, and will be accounted so even by the German people in generations to come. Mr. Wilson is a firm believer in world organization, a thing which expresses almost entirely America's interest in the great war. He affirmed that the American experiment of forty eight powerful states living together in peace and harmony and adjusting their disputes thru a supreme court, supported by not only the moral but the physical force of a great nation, is a prototype of a world organization which is sure to be realized. He believes that in the short space of a few months more has been achieved by the actual uniting of the world for the preservation of peace than might otherwise have been realized in a century.

A class of seventy-four young men and young women received diplomas, and the degree of Bachelor of Education was granted to Miss Maude Grothe and Miss Edna Waite, they having completed the equivalent of a four-year college course.

President Conn announced the winners of the student prizes. The gold medal, offered each year by J. G. Mines to the student, who in the judgment of the faculty, has made the greatest improvement in scholarship during the year, was awarded to Charles M. Daley of Crofton, a member of the Freshman class. The silver cup, offered by Frank S. Morgan to the member of the Senior class who has rendered the greatest service to the school, was presented to Clarence Willard Sabin of Laurel.

The program closed with the benediction by Rev. S. Xenophon Cross.

The May Festival

The morning of the May Festival Thursday, May the twenty-fourth, dawned clear and cool, making a delightful day for the entertainment. Despite the busy season many came from neighboring towns. Special acknowledgment is due to Professor J. J. Coleman, who plans the festivals each year, and stands behind it financially and otherwise. Perhaps few musicians care so much for their art as to put so much, both of money and energy, into it, as does Professor Coleman. He has for his heart's cheer this year the decided success of the enterprise and the increased appreciation on the part of the community of the high standard set in such work by the music department of the Wayne State Normal school.

THE PAGEANT

The pageant began at eight thirty. It is under the supervision of Miss Josephine M. Mack, and is given by the class in physical training. Perhaps few of those who saw the beautiful pageant ever before realized how much folk song, folk dances, folk drama, can do to instill the love of the simpler manifestations of life in an age and country in which the dull, the commonplace, the sordid, are too often the prevailing colors. Add to that the deeper, underlying meaning of the myth so artistically portrayed and we feel that something divinely beautiful has passed by leaving a fragrance that softens and glorifies.

"Art is long." Many months of drill, utmost care as to detail, were necessary to produce the crowning effects of costume, dance, expression, that made the perfect whole that entranced the throng that gazed and gazed and gazed again, scarcely able to realize that these fairies, these gods and goddesses, these creatures, ethereal and splendid, were the boys and girls we daily meet in class room and on the street.

The story itself is so thrilling and so touching as to move the slowest. A child seeks the heart of the world. He knows that it is to be found where love abides. Where is that sacred spot? Surely it will be found in among those passionate lovers of the beautiful—the Greeks. Yet when beauty has tried its utmost from the fairy dances of the dryads to the slow compelling spells of the nereids, the youth still feels that the world is not beauty, for love is not there. The spirit of zest for life and craving for the beautiful was well shown, both in the dances by the entire class and in those of individuals. Special mention should be made of the two aesthetic dances, Diana by Clara Gergeren and Aurora by Mildred Woodruff.

The costuming in the Saxon myths who represented the lure of power was most striking. All felt the charm of the myths of the North, which are much less generally known than those of Greece. The death of Balder by reason of the arrow of the blind man, despite the efforts of the wise and the strong to slay him, strikingly pictured the failure of power to reveal the heart of the world. The solemn weaving of the web of life and death made a fitting climax of this portion of the story.

The delightful wood-craft and field lore of the German myths was then shown, and the fairies, poor exiles from earth, wove their spells about the youth. But they have not the heart of the world, for it is in the love of a mother for the babe whom the fairies have stolen.

The pageant was held in the new gymnasium and was a fitting dedication of that building. Nothing so beautiful or so spiritual has been presented to the Normal school. To mention individuals were invidious. All performed their parts without flaw. What more can any one ask? It should be noted that all the drill necessary to secure such a fine result from the class in physical training was given in five months. Surely the department is accomplishing much for the life of the community.

ARTISTS' RECITAL

The musical part of the program for the May Festival began at ten-thirty, an artist's recital by Roscoe Kimball and Beatrice Miller as accompanist. Mr. Kimball has an unusually clear and powerful tenor voice, coupled with technical skill and a personality which makes him at once at home with his audience.

"Der Sandtrager" by Bungert and the songs by Burleigh, "Deep River" and "If You Would Love Me," were favorites with the audience. Mr. Kimball responded to several encores. Miss Beatrice Miller is well known in Wayne where she has a large class of violin pupils. Her playing shows much technical skill and a freedom of manner unusual in one so young in the professional world. Miss Miller responded to an encore after each of her two numbers. The audience were especially demonstrative of appreciation after the playing of the Hungarian Rhapsody by Hauser.

The recital at one-thirty by Mme Edith Ayres McCullough, jointly with Mr. Marley Sherris, registered another triumph for the day's festivities. Mr. Sherris is a Canadian artist, coming all the way from Toronto to take part on the program. To those who appreciate all of the finer qualities which combine to produce a truly great artist Mr. Sherris had a wonderful message, nor was it wholly lost to those less trained in music. He sings equally well the Purcell love songs, "Flow, Thon Regal Purple Stream", by Arnold, and the "Prologo (Pagliacci)" by Leoncavallo. Mme. McCullough won the admiration of all by her simple grace and charming manner. She is possessed of a rich soprano voice of unusual power and evenness of tone. Mrs. James Miller gave substantial aid to both these artists by her skillful playing of the accompaniments.

The Beethoven trio was the attraction for the three o'clock program. Rarely indeed have the people of Wayne had the opportunity to listen to a combination of instrumental players, each one an artist, who is willing to merge his talent with others for the sake of the beautiful ensemble of a strictly classical program. It is a compliment to the musical standards of our school and town that they gave us only the best.

The closing attraction of the day was Professor Coleman's presentation of Coleridge Taylor's "Hiawatha." This is an ambitious work and congratulations are due Professor Coleman for the choice of material, also for the successful marshaling of the musical forces of our city, school and visiting artists in one grand ensemble, which formed a most fitting climax to the second annual May Festival of the Wayne State Normal School.

Summer School

All pupils who expect to attend the Normal Training school should be present Monday morning, June fourth, for enrollment and classification. No pupil will be enrolled who cannot remain in school the full eight weeks. The school will be in session from 9:00 to 12:00; no afternoon sessions. Classes in the following grades only will be organized:

- Kindergarten
- Beginning first grade
- First grade continued
- Third grade continued
- Fourth grade continued

Notice that pupils will enroll in the same grades they have been all year, with the exception of the kindergarten and the beginning first grade. No work will be offered in the second grade or in the grades above the sixth. We have room for 2 more pupils in the first grade continued, 1 in the third, 2 in the fourth, 4 in the fifth, 5 in the sixth, and 10 each in the kindergarten and the beginning first grade. Kindly notify me at once, if you wish to enroll children in any of these grades unless their names have already been handed in. H. H. Hahn, Superintendent Training School.

Variety Store News

There will be no question but what practically all goods made out of sheet metal, such as Tinware, Enamelware and Galvanized ware, will be considerably higher in the near future. The new prices quoted just now on raw material for the rest of the year will make this an absolute certainty. It would be the wise course indeed for anybody to cover all needs in kitchen and household articles at the low prices still asked at the Variety Store.

Splint clothes hampers, made of oak splint, with braced covers and metal hinges are very reasonable articles just now. They are convenient, sanitary and very reasonable in price. In fact the price is less than present factory cost, $1.19.

I have a few exceptionally attractive June Bargains in Ladies Waists. They are made in up-to-date styles, of very good materials and run in price from 65c to $1.25.

For light, comfortable, serviceable, stylish and inexpensive Summer Headwear, nothing can beat the light Cloth-Hats for Boys and Girls. They are made in the latest sport shapes in palm beach, white or checked colors, all with linings and sweatbands and cost only 25c and 35c.

I have still some of those special Embroidery Edgings at 7 1/2 cents the yard.

A mighty good Buy are childrens rompers at 25c and 35c, sizes from 2 to 6 years.

The Merchant's Problem

The following paper was read by Frank S. Morgan before the people who gathered at the Normal last week to consider the question of organizing for co-operation in national defense. In answer to the question, "What should the Merchant do for his country in this great task of saving free government of, by and for the people, to the world?" he said:

"He should do business, right where he is, just as he has been doing it, only do it better.

"By doing it better we mean to give more concern to his service to the community in which he is located than to his own personal gains.

"I honestly believe that the retail merchant can do nothing better right now than just that.

"If he has surplus money he might buy some bonds. If he has an unmarried son who can be spared from home without impairing some needful industry, he might urge him to enlist. If he has influence in a political or public way, he can use that to keep excitement and prejudice down and true patriotism up; but the best thing he can do is to run his store in such a way as to give every other business man, including his farmer friend, confidence in business in general.

"What this country needs most of all, and what the Allies in Europe want of us is food and manufactured articles and money. They may need a few fighting men, but comparatively few. They have more men of their own than they can feed and equip. How can we serve them and ourselves better than by speeding up our own business activities, thus giving our country a better chance to produce more food, more manufactured articles and have more money to finance these things.

"Just let business show signs of fright and the first thing frightened is selfish capital. That immediately goes for cover. With the needed capital out of business where will be our chance of speeding up. What we need now is every available dollar at work. The dollar in the stocking or laying idle in the vault is a traitor to its country. And yet much needed capital will go into hiding if the business men of the country fail to keep up confidence and business activity generally.

"The merchant's part is to buy goods as his community need them, buying as his business experience tells him is best for all concerned. To sell them again at a reasonable profit above market value and the cost of doing business. To keep these stocks clean and fresh and ready at all times to meet the need and wants of the people he is there to serve. That gives the workers on the farms and in the offices and factories the things they need for their daily living, that gives the factories an outlet for their products, that keeps all people busy and happy and prosperous.

"That is the way the merchants can do their part.

"However, inasmuch as the farmers crop this year is of the utmost importance this year, the merchants of Sholes, Carroll, Winside and Wayne have pledged themselves to furnish help to the farmer this fall and to spare a part of the help from their stores if need be to harvest the crops.

"The merchants of these towns, in fact, Wayne county have also agreed to do anything possible for them to do under the supervision of the county Council of Defense which I understand will be organized here this afternoon."

COW DECLARES DIVIDEND.

New Champion Jersey Pays Her Owner a Large Profit.

New champion Jerseys are today a frequent occurrence. This is bound to be the case, for Jersey breeders are not only breeding with an eye to the future, but are officially testing. With 3,540 cows on test in 449 herds scattered throughout forty-seven states, no record can remain long unbroken.

Ohio has a new champion Jersey, Lipsa 323067, whose record of 11,500.3 pounds milk and 684.32 pounds butter fat not only sets a new standard for her class, the junior two year old, but teaches a lesson in profitable milk production.

Lipsa, freshening with her first calf, started on test at the age of two years and five months and weighed 673 pounds. On the day she finished her record she tipped the scales at 884 pounds, a gain of 211 pounds during her test period. This significant gain should be borne in mind when studying her feed record.

The value of an official record in so far as it concerns the cow and her progeny has never been questioned. But it has often been said that the milk and butter fat produced by a cow in a record year was made at great expense and was unprofitable. Lipsa's record refutes this absolutely.

An accurate record of her feed and its cost was kept throughout the test. This record shows that Lipsa consumed $134.54 in feedstuffs, which includes grain, hay, ensilage and roots.

Lipsa's production of milk sold by her owner at 10 cents per quart brought $541.60. Deducting the $134.54, her cost of feed, she returned $407.06 over and above her feed cost. Lipsa also presented her owner with a heifer calf, which is not for sale at any price and constitutes an "extra dividend."

The Ohio State university supervised Lipsa's test, having sent its testers to her owner's farm twenty-two times during the year. She was also tested on one occasion by the head of the register of merit department of the A. J. C. C. Her record showed remarkable persistency and regularity, the best month's yield being 61.97 pounds fat and the yield of the twelfth month in lactation 58.05 pounds fat.

FATTENING CATTLE.

Ration of Wheat Straw and Cottonseed Meal Gives Poor Results.

Straw and cottonseed meal or cake does not make a good fattening ration for steers. It may cause the steers to gain fairly well if enough of the cottonseed meal is fed. This will be true only for a short time, however, because if cottonseed meal is fed in excess of seven or eight pounds per day for a very long period it will have a very injurious effect upon the cattle. Then, too, it will be a rather expensive ration.

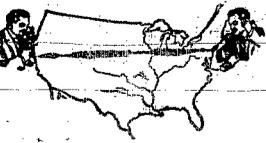

In two experiments where straw and cottonseed meal were fed together the following results were obtained: In lot No. 1 five steers were fed for 133 days during the winter on an average of 13.6 pounds of straw and one pound of cottonseed meal per head per day. The steers gained only twenty-one pounds per head during the total period.

In another lot five steers were fed upon a combination of 14.4 pounds of straw and two pounds of cottonseed meal per head per day for a period of 133 days during the winter. In this lot the steers gained only sixty-two pounds per head during the period of 133 days. These are the only experiments that I know of where cattle were fed in an experiment on a combination of straw and cottonseed meal. W. L. Fowler, Oklahoma Agricultural College.

Spray For Cabbage Worms.

The common cabbage worm, the most destructive insect enemy of cabbage and related crops in the United States, begins its depredations as soon as the young plants are set out in the spring. Steps to combat it should be taken at an equally early date. These are now pointed out in farmers' Bulletin 766 of the United States department of agriculture.

Spraying with a solution of two pounds of powdered arsenate of lead, four pounds of arsenate of lead in the paste form or one pound of paris green to fifty gallons of water should be begun as soon as the plants are set out and should be repeated as often as examination of the plants shows it to be necessary. Sprays should be applied in a fine mist, since contact application tends to gather in drops on the leaves and run off.

Independent and Bell Telephone Companies Form a National System

Independent telephone companies operate exclusively in three-fourths of the towns and cities in the United States having telephone exchanges.

The other one-fourth of the towns in this country having telephone exchanges are served by telephone companies comprising the Bell System.

There is competition between Independent and Bell telephone companies in a small percentage of the towns in the United States.

The long distance lines of the Bell System connect with the exchanges and long distance lines of most of the Independent Companies, thus forming a universal telephone service throughout the nation.

The Irish Question

Editorial writers for the daily papers take their cue from London when it comes to state the contention that separates the people of Ireland on the Home Rule question.

Religion, say those paragraphs, is the crux of the bitterness. God would come near covering the facts.

Ireland possesses some of the finest harbors in the world but Great Britain maintains the greatest navy on the sea to compel all shipments to come and pay tribute to Liverpool.

Religion is only the same factor in this struggle that it is in the good old U. S. A., when some designing politician wants to ride into office.

The wealthy English catholics are more bitterly opposed to a real home rule for Ireland than the hard working non-catholics of the protesting sections of the Emerald Isle.

Graft, reaping where they do not sow, is colored in many shades but it has been so for hundreds of years.

This matter is touched upon for the reason that the Irish question is only secondary to the Russian question in the terrible world struggle now sweeping the earth. —Creighton Libera].

A New Army Ruling

"All men enlisting in the Regular Army will be eligible to take examination for commission in the regular army under rules that apply to civilians candidates at any time after enlistment. Heretofore, soldiers in the regular army to be eligible to compete for appointment as provisional lieutenant must have served honorably not less than one year.

The present ruling of the War Department makes it possible for those men who were not selected to attend the training camp at Fort Snelling to obtain a commission in the Regular Army.

Every candidate will be examined mentally in the following subjects, subject to exemption noted below:

Group 1. U. S. History and Constitution; English Grammar and Composition; Geography; General History; Arithmetic; Algebra; Geometry Plane; Trigonometry Plane.

Group 2. English and American Literature; French; German; Spanish; Analytical Geometry; Minor tactics and field engineering; Surveying.

All candidates who are not graduates of a recognized college or university will be required to take all of group one and any one subject of group two. Graduates of recognized colleges or universities will be exempt of all in group one but will take two subjects in group two not more than one of which may be a foreign language.

Students of recognized colleges or universities will be exempt in those subjects of group one in which they can produce certificates of examination or satisfactory completion. Students who are exempted in more than one half of the subjects in group one will take two subjects of group two not more than one of which may be a foreign language.

DEMAND IS KEEN.

Disease, such as cholera, has been taking a smaller toll the past season than in recent years; more pure bred and high grade hogs are available than ever before; prices of hogs are now past the sixteen cent level; demand for pork for home consumption and for export is keen, all of which means that the farmer who does not raise hogs is losing a chance to increase the supply of pork and thus serve the country and at the same time expand a profitable phase of farming.—United States Department of Agriculture.

ALFALFA FOR SHEEP.

In Comparison With Timothy and Prairie Hay It Is a Superior Roughage.

Alfalfa when carefully fed and pastured is one of the best roughages for sheep, in the opinion of A. M. Paterson, instructor in animal husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Less use has been made of alfalfa for sheep than for any other class of live stock. Experience and experiments have shown its wonderful value as a sheep feed. Its value for this purpose will be still greater in the future than at present.

When alfalfa is pastured great care should be taken to prevent bloat. If the alfalfa has become woody or is mixed with other grasses the danger is somewhat lessened. Care should be taken at all times, however. Before turning the sheep on alfalfa they should be filled up on hay, fodder or other roughage and turned out only when the alfalfa is free from moisture of any kind.

They should be allowed to pasture only a short time the first day, and the length of time should be increased a little from day to day until the sheep are accustomed to the feed. Flockmasters have found that it is never safe to give sheep free access to alfalfa pasture.

Alfalfa hay is adapted to the feeding of sheep because it is a cheap source of protein and also because it supplies enough bulk so that sheep may be fed to advantage on it alone.

The amount of alfalfa fed will depend upon the price and the amount available. When it is cheap and plentiful and other roughages are scarce alfalfa could compose the entire ration for the flock. On the other hand, when hay is scarce and high priced the ration could be made up partly of straw, fodder and like roughages. Compared with other roughages, alfalfa as a sheep feed has the advantage, especially where grown in large amounts.

In experimental feeding trials averaging a hundred days each alfalfa was compared with timothy and prairie hay. The lots fed alfalfa made greater gains and required less feed per hundred pounds than did the lots fed timothy and prairie hay.

WATCH HORSES' TEETH.

Mouths of the Animals Should Be Examined For Diseased Molars.

A horse's teeth should be examined every two years for such irregularities as sharp points and edges, elongated molars, decayed condition and abscesses, in the opinion of Dr. R. R. Dykstra, professor of surgery in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Sharp points and edges are caused by the fact that the upper and lower grinding teeth in the mouth of the horse do not hit squarely. Because of the construction of the mouth, the inside edges of the lower molars do not strike anything when the horse chews, and consequently do not wear. The lateral motion of the jaw when chewing is not sufficient to allow uniform wear on the edges of the molars, so sharp points and edges result.

All decayed teeth or abscessed teeth should be removed as soon as discovered. When a tooth is removed the corresponding tooth on the opposite jaw will grow far enough into the empty space to hit the gum. If the teeth are examined and filed every two years the elongated molars and sharp edges will cause no trouble.

The teeth may be examined by putting the hand into the mouth when it is held open by an instrument intended for that purpose. The animal cannot masticate its food properly when the teeth are subject to any of the irregularities mentioned.

Don't Sell Breeding Stock.

With live stock selling at higher and higher prices and with feed going up many farmers may be tempted to sell their breeding stock. This will be killing "the goose that laid the golden egg." Keep the breeding stock and raise more stock—it will pay. In one great country the farmers sold their sows last year when the pigs were weaned. This year pork is higher in that country, and the farmers have no pigs to sell nor sows to raise more. It would have paid them well to have kept the sows to supply the nation with pork.—Wisconsin Experiment Station.

Hogs Need Pasturage.

It will be necessary to plant a succession of pasture crops for your hogs if you do not have sufficient permanent pasture. Cheap pork cannot be produced in pens. The hogs must have pasture crops that supply plenty of grazing of the right kind. Even where one has but one brood sow and expects to raise two litters a year some grazing must be had to give the proper gains on the pigs. Make your arrangements for pasture crops for your hogs.

NEWS OF NEBRASKA TOLD IN A FEW WORDS

Railroads of Nebraska combined in an application to the state railway commission for a 15 per cent raise in freight rates.

The graduating class of the Seward high school numbers thirty-three, which is the largest in the history of the school.

Attorney W. C. Walton of Blair, aged 73 years, died at the Clarkson hospital, Omaha, from a complication of diseases from which he had been suffering for several years.

The plant of the Norfolk Packing company was destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at from $50,000 to $80,000. Canned beans to the value of $30,000 were destroyed.

Mrs. Morris, the county superintendent of Brown county, will hold eighth grade graduating exercises on the court house lawn at Alnsworth with a picnic dinner and an address by Mr. Walton came to Blair in 1869, the year the town was started. He was a member of the state legislature, served a term as district judge and had been mayor of Blair, county attorney and also several terms as city attorney.

There was a big prairie fire in the southern portion of Brown county last week, but no particular damage was done. The strip burned was about four miles long by about three and a half miles wide.

H. G. Newcomb, a former saloon keeper of Crawford, pleaded guilty to having liquor in his possession and was fined $100 and costs when he appeared before Judge Gooch. He paid the fine.

In a single evening Nebraska City raised $1,314 for aiding the work the Young Men's Christian association will do in the training camps and in the actual American military camps in Europe.

Following a meeting at the Auditorium here this sum was raised within a very few minutes. Nine contributions of $100 each were received. A total of $200 has been raised since the meeting.

Beatrice Sunday schools are making preparations for a union picnic to be held in this city some time in June. Last year over 2,100 participated in a parade and over 2,000 were in attendance at the picnic held at the Chautauqua park.

The J. M. Cox farm, four miles north of Beatrice has been purchased by Chris Spilker, a well known farmer of Holt township. The consideration was $49,800, or $155 per acre. The farm has been occupied by James and Will Evans for the past seventeen years.

Governor Neville appointed the following physicians to the medical staff of the Nebraska guard with the rank of first lieutenants: C. O. Reed of Ewing, R. D. Bryson of Callaway and Earl Erskine of Wayne.

H. A. Pendergraft, who was recently brought back to Beatrice from Kearney on the charge of robbing Brew's saloon in 1915 of $96, broke jail by prying off the lock on the door leading to the jail corridor from the east side of the building.

An attempt was made at Wabash to blow open the vault of the bank. Only the outside door of the vault was affected. This is the fourth time an attempt has been made to enter the vault since the bank was established.

The elevator belonging to the Omaha Elevator company at Wood River, which was badly damaged by fire last winter, has been bought by a group of local men and work is progressing rapidly in making the necessary repairs.

The depot was broken into at Gresham and twenty gallons of port wine was taken from a keg, which has been held since May 1. The wine was taken from the keg through the floor. Who committed the theft is a mystery.

BUYING FEED INGREDIENTS

Difficult to Buy Proper Feed Stuffs at Random.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

There are not a dozen feed stores in the country that carry in stock all the ingredients of a first-class mixed feed at all times and at reasonable prices, and usually they do not carry feeds of the same high quality used by the mixers who work scientifically through a laboratory. This is human nature. Competition compels a dealer to sell the cheapest quality. The best quality of feed is seldom carried, because the average buyer will not pay the highest price. A good many experiment stations in a general way will advocate that a farmer mix all his own feed, but they are human like the rest of us and they will use recognized brands in their own feeding operations rather than go to the trouble and take the time to follow their own advice.

There are a good many herds at experiment stations which are kept as sort of a clinic for professors to practice theories upon. The poor brutes are used a good deal as guinea pigs in hospital practice. On the other hand, at the experiment stations are to be found many of the finest animals ever bred.

The mixed feeds of the first grade can be fed alone or in connection with home-grown corn, oats or barley. To do this widens your ration, and it is correct to do so if it will reduce your cost of feeding. Mixed feeds, therefore, are largely a matter of arithmetic.

You can usually get the result for less money than by feeding more expensive grains separately.

TERMS USED IN FEEDING

Scientific Nomenclature Reduced to Every-Day Meanings.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

Stockfeed consists briefly of three chief parts or compounds, omitting the water and minerals. They are: Protein (containing nitrogen), a muscle-former.

Fat (not containing nitrogen), a fuel or fattening substance.

Carbohydrates (meaning made of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen).

These three substances are called organic matter, because they will burn.

Mineral matter is called inorganic. An animal can live on protein alone, but would not under normal conditions, because protein (or albumen) is only found mixed with fat in the case of meat and with fat and carbohydrates in the case of plants and cereals. Familiar examples of protein are white of egg, lean meat and the gluten which can be chewed out of wheat. Fat or oil we all know.

Carbohydrates include—sugar, starch, cellulose, fibre, gums, etc.

To keep alive and not lose weight an animal must have small amounts of protein and larger amounts of fat or carbohydrates. They serve as building material to replace worn-out tissue and flesh and also to furnish power (energy) to move, work, and do all the inside work of the body.

The ash or mineral matter furnishes bone material and is also necessary but abundant in nature. A growing animal needs plenty of protein and ash (bone food) and of carbohydrates and fat. A grown-up animal needs less of either the first two, but plenty of the last two. A pregnant animal needs plenty of food for its unborn young.

WHAT'S IN A MIXED FEED?

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

A high-grade mixed feed suitable for any kind or breed of dairy cow should have high protein content, with an exact digestible analysis. It can be mixed with corn, oats, barley, hay or other forage, which should be grown upon the farm, provided the mixture would save the farmer any money. As a rule, the ingredients of the highest grades are corn, distillers' grains, gluten feed, cottonseed meal, hominy meal, malt sprouts, brewers' grains, linseed meal, pure wheat bran and salt. The best grades contain no cheap fillers of any kind and so the food is highly concentrated and roughage can be supplied at home.

John Meister returned the first of the week from a prospecting trip to Wyoming. He is much impressed with the possibilities of that state, especially in the oil producing districts. He says that Casper is the great oil center for speculation, and that fortunes are made or lost there in short order. Mr. Meister says it is also a sort of a gamble to bore for oil, for it necessitates the initial expenditure of $10,000 at least for an outfit, and much more when a hole is started before you know whether it is a dry, worthless hole or an oil well. John is something of a sport but he thot the stakes pretty stiff and the "ante" rather high.
