DOES WAYNE NEED A BOARD OF PUBLIC WELFARE?

(Contributed)

A specialist along welfare lines has been in Wayne for the last three days, and those who have heard all the lectures or have attended only part of the series are unanimous in their opinion that the campaign has been well worth while, though not nearly so large a number of people were reached as should have been, due to our not grasping the importance of the whole movement—that of rearing our children efficiently in home, school and church and community, (through the city government), in the welfare way.—In short, through prevention rather than cure.

At the first meeting Monday night, Mr. Wilcox asked for the appointment of a committee of representative citizens to study into an ordinance, creating a Board of Public Welfare to be elected by the City Council, and to be a part of the city government. The ordinance was read at all three evening meetings. The committee selected, consisting of A. R. Davis, Rev. J. W. Beard, J. H. Kemp, Mrs. C. W. Crossland, Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, Supt. Armstrong, U. S. Coan, F. S. Berry, Dr. Hess and Miss Pearl Sewell, met Tuesday afternoon and recommended that the ordinance be presented to the people at both the Tuesday and Wednesday evening meetings and that it be published in our newspapers. The Wednesday evening audience voted unanimously to have the ordinance submitted to our city council for their consideration, with the expectation, of course, that changes would be made in it to meet the conditions existing in Wayne. The ordinance will be published in next week's papers.

MRS. JAMES STANTON DIES

Tuesday, February 1, 1921, at an Omaha hospital, where Mrs. James Stanton, of Carroll, went for medical aid nearly three months ago, death came to relieve her sufferings, after all that the best of medical skill could give had been given in vain.

Ann Finn was born in Ireland, February 25, 1866, at Claremorris in county Mayo, and lacked but three weeks of being 55 years of age. She came to America in 1882, and soon after to this part of Nebraska. At the home of her brother, James Finn she was united in marriage to James Stanton, January 18, 1894, and to this union nine children were born, four dying in infancy, and five with the father and husband surviving to mourn together the death of a kind and loving wife and mother—a truly excellent woman. The children, all of whom are here, are Dan, of Wisner; Marie, Madeline, Mat and Frank at home. Two brothers, James Finn, of this place, and John Finn, of Sioux City, also survive her.

The body was brought to the home of her brother at this place Wednesday evening, and the funeral services will be from the St. Mary's Catholic church Friday morning at nine o'clock, Rev. Father Kearns officiating, and burial will be in the Wayne cemetery. The sympathy of many friends is extended to the sorrowing family in their hour of great bereavement.

LEO E. PRYOR WEDS

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pryor and Mr. and Mrs. Brigger, from Carroll, and Winslow, were at Omaha the first of the week, going to attend the wedding of Mr. Leo E. Pryor, of DeSane, California, and Miss Margaret C. Smith, of Omaha, which was solemnized at the St. John's Catholic church at Omaha, Wednesday morning, February 2, 1921. Mr. and Mrs. Pryor left for their California home, where his mother and sister are spending the winter. The groom is most favorably known in this his old home community, and many there are to wish them well.

Y. M. C. A. AT CARROLL

At Carroll a commodious room has been secured and is used as a home place for the youngmen of that community. It is being fitted for athletics of different sorts, and boxing is one of the sports in which they may indulge. Rev. Drulinger, pastor of the Methodist church is active in this good work, evidently believing that the young folks had far better have a place properly supervised for the proper sports of the youth than to have those who will indulge in such sports feel that they are out-lawed, and must be kept from the eyes of the people. It is the necessity of hiding a lot of innocent amusements, if properly governed, which tempt the young folks to defy all and go out for a time—which may lead to a far bigger time than had been contemplated.

DEATH OF ALEXANDER SCOTT

In the death of Alexander Alonzo Scott, which occurred at his late home five and one-half miles southwest of Wayne, Sunday evening, January 30, 1921, the community lost one of its pioneer citizens—a man of many good traits, and an energetic, progressive farmer. His death was caused from infection from a wisdom tooth which he had had drawn a short time before. His condition quickly became serious after it had developed so that it was a menace, and plans to take him to a hospital were abandoned because he was not able to be moved. The swollen and affected jaw was lanced and relief hoped for came too late to save life.

Alexander Scott, son of Alexander Scott senior and wife, was born October 27, 1877, making him 43 years and 3 months of age, in Davis county, Missouri, where his parents were visiting after having located on a homestead in this county, and he spent his entire life except a few months when an infant in this community. Here he attended school and college, taking a course under the late Professor Pile. Here he was united in marriage to Miss Lucy Carpenter, who was a student at the time he was attending the school. The wife and six children, Edith, (Mrs. Tom Fox, of Gregory, South Dakota); Mary, (Mrs. George Fox, of this county); Lillie, Ralph, John and Russell, at home, and his aged parents and sisters survive him.

He was a member of the Methodist church during part of his life, and his funeral services were from that church in this city, Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Geo. Carter, pastor of the Wnside church. The attendance was large, and members of the Modern Woodmen, of which order he was a member, attended and paid their tribute to him and gave sympathy to the bereaved family, and buried the body with the rites of the order.

THE PUBLIC WELFARE MEETINGS

An educational campaign along hygienic and public welfare lines has been conducted in our city this week by Frank G. Wilcox, of the National Hygiene and Welfare Bureau. Prior to taking up this work Mr. Wilcox was for many years engaged in prison reform work.

The one purpose of the campaign is to arouse public interest in searching out the cause of crime and moral delinquency and in finding the cure. Statistics have proven that 95% of the men and women behind prison bars are there because of lack of efficient care in the home, the church, the school and the community, or government. These agencies have failed to efficiently care for the child in all the stages of its development. We have made laws and then waited for the law to be broken, then inflicted the punishment instead of creating such conditions and used such care that the crime would never have been committed, and we are paying the bill.

Nebraska spends more than a million and a half dollars annually to care for its delinquents, its feeble minded, its insane, and criminal wrecks and for every $6 spent in this way, only one is spent for the welfare way—for prevention rather than cure.

Mr. Wilcox conducted a campaign at Schuyler from Tuesday till Sunday, and he goes from Wayne to Emerson, to be there from Thursday to Sunday, inclusive. Emerson has a Board of Public Welfare.

WEBER'S WEATHER PREDICTION

In writing from Dunning, Will Weber tells that they had quite a snow in his county January 24th, but that it was all gone before the 28th, and fine weather prevailing. For February predictions he says:

January 30 to February 7, fair and mild.

February 7 to 15, snow and rain.

February 15 to 22, snowy and stormy.

February 22 to March 1, cold rain if wind is in west when moon changes, snow if wind is from the east at that time.

REVENUE MAN COMING TO WAYNE FEBRUARY 23

That is the item sent out by Geo. R. Lomis, collector for this district. A deputy is to be here to receive your reports February 28, March 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. We are asked to see that the Democrat readers are warned of their change to meet the gentleman, and confer with him about their reports.

ADVERTISED LETTERS

Wayne, Nebraska, February 2, 1921.
Letters: Mrs. Rosa Baker, Hillman, Mrs. Chas. Muller, Mr. R. E. Smith, Mrs. Zola Wilson.
C. A. Berry, Post Master.

BILLS CONTINUE TO BE RUSHED IN

Lincoln, Nebraska, February 2.—Notwithstanding the fact that not to exceed one in three of the bills introduced in a legislature ever become laws, the members of the house and senate did not hesitate to throw in the usual high average of bills. The senate has until midnight to introduce bills, and the chances are that the total will exceed 1,000.

A wide variety of subjects are covered in the bills offered. Among them are these:

Making it unlawful to conspire to picket a place of business or by any threats, calling of names or other abuse seek to prevent a person from doing what he may lawfully do and wishes to do.

Prohibiting the drivers of school transportation wagons from smoking, swearing or using indecent language while on duty.

Establishing a state industrial commission to have authority over public utilities in the fixing of wages, profits and conditions of employment.

Limiting the campaign expenses of candidates to 15 per cent of a year's salary.

Requiring cold storage warehouse goods to be stamped if in storage over 30 days and prohibiting storage for purpose of getting fictitious price or to create a monopoly or kill competition.

The Jury Bill

The house doesn't believe in being too radical. The senate, following the new constitution, passed a bill permitting five-sixths of a jury in a civil case.

The Nebraska house unanimously adopted a resolution Tuesday afternoon, endorsing the Fordney emergency tariff bill.

G. A. Gansko Entertains

Landlord Gansko of the Boyd gave a Sunday dinner to a few of his friends and their wives last Sunday, which was an event not soon to be forgotten by those who partook of the sumptuous repast. Covers were laid for ten on a beautifully decorated table, and the menu told of the skill of the host as a cook for all was prepared under his personal supervision. The table was decorated with cut glass, and carnations and ferns—the center piece being a handsome bouquet on a cut glass mirror. The favors were pink and white roses. The guests spoke in terms of praise of the menu which was as follows, and was served in six courses.

Mint Julep

Salted Nuts in Cases

Shrimp Cocktail

Chicken Bouillon with Noodles and Wafers

Celery Plain and Stuffed Olives

Baked Domestic Duck with Dressing

French Peas in Cases

Stuffed Baked Potatoes

Head Lettuce, Thousand Island Dressing

Cream Puffs

Raisin Pie, Cheese

Coffee

The afternoon and evening were pleasantly spent with music and social chat, making it one of the most pleasant of social events.

OUR CITY LIGHTS

Among other improvements in appearance at least in our city is the installation of a new holder for the street lights in the residence section of the city. The swinging light over the street intersection has been taken out, and in its place a light is given from a neat bracket extending from poles at the street intersections.

Our electricians are also being dehorned. That is, the four arms each carrying a lamp and globe are being removed, and but one globe at the top of post remains. In this globe a 200 candle power lamp is to be installed, giving as much light as the 5 40 c. p. lamps gave of old. The posts are also being given a new coat of paint, much to their improvement in appearance.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES AT ASHTON, IDAHO

According to word received by the Odd Fellows here, W. F. Neiland, formerly of this place arrives today from Ashton, Idaho, with the body of Mrs. Neiland, which is to be buried in our cemetery beside the grave of two sons. There will be a short service at the grave by Rev. Fetterolf.

WAYNE STATE NORMAL NOTES

Dr. Frank O. Wilcox, who has been speaking in Wayne this week in behalf of the Nebraska State Hygiene and Welfare campaign, addressed the students Wednesday morning at the chapel period. He pleaded first for open-minded and scientific investigation of social subjects; in the second place, made the assertion that the destinies of young life are determined between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five; and concluded his address with an appeal for the attitude of evaluation on the part of his hearers. The students and faculty were much interested.

This evening the second monthly meeting of the Faculty club will be held. Dean H. H. Bahn will introduce the program with a discussion entitled: "Some inferences from the treatment of the problem of last meeting." The subject for the evening will be: "What social training should be given in normal schools?" The first speaker on this topic will be Dr. J. T. House, followed by Miss Beechel and Miss Piper, who will consider special aspects of the general theme.

Professor Lackey, chairman of the committee for this month, will preside. It is the custom of the organization to have a new committee in charge of each program, one member being carried over from the previous committee.

The basketball team returned from their trip to the southern part of the state on Saturday. On Thursday evening a game was played with Midland College of Fremont and on Friday held a return engagement with Doane College at Crete. In each case the opposing team was victorious.

Tomorrow evening the local basketball team will clash for the first time with Omaha University in the gymnasium at the Normal. The Omaha team has a name for excellent playing, having narrowly missed winning the championship last year. Our boys are playing a good game, against very superior teams this season. They are engaging in the sport from love of the game, and not merely with the hope of winning, and deserve the support of the school and the community.

Most of the men of the faculty are going tomorrow night to Norfolk to attend the meeting of the school men of northeastern Nebraska. A banquet will be served and matters of current interest in the world of education will be discussed. Superintendent H. H. Reimand, of Tekamah, will act as chairman and Superintendent Clarence Linton, of Lyons, is secretary. Mr. Linton graduated from the Normal in 1915 and in 1919 received his bachelor of arts degree from this institution.

The State Normal School has recently purchased some original paintings, and expects to secure four or five additional ones by leading American artists. The latest addition to the collection is a winter scene in the pine forests of New England by Robert Gilder, of Omaha. A group of paintings has been sent on approval by O'Brien and Sons, art dealers, of Chicago. One unusually attractive painting, which is much admired by students and faculty, is entitled "The Shadowy Glen" by Stevens, an Indiana artist. This is a bit of scenery in the mountains of North Carolina. T. C. Steele, of Indianapolis, has sent two splendid paintings on approval and will soon send several additional ones. It is quite probable one of Steele's productions will be added to the group already purchased.

Anyone interested in art will be well repaid for making the trip to the art department to see these excellent paintings.

SOCIAL NOTES

Mrs. Fred Krueger was hostess at a very interesting session of the Bible Study circle Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Olive Gossard led in the discussion of the lesson study on "The Marriage Feast," which proved very enlightening. The secretary read several letters after the lesson hour as follows: Mrs. D. C. Hogue, Garden Grove, California, tells of a splendid Bible circle organized among the Mexican girls, which is bearing much fruit through the study of the word. Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Murray send greeting and request for prayer from Edenburg, Scotland, enroute to Cape Town, the seat of their abundant labors. The only lady missionary to the Indians of Central America, sends touching request for more laborers and more help for the depressed, down trodden Indians, who comprise 60% of the population and 2 million of them are practically untouched by the Gospel. During the Victorious Life conferences held by Mr. Doniwiddie in December, 60 of these Indians from 12 tribes surrendered fully to the Lord and 16 volunteered to go out with the Gospel to the host of unreached among those tribes. A wonderful victory. Mrs. Nichols will be hostess next Tuesday afternoon. A cordial welcome to all.

The Minerva club met Monday, January 31st, at the home of Mrs. Geo. Fortner, with Mrs. W. E. Boaman and Mrs. W. R. Ellis as leaders. Mrs. Boaman gave the first part of the lesson outlining the history of Indian music. Her paper was greatly enjoyed and contained much valuable information. She closed her part of the program by playing the accompaniment for the following Indian solos: "A Rose on an Indian Grave"—Laurance, Mrs. Armstrong. "By the Waters of Minnetonka"—Laurance, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen. "In the Land of the Sky Blue Water"—Cadman, Mrs. Crabtree. Mrs. Ellis gave as her part of the program the story of three Grand Operas—Aida, Mikado and Lucia with selections from each on the Victrola. After this treat of music, the hostess served delicious refreshments. Guests of the club were: Mrs. L. W. Crompton, of Mankato, Canada; Miss Harriet Fortner and Miss Eloise Miner.

At the Coterie meeting last Monday at the home of Mrs. Perry Theobald, a pleasant time was passed. At the business session it was decided to adopt a war orphan for another year, following the example of two previous years. The roll call was responded to by each member giving some smart saying of some child, a very interesting feature. Mrs. E. E. Fleetwood read a splendid paper on "Child Labor." Mrs. L. W. Ellis was a guest of the club. Before the guests departed the hostess served candy. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Horace Theobald.

One of the happy social events of the week was at the I. O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening, when the Royal Neighbors entertained the Modern Woodmen and their wives. The ladies presented one of their popular playlets, and a short program. Good music was furnished by the orchestra, and you can guess what some of the 200 present would do under the circumstances. It was a really social time for all who could attend. No wall flowers there.

The Monday club met Monday with Mrs. Kostomlatzky. In response to roll call Current Events were given. On "The Virgin Island", Mrs. Chace gave a very interesting report on the history, industrial life and cities of the Island. Mrs. Kostomlatzky served refreshments. The guest of the club was Mrs. McElroy. The club will meet February 7th with Mrs. Rolfe Ley.

Saturday evening there was a happy gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Senft, when four or five couple of their friends came for the evening, which was spent at games and in social chat. Before adjournment it was voted to make it a slumber party, and most of the guests remained for the night. Refreshments were served, and all greatly enjoyed the event.

The Sorosis club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. J. Barnes. The afternoon was spent with 50, after which the hostess served a delicious two course luncheon. The guests were: Mrs. R. H. Meyer, of Beatrice; Mrs. C. M. Christensen and Mrs. Frank Whitney. Will have regular program Monday, February 14th, at the home of Mrs. S. Brock.

Miss Alice Fisher entertained nine little girls at her home Saturday afternoon in honor of her little niece, Genevieve Fisher, of Norfolk. The occasion was to celebrate her fourth birthday. The afternoon was spent in playing games. Miss Genevieve received many beautiful gifts. Ice cream and cake was served by the hostess.

The Alpha Woman's club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bert Wright. The evening was spent socially and with Kensington. The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Lucille and Miss Betcher, served delicious refreshments. Club will meet Tuesday, February 15th, at the home of Mrs. L. B. Young.

Little Mary Elizabeth Norton entertained ten of her little girl friends at her home in honor of her sixth birthday Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. A good time was had by the little ones, after which Mrs. Norton served refreshments. Mary Elizabeth was the recipient of many nice little presents.

Mrs. J. H. Kemp and Mrs. F. G. Phillo entertained a number of ladies at the home of Mrs. Kemp Tuesday afternoon. Time was passed playing Royalty, after which the hostesses served a two course luncheon. Mrs. Don Sutton, of Plankinton, South Dakota, was an out of town guest.

The Wayne Woman's club will hold its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Grace Keyser, Saturday at 3 p. m. The program will be a lecture-recital on Indian Music. Those who will take part on the program are Mrs. Keyser, Miss Katherine Strickland and Mrs. A. R. Davis.

The P. E. O. club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Mines. Mrs. Hufford read a paper on Chili, Mrs. Mines, assisted by Mrs. V. A. Senter served delicious refreshments. The next meeting will be held February 15th at the home of Mrs. Perry Theobald.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blair and Mrs. Grace Keyser entertained the Sorosis club and their husbands Friday at the home of Mrs. Keyser. The evening was spent with 500 and dancing. A delicious two course luncheon was served at midnight by the hostesses.

The Queen Esther society met Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Elsie Lerner for a social evening. The time was spent in playing games. Refreshments were served. Miss Lila Gardner will be hostess at a business meeting Tuesday evening, February 8th.

The U. D. club met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Von Seggern. Mrs. Claycomb read a very interesting paper on "The History of America". Light refreshments were served by the hostess.

P. N. G. club will meet Tuesday, February 8th, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Ingraham. A very interesting program has been prepared for that day and all members are urged to be present.

The members of the Early Hour club meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Ray Reynolds. Dinner will be served at 6:30. The evening will be spent in playing 500.

Mrs. Bowen entertained a few neighbors at her home Tuesday afternoon. The time was spent with Kensington. Eight refreshments were served by the hostess.

The card party which was to have been held at the J. C. Nuss home this evening by the members of the Guild has been postponed until after Easter.

The W. C. T. U. will meet Friday afternoon, February 4th, at the home of Mrs. S. A. Lutgen. All members are requested to be present.

The Ladies Aid of the English Lutheran church will meet Thursday afternoon, February 10th, at the home of Mrs. A. Lerner.

Ain of Ava West Minister Guild circle will meet Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the home of Miss Ruth Ingham.

Harriet Stroh West Minister Guild will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Miss Ruth Ringland.

The Ladies Union of the Baptist church meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fleetwood.

The P. F. club will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. L. M. Rodgers.

Miss Cora McClure, who went west about four months ago in search of health such as it was hoped a change in climate would bring, came home the last of the week, not greatly benefited it appears by the change. She was as far as Lebanon, Oregon, and spent some time at different intermediate points.

The Nebraska federation of retailers at their annual meeting selected the first week of April as "corn meal week" and urged that all organizations sell it as cheap as possible. With corn bringing less than 40 cents a bushel corn meal diet should aid materially in reducing the high cost of living. Corn flakes and kindred corn products should take a tumble, too.

With well filled corn cribs on many farms, and relatively low prices prevailing, it is time, says the U. S. department of agriculture, that correction should be made of the impression that corn is not good feed for milk cows. The function of corn in a ration is to produce heat, energy, and fat; but when fed alone it does not supply largely the nutrient which make bone, muscle, and hair, and the casing in milk. Consequently for milk cows there should be added to corn such feeds as bran, linseed meal or cottonseed meal. Bran is useful because it not only lightens the ration but helps to balance it. Alfalfa or clover is usually fed with corn, to supply protein.

Wayne Sales Pavilion
Saturday, February 12, 1921

This offering consists of nine heifer calves, coming yearlings; four bulls about 1 year old; two bulls coming 2 years old; balance are cows 3 and 4 years old.

There are five daughters of Beau Baron, bred by the veteran breeders, Judgell & Simson. Beau Baron is by the noted Mousel Brothers' Beau Mischief. Nine great grandsons and granddaughters of Beau Baron are in the lot. The entire offering is bred along the same lines of the Anxiety Herefords of today.

The offering will be of a type in demand today. They have not been pampered, but are just in good breeding condition. They are ready to go to your farm or herd without extra care.

The offering will show for itself, as every cow will have a calf in the sale or on foot or well along in calf to the great young bull, John Charming. This fine animal will be shown in the ring on sale day.

The curly-coated Hereford of today is here to stay. He has paid his way to the feed lot everywhere in the corn belt, and is noted for quick and early finish. The Hereford has no equal when it comes to baby beef for which it is a top-notch on all leading markets.

TERMS—Cash or eight months time at 10 per cent.

Corn prices slumped in South Dakota last week to 30 cents the bushel. Some elevators had a big contract for shipment west, and until that was filled had been able to pay as high as 60 cents per bushel.

Joseph Kilpatrick, one of the pioneers of Madison county is seriously ill. He is 77 years of age, and as paralysis is his affliction, his recovery is doubtful, tho he may rally and be spared a number of years.

Friday evening this week is regular Yeomen meeting, and the Archers who attended last month report a splendid time, with eats and sociability—the committee for the February meeting have hinted that it will be better this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Rehder, (a printer who was with the Tribune at Seward when they tried to make it a daily town when they could not make a weekly pay, until they went broke) was a caller Monday morning. He was going to Norfolk to accept a place in the job alley at the News, and spent Sunday here with his uncle, J. H. Rehder and family, going over to work Monday noon.

C. E. Mason, of Randolph, was at Wayne Saturday morning, returning from a trip to Norfolk. He has been engaged in the implement business at Randolph at least a part of the time since his service for Uncle Sam ceased. Mr. Mason is one of the graduates from the Wayne normal, and was in school work until called for service; and he should, we think, return to the school work, where he was successful and where good school men are needed.

Mrs. Edwards, from Carroll, was a Wayne visitor Saturday, a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Libengood.

Miss Clara Burson was over from Winside, near which place she is teaching, Saturday to visit Wayne friends.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEALTH

The human spine has a wonderful meaning. In length it measures considerably short of three feet, extends head to hips, attaches the ribs and pelvis, the bones of the arms, and is itself composed of segments which are of limited motion and play a most important part in the items of health and disease. A principle function of the spine is to systematically distribute the nerves on their way from the brain to the body. It performs its full duty in this respect when its joints are in natural position. In a situation like that it provides free passage to the nerve trunks which will insure to the human system throughout the maximum of health and immunity from disease. If it suffers derangement of its joints it becomes a nerve disturber and a disease creator to the extent and severity of such displacements.

The first unity in the spinal column proper, the one forming a rest for the base of the skull, is called the atlas. If there is even a slight displacement of the atlas to cause deviation of any of its points of articulating contact with the cranium with the axis, its nearest neighbor below, the changed shape will press the nerve lines dependent upon it. The effect will be some one or more of those physical inter-ordinations that are distinguished from health by calling them diseases, such as headaches, facial paralysis, epilepsy, affections of the eyes and ears, as well as other parts of the anatomy of the head and body that are controlled or influenced by the nerves involved.

In like manner every joint in the spinal column gives off nerve trunk on either side. Where there is disease in any body part it is traceable to a causative derangement in the spine, which cause in the science of chiropractic may be readily located and definitely removed by specific adjustment of the offending spinal joint. This in brief is the chiropractor theory of the cause of disease and the way to remove it. It is not merely a theory, but one that has proved a fact through clinical experiments, the rules of science and wide success in practically every type of disease that afflicts men, women and children in every walk of life.

The mind of civilized man has been trained for centuries to believe that disease is a THING, a tangible something, an entity as it were and that it can be cured by a drug—or by taking something into the human system through the stomach or otherwise that holds some strange and magical power to change disease into health. This idea, like many others, has prevailed through time largely because of its mysteriousness.

As long as people live they will subject their bodies voluntarily and accidentally to conditions of unusual burden on the spinal column and any of these stresses the column is physically unable to withstand will effect displacements of its parts. And inasmuch as the vast majority of human ailments result from compression of nerves caused by spinal subluxations, adjusting by the chiropractic method is the most important thing that can be done to improve the health of any suffering individual.

Modern science has clearly demonstrated the importance of the human spine in health and disease. It is known that the backbone of man is the key to his health. It has been proved to the entire satisfaction of many leading health scientists who have investigated the science of chiropractic that where the spinal column is realigned by specific adjusting it will insure the return of health to any ailing body part. Contrary to it is now known beyond doubt that the displacement of any segment of the spine will produce disease in the part of the body that is reached by the nerves it innervates.

The Chiropractor does not treat the trouble, if there is trouble, but looks for its cause. He finds it and fixes it, and then Nature effects the "cure."

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. O. W. Crabtree went to Wakefield Tuesday morning.

Mattilda Miller, of Winside, was a Wayne visitor between trains Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Moran went to Sloux City Tuesday morning to spend a few days visiting there.

They have started to build a corn palace at Mitchell, South Dakota, at a cost of $200,000 for an agricultural exhibit this year, and perhaps following years.

Mrs. Luella Rubey, after spending some time visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Coryell, returned to her home at Sheldon, Iowa, Tuesday.

The Cuming County Farm bureau is to open a drive for new members in that county this week. They are predicting a new membership of 300 as a result of the movement. Cuming county has had a farm organization of this nature for some time.

A still, corn juice and corn mash were captured last week by the sheriff of Boyd county at Naper.

Mrs. Elmer Snyder and son, Glenn, who have been visiting with relatives at Randolph passed through Wayne Tuesday on their way home to Hemingford.

Mrs. J. H. Smith and sister, Mrs. Will Gamble, passed through Wayne Tuesday on their way to Norfolk to visit with the former's daughter, who is in the hospital.

Mrs. Verne Fisher, from Norfolk, has been visiting at the W. L. Fisher home for several days last week, and Sunday afternoon Mr. Fisher came to join her and return home with her.

Mrs. Craven and daughter, Miss Nettie went to Randolph Monday evening to make an extended visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Hahn, who came from Sloux City Tuesday, bringing with them their little daughter, who with Mrs. Hahn, is to be under the care of grandmother and aunt.

The sale of the personal property of the late George Denkage west of Pender last week Tuesday was one of the largest attended and best advertised sales held this winter, in spite of a snow the morning of the sale and a threatened blizzard. Prices were well up to the present value of everything put up, we are told. The moral is plain—advertise.

There has been sale of a little coal—a dozen cars perhaps, in this part of Nebraska by the railroad, and it sold readily at $7.00 to $8.00 on track. It was said to be good coal. The railroad and automobile factories are also reported to have done a good business in disposing of a number of car shipments of automobiles, which dealers refused to take on the ground that they had not been ordered.

A good many farmers are taking advantage of the comparatively low prices at which purebred stock is selling this winter and laying the foundation for good herds of hogs and cattle, according to the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Purebred stock has been bringing little more than market prices at many sales, and this appears to be a good time to obtain high-class breeding stock at reasonable figures. More farmers than ever before realize that it is poor business to continue the use of scrub sires, and the price which female stock is bringing affords an excellent opportunity to turn the whole herd into purebreds. The abundance of breeding stock for sale at rather low prices permits the selection of good purebreds. The fact that a sire is purebred is not enough; he should be a good individual. A few hundred dollars wisely spent now will lay the foundation for a high-class purebred herd.

MAUDE BALLINGTON BOOTH

(From The Goldenrod)

Last Saturday evening marked, without exception, the most enjoyable lecture ever given on the Hill, the occasion being the night of the lecture of Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth, noted prison reformer and slum worker.

Doctor House, in introducing the speaker, remarked that people lack knowledge and imagination to the extent that things little known but tremendously important escape their notice. The prisons of our country, Mr. House stated, were often classed among these "little" things.

Previous to the speaker's work in Sing Sing, Auburn, St. Quentin and various other state prisons throughout the United States and previous to her Salvation Army work, Mrs. Booth was engaged in work in the slums of Philadelphia, Boston, New York and Chicago. It was while working in the prisons that she earned the title "Little Mother", and direct from the inside world she has sown in the hearts of the people broadcast over the United States the viewpoint of those behind bleak, foreboding, frowning prison walls.

Mrs. Booth's initial call to speak in prison, she said, came from St. Quentin Prison at San Francisco. She contrasted, in a mental, vivid picture, the freedom of the outside world with that of the prisoner. She felt as she looked into the sneering, hardened faces of those before her on this, her maiden visit to the inside world, that she was being weighed. During the hour which was at her disposal, she sought to make these victims of the law forget their unfortunate condition, and that brief hour consecrated her to what has been her life work since.

At the conclusion of one of these numerous talks, the "Little Mother" was hailed with thanksgiving because she did not review the story of the prodigal son, which had been the theme of worship the six successive Sundays previous in the absence of the chaplain. It is this spirit of the elder brother wrapped in the robe of his own self-righteousness which has made the prisoner a problem—the "elder brother" in this case, being the frowning, outside world.

The old view was that prison is a place where prodigals are corralled. That is why she has felt that it is no use to stand on the platform of dogma and theory when speaking to a prisoner.

The secret of the "Little Mother's" influence over her "boys", as she affectionately terms the prisoners with whom she works, has been to insert the key of Love when unlocking the door of a prisoner's heart and stepping back long enough to allow a Bigger Presence to enter. Mrs. Booth recounted many interesting experiences which held her audience spell-bound. In telling of her experience with a notorious diamond thief whom she later reformed, she defined a criminal as a perpetrator of crime, not as a person "who happens to get caught or who happens to come under the law". "Do not think," she said, "that all the criminals are inside prison walls. The uncaged animals are more dangerous to society than the caged."

Mrs. Booth closed with a plea which doubtless shall be answered in the support of millions of admiring adherents the world over, admiring her not because of her regal bearing, sweet disposition and quaint accent, but because she is a true gleam of light reaching even the deepest and darkest "slough of despair" because she is a woman who is, in every sense of the word, a "Little Mother."

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE ON NONPARTISAN LEAGUE

It is not that we are in a position of weakness, but that we are in a position of strength. We are in a position of strength because we are in a position of strength. We are in a position of strength because we are in a position of strength.

Western farmers will bolt into the non-partisan league unless other political parties meet their demands.

William Allen White, League Kansas editor, in an interview with the Omaha Press today.

Kansas is the battle ground between the leading forces of the league and the political organizations of the old time parties, both of whom are striving desperately to secure control of the farmer vote and, through it, the state of Kansas.

Have Real Grievance.
"The farmer has a genuine grievance," White said, "in the marketing system which permits low prices for produce and high prices for food. If the conservative forces of society do anything for the farmer, there is nothing for the farmer to do but join the league."

"In Kansas," he said, "with the league backing a determined effort to amend the constitution, the state legislature has a chance to combat it through proposed laws legalizing co-operative marketing and providing other relief."

"I don't believe in the methods of the non-partisan league," he added. "I feel that an organization so closely knit and under such strong domination of irresponsible leadership will not meet the best results in America. I should see this even though the leadership might be composed of men of unquestioned capacity and character. For the league as it is going tends strongly to undemocratic control."

"It so happens that the present leadership of the league in the middle west is weakened by charges, whether true or not, against the character and capacity of its leadership."

"These leaders must know, if they are as wise as they should be, how they handle the league. If they do not know, they should know. If they do not know, they should know. If they do not know, they should know."

GETTING DOWN TO COMMON SENSE

The following is taken from the society page of the Sunday Star-Journal, and is a most timely piece with high favor by those having children attending the university. For a time it appeared that the principle feature of the University was inhuman and extravagant without limit, and it is a pleasure to home folks to know there has been an awakening on the subject.

The pledge relating to dress being circulated on the University campus, and already signed by numerous young women of prominence in college social and athletic circles.

to avoid extremes in dress, we promote simplicity and for our campus garb, the extreme of extravagance.

only, simplicity in dress, with an eye toward health and comfort to the young lady reared a university education will be worth while, for we naturally expect that a few other things will be gathered in, by comfortable, healthy students who are not devoting all of their talent and ambition in an effort to outdo their classmates in freak dress.

The inter-state commerce commission has arrogated to itself the right to judicially determine when the people shall pay increased tolls to the railroad companies.

Neither in morals nor in law has the commission any such right. But since it has gone into the game of boosting railroad rates, even going so far as to brutally deny a state government the right to fix maximum charges on shipments within state

Fordson

TRADE MARK

Announcement

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"The price of the FORDSON Tractor has been reduced from $790.00 to $625.00, effective immediately."

"This price change has been made possible through lower costs of materials and the fact that we are now located in our new Tractor Plant with greatly increased economic manufacturing facilities in immediate connection with our foundry and machine shops and large blast furnaces where iron is poured directly from the ore, giving us maximum efficiency with the power to reduce cost of production, and down comes the price in line with our policy to market our products at the lowest possible figure without in any way affecting our high standard of quality."

"We are particularly pleased in being able to bring about this big reduction in price at this time because the farmer needs all the help we can give him and this big cut in price will be the means of placing a valuable power unit within the reach of practically everyone of them, not to mention industrial and commercial concerns which likewise have benefited through its use and are already realizing to a much greater extent, its value as a power and hauling unit. But particularly has the FORDSON Tractor proved a most valuable factor in the saving of farm labor, at the same time increasing the per acre crop yield as well as making possible a utilization of previously uncultivated land, to say nothing of removing no end of drudgery."

"There is no question that the use of machine power on the farm is the greatest advancement made in the development of agriculture, not only in money saving and money making results, as well as raising the standards of living on the farm to a much higher level, but because of its proved value in making every type of land more productive, and consequently our desire to place the FORDSON within the reach of all."

"THERE IS NO CHANGE IN THE PRESENT FORD CAR AND TRUCK PRICES, which are already at the lowest possible figure and now with rock bottom reached on the tractor price a further reduction in price of either the Car, Truck or Tractor is out of the question; in fact, the big price cuts have been made in anticipation of continuous maximum production and increases may be necessary before long if a large volume of new business is not obtained. Therefore, present prices of Ford products cannot be guaranteed against possible increases."

Ask for the book "The Fordson at Work", which will be supplied free of cost. Let us demonstrate the value of the Fordson on your farm, in your factory, lumber yard, coal yard, or in any general hauling power work you have to do and let us have your order for a Fordson.

lines, perhaps the arrogant commissioners may be induced to do a little judicial decreeing with reference to the treatment of railroad employees in this present hour. Why not? On the plea that they must have increased freight and passenger rates in order to pay increased wages to employees, the railroad managers sought and secured most any increase they asked the commerce commission to decree. Today every properly managed railroad in America must be earning dividends of 20% or better on its investment, and yet the managers are not satisfied. Their business is enormous, but every day they are laying off men, compelling fewer employees to do the work formerly done by many, but at the same time adding to their profits the money they are saving in the form of salary heretofore paid to now idle employees. Here in Nebraska the crime of reducing the number of railroad employees has not reached proportions attained in some other states, but the club of greed is swinging this way. Already men are being laid off at all division points, the remaining employees doing their work, and the big money thus saved being added to the bulging company treasuries. How would it do for our Nebraska railway commission to go into court, if necessary, in effort to relieve the situation. Our state railway commission has granted an increase of rates to practically everything and everybody asking for an increase. How would it do for the state commission to try to discover some judicial power great enough to investigate the present policy of cutting down the number of railroad employees to the minimum, while at the same time exacting from the traveling and the shipping public the enormously high rates which the railroads said were necessary in order to pay fair wages to the large number of employees on duty when the high rates were asked for and received? Why not?

Congress is now proposing to probe the railroads as to extravagance of management under government guarantee.

"Penrose would apply 'gas' rule in the senate on the tariff bill." Not necessary. That tariff bill will gag any one who reads it.

A Kansas farmer spent the day yesterday watching the groundhog hole to learn if there is anything to the story. He has not yet reported, but he had no less than five holes under observation all day.

Henry Ford has been sued for $50,000 damages for libel of the Jews or some one Jew by the name of Morris Gest. Wonder how it would seem to run a paper that people thought could damage them to the extent of five million plunks. That would indicate that Henry has not got the Independent advertising rates high enough.

In Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, a healthy sentiment is developing in favor of exempting buildings from taxation and placing the tax on the land value. Owing to house shortage some such measure seems necessary. They claim that such a measure would produce as much city revenue as now, and remove about $100 dollar tax on each average residence, making it possible to reduce rent about nine dollars per month. This would tend to cause more houses to be built and wipe purely speculative values out of vacant lots.

Now it is announced that the proposed tariff legislation will not be enacted at this session of congress, and they say that President Wilson would veto it if it passed, and that they could not pass it over the veto. Well, when prominent Republicans in the senate who favor the bill admit when cornered in debate that the passage of the bill would add to the cost of living—the sugar bill, perhaps, to the bread bill. The republican senators from the eastern states are not enthusiastic about the bill, and are willing that it shall die a lingering death—and that is the way they have held out a false hope to the farmer who could believe that the tariff would help prices on farm products. Not so many in that class as some other years, we are glad to say. They know that the foreigner does not pay the tax—and they also know that when their surplus must meet other surplus in the markets of the world, the world price rules at home and abroad.

At last the council of the league of nations, of which the United States is not yet a member, has fixed and agreed upon the sum which Germany shall pay as indemnity to the nation she fought and lost to during the late war. The sum has been fixed at 50 billion dollars, and they are to have 42 years in which to pay that sum. There will be no German citizen for the next 40 years who will not feel the weight of debt placed upon the country by militarism, even if they are excused from paying a large sum annually as of yore for a large standing army. Yet it shall be the cause of making Germany deposit the rule of the military rulers of that country, it will be the best investment they ever made—or would if that were all there are to it. But aside from that Germany has already made a great sacrifice of life and wealth to the war—and now they are to pay in addition some of the wealth it cost other countries to defend against German aggression.

The evening service begins at 7:30. This hour is devoted to the study of the Book of Revelation. The subject is "The Sealed Ones."

The Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Anton Lerner. The time is next Thursday afternoon. Let all members arrange to be present.

The two classes in the catechism will meet next Saturday afternoon. The junior class meets at 1:30; the senior at 2:30.

The Junior League Social that was planned and announced for to-morrow (Friday) evening has been postponed. We are sorry to disappoint the young people, but the necessity for postponing was unavoidable.

The Presbyterian Church
(John W. Beard, Minister)

Services February 6th
Morning service at 10:30. Theme of the morning sermon, "The Great White Way."

Evening service at 7:30. The Christian Endeavor Society will have full charge of the evening service. They desire a full house for the evening.

Sunday school at 11:30. Classes for all. And all in a class every Sunday.

The Catechumen class meets every Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The children of this class furnish the music for one evening church service a month. The class sang last Sunday evening and their singing was enjoyed by every one.

There is no institution on earth that touches the whole life of a family on so many sides and with such power for good and for such deep pleasure and lasting joy as the Christian church. The more faithful we are to its teachings and in attendance at its services the greater the blessing we receive. Have you linked up Your Life with some church? Are You as Loyal as You should be to your Church? There is a place in this Church for every one seeking a Church Home. You are welcome.

First Baptist Church
(Robert H. Pratt, S. T. M. Minister)

Morning service of worship and preaching at 10:30. This service will be followed by the observance of the Lord's Supper.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE ON NONPARTISAN LEAGUE

We trust that we will be pardoned if we quote so eminent a republican authority as this noted editor, who has given an interview to a newspaper correspondent on the league question. We might add that in Nebraska, as in Kansas, the legislature now in session may do much to stop the growth of this organization in Nebraska by legislation that is fair to the farming interests. Mr. White is quoted as follows:

New York, January 28.—"Middle-western farmers will bolt into the non-partisan league unless other political parties meet their demands," said William Allen White, famous Kansas editor, in an interview with the United Press today.

Kansas is the battle ground between the invading forces of the league and the political organizations of the old time parties, both of whom are striving desperately to secure control of the farmer vote and through it the state of Kansas.

Have Real Grievance.

"The farmer has a genuine grievance," White said, "in the marketing system which permits low prices for produce and high prices for food. If the conservative forces of society do not meet the problem, there is nothing for the farmer to do but join the league."

"In Kansas," he said, "with the league making a determined effort to round up members, the state legislature has a chance to combat it through proposed laws legalizing co-operative marketing and providing other relief."

"I don't believe in the methods of the non-partisan league," he added. "I feel that an organization so closely knit and under such strong domination of irresponsible leadership will not get the best results in America. I should say this, even though the leadership might be composed of men of unquestioned capacity and character for the league as it is going tends strongly to undemocratic control."

"It so happens that the present leadership of the league in the middle west is weakened by charges, whether true or not, against the character and capacity of its leadership."

"These leaders must know, if they are as wise as they should be, how they handicap the league. If they don't know it they are unfit for leadership; if they do know it they are too selfish for leadership."

League Ideals Good

"In the main the things which the league advocates are worth considering. The farmer in this country has a genuine grievance against commerce as it is organized. Between the producer and consumer there is grievous mal-adjustment in distribution. Low prices for produce and high prices for food are intolerable."

"It will not suffice to charge that Townley (president of the league) was disloyal during the war and that his associates are socialists, in meeting this problem. The problem exists in spite of Townley and his associates, and it must be met. If the conservative forces of society do not meet it intelligently the farmer has nothing to do but join the league with its leadership had as it is said to be, and its methods poor as they are."

"Moreover, that is exactly what the farmer is going to do. He is hesitating in the whole middle west. He has a genuine grievance. He is looking to party leaders for relief."

The Nebraska Press association is to have a meeting at Lincoln some time this month, and while our literature in regard to the date is not very clear, we get the impression that it is to open with a banquet at Lincoln next Thursday evening. At any rate in one paragraph we saw some mention of Friday and also the 11th, so it must be either this month or in March, as each month has a Friday the 11th according to our calendar. But the date does not matter now. The plan is to hold joint session sessions with the legislature and do as much as possible in the brief time we can get away from running home affairs to line up the members of the house and senate to do their full duty for the press—if ever they hope to be sent back or promoted to congress, or invited to a seat in the governor's chair. The trouble with the press of the state is that they do too much for the people, and especially for the politicians for too little compensation. No single factor in the state can do more to add to the prosperity of a commonwealth than its press, if the efforts are wisely directed—and properly paid for. As evidence of what the newspapers can do we cite the drives for bond sales, the saving stamp drives, the Red Cross movement, the Y. M. C. A., the K. C., and the Salvation Army, all used the press freely to bring about the desired results. In practically every instance this work was without other compensation than the satisfaction of knowing that a good work had been well done. In some places and in some towns and cities, however, the business men and civic organizations gave financial aid and moral support to the cause. Now the press of the state wishes to do other good and needed work for the

GETTING DOWN TO COMMON SENSE

The following is taken from the society page of the Sunday State Journal, and is a move that meets with high favor by those having children attending the university. For a time it appeared that the principle feature of the university was fashion and extravagance without limit, and it is a pleasure to home folks to know there has been an awakening on this subject.

"The pledge relating to dress being circulated on the University of Nebraska campus, and already signed by numerous young women of prominence in college social and athletic affairs, reads as follows:

"We promise to avoid extremes in dress during the year 1921. We promise to try for simplicity, and for curtailed expenditure in campus garb, as over against the elaborate, the expensive, and the conspicuous. We favor the wearing of simple hats, of simple costumes, of wool or jersey, of middie costumes, of sweater jackets and the like, and we favor the wearing of shoes and hose of rational type."

"This matter was taken up at a conference to which all university girls were invited, as the results of reports that girls were kept out of the university on account of inability to dress in the prevailing extravagant style. The number of cases of the kind may be exaggerated, but a leading alumna vouches for the truth of one story of the kind which tells of a girl who positively refused to enter the university this winter because her father was unable to buy her the sort of clothes which she thought other girls were wearing.

"Parents cannot be responsible for the dress of girls away from home, according to Mrs. S. R. McKelvie, who was one of the speakers at the dress conference Thursday. Mrs. McKelvie told of providing her fifteen-year-old daughter, Josephine, with everything needed in the way of wearing apparel in the fall before she went east to school. When the young lady returned at Christmas for the holidays, she was found to have traded off everything Mrs. McKelvie thought she needed, for things other girls thought she ought to have."

"Well, if they learn to practice economy, simplicity in dress, with an eye toward health and comfort to the wearer, a university education will well be worth while, for we naturally expect that a few other things will be gathered in by comfortable, healthy students who are not devoting all of their talent and ambition in an effort to outdo their classmates in freak dress.

The inter-state commerce commission has arrogated to itself the right to arbitrarily determine when the people shall pay increased tolls to the railroad companies.

Neither in morals nor in law has the commission any such right. But since it has gone into the game of boosting railroad rates, even going so far as to brutally deny a state government the right to fix maximum charges on shipments within state

Announcement

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"The price of the FORDSON Tractor has been reduced from $790.00 to $625.00, effective immediately.

"This price change has been made possible through lower costs of materials and the fact that we are now located in our new Tractor Plant with greatly increased economic manufacturing facilities in immediate connection with our foundry and machine shops and large blast furnaces where iron is poured directly from the ore, giving us maximum efficiency with the power to reduce cost of production, and down comes the price in line with our policy to market our products at the lowest possible figure without in any way affecting our high standard of quality.

"We are particularly pleased in being able to bring about this big reduction in price at this time because the farmer needs all the help we can give him and this big cut in price will be the means of placing a valuable power unit within the reach of practically everyone of them, not to mention industrial and commercial concerns which likewise have benefited through its use and are already realizing to a much greater extent, its value as a power and hauling unit. But particularly has the FORDSON Tractor proved a most valuable factor in the saving of farm labor, at the same time increasing the per acre crop yield as well as making possible a utilization of previously uncultivated land, to say nothing of removing no end of drudgery.

"There is no question that the use of machine power on the farm is the greatest advancement made in the development of agriculture, not only in money saving and money making results, as well as raising the standards of living on the farm to a much higher level, but because of its proved value in making every type of land more productive, and consequently our desire to place the FORDSON within the reach of all.

"THERE IS NO CHANGE IN THE PRESENT FORD CAR AND TRUCK PRICES, which are already at the lowest possible figure and now with rock bottom reached on the tractor price a further reduction in price of either the Car, Truck or Tractor is out of the question; in fact, the big price cuts have been made in anticipation of continuous maximum production and increases may be necessary before long if a large volume of new business is not obtained. Therefore, present prices of Ford products cannot be guaranteed against possible increases."

Ask for the book "The Fordson at Work", which will be supplied free of cost. Let us demonstrate the value of the Fordson on your farm, in your factory, lumber yard, coal yard, or in any general hauling power work you have to do and let us have your order for a Fordson.

lines, perhaps the arrogant commission may be induced to do a little judicial decreeing with reference to the treatment of Railroad employees in this present hour.

Why not? On the plea that they must have increased freight and passenger rates in order to pay increased wages to employees, the railroad managers sought and secured most any increase they asked the commerce commission to decree. Today every properly managed railroad in America must be earning dividends of 20% or better on its investment, and yet the managers are not satisfied. Their business is enormous, but every day they are laying off men, compelling fewer employees to do the work formerly done by many, but at the same time adding to their profits the money they are saving in the form of salary heretofore paid to now idle employees. Here in Nebraska the crime of reducing the number of railroad employees has not reached proportions attained in some other states, but the club of greed is swinging this way. Already men are being laid off at all division points, the remaining employees doing their work, and the big money thus saved being added to the bulging company treasuries. How would it do for our Nebraska railway commission to go into court, if necessary, in effort to relieve the situation. Our state railway commission has granted an increase of rates to practically everything and everybody asking for an increase. How would it do for the state commission to try to discover some judicial power great enough to investigate the present policy of cutting down the number of railroad employees to the minimum, while at the same time exacting from the traveling and the shipping public the enormously high rates which the railroads said were necessary in order to pay fair wages to the large number of employees on duty when the high rates were asked for and received? Why not?

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

The presents were mostly under the tree, though some of the smaller ones were on the tree.

The tree had been decorated with cranberries, which had been strung on black thread, a little distance apart from each other so that they looked like red berries on the tree. And there was popcorn on the tree, which had been strung on white thread and which also looked like flakes of snow on the tree if one stood a little way off.

It was a very pretty tree and it was prettily decorated. In addition to the popcorn and cranberries there were a number of candy canes and candy baskets and candy animals, and there were some pretty tinsel and decorations.

But most of the presents were down under the tree with the exception of a few smaller ones on the tree itself and a few others which were in the stockings.

The stockings were mostly filled with fruit and nuts and raisins, for the presents were of rather queer shapes and wouldn't have fitted for the most part in the stockings. There were dolls for Ada and Audrey and there was a boat for Billy. And the dolls were so beautifully dressed and their dresses were so new and fresh and stuck out in such smart and stylish fashion that Santa Claus hadn't wanted to put them in the stockings for fear they might get a little bit mussed up.

Then there was a paint box for Billy. He wanted to paint so many things and he had asked Santa Claus for a paint box. There were quite a few other toys and they were all talking amongst themselves in toy talk.

"Paint box," said the red rubber ball which was nearby, "do you suppose Billy will like me? I feel so small compared to the big boat that is over yonder. And the dolls look so dressed up. I feel such a miserable kind of present."

"I say, ball," said the paint box, "you shouldn't talk like that. We've all got to be different. That is, there are plenty of each of us made, but we can't all be the beautiful and the big toys. And what's more, a lot of the little, simple toys are favorites."

"And what is more," the paint box continued, "I believe that Santa Claus

"Do You Suppose?"

feels badly when any of the toys he makes aren't liked. And he feels badly, too, if they don't like the simple ones.

"He wants everyone to know that he makes all the presents and toys to give pleasure and none of them to cause frowns or disappointments."

"And one day when he was talking in his workshop to his dog, Boy of the North, he said: 'Boy of the North, you know I can't bear it if anyone is unhappy over a single present. They're not usually unhappy over any of Santa's presents. But now and again I've heard of a child saying: "Now, why did Cynthia give me this little bit of a present? Couldn't she have given me something better?" For Santa Claus continued, "It is the spirit of the gift that counts. It is so nice for everyone to love Christmas and to be happy and to give and to think of others."

"That is the beautiful part of the day, and it is dreadful if anyone complains and does not think enough of the spirit of the presents. No one must think of price marks and such things!"

"That is, no one must object because things weren't expensive, for everything in the shops is expensive and it can't be helped. And we've all got to give simpler presents. Even old Santa Claus has had hard work getting all his materials and so must make many simple presents."

"But the spirit of Christmas costs nothing but a glad heart, a joyous smile and a love of happiness."

"And as I am making some simple presents along with the beautiful ones I hope and I feel sure that they too will be loved, for they're trying to be as nice as they can be. Just as nice as we can get them when materials are scarce. But no matter what happens, there'll always be Christmas presents, no matter how simple, and Christmas cheer."

"That's the way Santa feels about simple toys," ended the paint box.

Armenian President Asks American Aid

Dr. H. Ohandjanian, Armenian President

Erivan, Armenia; Dr. H. Ohandjanian, President of the Armenian Republic, has sent an urgent cablegram to Charles V. Vickrey, General Secretary of the Near East Relief, 1 Madison Ave., New York City, requesting immediate assistance to prevent the starvation of the Armenian people before the next harvest can be gathered. President Ohandjanian's message reads:

"Owing to hail, rain and field mice, the harvest in Armenia fell below expectations. Standing crops appeared well, but owing to poor seed, returns were not as good as was expected. Maximum returns 140,000 tons, only sufficient for eight months for one and a half million people. Food crisis critical and intensified by new Turkish invasion of Armenia. It is estimated that 100,000 peaceful inhabitants of Sarikamish and Kars region have been forced to renew the life of refugees and flee towards the interior of Armenia. There are also large numbers fleeing from Bolsheviks in Azerbaijan and Southern Russia, and coming to Armenia. Farmers, fearing famine, are unwilling to sell crops, thus leaving the cities foodless. In addition to the Armenian crops, ten thousand tons have been purchased from neighboring countries.

"In order to save Armenia it is necessary to secure flour from America, 50,000 tons, maximum requirement. In the name of the Armenian Government and the Armenian People, I beg that you use your wide influence in order that the Near East Relief may secure and ship the flour needed. I am sure that in this serious crisis the Near East Relief will not fail to continue its aid to Armenia in her struggle for existence.

"H. OHANDJANIAN, President of Armenia."

DO YOU AGREE?

(From The Goldenrod)
"Cutting the Student Crop" is the subject of an interesting editorial clipped from the Nebraska State Journal of January 24 and handed to us by Professor Lewis. Parts are quoted below. This question of restricting the "student crop" came up when the president of Princeton University appointed a faculty committee to devise a plan for restricting the enrollment, the excuse given being that the cost of operating a modern university has become so great that the endowment cannot be increased fast enough to satisfy both the extravagant and the earnest student. Therefore a plan is under way to accommodate, primarily, those who have talent which may benefit society.

"In an eastern school for boys the students are given a frank talk upon entering. They are told what the rules are and are asked to withdraw at once if they do not feel that they can live up to them in a proper spirit. The student is made to understand that he is conferring no favor upon the school by permitting himself to be enrolled as a student. He needs the school more than the school needs him. If he does not care to follow the requirements, he must step aside in favor of one in the long line of applicants who is always ready to take his place.

"They realize their obligation and understand that dismissal will follow any failure to live up to their part of the bargain. No doubt Princeton will adopt some modification of this plan and no doubt it will work to the advantage of higher education. As the cost of the schools throughout the country becomes more burdensome, a demand will arise for the use of some system of keeping idle students from absorbing the time of instructors and imposing a useless burden upon the taxpayers. The theory that every citizen has a right to send his children to the high schools and on through the state normal schools or state university regardless of their conduct and the use they make of public facilities is widely held, especially in the western states. If this is the law, it is time to repeal it. If the law is indefinite, it is time to clarify it to give boards of control all the power they need to sift out the drones from the student body."

The Turks massacred all the Armenians over fifteen years of age and kept all under that age to bring them up as Turks. The city looked as if it was shot to pieces. Samsoun is the same as Trebizonde, so you can see what kind of country we are travelling through. I am sure glad that we are leaving Russia and Armenia because I am sick of what I have seen. I think that these tourists who are trying to see ravished Armenia will be sorry they ever came over. These relief workers are nearly dead from work. They are the people who can tell the U. Enables Farmer to Determine Whether He Is Going or Coming Financially.

ANSWER TO MANY QUESTIONS

Complete List of Assets and Liabilities Each Year Tells Land Owner Just How Much Increase or Decrease Has Been.

What is the net worth of your farm business? Is it more or less than one would imagine from a casual inspection of your farm? Do you know for sure whether you are going or coming in financial standing?

Question Not Easily Answered.

These are important questions to the farmer and questions that are not so easily answered as would at first appear. Farming is an intricate business and one in which returns from investment are sometimes long delayed, so that progress cannot be accurately measured by the amount of money taken in a given time. Sometimes cash income may be almost wholly attributable to reduction in other assets, so that in reality the result is like taking money from one pocket and putting it in another.

The farm inventory, or property list, offers the only practical way of answering these questions. Once the farmer has made a complete list of all his assets and liabilities and has balanced them he knows just what his net worth is, and when he has made such a list annually he knows each year whether he has gone forward or back and just how much has been the increase or decrease in the net worth of his business.

Detailed Instructions.

The United States Department of Agriculture has just issued Farmers' Bulletin 1128, entitled "Farm Inventories," in which are given detailed instructions for making an inventory of farm property and revising such a list from year to year. By using the simple system described in this bulletin any farmer can determine exactly his financial status and lay the foundation for a permanent system of accounting. Without the farm inventory as a basis no system of accounting that might be chosen would be of any great use to the farmer.

FANNING MILL VERY USEFUL

Present High Price of Grain Should Bring Machine Into More Use on Stormy Days.

In many parts of the country there has been a tendency to let the fanning mill rest and rust and gather dust and to pay the mill or elevator for cleaning the grain, paying the bill by accepting a low price for the uncleaned wheat or oats or barley. Besides the chickens lose the screenings. The present high price of grain should bring many a neglected fanning mill into profitable use. Incidentally, farmers will have profitable work for stormy days, and much cheap feed for chickens, pigs and other animals.

EASY TO WINTER FALL PIGS

Where Farmer Is Properly Equipped He Can Raise Young Animals Without Difficulty.

More fall pigs are being raised nowadays than was the case a few years ago. This is due largely to the fact that grain is relatively high-priced. When a man is properly equipped for taking care of fall pigs through the winter season he can raise them about as cheaply as he can spring pigs and he gets more out of his sow by breeding her twice a year than only once. It is not difficult to winter fall pigs if one gives the matter proper attention.

TO AID CO-OPERATION

Farmers' Bulletin No. 1144, on Co-operative Marketing, has just been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Every person interested in developing the co-operative movement among farmers should have a copy, which can be obtained free on application.

CONDITIONING BIRDS FOR POULTRY SHOWS

Stand Better Chances for Winning if Well Trained.

Poultry Specialists of United States Department of Agriculture Give Suggestions for Preparation of Fowls.

Although the larger poultry shows are usually held in the fall, smaller exhibitions are staged throughout the winter months. The following advice in training and conditioning birds previous to a show, given by poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is good the whole year round. The bird that has been properly trained and prepared will stand a better chance every time of winning a prize than another bird equally good, but wild or easily frightened, or whose plumage is soiled or dirty.

After the birds are selected, remove them from the rest of the flock and place each bird in an exhibition coop for at least a part of each day. Fowls so confined will become accustomed to the coop. Handling them—that is, removing them from the coop each day—will have the effect of making them tame. In handling the birds and removing and returning them to and from the coops, move quietly and handle the birds gently so as not to frighten them.

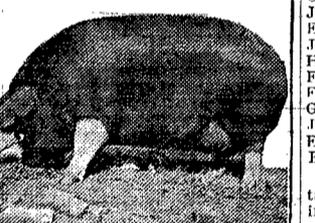

Examine the plumage so that the fowl will become accustomed to such movements when being handled by the judge. Likewise, attempt to compose the bird by smoothing and stroking the wattles gently; this seems to have a soothing effect on the fowls, and when done frequently and properly they come to look for it when one approaches the coop.

Birds to be exhibited should not be confined to the exhibition coops for too great a period, as long, continuous cooping may cause them to get out of condition and therefore unfit for show. A satisfactory plan is to confine the birds for a part of each day or every other day alternately up to a few days before sending them to the show, when they should be confined until ready to ship.

EXERCISE FOR SOWS NEEDED

Feed for Animals Should Be Scattered Around Floor to Compel Them to Hustle.

Sows due to farrow in April or May ought to have some bulky feed. Prof. J. H. Shepherd of the North Dakota Agricultural college reports that the herdsman at the agricultural college feeds a pound to a pound and a quarter of grain per 100 pounds weight of sow and a little alfalfa hay to give plenty of bulk. He also advises making the sows take exercise, scattering their feed around on the floor so they will have two hours or more of work in picking it up. Another good thing about alfalfa hay is that it keeps them on their feet quite a little while. Pigs from sows which have had plenty of exercise and bulky feed are usually much stronger than those from fat, lazy sows.

ROTTEN EGG IS UNDESIRABLE

Many Farmers Do Not Seem to Care or Bother About Clean Nests for the Layers.

No one likes a rotten egg, consequently no one is going to buy one—not even the commission dealer. Many farmers do not care whether their hens steal their nests or not and do not bother to hunt for the eggs until market day comes around. Once a week is sometimes as often as eggs are looked for. Any eggs that have come from an old nest or that in any way look suspicious should be candied at home before sending them to market.

TRACTORS ARE TIME SAVERS

To Get Full Benefit of Machine Farmer Should Get All Information About Mechanism.

Farm tractors are time savers for the average farmer. After a farmer gets a tractor his first impulse should be to get all the information possible about it and then so manage it as to get the full benefit from that information.

BIG FARM ECONOMIC CHANGE

Transportation of Products in Motor-Trucks Becoming More Popular in Middle West.

Great progress will be made in the transportation of farm products by trucks in the Middle West in the next few years. This is one of the big economic changes which is coming in agriculture.

STATE HAS REMARKABLE DAIRY HERD

The Nebraska agricultural experiment station at the college of agriculture now claims one of the best dairy herds in the country. In the twenty years of its existence it has developed eight cows that produced an average each of 903 pounds of butter in one year. When it is considered that the average cow does well to produce 200 pounds of butter in a year, the record of these eight Holstein cows is remarkable. At the head of the eight is La Verne, champion of the state, with a production in one year of 1,310.56 pounds of butter and 29,554 pounds of milk. In the list also is Sullana, the 2-year-old champion of the state, with 866.9 pounds of butter in one year. Another famous cow among the eight is Katy Gerben, who was the world's 3-year-old champion. At the head of the College's Holstein herd is a bull for which the state has refused $16,500.

THE CARE OF BRED SOWS

The most successful hog raisers are careful to see that their bred sows have a balanced ration and plenty of exercise and good water, says the state college of agriculture. Corn necessarily constitutes the principal part of the ration, but it should be supplemented with bone and muscle

COMMISSIONERS PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska, January 25, 1921. Board met as per adjournment. All members present. On motion it is hereby resolved that the following delinquent personal taxes for the year 1918 be stricken from the tax list for the reason that it includes taxes assessed to men in the service and others that left the country, leaving no address, and others where the tax is not collectible or assessable, and which tax amounts in all to $416.21.

Minutes of meeting held January 11th 1921, read and approved. Minutes of meeting held January 12th 1921, read and approved. Comes now Geo. T. Porter, County Assessor and appoints M. I. Swihart deputy Assessor for Garfield precinct. James Flinn deputy Assessor for Strahan precinct and W. H. Buetow deputy Assessor for the city of Wayne, which appointments are approved.

On motion Frank Tucker is hereby appointed overseer of road district No. 56 and bond approved. Whereas, Fred W. Welthe, guardian of the estate of Nels Jensen, an insane person, has made application to the commissioners of Wayne County for their approval of the proposed sale of the real estate of said Nels Jensen, for the purpose of converting the same into cash. After examining into the necessity of said proposed sale, on motion we find it necessary for the best interests of said insane person that said sale be authorized and this board fully approves of said proposed sale.

On motion the sum of $162.00 is hereby transferred from road district No. 36 to road district No. 35.

On motion the sum of $28.00 is hereby transferred from Special Levy on Road District No. 36 to Special Levy on Road District No. 35.

Report of Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent, for the period beginning July 1st 1920 and ending January 25th 1921, showing the sum of $200.86 in the Institute Fund was on motion examined and approved. Comes now J. M. Cherry, County Judge and says that on the 24th day of January A. D. 1921, the Court found that Lulu May Lawrence, a female of the age of 15 years, was feeble minded, and a proper person to be committed to the Nebraska Institution for Feeble Minded Youth, and entered a decree committing her to said Institution. The court found that said child was a resident of Wayne County, Nebraska, and that the said child nor her parents had sufficient estate with which to pay the amount required to be deposited with the said institution for clothing and incidentals. On motion the above findings were duly approved by this board.

Comes now J. M. Cherry, County Judge, and asks that the claim of the Nebraska Institution for Feeble Minded Youth, heretofore disallowed by this board, be reconsidered and allowed in the sum of $40.00 for deposit for clothing and necessaries for Lulu May Lawrence, an inmate of said Institution. On motion the claim of the Nebraska Institution for Feeble Minded Youth is re-considered and allowed in full at $40.00. On motion the following claims were audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as follows:

building feeds, such as skimmilk, buttermilk or tankage. When plenty of good quality, leafy alfalfa is available only a limited amount of milk or tankage is necessary. Alfalfa supplies considerable mineral matter and its bulkiness prevents the sows from becoming too fat. In order to provide the exercise, which is essential for husky litters of pigs, it is suggested that the sows be given plenty of range. Exercise can be forced by feeding at a distance from the hog barn. If stalk and alfalfa fields are available the sows usually do a good deal of foraging, especially in good weather. A little corn scattered with the manure as it is hauled out will cause the sows to exercise. An abundance of clean water is important and in very cold weather the chill should be taken off.

"OUR FORWARD"

(From The Goldenrod)

Someone has said that the high school course is a foundation upon which to build. This is partly true, but it would be more nearly correct to say that it is a scaffold from which to build. You seniors are now about to try your skill at building. The ease with which you build will depend largely upon the quality of your scaffold. There will be times when it will be necessary to construct more scaffold. This, eventually, will be torn down as your building progresses. The name of this building is Personality. It is a structure of many spires, none of which has an end, but all of which have a common direction, which is understanding.

Life is change, and when the organism ceases to move in the direction of understanding, it must degenerate or die. Ends can be only tentative, and they must lie in this one direction.

Since we cannot point a goal toward which to travel, our only "forward" to you must be a way to find your direction. This in the 20th century must be done mostly through books.

In the lower forms of life, each individual is endowed only with fibrous tendencies. It has no way of accumulating the experience of its ancestors. Consequently, its race never develops above a point that its individual ancestors have already reached. Were this true of the human animal, the race would never have risen above the primate. In human society, the absolute individual does not exist. To some extent each individual partakes of the experience of the race. Euclid spent a life time in developing his Geometry. Today, by recapitulating the experience of Euclid, it is possible for every normal adult to master the whole process in one year.

The human mind is logical. Each new experience is made possible by past experience. Since the time given to each person on this planet is very limited, it is necessary to economize. This can be done by communicating with the great thinkers from the time that men first began to record thought to the present. This is the common groundwork of all personalities. It is a common source of experience from which every human being can draw. It makes possible a higher form of communication, and is the dynamo that keeps the race rising which is the only goal we know.

Consciousness is the sum total of experience. Since the individual's experience is too narrow, race experience must be added. The consciousness of the race must become the consciousness of the individual. This is the only way in which the individual can avoid being narrow. Our medium for transmitting the race consciousness from age to age is literature. It follows then that every representative writer has a portion of the consciousness of his predecessors plus that which through him was developed from his age. To recapitulate the experience of the race, in the most economical manner, it is necessary to begin by reading, in their natural order, all the representative writers in our main line of racial descent.

In this way the life-process may be understood and the individual enabled to adjust himself to his environment, thus becoming a true social being.

(The above was given as a toast at a high school banquet in Baneroff by Ferdinand J. Hirsch, '19, Principal.)

SILHOUETTE—WHO?

"A MISTAKEN HERO"

Characters

A food, a utonshi, a planet plus a number. Babies, spectators, others.

ACT I: "Adhesion".

Scene I: Passenger Train.

The train was crowded; seats were at a premium. Through the multiplicity of faces could be observed two women whose animated conversation certainly betrayed the fact that they were affiliated with a normal school of some kind. A gentleman coming down the aisle was airily humming, as nearly as could be judged from the particles of the refrain which did not cleave to his lip adornment, the following ditty:

I told it to pa,
I told it to ma,
I told it to all of them—
Rah, rah, rah!—He was happy.
Everyone was watching.

But, at an unmistakable turn of the eyelash of one of the ladies in question, the young man stopped, and to his surprise, discovered that they were members of the self-same faculty where he was teaching. He therefore sat down on the only seat left in the train and started to renew the acquaintances of his fellow "professors."

Scene II:

As the train neared a certain small station, the gentleman graciously excused himself in time to get to the platform and yell at a group of boys at the station, "Hey, kids, don't forget to cut the candy!" (Pata words). When he returned, his place had been taken by a gentleman of "beef-trust" proportions, much larger than the appearances of the small town would have guaranteed. He therefore sat down beside a lustily crying babe and its mother, to the delight of all the rest of the passengers.

ACT II: "Entertainment".

Scene I:

"Hi, there, baby, you're just like I was when I used to live in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Kentucky!"—This as he hung the clay bundle of humanity upward and caught it as it almost perilously hit the edge of a nearby bull-dog's sinister and forbidding temper.

The baby gurgled a questioning, "Da!"

"Say, John, you'll make a football player some day, and I'll see that you'll be elected captain of the whole works, see if I don't," went on the unquenchable flow of words. The baby opened his mouth in expectation, no doubt allured by the verbose pictures which the entertaining and fatherly young man was so wantonly painting. And as the child opened his mouth still wider, this shot was fired at the infant:

"Look out, there John, or I'll jump right down your throat!" (The two ladies across the aisle looked alarmed.)

Suddenly the shriek of the whistle announced the approach of another station; the toothsome gentleman left the baby to his own device, and after again glancing approvingly across the aisle, he was gone.

ACT III: "Rectification".

One of the ladies leaned forward solicitously and said to the mother in her pleasant, southern accent: "And what is the future football player's name, Mrs. _____?"

The mother looked dumb-founded, then light came, and she answered smilingly, "She is named Elaine after one of Tennyson's heroines. Isn't she cunning?"

The young women nodded assent and exchanged furtive glances.

The Democrat—only $1.50. All the home news, all the time. And we put out job work that pleases.

PARKS STILL TO BE SAVED

Horace M. Albright, superintendent of Yellowstone National Park, recently delivered a lecture on the park at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. Naturally enough his lecture was not completed without a plea for the preservation of the park from commercial exploitation. He said:

"The American people should not forget that this park was given them as a whole, and under the conditions of the grant the park should be free from encroachment by any other interest forever.

"The park is indeed the last stand of the old west. It is practically the only district in an original state. It is famous throughout the world for being America as it was in its earliest days. We must preserve its scenic beauty, its wild game, and its every asset as the heritage of the ages to the present and future generations.

To do this, those of us who are in official positions do not oppose any particular attempt at encroachment, but we stand on the broad ground of saving the park intact against all encroachment forever."

What he says of the preservation of one national park is true of them all. The attempt to obtain commercial concessions in the Yellowstone, if successful, would lead to similar attempts in others. The public has shown considerable interest in the question, but it needs to show still more until the dangerous Smith and Walsh bills now before congress are thoroughly beaten.

Material for Bridges.

Bridges now needed in national parks and forest reserves are to be built of the steel girders and trusses, and other bridge material, which was ready to be shipped to France, for the use of the American army, when the war ended. There is a vast amount of this material on hand, ready drilled and quite portable, 2,850 pounds being the maximum weight of any part.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Burden of Public Debts.

The annual interest on the debt of Great Britain is 12.92 per cent of her income, that of France, 32.17 per cent, that of Italy 14.43 per cent, that of the United States 2.53 per cent, that of Germany 20.96 per cent, that of Austria 25.92 per cent, that of Hungary 24.78 per cent, that of Bulgaria 21.80 per cent, and that of Turkey 17.60 per cent.

New Method of Identification.

Not only are the finger prints of every human being different but the position of the bones of the fingers, and also the shape of the nails are different. Doctor Beclere, a well-known student of radiography, utilizes this fact in a new method for identifying criminals. The method consists in making an X-ray photograph of the hand, showing the bones and the fingernails. Ordinarily such a photograph would not show the flesh, but in order that the record may be complete the fingers are soaked in an opaque salt, by means of which all the lines and marks are clearly shown. Doctor Beclere considers that the possibility afforded by his discovery of keeping a record of nails as well as of finger prints should prove of the greatest use in identifying criminals.

Vast Wealth in Liberia.

The Sun and New York Herald a few weeks ago was probably the first newspaper in our country to announce that Liberia, in West Africa, had just come into view as very rich in natural resources, both agricultural and mineral. It is nearly as large as the state of New York, fronts on the Atlantic for about 300 miles and its coast belt is only about twenty miles wide. North of the coast belt the whole country is a vast forest, through which Sir Alfred Sharpe of England has recently penetrated. He has informed the Royal Geographical Society of the enormous population of this, till now, unknown forest land and of the unexpected resources, including gold and other minerals, that await development there.

Radio Control for Airplanes.

There can be doubt that if the war had lasted a few months longer we would have witnessed the leading armies employing great fleets of airplanes controlled by radio means. The United States army had progressed pretty far along this line when the armistice was declared. The same can be said for Germany. Now we learn that the French have demonstrated that five or six small and inexpensive bombing planes, without pilot, can be successfully guided by a "shepherd" in a larger plane through the means of Hertzian waves.—Scientific American.

Marriage Promotes Long Life.

Marriage, according to Doctor Schwartz of Berlin, is the most important factor of longevity. Of every 200 persons who reach the age of forty years, 125 are married and 75 unmarried. At sixty the proportions are 48 to 22; at 70 years, 27 to 11; and at ninety years, 9 to 8. Fifty centenarians had all been married.

What Is Your Old Automobile Worth For Service?

Most of us have read of the "Wonderful One Horse Shay" that was so built that it ran 100 years to a day, because it had no weakest spot—but it probably wore out ten horses. So it might be with your car. The horse may need doctoring—the motor power and its connecting links. Its nerve or spark energy may be weak—it may "knock" at some bearing—but for all that it has much of

REAL SERVICE VALUE LEFT

Bring it to our car hospital, let us diagnose the case and prescribe the remedy. New cars are not cheap, compared to the price an old one may sell at—but the old car may give more service than a new one

When Overhauled and Put in Perfect Condition

During the next two months road and weather conditions are very apt to be such that your car may be idle a great part of the time. Why not bring it to the hospital and have it put in perfect condition, making its service value nearly or quite equal to that of a new car? and with paint and varnish, may be made to look like new.

We are Equipped to Properly do This Work

It will be true economy to have such work properly done by experts who have every facility and a complete equipment to make all worn or weak parts like new for service. With everything properly adjusted and made snug and trim you have the service of a new car without the expense—the real good at the minimum cost—That's ECONOMY.

Do Not Discard a Worn Car—Have it Fixed

We have one of the best equipped garages for perfecting any and all worn parts; we employ expert mechanics, and claim to have learned the practical end of the business so well that we "know how" ourselves and can and do muss up our overalls with real work, as well as know when the other man does it right.

DOPE FROM THE ### NEBRASKA LEGISLATURE

A senate bill requires all school teachers to take the oath of allegiance before they can engage in their calling.

Representative Rank introduced a bill requiring auto drivers to stop, look and listen before crossing a railroad track. The question is how is it possible to enforce it.

Representative Lundy presented to the roads and bridges committee a resolution from the road officials in Custer county in which they unanimously endorse the work of State Engineer Johnson.

The Lancaster delegation has a bill to reduce the high cost of elections. It does away with the counting board in precincts having less than two hundred voters and reduce the number of judges on such boards from three to two. We say to vote by mail will solve a problem.

The Roads and Bridges committee meets every Monday and Wednesday from 2 to 4:30 p. m. in the Governor's Mansion, large west room, second floor. This committee is anxious to hear from anyone who is directly interested in roads and bridges. Come on the above dates and you will be able to get a hearing.

By a vote of 42 to 37, the house went on record in favor of nationalization of coal mines when it adopted the Foster-Snow resolution to that effect. Some of the members said later that while they were not especially favorable to government ownership they thought a good strong bluff in that direction would do no harm.

The house roads and bridges committee will probably recommend that automobile license fees be retained in the county where they originate except five per cent which goes to the state. Up to 75% of the money retained is to be spent on state highways under the direction of the county board and state engineer, the balance may be used on county roads.

This being the final week for the introduction of bills the list is too long to find space to notice more than a few of them.

Representative Williams of Fillmore county, thinks the legislature should pay no attention to petitions that come in for or against certain legislation.

His view is that there is too much of this kind of business and that the petitions are not always secured by fair means. Most anyone will sign a petition rather than argue about it. He had special reference to petitions in favor of the movie censorship bill.

A senate committee is investigating the activities of the various state offices to see whether or not there is any duplication of effort and consequent useless expense. This is an interesting subject.

Without any doubt the blue sky law is going to be equipped with a large supply of real teeth by the time this session finishes with it. Several very capable members are working on it.

Senator Norval's bill which provides for repealing the Siman language bill is going to cause a lot of warm discussion when it comes up on the floor and is also likely to subject the senator to more or less general criticism.

Newspaper men at the state house are fighting the secret session rule. They think they should be admitted to all sessions and should have the right to keep the public informed of what is going on. What do you think about it?

Your correspondent had the pleasure of eating supper with the nonpartisan league contingent recently and attending one of their regular weekly meetings. He can truthfully say that they did not feast on raw meat and that no one of them had any difficulty with his hat on account of his horns, neither did wings interfere with their overcoats.

THE CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

There are 49,350 persons out of employment in St. Louis, according to the figures of the department of labor. The local situation is described as "very acute" by the director of the survey in this district, although not so severe as in some of the other large population centers. The one comforting note is the prevailing judgment among employers that the depression is at its peak and a change for the better may be expected within sixty days.

That a reaction of this sort was inevitable after the war is approved by tradition, but the facts are against it, just the same. The war left an impoverished world crying for food, clothing and work. The greatest industrial and economic experts were telling us not so long ago that what was needed was production. Everybody, whatever his task, was urged to his greatest efforts. The bitter, widespread want of the people ravaged by the war, it was explained, could only be met by labor and capital working together at top speed.

That version of the world situation was doubtless correct. The description is as accurate today as it was at the moment of the most fervid production appeals. How, then, does it happen that here in the United States, which, with its wealth, bountiful crops and industrial organization intact, was pre-eminently equipped to supply the world's needs, that industry stagnates? There is only one answer. Our statesmanship has failed. With the signing of the armistice our congress was confronted by a condition that challenged its capacity and should have inspired a historic service. The challenge was ignored. Instead of responding to the call of humanity and the welfare of our own people, the leadership of congress set out blindly upon a partisan campaign. Senator Lodge and his associates were able to look as far ahead as November, 1920, but they could not foresee January, 1921. They won a political victory, but they plunged the American people into an industrial Waterloo.

It has been said repeatedly during the last two years that we cannot have a prosperous America and a prostrate Europe at the same time. That fact is being driven home now by the hammer strokes of unemployment and want. Our statesmanship deliberately elected to let Europe go its way while we went ours. The reconstruction record of congress is a blank. Because of that record because our statesmanship failed to advise and put in operation the machinery for trade during this world emergency—American industry which ought to be going full tilt is paralyzed.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT SOUTH OMAHA

Cattle Slow Sale—Weak to a Quarter Lower

HOG PRICES OFF 25-50 CENTS

Sheep and Lambs in Moderate Supply, But Slack Demand—Trade Dull and Prices Steady to Easier All Round.

Union Stock Yards, South Omaha, Neb., Feb. 2, 1921.—Cattle receipts were again light on Tuesday, about 6,500 head, but owing to the indifferent demand from packers and shippers trade was slow and prices weak to 25c lower on both beef steers and cows. Best beef steers brought $7.90. Stockers and feeders were very dull, but quotably unchanged.

Quotations on cattle: Good to choice heaves, $7.75@8.25; fair to good heaves, $7.00@7.75; common to fair heaves, $6.00@7.00; good to choice yearlings, $7.50@8.00; fair to good yearlings, $6.75@7.50; common to fair yearlings, $6.00@6.75; choice to prime heifers, $5.75@6.75; good to choice heifers, $5.00@5.75; choice to prime cows, $5.75@6.25; good to choice cows, $5.00@5.50; fair to good cows, $4.50@5.00; cutters, $3.50@4.25; canners, $2.50@3.25; beef and butcher bulls, $5.00@5.75;ologna bulls, $4.50@5.00; veal calves, $8.50@10.50; heavy and medium calves, $4.50@8.50; good to choice feeders, $4.50@5.00; fair to good feeders, $4.00@4.75; common to fair feeders, $3.00@4.75; fair to good stockers, $6.25@7.25; good to choice stockers, $7.25@7.75; common to fair stockers, $5.00@6.25; steeple heifers, $4.00@5.50; stock cows, $3.50@4.50.

A 25@50c Drop in Hogs: With something like 21,000 hogs on sale, prices dropped anywhere from 25@50c, but business was active at the decline. Tops sold at $9.20, and bulk of the trading was at $8.95@9.15.

Sheep and Lambs Steady:

Although receipts of sheep and lambs were not at all heavy, the market was very slow at the recent decline. Best fat lambs brought $9.25.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Best fat lambs, $9.00@9.25; medium to good lambs, $8.25@8.75; plain to heavy lambs, $7.50@8.00; yearlings, $7.00@7.75; aged wethers, $4.75@5.50; good to choice ewes, $4.25@4.50; fair to good ewes, $3.75@4.25; heavy ewes, $3.50@4.00; cull and canner ewes, $1.50@3.00; feeding lambs, $7.50@8.50; feeding ewes, $2.75@3.25.

Finger Prints in Banks.

The system adopted by some banks of taking "signatures" by means of finger prints is not a new idea, but only a survival of a very old custom. In the days when only a few people could write it was quite a usual thing for a person to signify approval of a document by making a thumb print on a dab of sealing wax.

Chance for Golden Service.

Mark how men train every cup of pleasure, until sensibility wears out, and then health wears out, and then ability to feel wears out. Give us the poet or teacher who will put a true picture of this before men, and he shall do the age's golden service.—H. R. Howells.
