CONRAD WEIERSHAUSER DIES OF CANCER OF STOMACH

Friday, March 21, 1919, death came to relieve the suffering of Conrad Weiershauser, who had been in failing health for more than a year past, due to a cancerous condition of the stomach. All that medical skill could do did not avail, and he patiently waited for the end to come.

Deceased was born in Germany, July 26, 1857, and came to America in 1882. In 1885, he married at Le Mars, Iowa, and to this union a daughter was born who survives him. The wife dying in 1894 he again married, a young lady of his home community, whose maiden name we failed to learn. The wife and the four children born to this union survive him, and were at his bedside during his last illness or at the funeral, which was held from the Lutheran church northeast of Wayne, of which he was a consistent member. Rev. Gehrke, the pastor, conducted the funeral, which was largely attended by relatives, neighbors and friends.

Mr. Weiershauser settled at his late home in Dixon, county thirty-two years ago, and by industry and economy became one of the well-to-do citizens of that community, and his death is regretted by many friends.

MRS. CLYDE GAFFIN DIES

From the Chalkbutte News, we clip the following relating to a lady who was a resident of Wayne a few years ago, but went with her parents to Chalkbutte about six years ago:

A gloom was cast over this community Monday night when a message was received by H. M. Gaffin from his son, Clyde, stating Ida, his wife, died Sunday morning at the Mayo Bros. hospital in Rochester, Minnesota.

Two weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gaffin left for Rochester, to have the little son treated, Clyde took the flu, as did his wife, Ida, and both were getting along nicely. They baby was sick threatened with pneumonia.

On Saturday last Ida took a turn for the worse, then rallied for several hours and seemed to be doing fine until a little before 5 a. m., Sunday she became unconscious and passed away immediately. The grief-stricken husband and baby left with the body for Redfield, South Dakota, Sunday. The funeral was held Wednesday at Redfield.

Ida Kupfersehmed was born in or near Redfield, South Dakota, on August 3, 1894. She was married to C. H. Gaffin of Chalkbutte, South Dakota, on August 14, 1915. To this union one son, Lysle Horace, was born on August 24, 1916. She leaves to mourn her loss, the husband and son, father, mother, three brothers and three sisters, besides a host of friends.

THE LAMBERSON ELEVATOR BURNS MONDAY MORNING

Early Monday morning the elevator formerly owned by G. A. Lamberson was discovered to be burning, and an alarm sounded which brought a prompt response from the volunteer firemen, who were soon holding the flames in check, so that the fire was confined to the one building in which it started. Those who saw the fire early are of the opinion that it had first started somewhere inside the building, though no cause for the fire is known. The building was recently purchased by the Crowell Grain & Lumber Company.

The contents of the building, about 1,000 bushels of oats and 1,500 bushels of corn belonged to Mr. Lamberson, and while but little of it was burned it will all be damaged. Both building and contents were insured.

WOMEN OF WAYNE ORGANIZE

Last Friday afternoon about forty-five women gathered at the city hall for the purpose of forming an organization of the women of Wayne and vicinity. For some time we have felt the need of an organization which would foster a closer fellowship among the women of the town and a spirit of mutual helpfulness between the women of the town and the women of the country. This organization is to include all women who take an interest in the affairs of the community, especially as it concerns the environment and development of our boys and girls—our citizens of tomorrow. They must be strong physically, mentally, and morally to assume the burdens and responsibilities that will be theirs.

As women, too, we need each other's help. With the partial right of suffrage granted to women, comes added responsibility. We need to know more about our government in nation, state, and city. We need the help of each other in meeting the new problems. If we would, we cannot live for ourselves alone, and in unity there is strength.

At the meeting Friday, it was voted to form the organization and a committee on constitution and By-Laws was appointed, consisting of Mrs. DeVillie, Mrs. F. G. Phillico, and Mrs. J. C. W. Lewis. There will be election of officers and the report of this committee at the next meeting Saturday at the city hall at 3 p. m. Let every woman of Wayne feel it her privilege and duty to attend this meeting.

"OVER THE TOP"

That was the way some of the boys did Saturday night or Sunday morning early, entering the Sam Temple "smoke house" through the transom above the door. Of course it is laid to the boys because no one would think of charging the girls with the crime, and the transom is too small to let a very large person through. Two sacks of change, containing from $10 to $15 in dimes and nickels, were taken from Mr. Temple. So far as he can determine, nothing but the money was taken; and Mr. Temple hands us the following letter for publication:

Boys—I am truly glad that you were my friends and did not act the hog in coming through my transom Saturday night. I only missed two sacks of dimes and nickels. You divided up with me; and the next time you get short, come in and tell me and I will divide up with you; one good turn deserves another. With many thanks for your good heartedness, I am yours with due consideration. Call in when you can.—Temple.

P. S.—Please bring the sack back. Friends of mine saw you come out of my store, but your liberality will excuse you. S. T.

WHEN JOHNNY COME MARCHING HOME

One day the lad you had loved from babyhood marched away to war. It seemed then that the sacrifice was yours instead of his. Later you visited him in camp and said goodbye, before he went overseas. As his tears mingled with yours and he pressed you to his heart the burden seemed greater than you could bear, your heartstrings all but snapped. Last month your boy came home to you, strong, broadshouldered and handsome, better physically and mentally for his training. Then your joy knew no bounds, nothing in the whole world mattered, you had him safe at home. Women of Nebraska, let's make the Victory Liberty Loan the Thanksgiving donation, the real peace offering of the world war. Let's be proud to do it, and let's not be stingy about it.

—Woman's Victory Liberty Loan Committee.

CITY ELECTION APRIL 1

Tuesday, April 1, is the city election. The women may vote at this election if they so desire. As the nominations in both parties are the same, there is not much incentive for a lot of people voting unless they feel like it. On another page the ballot may be found, which will show who is to serve the city for the next year in some cases, and two years in other offices.

The question of bonds does not enter into this campaign but the men nominated if elected, will be committed thoroughly to paying and other municipal improvements. They stand on a platform also declaring for the city commission plan of government.

NORTH NEBRASKA TEACHERS MEET AT NORFOLK

Beginning today the school teachers of this part of Nebraska will have a three-day session at Norfolk. Their excellent program came too late for use last week, and this week the paper is almost too late for it to get far before the first sessions of the meeting are over. This afternoon and evening the declamatory contest is on, with nearly forty schools represented.

Among the speakers we note that F. M. Gregg of Peru has a place. He is the president of the state teachers' association, which did not meet this year because of the flu. "Education for Democracy" is his theme. Dr. Merriam of the Columbia, Missouri, university will talk of the school of tomorrow—looking to the future, perhaps, rather than the past. Glenn H. Tyrell of Laurel will also be one of the speakers on the same topic. George E. Martin of Kearney is to speak. He is best known as the one of the authors of a school reader. Prof. C. W. Watson of Lincoln a leader in this state of the club work of the boys and girls has a place on the program, and a work of importance to present. W. F. Russell of Iowa City will tell some of the things needed for good citizenship. Titus Lowe of Omaha will be one of the entertainers, and will tell of things pertaining to the war just closing. He has been listened to with interest by many, since his return from the other side of the water.

There will be three general sessions, Friday morning at 8:45, Friday evening and Saturday morning. The remainder of the time will be taken up with meetings of the different departments of school work. The superintendents of the counties, the high schools, the mathematics, science and industrial training, grammar, history and English, physical training and hygiene, the intermediate round table, primary and rural sections.

Among the Wayne people who have a part in the program we note E. J. Runtener on "Present Tendencies Toward Industrial Education." I. H. Britell on "What Should be Attempted in our High School Course of Physics?" To J. G. W. Lewis is assigned "The Reconstruction of the History Course." Dr. J. T. House is to have a paper, "American Literature for American Children." A. V. Teed will tell in the Rural Section of methods for "Securing and Using a Rural School Library." Supt. J. R. Armstrong is president of the Physical Training and Hygiene section, and the Wayne Normal quartet are to entertain in this section.

Wayne schools will close tomorrow that all teachers may take part in the association meeting.

WAYNE HIGH DEBATES AT LYONS

Members of the Wayne High School Debating team went to Lyons Wednesday afternoon to meet the team from that high school to settle the question: "Resolved that the United States Government should Own and Operate the Railroads After the War." The Wayne team spoke for the negative side of this great question. Members of the team consist of Misses Bonnie Hess, Vera Fetterolf and Leslie Rundell, Lynette Rennie is alternate, and accompanied the team; Mrs. Pollard accompanied the students.

Word comes from Lyons this morning that the judges were unanimous in a decision giving to the Wayne team the victory, and thus our team will be the one to meet the winners of the other contests, and if winners there, go to the state debate. Members of the Lyons team were Miss Nina Stiles, Arnold Karo and LeRoy Hultberg.

SHOLES HAS JUNIOR RED CROSS SOCIAL

Last Friday evening there was a box social by the teachers and pupils of the Sholes consolidated school to raise their quota and then some for the Junior Red Cross work. A splendid program of music and speaking was presented by the pupils of the school, and then the cash for the dainty, well-filled boxes began to roll in. One man wanted a particular box so badly that he finally drew the prize at $15. Others went above the five dollar mark, and their total receipts were $157. Misses Mary House, Leila Mitchell, Opal Thompson and Lila Gardner from Wayne were visitors at the social that evening, and report a splendid time.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WAYNE COUNTRY CLUB

Last evening the annual meeting of the officers and members of the Wayne Country Club was held at the city hall, for the election of officers, and receiving the reports from the retiring officers. F. S. Morgan, the secretary outlines the following for your information:

J. W. Jones and John Hufford were elected directors, Mr. Hufford succeeding J. J. Ahern, and the other members of the board are J. S. Carhart, F. E. Gamble, C. H. Fisher, C. M. Craven, J. T. Bressler.

At the session of the directors, J. T. Bressler was named as president, C. M. Craven, vice president; R. W. Ley, treasurer, and F. S. Morgan, secretary.

The fiscal year closed with 128 members in good standing, and the treasury in good shape, the year having been passed without any extra assessments, in spite of the fact that a number of the members were away in the service of their country, and others busy with war work. Much enthusiasm was displayed at meeting, and a number of out of town members, Carroll, Wakefield, Winside and Laurel are in sight. It is the hope to swell the membership to at least 150 during the present year, and some place the 1919 mark at 175. If you do not belong to the club, this is your chance to get in on the charter membership rate.

The country club has been a source of much pleasure and satisfaction to its membership, and has increased the tendency toward more clean outdoor sports and recreation. It has added health and enjoyment, and will add years to the lives of some of the slaves to business of other years who have learned not only to play a fair game of golf, but have been taught to forget business for an occasional hour, and let some other fellow walk the floor part of the time.

GUSTAFSON-ANDERSON

At high noon, Wednesday, March 26, 1919, at the home of Mrs. Clara Gustafson in this city, occurred the marriage of her daughter, Miss Hildegard, and Mr. Warner Anderson of Wakefield, Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, of the English Lutheran church officiating. The impressive double ring ceremony was used, the bride and groom taking their places beneath a handsome wedding bell to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march played by Miss Agnes Weber. Miss Ruth Sackerson and Mr. Russell Johnson from Wakefield acted as bridesmaid and best man. The bride was attired in a suit of dark blue, and carried a bouquet of white roses. In color the suit of the groom matched that of his fair companion. The home was prettily decorated in pink and white. After the ceremony and hearty congratulations the guests, about forty in number sat down to a splendid four-course dinner.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Clara Gustafson, a young lady who has made her home at Wayne since childhood, a graduate from our high school and a student at the normal. She has many friends who wish her a happy life. The groom comes from our neighboring town of Wakefield, and has been for a time employed here at the Gamble & Senner store, and is a man of good repute, with many friends among those who know him best. The afternoon train carried the happy couple to Iowa, where they will visit for a week among relatives. Their home will be at Randolph where Mr. Anderson has a position in one of the leading business houses.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Lutgen has been substituting in the kindergarten this week for Miss Willey, who has been ill.

Mrs. H. J. Felber visited the second grade Friday afternoon, and the fourth grade Monday morning.

Miss Conn announces that the Art Exhibit from the Wayne public schools, to be sent to Norfolk, consists of water-color and design work from the lower grades, and mechanical drawing from the seventh grade. There will be no school Friday, as the teachers expect to attend the convention at Norfolk.

RED CROSS WORKERS

Red Cross workers are requested to return their service questionnaires not later than Friday, March 28. If all workers here have not received them, they may obtain questionnaires at the Red Cross rooms.

Notice, also, that there will be Red Cross sewing at the rooms in the library basement each Wednesday and Friday afternoon. Committee.

NORMAL JUNIOR CLASS PLAY A GREAT SUCCESS

Viewed from any angle, the play, "Fourth Estate," staged by the juniors at the Normal auditorium last Thursday evening, was a success. The plot was full of thrills—real ones, true to life in the age—it was not the blood and thunder impossible scenes—the rank, courageous robbery of the bank, but it showed that more refined, sly and genial manner of extracting the earnings of the people, producing larger sums and doing greater wrongs against the masses of the people—especially the poor people; producing wealth which would make the ordinary highwayman green with envy, and stooping to depths of deception that would make such a gentleman blush with shame. It showed the power of publicity, and how it may be directed, the most powerful agency for either good or evil, and gave the audience a new view of the power of the press. It showed how honest men are tempted, and how they yield and why; and the honor due to those who resist the temptation to aid in robbing their fellows, or permit the wrong to exist by their silence.

Under the direction of Miss Josephine M. Mack the characters of the play, the great and lesser ones, were so perfectly drilled that each appeared to be doing a real duty, not acting a part, and her splendid work can not be too highly estimated. It was easily the best of the many productions put on at the Normal in recent times, if not in the history of the school.

The selection of the characters from the leading parts to the lesser ones, proved to have been wisely done, and it is doubtful if better could have been made. Any review of the play which we could make would be tame and uninteresting to the many who saw it given.

DEATH OF MRS. BOSTEDER

Jennie Olmstead Bosteder was born May 9, 1887, in Wayne, the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Olmstead.

She grew to womanhood in Wayne, attending the city schools except for four years spent at the Nebraska Institute for the Blind. She graduated from the Wayne high school in 1906, taught school for three years, and was then March 22, 1909, married to Ben F. Hutchinson. Mr. Hutchinson died within the year, and she then turned again to the teaching profession. She attended the Wayne State Normal and graduated in June, 1913. In the following fall, October 18, she was married to Edward G. Bosteder, and to this union were born three boys, Clifford, Clyde and Earl, all of whom are living.

March 15, Mrs. Bosteder left her home near Lusk, Wyoming, for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. C. M. Taylor of Sioux City, Iowa. Stopping at Wayne she was taken with influenza and died the seventh day, March 24.

When about sixteen years of age, the deceased sought admission to membership in the First Baptist church of Wayne, and was baptized, and has always lived an exemplary christian life. In her home she was a faithful, loving wife and an ideal mother, striving to supply, not only the physical needs of her little family, but also the beauty of a life free from any touch of selfishness.

The funeral service was conducted Wednesday afternoon by Rev. D. W. MacGregor at the Undertaking chapel, and the burial was in Greenwood cemetery.

FARMERS' UNION MEETING TODAY

Members of the county organization of the Farmers' Union are gathering here today for one of their county quarterly meetings. The morning train brought District Organizer Frost from Plainview and August Hohneke and Simon Strate from Hoskins. We hope to have a report of their meeting for next week.

M. W. A. RAISE RATES

At the meeting of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen, called to consider the rate question, made necessary by the flu epidemic, the rate was advanced practically 50 per cent on all age classes, and rates for new members also advanced.

E. E. Lackey has cabled home that he has his feet on the soil of the old world, after a very uneventful voyage of seven days. He is in the service of the boys over there as a supervisor in educational work.

W. F. M. S. NORFOLK DISTRICT NOW MEETING HERE

Wednesday afternoon was the opening of the sixteenth annual meeting of the women's Foreign Missionary society of Norfolk district at the M. E. church, in this city. The sessions will close this evening, but members and delegates continue to arrive on all incoming trains.

At the last evening meeting there was a good attendance, the outside attendance having been small at the afternoon session when the address of welcome was given by Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, following devotions led by Mrs. D. W. MacGregor. The program could not be strictly followed at the last evening session, and in place of an absentee, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, who was to have appeared this afternoon, gave a splendid address on "Women's Part in Present World Problems." More than one spoke in praise of the talk she gave.

The morning sessions today will be devoted to reports from the auxiliaries, the election of officers, the question box, and the story of the year's work as told by the delegates.

This afternoon is also devoted to business and entertainment, and the evening session will be given to committee reports, and addresses by Miss Ella Watson, secretary of the Topeka Branch, which covers the work in eight states, followed by an address by District Superintendent Rev. B. M. Furman.

Wayne members have provided much entertainment for the gathering with music and singing interspersed through the sessions.

Among those from a way thus far registered, we notice the names of Mesdames O. A. Johnson, Harry Pritchard, W. W. Jackson, Laurel, F. E. Sahn, Carroll; Allen Chamberlain, Madison; F. M. Drulinger, Parlined and Burger of Stanton; Palmer, Hazen, Burke, Rose, Preghl and Misses Anderson and Reuss of Norfolk; Mrs. Colla A. Gates the conference secretary and others.

Miss Holland an Indian missionary was here, and was given a place on the program to the delight of those who heard her talk.

NORMAL NOTES

Denn Hahn attended the Northwestern Teachers' association of Iowa at Sioux City and gave several addresses before different sections of the meeting.

Professor Teed visited schools at Columbus last Friday and went from there to David City, where he spoke before a meeting of the School Officers' association of Butler county, held on Saturday.

Word comes that Prof. E. E. Lackey has sailed for Paris on the Lovethan. His address is Y. M. C. A. 12 Rue D' Augesseau, Paris, France.

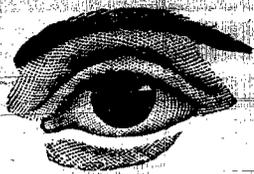

Harold G. Croghan, a junior of last year who enlisted in the army about a year ago and has since been in a camp in Georgia, has returned to the institution to complete his course.

Prof. O. H. Verner, of Lincoln, who is in charge of the movement in the Presbyterian church for religious education in Nebraska, spoke in chapel Monday morning on "Problems of reconstruction."

The Junior and Senior girls' basketball teams entertained the Senior Sophomore and the Junior boys' basketball teams in the gymnasium last Friday evening. The coaches, Miss Wendt, Miss Smothers and Mr. Sablin, were also guests. The evening was spent in contests of athletic nature, after which delicious refreshments, apple pie a la mode, coffee and homemade candy were served in the recreation room.

Sergeant Charles Meeker, a student of the Normal five or six years ago, who has seen active service in France, spoke in chapel Wednesday morning, relating many interesting incidents of his experience in France. He was in the fighting at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne Forest, where he suffered a wound in the shoulder from the same shell by which Roy Reed, of Winside and a graduate of 1916, was killed. Albert Hering, another graduate of the Normal, dressed Mr. Meeker's wound at the first aid station. After spending three months in the hospital Mr. Meeker was given transport to the U. S. A. and he is now rapidly regaining his strength and health.

Eyes Refitted

I fit some one with glasses at most every day who has paid good money for a misfit.

The accurate fitting of lenses involves a degree of scientific knowledge little understood by people generally, until they have proved the fact by costly experience.

If I do your work it will not have to be redone or repaid for. My service costs no more than the inferior kind.

T. V. B.

Hundreds of users in this vicinity can tell you

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE

And will tell you that it LASTS LONGER, Keeps Engine Cooler, Gives Better Compression, hence more power, and by using the correct weight for YOUR motor (as we have determined by experiments under working conditions) practically eliminates carbon with the long string of mechanical trouble which it causes. But for your benefit would be pleased to have you read further.

Gasoline, Kerosene, Lubricating Oils, as well as many other articles are taken from Petroleum, commonly called crude oil. There are many grades of crude oil but they are generally classed under two heads, known as Asphaltum and Paraffine Base. The Paraffine base crude is the most valuable. It might be well for us to state here briefly the process through which the crude oil passes in the production of the various products.

The crude oil is placed in large tanks and heated to the point of evaporation, the lighter oil passing off first in the form of vapor which, after passing through condensation coils, are known in their order as Benzine, Gasoline, Kerosene, Distillate Oils. The heavier oils remain in the tanks and from them are taken the Lubricating Oils.

We wish to impress upon your mind the difference in treating these heavier oils that remain in order to put them in the proper condition for Lubricating Purposes.

Paraffine Base Oils

The Paraffine Base Oils are rendered fit for service by the process of alteration, which removes all sediment and impurities, producing an oil composed of very fine globules which have a great power of adherence and withstand an extraordinary high degree of heat.

In this connection we wish to state there is a great difference even in the grades of paraffine base oils coming from different oil districts. Up until this date the oils from a certain district in Pennsylvania are conceded to be the best.

To get a good oil you must have

An Oil with a Low Gravity

An Oil with a High Fire Test

An Oil with a High Viscosity Test

T. V. B. Pennsylvania Oils possess all of these qualities.

In order to determine the quality of an oil it is necessary to be familiar with the following terms:

GRAVITY means the weight of an oil compared with water. It is usually expressed in degrees. The higher the degree the power the gravity or "body" of the oil. Oil of a low gravity or "body" is usually desirable as a lubricant.

Let me tell you here that an oil does not necessarily have to be THICK or HEAVY in order to have a low gravity test. This is contrary to what the majority of people have been led to believe by the salesman selling low grade oils. Just because an oil is "thick" or "heavy" it is no indication that it will wear well.

FIRE TEST establishes the degree of heat at which an oil will burn. At this point the oil begins to decompose and soon loses its lubricating qualities and value, in other words the mineral fats completely burn out. Fire test is one of the most important points to consider in buying oil.

VISCOSITY is the degree of fluidity of an oil, or its internal friction. An ideal lubricant is an oil with viscosity and one which has the greatest adhesion to surface.

A variance in any one of the above is detrimental to its working qualities. For instance—you might have an oil with a low "gravity" and a high "viscosity" test, but the fire test would be so low as to render it unfit for use. Many salesman talk fluently on any ONE of these points but are "at sea" when taken collectively.

Asphaltum Base Oils

The greater per cent of oil coming from the various oil fields are asphaltum base crude oils and the method of refining the lubricating oils is radically different from that used for paraffine base oils. In addition to filtering it is necessary to treat same with acids to remove the impurities which acid also tends to destroy the lubricating qualities.

In order to stop or retard the action of the acids it is necessary to introduce other neutral agents. Through chemical action these leave deposits in the oil having a deteriorative effect upon the metal with which it comes in contact, and is the source of many different troubles when used in internal combustion engines.

Some of the greatest faults are: The necessity for using large amounts, a tendency towards gumminess with the attendant troubles; low fire tests resulting in overheated engines and loss of power, and eventually expensive repairs.

We wish to say here that many oils are called Pennsylvania Paraffine base oils which are NOT—in other words they are a mixture of paraffine base and asphaltum base oils and are put on the market for profit taking only, giving satisfaction in the proportion in which they are blended.

T. V. B. American White Auto Oil is guaranteed to be THE VERY BEST—It is possible to make from American crude, hence our trademark—T. V. B. It is almost water white in color, made from the very best Pennsylvania crude and is sold under a positive guarantee where a high grade oil is required or desired.

T. V. B. Tractor Oils are sold under the same positive guarantee and I will endeavor to tell you something of interest in regard to tractor oils next week.

"TRUM" The Oil Man--I. C. Trumbauer, Wayne

Sales Agt. P. C. O. Co.

Claude Wright and W. Green from the Wayne Motor Co., shop were at Norfolk Friday, going over to take a look at the auto show in a tent at that place.

It was a splendid social which they held at district No. 57 where Mrs. Roy C. Knopp teaches. This is in Brehna precinct, southwest of Wayne, and the citizens turned out until the school house was filled to overflowing. The pupils gave a splendid program, recitations, songs and the like. The Lauren Wright showed his ability as an auctioneer, and set them bidding for the well-filled lunch boxes. It looked as though the highest cost of living was going higher as they came in, some boxes going well above the $5 mark, with an average of $2 to the box. A social time was passed as they discussed the events of the neighborhood and the world, perhaps, while disposing of the contents of the lunch boxes.

Albert Hansen, who came to this county a year ago from Iowa, and purchased a small farm just northeast of Wayne, at what was then the high price of $222.50 per acre, was a caller this week, and expressed satisfaction that he had purchased when he did, for he says that land prices have advanced more rapidly within that year than ever, he happened to remember elsewhere. Before buying here he had looked in other localities and several states and made up his mind that quality considered, land was priced lower here than any he had been able to find. A year has proven that he was in on the ground floor—and knew what was destined to come to this community in the way of advancing prices. Without intending to criticize anyone he said that the farms of the county are not kept up as they should be—that the people are careless about the roads, and the weeds along the highways—and that the day is not far distant when this county will far more of a slicked-up appearance, and will then begin to look what it really is in his opinion—the best country for the farmer that is to be found for the price—even though they are high—higher than last year. It is his opinion that they will be higher next year. He is probably right, for we do not notice that there is any marked cut in the offerings of big money for good land. Mr. Hansen's suggestions are good, and might be heeded with profit by many.

F. H. Jones went to Omaha Monday for a short stay.

Phil Burress of Carroll was a passenger to Sioux City Monday afternoon.

Mrs. James Pile was called to Ardmore, Oklahoma, Monday by news of the serious illness of her mother.

J. S. Welsh, who has been here visiting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, his daughter, left Monday evening to visit a daughter at Portland, Oregon, for a time.

For Sale—Modern eight-room house lot 75x150, or a half block of ground if desired; large brick cave, cistern, well and city water. Priced right. Owner, phone Red 42, or P. O. box 2, Wayne, Neb.—Adv 9-1f

Mrs. Tim Collins of Carroll was here a few days last week with her sister, Miss Margaret Coleman.

Mike Coleman is spending most of his time these days on his farm near Pender, completing some permanent improvements on the place he recently purchased there, where his brother, Ed Coleman, is farming.

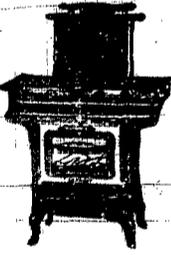

For next Saturday, in addition to my already large stock of coats, dresses, skirts, etc., I will have a fine line of new capes of the very latest patterns, in popular shades. Come in and see them. The cape is becoming very popular as a wrap this spring, and those to be seen at my place will please any who see them, says Mrs. Jeffries.—Adv

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Roberts were passengers to Sioux City Tuesday for the day.

H. C. Bartels of Carroll was at Sioux City Tuesday, going over in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. James of Carroll spent Tuesday forenoon at Wayne, waiting a train to take them to Loretto, to visit at the home of a son living in that part of Boone county.

We are glad to be able to report that Ed Grier and Mrs. Alex Jeffrey, both of whom have been quite seriously ill of flu and its accompanying troubles, are much better with daily improving prospects of complete recovery.

Detroit Vapor Oil Stoves

NO WICKS LIGHT INSTANTLY WORK LIKE GAS

The advantage of the wickless oil stove are appreciated by all oil stove users. Detroit Vapor Stoves are wickless. A heavy iron burner vaporizes the oil, making a gas which can be controlled to any requirement.

Detroit Vapor Stoves have the same sturdy construction—the same convenience as gas stoves and they operate at a cost much lower than either gas, coal or wood stoves.

For 24 years Detroit Vapor Stoves have been on the market and they are well and favorably known all over the country. They are stoves the best dealers are glad to handle and endorse.

Come and see these wonderful stoves. We have just received a large shipment. They are beauties. Prices $20.00 up. Many styles to select from.

Here's a lifetime of wonderful burner service without wicks or asbestos plus the nearest approach to city gas convenience for farm, garage or summer cottage. 6½-lb. grey annealed iron burners give intense heat immediately under utensils, which are put on as soon as match is applied. Back-saving height, labor-saving cleanliness, no blacking, removable drip pan, durable construction. Odorless, safe, efficient and extremely economical.

You are Paying For Your Home Why Not Own It?

When a landlord builds a house to rent, he expects that house to pay him dividends and also to pay for itself within ten years.

Another ten years passes and the house has been twice paid for.

But what does the renter have? A bundle of worthless rent receipts.

Are you a renter? Then here is a suggestion for you: build this home. It is within any man's grasp. It is the story-and-a-half type with five rooms and bath and a large front porch. There are a huge living room, a delightful dining room, and a convenient kitchen down-stairs. Up-stairs, two bedrooms, both with large closets, will accommodate a medium-sized family.

This is Curtis home design No. 2037 and is finished throughout with CURTIS WOODWORK.

Come in and see us about building this home. We will furnish complete plans without charge and will give you exact information as to the cost of building this home on your lot.

Mrs. Harry Denesia and her sister, Miss Irene Collins, both of Carroll, were Wayne visitors Monday, guests of Miss Margaret Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Plahn from Avoca, Iowa, and their son, J. C. Plahn, of Hancock, Iowa, came the first of the week to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Lage, on their farm near Wayne. The guests are parents and brother of Mrs. Lage.

In spite of heavy sales, I have kept my stock of spring coats, cloaks, capes, dresses, skirts, waists, etc., very complete, and feel that you can be suited in color, style, quality and price at the Mrs. Jeffries' store for women's wear. Come and see.—Adv

Geo. A. Juhlin and family have moved from Lebanon, Kansas, to the Johnson farm north of Wayne, arriving about two weeks ago; when conditions were just right to make moving a job to be shunned. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Juhlin, and has lived long in this vicinity, so he is in reality coming back home when he moves from Kansas here. He spent several seasons in the "sun-flower" state.

For suits, ladies should see the Mrs. Jeffries line.—Adv

Harold Boyce left Friday morning for Tecumseh where he has accepted the principalship in the schools for the remainder of the year.

Easter will soon be here, and that Easter bonnet, ordered soon, will be out of the way before the rush of the last few days—and we have the proper styles at the Mrs. Jeffries store for ladies.—Adv

At the request of quite a large class of young people, students of the college and young people of the high school and churches, Rev. MacGregor has agreed to conduct a bible study class to meet every Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. This study class is to be international. It will be absolutely free from proselyting. So young people can have the help of these studies and be loyal to your own church. The object is to understand the word of God, and bring its teachings into life's actions. The course of study begins with the first verse of the book of Genesis. Two words for the first lesson, "Bereshith" and "Elohim" are Hebrew terms of great importance. To this class of study we admit young married people under 27 years. Remember the class will meet each Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, at the Methodist church parlors.

GARDEN TIME AT HAND

Lettuce, radishes, beets, endive, spinach, onion sets, peas, asparagus, carrots, parsnips, rhubarb and swiss chard are among the early spring garden vegetables. Bulletin 50 contains in brief from the essentials of home vegetable gardening. It may be obtained for the asking from the Extension Service, University Farm, Lincoln.

PERTAINING TO AGRICULTURE

We hear Uncle Sam criticized more or less because he is having to sell some things at a sacrifice since the war closed so suddenly after our forces got into the game so earnestly that the Kaiser left his throne, his home and his native land with much haste; so we say to even the matter up we should give credit for some of the good things. Of course the things complained of are not necessarily bad, and are better to be entirely lost than to have to be used in war. But our Uncle Sam is literally "Beating swords into plowshares" when he takes 150,000 tons of nitrate of soda, made to convert into explosives to be used against Germany, and releasing it for fertilizer. The work of distributing this is going forward at rapid rate. From at least two plants the shipment is going on at the rate of more than 1,000 tons daily from each, besides other plants shipping in lesser lots daily.

One of the hopes of the farming districts is the interest being developed in many localities among the school children and young people. Pig clubs, calf clubs, chicken clubs, and other clubs are taking the place of the club with which the farm kid was threatened if he failed to get out in the early morning, and till all the day. In Kentucky, for instance they have discovered that on an average it costs three dollars a month to keep a dog, and that the profit of keeping a sheep averages around $2.20 per month, and there is no profit at all on the dog. So a lot of dogs in that state are giving way to sheep, and the boys of one district, to the number of 622 have turned their attention to the sheep, and have 2,665 sheep growing in a district which but recently was raising just dogs.

Quality, as well as quantity, is the object of the poultry drive now being conducted by poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Special emphasis was placed last year on increasing production. This being accomplished, the poultry specialists, working in cooperation with the state extension forces, now urge replacement of mongrel stock with standard-bred stock to improve both production and quality. The campaign really began last fall when decided interest in improved stock was shown by the number of undesirable birds culled from flocks in all parts of the country. The culling work done in Mississippi is illustrative of what has been done in many localities. The poultry specialist worked in nine counties and secured the culling of 1,349 flocks, from which 10,792 birds, weighing 25,900 pounds, were discarded as unprofitable producers. As can be seen from the extremely small average weight of the birds culled—2.4 pounds—the poultry stock in this section needed the culling. The eggs were small and inferior and did not have a good standing on the New Orleans market. As the culling campaign progressed, the poultry specialist urged the keeping of improved stock. Enough progress along this line has already been made to give Mississippi eggs a better reputation on the New Orleans market.

SEED TREATMENT FOR OAT AND WHEAT SMUT

Now is the time for all good farmers to come to the aid of the wheat and oat crop. Oat smut and stinking smut are easily prevented by the following formaldehyde method now being recommended by the plant pathologist and agronomist of the Nebraska experiment station: Formaldehyde, 1 pint; water, 1 pint. This quart of solution should be applied with an ordinary hand atomizer sprayer to 50 bushels of grain. As the grain is shoveled from one pile to another, spray each shoveful. After treatment cover for five hours. The grain should be planted as soon as possible after treatment. Remember that the solution must be applied at the rate of one quart to 50 bushels of grain.

EXTENSION SERVICE AIDS WOMEN STUDY CLUBS

Women study clubs may obtain free outlines on home economics subjects from the University of Nebraska college of Agriculture extension service. These outlines were in large demand before the war, and now that war work is largely out of the way, the demand for the outlines is again developing. Katherine Cranor of the home economic department, University of Nebraska, is the author of a new outline on clothes. Address, Extension Service, Home Economics Section, University Farm, Lincoln.

Don't Guess—Be Sure

Guessing at battery conditions is like guessing whether there's oil in your crank case.

If you guess wrong you may have to call for help and pay for repairs.

And you can't always guess right. You ought to know that your battery is charged—that it has plenty of water—that you're not working it beyond its strength.

There's no guessing around a Willard service station. We know.

If your battery isn't up to the scratch we'll tell you why.

If you want to know more about batteries ask us for the booklet, "A Mark with a Meaning for You."

WOMEN IN POLITICS

Men and women in general have faith in the women of Norfolk to not allow a few fanatics lead them from the best interests of Norfolk government.

There is an element in every town just like the one here—an element bent on having its way and pretending to represent the rank and file of women.

Down in Lincoln, that leadership has defeated a bill that would make it possible for 90 per cent of Nebraska's men to obey the law. Nearly every man you know smokes cigars. It is a violation of a Nebraska statute but a statute never popular therefore violated constantly. It was hoped that it would be possible to build a law that would prohibit the sale and use of the cigars by minors. Men favored that but women say no, man shall smoke a cigaret and the law is left on the statute books to be laughed at and ignored—a daily reminder that laws like pie crusts are made to be easily broken. We would gladly see women vote but if they expect to make the world over with the first ballot they are scheduled for a disappointment. Meantime machines manipulated by women look no better to us than those operated by men. Since writing the above the proposed cigaret bill has passed. Mrs. Weekes of the Norfolk Press.

CHICKS ARE WORTH SAVING

The following suggestions summarizing the essentials for successful chick raising are given by poultry extension workers of the University of Nebraska: Do not feed chicks until they are at least 48 hours old. Feed buttermilk and skim milk for the first feeds if possible. Keep drinking vessels clean. Feed only clean sweet chick feeds. Keep chicks busy. Feed green feeds in small amounts. Feed early and late. Keep brooder temperature regulated so chicks will not chill over night. Allow chicks out of doors as soon as possible. Feed all the sour milk or buttermilk they will drink. Grit and oyster shells are necessary.

LEAGUE SENTIMENT FAVORABLE

The newspapers do not always lead public opinion, nor do they always follow it—sometimes they make it—and sometimes they simply echo the opinion of the people. But one who has access to fifty newspapers per week, and from the sentiment they quote to other hundreds of newspapers, great and small, if he read and heed gets the impression that fully nine-tenths of the people who express opinions are in favor of a speedy acceptance of an agreement for a league of nations, practically along the lines of the present proposed constitution. True, there are a few kickers—but the ablest of them are not able to agree upon any form of agreement materially different, and they dare not oppose the principle of the league—and they seem to be unable to improve the constitution now under consideration. Some politicians have made a bad break, and they are trying to find a way to crawl to cover.

The Public says that the senate is still investigating Bohlen's claim, and adds that it is "gratifying to find the senate seeking information, whatever the purpose, for that body is badly in need of knowledge on almost any subject from taxation to good manners." It then says that they are having a one-sided hearing calling in politicians who have never been near Russia to tell their opinions, and by mistake, apparently they called Col. Robins of the Red Cross who was really able to give information first hand. They have asked no government expert, nor have they called for information from the state department.

Senator Reed of Missouri went before the members of his own state legislature to show them that the league of nations would put us in band and endanger our Monroe doctrine. Before he got away, he was challenged to resign and appeal to the voters of Missouri for vindication. The story goes that no less than half a hundred of the legislators of the state offered to resign if he would, and all go to the people for an expression. But we have not yet read of his resignation being tendered. He would hate to say farewell to the senate, but the chances are that he will when his term expires.

There seems to have been a gradually increasing Spanish immigration from their mother country to the United States prior to the war, and the indications are that this influx of people will begin as soon as conditions become normal. It is mostly the laboring class who come to our shores, and they quickly fall into American ways, and become desirable citizens. Where many of them settle in one place they form a colony and provide themselves with many of their homeland models of homes. Industrious and thrifty they are considered among our most desirable immigrants.

One of the results of the war was to interrupt a plan just getting underway to form a world-wide church union—but it is possible that the war has done more than could have otherwise have been done to speed that movement, though it for the time stopped the work of the "organized"

SOCIAL NOTES

Mrs. Mitchell Entertains W. C. T. U.
The ladies of the W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Claude O. Mitchell Friday afternoon. Mrs. D. W. Noakes took charge of devotions. The president, Mrs. J. H. Boyce presided. After the Lord's Prayer, a hymn, "Lord I'm Coming Home" was sung.

Roll call was responded to by comments on "Why Safeguard Our Girls." Some very good thoughts were brought out in the discussion. It was decided to postpone the county convention until some date in April at which time the members of the W. C. T. U. from Winnebago and Carroll will be entertained at this place.

Mrs. Mitchell sang a solo, "Where the Morning Glories Grow," with Mrs. J. H. Boyce accompanist. She responded to an encore with "The Land of Usod to Be."

The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. W. Madden, Friday, April 4. The program will be published next week. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served ice cream and cake.

Presbyterian Aid Society
The Presbyterian Aid society held their annual meeting at the home of Mrs. C. T. Ingham on Wednesday, March 19. A large number of ladies were present to hear the reports of the secretary and treasurer. The past year has been a very successful year and much work done. The treasurer reports $1,704.88 on deposit for the dining room and kitchen fund.
Election of officers resulted in

Mrs. J. T. Bressler, president; Mrs. J. J. Williams, vice president; Mrs. P. M. Corbit, secretary; Mrs. A. H. Ellis, treasurer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. P. M. Corbit, April 4 at 2:30.

The Wayne Woman's club met last Tuesday evening with Mrs. L. B. Young. Each one present took part in a very interesting roll call. Miss Elizabeth Bettcher read a paper on Birds and the Conservation of Bird Life. An important fact to be remembered in this was that all birds in Nebraska, except the English sparrow and one species of owl and one species of hawk, do more good than harm and should therefore be protected. Mrs. C. W. Hiscox read a paper on the Beautifying of our Parks and Streets; this was interesting and practical. It was decided at this meeting that the club should change its name and a committee has been appointed to make proper suggestions along this line. After adjourning the hostess served a delightful luncheon.

Miss Piper entertained the members of the Monday club at the home of Mrs. Phil Kohl Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hahn read a paper on "For What Officers can the Women Vote." Mrs. Welch explained "The City Managers plan of government." Mrs. Bowen gave a very fine talk on how the women of Wayne can help in the improvements of the town. The hostess served delicious refreshments. Next meeting will be with Mrs. A. B. Carhart Monday. The afternoon will be devoted to Red Cross work.

The Coterie met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. E. Fleetwood. Following an interesting business session, the afternoon was devoted to current events. The club enjoyed the review of an English play "Tiger, Tiger," given by Mrs. Carroll Orr. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. W. E. Jenkins and little Miss Evelyn Mellor, served dainty refreshments. Mrs. Wm. Mellor will be hostess at the next meeting on March 31.

The Acme club met at the home of Mrs. Walter Weber Monday afternoon. The members responded to roll call with current events about England. Mrs. Mines was leader and her subject for the afternoon was England. She gave the history of King George and an excellent sketch of the life of Lloyd George. Mrs. Morehouse, Mrs. Weber's mother, was a guest. The next meeting will be a covered dish luncheon with Mrs. Ingham.

Mrs. Von Seggern was hostess to the members of the U. D. club at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bressler, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Kinne was leader and read a paper on "When Johnnie Comes Marching Home." The hostess served splendid refreshments. Next meeting will be a 6 o'clock dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Craven, April 4.

Last Saturday evening Miss Edna Carlson of Sholes gave a party in honor of four of her young friends from Wayne, Misses Lella Mitchell, Mary House, Viola Thompson and Lila Gardner, who were visiting at Sholes were the guests of honor. A number of their young friends attended, and enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the Carlson home. The young ladies were driven home in the C. O. Mitchell car from this place Sunday, the day being so pleasant that Mr. Mitchell braved some bad roads for the outing.

Tuesday evening Miss Josephine Mack entertained a party of her friends in honor of Chas. Meeker, just home from overseas. A supper

Puritan flour at two sax for $6.00 is a whack at the H. C. of L. that is hard to beat. Ask Hurstad & Son.—Adv

Chas. LaCroy was down from Magnet this week, looking after business, and visiting among his friends and neighbors. He returned this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ler came this morning to visit Wayne friends. Mr. Ler has been here several times of late in connection with his land business. They plan to make their home at Burlington, Colorado, we are told.

A. S. Mitchell, who was called to the home of his mother at Geneva about Christmas time, by her serious illness, returned to Wayne Wednesday. He tells us that he left his mother much improved in health. She had the misfortune to fracture a hip at the time he was called home, and is now able to be up—which, considering her more than four-score years of age is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pickeral from Houston, Texas, left for their home Wednesday morning, following a visit at the country home of the lady's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hyme, southwest of Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. Hyme moved to this county from near Glenwood, Iowa, the first of this month, and barring the roads and the peculiar March weather of this year, like it here well, and are quick to recognize that this county has all of the earmarks of a good agricultural community.

We get it in car load lots—that's why we can sell you two sax of Puritan flour at only $6.00 and live and help you to live. Hurstad & Son.—Adv

Albert MacGregor, son of Rev. and Mrs. D. W. MacGregor, reached home Saturday from his visit to Europe, where he went as one of Uncle Sam's artillery boys. He did not get over soon enough to get on the firing line, but was headed that way at a pretty good pace when the armistice was signed. He is glad to be home again, and will now doubtless resume school work somewhere. It has been quite an experience for thousands of young men, many of whom never would have crossed the big pond otherwise.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan came home the first of this week from Excelsior Springs, Missouri, where where they went to rest a bit and take the mineral waters of the place. Mr. Morgan reports that he feels much better than before. After spending a week or two at the springs he went to Illinois to visit a sister whom he had not seen since she was a miss of about 18, and had a most happy visit, finding her after about forty years the wife of a well-to-do citizen with their children all grown and married, and located near the home.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS' WONDERFUL RECORD

(By H. C. Evans)

It's the stickiest bit of front in France," was the description given of the Argonne forest by a British major. "It never can be taken," he continued. "It's so difficult that neither the English or the French have attempted to take it. Your men will never get through it."

But they did! The Argonne is a rough piece of ground some seventy miles long by twenty deep. It is a dense forest. The ground is too rough for cultivation and has been used for centuries for reforestation. The French raise crops of trees like we raise crops of corn, but of course not so rapidly. When the trees are large enough for lumber or fuel they are cut down and a new crop is coming on.

The Argonne is criss-crossed with ravines and gullies, is hilly and full of huge rocks. The Germans held it, and had grid-ironed it with trenches, mined it underground, filled it with snares and traps and strung barbed wire everywhere. Behind every rock and tree, hid in the heavy foliage of the trees, and in the ravines were expert German-machine gunners with guns that would shoot a thousand shots in three minutes without reloading. If one these gunners caught a company of 250 men out in the open, he could, with his single machine gun, kill every one of them.

Verily, the English major was right. It was a sticky bit of front. This front had to be taken, because just beyond it lay the great lines over which Germany sent food and munitions to her army in northern France. These railway lines had to be taken and Germany's means of transportation destroyed before the war ended. The job of piercing that forest and cutting the lines of communication was given to General Pershing.

On July 18, General Foch, after retreating toward Paris nearly forty miles, ordered his troops forward. He put the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Twenty-sixth and Twenty-eighth American divisions in the Rainbow division was already fighting east of Rheims. These two hundred thousand American troops struck the advancing German lines that day, held them for a time then beat them back, and from that day until the armistice, four months later, they went forward!

A little later the Twenty-fifth division, composed of men from Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri moved into the Argonne forest. Slowly but surely they penetrated that inferno. Over barbed wire entanglements across ravines, around rocks and hills in the face of the death-dealing machine guns they went until seventy of every hundred men had fallen. They were not strong enough to go farther, so they laid down and held the line—refusing to go back an inch—until they were relieved.

The writer knows Sergeant Tracy Grant of Company F, 139th Infantry regiment. His home is Morris, Oklahoma. Before the war he was a tool dresser in the employ of the Empire Oil and Gas Co. He told us the machine gunners caught his company in the open and the men fell about him so rapidly that he thought every man but himself was killed. Presently he heard his captain, E. H. Dale, of Topeka, Kansas, give orders for the men to fall to the ground and protect themselves. Gant fell behind a rock; the captain was in a shell hole and a private in another. Soon a shell struck the captain. Sergeant Gant and the private called to each other and agreed to roll to the captain. As the private rolled he was killed; as Gant rolled he was wounded in the leg. He reached his captain and was with him when he died. Wounded as he was, Sergeant Gant hid in that shell hole all afternoon and all night, firing constantly, holding his little bit of the front.

We met Sergeant Gant three months after the fight in Paris. He took off his shoe and puttee and showed where the doctors had set a plate in his shin bone, a part of which had been shot away. He was then doing police duty. He told us but four men besides himself of Company F, were living and gave their names. They are: Sergeants E. Daggs and Earl Harris of Lorado, Missouri, and Privates E. H. Wallingford and Earl Johnson of Eldorado, Kansas. Every commissioned officer was killed.

The casualty list of the Thirty-fifth division at this fight was so great that Governor Allen of Kansas, has asked for an investigation to determine whether or not the men were properly supported by artillery.

The Thirty-fifth was relieved by the veteran First division that fought until exhausted, always advancing. Then one division followed another until every German was killed, captured or driven from the forest. It fell to the Rainbow division to make the last drive and finally pierce the forest and capture the railway lines. That was the immediate thing that ended the war. On the day of the armistice our Iowa boys were at Sedan, the old battlefield where Napoleon the Third surrendered to the Prussians in 1871. Our boys stood the farthest north-east and the nearest to Germany of any of the allied troops.

One cannot conceive deeper hells than that forest. Probably more than fifty per cent of American casualties occurred here. By piercing it our boys achieved one of the outstanding triumphs of the war. For days that forest rang with the rattle of musketry and the cry of strong men in battle. The strange, wild exhilaration of death marked many a youth. Here youth and strength joined hands with death.

Our American boys first went into the fight in great numbers when the Germans were daily and hourly beating the French back. When they struck they stopped the German advance and held them dead on the line. Then they advanced, and for four months, from July 18 to November 11, they drove the enemy before them until he begged for a cessation of hostilities and accepted terms he was not allowed to debate or question.

Germany had destroyed Serbia and Russia and Belgium, invaded northern France and northern Italy, and had the best of England and France. Why was it that untrained American boys who never before had been under fire met and conquered the supermen of Germany whom the veteran allied armies of Europe were unable to hold?

It was not because they were braver than other men. As a rule all men are courageous in battle. It certainly was not because they were better trained, or because they were more skillful in the science of war. Nor were they spurred on by that greatest stimulant to men in battle—the invasion of their homeland by an enemy.

The boys themselves could answer the question if they would. But, with all their understanding they are not much given to explanations. Sergeant Gant's philosophy was correct. Said he: "It had to be done," and after a moment's pause, he added, "and we had to do it."

That's the explanation, and there's little more to be said. They were stimulated by the knowledge that the folks at home stood backer and banker to them and believed in them. There's nothing that holds a man steadfast so much as the knowledge that someone believes in him, and France and Italy believed in them. They knew the eyes of the world were upon them. They did not propose to disappoint the watching, waiting millions who looked upon them as the saviors of the world.

Then they had heard of the ridicule Germany had heaped upon them. They knew Germany looked upon them as farmers and counter-jumpers who wouldn't or couldn't fight. They had heard of the supermen of Germany who by their wave-on-wave charges would overrun them. Our red-blooded American boys would not agree that the men of Germany were superior to them on the battlefield or anywhere else.

And so they defiantly met them, these super-men of Germany, in that stupendous four months' fight—met them man to man, company to company, regiment to regiment, division to division, army to army—and completely and thoroughly whipped them on every field.

And they said we wouldn't fight.

WILL BE GLAD TO BE FREE
Marion Hostetter, who came recently from service in France, is now at Camp Travis, San Antonio, Texas, waiting a discharge, or a transfer to some other camp for discharge, and in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Hostetter, among other things says:

"I am down here for discharge and am in doubt of getting it here, as the mileage is so much, that I may be sent to Fort D. A. Russell, just out of Cheyenne, Wyoming. If sent there, guess I won't come home right away, but if I get it here, I will come by Kansas City. I will be glad to get out of the army. Had a hard time in France, where it rained most of the time we were there. We made a lot of long hikes while there, and I am about fifteen pounds lighter than when I went overseas. We lived in an old barn all winter and never had a very bad cold, though I didn't know what a fire was all winter long. The weather down here is like Wyoming in the summer. Fruit trees are all in bloom.

"If I get my discharge from here, will be home some time next week. They sure put out some feed at this camp. For supper, beef steak, French fries, sliced tomatoes, canned pineapple, cake and prunes and sweet milk. You can figure that is some feed. Never had anything like that in France, and were glad for the stum they put out."

District number 24. Report from district number 24. Just a note to tell you that we had a box supper last Wednesday night, March 12, and we took in $40.20. The purpose of the box supper was to pay for the organ we got some time ago.—Olwen Jones, teacher.

From a recent letter to this office it looks very probable that the Interstate Spelling Contest will be postponed until next fall.

District 29. I wanted to tell you about our box social. We had it Friday, March 7. Had a good crowd and made $23.50. We haven't decided just what we will do with the money yet, but think we will get a couple of good pictures and maybe some play ground apparatus.—Maurice Wright received a perfect attendance certificate February 28.—Florence Wright, teacher.

We are having to return quite a few of the monthly reports because they are not properly or correctly filled out. Teachers will please fill in ALL items as best they can, and be sure to fill in both males and females in items 1 to 7 inclusive except for item 5. Give just the total to this. The average daily attendance is found by dividing the number of days attended by the number of days of school. There can't very well be an average daily attendance of 40 when there are only 23 pupils enrolled.

District number 34. We had a program and box social here February 21. Made $44.75. We are getting a new hanging globe and the remainder will be used for library books.—Louise Herrmann, teacher.

District number 11. Am inclosing one dollar for the crusade supplies. I have been successful in placing sanitary towels in my school. All of my pupils are taking part in the crusade but those in the first and second grades.—Vada L. Hopkins, teacher.

Miss Eda Dwyer of Randolph is the new teacher in district number 22.

School district number 31 was very fortunate in persuading Miss Gertrude Hayes to take the school in that district, a vacancy being caused by Miss Mildred Cullen receiving her call to do government work in Washington.

Mrs. Roy C. Knopp is the teacher in district number 57, having taken the place of Mrs. Eda Lindman, who resigned her position when her husband returned from France.

Mr. Leon Monfort of Randolph is the new teacher in district number 38. We understand he has but recently returned from doing service for Uncle Sam.

Leona Dietrich, teacher in district number 3, reports new seats and new books ordered for additional pupils just entering, also a new blackboard mounted on a frame to be used in different parts of the room.

Windsor church: Confirmation class next Saturday at 11:45 a. m., and Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. No service next Sunday.

The republicans in congress appear to have forgotten that they lost control of the house about ten years ago under the leadership of the same group and stripe of leaders who have taken charge of the affairs on the republican side of the house. They named a new speaker, but they gave the committee making into the hands of the same old stand-patters, and their new speaker is far from a progressive.

KIDNEYS WEAKENING?

LOOK OUT!

Kidney troubles don't disappear of themselves. They grow slowly but steadily, undermining health with deadly certainty, until you fall a victim to incurable disease. Stop your troubles while there is time. Don't wait until little pains become big aches. Don't trifle with disease. To avoid future suffering begin treatment with GOLD MEDAL Haarem Oil Capsules now. Take three or four every day until you are entirely free from pain.

This well-known preparation has been one of the national remedies of Holland for centuries. In 1696 the government of the Netherlands granted a special charter authorizing its preparation and sale.

The HOUSEWIFE OF HOLLAND would almost as soon be without food as without her "Real Dutch Drops" as she quaintly calls GOLD MEDAL Haarem Oil Capsules. They restore strength and are responsible in a great measure for the sturdy, robust health of the Hollanders.

Do not delay. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with GOLD MEDAL Haarem Oil Capsules. Take them as directed, and if you are not satisfied with results your druggist will gladly refund your money. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on the box and accept no other. In sealed boxes, three sizes.

GOOD ROAD BENEFITS— FOR THE OTHER FELLOW

Editor C. S. Harris, of the Colfax Blade takes a squint at the good road benefits from another angle. Is he right?

The towns along the Short Line are now hard at work to get a slice of the state and federal roads appropriation to build a permanent road from O'Neill to Sioux City. They claim this road would have a lot of use. And we should say it would. Too darned much. Already Sioux City herself is at work on plans to pave in all four directions to a distance from fifty to seventy-five miles out and if she can see where that is profitable to her it would look foolish for Nebraska and especially the towns most affected to jump in and save her the expense. South Sioux City is a fair sample of a town within a few minutes ride of the Sioux City department stores. With a fine driveway into Sioux City all this territory would be about as close to Sioux City as are some of her suburbs now that depend on street car transportation. Just for the ride many would go there and trade without ever asking what they could buy things for at home. We think the Short Line towns had better line up with the rest of us and head our permanent road for Omaha. Omaha is a big center and would answer every legitimate business purpose and yet be far enough away so that it would be more than half a day trip down and back. The Blade editor does not like to appear small but we, of the many small country towns have identically the same interests to protect and we have as much right to look out for ourselves as have the business men of the cities who are always planning for themselves regardless of how our property values may be affected. The plan for us to follow is the same as the cities are following, namely, spend our chief road money to build good roads from our country territory into town. Their country territory is the country towns; our country territory is each individual farmer. By far our chief interest should be to see that each individual farm has a good road to it leading to the nearest town. In this way each country town may hope to maintain its individuality.

Now comes the committee who were to get such information as could be obtained relative to the proposed paving project. C. M. Craven introduced Mr. Skeels who has had a wide experience as engineer of paving and storm sewers who gave a very interesting and instructive talk. He agreeing to submit this information in writing to the committee that the report may be published in the Wayne papers for all to read and thereby get this information from first hand. This being satisfactory the committee withdrew, and the council proceeded to take up the further business before them.

The bond of L. W. Roe was submitted and approved.

In the matter of election boards the following names were submitted and on motion appointed to constitute the several boards of election to be held on the first day of April, 1919.

First Ward—Judge, Pat Dixon, Clerks, R. F. Carpenter, Martin Ringor.

Second Ward—Judge, P. C. Crockett, Clerks, C. E. Sprague, Henry Kellogg.

Third Ward—Judge, P. L. Miller, Clerks, June Conger, A. E. Bressler.

There was no other business appearing, on motion council adjourned.
L. W. ROE, City Clerk.

THE RIGHT WORD

Emmanuel Kant once remarked that a major reason why the advance of philosophy has been so slow is that men often fail to ask the right question. Doubtless that suggestion is valid in the realm of science. In other words, progress is in part dependent on clear discrimination of the problem. If, in the turmoil of the time, our leaders could always ask the right question the chance for a happy settlement of difficulties would be much greater.

Perhaps we can decide upon some characteristics of the right question, at least in social situations. First, it should be forward-looking, purposive, constructive. It is verity that society moves, changes, by reason of human activity. We know that human choices affect the direction and the speed of the movement. Hence the first characteristic of the right question is due regard for the purposes to be served. Second, the right question seeks to bring to light all facts that bear on the main problem. It is analytic, it seeks to discriminate all the elements in the situation. In the increasing complexity of modern life the task of learning all the facts and all the groups of facts is increasingly difficult. Third, the right question asks how all these facts and groups of facts are related to one another, how they act and react, on the whole process—it is synthetic. It seeks to learn in what way the situation may be reconstructed to serve desired ends.

These, then, seem to be major characteristics of helpful questioning concerning social situations and perhaps concerning any situation that it be purposive, analytic and synthetic, and hence a guide to wise action.
—Contributed.

THE ONLY WAY

The unemployed!
Everybody is talking about the surplus labor which is soon to glut every avenue in the marts of trade when the soldiers shall come home from over the sea, and when the myriad of employees shall be discharged from the government works and offices.

It is time to quit talking and time to begin doing something to provide something for all idle hands to do. In due time the country will adjust itself to the situation, but the one thing needed to prevent a panic in the labor market will be for nation, city, town and state to plan now for every possible public improvement which will call for the work of human heads and hands.

Plan for new paved streets.
Plan for permanent public high ways.
Plan for every new public building which may be needed now or in the near future.
Plan for vast irrigation canals and reservoirs.
Plan for electricity plants at all power sites on creeks and rivers.
It must be done. In the next day of general idleness in America every home will be endangered. In the next day of hungry men in America the dreams of the Lenin's will come true, and the fears of the innocent will be realized.

FREEDOM OF THE LAND!

Freedom of the Seas? Ah, yes! But the Greater holds the Less. Freedom of the Seas indeed! Such the hurt world's right and need: Yet the world-old world-distress Is not answered by this "Yes." For the seas are only planned As the roads which link the land. So, shall freedom only be For the highways of the sea? Nay, then! Let the Land be free!

Fellow-dwellers of the Earth, Of whatever state your birth, Briton, Latin, Teuton, Slav, All ye wish for, all ye have— Aye, and more than this, God wot; All your hapless sons have not, All your future years are planned

By the wisdom of your stand For the Freedom of the Land!

Now our men return by millions, Held in Bond-age by the billions; Now the rich earth offers yield— Farm and forest, mine and field— Offers to pay all, and spare Every man his living share, Offers if on one condition, That we grant her manumission, Only as the earth is manned, Only as the willing hand Spends its labor on the land. Shall the world return to health And the Bond give way to Wealth.

Thus, and only thus, shall she, Freed herself, make all men free! Neither brawn nor breath nor brains Shall give man his rightful gains With his Mother held in chains. How shall any Earth produce, Held and hoarded out of use? Strike her shackles! Make her free! Free for you, for him, for me; Then, if any Statesman be Who would make the oceans free, Lo, he finds (as one might guess) That the Greater holds the Less. Peoples! Let the Land be free Wed to Freedom of the Sea!
—Edmund Vance Cooke.

DON'T FAIL

There was a man in our town, Who thought that he was wise, And just as soon as war broke out, He ceased to advertise.

There was another man in town, Who hadn't much to say, But stead of cutting out his ads, He ran them every day.

Now Number One and Number Two, Big businesses had they, But while the latter flourished well, The former ceased to pay.

The moral you can plainly see, You know what we advise, If you would prosper day to day, Don't fail to advertise.

Sprague Tires and Tubes For Wayne Motorists

Sprague tires are built with the middle western motorist in mind. They are tires constructed to stand up mile after mile on the roads we have in this part of the country.

For instance, they have an extra ply of fabric—Sea Island fabric, the best that can be bought.

They're all built oversize, bigger and heavier than the average.

They have a tread so thick and so tough that it's mighty hard to puncture.

Sprague Tubes are 94 per cent pure rubber, and are TWICE AS THICK as most other tubes.

AVERY THRESHING OUTFIT FOR SALE

As I have decided to quit the threshing business, on account of having more than I can attend to properly on my farm, I will sell my threshing outfit which consists of a steam undermounted Avery engine of the latest model, separator 56-60, tank, belting, and in fact everything that goes to make the outfit complete. This machine has only been used four seasons and is just as good as new, in fact I will guarantee it to be in A No. 1 condition.

I am offering this machine at a sacrifice as I haven't the time to follow up the business and anyone in the market for a machine will be wise if they will investigate this bargain at once. My price for the outfit complete is only $1,600 for quick sale.

This would be a good proposition for a community machine, as a few farmers could go together and purchase the outfit and do their own threshing when they want it done, besides handle other jobs if they wanted to.

If you are interested in this proposition see me at once as I have one or two considering the machine now and the first one coming with the money will get it.
