LARGE CROWD ENJOYS SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"Green Stockings" was the class play given Tuesday evening by the members of the mid-year and spring classes of the Wayne high school. Miss Bigler, teacher of English, directed the classes in the work and she is to be congratulated on the success of the play.

"Green Stockings" is an English production, the scenes being placed somewhere in England. The old English custom of an unmarried oldest daughter being compelled to wear green stockings at the wedding of younger sisters, formed the nucleus of the interesting story. Miss Celia Farady, the oldest sister, who had twice worn green stockings for younger sisters, becomes exasperated when confronted with the announcement of another younger sister's engagement. Her father assures her that he will allow no more marriages to humiliate her. To her young sister's pleadings to "do something" Celia invents a fictitious lover, Col. Smith, and announces her own engagement. A letter written to her fiancé is mailed by mistake and falls into the hands of a real Col. Smith. He becomes deeply interested in the writer and complications follow which ends in two happy marriages.

Miss Leila Mitchell, as Celia Farady, had her part well in hand. The audience quickly acknowledged that in assigning to Miss Mitchell the leading part, the star actress had been wisely chosen. As an old maid, on the shelf, indifferent to the fate forced upon her she played her part well. As her spirit rebelled and her "engagement" brought attention where there had been jests, and made real suitors out of old friends who were awakened by the zest of competition, she blossomed into a smartly gowned, beautiful woman and the game was hers until Col. Smith appears and the balance of the game—and Celia—are his.

Miss Lydia Griggs, as Mrs. Chisholm Farady (Aunt Ida), was a scream. She had a hard part to play but handled it with ease. Being forced to help Celia in her plot, she constantly rebels. When her nerves completely overcome her at Col. Smith's appearance, Celia attempts to fortify her with a whiskey and soda. Her acting was so real one wondered and admired.

John Carhart, as Col. Smith, was a good army man, a rather diffident lover, but won the object of his desires by his calm assurance of priority—he had "waited twenty years."

Don Miller, as William Farady, deserves special mention. As the father with marriageable daughters and subsequent troubles, he went along gathering wrinkles and letting things take their course with a "God bless my soul" at every turn.

Floyd Carpenter, as Robert Tarver, the empty headed suitor for Miss Phyllis Farady, was very good. His role of blending politics and love and really putting politics paramount, was modern enough to be very amusing.

Frank Martin, as Jim Raleigh and Merritt McConnell, as Admiral Grice, were both good. Both were fish in the sea for Miss Celia after she had established her popularity. "Big fish," McConnell put it—he tips them around 180.

George West, as Martin, the butler, deserves credit. His was but a small part but he lived it while he played it and his poise and self-confidence saved trying situations.

Cathryn Bohnert, as Phyllis Farady; Ruth Ringland, as Mrs. Rockingham; Clara Slick, as Lady Trenchard and Rachel McKim, as Elsie Hardiman, were all well taken. They looked very sweet in their make-ups and played their respective parts splendidly.

Throughout the play there was the touch of the amateur, there were missing lines, there were awkward situations, but each player has heavy work at regular studies and the play was a side line—under the circumstances hard even for a professional, so taken all in all the play was one of the best ever put on by high school talent at Wayne and the Democrat extends congratulations to the classes of 1921.

After the play the two classes and high school teachers were invited to the John Hufford home where Mesdames Hufford, Chas. McConnell, Frank Martin and James Miller served an elaborate luncheon. Music and games and re-living the fore part of the evening took up the time until a late hour when good nights were said and the guests departed, each with a "Joyous Happy Evening" to write down in memory's book of school days.

MRS. A. T. WITTER DIES AT BLAIR

Tuesday morning the body of Mrs. A. T. Witter, for many years a resident of Wayne, was brought to Wayne for burial, accompanied by the husband, their son, Chester and wife, and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hammond and husband, of Blair. She died at the Hammond home early Sunday morning, January 23, 1921, following two years of failing health; though she was only confined to her bed two weeks before the end came.

It was not planned to have a service here except a short service at the grave, and the body was taken almost directly to the cemetery, accompanied by a number of former friends and neighbors.

Of her life history, we have the following dates given us:

Laura Ann Payne was born at Montague, Massachusetts, December 5th, 1846, and was in her 76th year at the time of her death. With her family she came to Monroe, Wisconsin, at the age of ten years. September 15, 1862, at Janesville, Wisconsin, she was united in marriage to Alvin T. Witter, who survives her. To them five children were born, two sons and three daughters. William Mark, now of Los Angeles, California; Merta Ardell, now Mrs. Wm. Hammond, of Blair; and Chester Robert, of Omaha, two daughters having passed away several years ago. Besides husband and children she is survived by one sister, Mrs. S. B. Perkins, of Marion, Kentucky, also a half sister, Mrs. Millard, living in California, and a half brother, Edward Payne, of Denver, Colorado.

In the death of Mrs. Witter a woman of many excellent qualities was taken. As wife, mother and neighbor she filled well her place in the world.

PREVERT-BARELMAN

Thursday, January 20, 1921, at the Evangelical Lutheran church, south-east of Wayne, the pastor, Rev. Fischer officiating, occurred the marriage of Mr. Henry Barelman and Miss Edna Frevert, both of this county. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barelman, and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frevert, and both are well known in this community, where they have spent most of their lives.

The church was prettily decorated in pink and white for the occasion, and at the reception given at the home of the bride's parents, the afternoon and evening following the ceremony the same colors prevailed.

The solemn and impressive double ring ceremony was used by the pastor, and it was a pretty scene—the bride dressed in white georgette, carrying a bouquet of bride beauty roses; the bridesmaids in pink dresses, carrying a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The groomsmen were Edward Frevert, brother of the bride, Emil Barelman, brother of the groom, while the bridesmaids were Erma Barelman, sister of the groom and Miss Lydia Behmer, a cousin of the bride.

More than one hundred and fifty guests attended the reception given at the home of the bride's parents during the afternoon and evening. A bounteous supper was served, and the evening was spent in dancing. It was indeed a happy event, and one not soon to be forgotten.

The bride and groom left Saturday morning for a wedding trip, going to Lincoln; and after a short time will be at home on a farm near Oakdale. The best wishes of a host of friends go with them.

ALBERT HANSEN WRITES

Albert Hansen, one of the good farmers who moved from this county to a farm near Herman writes for the "Public Pulse" of the Omaha World-Herald under date of January 18 as follows:

"I notice the World-Herald has given a good deal of space lately to what seems to me to be an organized effort to knock the Nonpartisan league in the head, so to speak. I noticed the cartoon in today's paper and wondered who paid for the space. There have been a lot of crocodile tears shed for the farmer lately. But when the farmers attempt to organize and take a little peek into politics to see how it is done they are promptly yanked back. I am not a member of the Nonpartisan league, but I think it is a good time right now to join. They may not be right on every point, but it is at least a step in the right direction."

G. A. R. ELECTION AND INSTALLATION

At their last meeting the members of the G. A. R. post of this city made ready for another year of business, though they are but few in number now. Not to exceed a dozen active members are now to be counted resident members of the organization which used to muster from forty to sixty men on memorial occasions but a few years ago. Old age, and years of service is thinning the ranks.

John Stallsmith was named and installed as commander; Chas. Baggart as senior vice commander and Robert Skiles as junior vice commander. Comrade Skiles had to stand up twice at the installation, for he was also elected as quartermaster of the post. R. P. Williams was elected adjutant; S. Fox is chaplain and A. J. Ferguson was elected patriotic instructor, though not here for installation and then the supply of available officers seemed to be exhausted, the ritual calls for one or two other officers.

A list of the resident members is brief, and is as follows:

John Stallsmith, R. P. Williams, Robert Skiles, S. Fox, Peter Coyle, Dan McManigal, Chas. Baggart, E. Q. Sala, Jack Hyatt, A. J. Ferguson.

Among the members of this post, but not now living at Wayne are John Grimley at Springfield, Illinois, T. J. Murrell, J. W. Ott and J. W. Maholm, at Burkett, Chas. Lowry, at Winside (and part of time at Bloomfield) and A. T. Chapin, now in Denver, we believe, and M. Harman, of Concord.

We learn of three old soldiers not now post members. S. Taylor and John Barrett, both long time residents here; and D. S. Rockwell. Mr. Rockwell tells us that the post he joined gave up its charter some years ago. He served during the last year of the war as a member of Co. I, 155th Illinois Infantry; and then the war ended.

Thus we find that there are less than two dozen survivors of the war which ended 56 years ago who claim a membership in the Post at this place, or make their home here. Probably not one of the number is less than the three-score and ten years allotted to man on this little football, and some of them much older. Uncle Sam gives a pension to each one, as he should, and provides a home for those who need it.

In their place as their ranks thin comes the stalwart young men who make up the American Legion, recruiting daily from the four million men who responded to the call of the nation for a war, one object of which was to end war—and let us hope that when these men shall have served their time on earth and are called to their reward—a half century in the future—their successors in civic organizations may be mustered from men who have not been and who never will be called to the battle front—for we have had enough of fighting in this old world, and it is time for civilized methods of settling differences to prevail.

IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR

The first bill introduced in the legislature, naturally enough, is one in which a corporation is seeking legislation intended for its special advantage, and the members are very considerate in not making it take at least second place, while their bill to appropriate funds for their pay had the right of way. Well, proposed law is favorable to the Nebraska Power Co., and would give them a chance to convert what some would term "unearned increment" into interest-bearing or dividend paying stocks, which would give them an excuse to levy a tax of a million dollars annually upon their patrons. Of course the law might then be used for other concerns in growing municipalities. Of course these concerns are not at all bashful in presenting their modest claims for license to take more from the people.

BOYS' CONFERENCE AT WAKEFIELD

There has been a busy time at Wakefield the past few days, that place being the scene of a Boys' Conference at which many were in attendance. Of the closing day we glean the following from the daily press:

The older boys conference closed here Monday with a basketball game and moving pictures of Nebraska football games and Camp Shelton, Captain-elect Swanson of the Cornhusker team addressed the boys, as did D. E. Erdman of Wayne and O. R. Deihl, Rev. Mr. Holmes preached the last sermon of the conference.

RETURNED FROM DENMARK

The first of the week Pio Andressen, wife and daughters, Misses Rena and Agnes, and his brother-in-law, Olaf Hansen, returned to this place from Copenhagen, Denmark, where they went ten months ago, thinking perhaps the old home would look better to them than their American home. But not so. They had also that at the time of leaving to locate on some of the cheap farms in New York state, after a visit in their old home—but when they started west they could see no place that looked as good to them as did old Wayne county, Nebraska, where they had spent the 14 years they had been in America—so they are back here looking for a farm to rent. With them from Denmark came a nephew of Mrs. Andressen.

As evidence of their good faith and intention to remain and feel that they had a home in Denmark, Mr. A. purchased a farm there of about 60 acres, paying for same 60,000 kroner—about $12,000 in our money as the exchange is now figured. This they sold without loss, after farming it the one season, and deciding that the old ways were not the ways that suited them after so long an absence.

Mr. A. tells us that he did not feel at home over there, and that the wife did not like it as she had rather expected to do, and the young ladies were willing to come back to America—so they came. He found many changes in that country since they moved away, and the change of people had been so great that they missed many of their old neighbors and friends.

Speaking of the times there, he said that high prices had prevailed, but that now prices were beginning to decline quite rapidly and that the break was coming fast, for the people had simply been forced to quit buying; or had voluntarily done so, rather than submit to profiteering. We notice that the same conservative method seems to prevail here are quite general the world over, if one may believe the news reports—and the experience which Mr. Andressen relates as true of Denmark confirms the news stories.

He had with him a sample of Danish money—their paper currency, a 10 Kroner bill, worth now about $1.75 in our money. He also had a piece of U. S. money, not usually seen these days—a $20 gold piece. This he had received in New York in converting his foreign money into the coin of our land. When asked about the expense of the trip, he said that the four of them had had the trip and the ten month living for about $2,500. This he does not figure will be all loss, for as he is now in the market for a farm equipment to replace what he sold a year ago when the peak price was on, he thinks will be purchased now for much less than he received for his goods a year ago. It is an ill-wind that blows nobody good, he says.

They are going to visit for a time at the home of his brother-in-law near Randolph, until they can locate on some farm.

COY CAPITAL

As a Lincoln dealer in brick points out two obstacles stand in the way of reducing the cost of building. One is the cost of labor. The other is the recent advance in freight rates. These difficulties were apparently appreciated by the manufacturers who attended a conference last week in Chicago. While they did pass a resolution calling upon the material men to encourage the resumption of building by reducing their prices "as much as possible," many of the delegates did not vote, and the action was taken by a bare majority. In spite of everything that can be done, the building situation seems to be in a deadlock. Only emergency work will be done until capital can be assured that it will not be committing partial suicide by going into construction at present prices.—State Journal.

STORM DAMAGES NORTHWEST-ERN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

The transcontinental lines are down on account of sleet storms Monday and Monday night in several places in Nebraska; and making a total loss of perhaps a quarter of a million.

It is estimated that 3000 poles are down in Nebraska alone and the damage is estimated at $250,000. The ground is covered with ice and snow. The towns in the storm area are isolated since Monday evening with the storm sweeping eastward, the breaks on the heavy lines being near Lincoln and Omaha, nine gangs of men are at work and material is being rushed to the storm areas.

CHILD WELFARE AND HYGIENE MOVEMENT

Just now there seems to be a great awakening as to child welfare, and some are insisting that the government spend as much money to look after the children as it does for the pigs and cattle. Well it does, and far more—for one feature of the child welfare work is so old—so common—that we forget to call it that. We call it the public school. Yet, with all that the schools are doing for the children of today, some things are neglected sadly, and in many states legislatures are being urged to legislate along these lines. In fact, there is being a well-organized movement started to see that this matter is given proper attention.

Meetings at Wayne

It is announced that Dr. Frank G. Wilson will be here for five meetings in the interest of this and kindred movements, one of which is asking for a state censorship of the movie film. Dr. Wilson is to be at the opera house the evening of January 31st, and the afternoons and evenings of February 1st and 2nd, and the invitation is to all who can come.

Dr. Wilson comes with the endorsement of President Hansen of the national welfare organization, and it will be well worth your time to attend as many of these meetings as possible. The women are now voters, and they are zealous for the advancement of certain reforms, and the men, not opposing them, but more indifferent, should aid in asking and securing the best possible legislation looking to the welfare of the rising generation.

BUSINESS CHANGE

This week we record two business changes at Wayne. Sam Temple, who has for 23 years past run a tobacco house has sold the stock and business to T. J. Knopp, who came from Sac City, Iowa, and took possession Tuesday. Mr. Knopp is not an entire stranger here, having farmed one season recently on a place four miles south of Wayne. Mr. Temple is soon to go to Colorado and then to California, where a daughter is living. Mr. Knopp will continue the business in the same place occupied by Mr. Temple for the past eleven years.

Central Market to Change

Frank Rossnar, a practical meat man, from Charter Oak, Iowa, has purchased the Central Meat Market from N. E. Riessen, who has been the proprietor for the past six months. Mr. Riessen will return to Osmond, where he had just completed a fine home before purchasing the business here; and where his family continued to reside because of the difficulty of securing a house here. The Central is one of the best and most completely equipped markets in the state.

WIRELESS FOR WAYNE HIGH

The class of 1920 has presented the high school with one of the best wireless receiving sets in this part of the state. With this new apparatus the high school can pick up all the big stations in the United States, as well as the many high schools that have installed transmitting sets. It also enables Wayne to become an active member of the Radio club of Northeastern Nebraska.

The members of the Physics class and the Superintendent will be pleased to have any of the patrons or friends of the school call and look over our wireless set, and hear the messages come in from our nearby towns or from the big stations.

Many people have not, as yet, had the opportunity to see a wireless station. The school will take pleasure in explaining the working principle of wireless telegraphy and in showing you its new equipment if you will call No. 26 and let the superintendent know what time you can call, between the hours of 4:00 and 6:00 p. m.

PAULSEN-FINN

Wednesday morning, January 26th, 1921, at the St. Mary's Catholic church, by Rev. Father Kearns, Mr. William P. Finn and Miss Augusta Paulsen, both of Carroll, were wed. John and Margaret Finn, brother and sister of the groom were witnesses.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Finn of this city, and the bride's parents are John Paulsen and wife of Carroll.

A sumptuous wedding breakfast was given at the home of the groom's parents, and the happy couple departed on the afternoon train for a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home on one of the Finn farms near Carroll.

THE LEGISLATURE

Representative Hascall of Omaha is backing the American Legion boxing bill.

S. F. 108 permits the practice of Christian Science and exempts Scientists from quarantine law.

S. F. 126 requires county judges to be licensed attorneys except in counties having less than 5,000 population.

A bill requiring compulsory medical examination of school children was looked upon with favor by the house and appears to stand a good chance of passage.

The state board of agriculture went on record in favor of changes in the blue sky law and in favor of spending most of the automobile license money in the county where it originates.

H. R. 152 allows county boards to build and repair culverts or bridges that do not cost more than $5,000 without advertising for bids. A little publicity along this line ought to be good. Kill it.

Representative Hakenson of Clay county thinks farmers should not have too far to go to vote so he introduced a bill providing that the polling place shall be within one mile of the center of the precinct. Vote by mail.

A soldier's bonus bill, providing for a tax of three and a half million dollars for the purpose of paying a bonus to former soldiers, was introduced by the thirteen members of the house who are credited to the non-partisan league.

Bills to abolish the party circle and to throw the primary wide open have been introduced or will be introduced soon. If one of these bills becomes a law all the names will be printed on one primary ballot and voters may take their pick from all parties, if they wish.

The house banking committee gave prompt approval to the bill strengthening the state banking laws. This bill makes minimum capitalization $25,000, requires the issuance of licenses to bankers and employes and provides for other regulation of those who would be bankers.

Representative Williams of Fillmore county is the introducer of a bill that will certainly put a stop to glaring headlights but would also make the law apply to dealers, thus making it impossible to sell a car in the state unless it is properly equipped. In other words, he starts at the source and makes the bill apply to all concerned.

Considerable objection is being heard to the rule which provides for secret sessions when the two houses meet jointly to pass upon the governor's appointments. The rule is drastic. It provides that any senator or representative who discloses anything that is done in joint session is subject to expulsion. It is pointed out that the rule is contrary to the spirit of the new constitution. Anyhow, the people have a right to know what is going on. Are we in Russia?

HOW BLOWS THE WIND?

Freight rates went up materially, recently.

Iowa passenger rates have been advanced.

Express companies have been given an advance in rate.

Coal prices are not being reduced to the consumer.

A move is under consideration to reduce the pay of railway employees.

Coal miners in some mines have had their wages cut 25 per cent.

In many lines labor is coming back to work, after a shut-down at a great reduction in price.

Some merchandise is selling much less—some is as high or higher.

Farm products seem to stay down, since the drop.

An exchange remarks that it takes a bushel of corn to pay for a hair cut—yes, two bushel for a hair-cut and a shave.

Some things up—some down.

At Coleridge the matter of graveling the streets of the town is about to begin, the matter of how it may best be done being considered. A coat of good gravel it has been proven is a great help to a road in a wet time.

Mrs. I. W. Lowry, from Bloomfield, was here Monday greeting a few friends while on her way to Norfolk, where she will visit at the home of her son, Harry Delahoyde, and with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Turnbull. For many years she was a resident of Wayne.

Mrs. Collins and daughter, Irene, and Miss Marie Stanton, from Carroll, were passengers to Omaha Monday morning, going down to visit Mrs. James Stanton at the Nicholas Senn hospital in that city. Mrs. Stanton has been there for treatment for more than two months, and is improving slowly in health.

James Ritchie, for many years a resident of this county at Wayne and Carroll, but now a resident of Aberdeen, South Dakota, stopped here Sunday, while on his way to Bloomfield to visit his mother. He was a guest at the Clyde Oman home while waiting for the Bloomfield limited. He has been away from this good country for about 14 years, yet he found a number of friends of other days here. He tells us that his mother fell down the cellar stairs, and suffered from fractured ribs, and that he hopes to find that she is not seriously ill.

The Women's Study club, of Coleridge, went on record at their recent meeting as favoring the bills before the legislature, and endorsed by the legislative department of the State Federation, the child welfare, code and for state censorship of the movie as well as the mother pension law proposed. We hope that the ladies see to it that their petitions are acted upon. Now don't say that we said passed—for there might be a difference between acted upon and passed. But we do think there is need of good legislation along the lines indicated and the legislators should be willing to go on record as to where they stand on all questions.

At Omaha, beginning about March 1, the city merchants may have the benefit of city delivery by parcel post. More than 30 motor trucks have been ordered for the business and some of the retail houses are preparing to depend entirely on this system of delivery. The great saving is that will be in avoiding duplicate trips. For instance, Smith lives at seventh street, and purchases from Brown for delivery. Jones, living next door purchases from Green, and says send it out. Both establishments make the trip, while Uncle Sam will carry both purchases at the same time, along with other purchases from other establishments in that part of the city. It is not to have proven means for St. Paul. Why should it not anywhere? The rate could and should be adequate to cover cost—and yet it could cost less than for private delivery. In this little town of Wayne such a system would cost less than the present delivery method—the there is less delivery here now than a few years ago. It cost too much, and had to be partially eliminated.

The state legislature of Oregon has sent a memorial to Congress urging immediate passage of the American Legion's four-fold adjusted compensation bill. The children in a school near Madison decided to take a half holiday, and assembled at the noon hour and marched off. Two of the pupils had been locked in as punishment, and their fellow pupils liberated them. But they all had to come to school next morning with an humble apology to teacher and board. It was really not so much fun when all was said and done.

The present system of immigration was condemned by members of the Braxton County Post of the American Legion at Sutton, Virginia, in a vote following a discussion of the problem. Forty-nine per cent of the vote was for stopping immigration entirely; eleven per cent for forbidding it for two or three years, and forty per cent for establishing an effective system of regulation. There were no votes in support of the prevailing system.

CONDEMN HIGH PRICED STOCK FOODS

Prominent Hog Raiser Says Prices Charged Are Unwarranted Makes His Own Hog Food, With Better Results

"That he is all through paying fancy prices for stock foods and hog remedies and that he is raising some of the best hogs ever placed on the market" was the statement made recently by E. H. Beckstead, well-known hog raiser and authority on live stock.

Mr. Beckstead's hogs are the envy of his neighbors, and have "topped the market" for several years in Iowa. He states that for years he bought high-priced hog foods and hog remedies, but he is all through paying extravagant prices for what he can make himself. He states that what the hogs need are minerals, and tells the secret of his wonderful success by explaining that he takes about 100 pounds of ordinary mineraline (which is pure concentrated minerals and cost only a couple of dollars) and mixes same with enough bran or filler to make a hundred pounds. All hogs, and especially brood sows require minerals as they keep them free from worms, and in the pink of condition, and are essential to the hogs growth and a well balanced ration. This inexpensive mixture placed in a sheltered box where the hogs can get at it as they need it, will produce far better results than any high priced so-called stock foods. Send two dollars to The Mineraline Chemical Co., 1638 North Wells St., Chicago, Ill., and they will forward you by prepaid parcel post, enough mineraline to make a full hundred pounds.—Adv.

to fight. The civilization of which we boast should be sufficient to keep us at peace as long as justice is done; but if that will not work, the poverty of the people will compel a halt.

A blind man claims to have invented an airplane that may be used in many ways not possible with the old style. He can start or land any place where there is room for the machine to stand. The mechanism is such that the machine will go straight up, and come down the same way, and having no propeller in the form commonly used, one machine may follow another closely. Its motor-power is a gasoline engine. Pretty good for a blind-man. He probably wanted a machine for a fellow who could not see.

Hicks has a successor in the weather business at St. Louis, we are informed. We wonder if he can and will be as diligent as was the late predictor of weather to get reports from all parts of the earth that he might find the particular brand of weather he had ordered in some corner of the globe within a reasonable time of when the predictions should have had it happen. Sometimes his storm periods traveled fast and were ahead of his schedule—again they were behind time. Sometimes they struck 2,000 miles from their appointed place—but he always found a disturbance which he had predicted, somewhere, sometime.

With all this talk about disarmament there comes other talk of defense—the defense of a tariff wall so high as to keep the goods from other countries out of these United States. That tariff wall is a great protection—but it is not going to be as popular now as it once was. A number of these foreign nations got sadly in debt to Uncle Sam while fighting each other, and now have no money with which to pay the debt—but they can pay some in goods—but they will hardly feel like paying a tariff tax for the privilege of paying their debts, perhaps. Of course, you know, "foreigner pays the tax," that must be so, because we have always been told so by the beneficiary of the tariff tax.

PANIC OF 1907 AND TODAY

A superficial remembrance of the panic of 1907 may cause some to think that the country is tending toward a similar crisis today. The conditions preceding the catastrophe were similar in many respects to those which obtain at present. The year 1906 had been the most prosperous in the history of the United States. Prices which had been ascending for a half dozen years reached their apex then. The high protective tariff had fostered the growth of large corporations and "trusts," and the reputed profits of these industrial monsters led to the formation of similar organizations. People hastened to invest their money in all sorts of wild cat schemes. Credit expanded rapidly.

The turn came early in 1907. The public lost some of its buoyant optimism and began to unload speculative securities. Out of sympathy the market for sound securities also began to sag. The trend was world wide, and foreign finance began to renege. The Bank of England, for instance, raised its money rate to 7 per cent. Business in the United States, however, continued to boom. American bankers realized the danger, but under the national bank system could do nothing.

In October a run began on the Knickerbocker Trust Company, of New York city. It was forced to close its doors. Other metropolitan banks became involved. Panic spread throughout the country. At that time interior banks had large deposits in the banks of New York. Immediately they took steps to withdraw them. In self defense the New York banks stopped cash payments, and quickly a majority of the banks of the country followed suit. Depositors could get only pocket money. The crisis had come.

The panic of 1907 has been justly called the "bankers' panic." The bankers became overcautious, and being hard pressed, took drastic action and so brought disaster upon themselves. They were aware of the flaws in our banking system, and they recognized that the abnormal expansion of credit was likely to test the strength of that system. Bank deposits are considered demand obligations. In 1907 American bankers owed to depositors $20,000,000,000 payable on demand; whereas the whole currency of the country amounted to only 3,600,000,000.

Obviously, if all the depositors demanded their money on the same day the banks would be overwhelmed. Naturally enough, each bank, at the first sign of trouble, jumped to protect itself, and began piling up cash reserves. While engaged in this occupation a bank could not be expected to extend sufficient help to another bank, no matter how ill edged the security offered might be. Securities were not wanted; and it was money that was wanted.

But (and here is the lesson which the panic of 1907 should teach us), such an experience is impossible today. The Federal Reserve system has taken care of that. While the business of the country is sound, there can be no money stringency. A bank holding the securities or commercial paper of solvent concerns need not worry about its cash reserve above the legally specified amount. If it needs cash it can take its securities and rediscount them at the Federal Reserve banks.—Sloux City Tribune.

SOCIAL NOTES

One of the really happy social events of the week was one in which the men were the participants—the we imagine that some of the ladies helped to make the feast the satisfactory part which we are told it was. Last Friday evening the Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school met at the F. G. Philleo home for an evening of social enjoyment—and they had it. In this class are men who are said to be eligible and competent to hold a seat as representative in the halls of congress (whether that is a real qualification for a Sunday school class pupil we cannot say; but we do believe that some of our congressmen might be made better by attending a good Sunday school); others are college professors, ministers, ex-service men on land and water, farmers and a lot of other people. Their teacher claims to be proud of them. But we digress. At this social function there was music, games, jokes and a good time generally—and then something new, which we hardly know how to tell so that it will look well and not be misleading—but one of the best men there—or as the Irishman put it—"wan of the two best min" in the gathering went home with a black eye, and wore the ornament to church the following Sunday. Accidents will happen in the best regulated social events. With this notice comes an urgent invitation—for all to secure a membership in this class, who feel that they can qualify, in order that they may be present and participate in their next "social event".

The members of the W. C. T. U. met January 21st with Mrs. D. W. Noakes. After the business meeting the afternoon was spent socially. Some phonograph music was enjoyed by those present. The hostess served excellent refreshments. Mrs. Lutgen will be hostess February 4th. Devotionals by Mrs. Lee Young. Members will respond to roll call by giving suggestions for saving money, time and strength in the home. Mrs. McLennon will give a paper on "Are Women Needed in Public Office." Music will be furnished by the hostess. A good attendance is desired as there is important business to transact.

The Young Ladies Bible Study circle will meet with Mrs. Young on Friday evening and a good time is anticipated. Miss Constance Ruthafoord will lead the lesson. The following young women have gone out from this group of girls to attend Bible Institutes in preparation for Christian service and are missed at the weekly session: Amanda Reissen, Los Angeles, Bible Institute; Misses Lois and Laura Thompson, St. Paul, Bible Institute; Faith Richardson, Oskaloosa, Iowa, University.

The Monday club met January 24th with Mrs. T. T. Jones. Current events about Ireland were given and Irish stories were told by members in response to roll call. Mrs. Moran had an interesting report on the Irish question. Mrs. Brainard sang a group of Irish songs, "Mother Macree", "Where Irish Eyes are Smiling", by Ernest Ball, "Smilin Thru", by Oscar Penn. Mrs. Jones served delicious refreshments. The club will meet next Monday with Mrs. Kostomlatsky.

The Coterie club met at the home of Mrs. Warren Shultheis Monday afternoon. After the usual business session each member of the club responded to roll call with a new and tested recipe. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Shultheis, assisted by Mrs. Wm. Mellor and Evelyn Mellor, served delicious refreshments. Mrs. L. W. Ellis was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. P. A. Theobald.

Little Miss Lucile Dean was given a farewell party Saturday evening at the C. O. Mitchell home by the Junior Epworth League of which Lucile is a member. The evening was a pleasant one, about fifteen young folks attending. Misses Hazel Mitchell and Sarah Graves chaparoned the party and furnished music and games. Ice cream and cake were served. Miss Lucile went to her new home in California Monday.

Fourteen women attended the Bible Study circle on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Chichester. The advance Sunday school lesson afforded the theme for an interesting discussion led by Mrs. Laase. Mrs. F. H. Krueger will be hostess next Tuesday and it will be the regular time for election of officers. A large attendance is expected.

Saturday afternoon from 2 to 3 in the basement of the library, Miss Bigler, teacher in the high school, will tell stories to the older children, while Miss Potras, teacher in the grades, will entertain the small ones with stories. There will be story telling every Saturday afternoon. The children are urged to come and enjoy these stories.

The Sorosis club held their regular meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. J. Rasdal. The afternoon was spent playing 500, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments. Mrs. R. H. Meyers, of Beatrice, was a guest. Club will meet Monday, January 31st at the home of Mrs. P. J. Barnes.

The Acme Club met Monday at the home of Mrs. C. T. Ingham. Mrs. J. J. Williams read a paper on "Pure Air and Ventilation", which was discussed by the club. Next Monday, January 31st, the club will have an all day session at the home of Mrs. Williams. A covered dish luncheon will be served at one o'clock.

Tuesday evening, February 1st the Royal Neighbors will entertain the Modern Woodman of America at a social evening, which all the M. W. A. are invited to attend. The playette entitled, "Weary Willies Plenie" will be given, followed by games. A lunch will be served.

J. H. Lewis, from Minneapolis, has been visiting his nephew, Earl Roberts and other relatives here for a few days, and plans to leave soon for home. He has frequently visited here; but tells us that he has been in Honolulu since he was last here.

As a part of the report read before the meeting of the W. H. M. society group meeting here last Friday we include that part of the report in which a delegate from Utah tells of the source of power of the Church of Mormon, and it will be a revelation to many of our readers, and also give explanation of the great power this organization holds in the political circles of the country. If based on facts, the reading of this report will explain many things.

FROM THE MONTH'S LETTERS
(From The Wayne County Teacher)

District 15

We had a Christmas program and box social at our school December 17. We took in almost $10 and expect to spend the money for shades and other small supplies for the school.

School began again this morning after a week vacation and each pupil made at least one resolution, some made as high as five. So we all think we have started the new year right.

Florence Nelson, teacher.

District 58

I meant to write you before about our box social. We had it the last week in October. We had thirty-one boxes and they brought $91.25. Had a program and the school house was crowded. We have a $75.00 Victrola and seventeen records. The children enjoy it ever so much. I use it for marching and in music. We had a short Christmas program.

Mildred Bright Witte, teacher.

District 86

We had a Xmas program and box social December 17. Had a large crowd and a nice evening. There were 29 boxes which brought $51.60. The proceeds will be used for school purposes.

Lydia Behmer, teacher.

District 31

We had a Christmas program, a real Santa Claus, a tree, and grab bag on the Friday afternoon before Christmas. Had a fine crowd in spite of bad roads. I treated with pop corn balls and candy.

Clara Burson, teacher.

District 77

We gave a short program and had a Christmas tree for the pupils. Several of the children's parents participated and seemed to enjoy it.

Belle Herrlek, teacher.

District 32

We had a letter from our little French girl and she also sent me four of the most beautiful silk embroidered handkerchiefs you ever saw.

Emma Wehder, teacher.

District 79

We had a program and box social, December 21 and made $43.50, with which we intend to buy school supplies.

Gladys Torbert, teacher.

District 7

I guess I never wrote and told you of the results of our box social, did I? We took in $41.70 and with the money bought a suspension globe, a paper cutter, a soft hair broom and a gallon of floor oil besides a few other supplies, such as penmanship paper, pens, etc.

The floor has had two coats of oil this year and is in pretty good condition now.

Pearle Warne, teacher.

District 35

Planned a Christmas tree program, but owing to the severe weather parents objected to leaving teams standing out in the cold, so it was rendered Friday afternoon.

A good crowd came to hear the little folks deliver their recitations and dialogues.

Have been serving hot lunches since the second week in November. To say they enjoy it is putting it mildly.

The menu is made out on Friday by the school for the following week. Each day has a steward, dishwashers, and donator. They all take turns in donating for the one hot dish. Each brings his own sandwiches.

Also a new globe and advanced Hamilton's Arithmetics have been added to the school supply.

Mary Ryan, teacher.

REORGANIZED N. E. A.
WILL MEET AT DES MOINES

The initial meeting of the reorganized National Education Association is to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, during the first week in July, according to a decision of the executive committee of the association recently made public. Among the other cities considered by the executive committee were New York City, Boston, Chicago, and Philadelphia.

At the Des Moines meeting will occur the first session of the new representative assembly which was created by a change in the by-laws at the Salt Lake City meeting last July in order to put the association on a democratic basis. The active membership of the association has grown within recent years from 7,000 to over 60,000 and promises to exceed 100,000 before the 1924 meeting. The new plan of organization permits all members to be represented personally in the assembly, where the business of the association is to be transacted. Supt. Fred M. Hunter, of Oakland, California, is president of the association.

BASKET STORE

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CHRISTMAS STOCKINGS.

"They may say we're nothing but stockings," said one of the stockings hanging up by the mantelpiece, "but we have a treat once a year."

"Of course it is true that all stockings do not have such a treat, but it is an honor to the family to think that stockings are used as such an important part of Christmas eve and Christmas morning."

"Yes," said one of the other stockings, "at all other times of the year we're just considered rather useful and important, but there's nothing very wonderful or interesting or exciting about being a stocking."

"We're merely useful, as I said, merely useful. But at this time of the year stockings are made interesting and exciting."

"And while it is true, as you say, first stocking, that every stocking doesn't have this excitement and honor it is an honor to the family of stockings."

"It's so nice to be liked, too, for a change," said the first stocking. "You know I was so roundly abused not long ago for a hole I had. It wasn't my fault I got the hole. I went where my little master told me to go, and if we did romp so much and play so hard it wasn't really all my fault by any manner of means."

"But I wouldn't be a tattletale for anything. I wouldn't say when I was being darned. It wasn't my fault, lady darned, but the fault of the child who wore me." No, I wouldn't be a tattletale for anything!

"Well, third stocking, what have you to say for yourself?" the first stocking asked.

"I am waiting," said the third stocking. "I've never hung on the mantelpiece before and I'm waiting for all the excitement. Oh, what excitement there was when my little mistress hung me up! I really thought she would never get me fixed in time for there was such an excitement about it; she really did get most excited. And I've been excited ever since."

"I think it's a great thing to belong to the family of stockings, as you all say, for such a very great honor is paid to us on Christmas day."

"Listen," said the first stocking. "I think I hear a sound!"

"I think I do, too," said the second stocking.

"See. There is snow falling down the chimney," said the third stocking.

"Oh, yes; oh, yes," said the first stocking. "It is surely Santa Claus!"

Then Santa Claus came down the chimney. With a great shake of his white beard he looked about him.

"Ah, the children have left some sugar for my reindeer. That will please the reindeer. And if please old Santa Claus, too, to think that the children remember his fine animals."

"And here are some more notes for me. Yes, they tell me they wish me a merry Christmas. Oh, that rejoices my heart!"

So Santa Claus set to work. He filled the stockings, crammed them from toe to top and put heavy books on them at the top so they wouldn't fall down.

Then he put presents on the tree and then he peeped into the room where three children were fast asleep.

"Oh, you precious dears," he said, and waved a kiss to them and in their sleep the children smiled.

"Merry Xmas," he whispered, and off he went to the next home where there were children.

"Well," said the first stocking, "I have an orange in my toe. It is a handsome orange, too, for I saw it as it was being put in."

"I have a gold penny in my toe," said the second stocking. "It really isn't gold but it shines just as much as though it were gold."

"And I've a red apple in my toe," said the third stocking.

And then they laughed at themselves and at each other, for they stuck out in every possible place and they had all sorts of things in them that only at Christmas time did they have the honor to hold. And they waited eagerly for the morning when the children would laugh and scream with delight as they saw the three filled stockings.

Work and Service.

Nothing sooner chokes the forces of life, dries up vitality and creates dry rot than to refuse to help others; to refuse to participate in the burdens and responsibilities of this present life. That which underlies our national, as our individual, greatness is the spirit of helpfulness. In the very nature of things we must serve. It is the law upon which all commerce is built, all trade regulated. We might as well die as not serve. Indeed we are already dead if we do not serve. We are bound together by a common brotherhood. How much time is wasted in idleness! How much work is waiting, needing to be done! How the world suffers and bleeds while so many hands are idle, so many brains unemployed or misemployed! Work not only brings gain, shelter and food; it brings service to others, development and contentment to ourselves. No one is so happy as one that is in service helping other people.—Rev. M. Angelo Daugherty.

Worth While Things Lie Deep.

The more you work what you have the more you will find it worth working. It often happens that the best minerals lie deeper down. The state stuff lies near the roof. Ideas that lie near enough to the surface to become the easy prey of the casually passing are seldom of any great worth. They may be all right, but they belong to the common variety. It's what you have to dig for that counts. He who is willing to spend time by the daylight and the lamplight will have something to show for his efforts. In this as in other things nature says, "To him that hath shall be given." The mind that has learned to wrestle with great thoughts can manage great enterprises. To the man of understanding is given the joy of deeper thinking and richer blessings for the world. The limit will lie in your will to continue digging for the ores of worth.—Grit.

Lobster's Painless Death.

A new method of killing and cooking lobster is advocated by Joseph Sipel, an English expert, whose method is sponsored by the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He claims that the fish should be placed in cold water, which should be gradually raised to boiling point. His experiments showed that if a lobster is placed in water at 55 degrees Fahrenheit, it will be dead by the time the water is warmed to 80 degrees, whereas if plunged into boiling water, the lobster will struggle for more than a minute. Mr. Sipel writes "that the lethargy which precedes death takes place before the water has appreciably warmed and that the slowly boiling to death idea, which has horrified sensitive persons is without foundation."

To Change Plumage of Canary.

One of the wonders that may be wrought with the canary in captivity is the regulation of the color of his plumage by feeding. That the color of canaries may be deepened or intensified by certain color foods during the "molt" is well known and sometime ago the Department of Agriculture at Washington issued a pamphlet on this subject. Tumeric, marigold flowers, saffron, cochineal, annatto, port wine, mustard seed and other agents rich in color are often used for this purpose, but Mr. Wetmore says that these probably exert very little influence. He says that so far as known all successful color foods for canaries have red pepper as the base.

Boiling, but No Steam.

The Quaker's habit of calm sometimes deceives onlookers as to his real feelings. There was an occasion on which a certain Philadelphia Quaker's countenance aroused resentment in the heart of her niece, one of the "world's people." "I don't see," said the niece, "how you can sit there, Aunt Abigail, and hear that man talk and never look as if you cared. There I was boiling at the utterances of that unprincipled man, and not even so much as one of your cap ruffles stirred." "If these could see far enough below the cap ruffles," replied Aunt Abigail sedately, "they would have seen that I was boiling also; but without steam, my child."

Find Pleasure in Contest.

Life attains best results when its serious tasks are tackled in the spirit of the game. We do the hardest things with enthusiasm when we do them in play. The curse of Eden added no new burden to men. It was the compulsion of it that became irksome. It's not always our hardest tasks that cause us the most effort. Those things are hardest which have no sense of the game in them. Such tasks we attempt without enthusiasm and nigger at them until we grow weary and have nothing to show for the effort. How different with the thing we can turn into a contest. The very nature of the event robs it of its burden.

Genius Not Red-Headed.

According to the experts, history discloses the fact that few great geniuses had red hair, although John Bunyan had a fiery red head and Swinburne's locks were reddish, Dark brown to black is the prevailing hue on the heads of great men. A list of fifty names has been compiled in which the color of the hair is given by biographers, and 90 per cent are dark brown or black. The flaxen-haired blond, or the man whose hair when he is an adult is true yellow, is also said to be unlikely to possess genius. The only case known is that of Thackeray, whose hair is described as yellow.

EVIDENCES OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP

(From The Nebraska Teacher)

The following may be helpful to your eighth graders in the examinations:

What does the good citizen do? As an excellent exercise in the teaching of good citizenship, it is well to have the children observe practical affairs in the community and make a list of the most important things a good citizen does. Let each child first make his own list, then the lists may be combined into one list representing the best thought of the group.

Here is a list of the ten best points collected by the children of a standard rural school:

1. A good citizen pays taxes and cheerfully supports the government.
2. A good citizen votes at every election.
3. He supports good schools.
4. He attends church and helps pay church expenses.
5. A good citizen works hard.
6. He saves money.
7. He loves his family and plays with his children.
8. He helps cripples, sick persons, and poor persons.
9. He reads good books and newspapers.
10. He builds up his community and never knuckles.

After a free discussion, have the pupils put their lists in the best possible form, and have them take home copies of the common list they prepare.

SENATORIAL, REPRESENTATIVE, CONGRESSIONAL AND JUDICIAL DISTRICTS OF NEBRASKA

(From The Wayne County Teacher) Below are given the number of districts and counties included in each of the above named districts. These will be helpful to teachers and pupils in the use of the civics outline.

There are 6 congressional districts in Nebraska. We are in the 3rd. It comprises 18 counties in northeast Nebraska. They are, Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Madison, Boone, Nance, Merrick, Platte, Cedar, Wayne, Dixon, Dakota, Thurston, Stanton, Cuming, Burt, Joffax, and Dodge Counties.

Congressman for third district given in list.

Note. It seems that since the movement to increase the membership in the House of Representatives failed Nebraska will lose its sixth member of congress after the present session. It will be necessary for the legislature to recast the congressional lines to make five instead of six districts. The new census gives Nebraska 1,296,372 people. Each district must include a little more than 250,000 inhabitants.

State Senatorial Districts

There are 33 state senatorial and 28 senatorial districts. A few districts of large population have more than one senator. The 7th senatorial district comprises the counties of Wayne, Cuming and Pierce. Name of senator given in official list. According to the constitutional amendment there may be 50 senators.

State Representative Districts

There are 100 state representatives and 77 representative districts. Some districts have more than one representative.

The 20th representative district comprises Wayne County only. Name of representative given in list.

Congressional or United States Representative Districts

There are 18 judicial districts in Nebraska. Ours is the 9th. It includes the counties of Knox, Antelope, Pierce, Madison, Wayne, Stanton and Cuming.

The two judges for this district are given in the list.

SPELLING CONTEST

Frozen Death

(© 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate.)

"Look back over the city's death records for the past six months and then ask Dr. Albert Beaurigard why it is that fifteen prominent citizens have died from cholera and yellow fever when there has been no epidemic. Ask him why these men died within a few days after dining at his house."

This was the anonymous letter that led the chief of police of Buenos Aires to assign Manuel Porteras, one of his best men, to the case which was destined to become unique in criminal annals.

It was true that a number of men who were prominent in the life of the city—bankers and lawyers and doctors—had died within the period mentioned in the unsigned communication. But in every case the attending physicians had given certificates of death from natural causes. In fact, as Porteras pointed out to his chief, there had been autopsies on three of the bodies, but even these post-mortem examinations disclosed nothing out of the ordinary.

"I know all that," retorted the chief of police, "but the charges made in this letter are too grave to overlook—if only for the sake of Doctor Beaurigard's reputation. It is unthinkable that a scientist of his standing, a member of the Ecole de Medicine, a man who is mentioned as the logical successor to Koch, should be connected with these deaths. Besides, what would be his motive?"

"Professional jealousy?" hazarded Porteras.

"Possibly, but that's hardly probable."

Before tackling the question of the letter itself, Porteras dug back into the history of the fifteen men who had died of cholera and yellow fever. In no case did he find any reason which would explain their murder, any motive for removing them.

What Porteras did find, however, was a support for the allegation of the anonymous writer. Each of the dead men had been a guest at the Beaurigard home only a few days before their death. Less than twenty-four hours later they developed symptoms of the dread disease!

Armed with this information, the detective started his search for the man who had written the note. Disguised as a book agent, Porteras succeeded in securing samples of the handwriting of a number of persons who were known to be friendly with Doctor Beaurigard, but none of these showed the distinct characteristics which were apparent even in the altered penmanship of the letter to the police. It was not until he came away from the Beaurigard home with samples of the servants' handwriting that he found what he had been looking for.

The following morning Buenos Aires was startled by the news of the arrest of Dr. Albert Beaurigard, the foremost physician in South America, on a charge of murder.

During the days which preceded his trial, the scientist preserved an air of total nonchalance, appearing oblivious of the fact that he was about to be tried for his life and contenting himself with the issuance of statements that the "whole matter was too absurd to be considered seriously." So numerous were his friends and so secure his position in the social life of the South American capital that the majority of the people claimed that the affair was a plot on the part of the police, an attempt to cover their past failures by a sensational prosecution of an innocent man.

It was not until the state had laid the foundation for its case by introducing the testimony of physicians who had attended the dead men, followed by proof that each of these men had dined at the Beaurigard home only a few hours before they had been taken ill, that Porteras played his trump card. At his direction the prosecuting attorney called Doctor Beaurigard's butler to the stand and for the first time the face of the accused showed the strain under which he had been laboring.

"All preparations for the dinners were left in my hands," testified the butler, "with the exception of the preparation of a single glass of creme de menthe. This Doctor Beaurigard invariably fixed himself, placing it on the tray in the midst of the other glasses."

"What was the difference between this glass and the others?"

"The liqueur was the same. The ice came from a small test tube in Doctor Beaurigard's laboratory."

Hardly had the butler finished this sentence before the prisoner was on his feet, his left hand upraised to attract the attention of the court.

"Yes," he exclaimed, "I am responsible for their deaths—but you'd never have discovered it if it hadn't been for this prying servant. I decided to make experiments with the cholera and yellow fever germs. Other subjects were impressed with death, so I determined to gamble with death, for the fatal virus might have come to me as easily as to any of the others. The germs were frozen in the ice, but, too late, I will never live to pay the official penalty for my experiments. The world may call me mad, but I will not be afraid."

A moment later he was dead. The grave of ex-convict Beaurigard hides in his sinister ring, and done its work quickly and infallibly.

HONORED NAME IN MEDICINE

Henry Detwiler, Native of Switzerland, the First to Practice Homeopathy in America.

Among the first, if not the first, to successfully practice homeopathy in America was Henry Detwiler, who was born in Langenbruck, Switzerland, December 18, 1795.

He studied medicine a number of years before he came to this country on a vessel containing 400 French refugees who left their country after the defeat of Napoleon Bonaparte. He was appointed ship physician, and successfully treated an epidemic of dysentery which had broken out during the passage.

Coming to Pennsylvania, he settled in the Lehigh Valley, and gained prominence by treating a large number of people who were attacked with a mysterious disease which he finally diagnosed as bilious colic, resulting from eating apple butter.

He early made a study of the system of medicine founded by Hahnemann, and in 1828 dispensed the first remedy in Pennsylvania, in accordance with the law of similars, and during the remainder of his life was a devoted homeopathist.

Doctor Detwiler formed an intimate acquaintance with Hahnemann, who gave him a wonderful reception in Paris, where he met other noted physicians and scientists. He gave many natural history specimens to various colleges, founded an iron industry and finally died at the advanced age of ninety-two.—Chicago Journal.

'HILL 60' BOUGHT BY BREWER

Hotel May Be Erected on Ground in France That Will Hold Immortal Memories.

"Hill 60," whose record is written in British hearts with the blood of her young army, has been sold to a brewer.

"It is expected," says the London Times, "that a hotel will be erected there. From battleground of immortal memory to hostelry is a fate which may be deplored, but it is possible, even probable, that by an enterprise however foreign to sentiment, all that is associated with the place may be preserved."

"Hill 60," sacred with the memories of Loos and of many a subsequent resurgence of the tide of battle, consecrated as few other spots of earth have been by repeated baptisms of heroic blood, long ceased to be a hill. It was held, as one commanding officer reported, geographically, though its military value had been utterly destroyed.

"The hill" itself was blasted to dust long before the struggles for its possession had ended. Its name will endure as long as British history, and it is perhaps as well that a monument should mark the site of so many heroisms, even if the monument presents a commercial aspect."

Pueblo-Type Cottages Are Cement.

All the quaint charm of the old pueblo style of architecture is preserved in concrete in a series of little cottages now under construction in Monrovia, Cal. The one-story buildings are most remarkable for their complete use of cement, woodwork being practically eliminated. Even the roofs are concrete, and the doors are made of magnesite, according to an illustrated article in the January Popular Mechanics Magazine. The poured walls, five inches thick, inclose a web of waterproofing material, while the cement floors are stained in Spanish-leather effect, waxed and polished. The little structures are wholly fireproof, and easy cleaning is assured by the absence of moldings, casing and baseboards. Inclosed courts off the kitchen and sleeping chambers, partly roofed and partly screened, provide outdoor protection and privacy.

Making Pictures Popular.

A circulating library of pictures, instead of books, has been opened by the Y. W. C. A. of Brooklyn, N. Y. Good reproductions of the best pictures of today and earlier periods are kept on hand to be loaned out for two weeks or a month. Accompanying each picture is a brief account of the artist's life, the significance of the painting and data about the school and period of art to which the artist belongs. The idea behind the scheme is to familiarize the subscribers with some of the best examples of art, which they might not otherwise obtain and which they may eventually wish to own, after having lived with them a short time.

Threaten American Industry.

Spain is one of the greatest iron-ore centers of the world, shipping ore heavily to other European countries, as well as to the United States, and while it has some large iron and steel works, its output of the finished product has never been commensurate with its ore developments. Now, however, there is a well-defined project of the Krupp's to set up a great branch at Bilbao, Spain, to manufacture agricultural machinery for the purpose of driving out of the market American companies who now have a large share of this business.

The 157 Varieties.

Of the 157 varieties of passenger cars made in the United States, thirty-five come from Michigan. Indiana is next with twenty-three, Ohio has twenty-two, New York fifteen and Pennsylvania and Illinois are tied at ten each. There are 122 automobile manufacturing concerns out of 274 in Michigan.

ARMENIAN GIRL PLEADS FOR SISTERS

Tragic Tale of Harem Victims' Sufferings.

More than ten thousand Armenian girls have been rescued from Turkish harems through the help and generosity of America. This is the statement given out by the Near East Relief, which is making the saving of these tragic victims of Turkish cruelty one of the most important features of its work.

That it is a work which in itself justifies the millions that America has spent in this stricken land is testified to by little Miss Eliza Dodurian, a twenty-year-old Armenian girl recently arrived in this country. Miss Dodurian, through the intervention of American missionaries, was herself spared the sufferings of exile and the horrors of slavery; but she knows all too well the terrible fate of her sisters and friends. It is for them—the soft-eyed little girls of fifteen and sixteen whom last she saw being torn from their mothers' arms and carried off on the saddle bows of the Turkish soldiers—that she makes her plea.

What their lives have been since then may be guessed by a look into the faces of any of the ten thousand who have passed through the Rescue Homes of the Near East Relief. Their heads bowed in shame, they creep into the American relief stations, trying vainly to hide the tattoo marks which proclaim to the world their story.

Thousands of these girls have been brought back to life and hope through the work of the Near East Relief. It is to rescue the one hundred thousand more still held captive that the Near East Relief is making its appeal this year.

High Commissioner Praises Near East Relief

Rear Adm'l Bristol

Constantinople: Everybody seems to have a good word to say for the wonderful work being done by the more than 500 American men and women workers of the Near East Relief. In a public address, Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, U. S. Navy, High Commissioner to Turkey, who has charge of all American interests in the Near East, went on record wholeheartedly in support of the American relief organization.

"If I have been able to encourage the workers of the Near East Relief or give them assistance in any way," the Admiral said, "I feel that I am more than repaid in keeping with the success that has attended the efforts of the Near East Relief Committee in this part of the world in the past. I hope the future will bring you greater success. It will always give me pleasure to render any assistance possible to the Committee as a whole, to any of the workers, and to the great work of humanity that the committee represents."

When 139,000 Russian refugees from the Crimea arrived off Constantinople, Admiral Bristol immediately cabled the Near East Relief for help, and the Near East Relief bakeries fed these refugees and N. E. R. workers helped the American sailors to get the sick to hospitals.

Admiral Bristol is in intimate touch with all the work being conducted by the Near East Relief and speaks from personal knowledge of its accomplishments.

INVESTIGATOR INDORSES NEAR EAST RELIEF

During the Peace Conference in Paris the American Commission to Negotiate Peace, appreciating the importance of accurate, first hand information about the Armenian situation, sent Capt. Benjamin Burges Moore of the American Red Cross as head of a special mission to study and report on conditions. Captain Moore's findings as to the value of the work done by the Near East Relief form part of his official report.

"Armenians are sincerely grateful to us," Captain Moore states, "since it is no exaggeration to say that they would have disappeared as a nation had it not been for this splendid help given them by the Near East Relief and the American Food Administration. The best that sympathetic Americans can do is to continue and enlarge the present admirable work of the Near East Relief."

CUSTOMERS SECURED FOR POULTRY SHOWS

Persons at Summer Resorts Buy Produce in Winter.

City People Have Inspected Producer's Farm and Know Under What Conditions Foodstuffs Are Raised—One Case Cited.

Many producers living near summer resorts supply produce in the summer months to the persons at the resorts, and during the other months of the year ship produce to these persons while they are in the city. This, say marketing specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is one of the best methods of obtaining customers for direct marketing, as the producer and consumer have some acquaintance. In most instances the customers have been at the producer's farm and know under what conditions the articles are produced.

One man who lives near a summer resort in Indiana is about twelve miles from the nearest town of any size. He does not desire to drive to this town to dispose of his farm produce and is not satisfied with the prices that the hucksters pay. Consequently he built up a business of supplying products to resorters in the summer and of shipping produce by parcel post and express to these persons at their city homes in the winter.

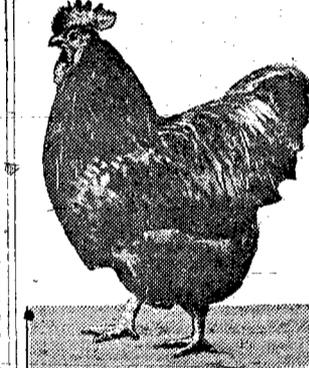

The principal products shipped are butter, eggs and dressed poultry. The producer uses good shipping containers and packs produce attractively. As he is acquainted with his customers, he renders statements of accounts only once a month. In this way the matter of making payments is simplified for the customers.

This producer has had no trouble in establishing his business nor in retaining customers. He states that his only trouble has been in getting enough high-grade produce to supply all of his customers.

BARIUM POISONOUS TO RATS

Tests Indicate That a 20 Per Cent Mixture With Food Makes Most Satisfactory Bait.

A study of barium carbonate as a rat poison, made by the United States Department of Agriculture, indicates that a 20 per cent mixture with food makes a satisfactory bait. With this percentage a rat ordinarily needs to eat only one-third or three-eighths of a meal of average size to get a fatal dose. It was found that with this dose many of the rats poisoned died within 24 hours, though an occasional rat was found which survived an even larger amount, thus indicating that 100 per cent mortality is not to be expected in any case.

A summary of results of experiments conducted by various persons with a view to determining the deadliness of barium to different animals shows the fallacy of the assumption that barium is poisonous only to rats. It is pointed out that the fatal dose of barium per pound tends to decrease relatively as the size of the animal increases, and that a bait calculated to be fatal to rats may be assumed to be more or less dangerous to small domestic animals also.

SUCCULENT FEED FOR FOWLS

Now That Good Qualities of Forages Are Well Known Hens Should Be Given Ample Supply.

Everyone knows that a hen lays best when she gets the succulent grasses that first shoot out of the earth in spring. Most successful feeders use in their washes a base of some heavy, nonfattening, yet nutritious food. For a long time the best feeders of the country used wheat bran for this base, but now that the good qualities of forages are well known the bill of fare should be changed to suit.

HOG-CHOLERA LOSS REDUCED

Estimated Saving of $6,000 to Farmers of Alabama County Brought About by County Agent.

Losses by hog cholera have been materially reduced in Bullock county, Alabama, as a result of the work of the county agent in training farmers in various centers throughout the county to use the serum and apparatus developed by the United States Department of Agriculture. Forty-nine cases of hogs, 3,923 head, have been marketed from the county through co-operative work, with an estimated saving of $6,000. In Houston county the department's representative taught 18 men to vaccinate hogs. Six sets of instruments owned by the Dothan Rotary club were supplied to the demonstrators and a serum-distributing point was established in charge of a reliable veterinarian. More than 9,000 head of hogs were treated. In many cases it was found that sickness, other than cholera, was due to some incidental cause, such as bad peanut meal, and balanced rations were advised. The county agent's work resulted in 32 farmers establishing pastures to keep their hogs off the open range, the land thus pastured being freed from many noxious weeds by the rooting of the animals, and prepared for future cultivation. Forty-four farmers in the county were interested in stump removing, and about 2,000 acres of land was cleared in this movement. About five tons of dynamite was bought for the purpose largely on the co-operative plan.

FEEDING GARBAGE TO SWINE

Practical Means of Producing Pork, According to Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

When properly managed, the feeding of garbage to swine is a practical means of pork production, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1133 issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

In addition it helps to settle a problem which confronts many cities and towns—that of effective and economical garbage disposal. The wholesomeness of garbage depends greatly on the care it receives in households. Tin cans, glass, paper, oyster shells, sawdust, soap, and other foreign materials when mixed with garbage may cause numerous losses of hogs. But it has been found that this evil can be minimized by proper precaution and published requests to householders to be careful.

Immunizing of hogs is necessary to prevent hog cholera, and frequent collection is urged to keep the feed fresh. Copies of the bulletin may be had free by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture.

SEGREGATE ALL NEW ANIMALS

Wise Plan to Place Recent Purchases in Quarantine for at Least Twenty-One Days.

The proper and only safe thing to do with the recently purchased animal is to place it in quarantine upon its arrival. Better keep it there not less than 21 days at least. This enables you to keep a careful watch over the animal at all times, and to determine that the animal is healthy, and in case there should be any disease, it would not be carried to those animals already on the farm.

SUPPLY PIGS PLENTY WATER

Young Porkers—Drink Often and in Small Quantities—Non-Freezer Is Very Useful.

A pig likes to drink water often and in small quantities. It drinks water the same as it eats feed—a little at a time and often. That is why a non-freezing waterer and a self-feeder for grain are so very valuable in the hog lot.

GROUP MEETING MISSIONARY SOCIETY HELD AT WAYNE

On Friday afternoon last, at the Methodist parsonage, a group meeting of the Norfolk district of the Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, was held. Twenty delegates from Bloomfield, Randolph, Carroll and Norfolk were present, these with the Wayne ladies, making seventy-five guests.

Mrs. Geo. Crossland, of Wayne, president of the Norfolk district, turned the meeting over to Mrs. Fisher, of Randolph, the vice president, who presided. The purpose of the meeting was to get all possible instruction in the work and to listen to reports of work already done.

Mrs. Fisher gave a few well chosen words of welcome. Mrs. Linn, of Carroll, gave a splendid paper on Christian Stewardship. Mrs. Curly, of Randolph, handled the subject of social work in the society in a very interesting manner. The subjects of mite boxes and tithing were also discussed.

A year ago Mrs. Crossland initiated the idea of each society in the district taking one child to clothe from the Mothers' Jewel Home. Reports from the different societies showed that great success has marked her efforts. Under her able leadership much has been accomplished in this line of endeavor.

The program was very enjoyable and encouraging in that it told so much of work accomplished. Carroll, Randolph and Wayne furnished inspiring music during the program, after which the Wayne ladies served an elaborate dinner. The ladies left inspired by the meeting and no doubt the coming year will bring even greater success to mark their noble efforts to alleviate suffering and to aid the needy within our gates.

Following are excerpts from the report of the National convention held at St. Paul, Minnesota, October last, given by Mrs. Crossland:

What the Society is Doing
The eventful day in October dawned at last and a smart little thunder shower in the early morning was thoughtful enough to end before the time for the opening of the meeting. The beautiful audience room of the First Methodist Episcopal church of St. Paul was decorated with flags, palms and flowers, with the Fortieth Anniversary emblem adding significance to the scene.

The convention was called to order by the President, Mrs. W. P. Thirkield. She spoke of the fortieth anniversary and the tender memories awakened of those who had begun the work so many so many years ago.

The pastor of the church, Rev. J. W. Holland, D. D., led in an earnest prayer. The convention was then organized by Mrs. D. D. Thompson, recording secretary. As the delegates and visitors from each conference rose, and were announced by their representatives, frequent applause interrupted the proceedings.

The President called for our two treasurers, Mrs. H. C. Jennings who had served the first half of the year and Mrs. Ward Platt, the present treasurer. Mrs. Platt spoke of the great courage and business sagacity of Mrs. Jennings who had led the society in meetings all debts and in recognition of Mrs. Jennings' splendid work asked her to read the report.

The report of mite boxes was brought by the secretary, Mrs. H. B. Barle. In line with all others it showed a wonderful increase, and should be studied. The humble mite-box has played an important part in the splendid results of the past year.

Forty conferences have gone beyond the one thousand dollar mark. Of these Detroit again leads with gifts of $7,908.20. Two go beyond five thousand dollars—West Ohio and North Indiana. Six beyond three thousand dollars and ten beyond two thousand. Kansas City National Training School has again distinguished itself by rolling up the splendid total of $1076. (Other institutions are following this example of special effort.)

Milestones indicate progress, whether they mark miles traveled on a highway or numbers of years in the life of a nation, an organization or of an individual.

Total amount of cash and new goods $177,257.54, an increase over last year of $43,829.53. Total amount of Linen and Silver Fund, $1,735.57.

666 appeals for ministers were sent out, 5,844 books were contributed. Out of 70 conferences from which reports were received, 62 showed increase. Only 8 failed to go over the top.

When the President introduced the next speaker, there was great applause as the corresponding secretary, Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff came forward to read her annual report. In a broad and comprehensive way, Mrs. Woodruff touched upon all the many questions of world and national interest, to which we as a society are allied in sympathy, besides giving a graphic picture of our year's work. The entire membership in all departments is 361,462. Over half a million dollars taken in a few hours. Reports of Bureau and Field Secretaries were next. They presented their report and told of their needs and took pledges for their work and it was indeed an uplift and a great inspiration, the way their pledges were made and how quickly they responded in such a short time and every woman was glad that each member of the Women's Home Missionary Society was part of their big program.

Business of the convention brought out some heated discussion and several changes will be made in the Blue Book which every member was urged to read. The number of legal voters 233. Last year they had 306. Only 6 out of every conference has the right to vote and instead of the president and treasurer having first place, the Young People's and Children's secretary take first place. The corresponding secretary and one delegate. These are the ones to be sent to every national conference. We have in our national conference 45 officers and 60 department secretaries. All officers were re-elected except one manager who resigned and Mrs. Gamble put in her place. Two new managers were added this year, making 15.

The main speakers of the Convention were Mrs. Thirkield. The President gave the annual message which was full of a forward look and inspiration on the watch words of "Carry On". Mrs. Evans and the Mayor gave addresses of Welcome and our Treasurer the response.

Mrs. Brummit talked on the Americanization of a Kentucky woman which was herself and made a very fine address. Bishop Mitchell was a plea to the Womanhood of America for a greater supervision of our young people and to place before them a wholesome uplifting social program.

The Power of Mormonism
Mrs. Lula Loveland Shepard of Salt Lake address was on Mormonism a National menace. If you were to ask me wherein lies the power of the Mormon Church, I should answer unhesitatingly: First, in its gigantic missionary propaganda, for it keeps in the field almost continuously four thousand emissaries—most of them young people just out of school and college. These young people travel by twos; two young men, two young women. Sometimes they are delivering tracts; sometimes selling necessary articles; lately they have been selling subscriptions to magazines, a subscription entitling them to a vote to go to college. This has been the Mormon Church's cheap way of having the general public put their young people through eastern schools of training. These missionaries travel without purse or scrip and must beg or earn their way. Thus the Mormon Church has the cheapest missionary system in the world. There is no expense in connection with it to the church except the missionary's expenses to his home after three years of service—if he has fulfilled a successful mission, that is, has made converts for the church.

Second, in its gigantic wealth. The Mormon Church is today the wealthiest church in this country commercially. They took Utah, a state of unlimited resources, and through their tithing system have built up a great financial machine. Every Mormon tithes. Yet there is never a collection taken in their churches; they send a collector to your doors and you must pay your tithes or you cannot enter the secret Mormon Temple. With these tithes, which run into millions annually, the church has built itself up polygamously, financially, commercially and politically.

They have colonized all of Western United States and Canada. Today Canada is realizing that she has a growing menace to meet, similar to ours. They have bought up gigantic holdings of sugar cane lands in the Hawaiian Islands; coconut groves in the Samoan Islands; vast possessions in Mexico, Panama Zone, Cuba and down in Argentina where they are fattening cattle for the European markets. They have gone into Australia and New Zealand; into the British Isles and the Scandinavian peninsula; into China and Japan and the islands of the Sea. Every Mormon is taught that God turned over to Joseph Smith the keys to all the world and that eventually Mormonism will control from sea to sea.

The Mormon Church controls the sugar beet industry of this nation. The merger for the sugar beet trust was made in the Mormon prophet's office in Salt Lake City. The German converts to Mormonism taught the people of Utah how to grow sugar beets and today the Mormons own sugar beet factories in Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Colorado and Arizona.

Sugar took its first upward sweep when the war in Germany opened in 1914 and the rise in sugar prices were laid to the Kaiser; but Joseph F. Smith raised the price of beet sugar in August of 1914 four and one-half per cent and thereby cleared nine million dollars for the church.

Recently the heads of the Mormon Church have been indicted for profiting in sugar. It was found by the federal authorities that the church was manufacturing sugar for $9.50 per hundred and selling sugar at $23.00 to $25.00 per hundred. Some twenty counts were found against more than a dozen of these leaders who have been held under $10,000.00 bonds. We anxiously await the outcome of the indictment. The church controls the "Inland Crystal Salt Company" of Utah and thereby has a strong hold upon the salt industry of the nation. All the salt is obtained from the Great Salt Lake and the salt gardens along the southern end of the lake are the great show places of the valley.

The church owns the largest department store in Salt Lake City, "Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Institution," with branches of this store in most of the towns of Utah and adjacent states. The church conducts various factories and the President of the church, Heber J. Grant, is president of numerous banks, insurance companies, real estate agencies, newspapers, and magazines; and is at the head of the dramatic trust, the music college, the Latter Day Saints University and various colleges and academies.

We may some day be able to throttle the Mormon church's gigantic power in political and religious affairs, but when I see their ramifications into all industries I am wondering how we will ever reach this line of their power.

The Mormon Church works in such a subtle and deceitful manner that they sometimes fool the very elect. Polygamy is repressed today but it is not suppressed, and the Mormons are leaving no stone unturned to create a sentiment for it. It is up to the Christian people of America to heal this national sore, a cancer which has been eating at the body politic. This nation will pay the price of its sin if this system is permitted to continue.

When will the church of the living God in its united strength rise up against this growing menace? A half holiday was welcomed by members of the convention and most delightful things were planned and autos were at the church to take everyone out on a sight seeing trip of the Twin Cities and a great many places of interest were visited, such as Fort Snelling, Minnehaha Falls and along the roads that skirted the beautiful lakes we stopped at the new Hebronn Avenue Church for a reception, one of the finest churches of Methodism. Mrs. Mitchell, Berry and Harrison and officers and Board of Trustees in the receiving line and cocoa and wafers were served. The wonderful Walker collections of paintings were seen. The drive along the Mississippi and the lakes and parks and the many beautiful residences. We were then taken to the girl's club for our evening meal.

The pagents given by the children and local talent on the Fortieth Anniversary of our Society were very fine indeed. The young people and children's umbrella parade covered with membership cards and banners was a beautiful sight. I want to say a word about Mrs. Peck's work, our secretary of evangelism. She is a most wonderful woman and conducted the morning watch at 8:30 every morning. This service was surely an uplift and inspiration to every one and we were not without the spirit of Christ. One could not do all that was expected of us and I hope will not fail to read her page.

THE NORTH NEBRASKA TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION
(From The Wayne County Teacher)
The annual meeting of the North Nebraska Teachers' Association is to be held at Wayne April 1 and 2, 1921. The executive committee are anxious that this meeting be the best and largest meeting ever held. One reason why they want this to be the best is that if the new constitution of the State Association is adopted this association will be merged into the state association as one of the district associations. The number of delegates to the general assembly will depend upon the number at the meeting this spring.

The committee also requests suggestions regarding the program from any teacher. They would like teachers to ask for anything they want to appear on the program. Superintendent, O. H. Elmsen, of Oakland, is president.

WAYNE-COTNER; WAYNE-DOANE
(From The Goldenrod)
Neither "Bulldog" chops were eaten nor any "Tigers" caged on Thursday and Friday evenings when Cotner and Doane pitted their staunch representatives against the Normal squad. The Cotner contingent carrying off the booty by a 25 to 12 score and the Doane men fiercely fighting until the last to gain the final score of 21 to 16.

The memory of the score piled up by Cotner in the previous game acted as an incentive and not long after the whistle sounded, Wayne had rung up a field basket. The "Bulldogs", not being of an acquisitive type, growlingly followed suit. The Normal quintet now projected the sphere through the basket twice in quick succession and the opponents fiercely showed their grit by returning the compliment.

In the last few minutes of the first half, while cries of "Bully for team" clove the air, Cotner fouled and Patterson added another point for the Normal, ending the first half 7 to 6 in favor of Wayne.

The second half proved the Bulldogs the more enduring fighters, however, for although both teams entered the arena with a rush, the Bulldogs kept things moving and it seemed inevitable that the visitors pile up 14 points to the Normal's five.

Thus the hard-fought battle ended, 25 to 12, in favor of Cotner. Miller and McPherson, forward, did stellar work for Cotner. The visitors' splendid team work was also commendable.

The following evening a more even game was witnessed when the Doane Tigers showed their teeth. Things seemed to forebode evil, when, in the first few minutes of play, Doane scored eight points. Wayne warmed up matters with three successive baskets and when the first half ended, the score stood 11 to 6 in favor of the Tigers.

The second half witnessed some fast playing, the score trembling in the balance throughout the game. The final blow of the whistle marked the score 21 to 16 in favor of the visitors both teams fighting until the last to keep things well balanced. The Wayne-Doane game was one of the most interesting staged on this floor.

Although both games have been defeats, the latter game shows what can be done and it is hoped that in the future the satisfactory end of the scores will be Wayne's.

PROPOSED SEMINAR
A seminar, conducted by Professor Lewis for the benefit of all interested in current topics, has been proposed;—an hour of college credit to be given those doing creditable work. A time of meeting has not yet been decided upon. However, it would be well for those interested in original research to make manifest their desire to enroll in this most valuable work.

The class, if its existence proves feasible, will be conducted not only in the interest of students but for members of the faculty and other interested parties, as well.

CONVOCATION
Friday:
The absurd practice of writing on the walls in our buildings was very strongly denounced by President Conn. We are thankful that only a very few in this school are so careless and childish.

The remainder of the period was spent in an effort to arrange a satisfactory program for next semester.

Monday:
An interesting history of our favorite "Little Brown Church in the Vale" was given by Doctor House. President Conn announced a number of the lecture course scheduled for Saturday night, the speaker to be Maude Ballington Booth, whose fame is nationwide.

In speaking of next semester's work, the President urged that no student carry over twenty-five hours work. It is advisable to carry less than that amount.

Wednesday:
The Salesmanship Class, with Mr. Bengtson as chairman, read papers dealing with different phases of their study in preparation for becoming salespersons. The topics dealt with were: Salesmanship schools, Personality of Salesman, The Different Steps in the art of Sales, The Organization and Management of a Department Store.
Harold Bengtson, Agnes Kell, Adele Schmitz and Lloyd Palm took part in the program.
