The "Old Man" of the Norfolk Press in the vent to his thick tank last week appears to be jealous of the attention given to soldier boys in their uniforms, and lays it all to the uniform; wondering why men do not wear more gaudy clothing to become popular with the ladies. We have a pair of blue and white striped overalls which we will loan to Mr. W. any day except press day that he wishes to top up and make a splash.

Friday morning L. C. Nettleton came to the station on four legs, as it were, for because of rheumatism he uses crutches and was bound for Tekamah to attend the annual old settlers' picnic. Mr. Nettleton was among the pioneer boys in that vicinity and he never misses their annual gathering, if possible to get there. Strong are the ties which bind together the affections of a people who shared the hardships and privations of a pioneer life on the prairies of Nebraska fifty years ago, and yet they had many happy times which, perhaps, formed a tie as strong as that made by sharing dangers and privations.

C. E. PAUL OF EMERSON WRITES FROM SNELLING

Editor C. E. Paul of the Emerson Enterprise, who has gone into training at Fort Snelling, writes to his paper from there as follows, under date of August 27th.

"I arrived here at 11 o'clock this morning, and was immediately assigned to Company 7, infantry. We had the choice of three branches of the services, viz: Coast artillery, field-artillery and infantry. I chose the latter.

"Today at noon I ate my first meal on Uncle Sam. It consisted of potatoes, fried ham, boiled vegetables, bread, butter, coffee, with peaches for dessert. It was all good and there was plenty of it. About 150 of us sat down at the same time, and all did justice to the meal.

"Just before dinner we were assigned our camp equipment, consisting of a folding cot, a mattress and cover, two wool blankets, a pillow and dog tent. We were instructed to 'put up' our cot in our barracks and proceeded to do so. We (or at least some of us) had a hard time making up the bed, but finally succeeded in doing it. Our sleeping quarters are in a large brick building. Each building houses about two companies, or approximately 300 men.

"By good luck I ran into one of my best university friends here, and we were assigned to the same company. I am meeting a goodly number of those I knew at Lincoln while in school there. I started from Lincoln with three school men, all of whom had given up good positions to enter the service, and were each leaving a wife and children to serve America. Two of these men were members of the faculty of the University of Nebraska, and one of them is 43 years old.

"Fort Snelling is a beautiful place located between St. Paul and Minneapolis, and I am sure I shall like the work here. Today has been a busy one, and as our orders are to report for service again in a short time, I must close this letter. I will write again later on. Very truly,
C. E. Paul, Co. 7, O. R. T. C., Ft. Snelling, Minn.

WINDOW DISPLAYS

Wayne has some people with artistic eyes as is evidenced by the very pretty and effective window displays. Saturday last while the Democrat reporter was taking note of the Saturday shoppers, we lingered in front of the pretty windows admiring not only the beautiful clothing displayed within but the arrangement of the goods which delighted the printer's sense of beauty.

Orr & Orr had a comfort window, cotton batting, silk and challie for coverings, pretty bright colored yarns for tying the quilts; and the north window had a showing of winter coats in the seal plush, now so fashionable, also fall and winter suits, kid gloves, etc. All the things that hold a woman's attention.

At Carhart's hardware the south window had on display a line of gas-line lamps and in the north window a range. Farmers wives appreciate a range for cooking purposes more than city people who buy their bakery. Any stove won't do—it must be a range.

Miss Grace, one of our milliners, had a simple, effective window, just enough hats on display to create an interest in the stock inside.

J. C. Nuss of the Variety Store had a display of all kinds of school supplies. Everything the children need for every day school work. He had price tags on many articles.

We have to admit our failing for beautiful jewelry as we stopped in front of Fanske's jewelry store and enjoyed the artistic arrangement of the high class goods within. Jewelry of all kinds was on exhibition.

Ahern's windows held our attention with the display of beautiful taffetas in the new stripes and colorings. A fall suit, a very pretty model, was also on display. Silk skirts, waists and dresses made up a window that appealed.

Miss Temple had a fall and winter line of millinery on display in the north window. The styles this year are undoubtedly the most sensible we have had for years. And from the prices the men won't have to dig as deep in their pockets as usual.

The Kodak window at Jones' Bookstore almost compelled us to step inside and buy. We don't know who arranged that window but whoever it was has the right idea and should make a top-line in ad writing. The north window was filled with current magazines.

An odd display we found in the north window of Robert's drug store. Rubber bath sponges and toilet soap at a nice discount. The window was along the line of modern advertising and we wondered if the manager ever read that little bit of philosophy written by one of our great eastern merchants. "Window displays are but a realization of the display ad you read over your coffee this morning. For RESULTS they go hand in hand."

At the German store we found yarns in different shades, the kind that is being used for knitting necessities for "our" boys. Also needles to work it with.

At the Basket Store there was an interesting display of different kinds of soap. The prices attached made one wonder as they were not very different than before the h. c. of 1, but prices soaring.

Blair & Mulloy always have a nifty window. They realize that men like pretty clothes as well as women. A glance at their window will convince you that they know their customers.

Those silk shirts and socks in Morgan's Toggery speak of man's vanity. And we will remember that display when we want to argue about thin sleeves in ladies dresses. The worsted and cashmeres draped in the windows made us green with envy. We would like to have some one answer this question: "Why do the manufacturers put better cloth in men's suits than in women's? When the women pay more money for their ready-to-wear suits than the men do?" Shoes had a place in one window.

Felber's Pharmacy had a display of boxed chocolates in one window and kodaks in the other. After Felber sees this little boost we are going up to get a box of those same chocolates.

Roe's Grocery is certainly a clean, sanitary place. The fruits on display were arranged appetizingly and an electric fan, with long paper streamers, kept the fly at a safe distance.

S. R. Theobald & Co., had a metropolitan arrangement of shoes on display. Also the new striped silks and ladies fall suits.

We had just begun to forget the jewelry in Fanske's when we came face to face with the beautiful display in J. G. Mines' window. Those lockets for the soldier-boys should sell well as they are a serviceable gift.

Gamble & Senter had the new styles of fall shoes for men, suits, hats and caps. The samples in the window looked nobby.

Of course we can be pardoned for our interest in Mrs. Jeffries' window display of frills and fancies. After seeing the men's new fall styles we were not surprised that Dame Fashion went them one better in the 1918 "models." But we like 'em and we expect to invest some of the money Wayne merchants spend for advertising in an extra or two just to "keep up appearances."

We would like to skip the monument dealers but we have seen people try to skip them before only to get it put up to them in the end. It wasn't exactly a window display—the whole sidewalk was full of monuments. That's their way. "Advertise and keep them moving." Would be a good slogan for Neilen & Henderson.

In Hiseox's hardware window they had the new tin cans for canning purposes and in the other window they had an electric washing machine. They are certainly labor savers.

Ralph Rundell is the grocery man who saw that we had all the water-melons we could eat at prices surprisingly low. His window display of fruits held every variety in season.

The horse in Piepenstock's window marks the harness shop. He also had on display saddles, harness and belting.

Our meat markets have no window displays at this season of the year, but they look clean from the street. Floors and walls sanitary and they both advertise prices—a good way to advertise.

Craven's photos are well known everywhere and they are on display in various places.

At the Wayne Bakery fancy cakes for the Saturday and Sunday trade were on display, also candy in boxes.

R. N. Donahey, the eye expert, has his machine for perfecting lenses in the window. It is a good idea as one seldom sees machines of this kind in a town as small as Wayne.

The Craven hardware store is all window display just now, for from the window one may view the store nearly to the rear, and stock is so arranged as to have much of it in sight.

The Model Pharmacy has just been moving and the window show just how indicates a chaotic state.

Red Cross cards and American flags and colors are shown in many displays for we are a patriotic people.

Mildner's grocery had a display of fruit.

And the Printing office windows—did you notice them? INSERT different places.

Judson's furniture store had a beautiful display of drapery materials, also rugs and furniture. A full dining room outfit was in the north window. It was very attractive.

Gaertner's furniture store had a bedroom suit of antique mahogany. The bed was made and it had coverings of rice lace. In fact richness and beauty intermingled in the entire display.

There are several more places of business at Wayne but we are making this just a write-up of displays and they were all good ones and show the dealer's belief that to get their goods before the public is a good way to sell them. Newspaper advertising is the best medium of any, however, and the fellow who is alive to that fact has solved the problem of his future prosperity. Some of the business men who have no window displays are good advertisers. If we were to choose between newspaper advertising and window displays we would choose the former. It has been proven to be the salvation of the business world.

BUYS NEW YORK FARM

C. L. Puffett is home from his trip to New York state, and reports that it is literally true that the man who wants cheap lands now should reverse the advice of old Horace Greely and go east. He purchased 100 acres there, within two miles of a state road, and near several small villages, and only 8 miles from Norwich, the county seat of Chenango county, a city of nearly 10,000 where quite extensive manufacturing is carried on. Oxford is his nearest town of importance; and he is in the midst of a great dairying section of a dairy state. Pastures have abundant growth of grass, and are filled with dairy cows—mostly Holstein or Gurnsey. Most farms have good improvements and plenty of running water. Prices range from as low as $20 the acre to $50 and in a few instances more. The location to the great "State Road" seems to have much to do with the prices, and a farm which this great highway passes or goes thru is the one which brings the big price.

Hay, the principle crop makes a wonderful growth. Corn is grown some, but does not ear as it does in this country. Oats are not large yielders, and a six-acre field of small grain is considered rather large. The potato thrives there; it is a limestone country and may nearly all be tilled. Most farms have large, barns, silos and modernized houses. MILK is the chief product, and it sells at $3.00, per hundred pounds, or about 6¢ the quart in wholesale quantities.

Mr. Puffett is to have possession early and plans to move within a month. They have lived at Wayne nearly four years, and he is successful, level-headed fellow who will succeed wherever he goes, we believe.

DON'T USE BIG WORDS!

In promulgating your esoteric cogitations, or articulating your superficial sentimentalities and amicable philosophical or psychological observations, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communications possess a clarified conciseness, a compact comprehensibility, consistent consistency and a concatenated cogency. Eschew all conglomerations of flutulent garrulity, jejune babblement, asinine affectation, extemporaneous descantings and unpremeditated expatiations. Have intelligibility and veracious vivacity, without redomestated or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, psittacous vacuity, ventriloquial verbosity, and vantage vapidity. Show double entendre, prudishness, say what you mean, mean what you say and don't use big words. Ex-trient jocosity and pestiferous profanity, obscurant or appaerant.

In other words, talk plainly, briefly, naturally, sensibly, truthfully, purely. Keep from "slang" don't put on airs, say what you mean, mean what you say, and don't use big words!—Exchange.

HERE, TOO, BRO. NEEDHAM

The editor of the Bloomfield Monitor is just in receipt of a new publication, in pamphlet form, containing some 64 pages, entitled, "A Great Battle in the Ecclesiastical Heavens as seen by a Lawyer." Nay, Nay Pauline, the title is plenty. We don't believe a lawyer ever got far enough away from this good old earth to view anything of the kind. Editor's Note—If any lawyer in this town wants to read the dope under the above caption, we've got it and he's welcome to it.

The Germans have taken Riga, the place being abandoned without serious resistance by the Russians—or those supposed to be Russians. Diplomacy is perhaps greater than the cannon.

When the Germans took Riga and when they take Petrograd, if it shall happen that they do so, they are but taking their own for both places have been and are full of German plotters. Of course Germany is looking for food in her move to the east, but that was one trouble—Russia was not feeding her own people very well.

President Wilson's reply to the Pope's peace note does not appear to tend toward peace within Germany, and that is why the Kaiser and his following are so greatly put out. The distribution of that reply to the rank and file of the German people is worth more to the cause of peace than a great army attacking their battle fronts.

Now that the railroads are prospering so materially under the management of the federal war board, and without that 15 percent raise so earnestly solicited, perhaps the roads will want the arrangement continued war or no war, if they do not, and service is so much better, the people will be very apt to demand that it continue in the form of government ownership.

Mrs. F. E. Crane, formerly of Wayne now of Oelrichs, South Dakota, visited Tuesday with Mrs. H. Kellogg, She says that Fall River county, South Dakota, makes her think of the book called "The World of Chance" because one season they have a good crop and the next none at all. Still at that luck is pretty evenly divided and their sons have taken charge of their farm there. Mrs. Crane will visit at Marshalltown, Iowa, and then return to Wakefield for a time. She said they did not know at this time where they would locate.

Edward De Ville, a district manager for the Brotherhood of American Yeoman, came to Wayne Monday to put that fraternal insurance work before the people of Wayne county. There are a score or more of members of the order here, and beyond a doubt that number will increase. For the past fifteen years we have been familiar with the growth and record of this order, and it has been progressive. Later we learn that Mr. De Ville was called to his home at Omaha Tuesday, to take examination for a place in the great national army. As he is in a class that has been exempted in his district, he expects to return today or Friday.

Wayne is a city of social affairs during the fall and winter months. Ladies clubs reorganize after the summer vacation and take up their work and it is work. A glance at their programs will convince you that they wield a wonderful power for good. These women, who, altho busy with the care of children and household duties, still find time to gather together for mutual enjoyment and instruction.

Mrs. Arnold Reyes, aged forty-five, a Mexican woman, wife of a section laborer, was killed at Central City by a Union Pacific passenger train. She is said to have walked in front of the train near the depot.

John Bogies of Cambridge and his eight-year-old daughter Mary are dead as a result of the overturning of the Bogies motor car north of Cambridge while racing with another machine. Sam and entered the same parus of Lief Nelson, prominent farmer living on the south edge of Gretna, and knocked his two valuable horses on the head. Indications are that an axe or a hammer was used to commit the crime. A three-inch hole was gashed in the face of one of the horses. Each horse was hit between the eyes.

An appeal has been filed in the supreme court by the Omaha road from the recent order of the state railway commission directing it to stop trains at Dakota City and South Sioux City for the purpose of taking on and letting off passengers. The company claims the trains are interstate and not subject to the jurisdiction of the Nebraska commission.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION

Over in the editor's native home, Strawberry Point, Iowa, where the cow has made and is making the farmers rich, they have a cow testing association. We read the reports from month to month in the Press of that place with interest, and note that each seems to be better than the one before, indicating that they are finding the poor cows and eliminating them from the herd. The report for June is just at hand and we note that the man who stood at the top place had an average for his herd of 34.3 pounds of butter fat for the 30 days of June. The lowest in the list was but little more than half that amount, being 18.4 pounds; but his herd showed a gain over the previous record, so he also is getting a benefit, and may be able to make much gain to come toward the top ones.

If all reports are true Hostotters bitters and a compound put out by the Peruna people are now in great demand, as the two "beverages" with the most "kick" in them that can pass in this state, and the demand for them is correspondingly great. Perhaps it is well to let the fellows "taper off" on these favorites.

Bring Cream to Fortner.

A few weeks ago we quoted a hog price prediction given by M. T. Munsinger, and the hogs and the market made good. He now says that hogs will sell as high as $20 at Wayne before October comes—then he stopped and worked his think tank a moment and added a qualifying clause which made his prediction null and void if our friend Hoover happens to take a turn at hogs, pork and the packers.

The town chicken that lives in a pen and has its green food fed to it from the basket of a lawn mower is not in it with the country fed and bred springs. We realized that when we happened to meet Otto Heinrichs at the chicken house where he was selling his culls. They averaged near the 4-pound mark, and those he had kept at home were 5-pounders. At the present price that means that a spring chicken brings the farmer $1 at his home town. The town-fed bird costs more and weighs less.

Mrs. J. T. House has fitted up her studio with two pianos so that in addition to her regular course in piano and harmony, she may offer courses in ensemble—two pianos four hands and two pianos, eight hands.—36-2t

Some of the cross walks around town are so completely covered with dirt they haven't been seen for many weeks. In a town as beautiful as Wayne and as well kept up in every other way is this not out of the ordinary?

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clark came Sunday from Los Angeles, California, where they went last winter and plan to remain for some months to look after his farm interests here. Mr. Clark noted that crop conditions appear good here, but he expected that, for in the thirty years or more that he has farmed in northeastern Nebraska he has learned that one year with another he can depend on this part of the state to look well, and to give promise of a full crop and always produced the goods.

Jas. F. Coupe of Omaha and formerly farm demonstrator for Thurston county was a caller here Tuesday. He was accompanied by R. E. Holland of Lincoln, and they were going to Wausa to begin a series of meetings in Knox county which they expect will result in the organization of the farmers of that county for a county agent. This work is growing in popular favor and when a county tries it once they seldom fail to employ such a helper. We cannot resist the temptation to ask "How about Wayne county?"

Standardized Columbus Wagons

The Fifth Wheel Farm Wagon

Fifth Wheel

Prevents serious rocking or pitch of bolster while out of position it is still in line. Made of malleable iron. It distributes the strain on the front bolster and sand-board. The pulling up of the front bolster is entirely done away with. It is one of the greatest improvements in farm wagons. Overcomes breaking or bending of circle of iron as the strain is distributed. Over comes pitching of bolster, thereby prevents bending or breaking of the king bolt. The top plates are wider than the lower plates, thus preventing dirt from getting between.

The gear is incomparable for completeness and quality.

We recommend the purchase of gears with square reach. Square reach furnished with the Columbus wagon is heavier than common kind.

Standardized

When we say that the Columbus wagon is standardized we mean that it has reached a degree of perfection superior to any other make we ever handled. When you come to look at the Columbus wagon, ask us to show you the points of difference. Every part is absolutely up to specifications, this applies to everything about the wagon but the box, and that subject is taken up under another heading. Standardization of parts means that each part is accurate as to measurements, an innovation in wagon making. Thereby giving wagon greater capacity. No more three and one quarter wagons.

Come in and we will convince you that the standardized wagon is the kind you have always wanted.

Wheels

The most important part of every wagon is the wheel. The timber from which these wheels are made is thoroughly seasoned, carefully selected and inspected. THE HUBS are made of oak, turned, shaped, and bored for the skein boxes and mortised for the spokes by automatic machines which are carefully adjusted to gauge. THE SPOKES are made of A-grade hickory and oak. Great care is used in shaping so that ample material is left in the tenon. THE FELLOES are saved from straight-grained oak. THE RIMS are made from straight-grained oak, carefully bent into position while green. THE TIRES are made from International steel—a combination that is very tough and wears longer than ordinary iron. THE SKEINS AND SKEIN BOXES fit accurately because all hubs are bored and axes turned alike.

Box

The Columbus box is the best ever offered for the money. Only the best grades of bay poplar and cottonwood (thoroughly seasoned) are used in the sides. THE BOTTOMS are made from long leaf yellow pine, free from knots, windshakes or other imperfections. They are tongued and grooved and held securely by oak cross sills. THE CENTER BOARD prevents bulging of the sides and by its use the spreader chain cannot split the box sides. THE GRAIN CLEAT is made of steel angle iron and renders the Columbus box absolutely flax and grain tight EACH SIDE is made from one solid piece, there being three board tongued, grooved, glued and strapped securely inside and outside. Heavier loads can be hauled with the Columbus box.

LeRoy Owen and Will McEachen have been visiting some of the grand scenery of Colorado, and last week returned from a trip in Estes Park, one of the world's beauty spots. Mr. McEachen arrived home Thursday, and Mr. Owen came down by steps, and tarried to visit at Denver, and arrived home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lackey returned the last of the week from a visit with home folks in southern Nebraska, where Mrs. Lackey's people live, and at Abilene, Kansas, where Mr. Lackey's people live. They visited Fort Riley, and saw Dr. Erskine as he came in from duty. He had been establishing field hospitals just back of the trenches where he cared for the wounded who were brought in on stretchers. Of course this, in "sunny" Kansas was just the imitation—a drill that all may work quickly and in harmony if ever they have to get into the field behind the trenches. The preparation for the care of the men whether wounded or not is the one saving condition of the modern warfare. In other days weapons were less destructive, but the care of the sick and wounded and sanitary conditions of camp life were sadly deficient. Wounds and sickness which nearly always terminated fatally in other days are now easily healed. They also visited the great military prison at Fort Leavenworth.

C. S. Ash is at Lincoln this week attending the state fair.

I. W. Alter left to look after his farm interests near Pawnee City Tuesday.

Mrs. Carl Smith from Carroll is this week visiting home folks at Carroll, Iowa.

Dave Nettleton and wife of Randolph were visitors at the home of their son at Sioux City Tuesday.

Eugene Garrett is again engaged at the Rundell grocery, driving delivery wagon and serving the patrons.

Mrs. Lida Hartshorn from Wisner, and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen of this place went to Colby, Kansas, Tuesday where they will arrange for the growing of a crop of wheat next year on their Kansas lands.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Nelson from Carroll, who were recently at Sac City, Iowa, were called back to that place Tuesday by the news of the death of her brother, John Hingett, who suffered for a year or more from cancer of the stomach.

Mrs. George Clark from Leith, North Dakota, who has been visiting friends at Wayne and in this part of Nebraska for some time, departed for her home Monday. Her grandmother, Mrs. S. M. Clark, from Laurel, came to Wayne with her from that place last week, and accompanied her to her Dakota home for an extended visit.

Tuesday morning Nels Nelson and his son Pete Nelson and wife drove to Lincoln to attend the state fair, and from there they plan to go to Rusklin and visit a sister-in-law over Sunday. After that Mr. Nelson plans to visit in Missouri and then go to Ludington, Michigan, to visit a brother-in-law, who is in ill health. Mr. Nelson plans to cross the lake from Chicago to Michigan rather than go around the end of the lake by land, for he was formerly a lake sailor, putting in several years of his life on lake Michigan. He has no fear of submarines on the lake, either it is his plan to spend several weeks in Michigan.

FIND DAKOTA FUEL HAS BY-PRODUCTS

Not too far back from the Missouri river as it meanders thru North and South Dakota, a very fair grade of lignite coal is abundant and easy of access. Experiments recently made prove that a valuable by-product is contained in this coal. Expert chemists report that the ashes from the lignite coal briquettes contain approximately 5 percent of potash. The commercial value of potash is from two hundred to three hundred dollars per ton. The ash residue, after the potash has been extracted, has a great value as a filler for paint and soap. In extracting the moisture from the lignite coal in the process of manufacturing the briquettes there is a percentage of gas liberated with the moisture. This gas may be condensed into gasoline by a special process. The company's chemists also report that there are other by-products to be obtained from the lignite coal from the mines.

OUR FIGHTING FACTORS

By Louis F. Post, In The Public

To the old maxim, "an army moves upon its belly," a new interpretation has been given by the world-war in which the United States is now involved. We have learned that the maxim applies not only to soldiers on the march, but to all fighting factors of a nation at war. The nation itself, not its army alone, "moves upon its belly." It must be fed continuously or it perishes. Nor one nation only, but all nations.

This newly learned lesson of war is more than a lesson for war times. It is a lesson for peace times, too. What a few have heretofore said but the rest have disregarded, some from ignorance and many from want of thought, the world's greatest war is forcing upon the understanding of all. Nobody can any longer doubt that mankind lives from hand to mouth. Never again will any but imposters assert nor any but easy dupes believe, that men may live upon accumulations of the past. The war has made it clear that none lives otherwise than by the work of his time. It follows that no one can be rich enough to live without working unless he lives at the expense of the work of other living men. Is it, then, unreasonable to predict that hereafter he who does not earn his own living, be it that of a beggar or that of a millionaire, will be spotted for an industrial parasite? Who can long be dull enough to doubt that any one's living, if he does not earn it himself, is being earned for him? Not has been earned for him by industrious and thrifty ancestors but is being earned for him by industrious and despoiled contemporaries?

Ancestors leave no accumulations of life's necessities worth considering in connection with the problem of living without working. Houses that last for a little time, jewels for a longer time, machinery for a shorter time—these they may leave. But even the most enduring necessities and luxuries of life are soon gone. Before they are worn out, the heir must part with them in exchange for food, unless his ancestor from whom he inherits them has left him also some magic recipe for commandeering food without earning it.

For food is not enduring. Most of it is needed for consumption as fast as it is produced. This is virtually true of all necessities, but of food it is literally true. As "an army moves upon its belly," so do the nations. All their people must be fed with food produced as they go.

It is with impelling force that the war has brought this lesson of life home to us. As a peace lesson it is the crux of all the vast variety of problems that will make for perpetual peace after this war, or will plunge us into wars hereafter, according to our solutions of them. As a war lesson, it is the most impressive and important with which we of the United States are at this moment concerned.

We are at war with an efficient and malignant enemy to democratic progress and the world's peace. He has for half a century or more been preparing for the world-conquest which he is now making war for. True to his threat, this self-styled "German Michael" has "planted his shield, adorned with the eagle of the Empire," upon foreign soil in order to afford Prussian "protection to those who apply to him for it," and toward those who do not yield, to "strike out with mailed fist." He actually struck out "with mailed fist," not only in the East, toward which his threat was specifically directed, (German Kaiser's "World-Policy" Speech of 1897), but also in the West. With "mailed fist" he has forged his way thru Belgium and into northern France; and, while still holding this foreign soil with military might, he has advanced his "eagle of the Empire" out upon the Atlantic Ocean toward the United States. Not only did this "German Michael" make that menacing advance upon us; he coupled it with a declaration of war against us. And while we still held back from war, hoping for a more peaceful attitude on his part, he supplemented his declaration of war with death-dealing assaults upon our people and against our national sovereignty. He would not have peace. He is out for military conquest.

To defend our country against this world-conquering enemy, we have formerly recognized his declaration of war and undertaken to meet his offensive warfare with defensive warfare. To wage our defensive war efficiently we have joined forces with the other nations marked by that "German Michael" for his world-conquering designs: Belgium, France and Great Britain to the west of him, and democratic Russia at his east. Our object—and nothing short of this would be efficient for defensive purposes—is to defeat him in distant waters and on foreign soil before he shall have advanced with his "mailed fist" into our own territorial waters and planted "his shield, adorned with the eagle of the empire," on our own territorial soil.

He gave us a choice of wars. We had from him the alternative of fighting him in Europe now and with allies, or (if without our helping them he were to win in Europe) of fighting him later on without allies and in our own country. The choice has been made. Our defensive war will be fought out abroad and with allies instead of here alone.

In this struggle the United States needs an army and a navy of fighting men. And they must be made effective. Not only with arms and ships and munitions, but also with clothing and food. Like all other armies, navies too, ours must "move upon its belly." So must the nation as a whole. Food and clothing, ships arms and ammunition, together with all their accessories and their productive and distributive contrivances, will be consumed as they are produced. The people live from hand to mouth. Today's production is virtually, almost literally, today's only supply for consumption.

It is a natural law. There is no such thing as accumulation in any comprehensive sense. Work, productive work, continuously productive work, is the price that Nature exacts of mankind, alike for living and for killing. Pay as you go and pay in work! This is Nature's unalterable rule.

So we need not alone an army and navy of fighters, but one also of producers. Our fighting factors are two-fold—the factor that consumes in order to fight, and the factor that produces in order to make fighting possible.

This has been true of all wars. The fighting element apart, it is essentially true also of peace. Whether in peace or in war there must be continuous production in order to maintain continuous consumption. But the world war in which we are involved has so dramatized this truth, this necessary co-incidence of consumption and production, that our two fighting factors are visible now as they have never been before. For convenience of discussion they may be distinguished as the military and the economic.

Let us consider them in turn, (To be continued)

SOLICITOR FOR CHURCH DIRECTORY WAS A FRAUD

Has the church directory man visited your town recently?—He was here a few weeks ago and arranged to get out a directory for the M. E. church, solicited the advertising and got the pay for the same, arranged with the Advocate to print same—to furnish the stock, which was to be of a very fine quality of card board, something not to be found in any country office—and that was the last of him. We got our pay from him to do the presswork, which we'll turn back to the advertisers. Since then we have heard that he is working other towns, claiming that the Advocate is doing his work for him. This is false and a fake. When he paid the Advocate for doing the work on the Laurel directory, he asked for a receipt which we gave him, and was particular to write therein that he was to furnish the materials.

These strangers with their advertising schemes should be given the cold shoulder. Nine times out of ten they are fakers with a pretty good "get rich quick" scheme for themselves.—Laurel Advocate.

It is reported here that the Columbus school board is to reestablish the study of the German language in the public schools of the city. The study was taken from the school curriculum by the school board last spring. Since that time those favorable to the continuance of the study have circulated petitions, it is said, to have the German course taken up again and it is now reported that their efforts are to meet with success. Considerable feeling against the move is being manifested here by those who think the action is not patriotic and is being used to influence the foreign vote of the state.

Miss Etta Marsh was in Pierce a couple of days this week soliciting subscriptions for a teacher's magazine. Miss Marsh also renewed old acquaintances during her stay in our city, as she formerly attended our public schools. Since then, however, she has gained quite a reputation as a teacher. She is a graduate of the Wayne Normal, and this is her sixth year as teacher in the Coteridge public schools. Pierce people are pleased to learn that she has progressed favorably in her chosen work.—Pierce County Leader.

Dastardly Crime

Last Saturday the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kelly living northwest of Pender in this precinct went thru an experience he will never forget. His parents had come to Pender and he was alone. He went to the house about 4 o'clock to see the time of day. A strange man was in the house and he found himself looking into the barrel of a revolver with instructions to open the safe in the room. This was done. (There was nothing in the safe but papers and a check.) The robber then got a bottle of carbolic acid, and poured it down the young man's throat, and left the boy to his fate. The latter drank some milk and attempted to phone to a neighbor and fell to the floor where he was found unconscious by the family on their return from town. The young fellow is getting on nicely. The man who attempted to kill him has not been located. It is one of the most dastardly crimes ever committed in the county.—Pender Times.

A merchant of Crofton, Nebraska, has adopted a plan of dealing with all customers who pay cash, which is very commendable. He announces that from now on he will allow a 5% discount on all purchases where the buyer pays cash with the order. There is nothing more fair, for the man who gives the merchant cash should receive a better deal than the man who compels the merchant to wait for his money. However, the general custom is now that the man who asks credit gets the discount when he goes to pay up his bill after it has run several months.—Allen News.

"Casey" Zacek's Philosophy

We quote herewith an extract from a letter written by "Casey" Zacek to a Westpoint friend. Mr. Zacek is a member of the Signal Corps at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He has a very calm way of looking at the war question, and if all soldiers would look at it in the same way, perhaps it would not be so hard to join the army. Here is what "Casey" writes: "Well, Bill, it's just this way. We

And if we don't die, why we can't worry.—Westpoint Democrat.

Carl F. Hansen lost about $200 worth of groceries and canned and bottled goods, which were stolen from his basement last Wednesday night. Bloodhounds were sent for, which arrived from Mitchell early Friday morning and took up the trail. The bloodhounds caused some of the inhabitants to make tracks, but finally three arrests were made the charge being burglary. County Attorney P. H. Peterson came over from Wausa, and the case came up for hearing before Justice of the Peace J. W. Rock. Upon the request of the county attorney, the action was dismissed, and a new charge was brought for disposing of liquor. The date of hearing was set for Tuesday, September 4th. There has been a good deal of petty stealing going on in Niobrara, and according to the many rumors heard, there is going to be something doing in the old town.—Niobrara Tribune.

SOLD AGAIN

A crippled woman struck Norfolk the other day on a begging tour. She was accompanied by a small boy and was in such shape she could scarcely get along slowly with the aid of two crutches. When she started for the depot the train whistled while she was still a block away, and she tucked the crutches under her arm and made a run for it, calling the boy to hurry or he would get left.—Norfolk Press.

The same woman was at Wayne one day last week. We all fell for her pathetic story and she left with a good purse, after a day and night of Wayne's hospitality. It is hard to tell the deserving ones from the shams these days.

Because Adler-ika empties BOTH large and small intestines, it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. H. J. Rev. Ray E. York, corresponding secretary and superintendent of missions for the Baptists of the state of Nebraska will be with the church on September 9th and will give the address at the morning service which begins at 10:30. The pastor desires that every member of the church be present as far as possible. As he doubtless will have many things which shall be of great interest to our local church. In the evening at 8:00 the pastor will speak. Good music at these services.

The Sunday school convenes at 11:30. Classes are provided for all who remain for the study of God's word.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

Now that many of the teachers and scholars have returned from their vacations, we see a decided increase in the attendance in Sunday school. Next Sunday there will be the regular preaching services at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Strangers and those without a church home are given a warm welcome at all our services.

The Luther League meets at 7:15 p. m. The subject is "The Deaconess in the Congregation." Old and young would do well to attend and learn synodical year. Do not allow other arrangements to interfere with your presence at this blessed service.

Methodist Church
(Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor)

At the eleven o'clock service next Sunday morning the theme will be "Our Christian Soldiers." And at eight o'clock Sunday evening the message will be "God's Calendar" from the text "Are there not Twelve Hours in the Day?"

Sunday school convenes promptly at 10 o'clock. The Epworth League Intermediate League and Boy Scouts will meet at 7 o'clock.

The theme for Wednesday evening's Bible study is, "The Great Commandment."

The Nebraska annual conference convenes in University Place next Tuesday with Bishop Homer C. Stuntz, presiding.

Nebraska Methodists now number 70,000 members with 500 ministers. There are now more than three thousand Methodist students in the higher institutions of learning in the state last year.

The latch string hangs out at the Methodist church and you are invited to make this homelike church your church home.

Presbyterian Church
(Rev. S. Xenophon Cross, Pastor)

All the various organizations of the church will be lined up by next Sunday to begin the year's work in earnest. Let each member and friend of the church do his bit by being in his place. There is work to do.

Breaching service as usual at 10:30. The theme is stated in the question: "What Direction?" This is a subject for the beginning of the school year. Students and teachers are earnestly invited to be present.

Our Sunday school is finely organized and all who appreciate good work along these lines are urged to find a place in the Bible school. Let us help you find a place in these ranks where you will be helped and helpful.

Come to C. B. and to the evening service. The sermon subject at the evening service will be: "Linked Lives." We bend our best energies to make the evening meetings attractive and helpful. We hope to see you Sunday evening.

What are we doing to feed the world and win the war? They also serve who sow and reap! We are allies in a common cause. A child can feed a soldier. Are you preaching and practicing the doctrine of "Produce and Save?" There is religious merit in it and practical value.

Our Sunday school is finely organized and all who appreciate good work along these lines are urged to find a place in the Bible school. Let us help you find a place in these ranks where you will be helped and helpful.
