T. G. JAMES INJURED FALLING FROM CAR

Friday noon, T. G. James, who had been assisting with the paving, fell from the runningboard of an automobile on which he was riding part way to his home in the north part of the city. Roy King, one of the foremen of paving work lived in the same direction and part of the time Mr. James had ridden with him and his brother at the noon hour. At 7th street they were to turn from Main and Mr. James continues on up the street and it is supposed that he was getting in shape to step from the car as it stopped for him when he missed his footing and fell. He was riding with his face to the rear of the car, and had declined to enter and be seated as they left town where he had purchased meat for dinner, which he was carrying under his arm, we are told.

Just before time for the turn Mr. King was slowing up for the turn and to stop for Mr. James when he fell, striking the back of his head, making quite a scalp wound, and as was later determined by x-ray, fracturing the skull in two places with a slight crack from one to the other, while hip and arm were considerably bruised. He was at once taken to the hospital and given careful attention, and at this writing is showing marked improvement, the not able to leave the bed. It is hoped that he will soon be able to return home and to his work.

COMMUNITY SINGING

In the days of our parents the old fashioned singing school was a very popular institution. It gave all the folks in a community a chance to meet and sing together. It was enjoyed by old and young. Believing that people still like to gather to sing together, the Baptist church has planned an experiment in community singing for a month to prove whether or not this spirit still exists. At the beginning of each Sunday evening service a half hour will be devoted to community singing. Songs will be used that will appeal to the old and to the young. As leader in this enterprise the church is fortunate in having been able to enlist the services of Prof. E. E. Lackey who is well qualified by his personal ability and past experience to act as director in this undertaking. Should this experiment prove pleasing to the community and receive their support, the church will endeavor to continue this feature of its work throughout the winter. The Community Sing will be followed by a short address by the pastor. The service will begin promptly at 7:30 and close at 8:30. All who enjoy music are cordially invited.

A NEW INDUSTRY AT WAYNE

Wm. Zastrow, from Emerson, who has for a number of years been conducting a planing mill at that place, and doing a splendid business, has recently sold his plant and business, and will locate at Wayne, moving over next month if all goes well. He has rented the building formerly occupied by Mitchell & Christensen for their monument works, and will install a new plant as soon as it is possible to get it here.

Those who know the coming citizen worth for him as a good business man and a good citizen. The Wayne school facilities interest him, as he has children ready for the high school. His enterprise is one needed at this place, and beyond a doubt this additional industry to the place will tend to stimulate business and all lines of improvement intended to make Wayne homes neater, prettier and more homelike.

STATE BANK REPORT SHOWS HEALTHY CONDITION

In times of financial stress such as we are passing these days, it gives one courage, and confidence in the ability of this community to weather the financial squall when he takes notice of the figures shown by the State Bank of Wayne in their statement in another column published in response to a call made for the condition at the close of business November 13, 1920. The statement shows a very healthy condition for Wayne and Wayne county and a strong reserve.

PRICES, NOT VALUES BREAKING
That is a head over an editorial in a city daily, and it refers to stocks and bonds. But it might well be applied to some other things. The prices on hogs and cattle are breaking—but if you go to buy a bit of beef or bacon you discover that the value is there—at least it seems to be so considered.

HOGUEWOOD ACQUITTED
Everett Hoguewood, who was on trial last week at Ponca, charged with being an accomplice in the robbery at Concord a few months before. The jury, after hearing all of the evidence given by a score or more of witnesses rendered a verdict of "not guilty" which the friends of the young man and his family were glad to hear. It was a trying ordeal for the defendant and his friends.

LATE NEWS NOTES

The League of Nations is still holding regular sessions at Geneva. It was the wish of Lord Robert Cecil that Poland and Lithuania be punished as provided by the league for countries on which he was riding part way to his home in the north part of the city. Roy King, one of the foremen of paving work lived in the same direction and part of the time Mr. James had ridden with him and his brother at the noon hour. At 7th street they were to turn from Main and Mr. James continues on up the street and it is supposed that he was getting in shape to step from the car as it stopped for him when he missed his footing and fell. Legislation to aid the farmers is being promised as soon as congress convenes next month; but as there are many remedies proposed as there are congressmen, they may not get any where with beneficial legislation.

Three democratic senators have been invited to confer with the incoming president. They are Senators Reed, Shields and Pomerene, from Missouri, Tennessee and Ohio, respectively.

The big packers have evolved another plan to dispose of the stockyard as ordered by the court—but they say that this plan, like the one rejected before, was built by the packers and for the packers. Do not expect to get something for nothing from the packers. Their health is good.

While a companion sat in a motor car ready to flee with the loot, one lone bandit, masked and armed, robbed the State Bank of Otoe, Iowa, of $1,200 in cash at 1:15 o'clock Monday afternoon, and then both fled in the auto, according to reports received last Monday night.

Over in Ireland is a sad state of affairs. The Irish are murdering the officers of the British army who have duties in Ireland, and the soldiers are firing upon the people and killing in many instances.

Starting with a slight rumble in 1919, investigation of New York's "building trust" has gained such momentum in the last few weeks that its roar has been heard from coast to coast.

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE
Was ably presented to a large audience of Wayne people by the boys of the high school last Friday evening. The object in presenting the play was to receive the training which such an enterprise requires, and to replenish their purse. In both the boys were successful, as they presented the play well and added about $100 to their available cash.

The play was intended to modernize that old story, and they did. A number of the young men happily presented the parts of the ladies in the cast of characters, and it is said that the girls themselves could not have done better.

Pleasing music was furnished by the girls of the Glee club of the high school who sang between acts. It was an evening enjoyed by all present.

WORD FROM VICTOR CARLSON
Writing from Linkoping, Sweden, on a card giving view of Tjusv, Usik over Flerum, he says that he finds the Democrat of more interest than when at home; and that he keeps close tab of what is going on at his old Wayne home. He expresses the opinion that there was never anything slow about Wayne, unless it was in getting the paving because of the advance in price while we were getting ready. He sends a new address—and a friend informs us that he has purchased some property there, which may mean that his visit will be prolonged to a residence in the land of his birth.

SHERIFF O. C. LEWIS TO KEARNEY
Wednesday morning O. C. Lewis went to accompany Fred Smith to the state school at Kearney, the lad having pleaded guilty to forging checks and passing them on various people, and was sentenced to stay at the school the seven years before he becomes of age.

Mr. Lewis was accompanied by his little granddaughter, Lucille Leebrik, who has been making an extended visit here, and he will go with her to the home of her parents at McDonald, Kansas, and make a short visit with the daughter.

INSPECTION SPECIAL

TRAIN VISITS WAYNE

Monday and Tuesday a special train of three coaches carrying General Manager J. J. O'Neill and the heads of various departments of construction and maintenance work at Wayne on one of their general tours of inspection. Among the few things recommended for Wayne will be a new roof for part of the old freight depot, and some paint and improvements to the coal chutes.

General Manager O'Neill, E. O. Gorman head of the motor department, and W. H. Thorn master car builder, tarried at Wayne while others went to Norfolk and return.

Agent Moran tells us that he first knew Mr. Thorn when he was painting depots for the Omaha as much as 30 years ago when he put the "preservative" on the present freight depot. In those days the painter was some base ball player, and was in demand when a close match was on, and while here was of course a Wayne man—and was fitted with a Wayne uniform and put into the game once at least to the great discomfort of Wakefield players.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Our city hospital has been a busy place. Friday P. G. James was brought to the emergency ward with a double fracture of the skull as the X-ray showed. He is slowly rallying, and is able to sit up in bed, and take light nourishment; and hopes of recovery without an operation are growing brighter each day.

Mrs. Laura Buskirk, of Pender, is a medical patient. So also is Frank Surber, of Wayne, and Mrs. C. T. Green.

Among the x-ray patients are Mrs. Carrie Bruner, Marvin Martin and a few others. An expert is here from the city installing additional x-ray equipment.

The most unusual case of the week was that of Mrs. Walter Mesther, of Laurel, who was brought here after suffering labor pains for two days in vain, and was delivered of a 16-pound son by the Caesarian sector, and the child is well and thriving and the mother rallying nicely from the ordeal, which is so often fatal that it is reported to only as a last chance to save life.

"THE WORLD'S RECORD FOR TELEPHONE SERVICE"

"The telephone was invented in America over 30 years ago, and ever since, the United States has led the world in telephone achievement and has continuously given to the public the highest known standard of the telephone service. In no other country has the telephone been so universally used and for this reason in no other country have there been such tremendous problems of engineering construction and operation to be solved. The Bell System, that is, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Associated Companies, has earned an unparalleled record for scientific development, sound financing and efficient public service."

WAYNE VERSUS OMAHA

The Wayne Normal "pigskin-pushers" were defeated by the University of Omaha "beef-trust" last Friday on the latter's grounds, the resulting score being 32 to 12.

The day was cold and cloudy and the ground was frozen. The game was not a classic exhibition of either team's strength, but Dame Fortune favored the down-Staters.

Wayne received the kick-off, but owing to difficulties in running, were unable to return the ball very fast and were then compelled to punt. The Omahogs started scoring in the last of the first period when a forward pass from Etter to M. Pressly was made. Goal was kicked. Wayne kicked to Omaha and on the second down Muhm recovered a fumble behind Omaha's line and raced for a touch down, but goal was missed.

In the last of the second period Omaha, by persistent use of forward passes planted the ball behind Wayne's goal posts for another large counter; goal was missed. The opponents then kicked to Wayne and in the kicker's enthusiasm the ball sailed over the goal line. M. Pressly, end, fell on it more by accident than design, and according to the rule declaring "dead" a ball in possession of the attacking team provided the player is on side, Omaha scored another touchdown. The first half ended 19 to 6 in favor of Omaha.

The second half started with both teams fighting, neither gaining by straight football; Omaha succeeded in working a forward pass and landed the ball on Wayne's one-yard line. Wayne held for three downs and the opponents then put the ball over, also kicking goal.

The last quarter found Wayne executing some clever forward passes, one of which, from Surber to Jones, was intercepted by Etter who, raced sixty yards for a touchdown. Goal was again missed. In the last few minutes of play, a forward pass from Surber to Armour put the ball behind the goal posts for the final counter.

The defeat of the Normalites places Omaha in a good position for the conference championship. The line-ups were as follows:

P. Pressly	l. e.	Muhm
Crowley	l. t.	Prescott
Anderson	l. g.	P. Peterson
Peterson	c.	Helt
Brodwell	r. g.	Rickabaugh
Captain Reeves	r. t.	Clark
M. Pressly	r. e.	L. Miller
Etter	q. b.	Surber
Banner	l. h.	F. Peterson
Duthier	f. b.	Captain Armour
Davis	r. h.	Jones

Substitutes:
Wayne—Thomas for Prescott; Austin for F. Peterson; L. Miller for Jones; F. Peterson for Austin.

Omaha—Golding for Davis; Beacon for M. Pressly; Brodwell for Chesneau; Thompson for Peterson.

Touchdowns:
M. Pressly 3; Muhm, Armour, Crowley, Etter.

(State Journal)
The republics of South America are showing real enthusiasm for the League of Nations. They seem willing to get out from under the Monroe doctrine so far as they can and take refuge in the League of Nations. The fact that the Monroe doctrine is specifically endorsed by the League does not influence their minds. They do not know what the Monroe doctrine is, for it has never been officially formulated and adopted, whereas the terms under which they enter the League of Nations are written down in black and white."

VAGUE ABOUT "RED" LEADERS

But Young Bolshevik Soldier Had Heard of Trotzky, and Incidentally of Lenin.

I have just had a talk with a Bolshevik soldier, captured by the Poles when he was participating in a bold scouting enterprise. He is a young man twenty-one years old, coming from one of the interior departments of Russia. He is illiterate and a confirmed Bolshevik.

Discipline, he said, was very good in the Bolshevik army; still they did not obey orders because they were orders, but "as a matter of conscience." The military forms of address had been abolished and even the officers were spoken to as comrades. Naturally the soldiers stand at attention before their officers; but that was because every soldier in the army follows the bidding of his conscience and "it would be foolish" not to stand at attention before one's commander.

He had never seen a general or any of the higher officers, but he knew the commander in chief was called Trotzky, and that there was another head man. He pondered a moment trying to recall who the second one was, and then suddenly remembered, "Lenine." He knew nothing more about him, and did not know the names of any other commander.

He kept saying "Everyone on our side is a Bolshevik," and seemed to be impressed with the great power and authority of the Bolsheviks. When asked who Trotzky was he replied, "A very popular Jew." "The Jews are much liked in the army. They never allow themselves to be captured. They hate the Poles so, and the Poles hate them so—and invariably murder them—that they prefer suicide to being made prisoners."—From the Vossische Zeitung. (Berlin).

HAS AN IDEA SON WAS RIGHT

Circumstances Brought Wife of United States Senator to Acquiesce In Youth's Philosophy.

Senator Miles Poindexter, from the state of Washington, used to live on a ranch.

One hot day he was in the garden weeding onions, when Mrs. Poindexter came across her eleven-year-old son Gale comfortably ensconced on the front porch enjoying the cool shade and a good book.

"Why, Gale!" she cried, "aren't you ashamed of yourself to sit here and read while your poor father is out there working in all that heat? Go and help him this minute!"

"Aw, mother," protested Gale, "I'm not bothered with weeding onions. Besides, I've got an engagement to go swimming at 11 o'clock."

About an hour later Mrs. Poindexter heard a low whistle from the onion patch, and before she could take in its significance father and son had disappeared down the hill in the direction of the swimming hole.

In telling the story Mrs. Poindexter said: "I don't know but what Gale's philosophy was the best. Today as a young naval officer he is sailing the high seas; while his father—well, his father is still weeding onions!"

Valuable Counterfeit
A strange counterfeit turned up at a Washington bank recently—queer because it was a bogus $5 gold coin and worth about eight times as much as the genuine because it is made of platinum.

The spurious coin was made about fifty years ago and bears the date of 1869. Musty archives of the secret service contain a record of the species and the case is marked "closed." The coins were made in Maine and came to the notice of the Treasury department when the son of a wealthy family took a quantity of them from a safety deposit box containing heirlooms and put them in circulation. All known specimens were confiscated by the secret service and it was not known until now that others were still in circulation.

Great Baby Shrinkage.

Doctor Johnson's dictum that "Births at all times bear the same proportion to the same number of people" looks rather like a wide shot in the presence of a row of figures just published by the Cambridge University Press.

These figures occur in the report of a paper read by Mr. G. Udny Yule, M. A., at the university, and they show that in England and Wales the annual birth rate per thousand has been halved in the last 40 years. In the light of this comparison the present baby boom in London leaves us still far behind our grandfathers in the art of stretching the population. In the world competition for posterity Serbia stands first and Australia last, with England last but one.—Montreal Herald.

The Average Hair Crop.

The Bible tells us that the hairs of our head are numbered, but it does not tell us even the approximate number to a square inch.

But some one has figured this out for us. He counted the hairs in a square inch on many heads.

On the average head there are a thousand hairs to each square inch. Find out the number of square inches in your scalp and you will soon know the approximate number of hairs on it.

We are also told that four hairs will suspend a one-pound weight. Therefore an average head, or hair should be able to support the combined weight of two hundred people. Don't try it.—Popular Science Monthly.

ARE WE DISCOURAGED? NO!!

(From the Goldenrod)

In the free-for-all contest, Chadron State Normal defeated Wayne State Normal by the one-sided score of 27 to 0.

Lack of sleep, the difference in altitude, and a few other factors were causes of the above score. The difference in altitude was quite a handicap, the men on our squad being winded easily.

The game started with a snap and in a few minutes Chadron made a touch-down by a long formed pass, but failed to kick goal. Wayne advanced to the one-yard line, but on a fumble which was covered, the referee gave the ball to Chadron, who punted out of danger.

Wayne lost the ball on downs. Chadron, by a series of end runs, planted the pigskin behind the goal posts. Goal was kicked, and the half ended in favor of Chadron, 20 to 0.

The second half found both teams full of "scrap," Chadron receiving.

Finally by a trick cross buck,

Chadron man leaped through the defense,

scoring another touchdown for the opponents.

During the remainder of the game, the ball was largely in Wayne's hands.

The Normalites located the ball on Chadron's eight yard line, but lost it on a fumble.

When the whistle kicked, the ball was in Wayne's hands on Chadron's 40 yard line. Wayne worked the ball up to the goal line, in the last quarter, but Captain Armour was dragged back, and Chadron punted; the ball was returned to the 10 yard line and Wayne's attempt at a forward pass was blocked, the ball being on Chadron's 20 yard line.

Finally just before the whistle blew, the pigskin was in Wayne's hands on Chadron's 30 yard line.

The Wayne men were treated very well.

The score is by no means convincing and a return game would be welcomed by all, when our type of football which forbids "routyism" would make history for Wayne of a different color.

Sunday night they made a raid on the gamblers of Chicago and arrested almost 1000 persons. A good start. Now if they will take about 2000 on their trade board and in the pits thereof in the next drive they may get credit for doing something.

Yale university used to get along on about $1,500,000 annually, and their tuition minimum was $160. Now expenses have mounted a million dollars annually, and the tuition minimum is only about $300, so it goes like everything else, to the ultimate consumer.

Why is it that when they start in to round up the criminals of a city like Chicago, they begin on the little fellows? The little gambling houses, where it is a pretty fair deal and a test of skill and luck are grabbed, but nothing is done about the fellows who play a bigger game and on a sure grab game on the board of trade are never molested?

Now that Nebraska voters have decided to retain the primary, which was the proper thing to do, let's get busy and make some improvements in the law, so that people may express more intelligently their choice. A means should be worked out for crossing party lines, it seems; as well as some method of eliminating half of the cost of both primary and general elections. In the latter work the post-office and the rural route should play an important part in the rural districts. Why should one be asked to leave work and spend an entire day to go to a booth and mark a ballot? The ballot could be marked at home as well and as intelligently, and mailed to the proper officer of a county. We might not know the result as early, perhaps, but in an election like the last one the Democrats at least could have been happy waiting another 24 hours at least.

Akron, the great rubber center has lost from 25,000 to 30,000 citizens within the past few months. If true as estimated that people are leaving the city in great numbers. That probably means at least 10,000 people who are seeking some other place to work—some other place in which to live. What industry will absorb them, when practically every industry is cutting down output and reducing the labor force? Production of labor must increase or the pay come down. The reverse has been the rule for the past few years. A report at hand the other day cites the bricklayers as an example. In 1914 bricklayers were paid 55 cents the hour, and laying 1,100 brick a day, and since that time the wage has gradually advanced and the average number of brick laid daily has decreased in the ration of the advance, until in 1920 the wage is $1.25 per hour and the brick laid is less than half of the number laid at the 55 cent wage.

SOCIAL NOTES

The Minerva Club met Monday, November 22nd, at the home of Mrs. Henry Ley. After a short business session, Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. J. T. House, sang a pleasing Thanksgiving number, entitled, "The Turkey and the Pilgrim".

The program was in charge of Mrs. E. J. Huntener, who gave the members a rare treat, when she received for them, a new copyright, entitled, "The Forbidden Trail", written by Honore Willsie. The theme of the book is pure, unadulterated Americanism, the plot centers about a scheme to utilize the solar heat falling upon the desert of Arizona when the scene is laid. Mrs. Huntener gave a vivid word picture of the weird color effects and the larger undeveloped resources of the great southwest which were interwoven about a sad, sweet love story of the desert land.

The hostess served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Mary Bartholet, of Yakima, Washington, was a guest of the club.

W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. George Fetter Friday, November 19, with a large attendance. Mrs. P. J. Barns had charge of the devotional services. Roll call was responded to by Thanksgiving quotations. H. B. Denwiddie's messages to the missionaries there; from E. Mr. and Mrs. John Parker were visitors at Hubbard and Sioux City from Friday until Tuesday.

E. E. Fleetwood visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleetwood, at Sioux City Sunday.

Railroads operating through Omaha have restored their pre-war passenger service. The service was greatly curtailed during the war. They should restore pre-war rates as well.

Mrs. W. C. Fox suffered a severe hemorrhage of the lungs Monday night, and for a time her life was despaired of—but the flow of blood was finally checked; but she is in a much weakened condition.

Miss Frances Beckenhauer went to Grinnell, Iowa, Tuesday to visit over Thanksgiving with Misses Winifred Main, Elizabeth Mines and Elizabeth Gildersleeve, who are attending college there.

Carl Thompson and family are planning on moving to California, and this week, announce a big farm sale at their old home about four miles southwest of Wayne. Search for health for wife and mother causes the move.

Just as fast as given the opportunity, the Chiropractors are proving that their treatment is as good for an acute attack of cold, fever or other acute illness as it has proven for chronic cases.—adv.

Wm. Smith, who has been husking corn for John Lewis west of town has his arm in a sling—broken by the kick of a horse or mule. In these days, the Fords have more broken arms charged to them than any other one cause, we believe, perhaps than all other causes.

The many friends of Marcus Kroger are glad to once more see him on the streets and for a short time at his place of business. He is still weak and does not have good use of his arms, especially the left one—but he tells us that he is daily gaining in strength and use of his arms. All hope that he continues to improve.

The concert by the Swiss bell ringers, given under the auspices of the Wayne American Legion post Monday evening had a good attendance, and was an entertainment worthy of their audience. One remarked that the music was excellent—another said it was not a stingy program—that they were free to give the audience plenty of what they seemed to best appreciate.

Mark Simpson has purchased from L. M. Owen a residence on west 7th street, and will move to Wayne as soon as the renter is ready to come to his farm. He is holding a closing out sale on the farm four miles northwest of Wayne Wednesday, December 8th. This will be a real closing out sale and has horses, cattle, hogs and implements. A good Reo truck is one of the desirable things offered. Mr. Simpson will be a desirable citizen of Wayne.

Leon Hickman, a junior in Morningside college, won the annual home oratorical contest held Friday night at the college. His subject was "The Defense of Woodrow Wilson." Hickman, won over four other competitors. Besides winning a cash prize of $50, he will represent Morningside college in the annual state oratorical contest next spring, as told in the Sioux City Journal Sunday morning is not a member of the family of the late J. J. Hickman, we are informed.

Perry Benshoof came this morning from Omaha, where he had been with stock from his Wyoming ranch. He says that market conditions are not the best, and that he may have struck the bottom price—for it was not the top, he is sure. He went on to Winside, and was evidently trying to find the best place to get his feet under the table for Thanksgiving dinner. He will probably visit his parents, who are now making their home with their daughter, Mrs. Ed. Lindsay, southwest of this place.

N. P. Foster, of Imperial a relative of V. A. Senter and family, was visiting here and at Laurel the first of the week. Mr. Foster never lived at Wayne, but he was in business here for a number of years, he being the "Co." in the days when the present clothing firm of Gamble & Senter had the Co. appendage. He thinks Wayne is improving, and realizes that had he continued to be the Co. he would have been reaping a nice income from his investment—but the active members, grateful for the aid when needed, preferred to be the whole cheese, so to speak.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Forbes went to Sioux City Saturday evening, where they were joined by their daughter, Miss Margurite, in a trip to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, to spend a week or perhaps more resting and visiting. The commissioners of Madison county have decided that it will be a wise move to erect some snow fence along the highway to protect some bad places from being blocked by drifting snow. The county is to provide the lumber and the towns benefitted are to erect the fences in hope of having roads which will prevent people from being blocked out of town.

Gus Hansen writes of his safe arrival in California, and tells that the weather man put on his best brand of weather for his enjoyment. He had met the Art Halladay family, and reported them well and happy. Gus did not say anything about the bathers or bathers—but as he has taken up his abode on Pacific avenue we guess he is not far from the beach. He is waiting for the Democrat to bring him news from Nebraska.

Lewis Welbaum, from Medicine Bow, Wyoming, has been here visiting his brother Jake, and a few friends of the days before he went to Wyoming some eight or ten years ago. He left Monday to visit with his other brothers, Link and Ben, who are farming near Colome, South Dakota. He infers that Wyoming is a land of magnificent distances when he tells that his claim is only 35 miles from the railroad, and a matter of 75 or 80 from the county seat, which is always supposed to be somewhere near the county center. Oil wells and refineries are not among the impossible things dreamed of in the not distant future, for he is in Wyoming, which is proving a rich field of speculation on possibilities, and also with much evidence that the state may prove the equal of Pennsylvania as an oil producing state.

LAUREL FARMERS ENTER
VIGOROUS PROTEST

The following petition, signed by 100 farmers, in the vicinity of Laurel, is being wired to the governor of the federal reserve board, Washington, D. C.:

"Our country is full of corn, oats, pigs and half-fatted cattle," says the petition. "Your board is insisting that farmers sell these products to reduce indebtedness. The only salable produce is corn at 10 cents, and oats at 33 cents a bushel. A shill at this price will not pay the cost of raising the crop and will not liquidate any indebtedness, but will simply force the crops into the hands of speculators and a very large part of our farmers into bankruptcy, and at a time when the consumer is able to pay a fair price. This means that general bankruptcy will follow."

"We earnestly urge your board to declare that an emergency now exists, and to arrange for credit extension to farmers that some of the existing indebtedness can be paid out of the proceeds of the present crop. Your board outlined a policy last spring to bring down prices; and insofar as prices of farm products is concerned you have certainly more than accomplished your purpose. If your board would bring pressure to make a decent market our farmers would gladly sell their products."

Copies of this petition will be sent to commercial clubs throughout Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota.

The above has been finding place in the city papers of several states, and indicates an unhealthy condition—and seeks a remedy. It was the near approach of such a condition which had to do with the recent landslide. A lot of voters knew they were not satisfied—believed they wanted a change, but we fear they will want another change the next opportunity, for we fail to see that the winning party offers or has offered any real remedy for the situation.

It is a mighty good time now to do a bit of thinking—to discuss questions and learn their merits, if any, and prepare to make a change that will be beneficial—if it prove that the one just ordered fail to be what was hoped for.

"A SURPRISE"
(From the Goldenrod)

And it is recorded in the archives of history that a group of fun-loving members representing an institution overlooking the heights were one night resolved to forget that they were staid members of the faculty. It came to pass that the gentle power-behind-the-throne was the chief instigator of a dread conspiracy to fall upon and invade the newly-feathered nest which one male member was preparing for his loved ones; for they were to return the following week. And the conspirators wished to surprise and rejuvenate the skidding spirits of the lonely one.

And lo! when the plan had completely matured, strange looking bundles accompanied owners across fields untilled except by wind, sun and rain. And the beams of a frowning moon deterred them not. (For it was a moonlit night.) Behold! as the desperate ones hastened past the also frowning Hall of Science, there issued forth two whose professions were such as to insure protective coloration and the procession absorbed them gladly and moved "hunderward."

The tramp of resounding footsteps caused the registrar to remark, "There'll be a reckoning." (And the next morning found her busily engaged in recording percent marks.) In due time the multitude enveloped the domicile of the smile-enshrouded inhabitant; and the impedimenta secreted them at the rear of the building where moths could not corrupt nor thieves break through and steal. It so happened that the musical one was reading a peaceful treatise to the kitchen skillet on how it was to execute its work when its mistress should return, when lo, there dove in on his train of thought a dozen or more charming fellow-professors and professoresses, yell of "Surprise", and several whiffs of the beautiful, cool

If the government wants to help the people out in a time of money stress and at the same time keep the government bond at par, it might try a sort of common sense method. Just say, "Be it enacted: That all government bond are legal tender for debts, public and private. Amen". This is what Edgar Howard contended some months ago, and now J. C. Rundell says it would help the situation, or he is mistaken. We would like to see congress make the move.

CENTENNIAL HYMN

By John Greenleaf Whittier
Our fathers' God! from out whose hand
The centuries fall like grains of sand,
We meet to day, united, free,
And loyal to our land and thee.
To thank thee for the era done,
And trust thee for the opening one.
Here, where of old by thy design,
The fathers spake that word of thine
Whose echo is the glad refrain
Of rended bolt and falling chain,
To grace our festal time, from all
The zones of earth our guests we call.

Be with us while the New World greets
The Old World thronging all its streets;
Unavailing all the triumphs won
By art or toil beneath the sun;
And unto common good ordain
This rivalry of hand and brain.

Thou, who hast here in Concord furled
The war flags of a gathered world,
Beneath our western skies fulfill
The Orient's mission of good-will,
And, freighted with love's Golden Fleece,

Send back its Argonauts of peace.

For thou art labor met in truce,
For beauty made the bride of use,
We thank thee; but, withal, we crave
The austere virtues strong to save,
The honor proof to place or gold,
The manhood never bought or sold;

Oh make thou us, through centuries
long,

In peace secure, in justice strong;
Around our gift of freedom draw
The safeguards of thy righteous law;
And, cast in some diviner mold,
Let the new cycle shame the old.

far from art collections, the opportunity to come into daily contact with real works of art, is only one of the many things done in this school,
showing the interest of its President in the lives of the students, and in the great work we hope they will do in education when they go out from this school to help in training the children of this great state. To be able to appreciate a good painting is the first step to be taken in any plan for training others to appreciate. It is idle to suppose that an educated taste in art may be had from the reading of books about artists and their work. These have a place, naturally, once interest has been excited by contact with the thing itself. A great deal may be done by collecting good reproductions in color, and hanging them where they may make, daily,
the silent appeal of beauty to all who enter the class rooms. The collection of such prints owned by the Wayne Normal is a very fine one. It includes the best color prints to be had of such world famous pictures as "The Night Watch" by Rembrandt, Raphael's "Madonna della Tenda", one of the treasures of the Munich collection, the lovely pictures by the Dutch landscape painters and many others. It is therefore quite time to begin a collection of originals, the study of which will enable the art-loving student to imagine for himself how much more beautiful the originals of these prints must be than even the most skillful reproduction can be made to appear.

The two pictures chosen to add to the two paintings already owned by the school are about as widely different in subject and method as could well be imagined, yet both are beautiful, each in its way. The first is a flower painting by one of the two brothers the world have long since recognized as the greatest of all flower painters. The DeLongpre brothers, Paul and Raoul, both painted flowers
so perfectly that it has been said of them that they conveyed the peculiar essence of the flower, as well as its form and color. Paul de Longpre is better known in America, where he made his home, and did his best work.

His brother remained in Paris and it is from his brush that we have this charming study of peonies and lilacs.
The work is realistic and in the manner of the last century. The color appeals to the lover of the world of flowers as perfect, the drawing is delicate and sure, and the composition leaves nothing to be desired. No pottery or other bijouterie is introduced to distract the attention. The artist relies wholly upon his skill in rendering the delicate texture of petals, the subtle changes of color in light and shadow, and upon his graceful and dexterous drawing of the fragile blossoms which even as he painted began to drop their petals. With what a light and whimsical touch the artist has drawn these just fallen flowers, resting on the table as lightly as thistle down!

There is at least the breadth of the Atlantic and a hundred years of painting between the delicate flower painting and the other picture, which is one of the latest from the outdoor studio of Robert Gilder, of Omaha.
Robert Gilder is one of those silent,
dynamic men who manages to do about three times as much with one human life as even the great among human beings. He is an editor of recognized ability, in company with his famous brothers and sister. He is one of the ablest among archaeologists,
being the discoverer of the Loess
man, the oldest human remains found in America, also the prehistoric flint quarries of eastern Wyoming. He has uncovered proof of a prehistoric culture in eastern Nebraska, and has written many magazine articles upon subjects of interest to ethnologists and archaeologists. In recognition of his services the University of Nebraska conferred a degree in 1917. This might be said to be a sufficient range of interests for one man, but in addition to all this, Robert Gilder has become a painter of ability. He has painted in Wyoming, Arizona and Nebraska, and although he has reached the middle age before taking painting seriously, he paints with a modern palette on which there are none of the browns and blacks of the artist of yesterday. He paints with the verve of youth. Vigorous, virile and full of the fire of poetic inspiration, he paints the snow-covered, tree-grown fields along the Missouri, the high keen color of the Arizona mesa, or the lush green growth along a country road, a wee white house set among its rich color. But always whatever he paints you see that he is a lover of the light. It is the glorious light pouring over the snow-covered fields and lighting the tree trunks until they seem almost to burn,—the light from a red winter sunset,—that is the great charm of the picture which has just come to the school. Out beyond the woods in the open field the snow crust glistens as we have all seen it, on a keen, cold Nebraska day. The long violet shadows are cold on the rose tinted snow, and make a fine foil for the brilliant light on tree trunk, fence-post and stile. It takes courage to put a wire fence in picture, yet here it is, and strangely enough it is not so unpoetic but that it takes its place in the harmony. It is a good sign when an artist does not go far afield,
seeking for something picturesque,
but is content to let his genius glorify the commonplace. In this picture there is joy for one who wants to see something familiar well depicted, and joy for the critic who rejoices in clean brush work, splendid color, and masterly workmanship. There is no color so high as that of nature. No man can imitate light. It takes a clever painter to make you believe he can. By the nice adjustment of colors of just the right value played one over against the other with a view to setting up the right nervous reaction,
—the one which makes you believe for a minute that you are looking at a sunset in the snowy woods and not at a little rectangle of canvas, with only two dimensions roughly daubed w-
paint, he turns the trick.

Robert Gilder has the direct and forceful, rather than the graceful method which marks out the modern painter. He is sure he has something to say and is increasingly sure that he knows how to say it. His brush work improves as every man's does as his brush lays down more miles of

paint. He turns the trick.

NEW STORY ABOUT PILGRIMS

Writers Claim Early Settlers in America Were Kidnapped From the London Virginia Company.

Some historians, notably Azell Ames, who has compiled "The Mayflower and Her Log" from original sources, assert that the skipper of the Mayflower was Capt. Thomas Jones, a rough seadog who had led a more or less piratical career on the high seas. Between Capt. Jones and Sir Ferdinand Gorges and doubleless Weston, they allege that a plot existed whereby the Pilgrims were deliberately stolen from the London Virginia company and planted on territory outside of the Virginia grant. The maneuvering about Cape Cod, according to this interpretation, was simply a part of the plot to discourage the Pilgrims from settling near the Hudson, as evidently they intended when they left Holland.

The exact identity of "Master Jones" is not clear. Historians of the Massachusetts Historical Society say that the skipper was one Christopher Jones, a trustworthy man, entirely different from Capt. Thomas Jones, who was known to have a checkered career during his voyages to Virginia and other colonies. The course of American colonial history may have been greatly changed when the Pilgrims encountered the shoals and unfavorable winds off Cape Cod, but this bit of destiny can be easily exaggerated. It is sufficient here to relate that the Pilgrim colony was founded outside the jurisdiction of the London Virginia company.

PRODUCES COTTON IN COLORS

Southerner Has Succeeded in Growing
Green and Brown and Is Experimenting on Black.

A. W. Brabham has submitted to the Cotton Exchange of Savannah four samples of colored cotton—light brown, dark brown, light green and dark green. They are the results of years of experimentation. Mr. Brabham says that other colors will appear when a number of cotton plants in his garden that are not yet fully grown begin to bear.

The botanist has not yet been able to produce black cotton, but he says he will do so in time. It would have appeared this year, he contends, if a package of the seeds of a blue-tinted cotton, mailed to him by a botanist in Delhi, India, had not gone astray. Mr. Brabham has sent for another package of these seeds, and he is convinced that if he crosses them with certain of the cottons he has already grown the result will be black.

Luther Burbank once told Mr. Brabham that he would produce black cotton for a million dollars. Mr. Brabham replied that he thought he could do it more cheaply, and thereupon started his experiments.

Process of Becoming Convinced.

Every day he called her over the telephone.

Every day she refused to see him.

But his experience with women had taught him to understand their coquetry, and he knew that her refusal was not sincere.

One morning when he telephoned she said that she would be glad to see him, but she was engaged for the day.

The next morning she was sorry to have to miss him again, but she did not have a minute free.

And the next day she wished that he had telephoned sooner, for she had just made an engagement. Would he please call again?

His experience with women taught him that her refusal was sincere.—From Life.

Canada to Allot Land to Eskimos.

It is announced from Ottawa that the Canadian government has decided to reserve for the remnant of the Eskimos a small part of the territory over which they formerly ranged at will in the varying pursuits of fishing and hunting, says the New York Evening Mail. The reservation is to consist of Banks and Victoria Islands, north of the vast region, wide as the continent, known as Northwest territory, and far north of the Arctic circle.

From this reservation, and apparently the waters immediately adjacent to it, white hunters are to be excluded; and those who have begun operations on Banks Island will be ousted.

Thus the resources needed to sustain

Eskimo life will be preserved.

Welsh Believe in Witchcraft.

Witchcraft in Wales is still in existence, as was shown recently by a case which was tried at the Glamorgan assizes. A Welsh farmer and his family, who were suffering from a skin disease, sent for a local wise woman, believing they were all cursed. The woman pronounced the family bewitched, and prescribed for a fee of $610 small charms made of wood and cinders. Other instances of the same woman's exploits were mentioned, when for amounts varying from $500 to $1,500 she demonstrated her powers among credulous folk.

Girls Traveled Far in Wilderness.

Down the wild and rugged east shoreline of Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, where not a farm nor a settlement breaks the desolation, two young women of eastern Canada recently rowed 200 miles in an open boat, taking a month for the trip and making their own camp every night. The collection of fossils, in which the region is rich, was the object of the remarkable journey. A lone Indian was the only human being sighted in the entire distance. The daring voyagers were deposited by a steamer at the mouth of the Berens river, about midway of the lake, and from that point were wholly dependent upon their own resources.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

SUNDAY HALF A CENTURY AGO

Spirit and Letter of Commandment
Both Thoroughly Obeyed in Western New York.

My mother was born and reared in a little country village in western New York. On the farm where my grandmother lived it was the custom to begin Sunday on Saturday night at sunset. The "hired man" came in from the chores, grandmother put away all her work in the kitchen, and then the entire family gathered in the "best room" and studied the Sunday-school lesson, or had a reading from the Bible, led by grandfather, and all the family retired not later than 9 o'clock.

In the morning, after doing none but the absolutely necessary chores on the farm, the team that had not been used the day before was hitched up to the big four-seated wagon and the entire family including the "hired" help, went to church. There was preaching service in the forenoon, and we adjourned to a lunch for ourselves and the team. Then we went in to a Sunday-school service, and after an interval there was another preaching service, after which we hitched up and drove slowly back to the farm.
