AUTOMOBILE AND TRACTOR BUMP TOGETHER

A thousand cars from Wayne and near by territory went to a point about three miles north of Wayne on the Federal Highway Sunday to see what might happen to any one of the many reckless, indifferent automobile people who disregard the traffic laws, which are none too stringent.

One of the worst wrecks seen anywhere was on exhibition there, and the only wonder is that no one was killed. Harry McIntosh, headed south with a Fordson tractor trailing a load of corn had stopped at the roadside and Jess Randol with an automobile had left his car the other side of the track and gone over to talk with McIntosh. Cars were coming and going, and passing between tractor and car, but some say that the room was rather narrow.

Harry Haas and Levine Johnson, each in a Nash were going out to select a bit of track over which to pull off a race that afternoon between one of the Nash cars and a Chevrolet, a two mile race being planned. Haas was in the lead when they came to this particular spot, and cleared the car and the tractor. Johnson, following, saw the car thru the dust of the other car, but did not see the tractor; and struck it a pretty square shot, it would appear, throwing both boys from the machine and making a bad cut on the Randol boy's leg besides many other cuts and bruises. McIntosh escaped with less injury, but suffered a number of bruises, but is able to again be at work. The Randol lad is reported to be resting well, and no broken bones to mend, but a cut which may lay him up for some months, and possibly leave him somewhat crippled.

Mr. Johnson escaped better than one would think possible when they see what his car did to the tractor and the wagon following. Johnson came out almost without a scratch. His car was turned almost square about and stopped on the opposite side of the road. The radiator, windshield and running board on one side were demoralized, but we are told that the engine was in running condition. But the frame of the machine which evidently stood the brunt of the blow is said to be in bad shape.

The tractor will need a new one, we would think, to make it any good. The wheels were knocked off, and bent, the casing was stripped from it, and a part of the internal gearing was scattered about the roadway, while the oil like its heart-blood stained the earth all about. The wagon was also sadly wrecked, one wheel being stripped of all spokes, leaving the hub and rim entirely separated, and another wheel broken.

We are not going to say who was in fault, nor fix the damages, nor say who shall pay, for it is evident that a strict observation of traffic laws and real precaution on the part of all participants would have averted the accident. Costly as it is in money for some one, it is a cheap lesson to the community if it be heeded so as to save future trouble and loss of life.

MAIER-SCHROER

Miss Louise Schroer and Arthur L. Maier were married at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at the bride's home, 206 Phillip avenue, Rev. E. J. T. Connelly, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. The ring ceremony was used. Miss Schroer was attended by Miss Schaff and Mr. Maier by Earl Schroer, best man. The bride was gowned in blue silk and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid carried red carnations. Sweetpeas were used freely in decorating the rooms.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Maier left for Stanley, Wis., where they will go on a farm. Mr. Maier has been employed here in an automobile establishment and Miss Schroer has been employed by the Nebraska Telephone Company.

Miss Schroer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schroer. They are well known in Wayne, her parents lived here for a number of years. Mrs. Maier also attended the public schools here and is well known and has a host of friends.

CRADLE

BECKER—Tuesday, June 23, 1920, to Gordon Becker and wife, a daughter.

DEATH OF ENGINEER

JACK MUNRO

Monday morning Jack Munro, of Bloomfield, was transferred here to the Sioux City train enroute to a hospital there for an operation for bowel obstruction, but he failed to reach the destination. He suddenly died as the train was pulling into Wakefield and the body was returned on the next train. The accompanying physician says that the sudden termination of life must have been due to the rupture of some large blood vessel.

Many are the friends and acquaintances who will mourn the death of this old engineer, who for more than forty years had been in the employ of the Northwestern, and most of the time on this division. He is said to have fired the first engine putting a train into Bloomfield, and for the past 18 years has made that place his home. He had been in ill health for the past two or three years, and was pensioned about two years ago. Two winters he has passed in Florida, where he purchased a cottage for his winter use.

The funeral is to be held at Bloomfield this afternoon, conducted by the Masons, of which order he was long a member, and tomorrow morning the body will be taken by special train to Ft. Calhoun for burial in the family plot beside the bodies of father and mother. The burial ceremony will be in charge of the railway boys with whom he has worked so many years.

Jack Munro was 59 years of age, and the greater part of his life has been spent in the railway service, and died at his post as truly as the end had come while he was at the throttle, for he was traveling under orders to go for relief. He leaves a wife and one son and two sisters to mourn his death.

GOLF LINKS TO BE READY AGAIN SOON

The golf course of the Wayne Country Club will soon be ready for play again after the flood of the first of the month.

Several large work parties have been out this week raking away the trash and a new triple mower is now at work getting the grass down to some where near its normal height.

There is some talk that the regular opening of the club will be held July fifth with some sort of a picnic or celebration. The opening has already been postponed several times due to the activities of the weather man. The management of the club is exceedingly grateful to the many members of the club who have helped in attempting to restore the club to its former beauty. The golf greens are better this year than ever before.

HOSPITAL NOTES

In addition to regular patients the emergency ward came into use Sunday when three persons injured in an automobile wreck just this side of Laurel were brought here for treatment. A hospital in a town is a fine thing in a time like that for strangers who are not able to reach home for care.

Chas. Ross, of Laurel, underwent a major operation last Thursday. J. C. Dixon, from Lincoln, is taking x-ray treatment.

Robert Benson, from Pender, and Alfred Myers, from Allen, had tonsils and adenoids removed this week.

WHAT TO WEAR JULY FOURTH

That is a question which so frequently has to be considered by the ladies who contemplate a happy time that day of days, and this time the question is of easy solution, for I have received for sale on Friday and Saturday of this week a splendid line of new Georgetta Dresses which are truly in style, and can be sold these two days at $25.00 each. Come early for choice of dresses—for while all are big values and nice, some will please better than others—match your hat better, perhaps, or be of a shade more becoming to your complexion. This special shipment should please because of the specially low price and the high quality. Mrs. Jeffries.—adv.

THE DELIVERY PROBLEM

Our merchants and meat markets are finding it a problem just now, for so many streets are blocked by paving and preparatory work for the paving that some parts are almost inaccessible except by a wide detour. They say that orders must come earlier to insure delivery on time. A roast or boil should be ordered the night before, and all orders placed early in the morning, because where some deliveries may not be more than two or three blocks apart, a detour back to the business part of town is often necessary for the trip.

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

NEAR LAUREL

Sunday while coming from Hartington to catch a train four people were suddenly upset about three miles this side of Laurel, on the Federal Highway. A farmer, Mr. Carlensen, we believe, was driving from his place onto the highway, and seeing the approaching car going at high rate of speed, judged that he could not cross in front and get in the clear, stopped at the roadside, when it might have been better to have kept going. Evidently when seen by the driver of the approaching car, they that he was moving forward, and turned to pass behind his car, and this they could not do in safety, and struck the farmer's car besides going into the slight ditch at the roadside, turning their car completely over once, and some say twice. Both cars were badly damaged, and the people in the Hartington car were all injured except one boy, son of Mrs. Carbine. They were brought to the Wayne hospital where examination showed that Mrs. Wm. Carbine, of Hartington, had a broken arm and ribs; Jessie Rees, of Pilger, broken ribs; Jessie Rees, of Pilger, broken Bluffs, who was being brought to the train also had fractured ribs. The occupants of the other car were not seriously injured. Part of the injured people are able to leave the hospital.

The same day another accident happened on this popular highway, when a car of Laurel people, children mostly, tipped over, but all escaped injury.

IF COSTS ARE TO BE LOWERED

The Federal Reserve Board has postponed the drop in the high cost of living that many expected to follow sales in stores and other evidences, of price cutting. It explains that there has been only a slight increase in production and no greater disposition on the part of the public to economize and invest than heretofore.

Silk shirts apparently still run through at slightly lower price, and the disposition to work is not improved to any alarming extent. Everybody is still keeping up with the Joneses.

The board sees disturbing factors everywhere. The labor situation it calls one of doubt and difficulties, and it sees danger in cancellation of orders in the cotton and wool trade. It has, however been restricting credit and its efforts have reduced the volume of securities traded in which, however distressing to Wall Street cannot help but aid the country.

Boards, even with limited powers, cannot do everything. There are just two things that can right the financial balance of the country, things that every man must do for himself, two things that the board finds conspicuously absent. Men must work and men must save if the cost of living is to go down.

If they do not willingly work and save, history shows that something quite disagreeable comes along and makes them—Dearborn Independent.

ADULT EDUCATION

(Norfolk News)

It is interesting to learn that the term "Americanization" seems about to give way to one less offensive to the persons whom we try to put through the process. Since most of the immigrants to this country come with a sincere interest and trust in America, and are eager to become real Americans, the term which sets them apart as outsiders and strangers who must be completely altered before they are accepted as fellow citizens is thought to have done more harm than good. It has made them distrust the Americanization work in the first place, and has put them on their guard to defend their own traditions.

In one of our large cities having a very high percentage of foreign-born residents, the work of helping these newcomers to enter into American life fully and happily is to be called "adult education" hereafter instead of Americanization. Adult education may not be the most inspiring term which could be found, but at least it includes everybody who needs this special training. It includes the native-born illiterate as well as the foreign-born man or woman who needs only to learn American language, customs and ideals, and to receive the friendly welcome of native citizens.

The Ditts hearing, which was to have been last Saturday, is set for Friday before Judge Cherry. He is charged with unlawfully transporting intoxicating liquor. Two of the lads charged with disturbing the peace are to have a hearing Saturday.

PAVED DISTRICT GROWING LARGER

The work of paving is going forward daily and since the weather man has given a fortnight of good weather results appear to be increasing. The grading crew returned from Randolph Friday evening, and Monday morning began grading here again, this time completing a little work left unfinished in the second paving district and commencing on the first district work.

The work of laying base has been going steadily on as fast as the streets have been brought to grade and prepared for it, and now there are perhaps twenty or more blocks of base down, while the curb and gutter work is being kept well ahead of the base laying. From the north city limit the base extends to 10th street, and then to Pearl street, and it and the intersecting streets west of Main street are nearly all covered as far south as 6th street, with a street or two east of Main partly paved with concrete.

We are told that the brick will begin to arrive in about two weeks, when the work of finishing will commence to follow the concrete work.

The dredging for the outlet of the storm sewer has not been quite finished, as when just in sight of the end—but a day or two of work, we are told that the dredging machine suffered a relapse or a collapse, and that will mean a bit more delay in completing the outlet.

MANY ALUMNI ATTEND THE HOME COMING

(From the Goldenrod)
Friday morning the Alumni, two hundred or more of them, poured into Wayne, covered the campus, swarmed into the halls and class rooms and sent a thrill over the entire institution. By seven forty-five they were entering familiar classrooms and the instructor would stop the recitation to shout his delight and shake hands. It certainly must be "bully" to come back to Alma Mater on Home Coming Day. Elaborate preparations had been made by the president of the Association, Professor Charles R. Chinn, class of 1911, and arrangements for the convenience and comfort of all the welcome host were soon made.

At ten thirty the association met in the chapel for the annual roll call, the students and faculty all being present. Reverend J. W. Beard, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Wayne, read from the Scriptures and offered prayer. President Conn made the announcements and then Professor Chinn was introduced as master of ceremonies. In answer to roll call of classes, brief and witty responses were made by August Nordgren, '11, of Clarks; Irma James, '13, Wayne; Marguerite Chace, '14, Wayne, and W. J. Van Camp, '14, Winnetoon; Mary Monahan, '15, South Sioux City; Mary Mason, N. N. C. '97, Wayne; John Bieverlicht, '16, St. Charles, S. D., and Harold Boyce, '16, Wayne; Wm. Canning, '17, Verdel; Helena Baker, '18, Wayne and Anna Nielson, '18, Howells; F. J. Hirsch, '19, Winnetoon; and Mrs. Edith Sharp Johnson, N. N. C. '97, Plainview.

The roll call was an interesting experience for all, reminiscence, forecast, wit and seriousness mingling in just the right proportion. Promptly at noon the merry group gathered on the lawn about the President's house to enjoy the hospitality of President and Mrs. Conn at luncheon. The meal was served cafeteria style, the guests entering at the front and passing through the hall, dining room and kitchen, from the door of which they emerged laden each with a tray covered with dishes filled with nectar and ambrosia. The earthly names of this divine food are as follows: Meat loaf, potato salad, rolls, butter, jelly, radishes. After the guests were all seated, the presiding goddesses served coffee, ice cream and chocolate cake. Mrs. Conn was assisted by the following: Miss Stocking, Miss Burton, Miss Pierce, Mrs. Walsworth, Miss Dewey, Mrs. Brockway, Miss Hill and Mrs. Kohl.

The time immediately after luncheon was spent in visiting recitations, swimming in the fine pool in the gymnasium, or in renewing old acquaintances until three o'clock, when all gathered in the auditorium to listen to the unique program of music on the harp given by Madame Pauline DuClos. Madame DuClos played a long and difficult repertoire with a charm and finish that greatly interested her hearers. This entertainment was made possible by the Normal budget committee, who received much commendation for their thoughtful arrangement. The Normal Girls' Quartet of last year, all members of the 1920 graduating class, favored the audience with three selections during the intermission of Madame DuClos' recital.

Alumni Banquet
One hundred eighty guests were present at the annual banquet served in the calisthenium at 8:15 p. m. of the alumni home-coming day. Many graduates in attendance at the other exercises of the day were unable to remain for this occasion, but as it was the room was fairly filled with the gay company. There were representatives from every class beginning with 1911 and also several alumni who completed courses in the Nebraska Normal College.

Dr. J. T. House was master of ceremonies and in his half-serious, half-joking, yet altogether convincing and pleasing, manner introduced the speakers and the musicians who contributed to the success of the evening. Mr. Earl Schroer, class of 1916, extended the welcome to the 1920 class. He set forth the aspirations and ideals of the alumni association and expressed confidence in the class of 1920 to qualify for membership, asking that they give a part of their class spirit and loyalty to this bigger and more influential group.

Miss Virginia Bowen, young and capable member of this youngest class, responded to the welcome in a most gracious manner. She has glimpsed the significance of the organization and in her speech voiced the hopes of the class and the desire to prove worthy of the honor extended them at this time.

Miss Fern Oman, '16, and her sister Frances, '18, fully achieved the extravagant figure of speech with which Dr. House introduced them, singing like "eleven thousand forests of birds." Mrs. Oman accompanied at the piano, and the two selections were of splendid merit and beautifully executed. Miss Martha Dewey, of the extension department of the Normal, entertained the alumni with a very appropriate reading. Miss Dewey has been in the Normal only one year and the alumni of former years were delighted to have this opportunity to hear her.

Professor Willis C. Hunter, also unacquainted with the classes preceding that of this year, appeared on the program, executing with excellent technique and expression a violin selection. Professor C. E. Fouser, of the music department who came to the Normal at the opening of this summer session, accompanied at the piano. Members of the various classes were called upon at this time for one-minute speeches and, in concise, witty responses, they expressed their visions or their achievements as alumni of Wayne State Normal. The speakers who represented their classes and their alma mater were as follows: Gomer A. Jones, Carroll, N. N. C. alumnus, class of 1909; Jessie Watson, Wayne, class of 1919; Jesse Randol, Wayne, class of 1920; William J. Van Camp, Winnetoon, class of 1913; Edith Willey, Randolph, class of 1918.

The business meeting followed directly upon the close of the formal part of the program, the first matter considered being the adoption of the class of '20 into the circle. A little side play was brought in before vote was taken upon the motion to accept the class, when Earl Schroer, '16, stated that to satisfy his conscience he felt he must tell the association of things he had noticed concerning this class which in his opinion rendered it impossible as a candidate. The matter was hotly discussed, no member of '20, however, being permitted to address the chair, until Miss Piper, sponsor of the class, testified as to the powers and worthiness of the members, and upon her endorsement a unanimous vote was taken.

The election of officers was next considered and the following efficient members of the association will serve during the year 1920-21: President—Miss Margaret Schemel, '14. Vice President—Miss Elizabeth Mines, '18. Secretary—Miss Minnie Marquardt, '18. Treasurer—Rollie W. Ley, N. N. C. Alumnus.

THE HOME COMING

The banquet was served this year by the Women's Club of Wayne. The ladies planned the menu, prepared the viands and served the splendid banquet in an altogether satisfactory manner. They also supplied beautiful flower decorations for the room and tables, and are to be congratulated upon the general success of the undertaking. Following is the menu:

Escalloped Potatoes

Certain outstanding features of this Home Coming Day are worth noting. Never before in the history of the school has there been so large an attendance at this, the greatest occasion, after commencement, of the entire year. Never before were the loyalty, the courage, the enthusiasm, the "pep" and "go" of the alumni more apparent. Their faces shone with the inspiration of the occasion.

The generous hospitality of President and Mrs. Conn may not be passed by, nor the efficiency of Mr. Chinn and his co-officials in keeping "something doing" every instant. Lastly, let it not be forgotten that this largest alumni gathering in the history of the school met the largest body of students ever assembled on the campus.

Now the farmers are taking more interest in politics. This should not be. They should study economic questions and know what just measures they want and then organize to get them and not call it politics, but business.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Skinner and daughter Ida, Chris Rasmussen and Alfred Jensen, Mrs. Alta Shaffer and daughter Rosie, all from southeast of Wayne, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hargan and family east of Wayne.

C. E. Tweed, who went away from here a number of weeks ago suffering from rheumatism, came home last week. He has been at Hot Springs for a number of weeks taking treatment, and while not yet entirely free from rheumatism is able to be about and keep his shop open, but is not taking work.

Hogs or no hogs is the question the farmer hog grower has been asking himself as he came home from market some of these latter days without seeing much profit from his work. With corn around the $1.75 mark pork production costs much. But is it not possible to build a good quality of pork with some crop that is less expensive than corn? The soy pea is being tried in this state, and may help. Barley is said to make a good feed for the growing porker. A ration of this grain and a pasture of alfalfa or clover, with a corn finish, some say reduces first cost.

Some of the farmers are saying that they will retire from the hog growing business as quickly as they can make a turn of their investment—because the packers are not paying for the hog on foot what it costs to produce it, and if the farmer had to buy his ham and bacon, as some of them do, he would lose money both in buying and selling. Some farmers ship their hogs and buy their cured meats, which might be improved upon, we think. If more farmers would not only kill and cure their own meat, but would put up same and supply their town neighbors, the packing houses would not have quite so complete a monopoly of the meat business.

BEST STEERS CONTRIBUTED BY WAYNE COUNTY BOYS

Consignment of weighty steers from Wayne county, Nebraska, succeeded in carrying away top honors in the cattle trade at this point the second day of the week. Kay Bros., of Wayne, widely known as producers of quality offerings and who are included in the list of Nebraska's most extensive live stock feeders were the contributors of the toppers here this morning.

The offerings, thirty in number, were Black Polled cattle, and their attractiveness of quality fully exhibited the Kay Bros' ability as producers. They averaged 1,470 pounds and selling price was $16.10 per hundred, top price for the week for such weights.

The Kay brothers are boosters and supporters of the local market and they were inclined to believe that the outcome of their shipment today was more satisfactory than it would have been if they had shipped to any other market. John Kay accompanied the shipment to market. —Record.

WEBER WEATHER PREDICTIONS

A letter from Will Weber, now at Dunning, Nebraska, gives his weather predictions for a few weeks ahead. Twice before has he sent them this season, but once the letter was delayed until the time of the prediction had passed. This time he says: "June 16 to 23, wind and rain. June 23 to July 1, fair. July 1 to 8, fair."

When Mr. Weber was living here he kept our readers pretty well informed as to what the weather was to be for the week ahead; but he is not a long-distance prophet. That is, the signs which govern his predictions, cannot as a rule be given until he can know conditions of weather at the hour of a moon change, as by his theory that has much to do with the week weather. This time, we have three weeks given, one of which was passing while the letter was on the road here, and two are future.

Of conditions there, he says all are well, and that crops look well, and he has a fine garden, with potatoes in bloom, melons up, and an invitation for Wayne friends to call when they are ready to cut. The first cutting of alfalfa is now going on, and corn looks well—and in fact he thinks for a "sand-hill" country they are doing fine, and can raise anything.

E. L. JONES FLEET OF FOOT

E. L. Jones, on the Perdue farm just southeast of Wayne is winning a rep as a sprinter, for he went out in the open field Monday and run a coyote down, capturing the animal without being in any manner armed except the arms given him by nature.

It was, however, but a half-grown pup, and Mr. Jones was out cutting alfalfa when he saw the little fellow and gave chase, and the little fellow ran into the tall alfalfa, and as Jones had the longer legs he soon had his foot on his neck, picked him up and took him to the house. The mother was out, and he had a gun brought from the house and gave her a shot, but it was a very small shot gun, and the charge was too light to make a killing.

All in the Day's Work

Whether it's clearing, tilling, hauling or harvesting—your tractor is called upon to perform a hundred different tasks in the course of a season. The speed and sureness with which it accomplishes these tasks, every day, year in and year out, depends largely upon the kind of lubrication it gets. Carbon, friction and wear are enemies of steady, efficient motor operation. You can minimize these by using our Tractor Oils.

Our Tractor Oils maintain the right lubricating body at every temperature. Their great friction-reducing qualities eliminate, to a large extent, the danger of scored cylinder and undue wear of engine parts. They keep your tractor on the job and full-powered the year around.

Our experts have made a study of the tractor lubricating problem. They have found STANOLIND TRACTOR OIL best suited to a majority of tractors, Polarine Extra Heavy, Polarine Heavy and Polarine being recommended for quite a number. For the proper oil to use in your tractor—consult your Stanolind dealer or write us.

Who Wants an Imitation?

WOULD you call on your local merchant and ask him for "imitation" sugar, or raisins, or coffee? Would you ask him to sell you a pair of shoes made of something "just as good" as leather? Or a suit of clothes "made for" a man, whether or not it fits you?

Plumbers of East St. Louis have a scale of $12 for an 8-hour day, and still they won't go to work. Let them get hungry.

One of our wise men says that the democratic nomination will go to Palmer on the third ballot. That's what Scott says—and we will bet he don't know.

The Columbus flour mill burned Monday, and was a complete loss, low water pressure not giving the firemen any chance to save it. Loss said to be $75,000.

General Wood's selection of a soap manufacturer for campaign manager appears to have been significant, in view of disclosures before the Senate investigating committee.

Senator Johnson said he was making the race on a "shoestring." Investigation discloses upwards of $200,000 expended for him in California, which is pretty expensive for shoestrings, even in these h. c. l. days.

May has struck a new high mark in the cost of living, and it was 22 per cent higher than a year before. If this keeps on, we will all be looking up like a bob-tailed hen on a rickety roost, to see if we can see the top.

Germany must come to the terms of the armistice now, so far at least as reducing their army half from the 200,000 mark now maintained. Just to think this will mean that 100,000 of those poor soldiers will have to go to work and earn their own living.

At Pilger they are planning a celebration of the national birthday, Monday, July 5th, and a good time is assured all who come to that berg. We did not learn who is to be speaker, but a West Point band will make the music. Base ball is to be one of the attractions.

This week the delegates and politicians are heading toward San Francisco, where it is planned to name the next president of this United States of America. They will at least select a candidate and make a platform, and we do not think the members of the senate will have it all to say.

"They seem to be all good Americans," remarked General Wood when shown the list of contributions to his million and a half campaign fund, as submitted to the Senate investigating committee. And Colonel Proctor, having furnished a half-million, is doubtless regarded by the general as the best American of them all.

There is agitation in California to exclude the Jap from this country or that state. If you do that, who is going to do the work? Will the idle rich have to do their own work? If so, the idea is not so bad—for there is an increasing number of "white" folks who have swung off on work until they get hungry.

They should let him know at once, we think. Senator Harding has been nominated as the republican nominee for president, but they have decided not to tell him until July 22, four weeks from now. That's not right, and we've a notion to send him a marked copy of this paper. And they propose to make Coolidge wait in ignorance a week longer.

The newspapers and their correspondents are this week having the time of their lives telling what the democrats will do at Frisco next week—and not a one of the bunch knows—but we bet they have a real time there thrashing out their differences. They have no bunch of senators authorized by some big boss to take the matter in hand.

Are they all terred with the same stick? The republican candidates for presidential nomination, we mean. At any rate the money made Wood delegates flocked to Harding almost to a man when the signal came. Were they bought again, is the natural question—and at what price, and who is to pay it? The American people? They certainly will if ever that bunch of senators can control the country, as they now propose doing.

An exchange says: "Let us quit 'passing the buck' and 'tote' our part of the load." * * * "You can wave the flag, cheer, thrill, sob and fall of true Americanism. Real Americanism allows no man to use the power given him to unjustly oppress any person who is helpless against that power. This applies to great accumulations of wealth, to great combinations of labor; it also applies to each individual in this broad land, and in the smallest affairs in everyday life."

The Tammany hall delegates always add a picturesque touch to the national democratic conventions. They usually attend in considerable force, wearing silk hats and other evidences of material prosperity. In recent years they have not had things their own way on account of the activity of a gentleman from Nebraska named Bryan. This year they will find the journey to the convention longer and much more arid than usual. If they will take the trip at a leisurely pace and stop now and then to stretch their legs and look at the country they will find the location of the gathering at the opposite edge of the nation a distinct advantage. Nothing is better for the soul of a New Yorker than to discover by actual observation the scope and character of the country west of the Hudson river.—Exchange.

An exchange says on its editorial page that the "arrest of business men for profiteering amounts to an official recognition of the failure of the entire competitive system." We beg to differ. We have had no competitive system in this land of the free in most things of magnitude in recent years. The monopolies built up by the aid of government protection and laws of their own making, while Americans were asleep put competition out of the game long ago. The trouble is that the arresting did not come soon enough. When big business established a chain of stores, lumberyards, meat markets or mills and put sinkers on the line at any point where they had local competition, until the local was too dead to skin, and then floated prices sky-high to make the people pay the cost of killing the goose that laid the golden egg for the public, was when the arresting should have been.

A little boomlet reader for a Colorado summer resort says that candidate Harding will probably spend a week or two in that region this summer to recuperate from his strenuous campaign. That is the first intimation to us that a front porch campaign was strenuous—except for the lawn, in the old days when the special interests paid the men for going and the railroads furnishing the transportation gratis and the telegraph news service feeding the hot stuff to the monopoly-owned press. It was a great scheme for a demonstration, and was made to appear big, and it did have a certain element of largeness about it—for a lot of the fellows were willing to go for a day off. But Harding will need a rest whether he wins, or just tries to do what the senators want him to do. He will find it quite a task to carry both factions of the republicans to the same ballot on election day. Oil and water won't mix—no more will a true progressive and a stand-patter truly affiliate.

PRESERVING OUR WILD ANIMALS (From the Goldenrod)

In discussing this subject—the preservation of our wild animals—I shall view it along four different lines. It cannot be denied that our fur bearing animals as well as our game animals need the protection of the law; first, because of their value to the student; second, because of their worth in furs and hides; third, for the recreation they furnish to hunters and sportsmen; fourth, for the touch of primitive beauty which they add to the landscape.

To the student of animal life, the close study of a creature alive and in its native haunts, affords more knowledge and pleasure than could be gained by the inspection of a stuffed and mounted specimen under a glass case. In no other way can he hope to acquire an acquaintance with the interesting creatures of the wild than by observing them in their daily life. This may be done with a captive specimen but ordinarily the conditions are artificial. Unless our native animals are safe guarded in some manner many interesting and unusual creatures are going to vanish from the earth.

From a commercial view point our fur bearing animals should be, and are to a certain extent, protected by national laws. The valuable fur seal for years had no such protection until their diminishing numbers made the situation truly alarming. The coveted skins of the cross fox and the silver fox now bring almost fabulous prices because of their scarcity, a scarcity which might have been avoided by more prompt action on the part of the government. Even the skin of the common muskrat has increased in value from a few cents to several dollars apiece since the failure of other fur crops has brought this one into fashion. For the sake of our fur trade some of these animals will have to be stringently protected.

The sportsmen of the country will regret the passing of the antelope, the elk and the mountain goat. Of these three the elk is the only one which thrives in captivity and so the graceful antelope and the shaggy mountain goat are doomed to disappear unless preserved by strict laws. True sportsmen in the West favor a ten years "closed law" on these creatures, that is, ten years in which no one shall be allowed to shoot them. In this way the true sportsman will not be robbed of his recreation by the unprincipled hunter who hunts merely for the joy of killing.

My last point is that our native animals should be preserved for the beauty which their presence adds to our natural scenery. There is a touch of the primitive added by a glimpse of the slinking form of a coyote or the sight of an antlered deer, which the art of man cannot rival. Let us save our wild creatures if only for their interest and beauty.

Margaret Campbell.

A Molasses Cake

I differ from the woman who is discouraged about trying anything else for sweetening but sugar and says it can't be done successfully. Here is a recipe for a cake I make with molasses and it is just fine. We can't tell it is made with molasses instead of sugar because the cocoa kills the molasses flavor. Use 2 cups molasses, 1 good rounding tablespoon shortening, 1 tablespoon cocoa, 1 level teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup sweet milk, 1 level teaspoon baking powder sifted in the flour, flour enough to make a good batter. I never use any eggs as it is just fine without.

Next Week

Next Week is National Essex Week

And our Wayne distributor is ready for it with a fine showing of their popular styles in

Roadsters, Touring Cars and Sedans

No one questions the Essex performance. Its leadership in every test proves it superior in the most wanted of car qualities. The records of a year ago stand today unbroken save by the Essex of later date outdoing one of the earlier make. In order to let the people of today know the merits of this car, the week beginning June 27th will be Nation Wide Essex Week. Demonstrations are to be made daily in all larger cities, and tests of every kind supplied—speed power, endurance.

Mr. Wright, the Wayne distributor, is ready to demonstrate an Essex to all comers, and satisfy and supply the car for the man, young or old, who is needing a new car for all the year service or for a 4th of July or vacation trip.

Every Essex sold helps to sell others, because they give service and satisfaction, and when Essex Week closes thousands of people will be riding in new Essex cars, the country over.

So during demonstration week you are especially invited to come and see these cars, ride in them, put them to proper test, and learn that you cannot do better than to purchase.

CAR LOAD NOW ON TRACK

Berries For Canning

will be shipped to this station in car load lots. This fruit will be shipped in refrigerator cars and comes direct to Wayne from original point of shipment. This is a real service to Wayne and community and should receive the co-operation of every one who wants berries to can. It may be news to many to know that Wayne distributed more berries in car lots last season than did the combined sales of all Sioux City jobbers. No town in northeast Nebraska affords the service and price on berries equal to Wayne. Leave your order for all kinds of berries. It helps the car service management to anticipate the wants of the people and incidently this co-operation has its influence on price—the larger the volume and quicker the turnover the lesser the margin.

We are booking orders for all kinds of fresh berries—guarantee price and first-class quality. If you want berries leave your name. We will call you on arrival of car. If its not convenient to take from the first car wait for one following. This is a real service to secure fresh berries right off the ice. If you live out several miles from Wayne you will also receive this service if you will simply make it known, in advance, you want berries for canning. Very very few Basket Store patrons failed to be taken care of on canning sugar because you co-operated. The same spirit should prevail on all kinds of fruits for canning.

Car-Load Watermelons

Soon to Arrive

In a few days we expect to begin keeping this market continually supplied with watermelons. Two car-loads per week are scheduled for this market until the season closes, and you may be assured of melons of good quality, and at a much lesser price, thanks to car-load service. Come to the Basket Store for your melons. Sales are quick and fast and we will have no stale melons to offer.

Hofstra--the Bug Killer

Be prepared for the enemy. The little 15c guns loaded with Hofstra will put you "over the top" every time. Your cabbage will almost smile to get rid of the pesky worms and will "head up" for you like miniature icebergs. As for bugs on melon and cucumber vines Hofstra puts every bug straight to "bug heaven", and the melons and cucumbers you will raise will save many a dollar if you had to dig down in your jeans and buy 'em. Hofstra does the trick of killing mites on little chicks and don't hurt the chick. If the old fowls are lousy, if you are pestered with aunts, bed bugs or any kind of insects, Hofstra gets 'em. Loaded guns 15c. Also 25c, 50c and $1.00 packages.

Roberts sent a couple of cars of fat cattle from his feed lots north of town to Sioux City Tuesday night, and they were good enough to bring well toward the top, he being assured $16.25 or better. The car shortage and the corn shortage is bothering some feeders just now. When a feeder has his stock ready to go, and his feed gone, as some seem to be—the car shortage is a serious question.

FIRE LOSSES IN NEBRASKA

We have received from Fire Marshal C. E. Hartford a report of the fire prevention suggestions issued—and the number of buildings condemned or being considered for such proceedings to safeguard better property from danger of fire. We notice that more than half of the fires reported since last December were at Omaha and Lincoln, and also that nearly one-third of the total losses for that period were from these cities. Fires reported numbered 640 with a total value of losses during that time $1,072,176.14. Now that the state is spending so much money in the good work of preventing losses will ask Mr. Hartford to let the people know how much premium money the fire insurance companies are collecting in Nebraska, annually and how much they are actually paying in losses, he will confer a real public service. A lot of people who believe in insurance and a lot more who carry it as a necessity, feel that when the state pays for prevention measures, condemns buildings which belong to some citizen to reduce fire loss, the insurance rate should be lowered to correspond with the lowering risk. In other words, the state should serve the people for the benefit of the people rather than for the enrichment of the fire insurance companies. If their rate is too high it should be cut; if not too high, the people should have official assurance of the fact.

SHALL THE SENATE RUN AMERICA

(Duluth Herald.)

Does this country want to submit itself to the rulership of the United States senate?

That, strange and incredible though it seems, actually is the issue in this campaign as it stands today.

It is hard to believe it, but it actually appears to be true that the senate junta which manipulated the republican national convention at Chicago really believes that it can make the presidency an adjunct of the senate, and can elect a president who will be merely a creature of the element that is, for the moment, in control of the senate.

This is reported to be a sort of reaction from what is called the "autocracy" of President Wilson, which is much like the "autocracy" of former President Roosevelt and the "autocracy" of any man of strong character and positive ideas who may happen to become president.

It is "reaction" right enough; but a reaction brewed wholly out of the stews of hate and envy and malice in which the senate has been sizzling, and without a trace of popular demand behind it.

If the people of America were forced to choose between the domination of the government by Woodrow Wilson, however wilful and self-centered and stubborn—in the right—he may seem to be, and domination of the government by the senate, led by Lodge and Reed and Penrose and Smoot and Harding and Watson and Borah and Knox, can there be any question whatever which the people would choose?

It is, as we have said, incredible that the senate actually thinks it should and can turn the presidency into a sort of vermiform appendix to the senate, yet there is only too much evidence that that is precisely what the senate had in mind when it manipulated the Chicago convention to the fantastic end it chose.

But if the senate is insane, probably the American people are still sane, and so such a monstrous travesty as the senate proposes will not be allowed to come about.

EDITOR VAN DEUSEN CANNOT SWALLOW HARDING

The Blair Pilot has long been known as a republican paper with liberal and progressive leanings, and the editor is so sore and disappointed at the result at Chicago, that he talks right out in meeting, and is really saying worse things about the "grand old party" than the democratic papers are saying—perhaps because he knows more about them. Here are a few little hints:

The dark horse is altogether too dark for us.

"Bainbridge Colby on a platform endorsing the league of nations would suit us fine."

"Hoover and Coolidge would have sounded a whole lot better to us than Harding and Coolidge."

"Anyway Coolidge was nominated by the delegates. The bosses are a little careless when it comes to vice-president, witness Roosevelt."

"Coolidge isn't much, but he would have made a whole lot better nominee for president than Harding the old standpatter and friend of the bosses."

"Boss Penrose said Harding would be nominated on the 10th ballot, and he was. The question is, how did Penrose know so much when he was so far away?"

"Roosevelt couldn't support Taft, after he was nominated by votes stolen by the tools of Big Business, what would he do today when one of those tools has been nominated by the rest of them?"

"The republican platform makers at Chicago finally compromised on the league of nations question by leaving any direct mention of it out altogether. It must have taken great courage to do this."

"William Allen White, noted author, said the republican platform is 'a mass of conflicting vapid ideas that will embarrass substantial, sincere republicans to endorse. That's just the way it strikes the Pilot editor.'"

ASKING FOR BETTER ROADS

Dr. W. B. Vail, who is interested in good roads, and one of the officers of a county organization formed some years ago in the interest of better roads, hands us the following as expressing his sentiments: "The roads between Hoskins and Norfolk are in terrible condition. Not in one or more spots, but the entire distance." Then he verbally added something about the roads not being dragged, and that officials should look after these things a little more closely, a sentiment in which all who bump into bad roads agree. Evidently Wayne county officials are not entirely in fault in this matter, for from Hoskins to the county line is but three miles, while Norfolk is about five miles beyond that point, as the map seems to show the roads.

WAYNE COUNTY STILL REGISTERING HIGH

That farmers and feeders inhabiting the neighborhood of Wayne, Neb., are capable of producing the kind of beef material that can carry away top honors has been fully reflected in the fact that four times this week beef cattle from that section have landed market topping figures on the Sioux City market. The fourth shipment to do the market topping stunt was that from the lots of Alter Doring, prominent in Wayne live stock circles. Mr. Doring shipped in a carload of 798-pound yearlings of his own raising and feeding that were sent to the docks at the good price of $16.00 per hundred. The offerings were Shorthorns and had been on a full feed of corn and alfalfa hay since December 10. Mr. Doring was fortunate in having plenty of his own feed. He did not have to make any purchase of corn, and states the cattle marketed today will make him a fair profit. Corn throughout Wayne territory is coming along in fine shape, according to Mr. Doring, and a yield equivalent to that of preceding year is expected.

Sold by Swanson, Gilmore & Walsh, live stock commission merchants.

POULTRY RAISING ATTRACTING ATTENTION

Five hundred men and women from seven counties attended a poultry field day program at the University Farm at Lincoln recently. Speakers declared that Nebraska is rapidly becoming one of the big poultry states. In 1917 it produced $56,000,000 worth of poultry products. The College of Agriculture is making special effort to encourage the industry. Specialists are sent over the state to give instruction and demonstrations in better poultry raising methods. The state has established twenty-nine poultry demonstration farms in seven counties which serve as centers for the distribution of knowledge regarding better poultry methods, and also for the distribution of better breeding poultry.

Thirty-five thousand persons attended culling demonstrations given by specialists last year. A national egg-laying contest is being conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lincoln to encourage the raising of high egg-laying strains.

SWEET SEVENTEEN

By RITA SULLIVAN.

© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Peggy, the way you act you'd think that you were six instead of sixteen."

The reproving voice of her older brother aroused Peggy from her absorbing task of fitting together the parts of a picture puzzle.

"Raymond, I'm seventeen! I guess you forget!" was her indignant answer.

"Well, I do wish that you would act like it, then. What would Dick think of you if he saw you now?"

Her brother spoke with all the dignity and "ban of the world" air which he had acquired a short time previous when he had fully realized that he had the right to vote.

Dick was a former schoolmate of Raymond's, and from the first he had been Peggy's champion when she was just a little schoolgirl with golden curls and short dresses. Now that she was older, their friendship was fast becoming stronger.

"Oh, he wouldn't care, Ray Hardy; he's used to it, and—"

"Now, listen here, Peggy! What would you say if I told you that Dick is getting tired of your childish ways. Why, only the other day—well, I shan't say any more. But really, Peggy, when will you ever grow up?"

Peggy was made speechless by the suggestion that Dick was getting tired of her.

For the rest of that day Peggy was very mysteriously busy in her room, and even her mother was cautioned not to enter; and that evening, with smiling eyes, she again surveyed herself in the mirror.

"Oh, you are perfect!" she told herself frankly in the mirror. "I'd never know you if I met you on the street!"

With a sudden impulse that the thought suggested she started toward her desk and caught up the telephone.

"Oh, mother that—O-o-o." Her voice trailed away as a plan entered her mischievous head, for the calendar showed that the day was April 1. With a happy little laugh, she caught up the receiver and impatiently waited for her number.

"Why didn't I think of it before, it's such a corking idea!"

"Oh! Hello, Dick. Listen. Never mind coming all the way up to the house after me tonight. I'll meet you down at the station. Why? Oh, never mind; I'll tell you tonight. Yes, yes, I'll be on time. Bye."

During the evening meal Peggy was so quiet her brother cast suspicious glances in her direction.

"She's up to something—wonder what it is?" and then the matter entirely slipped his mind until, just as she rose from the table, she calmly told her mother that she was going to meet Dick down at the station, as it was too much for him to come all the way up.

A few minutes later a puzzled young man, comparing his watch with the station clock and finding that they agreed, decided that, in spite of her promise to be on time, Peggy was late.

"Who was that little Jane over there who looked at me so queerly? Looked rather familiar to me," was his thought, as Peggy passed by on the other side of the walk, and he turned to watch the door where she was due to arrive.

Congratulating herself on the success of her little joke, Peggy had retraced her steps and was approaching Dick when a surprising thing happened. Dick had started forward with both hands outstretched to meet a pretty girl who had come up to him with a little exclamation of surprise and pleasure, and, startled, Peggy watched the warm greeting which passed between the two.

She watched from there while Dick talked to the girl, and repeatedly and guiltily Peggy thought—watched the door.

On reaching home she entered the sitting room, for she had decided that she would "face the music" then and there.

To her surprise Dick was there—and the girl! Then, as no one spoke, she remembered that she was still in the same attire which had so completely fooled Dick.

"Well, it's only I—Peggy," she explained, throwing her veil back impatiently.

"Why, Peg?" came her brother's voice. "I'd never know you! You look stunning!"

"That must have been you that passed me when I—oh, I see—" As the full significance of the thought struck him Dick knew what the trouble with Peggy was, and crossed the room to her side.

"Oh, Peggy," pretending not to notice her icy demeanor toward him. "You've never met my cousin, Vera, have you?"

Peggy's mother suddenly decided that she wanted Dick's cousin to see some pictures, and the two left the room unnoticed. A few minutes later Ray awoke to the fact that his presence was not needed any longer, but before he left the room he could not resist one parting comment:

"Well, I wonder which one the April Fool was on anyway."

But Peggy only smiled, for she heard her mother talking to Vera in the next room, and her mother was saying:

"This picture was taken before Peggy was 'grown up.'"

With a little laugh she, too, wondered—though briefly—whom the joke was on after all, but quickly concluded that she didn't care anyway!

HOME OF DEADLY SCORPION

Region in Mexico That is Avoided by Travelers for a Most Excellent Reason.

Revolutionary bands and brigands may ride up and down Mexico, but there is one strip of territory that even the hardest and most daring of them will not brave. It is a desert country that extends from a point near the city of Durango to the borders of the state of Zacatecas, about seventy-five miles long by fifty miles wide. It is asserted that myriads of scorpions infest this region and are the most deadly of the species.

In the city of Durango, although regarded as outside of the more deadly zone, the death rate, due to scorpion stings, is high. This is especially true as to children. The alachra, as the insect is commonly called, is regarded as such a deadly pest that for many years the municipal government has paid a bounty of one centavo, equivalent to about one-half cent of American money, for each one killed and delivered to the official custodian of dead scorpions. Something like 100,000 of the scorpions are killed and bounty paid for them annually.

Killing scorpions is a regular industry with many men, women and children of Durango. One is told that some of the natives even go so far as to establish regular colonies of the poisonous insects in their homes for the purpose of breeding them for the market.

GERMS FUTURE WAR WEAPONS

Scientist Draws Dark Picture of Savagery That Will Be Part of Next Conflict.

Mobilization of the mosquito, the house-fly, the louse and various other disease-carrying pests for the dissemination of deadly germs in enemy territory is a possibility of "the next war" pictured by Prof. Maxwell Lefroy, a London scientist.

"I foresee the mosquito from Brazil starting yellow fever in new lands, the house-fly, duly infested with cholera, dysentery or enteric and the typhus-laden louse doing their deadly work much more effectively than spies poisoning wells," said Professor Lefroy in a recent address.

"This would be part of the work of a war office of entomologists—the working out of strategic plans for the distribution of these pests by airplane. It seems that the world is intent upon furnishing an airplane service for these pests, many of which are now held somewhat in check by natural enemies in their native climes. This will give them just the means of transit they have required. It will be a peace-time danger as well as one that could be used very offensively in war. The danger from these 'winged battalions of death' is more serious than one dare estimate."

Airplane Has Its Limits.

The officials of the United States department of agriculture have been in receipt of many suggestions relative to extinguishing forest fires with the use of gas bombs dropped from airplanes that it has been found necessary to issue a statement for the purpose of explaining that the scheme is not feasible. For the purpose of overcoming a detachment of men, a mixture of one part of virulent poison to 1,000,000 of air would be entirely sufficient to accomplish the purpose, but one of 750 parts to the thousand would not be powerful enough to quench a conflagration. Another thing to be taken into consideration is the difficulty of dropping the bombs with the necessary precision. The art of striking a target with any degree of accuracy has not been developed at this time, and there is no prospect that it will be sufficiently perfected to the point of becoming available for the purpose of fighting fires.

To Destroy Grasshoppers.

Poisoned bran bait is a simple, reliable and cheap method of destroying grasshoppers. The formula is: Wheat bran, 25 pounds; Paris green, one pound, or white arsenic, one pound; lemons or oranges, six finely chopped; low-grade molasses, two quarts. The mixture is scattered over the fields. Beneficial results have been obtained from the poison, but in whatever process is followed, communication must unite for if one farm is rid of the insects, a new invasion will come in from the adjoining farm.

An interesting incident of all poison baits is that lemon juice is added, thus it seems that it is necessary to hand the hopper a lemon in order to get rid of him.

Europe Takes to Chewing Gum.

The jaws of Europe are wagging on American chewing gum. Efforts were made at different times to popularize chewing gum in the countries of Europe, but always without success until the American soldiers took some over there, after which the gum-chewing habit became a veritable craze. Chewing gum to the value of $2,184,200 was exported by the United States during the year 1919, and England was the heaviest purchaser. During the war chewing gum became very popular in the munitions factories of England, where it took the place of tobacco, smoking being barred.

Probably So.

"Everything has been said, even on the subject of loss."

"On that subject, however, the girl interested is apt to find the beginning quite as convincing as Shakespeare."

KEEPING CATTLE AND SWINE

It Remains to Be Determined What Are Most Common and Best-Paying Propositions.

The keeping of cattle and of swine appear to be almost inseparable operations. This fact is being brought out in the returns of the "Better Sires—Better Stock" crusade of the agricultural colleges, the United States department of agriculture and co-operating agencies. This general practice has long been known, but much more definite information is being gathered, and the purpose is to extend it to such an extent as to determine the relationships among all meat animals.

If nearly every man who keeps cattle also keeps hogs, and if nearly every man who keeps hogs also keeps cattle, the inevitable conclusion is that the combination pays, especially when purebred sires are used. But it remains to be determined what are the most common and the best-paying proportions. The same thing applies also to combinations of cattle and sheep, or swine and sheep, or cattle and sheep and swine. One benefit of the work will be that it will enable the man of small personal experience to avail himself of the wide experience of a great number of men in working out the combinations of meat animals, that he will carry on his farm.

ECONOMICAL FEED FOR BEEF

As Silage Becomes Better Known Feeders Will Better Appreciate Its Feeding Value.

There is no doubt but that silage is an economical feed in the beef-cattle ration and as its value becomes better known feeders will better appreciate its merits. In spite of the fact that it is an unbalanced feed itself, it can be fed with one of the highly concentrated feeds, such as oil meal or cottonseed meal, and makes a ration which is surely hard to beat in fattening cattle.

CARE OF EWE IS IMPORTANT

Machine Through Which Lamb Will Obtain Qualities to Enable It to Top Market.

What is done for the lamb is not so important as the care and liberal feeding of the ewe. The ewe must be regarded as the machine through which the lamb will obtain the qualities that will enable it to top the markets.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

It is very essential that ewes should be properly fed.

A self-feeder can be used to excellent advantage for fattening hogs and pigs.

Better live stock aids the breeder both in direct returns and by giving a locality a favorable reputation.

In the cold months many farmers fail to give the stock enough salt. Salt is a vital part of each animal's ration.

A LABOR UNIVERSITY

In his newest book on the labor question, John Graham Brooks reports an educational fact which will perhaps surprise most Americans. When a professor is dismissed from one of our universities for holding heretical opinions on social and economic subjects. Mr. Brooks says, he is no longer fronted with the necessity of changing his occupation. He is usually able to improve his position as to salary and firmness of tenure as a teacher by taking employment with one of the schools which the labor movement or one or another of the radical movements has established.

This is a development of which little is heard. It is fairly well known that the socialists have a school of their own in New York, the Rand school of social sciences. Less is known of the fact that economics, sociology, history and other subjects are being taught from the labor point of view in most of the industrial centers of the country. Labor has grown distrustful of the privately endowed institutions of learning and is setting up an educational system of its own. The movement has made headway enough to receive the attention of the New York legislature. A bill was passed at the recent session to put a check to these institutions by subjecting their teaching to the approval of the state authorities. Governor Smith vetoed the bill.

In the light of these facts we can understand the action of the American federation of labor last week in setting afoot a movement looking toward the establishment of a national labor university.

Colleges are supposed to stand for truth, nothing more nor less. Under that definition, an institution of learning standing for any particular point of view would have no excuse for existence. But at the present stage of human development we do not succeed in maintaining the scholarly ideal. Where there is conflict of interest and dispute as to facts and principles, as in religion and social subjects, we do not yet measure up to the ideal of tolerance and the free mind. A university of Nebraska professor was made a subject of charges before the regents a year ago on a rumor that he had doubted whether any person could come properly by a million dollars. When such things can happen, we must expect to have counter-colleges where an instructor would be in bad for failure to entertain just such doubts as to the millionaire. The labor college movement fills that bill.

SAME OLD CHESTNUT AGAIN

Publicity from an organized group of former captains of the booze industry declares that farmers and working classes all over the country are demanding the return of a legalized liquor traffic in some form. There is a strangely familiar sound in that declaration, at least as it refers to farmers. About four years ago, wasn't it, we heard a great deal along that same line here in Nebraska. In that memorable campaign Omaha brewers, distillers and saloonmen, banded together as the "Nebraska Prosperity League," put barrels of money into circulation advertising the fact that the farmers were, and of right ought to be, dead set against prohibition. Didn't the breweries and distilleries provide a market for their corn, their rye, and their barley, and weren't farm folks by nature independent and strong for "personal liberty?"

Since the fall election of that year not a word has been said in Nebraska about farm folks as a class being in favor of legalized liquor making and selling. For the way the farmers of Nebraska went to the polls on that day and lambasted the whole infernal booze business is still very fresh in the memory of all those who froled themselves into thinking that farmers were anti-prohibitionists. And so today the whole fraternity of booze champions, East and West, will learn that the farming class throughout the nation is and always has been leading the fight for a dry nation and a dry world.—Nebraska Farm Journal.

In addition to the names given last week there are to be from sixty to eighty of the little misses of Wayne, in the drill, adding beauty and interest to the production. 100 PER CENT AMERICAN CLUB BEING ORGANIZED HERE

Russell P. Howard, of Lincoln, state organizer for the 100 per cent American Club, for the purpose of forming a nucleus among the representative citizens of this community, around which to build a 100 per cent American Club. He is meeting with most excellent success, and many of our best citizens are signing up to become members of the club. Mr. Howard has organized clubs at Oakland, Lyons, Rosalie, Walthill, Winnebago, Homer, Dakota City, Jackson, Ponca, Randolph, Plainview and Emerson.

The movement is national in scope and purpose and its aims and purposes are to teach or inculcate the spirit of 100 per cent Americanism into the rising generation by the distribution of the proper kind of literature of a very keenly interesting nature, into the schools and libraries and other places within easy reach of the young people. The further motives are: 1st. To remove the ports of entry from the United States to foreign countries, and compel immigrants to pass rigid qualifications as fit subjects for American citizenship before allowing them to come across the ocean to this country. This will eliminate in a large measure, those who are doing so much agitation today in our country, by trying to associate themselves with the American Federation of Labor and promoting strikes and fomenting sedition, revolution, riots and bloodshed for the purpose of overthrowing law and order and the government of our United States.

Mr. Howard further states that the 100 per cent American Club practically amounts to the same thing as a civilian auxiliary to the American Legion, working harmoniously toward the same end.

RELY TOO MUCH ON MACHINES

Writer Laments the Lack of Personal Responsibility Discernible Among the World's Workers

Writing in the Scientific Monthly on the value of handicraft in the re-education of wounded soldiers, Capt. Frank A. Waugh of the sanitary corps, U. S. A., says: "It is a great defect of modern society that it depends too much on machinery. Everything we touch is machine-made. The common laborer in particular hardly ever sees or touches anything but machine-made objects. He begins life in a machine-made go-cart, eats canned food from a machine-made table with a stamped-steel knife, fork and spoon, dies in the hospital in a machine-made bed, is buried with a machine-made coffin and marked with a machine-made tombstone. When such a man once makes with his own hands a good basket or leather pocket-book he begins to realize the value of honest craftsmanship—the place of personal responsibility in the day's labor. This is a most fundamental element in human psychology now largely lost in a mechanical world where objects are made by machines, not by men. The men only feed the machines and are themselves controlled by another social machine called a labor union."

PERMANENT "NO MAN'S LAND"

Sites of, Probably One Hundred Villages in France Too Dangerous to Use Again.

Fifteen villages in the Alsace district, destroyed by war, will never be rebuilt. There are 17 towns in the Marne district which will be abandoned, and probably 100 in all of France. For many years, at least, the soil on which the villages stood will not even be tilled. It will become a permanent No Man's Land. According to government advices, the sites of these villages are too dangerous to be used again. In order to avoid loss of life the government has purchased the land on which the villages stood and will keep possession of it until it can be made safe. These sites are the ones often fought over, on which the ground has been turned over and over again, burying explosives of all kinds to unknown depths. There is no trace of buildings left in the 15 villages, so the refugees faced more than the usual hardships. They returned, however, and lived in the worst makeshift caves and dug-outs. Only signs maintained by the government will mark the sites of the villages, warning people of the lurking dangers.—Stars and Stripes.

Chinese Silk Trade.

The American demand for silk in China has greatly increased in the last few years until at the present time about 25 per cent of the Chinese silk is sent to the United States. This is the result of American enterprise more than that of the Chinese. The Japanese silks had been in favor for a long time with the manufacturers of this country, but it was well understood that the quality of the Chinese was superior, but it was not adapted for use in this country because of the manner in which it was woven. An American manufacturer secured a moving picture reel showing the Japanese methods of manufacture, and as a result the Chinamen were induced to change theirs to a system to conform with the demands of the occidental customers, and the industry has accordingly taken a great jump.

Profitable Investment.

There was once a noble college man, says Harvey's Weekly, who was noted for the profusion with which he spent, wasted and lost money in everything he did, and who kept up the practice for some years in business, after he left his Alma Mater. He disappeared for a few years, and when found again he was working on a farm. A friend asked how he was getting on, and he replied with enthusiasm: "Splendidly! Top wave of prosperity!" "But, man, you don't mean that you're making money on this farm?" "Oh, no! I never expect to make any money. But I'm losing it slower than I ever did before!"

No Tipping Here.

When I first arrived in Venice I noticed large printed announcements in my hotel and in the restaurants, "Vietate la Mance," and on inquiry I found this meant "tips forbidden," that all over Venice tipping has been abolished, says a writer in the London Daily Mail.

The same rule applies more or less in other Italian cities, but in none, so far as I have seen, so completely and actually as in Venice. The notices are "absolutely" forbidden, others "rigorously" or "severely" forbidden, or "prohibited," others explain more fully that after August 1 tips are "abolished."

Spoiled Dad's Good Intention.

Army life at one time appealed to Sir Hamar Greenwood, recently named chief secretary for Ireland. He has told how at sixteen years of age he ran away from his Canadian home to join the army. His father followed, and found his young hopeful doing sentry duty with all the pride and faintness of a born soldier. "The old gentleman was for giving me a sound thrashing then and there," says Sir Hamar. "But I turned out the guard and had him arrested for attempting to rush the sentry."

BEDSTEADS THAT SAVE SPACE

Three-Story Sleeping Places Are the Latest Idea to Be Placed on the Market.

Two-story beds, that is to say, bedsteads containing two beds placed one above the other, have been in use for years, but something rather novel in this line is the three-story bed, containing three beds, one above another, which was placed upon the market not so long ago.

These bedsteads, which are made entirely of iron, are so constructed that they can be knocked down to occupy comparatively small space for convenience in handling in shipment and transportation, the three-story bed separating into five parts, the head and foot sections and the three beds, each bed section having a wire mattress permanently attached to the side and end pieces.

At the ends of each mattress frame are pins that fit into slots placed at suitable heights up the head and foot pieces. To set up a two or three-story bed one simply stands up the head and foot pieces and drops the pins on the mattress frames into the slots and there is the bedstead with its wire springs in each tier ready to receive the mattresses.

Bedsteads of this sort are intended for camps, apartments, steamers or wherever the floor space is limited.

TOKEN OF THEIR GOOD WILL

Soviet Government Made Present of Entire Train to Americans Whom They Expelled.

When the soviet government took control in the Urals, writes French Strother in the World's Work, the workmen at Kyshtim organized their soviet. They waited on the American staff at the mines and said they were sorry, but a new day had dawned, in which the workers would be able to own and operate everything themselves. Regretfully, because they liked them, they would have to send their American friends away. The day of their departure arrived and the workmen and their wives and children escorted the staff, as a guard of honor, to a special train which they had provided to take them away from Kyshtim. The train was decked with flags and loaded with flowers and delicacies. Just as it was about to pull out, amid the friendly shouts of the newly enthroned proletariat, the leader of the soviet in great excitement called the senior American back to the platform. "I almost forgot to tell you," he gasped. "The special train—don't bother to send it back; it also is a present from the soviet to our good friends the Americans."

European Airplane Service.

Two Danish airplane companies have made application to the Danish government for permission to establish a regular passenger and mail service by airplane between Copenhagen and Warnemunde, Germany. The shortest and most used passenger route from Copenhagen to Berlin is by way of train to Gjedser, Denmark, two hours by ferry to Warnemunde and then by rail to Berlin. At present practically all of the Scandinavian and Baltic passengers and mail traffic to Germany is carried over this line, and during the last few months all trains have been crowded and the airplane service if established it will operate in co-operation with a German company, which will establish a regular service between Warnemunde and Berlin.

Electric Plant on Coal Fields.

The modern method of building an electric-generating plant directly over a coal supply, and transmitting energy instead of fuel to the point of consumption, is to be employed by the state of Victoria, Australia, for supplying the city of Melbourne. The field of brown coal to be used immediately is at Morwell, 80 miles away, and is accessible by open cutting. There is, it is estimated, 20,000,000,000 tons in the district and 150,000,000 tons in one square mile, enough to generate 100,000 kilowatts for 150 years. A 40,000 to 50,000 kilowatt station will be built first, which will be sufficient for three years, but later the development will be extended, and finally include the utilization of the Kiewa river and other water powers.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Corn-Cob Industry.

The United States produces from 2,500,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn every year. That means 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 tons of cobs. A large percentage, of course, is not available for manufacturing purposes, being scattered over the farms or fed with the corn. Large quantities, however, are concentrated at central points and are easily available. The establishment of a plant for the manufacture of corn-cob products in the Ohio valley is being contemplated. Three shellers will furnish 24,000 tons of cobs a year. The plant will operate on a basis of 100 tons a day. It will turn out cob adhesive, furfural, acetate of lime and cellulose.

Concerts by Wireless.

The Philadelphia wireless school gives a concert between 9:45 and 10 o'clock every night to everybody in wireless range that has a receiving set and wishes to listen, and the music is enjoyed regularly by at least 5,000 persons sitting comfortably in their homes, some of them as far away as New Brunswick, N. J. One man in Chestnut Hill made his own receiving set and the outfit, outside of the receivers, cost him about $7.50.

HOW STANDS WILSON?

We have been hearing so much talk of late about President Wilson and his shortcomings, that we have been listening from whence it came—and find that it has mostly been by "repeaters." That is, we have heard the same talk several times from the same individual or individuals—who appear to be going about making that the burden of their song—and the only suggestion of what the president should have done we heard them make, was just one thing which the president did do. They said he should have asked some of the republican leaders to advise with him in a matter of such grave moment—and he had already done that, and their suggestions were incorporated in the documents.

Now as to a bit of figures to show how the president stands before the nation. He is not and has not been a candidate for another term as president. Yet, when a great poll of the nation—a poll reaching every state was planned and the returns gathered in by the thousands, who took the second place almost from the first and held it? It was President Wilson. Not only that, he received his full percentage of second choice votes; and again when the totals of those who had voted with the republicans and against him he had more votes than any other one on the list save two. One of these was Edward Edwards, who made a wet fight, and drew votes from more than 13,000 wet republicans and only about 40,000 wet democrats. Of the voters from other parties who turned to the democrats, but one of the men listed received more than did the president. These are facts for the consideration of our republican friends who are talking that the president has so many enemies—that he has so weakened the party that the republicans can win in a walk this time. The figures sent in to this impartial poll of the Literary Digest simply show that the president holds first place among the democrats of the nation, for had he

Cookies Without Sugar

Use 1 pint sorghum, or Karo, ½ pint sour milk, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon shortening, 1 rounding teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder sifted in flour, spices or flavoring to suit taste. Beat the egg and add the sirup, milk and shortening, stir with spoon until stiff. By taking out a little dough at a time the cookies can be rolled while quite soft. If the dough is too stiff the cookies will be dry and tough. In baking without sugar use only half as much liquid as syrup.
