A HALF CENTURY OF MARRIED LIFE BEHIND

Tuesday, the 20th, was the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan. In response to the simple announcement in the local papers that they were to be "at home" that day, in spite of most unfavorable weather conditions three score or more of relatives, neighbors and friends accepted the hospitality of their home, bringing with them well wishes and tokens of their good will which will be long kept as mementoes of the happy day.

During the afternoon many of the callers were of their older friends and during the evening hours a younger class were present for Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are of the type who do not grow old in the common acceptance of the term and their friends are children, middle aged and old, and all were happy beneath their roof on this occasion.

As stated in the announcement last week, Mr. John Morgan and Miss Jane Chapman were married at Streator, Illinois, January 20, 1870. In 1875 they moved to Shelby county, Iowa, and there met and conquered the grasshoppers and other hardships necessary to develop that fertile, well developed farming country in the pioneer days. For more than a third of a century they resided there on the farm and in the city of Harlan, where they still have hosts of friends whom they frequently visit. Fourteen years ago they moved to Wayne and purchased the residence in which they now reside.

Four children born to them are living and were with father and mother on this anniversary day, as were seven of the fourteen children who call them grandpa and grandma. The children are Wilder Morgan of Granite Falls, Minnesota, Frank S. Morgan of this city, Mrs. Jessie Graves of Harlan, Iowa, and Mrs. Roscoe (Ella) Jones of this place.

The family group for a family picture, and from there to the Boyd for a family dinner which the children had ordered for the occasion. This was greatly enjoyed. The table was graced with proper decorations for the occasion, the centerpiece being a cake of generous proportions on which was given the two cakes a half century ago and the table of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan. From the dinner all repaired to the home where the afternoon and evening were spent greeting their many friends. Light refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening.

During the evening Rev. S. X. Cross appeared on the scene and in the presence of the assembled guests had the sturdy groom and blushing bride of a half century ago stand and make solemn promises anew which were sealed by the gold rings which the grandchildren had presented to them at this time. The ring bearers were selected from the group of grandchildren. L. C. Gilderleeve and Mrs. Armstrong appeared as best man and bridesmaid. The vows which the minister made them subscribe to were something stronger and more impressive than those taken back in Illinois, and it is said that the bride was extremely cautious in making promises—but the groom seemed willing to subscribe to any decree the minister asked; and we venture to say that he will not again lose the preacher or let him get lost when they go fishing when the flood waters have made it easy for a new supply of channel cat to frequent the waters of the upper Logan.

The guests were given a glimpse of the bride and groom as they appeared about the time of their wedding day. As a picture taken at about that time was exhibited. We also saw a picture of Mr. Morgan taken at about the age of forty years and comparing the pictures of other days with Mr. Morgan as he today appears, one can see a resemblance in beauty as the years go by, and he may be said to be a fine appearing old gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan greatly appreciate the expressions of respect and friendship evidenced by the good will and cheer of their guests. Knowing that they had no enemies in the community, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan were surprised and gratified to learn that there were so many who would brave the weather of the cold January day to come and express their well wishes and congratulate them upon the completion of the first half of their first 100 years of married life.

It was indeed a happy occasion and when the guests left this pleasant home it was with wishes of continued health and happiness for the host and hostess of the day.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLD AN INTERESTING MEETING

Tuesday evening there was an interesting session of the local post of the American Legion, and a number of additions to the roll were made and more will follow. In addition to a lot of regular routine business there were good talks from Commander Beard, James Pile and others. The matter of reorganizing the National Guard was discussed, and James Pile and Dick Hunter, who were among those called to the conference at Lincoln last week made a report of conditions as told at that meeting, which was for the purpose of enlisting the aid of those who had previously served in the Guards in the matter of reorganization. The spirit of the members of this post, as well as that of the soldier lads not yet members, we believe is well stated in the following resolution which was sent to the governor to show the attitude of these Americans toward giving their government loyal support in any contingency that may arise; and we bear rumors of serious disturbance as the outgrowth of the unrest following the upheaval of war.

Wayne, Nebr., Jan. 20, 1920.
Governor S. R. McKelvie,
Lincoln, Nebraska.

It has come to the attention of Irwin L. Sears, Post No. 43, American Legion, that an effort is being made to organize a National Guard unit in this state, therefore, be it resolved, that this effort meets our hearty approval and earnest co-operation and the Governor be so informed.

John W. Beard, Commander.
Paul L. Harrington, Acting Adjutant.
The writer had an interview with Mr. Pile after his return from Lincoln and he informed us that the men asked to come had expressed a willingness as a rule to co-operate in the reorganization if that is to be. In the plans suggested for state organization, Wayne was slated for an artillery company when the time for action comes.

Speaking for himself, Mr. Pile said that it was not his purpose or inclination to take an active or leading part in any organization that might be formed, for there are others more free to tie up than he is now; but that he would be found doing all that he possibly could to assist in any work of organization attempted.

DEATH OF ORVILLE THOMPSON

Friday, January 16, Orville the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Thompson, following an illness of two weeks which baffled the skill of the physicians passed away. His sickness was of a peculiar nature, and the final developments indicated inflammation at the base of the brain. The funeral was held Monday noon from the undertaking parlors, and was attended by many friends of the family, and the high school students followed the body of their companion to his burial place in the Wayne cemetery.

Orville was popular with teachers and pupils, a splendid student and a lover of the athletic sports; holding a place on the football and basketball teams. The sympathy of the people of the community is freely given to the bereaved parents in their irreparable loss.

The funeral service was attended by a number of relatives from away, among them being Geo. Gallop and E. P. Thompson, uncles, and Glen and Clyde Roberts, cousins from Lyons; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Detrick, and two uncles, Harold Detrick and Chas. French, all of Marcus, Iowa, and Robert Robertson of Sioux City. From Randolph came Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howe and Mrs. Minnie Pape, friends at whose home he visited Sunday before being taken ill. In fact, he came home from Randolph ill Monday morning.

At the funeral service the pastor read the following obituary:

"Orville Eldon Thompson was born at Marcus, Iowa, January 18, 1904, and died at Wayne, Nebraska, Friday, January 16, 1920, at the age of 15 years, 11 months and 29 days.

Four and one-half years ago Orville removed to Wayne with his parents, where he resided until his death. His unique characteristics made him a special favorite of both old and young. In the high school as a junior he was highly esteemed and popular among his youthful companions, who today mourn over his death.

"He was regular in attendance at the Sunday school, and early in life united with the Methodist church. He leaves to mourn his loss, his father and mother, Opal his sister and little brother Arlie; also four grandparents."

WOMAN'S CLUB HAS A PLEASANT AFTERNOON

The Woman's Club met Saturday afternoon at the Library building. A goodly number was out and the afternoon was a pleasant one. The program was especially good. Miss Edith Huse gave a reading, "Wisdom's Ways." This was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. J. M. Cherry read an excellent paper on "What Our Town Needs Most." She said in part:

"Our town is one of the best places on earth, away ahead of many other towns I might mention but when I try to consider the things we need most I find so many things Wayne should have I hardly know where to begin or what improvement should be attempted first.

"In population, wealth, educational facilities, culture and commercial importance, Wayne has passed beyond the village class and we take our place among the cities. A city of the second class, as measured by population, yet at the same time we are in many respects a village and a pretty slow village at that. If we had the 'pep' of some of our neighboring towns, Wayne would soon be a place that anyone would be proud to live in. We have sewerage, light, good sidewalks, library and will soon have some paving. We need a hotel, Y. M. C. A., playgrounds and better drinking water. We have plenty of churches with strong memberships and the buildings and parsonages are good enough for the present but in this age the church does not meet the demand.

"Man is a queer animal. From the age of about 8 to 16 the 'gang' has an attraction for the boy that all the influences of home, church and school are not able to overcome. A man is only a boy grown up and any normal man, no matter how good he may be, has something in his make-up that makes him want to get out and mingle with men. He wants to be a man among men. This is probably as it should be provided he associates with the right kind of men. Because a man or boy has a desire to get away from loopy rugs and lace curtains once in awhile it does not necessarily follow that he is degenerate, but if the only place where he can meet other men or boys is the depot platform, the pool hall or some smoke house he is very liable to be found in company which will, to a greater or less degree, drag him down.

"In the training camps the boys had access to Y. M. C. A. and other places where it was warm, light, clean, and where they were made to feel that they were welcome. I wonder if they do not miss these things now that they are back? In our community house we expect to have a building which will meet the needs and I sincerely hope it will do so.

"Play grounds for children are not as much needed here as they would be in a great city but I think it is as much a necessity in Wayne this spring as anything I can think of. We have the North Park, the East Park and the City Hall Park, all property of the city and they would be ideal places for the children if they were properly equipped and had proper supervision. I would emphasize the proper supervision. A few swings, slides, seats and a corner set apart for the little tots with a sand pile. Then I would have games for boys and girls, good drinking water, a shelter in case of storm, toilet facilities and some place where they could wash their hands. These need not cost much, the principal expense would be the supervisor, but it is necessary and Wayne can afford it. Some people seem to think that a park is to look at but must not be used. I think this is a mistake. What if the grass does get a little thin in places? If the children are getting the good of it it is not a waste. I sincerely hope that within the next few weeks this company of women will see to it that our parks are properly lighted, equipped and supervised so that they will be a proper place for children to go, a place where they will be safe. Much of their summer could be spent in these parks with fresh air, healthful recreation and would be so attractive they would not want to run the streets and be in constant danger of."

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY SPECIALS

Mrs. Jeffries of the Ladies Ready-to-Wear Shop has a sale on for Friday and Saturday which will please the ladies. All of her stock of beautiful silks and serges, jerseys and furbies will be on sale Friday and Saturday. One-third off regular cost. You cannot afford to miss this sale.

WAYNE TO HAVE A FAIR THIS FALL

It was an enthusiastic meeting Saturday, if not largely attended at which it was decided to go forward with preparations for a fair at Wayne this fall. It was voted to send a delegate to Lincoln this week to attend the meeting of the state board of agriculture, and make our claim so that it will be known that we are in the running and expect a share of the state appropriation. V. L. Dayton went down the first of the week, and is not yet home, nor has he sent a report.

After the decision was made to hold a fair, officers were elected, as follows:

President, Geo. McEachen; vice president, Wm. VonSeggern, secretary and assistant secretary, D. H. Cunningham and John Hufford; treasurer, Rolfie W. Lev.

The officers elected were given authority to name the remainder of the board of directors and also the various superintendents. This will perhaps enable them to secure a force that will work harmoniously better than to have made the selection at the time of the meeting, when most of those present had given little if any thought to the selection of a working force who would thoroughly represent all parts of the county and all of the varied interests and industries.

"This is an agricultural community and the fair should be largely agricultural and back of it stands the county breeders' association, anxious and willing to work with every other interest in the county for the best of the community.

The matter of grounds, buildings, etc., was not taken up at this time, and can be considered later—perhaps another year—and the next exhibit might be put over on the leased grounds.

It is safe to announce a good fair this fall, but we cannot give the date in this issue of the paper.

KIEPER-KLOPPING

Interested friends tell us that it is safe to announce the marriage of Mr. Bryan Kloppling and Miss Minnie Kieper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kieper, who left for Omaha the first of the week, where they were to be married. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kloppling, and they will soon be at home on the Klopplings farm, the senior Kloppling and wife planning to move to Omaha soon. The day and hour of the wedding is not given, but all wish this worthy couple well.

STEELE-COBURN

At the Presbyterian parsonage in this city, Sunday, January 18, 1920, by Rev. John Beard, Mr. Daniel O. Coburn and Mrs. Elsie Steers, both of Laurel. Mr. Coburn runs a garage at that place, and they drove to Wayne for the ceremony, and left on the afternoon train for a wedding trip.

PHIPPS-THOMAS

At the Methodist parsonage at Wayne, Wednesday, January 21, 1920, Rev. Sala of the Carroll Methodist church officiating. Mr. Christy A. Thomas and Miss Lennie May Phipps of Plainview were united in marriage. The bridal party were accompanied by the parents of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Thomas from near Sholes and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Phipps of Plainview. After a short wedding trip, which began immediately after the service, the young folks will be at home near Plainview. They went to Omaha, and from there will visit at Pacific Junction, Iowa. Many friends wish them well.

DOUBLE WEDDING TODAY

At the German Lutheran church southwest of Wayne today is to be a double wedding when the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Wittler, Louise Christina and Minnie W. are to be given in marriage, the former to Elbert Brader and the latter to Edward H. Glassmeyer, their pastor, Rev. Fischer, officiating. The reception follows at the Wittler home.

CARD OF THANKS

To friends, neighbors and the school-mates of our son Orville we wish to extend our sincere thanks for many kindly acts of sympathy and aid in our recent bereavement; and especially for the beautiful flowers from the school and others.
G. H. Thompson and Family.

Marriage license was issued the 16th to Iler Hansen and Carrie Marie Nelson and undoubtedly they are married before now but returns are not yet here.

A CHESS TOURNAMENT NOW ON AT WAYNE

About three or four years ago the chess players of this city had a live chess club, and the interest then awakened led to the development of a number of good players. At that time a visit was had from one of the most noted players of that time, Mr. Marshall, United States champion, who met all comers and played at least a dozen games at once with those who formed a circle about the room in which the meeting was held. Concerning the present tournament the following is handed in for information of those interested:

"The chess players of Northeast Nebraska are holding a tournament at the city hall in Wayne beginning today at noon. Players from Norfolk, Randolph, Bloomfield and Center are in attendance, but others are expected on late trains and as we go to press we cannot give a complete list of entries. This evening, aside from play in the regular tournament, several 'stunts' will be pulled off including a rapid fire tournament where but ten seconds is allowed for a move and a blindfolded game in which Cooper Ellis will play without sight of board or men against opponents who have the board before them. This is pronounced a remarkable feat by persons who understand the complications of the game. Chess is the oldest and greatest of games and Wayne is fortunate in having a local club of strong players."

REDUCE WIDTH OF PAVING

At the special meeting of the city council Friday evening residents of Pearl and Logan streets, below Fourth street asked the council to reduce the width of the paving along those streets from full width of street to 30 feet, and after much discussion this change was made. The full width is perhaps asking too much of the people holding residence property in that part of the city, but we believe the property owners should have compromised on a paving wider than is necessary in outlying districts.

No action was taken at this time on the matter of making a parking in the center of 7th streets four blocks west from Main street, as 7th street is more than 100 feet wide along those blocks.

GREEN-STOBER

Miss Helen L. Green and Mr. Lloyd Clifford Stober, both of Randolph, were married January 21, 1920, at the county court house at Wayne, Judge Cherry officiating. The bride has been a student at the normal at this place for the past two years and the groom has but recently returned from service in the army. He spent twelve months in the Argonne sector and although he suffered his share of shell shock and gas, he is now ready to take up a man's place in the world. They will begin house-keeping at the home of an uncle who is going on a six week's trip, after that time they expect to go on a farm near Magnet. The bride has many friends here and at Randolph who wish her a happy married life.

THE CRADLE

HAGBMAN—Monday, January 12, 1920, to Ed Hagbman and wife, a daughter.

HENBRICH—Tuesday, January 13, 1920, to Herbert Henerichs and wife, a daughter.

Miss Emily Prince, who attended normal two years ago and made her home with Mrs. J. J. Williams while here, was the first one called to Washington from this county after taking civil service examination, to help in war work. She returned the last of the week to visit her parents at Winside before taking up any kind of work. She visited Mrs. J. J. Williams the past week.

The Democrat has an apology to make to its readers this week. We are late and not as newsy as usual on account of Mr. Wade being in the hospital. Mr. Wade is an efficient printer and was taken ill so suddenly it put our office in bad shape. Mr. Bly, our machine man, very kindly offered to take the floor work and Mrs. C. O. Mitchell, a former employee, came back on the machine. Together, we are giving you the best we can on short notice. It has been very hard for the senior partner to be at his best with Mr. Wade in a critical condition and we hope the public will bear with us until Mr. Wade is better. We are greatly indebted to Editor Huse of the Herald for timely assistance this week.

GLEA A. WADE AT HOSPITAL FOR APPENDIX OPERATION

Sunday, Glea A. Wade, the junior partner of the Democrat firm, was taken seriously ill with what proved to be appendicitis. In its advanced stage, and Tuesday morning he was taken to the local hospital for an operation. It proved to be a ruptured appendix. Although critically ill at this time the surgeon reports that he is showing improvement daily, and unless the unexpected happens, gives promise that he may be out again within a few weeks, and on duty in the course of a few months.

WAYNE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

The basketball team with Coach Serfling in charge will start on their first extended trip of the season this afternoon. Before returning they will play Wesleyan University at University Place, the State Normal at Kearney, and the Lutheran College team at Seward. The playing of the Wayne boys has been of a superior order and the hopes of the school are high that they will make a fine showing.

The game last Friday evening with Dana College was played in the gymnasium before a large audience. The enthusiastic rooters for the school were delighted with the fine work of both teams and especially with the final score which was 42 to 24 in favor of the Normal team. In the second half Coach Serfling tried out three second team men, having in view the fullest possible training of all his players. Captain Stry at forward and Emil Hauge at center starred for the home organization. The Dana team did well but lacked the ability to advance the ball rapidly and to meet critical situations.

The loyalty of the school was shown in cheering lead by Jesse Randol, by college songs and stirring music by the band under Professor Hunter.

The students and faculty are greatly interested in the experiment of "Goodwill Week" which will be launched next Monday evening and continue for five days. Announcements of this matter have been previously made in issues of this paper but we wish to assure the public that thorough and adequate preparation has been made by the various organizations that are to take part, and that everybody in town is urgently invited to attend. Attention is called to the variety of entertainment. Band, orchestra, girls' quartet, boys' quartet, chorus; a play by the expression department and readings by members; motion pictures and athletic events. To all these gatherings admission is absolutely free.

The week's program follows:
Monday, January 26, at Baptist church—Band concert.

Tuesday, at English Lutheran church—Department of Expression and Musical Numbers.

Wednesday, at Presbyterian church—Orchestra.

Thursday, at Methodist church—Girls' Quartet and Orpheus Club.

Friday, at State Normal School—Motion Pictures in the Auditorium; Athletic events in the Gymnasium.

The whole school is shocked and nearly overwhelmed to learn of the sudden death at St. Joseph's hospital at Sioux City, while undergoing an operation, of Mrs. Sina Hypse, mother of Gail Hypse, a junior in the Normal. It was only last Saturday that a diagnosis of the sickness of Mrs. Hypse revealed the seriousness of the case and death came on Tuesday. The husband and father died some years ago and the death of the mother leaves two children, Miss Gail and a brother who is in the high school at Wakefield. Utmost sympathy goes out to them.

As part of their practice work the classes in beginning cooking and homemakers course on Tuesday afternoon at 4:15 gave an informal tea. Each member of the class had three guests, one from the faculty and two student friends. The occasion was conducted by Misses Burton and Wendt, faculty of the department of home economics. Orchestra music was furnished and a reading was given by Miss Verna Smith.

ATTENTION LADIES!

Friday and Saturday there will be a special sale of ladies dresses at Mrs. Jeffries Ready-to-Wear Shop. Beautiful silks and serges in any the latest classy models at one-third of former prices.

Box Social at Wayne high school, February 4. Program begins at 7:30. Everybody welcome.

Old Friends are True Friends

The man, who loves a dog and a pipe, has two staunch friends that never fail him in good luck or in bad. They give all and ask nothing in return. Day by day they become nearer and dearer to him. The man who has not a dog and a pipe has missed two of the greatest things this good-old world can give.

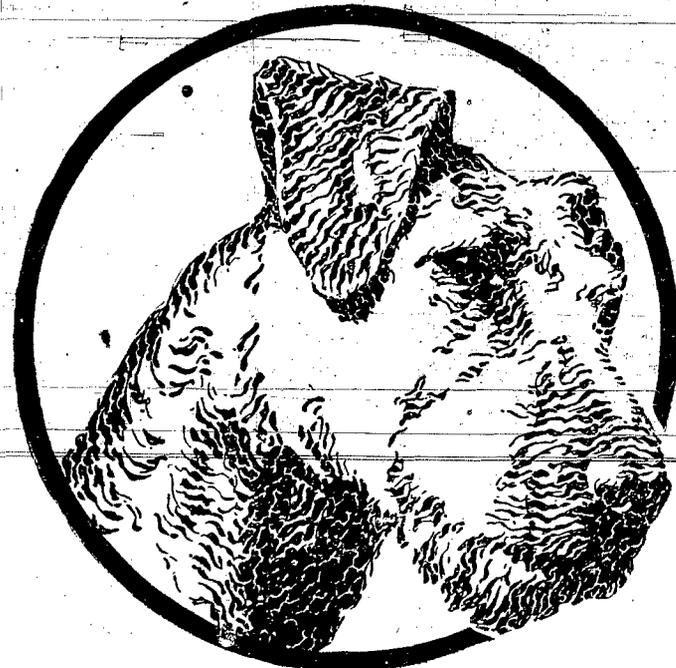

Every man who loves his pipe should know Velvet, the one tobacco that brings out all of a pipe's best and sweetest qualities. Your pipe takes on an added friendliness from Velvet's choice Kentucky leaf aged in the wood to a mellowness that's rich and smooth as cream.

Your pipe takes on a mild sweetness that is Velvet's natural tobacco sweetness. And around you hovers the real tobacco fragrance that all good pipe smokers love.

Never did Velvet Joe say a wiser, truer thing than this:

"Folks say you can't buy friendship. You can buy a dog and a pipe and good old Velvet—and I reckon no man ever had three better friends."

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

There's a lot of pipe-loads in every big generous tin of Velvet, and every pipe-load is good tobacco at its best.

Essex Sets World 24-Hour Road Mark of 1061 Miles

Unmatched Endurance Proof Made by Stock Essex Over Snow-Swept Iowa Dirt Roads

Already driven more than 12,000 miles an Essex stock touring car has established a new world 24-hour mark of 1061 road miles, over frozen, snow-bound dirt roads of Eastern Iowa.

Not a stop was made for repairs or adjustments. Running day and night, Essex completed the gruelling test without a halt except for fuel and oil. Not even a tire change was made.

The average speed was 47.3 miles per hour.

Essex Also Holds the World's 50-Hour Mark

An Essex stock chassis also holds the world's 50-hour endurance mark of 3037 miles, made under A. A. A. supervision, on the Cincinnati speedway.

In three starts, the same Essex ran a total of 5870 miles in 94 hours, 22 minutes, actual driving time, averaging more than a mile a minute.

Doesn't It Settle the Light Car Question?

Prior to Essex, light weight in an automobile meant principally moderate price, and perhaps gasoline and oil economy.

Light cars had no distinction of speed or power. Buyers did not expect fine appearance and performance.

The coming of the Essex changed that. It brought fine car quality, speed, power and endurance to the light car field. Its performance was matched only in the large costly car class.

Is it any wonder that Essex has made a world's sales record of more than $35,000,000 paid for 22,000 Essex cars, in its first year?

We are already booking orders for spring delivery. There is no possibility that all buyers can be served. Now is the time to make your reservation.

Miss Emily Prince, who recently returned to her home at Winside after two years at Washington, where she was engaged in clerical work in the war department, has been visiting the Ivor Morris home near Carroll, and with the Morris family visiting at Randolph, was here Monday on her way to Winside.

John Dodge, who was once a poor man made $50,000,000 building automobiles—and then he died. That is the way of the world. About the time a fellow is fixed, he dies sometimes before the fortune is made.

House for sale, well located. A bargain if taken soon. See D. D. Tobias.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Helen Linn of Carroll was a Wayne visitor Monday.

Miss Pearl E. Sewell is in Lincoln as a business visitor this week.

Mrs. A. A. Welch went to Sioux City Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Harry Armstrong.

Messrs. Hale & Hutchings, farmers east of Wayne shipped a car of hogs to Sioux City Monday night.

Herman Schackel, who has been spending some time at Omaha, returned to his home in Wayne Friday.

The Berga school is going to put electric lights in their school building. This is a country district near Hoskins.

Mrs. Frank Clifton from Royalton, South Dakota, came Friday to visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Coon.

James E. Brittain came over from Madison Friday morning to visit his mother and sister and look after business matters.

If you are going to have a sale advertise it well. One good bidder is worth $100 to a sale, and you may get him with a $5.00 advertisement in the Democrat.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Agler from Winside were here last week visiting relatives and friends, guests at the Henry Merriman home and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Goodyear.

The blizzard predicted for last Thursday failed to show up in this part of Nebraska on time. It will be all right to delay it until next winter at this time, or the year after.

At Hosking they have a new depot ready for occupancy, thus getting out of the old box car which has been doing service as a station since their old station house burned a few months ago.

According to the Pierce Leader there is a revival on at that place—a revival of dancing and card playing, and a big time is the result of their gatherings, if one may believe what the paper tells.

Mrs. Horstman from Osmond is visiting Wayne twice a week now, coming for treatment at the Lewis house. She tells us that the chiropractic adjustments are making marked improvement in her condition.

Don Wollert, who remained here a few days after his parents left for their home at Fremont, left Saturday morning to join them there.

For Sale—As I am farming less I will sell some horse hay, mules, some machinery, power washing machine. Ray Robinson 13 adn

Matt Finn, who has been spending several weeks taking treatment at a Minneapolis hospital, came Saturday morning looking fine, and after greeting his parents at the station here, went on to the farm home at Carroll.

A quarter section farm a mile east of Hartington sold at auction last week at $214 the acre, and it is spoken of in the papers as a good price. The same farm sold less than a year before at $165, so the fellow who bought and sold will be assessed a bit of income tax.

Pierce council is catching the fever and it is about decided that there will be paying in that city this year of 1920. At any rate the council have a little of the preliminary wind-work done. But really, paying is some stunt, these times, and if they are only beginning to talk about it, the work may not be finished this season.

Ralph Hirschman, the young man so badly burned in the gasoline fire at Hartington two weeks ago, died Saturday following the accident, and was buried the following Monday. A popular young man of twenty years, and the tragic nature of his death caused many to attend the funeral as an expression of their sympathy with the bereaved family.

V. L. Dayton went to Lincoln Sunday as a representative of the Wayne fair to the state board of agriculture to put the organization on a footing to cooperate with other fairs and get in line for a share of the state money annually appropriated to aid such enterprises. Wayne county has been paying taxes for this fund for a number of years, and if we organize right and conduct a good fair this money will come home again.

M. S. Davies was visiting at Sioux City the last of the week for a day two.

E. Mogan of Randolph was a Wayne visitor Monday, having a business mission here.

Miss Anna Anderson from the Boyd went to visit relatives at Albion for a few days last week.

"Her Kingdom of Dreams," Anita Stewart's latest picture at the Crystal tonight, and tomorrow night. Admission 10c and 20c.—adv.

Prof. J. J. Coleman was at Norfolk Monday evening, he having taken the task of training a group at that city in community singing. He plans to be there each Monday for a time.

Remember the little freckled faced kid that played in Daddy Long Legs, see him in the latest Anita Stewart production "Her Kingdom of Dreams" at the Crystal tonight and tomorrow night. Admission 10c and 20c.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Brownson from Montivideo, Minnesota, came Monday evening to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Phipps, their daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Phipps recently moved to Wayne to assist his father in the oil distribution here from the Gasoline Supply Company station.

Warren Hurlbert of Carroll was a Wayne visitor Monday, and tells us that he is hoping to make a trip to Florida this week—and then a friend gave the real reason so many are going to the southern part of Florida this month, especially since the 16th, as he saw it. It is so near Cuba, and the drought has not yet invaded the island.

The pupils up at the high school tell us that they think there must be a beauty parlor some place in town as one of the young men came to school one day this week with beautiful pink cheeks and his hair pink in spots as if he had started the blonde process. No, girls, you are mistaken, the young man took a cake of soap and he will look as common as the rest of us poor mortals when the pink wears off.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Emo, who have spent a year in Wayne county thought they liked it better in old Missouri, from whence they came, and this week are moving back to their former home near Sedalla, Missouri. We told them they would be welcome to come back to Wayne after they had had their visit with home folks. We say that to make it easy for them to come back for most people who spend a year here and then go back home find that things have changed there, and that they have simply been homesick.

Mrs. C. H. Pelley from Oelrich, South Dakota, was at Wayne Saturday on her way home. She had been to visit at the home of her parents, G. R. Lingren and wife, near Laurel, and drove to Wayne to catch the train rather than take the time to go round by the train. Mrs. Pelley tells us that she has been two years in the Dakota land, and that prospects are bright there.

Chris Lattonable, of the track men at Winside, was at Wayne Sunday evening on his way home from a meeting of the track and section men at Emerson that day. From his report we learn that men in this branch of service are to have their pay increased in the near future.

Section men, we are told are to have 50 cents per hour, for an 8-hour day and the foremen are to have their pay increased in about the same proportion, a raise of about 25 per cent. Time was, and not long ago, when section men worked the whole day for 90 cents, and then the wage was finally raised to $1.40 for a 10-hour day.

It was in those 90-cent times that the writer knew an unfortunate fellow who had been employed on the section, for some months, and one day he volunteered the information that he had resigned. Asked as to the reason why, he said he could not stand it—that it was too hard on his eye—the poor fellow had lost one eye. That it was impossible to see what he was doing and still keep one eye on the boss so as to know when it was safe to be doing nothing.

Chiropractors

In Their New Home

Thanks to the good friends of Wayne and vicinity and the service we have been able to give those in search of health we are now nicely settled in our new home, on Fourth street, just east of Main, where we are far better equipped with room and conveniences to make you comfortable than in the inadequate quarters we formerly had. We invite you to visit us in our new home whether in need of adjustment or not; inspect the conveniences you have made it possible for us to enjoy.

Chiropractic For Bronchitis

By Nerve Tracing, a physical examination used by Chiropractors only, tenderness can be traced from the place of impingement (pinching) at the spine to the region over the Bronchial Tubes. This assists the Chiropractor in locating the exact cause of the Bronchitis, which when removed, produces Health and normal function of the respiratory organs. Numerous cases of Bronchitis have completely recovered under CHIROPRACTIC SPINAL ADJUSTMENTS. Acute cases usually require but a short series of Daily Adjustments while chronic cases will require a longer time, depending upon the severity of the case, the length of its standing and the responsiveness of the patient's vitality.

NEBRASKA WEEKLY INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

Industry not strikes, employment and unemployment and the American doctrine of individual initiative, not bolshevism and socialism will maintain prosperity in this nation.

General Pershing buys residence at Lincoln and will make that his permanent home. Is Lincoln to furnish two presidential candidates?

Forty thousand tons of sugar beets hauled at Grand Island this season by American Beet Sugar factory.

The public utility industry is of vital interest to every community. Yet it is most misunderstood and misrepresented industry in existence. The public seems to think the utility is not hit by h. c. l.

Nebraska is selling many breeding swine to Texas.

New buildings erected in 1919 and those now under construction total $250,000 at Columbus. Not much building at present prices.

State railway commission authorizes the construction of the 25 per cent increase in telephone exchange rates, permitted during the war period, for the two large companies of the state, the Nebraska (Bell) and the Lincoln.

Naturally the grangers oppose strikes. Being mostly farmers they fear them, for a strike on the farm will be disastrous. There is none of record, which makes the possible situation worse mentally.

Oil and gas considered sure in Harriburg and Goshen. Whole sections where drilling is in progress.

Fair wages after all are wages at which the most workers are employed and not the least, and present wage scales are almost prohibitive and tend to kill building enterprises.

Miss Sisle Philben spent Wednesday visiting Wakefield friends, returning on the evening train.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Lutheran Church (Rev. H. A. Teckhaus, Pastor)

Sunday school, 10 a. m. Morning worship, 11 a. m. You are heartily invited.

Wayne Methodist Episcopal Church (Rev. W. Kilburn, Pastor)

Sunday school, 10 a. m. Preaching service, 11 a. m. Epworth League, 6:45 p. m. Preaching service, 7:30 p. m.

The Epworth League had an excellent attendance at their meeting last Sunday evening. Miss Lynette Rennie was the leader.

The head officers of the Sunday school are developing new features for this worthy organization, which are proving beneficial. We have an up-to-date modern Sunday school. Come and pay us a visit.

The First Presbyterian Church (Rev. J. W. Beard, Minister)

Morning worship at 10:30. Theme of the morning sermon "The Evolution of His Revelation."

Evening service at 7:30. Theme of the evening sermon "The Power of Personality, The Law of Progress." Sunday school at 11:30. Classes for all.

Senior Christian Endeavor at 6:30. We have a splendid society, one of the best in the state. All young people earnestly welcomed.

Our idea of the church, a home church, a social church, a serving church, a place of song, a place of prayer, a place of the friendly hand!

English Lutheran Church (Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Pastor)

Sunday school, 10 a. m. Recently there have been quite a number of promotions in the school as well as re-arrangements of classes. So that now we are better prepared to find a class for the needs of every scholar.

Public worship at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The subject of the morning sermon is: "Jesus Announces an Important Truth." In the evening the pastor will continue the series of expository sermons on John's Gospel. The theme is: "The Living Fountain."

The Luther League meets promptly at 6:45 p. m. The subject is: "Important Events in the Third Year of Christ's Ministry."

Mrs. Henry Hansen will entertain the Ladies' Aid next Thursday afternoon.

First Baptist Church (Robert H. Pratt, S. T. M. Minister)

The morning service of worship and preaching at 10:30. Subject: "Faith."

The Sunday school at 11:30. Young People's meeting at 6:30. The topic is Christianity and Human Conservation and the pastor will lead the meeting.

Evening preaching service at 7:30. Subject, "The True Sign."

The young people will give a social Friday evening, January 23, in the church parlors. This is in the interest of the piano fund which our young people are now raising. A cordial invitation is extended to all and a good time is assured.

At the last meeting of the Ladies' Union there was an attendance of about twenty. It was voted to add to the interest of the meetings by a short program and light refreshments. The meeting of the Union is becoming a real social event to which our ladies look forward eagerly. Visitors are cordially welcomed at these meetings.

SHOWED SPIRIT OF AMERICA

Connecticut Youth Good Example of the Men That Made Victory Over the Hun Certain.

What was the spirit, French, British, Italian, American, that made possible the day of the signing of peace? Well, as for the American spirit, a story, which Gen. Clarence Edwards told me at St. Mihiel, has the meaning as I felt it, writes Lucian Swift Kirtland in Leslie's. He was visiting the hospital. Just as he was leaving a nurse ran after him. "A Connecticut boy," she said, "has heard you are here. He has begged me to ask you to see him. He's dying, but he doesn't know it. He says he has a great favor to ask." Just then the chaplain came and had the same request. They hurried back, the chaplain leading. "The boy looked up and saw the chaplain. "My God! Chaplain," he called out, "what are you looking so darn grim about?—Just 'cause you think I'm going to die and you don't know how to tell me about it? H—, what did I come over here for? Didn't I come over here to die if that had to be the chance? Haven't I had my big chance? Have I failed? What the h— are you worrying about?"

Just then he saw the general. "Oh, General," he said, "excuse me for bothering you, but I'm dying. I know it. I don't want to ask for favors, but the Connecticut band is here, and I thought I'd ask you if you'd have them come and play just once outside here. I want to hear the 'Connecticut State March' just once more."

In a minute the band was there—and it was playing the strains of the march. The lad lifted himself up, a smile of satisfaction on his face. His arm beat the time of the music. He pretended to be leading the band. At the last note he dropped back to his pillow—dead.

SOCIAL NOTES

The ladies aid of the M. E. church will hold their annual supper and bazaar March 25.

Mrs. Beard's Sunday School class will have a covered dish luncheon Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chase.

The Kard Club met Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cavanaugh. The evening was spent in playing 500. Refreshments were served.

The Guild of St. Mary's church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emma Baker. The ladies will enjoy a social afternoon. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Blair entertained the following guests at dinner last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Serfling, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Huntemer and daughter Marcella and Miss Staples.

The regular meeting of the M. E. ladies aid will be held Thursday, January 29, in the basement of the church. A kitchen shower will be held in connection with this meeting.

The aid society of the Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Ingham on Wednesday afternoon. The ladies sewed carpet rags and visited. A very enjoyable time was reported. The hostess served doughnuts, pickles and coffee.

The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. V. L. Dayton, Friday, January 23. It is hoped to have a large number out. Mrs. Boyce will read a paper on "What Our Union Needs Most." Victrola music will help to make the afternoon pleasant and plans for future work will be talked over.

The members of the U. D. club met with Mrs. Hufford last Monday afternoon. Members responded to roll call with musical quotations. Mrs. Charles Craven read an article on Geography of Games. The club will not meet next week. On February 2, Mrs. Charles Craven will be the hostess.

The Rural Home society is having an all day meeting today at the home of Mrs. Amos Claycomb. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock. The afternoon will be spent socially. Mrs. J. W. Jones, Miss Morrison, Mrs. J. J. Williams, Mrs. F. H. Jones, Mrs. Bressler and Miss Dorothy Bressler are guests of the club.

The Coterie met at the home of Mrs. Lester Vath Monday afternoon. Members responded to roll call with current events. The remainder of the afternoon was spent socially. Miss Jewel Fanske of Pierce was a guest of the club. The hostess served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Art Ahern next Monday.

The Monday club met January 19 at the home of Mrs. Moran. Mrs. Bowen gave a very interesting review of the Bethrothal, a new book by Maeterlinck; Miss Piper read a paper on modern surgery. Mrs. Moran, assisted by Mrs. Huntemer, served delicious refreshments. The club will meet Monday, January 26, with Mrs. O. R. Bowen.

Wednesday was Mr. Beckenhauer's birthday and Mrs. Beckenhauer invited the Methodist choir, of which Mr. B. is a member, in for the evening as a surprise. A splendid time is reported as is always the case when the Beckenhauers have an "at home" of any kind. Mr. B. was presented with a gold knife by his fellow choir members. The evening was spent playing games. Mrs. B., assisted by Misses Frances and Florence, served ice cream, cake and coffee.

The members of the Acme club met with Mrs. J. C. Forbes on Monday afternoon. Mrs. J. C. Mines read an excellent article on moving pictures in churches, followed by a general discussion. She also read a review on one of the late moving picture plays entitled "A Widow by Proxy," written by Marguerite Clark. Mrs. Senter delighted the company with a reading and responded to an encore. Light refreshments were served. Mrs. Weber will be hostess next Monday.

Wednesday evening Miss Leila Mitchell entertained six of her young lady friends by giving a theater party. The play was thoroughly enjoyed after which the party went to the C. O. Mitchell home where Mrs. Mitchell had prepared a surprise for them in the way of a splendid lunch. The balance of the evening was spent playing games. Besides Misses Leila and Hazel Mitchell the party consisted of Misses Lila Gardner, Mabel Brinker, Mary House, Lucile McClellan, Arline McClellan and Frances Cherry.

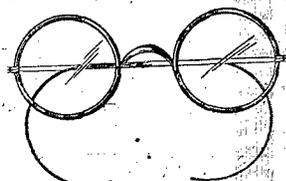

The Queen Esthers very delightfully entertained the members of the Home Missionary society Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ada Rennie. The evening was spent playing games, after a very excellent program. Miss Martha Crockett sang very sweetly "Spirit of God." Miss Faunel Senter had charge of the meeting and the young ladies surprised their guests with the superior way they handled their subject, "Americanization." Miss Leila Mitchell read a portion of scripture and Rev. Mr. Kilburn offered prayer. Delicious refreshment were served.

Mrs. A. P. Gossard entertained the Bible Study Circle Tuesday afternoon and Mrs. A. E. Laase led in the Sunday school lesson, the study bringing out some fine points as to whether lying is ever justifiable. Plans were made and much prayer ascended for the coming of H. B. Denwidde during February to arrange for the western mid-summer victorious life conferences; and it is confidently believed Wayne will again enjoy the gracious and fruitful ministry of these gifted, consecrated exponents of a gospel message which was so greatly appreciated last July. Mrs. Chichester will entertain the circle next Tuesday.

The Young Ladies Bible Study Circle opened with fine attendance and interest after the three vacation weeks. Miss Mable Jonson of near Hoskins was a welcome guest and gave a most thrilling account of answered prayer in regard to the splendid Sunday school in her home attended by a large company of young people who formerly found their pleasure in other things. After the splendid lesson led by Miss Ruth Lingren of Logan Center, Miss Jonson sang, acceptably, "He Will Answer Every Prayer." In the business session it was voted to study the Sunday school lessons the balance of the quarter, also to celebrate the eighth anniversary of the society some time during February. Mrs. Carlos Martin will be hostess next week and a welcome is extended to all.

The Alpha Woman's club met last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. C. W. Hiscox. Members responded to roll call with an excellent reason why women should have the right of suffrage. Followed a short business session. The following program was rendered: Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, a splendid paper, "The World's Progress in Woman's Suffrage," a sketch of the lives of Emmaline Pankhurst, Susan B. Anthony and Anna Shaw, was a bly given by Mrs. C. Wright. Miss Pierce gave a report of the meeting recently held at Lincoln, over which the governor presided, to divide means to lower the high cost of living. Mrs. A. M. Helt of Wayne and Mrs. R. Helt of Omaha, who was a former member, were guests of the club. The hostess served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Whitney will be hostess to the members of the club at a Valentine party, February 14.

Headlines and Hosiery.

Newspapers are said to be a comfortable covering for benchwarmers; but who ever heard of stockings made out of that material? As a matter of fact, the product that goes to make your favorite journal and artificial silk hosiery "that you can't tell from real" is exactly the same. You can now lay the dangers of deforestation at the door of the economical fair sex as well as the journalist tribe, for both stockings and wuxtries are made from wood pulp.

This last year 15 million pairs of silk stockings so made were exported from the United States—between two and three times as many as in 1918.

Manna Not Heavenly.

Strange to stumble upon a quotation about manna in news of the drug and chemical trades! The children of Israel, we know, were saved from starvation in the desert by it. It fell from heaven, was small like coriander seed, and tasted like wafers made with honey.

However, the actual manna of trade today comes from incisions in South European trees and it is now reported to have been quoted higher than previously in the primary market. The demand has increased of late, especially for small flake manna, which is the better quality, coming from the upper part of the stem of the tree.

Referred to an Expert.

Mr. Flutters—That plump, petite lady over there is my fiance, Miss Puddin. Don't you think that she has the face and figure of a goddess?

Professor Bonedigger—Now that you mention it, I think she has. I've been studying some old Aztec carvings and I consider the resemblance quite striking.

Prosaic Job.

"I thought that young officer looked pained when I began to expatiate on the glamor of war."

"You could not have chosen a topic that would have distressed him more."

"Why?"

"He commanded a labor battalion of Chinese coolies."—Birmingham Herald.

And They Call 'Em Trees.

PULL IT UP TO GRANDFATHER

Four-Year-Old Kept Her Pennies in the Elderly Relative's Was Forced to "Dig Up."

Grandfather is a very dignified, retired minister. But still, with all his dignity, he regularly takes his four-year-old granddaughter to Sunday school because he thinks that she should have the religious training while she is yet young.

The other Sunday it was Mary Ellen's fourth birthday and she, after the custom of the school carried with her four pennies to take in the birthday basket. Everything went nicely and the girl went to the front, her little face happy above her Sunday finery. Still smiling she stood in row with the other birthday children and waited while the basket was passed.

When it was taken to the others and she saw them put their pennies into the basket Mary Ellen became distinctly uneasy. She seemed about to flee, then to reconsider and stayed. But when it reached her, instead of dropping her pennies into it as the others had done, she held to them very tightly indeed and said: "No, I'm going to keep them myself. If you want any others you can tell my grandpa up. He had a whole handful this mornin'."

And grandfather, in order to keep his reputation free from having any of the taints of a piker, had to rise from his seat and come forward with four pennies. There was the amusement of the congregation not only seen but heard as well.—Indianapolis News.

LAST OF GREAT MONOPOLY

Three Million Acres of Hudson's Bay Company's Land to Be Given Over to Farming.

When King Charles II. made a grant of land in America to the Government and Company of Adventurers of England Trading into Hudson's Bay, he generously turned over to them about three-quarters of North America, an empire which time has diminished until now the Hudson's Bay company is selling to settlers the rich acres which it still retained after surrendering its authority over its Canadian holdings to the Dominion government, fifty years ago, for an indemnity of $1,500,000. Little enough did Charles, in 1670, imagine the future history of the trading company he had established; still less could he have pictured the chain of retail department stores in the twentieth century. Over 3,000,000 acres of fertile land, the last substantial fraction of King Charles' grant, is being sold to farmers; and as it has lain uncultivated since the days of the Indians, it is pleasant to think that the farmers will soon be busy on it.

Bits of Secret Far Eastern History.

The after-dinner confidential chat of a British naval officer with a French bluejacket at a Sydney ball in 1853 cost the British empire New Caledonia. Our French friend had for many days east-longing eyes on Captain Cook's discovery of 1774. So had we. But the hint given of our intention to annex enabled our rivals to land and take possession three hours before we came to the scene. Thus we lost not only New Caledonia and the adjacent Isles, but the Loyalty group and the New Hebrides; for it is an open secret that the throat of the impossible New Hebrides condominium will soon be cut and France will gather in this gem of the Pacific. It may bring him to remember that as the French beat us on the post for New Caledonia so we beat them by a nose for Macarland in almost exactly the same way.—Sydney Bulletin.

Electric Fire Logs.

Electric fire logs, which have been used on the stage for several years, are now available for other uses. These fire logs are made of imitation wood, consisting of three or more logs naturally grouped for interior fireplaces and outdoor campfires. The logs are of translucent material and asbestos, re-enforced with metal, and are made hollow for the insertion of electric bulbs. The bark and cut ends of the logs are artistically designed and hand-painted to give the natural appearance of partially burned logs.

By shading the translucent and opaque parts properly and providing for reflection from below, the logs, when illuminated, glow with the natural bright and darker shading of burning wood logs. The fire logs can also be obtained in the form of a large wood-log with imitation ash heap, for large old-fashioned fireplaces.

Grain Grading School.

In Portland, Ore., a new kind of school has been started which has no transient officer, gives no degrees and is attended by young and old—college graduates as well as some who didn't go through high school. It's not a large school, only 36 at last reports, who meet once a week for an intensive course in grain grading, because they are interested in grading grain under federal standards, administered by the United States department of agriculture. The school is held once a week outside of business hours in the offices of the federal grain supervisor. Among the students are grain dealers, dock superintendents and foremen, and state grain men.

Prohibition will not prevent the moon from getting full, remarked an exchange. Nor the bases, we may add, getting dissipated.—New Haven Register.

CHEAPLY BOUGHT

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTE

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

Albion Dale was in no mood for trifling, nor even for the exercise of his usual kindly, congenial and co-operative nature. His impulse was to evade or pass by a little boy and girl who, spying him, ran eagerly in his direction. He forced a smile and tried to act quite the big brother, for the little fellow was the brother of Miss Lois Beverly, which meant worlds to Albion.

Not so much just now, however, as a week previous, for a strange and puzzling change had come over the lovely and beloved sister of little Ned. Its mystery and puzzling uncertainty enforced constant mental speculation as to the cause and possible results. While Albion, after a charming acquaintanceship with Lois of many months, had arrived at a point where he was about to confess his love, she seemed suddenly to become a different being. On one occasion he came upon her in tears. During two subsequent calls she was sad, pale and reticent, and arranged it so that he had no opportunity to see her alone. Then she was "not at home" one evening, and the next day he received a note, from her in response to his own, canceling a party engagement upon which there had been an agreement of mutual attendance.

So those were distressing and unsatisfactory days to the ardent lover, held at a distance and helpless to dissipate the cloud that surrounded the object of his truest affection. Albion assumed a casual smile as little Ben and a girl of his own age reached his side. The hands of each were filled with an incongruous heap of cards, envelopes and folded bits of paper.

"Oh, Mr. Dale!" piped the girl excitedly, "we is postmasters, and we're selling letters. These," extending some canceled post cards, "are a penny apiece."

"Give me five," encouraged Albion. "With the envelopes tied with ribbon, mine are three for a nickel," announced little Ben. "All except this big one. That's a real letter, and it's three cents. I found it on sister's writing desk."

"Run along to the candy store, little mail carriers," directed Albion, and thrust his unique purchases in his pocket. He thought no more of them until he had reached home. Then he drew them forth to deposit in the waste basket. He noticed his three-cent investment with a token of interest as he recalled what little Ben had said regarding it. Involuntarily, almost, he opened a folded sheet.

It was written from Yorkton and signed "Alex Tyrrell." It was very brief, addressed to Miss Lois Beverly, and read: "I shall be at room 67, Holland hotel, until Tuesday evening. I warn you that if the two hundred dollars is not produced by then, I will make the document public."

The letter was a shock to Albion. Its gross threat and familiarity stunned him. Was it possible that the documents covered some past entanglement of the woman he loved? Oh, never! never! Albion banished the thought. The writer, however, was to say the mildest, a blackmailer. His eyes flashed. Instantaneously he decided what he would do. His should be the function to meet this Alex Tyrrell and learn his secret power, and rescue the girl he idolized from the pending menace.

That same day he reached Yorkton. It was early in the evening when Albion located the Holland hotel and room 67. He knocked at its door. It was opened by a mean-faced young man.

"This is Mr. Tyrrell?" insinuated Albion.

"Well, I can take a message for him," was the guarded answer.

"I come from Miss Lois Beverly."

"That's all right," promptly replied the man. "Come in. If she sent a little necessary package, the rest is easy."

"Two hundred dollars, I believe?"

"That's the sum," answered Tyrrell.

"And I get in return?"

"The notes that are signed by Miss Beverly's brother. Of course, she has told you that they represent gambling debts, and include some signatures he had no right to simulate."

Albion took $200 from his pocket. He recalled that Wendell Beverly, the brother of Lois, had married a few months previous, and that he had formerly been somewhat reckless and dissipated.

"Those are all?" he questioned as a little package was tendered.

"Yes, see here," said Tyrrell, viewing Albion with speculative eyes, "I fancy you have a peculiar interest in the young lady. The returned notes will subdue her tears. For another hundred, though, I will tell you something that will make her very happy."

He placed himself near the door, a table between himself and his visitor as he spoke. "Siftently Albion produced the money mentioned."

"All right, then," grinned Tyrrell. "Here you can rest in peace. Now, my friend, and he never signed them, phoney, and he never signed them."

"You scoundrel!" cried Albion, and made his first, but Tyrrell made speed in getting out of the room and beyond his reach.

"I'm a scoundrel," murmured Albion raptly, and left the place content and happy.

DEAD ARE MOUNTING GUARD

Soldiers Who Were Killed at Douaumont Still Thrust Their Bayonets Above Ground.

At Douaumont, France, Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Rouen and former bishop of Verdun, blessed the historic Tranchee des Fusils, the "Trenches of the Rifles," September 14. The ceremony occurred in the presence of General Valentin, commander of the forts and heights of the Meuse; of M. Robin, mayor of Verdun, and a delegation of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment, according to Current History, New York Times.

The Trench of the Rifles lies behind a humble wooden cross erected near Douaumont, which is a shapeless mass of splintered rock, of barbed wire writhing as if in torment, of nameless litter, through which poppy and bramble tried to thrust upward during the summer. This cross overlooks the bloodiest battle field of the war. It was erected by men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment because close by their dead comrades are still mounting guard—there in the Tranchee des Fusils.

It was a small episode amidst a cataclysm and soon over. In Indian file the men of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh crept forth to mount guard, rifle on shoulder, bayonets fixed; there came a sudden, thunderous boom; the earth shuddered and cracked open, closed again, and swallowed up all. Thrusting above the ground, aligned as on that last march down the narrow trench that led to death, the bayonets of the section rise a bare six inches. It was this Trench of Rifles, and the dead heroes, still mounting guard below, that the cardinal blessed.

LAW AS TO COLOR BLINDNESS

Does Not Mean Loss of Sight, According to Ruling Made by Georgia Superior Court.

Color blindness does not mean total loss of sight in the meaning of the law, it was held recently by Judge John T. Pendleton in the motion division of Superior court at Atlanta, Ga.

Judge Pendleton's decision cleared a legal point raised only once before in the United States, so far as is shown by court records. This was in Nebraska, where both the lower court and the State Supreme court held that color blindness means total blindness.

The question was raised in a suit brought by George L. Fallin, who was a locomotive engineer for the Atlanta Joint Terminals, against the Locomotive Engineer Mutual Insurance and Accident association, a branch of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Engineer Fallin, it was set out, became color blind while engaged in his line of duty and was discharged from his position. He then applied to the engineers' association for his insurance—$1,500—for the loss of his eyesight, as stipulated in the policy. The association, however, declined to pay the amount on the ground that color blindness did not come within the terms of the policy concerning blindness. Fallin then brought suit in the courts through his counsel, City Attorney James L. Mayson.

Chinaman and His Queue.

On April 16, at what was once the village of Fanpoux, I met a Chinese who was trying to grow a queue. It was only about a foot long and did not improve his appearance any. That day while out in the fields salvaging ammunition, his nose told him he was in the vicinity of some unsuccessfully buried foreigners. He was hardened by this time to all sorts of disagreeable things, but the incident went to the back of his head and only served to strengthen his belief that he should grow a queue. Foreigners wear their hair cut short. He had been in France going on two years and had long since concluded that he did not want to imitate them. Hence the queue.—World's Work.

Dantzig Rich in Memories.

The old fortress of Dantzig is rich in Napoleonic lore. It was here that the man of destiny failed to heed the intimations of a grand council of his marshals—Murat, Ney and the rest—that his star had passed perihelion; it was here that he upbraided them for having grown soft in prosperity, and for opposing the invasion of Russia; and it was from Dantzig that his legions "jumped off" for the ill-fated Moscow campaign.

In a later day Dantzig was the background and base for the northern shear of Mackensen's gray-green pinners that took Warsaw.

The Gridiron.

"But you have no field of honor in zis cuntry," said the French visitor.

"Oh, yes, we have," replied the American citizen.

"Out!"

"Out, out. We have a field of honor with two goal posts at each end, and our husky young Americans take a delight in plowing it with their noses."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

LONG DISTANCE PREDICTIONS

When Will Weber was a resident of Wayne the Democrat frequently gave his weather predictions and sometimes commented on them. Just now we are in receipt of a delayed letter from Mr. Weber dated at Dunning, January 11th in which he sends January predictions. Of course a part of this will be history rather than prediction to the reader, but here is what he said:

For Sale—Leather couch, kitchen range with reservoir, oil stove, iron bed and springs, low kitchen cabinet. Have to move is reason for selling.

Mrs. Dora Biegler of Sioux City, who has been here visiting her sister, Mrs. Piepenstock and other relatives and friends, returned home Tuesday.

REPORT OF EIGHTH INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION HELD AT DES MOINES, DEC. 31-JAN. 4.

(From the Goldenrod)

We, the delegates, met at the Northwestern station in Sioux City on Tuesday afternoon, December 30 and took the 5.25 train for Des Moines. We arrived at our destination Wednesday morning at 1:30. The pretty site of Des Moines river by moonlight attracted our attention first of all on our way to the Martin Hotel.

During the forenoon we went to the Courthouse to have our credentials checked and to secure room assignments. The girls were assigned to rooms at 2309 University Avenue and the boys at 3818 Ninth Street.

The opening meeting was held at the Coliseum, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. The Coliseum, is an immense building covering a block. The delegates began gathering soon after one o'clock coming in units by schools and sitting together in areas blocked off in the Coliseum with a large banner denoting the part of the hall assigned to each state and country. The Nebraska delegation was seated in the second gallery toward the front of the building.

Seven thousand five hundred students representing one thousand colleges and universities and forty nations crammed the Coliseum, singing school songs, giving yells and about What's Bone Dry —What's Not?

Not every storage battery that is called "bone dry" is really shipped and stored in bone-dry condition.

Some have solution put in at the factory, and poured out again before shipment.

Some are shipped with plates dry, and insulation wet.

These batteries are not bone dry.

Come in and get straight from us the story of Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation, the only form of insulation that permits of bone-dry shipment and storage of automobile starting, lighting and ignition batteries.

ing greetings to friends of other schools. John R. Mott brought down on the speaker's table at the front of the big platform, the gavel which called to order the International Student Volunteer Convention which is to be a landmark in world Christianization.

The watchword of the Student Volunteer movement is "The Evangelization of the whole world in this generation." The demand made today upon colleges for Christian leaders was emphasized by the speakers. Reports of the following speakers will be given at the Y. W. and Y. M. meetings in the next few weeks: John R. Mott, Sherwood Eddy, Pierce Maury, Robert E. Speer, Dr. Zwemer, Dr. Chang, Bishops McConnell, Wilder and Holder.

Pierce Maury gave a lecture in French on "The Losses of the French Universities During the War." Pamphlets containing the translation of the address were given to each delegate so that those who did not understand French could follow the speaker.

Three sessions were held each day. At each session the convention male quartet rendered pleasing selections. The exhibit was held at the auditorium, displaying posters showing what has been accomplished by missionaries in the different countries and the vastness of the field yet to be covered.

The convention post office was situated at the rear of the auditorium. Those in charge did a rushing business handling telegrams, letters and other messages. About 10,000 letters were distributed daily. Someone remarked "Looks like a bargain counter rush."

Special arrangements for caring for students at meal time were made by cafes, hotels and churches. Six o'clock dinner was served to the Nebraska delegates every evening at the First Baptist Church. At this time we practiced Nebraska yells and discussed special school problems. We wish to thank the Y. W. and Y. M. for making it possible for us to attend this convention.

TAXES NEARLY DOUBLE

Did you fume and say things unyour personal taxes this fall because of the nice little jump they had taken during the past 12 months?

Well, take a good long breath and be prepared to bite on your tongue when you trot to the county treasurer's office next spring for you will then receive another little shock in the form of an official advice that all real estate taxes will be nearly double what they have been in the past. Naturally such good news will make anyone happy.

According to the report of the state auditor just issued at Lincoln, Cedar county paid in for state taxes in the spring of 1919 the sum of $73,085. But next year the state government expects to get from this county the sum of $124,804 and the tax list has been made up on that basis. There will be practically no change in the amount collected for county purposes as the road and bridge improvements of the last few years depleted these funds and the maximum amount will be needed.

Dixon county will be asked for $65,980 instead of $44,708. Knox county must pay $106,722 instead of $62,847 and Wayne county will pay next spring $89,975 instead of $60,968.

The increase is approximately 70 per cent, the levy for state purposes, jumping from 6.78 mills to 13 mills. Part of the amount will go toward the erection of the new state capitol—Cedar Co. News.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

He was a dreamer and a sentimentalist, but a genius as well, so the combination was rational to a degree. To the little community of Newton he was known as Jarvin Morton, a new comer, living in a modest cottage with his mother and an art sketcher had begun to make him a name.

He was standing at the window of a cold and cheerless room, but not gazing outside, for the frost lay like a blanket across the panes. The merest excuse for a fire spluttered in the grate. On an easel was a drawing board with a sheet of paper tacked to it. The outline of a fair girl's face showed, but only half finished. Too cold to continue careful work, but the creative impulse always seeking expression, he applied the pencil tip to the frosted pane and began sketching that same face.

Amid his abstraction he had not heard a knock at the frosted portal nor footsteps in the hallway. The door of the room was timidly pressed open. "If you please, if you are Mr. Morton," commenced a pleasing voice, and its owner, girlish and attractive, faltered. Her glance had fallen upon the limned face on the easel and its more finished duplicate on the window pane. Surprise, pleasure, wonderment and admiration blended.

Jarvis Morton turned to instantly recognize the original of his art effort. He had seen her across two vacant lots several times, but had never spoken to her. He spoke now, with an encouraging smile, for she had become timid and embarrassed.

"I am Jarvin Morton," he said. "You are our neighbor, I believe, Miss Illsley?"

"Yes, Marian Illsley," hurried on the girl, fluttering. "If you please, your mother sent me over. It is so cold and slippery outside that I wished to save her exposure and discomfort. She came over to use our telephone to hurry up the load of coal you ordered. The dealer says they haven't a pound of fuel in the yard, and mother says that this coal shortage makes us all like one family, and the weather man says the cold snap will last for a week, and you people are to bring over some comforters and lock up the house, and we'll do the rest."

"And what a beneficent rest!" rejoined Jarvin brightly. "This isn't mere hospitality. It's a real rescue from freezing to death! I was just thinking of splitting up a couple of chairs and muffing in all the blankets in the house and hibernating until the zero menace was gone."

His joyousness was manifest, and she entered into the enlivening zest of the occasion with demure, but pretty graciousness.

"You see, we managed to just graze the famine by getting a ton of coal delivered yesterday," she resumed. "Your mother insists on bringing over whatever there is cooked in the house."

"Won't you help me rummage the larder?" suggested Jarvin, and they laughed and chatted like two happy children as they loaded up a clothesbasket. Then Jarvin went to secure the blankets. When he returned Marian stood surveying the easel sketch.

"How nice to be able to draw like that," she ventured, detected at studying her own presentation.

"And how fortunate was I to catch your face as a study while you were cleaning the snow this morning!" said Jarvin. "When the sketch is finished, I shall call it 'The Snow Queen.' The newspaper asked for something wintery, and that graceful twirl of the snow shovel and the shimmery flakes forming an airy veil just filled the bill."

"On! it won't be printed, will it?" marveled Marian. "Me in the paper! How strange it will seem to me! It must be delightful to be able to make the world look at whatever you wish to draw."

"Bless the coal shortage!" uttered the artist and lover after four days' sojourn in the cozy Illsley home for the latter he had unconsciously become, and the fulfillment of a cherished ideal of loveliness, artless innocence and silent but sweet devotion had brought a bewildering joy to his impassible heart. It seemed as if his mother had emerged from dreful loneliness into perfect enjoyable comfort and companionship, shut in from the outside world with happy-spirited Mrs. Illsley. Marian fitted about the little house with smiles and bright sayings, making it a delight to Jarvin to hear, to see and to cherish her. He frowned when the cold moderated, he growled when he realized that they must soon leave this eden of perfectness.

"What a happy day we would all make!" he soliloquized one day, and musing at the window, he began tracing on a lightly frosted pane, as Marian chanced into the room.

"Come here, please," he spoke, with a bright sparkle in his eye. At the window she had first seen him, at a window she now joined him, and as he handed her his pencil she flushed and trembled, as she read: "I love you."

"Then, in pretty embarrassment, but ecstatically quiet, she traced the true, simple words: "I love you, too!"

SOMEWHAT SIMILAR AIM

During a brawl in a Chicago resort an Irishman got poked in the eye with a stick and he immediately started proceedings against the offender.

"Come now," said the magistrate, "you don't really believe he meant to put your eye out?"

"No, I don't," said the Celt, "but I do believe he tried to put it farther in."

RANCHER NOW CROW'S FRIEND

Bird He Formerly Despised Came to His Rescue and Waged War on Destructive Worms.

There's a rancher out at San Fernando valley who has revised all his preconceived notions about crows, says a Los Angeles dispatch to the St. Louis Republic. Inasmuch as they have saved him $5,000, he feels that he is duty bound to chuck the "scarecrows" and cultivate his new-found friends.

In other words, he's off the anti-crow movement for life.

Mr. Robert Fargo, program chairman of the Los Angeles Audubon society vouches for the facts in the case. The farmer has 45 acres of tomatoes. They were coming along finely when he discovered some weeks ago that tomato worms had invaded the field and were destroying the plants.

All hands—men, women and children—were drafted to wage war on the worms, which multiplied at an appalling rate. As many as 1,000 of them would be found in a single morning.

The fight appeared to be hopeless, and the farmer in despair had almost resigned himself to the loss of his crop when the blackleg battalions of his rescuers arrived one morning.

A veritable cloud of birds descended on one corner of the field. At first he supposed it merely meant more trouble. In a short time he discovered his mistake.

The new arrivals were after the worms and they got them, too. The loyal birds stayed right on the job for several days. A careful search of the field several days after they left revealed only three of the worms.

Not a tomato plant was disturbed by the birds, according to the rancher. He is now trucking his tomatoes in a nearby cannery which contracted for them. At the price fixed he will clear $5,000.

If the crows had not arrived on time there would have been neither vines nor tomatoes left in a few days, so he credits them with having saved him the results of a year's labor, the cost of his plants, and returned him a neat profit besides.

MAKE BOATS WINTER HOMES

Londoners Partially Solve Housing Question by Living on the Thames Close to the City.

The housing question is being solved in a novel way between Thames Ditton and Hampton court. Unable to obtain a room occupants of houseboats are continuing to live in their floating homes, and in one backwater, 13 miles from London, houseboats are actually being built for winter occupation, London Answers states.

They are moored by a tree-sheltered bank. But you are too late to apply for them—they are all taken. One wonders what will happen when the floods begin.

Bungalows, which usually see no human soul save during the hot weather, are also finding winter tenants. A five-room bungalow on Thames Ditton Island cost 25 shillings a week until April. There may be a few of these left. One is at present occupied by a demobilized soldier, but whether he will find Thames mists easier to stand than Flanders mud remains to be seen. For the time being he is quite cheerful, however, and having sought a house in vain, does not cavil at having to start his journey to London each day by boat.

Our ideas change according to our necessities. It was stated the other day that a distracted man had applied to the government to let him a "pill box."

Mild and Ancient.

"Shall we refer to that opponent in uncompromising terms as a grafter?" asked the invaluable secretary.

"No," replied Senator Sorghum. "Let's keep up-to-date and make it strong. The profiteers these days have made the old-fashioned grafter look like a piker."

His Glimpses of Warfare.

"What are your impressions of 'No Man's Land'?"

"I didn't get into the war," answered the morose citizen. "My only vivid idea of 'No Man's Land' is home while spring housecleaning is going on."—Minneapolis Tribune.

"How nice to be able to draw like that," she ventured, detected at studying her own presentation.

"And how fortunate was I to catch your face as a study while you were cleaning the snow this morning!" said Jarvin. "When the sketch is finished, I shall call it 'The Snow Queen.' "On! it won't be printed, will it?" marveled Marian. "Me in the paper! How strange it will seem to me! It must be delightful to be able to make the world look at whatever you wish to draw."

Miss Marguerite Forbes returned home from Sioux City Saturday evening, where she had been for two weeks waiting for a successor to take over her work that she might have a vacation. With her same a friend, Miss Truma Kitchen, of the Tribune-city staff, who spent Sunday a guest at the Forbes home.

B. W. Mace and family came last week from Hurley, South Dakota, and plan to make Wayne their home. They are at present stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hogan, their son-in-law. It is their plan to purchase a lot in the Roosevelt Park addition and build, something they may readily do, as Mr. Mace is a carpenter. A son plans to begin work on the railroad as soon as they begin putting on more men.

We notice from the advertising in the Chalkbute News, a South Dakota paper, that Clyde H. Gaffin, who was a Wayne lad a few years ago, is now using the title of U. S. Commissioner, and does work in connection with Rapid City and Belle Fourche land offices. He is also editor of the News at Chalkbute, and his mother is a postmistress at that place, and H. M. Gaffin, the father, is conducting a store and a harness shop.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Owen and his brother, Henry Owen, who is here from Denver for a visit, went to spend the day at Sioux City Saturday. Mr. Henry Owen said that he had not before visited this city in nearly a half century, and that it was not then much of a town. He remembers plenty of mud and lots of Indians. In fact, he said that when he was last there before, the streets showed up worse than the streets of Wayne have since his arrival here last week, if possible.

Mrs. Chessie Harrington from Ne-high, and a former "ready-towear" lady of Wolfe & Brother, spent Sunday night and Monday forenoon at Wayne looking up some business propositions. Mrs. Harrington told the reporter that she had visited Wayne last summer, and was favorably impressed with the beauty of the place, and she spoke especially of the many yards in which beautiful flowers were blooming. She did not especially praise the buildings in the business district, but she had seemed to almost forget them in admiring the beauties of the residence portion of the city. It is possible, we were informed that she will become a resident of Wayne.

L. M. Owen left Monday afternoon to visit his brother in Denver, and the brother, who has been visiting here for about ten days went with him. Mr. Owen has so timed his visit that he will be at Denver at the time of the great western stock show, which is easily classed as the greatest live stock show on earth—where there is more kinds and better stock shown than elsewhere. It is a great show, or at least it was more than a dozen years ago when the writer was privileged to be at Denver during this great show week, and it is now certainly greater than at that time.

yet they talked of not having visited before for quite a number of years.

Mrs. J. H. Wendte came Monday from Fairfax, South Dakota, to visit a few days with Wayne friends. Mrs.
Wendte tells us that they have been in the mercantile business at Fairfax, but are now closing out the stock in order to be free to go to their farm in Cheyenne county in the spring.

Ray Miles, who moved to the western part of the state last spring from here, came Saturday evening to visit a few days with Wayne friends. He reports that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Miles are well, and that they are all prospering in their new home. Ray was a delegate from the Farmers' Union of his community to the annual meeting at Omaha. He reports a good meeting at Omaha, and that the farmer organization is in splendid shape to see that they have some fights in the future that have been denied them in the past.
He says that Sidney and all the surrounding towns are supplied with farmer elevators and farmer stores in many instances—that they appear to be better organized in that vicinity than here. He plans to return home within a few days at the latest.
Crop conditions there—which means wheat at this season of the year, are fine.

Goodyear Leadership— and Tires for Small Cars

Enormous resources and scrupulous care have produced in Goodyear Tires for small cars a high relative value not exceeded even in the famous Goodyear Cords on the world's highest-priced automobiles.

In addition to its larger sizes, Goodyear manufactures an average of 20,000 small car tires a day in the world's largest tire factory devoted solely to the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch sizes.

Last year more small cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

Their extreme worth is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other small car, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure $20.00
Fabric, All-Weather Tread

30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure $17.65
Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are built to protect casings. Why endanger a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in waterproof bag. $3.90

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RAILROADS EASILY MADE

Those who oppose government ownership of the railroads try to make us believe it impossible because of the price. They say it would take something like $22,000,000,000. That looks like a lot of money, doesn't it?

But someone already holds the stocks and bonds of the different railroads and draw interest and dividends thereon. How much trouble would it be for Uncle Sam to issue government bonds and exchange them for the stock and bonds now held?

What stock or bond holder would object to trading a fluctuating and insecure investment for a staple and assured one?

But control could be secured for much less than this sum. The purchase of but 51 per cent of the stock would give Uncle Sam absolute control.

The average price is now around 60, so it would take about $2,800,000,000 to turn the trick. Less than the smallest liberty loan floated during the war.

It would be best, however, to buy all the stock, and exchange government bonds therefor, for with the government in control by the ownership of 51 per cent, the balance of the stock would immediately soar to dizzy heights, thus making millions for the holders without any labor or effort on their part.

The government would have to pay fair dividends on the remaining stock so why not secure it all and fix interest rate at about what other government bonds bear. It would be an immense saving.

With full government ownership there would no longer be any need to try to make government control unpopular by "soldiering" on the job, unreasonable delays of freight and the hundreds of tricks that have been resorted to by the former owners.

The high salaries of the many presidents, vice presidents, etc., could be cut down to a reasonable figure for the service rendered. Duplicating service could be cut out, union depots and stations used and the others closed and the roads put on a really efficient basis.

We believe it would be best in the long run. When things got to going along all right we would no more think of going back to private ownership than we would of turning the postal service over to a private corporation.—Blair Pilot.

FARM ORGANIZATIONS OUTLINE GOOD LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

A Washington dispatch states that representatives of farm organizations including the National Farmers' Council and the Board of Farm Organizations, have submitted a program of legislation and have suggested a meeting of labor and farm organizations and cooperative agencies for February 12, to consider the plan of eliminating the profits of the middleman in the marketing of products. The following planks are included in the legislative program:

1. Passage of the Kenyon bill to regulate the packing industry.
2. Government ownership of railroads and government control of the merchant marine.
3. Nationalization of natural resources.
4. Democratic financing of the war cost by the retention of the income and excess profits taxes and a higher tax on land held for speculative purposes.
5. Change in the credit system to take it out of the hands of private interests and conduct the credit system on a cooperative basis, so that the small merchant and the farmer may obtain the same credit as is now available to financiers.
6. Ratification of the suffrage amendment.
7. Passage of the bill submitted by Congressman Sabbath, of Illinois for the removal of the tax on oleomargarine.

A TRIBUTE TO THE PIONEER SCHOOLS OF NEBRASKA

The death of Supt. W. H. Clemmons in the city where for so many years he labored in the pioneering period of the educational life of our state suggests many things to those who have known the early struggles of Nebraska institutions of learning. In the early eighties it would have been difficult for the visitor from Mars to forecast what has later become the reality in the relative strength of our colleges. The University was still in a cartilaginous condition, only beginning to suggest the greatness it has achieved and the one state normal at Peru was small and its future uncertain, for a long and successful life.

These institutions were very much alive, and their executives were sturdy men of tremendous influence, who "lit up the spirits" of thousands of Nebraska young people. President Perry, for nearly forty years head of Doane College, with his colleagues, Goodwin D. Swezey, since 1890 in the University, A. B. Fairchild still at Doane, and the late Professor J. S. Brown, from the beginning, had an institution of no mean intellectual life. Gates College, of Neligh, destined to early death, was the first stamping ground of President Warren of Yankton College and of Professor G. A. Gregory, while Franklin Academy was the center of influence for men like Rev. C. S. Harrison and Principal A. C. Hart.

The normal schools differed from the colleges in seeking closer relations with the public schools. President Croan, after his school at Shenandoah, Iowa, was destroyed by fire, made the mistake of attempting to build his Western Normal College under the increasing shadow of the State University and it soon passed away but not before giving to Nebraska Professor Clark, President of Peru Normal and later Dean at Kearney.

North of the Platte, President Clemmons was more successful. The writer recalls talking with a bright young man in the early nineties, graduate of the University of Michigan, who was a member of the faculty of Fremont College and who spoke with enthusiasm of the future of the institution. Out of this school grew "The Nebraska Normal College" at Wayne, for President James M. Pile, founder of the latter institution, had his first teaching experience in this state as a member of the faculty of the Fremont Normal, and President U. S. Conn of the State Normal School at Wayne once taught at Fremont.

How varied has been the fate of these institutions! Gates College, the academies at Pawnee City and at Weeping Water have passed away, while the site of Chadron Academy is now occupied by a flourishing state normal school whose president, R. I. Elliott, is a graduate of the "Nebraska Normal College" as well as the State University. The Nebraska Normal College has become the Wayne State Normal School and the plant at Fremont has been sold to Midland College.

What is the debt of Nebraska to these institutions? It cannot be measured by any known standards. It is easy to say that they were poor, unscientific, often narrow, and the criticism is more or less true. Yet there is something about a great book, a geometry, Pilgrim's Progress or even Perry's Political Economy, about a splendid man that stirs the imagination of youth. The boys and girls of those days were not athletes.

I never knew one to hold a place on the "all western team." But they were interested in public questions. In their literary societies, in the classroom, in their dormitories, they debated, wrote and read and spoke essays and orations. The very lack of opportunities made them avid of what they had.

Nor was the product in men and women contemptible. In the first literary contest held between Doane and the University in 1881 those of the contestants were Clement Chace, well known in the literary world, Ernest Bross, editor of the Indianapolis Journal, A. B. Snow, Professor of History in Leland Stanford.

In the first inter-collegiate oratorical contest the representative of the University was A. G. Warner, whose brief and brilliant career is known to all who interest themselves in present day social questions, his oration being a promising historical study of Savonarola, doubtless inspired by work done with Professor Howard. The winner of that contest was a boy of seventeen, now pastor of the Congregational Church in Danvers, Massachusetts, who has contributed valuable studies in Massachusetts local history to the historical society of that state. Nor did his oration lack constructive imagination. It was an arraignment of our policy of national isolation, an opposite course being urged as likely to protect smaller nations and make for peace by means of arbitration. The daily papers discussed the contest, printed the orations and made news of the matter through several days. Think of it! The college orator with more fame than the successful baseball pitcher or mile runner!

Memory of this vanished past should be prized. The work of the band of whom President Clemmons was the last should be cherished in the archives of the State House. The scattered spots where the crumbling buildings of dead colleges deserve their tablets as truly as the site of Fort Atkinson. To this group this generation has said "Hail!" and their children should utter an appreciative "Farewell!"

—J. T. House.

being run over. And children could be kept away from the street grading and paving gangs who will be with us all summer.

"There is an annual levy made in Wayne for park purposes and it is sufficient to do all that is necessary. I would like to see it used for the purpose for which it was levied instead of being left unused and finally transferred to some other fund."

"The W. C. T. U. claims the credit of putting out the saloon but they have furnished nothing to take its place. What can we do? I think this organization can and will furnish places where men, boys and girls may congregate, where they can be instructed, entertained and benefited. It will be better than the pool hall, street corner or postoffice lobby and the evil influences which now confront the boy or girl will be overcome. It is within our power, but it will take work and money. There is plenty of money at Wayne. Let's get at the people who have it and show them the need and see that they do their part in this matter. Some of us cannot spare much time or money for the betterment of the city but we can all do what we can and pay some one else to do what we are not able to do.

There is one thing which is indispensable in everything to be done of a public character—public sentiment. We can make that, it does not cost a cent, only effort. There are enough women in this organization to create public sentiment which would push through any enterprise we attempt. United effort in talking up these things and keeping at it persistently will help us realize our dreams."

Superintendent Armstrong of the city schools, who was recently appointed district manager of the Keep Fit Campaign, was next on the program and outlined the plan of the government to rid the United States of social diseases. He said, in effect, that on account of the alarming spread of social diseases and the dreadful death toll, the government has taken up this fight and it will be war to the finish. Public health authorities throughout the country are now organizing to carry on the fight against this health menace. Practically all of the methods found successful in the army will be utilized. A far reaching and important part of the program, however, will be prevention by education. He spoke earnestly, thoughtfully, and handled his subject in a conservative manner.

He also read the following clippings sent out by the government:

In our homes, hospitals, and public institutions this year ending December 31, 1919, there will be more injured and killed victims of social diseases than the United States lost during the entire war in France.

We do not see the wounded victims nor do the newspapers display the casualty lists of the dead from these ravages. But the casualties are there hidden among the death notices and many more unrecorded victims destroyed before birth or dead at birth. The wounded victims fill the doors, our institutions for the insane, the blind and helpless. These are real casualties, people dead, bodies wounded, minds destroyed—not heroic victims adorned with gold chevrons, but victims as innocent as the refugees of France and Belgium.

Against these ravages of the innocent and their allies America is at open and relentless war. Begun for the protection of the young men in the army this war is now being prosecuted by the public health authorities of nation and state for the protection of the whole citizenship. Years of patient study have developed a means of recognition and effective cure. The military authorities showed that these diseases are not an unconquerable foe.

On July 1, 1918, the President issued an executive order placing all public health activities conducted by federal agencies under the supervision of the Public Health Service. On July 19, congress passed an act entitled "An Act making appropriations for the support of the army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919. Under chapter 15 of this there was created an interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board and a Division of Social Diseases in the United States Public Health Service.

The plan was to have an officer of the Public Health Service stationed in each of the various states for the purpose of cooperating with the state boards of health in establishing a four-fold work as follows: 1. Securing the reporting of venereal infections in accordance with state laws. 2. Carrying on repressive measures, including the isolation and treatment in detention hospitals of infected persons. 3. Establishments of free clinics for the treatment of these diseases. 4. To carry on a general educational campaign to inform the public as well as infected individuals regarding the nature of these diseases and the manner in which they are spread.

It is the purpose of the state social disease control officer, to build up a strong state-wide organization that will become more and more self-sustaining as time goes on. The interest and support should be secured from the local board of health, the local medical profession, city officials, the local bar association, chamber of commerce, boards of trade, the press, religious bodies, women's clubs, educators, large employers of labor, labor organizations.

He asked the Woman's Club to endorse this campaign; invite clubs, organizations and individuals to meetings for mothers and girls; appoint speaker for these meetings and give out literature; influence officials to see that laws are enforced; see that needed city ordinances are passed; see that no questionable places of amusement are permitted in town; help provide clean entertainment for young people; help provide places of meeting for district, county and city meetings; help entertain delegates to the city; insist on single standard for men and women; stand ready to back the government in every way possible, as the battle front changes. It is planned to have a convention about February 11. Next week's paper will give correct date.

The matter was taken up by the club and it was voted to assist Mr. Armstrong in every way possible in this work.

The ladies devoted the balance of the afternoon to planning their bazaar which will be held Saturday, February 7.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD INSURRECTION THREATENED

The following protest has been handed to the editor from a member of Welfare committee. We give publicity that members of that order here may know something of the opposition to advancing the rate, and if they wish, may communicate direct with the head of the organized opposition:

"The Woodmen of the World have raised their rates from 200 to 500 per cent. Still their reserve fund amounts to $45,000,000. They have also raised their head officer from $12,500 to $25,000. All other officers in proportion. All members throughout the jurisdiction are up in arms. A welfare committee has been organized in Omaha to protest the increase in rates. Suit has been started in Nebraska City against the enforcement of this rate. All Woodmen are urged to pay their old rate until suit is determined. If interested in this, communicate with the Secretary Joseph F. Wielna, 1913 South 15th street, Omaha, Nebraska."

AUTOMOBILE CLUB AT WAKEFIELD ORGANIZED

The automobile owners of our sister city on the east are forming an organization independent of their commercial club, but with the sanction and approval of that order. Of the objects of the organization the Republican has the following to say: It is the object of the organizers to enroll ever possible automobile owner, if possible. The nominal fee of $5.00 is being charged, which is merely to defray any expenses that are sure to come up off and on. It is expected that an emblem of some sort will be decided upon and in this way the members will be formed into a sort of brotherhood. A meeting will no doubt be called shortly. The objects of the organization are several—the more important ones being the banding together of the men for the prevention of thefts and the apprehending of thieves, and for the betterment of the roads in general. Much has been said and but little done towards good roads, and it is hoped that an organization of this kind may be a better stimulant for moves in that direction. That the

SALVAGING TIME—HOW?

(Middle West School Review)

1. A few minutes spent in freshening up on the lesson will deepen the thought and make you independent of the book.
2. Ten minutes a day spent in reading a good book will enrich your life and broaden your character.
3. A few moments spent in arranging the books and tidying up the desk and room, will brighten the life and strengthen the character of the child.
4. Five minutes spent each day in glancing through the daily paper will keep you up-to-date and link your work to the busy world about you.
5. A few moments of patient guidance will encourage the boy and help him to become strong in overcoming.

6. A few minutes in physical exercise, with the windows open, will purify the atmosphere, clear the mind, and increase the mental activity of the child.
7. A little time spent in visiting the patrons will bring home and school together and add to the efficiency of both.
8. An occasional day spent in a teachers' meeting will enlarge your horizon, add to your knowledge and strengthen comradeship.
9. One evening every two weeks spent at the school house with pupils and patrons, in an old-fashioned "spelling match," "singing school," or "literary" will restore the contact between school and community.

THE RURAL SCHOOL

President Coates, State Normal school, Richmond, Kentucky, says the trouble with the rural school problem is that the average farmer and the average rural teacher look upon a rural school as a little house on a little ground where a little teacher at a little salary for a little while teaches little children little things. And Prof. P. G. Holden adds that we have thus belittled the biggest job in America.

NEWFOUNDLAND RICH IN IRON

Enough Ore There to Supply the World for at Least a Century, if Not Longer.

Lord Morris in a lecture at St. John's Wood Presbyterian church, Marlborough place, London, described the development of Newfoundland for the last 400 years, "from the time of the early colonizers up to the day when that great captain of industry, Lord Northcliffe, established the great paper mills that are now supplying the Times, the Daily Mail, the Daily Mirror and the Sunday Pictorial with paper."

He said that in Newfoundland today there were many paper "propositions" quite as attractive, if properly developed, as that of Lord Northcliffe and his brother, Lord Rothermere.

There were also sufficient fish on the Newfoundland banks and along the Newfoundland and Labrador shores to feed the whole of the British empire. They had only touched the fringe of that great fishing industry in which lay the possibilities of cheap food for England.

Lord Morris drew an attractive picture of wonderful mineral possibilities, showing that Newfoundland was the second largest producer of iron in the British empire, England coming first. There was enough iron ore to supply all the needs of the British empire and of the world for the next hundred years.—London Mail.

Finished the Program.

The newlyweds moved in the apartment next to the settled old bachelor. They had a ukulele and every night they entertained themselves and annoyed him by playing it and singing very sentimental songs together. Usually they ended with "Home Sweet Home."

He endured it bravely and said nothing until one day he heard them having their first quarrel. That night he supposed he would have quiet, but quite as usual the bridegroom thrummed on his "uke" and very wild, weird tunes he thrummed, too. Finally there was a long silence and the bachelor knew that they had ended their concert without their usual "Home Sweet Home."

Grimly he crossed to his Victrola, which had been silent since the advent of the newlyweds and their superior musical instrument. With elevation he took from the rack the record he had put there in hopes that some day his turn would come. And exultantly the Victrola ground out "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Bag and Smile, Smile, Smile."
