ESTABLISHED 1884

WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, JULY 5, 1917

$1.50 PER YEAR

ANOTHER GLORIOUS FOURTH
Has Come and Gone. Completing a Most Eventful Year in the History of the Republic.

Wayne people did not celebrate the national birthday at home with much noise and loud acclaim, and yet we believe that never within the history of the place has there been a fourth of July when the pride of our country, its rulers and its achievements has been greater or the spirit of true patriotism more devout. Standing upon the threshold of a new era in our history, the opening of a war for world-wide democracy, looking longingly across the wide waters at the misery, wretchedness and wickedness of other forms of government and reaching out and proffering substantial aid freely to the oppressed of other lands, no prouder hour has come to this government than the present.

Wayne and Wayne county is showing and will show the patriotism of her people by furnishing her full quota of men for service. One company of the National guards now call this home. Other young men from the county are in training camps—the navy has some—the artillery, hospital, mechanical, and engineering departments have Wayne men in service. And then the selective draft shall call others, they will go proudly.

The Liberty bonds were purchased, the Red Cross fund has been swelled, and this week and next the organization but recently formed will make a canvass of the county, $13,000 has been asked, and when the result of the coming canvass is known beyond a doubt the fund will be over-subscribed.

Our men, women and children are bending every energy to produce and conserve the food supply that will perform such an important part in determining the final results. The man at the front and the people producing for their maintenance are each doing a part and doing it well.

Nearby Celebrations

Many from Wayne were at Laurel, and a very interesting time is reported. We failed to note on any of their advertising matter who was their orator, but doubtless they had one and a good one.

Few from Wayne attended the splendid celebration at Wausa, where Judge Kennedy was the orator of the day, and spoke to an attentive audience estimated at 5,000 people. It was a most happy, harmonious day.

Stanton with a combined celebration and race meet drew heavily from Wayne, for a number of our people have relatives and friends there. We received no report of the races, but know from the record of other years and the list of entries that they must have been good.

Many were at Sioux City and Crystal Lake, a few went to Omaha, some to Norfolk and others to Westpoint.

Home Picnic Dinner Parties
There were many happy home picnic dinner parties. At the city park a dozen family groups, perhaps, lunched and made merry beneath the shade of the trees.

The young ladies' belle circle had a picnic dinner on the lawn at the E. B. Young home, and provided a pleasant place for some of the college students who could not visit home on this day to feel that they were welcome here. There were a large number of members present.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hiscox entertained a happy party on their lawn at both dinner and supper, and with fire works during the evening. The afternoon was spent in games and social conversation. The refreshments were most excellent.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fanske a party of a dozen or more of young married people enjoyed a picnic dinner at six o'clock, when a bounteous repast was spread on the lawn.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION
The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Cedar, Nebraska, to be held at Wayne at 10:45 a.m. on July 28th, 1917, to fill the position of rural carrier at Coleridge, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in the above-mentioned county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet other requirements set forth.

DEATH OF LESLIE M. CROCKETT

Born in Wayne January 12th, 1888, the day of the big blizzard, Leslie Maine Crockett, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Crockett, passed away at the home of his parents in this city, Tuesday evening, July 3rd, 1917, aged 29 years, 5 months and 21 days. Leslie had been in ill health for a number of years, and his was a case which baffled the skill of all physicians, but the immediate cause of his death was an internal hemorrhage. At times he was able to be about and perform light work, then for a period he would suffer for a number of months, and then rally again and come back to work. His entire life was spent at Wayne except a few periods of from three to ten months duration when he was away either at work or at school. He learned the printer's trade, and worked at it when able. Later he went to Lincoln and completed a commercial course, and was employed there for some time, then came home sick. He never finished the high school course on account of ill health, but he made good use of such knowledge as he could acquire.

His friends marveled at his power to rally from serious sickness, and it was often done purely by his determination to live and work. He seldom if ever complained, and bore his suffering with the fortitude of the hero which he was. His friends were many and he was always loyal to them.

Ill, he came home from Hartington two weeks before his death. When the end came he went down to the dark river without fear. He was a member of the Methodist church of this city, and from that place his funeral service is being held this afternoon, Rev. Buell, the pastor officiating.

He leaves father and mother, a brother, Ralph, and four sisters, Besse, Hattie, Martha, and Alice to mourn his death.

Many friends will miss him and join in the sorrow of the family that he could not be restored to health and remain with us.

J. R. ARMSTRONG ELECTED

At a meeting of the school board Monday evening J. R. Armstrong of Oakland was elected to fill the place of superintendent of schools, made vacant by the resignation of Superintendent Bowen. He is a progressive school man, and has been uniformly successful since receiving his degree from the University of this state in 1909. Other applicants for the place were: E. M. Short, Madison; C. F. White, Winslow; C. W. Green, Atkinson; and C. S. Gilbert, Curtis; so the board had plenty of good material from which to make a choice.

PIONEER BUILDING BURNS. GOEMAN LIVERY IN ASHES

At 1:30 this morning a fire alarm was turned in, the old livery barn at the corner of Pearl and 1st streets being in flames. Miss Clara Liedtke, who with her mother and brother live next to the barn, being first to discover the blaze and send in a telephone alarm. Before even those nearby could reach the scene the building and contents were doomed. Firemen responded promptly and did excellent work in checking the fire and confining it to the barn and the adjoining residence, which was partially destroyed.

The contents of the barn were the property of Chas. Medden, who was running a livery business there, and were a total loss with no insurance. All the horses except one stable horse were in the barn lot at the rear of the barn, and were turned loose from there and all were found this morning. The other animal burned in his box stall. Hay, grain, harness and vehicles were all a total loss, and the value is given at $1,000. The building was the property of Stemon Goeman, and while a total loss the insurance will doubtless cover the value of the same. This was among the pioneer buildings of Wayne, being built 36 years ago. It has been a menace to property, and since it was no longer an object of pride, but rather one of danger, those who mourn for the building will be few.

Next stood the residence occupied by Mrs. Liedtke and family, the property of Gus Bohneit. It fared badly and was saved only by good work gone, the siding on the south, and with the water. Part of the roof and the siding on the south is gone, and the plaster is watersoaked until it may all need replastering. Work of repair began at once, and the occupants will probably remain there while the rebuilding goes on. The loss can scarcely be estimated, but it will probably not exceed $1,000 and the insurance is reported to be a little in excess of that amount.

A FAMILY REUNION

One of the really enjoyable celebrations of yesterday was planned and held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Benshoof at their home just west of Winslow, and consisted of a family gathering of all of the tribe of Benshoof in this part of the state. In addition to host and hostess there was Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Benshoof, the parents; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lindsay; Mr. and Mrs. Art. Auker; Fred Benshoof and family of this place; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perrin and

Mrs. Perrin's sister who is visiting here. The Perrins are not really a part of the family proper, being but distantly related, but to Father and Mother Benshoof and all of the children they are nearer than relatives in friendship and esteem, for they were children together. Perry Benshoof of Van Tassel, Wyoming, who were here recently could not be present on this happy occasion.

BOY SCOUTS GO TO CAMP

Under the leadership of Scoutmaster, Paul Mines, a dozen or fifteen of the Wayne Boy Scouts left today for a week's outing at Crystal Lake. Their camp is to be known as Camp Lehmer. Beyond a doubt it will be a happy week for the lads—a week in the open, living close to nature, with swimming, fishing, boating and other sports.

Among those who are at camp are: Merritt McConnell, Herald Corzine, Henry Ley, Leland Holtz, Don Miller, Marion Surber, John Hufford, Ellis Miner, Herald Fortner, and Master John Ahern, who aspires to become a scout when old enough to be eligible. Part of the boys went Wednesday to celebrate, and remained at the lake.

EDITORS TO VISIT WAYNE

JULY 27 AND 28, 1917.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Northeastern Nebraska Editorial association at Norfolk, Friday and Saturday, July 27th and 28th were the dates named for the mid-summer meeting of the association. It is yet too early to tell what the people of Wayne will do to the quill-pushers, but judging the future by the past, it will be plenty. We have promise of talks from G. L. Caswell, the paid secretary of the Iowa state association, Frank L. Ringer of Lincoln and L. J. Quimby of Omaha besides a number of strong papers from different editors over the district. All should plan to come.

CHILD WELLFARE WEEK WEDNESDAY, JULY 11th

Next week will be national baby week, and members of the Pleasant Valley and Helping Hand clubs have planned a "better baby" day for Wednesday July 11th. Baby week was inaugurated at Chicago in 1914, and is now a nation-wide movement. Thousands of American cities and towns have followed the custom of celebrating baby week. The object of this movement is to inspire a popular response and result in permanent work for the reduction of infant mortality and for improvement in conditions affecting the welfare of babies and young children.

The two societies mentioned and all others interested will meet at the M. E. church in Wayne at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, and carry out the following program:

9:00—"History of the Child Welfare Movement," Dr. T. T. Jones, 9:15—"Prenatal and Postnatal Care of the Mother," Dr. J. G. Hess 9:30—"Adenoids and Tonsils," Dr. S. A. Lutgen, 9:45—"The Care Mothers Should Give the Wounds of Their Children," Dr. C. T. Ingham, 10:00—"Care of the Eyes," Dr. R. N. Donahey, 10:15—"Importance of Infectious Diseases of Children," Dr. E. S. Blair, 10:30—"Care of the Teeth," Dr. T. B. Heckert,

1:30—"A Rational Diet for the Child from Infancy Through the School Lunch Period," Miss Agnes Finnegan, 2:30—"Washing and Dressing of the Baby," Mrs. Lucas.

Closing features of the program will be two brief plays appropriate to the occasion. "Health and His Enemies" will be given by the children of one club, and "Miss Fresh Air, Visiting Nurse," will be presented by the children of the other club. The children will then sing "Mammy's Little Coal Black Rose."

At the noon hour a picnic dinner will be served in the church to all visitors from the country.

During the afternoon, Dr. Lutgen will examine and score a limited number of babies.

During the day, Drs. Adams, McMasters, and White will examine the teeth of the children free of charge.

The meeting is open to the general public, but mothers especially are invited to attend.

WILLIS NOAKES FROM SOUTH

Willis Noakes, who has been spending the winter in Louisiana, came home yesterday to spend the fourth with friends here. He has been in charge as superintendent of a big dairy farm near New Orleans, and his real mission north is to pick up a car load of Holstein cows of the pure breed and high class individuals. He thinks he will have to go to Wisconsin to secure them. There are a few in this county, but we know of no one who could fill his order without depleting their stock. He says that their first corn crop is lost to drouth there this year, as they had no rain since May 8th, and since that time their corn has been in tassel, and would have earred with the proper moisture. However, they may cut this crop for feed and still grow another corn crop. Rice and cane grow there, and these crops have fine prospect at present, he says. In speaking of cane growing, he tells us that they plant the stalks each year instead of the seed. The cane stalks are laid in a furrow and covered and the new crop grows from the joints. Cane raised from seed is not used for sugar the first year, but the second season it comes from the joints in the stocks. Willis talks as tho he liked the sunny south, and says that to one from the north the colored people are a constant source of wonder and amusement. They were a wonderfully worried lot on registration day, and old and young appeared at the place of registration. Many of them said they knew not how old they were. Boys yet in their teens, apparently, and grey-haired men came to make sure that they were registered if eligible. The population as shown by the registration is fully eight colored to one white.

SIEVERS—Sunday, July 1, 1917, to Carl Sievers and wife, a daughter.

WHAT A MAN CAN DO IN FREE AMERICA

Last week George Gunther purchased quarter section of well improved farm land southeast of Winslow and southwest of Wayne, known as the Lasse farm, from Phillip & Harrington, paying for the same $20,800 in cash, possession being given last March, that is, Mr. Gunther gets the 1917 rent for the place. His son is farming the place this year, and the father is on a farm he has rented south of Wayne about four miles.

Fourteen years ago, his friends tell us, Mr. Gunther and family came to Wayne county from Russia, and landed here practically with nothing except the wife and several children.

The two societies mentioned and all others interested will meet at the M. E. church in Wayne at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, and carry out the following program:

9:00—"History of the Child Welfare Movement," Dr. T. T. Jones, 9:15—"Prenatal and Postnatal Care of the Mother," Dr. J. G. Hess 9:30—"Adenoids and Tonsils," Dr. S. A. S. Blair, 10:30—"Care of the Teeth," Dr. T. B. Heckert,

1:30—"A Rational Diet for the Child from Infancy Through the School Lunch Period," Miss Agnes Finnegan, 2:30—"Washing and Dressing of the Baby," Mrs. Lucas.

THE NEW FLAG LAW

Notice concerning the new flag law was recently sent out to the directors of each school district in the country. The law was passed by the last legislature, and requires every public school in the state to have a flag-pole on its grounds, at least 20 feet high and painted white, upon which the ceremony of raising and lowering the flag shall be held on patriotic holidays and special occasions.

All rural schools must have a flag at least 6 feet in length and all city schools must have a flag at least 8 feet in length, made with non-fading colors. In addition to this flag every school must have a flag of convenient size continually displayed on the interior wall of each and every room in the school house. It is made the duty of the school officers to see that this law is enforced.

Non-compliance with the act is declared a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $10, nor more than $100.

Flags need not be displayed on school grounds during summer vacation.

THE MORNING SHOWER

Today was ushered in by a drouth breaker. Beginning about 6 o'clock rain began to fall very gently, but came thick and fast, and before 8 o'clock the gauge showed a fall of 1.8 inches.

Mrs. Homer C. Stuntz of Omaha gave two very interesting lectures at the Methodist church Sunday.

At the morning service she spoke on "Woman's Foreign Missionary Work" and in the evening on "Mass Movement in India". Large audiences were out to both services.

Good roads are being made better in some localities. The new Federal road money is now being sought by different counties, and the various communities. One thing an automobile road tries to shun is sand.

In dry weather it is frequently worse to pull thru than mud in moderate quantity.

Now that the hatching season is over it is the proper thing to do to sell the roosters, as fertile eggs do not keep as well as those not fertile; and besides that the roosters bring a very good price this year. Why not stop boarding them and let some boarding house have them? That may be tough for the roosters and the boarders.

At Neligh Monday and Tuesday nights the people were entertained by the Katzenjammer Kids, as put on by home talent conducted by some one who makes it their business to go about getting some popular local organization to back their enterprise and take the small end of the receipts. They were here trying to get in a graft with any organization that would bite. But Wayne people have bitten before, and are learning.

When the Red Cross asked for $100,000,000, it looked big, but it was raised before a lot of people knew it was started, and now added millions are being thrown into the contribution box by those who over-slept when the call was made. In fact, it was such a whirlwind campaign that it was past before all were officially notified that it was coming. That was the case at Wayne. The Red Cross organization here was formed when we were in the Denver district, and later we were transferred to a new district, organized with head quarters at Mason City, Iowa.

A reporter for the Democrat, in talking of the crop prospect with a farmer near Bloomfield, was surprised to hear that the corn crop around Wayne is in much better condition than in Knox county. "Of course", the farmer said, "we are looking for our annual bumper, but none of the corn will reach two-thirds of the knee high by the fourth of July kind." Here's hoping!

Albert Tidrick from Corning, California, was a caller Monday. He came from his California home last week to visit with his brother at Winside, his daughter, Mrs. True Prescott south of Wayne, and with other relatives and many friends. For twenty-three years Mr. Tidrick farmed about seven miles south of Wayne on a place now occupied by Mr. Peterson. He likes his California home very well. They farm mostly in small tracts there, and fruits are among their regular crops. We hope that he drops in for another visit before returning to his home in the west.

Miss Jessie Grace went to Omaha Tuesday for a short visit.

Mrs. Anna Cheurich of Hoskins, was a Wayne business visitor Monday.

Miss Achsa Parry of near Monroe, visited a few days in Wayne this week.

The demand for this chick food has increased every year, compelling me to enlarge my capacity for chick food and I am in position now to put out a product much superior to the average chick food.

Chickens, like everything else, have advanced in value, so it pays to save your little chicks by feeding them a suitable food. Our chick foods have all the dust, dirt and hulls taken out from the grain, and are carefully milled and mixed in just the proper quantities to make a Perfect Food. A combination of grains, etc., approved by practically all agricultural colleges. If you have never used my Chick Food, try a sack and notice how your chicks will grow and thrive. Don't take chances feeding inferior or unsuitable food.

CRESS WRITES FROM FRANCE

The following is part of a letter received by George Motson some days ago:

Dear Friend George:

Well no doubt you were surprised in my actions of the last few weeks, but I felt it was the only thing to do and I believe that (altho I may be called foolish by some) you will agree with me.

France is expecting great things of the U. S. not only in supplies but also in men and I hope America realizes her responsibility—I have talked with a great number of French and English soldiers and believe me the allies are going to win and will never quit till they do—I can't tell you what I've seen in the line of ammunitions and supplies but the allies want to see American men on the front now that we are into this war. I see by today's paper that the Senate refused to send Roosevelt with troops here—the biggest mistake they could have made—Roosevelt is the idol of France.

The country about Paris and further south is very beautiful—the American farmer can certainly learn things if he could go over one of these small farms. Write and tell me about Prohibition in Nebraska. How is it effecting Winona? What is the result on business?

The weather has been damp and wet since I arrived but everything has been in full bloom for some time—I was talking to an English Tommy last night and he told me about the battle of the Somme. He says, "Oh, my boy it was a bloody fight but we won and would have done more if the mud hadn't stopped us. I fought on the Somme for five months and most of the time I stood in the bloody muck up to my knees."

No doubt it will be some time before I see you but expect one of those chicken dinners such as we used to have.

My section leaves here in about three weeks for active service. Will try to keep in touch with you.

Sincerely,
G. E. Cress

A FARMER'S VIEWPOINT

To the Editor:—Much has been said about us farmers raising all of the crops we can, but very little about how to save it after it has been raised. Our small grain is looking fine, but how are we to save it all?

I would advise stacking as soon as dry. Don't wait for the thresher unless you can get one soon. More grain is saved by stacking as all the scatterings can then be picked up.

The price of threshing will have to be raised some to meet the advancing prices of coal and labor, but that can all be saved to the farmer if the thresher and the farmer will work together. Don't get in a hurry to get thru; take your time and do a good job of stacking, and I believe enough extra may be saved to make up the difference in cost. Now, brother thresher, lets get into the fields this fall and not try to put thru all we can, but to see how well we can do our work, and when we pull in we will know we have done our best.

The premium list issued by the state fair management and the Carl Hagenbeck circus is out, announcing the combined show at Lincoln, September 3 to 7 inclusive. Special seats now on sale. Why is it necessary to hire a circus to bring a farming people to a great agricultural show?

Farmers interested in silos, and all should be these times, may obtain a fund of valuable information free by asking the State Agricultural college for bulletins 39 and 40. Perhaps no one building on a farm is as valuable as a silo from the point of food conservation, and that is what we are all talking just now.

One of our farmer friends tells us that he wants editorials in the paper, and would like one telling the cause of the war, and why it started. We would like something of that kind ourselves—something that we believe dependable, and honest. It is the biggest killing of which history has any record, and no two can agree as to the cause. We would say "greed for power, and revenge and jealousy" were the prime causes. The people are made to pay a terrible price at the command of a set of rulers who are the greatest knaves and most deliberate murderers in the world. In it all we cannot see that a single principle of right, justice or humanity was involved at the start.

Bathing, fishing, boating and social conversation was engaged in during the afternoon, and it was a weary but happy party which bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Ley thanking them for their hospitality, and returned to their homes.

One of the surprises of the afternoon was the skill shown by Mr. Berry as a fisherman, and he received credit for landing a seven-pound fish, but how he got it onto his hook is a mystery—but he claims to be the champion.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

Rev. Jorden, the new pastor of the Baptist church will preach at the 8 o'clock meeting next Sunday evening. The topic at the mid-week meeting next Wednesday evening will be "The Faithful King". Come to this meeting.

Mrs. Horace Theobald and Professor Davies will have prepared an excellent program of music for the Sunday evening meeting.

The sermon subject at the morning service next Sunday will be: "The Old and the New". There will be special music under the direction of Mrs. W. E. Johnson, chorister.

The B. Y. P. U. and the Y. P. S. C. E. will hold a joint meeting next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Come and spend a pleasant hour with the young people and stay for the evening service.

Remember the Sunday school at 11:30. The school is keeping up excellently during the warm weather. There are classes for all, and all are cordially welcome. We shall expect you next Sunday.

We especially invite the students of the State Normal school and summer visitors in the homes of our people to attend our services while in Wayne or vicinity. You will receive a hearty welcome. Come next Sunday!

Baptist Church

(Rev. Fletcher J. Jorden, Pastor)
During the months of July and August the Baptist church will participate in the union services with the other churches of Wayne.

In the morning at 10:30 the pastor will speak on "Faith".

After the morning service the Sunday school meets for one hour. Plan to be present and join a class. All are cordially invited.

The Young peoples meeting at 7 o'clock. The subject will be: "Tried and Proved." Heb. 6:9-20 (Promise Meeting). Miss Valle Armacost is the leader.

At 8:30 there will be a Union Service at the Presbyterian church. Come and let us worship together. This invitation is general and includes all.

Methodist Church

(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)
The Sunday school is planning a special Red Cross program and contribution for next Sunday at ten o'clock.

At the morning preaching service at eleven o'clock the Child Welfare work will be presented by the pastor.

In the evening the message at the combined evening program will be, "Where shall I spend my life?" This will be a discussion of the various fields that offer special inducements to young men and young women. The combined Epworth League and preaching service meets at seven thirty.

You are invited to "Make This Homely Church Your Church Home."

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church

(Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)
All the services will be resumed next Sunday at the regular hours.

Sunday School at 10 a. m.

Worship with sermon 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

24 Years in Wayne

HAVING A GREAT ANCESTOR.

It Would Be All Right If So Many Outsiders Didn't Butt In.

In the American Magazine Sid says:

"A man tackled me for a job the other day. After enumerating his various accomplishments he wound up with a final claim that was intended to impress me with his importance once and for all. He said that he was a direct descendant of Bishop Ump-te-ump, the most learned man of his time in England. I asked what time that was, and he said that it was about 400 years ago. I told him that, allowing twenty-five years for each generation, he must be the sixteenth descendant. 'No; not the sixteenth,' he said, 'but the fifteenth.' 'All right,' I said, 'call it the fifteenth. Now, let's take a sheet of paper and see what your credentials really are. Let's see. You had one father and one mother, two grandfathers and two grandmothers, four great-grandfathers and four great-grandmothers, eight great-great-grandfathers and eight great-great-grandmothers, and so on.'

"Carrying the multiplication back to the fifteenth preceding generation, I showed that at the time the bishop lived my friend, the applicant, had exactly 32,768 ancestors. In other words, the bishop was only one of the 32,768 human beings who were his forbears at that time.

"You have mentioned the bishop. But what about the other 32,767? I asked. It seems to me that I ought to hear something about them if I am to judge you by the good blood which you say is in you. The bishop was all right. You are lucky to have as much of him in you as you have. But the bishop's stock has been considerably watered. I don't believe he would recognize you. What about the rest?"

"That is the trouble with this hereditary game—if you carry it back very far. Old Mother Nature is a wonderful lever. She won't let geniuses or boneheads breed in a straight line. To the weak she frequently gives a child of incredible talent—to keep the neighbors from getting abusive. To the brilliant and favored of the earth she often presents a choice piece of ivory in the shape of a dull son. Apparently the idea is to carry the race forward together and not to play favorites.

"Another feature of the scheme is that it keeps us all interested. Surprises abound on all sides. There is no telling where the next giant is coming from."

Flag Colors.

The colors of the United States flag are the most common of all used by the nations of the world, and of the three red is the most often encountered. It is found in nineteen out of twenty-five national flags, and in practically all of the European flags. The color as interpreted by heraldry means "military fortitude," and the selection as a factor in the flags of Europe would seem well chosen. Nor is it out of place in our flag, the trait being scattered all through the country, though so charmingly mixed with white, which means "peace and sincerity," that the harmony of the colors of the flag has never been questioned. Blue stands for "loyalty and truth," completing leading traits of the character of the United States as a nation.—Boston Transcript.

will canvass in Hunter; D. H. Cunningham said that Frank Benner, Frank Phillips, H. H. Barge and R. G. Rohrke would canvass Hoskins precinct; Harry Tidrick and S. H. Rew, Hancock; representatives for the canvass of Carroll, south half from Carroll assumed responsibility of Sherman, north half of Garfield and north half of Chapin, also Deer Creek; Clint Fry said that Geo. W. Farran would canvass south half of Chapin.

Word has just been received by the local chautauqua management that he has just completed arrangements to put on an extra number, a war lecture by a man who spent six months in the trenches. He was severely wounded at the second battle of Ypres, his right arm being shattered and amputation being made necessary. It was seven months before he could leave the hospital.
Since that time he has helped with the various branches of the war service, with the recruiting under Lord Darby's scheme and later came to America where he has been busy working on the munition contracts placed by the British government.

Mr. Nichols is an author, having written several successful plays, and his description of life in the trenches under the title of "The Human Side of Trench Life," is extremely illustrating and brings to us the atmosphere of the trenches. He tells of life as it really is and not as it is commonly thought to be. He has no use for "heroes," nor does he believe in dwelling on the horrors and dangers of war. These things seem only to have ignored the "Tommy's" inimitable humor in the small things of which one never hears except from such a man as this who has had the actual experience thru many wearisome months. By especial permission he brings with him copies of the Bairnsfater cartoons without one of which soldiers would not consider any dug-out complete as he is the hero of every soldier, having taught them to laugh not at his humor but at their own. He is also using the cartoons of Raemker, the famous Holland cartoonist whose cartoons nearly endangered that country's neutralities. He will also have photographs of official German proclamations in Belgium which will tell better than anything else just what the German government has been doing and promising to do in conquered territory. He will also show official British war pictures, behind every one of which there is a good story.

Mr. Nichols has lectured in New York and over the east with pronounced success. No one can afford to miss this wonderful opportunity to get absolutely first hand reliable information from the front. He will appear here on the second day of the Chautauqua.

NEWS OF NEBRASKA TOLD IN A FEW WORDS

In the damage suit brought by C. F. Whitcomb against Adam Bredde, publisher of the Hastings Tribune, the jury found for the defendant.

The Red Cloud city council let the contract for paving the business district to Abel Construction company of Lincoln on a bid of $2.58 per square yard, material to be brick.

State Game Warden Koster and Deputy Holmes arrested William Trent, postmaster at Bellevue, for alleged illegal fishing and confiscated a net. Five other men were prosecuted at Bellevue and Hebron.

The total of Omaha's subscription to the Red Cross fund is a little in excess of $251,000. Of this amount the boy scouts raised $10,000 by means of personal solicitation. The maximum quota for Omaha was $250,000.

Buffalo county closed its Red Cross campaign with an over-subscription of $4,000. The apportionment to the county was $25,000 and $29,000 was raised. Kearney's apportionment was $10,000 and the city raised $12,153.

The organization of home guards is now looming to the front. The Nebraska State Council of Defense is not officially organizing home guards, but it is sanctioning their organization anywhere there is a sentiment for them.

Members of the Masonic lodge of Lexington tendered a reception to the newly elected grand master, F. L. Temple. About 400 Masons were present. Many out-of-town speakers were on the toast list, including most other grand lodge officers.

Thursday, July 19, is made vaccination day and parties owning hogs are requested to make it a day of vaccination. There are 300 veterinarians in the state and it is expected that each one will donate 50 per cent of his fees on that day.

The general contract for the construction of York's new hotel was let to Peter Kiewits Sons, Omaha, for $168,000. This does not include features which will cost, according to bids now on file, $40,000 more. Work is to commence at once.

The Nebraska Live Stock Sanitary board has issued a patriotic poster, in which attention is called to the duty of every swine breeder and owner to take extra precautions to prevent and eradicate hog cholera by vaccinating all non-immune swine in the state.

Governor Neville has asked for requisition papers from the governor of Illinois to bring back to Nebraska Robert Alter, wanted in Omaha on a charge of embezzeling $628 from the Franz Premier Distributing Company of that city. Alter is being held by the chief of police of Chicago.

T. G. Kearney has been the clearing house for a big gang of automobile thieves for a long time past is the belief of eight western Nebraska sheriffs who gathered in this city and effected the arrest of two men here and the recovery of considerable stolen property.

Sheriff Charles Peterson of Nance county located the Ford car which was stolen last week from D. D. Miller of Fullerton at Broken Bow. The thief has not been apprehended yet, but the car was restored to the owner. The fenders, whitewheats and tires had been changed.

Those men who enlisted in the Sixth Regiment from the belief that this Regiment will never be called out of the state and thus they might escape service when caught by draft, are to be fooled. It was announced that the Sixth will be called into federal service right after the Fifth.

New potatoes are now quite a common article of diet. Peas go nicely with them, and both are now in the garden.

Many Omaha boys are expecting to attend military schools this year. Because of present conditions, the enrollments in the various military schools are expected to be increased considerably during the coming school year.

Mrs. Bessie Petlom of Omaha, 22 years old, was shot and killed by her husband, John Petlom, an employee of the Swift Packing Company car repair works. Last night Petlom was arrested and is said to have confessed. He said his wife shot at him first. Neighbors say the two quarreled over money matters.

In narrating the arraignment of C. F. Whitcomb on the charge of shooting Sheriff Cole, a Tribune reporter used the middle letter "F" instead of "C." C. F. Whitcomb thereupon brought suit, asking $20,000 damages for malicious libel. The defense maintained that the use of the wrong letter had been accidental.

Rabies may have caused the death of ten cattle on the August Peterson farm near Craig. State Veterinarian J. S. Anderson says, "He has sent the heads of two animals to Kansas City to be examined. Other cattle in the same herd are sick with symptoms of hydrophobia.

Foreign languages will no longer be required of men students who wish to enter the college of agriculture, it was decided at a recent meeting of the board of regents, who approved the action of the faculty to this effect. This does not reduce the standard of entrance requirements, but it permits the offering of a larger variety of subjects to fulfill the entrance requirements, making them such that graduates of well-equipped rural high schools may enter the college of agriculture with full entrance credit.

Joseph Nelson, Christ Benson and John A. Jensen of Minden, were fined $100 and costs on charge of giving away liquor, in county court. A woman who was a member of a party which had been having a hilarious time at the home of one of the men was fined $20. Her fine was remitted because she testified against the men.

The body of a 6-months-old boy was found by a man fishing in Salt Creek near Epworth Lake Park at Lincoln.

The child was well dressed, wearing a light lace cap, embroidered dress and silk boots. On one side of the child's face was a bad bruise, indicating that it must have been killed and the body thrown in the water.

The Government is denying release under bond of Mart Bowman of Hubbell, charged with being an alien enemy. Habeas corpus rights are suspended in war time, says United States District Attorney T. S. Allen, and the government may detain Bowman as long as it deems best. Bowman is charged with being perniciously active against the Government. Specific charges are not made public.

The state authorities have about reached the limit of patience with alien enemies of the government and hereafter any one of these who speaks or acts in a treasonable way will be dealt with under the law which gives the authorities power to deal with them in a drastic manner, even to the confiscation of their property, or they may be interned until the end of the war.

Acting upon the request of Herbert Hoover, and Dr. Anna Shaw, of the National Defense Council, the state defense council has asked that the Women's Clubs and mayors of Nebraska towns appoint delegates for women's organizations to co-operate with the state council in organizing the women to aid in the war in conservation work, etc.

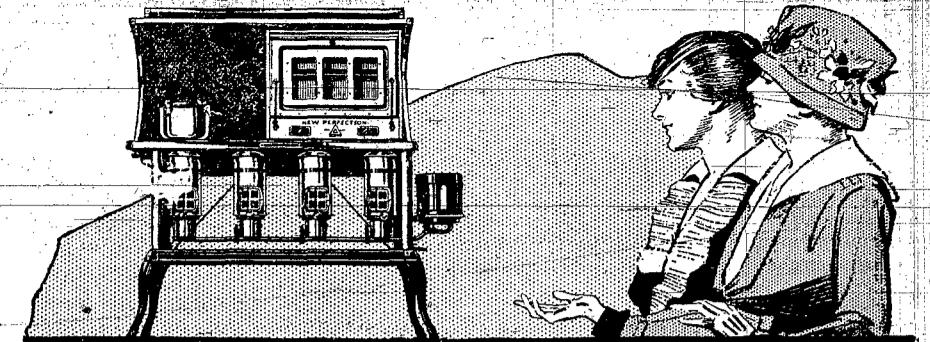

A company of Sioux Indians for the new Sixth Regiment is being recruited at Gordon, according to Adjutant General Phil Hall. A. E. Clark, editor of the Gordon Journal, is raising the company. He says he can have enough for mustering eighty—by Saturday, and 150 before July 7. General Hall has wired the war department to see if Indians are admitted to the army. The Indians are from the Pine Ridge Agency.

Hall county's portion of the Red Cross fund is over-subscribed with the final reports of the ten teams yet to be made, and also those from several country precincts. The portion was $26,451 computed at one dollar per capita. The city at noon today had $18,767 and the county as a whole, $28,679. Committees are still working tonight but declare that the final total will not be less than $30,000.

Falls City and Richardson county have started out to raise $25,000 for the Red Cross. The share assigned to Falls City and surrounding country is $10,000. Only a small part has been raised but a concerted drive will be made Wednesday and Thursday and it is confidently expected that the amount will be over-subscribed. A committee of forty business men has charge of this drive.

Roy Hitt of Beatrice literally walked into the United States army after he had once been rejected on account of a weak heart. He failed to pass a physical examination at Fort Logan, Colo., and was furnished transportation only as far as Lincoln on his way home. Hitt, being without funds, walked the forty miles from Lincoln to Beatrice in one day and applied to Join Company C, Fifth Nebraska. Captain Brewster decided Hitt's heart was strong enough.

E. V. Egghart of San Antonio, Tex., was placed under arrest at York, charged with embezzlement of funds amounting to $5,000. The crime it is alleged was committed last August. He admits he is the man wanted, but

From Farm to City

How a Country Boy Became a Lion in Society.

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

Sam Atkins was a farmer boy.

Sam had met Jennie Williams at a barn dance, and then and there had commenced the union of hearts that grows stronger quickly when planted in youthful breasts. Jennie was a good girl, a pretty girl and in every respect worthy of Sam.

One day Sam was running his car on the road and just about to turn into the farm gate when he heard another car coming behind him. Looking backward, he saw that it contained a woman who was grasping the wheel, she being the only person in the car. She was approaching a turn in the road just beyond the Atkins farm, and her eyes were fixed in terror on it. On the outer curve was a slope, which it was evident she dreaded, for as she passed Sam she was crying: "Over the bank! Over the bank! Over the bank!"

Sam was off the road, so that he escaped the car, which was evidently beyond the lady's control. As soon as she had passed him he gave chase, passed her, shut off power in his machine, jumped out and as the other car went by him jumped on to the footboard. Once there, he stopped the car just as it was about to plunge over the slope.

Then he saw that the woman driving it was a lady in an immaculate costume, the car being a handsome one and containing the richest upholstery and wraps. She fainted the moment the danger had passed and remained unconscious for half a minute. During this brief interval Sam cast a glance at his own modest car, which had been wrecked against a tree, then at the sumptuous appointments of the one he had saved.

"Why didn't you shut her off?" said Sam.

"I was paralyzed with fear."

"Do you think you can get on now?"

"I wouldn't try it again for the world. I've been taking lessons. This is the first time I have been out alone."

Sam took the wheel and drove the lady to her home, a magnificent country place suited to the requirements of a multimillionaire. She invited him into the house and said to him:

"But for you I would now be lying crushed under my car. Your car has been wrecked. I will see that a new one is sent you of such make as you may choose. This is simply to replace your loss. For saving my life ask any boon, and if in my power it shall be granted."

Sam protested that he had done nothing that any one else would not have done under the circumstances and the lady owed him nothing. She persisted, and he said that he had always had a fancy to mingle for a brief season among persons of wealth. If the lady would give him an opportunity to attend a ball she would have repaid any debt she might owe him.

She looked him over from head to foot, evidently taking in his natural fitness for taking a place among the elite, then went to an escritoire and wrote a check for $1,000, payable to bearer, and handed it to him.

"The first thing you will need," she said, "is clothes—I mean clothes for daily wear and for evening dress. Draw the money on this check and dress yourself as a city man. Then go to a dancing master and have him teach you what he can of etiquette and anything else you may need to fit yourself to appear in society. As soon as he reports to me that you are sufficiently equipped for the purpose I will give a ball at which I will introduce you to society."

Sam held the check in his hand, doubtful whether to accept or return it. The lady saw what was on his mind and told him that it would be unkind and ungenerous in him to refuse her the privilege of rewarding him for preserving her very existence. So Sam yielded. She then wrote the name and address of the proprietor of a fashionable dancing school and, after giving him such a luncheon as he had never sat down to before, sent him off to prepare himself for an appearance in a ballroom.

Sam went right away to his sweet heart and told her of his adventure and its result. Jennie looked grave and told him that he would never be satisfied again with country life, that he would aspire to marry some girl whom he would meet in high life and all would be over between him and his country love.

Sam protested with his lips, but not by his looks. So wrapt in the future was he that he scarcely heard what Jennie was saying. They parted; Sam to go to the city to buy new clothes and find the dancing master, Jennie to her room to weep.

Now, Jennie was an excellent seamstress and was doing some sewing for a Mrs. Treborne, a wealthy woman who spent her summers at her country residence, half a dozen miles from Jennie's home. Mrs. Treborne would send her auto for Jennie in the morning and send her back in the evening, the girl spending the day at such inferior work as was required. The day after the parting between the lovers, Jennie went to her daily work and appeared so disconsolate that her employer asked her what was troubling her. Jennie told her story and received sympathy. A day or two later while Jennie was plying her needle Mrs. Treborne said to her:

"Jennie, how would you like to go to the ball that your sweetheart is to attend?"

Jennie looked up at her questioner with a radiance that was a more speaking reply than words. Then her employer said that she had been thinking of the matter and resolved to do for her what was to be done for Sam. She told Jennie to drop her work, go home and prepare for a removal to another locality.

Mrs. Treborne sent Jennie to her daughter in the city with a letter unfolding her plan and asking her to prepare the girl for an appearance in society. Miss Sophie Treborne, a girl of twenty, at once fell in with her mother's plan to give Jennie the advantage that was afforded her lover. Miss Treborne made inquiries among her friends and learned that the lady whose life Sam had saved was a Mrs. Iddleton, a leader in society and an acquaintance of the Trebornes.

It was a month after Jennie and Sam entered upon preparation for an entry into fashionable life that the dancing master reported to Mrs. Iddleton that Sam Atkins was as well prepared to attend a ball in high life as he could be, except by a long period of coaching, and even then he would smack of the country. The result was that Mrs. Iddleton issued invitations for a ball at her city residence. Sam was to be the guest of honor as an acknowledgment of Mrs. Iddleton's gratitude for having saved her life when her automobile was running away with her. The Treborne family were invited, including their guest, Jennie Williams.

The Iddleton ball was one of the very largest of the season. It was not given at the town residence of the Iddletons, but at Swinton's, a fashionable restaurant with entertaining rooms on the higher floors. Miss Treborne left Jennie in care of her brother and sought the bestress, who was receiving with the guest of honor beside her. An introduction between Sam and Miss Treborne resulted, and the girl remained with him till the dancing began, and he was obliged to ask her to be his partner.

Mrs. Iddleton had arranged to open her ball with an old square dance, the lancers. Miss Treborne led Sam from one end of the ballroom toward a set forming in the center, and her brother conducted Jennie in the same direction. The music started up as soon as this set was formed, and Sam, being out of his natural element, was so flustered that he saw no individual present but a medley of men and women moving about. The first he saw of Jennie was in the figure where one couple confronts another and all bow. Sam was about to bend his body before a lady when—

Was he dreaming? Had he gone mad? Had he died and been born into another world? There before him, robed in a cloud of silk and lace, smiling at him, was Jennie Williams.

He was brought to himself by his partner tugging at him to turn his back on Jennie and bow to the opposite couple.

Sam did not recover from his surprise during the dance. He blundered at every turn; but, fortunately for him, others blundered as well, for the lancers had not been danced before in years, and nearly all the dancers were unfamiliar with it. It was not till the last figure in the dance, the grand chain, that Sam recovered his senses. Then, while passing round, grasping the hand of one lady after another, he came to Jennie. The hand pressure, the loving look, she gave him not only sobered him, but warmed his heart to her as never before. He had seen her dressed in the plain costume of a country girl; now she appeared with all the advantage of an artistic costume.

When the dance was ended Miss Treborne took her brother's arm and walked away, leaving Sam and Jennie standing together. Jennie, who had acquired the manners of a lady even to a greater degree than Sam had acquired those of a gentleman, rested her fingers lightly on Sam's arm, and together they went to seats lined against the wall. There Jennie told her story.

Sam was later called away to be introduced as the lion of the evening; but, despite the flattering words that were said to him, he was bored. There was a hollowness in everything about him that repelled him. Nothing seemed sincere.

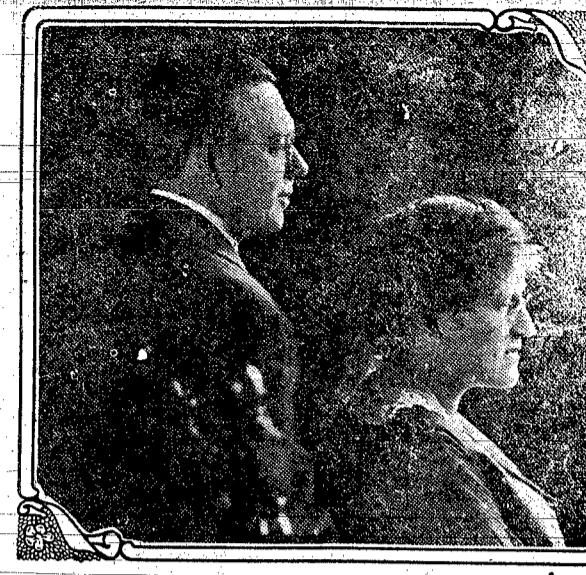

Sam remained there a week, and it was the most miserable week of his life. It seemed that all his time was taken up trying to avoid breaking in upon good manners. He was introduced at clubs, but he did not see that the men he met there had anything to do but drink cocktails and smoke. He was taken to functions, but it seemed to him that the people there were mockers for showing the fashions. At the end of the week he told Mrs. Iddleton that she had repaid any debt she might owe him and he was pinning for a breath of country air. She offered to send him home in her auto, but he preferred to "get a hitch" on a market wagon.

This bird builds his nest in hollow trees, stumps or posts. Sometimes he rents the abandoned home of the wood-pecker. Professor H. A. Surface, Pennsylvania state zoologist, tells of one that usurped a rural mail box for his flat. Of recent years they have been known to inhabit box homes put up for their special benefit.

So if you want to encourage the crested fly catcher, build him a box nest. He'll pay the rent many times over. He eats beetles, flies, grasshoppers, butterflies and moths.—Exchange.

Jennie had returned to her home the day after the ball. The day Sam returned she was taking a walk down the road when Sam, who had donned his country clothes, came along in the wagon. Seeing her, he snatched and folded her in his arms.

"Jennie," he said, "the only advantage city people have over us is in their clothes. In all other respects we have the advantage of them. I'm going to save up and buy you a swell costume and dress you up in it once a month. At all other times I'd rather have you as you are."

PRACTICAL HEALTH DEMONSTRATIONS FEATURED AT THIS YEAR'S CHAUTAUQUA

The pictures we reproduce herewith are expressive of two sides of the Sadler ability—the handcar indicates that they are on the "offensive" against the entrenched forms of disease and that they get to their dates some other way if the regular modes of travel are not available. They are not accustomed to giving up to obstacles. The other cut indicates the graphic way in which they bring within the range of the ordinary person the findings of medical science. The instrument which made this record is a very delicately adjusted machine by which the action of the heart is recorded on a smoked drum. There is a similar instrument by which the record is made of the depth and regularity of the breathing. By comparing the readings of this instrument taken under pleasurable and unpleasant influences the physiological and psychological effects of faith and fear are indicated. This great lecture which Dr. Wm. Sadler will deliver at our Chautauqua will be worth the price of the entire course to those who hear it. Dr. Sadler is an authority on these matters, his works being among the six best sellers of medical books. Every year there are hundreds of doctors in his classes at the "Post Graduate Medical School of Chicago" and in his own "Institute of Psychologic Therapeutics." Few of the so-called "ethical" physicians will consent to appear on the lecture platform but Dr. Sadler has a wonderfully forcible, entertaining and practical way of explaining some of the medical secrets and feels that this is part of his "mission" in life. His wife, Doctor Lena, as she is known, is his associate in both the schools mentioned above and in all his work, a graduate of the regular school and a fascinating speaker who has made a specialty of the diseases of children and her lecture on "Little Foxes" deals fearlessly with the hygiene of childhood. It is said that some of her demonstrations are truly remarkable and that her lecture is interesting and instructive to men as well as women. On many Chautauquas we understand that the Sadlers' "Health Day" is one of the biggest of the entire session, and productive of the most permanent good to individuals and the community. Notice the contraction of the heart action in the pulse tracing of the "fear heart" (7 beats) as compared with that of the "faith heart" (6 beats).

The average price of protein feeds with 20 per cent digestible protein was about $25 to $35 per ton before the war, but the prices are much higher now, while hay (clover) with 5% per cent digestible protein has been rated at $10 per ton, so the protein feed at $40 would furnish protein about the same as clover at $10.

DOUBLE DUTY

A Dairy Ration Has Two Main Uses

Life and Product.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A ration is divided into two parts:

1. The part needed to maintain or keep the animal alive.

2. The part needed to make stored up material like wool, fat, meat or milk.

Milk is roughly in solids, one-third each casein (protein), fat and sugar. The casein in milk can only be furnished by the protein in the food. The fat and sugar may be derived from either protein, fat or carbohydrates.

If a cow has the ability to give 50 pounds of milk containing two pounds of casein, and only gets enough protein to make one pound of casein, then she will only give 25 pounds of milk.

A balanced ration is one that has just the exact amount of protein, fat and carbohydrates that the cow needs. Just what this is we cannot ever say exactly, because the amounts vary from week to week and no two cows are alike, nor are feeds alike.

A practical ration is one that has sufficient protein and enough total food to make the greatest amount of milk without the cow losing weight.

A commercially successful ration is the one that makes the most milk or profit, keeps the cow healthy and enables the use of the most roughage.

All the hay and ensilage a cow can eat will keep her alive and make about 15 pounds of milk. Any more milk has to come from grain or grain feed.

The farm can usually raise carbohydrates cheap in the form of hay and ensilage, and outside of clover, peas, etc., protein can usually be bought cheaper than it can be raised.

The average price of protein feeds with 20 per cent digestible protein was about $25 to $35 per ton before the war, but the prices are much higher now, while hay (clover) with 5% per cent digestible protein has been rated at $10 per ton, so the protein feed at $40 would furnish protein about the same as clover at $10.

DIFFERENT COWS, DIFFERENT FEEDS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

No suggestions that we can offer nor any other formula that can be made will follow to the letter as a druggist follows the prescription of a physician. Feeds vary in their nutritive values, some being better than the average and some not as good, and cows vary in their ability to digest and transform nutrient. These conditions make it necessary for the feeder to use a good deal of judgment and not follow too blindly the suggestions of others. Any good stock feed is recommended as a base, to be supplemented by home-grown roughage.

CONCENTRATES FOR RATIONS

Taken From an Article by E. S. Savage, Professor of Animal Husbandry, New York College of Agriculture.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

A good rule to follow in all rations is to have at least three plants represented in the ration. There are seven factors which should be considered:

(1) Bulk, (2) Digestibility, (3) Relation between the digestible protein and carbohydrates and fat, (4) Variety, (5) Suitability of the feeds to the animal and product, (6) Palatability, (7) Cost.

As an example, choosing the cheapest feeds relatively, considering nutritional values, suitability and all, we would recommend the following mixture of grains as suitable for dairy cows at present prices:

600 pounds distillers dried grains.

400 pounds gluten feed.

300 pounds wheat bran or brewers dried grains.

400 pounds hominy feed.

300 pounds cottonseed or oil meal.

SALT FOR CATTLE.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]

Professor Henry says that a cow requires three-quarters of an ounce per day per 1000 lbs. of weight and six-tenths of an ounce per day per 20 lbs. milk. Therefore, a cow which weighs 1200 lbs. and gives 30 lbs. milk should have 1.8 ounce salt. It must be remembered, however, that salt is generally included in high-grade dairy feeds. It is well to give cows access to extra salt. They will take what their roughage demands.

Wheat bran is a dear feed. Barley and rye by-products are more economical.

Poverty holds a mortgage on the feeder who can see nothing but the price. Some feeds are as cheap at $50 an acre as $25 per ton.

When you buy hay for cows it usually costs more than grain by-products, although it costs half as much per ton.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

It is a fair assumption that any farmer who talks against mixed feeds does not know what a mixed feed ought to be. There is no danger of any man buying a fraudulent feed. The state laws are very stringent on this point and if any man has any doubt as to the value of a feed, all he has to do is to write his State Experiment Station and get the truth.

The plebiscite held in Denmark on the question of the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States resulted in 238,000 votes cast in favor of the sale and 157,000 against it.

Conferences have been held by rail road representatives with brother hood officials concerning a settlement out of court of the controversy between the roads and their employees.

Fifteen thousand workmen are idle at Wheeling as a result of a serious shortage of natural gas, which has forced almost every factory and mill dependent upon gas for fuel to close.

The human element in dairy feed is important. Two men may have the same equipment, one make good money, the other fail, while both are supposed to be feeding by the same system and the same tables.

Don't figure too fine on rations, Be liberal but don't overfeed. You can kill all of your profit by feeding more than the cow can assimilate.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

The human element in dairy feed is important. Two men may have the same equipment, one make good money, the other fail, while both are supposed to be feeding by the same system and the same tables.

Take the chill off the drinking water in cold weather and cows will drink more and produce more.

Best incubator eggs.

Many breeders claim that, as a rule,

it will be found that eggs from hens in confinement will not hatch as well when placed in incubators as eggs from stock having free range.

Marks of an Egg Layer.

Good layers have long bodies, back sloping to the tail, medium length legs set well apart, full prominent egg basket, pelvic bones thin and pliable, comb large, always red, and the number of serrations makes no difference.

Best Incubator Eggs.

Many breeders claim that, as a rule,

it will be found that eggs from hens in confinement will not hatch as well

when placed in incubators as eggs from stock having free range.

After the hatching season is over the male birds should be cooked, sold or confined.

More animal food for man can be produced through poultry than any other source during the same length of time.

Every farm should have all the hens it is possible for it to support, and every city lot should contain as many hens as the table scraps will supply with feed.

Fertility is desirable in eggs for hatching, but undesirable in eggs for food.

The male bird should be of such good breeding that he will improve the flock. If he is not capable of doing this he is not worthy of his place as head of the flock.

Save Spoilage That Results From Letting Male Run With Hens.

The farmers of the United States lose each year large sums because of improper methods of producing and handling eggs. One-third at least of this loss is easily preventable. It is due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs.

The eggs laid by a hen may be either fertile or infertile, depending on whether or not the male bird has been allowed to run with the female. A fertile egg is one in which the germ has been fertilized by the male bird. Except for this process of fertilization the male bird has no influence upon the eggs which the hens lay. Egg production is equally great in flocks from which roosters are excluded.

A fertile egg does not keep as well as an infertile one, because the fertilized germ responds more readily to high temperatures than the unfertilized one. It is impossible to hatch an infertile egg or to cause a blood ring to form in one. Such eggs are much more likely to reach the table in good condition, and there is much less spoilage in

A SLICE OF BREAD.

The Result of Wasting Only One Day in Every Home.

A single slice of bread seems an unimportant thing. In many households one or more slices of bread daily are thrown away and not used for human food. Sometimes stale quarter or half loaves are thrown out.

Yet one good sized slice of bread, such as a child likes to cut—weighs an ounce. It contains almost three-fourths of an ounce of flour.

If every one of the country's 20,000,000 homes wastes on the average only one slice of bread a day the country is throwing away daily over 14,000,000 ounces of flour—or 875,000 pounds, or enough flour for over a million one-pound loaves a day. For a full year at this rate there would be a waste of over 319,000,000 pounds of flour—1,500,000 barrels of flour—enough to make 365,000,000 loaves.

As it takes four and one-half bushels of wheat to make a barrel of ordinary flour, this waste would represent the flour from over 7,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Fourteen and nine-tenths bushels of wheat on the average are raised per acre. It would take the fruit of some 470,000 acres just to provide a single slice of bread to be wasted daily in every home.

To produce this much flour calls for an army of farmers, railway men and flour mill people. To get the flour to the consumer calls for many freight cars and the use of many tons of coal.

But, some one says, a full slice of bread is not wasted in every home. Very well. Make it a daily slice for every four or even ten or every thirty homes, make a weekly or monthly slice in every home or make the wasted slice thinner. The waste of flour involved is still appalling, altogether too great to be tolerated when wheat is scarce.

Any waste of bread is inexcusable when there are so many ways of using stale bread to cook delicious dishes.—Cleveland Leader.

LIFTING HEAVY WEIGHTS.

How to Work Without Straining the Muscles of the Back.

During housecleaning season it is not uncommon to hear many complaints of backache. Oftentimes the muscles of the back have actually been strained from lifting or luging at heavy rugs, etc., and there is reason for the pain and discomfort manifested. Fortunately there is a way to lift heavy weights without straining the muscles of the back. "A well known metallurgical company," says Popular Mechanics, "has recently issued instructions showing the right and wrong way to lift heavy objects, such as ingots and castings."

The way which is condemned and which many workmen thoughtlessly follow consists in grasping the load with both hands while stooping over and scarcely bending the legs at all. Lifting in this posture throws most of the weight on the lower part of the back, where the muscles are weakest, and may produce a severe strain or rupture.

The proper way is to grasp the load after squatting down close to it, so that the knees are drawn well up against the body. Lifting in this manner throws the weight on the thighs and shoulders, which are strong and best suited to the severe stress that comes in raising the body to an erect posture.

PERSHING'S SPRINT

A Foot Race Forced by the Taunt of a Navaho Indian.

IT HAD A CURIOUS CLIMAX.

The Redskin Athlete Was a Fleet Runner, but the "White Captain" In Spite of a Sprained Ankle Handicap, Won the Contest In a "Crawl."

At the time General John J. Pershing held the rank of captain in the army he on one occasion proved himself superior to the best Navaho athlete in a foot race.

The story is an interesting one. Pershing was stationed near the Navaho and Moqui reservations in Arizona. In 1890, when General Morgan, then commissioner of Indian affairs, visited these Indians, Pershing was in command of a small escort which went with him to Keams' canyon to attend a council of the tribes. He was accompanied by Captain Chauncey Baker, who had been his classmate at West Point.

While waiting for the council to begin they sat on a large stone watching the Indians at their games. The Navahos were wrestling, racing on foot, racing their ponies and pole vaulting. It was a holiday occasion, and the Indians were enjoying themselves hugely.

One finely formed Indian saw Pershing sitting on the stone and, approaching, said something to him in the Navaho tongue. The Navaho interpreter, Chee, who was with the party, was asked what the Indian wanted.

"He is challenging Captain Pershing to wrestle with him," said Chee.

Pershing looked the Indian over and observing the grease upon his body replied to Chee:

"Tell him that he is too dirty to wrestle with a white man."

When this was interpreted the Indians who had gathered around sent up a shout of derision at the expense of the Navaho athlete. The latter was not slow to reply, saying:

"Tell the white captain I'll run a foot race with him, and if I am too dirty all he has to do is to keep ahead of me."

The Indians now laughed at Pershing, and Chee explained to him that he would have to run the foot race or lose caste with the Indians, who appeared greatly to admire him.

Pershing accepted the challenge and preparations were made for the race. A triangular course was laid out, with three stakes 100 feet apart. Pershing stripped to the waist and put on a pair of moccasins so that he could run with greater ease.

Judges were chosen and a toss of a coin gave the Indian the inside track, so that he had a few feet the advantage in clearing the stakes. Both men started in lively fashion, but, as Pershing afterward explained, he purposely kept just far enough behind so that the Navaho could barely see him out of the tail of his eye. This prevented the Indian from setting too hard a pace and at the same time enabled Pershing to use the Indian as pacemaker.

As the two sped toward the first stake not a foot's difference was discernible between them. They appeared to be running almost abreast. Once or twice the Indian made a spurt, but Pershing always kept up with him and never undertook to pass him.

They rounded the first stake with the Indian still on the inside and then started for the second stake. When half way Pershing increased his speed and the Indian, fearing that he meant to try to pass him at the stake, did likewise. Just as Pershing expected, the Navaho shot slightly beyond the stake, and Pershing was enabled to come on the inside, thereby gaining an advantage of several feet on the homeward run.

Now, Pershing had previously sprained his ankle, and his only concern in the race was caused by a fear that his ankle might give way. The speed of the two men as they ran for the home stake was tremendous, but Pershing maintained the lead until the expected happened.

When within about ten feet of the home line his ankle turned and he was seen to fall in a heap, and the spectators breathlessly watching the contest cried out in consternation. It all happened in a moment, it seemed, but somehow Pershing doubled up like a ball and turned a complete somersault and landed across the line—several feet ahead of the Indian.

Then there was a bedlam of shouting. The Indians unhesitatingly pronounced Pershing the victor, and the elation of the white men was only exceeded by their solicitude for Pershing's weakened ankle. The defeated Indian was jeered and taunted unmercifully by the other Navahos.

They had one particular collection of Indian unpronounceables which they applied to him. Pershing and Baker got Chee to interpret it. Chee explained that the Indian had always been called the Navaho athlete, but now his comrades had lengthened his name and were calling him "the Navaho athlete who was beaten in a foot race by the white captain crawling." —New York Sun.

Well, keep job too. "My wife tells me that at the woman's club the other afternoon your wife displayed a marvelous knowledge of parliamentary law."

"Well, great Scott! Why shouldn't she? She's been speaker of our house for fifteen years." —Chicago Herald.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS

AT SOUTH OMAHA

Sheep and Lamb Supplies Small but Prices Sharply Lower — 25@50c

Lower than Monday and $1.50@2.00

Lower than Ten Days Ago. Idaho Spring Lambs Sell at $16.55,

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Neb., July 4, 1917.—Cattle receipts were rather light for a Tuesday, about 2,400 head, and buyers took a livelier interest in the market. Trading was more active but prices were quotably about steady with Monday or 10@15c lower than last week's mean close.

Best weighty beefees brought $13.15 and best yearlings $13.00. Pacific coast grass steers sold at $0.85@11.75 or 75c@$1.25 lower than ten days ago. Cows and heifers as well as stockers and feeders ruled about steady at last week's 50c@$1.00 decline.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice beefees, $12.25@13.25; fair to good beefees, $11.50@12.25; common to fair beefees, $9.75@11.50; good to choice yearlings, $11.85@12.85; fair to good yearlings, $11.00@11.75; common to fair yearlings, $9.50@10.75; good to choice grass beefees, $10.75@11.75; fair to good grass steers, $9.75@10.75; common to fair grass steers, $8.50@9.50; good to choice heifers, $10.00@11.00; good to choice cows, $8.50@9.50; fair to good cows, $7.50@8.50; cannars and cutters, $5.00@7.50; veal calves, $10.00@13.50; beef bulls, $8.00@10.00; bologna bulls, $5.50@7.50; good to choice feeders, $8.75@9.50; fair to good feeders, $7.75@8.50; good to choice stockers, $8.00@9.00; fair to good stockers, $7.50@8.00; common to fair grades, $6.75@7.50; stock heifers, $7.25@8.50; stock cows, $6.50@7.50; stock calves, $6.50@9.00.

Another 10c Advance in Hogs. A fairly liberal Tuesday's run of hogs showed up, 12,000 head, and all classes of buyers were eager for them, the market ruling active and full a dime higher than Monday all around. Tops brought $15.35 ap against $15.45 on last Tuesday and the bulk of the trading was at $14.90@15.25 as against $14.90@15.30 one week ago.

A 25@50c Decline in Lambs.

Although receipts of sheep and lambs were comparatively small, 4,000 head, the demand was indifferent and prices for both lambs and muttons 25@50c lower than Monday, or $1.50@2.00 lower than they were ten days ago. Eastern markets have broken badly of late and the tone to the market is very weak. Best Idaho spring lambs here sold at $16.55.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Lambs, good to choice, $16.00@16.55; lambs, fair to good, $15.25@16.00; lambs, culs, $13.00@15.00; lambs, feeders, $14.00@15.25; yearlings, fed westerns, $11.50@13.00; yearlings, range, $10.50@11.50; wethers, fair to choice, $9.00@10.25; ewes, fair to choice, $8.50@9.25; ewes, culs and feeders, $6.00@8.50.
