

BODY OF WALTER C. BARRETT BROUGHT FROM FRANCE

Sunday morning the body of Walter C., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barrett of this place, arrived from France—the first of those who had belonged to this community to reach home. Sunday afternoon a simple funeral service was held at the Presbyterian church, Rev. John Beard preaching, and the pastors of other churches assisting in the service, while members of the American Legion acted as pall bearers. It was a solemn service—a memorial to those who had given life for a great cause and won a place in the hearts of the people for all time.

Monday the body, accompanied by father, mother and sister was taken to Malvern, Iowa, and reverently laid to rest in the family burial lot with simple prayer at the grave.

Walter C. Barrett was born at Malvern, Iowa, September 4, 1892, and came with his parents to Wayne county when but two years of age, and this was his home until he became of age when he went to Wyoming and took a homestead near Node, from which place he entered service in the summer of 1918, and was assigned to a medical corps, and spent but about six weeks in training at Camp McArthur, near Waco, Texas, before he was sent across the water.

He died of pneumonia in October, 1918, at Brest, France, at the age of 26 years.

Thus he made the supreme sacrifice, and won a place on the roll of honor, the parents should share with him, for they too were called upon to sacrifice that which to them was as dear as life.

SUGAR RATION PLANS

Washington, June 15.—A. W. Riley, special assistant to the attorney general will return to his New York office today to direct the campaign by which it is hoped to supply the demand for sugar during the coming canning season.

He will conduct the work thru a national sugar distributing committee, composed of representatives of refiners, sugar importers and industries consuming sugar and wholesale grocers. The plan in general is to locate the available sugar according to the requirements of the canning industry and the needs of housewives for canning purposes. No industry will be actually shut off, it is said, but the so-called non-essential lines, such as candy, soda and chewing gum manufacturers will get secondary consideration.

Nearly all cold storage holdings in dairy products showed a marked increase and poultry a decrease on June 1, 1920, over June 1, 1919, according to the monthly report of the bureau of markets, department of agriculture made public today. The figures on the principal items follow:

Creamery butter decreased 56.8 per cent over same period in 1919.
Packing stock butter decreased 19.9 per cent over June 1, 1919.
American cheese increased 7.9 per cent.
Brick and munker cheese increased 57 per cent.
Limberger increased 19.5 per cent.
Other fancy varieties—shown increases, while other varieties not listed decreased 7.6 per cent. Holding of case eggs decreased 16.3 per cent while frozen eggs increased 7.1 per cent.
Holdings of miscellaneous poultry decreased 27.5 per cent and other varieties showed decreases ranging up to 60.5 per cent.

Wirtler, Eph Beckenhauer, Carl C. Thompson. The directors hold a meeting soon to select officers. The annual reports show a growing business.

THAT HOMER FLOOD

We have just received a copy of the "Flood Edition" of the Homer Star, the first paper gotten out at that office since their flood of the night of May 31 and June 1. From the very interesting and carefully written account given of that night of terror we glean a few facts. The new high water mark was three feet, and eight inches above the mark of the flood of two or three weeks before, and established a new high mark in the history of that place.

The total damage in the little town is placed at more than a quarter of a million dollars, and from this there seemed little chance for much salvage. In addition to this was a large loss among the farmers in the surrounding district. One source of disagreeable danger was from the decaying animals which lodged in trees and fences and among the buildings of the town. More than thirty buildings, large residences, offices, churches and the like were moved from a few feet to several hundred feet, and left raked and filled with mud and slime and filth—furniture, carpets and rugs ruined, all basements filled, stocks of groceries and dry goods floated about in water within the stores—and much of it ruined.

From this story it seems that the storm swept from Walthill, thru Winnebago on northeast toward Homer, and that the greater part of the flood fell in the vicinity of these two towns, and came down on Homer in great waves. Homer people received their first warning from Walthill by telephone, and the town was warned and those who had suffered from the previous flood moved to places of safety. Some who were not in danger at their first flood did not think it would be their turn to go this time, and thus several narrow escapes were reported. Some people had to roost in trees the remainder of the night, and finally a tank was used in the rescue of some of the imperiled ones, as no boats were in the place.

Aid came from nearby towns, and the Red Cross fund of several thousand dollars of Dakota county was drawn upon, while outside aid from this organization was sent. Farmers from the nearby country came to the rescue. Many had to buy clothing as well as food. Bedding was also ruined in many homes—or at least put out of commission until it could be dried cleaned and fumigated.

Mrs. Lothrop, the central telephone operator is entitled to credit for the manner in which she remained at her post as long as the line would work, and until the water thru which she must escape was waist deep.

In the summary the Star says that 75 residences, 5 churches and 31 business houses were flooded from a few inches to seven feet of water.

SOUTH DAKOTA FLOODS

The daily papers tell of great floods as the result of cloud bursts, which have inundated Westington Springs, South Dakota, and country tributary to that place. Westington Springs was marooned, and by air ships seemed to be the only means of reaching the place, as the small creek there has become a stream four miles wide. Much stock is said to have been lost, and crops destroyed.

A number of Wayne people and former Wayne people have interests in that part of South Dakota, and one wonders whether or not they had holdings in the inundated district. No loss of life has been reported, but there was two feet of water in the business section, and every basement was flooded.

WAYNE STATE NORMAL NEWS

Home Coming Day Friday
The ever important event, Home Coming, will be celebrated tomorrow. More and more this day is becoming significant in the life of the Normal.

With the names of hundreds of graduates of the Nebraska Normal College added to those of the alumni of the State Normal, it is a large group that gathers to share in the festivities attendant on the occasion of Home Coming Day. In accordance with custom, the chapel exercises tomorrow morning will be held at 10:30 o'clock and the alumni will be in charge. With their usual generous hospitality, President and Mrs. Conn will serve luncheon to the visitors at noon. By special arrangements, the officers of the alumni association have secured Miss Pauline DuClos, harpist, for a matinee in the auditorium at 3 o'clock. At 8:15 p. m., the Woman's club of Wayne, will serve the annual banquet in the calistheum and a program of loyal speeches will be enjoyed. The officers of the Association are: Pres., Charles R. Chinn; vice-pres., Margaret Schemel; secy., Clara Smothers; treas., Rollie Ley.

The Faculty Reception
On Monday night President and Mrs. Conn and the members of the faculty and their wives received the students at the administration building. Something over six hundred young people passed down the receiving line in the wide hall and met the teachers. In the auditorium, a program of speeches and music was enjoyed. Professor S. X. Cross, who has been canvassing for students most of the spring, in a brief address welcomed the arrival; Miss Elsie Ford Piper, the newly elected dean of women, made an earnest and yet witty speech, while President Conn, in his usual hearty manner spoke warm words of good cheer that went to every heart. Mrs. J. T. House played a piano solo from Mozart. Professor Hunter gave the cavatata from Bohm on the violin. Miss Ardath Conn sang in delightful manner, "Will-o-the-Wisp" and Professor Fouser pleased everybody in his first appearance before a Normal audience by his playing of Album Leaves (Grieg) and by his rendering of an encore in imitation of a music box. Miss Tillie Sofermoser, Miss Mable Brinker, Hugo Srb, Frank Brokeniecky and George DeKay each gave a one minute talk on "How to be happy thought in summer school."

At the close of the program, the company adjourned to the gymnasium where refreshments were served under the direction of Professor Bowen and Miss Burton.

The College Annual Issued
The new Spizzerintum, the school annual, is out and is being distributed to the eager subscribers. It is a very creditable book in which the editorial staff, the senior class and all the students and faculty properly take much pleasure. It is bright, original, good-natured and entertaining throughout and has many scenes of school life and life in Wayne that render the publication of permanent interest.

Notes of Interest
Tuesday night the first of the moving picture shows of the summer was presented, "Stolen Orders". The pictures are good; the theme, interesting and dramatically presented. There will be three or four more during the term.

The large enrollment in the department of drawing has compelled the sectioning of two of the classes and the employment of Miss Marguerite Chace, so well and favorably known in Wayne, to assist Miss Pierce for the summer.

Miss Winifred Angel, editor-in-chief of the school annual, "The Spizzerintum," has been on the hill for a few days mailing the copies of the book. She leaves today for her home in Midland, South Dakota. Miss Angel has made a notable record as a student in the Normal, being graduated with high honors this spring and having spent much time editing the successful annual.

The Normal School Board will meet in Wayne next Monday. They will all be welcome and will find a flourishing institution.

JOHN DEMOSSE ALGER

Saturday, June 12, 1920, death came to close the eyes of John D. Alger, for more than 36 years a resident of Wayne, at the age of 76 years, 4 months and 20 days. He was born at West Liberty, Iowa, January 22, 1844, and came with his parents and other members of the family to Wayne county in 1885, settling on a farm just north of the town where he lived until after the death of his parents when he made his home most of the time with his sister, Mrs. Fisher. A year ago last October he was stricken and has since been down town but a few times, and at times he had suffered greatly from asthma. He was resigned, and glad when he saw the day coming when his spirit should be set free from the torture of a broken body. He was converted and became a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Wayne, and was ever a devout and faithful christian, and died in the faith with a confidence in his Savior, in whose steps he had conscientiously followed. Quiet and not demonstrative, he was held the high esteem and respect of all who came to know him.

He was one of a family of ten children, and four sisters were present to attend his funeral. Mrs. Fisher and Miss Ola Alger, with whom he made his home, Mrs. W. C. Hudson of Ames, Iowa, and Mrs. W. S. Dickerson of Omaha. In addition to the above, W. S. Dickerson and Mrs. E. A. Dickerson of Omaha, were here.

The funeral services were held from the Methodist church Monday afternoon, Rev. Albert S. Buell of Tekamah coming to preach the sermon and offer consolation to the relatives and friends. Rev. Buell was his pastor for a number of years, and the last one while he was able to regularly attend church. The service was attended by many old friends of the family—associates of other days.

YEARLING BEEVES AT NEW TOP FOR YEAR

Live Stock Record—Features have not been lacking in the local cattle trade of the past few days, almost every hour of trading proving eventful. The feature of the opening trade this week was the sale of a load of yearling beeves at $16.25 per hundred, the highest price paid for such beef material this year, and 15 cents above last week's top. The offerings were contributed by H. Mau, prominent farmer and feeder operating near Wayne, Neb. The twenty-seven beeves were of the whiteface type and averaged around 894 pounds. Included were a couple of heifers attractive enough to bring $13.00.

Harder Produces Weighty Steers
When it comes to producing strong weight types of beef, Wm. Harder is to be given honorable mention. Mr. Harder is a Wayne, Neb., farmer and feeder, and was on hand the initial day of the week with a load of steers that tipped the scale beam at an average of 1,403 pounds. They possessed such quality as to draw the good price of $16.00 per hundred, top price for the day on heavy beeves. The shipment was made up of eighteen head and outcome was satisfactory. (Sold by Swanson, Gilmore & Walsh.)

THE UNLUCKY 13TH
Sunday was an unlucky day for some of the lads, and perhaps it was not because it was the thirteenth but because they did not observe the laws. Three appeared in county court Monday and plead guilty to the charge of speeding and were fined. They were H. Blair, E. Miner and W. Meyer.

Ed. Merriman and Lyman Martin are to appear Saturday to plead as to whether guilty or not to a charge of disorderly conduct. Herbert Reuter and Henry Meyer are under bond to appear at that time charged with misdemeanor, and there are others listed for the above.

ADVERTISED LETTER LIST

A company of militia is being organized at Hartington, and that causes us to wonder what has become of that big bunch of terrorists that were so quietly told about last winter, when a move was started to organize the entire state to fight something that seems to have ceased to exist.

Mrs. Earl Lewis went to Thurston the last of the week to visit her father, B. F. McDonald, who is seriously ill at his home. In that place, with little hope held out for his recovery. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald have frequently visited at Wayne and have numerous acquaintances here to whom this will be sad news.

Winside people decided not to celebrate this year. Summer weather was so long coming that no one really had time to begin to make ready for celebration July 4th until it was so late that time for preparation was too limited. The weather man certainly gave no warning by the weather that the Fourth time was near.

Mrs. E. B. Rose, of Glennrock, Wyoming was a Wayne visitor Saturday morning, while on her way from Hartington, where she had been called to settle her father's estate. She tells us that in many parts of that vicinity oil is the great thing—that from her home she can count more than two hundred wells, and yet it looked good to see green trees and meadows and grain fields.

Winside has started to organize a volunteer fire fighting team. It is a move in the right direction, for nothing is more beneficial to a community in time of need than a well-organized fire team—but the insurance companies do not recognize any such efficiency for their benefit with any rate reduction, tho they are perhaps the greatest beneficiaries of any measure by the citizens of a place to organize to successfully fight back the fire fiend. While they save an individual some loss frequently, they save the insurance people as a whole many a loss. When they organize a team of fire fighters, they should organize a community to fight increasing insurance rates.

J. W. Tenbrink and some assistants came from Battle Creek Friday to put in about 12,000 feet of tile for Roy Pearson, northwest of Wayne.

When this work is completed it is safe to assume that Mr. Pierson will have practically added many acres of good land to his farm—land which may have been of little value, properly tile drained, will become some of the best and most productive on the place.

Miss Vila Taylor who was visiting at the home of Mrs. Roy Ireland returned to her home at Randolph Monday.

W. O. Hanssen and son Clarence went to Holstein, Iowa, Saturday on their annual trip to be present with others of the family on his mother's birthday. Mrs. Hanssen passed her 83d milestone. Gus Hanssen drove from Randolph, and joined his brother at Sioux City. Each year as many of the family as possible go home to celebrate mother's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jens Jensen, and a boy friend, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hargan and sons, Raymond and Charles, and C. W. McHenry, from southeast of Wayne picniced at the river between Wisner and Pilger last Sunday. They report a good time and the ice cream served at Mr. Jensen's after they came back was very much enjoyed by all.

George Peters had a car of fat cattle on the market the first of the week, being in to charter a car Saturday afternoon. A number of our feeders are richer now than they would have been had it been possible to secure a car just when needed—for cattle have gone up some. But others claim to have lost money for the same reason, cars not being available when the price was dropping daily. Meantime the packers continue to put prices up or down as best pleases them, it seems.

Who Wants an Imitation?

WOULD you call on your local merchant and ask him for "imitation" sugar, or raisins, or coffee? Would you ask him to sell you a pair of shoes made of something "just as good" as leather? Or a suit of clothes "made for" a man, whether or not it fits you?

People who write articles which are very apt to cause a publisher to become defendant in a suit for slander should at least sign their name as a protection to the publishers, if not for publication. Some people appear to think a newspaper should use any little squib sent in whether they know it to be true or not—or whether or not they know who wrote it. Many a good news item is lost because its author lacks the courage to let his identity be known.

There are some strange things happen in a print shop. One man will tell you that it does not pay to advertise, because they do not read the paper. But if it happen, as did last week, that the market is quoted too high, by five cents a pound, the buyers tell us that they have a hard time making people believe it was the printer's mistake. We suggest that they make their advertisement a market report, then it might be read. We were sorry the mistake occurred, and it was unfair to the buyers as well as the sellers, if they were induced to bring produce to market they would not otherwise have brought.

Telephone Equipment Shortage Is Becoming Serious

There is a world-wide scarcity of raw materials, especially wood, paper and metals. These products are very essential in the manufacture of telephone supplies.

This shortage of material, in addition to the steadily increasing demand for telephone service, is making it impossible for the factories to meet promptly the need for telephone instruments, wire, switchboard parts and other equipment.

Every effort is being made to take care of the telephone requirements of our patrons as quickly as possible, but because of existing conditions we may not be able to change or install equipment without considerable delay.

Please let us know as far in advance as possible when you want a telephone installed or if a change in your equipment is desired.

Results Count on the Farm

The ability of your tractor to deliver unremitting, full-powered service—to make possible bigger crops with less labor—in short, to give you results that count—depends, to a large extent, upon proper lubrication. Our Tractor Oils will keep your tractor running strongly and smoothly throughout the year.

Our Tractor Oils are not affected by high engine heats. They maintain, under all conditions, exactly the right body to seal in compression, kill friction and lessen wear. They are the best insurance against the motor troubles which keep tractors from becoming really profitable investments.

Our experts have made a study of the tractor lubricating problem. They have found STANOLIND TRACTOR OIL best suited to a majority of tractors, Polarine Extra Heavy, Polarine Heavy and Polarine being recommended for quite a number. For the proper oil to use in your tractor—consult your Stanolind dealer or write us.

More freight cars and less pleasure cars is a slogan now being sent out.

According to the Madison Star-Mail which is an organ of the progressives of Madison county, and perhaps a larger part of the Third district, there was some difficulty in securing a hall for the Mills meeting at Norfolk last week Tuesday.

On to San Francisco is the cry now from millions of people who are looking hopefully for some relief from the prospect presented at Chicago of a continuation of the do-nothing policy of a republican congress. It is a democratic opportunity, and should be taken.

It now looks as though there will be two republican party tickets in the field again this fall in an effort to defeat the democrats. We do not think they can defeat the democrats, even if they divide into three parties—and there appears to be at least that many kinds of republicans. They failed last time when they tried it with two parties.

Elkhorn river floods in the vicinity of Neligh are said to have been the worst known in the history of the white man in that vicinity, and when the "oldest inhabitant" admits as much it is time to make newspaper mention of the fact.

In raising interest rate, making money cost more, the bankers tell us that it is done to make other commodities cheaper. Not Wayne bankers, but bankers from some other towns are reporting that to the newspapers.

Editor VanDeusen of the Blair Pilot confesses that he digs out copy for his editorial page Sundays. Perhaps that accounts for the merit of his writings and selections. On economic questions he has some very good Sunday thoughts.

When congress adjourned early this month in order to play politics this summer, here are a few things they left unfinished—no, a few is not correct—many things:

The minimum wage bill will roll on the shelf.

So does the soldiers' bonus bill.

So does the bill to establish a permanent merchant marine policy.

Nothing will be done with labor legislation suggested by the A. F. of L. and others.

The measure to levy tax upon stock dividends, to make up revenue losses sustained through a supreme court decision, will not be considered.

None of the laws asked for by farmers' organizations will be enacted or refused.

All the unfinished business—and the senate never had more unfinished business after a six months session—is being held over.

In its fight on the nonpartisan league in this state the New Nebaskan does not seem to discriminate between the acts of some of the members of the league for which they have been convicted by the courts and the laws passed in North Dakota by the league legislature—laws which the supreme court of the United States says are sound and constitutional. A good church may have some bad members, but the church should not be condemned for that reason—if they try to reform them or get them out. The United States senate retains a seat for a man, under sentence of a crime, a criminal of the worst type, and that does not necessarily make all of the work of the senate bad—but it is bad enough—and he has not been pardoned by the president—and probably will not be pardoned by the present administration; but there is no telling what another president might do.

We Fit These Free of Charge.

Hardly any two are alike

Dainty Dresses of Gingham and Silk Tissues for Afternoon and House Wear

$5 for the Finer Gingham up to

$10 for the Dainty Silk Tissues

Dozens of pretty styles and all sizes up to 46 to choose from

Fake Sales

The late epidemic of special sales put on by stores in a few of the larger cities for the purpose as they advertised them of furnishing clothes to "an oppressed and suffering American public," is now over.

Just as we predicted in this space three weeks ago, these sales were really put on to dispose of a lot of ready-to-wear left over on account of a backward spring and to make the reductions look genuine, some staple merchandise was included for leaders.

The public who were led to believe by the advertising that all merchandise was to be sold at a big discount were fooled as usual, and paid full price for the things they really needed. One big store who stated they were able to sell everything at thirty per cent discount because the market was down and they could replace the goods at a lower price now, admit they were mistaken and that their buyers are now paying increased prices for goods.

Another big store advertised that his neighbor had marked his goods up before he marked them down and that his discount prices were no cheaper than regular prices. The lesson to be learned from these sales is good stuff to remember when reading the advertising of all city stores who are always holding sales at all times of the year under names they invent, such as Anniversary Sales, Stock Reducing Sales, Removal Sales, Mill End Sales, Etc., Namely—no store can be continually giving these discounts unless they mark their goods high enough in the first place to cover all these reductions and still leave a good profit. They have to have a profit to pay expenses the same as every business and their continued discount sales are not genuine, but are advertising stunts put on as an appeal to the human instinct we all possess for "getting something for nothing" or "below the usual price."

You will find the stores who priced their goods right in the first place and who conduct genuine clearing sales of unsold merchandise at the end of the season the safest place to trade the year around. Your home stores are run on this plan, as are almost all smaller town stores.

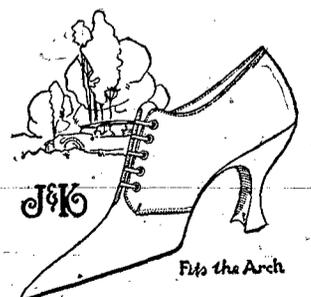

In addition to fair prices at all times, they are willing at the end of the season to make a genuine reduction on such goods as are apt to go out of style.

They do business at less expense than the city stores and are contented with a reasonable profit. Anything you buy is guaranteed satisfactory and your home merchant is right on the spot to make good. The safe, economical, all-the-year-round place to trade is at home.

MORE NEW PUMPS AND TIES

The exclusive, dressy, neat fitting low shoes that the short skirts make necessary if one's feet are to look trim and well shod.

They don't get out of shape or skuff because the materials and workmanship are the very best to be had. Both low and high models, in black, brown and white. A complete range of sizes from AA to EEE. Priced reasonably and fitted properly.

Fits the Arch

For the Girls

Columbus, O., June 14—According to information reaching the presidential campaign headquarters of Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, former Democratic supporters of Herbert Hoover in many parts of the country are switching to Cox.

Attention is called to newspaper dispatches from the states of Washington and Colorado to this effect, supported by editorial comment in Republican papers of California, and further by a communication from H. M. McDonald, prominent Los Angeles, Calif., business and real estate man and Democratic leader of that state.

In a letter to E. H. Moore, manager of Cox's campaign, Mr. McDonald said:

"With Mr. Hoover eliminating himself as a Democratic candidate, I find that Hoover supporters in the Pacific coast states are swinging toward Governor Cox. Many Hoover Clubs had been formed in this section of the country, especially in California and Washington, including Democrats who looked upon Hoover as being best fitted for the presidency by reason of his vast business experience."

To Keep American Ships on the Seas

For the first time since the Civil War we have a real merchant marine. It cost us $3,000,000,000 to get it.

The farmer, manufacturer, laborer—every American is interested in holding our position on the seas.

As a first step in this direction it is necessary to modify those articles of existing commercial treaties which have operated to thwart the upbuilding of our merchant marine—

By giving the notice of termination for which the several treaties provide.

This action is directed in the constructive Shipping Bill now before Congress;

Which declares it to be the policy of the United States "to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage" a merchant marine.

This policy deserves the support of every American.

Lacking this support the present effort to maintain our merchant marine may suffer the fate of many ineffective attempts of the past.

Send for a copy of "For an American Merchant Marine."

JUNIOR FARMERS AND HOME MAKERS REWARDED

One hundred and twenty-seven boys and girls, representing every section of the state, were entertained by the Nebraska College of Agriculture May 31 to June 5 in what is known as the annual boys and girls club week. All were boys and girls who excelled in farming, stock raising or home making, while members of clubs. Their ages ranged from 12 to 18 years. Half of the week was spent in instruction in automobiles, tractors, crops and livestock, or training in cooking, sewing and other household arts. The afternoons were devoted to sight seeing and educational trips about Lincoln. One day was spent in Omaha, the Commercial Club of that city providing a special train and entertaining the future farmers in royal style.

The Democrat—only $1.50. All the home news, all the time. And we put out job work that pleases.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Clyde Oman and Francis Jones are said to have left the first of the week for Stuart on a fishing trip.

F. M. Griffith went to Omaha Tuesday evening with a couple of cars of good cattle from his farm north of Wayne.

Mrs. G. A. Dodge who was visiting relatives at Magnet returned to her home at Kansas Friday. Her mother, Mrs. Amanda Glozier accompanied her.

Monday evening papers told that this country had been fortunate in securing 14,000 tons of sugar at a price which would permit it to be sold at about 15c the pound, and we were about to send in an order for our part, when we stopped to figure a bit, and found out that if prorated according to population the editor's family would be entitled about one pound, and we were afraid our 15 cents would be lost in the shuffle.

J. R. Armstrong left Wayne Tuesday morning for Eagle City, Oklahoma, for an outing. He has a brother living near that place and he has a great wheat field ready for the harvest, and the Professor is going to take a hand in the game, expecting to run a binder and a threshing engine—even if he does nothing shocking. It makes a fine vacation for one who has been shut in for the greater part of the year, and it will help knock the h. c. of l.

Burr Cunningham from Bloomfield was visiting Wayne friends at the station Monday morning, while on his way to visit relatives and friends at Omaha. Our informant did not say whether or not he was going to attend the meeting of bankers there this week. Perhaps so. Tuesday morning Ex-Mayor Harnes from that place was a passenger to Omaha, having taken a vacation from his farm long enough to go to Omaha, as a banker. He was talking good government and Americanism while waiting train here.

These are busy days for the fellows who throw horseshoes at a peg back of the Crowell elevator office. It never seems too hot or too cold or too wet or too dry for a game to be there—unless it be at meal time. If these fellows would be as faithful to their garden as they appear to be to the game, they might raise a garden that would equal that of John Morgan, who has reformed, and has the nicest and cleanest garden we have seen this season. Gents, take a lesson from John, and you will then have a good garden and a bit of time for fishing.

TRAINING SCHOOL (From the Goldenrod)

One hundred seventy-five students are observing work in the four departments of the Training School. The demonstration work in the kindergarten is in charge of Miss Stocking, Miss Abelson, and Miss Gordon. Miss Hill has charge of the work in the fourth and fifth grades and Mrs. Walsworth demonstrates in the sixth and seventh grades. The observation classes started their work Wednesday in as regular a fashion as though the school had been running for months.

The attendance of the Training School is the regular attendance for the year. Every seat is occupied and by the same pupils that occupied them all year. There is no difference between the summer school and the regular school for the year. This is surely the realization of an ideal situation. It means that the children are going right on with their year's work without any break between the winter and summer terms. Every day of the summer school means progress for the children. It also means that the demonstration work is done under natural school conditions.

Superintendent Hahn of the Training School had enough applications from pupils outside to start a second school almost as large as the one he has. Parents are beginning to realize the advantage of an additional two months of schooling.

FARMERS TRYING NEW FORAGE CROPS

Twenty-three Richardson county farmers are experimenting with soybeans. Some of them are growing them for the seed but most of them wish to try them as hog feed. Soybeans have appeared profitable in some sections of the state, either as a hay crop or for hog pasture. They are high in feeding value and yields of a ton and a half to two tons to the acre are not unusual in eastern Nebraska. When cut for hay they should be harvested when the pods are well formed and before the leaves begin to fall.

OLD MAGAZINES AND PAPERS

Now have a little value, enough to pay me for taking your old ones out of your way, though I cannot promise any pay. If you have some you wish to get out of the way, do not burn them, but see me or call phone Red 234 and I will save them from being wasted and you the trouble of destroying—Sam Davies, the News-dealer.

SPUR Cigarettes

HERE is the topmost cigarette—the highest point of smoking enjoyment and satisfaction—the SPUR CIGARETTE. Studied "from the ground up"—in seed, soil, plant and culture. Studied in blending, studied in making, studied in packing. Spurs are blended in a new way from American and Oriental tobaccos, bringing out to the full that good old-time tobacco taste. The satiny imported paper is crimped, not pasted, making an easier-drawing, slower-burning cigarette.

You'll approve of the smart brown and silver packet, three-fold, that preserves Spur's taste and fragrance.

DO NOT PROCRASTINATE

What is the real mission of the Chiropractor?

It is to prevent the occurrence of disease. The inference is that if one's vertebrae were always kept in proper relation and alignment by Chiropractic adjustment, all disease would be prevented. One great fault with the American people of this day and age is that they are too fond of "Procrastination."

"Procrastination" has been truly named the "Thief of Time." How often have you made up your mind to get up at a certain hour so that you could have an early start at some particular work? When the hour came, your bed was so warm and comfortable that you have turned over on your side and enjoyed another forty winks. Your intention to get an early start did not materialize and everything that day went awry at the office. So it is with your health. You wait until your frame is wrecked with pain and proceed to some medical man who makes a guess as to what ails you and fills your system with some more poison.

"A stitch in time saves nine." Call upon your Chiropractor. Get him to make a Spinal Analysis and give you an adjustment. It will do you no harm and will do you good.

Most of you make regular trips to the dentist's office, all of you who have musical instruments in your homes see to it that they are regularly tuned. Why not pay as much attention to your own body which, a wonderful piece of mechanism, needs and deserves to be taken care of systematically and often? See your Chiropractor today.

Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.

PUBLICITY AS A REMEDY

It seems that publicity is a cure for many ills. We find that publicity of campaign contributions and the use to which they were put is given as a cause for the defeat in the republican national convention of the candidates who went into the convention with more instructed delegates than any others. When a man and his rich friends cough up a million dollars for a job that would pay but $300,000 for the full term—no not for the job, but just for a faint prospect of getting it, it does not look like good wholesome financing—unless there is something in the background. And that something would undoubtedly mean many millions taken from the people in some manner. Of course, it is evident that the same gang that instigated the giving are back of the man nominated, but it so happened that he was not caught with the goods. Publicity did much to procure a sentence which, when put in force, will land Senator Newberry of Michigan in a federal prison. And just now publicity of the facts places the majority party in the U. S. Senate in the contempt of all honest people for permitting a convicted criminal to retain his seat in that body, supposed to represent the different states of the Union.

For a year past the police of New York city has been suppressing publicity of crime on the theory that such publicity helped to make more crime and more criminals only to find that the criminal thrives best when the light of publicity is not turned on.

AT SOUND IN THE NIGHT

Nothing So Very Terrible, but at Least Henry Found Out Just What Caused It.

It certainly was a strange sound—even though at midnight all sounds are strange. Mrs. Meekton nudged her husband hard.

"Henry," she whispered, loudly, "wake up at once, and go downstairs! It sounds like burglars!"

"Yes, my dear," replied Henry, nervously. "But I don't—"

"If you don't go at once," stated his better half, "I will go myself!"

"I shall certainly go, Maria," Henry said with dignity; then he added, "if I hear it again."

"No, go now," ordered Maria, "or I shall shriek for the police, and tell them that you made no attempt to capture the thieves!"

"Very well," replied Henry, through trembling lips; "but let me kiss you and the baby before I go, and when he grows up tell him that his brave daddy jumped out of bed one bitter night and boldly attacked several armed burglars and fought with them till he was overpowered and—"

"O-o-o-h, Henry, there it is again! Go at once!" yelled Maria, giving him a mighty push.

And Henry went downstairs, trembling violently. Cautiously opening the kitchen door he turned on the electric light—and found the kitten playing with baby's india-rubber ball.

TO TEACH BLIND TO DRAW

English Idea Is That Art May Help the Sightless to Communicate With Outside World.

One of the many experiments of the Royal Drawing society has been to teach people to draw by touch. The pupil is blindfolded and feels a simple shape, like a hammer or a spade, and draws it with his eyes open. An advanced pupil has drawn the head of a classical bust and the mask of Beethoven.

These experiments fired Mr. C. B. Ablett, the director of the society, with the idea of drawing by the blind. He has devised a medium which looks like the frosted stuff on a matchbox made liquid, by which the draughtsman can follow by touch what he has drawn and correct or add to his work. So far there have been no experiments with a blind pupil.

Mr. Ablett does not claim for it more than that a blind man can draw the plan or a design of something he wishes to record and explain. A blind gardener has been known to go into ecstasies over the unfolding shapes of a plant, and the drawing of these shapes, known to him by touch would undoubtedly give him a form of esthetic pleasure. In any case, it would increase his means of communicating with the outside world.

A great boon, if the method is practicable, would be that it would enable the blind to write and to read writing.—Manchester Guardian.

Alplanes Will Aid Mining.

It is predicted that the airplane and the dirigible will prove a great stimulus to the mining industry in presenting a means of getting material and men to and from locations which are known to be rich with ore and which are at the present time inaccessible. There are many such places known to exist, but the cost of building a roadway to them would be so great as to be prohibitive. Attention to this phase of the subject has been recently attracted by a report made by Doctor Lyon, supervisor of the mining stations for the United States bureau of mines. By this means a regular communication could be maintained with sections which are not to be reached by any ordinary means. It is also suggested that the same means might be of great value for getting rescue apparatus to the scene of mining disasters.

Where Big Industry Began.

The dilapidated old shack, still standing at Eastport, Me., is of interest by reason of its being the starting place of the great American sardine industry.

The experiment of converting the small herring into the canned sardine was tried out in this factory, built for that purpose by Julius Wolf, a Russian, and other New York promoters nearly forty years ago. At that time the picturesque weirs, in which the fish are seined, usually joined the factory property.

From its birth, in this small factory, sardine canning has developed to almost the chief industry on the Maine coast, employing thousands of skilled workers each season, and has placed Eastport on the map as one of the most important fishing ports in the country.

Locomotive Rolled Over.

After a storm that buried the New England coast in snow last March, passengers on a railroad line through Rhode Island were amazed to observe a locomotive standing upright in a swampy brook that runs under the right of way at one point. The engine started out with a snowplow to clear the track, but jumped the rails at the brook trestle, the plow going one way and its motive power the other. Confronted, then, by the problem of removing the new obstruction, and not caring to devote three engines to getting one back on the track, the rail men cut the Gordian knot by rolling the big locomotive down the embankment. Despite the slide and plunge, it finished right side up.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SISTERS BOTH

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

Babbette's one-room cottage nestled at the side of the hill. Its floor was as clean as white sand could make it, and where the crisp folds of muslin curtain parted in the window a potted plant showed a cheery crimson flower. In fact everything about Babbette was cheery, her own bright face the sunniest thing of all. Her grandfather in leaving the cottage forever, bestowed it upon Babbette, remembering the years that she had ministered unto him, repaying his loving care of her childhood. They had been very happy, these two, and when Gene came that had but added to the happiness.

For with Gene's coming love entered the pure heart of the little maid, and grandfather was relieved of his lonely fears concerning her future.

Babbette earnestly searched her heart and found that there was nothing she would not sacrifice for this man she loved; and it was after she had begun to sew the long seams of her marriage linen that Babbette became aware of her lover's silent attitude and asked the cause.

"It's no use, Babbette," he burst out passionately. "I can't go on with this humdrum life."

The little maid stared unbelievably into the man's shamed, restless face, then smiled her trusting smile.

"If it is so," she said, "and you must go, Gene, then how will you do it?"

"I have already a buyer for my place," he answered eagerly, and Babbette sighed, that his plans had all been made.

"When I paint the pictures," Gene comforted, "then I will come back for you, Babbette, and you shall not live humbly as you do now." But when she had kissed him good-by Babbette went into her shining kitchen and touched her cheek to the flower in the window.

"It is so, that I would live," she breathed, troubled. She now wove her dreams about the letters which came, at first plentifully, then few and far between, from Gene in the city. And though Babbette went about her daily tasks, she did not sing any more, for before the final cruel letter came she had known with love's instinct what it would be.

"I'm sorry," Gene wrote, "that I'm not sure of myself any more, Babbette, nor even sure of my love for you. Don't you think we'd better not be betrothed, you and I—but wait and see how things turn out? There's a girl here—"

Babbette folded the letter and put it carefully in the linen chest. It was Gene's writing and it might be the last she would have from him.

So summer passed, and fall, with no word from Gene. And then, the surprise of his handwriting upon a broad envelope caused her aching heart to stop almost its beating. Gene was ill. He thought she ought to know. There would be no one to tell her if he should not get better. He wanted her to know that he realized now her worth. The other girl who had been kind fled, he said, when it was made known that he, too, had succumbed to the infectious disease which was sweeping the land. She lived in the artist's building, close to him. Had she loved him, of course she would not have gone without a word. And he—was a failure. The masters gave him no promise. His money was all gone. There was even little food. Abruptly Gene ended his letter, "good-by."

Babbette reached the great strange city next day. It had been hard to part with Mab, the cow, but grandfather's friend paid for her sufficient money to tide Babbette over her journey. And when she reached the rambling building where Gene really lived, she sat bewildered on the stair which led to the students' rooms.

"I don't know," she said to a chic pretty girl who started to pass, "where I shall find Gene Martinet."

The pretty girl sat down on the step at Babbette's side.

"You are—his sister?" she asked kindly.

"I was his fiancée," Babbette answered in her honest way, "until Gene went away and met—that other girl. If she had loved him I would have given him to her. But he is ill, and because of fear, the girl has gone away. So—I came. I am Babbette."

The pretty girl smiled, then suddenly tears filled her eyes.

"So you came," she softly repeated, "and you are Babbette!" Impulsively she put her arm through the little maid's. "I will take you to Gene's door," she offered, and there—paused. "I hope that you will be happy," the girl said, "and I hope that he will be worthy of your love."

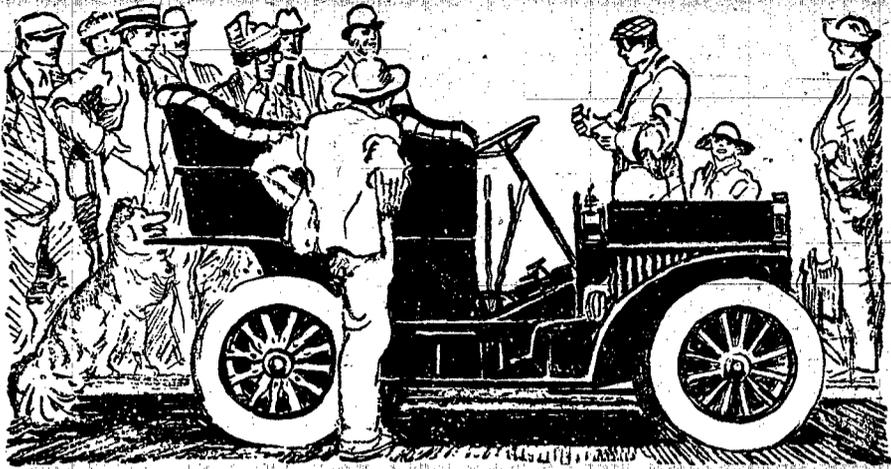

She waited to see Babbette's face glorified as she passed through the door, then the pretty girl opened an opposite door and entered a studio where sat another young woman.

"You return post haste from your unexpected trip upon learning of your adorer's illness," the young woman teased. "Are you going to offer him your devoted services, Martinet?"

"Lols," the pretty girl answered seriously. "You are not to tell Gene that I was called away—or that I have returned. That chapter is closed."

"Quarrelled?" asked her friend.

"I met a little white-faced sister the hall," the pretty girl murmured dreamily, then she smiled.

They used to call a man a "sport" when he bought an automobile

THAT was before the days when pretty nearly everybody owned one—or could, if he wanted to.

There was a lot of waste about motoring in those days. A man spent a lot of money on his car and never thought very much about what he was getting in return.

When a man buys a tire nowadays he has a pretty definite idea of what he expects to get out of it.

The dealer who sells him one that gives him less than he expects isn't likely to get any more of his business.

That's one of the reasons why we handle U. S. Tires—and recommend them to the motorists of this community.

The U. S. reputation for quality is not built on any one tire.

There is not one standard for large U. S. Tires and another standard for small ones.

Every tire that bears the name "U. S." is built the best way its makers know how to build it. The oldest and largest rubber concern in the world cannot afford to play favorites in seeking its public.

Come in and tell us what you are looking for in tires.

We can probably tell you whether you need a U. S. Nobby, Chain, Usco, Plain, or a Royal Cord.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cord.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN MONTANA ARE BEST IN UNITED STATES

New York, May 24.—Montana has the best all-round public school system in the United States, according to the Department of Education of the Russell Sage Foundation, which announced today the results of a comparative study of state school systems. Second place is assigned to the schools of California; third to Arizona; fourth to New Jersey and fifth to Washington. New York State is thirteenth, South Carolina is at the bottom, Missouri is thirty-fourth in the list, while Illinois occupies the twenty-fourth place. Dr. Leonard P. Ayres, director of the department, is the author of the report, which is entitled, "An Index Number for State School Systems."

He found the efficiency of the American school system had doubled in the last fifty years, having had an index rating of twenty-six in 1870 and fifty-two in 1920. This means the school system today is only 52 per cent effective.

The West has been coming up educationally during the last thirty years, the report shows while the East has been going down. Utah has made the greatest gain, while to Maryland is attributed the greatest falling off in relative standing. In the East New Jersey is the only state that has gained, while in the West California has the best average high record.—Daily Express.

"Well, then," asked the teacher, "how does your mother earn a living?"

"Why," replied the little girl, "she gets paid for staying away from pa."

Quality In Flour Means More Than Words Can Tell

Good results means a production of bread in which the housewife takes particular pride; bread for which apologies are not necessary; bread that pleases "hubby"; bread filled with energy that puts back in the body the food and fuel consumed by a hard days work. Good flour means as much to the housewife as does a perfect working plow or an automobile to the husband. Would you put kerosene in your gasoline because its cheaper? No. Then why not be particular regarding the quality of flour you put in flour bin? Flours of real quality cost less, in reality. They make more loaves of bread—they create a piece of mind and body on baking day. Men! Would you deliberately buy a cultivator that would not scour, something to "drag" your horses, make you cuss and swear and produce poor results, because you could save a couple of dollars? You men folks want the best. There are flours that do not "scour", you can buy them for a trifle less. Be fair, your wife really wants and deserves flour of high quality but she fails to assert herself. Be fair, make the same rule apply to husband and wife. Buy Lincoln or My Kind flours of known quality and never fail to please.

Mrs. Robert Pratt and children leave this afternoon to spend the summer months with home folks at Minneapolis, and the preacher looks a trifle lonesome.

Mrs. William Von Seggern entertained at Kensington Tuesday from 3 to 6. Tables and chairs were arranged on the porch where a delicious two course luncheon was served, about 40 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Teckberg and their daughter, Helen, came from Wahoo the last of the week to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Perry, father to the lady, for a time. Mr. T. returned home Monday, but the wife and daughter are remaining for a longer visit.

Dr. and Mrs. A. Naffsiger from Merrill, Iowa, were at Wayne a short time Tuesday afternoon, the doctor having been called in consultation with the local physician at the bedside of Mrs. A. N. Matheny, one of the doctor's former patients when he was practicing here, who is said to be quite seriously ill.

The Central Social Circle met with Mrs. John Gettman last Thursday afternoon. The business meeting occupied the entire afternoon and following officers were elected: Mrs. Fred Wendt was elected president, Mrs. John Grier was re-elected vice-president, Mrs. John Bush was re-elected secretary, and treasurer. Hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wright, once residents of Wayne, who now call Westington, South Dakota, their home, spent the night here Tuesday while on their home trip from California, where they spent the winter sight seeing. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hyatt while here, and Bert says that they like California well enough that they are going back to South Dakota, to sell their effects, settle up, and move to Panna, or some near by California town. Mr. and Mrs. Wright spent several weeks here last fall while on their way west, visiting among their many Wayne friends.

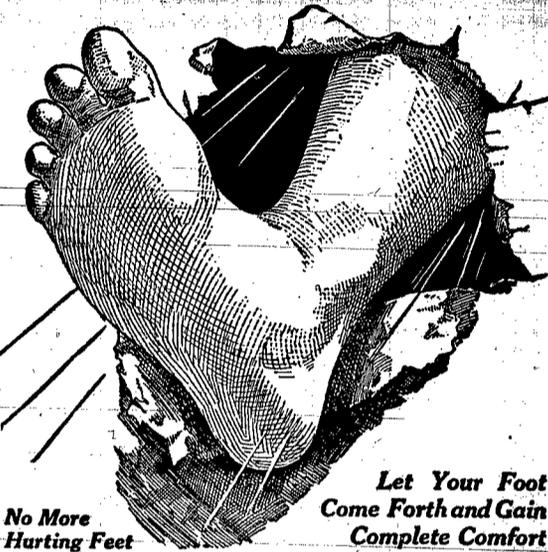

A. R. Davis, home from Chicago, where he was a delegate to the republican national convention, tells us that he had a great time, and enjoyed it much, but expressed the opinion that one round would perhaps satisfy his desire for and curiosity for that form of recreation. He said that it was nice to be where one could see and hear so many men of national reputation. He admired General Wood more than any other, we judge from his talk. He heard the "Key-note" speech of Lodge, and of course some if not all of the nominating speeches. Of the crowd he said, imagine the entire population of this county in one building at one time—and that was about the number present at the sessions.

STOLEN ECONOMIC HINTS

Big-Little Sugar Savers

Add a small pinch of soda to fruits containing much acid and use less sugar.

Combine sweet dried fruits such as raisins, apricots, figs, etc., with sour fruits like rhubarb, cherries, berries, etc., and much less sugar is needed.

Dried fruits cooked as follows need very little, if any, sugar: Wash well, cut in small pieces, cover with water and soak over night; simmer until well done in this juice.

Use fresh fruits for desserts. Sweeten berries and fresh fruits with a sugar sirup and save much sugar that does not dissolve readily the old way.

When it is necessary to make a cake, such cakes as angel food, jelly-roll, molasses cakes or sponge cakes need no icing.

Marshmallow icing calls for very little sugar.

Less Sugar With Rhubarb

Rhubarb cooked in this manner does away with the strong acid taste, besides saving half the amount of sugar and is fine for pie or shortcake. Wash and cut rhubarb fine, cover with cold water, let come to the boiling point over a slow fire, drain, add half the amount of sugar usually used, stir, steam or bake until done.
