CAME HOME WITH PRESIDENT WILSON

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shellhorn came the last of the week to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Haas, his sister, to introduce to his sister and family the wife he brought from France with him. Mr. Shellhorn was a member of Co. I, of the famous 168th infantry of the "Rainbow" division. He went with the others of that company from Council Bluffs, Iowa, and was in most of the battles that the 168th participated in until he was sent to the hospital in October. He received no wound and is thankful for that. A defective shell sent over by the enemy is the only excuse he has for being here, for himself and a lieutenant were buried beneath the dirt it threw up when it struck—but it did not explode.

When fit to leave the hospital, he was assigned to a place in the Peace Council Guard, and served in that capacity until the president and others came home on the George Washington, himself and six others bringing their wives home with them, for he was one of the seven who had some delay and a bit of red tape to cut in order to come on the ship which brought the president home, because at the start no provision had been made for the women. Most of the people have read of the matter, for it had a place in the daily papers at the time. He told the editor that the men simply made their appeal directly to President Wilson, when the army red tape stopped them, and their request was granted.

Mr. Shellhorn tells us that for six months he was one of the doorkeepers at the door of the rooms where the peace conference was held—and that he daily saw the president and the other great men who were shaping the peace terms and forming a league of nations. He said that President Wilson was a pleasant man to meet, and that he personally knew members of the guard, and had a pleasant word for them as he passed in or out.

Of his marriage and the French wife he brought to America he did not talk, except that he assured us that while American and our language and customs are strange to her, she likes the country and the people.

Speaking of the battle fronts where the boys of all of the 168th did valiant service he said that of the 150 Council Bluffs men who went with the company of 250 men known as L. company, but twenty were mustered out as members of that company when the boys came home a few weeks ago. Of course, there were other than Bluffs boys who came back with them and received their discharge and the warm welcome accorded them. Some will never return—others had been previously discharged disabled or ill or were in hospitals—and some like himself had been transferred and did not come home with the men they left with, but that they had been in the midst of hard fighting, and but few had escaped some suffering or disability in battle.

MET IN A CORNFIELD

Down near Thurston, where Wm. P. Lue went with the Mildner wedding party to take the train, their roads in some places traversed the cornfields and the corn is now large enough to hide approaching cars at the corners, and that is why the meeting. Mr. Lue and Fritz Mildner were returning after leaving the bride and groom at the Thurston station, and wending their way through a corn lined road when they came to a corner at which they were to turn, slowing down the big car nosed around the corner just in time to meet a new Dort coming and slowed down for the turn. Bump, the two cars came together before they could be stopped. The Wayne car had a radiator put out of commission, and some other damage, but was able to propel itself, except that there was no way to keep the engine from heating. The Dort was but slightly damaged, and could amble along pretty well. Mr. Lue had his car towed to Emerson by a Ford, he using his own power to help up the hills. The men said it was no one's blame, and each would stand his own damage.

A JUST VERDICT

The editor had the good fortune to secure an automobile ride from the postoffice home and back again, and without casting any reflections upon the men who so kindly give him a lift, he formed the conclusion that any driver who would speed over such a street should be fined.

CHAUTAQUA AT SCHOOL GROUNDS

When the board of directors considered all of the advantages and disadvantages of the two sites available for the coming chautauqua they voted that the high school ground was best fitted for the convenience of the public. It is a natural slope, giving a fine place for seating. It is better shaded than it was when held there previously. The play ground and play equipment of the school are there for use as needed for the junior chautauqua, the school gym might be available for use should a rainy morning come. The street there may be roped off thus removing the annoyance of passing cars something which could not be done at the other place, as along one side was a main public thoroughfare along which hundreds of cars pass during an afternoon and evening. So the meet this season will be at the school grounds.

YORK STATE MAN VISITS WAYNE

Wednesday—Addison Henry from Belmont, Allegany county, New York, came down from Bloomfield where he had been visiting at the home of his daughter for a short time, and was met at the Wayne station by his brother-in-law, A. H. Carter of Windsor. Mr. Carter tells us that he and Mr. Henry married sisters fifty years ago in Wisconsin, and one went east and the other west. This is Mr. Henry's first visit to the great prairie lands of the west, and he is unfeigned in his praise of the beauty of this county known as northeastern Nebraska. The great fields of corn, its size, and the extent of the fields almost appal him. He said to the editor, why on the way to Bloomfield up through that rolling country, one would look ahead and think he saw timber on the ridges beyond those nearer the train, but when we finally drew near it was corn, corn, corn.

Speaking of his own home in the Genesee valley, he remarked that they used to call that the garden spot of the earth—why that little valley could be set down in this country and it would be lost. Nebraska as a rich agricultural country certainly appeals to Mr. Henry, and he frankly admires it and praises it. He will have some interesting stories to tell when he reaches home again. He can give some reason for land prices there being so much less than here. We have the land that pushes things up—they have much land that has to be constantly built up by the use of fertilizers.

Woman's Club Entertained

At the Methodist church Saturday afternoon occurred the regular meeting of the Wayne Woman's club. A goodly number was out and a very enthusiastic meeting was held.

Mrs. Grace Keyser had charge of the musical numbers on the program and fourteen of her advanced pupils gave piano numbers. The writer had a printed program and expected to mark the best numbers for comment, but as the program progressed we found that every number was the best number and when the last one was played we had checked every one. The program was a credit to teacher and pupils from start to finish.

After the close of the musical program Rev. S. X. Cross, followed by Attorney F. S. Berry, came before the club and gave booster talks for the sale of chautauqua tickets which is to be held at Wayne. The drive will be Tuesday of next week, under direction of the civic committee of the club composed of Mrs. F. S. Berry, Mrs. Geo. Crossland and Mrs. Eli Laughlin. They both said a lot of nice things to the ladies as a preliminary to a request that the club take up the sale of chautauqua tickets. The ladies are especially busy at this time but cheerfully consented to take over this sale of tickets and they urgently request the people of Wayne to get together on this proposition, have your money ready when the committee call, and boost, boost, boost!

After a short business session the club adjourned, every member present feeling better for the pleasant afternoon and more enthused to go about the daily duties with a light heart. "Do something for someone every day" is a good motto. Get selfishness out of the system. A get-together movement will put the Woman's club where it's opportunities for the good of the community cannot be measured.

THE NORMAL MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT

The budget committee scored another success in bringing the Davies Opera Company to the Normal. The two performances, Masque, by Audren and the well known Gilbert and Sullivan favorites of a generation, The Mikado, delighted the audience. Increase in the attendance at the second entertainment over that at the first testifies to the popularity of the company.

The series of opera performances are of the light and airy nature that gives the joy and release of good comedy. The members of the troupe are individually good singers and Mr. Davies by his coaching puts much life and enthusiasm into the work.

The timbre and flexibility of the tenor voice of Henry Smith would in the judgment of Wayne singers admirably fit him for grand opera, while Mr. Orson Curtis has a remarkably powerful bass well under control. The lady performers also sang well and Miss Hauss is eminently satisfactory as an accompanist. After hearing them in the auditorium of the Normal the local Woman's club engaged the performers to give Olivette, another opera by author of Masque, in city. Many of the students attended this third entertainment in one week by the same troupe. Then, on Monday night the same company played successfully to the Normal audience for the third time.

We are indebted to Professor J. J. Coleman for the following account of the piano recital last Friday night:

Miss Selma Ollenburg, pupil of Mrs. J. T. House, gave a most pleasing and finished pianoforte recital to a large and appreciative audience at the Normal auditorium last Friday evening. Her numbers were well selected and Miss Ollenburg showed herself a young pianist with fine temperament and her interpretation of the various numbers was at all times excellent. The Beethoven Sonata, Op. 14 No. 2, was especially satisfying and poetic. Miss Ollenburg impressed her hearers with the authenticity of her artistry and the reality of her musical and poetic gifts. Her touch is fluent, her scale passages brilliant and even, and her strength very satisfying. It will give us great pleasure to hear this young artist again.

A POPULAR CONCERT COMING

The Liberty Sextette, better known as the Welsh Sextette of Carroll, will give a concert at the opera house Friday evening, July 25, for the benefit of the Wayne Woman's club. This is their first entertainment since the return of their first tenor from overseas. These singers will do chautauqua work during the month of August, and are engaged to sing at the state fair the first week of September. They have often sung in Wayne and need no introduction to Wayne people. Come and spend the evening with these excellent singers. Admission for adults, 50c. Admission to gallery and for children, 25c.

A CHANGE OF FEDERAL ROAD

By reading the proceedings of the board of county commissioners you may learn particulars of the change of the county road between this place and Wisner. Responsive to the request of many, both in Wayne and among those living south and southwest of Wayne, the road as now recommended by the board will extend south of Wayne for a number of miles before turning east. The first placing of the road was to go one mile east just south of Wayne and then south to the county line.

PICTURES OUT OF THE ORDINARY

Daddy Long Legs and the advertising he got and the advertising he did for the Crystal has caused the people to ask for some other features out of the ordinary, and although Manager Galley could not secure the reel he wanted for next Monday evening, he did find something which is said by all to be a real feature, and when you know that it is a Rex Beach production you will know that "Too Fat to Fight" will be worth your time and the price of admission.

EXTRA SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Governor McKelvie has issued a call for the Nebraska legislature to meet at Lincoln in extra session, Tuesday, July 29, to consider the ratification of the suffrage amendment. This amendment and providing for their pay during the session are the only duties mentioned in the call.

MONTANA CATTLE AND SHEEP STARVING

Drought-stricken Montana has appealed to Nebraska to help save its stock. Lack of rain has caused the ranges to dry up and the cattle and sheep of a large part of the state must be shipped out to keep them from starving. Already some have been shipped into this state and into Minnesota and other states. Large numbers of sheep and some cattle have also been marketed at rather low prices. The University Department of Rural Economics is sending letters to stock growers, telling them of the opportunity to buy Montana and Wyoming cattle and sheep. The abundance of feed in Nebraska will care for much more stock than there is in the state at present. The railroads, under government supervision have made a rate of only one-third regular tariff.

TWO VIEW POINTS

It is frequently said that there are at least two sides to any question. So it was in this incident related to the editor. The wage of farm help was uppermost at the time in the mind of one we asked for a bit of news the other day, and the editor was told that some remarkable wages were asked and expected. A young man came to help the day with haying, and as the dew was on in the morning work could not begin until about 10 o'clock, when they went after the hay. Soon dinner time was at hand, and then it was pretty warm for a time for such strenuous labor. But after a two-hour vacation work was resumed and more hay hauled. At the close of the day, or about 5 o'clock work ceased, whether finished or not we did not learn. What is the pay was the next question, and the young man after meditation said $7 would be about right—but later reconsidered and admitted that he had not worked all day, and that $5 would do. Four loads of hay were hauled in the stack as the sum total of the day's work. When the writer was younger and wages and living were less he "shoveled" hay on a farm, and as hay in those days was all bunched up, the dew did not hinder, and work began in the morning and ceased when the sun had gone to rest frequently, and from twelve to fourteen loads made a days work for two men with the help of a "kid" to load, and we had no horse forks. The wage was $1 per day in haying and a little more for harvesting, and the man by the month drew from $14 to $18 per month.

HOME FROM WAR SERVICE

Rev. Dan Burgess, who left here almost a year ago to do "Y" work in France, returned to his home at Carroll Saturday evening. He did not arrive on the other side until the armistice had been signed, and so was too late for the best of the show—or the worst of it, perhaps. He was rather travel weary, having put in practically full time on the way since leaving France. He was anxious to make the trip home before Sunday, as he did not want to be stranded as near home as Wayne, as he might have been by not hurrying. He was no exception to the rule of those who have been coming since war work ceased. The sooner he could get home the better it pleased him.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lerber went to Madison Sunday, morning to spend the day at the home of her parents at that place.

Link Welbaum of Wakefield was here Saturday, and according to his plans then he shut up his shop in that town for a month and left to visit his brother at Marshall, Wyoming, and planned to spend a month out in the high, dry, clear air of the mountains. He was anticipating a good time.

A big cooling and a very little rain made a welcome weather change Sunday evening. Threatening clouds sent joy riders skurrying home, and gave many people who did not intend to attend church an excuse to remain away.

WHAT A CITY LOT WILL PRODUCE IN WAYNE

One trouble with our gardening propositions is that we do not work them enough. We have watched the garden of John Morgan, not only this summer, but other summers, and it never fails of being good. This year is no exception. He keeps it free from weeds, when one crop is out he starts another, and thus keeps things growing at all times. Mr. Morgan does not garden as a commercial proposition, but for some good things for himself and less fortunate neighbors to eat. True he sells his surplus of potatoes and perhaps some other staples, but of a lot of the little money-making truck he just aims at a home supply, but for him it does so well that he usually has an excess.

This season he put in a city lot to potatoes. We do not know whether or not he planted them in the moon, but he has a fine potato patch. He has dug and marketed a lot of them—or we should say a part of them—selling a little less than the prevailing store price—and the stores could not get their orders filled. His price was 80 cents the peck for the early ones, and he sold more than $43 worth from the lot, and estimating the yield for the lot at the same rate as the part dug and the same price the crop would bring $175 for the lot. He says that if he wanted to give up fishing and farm three city lots he believes he could make his living from them. We wonder if it would not pay a lot of people to farm less and farm it better rather than more and not do it so well.

MILDNER-DAWSON

There was an early morning wedding Tuesday, July 22, 1919, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mildner when they gave their daughter, Elsie J., in marriage to Reuben A. Dawson, Rev. S. X. Cross officiating. The home was simply decorated for the event, and a wedding breakfast was partaken of immediately after which the bride and groom accompanied by her brother, Fritz, and Miss Henrietta Moler, who had acted as groomsman and bridesmaid, left by automobile for Thurston, from where the bride and groom were taken by train to Omaha, the first stage of their wedding trip.

Miss Henrietta Moler was the only guest and witness save the members of the immediate family.

The bride is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mildner, who has spent her life in this community, loved, respected and honored by all—a graduate from the high school and the college and a successful teacher. Of the groom we know little except that he too is a graduate of the State Normal here, a successful teacher, and a young man of sufficient ability to win the rank of lieutenant in the service of his country, from which he was released a few weeks ago.

He is to be superintendent of the school at Brunswick the coming year, and Mrs. Dawson will be one of his assistants. They will be at home at Brunswick at the close of their wedding journey. They will go to their new home with the best wishes of many friends.

MANY PRIZES FOR THE BOYS AND GIRLS

Nearly 100 prizes are being offered for excellence in boys' and girls' club work in Nebraska this year. In addition, several hundred dollars will be distributed among boys' and girls' club demonstration teams at the state fair. To encourage boys and girls to complete their work, prizes offered go only to those completing their project and filing a final report. Localities wishing to send a demonstration team to the state fair should write the State Club Leader, Junior Extension Service, University Farm, Lincoln. Prizes will be offered demonstration teams in corn, pig, garden, sewing, cooking, baking, rabbit, and chicken club work. The winner of first place at the state fair regardless of project will be rewarded with all expenses in the Interstate fair at Sioux City in September.

THE FARMER MASS MEETING

On another page is a report of the farmer mass convention called for last Saturday, and this is to notify those not in attendance that the meeting did not finish its business, and adjourned to meet this week Saturday at the city hall to complete its work. You should come. While the meeting was called by the farmers it is open to all.

SOCIAL NOTES

The Young Ladies Bible Study Circle enjoyed a very happy time at the home of Mrs. E. B. Young Saturday evening there being nearly forty splendid girls present, many of them students here during the summer school who have been members of the Bible class. Not a few came to Wayne, anticipating a pleasant fellowship in the circle and many were the delighted expressions over the new friendships formed and new experiences gained during the summer months at Wayne. Some of the girls will be joyously welcomed back in the fall for the year's work and the circle will always hold a helping hand to every girl. Miss Charlotte Ziegler will be hostess next Saturday evening.

One of the pleasant social events of the season is set for Wednesday next, and it is no less event than the annual picnic of the County club members and their friends. It is to be a real picnic. Each member of the club is to bring his family and is privileged to invite a friend and family, and bring plenty to eat. Golf and other amusements will be the order of the afternoon, and at 7:30 the dinner is to be served after which the music will begin and a social evening will be passed. If the weather man again stops the event, the day following will be the time. The committee in charge want this to be a record-breaker.

A very pleasant surprise was that which came to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Helkes at their country home south of Wayne last week when a party of sixteen of their Dakota City relatives and friends drove to the home unannounced. The day was happily passed, and a splendid dinner served, and all felt that it was good to have been there, and that they would find a hearty welcome should they come again.

The Senior Bible Study Circle met at the home of Mrs. Chas. McClellan Tuesday afternoon in regular session with Mrs. Fred Benschhof as lesson leader. A splendid lesson heart to heart talks and prayer for various objects, closed a profitable afternoon. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Wm. Benschhof and Miss Ida Randall of Leaside, South Dakota. Mrs. A. E. Ladde will be hostess next week.

There was a very pleasant social gathering at the Oman home last Thursday evening after the concert when a few congenial young people met to show Wayne hospitality to some of the members of the Davies Opera Company. The Misses Oman and Miss Elizabeth Mines assisted by Mrs. Oman were hostesses. After a social hour light refreshments were served.

Members and guests of the Monday club to the number of nearly two score enjoyed an afternoon and evening with a picnic dinner at the Country club grounds Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker were out-of-town guests. Golf, music, dancing and a social time were most heartily enjoyed by all present.

The O. E. S. will meet in special session for initiatory work at their hall Friday evening, August 1. At 6:30 a covered dish supper will be served, after which the meeting will proceed with the work. No member or visitor in the city should miss this gathering, says Mrs. Mines.

The families of A. A. Welch, Fred Philleg and Rev. Bard are to indulge in a picnic dinner at the County club grounds this evening.

-PAYING BEGINS AT WAYNE

Some have predicted that Wayne was not going to pave this season, but the work has commenced. The alley north of the Central Meat Market is now having a concrete paving applied as far back as the building extends. It will be a marked improvement to the alley, which was one of the worst in the place.

Ex-President Taft offers suggestions for ratification of the league and the peace treaty. He thinks six paragraphs of the pact be accepted with a note which would define the construction placed on them in America.

It is a trip of great possibilities.

G. Garwood of Carroll was her Saturday morning with his son, Rodney D., of the navy wireless service. The young man was first on the Black Hawk, but has lately been transferred to the big ship taken from the Germans, the Kaiser Wilhelm. He was given a seven-day leave while the ship was in New York, and that gave him two days with home folks and nearly five days travel going and coming. He has a responsible position and does not especially dislike it; but now that war is over he is hoping that he may soon secure his release from service and again become a "land-lubber."

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver O'Connell who were here from Sioux City visiting at the homes of their parents, M. O'Connell and S. L. Miller and families, returned to their home Monday. They stayed a day longer than they had expected hoping to be here at the homecoming of the lady's brother, Wayne Miller, who has been away for more than two years in the service. He went from here to the border with the boys and put in two years. His last service was in a hospital at New York, for he had been assigned to the medical department. This hospital is to close about August 1, and as he had sent his bag home, which reached here Saturday or Sunday they were hoping that he was not far behind it.

The Monopipe Furnace

STEEL Construction is gas tight construction. The Monopipe Furnace was practically the first pipeless furnace to be placed on the market which was gas and smoke tight.

Prior to the advent of the Monopipe all of the pipeless furnaces were of cast construction—containing many joints—which had to be filled with cement. Sooner or later, usually sooner, the cement cracked and became loosened—then the owner's troubles began. Smoke and gas often filled the house and dirtied walls, draperies, etc.

It is bad enough for grown people to breathe gas occasionally—for children it is permanently harmful.

The Monopipe Furnace is built of heavy steel plate, cold riveted under enormous pressure. There is not a single joint from which gas, smoke or dirt can escape.

Look at the cut shown here. The double feed door permits the use of large chunks of coal or wood. The indirect radiator on the back gives an added fire travel of several feet, thereby extracting all the heat out of your fuel before it enters the smoke pipe. Every Monopipe Furnace is equipped with a large moisture pan for supplying the necessary amount of humidity to the warm air.

It will pay you well to investigate thoroughly the merits of the Monopipe before placing your order for a pipeless furnace.

THE FARMERS' MASS CONVENTION SATURDAY

It was not really much of a farmer convention, judged by numbers, but after it got under way it proved most interesting and instructive. There was not to exceed a dozen farmers present, but that may be excused so far as part of them were concerned—on account of the very busy season. But with others it doubtless was because they do not realize the vast possibilities they are neglecting when they fail to see that their rights, and the rights of all people are safeguarded in the drafting of a new constitution. Corporate interests realize the importance of it, and are leaving nothing undone to control the making of a new fundamental law. They are even threatening to make a contest against permitting the election this fall, though the legislature elected to represent the people have decreed that it shall be. On what grounds, you may ask do they try to thwart the will of the people? Simple. The old constitution, they claim, says it is unconstitutional.

If that be true, we certainly need a constitutional convention, and need it now. But if it be unconstitutional to call this election what is to make any special election constitutional? The old constitution was built, like our new code law and patterned after an Illinois constitution which the people of that state have tried repeatedly to change and amend, and always they have found it "unconstitutional." No state should tolerate a constitution which thwarts the will of the people rightfully expressed. If Nebraska is in that sort of box, it is time for bursting the box-kicking over the traces. When G. S. Mears and Harry Siman as our representatives, and a majority of the duly elected representatives of every other county in the state officially say that we may elect members for a constitutional convention—who has the audacity to try to stop us?

The facts are that those who would stop the election are those who are afraid of the people being allowed to express their will. One speaker at this gathering said the old constitution was written by lawyers and had ever been construed by lawyers—he is one who should know, for he is a lawyer.

But we are breaking away from the subject. This meeting was called to order by Nels Johnson, who issued the call for the meeting, acting as a member of a committee of 100 selected in all parts of the state for the sole purpose of interesting the people, and especially the farmers in selecting suitable candidates for the coming convention. Mr. Johnson was elected chairman, and later E. O. Gardner was named to act as secretary of the meeting. Mr. Johnson stated the reason for the meeting and asked any present to speak. J. G. W. Lewis, whose friends have asked him to be a candidate for the position this fall was among those present, and was asked to give his views.

Mr. Lewis Talks

Mr. Lewis stated that he would have to approach the problem of a constitutional convention in the spirit of an impartial student; that it was impossible at this time to state with accuracy what should go into a constitution for Nebraska.

However, certain fundamental principles could be stated with confidence. First, the whole structure must be based on democracy or the will of the people. No other foundation exists. With this in view, it must be constantly kept in mind that the people will have the final chance at accepting or rejecting the work of the convention. It will be useless for any group of men to put up what the people as a whole do not want.

As affording a more complete choice Mr. Lewis said he would favor submitting the work of the convention not as a whole to be adopted or rejected altogether, but in such a way that the choice of the people could be had on specific propositions separately.

As encouraging democratic control of government, Mr. Lewis said he favored the encouragement rather than the restriction of free speech and the press.

The third point of even-handed justice as a preventive of discontent, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" holds good with respect to much of the political and social unrest of the day, said the speaker. There is no possibility of having one class of people really gain anything at the expense of other classes. The fundamental defect in I. W. W.ism and Bolshevism and other kindred movements is that they try to do this. They believe in fierce class antagonism and the possibility of the gain of one class at the expense of others.

In the last place, Mr. Lewis said that any constitution must be elastic enough to admit of growth. No set of men can foresee all the needs of the future. No set of men can devise a system which will operate itself. Much must be left to future legislatures and the people must watch their legislatures. The history of constitutional restrictions generally is that they hinder rather than help the people.

In indicating a little more definitely the possible changes that might well be wrought in the state constitution, Mr. Lewis enumerated the following:

The possibility of a more scientific basis of taxation.

The possibility of better administrative organization through a properly safe-guarded short ballot.

The possibility of some improvement in legal and judicial procedure to eliminate technicalities and perhaps diminish somewhat the power of courts to set aside acts of the legislature.

The improvement of means of cooperation between producers and consumers, regardless of vested interests in opposition.

Otto Ulrich spoke briefly urging a square deal—and wanted no favors granted the special and big interests. He recognized that the press is a power for good or evil, and feared the corporation controlled press.

Mr. Johnson said he thought the many farmer organizations should be federated that they might work together in better cooperation.

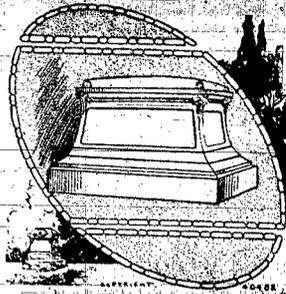

C. H. Hendrickson would have corporations given a hard jolt by the taxing power.

D. D. Davis wanted only a square deal and fair play for the farmer. And that was the sentiment expressed by Aug. Hohneke, V. L. Dayton was asked to speak, and did briefly, urging open diplomacy.

A motion was carried that it was the sense of the meeting that the farmers of the county present a candidate—but the question of who was not answered, and to answer that question the meeting adjourned to reconvene next Saturday afternoon, when it was hoped that many more would be present and participate in the deliberations.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH WAYNE NOW?

A few evenings ago the editor had a confidential talk with a resident of this place, and he predicted that the future growth of Wayne would be slow. When pressed for a reason he said that to him the great drawback was the lack of a place or places of amusement. Our parks are simply land and a few trees growing about. We have no boating, no bathing, no real amusement, such as moving pictures in the park—we have no band to make a park concert, and our Sundays are, in his opinion, too closely guarded. He would have it so that one might attend a picture show on Sunday if desired, might hear a band concert or purchase a soft drink or even play a game of pool or billiards. He says that your young men go to other places for such entertainment, rather than stay at home, and that this means added expense

MONUMENTS

To The Public:

We have just received the finest line of monuments ever brought to Wayne. Beautiful and lasting Pink and Blue Westerly granite. "Westerly" in granite is like Sterling on silver—it means quality. We feel that never in the two years since we located at Wayne have we had a large supply of better granites. In this part of the state we have become so well known that most of our advertising is done through our friends. But we take this means to urge any one contemplating the purchase of a monument to come in while our stock is complete. But a short time ago we could only say that our stock was second to several others in the state, NOW we can say it is second to NONE. Our display room is interesting to anyone. Come in.

to them, and also that when away they are out of the control of a certain home influence which often restrains them from doing some things that are not considered very proper. True, we have the churches and church services—but the question comes, are they doing all that they might to make the stranger and the single man who may not take kindly to their brand of religion truly contented and at home? Perhaps they could really do more good by not being quite so good. It is hard for many who have homes and home comforts to get the view-point of the fellow who has not such places open to him. If half of us could go to a strange city and live in a room and a boarding house, keep busy with our daily task six days in the week—then simply sit round the other day and have nothing to do, no particular place to go—not be inclined to read much—would not most of us long for a work day to come again? Would not the day of rest be the most tiresome of all? We have our County club for its members and some of their friends—but the comparative stranger may not be welcome there—or at least not made to feel a welcome. Now we are not giving these views to find fault—we are not knocking, but as Burns said in verse, it is sometimes good to take a look at ourselves as others see us. Can we do better? Are we too conservative? Make examination.

Members of the U. S. senate are beginning to realize that it is not the president, but themselves who are on trial before the people—and that the treaty and the league are proper questions for discussion—not the president. If any one of the whole kicking bunch had anything to suggest or submit as an improvement upon the league idea, people would gladly consider their question. Practically all of them have in other days gone on record as favoring the league idea—and we have not seen when or where they have given a valid reason for a change of heart.

J. G. W. Lewis is this week filling his petition as a candidate for the representative from this county as a member of the constitutional convention. His petition contains nearly twice the number of names necessary for filing, and is truly nonpartisan, both democrats and republicans signing. Nearly if not quite every precinct in the county is represented in the list, so he will feel, if elected that he is truly a county representative. All should be interested in having this county represented by an able man and one who has studied economic questions and can present his views.

Now that the war is all over except in the U. S. senate the people are using the thrift stamp system of helping pay the debt, or rather of putting their money at the disposal of Uncle Sam and letting the government pay the interest to them. It is a good and a safe investment, and some of the great fraternal orders with money in their charge are wisely coming to recognize their duty to the government by making loans. We see that the Moose association of New York state voted to invest a million dollars in that way, and the Elks of the same state have taken a half million of the thrift stamps. It is a fine way to invest the funds, and aid the government pay its maturing obligations.

ROOSEVELT ON THE LEAGUE

(Norfolk Neb., News)

There has been considerable speculation of late as to what position Theodore Roosevelt would have taken with regard to the peace treaty and particularly the league of nations covenant, if he were living today.

It is impossible, naturally, for any living man to say precisely what he would have thought of the document as it is drawn. As to his views on the main principles involved, there does not seem to be any occasion for doubt.

Mr. Roosevelt had written a great deal in favor of the world federation before the war. In October, 1914, three months after the war broke out, he wrote an article for the New York Times which includes these passages:

"The one permanent move for obtaining peace which has been suggested with any reasonable chance of attaining its object is by an agreement among the great powers, in which each should pledge itself not only to abide by the decisions of a common tribunal, but to back with force the decision of the common tribunal."

"The nations (members of the league) should agree to certain rights which should not be questioned, such as territorial integrity, their rights to deal with their own domestic affairs, and such matters as whom they should or should not admit to residence and citizenship within their own borders."

Recommending, as part of the league organization, "an amplified Hague court," he maintained that member nations should "agree not only to abide, each of them, by the decision of the court, but all of them to unite with their military forces to enforce the decree of the court as against any recalcitrant member. Under these circumstances it would be possible to agree on a limitation of armaments which would be real and effective."

As for results which might reasonably be expected from such a league: "It would be impossible to say that such an agreement would at once and permanently bring universal peace, but it would certainly mark an important advance. It would certainly mean that the chances of war were minimized and the prospects of confining and regulating war immensely increased. Such a scheme will mean that at last a long stride has been taken in the effort to put the collective strength of civilized mankind behind the collective purpose of mankind to secure the peace of righteousness, the peace of justice, among the nations of the earth."

Minnesota is next door to North Dakota. Governor Burnquist, who has been at the helm in Minnesota affairs, takes the position that every one connected with the Nonpartisan League or with the Federation of Labor is necessarily guilty of treason. We presume that the governor will admit that the people of the United States are themselves the best judges of what is treason and what is not. An election has just been held to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Congressman Van Dyke. It was held in St. Paul under the very nose of Governor Burnquist. A candidate was running who was perfectly acceptable to the governor. Nevertheless, Oscar Keller, running as an independent labor candidate with the backing of the Nonpartisan League, won by a plurality of 3,000. His platform called for immediate ratification of the Peace Treaty without change, for the covenant of the league of nations, a comprehensive development policy for railways, waterways, and merchant marine, and for a five-year extension of government control over the railroad. There is no doubt that Mr. Keller, according to Governor Burnquist's definitions, was running on a treasonable platform backed by a treasonable organization. Yet he won the election. This should effectually dispose of treason talk from Governor Burnquist. No doubt it will, and the governor as well at the next election. The Public.

SOME JOKE

The following comes to the Democrat from Madison, Wisconsin, and we are wondering who the joke was in, and what became of the brewer. If a man or men were to show that much liquor here he would be in the hands of the sheriff or his many friends, and it is hard to tell which:

Editor of Nebraska Democrat,
Wayne, Nebraska.

Dear Sir:

The following was a clipping taken from the Daily Cardinal, University of Wisconsin:
"LeRoy Owen from Wayne, Nebraska, had narrow escape from drowning in the waters of Lake Mendota. Only by the prompt action on the part of his fraternity brothers of the Delta Tau Delta Fraternity he was saved. Owen said that he couldn't understand the reason as the water was very shallow at the point where he was. The joke of the whole thing was that some one asked for whiskey and before three minutes had passed there were at least four quarts of the fluid on the spot."—Bob.

A TIMELY AND PERTINENT QUESTION, THIS

(Norfolk Press)

Last week Gene Owen, the Press' foreman, went to Iowa on a vacation and there suddenly decided to engage in the printing business for himself. As a consequence the Press is left without help—unwarned. Printers are scarce—you wonder if they are not to be a trade extinct in another few years. Why? Everywhere there is need of them. Wages have been climbing rapidly. The work is much more pleasant than it used to be because of improved conditions, better equipment and shorter hours. We have not seen a so-called "ramp printer" in more than five years. We used to "entertain" them at lunch regularly. Where are they? In the past two years we have visited every newspaper office in north Nebraska. We saw no apprentices—heard of none. Why? What are the boys and girls doing who used to want to learn the printing trade? Girls borrow money to go to school at Wayne or Lincoln to later teach at from $75 to $90 the month, nine months in the year. The printing office would be glad to teach them a better trade free, paying them beside and they could earn twice the money they can teaching after they had finished and that without the worry of summer schools, examinations and the red tape that goes with teaching. The same way with stenography and bookkeeping. A linotype operator can always find employment yet our machine seems to hold no appeal for the girl who pays out good money to attend business college. What does the future hold? It seems that consideration of the help problem should find careful consideration at the approaching meetings of the newspaper associations.

$225 Cut in Price of Titan 10-20

Beginning July 1st, 1919, the 1920 price of the Titan 10-20 kerosene tractor is $1,000 cash f. o. b. factory; $1050 when time is given. Reasonable terms will be given to any man who needs the Titan now and cannot pay cash in full. These terms are new.

We have reduced the price of the Titan 10-20 from $1,225 to $1,000. This big cut is not justified by present prices of materials and labor, but is made in anticipation that the largely increased volume of business developed will offset the reduction. The Titan now becomes the world's most popular priced 3-plow tractor.

If you have been holding off buying a tractor because $1,000 was your limit for a good 3-plow machine, your price will now buy the best one.

To sell the Titan 10-20 at this low price, not a single necessary feature has been taken off to be bought at extra cost. The Titan comes to you complete. The Harvester Company is too old at the business to offer you a tractor which is not 100% efficient at the drawbar and 100% efficient on the belt.

Remember, the Titan is a 3-plow tractor. Don't confuse it with low-powered 2-plow machines. For a fair comparison as to price, add one-half the cost of any 2-plow tractor to its advertised price, then add the cost of all the extras you must buy, and that will put it on a par with the Titan 3-plow tractor. Then compare values.

In addition, remember the Titan is a genuine kerosene tractor. Gasoline as tractor fuel is unwarranted extravagance. Don't forget that we give you a written guarantee that the Titan operates efficiently on kerosene.

You can't make a mistake if you select a Titan 10-20 at its present low price. It will give you power satisfaction that will stand by you steadily season after season at drawbar and belt. You may rely on Harvester reputation for good service and fair dealing. Go to your dealer. Arrange for immediate shipment. This price reduction may make delivery difficult later. Place your order now.

- Starting and Service—No extra charge.

Miss Edna Mahaffey, the daughter of E. C. Mahaffey went to Columbus Wednesday to visit friends for a time. The little one came here a year ago to be with her father, and while not in the best of health she seems better and stronger than when she came. Mrs. Mahaffey accompanied her to Norfolk.

D. L. Brainard from the Citizens National bank, left Wednesday afternoon to meet Mrs. Brainard, who was to start by automobile to visit Wayne and aid in selecting their home in this city. Mr. Brainard planned to meet her at some point in Iowa near the river, and together they would drive to Wayne, expecting to reach here sometime today.

Chas. Weeces, who went to Storm Lake the first of the week by automobile with L. M. Rodgers, returned Tuesday evening. He reported that Mr. Rodgers was waiting for his car of household goods when he left for home. The Rodgers wife and daughter will go to join him as soon as he reports the car there and the goods ready for living.

F. S. Morgan, who has been away for a week, not only attended the state golf meet at Omaha and had a heap of fun, but took a few days off from there and went to Harlan, Iowa, where he was born and raised, and spent a few days renewing old acquaintances. It is about eight years since he was last at his old home before.

I have in stock now a line of the latest music in the Columbia records. I also have the Columbia Grafanola, the music machine without a superior, for sale, and am still offering them at the last year price in spite of the sharp advance in all other high-class machines. So says A. G. Bohnert, who sells lots of records from his home on South Main street. He invites you to call and listen to music of the Grafanola.—adv

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Fero, from Niagara Falls came last week to visit here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Soules, the ladies being cousins. Mr. Fero is a railroad man and is spending a short vacation in this state. This was his first visit to Wayne, though he visited West Point about two years ago. Wednesday they continued their journey to Neligh to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dolph. After a few days there they will return to Wayne and then off for home.

Mr. Tranquill is already at work there, and his partner comes as soon as his time expires at the Central garage, this week.

Last evening, following an entertainment given for them by the department of expression most of the students joined in parties who made the circuit of the place, going to the home of the different members of the faculty and serenading them, with music which had the charms untold and that well might move the savage breast as the poet once said. It has been a successful term.

 Mrs. S. A. Heikes from Dakota City came the last of the week for a short visit at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Chas. Heikes, south of Wayne.
 Miss Winnie Meier, who is taking a fortnight's vacation from the Carhart hardware, left Tuesday morning, accompanied by her sister, Anna, to visit and sightsee a few days at Long Pine.
 Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pilger from Pierce were Wayne visitors Monday, he coming as a member of the state board of education to visit the Normal, the wife to visit her sisters, Mrs. Ed Samuelson and Mrs. Burret W. Wright. Their son, Claude, accompanied them.
 Those who have been feeding my condensed buttermilk are not only loud in its praise, but they prove that they mean what they say by repeat orders. I am now buying it in quantities which enables me to make a price of $4.50 per 100 pounds, and those who have used it claim that it is the most economical feed they can get for hogs and poultry.  Carl Clasen was called to Chicago last Thursday by the serious illness of his father, Carl O. Clasen, who had to undergo an operation for gallstones, and as he was near four score years of age, it was realized that his chances of recovery were very small. He passed away early Monday morning, a week after the operation. His daughter, Miss Esther went from here Friday to be at his bedside. Mr. Clasen had visited his son here a time or two, and formed the acquaintance of a number of Wayne people.
 We still have a few crossings that make a better check to auto speeding than the plain clothes police officer. There should be a few of those crossings fixed on West First street, where the habit of "stepping on it" as soon as Pearl street is crossed is said to be the rule rather than the exception. Some day, if this continues, some of the many children who play along that street may be crippled or killed and then there will be a great holler. The street for several blocks there is said to be used by some almost as a speedway.
 Mrs. P. J. Gossard came last Friday to visit here at the home of her son, A. P. Gossard and family for a week, when she plans to go to Bloomfield for a visit with the son living there. She came from Washington county here, and came there from Canada, where she spent the winter with a son. In spite of her more than 80 years of age she travels much alone, and is well able to make her way about unaided or unaccompanied though it so happened that she had a companion when she made the long trip from western Canada to Nebraska.
 Mrs. Kelly Gossard and children who have been visiting at Hay Springs and Harrison, came back to Wayne a week or more ago and are staying here until Mr. Gossard gets a place in which to live at Lincoln, if he can secure one. He has accepted a place as coffee salesman for McLaughlin & Co., of Chicago, and will have charge of territory known as the South Platte district, which embraces most of the state south of the Platte river in Nebraska. He will probably have two assistants to work the territory thoroughly. They plan to move so as to be settled before the school year opens.
 Lt. Leo Pryor, who has been in service of Uncle Sam here and over on the other side was home for a short furlough last week, and left Sunday to report at Camp Grant, at Rockford, Illinois, where he expects to receive his discharge in a short time. His mother accompanied him and went to Chicago, where he will join her as soon as released. Lt. Pryor was assigned to duty in the Quartermaster department, and soon proved his worth in the capacity of accountant, and advanced to position of much responsibility. The vast sums which pass through the hands of those who serve in the office of the commissary department in time of war are something almost beyond comprehension of the civilian. We simply know that Mr. Pryor and others in the same class of work were a mighty necessary arm of the army. He expects to soon have his release, and has not decided just where he will enter his civil life occupation when free. He entered the service from David City, where he had been since finishing law school and was establishing a good business.
 Mrs. W. H. Pingree from Coon Rapids, Iowa, who is visiting in this county, and was a guest at the True Prescott home, went to Carroll Monday evening for a visit.

 Miss Anna Sund from Yankton, South Dakota, came Monday evening to visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sund, and with her many Wayne friends.
 W. A. and Chas. Hiseox were called to Hastings Sunday by word of the approaching end of their sister's illness. Mrs. Cook, who has been hopelessly ill for several months, had sent for them. They went by automobile.
 Frank Heyer and family from Meta, Missouri, returned home Tuesday after a two weeks' visit here at the home of his brother-in-law, Frank Schulte and family. Mr. Heyer was here ten years ago, and was much impressed with the development which had taken place in this vicinity during that time. He probably was much surprised at the increase in land values.
 Mrs. Henry Rath from Dalton, who has been visiting for the past two weeks at Merville, Iowa, came Monday evening from that place to visit friends in her old home neighborhood. She went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Sydow, her daughter that evening. She said that the wheat crop at Dalton was proving a good one, and that in the Merville, Iowa, vicinity it was a near failure, the same as here.
 Hans Ott, who grows a herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle on his farm northwest of Wayne sent a car of them to the Omaha market Monday afternoon, loading at Carroll. Mr. Ott tells us that most of the load are yearlings, from 800 to 1,000 pound weight, and that some one will get choice "baby beef" from them unless they should be picked up by some feeder who wanted a very choice bunch to feed. Mr. Ott has been successfully growing cattle of this breed for a number of years which is evidence that he considers them excellent. His brother, Claus Ott went in with the shipment, as Hans has too much harvest on hand to leave just now.

 Wilder Morgan and his son, Russell, were here a few days to visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, and with his brother, F. S. Morgan. Their home is at Granite Falls, Minnesota, and he reports that they have been fortunate there this season in getting a pretty good wheat crop, with good oat and corn prospects.
 When Miss Alice Root returned last week from her visit at Albion she was accompanied by Miss Eileen Sweeney of Omaha, who had been visiting there. Miss Sweeney returned to her Omaha home the last of the week, and Miss Root accompanied her to Wayne where they spent Saturday forenoon visiting at the Normal where both had attended school.
 Mr. and Mrs. Ensign Young came about ten days ago from the east to spend a vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Young. The young Mr. Young is a member of a successful company of evangelists, and is the leading man for the music. He has been most successful in this work, and they have conducted some very successful meetings in many parts of the country.
 Victor Carlson, who has been spending the past five or six weeks visiting among relatives and friends of younger days in Iowa, Illinois and other eastern points, came home last Thursday evening. He reports a good visit, and that crop conditions where he visited were no better than normal. We notice that he has gotten back into overalls and farm work again—and is probably making the better help for hay and harvest for his bit of a vacation.
 A. B. Clark came home from California the first of the week to look after matters here, and sell some of his farms if they are wanted. Said that he had received numerous letters asking for opportunity to buy a farm. He is going to hold some of them he says until the $500 per acre price is here. He is predicting that price for farm lands here in the not distant future—and he also predicts that money on farm loans will be offered as low as 3 1/2 per cent. Mrs. Clark is remaining in California for the summer.

Who Works for You? Why?
Do You Carry Insurance?
Why Use a Check Book?

Confidence that's the answer. Generally speaking the American people are trustful. The very nature of the government and of business practices tends to teach confidence. Taken into daily practices it makes for better society, strong friendships and consequent prosperity.

Resultant upon the war there has grown up a feeling of economic unrest. In Russia the spirit was capitalized by Lenin and Trotsky and is known as Bolshevism. In America it is Socialism, I. W. W. Ism or Anarchy. But it differs in degree; some are disciples of Karl Marx, while some are the willing followers of A. C. Townley, Non-partisan league dictator.

A prominent physician told a patient that being sorry for one's self is the most difficult disease to cure. The preaching of the Socialist agitator tends to make the prospective victim sorry for himself, breeds discontent and promises a paradise of chaos instead of organized government.

A Constitutional Convention will be held in Nebraska in December. Nominating petitions must be filed for delegates by August 9—election in November. Who will represent you at that convention? Who would you hire to manage your business if you were sick? Better apply the same reasoning to the election of a delegate to the convention that you would to the man who handles your money or your horses!

There is danger that a dominant minority may control the convention and dictate policies to a subservient majority.

The New Nebraska Federation urges the election of delegates who are broad enough to legislate in the interests of all the citizens of the state; men who are actuated by patriotic intelligence rather than class prejudices.

If you are interested in the purposes of our Federation we solicit your membership in any of the three classes—$1, $5 or $25.

THE PONTANEZEN DUCKBOARD

That is the name of a paper issued twice weekly at the great camp of that name near Brest, France. S. Allaway, who was out from Sioux City last week to look after matters in connection with their store at this place loaned it to us today. It is issued by the soldiers and for the soldiers, and contains much interesting soldier news. One item in the issue of June 18, tells of the debarkation of soldiers, and the speedy manner in which they are rushed home. At that date, nearly 700,000 had already been started home through that one camp. It tells much soldier news—and among other things gives an account of what the soldiers in Russia had to contend with. The German propaganda there was something hard to contend with. The men were approached in all manner of ways to induce discontent and mutiny—but nothing doing. They were there to fight and conquer the enemy, not to turn traitor.

It gives some of the air warfare news and incidents, and also tells of the signing of the peace papers by the Germans. It tells how the American soldier lads there awaiting ships were given leave to visit Paris, and that they had the best of train service afforded by their railroads—and one train on which many went to the city was called the American Special. Wish that we might produce more from these papers, but the owner was taking them home with him. We thank him for the chance to read the papers.

In the same manner a $1000 certificate may be purchased in July for $836.00 and be redeemed January, 1924, for $1000. These certificates are registered at Washington.

A discouraged counselor remarked to the court: "My poor client is little likely to get justice done, her until the judgment day."

"Well, counselor," said the judge, "if I have an opportunity I'll plead for the poor woman myself on that day."

"Your honor," replied the other, "will have troubles of your own upon that day."

"They do more than please your taste — they satisfy!"

Chesterfields "let you in" on an entirely new kind of cigarette enjoyment.

They not only please your taste, but they do something else besides.

Know what a big, juicy beefsteak does for your hunger?

Well, Chesterfields do exactly the same thing for your smoking. They touch the "smoke-spot." They let you know you're smoking. They SATISFY!

The blend does it. And the blend is the manufacturer's secret. Unlike a patent, it cannot be copied or even closely imitated.

If you want a smoke that really "satisfies" — ask for "Chesterfields."

NOTE: Moisture-proof package keeps them firm and fresh, whatever the weather.

Check

Nine times out of ten the man who deposits his money in the bank and pays for all purchases by drawing a check stops some of his extravagances.

The cancelled check is a never failing receipt for money expended and enables a person to keep an accurate record of income and expenses.

Every man or woman who receives and pays out money should enjoy the protection that this bank affords, by having an account subject to check.

We welcome new accounts—both large and small.

COURT RECORD

The police court news is not abundant this week and from reports may be of greater volume next week, if all get their just dues.

Lorin Helges of Wakefield paid a fine and costs amounting to $8.40 for disturbing the peace. His offense was tooting his auto horn too much on streets Sunday.

J. Von Seggern of Wisner paid $8.40 for the pleasure of speeding in Wayne, over some of our well-kept streets.

In county court an action between Lloyd R. Rubeck and William Fox relating to replying a car was settled today.

Attachment was asked in the case G. Alven vs. C. L. Wendling for settlement of collision damages in accident north of Wayne. The case is pending.

In the district court the Needham vs. Miller came up for hearing in vacation. The charge of attempt to extort money from Needham was against Barney Miller, who pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $500 for his attempt to get easy money.

CROP REPORTS

A few crop reports are available, and they are not flattering. Ed Grier threshed and sold his wheat, from 20 acres he got a little more than 100 bushels, but it weighed but three pecks (45 pounds) to the bushel. He had a field of good eye, however, we are told.

On the Hoogner farm near Wakefield the threshers found 12 bushels per acre—and that set some of the neighbors who had not expected to cut their wheat to running the binder.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

E. A. Surber returned Wednesday from a visit at Omaha.

A brother from Holdrege came this morning to visit J. E. Hufford.

J. J. Ahern and family are home from Chicago, where they were called July 4th by the news of the death of Mrs. Ahern's father.

Mrs. C. W. Hiseox went to Hastings Wednesday to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cook, and Mrs. W. A. Hiseox left this morning on the same sad mission.

Wm. Hunter arrived this morning from Madison, South Dakota, to visit at the home of his son, E. J. Hunter and family. He was accompanied by his niece, Miss Allice Stanton.

Mrs. R. H. Pratt, who underwent an operation at the local hospital two or three weeks ago was able to be brought to her home at the parsonage the first of the week and is continuing to regain strength.

THE MOST ## DANGEROUS DISEASE

No organ of the human body is so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they show up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back—look up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowed to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

CREOSOTE PRESERVES THE FENCE POSTS

Creosote treatment about doubles the life of the woods ordinarily used for fence posts, say university agricultural extension engineers. Many species almost valueless—untreated may be made to last twenty-five or more years. Treatment may be done with a small tank or iron barrel in which the creosote can be heated. Tests show that the life of posts are lengthened as follows: Ash, from 6 years untreated to 25 years treated; boxelder from 4 to 26 years; willow, from 4 to 26 years; white cedar, from 14 to 30 years; catalpa, from 17 to 25 years; cottonwood, from 3 to 27 years; soft maple, from 1 to 27 years. For details on creosoting wood write the Agricultural Engineering Department College of Agriculture, Lincoln. Yes, the editor saw burroak posts in Iowa that had stood more than 40 years without treatment—but we have no such burroak now.

CHICKENS DON'T NEED CORN IN SUMMER

Full grown chickens need very little corn in hot weather, according to the observation of university extension poultrymen. Corn makes them too fat. On most farms the chickens get plenty of corn in the yards and corrals. A little cracked corn is good for the young poultry.

The theory that a person who has had the misfortune to lose one or more limbs is likely to live longer than if he had not lost them, would seem to be borne out by facts. The reason is that the heart normally has to carry the blood to the limbs, and that the fewer limbs a man possesses the less work the heart has to perform, and the longer, therefore, it lasts.

An ingenious device is being experimented with which will do away with a great deal of the danger encountered by aviators in making a landing, especially at night. It consists of a small bulb attached to a wire hanging from the aeroplane. When the bulb touches the ground an electric connection immediately switches on a small light in front of the pilot, who knows then that he is within so many feet of the ground, and can act accordingly and so save his machine from disaster.

One of the most unique and exclusive clubs that ever existed in New York was the "Society of the Pointed Beards," which flourished in the metropolis some years ago. No one was eligible to membership unless he had a carefully cultivated beard of natural and personal growth, and terminating in one symmetrical point half an inch from the apex of the chin, of sufficient evidence to preclude controversy. At the annual club dinners everything as far as possible was made to harmonize with the objects of the society, even the menu-cards giving evidence of the beard mania, and the celery was even served with its leaves trimmed to a point.

A severe headache is a common complaint with the bear. When attacked acutely, he will amble along to the nearest hollow tree and smell out the bees, who in turn become highly indignant and sting the intruder unmercifully. But the bear doesn't mind. With a snort and snug he ambles off home again. His headache has been cured by the bee stings.

Once upon a time the Dutch people were tulip-mad, fabulous prices were paid for bulbs, and fortunes were lost and won. Today tulip-growing is a steady industry in Holland and every acre of land on a tulip farm is reputed to be worth $2,500. The ground is first fertilized and planted with potatoes, so that the manured land may not be too rich for the bulbs, then tulips are planted the second year. Offshoots develop on the parent bulbs, and it is the breaking up of one root into many and developing the shoots, that makes most of the business on the Dutch flower farms.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN STUDENT Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

(From the Goldenrod) Leaving home Sunday, June 15, we arrived in Denver at 8:05 a. m. Monday. The day was spent sightseeing in Denver and ended by taking a 100 mile auto trip to the mountains. Among the places visited on this trip were: Lookout, on the top of which is Buffalo Bill's grave, Idaho Springs, the Wild Animal Park, the city of Golden, and Wildcat Point.

Denver is a city of unusually fine residences, splendid boulevards, beautiful parks, and a strictly modern business district. Its proximity to the Rocky Mountains is its chief charm. While in Denver we visited the Colorado State Capitol, both the State and City Museums, and spent some time in a few of the twenty-nine parks in the city. One is impressed with the cleanliness and freshness in the city.

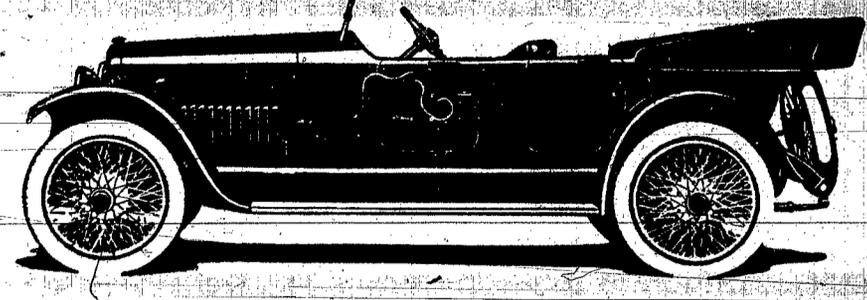

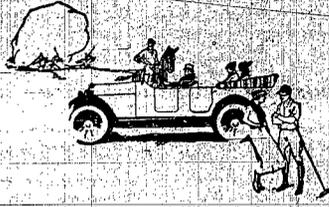

Leaving Denver at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday by truck we arrived at the conference grounds at 1:00 p. m. The camp is located about eighty-five miles northwest of Denver. The last thirty miles of the trip is one of the experiences of a lifetime. After passing thru several towns, the road leads toward the foothills thru a gloriously rugged country, crossing and recrossing sparkling stream and sunlit canyon, tortuously winding and twisting, the road leads upward, past mile after mile of majestic scenery, ending in one of the most beautiful spots of the Rockies. A hearty welcome supplemented with a good meal soon made us feel at home.

The camp itself is located on a small plain and is surrounded by snow covered mountains. The roar of the Thompson river flowing within a few hundred yards of the grounds adds a charm to the scene. The Campus proper has on it an Administration Building, Assembly Hall, Dining Hall, and about fifty lodges.

There were some three hundred and ten men from the states of Kansas, Nebraska, Montana, New Mexico, Colorado, South Dakota, Wyoming, and Utah assembled in one of the beautiful spots in the Rockies for the short period of ten days, June 17th to the 26th. One was impressed with the rare fellowship in this select gathering of some of the Nation's best. A large percentage of the men were just out of the army or navy within the past seven months. The daily routine, while not subject to army discipline, was exacting and promptness at all the sessions was noted. Classes and study periods were much the same as here in W. S. N. The program, which is printed here, shows that the men were there for business.

to the cause of Christianity. Among these were: Hon. J. Stitt Wilson, Col. Raymond Robins, Dr. J. Campbell White, Dr. D. W. Kurtz, Mr. R. P. Wilder, Dr. John Timothy Stone, A. J. ("Dad") Elliott and Mr. Wm. E. Sweet. Thruout the entire conference one was impressed with the important part that this generation is to have in the moulding of the future. The earnestness which the men as a whole displayed was an outstanding feature of the conference. A few of the addresses might be named to give an idea of the work taken up: "The Power and Perils of Life," "The new hope of evangelizing the world for this generation," "Life of Today and Tomorrow," "Origin of the Student Volunteer Movement," "The Symphony of Life," and "The College and Its Needs."

A large number of men volunteered for foreign mission service, Y. M. C. A. work, or industrial service in foreign fields. It might be interesting to note that the Estes Park Conference raised more money per person for the purpose of carrying on the work of the coming year, than any other similar conference ever raised before. Nothing more need be said of the spirit of the men.

We had been told that educationally the value of the conference was equal to as much as a half a year's work in college. We come back thoroughly convinced and feel that it will be one of the most cherished experiences of our lives.

The delegates return with the hope that our Y. M. C. A. at W. S. N. will get the spirit and the vision that is spreading thru the colleges of the land and "Carry On" with them.
