INTERESTING STATE NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

Hitherto in the history of the Normal very few have graduated at the middle of the year, but last week seven of the seniors had completed the work for the diploma and one for the degree Bachelor of Arts. Miss Nellie Strickland, A. B. is a Wayne girl graduate of the local high school, and a teacher of experience. She has received a flattering call to the department of Latin in the high school of Livingston, Montana. She has begun her work and those who know her are confident of her success. Miss Helen McDonald has a position in the high school at Bristol, Nebraska; Erma Clayton will teach English and Latin at Ostridge; Jesse Ruth Westrope will instruct in the three departments, history, English and Mathematics, at Newcastle; Hazel Lille has a position in the fourth grade in Ida Grove, Iowa; Marie Perry holds a place in the grammar grades at North Loup, and Mrs. Ida McClintock has been called to the high school at Polk, Nebraska. Miss Queenie Graham also completed the work for her diploma but will remain in the Normal, taking studies toward the degree Bachelor of Arts.

COOPER ELLIS WINS IN FIRST CHESS TOURNAMENT

The first northeast Nebraska chess tournament which we referred to last week as being in session here, resulted in a win by Cooper Ellis, 12-1, while Rev. R. H. Pratt was a close second 11-2. Forrest Hughes and Art Norton surprised some of the old-timers by pushing down the ladder and grabbing third and fourth prizes respectively. Father McNamara of Bloomfield was fifth, W. R. Ellis sixth, Dr. A. R. Settell of Bloomfield seventh and Dean H. Hahn eighth. Vic Senter threatened if we published his score he would go gunning for the editor with a club. The tournament was pronounced a great success by all and will be made an annual event. The rapid fire tournament held Thursday evening proved a novelty and was also won by Cooper Ellis who then played a game blindfolded and vanquished his opponent. In the regular tournament 182 games were contested and less than a dozen were forfeited—a fine record.

"HEART OF THE HILLS"

Mary Pickford's latest picture, "Heart of the Hills," adapted from the story by John Fox, Jr., will be shown at the Crystal theater tonight and Friday night. The story tells of a mountain girl who avenges the death of her father, saves her mother from land sharks, and pleases her sweetheart by marrying him. This is the same Mary that everyone loves, in a different role, a new characterization. A love tale is interwoven in the plot about a mountain feud of long standing and the story affords Miss Pickford ample opportunity to score such triumphs as characterized "Daddy Longlegs," and "The Hoodlum." See Mary in "Heart of the Hills" tonight.

HAVE WE PROFITEERS? GOVERNMENT MAN HERE

W. H. Hess, of the Department of Justice, with Nebraska headquarters in the Federal Building at Omaha, was a Wayne visitor Wednesday, being sent here to investigate charges of profiteering in sugar and flour. Of course we cannot say what he found out but he asked the Democrat to assure the people that the government stood ready to prosecute any violation of the laws, and that a complaint filed with the Department of Justice at Omaha would have attention. Not always can it have immediate attention, but it would come. He quoted prices and rules, and said tell your readers that if they are now paying more than 23 cents a pound for cane sugar or more than 15 cents a pound for beet sugar, they have ground for complaint that would be heeded. If during the month of November any paid more than 20 cents a pound for any kind of sugar, it was ground for complaint which would be investigated. His statement given above will enable those who think they have been asked to pay too much for sugar, a basis on which to work, and also warn any dealer, if such there be, who fails to understand the rules. He said that cases of profiteering in sugar had been found in a number of other places, but it is not his place to tell who or where.

SCARLET FEVER CASES

One room, the 3d grade of the public school has been closed this week because one of the pupils was taken ill Sunday with what is pronounced scarlet fever—the in a very mild form. Margaret Fanske is the victim, and we are glad to report that the case is in no manner considered dangerous. Two other homes are said to be under quarantine.

FLU AT CARROLL

The school and churches at Carroll are closed this week as a precaution against the spread of the flu. It is reported that there are about forty cases in the country tributary to Carroll—but from the information given us from different sources, there are but few, if any, cases in the town proper. One patient only has been considered in a critical condition. We hope that the precautions taken will prevent an increase of the number of cases.

BOX SOCIAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

The High School will give a box social at the school auditorium Wednesday evening, February 4. Elaborate plans for the evening are being worked out. The program committee is planning to furnish a splendid home talent program, while the decorating and booth committees are busy working on visionary schemes for beautifying the rooms. Prizes will be offered for the most artistically decorated box or basket.

WAYNE TAKES GAME

Last Friday Wayne and Laurel, first and second teams, played a double header basketball game at the high school building. The second teams opened the contest with a fast, snappy game with Wayne always in the lead. The visitors put up a gallant fight but the home boys proved too fast in the handling of the ball. Bon Moran, left forward, proved to be the star of the seconds and led his men to victory with a score of 22 to 15. Following a short interval, the whistle called the two first teams to display their merits. Laurel started the score by a field goal and succeeded in placing eight points opposite their name before Wayne opened fire. Then, like a whirlwind, the Wayne boys swept their opponents off their feet. R. Carhart, Wayne's captain, succeeded in tossing fourteen field goals through the loop, also six free throws. Miller, left forward, located the basket for fourteen points credit. J. Carhart proved his ability as a star guard by covering his man and also making four field goals. F. Carpenter, M. Surber and McEachen, also deserve mention as their playing demonstrated that they would succeed as first team players. The battle ended with Laurel possessing but 23 points and the home team 51.

J. H. MITCHELL RETURNS TO NEBRASKA

J. H. Mitchell of Wakefield, far better known as "Ham" Mitchell, if we may judge from the way many old timers speak of him, was a caller Monday. Mr. Mitchell was a resident of Wayne county among the first, and told that he had been over the present site of Wayne, when not a house could be seen from here, and the Conover "dugout" was the only habitation within several miles of where Wayne now is proudly getting ready to spend a half million dollars in paving and other improvements within a year. But we started to tell this part of the state after spending two years at Cressbar, South Dakota, where the Democrat kept him company. But he has sold his possessions there and moved back, but not quite in Wayne county, for the home they bought is in Dixon county, and in the village of Wakefield. Mr. Mitchell is a close student of current history, and has decided views of his own on public questions, as all should have, and he is not afraid to express his views. We had a pleasant visit in which he gave it as his opinion that our primary law is in a great measure responsible for the kind of officials we have in the state and in the legislature. He hopes the constitutional convention will remedy matters—and so do we all of us. Mr. Mitchell is one of the old line democrats, and believes that the victors belong the spoils—and while he seems to think we have in our president a great man who has performed a great work in the face of almost insurmountable obstacles, he reserves the right to criticize him a bit in some matters—and that is a proper thing—good for the people good for Mr. Mitchell and good for the president—for that is democracy when done in the right spirit. We would have been glad to have quoted Mr. Mitchell more fully, but when one takes no notes, and wants to quote honestly as we do, he fears to go too far, least he misquote. But it is safe to say that Mr. Mitchell wants more efficiency in government, especially state and national.

A GREAT STOCK SHOW

L. M. Owen returned from his visit at Denver Tuesday, and is in love with the brand of winter weather they exhibited while he was there; and contrary to some of the predictions that stock show week is invariably cold, stormy and the worst weather, oft he winter, the weather man provided the normal Colorado brand of weather. Speaking of the stock show, Mr. Owen said that it was the greatest show he had ever seen, and he has been to several, including the great annual show at Chicago, which is international in its scope. But really the place for a real stock show is out in the real stock country, as Mr. Owen soon discovered. The first three days of the show, he said, "the sales amounted to $3,000,000," and later he said that when the prize winners were sold, and some other near winners they sold over $700,000 worth in four hours. The bidding was lively for the top-notch stuff. Twenty car loads sold at an average of $14.16 the car. The first place Shorthorn car lot brought $25.50 per cwt, and the top car of Herfords were knocked down at $28.50. These animals will be fitted for the Chicago show next December. It was a Nebraska steer from the State farm that won the grand championship—and that went to feed those rich people who stopped at the Brown Palace. He sold at 40 cents the pound, on foot. There was a bunch of the natives of that great range country, twenty buffalo; but they were not in high favor, and sold at only $150 per head; and there was no real lively demand for the meat at the markets. The writer was at Denver one season when several well advertised dressed buffalo sold over the counter at $1.00 and $1.50 the pound. That was in a day when a lot of the fellows who lived in Denver were pioneers, and they were hankering for some of the meat they once had to live on; but if tasted different, they said. Perhaps they lacked the appetite. Then there were tenderfeet who wanted to know what buffalo was like, and they soon had their curiosity amply satisfied. The hump is the favorite part of the buffalo, and a cut from the round is like a bunch of shoe strings, and beyond a doubt that is the part they sold to the tenderfoot. Mr. Owen had such a good time, it is doubtful whether or not he can be kept home at the time of the next western stock show at Denver.

GOOD-FELLOWSHIP WEEK PROVES VERY SUCCESSFUL

Through the efforts of the citizens of Wayne as a whole this week of good fellowship was made possible. Every evening was one of pleasurable entertainment. There is much room for improvement at Wayne, as there is in every town, for a better understanding of each other and if these meetings will promote that understanding and good fellowship there can be no way to measure the benefit to our little city and every one who lives here. There is too much petty enmity, jealousies, resentment and knocking everywhere in these times. The eternal fight for money, position, and a chance to show some less favored neighbor "where to head in" are the causes of our state of unrest. A real get-together spirit would work wonders in our business world, greater wonders in our social world, and still greater wonders in our churches for they should be the source from whence flows the God-given brotherly love. The church people failed, as well as the rest of humanity, and all have failed because we are not big enough to look into the hearts—instead of upon the clothes of our fellow beings for real worth. "Well," you say, "I can't associate with Tom, Dick and Harry, they are not my equal." No, perhaps not, and yet how are we going to tell how much of Tom, Dick and Harry's sin is a reflection of our own narrow lives? After this week has become history it is hoped that the spirit in which it was made possible, and the seed sown through the efforts of the men and women who had the week's entertainment in charge, will remain with each of us and grow into a lasting good fellowship and brotherly love.

Monday night, at the Baptist church the State Normal band, under the direction of Prof. W. C. Hunter, assisted by the department of expression, put on the first entertainment of the series. The following program was given: Path of Honor, march; Arcadia Overture; On the Square One Step; Serenade; Red Cross March; Overture, The Conqueror; Invercargill March. A number by the expression department, The Philosopher, given by Miss Leona Dietrick and Jesse Randol, was very pleasing. The band was a surprise to every one especially as Prof. Hunter has had charge of their training but eighteen weeks. They played easily, naturally, and responded to their leader like old timers. The music was greatly enjoyed and the program was all too short.

The following program was given at the English Lutheran church Tuesday evening by the department of Expression, Martha E. Dewey director, of Wayne State Normal, assisted by Department of Music: The Canyon Flower—Ralph Connor Miss Winifred Angel

Thursday and Friday will be printed next week. This far they have been very entertaining and the crowds out each evening proves a great interest. The work of our normal school has never been brought to us in a better light and we predict a better understanding and appreciation of the work on the hill after this week is over.

THE VAGARIES OF LEAP YEAR (From the Goldenrod.)

In the deliberate sequence of time a year to date is again divisible by four and after the custom of the ancients we call the year leap year. It is hard to say just why leap year is called leap year; the name may have some connection with the old saw advising one to look first and leap afterwards. The predatory young lady after looking for three years can leap on the fourth, and if she be a good-looker, leap with some hope of a good landing.

In discussing leap year one's remarks are apt to seem a little out of taste. The ground must be covered very cautiously; the wise course would be for one not to cover the ground at all but tip-toe around it. We'll be very careful.

Leap year is a grave topic and worthy of lots of rhetoric. The whole thing deals primarily with marriage. Marriage is the most important thing in the world; it is an institution as old as the family row. Current opinion has it that marriage originated with or in love. Authorities in metaphor of the right sort locate the heart as the seat of love. Our fathers blamed it on the liver. From the demeanor of lovers, their trouble might well be in the liver. It is not for us to decide.

Going in a little deeper we may say that love depends on beauty. Some persons fall in love quite easily and break their hearts in falling. A broken heart is sometimes serious. It usually finds expression in a poor appetite and very bum poetry. If two persons fall for each other mutually, the fall hurts neither. If she fall for him and he not fall for her, why she breaks her heart when she falls, which makes it all clear.

Beauty is pretty well standardized at the present day. Red lips and a straight nose are beautiful; a ripe, red nose and straight lips are not. We might go into this thing still farther but feel that we have gone far enough. We will return to the original proposition.

A serious acceptance of leap year on the part of the more deadly of the species could work wonders. Conventions are inverted; instead of waiting, waiting to be sought for, the more deadly one may go out and seek. A dimple can reduce a strong man to lunacy—ask the man while he is grinning and stuttering and he will say, Yes, "maybe." He does not know what he is saying anyway. If one can say, "No," try another, and so on. Is this good advice? Search me.

V. W. GIRLS ENTERTAIN
At six-thirty on Tuesday evening about fifty girls assembled in the cafeteria room. The occasion was in honor of those girls who are leaving our midst at the close of this first semester. After entering into the various games the girls greatly appreciated a reading given by Miss Schulte. Light refreshments were served and all departed wishing the guests of honor all success and happiness in whatever their new work may be.

NINETEEN THIRTY (From the Goldenrod.)

Probably every Normal student has at some time or other wondered what changes will have taken place in five or ten years from now. Just a moment of reflection tells us that a big future lies ahead of the Normal. From time to time our campus has been enlarged—until now it covers nearly forty acres. An artificial lake in the southwest corner of the campus will add considerable to the beauty of the campus. Trees will be planted, flower beds will be located and circular drives will be laid out about the buildings.

An extensive building program has been mapped out for the future. Within the next two years a modern training school building will be built. It will probably be located south of the present training school building. Also a model rural school will be built; this will probably be located west of the Science building. Then, as soon as conditions permit, one large dormitory will be constructed, providing ample housing for all students.

Just recently the Wayne State Normal has been admitted to the Intercollegiate Athletic Association of Nebraska, putting the Normal in a class with the best. We have one of the finest and best equipped gymnasiums in the middle west at the disposal of the students, also a cinder track, football gridiron and baseball diamond will soon be laid out.

Ten years ago the graduating class numbered three; this year it will be in the eighties. If the Normal progresses in the next ten years as it has in the past ten it will not be at all surprising to find that the class of 1930 will number three hundred. Last year the Normal was given the authority to grant the A. B. degree on the completion of four years of college work. Our graduate students are increasing in number and is too much to say that in 1930 we will have a class of one hundred receiving the A. B. degree? In 1910 the enrollment was less than one hundred students; now it is about five hundred. Is it unreasonable to prophesy that 1930 will find an enrollment of two thousand students?

SCIENCE CLUB

Science Club program of January 19 was as follows:

Three Chemical Tests—Julius D. Young.

Review of Scientific Literature—Zilpha Rosen.

Relation of Physics and Chemistry to Domestic Science—Miss Burton.

Mr. Young demonstrated a simple method of testing milk for chemical preservatives such as formaldehyde. He showed the chemical method of distinguishing pure butter, renovated butter, and oleomargarine. He also tested salts of iron to prove them ferric or ferrous.

Zilpha R. gave a review of scientific literature containing many interesting items, especially the notes on the life of the scientist and inventor, Hudson Maxim.

Miss Burton proved very convincing.

ingly that the domestic science student must have knowledge of chemistry and physics because the science of foods and textiles is chemical. Moreover, every household appliance operates on principles of physical nature. She closed with chemical tests of various sugars.

A SOLILOQUY ON GROWTH (With apologies to Hamlet.)

To grow, or not to grow—that is the question:

Whether 'tis better in the mind to suffer

The slurs and slams for outrageous dumbness,

Or take pen against the request for papers

And by writing, end them? To flunk,—to rest,—

Forget; and by a rest to say we end

The headache and the thousand natural shocks

That growth is heir to, 'tis a consummation

Devoutly to be wished. To flunk,—to rest,—

To rest, perchance to repeat! ay there's the rub.

For to repeat that course what bolts may come

When we attempt to get a recommendation

Must give us pause: There's the respect

That makes calamity of so long life; For who would bear the pains and pangs of growth,

The high-brow's snubs, the thinker's contumely,

The unrequited labor, the fearful wait,

The importance of a job, and the spurs.

That patient merit of the unworthy takes,

When he himself might his quietus make

By a flat failure? Who would motives have,

To think and fret under electric light,

But that the dread of some fateful test,

The relative value of goodly job or poor,

Causes organization, puzzles the will,

And makes us rather do the tasks assigned,

Than hunt for others we know not of?

Thus professors make towards of us all;

And thus the native individuality is plastered over with the strong cast of use.

And will to stand for antiquated notions

With this regard their currents turn awry,

And lost the name of action.

Essex Sets World 24-Hour Road Mark of 1061 Miles

Unmatched Endurance Proof Made by Stock
Essex Over Snow-Swept Iowa Dirt Roads

Already driven more than 12,000 miles an Essex stock touring car has established a new world 24-hour mark of 1061 road miles, over frozen, snow-bound dirt roads of Eastern Iowa.

Not a stop was made for repairs or adjustments. Running day and night, Essex completed the gruelling test without a halt except for fuel and oil. Not even a tire change was made.

The average speed was 47.3 miles per hour.

Essex Also Holds the World's 50-Hour Mark

An Essex stock chassis also holds the world's 50-hour endurance mark of 3037 miles, made under A. A. A. supervision, on the Cincinnati speedway.

In three starts, the same Essex ran a total of 5870 miles in 94 hours, 22 minutes, actual driving time, averaging more than a mile a minute.

Doesn't It Settle the Light Car Question?

Prior to Essex, light weight in an automobile meant principally moderate price, and perhaps gasoline and oil economy.

Light cars had no distinction of speed or power. Buyers did not expect fine appearance and performance.

The coming of the Essex changed that. It brought fine car quality, speed, power and endurance to the light car field. Its performance was matched only in the large costly car class.

Is it any wonder that Essex has made a world's sales record of more than $35,000,000 paid for 22,000 Essex cars, in its first year?

We are already booking orders for spring delivery. There is no possibility that all buyers can be served. Now is the time to make your reservation.

THE MATCHMAKER

By ADELAIDE R. KEMP

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Margaret leaned forward in the seat of the buggy. "Come, Ned," she said in a pleading voice, "Do go ahead, there's a dear. Don't you know you are making an exhibition of yourself?"

This was followed by a clucking sound and two snaps from the driver's reins. But Ned had succumbed to stubbornness and proved obdurate to even her pleasant voice. Margaret sighed.

"Why didn't I listen to Aunt Mary and take Dick when I knew perfectly well what might happen with Ned? Now I am probably doomed to stay here for several hours." It was at this moment that she was startled by the voice of a young man who had come along the road unnoticed.

"Can I be of any assistance?" he asked.

"I don't know," said Margaret frankly. "Do you know anything about balky horses?"

Before he could answer there was a sudden move on the part of the stubborn one.

But to Margaret's admiration the rescuer carried the war into the enemy's country. With a quick jerk he forced that obdurate animal to philosophically accept defeat and amble along.

Margaret was delighted and thanked her knight errant warmly.

"I don't dare stop," she said, "but if you are going my way perhaps you could jump in and ride too."

He quickly accepted the invitation and they were soon chatting like old friends. In the interchange of confidences Margaret learned that his name was Robert Mason, that he had just returned from overseas hospital, and was here in the little town of his father's boyhood for a month to recuperate.

"This is my aunt's," said Margaret as they stopped before a fine old-fashioned house sheltered from the ocean breezes by a row of tall pine trees. "If you ever want to win Aunt Mary's favor," she continued, "just mention those trees."

"Thank you for the valuable tip," answered Robert, laughing, as he stepped down from the buggy. He mustered all his courage. "Do you think your aunt knew my father enough when he was a boy to warrant my calling and talking about him?"

They were close to the porch now, and a stately white-haired lady was in the doorway.

"Aunt Mary," called Margaret, "here is a young man who says he would like to meet you for old-time's sake."

Robert stood hat in hand, on the lower step, as Margaret's aunt came nearer and looked at him intently.

"Come closer, young man," she said. "You look like a boy I once knew. What is your name?"

"Robert Mason," answered the young fellow, flushing.

"That's it. You are James Mason's son. You are very like him. We have heard some wonderful things about his success. Is he well?"

"Yes, thank you," answered Robert. "He wished me to spend a vacation in his boyhood's home. He said Southport was famed for its beauties—of all kinds." He was quite astonished at his tenacity, but Margaret only laughed softly.

The days passed very pleasantly after this. Robert was a welcome visitor at the old house with its beautiful row of trees. Many delightful letters passed between father and son, and at last, after one happy evening on the old porch Robert wrote of his great happiness. Margaret had promised to become his wife.

"You'll be sure to like her, Dad. She is a real country girl. She lives with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Winslow, in such a quaint old house. Her name is Margaret Duntton."

By return mail came an answer to Robert's letter.

Robert could almost hear his father's chuckle between the lines.

"Your little country girl is an aristocrat on the very top social shelf, the niece of the very finest family in Southport."

"I don't care," said Robert to himself, hurrying on toward the house in the pines. "She's the dearest in the world. I can never be grateful enough to old Ned for his obstinate introduction."

Historical Tree Felled by Wind.

A huge and venerable tree closely connected with two wars, although in quite different ways, was blown down by the wind, recently.

It stood near the main entrance of Walter Reed hospital, was a landmark at the big government institution and a favorite with the thousands of crippled men. On its trunk was a sign stating that during the time of Jubal Early's determined and almost successful attack on the national capital Confederate sharpshooters used its heavily leaved branches as a base of operations.—Washington Star.

First Worsted Stockings in England. It was during Elizabeth's reign that Sir Thomas Gresham introduced the manufacture of pins and ribbons. Knitted worsted stockings, too, were first made about the year 1585, by a London apprentice, named William Ryder, who having seen some that came from Italy, imitated a pair exactly, and presented them to William, earl of Pembroke.

NORFOLK WOMAN'S CLUB MAKES WAGE LUXURY FIGHT

The war on the high cost of living which has been started by woman's organizations in various parts of the country is slowly reaching Norfolk says the News, and will be up for discussion at the general meeting of the woman's club called for next Monday. At that meeting the action of organizations elsewhere against the ever-increasing cost of living will be placed before the club members for consideration and some united effort to reduce costs in Norfolk may be taken. Up to this time the question has been informally discussed by the club women and while some of the departments have considered it during their meetings, there has been no general action. The attack on high prices, however, has attracted so many members of the club, that the question is expected to become paramount at the general meeting.

Discuss Ban on Silks

Some interest is also shown among Norfolk club members regarding the conference of Mrs. C. E. Ryan, state fair price commissioner and president of the Nebraska Economic League, with a group of Omaha women in the interests of promoting a drive on the part of L. beginning Feb. 1. During that conference Mrs. Ryan announced that silk stockings, silk petticoats and fur coats for women and silk shirts for men will be the first "luxuries" to come under the ban. This campaign will be directed against all luxuries, with its slogan, "Don't Buy if You Don't Need."

Women all over the state are to be formed into a great army to move against high prices and luxuries and it is likely the Norfolk club women will take a leading part in the battle.

Garfield is quoted as saying that "coal is high enough" and the people all agree with him. If he will stick to that, and go one better and insist that it is too high we will nominate him for president right now.

Senator Sherman is said to be considering the matter of leaving the republican party. Is any other party inviting him into their fold? Possibly the L. W. W. We know of no other who would want the man who only thinks he looks like Lincoln.

Approximately 10,000 acres of land under an irrigation project in Nebraska and Wyoming is to be opened for settlers in March. This is the largest tract opened for several years, and is a part of the lands reclaimed and to be reclaimed by the North Platte project created to be supplied from the spring flood waters of the North Platte.

The Omaha school board is going through the agonies of raising the salaries of the teachers in the public schools. If Omaha can and will put what the saloon and the haughty house used to cost the people of that city into the school fund they may double the pay of the teachers. But then when a lot of those fellows cannot squander it just as they please, they become real tit-wads.

The Lodge reservations are intended to kill the treaty and the league, and he knows it, and so does president—and Wilson having had the last as well as the first word in the matter of treaties, well knows the intent, and we predict that the reservations that do more than interpret the treaty will come to grief when the president has his final say, if the senators permit it to come to him mangled by reservations.

The flu is again abroad in the land, and Wayne is no exception with other places has its victims. Thus far, the disease is reported to be in a more mild form than last season, and fewer cases of pneumonia are reported than last season; though it may be a little early for the pneumonia came as an after effect. The Democrat man can do no better than to call attention to the deep-breathing as a preventative and cure for pneumonia. Those who tried this method last season are alive today to tell of it. It is a very good thing for the general health to practice whether you are ill or not.

The national canners association in meeting at Cleveland this week tell that they are going to cooperate in a move to reduce the high cost of living by simply canning and drying more of that which has been waste in other years. They number more than 5,000.

Omaha is reported to have some bandits with a heart. If they hold up some one who has to work for a living, and cannot afford to lose what the highwaymen have taken, they return the plunder. An overcoat and a watch were given back by the fellows one night last week. Perhaps there is "honor among thieves."

There may be cases where the people of a community have repudiated their obligation when bonds have been issued and the conditions were fulfilled, and yet, the shysters of the east must have the last t crossed and the last l dotted before any bonds will be cashed. Just now they are making a fuss about the Omaha court house bonds, and may cause that move to start over again. The proper remedy for those very particular financiers would be for the constitution to vest power in the people to issue a circulating medium against their property, and let the other fellows hold their evidence of wealth until they were not so particular and exacting. That is the old greenback remedy.

"TAXATION"—A JOURNAL OF ECONOMIC JUSTICE

We have just received the initial copy of Taxation, a monthly journal published at New York to present to students of economic questions a comparatively new phase of the levying and use of taxes. From whom, or rather what sources they should be derived, and how they should be used. Stoughton Cooley is the editor, a man who has made the question of taxation a life study, and who presents his side of any question relating to taxes in a plain, concise, logical manner. We give his story of the reason for publishing this monthly: "What's in a Name?"

"To those who look upon political economy as the 'dismal science,' taxation savors of the doctrine of despair. But though this may have been true in Carlyle's day, it is no longer. Much of the economy then taught was dismal in the last degree. No distinction was made between land and capital. Wages were supposed to come out of and depend upon capital. It was through that protective tariffs promoted industry, that monopolies enriched the country, and that taxes should be laid upon consumption.

"But a new order has come. It is now recognized that land and capital are two primary factors in production, that wages come from product instead of from capital, that protective tariffs prevent citizens from doing what it is to their interest to do, that monopolies limit production, and that taxes should be laid upon the citizen in proportion to the benefit conferred upon him by government. A condition in which a few surfeit and the many starve is no longer looked upon as inevitable; nor is the Malthusian doctrine accepted as the will of God. The new political economy teaches that until the resources of the earth have been exhausted the more people the better all will fare. The difference between the old and the new political economy, however, is not of a kind that calls for a revolution to make the change. The transition is not to be brought about through a soviet government, nor the practice of sabotage. It is not necessary even to make laws that will take from the rich to give to the poor. All that is required is the repeal of a few antiquated laws that impede industry and limit production.

"The greatest single force bearing upon industry is taxation. By removing taxes from capital, business will expand, more labor will be employed, the markets will be filled with goods, and prices will fall. To shift the taxes so removed to land values—and particularly to idle land—means the opening up of new opportunities, and the further production of goods. It is to teach people how simply, how effectively, and how just this new system of raising revenue is that this magazine has been started. What more natural than to call it Taxation."

"The prevailing system of taxation is partly right and partly wrong. There is already a strong and increasing tendency throughout the world to eliminate the wrong and to expand the right features. This is seen in the pleas of even conservative business men for the exemption of various forms of credit and enterprises from taxation; it is seen in more striking form in the rapidly increasing number of men and women who look upon taxes as payment to the government for service rendered by the government to the people.

"This new school of economists has analyzed taxes, classifying them according as they burden industry and aid monopoly on the one hand, and as they aid industry and destroy monopoly on the other. The former were part and parcel of the dismal science. They are associated in men's minds with all that is evil and disagreeable, even to being coupled with death itself. But the latter will be recognized as payment for value received, and will be looked upon as any other exchange of values.

"Taxation, therefore, will not be given to devising ways and means of wringing from citizens the last dollar to be got short of revolution, but to furthering those laws that bring relief to industry and hope to those who despair of present conditions, by adjusting the burdens of government to the benefits received. The purpose in short, is to teach the art of raising revenue in conformity with justice and to adjust the functions of government to the social and industrial needs of the country."

C. Lewis, who as sheriff would be chairman of board, Dr. C. T. Ingham, who will be physician, and Pearl E. Sewell, who as county superintendent will act as secretary of said board.

2. The premises where the above contagious disease exists shall be duly quarantined by the county board of health through its proper officer or any appointee (a) by placing upon the house or some conspicuous point upon the premises, a placard giving the name of disease in letters not less than three inches (3) in height, (b) by a verbal or written notice to the household to remain on the premises and in no way mingle with other persons nor to allow others (except the physician) to approach nearer than thirty (30) feet to any house or person thus quarantined. This rule to apply also in case of exposure.

3. Such quarantine to continue until in the opinion of the medical adviser of the board of health, the last case of the disease likely to occur therein has completely recovered and is ready for disinfection, provided however that in case of extreme necessity one free from disease may be released earlier after thorough disinfection of person and clothing and with a certificate from the above medical adviser.

4. The necessities of life, as often as occasion demands may be carried within thirty (30) feet of the quarantined house by a neighbor or other duly appointed messenger, but no nearer, nor shall any effects whatever be brought away from the household until thoroughly disinfected.

6. When in any school district or community several families say, five to eight, are stricken with contagious disease or very many exposures have occurred the board of health may prohibit all gatherings of people in that community including sessions of school until in their opinions the emergency is past.

7. All physicians should use due precaution in their visits to quarantined households to avoid the danger of contagion to the well.

8. When in the opinion of the medical adviser of the board of health quarantine can be safely raised, it shall be done with fumigation with a 40 per cent solution of formaldehyde, using at least five ounces to each 1,000 cubic feet of air space, solution to be applied by an approved evaporation or by the sheet method. The room to be sealed at least six hours, all persons to receive a disinfecting bath and their clothing to be fumigated and the house thoroughly cleaned. This to be done in accordance with the "Suggestions of the State Board of Health to Physicians."

9. When in the opinion of the board of county commissioners a hospital is needed to which individual cases of contagious diseases may be removed, or when such method will accommodate those without homes at much less public expense or for any other reason it is deemed best, a building suited to their needs shall be provided.

10. Whoever in any way willfully or negligently disobeys these rules of quarantine and disinfection shall by such disobedience render himself subject to prosecution and a fine of $25.00 for each and every offense, and shall meanwhile if infected, and subject to quarantine be held at the quarantine house or hospital until the time for disinfection.

READ THE BIBLE BEFORE REMARKING ON ITS MERITS

We heard a weak-minded specimen of the genus homo poking fun at the Bible one day not long ago. Think of it. Had he been avowing a disbelief in some of its teachings, it would not have been so bad—it would at least have indicated that he had read the book of which he was talking. But to hold up to scorn the book in its entirety was a sure indication that he had never entered into the treasures of the Book of Books. And a simple question of two soon brought out the fact that he knew no more about the Bible than a Hottentot does about the nebular hypothesis.

Do you enjoy reading history? The Bible is the greatest historical book in the world. Poetry? What is more beautiful than many of the Psalms? Or Solomon's Song? If you desire romance, read the book of Esther. What greater character has fiction produced than the man Job, who dwelt in the land of Uz, who was perfect and upright in all things and feared God and eschewed evil. Want to read the story of a great love? Read the tale of Ruth and Naomi. Adventure? Plenty of adventure in the life of Samson. The story of Joseph and his brethren is a wonderfully interesting tale; the story of Daniel has plenty of thrills in it; the tale of the friendship of Jonathan and David, the hatred and jealousy of King Saul, combined to make a dramatic setting that would be hard to outclass. The life history of Moses, of Abraham, of Samuel, of Paul and many others are of absorbing interest.

The tale of the man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves, who stripped him of his raiment and left him wounded and dying by the wayside, contains the nucleus of a plot to make one of the "best sellers." The priest and the Levite passed him by—but his enemy, a Samaritan, rescued him and brought him back to life and health once more. Read it. Then read it again. It is the story of brotherly love.

We could go on and on indefinitely. The birth, life and death of our Savior—the most wonderful story ever told—makes wonderful reading, aside from the religious side of the question.

The Bible is the inexhaustible store-house from which all good principles of thought and action are derived. It contains all the basic principles of good government. It is the foundation of all morality—the cornerstone of right thinking and clean living. Even though you cannot believe that it is an inspired book, a thorough reading will convince you that no other book ever written can approach it in magnificence of thought, purity of language or beauty of expression. And to hear some half-baked nincompoop poke fun at it makes us decidedly weary and long to see the fool-killer get on the job and do his full duty.—Ex.

AUCTION SALES ADVERTISING

This has been a season of many sales, and the Democrat has not been in position to go after the sale advertising very hard, and beyond a doubt some of the people holding sales have had a lower average price than they might have had had we been in shape to properly handle more sale work and advertising. There are still many sales to be held in the vicinity of Wayne and we think we are now in better position to care for both bill work and advertising than we have been all fall and winter. One thing should be remembered by those who are going to have a sale is that every bidder it is possible to obtain by advertising makes for a better sale and that is what all need. For February sales it will be to the advantage of those holding them to look to the Democrat readers for a part of their bidders. In either job printing or advertising, we are ready to serve you well. Call 145 when figuring advertising.

THE BUTTERFLY

By JACK LAWTON.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

The sun room of the great hotel was filled with guests upon a certain fall morning.

When the black-haired girl in darling but becoming crimson entered the room, there was, for a moment, a jill of expectancy in the murmured voices. "Who," asked a certain one-looking man, "is that?" He leaned forward alertly as the crimson-clad figure passed the couch upon which he and a fair companion were seated.

The girl questioned raised supercilious eyebrows. "That," she replied, "is the grand dowager's new companion-secretary. Rather dashing for her position, don't you think? And at present the sensation of the hotel. Mrs. Mills-Forbes, it seems, accepted hastily this unknown young-woman's services. Marietta May—charmingly unusual name, you see—presented herself in answer to Mrs. Forbes' advertisement with but one recommendation—that of the daughter of a former family of unquestioned standing. This formerly well-known young woman has been, since the death of her father and the unfortunate ending of his business career, in humble circumstances. In fact, no one knows, or perhaps no one has troubled themselves to ascertain, just what has become of Celia Sanders. But her word still imbues confidence. So Mrs. Mills-Forbes engaged Marietta May upon the strength of that recommendation, which may have been, for all we know, a forged letter. However, the companion-secretary is at present under suspicion of having stolen—not only a valuable necklace of her employer's but a wonderful string of pearls as well, belonging to another habitue of this hotel. The jewelry was found missing from the guest's room one evening, having been taken during a ballroom affair when Miss May was the only person remaining upon that floor of the building. A plainly marked handkerchief of hers, crumpled and lying in the very secret drawer from which the pearl-necklace was taken, was the first clue to the culprit. As there was no actual proof as to the beautiful Marietta's guilt, it was decided not to put her upon her guard with an accusation, but to have her secretly watched.

His eyes followed the dark-eyed, attractive face of the girl suspected, regretfully as his chatty informant left him with a nodded, "Good morning." Beneath all the bravery of the companion's attire, her eyes seemed to gaze wistfully from her white face. "A pity!" John Calvert muttered, while for the first time he became aware of a small, brown-clad figure, seated upon a wide-cushioned hassock almost directly at his feet.

"You are sorry for Miss May?" she asked in a swift, soft tone. "You doubt the evidence of her guilt?" "I am inclined to doubt it," Calvert replied. "Her face seems to express patient suffering, a sort of resigned martyrdom to misunderstanding."

Impulsively the little figure before him arose, the girl held out her hand. "It is true," she said breathlessly, "Marietta May is misunderstood, misrepresented. All her life has been that way. She is good. She tries to do her best, even that scarlet dress which she wears and which attracts so much unkind criticism, is worn to gratify old Mme. Forbes' whim. She likes gay colors about and cannot wear them herself, but do you think that she troubles to explain this? No."

When he returned from business that evening the hotel was in commotion. "What is it?" he asked of the girl who had been his former informant, and she told him.

"Such a surprising document," she began. "You remember about the lost jewels and the companion-secretary under suspicion? Well, she has been proven innocent and the culprit—whom do you think? No less a person than the great Mme. Forbes herself. She possessed an insane desire, it appears, for the pearl necklace of her friend, and after having taken it, decided to allow the blame to fall upon Miss May. For this reason she gave the hue and cry about her necklace also, and left a handkerchief belonging to her companion lying in plain view in the drawer where her friend's necklace had reposed. Isn't it scandalous?"

"Shameful!" Calvert emphatically agreed.

"But who," he asked, "discovered the real culprit?"

The girl pointed across the room to where a small creature sat at work upon a golden butterfly.

"This is the climax of the sensation," she said. "When Celia Sanders heard of the accusation of her friend, she came here and begged to be allowed secretly to unravel the mystery. So she has sat among us, listening, waiting, absorbed apparently in her embroidery, yet ever alert for a clue. She found it yesterday when Mrs. Mills-Forbes boastfully exposed her knowledge of pearls and her passion for them. When Madame was absent from her room it was searched and the pearls found, concealed in a hidden pocket. The discovery was unbelievably simple, but it took little Golden Butterfly to catch the clue."

"Thanks," said John Calvert briskly. He walked across the room to where the small girl sat weaving her golden threads.

"Come," he said gently, "I want to talk to you."

And with her swift, responsive smile Celia Sanders obeyed.

WHAT EVERY VETERAN KNOWS

(From the Stars and Stripes)

That "100 per cent Americanism" too frequently is what I am and the fellow I don't like isn't.

That the army was full of a lot of "Wops and Kikes" and Russians and Finns and other low down ignorant white trash and foreigners.

That they all fought like the very devil.

That a lot of wise guys whose ancestors came over on the Mayflower had good, soft jobs in the S. O. S.

That the more education you had the less chance there was of getting killed.

That it's no crime to be born outside the U. S. A., although frequently a misfortune.

That it's no fault of anyone's if he wasn't born inside the U. S. A.

That the Wilsons were Scotch Presbyterians and the Roosevelts were Dutch Dissenters, and if it weren't for them and the Slavs and Latins and Scandinavians and Celts and Saxons and Guls and a lot more we would be in a rotten bad fix.

That the men who fell in France came from many racial beginnings, but they had a common ending under the same flag.

That this is a good time for universal tolerance, and that the promoters of hatred and war usually begin by promoting intolerance.

That "100 per cent Americanism," if it truly means anything, means something a whole lot bigger than race, color or previous condition. It means color of the heart, not of the hide.

THEIR OWN PROPERTY

(Edgar Howard in Columbus-Telegram.)

Who owns the waters in the rivers of Nebraska?

The people of Nebraska.

Who has the right to say how those waters shall be used?

The people of Nebraska.

Who shall say when and where waterpower plants shall be erected on the rivers?

The people of Nebraska.

The foregoing questions and answers are respectfully submitted to the makers of the new state constitution at Lincoln. The big interests are demanding that the new constitution shall forbid the people of Nebraska the right to incur sufficient indebtedness to build waterpower plants and furnish cheap electric energy to the people, so that they may light and heat their homes and cook their food electrically, thus escaping bondage to the coal trust.

The new constitution should not tie the hands of the people in these matters. The advice of the cunning lawyers for the big interests should not be accepted by the constitution-makers. The welfare of the whole people of the state should be their guiding star.

The people of Nebraska should have a state constitution which will enable them to do what they will with their own property, regardless of the wishes of the demands of the big interests.

OLD KENTUCKY SHINDIG RIVALS CITY CABARETS

Broadway cabarets stir pity in the light of the gaiety of a good old Kentucky shindig as shown in "Heart O' the Hills," adapted from the story by John Fox, Jr., Mary Pickford's latest First National production from her own studios and which will be seen at the Crystal theater, commencing tonight.

As Mavis Hawn, the hardworking and unlucky daughter of a Kentucky mountain family, Miss Pickford is given an unprecedented opportunity to display her unexcelled ability to produce laughs and tears.

Unwilling to see her rustic Romeo defeated in jiggling honors by an aristocrat from the lowlands, Miss Pickford dashes into the circle and makes a noble effort to keep the Terpsichorean laurels among the mountain folk. The dance is suddenly interrupted when Uncle Zeke, going on 93 years old, orders the dance to stop. He has lost his teeth.—Fatty.

IN-MEMORIAM

(Contributed.)

Lee Roy Troutman, born and reared in Rich Valley, Virginia, near Pleasant Grove church, departed this life, October 13, 1919, aged twenty-eight years, three months and five days. He was an extraordinary young man, always kind and respectful to all. He had a host of friends who regret his going.

He leaves a mother, three brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss. His father and one brother preceded him to the land of glory. Roy was a member of Pleasant Grove church. He was a long and near the end, a great sufferer. He bore his affliction with Christian submission and fortitude.

I visited him several times in his latter illness. He was always cheerful because his hope was anchored in the Christ. He enjoyed the reading of God's word, song and prayer. His favorite song was: "Anywhere with Jesus I can safely go; anywhere He leads me in this world below." He expressed himself as willing and ready to go. A great sufferer is now at rest in the arms of Jesus.

Dear mother, brothers and sisters, in as much as Roy was ready and willing to go and his hope was sure and steadfast: "Let us be resigned to our Father's will, and may you realize the truth of God's word; 'All things work together for good to them that love God' and are called according to His purpose." For our light afflictions which are but for a moment work out for us a far more exceeding and eternal right to glory."

Jesus said: "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life." Let us be faithful unto death, and we will wear with Roy a crown in Christ's Kingdom in heaven, where sickness, pain and death shall flee away and God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes.

Your sympathizing friend,

W. N. BRITTON.

In-Memory of Roy Troutman
Hearts aching, hearts breaking
One we loved so well,
Summons came he was taken
God alone doeth all things well.

Precious flower drooped and withered.

Gone! No more with us to dwell
Angels waiting him gathered
Christ doeth all things well.

He has joined a heavenly company,
Sweet, sweet consolation bring.
Grave! where is thy victory,
Death! where is thy sting?

He has been transplanted,
To paradise where music swells
His voice lends enchantment
The Master doeth all things well.

Why then weep for him
Have better news to tell.
Christ says to all, "Come in,"
'Tis he, who doeth all things well.

HOTEL PROFITEERING IN CITIES

One has but to listen to some of the talk of the traveling public to learn that some people think they are being robbed while they sleep. Not long ago the reporter was talking with an acquaintance who had been caught one night at Sioux City. He received an affirmative answer to his question as to whether or not he could get a bed there that night with the condition that he could have a bed in a room with two other beds occupied therein. And the price for the bed and one-third interest in the room until morning was but $3.50. If the other two occupants were taxed the same, the room was paying $10.50 for the night, and not much of a room either.

Eph Beckenhauer left Saturday morning to visit his wife who is taking treatment at Rochester.

Banker Henry Ley and grandson, Henry Ley Jr., from Nebraska, were guests of the Journal Wednesday.—Wilmington (Cal.) Journal.

Winter Goods Bargains

THESE goods are cheap. If we had the room and money we would like to keep them until next season as every indication points to higher prices for these same goods next fall. We can't speculate however—we need our store room and our capital to get ready for spring. We must sell our goods to keep business going, so we offer these goods at close prices just as we always do in January and you can get better bargains than ever if what you need is on sale.

We have a lot of things on sale that we didn't have time to get listed here. We have just finished invoicing and everything we have in the store that is not needed for at once business has been marked down to a price to sell it regardless of advancing markets. Come in at this time and see if what you need is not on sale at a mighty good saving.

Ladies' Coats at $15.00 to $31.00

About sixty coats in plush and cloth to pick from. To describe and price each one here would give you no idea of whether the coat you wanted was here or not. Come in and see them and we will make the price low enough to please you. For example—ladies' all silk plush coats, new ones, guaranteed silk plush, full length, all sizes up to 52-inch bust at each $27.50

Ladies' Skirts at $5.75 to $11.50

Not old, out-of-date models, but brand new this fall; skirts made of genuine all wool serges, tricotines and silk poplins. If you can use a skirt, there is one here to fit you and the price will suit you.

Ladies' Dress Shoes at $3.50 to $9.00

The $3.50 shoes are old timers of course, but they are mighty good leather and will save the wear on your good shoes while you are working around home. They sold at $5.00 two years ago and a lot of them, besides being good wearing, are pretty good looking. They are all on a big table where you can size them up in a hurry, and pick out what you want for yourself and the girls. A lot of them would make good school shoes. We have also cut the price on a lot of our finest dress shoes—the real snappy, up-to-date ones of genuine kid, in brown, grey, and black. For $7.50, $9.00 and $11.25, you can pick up a pair of shoes that would cost you $11.00 to $12.50 most anywhere. Of course you are wondering how and why we do this when shoes are going up right along and even low shoes will have to sell for $10.00 and $12.50 next spring. The reason is here: We have only a few sizes in each of these styles we are placing on sale. In one style we may only have 5's and 7's, in another only 4's and 6's, etc. We want to close out these odd pairs and so we name the low price. There are about 200 pair altogether and the chances are there are several of your size in the lot. The styles were among our very best sellers this winter—that is why we have but a few pair of each kind left. This is a great big bargain shoe opportunity for you who want real, up-to-date shoes of fine quality because city stores are now advertising similar foot wear at $13.00 to $18.00.

Fur Scarfs Only, Very Cheap

Three fine black animal scarfs—the shape and color now so popular—all priced low. Also six children's sets at $3.00 to $5.00. Nice looking Natural Coney muffs and scarfs. Everyone brand new.

Sample Blankets at Closing Out Prices

Just a few pair of the fine heavy wool naps left and about thirty pair of the medium weight cotton. They are marked down to less than we will be able to rebuy them next fall according to all indications. If we had the room and money, we would like to carry them over along with a lot of the other winter goods offered here for sale. If you need blankets, come and see what bargains these traveler's samples are.

House Dresses, Kimonas, Girls' Dresses $1.50

They are mused from handling and some of them are old styles. But they are all useful and to someone they are worth 3 to 4 times the $1.25 we have priced them. The girls' dresses are first class but only two sizes are to be had 6 years and 12 years. The kimonas are flannellette in light colors, soiled from hanging on the racks. The house dresses and aprons are mostly small sizes. They are made of good ginghams and percales and laundering will put them in first class shape.

Sold Out

The plaid cotton dress goods and the wool and silk remnants advertised last week are all sold. In their place we have filled the table with a lot of odd cotton, fleeced lined and wool hosiery all priced at 25c to close out. These are all good stockings—worth now 50c to $1.00 pair. We have only one box of a kind so we are closing them out.

Full 9-4 Width Fine Bleached Sheeting 75 Cents a Yard

2 1/2 yards wide and 2 1/2 yards of it will make a big full size sheet at a total cost of $1.88 I have the Chicago quotations of last week in front of me as I write this and they show sheets of this weight to now cost $2.50 at wholesale. This price is only possible because I bought a full case of this sheeting direct from the mill last spring and still have a few bolts which are yours at this good saving as long as they last.

Boys' and Girls' Bradley Sweaters at $2.75 and $4.25

And these are 1918 prices, about one-third below this year's because these sweaters were carried over. They are genuine Bradley's like you see advertised so generally. There are only twenty-four left and they are all 10, 12 and 14 year sizes. Nice dark red, grey, brown and khaki color and knit in heavy rib, close and warm. Just the garment for spring school wear. Buy them at a saving of $1.50 to $2.00.

Black Twig Apples, the best grocery bargains

These fine apples are now at their best. They are in flow and juicy and sound to eat and the finest flavored apple for baking we have ever had. They are cheaper than box apples because we shipped in a full car last fall and got a good price on them. $3.50 per bushel of 48 pounds. White box apples only weigh 40 pounds and cost more besides. These apples will keep a couple of months yet. Buy what you need soon, as we are selling them by the barrel out of town—having shipped eight barrels to Bloomfield and five to Hartington last week.

COFFEE In 25 and 50 lb. Lots

Coffee demands has broken all former records. People understand we are in a position to supply a better coffee for less and too, patrons know the economy of purchasing in larger quantities getting away from the "hand to mouth" way of buying. We are saving patrons money every day—a well established number of loyal patrons enables us to procure coffee to an advantage from points of quality and price. A good price to us means a good price to our patrons. We are always on the lookout for bargains in every item in our line and our patrons receive direct benefit. Come in, let's talk coffee.

King Nut In a Class By Itself

King-nut did not make its low to the public and say they had a product which was an imitation or was as good as butter. They came out with a big guarantee backed by the biggest factory in the business that King-Nut was a pure vegetable sanitary product and was better than butter. We have scores of patrons who prefer King-Nut to butter. They would refuse butter even at the same price. King-nut is always uniform, always fresh and full weight.

Having Flour Trouble?

An infalible cure for "flour trouble" is to try a sack of Lincoln. We have had the pleasure of listening to the reports of over 200 housewives who are using Lincoln. We are sure we know what we are talking about when we claim we have a cure for all flour trouble. Lincoln flour is the best flour produced by the big Pillsbury Milling Co. They buy the best northern wheat obtainable and every one knows they have the best milling equipment in the world. Its hardly necessary to mention the money back guarantee in every sack—99 per cent who try it are more than pleased with the results.

Apples Apples Apples

We do not deny we are taking a loss on apples. We must have the room. This lot is offered subject to being sold. Bulk Winesaps, $2.25; Box Jonathans, $2.85; Large Size Delicious, per box, $4.75. Also a good supply Fancy Arkansas Black and Rome Beauty, box apples at $3.75. We are headquarters for apples—any size or variety at prices which look good to the purchaser.

Basket Store

We are again selling flour at reduced prices, in 5 and 10 sack lots. Wayne Roller Mills, W. R. Weber, Proprietor.

With a few weeks for finishing, the road will be ready to turn over to the state finished so far as the first step in road building goes.

Ernest Rippon and Fred R. Dean were at Sioux City Tuesday, going over to inspect and pass upon the work of the proposed new Midland packing plant, in which they hold interest, though perhaps not a controlling interest. We hope that it cuts a slice from the prevailing price of meat.

Worley, and he visited at Marion, Virginia.

Henry Puls from southwest of Wayne was at Omaha last week with a car of fat cattle from his feed lot, and reported as he returned Saturday evening that he had found a fairly good market. He said that he did not buy this bunch to feed, but grew them, and that through their feeding and sale his corn had brought him a good price. Then he figured a profit in another way—a way too many forget. He thinks it worth the labor of feeding cattle to have the crop fed on the farm—the fertilizer thus made and kept on the farm is worth more than most people seem to think. His wife and son and daughter visited Omaha at the same time that he was there, and all were guests at the home of the lady's brother.

A. Hassan was here from Sioux City Friday night on some secret business mission—an undertaking in which he is said to be doing nicely.

The Democrat man asked him about the report which his friends send back from his old home country where they went last spring, and he said that they reported great destitution and suffering—that many are dying of hunger and exposure. That in their particular part of Syria the situation is made much worse than would otherwise have been because of a visit of great swarms of locust for the past two seasons. They came in such numbers that they not only destroyed the growing crops, but the trees as well. He says that they write back that prices there rule high as well as elsewhere, and that those

The war has brought the aeroplane into "its own," and before long the flying machine will be as common as the automobile. This is due largely to the fact that the capable aviator will take no chances. If he wishes to make a flight he first of all makes sure that the engine of his plane is in PERFECT WORKING ORDER. If there is any defect, however small, his flight will not be a successful one and will probably be attended with fatal results. Yet how many human beings go through life, paying no attention to some slight defect in the spine which, if not corrected in time will eventually put them on a bed of sickness and make their journey through life a miserable failure. Have your spine examined at once. If it is in normal condition, you have the satisfaction of knowing that you are a lucky man. # NEVER TOO LATE

By JENNIE LITTLE

A comely woman, nearing middle age, stepped out on the little cottage porch and shaded her eyes from the morning sun, that she might look deeper and farther into the budding green mysteries of a perfect day. As her gaze wandered appreciably from the distant hills to the nearer meadows and orchards, their peace seemed reflected in her face. But when she glanced down at her own garden a quick frown accompanied an impatient exclamation. "That pesky dog again! I declare it's enough to provoke a saint, which I never claimed to be. If there's one thing on earth more bothersome than another, it's neighbors who don't care two-pins for other people's comfort."

Once upon a time before Miss Lydia's coming, the path from her steps had run directly through that yard and the next, ending at the adjoining house and was a well-worn trail. But a little cloud had appeared on the friendly horizon, at first no bigger than a man's hand, and grew to such proportions that the spite fence had appeared to stop all intercourse.

However, two young folks lived on either side, and love laughs at fences as well as locksmiths, so just where the big maple stretched its branches over the top an almost invisible gate had been made and many a night had the lovers found it an ideal trying place. But this was years ago and the original owners had moved far away. The gate was fitted now with latch and hinges, but she had never used it, as the next house had been empty until lately and then she had been disappointed to learn that it was only a lone bachelor who had taken the farm.

But today with sudden determination she picked up the broken tulips and started down the path. Meantime her neighbor, happily unconscious of trouble, and feeling at peace with every man, went whistling to the barn. Round the corner whisked a large cat, holding a chicken in its mouth and disappeared through the very hole under the fence that the mischievous pup had used. "Drat that cat!" cried the farmer, "there goes another of my best Plymouth Rocks. This thing is going to be stopped right now!" and he too strode down the path toward the gate, stepping through it just as Miss Lydia was about to reach for the latch. "Dear me!" was her startled thought, "it's himself. Now's my chance!" though her courage was going fast, for she was a shy soul. "She's the one this interview's coming to," ran Farmer John's mind. "For I saw her petting that ornery cat one day," and simultaneously they spoke. "Ma'am, that cat of yours—"

"Sir, your dog—"

Then they broke off in blank amazement. A long stare, and again they cried in unison:

"John!"

"Lyddy!"

"How in the world!"

"What on earth!"

And stopped again, for want of breath, seemingly. If so, John was the first to recover it.

"Lyddy—tell me, have you been living here all these long years? I left home the day after we quarreled, just to make you sorry; but I was sure you would send for me to come back. And when I'd waited as long as I could stand it, and was starting home, I had a long spell of sickness that mighty Barlow kept me from ever seeing old Barlow again. And when I did get there, nobody knew where you were. I went away to work again and was lucky. This spring I got tired of it all and bought this farm for a change. Just now your cat caught another chicken, and I was coming over to—Lyddy, are you married?"

Lydia's face flamed like a pink peony. "Why, no, John. You see, my health never was good in Barlow, so when an old aunt left her this little place she wanted to try the country air. And I was secretly grieving over you, John, and wanted to come where nobody knew me; so we just quietly moved away off here; and when ma died at last I just stayed on. I hadn't inquired your name of anyone, and was coming to tell you how your dog was spoiling my garden."

"Lyddy," said John softly, "do you remember the night of the big sleighing party, when you and I promised to be pals for life? Look, I've carried this with me always."

And he produced from his pocket-book a funny little tintype that she had given him on that occasion.

"Will you give me a chance to make up for all we've missed since then? 'Twas all my fault we quarreled."

"No, mine, too, for I was stubborn," was the quick reply; "but oh, we're too old to marry now."

"Old!—you?" cried John. "You look sixteen to me, and that's a fact. And didn't our old copy books say that it's never too late to mend?"

"Well, I don't know," twinkled Lydia; "strikes me we were quite ready to follow up that cat and dog affair."

"Bless them both!" cried John. "I wouldn't part with that pup now for a fortune; but he shall learn to leave flowers alone, Lyddy, if you'll just come and plant them in my garden at ways."

So the little gate was left wide open, till Lydia one bright day went through and stayed on the other side as Mrs. John.

TELLS HOW HE CURED COLD

New York Physician Passes on Remedy Which He Declares Does Away With Affliction.

This is how Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley of New York cures his own colds and those of other people. Doctor Bulkley tells the story in the Medical Record, as follows:

"Yesterday I had about as severe a cold as possible, which had been coming on several days, and had been simply neglected, and I sneezed and coughed all day, using any number of handkerchiefs. In the afternoon I took one or two doses of soda, half a teaspoonful, and in the evening took five more, at half-hour intervals, in warm water. At midnight I took one of the grip powders I have so long prescribed, ten grains of phenacetin with 20 of soda, with hot water, and went to bed with two handkerchiefs under my pillow. I dropped to sleep very soon and slept soundly until called at 7:30, when I took another of the phenacetin and soda powders and found the cold entirely gone; exactly the experience which I reported before and which I have had many times."

"Last year from October to late spring I wrote for the phenacetin and soda powders, ten grains and 20, almost every day, and sometimes at least four times in the day, for patients threatened with grippe, and although I questioned many patients at subsequent office visits I have yet to learn of any failure to arrest the trouble."

TO WORK OLD COPPER MINES

American Company, With Modern Machinery, Will Reopen Shaft on the Isle of Cyprus.

Equipped with modern mining machinery purchased in the United States with California money, the rich copper mines of the Isle of Cyprus, which centuries ago furnished copper for the civilized world, may in a few months be turning out thousands of tons of that metal.

According to an announcement made yesterday, a syndicate of California capitalists has secured a long-term purchase lease on a score or more of the most valuable workings on the island, and engineers are now on the ground outlining plans for installing modern mining machinery to replace the crude plants maintained by the Phoenicians centuries ago. While the names of members of the syndicate were not given out, D. C. Jacklin, multi-millionaire copper magnate of San Francisco, is the recognized head of the corporation.

"When the war first broke out the syndicate had about completed plans for perfecting their lease of 22 claims on the island, but complications brought about by the conflict forced abandonment of the plan until after the signing of the armistice."

Art Criticism.

One day a German subaltern who had been ordered to find billets presented himself at my house, writes a Belgian woman in the World's Work. I showed him among other things the room occupied for more than two years by the American delegates of the relief commission, in which a reproduction of an ancient work of art—a bust without arms—stood on the mantelpiece. The subaltern thought the room appeared to be comfortable, but, seeking to make himself disagreeable, he raised his eyebrows, after looking at the reproduction, and said in a rude voice:

"Why, madam, did you cut the arms off this bust in a room destined to be occupied by a German officer?"

Words failed me. What could I say? He left the house with an offended air. But the incident had no sequel, which was most extraordinary.

Lived Long In Seclusion.

Forty years in the District of Columbia without having set foot on the streets! Such was the record of several of the sisters of the Visitation convent, formerly located at Connecticut avenue and L street Northwest, I am told on authority. For forty years these sisters lived in the school, taking their exercise in the spacious grounds back of the building, surrounded by a high wall. As you go past the building now you see it almost razed to the ground by wreckers, the building and site having been sold recently for a big price. So the good sisters at last came forth from their cells and trod again the streets of the national capital for the first time in forty years.—Washington Star.

Prizes for English Weavers.

A gift of $10,000 from John Crompton of Manchester, England, will provide rewards to the designers and weavers of original cotton fabrics designed and woven in technical colleges or weaving schools in the British empire. One-half of the fabrics sent in for competition must be entirely of cotton, and the remainder may contain 70 per cent of cotton threads. A special committee of the Textile Institute of Manchester will take care of the collection of the samples.

On Venice Canals.

The main entry to Venice from the railway station is by the celebrated Grand canal by means of gondolas or omnibus steamers. The latter maintain a regular service along the Grand canal and across the lagoon to the island of the Lido. There are also tram-steamers connections between Venice and the more important lagoon islands.

Dalmatia's Many Beauty Spots.

Dalmatia's beauties have been recounted by many travelers. Among the scores of islands off its coast are many rich in history, such as Brazza and Lessina, where Roman and Greek relics are to be found; Busi, with its ten caverns, the most beautiful of which is the Blue Grotto, entered by boat, and Lacerona, off Ragusa, where Richard Coeur de Lion is said to have found a haven during a storm on his return from the crusades, and to have built a church there in compliance with a vow to honor his place of refuge.—Exchange.

Enforcing Etiquette.

"My oldest girl, Zanzaline, is right smart of a lady, if I do say it," pridefully admitted Cap-Johnson-of-Kumpus Ridge. "Tuther night when young Bill-Dick Riggle was calling on her 13 steps young Hamp Yawkey, and 'lowed he'd set up on the other side of her, 'peared like Bill-Dick preferred peace to etterkett, and was willing to arbitrate about it.—But Zanzaline knowed her manners, and she hauled off with the fire shovel and smacked young Hamp flat with it, and like to have beat him to death before he could tear himself out of there. Then she turned to Bill-Dick and told him to go on with his sparring. Aw, you bet your life, when it comes to etterkett, Zanzaline is right there with the authority!"—Kansas City Star.

Asleep at His Post.

I was stationed, while in the army, at a camp in Texas, and had been working as a stenographer in the office of the executive officer. I had been out quite late in the night on the day previous and had been feeling quite sleepy while at work, so I folded my arms on my machine, and before long was fast asleep. I had been asleep about ten minutes when the executive officer tapped me on the shoulder and said: "Don't you want one of these pillows, too?" It seems a woman who lived close to the camp had become acquainted with the officer and had sent him a few pillows to be given out by him, and I was indeed glad to receive one of them, but was much embarrassed in the way I received it.—Exchange.

North Dakota's Lignite.

A government report says "the fuel problem has been forever solved in North Dakota." The western half of the state is underlaid with lignite, the beds estimated to contain 600,000,000 tons. Over thousands of square miles this soft coal lies so close to the surface that farmers merely dig a hole in their own fields and take out the coal as they require it. During 1918 1,000,000,000 tons were mined. If the farmer is too busy with his farm work to help himself, he can buy it for $1.50 or $2 per ton. Many of the large grain elevators are operated by power furnished by coal that is mined on the spot, and this general economy in fuel has added materially in increasing the per capita fuel.

BLACK HILLS GET MILLION TROT

Rapid City, S. D., Jan. 27.—One million trout which will make a future fisherman's paradise of the streams of the Black Hills, are being hatched at the state trout hatchery here. About 300,000 of the young trout will be ready to plant in western South Dakota streams about May 15.

The hatching place is the new plant just completed by the state. It is said to be one of the most modern in the country. It has eight large tanks in which a million trout eggs, transported from Cacede, Colorado, were placed some weeks ago. The trays contain this delicate spawn while the embryo grows. As the embryo grows larger it sinks down through a nest of sieves from where the tiny fish make their way along as they gain in size and strength, the stronger going first and in this way protecting the weaker ones.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stewart returned Wednesday from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Sokol, at Fullerton.

Rev. A. Ohlenberg of Bloomfield was here Wednesday morning on his way to Norfolk, where he was called to perform a marriage for a young lady who formerly lived at Bloomfield.

Ernest Gerdau, a breeder of Polands at Bloomfield was here Wednesday morning returning from Norfolk, where he had been attending a couple of big sales of Polands. He purchased several of the good ones from the Roberts herd. The Wagner offering brought the big price.

A new diamond field is soon to be opened in a treeless, gameless, cropless desert waste in Africa, and it is said to be the richest diamond field ever yet discovered. Perhaps diamonds will come down in price until the editor may wear one, at least we hope it will tend to reduce the h. c. i.

INTERESTING STATE NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

Washington, on Christmas day. Mr. McGee was a former student of the Nebraska normal college and graduated from the State Normal in 1912. Mr. and Mrs. McGee will make their home at Carro Grande, Idaho, at which place Mr. McGee lived before his enlistment in the army.

Prof. Earl H. Schroer, 1916, late of the radio service of the United States Navy, has been elected superintendent of schools at Hooper, Nebraska. He has been principal of the high school in this place both before and since his navy experience and his election comes after a thorough acquaintance with his work by the community.

The Goodfellowship meetings are being generally attended and are decidedly successful. It is hoped that this movement will accomplish its purpose in making the students and the community better acquainted.

Of course, you want a Fordson

THE Fordson is an ideal tractor for your farm. It is built compactly, simply, yet with abundant power. It pulls a two bottom plow and will do a proportionate amount of any other farm power work.

The Fordson engine is unusual. It is simple, easily cared for, and so designed that the farmer can give any attention required in service. The entire head of the cylinders, which are cast en bloc, can be removed for grinding valves.

The air is cleaned with an improved air washer. A special carburetor allows the use of kerosene—without any of the trouble that is commonly associated with this fuel.

The Oliver No. 7 Plow was built for your Fordson

The Oliver No. 7 plow in addition to being specially adapted to the Fordson tractor has all its well-known Oliver features. It buries the weeds and trash; it is operated from the driver's seat; the furrow is always kept at the same depth by a special stop device; in fact, it is an ideal tractor plow designed for that one purpose only.

See it here with the Fordson tractor.

THE MAN HAS LEPROSY

The first case of leprosy believed to be recorded in this state was brought to the attention of Omaha physicians two weeks ago and more recently diagnosed before a clinic of the Douglas County Medical association.

Charles Young, 49 years old, of Tilden, is the victim and until several days ago was being treated at a hospital at that place. He went to Omaha several weeks ago where a skin specialist pronounced his trouble the dread disease. He is being treated with a possibility of ultimate cure by a new method that has been found effective in similar cases.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stanton from Carroll were passengers to Sioux City this morning. Mr. Stanton says that himself and one other, whom he cannot name appear to be the only democrats left in his precinct. That is good talk, but wait until the votes are counted. We could not learn whether or not Mr. Stanton is to carry the precinct for Bryan.

THE TROUBLES OF

THE NEWSPAPER MAN

One week the editor writes that it is snowing and that we have a six-inch fall on the level—and then he goes out to supper after the issue is out, and some one says: "Why did you put that in the paper? we all know it snowed."

Soon a visitor comes from another part of the state some weeks later, when the writer has been discouraged about making weather reports, and finds a foot of snow—and as he meets the scribe he says, "Why did you not say it snowed here? We have no snow in our parts." And there you are—if you do and if you don't. But that is nothing.
