EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH BLAZES

About two o'clock Sunday afternoon fire was discovered breaking through the roof of the Evangelical Lutheran church building in the west part of the city. The alarm was at once sent in—but for some reason did not get a very quick action from the pumping station, so a little time was lost there in getting the fire-fighting equipment into action. But when the alarm was finally sounded no time was lost in getting into action. One who held the time on the equipment as it passed said that but two minutes time passed after the alarm until equipment was at the scene.

The blaze was a bad one to fight, being confined entirely to the roof of the building. The first hydrant attached to proved defective, making it necessary to change to another, which meant a loss of time. After an hour fight the flames were under control, and the roof was practically destroyed, the plaster of the building ruined and the furniture all water-soaked. Those who have gone into details of the estimate of the loss believe that it will take no less than $3,000 to restore the damaged parts to condition as good as before. The work of repair is already started, and the building will be put in shape to continue services there as early as possible. Meantime the Woman's Club have tendered the use of their building, the opera house, and the Baptist and English Lutheran at least have also offered them use of their church buildings, all of which shows a brotherly spirit. What offer they may think best to accept is not now known.

The cause of the fire, as is frequently the case, is not easily determined, but most people hold to the theory that it was from wires, judging by where it seems to have originated. There appeared to be no defect in the flue, and the furnace pipe enters it in the basement; nor had there been much fire that day in the furnace.

The loss is partially covered by insurance of which there was $1,500 on the building and $750 on the contents.

A BIG CLOSING SALE

On another page of this paper is the story of a big sale to be held about ten or twelve miles southeast of Wayne on Tuesday the 25th of the month when the personal property of the late George Denkage will be sold by the administrators, the brother and the brother-in-law of the deceased man. Two things about this sale should be noted—one is that on account of the large amount to be sold, it starts at 10 o'clock. Another is that while it is an administrator sale, arrangements have been made to give time on sums in excess of $25, while such sales are frequently cash sales. It will certainly be a good sale for those in need of any of the many things offered to attend, and we predict that many will go from this vicinity.

LECTURE COURSE NUMBER

Maud Ballington Booth, the "little mother" of the prisons, will speak at the Normal auditorium on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

This is one of the really big numbers of the course. Mrs. Booth is one of the most remarkable women in the world. She has organized and vitalized sane prison reforms and is today a woman of world wide influence.

She is a speaker of marked ability and should be given a crowded house as a tribute of appreciation for her great work by the citizens of Wayne. Reserved seats may be secured at the Wayne Drug Company's store, Friday morning. Single admission, 50 cents.

NEW IMPLEMENTS AT AUCTION

That is the plan the Farmer Union at Wioside is taking to reduce their stock of implements. Elsewhere they take space to tell you just what they propose to sell, and also tell the regular retail price, and urge you to come to their auction and tell how much they are worth to you. It puts all buyers on an equal footing, and makes it possible for the man who wants these new goods at his own price to know just what his saving is. The sale is billed for Saturday, January 24th. Read of it and plan to supply your needs.

CRADLE

HAHN—At Sioux City, Monday, January 17, 1921, to Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Hahn, of Randolph, a daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Hahn (Alma Craven) are both well known at Wayne, and will share with the proud grandparents, who reside here in the hearty congratulations extended.

I. O. O. F. AND REBEKAHS INSTALL

A very pleasant evening was spent Friday last at the I. O. O. F. hall when the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs held joint installation of officers. About one hundred and fifty people were present and a grand good time is reported.

The following officers were installed by the Odd Fellows, a delegation from Emerson putting on the work in splendid form: Harry McMullen, N. G.; Henry Cozad, V. G.; William Beaman, Chaplain; Herman Lundberg, Secretary; Henry Ley, Treasurer.

The Rebekahs installed the following officers: Mrs. W. Fisher, N. G.; Mrs. Clyde Oman, V. G.; Mrs. E. E. Fleetwood, Secretary; Mrs. W. A. Hixcox, Treasurer. The home team with the aid of Mrs. George Lamberson, district grand deputy, put on the work. Mrs. Lamberson for the Rebekahs and H. Griggs, grand marshal, for the Odd Fellows, deserve special mention. They had their work memorized and gave it without a mistake. This added greatly to the beauty of the teachings of the orders.

A splendid supper was served by the Rebekahs and the balance of the evening was spent playing games and dancing.

The following people from Emerson attended the meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. George Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Sherer, Paul Lovell, and Wm. Zastrow.

THE BANQUET AND SPEECH

A hundred men or more gathered at the M. E. church Monday evening to partake of a splendid banquet provided by the ladies and listen to a talk from Rev. Titus Lowe, who was the principal speaker. It was a good time that all had. Some enjoyed the feast of eats much—and others praised the excellent talk most. Rev. Lowe is a good speaker, and he had a message to the people there. He told of scenes in Europe when the war was on, and he told of victories won, as well as of difficulties overcome here at home and he told how both came about in two short words—"Team Work." Then he said that those who wanted to make the most real progress in the good work now so badly needed the world over should simply remember and apply the lesson made so plain in the great crisis and do real team work. Others made short talks, with that the key note. Now the question is, will it be simply a good feed and a good talk with application.

CAAUWE-ROBERTS

Wednesday, January 19, 1921, at the Methodist parsonage, by Rev. Kilburn, Mr. Roy R. Roberts and Miss Sena Caauwe were united in marriage. Miss Rena Roberts and Mr. Lee Caauwe, sister and brother of the bride and groom, acted as witnesses. The young couple left on the early morning train for Sioux City on a short wedding trip. They will make their home on a farm near Wayne.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Roberts, who have lived near this place for the past ten years. The young folks have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

WELDON-TREVETT

At the office of the county judge, and by him on Wednesday, January 19, 1921, Mr. William H. Trevett and Miss Opal A. Weldon were united for life in the bonds of matrimony. The groom is a son of Orlando Trevett, of Wakefield, and a lad who spent ten months in service with the artillery in France. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Weldon recently moved to Emerson from Dallas, South Dakota. After March 1st the young folks will be at home on a farm northwest from Emerson, and will remain at Emerson until that time.

RASMUSSEN-NELSON

Wednesday, January 19, 1921, by Judge, J. M. Cherry. Mr. Rasmus P. Rasmussen and Miss Edna Nelson were united in marriage. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Nelson, of Brenna precinct, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rasmussen. May and Ed. Nelson, sister and brother of the bride were witnesses.

FOOD SALE

The Young People, of the Evangelical Lutheran church, will hold a food sale at the Central Meat Market, Saturday, January 22nd. There will be bread, cake, home-made candies, and in fact most everything needed in the household. As our fire loss was only partially covered by insurance, your patronage would be very much appreciated.

BIBLE STUDY CIRCLE CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

The hospitable home of Mrs. J. H. Wright was the scene of a very joyous occasion Tuesday afternoon when the Woman's Bible Study Circle celebrated their nineteenth anniversary. The home was fragrant with bouquets of pink and white carnations and all available space was used to seat the large company of invited guests who gathered to offer praise and worship unto Christ who has used this group of praying ones to bring a blessing to so many needy hearts. Words of warm welcome were given by Mrs. C. E. McClellen, after the singing of "Jesus May Come Today," and opening prayer. The lesson exposition was given by Mrs. E. B. Young, and then followed a brief report of the years work touching the making of Christ known to those in outer darkness through the native ministry. In direct and definite answer to prayer over thirty native trained missionaries are sustained and are giving a powerful testimony among the thousands and tribes in all lands who have been found to be wholly without the yospel of Jesus Christ. Perhaps the most remarkable answer to prayer was the sending of four of these workers into Bhawalpur, India, where three million people in the great Punjab district had never once heard the name of Jesus.

A report from Ferris Gardner, the first missionary to enter that territory, and who is supported by Miss Esther Lundin at $100 per year, came in time for the anniversary. It is written in good English and contains the following report: "Eight months ago I had no notion of entering this new and foreign state which is lery far from my home and where the gospel has never been preached. Sixty-one persons have accepted Jesus Christ as their Saviour, repenting of their sins and giving up forever all their superstitions and old customs, and have been publicly baptised. Really the prospects are bright. There are more than two hundred enquirers. God has blessed marvellously! One hundred and fifty Bible portions have been sold."

Mrs. Henry J. Martin, of Emerson, who conducts a Bible Study Circle for the young people in that town, gave a touching report and read a new version of the "Ninety and Nine" with telling effect.

Miss Grace Soderberg, missionary to China, Miss Faith Richardson, volunteer for South America, and Miss Laura Thompson for Africa, and other volunteers, gave beautiful testimonies of God's leading in their lives.

Just before the serving of refreshments by the committee, Mrs. A. P. Gossard presented Mrs. Fred R. Dean with an appropriate remembrance in behalf of the circle. Prayer closed the most successful year in the history of the Wayne Bible Circle.

Mrs. Chichester will be hostess next week.

MORE PAVING UNDER CONSIDERATION

Plans and specifications are about complete for a paving district in the west part of the city, so Engineer Korabaugh tells us, subject to the will of the council.

Brick vans coming almost continually this week for the completion of the present contract. At last reports, 33 cars had been shipped, of which 13 had been received and unloaded. It will take nearly 250 more cars to cover the base already in, we are told.

OBITUARY

Vera Margaret Jones, age 1 year, 5 months and 15 days, born July 28, 1919, and died January 13, 1921. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. H. Jones, Wayne, Nebraska. Leaves 2 brothers and one sister, Theodore, Cyrus and Viola E. Jones.

THREE DAYS LEFT

There are yet three days in which to take advantage of the very low special prices quoted last week by Mrs. Jeffries on all lines of wear for the women. If you have failed to take advantage of this offering, look it up now. Coats that were made to sell for $75 and down to $35, are marked at from $20 to $30 for these remaining days of the sale. These garments are in no manner inferior in value or style to those sold earlier at regular price; and her loss may be your gain. The trend of prices will apparently be upward as soon as buying must commence again, and it is the part of economy to supply your needs now if you would buy to the very best advantage. As announced, Monday night the offer closes.—adv.

SOCIAL NOTES

Rev. Kilburn gave a very interesting talk at the meeting of the Woman's Club Saturday on the subject, "England's Church and School System." Rev. Kilburn is a native of England and received most of his education in that country and he very ably gave us a real picture of the church and school life of its people. He predicted in the not far distant future the disestablishment of the Church of England, that is, the separation of the Episcopal Church from the state.

A resolution was unanimously voted upon by the club endorsing the law proposed by the Children's Code commission providing for the inspection and approval of motion picture films.

Fifteen other states are now working on similar bills to be presented to their state legislatures. In Nebraska state wide organizations representing over 500,000 people are rallying to the support of this state censorship bill. Among those supporting it are the Nebraska League of Women Voters, the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, the W. C. T. U., the D. A. R., the P. E. O., the Nebraska Woman's Educational Club, the Nebraska State Teachers' Association, and several others, represented by their legislative chairman or head state officer. Petitions were circulated in several of the churches Sunday and among the various women's organizations of our city this week, asking our state legislature to enact the proposed law providing for the inspection and approval of motion picture films.

The members of the Minerva club had a most interesting and entertaining meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. House Monday afternoon. The program consisted of a piano duo by Mrs. W. E. Benman and the hostess and they responded to the hearty encore with a second selection. Roll call was responded to by favorite quotations. Mrs. H. J. Miner was the leader, and presented an excellent paper on "Current Poetry," with short stories of the writers and some of their short poems. Mrs. Crabtree read several short poems from the pen of Joyce Kilmer. The hostess assisted by Miss Edith Huse and Miss Mary House served refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. F. S. Berry the last day of January.

The Alpha Womans Club met Tuesday evening with Mrs. McLennon. The meeting was called to order by the president. Members responded to roll call with assigned topics. Miss Dewey and Miss Pierce each gave excellent papers, which were enjoyed very much by those present. Miss Dewey's paper was about poetry and music of the Bible. Miss Pierce's was about the art of the Bible. Mrs. Young gave two vocal solos. The guests of the club were, Mrs. Carlos Martin, Mrs. Gurnon, Mrs. Winder, Mrs. McLennon assisted by her sister, Mrs. Winder, served light refreshments. The next meeting will be with Mrs. B. W. Wright, February 2nd.

Miss Mary House entertained sixteen college girls at a dinner party Tuesday evening. The guests were seated at two tables and found places by means of very unique place cards. At 6 o'clock Mrs. House, assisted by Miss Neva Lackey served a delectable three course dinner, after which an hour socially. The guests were Misses Mabel Eberly, Dorothy Hitchcock, Gail Hypse, Mabel Britell, Martha Gackmier, Inez Herber, Eva Hughes, Tillie Solfermoser, Marjorie Miller, Gladys Olsen, Mildred Bacon, Gladys Bierman, May Neiland, Grace Johnson, and Lila Gardner.

The Central Social Circle met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ray Perdue. Discussion of Current Events followed the business meeting. The contest on the civil war was won by Mrs. John Gettman. Mrs. John Grier and Mrs. John Gettman each gave a splendid paper on New Years Resolutions. Mrs. John Grier gave several selections on the piano. Mrs. Joe Haines became a member. Hostess served a two course luncheon. Next meeting will be Thursday, February 10th, at the home of Mrs. John Gettman, of Carroll.

The Woman's Club have invited Mrs. John Slaker, of Hastings, State President of the Federation of Women's Clubs to come to Wayne some time in February. Mrs. Slaker is visiting clubs all over the state and will be in the third district about February fifteenth. Wisner and Stanton and other near-by towns are in her itinerary.

The Monday Club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Main. Roll call was responded to with current events. Miss Piper gave a talk on "American Women in Politics." Mrs. Main, assisted by her mother, Mrs. McElroy, served a two course supper. Next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. T. T. Jones. Mrs. Moran will report on the "Irish Question." Members will answer roll call with current events on the same topic.

The P. E. O. Club held their regular program at the home of Mrs. H. S. Ringland, Tuesday evening. The lesson was on South America. Roll call was answered by Current Events on South America. Miss Piper gave a description on Rio De Jenerio and Miss Blair gave a description of the city of La Paz. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Chace, served refreshments. Next meeting will be held February 1, with Mrs. Senter.

The Coterie Club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Frank Morgan. Mrs. Will Jenkins read a very interesting book review on "The Rose Garden Husband." Burr Davis gave several selections on his saxophone; Mrs. Davis accompanied on the piano, hostess served refreshments. The club will meet next Monday with Mrs. William Mellor. This will be twice a day.

The Acme Club met Monday at the home of Mrs. Walter Weber. Members responded to roll call by giving the names of magazine writers. Mrs. J. D. Mines read a book review on "Quo Vadis." Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. Club will meet Monday, January 24th, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Ingham.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. T. House entertained the Danne basket ball team and their coach, Mr. Johnson, coach Marsten, of Normal team, Miss Reis, Miss Potts, Miss Conn, Miss Smothers, and Mr. and Mrs. Gulliver. The rooms were decorated in orange and black, Doane's colors. Hostess served light refreshments.

The Christian Endeavor, of the Presbyterian church, plan to have a Christian Endeavor week, from January 30th, until February 6th. On the evening of the 6th the services will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor. On Thursday night they will give a big pageant.

The U. D. Club met Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Miller. The lesson was quotations and reading from the biography of the life of Robert Frost. Next meeting will be held January 24th at the home of Mrs. Charley Craven.

The Sorosis Club held their regular meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. W. Coryell. The afternoon was spent with 500. Mrs. Henrahan was a guest. Club will meet January 24th with Mrs. C. J. Rosdal.

Mrs. W. O. Hanssen entertained fifteen friends at her home on Monday evening. Cards and dancing furnished amusements of the evening, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The P. C. F. Club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. John Nichol. The evening was passed with fancy work and socially. The hostess served refreshments.

The Early Hour Club will meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones. Dinner will be served at 6:30. The evening will be spent in playing 500.

Miss Reis entertained the Doane basket ball team and their coach at breakfast Saturday morning. Miss Reis was a former student at Doane.

W. C. T. U. meet Friday, January 21 with Mrs. D. W. Noakes. Members are urged to come as there is important business to be transacted.

The Sunday School Study class, of the Methodist church, met at the home of Mrs. George Crossland Wednesday evening.

On Friday evening the Mens' Bible class, of the Presbyterian church, will have a party at the home of F. G. Philleo.

The ladies of the Baptist Union, or Aid Society, are in session this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Bressler, where sewing is being done for some of their benevolent enterprises.

W. H. M. GROUP MEETING AT WAYNE

Friday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church there is to be a group meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary societies of this corner of Nebraska, at which the societies at Bloomfield, Randolph, Carroll and Norfolk will be represented. A splendid program is assured consisting of singing, interesting papers and reports and short talks by different members representing the places named as well as Wayne.

The expected program failed to arrive in time to be given today, but one in position to know, tells us that there is to be a paper on "Christian Stewardship" another about the "Mite Boxes" and that reports covering the work of the district in general will be given. Also a report of the great meeting of the National convention at St. Paul a few months ago, by one who attended for the purpose of letting it be known what the great organization of women are doing in their special work.

All members at Wayne and in the nearby towns are urged to be present, and the doors are open and a welcome awaits any interested whether members or not. It will be one of the important gatherings of these workers of the year.

Birthday Surprise

A pleasant surprise party was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. J. H. Wright Wednesday evening. It being the birthday of Mrs. Wright and also her niece, Mrs. Ralph Rundell. Mrs. Rundell made a birthday call on her aunt in the afternoon and was persuaded to take supper with them. But at the supper hour the guests began to appear, which filled Mrs. Wright with consternation as to what she should feed them all, until she was kindly informed it was a surprise and the "eats" were provided for.

The aroma of oysters soon filled each heart with cheer. Pink and white carnations decorated the table and places were laid for 26.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rundell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wright and family, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Miss Gertrude Wright and Miss Ruth Ammidown.

Mrs. Claude Ferrell entertained a few friends Wednesday evening at her home at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Rachael Preston, whose marriage to Mr. Chas. Buell is to occur in the near future. The decorations were pink and white, which color scheme was carried out in the refreshments. Victrola music was furnished as the refreshments were served. The bride-to-be received many beautiful presents, and the guests all spent a happy evening.

The Queen Esthers had a business session at the home of Miss Frances Cherry Tuesday evening, Miss Mabel Britell being the leader. After a pleasant evening they give out as one result of their deliberations, that a food sale is to be held Saturday afternoon for the benefit of those who wish to buy good food.

The practice teachers of the 9th and 10th grades of the Normal training school entertained their classes at the gymnasium Saturday evening. Each member of the party wore a costume representing some character. The evening was spent at games, and refreshments were served.

OUR LEGISLATURE

Our legislature continues to function after a fashion. Our report is brief this week, but we are glad to note that the members have decided that taxes are high enough, and are not to be increased by an act of legislature.

They also hold to the opinion that we have judges enough if they are properly distributed and keep busy.

A tax commissioner is to be appointed, and it is that that tax legislation will wait until he can investigate the needs and make recommendations.

In the legislative halls at Washington, it is decreed that we will lose one congressman—and the state be divided into five instead of six districts. Some one will have their nose out of joint.

Mrs. Emma Baker, who has just returned from a visit at Omaha brings greetings to the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klopping, whose neat modern home she visited. She says that they are indeed in a most pleasant home.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Cream, eggs, poultry bought by Fortner.—adv

Gus Paulsen, from Carroll, was a visitor at Sioux City Saturday.

Belden firemen enjoyed a feed at the close of their monthly meeting last week.

Darrell Trumbauer spent Saturday and Sunday visiting with Gerald Guffey at Emerson.

Miss Inez Herber, who is attending the Normal, returned to her home at Norfolk Saturday.

Mrs. E. Galey and Mrs. E. A. Surber and daughter, Aulda, spent Saturday visiting at Sioux City.

Mrs. A. Braasch and children, after spending a few days visiting here returned to her home at Laurel Saturday.

Mike Coleman, who has been spending a part of his time at Pender this winter was a Wayne visitor the last of the week.

Mrs. August Samuelson, who has been visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Clark, returned to her home at Wakefield Friday.

H. M. Hansen and wife, of Winside, returned home Saturday, following a ten-day visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Matsen, near Sholes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Leuck, of Wakefield, attended the basketball game here Friday night, Mr. Leuck being coach for the Wakefield team.

Mrs. H. H. Lipsey, who has been visiting a few days at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Judson, left for her home at Los Angeles, California, Friday.

Some people are mighty careless about expenses. They use gasoline to kindle the fire with. The loss of a life may be made up—but gas is too high by far for such uses.

The income tax collectors will soon be among the people to add them in making out their tax list, if they need aid, and many of them do, if they are to get things lined up to meet requirements.

A good bank is the leading we noticed on an advertisement the other day. If we could have a coal bank here in the winter and a sand bank in the summer, we could manage to dig out a living.

John F. Matthes, for many years a resident of Wisner, and of that vicinity before moving to town in 1888, died last week at the Tabitha home in Lincoln, at the age of 85 years, and the body was brought to Wisner for burial.

Mrs. F. G. Churchill and little daughter, Barbara, who have been staying nearly all winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Neely, left Saturday for Ames, Iowa. Mr. and Mrs. Neely accompanied her as far as Sioux City.

For a market for poultry, eggs and cream, remember Fortner.—adv

Miss Miss Marlen Martz spent Saturday visiting with her grandmother at Wakefield.

Louis Knoll, a resident of the Wisner vicinity since a lad in the 70's died last week at the age of 54 years.

Blaise Bowen and Carl Will went to Winner, South Dakota, Saturday, where they spent a few days visiting.

Mrs. J. A. Smith went to Coleridge Friday to spend a short time visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Albert Kennard.

Mrs. Effie Long and two children, Hilda and Malvin, went to Pender Friday and spent a few days visiting with her sister-in-law.

Mrs. Phoebe Brink, of Emerson, after spending a few days visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Wrobel, returned home Friday.

Harry King, who has been here refereeing for the basketball games Thursday and Friday nights, returned to his home at Norfolk Saturday.

The state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in Omaha, February 2-4. Headquarters will be at the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Frank Longe and children Hilda and Milda from southeast of Wayne, spent the week-end at the home of Mrs. Tonkes, at Pender, returning home Monday morning.

J. H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public roads, has recommended that the military road between Omaha and Fort Crook be paved and that federal aid be extended.

Mrs. Emma Baker went to Omaha Monday morning to meet and visit with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Lamm, of Harlan, Iowa. She hopes as well to visit at the Henry Klipping home and see Mrs. Stanton, who is yet at the Nicholas Senn hospital.

It is none too early, perhaps for our farmer friends to begin testing seed corn for their next crop. At the present price paid for corn no one can afford to go to the extra cost of a second planting, when it costs so little to find out whether or not your seed corn is good.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sheer, Mr. and Mrs. George Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, P. R. Lovell, and William Zastrow, all of Emerson, attended the joint installation of the Odd Fellows and the Rebekahs, here Friday night.

Mrs. Jas. McIntosh and children, from near Concord, came Monday evening to spend part of the week visiting relatives and friends here. They are guests at the Henry Merriam home part of the time. With them came her father, M. Harman, who is visiting his sister, Mrs. Agler, and with other relatives and friends.

Eggs wanted at Fortner's.—adv.

Wanted—Plain sewing by the day. Call Phone 77.—adv. 1-13-2.

Miss Bernice Anderson from Norfolk was here the last of the week to visit at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wheaton, returning home Sunday evening.

Mrs. M. A. Nye from Wisner, was here Monday afternoon while on her way to visit at Bloomfield. They formerly lived in the south part of Wayne county, and in those days visited Wayne occasionally.

Four cents of a cent per day—that is not much—but it will only cost you that sum to have the Nebraska Democrat mailed to you each week, anywhere in the United States. Why not try a $1.50 cents worth? Wayne is the post office, and the Phone is 145.—adv.

Prof. A. E. Rich, Superintendent of the Bloomfield schools, has resigned and quit the job. Not criticism of his work as a school man; but criticism of his recent marriage too shortly after the departure of the first Mrs. Rich. Too much gossip, and some newspaper comment in outside papers seemed to touch a tender spot.

Mrs. Mary Thomas was here Monday morning, on her way from Carroll; where she had been visiting friends; to her home at Winside. And Monday afternoon with her son-in-law, Paul Snowden and family and her daughter, Sadie, she started for a new home in southern Texas, where Mr. Snowden recently purchased property.

Wanted:—Men or women to take orders among friends and neighbors for the genuine guaranteed hosiery, full line for men, women and children. Eliminates darning. We pay 75c an hour spare time, or $36.00 a week for full time. Experience unnecessary. Write International Stocking Mills, Norristown, Pa.—1-20-tf.

One exchange with a member of the force also a member of the legislature says this is to be a busy session. We hope that none of the members overwork themselves. Cannot afford to on the salary they make. No one wants them to overdo. We want no overworked physical or mental wrecks blowing in home when the spring time comes.

Thos. Sundahl, representing the Sholes Consolidated school, came home Saturday from a trip to York and Lincoln. At the former place he attended a convention of the representatives of many schools, and a meeting of county superintendents. Many questions of interest to schools and school people were discussed, including taxes and tuitions.

The theatre building at Wynot burned recently. It was one of the old store buildings, converted into a place for movies. It was a Saturday night, and quite an audience assembled when a film blew up. All escaped unhurt except the operator, who was slightly burned. The firemen saved the adjoining building, but the theatre was almost a wreck.

At Pender they have organized a Woman's Auxiliary to the American Legion, and elected the following officers for the first term: President, Mrs. J. W. Maloney; Vice President, Mrs. Wm. Fischer; Secretary, Miss Lillie Christensen; Treasurer, Mrs. G. G. Griffin; Executive Committee—Above officers and Mrs. Sterling Taylor, Miss Olga Heyne and Mrs. Will Liverenz.

Members of the nonpartisan league in the Nebraska legislature—13 of them, according to the report, have fathered a bill for a soldier bonus to be paid by the state—$25 per month for each man each month. There is also provision that this bonus is to be used in the purchase of home or farm or establishing the one who receives it in business. Some of the representatives do not want the state to make last in the matter, but wait and see what the federal government will or is going to do. Representative Sandquist, of Wallkill, (Thurston county) is advocating such a move.

There is to be a meeting of the American Good Roads congress at Chicago February 9 to 12 and the importance of better roads will be discussed. Much information about the roads may be learned from the reports of this gathering, no doubt. The automobile has been the great factor in stimulating a demand for better roads, and then more and better roads. No country in the world has as many automobiles in use as this. There are 8,000,000 automobiles registered in the United States. We have 2,500,000 miles of rural roads, and use 40,000,000 auto tires yearly.

Fred Benschoot was a passenger to Lincoln Tuesday, going down to attend the annual meetings of the Nebraska Mutual and Dwelling House Mutual Insurance companies, for which he holds a local agency. While in the capitol city Fred will no doubt interview our senator and the representative from this county as to what they are going to do for the Wayne county farmers and business men—and especially the insurance concerns. We would not want to accuse Fred of being a professional lobbyist on the evidence at hand, but we think he should see that the legislative members have some good advice.

Wayne Bakery

In practically every exchange one pick off the editorial table are stories of price reduction. Especially on winter clothing and foot wear. Beyond a doubt some of the merchants are not making any money on these sales—else they were holding the people up good and proper for a long profit. We incline to the opinion that in most instances the goods are sold for less than it cost to lay them in stock.

Sherman said something about war that took well because it was true. A man named Sherman, when the resumption of special payment was under discussion in congress said that the way to resume was to resume. So now the world needs a Sherman to insist that the way to disarm is to disarm. Scrap the navy, the cannon, the guns and the ammunition. It will be all right to let the officers continue to wear their swords.

The American Legion boys of Laurel, had a banquet last week, and a good feed. On account of bad roads, their speaker, Rev. Beard, of this city, could not attend, and the same cause kept many of their country members at home, so out about forty were present. They elected officers and named delegates to their meeting at Lincoln last week. G. A. Wright and C. G. Smith were named for the Lincoln meet.

C. W. Lowry, from Winside, returned home Friday from a visit at the home of his son at Bloomfield. He went up to make the visit about a month ago, and was not feeling well at that time, and for a reason as will be seen when we tell that it developed that he was coming down with small pox. He went thru all right, and his beauty was not much disfigured when he said hello to the Democrat man on the home trip. He had been at Sioux City before going to Bloomfield, and thinks that it was on that trip that he contracted the disease.

G. W. Gartner, of Coleridge, has invested in some "Mule-Footed" hogs, and plans to breed the same for those who want the fad. They are said to be cholera immune, which is their selling point, so far as we know. About thirty years ago, Jim Powers, of Villisen, Iowa, imported a start of this breed of porkers from Kansas or Texas, and they excited a bit of curiosity among the natives for a few months—but Jim never made a fortune on them, and soon no one seemed to take any interest in them, and we doubt if ever there was 100 grown in Montgomery county, and that is a small number as hogs go and grow down in that land of corn and blue grass.

W. Y. Miles, from Sidney, where they moved nearly three years ago, was a caller Friday. He had been at Omaha as a delegate to the Farmer Union from his county, and came home this way to visit his daughter, Mrs. Thompson, southwest of Wayne, and to greet a lot of friends. He tells us that the farmers there as a rule had good crops last season—and those who thought it would grow, no matter how put in, did not all have bumper crops. As to the prospect for winter wheat next year, he says opinions differ. The early sown wheat is much of it brown in color, and he thinks that the dry weather is not the cause, for their subsoil is well supplied with moisture. The later sown crop is most of it apparently well rooted and an inch of growth above the ground, and those who claim to know say that grain in that condition at this time of the year usually makes a crop. Speaking of prices, he said here and there all seemed to be hit about the same joint.—Of course, if prices remain low, and the crop prove light they will see hard times. Some now are experiencing hard times. What they spent in their more prosperous days seems to be the same as here, a cause for regret, where too lavish of their temporary plenty.

Mrs. Jennie Lawrence, from near Randolph, who has long been a resident of a farm just across the line in Pierce county, was here Saturday morning on her way to visit at her old home at Garden City, Missouri, where a sister resides. It is nearly thirty years since she came to Nebraska. Comparing her home here with the old home there as a farming proposition, she expressed the opinion that we grow better and more corn here, one year with another than they do; and judging by the prices at which farm lands sell here and there we have the better country.

Ogry of spending is over, says a newspaper report of a few days ago. Well, most people have retrenched very materially in that line.

The world today is turning to business with maximum efficiency the keynote of all endeavor, if we may believe what we read in the newspapers. Let us hope it prove true.

If the legislation now fixed goes on to finish the U. S. Army will be reduced to 175,000 men. That's plenty—more than any of our near neighbors can whip. Besides, if we have to, we can quickly make it ten million men—if we have a just cause to call for them.

Who would like to be an ex-prince? Frederick William once crown prince of Germany. The poor devil is not wanted back in Germany, he seems to have found out—nor is he wanted where his father and mother are, it seems, and if he should want to stay wherever he is he is not very welcome. The way of the transgressor is rough and rocky, Bill. You should have thought of that when you was a mere lad.

Biff—One of the committee at Lincoln killed a bill—it was a landowner bill which is copied from an Iowa bill, and it is designed to protect the poor land owner who is farming the renter from being beat out of his rent by the avaricious tenant—or something of that kind. If it is relation to one Iowa law of which the writer learned it is good work that the committee did. Our experience with that law was something like this: A tenant was not going to make good and pay his rent one year when prices were bad and as well as the crops.

The tenant came in for sale bills, because the landlord had decided that was the best thing to do, for the landlord and the tenant, who was to get nothing for himself was to pay for the bills—and asked for extension of time until the day after the sale which was readily granted, for we did not know the circumstances at that time as we did after. Well, the sale failed to give the landlord his "pound of flesh." So the tenant had not a thing with which to pay the bill except seven bushels of potatoes at 25c the bushel, which he had been permitted to save from the wreck to winter himself, his wife and three children on. These he offered in payment—but we did not need potatoes—not that badly at least, and told him that the bill was marked off same as paid. That landlord, we are glad to say, never again prospered. Some enticing woman won his affections—if he had any—and his money, broke up the family relations of what should have been a happy home. He left for a new country, went into the saloon business and worse—and finally died almost if not quite a pauper—and we do not need to say where he went—if there is any such place. A law that is not just and fair is better buried by the committee.

One of the battles slated for the next campaign, the floor work of which is now under way, appears to be a conflict between the American Legion and the Nonpartisan League followers. It is now two years—almost—before an election will be held in Nebraska, making a good time for all to study the positions taken by the two organizations, and why they hold the views they do. The American Legion and its auxiliary for women is destined to become a wonderful organization, capable of doing a power of good in this country. It is not a political organization—that is, as we understand, its membership is made up of the soldiers of the late war, and the auxiliary is mothers, sisters or wives of those who went to the front at the call of their country. They were not and are not of any one political faith; and cannot be expected to all see alike on economic questions. The Nonpartisan League may be bad—at least not all good; but it has some good men in it, and men who are there because of a conviction that what they endorse of its policy is for the best interest of all. Yet, in the membership of both organizations are men actuated by selfish motives. Not all of the membership of Nonpartisan League in this county are dishonest, disloyal or wrong in their belief; nor are they all selfish or so foolish as to be blindly led by those who may hold more radical views. The best way to settle differences is to get acquainted and learn first hand where the other fellow stands, and in a friendly manner let him know your position, and then discuss the questions involved. There has been too much attention given to the "straw" men set to be knocked down and walked over, who does not represent the true position of either side. The truly American weapon in all matters economic and political is argument; and it should be fair and honestly directed to the questions at issue.

FROM A FARMER FRIEND
The following clippings from the Capper Weekly have been sent to the Democrat with the request that we give them a place in the paper, which we gladly do:

Cruel Vanity
Poor old Nero! He merely added while Rome was burning. In callous indifference to suffering he has been surpassed by Mrs. William B. Leeds, the American woman who recently became the wife of Prince Christopher of Greece. Mrs. Leeds has achieved the distinction of paying $45,000 in Paris for a Russian fur coat, the costliest garment ever sold in the world, at a time when 3 1/2 million children are starving in Central Europe and every $10 saves a human life.

Who World Ever Learn?
Sound sense from the Kansas City Retail Lumberman: "When all of us once more adopt the always beneficent policy of striving to give all we can for a dollar instead of trying to see how little we can give, then and not until then will the old-time prosperity and contentment prevail! Nothing truer. But will the world ever learn there is only one kind of business that is good business, namely, fair business?"

PUPILS MUST KEEP UP REGULAR SCHOOL WORK

Hartington News. Pupils in Nebraska schools may not abandon or be taken away from their regular studies in order to devote their time exclusively to religious instruction, according to a ruling made by County Superintendent Schwerin and County Attorney Millard. Pupils of school age must take up the usual studies and can give time for religious instruction only when they take up regular school work or after school hours or on Saturday and Sunday.
Supt. Demmel and Truant Officer Wallerstadt, of Coleridge, have been experimenting difficulty in securing regular attendance of a number of children in that vicinity. An investigation disclosed that they were being kept out of the regular school in order to devote their entire time to receiving religious instruction at the Lawn Ridge Lutheran parochial school, in anticipation of being confirmed about Easter. No studies other than religion are taught at the Lawn Ridge school, Rev. Fleischman, the pastor, not being possessed of a teacher's certificate.
Rev. Fleischman has been advised by the county authorities that the children must keep up their regular school work in a school conducted by a teacher holding a regulation certificate. If this is done they may devote as much time as they wish to receiving religious instruction.

The officers have announced their intention of enforcing the law and prosecutions are likely to follow further violations.

CONDEMN HIGH PRICED STOCK FOODS

Prominent Hog Raiser Says Prices Charged Are Unwarranted—Makes His Own Hog Food, With Better Results
"That he is all through paying fancy prices for stock foods and hog remedies and that he is raising some of the best hogs ever placed on the market" was the statement made recently by E. H. Beckstead, well-known hog raiser and authority on live stock.
Mr. Beckstead's hogs are the envy of his neighbors, and have "topped the market" for several years in Iowa. He states that for years he bought high-priced hog foods and hog remedies, but he is all through paying extravagant prices for what he can make himself. He states that what the hogs need are minerals, and tells the secret of his wonderful success by explaining that he takes about five pounds of ordinary mineraline (which is pure concentrated minerals and cost only a couple of dollars) and mixes same with enough bran or filler to make a hundred pounds. All hogs, and especially brood sows require minerals as they keep them free from worms, and in the pink of condition, and are essential to the hogs growth and a well balanced ration. This inexpensive mixture placed in a sheltered box where the hogs can get at it as they need it, will produce far better results than any high priced so-called stock foods.
Send two dollars to The Mineraline Chemical Co., 1638 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill., and they will forward you by prepaid parcel post, enough mineraline to make a full hundred pounds.—Adv.

LOOKING BACK TO OTHER DAYS

Laurel Advocate)
In reading the "Old Home Paper," the Herald, of Plankinton, South Dakota, published by Tom Taubman, we always read the "Thirty Years Ago" column. In a recent issue it mentioned the organization of a volunteer fire company, taken from its issue of December 7, 1890, when the following officers were elected: "Tom Taubman, foreman; Sam Greer, assistant; Carey Nevin, secretary; Sam Hodson, treasurer." Taubman is still editor of the Herald; Greer we have not heard of for years; we've been in Laurel 21 years, and Hodson died some 25 years ago.
The editor of The Advocate was a member of that volunteer company for a number of years; and Taubman was foreman for a number of years, then he was chief for many years, only a couple of years ago refusing a re-election—allowing some younger man to attend to the duties of the office.

CHILD WELFARE WORK
Theodore Hanson, President of the National Hygiene and Welfare bureau is conducting an educational campaign along the lines of social hygiene, and child welfare in our state and will be in Wayne for the afternoons and evenings of February 7th and 8th. The meetings will be held at the Opera House. Governor McKelvie has asked Mr. Hanson to especially emphasize the Child Welfare Laws prepared by the Children's Code commission, and which will be voted on by our state legislature in the near future. Dr. Hanson spent three days in Wayne some four or five years ago and those who heard him then praise him very highly. He is a man of national reputation in welfare work and Wayne should be glad of the opportunity to have him here.

Last week E. E. Lackey was called to Chicago by the Rand, McNally Publishing Co., who have been publishing some of his writings on geography; and they evidently wished more on the same topic. He returned home Wednesday morning, and tells us that he is furnishing them with additional matter for publication, relating to modern geography. Professor Lackey is one of the recognized authorities in matters relating to the geography of the world.

The Norfolk-Sioux City limited on Wednesday morning carried two men of some note in the sporting world—Eddie Gillman, if not the light-weight champion, at least near thereto, and his manager, Jas. Kane. The reporter had not time to interview the gentlemen, but stole one good look at the pugilist—a slim fellow, but seemingly well muscled, with a pair of real sledge-hammer hands.

G. G. Porter, of Lake Preston, South Dakota, spent Monday and Tuesday here visiting among relatives and friends. He felt that he had landed in a country colder than the one he came from when he first landed; but when it came time to leave Wednesday morning he realized that he had just happened to meet the meanest two days of the winter. Not the coldest, but the most disagreeable—a damp atmosphere with the mercury just below the freezing point. Wednesday morning it was not even freezing cold, and the sun was breaking thru the clouds giving promise of one of those winter days in which all Nebraska people feel a pride—and when we feel sorry for those who have left this good land and fine climate for California or Texas. Mr. Porter tells us that there seems little difference in the times in a financial way here and there.

Mr. and Mrs. Arno Jones from Omaha, came a week or more ago to visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jones, southeast of Wayne. Mrs. Jones was until quite recently Miss Maud Miller of Glenwood, Iowa, who she had been living at Omaha with a sister for a time before her marriage to Mr. Jones, which occurred at Council Bluffs, Iowa, January 5th 1921. Mr. Jones has spent part of his time with his parents here during the past five or six years, but more time near the old Iowa home. He was with Iowa militia company at Glenwood, and with them went to the Mexican border for his first taste of real camp life. Later he went with the same boys across, and they were among the first American troops to meet the Germans in battle, he being with the famous Iowa regiment. He was wounded in one of their early battles and was a long time in a hospital, and later back to the front, and was with the troops who went into Germany after the armistice, we believe. He has been employed for a time at an undertaking parlor at Council Bluffs, and is now open for a place in that line, or might rent a farm if opportunity came his way.

Harry Simon and E. W. Darnell, of Winside, were in Wayne between trains today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Davis and Mrs. S. E. Auker spent the day visiting at Sioux City today.

Mrs. L. J. Cortwright, who has been here some time visiting with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Van Norman, and father, Mr. Lee Igou, left this morning for her home at Fairmount, Minnesota.

Mrs. E. E. Lackey is to leave this week for California, where she will visit her sister at Los Angeles the remainder of the winter. It is her plan to stop for short visits at Kearney, Lodgepole and Denver, and then take the remainder of the trip without other stop.

Mrs. Foley, from Spencer, came the last of the week from Omaha, and carried here to visit her sister, Mrs. Alice McManigal. When she left for home Tuesday evening, Mrs. McManigal accompanied her as far as Norfolk and spent the night there with her daughter.

A number of new pieces of machinery have recently arrived for the Wayne planning mill, and a part of them have been installed and are busy cutting lumber—mostly now for the incubators. One or two additional pieces have not yet been unboxed, but will be ready as soon as needed.

H. H. Beemer and Henry B. Bruce, of Hoskins, were Wayne visitors between trains this morning.

Mrs. Charles Patton and three children, of Mound City, Missouri, after spending a short time visiting with her sister, Mrs. George Hoguewood, left Wednesday for Blencoe, Iowa, where she will visit with friends before returning to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Senter were passengers to Omaha this morning, where they will visit his brother and he will look the market over a little. Vic says it is his first vacation since he went to the hospital and had his gall taken out.

Mrs. Ada Rennick has rented the Coleman residence on the corner of 7th and Pearl streets, and is to move there soon, having sold her home here a few months ago to give possession next month some time.

Miss Jocanna Fox and sister-in-law, Mrs. John Fox, and baby, left Wednesday for Sioux City, where they will visit with relatives and will also visit other places in Iowa with friends and relatives.

L. C. Gildersleeve was looking after business at Omaha this week, going down Tuesday morning.

Mrs. M. A. Nye, who has been visiting at Bloomfield, was a passenger to her home at Wisner this morning.

Fred R. Dean and family are planning to leave this good town of Wayne next Monday with a view of making a home in or near Los Angeles in the state of California. Many friends will miss them and wish them well in their western home.

Fred Benschopf, who reached home some time last night from his trip to Lincoln, tells us that he was named as one of the directors of the Dwelling-house Mutual Insurance Co., of this state, and that this will mean the placing the business of that going concern largely under his observation and care in this corner of Nebraska.

A PRESENT TO THE EDITOR

This paper receives weekly a communication containing much useful information relative to corporation and municipal owned power and pump plants, and the trend of all of their stories seems to be toward showing that the municipal or publicly owned plant is not a success—not the most economical, and not giving the best service. A sort of propaganda to build a public sentiment favorable to turning municipal plants into corporate plants. Now this is all right for those who think that way to advocate and urge it openly and above board. But if you happen to be one of those fellows who believe that it is best that public utilities be owned by the public, and properly and economically managed by the owners, their propaganda does not look quite fair.

They also give a few news items with their other stories. We notice one which says that the Southern Power Company, of Superior, is asking the railway commission for permission (and we have too much permission already given by our railway commission) issue $125,000 of preferred stock in the company and cut a melon in the shape of a $75,000 stock dividend. If this is given, one of the natural steps in the near future will be to ask permission to raise rates to make it possible to pay a dividend on this $125,000 stock, issued against what? Why against the need of the growing community for more electricity. Now if that is a legitimate need, it should pay the company well to provide to supply it, and because of the larger volume of product demanded make the rate perhaps a trifle less unless the needed output is such that for a time it will take the increase in new business a time to pay the cost of preparing to improve it.

"The company owns water rights and a dam site on a river named after a popular political party. Its plant has an estimated value of $552,000 (not necessarily the assessors' figures). The company desires to extend its dam, for which it has $25,000 on hand, pay $23,000 debts, and retire $75,000 on bonds, and extend transmission lines to new territory."

Of course, to some people the idea of some private concern owning the water which the Almighty sends to bless the earth when it is in a river, don't look right—they fail to show a clear abstract beyond some act of legislature, some members of which may have been well paid in stock or some other bribe for the act. If the corporate owned plants want to enlarge they should do so without paying themselves a premium in stock. If it is a good thing, assess the stockholders for the required money. That is the way a municipal plant would probably do—that is it would be called a tax. We fail to understand why some corporation should lay title to every stream and dam site in the land—not by a damn sight. They lay claim to them and then hold the public out of their use for years, in many instances.

FRESH AIR

Of all the Godsent blessings that are constantly about us, one of the best is the good old fresh air.

Gold mines, copper mines, potash lakes, cornfields (when the prices are right), steel mills, diamond quarries—none produce as essential and delightful and valuable a human commodity as this same old reliable fresh air!

There should be more of it in our office buildings. Ventilators should be in every window so that air may come through without terrifying the inhabitants by the danger of a "draught!"

By the way—what is a draught? A person thinks nothing at all of walking several blocks in a raging gale or a blizzard or something of the sort but if anyone opens a window in his or her office—gosh, what a yell about the "draught!"

What is the difference between fresh air and a draught? Fresh air is one of the few things you get for nothing nowadays. Why not take advantage of it?—Ex.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska.

In the matter of the Estate of Willard Graves, deceased.

To the widow, heirs at law, next of kin, personal representatives, creditors, and all persons interested in the estate of Willard Graves, deceased; I take notice that Edward Perry has filed his petition in said Court, alleging that Willard Graves died intestate, a resident and inhabitant of the State of Wisconsin, on the 14th day of July, 1875, leaving him surviving, his widow, Fanny Graves, and his children, as follows: George Graves, Philo Graves, and Jerusha Graham, as his sole and only heirs at law.

That at the time of the death of said Willard Graves, he owned and was seized in fee simple of the Northeast quarter, and the Southwest quarter, all in Section Eighteen (18), Township Twenty-six (26), Range Four (4), East of the 6th P. M., Wayne County Nebraska.

That the estate of the said Willard Graves, deceased, has never been administered upon in the State of Nebraska, but that it has been fully settled and allowed in the State of Wisconsin, and that all debts, claims and demands against said estate of Willard Graves, deceased, have been duly paid.

That the petitioner, Edward Perry now claims an interest in said premises and in said real estate by reason of a certain real estate mortgage, which mortgage is recorded in Book 42, page 357, of the Mortgage Records of Wayne County, Nebraska. Also claims a further interest in said real estate by reason of the fact that on or before March 1, 1920, he was the owner in fee thereof, and on said date sold, transferred and conveyed said premises to one Charles Meyer, Jr., but in said sale and transaction, the petitioner Edward Perry, agreed to perfect the title to said premises and to cure any apparent defects in the paper title thereof, without cost or expense to said Charles Meyer, Jr., which allegations and claims of interest are more fully set out in the petition filed herein.

The petitioner prays an order, finding and decree determining the date of the death, and the place of the death of said Willard Graves, deceased, for a determination of the heirs, widow, next of kin, of said Willard Graves, deceased, and the degree of kinship to him, and the right of descent of said real estate. And for an order barring all claims and creditors of said estate, and prays for general equitable relief.

Said petition will be heard at the County Court room, in the Court House, at Wayne, Nebraska, on the 14th day of February, 1921, at 11 o'clock, A. M., at which time and place the widow, the heirs, the next of kin, the creditors, and all persons interested in said estate may appear, and show cause, if any, why a decree should not be made and entered as prayed in said petition.

Dated this 10th day of January, 1921. (seal) J. M. Cherry, County Judge.

ORDER OF HEARING ON ORIGINAL PROBATE OF WILL

The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss.

At a County Court, held at the County Court Room, in and for said County of Wayne, on the 11th day of January, 1921.

Present, J. M. Cherry, County Judge. In the matter of the estate of Lena Jones, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Lloyd Albert Jones, praying that the instrument filed on the 11th day of January, 1921, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated, allowed and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said Lena Jones, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Lloyd Albert Jones as Executor.

ORDERED, That January 31, A. D. 1921, at 11 o'clock A. M., is assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a County Court to be held in and for said County, and show cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Nebraska Democrat, a weekly newspaper printed in said County, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing. (seal) J. M. Cherry, County Judge.

COMMISSIONERS PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska, January 11th 1921. Board met in regular session. Present: P. M. Corbit, commissioner and chairman, Otto Miller, commissioner, and Chas. W. Reynolds, Clerk. Absent: Henry Rethwisch, commissioner.

The minutes of the meeting held on January 6th 1921 were read and approved.

On motion George T. Porter, county Assessor, is allowed the sum of $100.00 for extra help in his office for the year 1921.

Upon motion it is hereby resolved that each member of the Board be and is hereby appointed a committee of one to investigate claims of demand upon the county for pauper maintenance, and for temporary relief and also to investigate claims and demands of any party on county road and bridge funds to be expended in the several road districts of the county. P. M. Corbit is hereby directed to act as such committee to the 1st district. Henry Rethwisch is hereby directed to act as such committee in the 2nd district, and Otto Miller is hereby directed to act as such committee in the 3rd district.

Provided, however, that in case of emergency anywhere in the county coming to the knowledge of any of the commissioners where it is necessary to give immediate relief to a pauper and no other commissioner being present, the commissioner present shall see that the necessary relief is provided. Each member shall report to the full board at its next meeting, and all acts performed by him as such committee with his recommendations for action by the Board. All Justices of the Peace, and the county clerk are hereby forbidden to give any aid whatsoever except as stated below, and all persons requiring county aid, such as medical attendance, and other necessities shall make application direct to the commissioners of the district for which he acts.

Under this resolution the clerk is given authority to call the county physician for medical attendance when they deem it necessary.

County Board hereby adopts the Richardson Road Dragging Law, as set forth on page 305 of the Session Laws of Nebraska, for the year 1913. The county is hereby divided into three road dragging districts. Road dragging district No. 1 shall comprise the precincts of Logan, Leslie, Pham Creek, Hunter and Strahan. Road dragging district No. 2 shall comprise the precincts of Wilbur, Deer Creek, Sherman and Garfield. Road dragging district No. 3 shall comprise the precincts of Ho-Kio, Hancock, Chapin and Brenda. P. M. Corbit is hereby made Overseer of road dragging district No. 1. Henry Rethwisch is hereby made Overseer of road dragging district No. 2. Otto Miller is hereby made Overseer of road dragging district No. 3. County commissioners as Overseers of the respective road dragging districts are to receive no extra compensation.

L. E. Panabaker is hereby appointed Janitor of the Court House and grounds and salary fixed at $80.00 per month.

On motion it is hereby resolved that the contract for the printing of commissioner proceedings be let to the Nebraska Democrat and the Wayne Herald at full legal rate, one-half to each paper.

On motion it is hereby resolved that the printing of the delinquent tax list, treasurer's statement and all legal notices and other notices ordered published by the Board be let to the Wayne Herald and the Nebraska Democrat as follows:

Delinquent tax list at full legal rate, one-half to each paper, all legal notices and other notices published by the Board at full legal rate, one-half to each paper.

Contracts can be entered into by seeing any member of the county board.

No bids were submitted on books and office supplies for the year 1921, and on motion the county officers were allowed to purchase such supplies on the open market.

In compliance with section 2737, Revised Statutes of Nebraska, for 1913, as amended, the Board of county commissioners of Wayne county, Nebraska, for the purpose of creating a board of health for Wayne County, Nebraska, hereby appoint O. C. Lewis, who as Sheriff will be chairman of board, Dr. C. T. Ingham, who will be physician, and Pearl E. Sewell, who as county superintendent will act as Secretary of said board.

The county board hereby adopts the following rules and regulations to prevent the introduction and spread of contagious, infectious, or malignant diseases, and for the purpose of safeguarding the public health and preventing nuisances and unsanitary conditions.

1. That a board of health for the county be appointed by the county board, the same to consist of three members, one of whom shall be a practicing physician.

2. That said board of health be and they hereby are empowered to enforce such regulations as may be adopted by this board to prevent the introduction of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases into the unincorporated territory of the county, and to enforce quarantine rules made for that purpose by it or the board of commissioners.

3. That in case in their judgment it shall become necessary to establish a pest house and if the pest house be established by the county board, the same shall be under the supervision of the board of health, and the said board of health shall have power to cause such person to be removed there to as they deem necessary in order to enforce the quarantine rules and prevent the introduction and spread of such contagious diseases.

4. The said board of health or any member thereof may enter any premises in the county not within the corporate limits of any city or village for the purpose of determining whether or not any contagious disease exists therein and shall adopt such rules and regulations for their own control and for the carrying out and enforcement of the quarantine rules and regulations adopted by this board as in their judgement, they may deem necessary. They shall elect such off-cers from their own body as they deem necessary and shall keep a record of all their proceedings and persons quarantined.

5. The expense of said board of health which are not properly chargeable to the persons affected with such contagious diseases or persons occupying the premises where the same exist shall be paid from the county treasury upon bills duly allowed by the board of county commissioners in the same manner as the other indebtedness against the county. The compensation of the members of this board of health shall be 50 cents a mile one way, and for examination and quarantine of each family $2.00. They shall be allowed by the county board and paid from the county treasury, in the same manner as other bills against the county.

6. The county board may at any time remove any member of said board of health, and appoint another in his place.

7. All persons who have been quarantined, shall be thoroughly fumigated in the manner provided by the rules of quarantine, and adopted by this board at the expense of such persons and the occupant of the quarantined premises and no quarantine shall be raised until such persons and the premises have been fumigated. Provided that paupers and premises occupied by paupers may be fumigated at the expense of the county. All fumigating shall be under the personal supervision of a practicing physician.

On motion the following regulations and rules for quarantine of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases were adopted.

1. Whenever within the limits of this county and without the corporate limits of any city or village, a person is suspected of having small pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria or other contagious diseases he shall immediately be isolated within his own household as carefully as possible and as soon as a contagious disease is recognized it will be the duty of the attending physician and household to give written notice of the same to the clerk of the county giving the name of the disease and of the family where it exists with the number exposed and all other particulars that may be of value.

2. The premises where the above contagious disease exists must be duly quarantined by the county board of health through its proper officer or any appointee (a) by placing upon the house or some conspicuous point upon the premises, a placard giving the name of disease in letters not less than three inches (3) in height, (b) by a verbal or written notice to the household to remain on the premises and in no way mingle with other persons nor to allow others (except the physician) to approach nearer than thirty (30) feet to any house or person thus quarantined. This rule to apply also in case of exposure.

3. Such quarantine to continue until in the opinion of the medical adviser of the board of health, the last case of the disease likely to occur therein has completely recovered and is ready for disinfection, provided however that in case of extreme necessity one free from disease may be released earlier after thorough disinfection of person and clothing and with a certificate from the above medical advisor.

4. The necessities of life, as often as occasion demands may be carried within thirty (30) feet of the quarantined house by a neighbor or other duly appointed messenger, but no nearer, nor shall any effects whatever be brought away from the household until thorough disinfection.

5. In case of death from contagious diseases there shall be no public funeral and the body of the deceased shall be closely wrapped in sheets well saturated with disinfectants and closed in a tight casket, this to be again wrapped in a disinfected cloth, and in such cases the corpse shall not be carried to or near any body of people while on its way to the cemetery.

6. When in any school district or community several families say five to eight are infected with contagious disease or very many exposures have occurred, the board of health may prohibit all gatherings of people in that community including sessions of school until in their opinions the emergency is past.

7. All physicians should use due precaution in their visits to quarantined households to avoid the danger of contagion to the well.

8. When in the opinion of the medical advisor of the board of health, quarantine can be safely raised, it shall be done with fumigation with a 40% solution of formaldehyde, using at least five ounces to each 1000 cubic feet of air space, solution to be applied by an approved evaporation or by the sheet method. The room to be sealed at least six hours, all persons to receive a disinfecting bath and their clothing to be fumigated and the house thoroughly cleaned. This to be done in accordance with the "Suggestions of the State Board of Health to Physicians."

9. When in the opinion of the board of county commissioners a hospital is needed to which individual cases of contagious diseases may be removed, or when such method will accommodate those without homes at much less public expense or for any other reason it is deemed best, a building suited to their needs shall be provided.

10. Whoever in any way willfully or negligently disobeys these rules of quarantine and disinfection shall be subject to prosecution and a fine of $25.00 for each and every offense, and shall meantime if infected, and subject to quarantine be held at the quarantine house or hospital until the time for disinfection.

And be it further resolved that all rules and regulations of the Department of Public Welfare of the State of Nebraska, passed July 9th 1919 are hereby approved and adopted.

On motion the board hereby makes the following estimate of expenses for Wayne County, Nebraska, for the year 1921, at $200,000.00, as follows:

County General Fund	$55,000.00
County Bridge Fund	55,000.00
County Road Fund	50,000.00
Maintaining Federal and State Highways	30,000.00
County Road Dragging Fund	10,000.00

Whereupon Board adjourned to January 12th 1921.

Chas. W. Reynolds, Clerk.

When an Error Creeps Into Your Telephone Bill

Your telephone bill may not always be correct. Few things are always the way we want them to be.

In our central accounting office we handle thousands and thousands of accounts every month and an occasional mistake is bound to happen.

As many errors are made in subscribers as are made in favor of us.

When you feel that an error has been made in your bill, don't hesitate—tell us at once, so we may look up your records and explain charges that may not be clear to you.

PUNISHED FOR KINDLY DEED

English Magistrates Seem to Have Dealt Harshly With Man Who "Broke" the Sabbath.

John Bull is an English publication. The letter we are reproducing from its columns was written to the magistrates of the English town of Reading. One wonders if they ever heard of the distinction between the letter and the spirit of the law, remarks Our Dumb Animals.

"Your Worship: I gather you don't go to church on Sundays as a regular thing. Let me tell you why I gather. On a Sunday during the strike a policeman dug up the Sunday observance act in order to convict a poor devil of a driver—Charles Palmer, to wit—of driving cattle through the streets. The man had fetched the beasts from the railway station, where they had arrived from Dublin. They were then in a bad state. If they had not been removed to be fed and watered they would have been the victims of callous cruelty; and though on this particular Sunday that which is written, 'Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fall into a pit and will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day' was part of the gospel, you made the driver pay the costs of his prosecution. To all intent and purpose, therefore, gentlemen, you might as well have convicted and fined him. What a pity it is that the act of 1677 doesn't prohibit Reading magistrates from walking or driving through the streets on Sunday in order to catch their dinner."

VOLCANOES AWAKE TO LIFE

Mount Katmai, in Alaska, Especially, Shows Signs of Preparation for Destructive Outburst.

Affording an awe-compelling spectacle of nature in a sullen mood and awakening memories of the ghastly details of the eruption of eight years ago, Mount Katmai, most powerful and restless of North American volcanoes, is again in violent activity, according to Capt. Charles A. Glascock and Purser Gary Bach of the steamer Admiral Watson, which reached port recently from southwestern Alaska, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

A sable pall of smoke from the funnel of the belching crater broods over the northern sky for a radius of 40 or 50 miles by day, while fretful tongues of flame can be seen by vessels a score of miles at sea at night, according to the Seattle mariners.

Knight's peak, a neighboring volcano, has also been stirred to spectacular efforts by the outburst of its more deadly companion, and wreaths of smoke hang over numerous peaks of the rugged Alaska peninsula.

A slight earthquake shock was experienced at Kodiak island the night of April 8, a day before the arrival of the Admiral Watson. Two days later those on the Admiral Watson had a rare view of the volcano.

Submarine Radio.

The last annual report of the bureau of standards states that members of the bureau's staff have developed very successful methods of communicating with submerged submarines by radio-telegraphy. With a single-turn coil or loop attached to the outside of the submarine, signals can be received as well when the vessel is submerged as when it is at the surface. It is also possible to transmit from a submerged submarine a distance of 12 miles. Thus it becomes possible for a ship and a submarine to exchange recognition signals. A coil aerial is a satisfactory direction finder when submerged and readily receives signals transmitted thousands of miles, just the same as when used in the air. The navy has equipped its larger submarines with this apparatus.—Scientific American.

Airmen Guide Cavalry.

While the Fourth cavalry was on the march from Fort San Houston, Tex., to Ringgold, Tex., an aviator, who used to pass over their heads, acted as their volunteer guide.

The observer in the airplane saw that, instead of the Trio City road, they were following what is known as the Somerset road. He advised them of their error by a message dropped in front of the moving column, and the troop detoured to the correct road.

The air-service officers reported the incident to the chief of operations at Kelly field upon their arrival, and 25 minutes later a map showing the route to their destination, Fort Ringgold, was dropped in the middle of the marching column.

Just What Did He Mean?

Little Henry Hoanhammer is a typical Hoosier youngster, who uses his ears to good advantage. Since prohibition has been enforced in Indiana he has heard a great many remarks made by people who in the past were accustomed to imbibing occasionally. But at Christmas he identified his family by his own opinion.

The Christmas tree was aglow and everyone was talking about its beauty, etc. Finally it came Henry's time to say something and he did. He looked at the brilliant tree. "Gee, it's all lit up," he sighed, "and I sure wish I was, too."—Indianapolis News.

Hard Luck.

"I was born too early," he sighed. "What's the matter?" "I had to wear overalls when they were a badge of hard labor, and now that wearin' 'em is fashionable I'm out of the game."

THE STORM

By ELEANOR R. JOHNSON.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

It had been a hot, sultry day, almost unbearable to even the most devout lover of summer weather, and the late afternoon had approached without even a breath of wind.

Barbara Savoy, a pretty, fair-haired girl, moved restlessly about on the porch of one of the north shore's most famous hotels. Her father was seated in a shaded corner, eagerly devouring the headlines and columns of the daily paper, Barbara approached him.

"Father, I guess this is the 43rd time I have asked, but won't you please come out rowing for just a little while? It's so much cooler in the bay!"

So for the 43rd time Mr. Savoy tried to refuse, but it was impossible. Barbara had really been rather patient, therefore it was only just that she should be rewarded.

"Well, for only a little while, but mind you, don't bring that young fellow along that you were talking with this morning. He doesn't seem to have any gumption, whatsoever."

Barbara was too happy to have this testy little remark spoil her fun, and snatching up a pair of oars from the landing, she ran down to one of the boats.

While they were bounding merrily over the waves the clouds in the sky were keeping pace. Heavy black clouds covered the heavens like a blanket. It was unmistakable that a storm was coming up.

"Row, Barby! Perhaps we can get to the shore before the storm breaks," and Mr. Savoy pulled fiercely on the oars, while Barbara, feeling how dangerous their position was, added her strength to the race.

Suddenly the storm broke, and the wind seemed to vent his wrath on the light craft. The two mere human beings fought bravely, but without avail. The boat began to fill with the down-pour of rain, and the waves which washed over the sides.

Laying down the useless oars, Mr. Savoy dropped on his knees in the bottom of the boat, and baled; baled as fast as he could fill his straw hat and dump its contents over the edge of the boat.

"Father, it's almost hopeless," Barbara shouted between the deafening claps of thunder. "Let's just float as long as we can, and then do the next best thing—try to swim."

It seemed as if nature heard her words. The boat gave a lurch and then sank beneath the surface with a sickening groan. Barbara heard her father shout and then the water bubbled unpleasantly in her ears.

When Barbara became conscious several hours later, she found herself lying on her bed at the hotel. Footsteps sounded in the hallway and Mr. Savoy entered. He looked pale and worn, but his face lighted up as Barbara turned toward him.

"A little adventure, Barby! How do you feel now?"

"Fine, daddy; but tell me, how did we come out so safely?"

"Wonderful luck is all I can say, Barby. But at any rate that fellow, Robert Garrick, that you were talking with this morning, is all right! He was running along the shore and I saw him and shouted and, while I held on to you with one hand and kept up with the other, he rushed in and helped us."

A week passed before either Barbara or her father saw Robert Garrick again. Then it all happened when Barbara was at the post office for mail. As she was looking over the pile of envelopes, Garrick stepped up.

"Would you like to ride back to the hotel with me?" he inquired. "I am going past there."

Barbara looked up and, greatly pleased, she exclaimed, "Oh, it is you! I do so want to thank you for what you did."

"Never mind that now," he interposed genially. "Jump into the car and maybe we can talk about that later!"

They did stop at the hotel, but it was only while Barbara left her father's mail. For after that she took the first of many enjoyable rides that summer, and when she returned home in the fall Robert Garrick felt that next summer and Barbara were the only things to live for.

Honor Due Magellan.

Although Magellan did not live to complete his particular voyage, he did circumnavigate the globe, and was the first man to do so. Previously on his longest voyage eastward from Portugal he had reached Banda Island at longitude 130 degrees east of Greenwich, and when he fell at Mactan Island he had sailed westward to longitude 124 degrees east of Greenwich, thus by six degrees more than completing the circumnavigation. This feat has never been recognized at its full value, which it is held, would place it among the four leading achievements in discovery and exploration.

Enormous Lead-Pencil Output.

Some idea of the tremendous magnitude of the pencil industry of America can be obtained when it is realized that the largest factory alone turns out more than 30,000,000 pencils every year. They are of more than 200 kinds, grades, shapes and colors. If the pencils from the factory were placed in a row end to end they would reach from Washington to San Francisco and back to New York.

HOME OF DEADLY SCORPION

Region in Mexico That is Avoided by Travelers for a Most Excellent Reason.

Revolutionary bands and brigands may ride up and down Mexico, but there is one strip of territory that even the hardiest and most daring of them will not brave. It is a desert country that extends from a point near the city of Durango to the borders of the state of Zacatecas, about seventy-five miles long by fifty miles wide. It is asserted that myriads of scorpions infest this region and are the most deadly of the species.

In the city of Durango, although regarded as outside of the more deadly zone, the death rate, due to scorpion stings, is high. This is especially true as to children. The alachrane, as the insect is commonly called, is regarded as such a deadly pest that for many years the municipal government has paid a bounty of one centavo, equivalent to about one-half cent of American money, for each one killed and delivered to the official custodian of dead scorpions. Something like 100,000 of the scorpions are killed and bounty paid for them annually.

Killing scorpions is a regular industry with many men, women and children of Durango. One is told that some of the natives even go so far as to establish regular colonies of the poisonous insects in their homes for the purpose of breeding them for the market.

GERMS FUTURE WAR WEAPONS

Scientist Draws Dark Picture of Savagery That Will Be Part of Next Conflict.

Mobilization of the mosquito, the house-fly, the louse and various other disease-carrying pests for the dissemination of deadly germs in enemy territory is a possibility of "the next war" pictured by Prof. Maxwell Lefroy, a London scientist.

"I foresee the mosquito from Brazil starting yellow fever in new lands, the house-fly, duly infested with cholera, dysentery or enteric and the typhus-laden louse doing their deadly work much more effectively than spies poisoning wells," said Professor Lefroy in a recent address.

"This would be part of the work of a war office of entomologists—the working out of strategic plans for the distribution of these pests by airplane. It seems that the world is intent upon furnishing an airplane service for these pests, many of which are now held somewhat in check by natural enemies in their native climes. This will give them just the means of transit they have required. It will be a peace-time danger as well as one that could be used very offensively in war. The danger from these 'winged battalions of death' is more serious than one dare estimate."

Airplane Has Its Limits.

The officials of the United States department of agriculture have been in receipt of many suggestions relative to extinguishing forest fires with the use of gas bombs dropped from airplanes that it has been found necessary to issue a statement for the purpose of explaining that the scheme is not feasible. For the purpose of overcoming a detachment of men, a mixture of one part of virulent poison to 1,000,000 of air would be entirely sufficient to accomplish the purpose, but one of 750 parts to the thousand would not be powerful enough to quench a conflagration. Another thing to be taken into consideration is the difficulty of dropping the bombs with the necessary precision. The art of striking a target with any degree of accuracy has not been developed at this time, and there is no prospect that it will be sufficiently perfected to the point of becoming available for the purpose of fighting fires.

To Destroy Grasshoppers.

Poisoned bran bait is a simple, reliable and cheap method of destroying grasshoppers. The formula is: Wheat bran, 25 pounds; Paris green, one pound, or white arsenic, one pound; lemons or oranges, six finely chopped fruits; low-grade molasses, two quarts. The mixture is scattered over the fields. Beneficial results have been obtained from the poison, but in whatever process is followed, communication must unite, for if one farm is rid of the insects, a new invasion will come in from the adjoining farm. An interesting incident of all poison baits is that lemon juice is added, thus it seems that it is necessary to hand the hopper a lemon in order to get rid of him.

Europe Takes to Chewing Gum.

The jaws of Europe are wagging on American chewing gum. Efforts were made at different times to popularize chewing gum in the countries of Europe, but always without success until the American soldiers took some over there, after which the gum-chewing habit became a veritable craze. Chewing gum to the value of $2,164,290 was exported by the United States during the year 1919, and England was the heaviest purchaser. During the war chewing gum became very popular in the munitions factories of England, where it took the place of tobacco, smoking being barred.

Probably So.

THE PEACE TREATY

By LIZZIE M. PEABODY.

(Copyright, 1920, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There had been no love lost between the Braddigans and Cotters since a day long ago, when a bold Braddigan had persuaded a fair lady of the Cotter line to go away with him to a far country. Maybe that in itself wouldn't have been so bad, but he also persuaded the two best horses in the Cotter stables to go along with them, and they had never returned.

Two families of the warring lines still remained, and insult from either family to the other was promptly avenged. The Cotters, who lived in the valley, near the foot of Crooked Rock mountain, were tall, well-built, dark and handsome. The family included father, daughter and two strapping sons, and when in the valley it was whispered that America might enter the war there was much wild talk and excitement at first, and then the family settled quietly down to await the outcome of events.

Already they had decided to be among the first to offer themselves for service, and when the word came that America could no longer with honor to herself, keep out of the war, the boys, with all the optimism of youth, looked only on the bright side.

Soon came the day when they trod the road which led to enlistment, to training camp, to the crowded ship which sailed on its twisting way across the sea under whose smiling face lay so much danger, and finally to France, while among the shadows of the stern old mountains, which in those days were more used to smiles than frowns, their father and sister waited for news of them, now hopefully, and then with heavy hearts.

The Braddigans lived on the mountainside, and young Jack was square-jawed, his hair was of a reddish tinge, and his eyes were gray and clear.

From his home he saw the Cotters as they passed so blithely along, and suddenly and for the first time in his life he knew what it was to be envious.

They thought of him as a slacker, he supposed, and sighed impatiently.

As the weeks slipped by, his friends all left the mountains, and it seemed that he alone was left to do the usual routine work, and to solve his problem. How was he to follow the others while his mother and delicate sister remained alone and nearly helpless?

Like lightning from a clear sky the news came to them that he had been called to the colors, and with a shock of surprise both women noted the varying expressions which flitted over his face as he learned that he had been drafted; and promptly decided that whatever came of it he should not be obliged to ask for exemption on their account. But Jack's luck had turned, for the next day his mother received an answer to a letter which she had written to her brother a long time ago, and he wrote that he would be glad to come to stay with them and Kitty was given a position as teacher in the small school near them. So in due time Jack Braddigan followed the Cotters overseas, and it happened that he quickly got into the thick of the fight. The people of the mountain had chuckled as they said: "If Braddigan and the Cotters catch sight of each other there'll be a fight on their own account;" but the truth is that the boys found war to be so wholly beyond anything they could ever have imagined, in its horror and magnitude, that by comparison their strife, wrangling and bitter discord of the past seemed to appear as it would to an onlooker—a needless and discomforting affair.

Their views of life had broadened, and when Jack, by means of bravery, endurance, and presence of mind had played a wonderful part in rescuing the Cotters from the enemy he was not surprised to note the grateful spirit in which they accepted his service, and it was agreed upon that all grievances of the past should be forgotten. It was some months after armistice had been declared that as dusk was coming in the valley, the Braddigans and the Cotters gathered at the cross roads, and from their different stations awaited the coming of the boys, who as they came sang softly of "the long, long trail."

Nellie Cotter rushed to them, so did Kitty Braddigan, and both girls kissed and were kissed impartially.

Then, as after a while the girls started back in surprise, Tim Cotter cried: "Come, Dad, and meet the Braddigans. We've declared an armistice!"

"What's an army stitch?" demanded Mr. Cotter peevishly.

Tim laughed lightly. "'Tis the stiffen folks patch up quarrels with, I'm thinking," he answered, and then said seriously: "Dad, Jack saved our lives at the risk of his own, or we'd never have seen the valley again; and we've seen all the fighting we want to see. Listen all! If you're willing after this to live and let live; to help, and not to hinder, raise your right hand." Each right hand was raised, and Mr. Cotter as he slowly raised his, muttered "perhaps it's best after all." So the peace treaty was settled and Nellie Cotter blushed prettily as Jack said:

"I'll be over this evening." And Kitty Braddigan's cheeks were pink as Tim, after a quick glance at Kitty, exclaimed, disappointedly:

"Why! I was going over to your house!"

"This peace treaty's going to work fine," laughed Jack.

MOON AS ALLY OF FARMER

Agriculturist Asserts He Courts His Sweetheart and Plants His Corn by Luna's Light.

A contributor to the New York Tribune, living in the country, is alarmed lest the scientists blow up the moon. He very properly says that the city man doesn't appreciate the moon; in fact, he seldom sees it. But out in the country the moon serves a real purpose, and it ought to be protected from onslaughts from the rockets of the scientists. The contributor's letter is so delightful, and as it contains as much wisdom as many other letters we read we quote at length:

"Nobody knows what the moon is made of. Maybe it's made out of some kind of mineral that will explode when the flash powder goes off on it. And let me tell you, Mr. Editor, that wouldn't be a very funny thing for anybody to have the moon blow up."

"Folks in the city don't know anything about the moon, whether it is anything or whether it ain't, and they don't care. But we folks that live in the country use the moon a great deal. I courted my wife by moonlight, and my oldest boy is doing the same thing with his girl. I've planted my corn in the full of the moon for forty years and never had a poor crop. Besides, we use the moon in lots of other ways. I can't hardly think what life would be here in the country without the moon."

Aye, aye, sir, we are for you—especially since you seem to know how to court. It has been a marvel to us for years how a city boy manages to fall in love with a girl when the light came from an electric bulb instead of from the friendly moon.—Columbus Dispatch.

PILGRIM WORTHY OF HONOR

Elder Brewster Gave Up Much When He Abandoned His Home for a Great Principle.

Gone is the ancient pear tree, and no trace remains of the mulberry tree planted by Cardinal Wolsey, under the welcome shade of which Sir Edwin Sandys sat in the long summer days of 1575 at Scrooby manor, but Pilgrims in England in 1920 need not neglect to raise their hats to the memory of Elder Brewster at his one-time home, because special arrangements have been made for escorting parties to the haunts of Pilgrim Fathers during the centenary year. All the fathers made great sacrifices, but one will be tempted to think that William Brewster made perhaps more than most when one sees the ruins of his palatial home he left. Traces of the moat still exist, and some of the great curved beams can be found in stables and cowsheds nearby. The size of the house can be realized when it is remembered that it was large enough to shelter Margaret Tudor and her entire retinue on her royal procession to Scotland.—Christian Science Monitor.

One Man Is Crew.

Recent naval tests have disclosed the remarkable characteristics of a new form of miniature torpedo boat, so low in the water that it has almost the invisibility of a submarine, according to a recent announcement in Popular Mechanics Magazine, accompanied by several interesting illustrations of the curious craft. It is operated by one man. It is but 40 feet long, and weighs 8,500 pounds with its single torpedo. The entire forward half of the boat is the torpedo chamber, and that part of the hull is U-shaped to conform to the big projectile, while the deck above is hinged along one side to permit the torpedo to be hoisted in. To discharge it, the whole rounded bow plate is lifted up like a gate, flooding the chamber and permitting the torpedo to go forth on the power of its own propeller.

Catch a Freak Fish.

A freak fish, 11 feet long and weighing 500 pounds, was brought to port by Capt. Steve Massa of the smack Ardita, reports a San Diego (Cal.) correspondent. The fish was caught in a sea bass net off Point Loma at a depth of 30 feet. The fish had a mouth two feet in diameter, no teeth, purple eyes, a short, blunt nose, with a sharp horn composed of solid bone and a skin like a rhinoceros. A. L. Mannhan of the state fish and game commission and Capt. W. C. Crandall of the California Biological Institute at La Jolla were unable to identify the piscatorial freak. Photographs were taken of the fish and were sent to the University of California in an effort to trace its ancestry.

Again, Leather From the Sea.

Considerable interest is at present being shown in the possibility of utilizing the skins of sharks and porpoises for the making of shoe leather. The bureau of standards has completed arrangements to test the comparative durability of upper leather made from shark and porpoise skins as compared with that from calfskin and cowhide. The co-operation of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association has been secured in the making of the necessary shoes for the test. It is believed that the results of this investigation will be watched with considerable interest.—Scientific American.

Rays of Light Cause Mirage.

Mirage is the name given to a certain optical illusion caused by the bending of rays of light in the desert atmosphere. Mirages may appear to the eye as lakes, cities, basaltic precipices, etc., the huge body of water retreating as the eye advances. Mirages are not uncommon in California, Nevada and Alaska.

A FLIRTATION

By BEATRICE TRAHAN.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

A small, thin hand on his arm arrested the restless pacing of the tall, refined-looking gentleman who had been walking to and fro in the waiting room of the Grand Central station. He turned with a welcoming smile, but his expression altered slightly as he perceived the person who had accosted him. She was a pretty girl, neatly dressed in a trim, tailor-made blue serge suit. Her age might have been anywhere between twenty-five and thirty. Smiling quizzically, he raised his hat and said:

"I beg your pardon?"

"Oh!" she exclaimed, in a shy, timid little voice, which was hardly in keeping with the roguish gleam in her eyes. "Oh, excuse me, I thought—"

"You thought I was some one else?" he concluded, smiling, as she paused, apparently too embarrassed to finish her sentence.

"Yes, I thought you were Dick—I was so glad! My purse has been picked—became aware of it only a moment ago, when I was about to buy my ticket for home—and when I saw you I rushed right over."

She did not vouchsafe any further information about "Dick."

"What a coincidence! My name happens to be Dick, too. Wouldn't I do just as well?" he said. "At least you will allow me to advance you enough money for your fare home?" And he slipped his hand suggestively into his pocket.

"But you don't know where my home is," she objected naively. "Suppose I lived in California, for instance?" "Heaven forbid!" he exclaimed fervently.

At this they laughed merrily; but a sudden thought sobered him, and he glanced at her speculatively. Then:

"I wonder if you'd be offended at a proposition I'd like to make to you?"

Suspiciously, she quickly looked up at him, but was apparently reassured by the expression of his eyes.

"Well, that depends a good deal on the proposition," she answered non-committally.

"I'll be absolutely candid with you," he said. "To tell the honest truth, when you approached me, I was wondering what on earth I could do to while away the evening. I happen to have tickets for tonight's performance at the Palace, but there isn't much fun going alone, is there? Now I thought—I hoped—oh, hang it; would you care to go to the theater with a perfectly strange man?" he finished with apparent relief.

"I would not care to go with a perfectly strange man!" At her words he looked crestfallen—"but I'd love to go with you."

"You will? Fine!" he exclaimed joyously when he realized that he would not be refused, after all.

Up the street they strolled, struggling through the throng for a few blocks till they reached the Palace theater. When he finally handed his tickets to the usher the second act was already in progress. It was almost eleven o'clock when they emerged on the street again.

Slowly they made their way back toward the station.

"Let's go in here and have supper," he suggested as they were passing a cafe.

"As you like," she assented. An obsequious waiter, on their entrance ushered them to a table near the dancing floor. He then took their order and departed. While awaiting his return, the man and the girl chatted together.

"Oh, boy!" he exclaimed, "I wish I was young again." A disinterested observer would have given him about thirty as his age.

"Don't you know the saying, 'A man is just as young as he feels?'" she asked, demurely.

Back in the station once more, he gravely asked her:

"Well, young lady, do you still insist that your home is in California, or shall I buy a ticket for some other part of the Union?"

"Bronxville will do very nicely, thank you," she answered primly.

"Two tickets for Bronxville," she overheard him say to the ticket agent.

An hour later they descended at the little station of Bronxville. A five-minute walk from there brought them to a neat little cottage that stood a few steps from the street. They walked inside the yard and up the porch steps, but paused at the door for an instant while he searched his pockets for his latchkey. When he had finally found it, he unlocked the door and they stepped inside. She immediately went upstairs, but he doffed his hat and coat and hung them on the clothes-tree in the hallway before he followed her.

A few minutes later he was tugging industriously at a snarled shoe-lace; while she, with her hair down over her shoulders, was sitting before her dressing table engaged in her nightly tribute to the goddess of beauty. Suddenly she paused, her hands in mid-air. Addressing his reflection in the mirror, she abruptly observed:

"We've had a splendid time this evening, haven't we, Dicky-boy?"

"Eh?" he exclaimed, smilingly. Another struggle with the refractory shoe-lace was crowned with success, then he added: "Would you believe it—a couple of times this evening I actually caught myself imagining that I was single again! And the funny part of it is that I was flirting with my own wife!"

NEWS NOTES

The firemen of the state are gathering at York this week in their annual meeting. More than fifty towns and cities are represented, and nearly 400 people are in attendance. A number of delegations were accompanied by a band. A special car of northeast Nebraska boys went from Norfolk.

Twelve states are to be represented next week at the meeting of farm bureaus of the middle west, at Lincoln. Prominent farm men from different states will be present, and it will be a gathering of much value to the farmer.

Now the papers tell us that the question of who shall be in the new president's cabinet is about to split the party. The party is already split, and has been for the past eight years—but they managed to run the two factions along the same track until election time this year. But they were never agreed on but one thing—and that was give us the spoils of a victory.

The days of panic are the same as ever, says one of more of the Wednesday dailies. That is the way David Lawrence sees the situation. The financial conditions are satisfactory, he says. Then adds that $245,000,000 of federal reserve notes have been retired and loans decreased by $160,000,000 compared with last year. That may make it satisfactory for the money man; but to the fellow who has to purchase money with his farm products, it makes prices much higher for the money.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Beef Trade Quiet But Steady — Cows Lower

A GOOD ADVANCE IN HOGS

Market for Live Mutton Down a Notch.—Top Lambs, $10.40; Top Ewes, $5.40.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Jan. 10. Something like 8,000 cattle were received yesterday and while packing demand was rather backward, most classes of beef steers sold on a steady basis. Best beefs brought $9.50. Tendency to values of the stuff was a little lower with trading somewhat uneven. No material change occurred in the market for stockers and feeders as supply and demand are both of limited volume.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice beefs, $9.25@10.00; fair to good beefs, $8.00@9.00; common to fat beefs, $6.75@8.00; good to choice yearlings, $8.75@10.00; fair to good yearlings, $7.75@8.75; common to fair yearlings, $6.75@7.75; good to prime heifers, $7.25@8.25; good to choice heifers, $7.00@7.25; choice to prime cows, $6.00@7.50; good to choice cows, $5.00@7.00; fair to good cows, $3.25@6.00; cutters, $4.00@5.00; canners, $3.25@4.00; beef and butcher bulls, $5.50@6.75; bologna bulls, $4.50@5.50; veal calves, $9.00@10.50; heavy and medium calves, $4.50@5.50; good to choice feeders, $8.00@9.00; fair to good feeders, $7.25@8.00; common to fair feeders, $6.00@7.00; good to choice stockers, $7.50@8.25; fair to good stockers, $6.75@7.50; common to fair stockers, $5.00@6.50; stock heifers, $4.50@6.25; stock cows, $4.00@5.25.

Hogs Scored an Advance. Today's run of hogs amounted to 12,000 head and prices scored a healthy advance with demand active throughout. Most of the hogs sold at prices 25@40c higher with bulk moving at $9.50@9.80. Top hogs brought $9.90 as compared with yesterday's top of $9.50.

Sheep and Lambs Lower. Trade in sheep and lambs was featured by moderate receipts and a decline of 50c on lambs and 25c on sheep. Best lambs brought $10.30@10.40 with best ewes at $5.00@5.40. A few feeders went out at $10.00 showing some decline.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Best fat lambs, $10.25@10.50; medium to good lambs, $9.75@10.25; plain and heavy lambs, $8.50@9.50; yearlings, $7.25@8.50; aged weathers, $5.50@6.50; good to choice ewes, $4.00@5.25; fair to good ewes, $4.75@5.00; heavy ewes, $4.00@4.50; cull and canner ewes, $1.50@3.00; feeding lambs, $8.75@10.50; feeding ewes, $2.75@3.50.

Tree Grows Inside House. A graceful elm tree shades a dwelling house near the Maine coast thoroughly, because it grows through its roof. It also grows through two floors. It was cut down as a very small tree when the house was to be built, but later was found to be pushing up the floor. Its persistent desire for growth was honored, and now it is a stately tree with unusual surroundings.

NURNBERG LAD DIES

Sunday afternoon the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nurnberg, from west of Winside, was brought to the Wayne hospital as the one hope—not hope—but possible chance to save his life. The little fellow had been ill of pneumonia, and not fully recovered when appendix rupture came, and it was first treated at the home—but symptoms did not improve. He away late Sunday night in spite of all that could be done. The body was taken home for burial Wednesday, and was laid to rest in a cemetery not far from the home.

AS IT LOOKED TO AN OBSERVER (From The Goldenrod)

Julius D. Young, '19, who is now attending school at the University of Nebraska, witnessed the recent battles between Wayne and Wesleyan and between Wayne and Cotner, and submitted to the Goldenrod the following observations on the games. Here is a case where we can feel sure that the testimony is unbiased:

Lincoln, The Day After...

To The Goldenrod: Wayne Normal's basketball team brought home no bacon after playing the Wesleyan Coyotes, but they came so near lugging home some nice, choice, juicy coyote steak as a souvenir of their trip that John Wesley's students will need a week to recover from the scare.

I set out to see the game, though I had the apparition of an unwritten 2000 word paper on "Objective Idealism" due at philosophy lecture Monday, which hung heavily over my head. Later I was glad I went because I saw a good game and a rare example of practical philosophy demonstrated. Coach McCandless of the Coyotes "pulled" the philosophy in his feverish effort to reach the Objective, the victory, not Idealism. He was philosopher enough to know "there is strength in numbers" and he had 'em there.

Judging from the number of whelps in battle fur, he had lined up on the mound at the mouth of the den; the coyote must be a very prolific animal. At any rate he was able to dispatch quickly a fresh pack into action each time he saw his fighters' fur flying and their tails in the conventional slinking position.

The first shift left the floor soon after the contest began and when last seen those that were able were headed for the Ozarks. From the beginning until three and a half minutes before the whistle blew, the bounty on "coyotes" threatened to bankrupt Lancaster County. Then the advantage of fresh material enabled the Coyotes to go through the hoop for the winning points.

Wesleyan played a fast, clean game, but her only salvation—against Wayne—was in her ability to keep fresh material pouring into the contest. Had she been limited to the number of men Coach Marsten had with him she could not have won. This is a casual observation, not an alibi. Throughout the game until near the end the Wayne boys showed up as white streaks of speed and light. In their white suits they made the scene look like a prairie blitzard.

Wesleyan University had an amiable crowd of organized enthusiasts at the game. An excellent spirit prevailed. The band helped out with music. Wayne should feel proud of Coach Marsten's cage men though they did not win on this trip. They played real basketball and, on the whole, took defeat in a sportsmanlike way.

The defeat by the Cotner Bulldogs the first night here was no disgrace either, though Cotner won by a large score. The boys could hardly be expected to play the best after spending most of the day on the train and with hardly time enough for supper. Then, too, Cotner's quintet played a fast game.

Two good games are assured when the Bulldogs and the Coyotes play at Wayne. Though both teams outweigh the Normalites, "bulldog chops" and "coyote steak" can be served on the Hill if Wayne fans get behind their team. The season is always open on coyotes, and bulldogs—they always hang behind. "You tell 'em, oyster soup—you've got the grit." Wayne can win!

Julius D. Young.

NEW PROJECTS FOR THE SCHOOL (From The Goldenrod)

The tenth grade of the training school under the direction of Miss Stella Phillips, is trying out a new project for the remainder of the semester. They have taken a list of "Ten Tests of a Town" as found in the "Independent" for December 4. The plan is to check up Wayne, using these tests as a guide. The entire class is organized into one big committee with Ruby Randol as chairman. Each of the other members is a chairman of some sub-committee. The checking is to be done chiefly by means of first-hand observation. Reading material will be supplied to aid in the work. The class is very much interested in the new project and began work on it Wednesday afternoon.

A new stereopticon, a recent addition at the Wayne State Normal, also the complete 600 set of Underwood and Underwood lantern slides, are being put to specific use by Professor Laakey's physical and general geography classes.

Both the stereoscopic views and stereoscopes are available at the library. On the back of each card or in supplementary books designed for that purpose, each view is explained. The stereographs correspond with the lantern slides. The students, in the various classes are thus enabled to give their own lectures, getting their own material, primarily from the views. Much interest appears to be manifest in these classes since the addition of the stereopticon.

A new Simplex motion picture machine has been installed in the auditorium where it will be used in connection with the machine of similar make which has been in use for the past year. By using the two machines there is no long wait between reels which has heretofore been annoying to spectators. The machines are run with 110 volt, AC motors and are considered by experts to be superior equipment.

LOCALS (From The Goldenrod)

Mrs. R. H. Jacques, who for the past year has been the proprietress of the College Tea Room and who has made it possible for students to buy those delicious "yum-yum" bars, is closing out her stock, preparatory to discontinuing her present occupation.

At this writing, pandemonium reigns on the third floor of the administration building and the odor of varnish is prevalent above even the musical notes of the chorus. Arrangements are being made to convert the old Latin and Drawing rooms into music and practice rooms. A room is being improvised at the east end of the hall which will, in all probability, serve as an office for Professor Hunter.

"George" wired the "eaves" under the gallery in the gymnasium last week and the lighting system was much improved by the addition of bulbs.

The following are now in "jail" at the detention hospital: Chris Peterson, Harold and Lawrence Armour and Jay Muhm. The epidemic appears to be only in a light form.

A birthday cake, as much to be welcomed by the appetite as it was pleasing to behold, and adorned with ten candles, was quite a novelty at the dining hall Tuesday, January eleven, the date on which Dorothy McCandlish celebrated her birthday. Miss Dorothy is in the fourth grade at the Training School.

Misses Beechel, Pierce and Marquardt shopped in Sioux City Saturday. Miss Marquardt returned the same evening, Misses Pierce and Beechel remained in the metropolis, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sauntry, until Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Sauntry will both be remembered as students in the old school.

The messages from the Omaha mail station were received by the class in College Physics standing in a circle without earpieces. These were probably the loudest signals received from a distant station.

Addene Evans has recovered from small pox and is now at her usual work.

Two oil paintings by T. C. Steele, an Indiana artist, were received last week from Indianapolis and are on exhibition at the Normal. These two pictures are typical representations of scenes in Indiana. They are receiving much attention and admiration from students and faculty. The pictures were loaned by the artist with the understanding that one of them might be purchased by the school.

The visit of Doctor John G. Neihard to the school last week was the source of much pleasure and inspiration to the students and faculty. Especially pleasing was it to hear him read from his unfinished poem, "The Song of the Indian Wars." Mr. Neihard was obviously very much at home among his neighbors and discussed informally his purposes in writing and many of the scenes which he portrays. On Friday Mr. Neihard was the guest of President and Mrs. Conn at luncheon and in the afternoon went to Wakefield whence he continued his lecture tour through the northwest.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

IN THE SHOPS

"This is such an exciting time of the year," said the big toy boat to the little toy submarine. "This is the time when children come and look at us. When an honor it is, too, to be in the window."

"Of course, toy submarine, I can understand why you would be put in a window. You're a very modern, up-to-date sort of toy. And I'm an old-fashioned kind of toy. That is, they have had boats such as I am in shops before Christmas time for years and years."

"Well, you're always loved, that's what it means to be a boat such as you," said the toy submarine.

"Every year," said the big toy boat, "I've heard that the toys in the shops get pretty excited as Christmas time comes."

"They don't know just whether they'll be chosen by parents or whether Santa Claus will come back and get some of them on the night before Christmas or just what will happen."

"You see," the big toy boat continued, "some of us will be chosen by the daddies and mothers. Others will be bought by boys and girls for other boys and girls who are their friends."

"And then a great many of us will be taken back by Santa Claus on the night before Christmas as he is on his rounds, and sometime he will get a good many several nights in advance as he knows the night before Christmas is such a busy night."

"The great majority of us he made and then let the shops have us, for he is such a great toy maker. And when I say the great majority I mean the greatest number of us."

"Yes, he comes and gets many of us for he has an agreement or arrangement such as that with the shop keepers."

"Now there are a number of the same old friends here this year as usual. That is, there are dolls just like dolls who were here last year. They may not be the same ones but they are of the same family of dolls. And there are trains such as there were before and have been for years and years. And there are always boats such as I am made each year.

"There are toy animals, too—Santa Claus makes the same kinds which he knows are always popular and which will always be liked. And, oh, I'm so glad children still like boats. There are some of our nice little relatives, too—the sailing boats. They are of all sizes. Some are small enough to sail in a bathtub. They're so small they won't know that the bathtub isn't a big ocean."

"Well," said the submarine, "I found out on coming here that there were many Christmas shops. Yes, lots and lots of them. I don't suppose I should say Christmas shops but I should say toy shops, and they're especially fine at Christmas time."

"Santa Claus made me in his workshop just as he did a great many like me. I thought to myself when he made me that there certainly must have been a lot who asked for our family, for in addition to the ones he made in answer to special requests he made so many of us for the shops."

"Then I found out how many shops there were. Oh, there are just loads and loads of toy shops."

"And we're only in one of them." "True," said the big toy boat, "we couldn't be in more than one shop at a time. But it's great to be a part of any toy shop around Christmas time."

"It most certainly is great," said the toy submarine.

"They've asked for some of our family, too," said a pair of skates. "Yes, and many of us went to the different toy shops for this Christmas time."

"And they asked for us," said a whole lot of sleds in a corner of the shop. "Yes, the old sled friends haven't been forgotten."

"They asked for us, too," said some hockey sticks.

And all the tops began to say that they were asked for too. And also many of them had been already spoken for as Christmas presents for certain boys and girls.

GUINEA FOWL IN GREATER DEMAND

Of Big Value in Various Sections as Substitute for Many Game Birds.

MAKES GOOD AS POLICEMAN

Hotels and Restaurants in Large Cities Eager to Secure Young Birds Which Are Tender and of Fine Flavor.

The great majority of guinea fowl are raised in small flocks of from 10 to 25 upon farms in the Middle West and in the South, but a few of the large poultry raisers, particularly those who are within easy reach of the large Eastern markets, make a practice of raising a hundred or so guineas each year. Many farmers keep a pair or a trio of guineas more as a novelty than for profit, and from these a small flock is raised.

Warns of Marauders. The guinea fowl doubtless would be more popular on farms were it not for its harsh and, at times, seemingly never-ending cry, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Peculiar Cry of Guinea Gives Warning of Marauding in Poultry Yard.

Agriculture. However, some people look on this cry as an argument in the guinea's favor, as it gives warning of marauders in the poultry yard. Similarly, their pugnacious disposition while sometimes causing disturbances among the other poultry also makes them show fight against hawks and other common enemies, so that guineas sometimes are kept as guards over the poultry yard. Often a few guineas are raised with a flock of turkeys and allowed to roost in the same tree, where they can give warning if any theft is attempted during the night.

Used as Substitute.

The value of the guinea fowl as a substitute for game birds such as grouse, partridge, quail and pheasant is becoming more and more recognized by those who are fond of this class of meat and the demand for these fowls is increasing steadily. Many hotels and restaurants in the large cities are eager to secure prime young guineas, and often they are served at banquets and club dinners as a special delicacy. When well cooked, guineas are attractive in appearance, although darker than common fowls, and the flesh of young birds is tender and of especially fine flavor, resembling that of wild game. Like all other fowl, old guineas are very likely to be tough and rather dry.

RIDDING HENHOUSE OF MITES

Cleanliness and Disinfection Required to Destroy Parasites That Live on Fowls.

To rid the henhouse of the little red mite that stunts the hens so much requires cleanliness and disinfecting. The fith must be cleaned up, the house ventilated and the sunlight let in. Removable roosts and drop boards will help clean up the house. To disinfect the roosts and house everything should be painted or sprayed with a solution of two parts of oil and one part of stock dip. Applications should be made in pairs about five or six days apart in order to kill the mites that have hatched since the last spraying.

GREAT ASSISTANCE OF BIRDS

Little Feathered Songsters Do Much Toward Good Crop of Fruit by Devouring Insects.

A good crop of birds goes a long way toward a good crop of fruit. Encourage the children to feed the birds during the cold, stormy weather and in spring they will pay you a hundred-fold by clearing the orchards of insect pests.

SQUEALING PIG BEST

The pig that keeps still is the pig that sucks the most swill, runs a saying. Maybe so, but we have observed that the hungry porker who is always complaining to high heaven about his appetite usually proves a growthier, thriftier, and consequently more profitable individual than his tongue-tied brother.

CALF FED TO WEANING TIME

Quite Simple Matter if Mother Has Sufficient Milk to Nourish Youngster Properly.

The feeding of a beef calf from birth until it is weaned is a very simple matter if its mother gives milk enough to nourish it properly. The principal part of the calf's ration, therefore, may be cheaply and safely provided by giving its mother the proper feeds for the production of milk. Do not feed the cow too heavily on grain soon after she has dropped the calf. While it is important that the calf have plenty of milk at all times, it should never have too much, especially soon after birth. The following suggestions are designed particularly for select animals chosen especially for breeding purposes, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

A calf dropped in the fall or winter probably will do better if kept separated from its mother and allowed to suck night and morning. In summer it should be provided with a lot for exercise and pasture in the daytime, and during the winter with a well-bedded box stall at night. When the calf is from four to six weeks old it is a good plan to bring it from the lot early in the morning, allow it to suck, then take it to the pen or stall to be fed some grain. It should also be suckled at night before grain is fed, then taken out to the grass lot or be fed a little hay in the stall. To be kept contented when away from its mother a calf should run with other calves. A bull calf should be separated from the heifers at the age of three or four months. If the calf is dropped late in winter or spring it may be more convenient to allow it to run with its dam for several months on pasture.

Since milk is nature's food for the calf it would be reasonable to suppose that milk alone is sufficient feed for it. In all cases, however, it should be provided with a little grain in addition to milk. If both the cow and the calf have good pasture and the cow is giving milk enough, the calf will grow to weaning age in good condition with less grain than otherwise would be needed. Frequently, however, the amounts of both pasture and milk are somewhat limited. Then the feeding of more grain is absolutely essential for best results.

When from four to six weeks old a calf may be taught to eat grain. This may be done by feeding it in a creep or pen to which the cow does not have access. Wheat bran is an excellent feed for this purpose. A good ration for the first few weeks would be coarsely ground corn, oats and wheat bran, equal parts by weight, with a small quantity of oil meal added every few days. Feed the calf at first one-fourth of a pound of grain a day, or just what it will eat up clean, giving one-half of the amount night and morning. After a few weeks a ration of whole oats four parts, shelled corn two parts, and oil meal one part by weight should be substituted for the ground feeds. The calf should be eating from two to three pounds of grain a day when six months old, or approximately one-half to one pound of grain per 100 pounds live weight.

Unless the cow has been giving sufficient milk previous to this age of the calf, it may be advisable to provide a nurse cow for the calf. To make the most satisfactory growth the calf should have a liberal supply of milk for several months longer. This is especially true if it is to make a maximum growth and show to the best advantage when the fair season arrives. By being fed in the way described, it should make a continuous growth from birth. If weaned properly, so that none of the calf fat or bloom is lost, the chances for it to grow out and make a profitable and useful animal are decidedly in its favor.

The calf is old enough to wean when from eight to twelve months old. Weaning should take from 12 to 25 days, and should be done gradually. When old enough to wean allow it to suck once a day for a week, then every other day for four or five days, and increase the interval until no milk at all is allowed.
