A. C. Williams, son and daughter from Winside were here last week to visit at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. J. Williams.

Mrs. Harry Smith from Laurel, accompanied by Miss Opal Smith of that place drove to Wayne Monday for a short stay.

Mrs. Ole Granquist and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julia Granquist were at Slou City last week visiting relatives. The two young ladies returned Sunday.

R. L. Ring and family were called to Seattle the first of the week by news of the serious illness of his father. They left on the Monday afternoon train.

Mrs. Aug. Carlson from Sholes went to Omaha Monday morning to undergo an operation for appendicitis. She was accompanied by her sister from Omaha who had been at their home for a time to assist in her care.

Mrs. Geo. Croosland was a passenger to Norfolk Friday, to attend the district missionary meeting, beginning that day. In the evening Mrs. I. H. Britton and Miss Madel and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer and Miss Fay were passengers to that city to attend the various sessions of the gathering.

James Steele left Monday morning, with his cousin, Miss Grace Atwell, who has been spending the winter and attending college here, going to her home at Marlon, in the mountain region of Virginia. James said that they would stop a day or two at Chicago and visit an uncle and watch the big show move past.

Miss Mabel Dayton came home Friday evening from Fremont, where she has been instructor at the Midland college. This week she leaves to teach mathematics during the summer session of the State Normal school at Mankato, Minnesota, where she has been engaged as instructor in mathematics the coming school year.

We notice that Burlington Cunningham was one of the orators of the day at the Bloomfield Decoration day services. Bur. was one of the lads who took a part in that little skirmish more than half a century ago, and it was proper that he be one of the speakers in his home town on this occasion. He knew what he was talking about.

The Bloomfield ladies have opened a rest room in that place, and a report of the first month sounds almost double hooey, for 1313 was the number who visited the popular resort during the month. It seems from the report to be an exclusive affair for women and children, and is in charge of a matron, Mrs. Lucy Gould, and we are wondering if that is the Mrs. Gould who recently moved from Wayne to that place.

During one of the Liberty loan drives, an artist appeared before Secretary of Labor Wilson with a poster he had painted for the purpose of making an appeal to the working man. The type was very typical of the American laborer with his soft shirt and blue overalls. It was a good piece of work, said Wilson, but one thing was wrong. The patch on the knee would have to be removed or it would never be accepted. "This is an appeal to union men and union men never have patches on their overalls," said the secretary of labor.

We wondered why this part of Nebraska was visited by such a great downpour of rain last week Monday night—but the Bloomfield Monitor makes it plain. That city had been spending $30,000 for a ditch to take the kinks out of the little creek that has been meandering through that berg since the town began to grow there, which had the overflow habit every time a right heavy dew fell. There were a lot of doubting Thomases up there who said the ditch did amount to anything—some of the class not yet extinct, who made sport of Noah when he built the ark, and they had to be showed just as tho they were from old Missouri. The Monitor says that more than two inches of rain fell in forty minutes—such a rain as they had not before seen in the history of the town. Just to test that ditch—and it stood the stood the test. Not a sign of overflow in all that part of the city. But above the ditch the creek made a new high watermark. No one now kicks about the ditch.

The people of the world be better and better informed if a lot of trouble which is made an excuse for war were settled by arbitration, with justice holding the scales on which are weighed the pros. and cons.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chapin and daughter, Miss Virginia, left Wayne Monday for California to spend a season in the land of flowers to see how they like it—and if pleased to remain—perhaps. We regret to have Mr. Chapin leave Wayne and Wayne county, where he was among the pioneers. Since coming to Wayne less than a year ago, he tells us that he has built or purchased no less than three houses—according to reports, and tho he says these reports were without foundation, we still regret his going, for we need men who will be considered builders. Mr. Chapin tells us that they are making the journey west because they do not feel that now is the time to build at Wayne, and because they have not found any opportunity to purchase what they wanted for a home. Too bad that Wayne people did not look forward ten years ago to the Wayne of today, and begin to plan and build for it. Even now, at prevailing prices this community has a wealth of agricultural resources about us which will warrant a building boom more than any locality we know of.

MAYOR KEMP HOME FROM EAST

Mayor Kemp, who was a delegate from the Niobrara Presbytery to the general Presbyterian Assembly at Philadelphia, came home the last of the week, declaring that no place looked any better than this corner of Nebraska. When asked about the trip, he admitted that he had a very pleasant time. He spent two days in Washington and vicinity—saw the sights of interest from the halls of congress to the tomb of Washington. He was at Arlington cemetery, at Valley Forge and other places famous in our early history. For more than a week he attended the great meeting of the Presbyterians of the nation—yes of the world—for other lands had representatives at the great assembly. He listened to the sermons of some of the greatest and most noted pulpit orators and scholars of our land, including an address by the "Boy Orator of the Platte" who though not on the program, spent a day at the great meeting. In telling of Bryan's reception there, Mr. Kemp said it was wonderful and hearty. He was asked to speak as soon as he was discovered in the hall—but declined to usurp any place on the program—but agreed to speak ten minutes at the close of the evening program, at 10 o'clock, on the subject that day, Home Missions. And added that he would then talk of other things if the audience cared to remain and listen—which they gladly did.

Mr. Kemp said that he took for his theme, "Where Are The Nine?" and for an hour and a half spoke to that great congregation of noted men and able ministers, holding them spell-bound with his logic and eloquence, which swayed the audience as a reed in the wind, and moved hundreds of men to tears. His talk was in reality a new lecture he is building which it is said will outstrip his great lecture the "Prince of Peace" as an appeal to the conscience of the people. Mr. Kemp said that it was his good fortune to be asked by Mr. Bryan to become his guest at a dinner with a few friends, an event of the trip to which he refers as one of the incidents never to be forgotten.

Mr. Kemp spent a week among friends in his old Ohio home community, and spent a day at St. Louis with a brother. Of general conditions he said that the east appeared to be rallying from a bit of financial tightening such as the west now seems to be in the grip of—and that all things appear to be booming—except agriculture. He said the farm help problem in the east was such that he saw a number of farms in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana which were not being cultivated. Weather conditions appeared to have been much the same the country over—cold, wet, backward. Our home condition in this line, he thought as good as he saw anywhere.

Politically, it was hard to draw any conclusions, but nowhere did a group of men remain long together in hotel or on train but the talk soon drifted into politics—and seldom did two men of any group hold the same views as to platforms, candidates or political parties. The political field is being studied with more interest now than ever before, perhaps, by the masses of the people—the great common people.

GOVERNMENT VS. PRIVATE RAILROAD OWNERSHIP

The question of government or private ownership of railroads was not mentioned one day this week when the writer happened to step in where the railroad efficiency as it is now was under discussion, and the railroad men were spoken of as anything but competent. Some, it was intimated, were crooked—that the distribution of stock cars was not on the square as between different towns—and the local management was not on the level as between individuals. There was talk of complaint to the railway commissioners, and of damages and the like, for some had suffered a shrink and an inconvenience because cars were not available for their stock—and the market had gone down—and they were due to lose on the venture at the best and this was adding injury to injury.

And all this time the writer was wondering if conditions had been any worse under the government Sam and the administration had to stand the brunt of the blame for floods, car shortage, coal famine and labor troubles, and we wondered if any of those talking had ever had occasion to make such talks before, and why.

In fact, it is possible that a few months of private ownership of the railroads will leave as had a taste in the mouth as public control in the trying war times did when it had to be tried. There may not be so much difference in the end between making up a deficit between income and outgo as did the government and making a loan of $200,000,000 million for that purpose, for it must eventually come from the people if paid in either case.

MANY FARMERS GROWING SORGHUM

A market increase in the production of sorghum sirup is indicated by reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture, which has been engaged in a special campaign to induce greater production of this crop because of the keen demand for sugar substitutes. At the beginning of the World War the annual yield of sorghum sirup in the United States was approximately 13,000,000 gallons. This has increased steadily until for the past year it was approximately 30,000,000 gallons. The average yield of sirup per acre has been about 100 gallons, but the fact that this figure can be increased is indicated by the department's experiments in which more than 400 gallons per acre have been produced in some localities.

In urging increase plantings to sorghum the department's experts point out that despite the increasing yields the demand is still greater than the supply, as shown by the price for sirup, which has ranged from 90 cents to $1.50 per gallon, and in a few cases even higher.

There are abundant opportunities for increasing the sorghum production, the experts say, since this crop can be grown in every State in the Union with the possible exception of Maine. In the northern States it is necessary to plant early maturing varieties of sorghum. "Early Amber" and "Folgers" are among the varieties recommended by the department, which is prepared to supply inquiries with full information regarding the cultivation of this profitable plant.

Due to a crop failure last year we have the cheapest good land in the middle west. Crop conditions are ideal. The high prices of land in the adjoining states and the general movement westward is sure to raise the land prices here. What better investment could you make than a quarter section at present prices? If interested write to W. A. Fleming, Scranton North Dakota.—adv-3tpd.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mines have the sympathy of the community in the loss of the little one born to them Sunday night, at the Crittenden Home in Sioux City. The little body was sent here for burial. Mrs. Mines is getting along nicely, we are glad to report.

Ladies in search of something good and moderately priced in the line of wash dresses should come and see my special shipment, due here for Friday and Saturday sales. My eastern buyer is sending the good bargains for the patrons of the Wayne store for women and children, Mrs. Jeffries.—adv.

D. H. Cunningham and Paul Harrington are on their way to Idaho. They left the first of the week, and met in Omaha Tuesday evening for their trip, which they plan will take them through various parts of Idaho, where Mr. Cunningham has interests, and into Montana and the National Park. It is to be a great outing.

Among the names listed as graduates of the Sioux City high school this year is that of a former Wayne pupil, who has been away from here a number of years, Miss Marjorie Naffziger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. Naffziger, who are now living near Sioux City. The young lady is to be congratulated on receiving such an honor so early in life.

At West Point, about three weeks ago, well authenticated reports say, occurred the marriage of Mr. Walter Black of Randolph and Miss Byrle Malone of Pierce. Miss Malone was one of the Sholes teachers two years ago, and the past year at Pierce, where Mr. Black was one of the teaching force. Mr. Black was elected to a position at Wayne for the coming year, but gave it up to take the superintendency of the school at Pierce, which was tendered him later. The bride and groom are spending their honeymoon at Lincoln, attending summer school at the University, and both are elected to teach at Pierce the coming year. The announcement of their marriage comes as a surprise to their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Vail drove to Norfolk and spent the day Sunday.

Howard Channon, of Norfolk, was a passenger to Randolph today.

George Van Norman, who has been making improvements at his farm near Julesburg, Colorado, drove home from there this week, and is once more doing truck hauling here. He tells us that crop prospects are good there, and that nothing but a hail storm will knock them out. He said that crops look well all along the 500 mile trail except in vicinity of Grand Island.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frevert Wednesday evening, June 9, 1920, occurred the reception following the marriage of their daughter, Miss Freda and Wm. Krohm, a farmer of Randolph. A number of relatives from Wayne went to attend the wedding and reception, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Herman and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frevert, and their father Conrad Frevert, Mrs. Paul Splittgerber and son and Mrs. Ed. Hagemann.

Albert Berry, our postmaster, is reported to be attending the big republican show at Chicago. Perhaps he wants to become familiar with the tricks of the other fellows. But then the democrats have put postoffices of the class in which Wayne now is, in the civil service class—but that might not hold if republican hard times were to come over us again, and a lot of republicans were needing the salary of the office—and perhaps the office might be needed to fulfill pre-election promises.

Later—Mr. Berry is home, and says that he did not go near Chicago, and that the convention in which he could take no part would have few charms for him—that to be a mere spectator would be too tame.
