

THE AMERICAN LEGION NAMES NEW OFFICERS

At their meeting Tuesday evening the thirty-odd members of the Irwin B. Sears Post, No. 43, American Legion, got their best foot forward, and really got under way. They named Capt. John Beard as post commander; Francis Jones, vice commander; John T. Bressler, Jr., adjutant; Paul Harrington, financier. They also named different committees, the names of which are not officially given to us, but Paul Harrington was named as head of the entertainment committee and Dick Hunter is chairman of the publicity committee.

We are glad the Wayne boys are organizing, for in years to come it will mean much to them and to the community. One thing they can and should do, is to secure and keep records of all service men from this county. We may not think much of it just now, but as the years go past, and those who have made history in these times are passing, a record carefully made now would become of great value. To us it seems that more of the boys should become members, and they will in time. They have done a great service for mankind in the part they took in the great war, and they are now, in position by organization and cooperation with other citizens to do other service in properly directing the affairs of their home community, state and nation. The natural leaders are among the men who entered service, and they should head in the right direction and continue to lead.

DEATH OF MRS. B. A. WILCOX

Mrs. B. A. Wilcox, for a number of years a resident of this county, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. LeRoy Loper, at Fairfax, South Dakota, from the infirmities of old age, last week at the age of 87 years. Mrs. Wilcox made her home here part of last summer with her son, A. S. Mitchell, coming here from the south part of the state, and later going to the home of the daughter at Fairfax. Nearly two years ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis, and since that time has been gradually failing.

Betsy A. Purvo was born in New York state, and was married in that state. She is survived by several sons and daughters. Mr. Mitchell of this place, Mrs. Loper of Fairfax, Fred Wilcox of Carroll and another son in Colorado, who were here to attend the funeral, which was at Carroll Wednesday afternoon, when she was buried by the side of the husband who passed away about fifteen years ago. Mrs. Wilcox was a kind mother and a good neighbor.

Music lovers will be glad to read the announcement that the B. Y. P. U. which means the Baptist Young People's Union, have engaged the famous Welsh Sextette to entertain them and their friends at the Baptist church the evening of January 21. This singing organization needs no introduction to Wayne people, for they are a part of us, their homes being near Carroll in this county. Since they last appeared at Wayne they were pressed into service last fall for several weeks of chautauqua work, and have filled numerous other engagements, a part of them for the state, going to help entertain at the great farmer meetings, and they have always pleased, and they will please you here if given a chance. The profits from the venture go to the B. Y. P. U. funds for forwarding their work.

DEATH OF SARAH MOREHOUSE

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Weber were called to Tekamah the first of the week by news of the death of Mrs. Weber's mother, Mrs. Sarah Morehouse, which took place at a hospital at Lewistown, Montana, a few days before. Some weeks before Mrs. Morehouse had gone to visit her daughter, Mrs. Cooper, at Valentine, and was there injured by a fall, and to give her the best of care, she was taken to the hospital. Owing to the weakness and infirmities of age she failed to rally, and passed away at the age of 80 years.

Sarah Roff was born in the state of New York in 1840, and there grew to womanhood and was united in marriage to Mr. Morehouse in 1875, and with him came to Tekamah where he was among the pioneer settlers, and long were residents of that vicinity. Mr. Morehouse passed away August 7, 1889, and for a number of years she continued to make that place her home, but of late years she made her home with different members of the family, and frequently has made Wayne the home, where she won many friends who will learn with sorrow of her death. She is survived by a sister, Miss Lena Roff at Gasport, New York, three children, W. R. Morehouse of Randolph, Mrs. E. W. Weber of this place and Mrs. E. W. Cooper of Valentine, Montana. Mrs. Cooper accompanied the body to Tekamah, where the funeral service was held at the Presbyterian church Monday, the members of the Order of Eastern Star taking a part in the service with their beautiful ritualistic ceremonies.

Mrs. Weber has the sympathy of many friends in her loss.

Bible Circle Observes Birthday

The lovely home of Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Lutgen was the scene of a most delightful occasion, Tuesday afternoon, the eighteenth anniversary of the Bible Study Circle being celebrated at that time. The opening hymn:

"Come Thou Almighty King
Help us thy Name to Sing
Help us to Praise"

voiced the keynote of the happy hour. Many messages of greeting and congratulation were received, and read, among those from far distant friends were, New Year's wishes from Miss Fern Hauser of Gutamaala, Central America, Miss Mary Radabaugh of Turkey, Mr. E. Syweika of Africa, Mrs. J. A. Halley of Orlando, Florida, Mrs. H. B. Dinwiddie of Philadelphia, all of which were appreciated and enjoyed.

Miss Laura Thompson, volunteer to Africa, read the scripture lesson and Miss Frances Beckenbauer sang beautifully, "He Bore It All Alone" after which was introduced Miss Agnes Glenn, the little Scotch lassie who has given her life for the saving of the children of the Fisher folk in the great destitute province of Chikhi-Ken, Japan, being the only white messenger to the thousands of unreached people of that great district, and whose simple loving life and testimony have reached a multitude for Christ.

Miss Glenn came fresh from the great student volunteer meeting just closed at Des Moines, Iowa, which was presided over by John R. Moitt and attended by 10,000 eager missionaries and new volunteers from all the universities and schools of learning in America.

Miss Glenn introduced her address by giving a thrilling report of the messages brought to the Des Moines convention by the forty representatives from as many heathen nations, who had each sent a man all the long way from China, India, Africa, etc., to plead for messengers from America to bring their needy people the light of life.

She also gave a touching account of God's working for her in Japan, the most remarkable being the conversion of Ojema San, one of her Sunday school boys who had every member of his family to Christ and is now a flaming evangel called especially to work among the university boys where his labors have been marked with unusual success. Miss Glenn closed her beautiful address by earnestly thanking the circle for their prayer-help and Mrs. Lutgen sang, "When He Brought Little Children as Lambs to His Fold." The serving of dainty refreshments by the committee closed a very beautiful afternoon and the circle felt the year 1919 was the most remarkable in their entire history.

Mrs. Carlos Martin will entertain the regular meeting at her home next Tuesday afternoon.

COUNCIL LETS THE PAVING CONTRACT

Contract For More Than 80,000 Yards of Brick Paving and 9 Miles of Curb Let to the Able Construction Co., of Lincoln.

VITRIFIED BRICK AT $4.38 THE YARD. CURB AND GUTTER AT $1.10 THE FOOT

But one bid was presented last evening when the City Council met to open paving bids, and that was from the Able Construction Company of Lincoln, one of the largest construction concerns in the country. Other contractors were here, but claimed that they could not make a bid that came within the estimate of the engineer, for various reasons. One said he could not be assured any brick, another could get no quotations on cement. The one bidder has the brick yards and owns the cement, we are told.

His bid for 5-inch base of a 1-5 mixture of cement, sand and gravel, with an inch sand cushion with vitrified brick with bituminous filling was $4.38 the square yard, and this is the paying the council elected to take for district No. 1 and No. 2. These two includes all of Main street, from the Logan bridge on the south to the city limits on the north, nearly a mile and a half, and Pearl and Logan streets—one block from Main street on either side, from the railroad north to the college grounds on Logan and to Tenth street on the north, on Pearl street and the two blocks on the cross streets, making the total of four miles or over.

The curb and gutter was let at $1.10 per foot.

The bid for the asphaltic pavement was $3.48 the yard, on the same base as the brick.

Some seem to be of the opinion that District No. 2 should have been in the latter class, but they were not at the meeting to give any expression to their preference for the lower priced work.

The excavating was let at the estimate of 80 cents the cubic yard.

The estimated cost will be close to $400,000, and is one of the biggest city contracts to be given this year.

CLOSING HIS AUTOMOBILE REPAIR SHOP

This week Vern Fisher, for ten years proprietor of a growing automobile repair business, is closing the shop and storing the machinery against a future day for use. It was not a failure by any means, but the sale of the building he had occupied all of these years which caused the move, for Mr. Fisher has had a good business, and no doubt can afford to take a bit of rest before again seeking trouble with the automobile that is bucking. The building he has occupied so long on East Second street has been purchased by Messrs. Seace & Ley for their ice plant, and they are to at once begin getting their equipment in shape to turn summer into winter within their domain.

We are glad to note that Mr. Fisher is not planning to leave Wayne at present at least. He will continue to conduct the battery branch of the business having leased rooms for the same of the

CITIZENS OF WAYNE AND VICINITY

Do you like good music,—band, orchestra, quartets, and duets? Do you enjoy good readings and impersonations? Would you feel it a privilege to attend entertainment of this kind if your guests offered it to you free? Well, the young folks of the Normal under the supervision of skilled directors will offer a week of entertainment of the kind mentioned right at our doors the last week of this month, and it will be free. If an innovation of this kind is well attended and appreciated, it is likely that it will be made an annual event. It is hoped that the pleasures and benefits of "Good Fellowship Week" may be reciprocal. I am sure the entertainers will enjoy and appreciate your presence, and I am certain you will be well repaid for your attendance. Come and let us have a good time together.—Sincerely, E. E. Lackey.

DONALD HOWARD GAMBLE DIES

Saturday, January 3, 1920, Donald Howard, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gamble passed away, after a short life of ill health from some organic heart trouble. He was born November 12, 1915, and died as given above, at the age of 4 years, 1 month and 12 days. That his early death was long expected does not lessen the sorrow of the family or the sympathy of friends in this sad hour of parting.

He received the ordinance of baptism from Rev. Buel June 17, 1917. His death is mourned by father and mother, brother and a baby sister, besides many relatives and friends. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Wm. Kilburn, Tuesday afternoon, and the burial was at the Wayne cemetery.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to friends and neighbors for aid and sympathy during our days of trial and affliction, and for the rich floral offerings sent to comfort us in our sorrow.—Ray Gamble and Wife.

A COUPLE THAT GOT AWAY

Sometimes when checking up for the paper week ended we find some interesting item has been omitted—sidetracked in some manner and left on the siding. Such was the case last issue when we speeded up one day in an effort to start the new year ahead of schedule.

The preacher's Ford

The good people of the Presbyterian church wanted to play Santa Claus to their pastor, Rev. John Beard, and while he was away for a Christmas dinner drove a perfectly good, absolutely new, modern and down to now in every detail and device Ford Sedan into the parsonage garage and left it there with Christmas greeting. It is needless to add that there was great rejoicing and thanksgiving at the parsonage when they discovered what had been put into the stocking while they were away enjoying Christmas dinner with relatives and friends. We are glad too that this Ford has not been like the preacher's sleigh.

When a lad in northeastern Iowa, when it was a new and sparsely settled country, and every boy was hard up, a minister—Rev. L. M. Whiting, was hired by the Baptist people to preach at Strawberry Point and Ward's Corners, with a residence rented for them at the former place. Rev. Whiting was a good man—a true Christian, and a man with faith like the grain of mustard seed—a faith that the Lord would "move mountains" if asked in the proper spirit and in undoubting faith. The preacher brought a saddle horse with him, but that was not enough carrying capacity for the growing family, and as the sleighing was good the minister on hended knee prayed that the Lord would send a sleigh, and retired Christmas eve full of faith and trust that "The Lord would provide." There was great rejoicing in that family Christmas morning when a cutter was discovered waiting in the front yard ready to take the kids for a spin, if any doubts had been in the mind of the minister they were dispelled, and soon the family of little ones were enjoying a sleigh ride as much as any one could appreciate an automobile ride today.

But there was a rude awakening from their joy, for next day a neighbor who had loaned his cutter to a boy for Christmas eve went to his home to learn why the sleigh had not been returned. The lad asserted that he had sent it home late Christmas eve by the boy who had been one of his companions for the joy ride—and it developed that the lad bringing the sleigh home had driven into the preacher's yard by mistake. We know not how the good man of God explained to the trusting children the mistake, and that it evidently was not the will of the Great Father that they should have a sleigh—but knowing the good old soul as we later did, we feel confident that he smoothed it over nicely for the little ones, for he was a man who believed.

But now that two weeks have passed, and no one has come to claim that the Ford car was left by mistake, we join in congratulating the pastor and the church for receiving and making a gift which may mean so much to both pastor and church and also to the community, for it is sure to be a great help to the man in his work.

Senator Gronna was in the midst of a fine speech against his party's "gag rule" in the senate when he was gagged and could proceed no further.

They are talking of paving at Stanton, and as a bank of that place which pays more than 25 per cent of all the city taxes, favors the idea. It is quite apt to be a go. It must have been prosperous days for the bank when it managed to gather up one-fourth or more of all the property of their town advertise the fact as is the First National at Stanton. The bank was established in 1879, and therefore has been in the running through most of the pioneer days of the community. DO WE NEED A LEGISLATURE?

Does Nebraska need a legislature when they have a supreme court? That is a question which might be studied with profit by the wise men now assembled at Lincoln to amend or remake our constitution. In remaking them, too, should consider not only the supreme court of the state, but the supreme will of the people. But we want you to notice how the supreme court now appears to hold the acts of the legislature in the hollow of its hand. Our member of the senate, H. E. Siman, fathered a language law, and the legislature placed it on the statute books, and then the supreme court made it read less than it said, and that is the excuse for the question.

Here is the construction an exchange puts on the matter, and we wonder how this construction pleases the legislature and the people:

"This law aimed at prohibiting the teaching of any subject in any school in any language except English. The supreme court upholds the act, but says that there is no prohibition in the act to interfere with moral and religious instruction in a foreign language. This probably is not what the legislature intended, but it is a more workable arrangement by its makers and many others.

"The statute also forbids the teaching of any language other than English in any elementary school below the eighth grade. The supreme court, in holding the law constitutional, says that this 'does not prohibit the teaching of a foreign language if taught in addition to the regular course of study in the elementary schools, so as not to interfere with the elementary education required by law, and outside of the regular school hours during the required period of instruction.' If the makers of the law intended it to be so understood, they wasted a lot of breath in argument; for they regarded the teaching of a foreign language as a menace to the peace and welfare of the state, and the most ardent advocate of the statute denounced the teaching of foreign languages.

"Although the law has been considerably doctored up by the supreme court, it will no doubt have a better standing with the public than did the original law. By the time the legislature meets again there will be far less hostility stirred up many feelings which could not remain permanent. The occasion for them seems to have passed, and there will be less and less disposition to interfere with persons speaking foreign languages on the ground of their un-Americanism.

"As the law has been amended by the supreme court, contrary to the intent of the legislature, English is the language of instruction but is not a violation of law to teach other languages. This is undoubtedly a more workable plan than the one the legislature had in mind. It will be found more practicable in operation, than the absolute prohibition. It is an example of judge made law, against which there is a prejudice, but in this case the court improved upon the work of the legislature."

A FARMER'S OPPORTUNITY

The writer has been reading the catalogue of Henry Cozad's sale of Shorthorns, which will be held at the Wayne pavilion Saturday, and wants to go on record as saying that Henry has done a great and good work for the farmers of this community, if they will attend this sale determined to take home some of the good animals he has developed with care along blood lines. It is a shame that the sale of a farm makes it necessary to quit this work at this time. But a greater good will come to the community if they shall absorb this bunch of thoroughbreds on the different farms near here rather than let outsiders get the cream of the herd. This offering represents the best of ten years of faithful, careful building, and if the near by farmers realize the opportunity for improving their herd with home grown cattle they will be at the sale. In fact, they cannot afford to miss it, and if these cattle go below value a Wayne farmer should be there for a benefit.

WHICH ONE IS TRUE?

Below we give two items from the editorial column of the Hartington Herald, and are wondering if Editor Stone expects his readers to believe that both are correct; if not, which one?

First Item: "Considering these bad democratic times, the Christmas trade this year was fairly good."

Second Item: "The merchants of this city did a bigger business during the holidays than they have done before in years."

GUFFEY-JONES

Miss Elizabeth Jones, the second youngest daughter of Mrs. L. E. Jones of this city, was united in marriage yesterday at Morningside to Homer Guffey of Concord. The marriage ceremony occurred at the Dr. McKenzie home at Morningside, and was performed by the Methodist minister of that suburb. The witnesses were Dr. McKenzie and Arthur Bond.

Those who attended the wedding from this city were Lewis Jones and Art Bond.

The bride was dressed in a blue traveling suit, and the groom wore the conventional black.

After the wedding bride and groom left for a visit with Mr. Guffey's parents at Loretta, and after a few days spent there will go to Concord where they will reside.

Homer Guffey is a prominent young business man of Concord, being connected with the Farmers' Union Exchange there, and the young woman whom he has chosen for his bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jones of this city, and a person of many charms and accomplishments.

A host of friends in this community will unite in extending congratulations and best wishes.—Hartington Herald.

Miss Jones was for several terms a student at the Wayne-Normal and a teacher in the schools near Wayne, and a great many friends will join in the wishes expressed above by the Hartington editor.

You Can Save Money

By having your old shoes repaired, oiled and put in shape for service. I can make many an old shoe almost as good as new, and while the price of the new ones is high, and often the quality not the best owing to the scarcity of real leather, at a saving of many dollars. Besides you do a real service to mankind if you make the old leather take the place of new—that is real saving.

A New Machine

I have ordered a machine for sewing the soles which is the better and quicker way for many shoes, and it should be here soon—as the coal strike is settled.

When it is installed I can put a shoe bottom under you while you wait, and not keep you waiting long.

The actual money wealth of the country is placed at $47.28 for each man, woman and child. The editors are included in the enumeration, else the average might be raised a little.

While Nebraska had a bank failure a short time ago, it was due to no fault of the general prosperity of the land, nor to that particular community, but to questionable banking.

It is said that W. J. Bryan is going to use his strength to secure the nomination of James W. Gerard former ambassador to Germany for the democratic presidential nomination. We have a citizen here in Wayne who sees or at least professes to see, that it is a move of Senator Hitchcock for the nomination.

Uncle Sam has been selling a bunch of army autos, and the average price for the trucks was $411 each, which seems pretty low. It seems strange, and is always noticeable that whenever Uncle Sam must buy the seller wants a top price—but when he is selling, the buyer seems to think he is entitled to a reduction.

J. G. W. Lewis left Monday for Lincoln to resume work with others of the constitutional convention members to see what is to be done in the way of making for this state a better constitution. Mr. Lewis tells us that they all welcome word from the people who sent them there, and especially suggestions as to what to put in and what to leave out. It is to be hoped that in their united wisdom this body will make us a new and modern constitution. To us it seems that would be better than to try to amend the one we have. Adopt the good parts of that, cast the rest out, and make a clean sweep.

Today and tonight democracy celebrates in honor of that great democrat, and fearless citizen, Andrew Jackson. May his tribe increase. There was no monkeying with the buzz-saw when he was president. Equal opportunity to all and special privilege to none, was a part of his creed. Neither secession or the money power could intimidate this fearless leader.

Bone dry—that is the verdict of the supreme court, the court of last resort—unless it be the people. The people, too, have spoken, and if invoked to speak again the verdict would be nearer unanimous than the voice of the court, which was a 5-4 verdict that nothing goes warmer than one-half of one per cent—and one might as well call for water straight in the first place. This is the verdict—prohibition is assured.

It is a strange commentary that Chairman Will H. Hays makes of the present leadership of the republican party when he stipulates that competitors for the prize of $10,000 to be offered for the best suggestion for the next republican national platform shall be "young men or young women under 25 years of age." Has he no confidence in the ancients of his party? Does he too doubt the wisdom and ability of the men who have been managing the g. o. p. for these many years? Is it possible that he has come to believe—with the rest of the country—that youths "under 25 years of age" are as capable of making a successful republican platform as Senator Lodge or Majority Leader Mondell of the house of representatives, for example?

Not many moons ago a merchant put a question like this to the editor: A year ago, or very nearly that, he bought or ordered a line of goods for spring delivery, designed to sell at about $3. But the goods did not come on that order until time to make another order for the next season's goods, and mean time, prices had advanced so that the new stock, when it came would have to sell for more than twice the proposed retail price of the first order. How should he mark the goods just received? If marked according to cost when ordered the retail price would but about two-thirds pay the wholesale cost of replacing them. If he marked according to present quotations he seemed to be making a tremendous profit. Well, he said, I will sell the lot at just what the wholesale price was the day they came. Was he profiteering?

The egg boycott so loudly proclaimed by the daily press as bringing the price of eggs down at Lincoln, failed to make 'em stay down. In fact, if we may believe private reports which appear to be as well authenticated as the newspaper reports, prices went up about five cents. The hens and the weather or the weather and the hens at this season of the year appear to be a controlling factor in determining the price of fresh eggs. Lincoln local dealers, who were given the name of profiteers, at least by implication, state that they had to bid up to get eggs for their patrons, and the patrons were calling for them, in spite of the boycott, and more of them than the dealers could get hold of at the time. It is a pretty safe proposition, where the local retailer is concerned on all produce—and especially perishable produce, to rest assured that one dealer will not permit his competitor to rob the public.

We notice in a number of exchanges what appears to be an "inspired" story to the effect that oil is the coming fuel, and after telling of the many industries which are turning to oil as a fuel for all purposes, it closes by urging the government to encourage increased oil development. All of this because of the coal strike calling attention to the fact that the coal of the country is largely cornered by private monopoly. Yet, the government should give attention to the oil development—and should first make the holdings of the benefits of the development work secure for the people of the government. Then there is still another way of helping the people get rich, or at least save money, and that would be to develop the water power of the land that has been running idle for a million years and make it work for all mankind. Then when that is done, put a proper tax on all coal lands that are being held in idleness by grasping monopolies, and it will then perhaps begin to look as though American was to be a free America for the people. It has too long been free for graft for grab and greed to gobble up. Oil lands, mineral lands, timber lands and a lot of water power sites are now in the hands of monopoly—and the best weapon the people have for wresting them from monopoly is the right to tax. Let the people conserve what is not already gone.

HOWE OBJECTS TO BANKING CONTROL OF THE RAILROADS

Federic C. Howe, former commissioner of immigration at New York, author of many books on municipal government and on economics, has issued a remarkable statement, sanctioned by the conference on democratic control of the railroads, opposing the return of the railroads to private control.

Every member of congress received this statement before the Esch bill came to a vote in the house. Some of the members denounced it as a species of bolshevist propaganda.

What Mr. Howe brings out in his analysis of the railroad deal is that it consolidates in the hands of an interlocked banking group in Wall street the railroads, the basic industries and the foreign credit facilities of this nation. It creates a huge trust absolutely dominating the foreign trade, and hence the domestic trade, of the United States.

He shows that Morgan & Co., the National City bank, the First National bank and Kuhn, Loeb Co., all in New York, were actually in control of the 280,000 miles of railroads at the time the government took them over. This was shown by the Pujo committee's report, made to the sixty-second congress.

"Our industrial life is menaced by the return of the railroads to this banking syndicate," says Doctor Howe. "It is a menace to freedom of competition and the productive powers of the country. Banking control of the railroads is primarily speculation, stock jobbing and receiver-ships.

"This banking syndicate also controls every other basic industry in America. It controls anthracite and bituminous coal; it controls petroleum and petroleum products; it controls iron, steel and copper. Most important of all, the same banking interests are interlocked with the five big packing corporations, with their refrigerator car lines and some 500 other food industries, which the packing house syndicate controls."

ALL SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE OF W. J. B.

Twenty-four years ago, when the money fight was younger than it is today, and the two old parties were more or less divided, William Jennings Bryan captured the great convention at Chicago with his matchless oratory, and since that time has been a dominant figure in the politics of the United States. He was given credit for the nomination of the present occupant of the presidential chair, and aided greatly in his election. For the past three years not much has been heard from this great statesman, but all politicians knew that he was not dead. Time has demonstrated that many of the theories he advocated in those other days were sound, and a goodly portion of them have been appropriated by the politicians and enacted into law.

Within a few weeks Mr. Bryan has come into public view, and is in the limelight as conspicuously as ever before, and tonight he is to be the speaker of the evening at the great Jackson day banquet when a thousand of the great and leading democrats of the nation will gather to honor the man who stood for real democracy a hundred years ago, "Old Hickory." We know not what Mr. Bryan will say this evening, but it is safe to assume that he will sound a keynote for the democrats in the coming campaign, and try as they may, the politicians will find it impossible to escape the logic of the words he will utter tonight. Below we give a review from his pen of the fight of 1896 and some other battles, and his position as shown then seems to be little changed, and it is harder now to make people believe that his theory is not correct than it has been at many other times during the quarter of a century now nearly passed.

The fight, waged for twenty years prior to 1896 for the remonetization of silver, was forced upon the world by falling prices. Three international conferences were held during that period to devise some way of escape from the bankruptcy that threatened the debtors of all lands, and, through them, business in general.

Even in 1896 the republican party pledged itself to international bimetallism and one of the first official acts of President McKinley was the appointment of a commission to solicit the cooperation of the leading nations of Europe in opening the mints to the white metal.

Blames Gold Standard Talk
Former Vice President Stevenson and Senator Wolcott of Colorado were members of this commission and the latter, speaking in the United States senate, charged that the failure of the commission was due to the fact that Secretary Gage of the treasury was making speeches in favor of the gold standard, while the commission was appealing to Europe for aid in the re-establishment of the double standard.

The general objection raised by the financiers to bimetallism, whether independent or international, was that it is difficult to maintain an exact parity between the two metals, but this argument was conclusively answered by international bimetallists, who contended that a joint agreement between nations would reduce fluctuations to a fraction so small as to create no disturbance to business, and they pointed out that a continual rise in the value of the dollar was more injurious to the world than any slight variation in the relative value of the metals under international bimetallism could possibly be.

Conditions are now entirely changed. An abundant currency has been secured from other sources, but, while the debtor class is no longer suffering from a rising dollar and falling prices, as it was prior to 1896, the chief argument against silver coinage has disappeared and new arguments bring a demand for bimetallism from the very classes that previously opposed it.

Now that the bullion in a silver dollar is worth more on the market than the bullion in a gold dollar (a situation produced not by legislation, but in spite of it) we hear no more of the "dumping ground" bugbear or of the "melting pot test."

Silver Dollar No Longer Cheap
The silver dollar is no longer a "cheap dollar," it is the gold dollar that is cheap, if we may borrow the phraseology employed by the financiers twenty-five years ago.

And, just as the objections to silver are being silenced by the unprecedented demand for that metal, the world awakens to a need for basic money so great that gold will not supply it, and the situation in Europe is made still more acute by the fact that we have absorbed much more than our per capita share of the gold coin of the world.

BETTER SEED POTATOES NEEDED

Seed stocks of Irish potatoes commonly available to growers contain many mixtures, not infrequently diseased and as a rule not as productive as they should be. The Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, makes this statement in reporting on the progress of work in developing improved seed stocks. It is a recognized fact, he says, that the yield of potatoes in this country is far below that secured in some other countries, and the difference is commonly attributed to the use of relatively inferior seed stock. Seed-improvement work is being carried on by the department in cooperation with agricultural experiment stations in practically all of the important potato-producing states. The best seed stock of the leading varieties in different regions is being grown in the various states. During the progress of the season the various plants are inspected several times for the purpose of eliminating diseased plants and those which are not true to name or to type. At harvest time carefully studied selections are made for the purpose of obtaining the best strains of the different varieties. These potatoes in turn will be used for seed potatoes with a view to developing stocks that are true to name, true to type, free from disease communicable through the seed and that possess high-yielding proclivities.

AN EXPERIMENT IN DEMOCRACY

(From the Goldenrod)

That was a wise law passed by the last legislature of our state whereby work done in absentia is accepted in the renewal of teachers' certificates. Thoughtful educators have long wondered why those who are engaged in professional pursuits should not be provided with greater opportunity to continue their studies in connection with institutions of learning. The need of such opportunity is especially pressing in the case of teachers in small towns and in the yet more rural communities, isolated as they are from stimulating intellectual influences. The action of our lawmakers greatly improves this situation.

Much can be done for teachers by correspondence. First, it supplies them with great books. It is a short-sighted policy that makes the fine libraries of institutions so little available to those not immediately in touch with them. One becomes well-read only by independent study. It is one of the pitiful results of our education that thousands of university graduates do not read.

A correspondence course may be so conducted as to call for much "reading between the lines." Many years ago, the writer of this article heard the late M. F. Manville, once editor of the Nebraska Teacher, in addressing a group of young men, assert with much energy: "The trouble with you is that you can't read, not one of you can read!" He meant, of course, not that these young men, a college group, were all illiterate, but that they could not grasp and criticize the ideas on the printed page, and he was right. Then and there one of his hearers resolved to learn to read.

But no one reads by the help of a teacher, at least in great degree. The correspondence course of necessity puts the responsibility where it belongs—upon the student. The selection is thus made stern and discriminating, for the dullard and the shallow will soon give up the work.

Courses in fiction and poetry, have much charm for the leisure-hour and thus become a source of recreation in the dull routine of a teacher's life. Again referring to personal experience, the writer of this article has seldom done better study of general literature than while teaching country school. Such work, begun early, may easily lead to a life time of serious study into these great "experiments of philosophy."

More technical studies may likewise be successfully carried on by correspondence. The mere reading of a book like Gillett's Rural Sociology, with the right sort of questions, tends to balance and sanity, checks peculiarities and freakish enterprises on the part of the country school teacher, making him realize what he may and may not successfully do.

Incidentally, correspondence courses, calling for much writing, may be used to clean up bad English. Many themes, often of considerable length are coming to the correspondence department in Wayne and these are rigidly examined and the form as well as the content is criticised. A paper may even be returned to the writer for re-writing.

Of course, there are objections. Nothing can take the place of classroom discussions! Perhaps, but here the choice is not between school and correspondence work, but rather between study of some sort and no study at all. Further, correspondence now may result in school attendance later.

Again, fear is expressed that in absentia courses will be used chiefly for advertising purposes and, therefore, thoroughness will not be demanded. To avoid this danger special responsibility rests upon the institution that credit be not given on a low standard. Courses carefully planned, with frequent reports, will be required. It is "up to" the institution to conduct all its work on a basis of self-respect.

The final word is that this plan spreads the fire. A well-read teacher in a rural community is a leader. He is a torch bearer, a fountain that makes green the desert. No pains may properly be spread to place such an one in every community in our commonwealth.

St. Etienne, Sept. 6, 1919.

Dear Benefactress:

It is agreeable to us to express to you here our very sincere thanks and you can count on our preserving devotedly your name graven in our hearts.

Because of the very particular interest which you show to us we think we are giving you pleasure in making ourselves known to you a little and therefore we enclose in this (letter) our photographs and we subscribe ourselves, dear Miss. Your respectful and grateful proteges.—Widow J. Berger, Jeanne Berger, Antoine Berger.

Friday, August 29, 1919.

Dear Benefactress:

I hasten to write you to thank you for the money order (draft) which you sent for my son. I thank you also in his place, for, for the time being he is absent for three weeks for his health.

Receive, dear benefactress our sincere thanks for your generous goodness.—Mme (Widow) Seynave, 45 rue Pasteur, Monvaux, (North) France.

September 15, 1919.

Very dear Miss,

I hasten to write you these few words to say that we have received the money and also to thank you much for your devotion (to us). Receive, Madame, my earnest salutations.—Henri Soula.

Several schools together sent the money for these orphans, so the money was sent in the county superintendent's name, and they have addressed their letters to me.

Jeanne and Antoine Berger are brother and sister. Their photograph is here in the office. Districts 47, 50, 72, 61, and Hoskins gave the money for Jeanne, Districts 81, 53, and 75 gave that for Antoine.

Districts 32 and 82 gave it for Albert Seynave, son of Widow Seynave. Districts 47 and Hoskins gave it for Henri Soula.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Only a Limited Number of Ford Cars

There are mighty good reasons why you should buy your Ford car now. But the biggest one is that there are only so many Ford cars—just a specified limited number—allotted to this territory. Those who buy their cars now will be wise. They will have them to use whenever they wish.

Don't put it off—next spring, even next month, is an uncertainty. We cannot take orders for spring delivery. Even now, we must have signed bona-fide orders before our monthly allotment is shipped us. So the only way for you to be sure of getting a Ford car, is to order it now. Get your name on an order. It is your protection.

Again we tell you, the allotment for this territory is limited and you must buy now while deliveries are possible. As ever, the demand for Ford cars is away in advance of production. So, it's first come, first served. Spring, summer, autumn and winter are all the same to the Ford car. It is a valuable servant every day of the year. Rain or shine, it is ready for your demands. Buy now and get prompt delivery. You won't have to store it. You can use it. Buy now while the buying is possible.

OVERLOADED

There is a limit to the load anything can carry. It is easy to see the overload when some one is trying to get it on a wagon. There are other burdens far more difficult to handle, but that are not so easily seen.

The greatest burden any business ever has to struggle with is that of trying to keep on its feet when its income fails to meet expenses.

The telephone company has to buy labor and material, and it must meet these expenses by selling service. If it is overloaded with operating expenses that are greater than its income, it can't keep going.

You certainly want the girls and men who are devoting themselves to giving you telephone service to have fair wages. And you know how much it costs to buy any kind of material these days.

So, you see, the telephone can only operate if its income is sufficient to meet present expenses.

CITIES MAKE RAPID GROWTH

Interesting Statistics Concerning Chief Centers of Population in the United States.

The population of New York city on July 1, according to a survey by the newspaper feature bureau, the result of which was made public the other day, says the correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch, was 6,214,616, as compared with 4,766,883 in 1910, an increase of 31 per cent. Of the total 120,138 are listed as negroes. The whites of native parentage are given as 1,206,926; of foreign parentage, 2,384,384, and of foreign birth, 2,525,292.

According to the survey the sexes are almost evenly divided. The number of males is given at 3,121,051, and the females as 3,123,565. The city has 1,878,211 males of voting age and 333,012 illiterates more than ten years old. There are 1,337,283 families.

CONSIDER GIFT HIGH HONOR

Comparatively Few Persons Are Presented With the "Freedom of the City of London."

The freedom of the city of London, with which the prince of Wales was presented recently, is one of the most cherished and ancient of civic privileges. The actual document given to his royal highness is a piece of parchment inscribed with his names and titles and guaranteeing to him and his descendants many privileges to which he would not otherwise be entitled. Thus he will not have to pay a tax on any goods brought within the city gates, nor will he have to render naval or military service. Should he fall on evil lines the prince of Wales would be entitled to pecuniary aid. Should he in the course of years pass away, leaving children, the city chamberlain would educate them and administer their property until they arrive at years of maturity. It is usual to inclose the "freedom" in a gold casket, which costs the city £100 ($500), but the certificate, in the case of the prince of Wales, will be in a frame and the casket will be represented by silver plate. In the case of General Booth the casket was of simple, sturdy oak.

Thermometer Trade to U. S.
With adequate labor American manufacturers of thermometers, besides being able to supply fully the wants of the domestic trade, are in a position to build up a good export business, but, as is the case in so many industries, they are handicapped at present by the shortage of skilled workers. The making of thermometers is mostly a hand process, with a year's experience or more necessary for the development of a skilled worker.

Starting in the war period, when German goods were shut out of the country, the American thermometer industry has shown marked advancement. Before the war Germany controlled the market here, as well as those in other countries, but nearly all of the business formerly held by Germany in South America has been procured by concerns in the United States. It is not believed that Germany will regain her position in the domestic market, and much of the South American business, it is predicted, will be held by the American manufacturers. —New York Tribune.

Fascinating Ukulele.
Many people, even now, may think of the ukulele as a Russian province, or an eastern title, yet it happens to be neither, but a small musical instrument which, according to a writer in the London Daily Chronicle, recently baffled the experience even of the customs man, who refused to recognize it as such and permitted its entry into England free of duty. The little South sea ukulele is not unlike a "fiddle that you play with your fingers," to the eyes of the uninitiated, but all who hear it admit its sweetness and the charm of its plaintive voice. No doubt one of these days England will become aware of the fascination of the ukulele, even as America has already done. The customs man will then exact his legitimate toll, and a strange, wild music will haunt the London streets.

Dearest Man.
"The dearest man on earth" has been discovered.
Even insurance men, possessing most human traits, have revealed occasional phases of meanness, but it remained for a clergyman, an orthodox preacher of the gospel, to outclass superlatively all other contestants for the croix de gall.
This pastor, who resides within eye range of the Woolworth tower, makes a practice of charging claimants under life insurance policies a fee of 1 per cent of the face of the policy for filing out the clergyman's certificate on death claims.
The medal for concentrated and unflinching meanness is hereby awarded to the center of the Woolworth tower.

GREAT EXPONENT OF LIBERTY

Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, Known as "Father of English House of Commons."

The first great democrat in England was Simon de Montfort, earl of Leicester, who was slain in battle 654 years ago as the leader of the rebellious barons. Simon de Montfort was also the spokesman for the great masses of the people, and he held that it was the duty of the nobles to stand between the people and the monarch as guardians of their liberties, to watch over the exercise of the royal power and prevent its abuse. In the great battle of Lewes in 1264 the barons, under the command of de Montfort, completely defeated the king and the royalist party. In the battle of Evesham on August 4 of the following year the tables were turned and the democratic earl was killed and the barons sustained a ruinous defeat. During the brief period of Simon's ascendancy, however, he had laid the foundation for the house of commons and had inspired in the breasts of the people a devotion to liberty and democracy never to be stamped out by royal oppression. "Every king is ruled by the laws," declared Simon de Montfort, and he held that the "parliament" should have a hand in the making of the laws by which they, as well as the monarch, were to be governed.

Simon de Montfort's immortal place in history is indicated by the reverent title historians have given him—"the Father of the English House of Commons."

GREEKS HAD FORM OF TENNIS

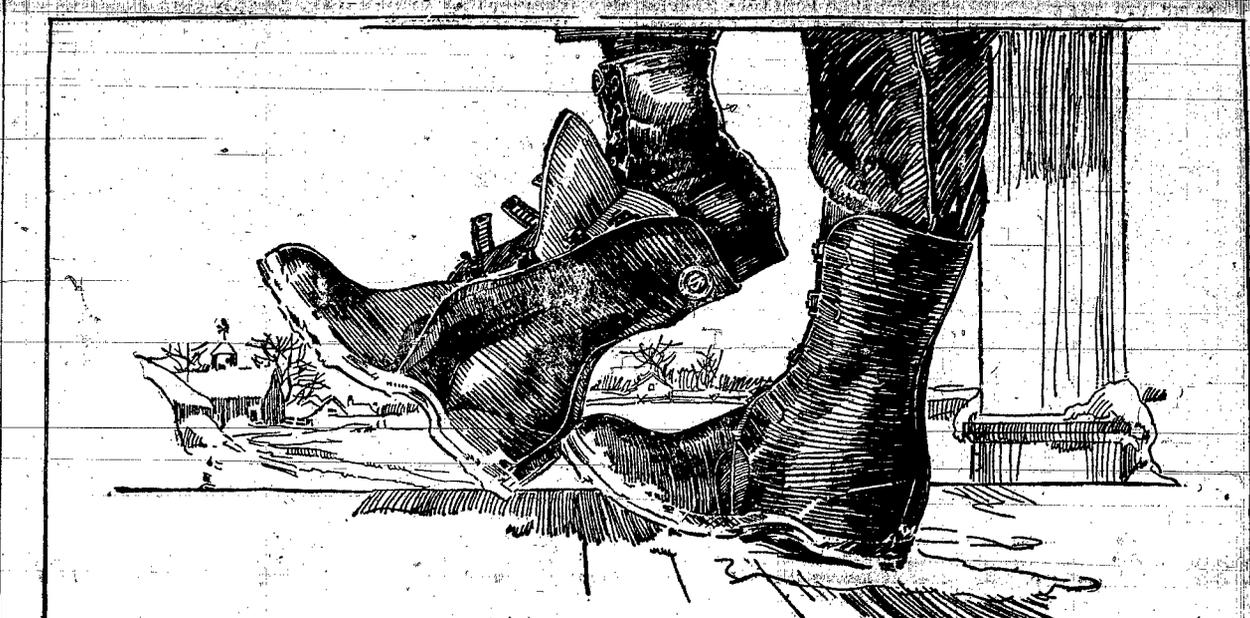

That the Game Is an Old One is Sure, but Its Origin Is Hard to Trace.

Discussion of possible changes in the terminology of tennis naturally includes the name itself; and here there are many possible origins. The game, in one form or another, is very old. The Greeks knocked a ball back and forth and called the exercise "phennis," for which the Roman name was "tennulum." "Phennis" and "tennulum" were ancestors probably of the similar French sport in the middle ages, and modern tennis may, for that matter, have been named from the province of Tennes, where this game was exceedingly popular. Possibly, but improbably, the name is derived from the French "tenez," in the sense of "get ready." "Deuce" is generally accepted as another form of the French "deux," but "raquets" has several possible sources, the most likely perhaps being the old medieval word "rachte," meaning the palm of the hand, when the game was played like modern handball. Chaucer and Shakespeare both knew the game in England, and, whether or not they played it, had doubtless looked on with satisfaction, as did Queen Elizabeth.

Would Seem to Be His Right.
A suggestion has been made that if the British flag is to be again unfurled above Helgoland, Henry Hedger, verger of the parish at Herne Bay, Kent, Eng., be engaged to raise the emblem. He it was who hauled down the Union Jack August 9, 1890, when the island passed into the control of the German empire. He was then a coast guardman, and is now a vigorous man of between 60 and 70 years. Mrs. Hedger recalls her four years on the island chiefly by the birth of their youngest son, who grew up to be one of the contemptibles who helped to hinder Prussia's march through France, but fell in the attempt. The family left the island the day it was taken out of British control, and while the pier was decorated with flags and bunting prior to the visit of the kaiser. All the British official population left at the same time.

World's Lepers.
The American secretary for the Mission of Lepers estimates that there are not fewer than 2,000,000 lepers in the world, 6,000 of whom have been converted to Christianity. Apropos of this, the Hawaiian legislature has just offered to pension Bro. Joseph Dutton, who succeeded Father Damien at the leper settlement on Molokai. Brother Dutton has not been off the leper island for 33 years and has spent $10,000 of his own money to relieve the poor creatures among whom he lives. But he refused the pension, wishing no reward and expecting to work on to the end in the cause to which he long ago devoted his life. The world has heroes of whom it rarely hears, and it cannot be otherwise than that such self-sacrifice must win a higher reward than governments or the plaudits of peoples can confer.

National Redwood Park.
A movement is on foot in California to turn the redwood forests of that state into a great national memorial park to serve as a monument to the American war heroes. Those behind the proposal feel that there are many elements of deep and appealing interest in the proposition. As many of these giant trees were old when what the world calls civilization was young, it is felt that these trees of the age belong not exclusively to any state, nation, or people, but are the heritage of the race and should be preserved for the recreation and pleasure of all the peoples of the earth. An additional argument in favor of establishing the National Redwood park is that such a great and much-needed conservative work of national conservation.

BOOKKEEPING FOR THE EIGHTH GRADE

(From Wayne County Teacher)
The following outline in the work in bookkeeping was received from the state department:
1. Bookkeeping should be carried on with arithmetic during the second half of the eighth year, correlating with interest, taxes, insurance, account, etc.

2. All work should be simple, neat, plainly written and accurate.
3. What the pupil should know:
 1. How to write a good business letter—parts, punctuation, folding of letter. Make it clear and to the point.
 2. How to keep a simple account—debts, credits, gains, losses, etc. Accounts with persons, fields, etc. Have accounts showing incomes; cash accounts, showing money received and money paid out.
 3. How to write a receipt—Date, place, for what purpose, persons concerned.
 4. How to fill out and endorse a blank check, draft or note.
 5. How to make out lists of farm animals, grain, and machinery, giving value of each animal, grain or implement.
 6. Bring to class blank forms for study. Show pupils how to fill out such blanks. Study deeds, tax receipts, insurance policies, etc.
 7. How to keep records—Weather, fields, cows, eggs, etc.
 8. A good elementary text in the hands of the teacher is sufficient.

I think it a good plan to do this work during December, January and February. Hamilton's Essentials of Arithmetic, by American Book Co., Chicago.

Second book, gives most of this work. Pages you will find helpful: 82-91, 155-159, 163-167, 180-187, 260-263, 269-278. F. H. Jones has some of the arithmetics on hand.
For the work in letter writing think you will find it all in the Composition part in the last half of the book, The New Reed and Kellogg—Lessons in English, Book Two, by Charles E. Merrill—Company, Chicago.

THE SNOW
The ground was dark, the trees were bare
And the sky was dull and gray;
There was no sun, its cheer to share
To drive our thoughts of care away.

I watched the snow flakes as they fell
From their lofty home above.
Is there no message which they tell,
Some thought of peace or love?

I watched the snow flakes come and go;
It was dark, and bleak and cold;
My heart was sad, my spirits low,
I felt tired, discouraged, old.

I watched the snow flakes come and stay
Till the whiteness covered hill and dell;
The sun came out with its brilliant rays;
Each snowflake glistened where it fell.

I watched till gloom lay buried deep,
Till everything was pure and white;
"In my heart deep buried, too, I'll keep Each thought that joy may blight."

I watched the snowflakes as they fell
And they glistened all the while;
"Yes, their message was to hide my care,
To look straight at my friends and smile."

Orville and Opal Thompson spent Sunday with relatives and friends at Randolph.

Mrs. C. A. Berry returned Saturday from a visit with her mother in South Dakota.

Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer and daughter, Miss Frances, went to visit at Bancroft today.

Orville Thompson is ill at home, the result of a severe cold and hard work, evidently.

Burton Chace came over from Stanton Friday for a short visit in the C. A. Chace home.

Ward Randol was home from Lincoln for the holidays, and returned to his work there early in the year.

Miss Rachel Preston from Belden is spending the week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Preston and family.

W. S. Goldie, former editor of the Democrat, has been elected president of the chamber of commerce in Wilmington, California.

Mrs. George Stringer who has been here since Christmas, visiting relatives and friends, left this morning for her home at Wrensal, Minnesota.

Bert Gibson, who has been serving as cook at the Calumet, left for home at Omaha this morning, the new proprietor having his own cook, released Mr. Gibson, who is needed at home.

Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor started Monday morning for California. At Colorado Springs she will meet her sister, Mrs. Smith, and together they will spend the remainder of the winter in the land of sunshine and flowers.

Mrs. G. W. Crossland was at Carroll Tuesday afternoon, going up to that place to attend the local meeting of the W. H. M. society that day. Mrs. Crossland is the president of the district, and reports a good meeting.

Lee Smith shipped out Tuesday evening for his South Dakota home near Miller. He took with him farm machinery, stock and household goods. His brother, Dean, will join him soon, driving a truck across when he is ready to depart.

Link Weibum has sold his bowling alley at Wakefield and was visiting at Wayne Wednesday. He tells us that himself and his brother, Ben, of this place will move to a farm near Colome, South Dakota, when the birds go north in the spring. He reports that his business at Wakefield was profitable. We wish them success on the farm.

F. E. Stuart and family have moved to Wayne from Correctionville, Iowa, and taken possession of the Calumet restaurant, which they purchased a few days ago. Mr. Stuart recently sold a restaurant business at Correctionville, and comes to Wayne with an experience in the business which he thinks will enable him to please the patrons who will come to eat at that place.

Jack Denbeck and wife were called to Norfolk Sunday to attend the funeral of his uncle, Joe Leuders, who passed away at his home in that city. His father, J. Denbeck, from Neola, Iowa, and his sister, Mrs. G. W. Binta, also from Neola, and an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Erickson, and Ed Gosette from Wall Lake, Iowa, were at Norfolk to attend the funeral and stopped here for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Starr from Tabor, Iowa, have been here for the past two weeks visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. E. L. Jones, east of Carroll. The weather and the grip kept them close to home while here, and this morning they left for Tabor. Mr. Starr and the editor were acquaintances in northeastern Iowa when we were both younger, and we missed our usual visit about old times and friends this trip.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ellis spent Sunday with friends at Bloomfield, returning Monday. Tuesday Mr. Ellis made a trip to Hoskins, expecting to drive home in his auto, which he had left there earlier in the winter. Mean time a new year has come along, and we are wondering if he took his new number along, or took a chance on being pinched. In fact, we saw the sheriff hovering about him at the station, and perhaps he was going to Hoskins for that very purpose, for he intimated that Hoskins was his destination.

Geo. Fortner spent Tuesday at Sioux City looking for supplies for his business here. His stock was running too low to suit him, especially with everybody predicting a rising market. George likes to buy far enough ahead so that he can protect his patrons against a lot of little fluctuations.

Chan Norton, who has been suffering from sciatic rheumatism for some weeks, and who recently underwent an operation for hernia at Omaha, plans to visit Omaha today for treatment for rheumatism, and if the physician so orders, he will go on to Excelsior Springs for treatment. Mrs. Norton accompanies him, and if they go on to the springs, their son, Ray, will move to the place and take charge of it during their absence.

Henry Korff went to Omaha Tuesday morning to spend a few days attending the Farmers' Congress and visiting among the implement dealers who are in session at that city this week. From there he plans to go to Lincoln a few days and give members of the constitutional convention a visit, and see whether or not he finds among them many of the members of the legislature with which he served as representative from Cedar county. He has many friends in Lincoln, where he spent two winters—and as he lived in the south Platte country for twenty years before he found out that this is the better part of Nebraska, he expects to meet a number of those friends of other days.

Poultry is getting to be one of the great industries of this Logan valley territory, and we notice at this season of the year many coops about the express office containing pure bred birds for breeding purposes. Those in the work tell us that the demand is good, and that advertising brings good returns. One farmer, who said his wife looked after the chickens, told us that they had just shipped their last bunch—sold all good birds. Another farmer had been growing ducks, and once the boys in charge, and they told that they were closing out their surplus, and that their pure white birds had been snapped up at $5, and the lad, as we understood, had about sixty to spare.

MACHINE FOR TURNING AUTOMOBILES ON THEIR SIDE

George W. Griffith has a patent pending on a contraption for turning an automobile over on its side, which will do away with crawling underneath or lifting it with pulleys. Mr. Griffith has a model of the idea at the Griffith & Schram garage, and his patent attorney writes him that he has been unable to find anything on record with which it will conflict.

The idea is simple and the machine—if that's what you'd call it—is easy to handle. The car is run onto a grooved track frame hung on a swivel and worked with a screw gear, which is so easily handled that a 10-year-old boy or girl can turn the car over on its side. The idea is for use in garages so that mechanics can handle a car quickly and easily. A car can be run onto the track, made fast and turned in less than a minute.

Mr. Griffith informs The Advocate that a machinist in an Omaha garage has made one of them with his permission and is using it with good success.

It looks as though Mr. Griffith has something that will make him some money once he gets it on the market.—Laurel Advocate.

We know George down this way.

LYONS-GETTMAN

At Norfolk, Sunday, December 28, 1919, occurred the marriage of Miss Etta Lyons and Mr. John Gettman, both of that city. Rev. Connelly officiating. The bride and groom were attended by the groom's brother, Carl, and the bride's sister, Miss Grace Lyons from this city. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white georgette and carried a bouquet of roses.

A wedding dinner was served by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lyons, three courses the table being tastily decorated in pink and white carnations.

After a short wedding trip the young folks will be at home at Norfolk where they have a host of friends who wish them luck and happiness on their matrimonial journey.

snow into the faint radius of a street light and on again, plodding as swiftly and as straightly through the drifts as the first. Yet this man walks with his head up; even through the storm one could have marked a certain alertness about him. He, too, swings around the corner and follows in the steps of the other.

He who preceded and whom we may call the Traveler was moving more slowly now, keeping his course with evident reluctance. The gleam of lighted dwellings appeared at long intervals. It was evident that the street must end in a country road. The Traveler finally came to a wavering halt and stood with his head bowed and his back to the storm. He straightened himself as the second man stumbled toward him, swung about and forged ahead again.

The wind sweeping across the road, for it was no longer anything else had risen to a blinding hurricane. For what seemed hours the Traveler held on, topped a low hill and glancing back saw the lights of the town, dim and white through the storm, and saw the dark blotch of a marring figure hurrying toward him.
With a muttered curse, that might have been a prayer, the Traveler thickened his pace, followed the road, turned as though by instinct into a lane and came upon a house standing squat and dim in a tree grown yard.

A yellow shaft of light glanced out from a single window of the place. A dog came yelping from nowhere, sniffed the man, and began to leap and wriggle about him in an ecstasy of greeting. Unhesitatingly the man strode to the lighted window with the dog whining at his heels.
Keeping his body in the shadows with futile caution the Traveler peered into the room.

He saw first of all a woman who sat by a white covered table with a boy asleep in her arms. The lamplight glinted softly in the brown of her hair as she sat with her head close to the sleeping child.

A few toys lay scattered about the room, a diminutive Christmas tree stood lighted in a corner; but the watcher saw but the two; the woman sitting wan and sweet and still and the child that drowsed restlessly in her arms.

For a hungry moment the man gazed, then the dog at his feet rose with a cry and bounded off in the dark. The Traveler saw the woman raise her eyes with a start and gaze unseeing out through the window into the night. There was suffering in her eyes but she looked and listened fearlessly. The child stirred, awakened and began to cry. She turned to quiet him. The Traveler turned from the window with a sob.

A hand groped out of the darkness and fell upon his shoulder, and a cool voice spoke: "I want you, Hospites. You're covered. I've been following you since you broke cover and left Chi. Home for Christmas eve, eh? Don't make a fuss" in a lower tone, "They haven't heard us yet."

In silence the two drew back. The dog, stilled by a word from the Traveler, followed the pair in dull bewilderment as they tramped off into the storm.

THE UNSEEN VISITOR
(From the Goldenrod)

In a torn veil of white the snow descends, whirling and piling and refusing to be still. The wind rushing out of the north with the wail of a thousand devils, flings the restless snow like a ghostly pall over a still world.

And yet there is life and the lights are blinking out in the gray twilight like dim stars. There is happiness for laughter, soft and hushed, comes from behind the sturdy walls of the houses that loom indistinctly through the thickening dusk. The streets of the town are deserted save for the muffled figure of a man who plods steadily, head down to the push of the storm, through a way that has become a drifted wilderness of snow. The man abruptly turns a corner and is lost in the murk of the side street.

A moment later a second figure appears, merging out of the flying

SOCIAL NOTES

Minerva Club Meet
The Minerva club held one of the most delightful meetings of the club year and the initial one of 1920 at the hospitable home of Mrs. E. W. Huse, Monday, January 5. A communication from the secretary of the Woman's club acknowledging the receipt of $10 was read by Mrs. Coleman. Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis opened the program with a vocal solo entitled "The Sentinel Asleep," which the members greatly enjoyed. The lesson, "Reconstruction of Poland," was led by Mrs. Gulliver who briefly told of the dismemberment of Poland over a century ago and the part the torn little country assumed in the great world war. Each member contributed a current event touching on the subject matter. A general discussion followed dealing chiefly with the recent political adventures of the great musician and native Pole, Paderewski.

Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. T. House and on the violin by Mrs. J. J. Coleman, favored the club with a beautiful number entitled "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and responded to an encore singing "Think, Love, of Me."

The hostess, whose birthday the club was celebrating, unwisely closed the afternoon by serving a most delicious two-course luncheon. Mrs. Huse was assisted by Miss Edith Huse and Miss Faith Phillee.

Chapter A. Z., P. E. O. met in regular session on January 5, with Mrs. E. S. Blair. A special feature of the evening was a talk by Miss Edith King Morrison, who returned recently from a year's service in France in canteen work. Miss Morrison appeared in uniform and gave an interesting account of her work, making special mention of the personnel of her associates and their efficiency. In all, Miss Morrison served in three different canteens and came in personal contact with some fifty or sixty young women. Coming as they did from every station in life she considers it remarkable that among this number there was not an instance of incompetency. She also made special mention of the excellent conduct of the troops which passed through the canteens and the respect with which the women workers were treated by them. Miss Morrison related many interesting and amusing experiences and closed with a display of pictures covering the period of her entire year's work abroad.

Last Saturday evening Mrs. E. W. Dayton entertained in honor of Mrs. A. A. Wollert who had been visiting in the Dayton home until her departure for her new home in Fremont. She was invited to eat supper with Mrs. Marcus Kroger and when she returned she found that about twenty of her friends had gathered there never was a more cheerful and surprised lady than Mrs. Wollert when the company shouted surprise. Games were played and every one had a good time. Mrs. Dayton, assisted by Mrs. Vern Dayton, served an elaborate lunch. The next day being the hostess' seventy-third birthday the guests stayed till midnight. The young folks sang and all wishing her a happy birthday the guests departed voting Mrs. Dayton a most gracious hostess.

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Owen opened the doors of their commodious home in the west part of the city to a party of young people in honor of Leroy Owen and Miss Eloise Miner, who were home for the holiday vacation. In addition to the relatives and members of the family a number of their school mates were present. After a sumptuous 7 o'clock dinner the evening was spent in games, music and a jolly time generally, and no one who was there failed to report a very pleasant evening.

The U. D. club met with Mrs. H. S. Ringland Monday afternoon. Mrs. Harry Fisher gave a very interesting article on Indiana's Unrivalled Sand Dunes. Mrs. Fisher gave a reading "Ronnie and Jimmie." The hostess served delicious refreshments. On Friday evening the club will have a dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Robbins of Twin Falls, Idaho, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington. Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will also be guests of the club.

The Junior Music club and a few invited guests enjoyed a social time at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. House Saturday evening, January 3. Some lively games and contests were indulged in. In the guessing of advertisements from pictures, Henry Gulliver won 21 out of a possible 22 points. Future meetings of the Music club will be held in the evening instead of afternoon. Delicious refreshments were served.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. H. M. Crawford. The devotional will be led by Mrs. Ruth Union singing will be by Mrs.

musical part of the program. Mrs. George Crossland will have a paper on "Americanization," which will be followed by a general discussion of the topic of our "Responsibility to our Foreign Born Neighbor." A full attendance is desired, if that term is longer permissible in referring to a W. C. T. U. gathering these dry times.

The Monday club met at the home of Mrs. Brainard Monday afternoon. Mrs. Moran gave an excellent paper on Brazil. Mrs. Welch gave a splendid paper on Rio De Janeiro. The hostess, assisted by Miss Virginia Bowen served delicious refreshments. Next Monday afternoon Mrs. A. A. Welch, Mrs. E. Kostomlatsky and Mrs. H. H. Hahn will be hostesses at a Kensington.

Miss Edith Morrison entertained at a Kensington in honor of her sister, Miss Morrison, who is a guest in her sister's home, Mrs. J. Woodward Jones. About twenty-five ladies responded to the invitation and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent. Miss Ruth Jones, assisted by Miss Helen Reynolds, served a very delicious luncheon.

The Alpha Woman's club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. L. C. Glider. A number being out of town no lesson was given. After a short business session a social evening was enjoyed by those present. Splendid refreshments were served. Mrs. Charles Hiscox will be hostess Tuesday evening, January 20.

The members of the Cotette met at the home of Mrs. Perry Theobald Monday afternoon. After a short business session, Mrs. Panske gave a very interesting lesson on Medicine Fakes, and Fakers of all Ages. The hostess served delicious candy. Next meeting will be with Mrs. LeRoy Ley Monday, January 12.

Miss Eloise Miner entertained the following young folks at a waffle supper Sunday evening: Clair Lamberson, John Carroll and Miss Esther Johnson. The evening was spent socially.

Next Monday evening is the regular meeting of the Eastern Star. A covered dish supper will be served at 6 o'clock after which there will be initiation. A good attendance is desired.

Mr. C. H. Fisher and Mrs. J. W. Jones gave a dancing party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fisher last Friday evening. It is needless to say these people had a jolly time. Light refreshments were served.

Mrs. W. N. Anderson and Mrs. Bert Johnson will be hostesses to the members of the St. Mary's Guild this afternoon. The afternoon will be spent socially. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. H. S. Ringland and Mrs. Will Jenkins will be hostesses to the members of the D. A. R. next Saturday afternoon. Miss Morrison will give a talk on her work in France.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Phillee entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Robbins at a 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening.

A party of young married people and young folks enjoyed a dancing party at the city hall on Saturday night. Music was by a Randolph orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jenik invited a number of young people to a card party Friday evening. Refreshments were served.

BRICKS AND CEMENT SWELL

Absorb Moisture and "Grow" to a Considerable Extent, According to English Publication.

How much has your house or the wall at the bottom of your garden grown?
Houses and walls, indeed all things made of bricks, do grow, and this fact is known to architects, who sometimes have to allow for it when making plans for building, says London Answers.

In the old days, when the clay of which bricks were made was mixed with water before being baked, the amount of growth was not noticeable; now that no water, or very little, is mixed with the clay, which is therefore said to be dry baked, the bricks absorb moisture and swell sometimes to a considerable extent.

Some years ago in a garden at Ely a pier was built of dry baked bricks and the garden hose was turned onto this pier for a considerable period every day for some weeks. At the end of this time the pier was measured, when it was found to have grown some inches.

Cement is another substance which grows. That is why you may often see on station platforms and on wall copings built of cement one of the joints missed out here and there.

The greatest growth naturally takes place where cements and bricks are used together, as happened in a house of which the parapet was built of bricks placed endways and cement supported on iron. The growth in this instance was so great that quite large spaces were visible between the iron supports and the parapet.

USE FOR LUMINOUS PAINT

Material Found Almost Invaluable in War; Might Also Be Well Employed in Peace.

Here is a wartime application of luminous paint that should be useful in summer camps, on the hikes of boy scouts in peacetime maneuvers of citizen soldiers, in marking the landing places of aircraft, etc.

The British army had disks or buttons two or three inches in diameter, coated with luminous paint and having a sharp spike on the under side. These were stuck upon the sides of trenches, buildings, fences, etc., or were swung by hand to give signals in the well-known code where bright lights were dangerous or where silence was golden.

The luminous disks were visible from 50 to 60 feet, so they formed valuable landmarks. Luminous ribbon also was used for marking trails through the woods, and luminous patches were attached to the backs of stretcher bearers to prevent them from being fired upon by their own troops.

The Scientific American suggests that the names and numbers of city streets might well be marked with this luminous paint.

GOT HER SOLDIER HUSBAND

Lonely Widow Made Application and Government Employment Bureau Did the Rest.

There's a job for the returned soldier which few of us thought of, the job of being a husband. At least, we never thought of it as one of those jobs which could be listed among the "help wanted." This is what happened at one of the New York city United States employment bureaus.

Gordon Sawyer, the government employment agent, picked a pink, ill-scented letter out of the top of his mail. He opened it and read:
"My husband died some time ago. I have a small income, a town home and a country place, but I am lonesome. Having read that so many soldiers are out of work, I have concluded that there would be nothing better for me to do than to take for my husband a man who has fought for his country. Can you send a worthy soldier to me?"
"This may be a joke," said Mr. Sawyer. "It sounds too good to be true. But it is worth a trial."
Ten minutes later a goodlooking young soldier walked into the office. "I am looking for a job," he said. "I'm a carpenter."
"Married?" asked Mr. Sawyer.
"None," replied Private J.
"Read this letter, investigate the job, and report to me."
Just as Mr. Sawyer was closing his office the telephone rang. "This is Private J.," said the voice. "Thanks for that letter. I got the job."

Remorse.
"So you were in a German prison camp?"
"Yes."
"How was the food there?"
"Don't ask me to answer a question like that, but I'll say this much: If I ever run across the old lady I used to board with—overcome by the recollection of the mean remarks he used to make about those Sunday night suppers of cold ham and grits, the returned doughboy applied a handkerchief to his eyes and hastily walked away.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Spotted Her Pleasure.
Husband—Have you had a pleasant afternoon?
Wife—No; Mrs. Wilkinson and Mrs. Jenkinson came together and left together. I had a lot of things about Mrs. Wilkinson I wanted to tell Mrs. Jenkinson, and I had a lot of things to tell Mrs. Wilkinson, but of course, when they were both together it was no use.

Lincoln Flour

Will you permit us to show you Lincoln is better than the flour you are using. Take a sack home, try it in your own kitchen, if we fail to more than please you you will be the first exception out of over fifty. One lady reports, I would not believe there was such a difference. Let us convince you. No. 1 hard wheat is quoted at $3.50 on Minneapolis market. That means higher priced flour. Its a good idea to buy your supply now—we believe flour will go to $5.00 per sack by March 1. Special prices in lots.
