WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1921

$1.50 PER YEAR

REV. BEARD, PASTOR PRES-BYTERIAN CHURCH, RESIGNS

Last Sunday morning, Rev. Beard, who for the past two years has been the efficient pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of this city, tendered his resignation to become effective April 1st. No there is no church trouble or dissatisfaction (except with this last act) so far as we know, and both Mr. and Mrs. Beard profess to like it here, and like the Wayne people and their work. Church and Sunday school and other church activities have been alive and prospered under the care of the pastor and wife, and it is but natural that many should greatly regret that they have decided to leave Wayne.

But it is the call of a people they formerly served that sounds louder than the call to remain here—the field, as Rev. Beard believes, in which he can do a greater and better and more needed work than here is calling, and it is to again lead the church at Gray's Harbor, Washington, that they quit the Wayne church.

Grey's Harbor is a great shipping port for lumber—soft pine is their specialty, and it is the outlet for the largest remaining field of primitive forest lands, and ships and sailors from all parts of the world, and the lumber jacks from the great forests of Washington gather there and at the other towns around the harbor, of which there are several forming an almost continuous community extending from Daimon on the northwest to Westport and Ludlow on the southwest, and including Hoquiam, Aberdeen, Cosmopolis, Montesano, at the head of the tide water along the north shore of the harbor, and South Montesano, Arctic, Makah and Oceaga on the south shore, all making a population of perhaps 50,000 people living along the coast of the harbor. It is a field that undoubtedly appeals to one with red blood, as has this preacher—an opportunity to wield an influence for good where good is needed—a good of the kind that mixes and minglesthe bad if need be that the bad may be made better.

Rev. Beard is a pleasing, forceful speaker, who seems not afraid to speak his convictions plainly, and has the happy faculty of so doing without giving offense to those who hear and may differ, for he accords to others the same right of free utterance of a conviction he claims for himself.

Since leaving that field a number of years ago he has had an experience well calculated to strengthen his power for good in such a field. We refer to his service as chaplain in France, where he mingled with all ranks of men as brother and friend. Sorry to see this genial fellow leave, we could not ask him to remain in the face of the call of duty as he sees it.

A GOOD SALE

Henry Rethwisch tells us that he had a good Poland China sale at his place a week ago. Prices did not rule high, the average being just under $60; but the buyers were mostly farmer neighbors—men who had bought his stock before and were willing to pay well for it. Two men each purchased nine head, and thus have a real foundation for their herds.

To our mind the breeder who, like Mr. Rethwisch, bids for his home trade and does not enter to the speculators wins. And when the real breeders want something good in that line they are going to be looking to just such producers as Mr. Rethwisch for their really good individuals, rather than to the fellows who are breeding feeding and stuffing simply for exhibition purposes. The pride of breeding and individual merit is more apt to find what he wants in just such herds as the progressive farmer breeder is producing.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to acknowledge the deep debt of gratitude which we feel toward the friends and neighbors for the many acts of aid and sympathy during our sad loss of wife, mother and sister. Also for the wealth of the floral offering, and the kindly spirit in which all was given.

James Stanton and Family
Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Finn.

TIMES IN 1883 AND 1921

Henry Korff, who moved to Wayne a year or more ago, has not until last week unpacked and put away quite all of the things they brought, and in unpacking a box of dishes which they had not previously had need of last week, he discovered some of them wrapped in a part of a copy of the Nebraska City paper, the Nebraska Stock Zeitung, and from it he copied the market published June 1, 1883, as follows:

Market in Nebraska City June 1, 1883

Given by the Bartling Grain Co.

Spring Wheat No. 2 per bu. 80c to 90c

Corn per bu. 38c to 40c
Wheat Flour per 100 lb. $2.50 to $3.50
Rye Flour per 100 lb. $2.00 to $2.25

Hogs per 100 lb. $6.50 to $6.80

Turkeys per pound. 8c
Hay per ton. $5.00 to $6.00
Hides green per pound. 6½c to 7c
Hides dry per pound. 12c to 12½c

At that time Mr. Korff was living and working at and near Nebraska City, where he lived for a number of years before moving to a farm in Cedar county, from which place he moved to Wayne.

In a little visit at the office he compared many things as they are now and as they were then. He spoke of the difference, then so slight between the price of hogs on foot and bacon, ham and shoulders and the difference today, with the packing business carefully organized to make both prices and catch them coming and going. Flour and wheat prices were more nearly on a par then. Clothing was not high priced. He got a good blue serge suit in those days for $12 and now it takes a special sale to get such a suit at three times that price.

"The girl was taken ill with smallpox about a week ago, and the Paul home was quarantined. She appeared to be recovering rapidly, and it was planned to lift the quarantine today.

"The girl slept for more than sixty hours before her death. Efforts of medical attendants to arouse her were successful on several occasions, but she relapsed into a stupor following stuporous. The disease is said to have been caused by the attack of smallpox."

He also spoke of wages—said that he got $20 per month and board—but that $16 and $18 were more common prices. A hired girl must be very efficient as well as lucky to get a place for housework at $2.00 per week, and really $1.50 was the more common price.

Mr. Korff then went on to make some other comparisons of the prices then and now, and at times between the two dates. A good team sold for as much as 1,000 bushels of corn; but a year ago that amount of corn would purchase three pretty good teams, today it would take the 1,000 bushel of corn again to buy the team.

He also noticed a local news item of this vicinity in that issue of the paper. It was that C. S. Hemington from Wayne county had lost a $300 team while crossing the Logan creek while it was out of the banks.

JOHNSON-WOHL

Wednesday, February 9, 1921, at the county court room by Judge J. M. Cherry, Mr. Ivor D. Wohl, of Oakland, and Miss Ella A. H. Johnson, from near Randolph, were united in marriage. The groom is a farmer, and they will soon be at home on a farm near Uhling. He was one of the service boys, and was on the other side more than fourteen months, and much of that time in the trenches. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Johnson.

N. E. NEBRASKA ODD FELLOWS TO MEET IN BLOOMFIELD

The local Odd Fellows lodge is now making preliminary plans to entertain the members of the Northeast Nebraska Odd Fellows association, which will meet in Bloomfield on Tuesday, May 17. The executive committee of the local lodge, having the matter in charge, held a meeting recently and appointed various committees to take care of the reception and goody number of the college professors, entertainment of the visitors and toors being among the number. Super-see that those who visit our city on that day are shown a royal good time. A special session of the Grand Lodge will be held here at that time and the grand lodge degree will be conferred. There are about twenty lodges in the district and it is expected that from five to six hundred Odd Fellows will be in Bloomfield on that day. The four degrees will be conferred by four crack teams from four of the lodges and a great many candidates will be brought here to receive the work. One or more of the Grand Lodge officers will be present and it will be a notable occasion in local I. O. O. F. circles. Harry Chapman, H. F. Cunningham and W. L. McDonald comprise the local executive committee, J. C. Hansen is chairman of the entertainment committee, A. L. Kingsley is chairman of the reception committee and Fred Heavrin is chairman of the finance committee. Dr. Roy Allen of Emerson is the secretary of the association and G. H. Liddell of Bloomfield is the president.—Monitor.

VICTIM OF SLEEPING SICKNESS BURIED AT CONCORD

Rev. W. O. Harper went to Concord this morning to conduct the funeral of a young girl, the daughter of a family who moved from that locality to Morningside last August. The following account of the death is from Tuesday's Sioux City Journal:

"What is believed to be the first case of sleeping sickness to prove fatal in Sioux City for many years is that of Violin E. Paul, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Paul, 3826 Peters avenue, who died Sunday evening following an attack of the malady, which began Friday morning.

"The girl was taken ill with smallpox about a week ago, and the Paul home was quarantined. She appeared to be recovering rapidly, and it was planned to lift the quarantine today.

"The girl slept for more than sixty hours before her death. Efforts of medical attendants to arouse her were successful on several occasions, but she relapsed into a stupor following stuporous. The disease is said to have been caused by the attack of smallpox."

WILSON INTENDS TO GO INTO SECLUSION

Washington, February 7.—President Wilson plans to go into virtual seclusion for a time after March 4. Freed from the responsibilities of office which have weighed heavily upon him during his convalescence, Mr. Wilson, his friends say, will shut himself in for intensive rest and quiet in his new home. He will deny himself to all callers, except immediate members of his family, it is said, and a few intimate friends. No formal engagements are expected to be made by the president until he shall have adjusted himself to private life after some ten years in public service. Even the writing he has planned will be postponed several months, his friends say.

LIGHT GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Grain shipments are very light from Wayne thus far this year. The Farmer Elevator people tell that one car of corn is the extent of their grain shipment—but that a little more is being offered these days and taken. Other dealers are not making any heavy purchases—which means that the farmers will quite generally hold their grain for higher prices or for feed—for it has a greater value to feed than to sell now, even the live stock is low.

THE COUNTRY CLUB PLANS

If present plans carry the members of the country club will hold their annual meeting some time this month, and probably with a feed in connection. The idea is to elect their 1921 officers earlier than the regular date for the annual meeting and then let them work out their own plan for the season work. When the election is held later, the plans have to be made by the old officers, and the new ones were expected to follow the plans they had mapped out. The change should prove more satisfactory.

THE SCHOOLMASTERS MEET AT NORFOLK

Sixty schoolmasters, mostly teaching in this corner of this state assembled at Norfolk Friday evening and Saturday in their annual meeting, and had a most interesting time and also one that may prove of benefit to the school interests of this community and the nation.

Concerning their good time, the say:

While the school masters took a work, they turned their meeting into a very busy affair. The afternoon was spent in talking shop in the Chamber of Commerce hall. The evening was spent at a banquet in the Pacific hotel

Elsewhere in the paper we give place to the proposed ordinance for child welfare in this community. Read it, and be ready to pass your opinion—to tell the council what you want them to do in the matter. It is your problem as well as that of every other citizen. Do not keep quiet now and roar after action is taken.

Last week Blair citizens voted down the city manager plan of government by a vote of practically 1 to 7. Norfolk defeated the same kind of a plan the week before by a decided majority of nearly 1,000 votes. The people appear to be suspicious of this form of government—or at least of the fellows in the big cities who are boasting for the plan. They fear that there is a colored gentleman in the woodpile. But we really cannot see why the State Journal should dump that item under the head of "Married in Nebraska."

We should all give ear to the cry for Armenian relief. So too China has a population as great as one eighth of the population of this country who are facing starvation. It is a good thing that Columbus discovered America, and that here the very salt of the earth have found a haven, a place in which to develop for the saving of the rest of the world. Joseph sold into bondage in Egypt and later an instrument in providing sustenance for those who traded him off was perhaps no greater benefactor to the human family than was the man who ploughed the unknown waters in search of a way round the earth and bumped into this continent.

The testimony of Charles G. Dawes before the congressional smelting committee that is looking for some fault to find with the administration in its war conduct must have got a faint smell of hell-fire and brimstone—for Dawes simply called a spade a spade and asked those fellows who were afraid to show up over in Europe when the trouble was hottest why they were not there doing their duty as Americans rather than skulking at home helping their friends hurry fat army contracts thru—some of which they are now finding fault about. We don't blame Dawes for swearing, for the average congressman appears to be a partisan before he is American and acts the part of a real shyster at the command of some special interest by which he is mortgaged.

The state is looking to the future. In an act to permit signs to be placed along the public highway's of Nebraska, the legislature makes it plain that at the end of twenty years the signs are to become the property of the state. By the way, what is the price paid for advertising space along the highways? How will the rates compare with newspaper advertising? How will the returns compare? How many automobileists stop to read an advertisement these busy days? We believe that it pays to advertise—and perhaps the sign at the side of the road has the best circulation.

In spite of the fact that there is a growing sentiment against the dealing in grain and other produce futures such as are now daily robbing people according to law, it is reported that the Chicago board is preparing to erect a new building for the gamblers at a cost of about $8,000,000. Perhaps they may erect the building—possibly they may use it as the one now owned by them is used—but let them remember the story of the prosperous man told of in the Bible, who said he would tear down his barns and build greater; and was called a fool for so doing, because he had such a short time to stay on earth—for that night was he to answer the final summons.

It seems impossible that the board of trade, as it is now run, can continue to do business long enough to erect a new and modern building.

Congress may reform. At least they have proven that they can change in a short time. Not many months ago this congress passed an army bill fixing the number of men in the regular army in time of peace, or comparative peace at least, at 280,000, and it was signed by President Wilson. Just now they have passed a bill reducing the number of men to 175,000; which the president vetoed. But the conviction in congress is so strong that they did the wrong thing in their first law, that they have lost no time in passing this new measure over the veto of the president. We are glad that they can change—whether right or wrong. We think that under the plan first proposed the standing army of this country was being made better than ever before, for it carried many provisions for giving the men a schooling, and made the life of a soldier in time of peace one of preparation for something better when the term of enlistment expired.

The "big D's" uttered by General Dawes before the congressional committee may yet make him president of the United States. The Springfield Republican notes with regret his declaration that he is "not going into politics, thank God." "A man of his executive ability," the Republican mourns, "independence of character, freedom from venomous partisanship, and rugged fairness of mind should be in a high and responsible position in the republican administration. If he went into the Harding cabinet he would help to make its backbone". The fact that he is apparently not to be included in the new president's family may not be due to President Harding. There is a possibility amounting almost to a probability that a place was offered Mr. Dawes but that for personal reasons it could not be accepted. This is all the more to be regretted, if true, because there is no doubt that the Dawes testimony really punched the American conscience. Nothing has happened since the armistice, in fact, to give the country a stronger flashlight on its moral delinquencies than the swearing of this outraged patriot.—State Journal.

PROPOSED ORDINANCE

Following is the ordinance suggested for passage by the city council, with such changes as may be deemed necessary to fill the need of this community by those interested in the public welfare movement now being urged in all towns and cities of the state. Creighton has recently started a move in this direction, and have the ordinance and welfare board.

An ordinance creating a Board of Public Welfare of the City of Wayne, County of Wayne, State of Nebraska, providing number of members, providing method of selecting said members and duration of term of office, providing powers and duties of said board and providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Wayne, State of Nebraska, that there is hereby created a Board of Public Welfare for the City of Wayne, which board shall consist of five citizens, two of which shall be women, who shall be elected by the Mayor and City Council in the manner herein-after provided for in this ordinance. The members of said Board shall receive no pay or compensation for services rendered as members of said Board of Public Welfare.

Section 2. Within ten days of the passage of this ordinance the Mayor shall request the following organizations: Board of education, the ministers of the city, the commercial club and the Woman's club to each appoint one member to act as a committee on nominations, said committee to meet at such time and place as shall be designated by the Mayor. Said committee shall organize by electing a chairman and secretary and then place in nomination twice as many persons as shall be elected to said Board. The committee shall report its nominations to the Mayor and city council at its next regular meeting or at a special meeting called for that purpose. The mayor and city council shall then elect the City Board of Public Welfare from the persons thus placed in nomination. All vacancies shall be filled in like manner.

Section 3. The members of the Board of Public Welfare shall hold office for a term of five years, excepting that the first members shall be elected for one, two, three, four, and five years respectively. A majority of said board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, provided however, that no business shall be transacted unless a majority of the total membership of the said board shall concur therein. The members of the said Board of Public Welfare shall meet within ten days after their election and shall organize by selecting from among their members of president and secretary, and shall adopt such by-laws, rules, and regulations, not conflicting with the laws of the state or the ordinances of the city, as may be necessary and proper to carry out successfully the work it is authorized to do.

Any member or members of the board so designated by the Board of Public Welfare, or its officers, shall be commissioned officers with all powers of a police officer of and for the City of Wayne and shall co-operate with the board of education of the City of Wayne in enforcing attendance at the public schools.

Section 4. Said Board of Public Welfare, and its duly qualified officers shall have power with the consent of the city council to manage and regulate all public playgrounds and play fields, and to supervise and equip and care for playgrounds and play-fields and to provide regulations for suitable attire thereon. It shall also take necessary measures to provide for necessary and sufficient lighting of all public parks, playgrounds and other places of public amusements, and provide for an effective curfew ordinance and for the enforcement of same.

Section 5. Section 6. It is further provided that said Board of Public Welfare shall exercise supervision of such places of amusement as are or may hereafter be provided by, or within said City of Wayne for the public without profit. Prominent Hog Raiser Says Prices Charged Are Unwarranted—
Makes His Own Hog Food, With Better Results

Section 8. In all cases of violation of the laws of the state or ordinances of the city, the Board of Public Welfare shall furnish all information of such violations as may come within their knowledge to the officers of the city and county, and shall render all possible assistance in prosecuting such violations of the law, particularly the prohibitory amendment, also all immoral persons or resorts and nuisances of whatsoever character, and the laws and ordinances pertaining to the sale and use of tobacco and cigarettes to and by minors.

The State of Nebraska, Wayne County, ss.

I, Chas. W. Reynolds, County Clerk of Wayne County, Nebraska, do hereby certify that for years he bought high-priced hog foods and hog remedies, but is all through paying extravagant prices for what he can make himself. He states that what the hogs need are minerals, and tells the secret of his wonderful success by explaining that he takes about five pounds of ordinary mineraline (which is pure concentrated minerals and cost only a couple of dollars) and mixes same with enough bran or filler to make a hundred pounds. All hogs, and especially brood sows require minerals as they keep them free from worms, and in the pink of condition, and are essential to the hogs growth

It was soon discovered that Wayne could muster a good orchestra from among the young folks, and no one was disappointed, unless it was the orchestra that paid for the advertising and like expenses, and left the home orchestra to reap the reward.

That is the secret of many a business success. We say advertise—we do not simply mean use newspaper space, posters, blotters and fans and calendars—we mean in that newspaper space or on the other means of conveyance of your ideas, have the idea you wish to convey clearly and concisely told. Quote prices. If you can't tell what you have to sell and why it is desirable—why it is a bargain—why people profit from owning it—give reason.

ADDRESSES BEFORE THE HIGH SCHOOL

The art of telling in a forcible, clear or concise manner the events of the day, the meat of a speech or the good or bad of a place is one not easily acquired, but an accomplishment of much worth. The following, taken from the last issue of the Watchword concerning a number of the chapter talks to the students are so commendable that we reproduce them. Not necessarily as a matter of news, but as a showing of the talent being developed along that line by those pupils responsible for the high standard of their monthly paper, the Watchword.

Rev. Mr. Pratt

On Friday, January 7, the high school enjoyed a talk by Rev. Mr. Pratt. First, Mr. Pratt told us of his New England home and of the beautiful Catskills which he had known and loved. He brought before our eyes a picture of the smooth green beauty of those eastern mountains dotted with white farm houses and stone fences. He painted a vivid word picture of a sunrise there. He said that the quality of beauty in those eastern mountains was not grandeur; but rather serene loveliness.

When Mr. Pratt came to Nebraska the desire to see the Rocky mountains grew on him. He had heard of their marvelous grandeur and majesty. And, so, last summer he went to Wyoming expecting to be awed instantly by the sight of those wonderful mountains. As he traveled westward through the Big Horn Basin he felt that he had been cheated. He could see nothing of beauty there. The ground was black and moist and at different points oil wells had been constructed. That part of the country is rich in oil. As the land became higher and he neared the mountains, the sage-brush appeared. Again he felt that sense of disappointment and the same feeling was dominant when at last he saw the Rockies. They were immense piles of huge boulders which seemed to have been carelessly thrown together. And they were bare; there was no trace of color.

The morning following his arrival he arose in time to see the sun rise. He saw the Rockies transformed and he began to appreciate the majesty of those western mountains. Day by day his sense of appreciation grew. He realized that they had a beauty all their own.

From this story Mr. Pratt drew this conclusion: It takes time to appreciate the really great things of life.

Mr. Pratt went on to describe the oil country and told of a visit to an oil refinery. He described the simple process by which the different products are separated. His talk was very interesting and instructive.

Mayor Kemp

Friday, January 11, Mayor Kemp addressed the high school. Mr. Kemp was superintendent of the high school for five years, during which time the present building was dedicated. He said that those five years had been the happiest, most contented years of his life.

The speaker told us that he had come to talk about "Sunshine," and began by saying that it was the very best cosmetic for the complexion. Spring is a happy season because of the sunshine. Each of us ought to smile a good morning to everyone; we should even have smiles for strangers. We ought to radiate sunshine, be cheery, which is much better than medicine for one who is ill.

Mr. Kemp stressed the point that the measure of success is not wealth. He said that Abraham Lincoln had been so busy earning that he had no time to collect, yet he was immeasurably wealthy in service to humanity. If we do our duty, we, too, will be too busy earning to collect and we will earn the vast gratitude of many people. We must forget the accumulation of money and our own pleasure.

Today there are greater opportunities than ever before. And to fit ourselves to take advantage of them Mr. Kemp urged us to finish high school fit ourselves to serve humanity and not to prepare to have an easy time.

Mr. Kemp at the close of his speech gave two very fine poems, "The Water Mill" and "Smile". He expressed the wish that every student in the school might have a copy of them. We are printing the poems in this issue. Mr. Kemp's speech was very thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

Rev. Mr. Fetteroff

On Friday, January 25, the high school students had the pleasure of hearing Rev. Mr. Fetteroff speak. His talk was about "Lookouts for the pot of gold that lies at the end of the Rainbow." He emphasized that it is not the pot of glittering gold that makes people happy, but to really be happy one must have toward persons satisfaction. "I am happy," said the bird that flew from the nest over hill and dale, only to return weary and disappointed in the evening, because it found nothing but unhappiness all around us.

We create our own world by an appreciation of what we have—the things that are near. If you have not a sense of appreciation, try to develop one, and learn to enjoy the free things of nature. There are only a few really big events in one's life, and to be truly happy we must find joy in the small things.

Dr. Frank Wilcox

Dr. Frank Wilcox who was at Wayne in the interests of the Hygiene and Welfare Work spoke before the high school Tuesday, February 1. His talk was exceedingly interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by his hearers. While his speech was mainly serious it was interspersed by witcisms much appreciated by the students.

Dr. Wilcox said that the day of theories is passing. Too many theories have been proven false. It is time to get down to definite facts. Mr. Wilcox has worked for many years among criminals and the lower classes. He said that there is no "criminal type" as some people claim. In the penitentiaries there are all classes and types of people. But most of them are uneducated. Fifty-three per cent of convicted criminals have not passed the third grade; sixty-five per cent have not passed the fifth grade. But the worst criminal of all is the educated criminal. The one whose mind has been trained and who goes into the crime with his eyes open and "with malice aforethought." And ninety per cent of the latter class is never caught.

Dr. Wilcox declared that young people of high school age are in the age of character building. He said that our characters are built between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five. He compared one's life to a structure and said that we have the power to make it great or small. The most important part of any structure is the foundation, and these years of character building are the foundation of our lives. If, in high school, one "gets by" by cheating he is weakening the foundation for his future life.

The speaker related the parable of the merchantman and the pearl of great price. He said that our life work is the pearl of great price in the life of each of us, and there are just as many of those pearls in the world as there are people.

Whatever our work may be, we ought not measure our success by the wealth we accumulate but by the service we give.

REPORTING SCHOOL HAPPENINGS

(From The Watchword)

The Seniors who are members of the midyear class are John Huford, Frank Martin, Don Miller, Merritt McConnell, Ruth Ringland and Loila Mitchell. The four boys are beginning the Normal course and the girls attend classes there in the afternoon. John Carhart also attends afternoon classes at the Normal.

The Senior class play "Green Stockings" was given Tuesday, January 25. After the play the members of the Senior class and the high school teachers were invited to the Huford home. Music and a very delicious coffee luncheon were enjoyed very much. The mothers of the four boys who are midyear graduates were hostesses. Everyone enjoyed a pleasant time.

The class pins and rings have been ordered, and are expected to arrive soon.

John Carhart has been elected yell-leader.

The debating team has been selected. All four members are Senior girls.

OUR GAMES

Winside came down to Wayne one sunshiny afternoon and according to the ancient tradition of Wayne they went home defeated by a score of 53 to 5. The game was too one-sided to be very interesting but it gave the Wayne basketball team some much needed practice.

The next week our friends from the "Valley of the Swedes" or Wakefield came over. They had practically the same team that they have had for the past three years and there was a battle royal. During the first half Wayne could not find the basket, and Wakefield came out ahead. But the Wayne boys came back for the second half with some "pep" and tied the score at the end of the second half. An extra five minutes was given to play off the tie and during that time Wayne made one point. The final score was 25 to 24.

The next Friday we departed in high spirits for Bloomfield determined to do or die. We died—but not until we had the Bloomfield boys worrying. The score, at the end of the first half was 18 to 6 in their favor and things looked dark. However, we won the second half 13 to 12, and when the final whistle blew the score was 39 to 21 in our opponents' favor. This is present at that game when they had nearly their two sets and disappointed in the evening, because Lyons visited Wayne, January 29, and beat the home team to the tune of 23 to 12 in a slow game.

The Wayne boys' only alibi was "no pep" and they hope to meet Lyons again and show them a much faster game. Friday, the Wayne team goes to Ponca determined that if they lose it will be to a better team.

DEBATING

The final trial debate was held Tuesday evening, January 11. Eight students participated. The judges were, Miss Pearl Sewell, S. X. Cross and J. G. W. Lewis. A large number of students and other persons interested were present. After considerable deliberation the judges chose for the team, Ruth Ringland, Lella Mitchell and Kathryn Bohart with Lydia Griggs as alternate.

A debate with Wakefield had been scheduled for January 28. But the debate was forfeited to Wayne. The next debate will be with Randolph about March 1.

THE NEW SEMESTER

Twenty-seven new students entered the high school from the grades at the beginning of this semester. The enrollment in the high school is now one hundred and forty-one.

Several new classes have been organized. The high school is growing and the enrollment in these classes is greater than ever before. There are twenty-one members in the beginning botany class, which is taught by Miss Bigler. Agriculture, taught by Mrs. Galley also has a class enrollment of twenty-one. Twenty-seven pupils have entered the civics class taught by Miss Rove. And in the business department under the direction of Mrs. Galley there are thirty-seven students. Manual training, taught by Mr. Crabtree has a large enrollment, and there is a special demand for domestic science work, which is conducted under the direction of Miss Kallemyer.

The declaratory work will be started soon. Quite a number of students are planning to enter the contest.

GOOD MANNERS

We pride ourselves that our schools are the best. That we train young people to think clearly and logically and prepare them to be successful in their life's work. More and more we are coming to the place where only practical, useful courses are taught. But, just from observation, we should say that there is one thing left out of the common school curriculum that is essential to a successful man or woman. That is, training in courtesy and good manners.

This idea is being advocated more and more by practical people. One business woman writes: "Kindness and courtesy are two of the greatest essentials of success. If we had our way there would be a special class, beginning in the kindergarten, and none would be given a certificate to teach in our public schools who could not pass a rigid examination."

The school teacher says that such training should be given at home. But the youngster, going to school, spends more of his waking hours there than he does at home. No matter how refined the parents of a child in school may be, their efforts amount to little unless there is cooperation in the school.

We are quite sure that the teachers in this high school would not be proud to claim some of their pupils could "see the rudeness which they exhibit daily, on the street and elsewhere."

Especially, all boys and girls should be taught courtesy toward old people. If only they would remember to treat all old people with the same kindness they would like to see shown their own parents, all would be well.

We believe that if gentle courtesy and good manners should be taught all through the school career, this world would be a happier and a better place.

THE GHOST OF HAUNTED VALLEY

Haunted Valley is a place on the beautiful Logan Creek near Wayne Nebraska. On moonlight nights "great white objects" would come up out of the creek and float off into space. They would generally float over the road which ran over the creek about a hundred rods from the valley. When anyone happened to pass on the road about the time that the "great white objects" appeared, one would experience a cold, clammy feeling, and would most probably become so frightened that he would turn around and run.

The legend is that a beautiful maiden had been dragged there and killed by a modern "Bluebeard" on a moonlight night. Her body was said to have been buried on the spot or thrown into the creek. No one ever found out what really became of it.

One evening my chum and I, not believing in ghosts, although we had seen this one many times, decided to investigate and solve the mystery, if we could. We waited until the moon was up, then mounted our bicycles and rode toward the Valley. When we got there there was no object in sight. We followed the road and in turned the road. My chum and I got off for a scoop of ice cream and ran the other way, with me at her heels. We stopped, gained courage and bravely started back again. This time, hand in hand, we followed a path leading from the road and winding around to the Valley. We experienced the cold, clammy feel-

XMAS EVE TRIP.

"Come on, my fine reindeer," said Santa Claus. "Come on!"

But he hardly need have spoken, for the reindeer were jumping this way and that, shaking with excitement and looking at Santa Claus with eyes which said just as plainly as could be:

"We're ready, we're ready, and we're anxious to start."

So Santa Claus took along a package of special moss his reindeer love to eat and jumped into his sleigh. With a jingling of bells and a snort of delight from each reindeer they were off.

"Ah!" said Santa Claus to himself. "This is the time of the year for me! How I love the white snow, and the peaceful houses, and even where there isn't any snow I love it, too! And even where there are cities and the houses don't lie so peacefully by themselves I love it, for it is Christmas Eve."

"We will go to every house where there is a child," Santa Claus went on. "You remember, my lovely reindeer, where they all were last year, don't you?"

The reindeer once more made sounds which Santa Claus knew was their way of saying: "We remember every one."

"Well," said Santa Claus, "some of the children have moved and I'll give you my list of the ones who've moved and of the houses which we needn't go to which we went to last year.

"For in some of these houses there are other people and the children are in other places. But I've got every address of where every child lives. Never fear that, my reindeer."

And again they made those excited happy sounds of theirs which said, "We know you know, Santa Claus. You never forget where a child lives, and you always know where they move! Usually, too, they help you out as much as possible by writing to you and telling you of their change of address."

"Then," said Santa Claus, "there are a number of places where I must go this year where I didn't go last year, because the little ones were too young. Now some of them are old enough to wait for Santa Claus and to hang up their stockings. Little babies, of course, don't understand about Christmas."

"But when they become little boys and girls they do!"

And Santa Claus laughed one of his long, merry laughs that made all the reindeer smile their lovely, happy reindeer smiles.

"I've a great list of all the changes," said Santa Claus.

At that he took out his great list, the most enormous list you ever saw, and he began to read off the changes of houses and where the children had moved to, and everything, so there wouldn't be a moment wasted.

"Ah!" said Santa Claus, as he read out the names, "how many new boys and girls there are. Well, that rejoices my heart."

"I suppose some people might imagine it was hard for me to think of so many new presents to make and extra work to do."

"But those people don't understand Santa Claus. I'm thankful to say most do. And I'm thankful to say that most children do; in fact practically all children do!"

"They know, my lovely reindeer, that it's a joy to Santa Claus, and the more children there are for whom he must make presents the happier he is."

"Now we must go to the shops and get some of the presents that have been especially asked for, though in my trips around the last few nights I have gathered up most of the ones which have been asked for, haven't I, my lovely reindeer?"

"You've gathered most of the presents which have been especially asked for you," the reindeer answered.

"And there are houses in the city and houses in the country we must go to," Santa Claus continued. "Some of them are far away and some of them are near by, and some are off by themselves and some are close together."

"It's the glorious Christmas eve," Santa Claus went on happily, "and the more children there are the better I like it, for the more children there are the more smiles there are, too. And Santa Claus adores the smiles of boys and girls!"

Town of the Nymphs.

A Tokyo correspondent of the New York World writes that not far from the city of Ishinomosky, on the Pacific coast of Hondo, the largest of the islands which compose the Japanese empire, is a remarkable settlement commonly known as the Town of the Nymphs. It is several centuries old, and peculiar in that its women rule, the wife supporting the head of the family, while the husbands keep house, tend the children and do other work that elsewhere is in the woman's province. Because their business is to dive in the sea for pearls those women are called nymphs by the Japanese. The settlement is on Sehian bay, where pearl shells are numerous and are taken from the bottom of the sea.

Fossilized Blood.

Blood is an extremely perishable substance, yet traces have been left and have been recognized after lapses of several thousand years. Traces of blood six thousand years old have been found in mummies, and blood-stains have been discovered upon bandages used in the surgery of ancient Egypt. In Siberia remains of it were recognized in frozen mammoths, whose flesh was fresh enough to be eaten by dogs after about 175,000 years of icy entombment. R. L. Moodie of the University of Illinois has found in the bone of a dinosaur some bodies which looked remarkably like blood, but his investigations have now satisfied him that they were really blood.

Progress Never Ceases.

The tree of life from primordial cells up to mammals shows intelligence ever widening up to man, declares a writer in the Minneapolis Journal. The human tribe and clan have foregoings of their organization in the social life of bees and ants. All animals are somewhere on the road to progress. Some stop at one point and some at another. But the higher animals retaining plastic power are but a little behind the lowest type of man. The separating line seems to be that man in some stage of his career becomes self-conscious and reaches abstract conceptions. Many animals clearly display elements of conscious life that reach a more complete manifestation in man.

Spiders That Fish.

It has been thought a wonderful thing that a dog has caught fish, but more wonderful as a fisherman is a spider that is found in South Africa. It measures four inches across with legs stretched out. It places itself at the edge of the water with two of its legs on a pebble or stone and the other legs spread out in the water. As the spider sits motionless, a fish comes swimming along under the spider's outstretched legs, which are then suddenly thrust down into the water, closed around the fish, and the spider makes a downward plunge, driving its fangs into it. At once the spider climbs out on its pebble or stone and devours the fish.

Millionth of a Second.

A chronoscope is employed when experimenting with high-power explosives used in guns, which registers the velocity of the projectile at sixteen successive points before it leaves the bore. It is possible with this apparatus to register time to the millionth of a second. In the older experiments, where the velocity did not exceed 1,500 or 1,600 feet per second this projectile recorded its time by knocking down a series of steel triggers projecting into the bore. But with velocities of several thousand feet per second the trigger, instead of dropping, frequently plowed a groove in the projectile, and this new device became necessary.

First Aid Raid.

Five zealous Hollywood Boy Scouts have suffered a shock. They noticed, while on their way to camp, a man apparently endeavoring to entice away two little girls who were crying bitterly. Promptly they surrounded him, threw him to the ground, and bound him hand and foot with ropes. Three scouts remained to guard him and the others went for the police. On returning they made the bitter discovery that not only had their victim escaped, but that he was an insidious father who had been taking his unwilling children home to bed!

Burden of Riches.

Those who envy the rich should read what William Henry Vanderbilt said, shortly before his death: "The care of $200,000,000 is too great a load for any brains or back to bear; it is enough to kill a man. There is no pleasure to be got out of it as an offset—no good of any kind. I have no real gratification or enjoyment of any sort more than my neighbor, who is worth only half a million. So when I lay down the heavy responsibility, I want my sons to divide it and share the worry which it will cost to keep it."

"I Shall Not Pass This Way Again."

Efforts to identify the author of this much-quoted quotation have failed. It has been attributed to Stephen Grillet, an American Quaker of French birth (1773-1855); R. W. Emerson, Edward Courtenay, earl of Devon; Sir Roland Hill (1744-1833); Marcus Aurelius, Miss A. B. Hageman, Addison Thomas Carlyle and others. And it is also said that the germ of it is to be found in the writings of a Chinese philosopher.

There seems to be some authority in favor of Grillet being the author, but the passage does not occur in any of his printed works.

PARCEL POST DELIVERS EGGS TO DOOR OF CITY CONSUMERS

One Big Advantage of the Parcel Post Is That One Package or Many May Be Sent.

If the rural delivery is at your door, the city market is there for your small produce, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. At present many producers are neglecting entirely this marketing medium or are not utilizing it to the extent they might. Wider use of the parcel post for marketing eggs is particularly advisable for the small producer who can easily and advantageously build up a direct trade with the city. When more produce is marketed directly from the farm to the city there will be less complaint on the part of the producer that the prices he must sell for are too low, and less on the part of the consumer that the prices he pays are too high.

Sell Only First-Class Eggs.

It is preferable to produce infertile eggs for market, as fertile eggs deteriorate rapidly in warm weather and, are the cause of much loss. The eggs should be gathered at least once a day and stored in a well-ventilated place, where they can be kept as cool as possible. As washing removes the mucilaginous coating of eggs and opens the pores of the shell, it should not be practiced in the case of eggs intended for high-class trade. Soiled eggs should be used at home or disposed of otherwise than to a parcel-post customer.

If there is any doubt concerning the freshness or quality of the eggs, they should be candled, so that all eggs showing any defect may be held at home, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. For parcel-post shipment it is essential that uniform containers and a uniform pack should be used, as otherwise the packages will not wear well, nor will they look attractive and appeal to the fancy trade. Furthermore, the containers should be stout and durable, so as to make it worth while to return them as "empties" for subsequent use.

According to post office regulations, eggs will be accepted for local delivery when they are so packed in a basket or other container as to prevent damage to other mail matter. Eggs to be sent beyond the local office are accepted for mailing, regardless of distance, when each egg is wrapped separately and surrounded with excelsior, cotton or other suitable material and packed in a strong container made of double-faced, corrugated pasteboard, metal, wood or other suitable material and wrapped so that nothing can escape from the package. All such parcels must be labeled "Eggs." Eggs in parcels weighing more than 20 pounds are accepted for mailing to offices in the first and second zones when packed in crates, boxes, buckets or other containers having tight bottoms to prevent the escape of anything from the package and so constructed as properly to protect the contents. Such packages must be marked "Eggs—This Side Up" and must be transported outside of mail sacks or boxes.

It is advisable that square block tissue paper, which comes in packages of 500 sheets each, soft wrapping paper, or newspaper should be used around each egg, as otherwise there is danger of breakage in handling. Average hens' eggs will weigh about two ounces apiece, or between two and three pounds a dozen, when properly packed for mailing in a carton. Most parcels containing a dozen eggs will exceed two pounds, but will not reach three; therefore the postage on them will be 7 cents within the first and second zones, or 15-cent limit. A parcel containing two dozen eggs will add, perhaps, 2 cents to the postage, though sometimes only 1 cent, depending on the character of the container and wrapper.

Ship Large-Size Packages.

The larger the parcel, within the size and weight limits, the cheaper is the postage, as the first pound of every package costs 5 cents within the first and second zones, while each additional pound, up to 50, costs but 1 cent.

COMPOST HEAP MADE FROM GARDEN WASTE

Organic Rubbish of All Kinds Especially Suitable.

Start by Laying Down Bed of Stable Manure and Alternating With Refuse Matter—Especially Valuable for Hotbeds.

Garden waste, decayed vegetables, dead vines, weeds, and the organic rubbish that collects about the place during a busy summer may be cleaned up and put to work again through the agency of a compost heap, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Start the leap by laying down a bed of stable manure which has not been burned or heated. The size of the plot will vary with the amount of refuse to be used; for ordinary uses, if the bed is made eight feet long by six feet wide and two feet deep, it will serve the purpose. Over the manure spread a two-foot layer of refuse and cover with another layer of manure. This last layer need be only a foot in thickness.

If it is desired to add to the heap from time to time the top layer may be opened and the new material emptied into the hole thus made. This is convenient for the suburban home where there is no animal to consume the kitchen waste. In the spring the heap is well mixed with a fork and the compost is ready to be spread on the garden plot. The heating manure will effectively destroy any weed seed present and will also break down the structure of most of the materials that have been thrown upon the pile. The process may be continued indefinitely by simply adding enough manure to insure heating. Compost is especially valuable for use in hotbeds and cold frames.

WEEDS ARE INJURIOUS

Weeds are injurious to man in the following ways:

1. They crowd out the growing crop.

2. They consume the moisture necessary for a crop.

3. They consume the mineral or other food elements essential to a crop.

4. They pull down a crop.

5. They are injurious because they harbor insects.

6. They are injurious because they harbor parasitic fungi.

7. They prevent the proper cultivation of the soil.

8. They may cause conditions which breed diseases.

9. They may poison the soil.

10. They stop drains.

11. They poison animals and man.—Prof. L. H. Pammel, Iowa State College.

Even where seed corn has been carefully gathered and stored it should be thoroughly tested in the spring before planting. The best way to do this is to make a seed corn testing box and test 100 ears separately.

If it is desired to add to the heap from time to time the top layer may be opened and the new material emptied into the hole thus made. This is convenient for the suburban home where there is no animal to consume the kitchen waste. FIRST LOVE STILL LINGERS

John Burroughs Has Vivid Recollections of the Little Maid Who Won His Heart.

John Burroughs' recollections of his first sweetheart are as fresh and rose tinted as the cheeks of the little lady as she ran down the hill to play with her ardent young admirer of five. "Uncle John tells about her in 'John Burroughs, Boy and Man,' the semi-autobiography which is written by his friend, Dr. Clara Barrus.

"I can see her now, as she came running down the hill from the schoolhouse, the cap of her little pink sunbonnet fluttering in the breeze," said Mr. Burroughs as he pointed out the course she took down the road to her home.

"I must have been between five and six years old. I had gone over to neighbor Bartram's in the West settlement with father on a stoneboat drawn by the oxen. Father probably went there to help him draw stones for a new piece of wall—they used to exchange work in that way.

"I can hear her father's voice as he sent it over the hills to the schoolhouse—he had a prodigious voice—Eleanor, come home." And soon she came flying down the road to play with me.

"We played by the barn on a little mound of hay. I remember we made a nest there—I can see her now as she took a wisp of hay and pinched it together, making believe it was an egg and that she was a hen—I can see the sharp angles of the shining hay as she tried to shape it like an egg before she covered it in the nest."

RECALL FATE OF FRANKLIN

Interesting Relics Recently Brought to Vancouver From the Land Where He Perished.

After being in the possession of the thrifty natives of King William's land for three-quarters of a century, a large number of interesting relics of the ill-fated Sir John Franklin polar expedition have been brought from the frozen north by Joe Benard, who is here after a four years' stay along the northernmost coast of the North American continent, says a Vancouver (B. C.) dispatch.

It is advisable that square block tissue paper, which comes in packages of 500 sheets each, soft wrapping paper, or newspaper should be used around each egg, as otherwise there is danger of breakage in handling. Average hens' eggs will weigh about two ounces apiece, or between two and three pounds a dozen, when properly packed for mailing in a carton. Though priceless from a collector's point of view, the utilitarian value of the relics is negligible, and they were obtained by Benard for a piece of lumber worth possibly 20 cents on the coast.

A few brass buttons among the relics are believed to have belonged to the distinguished leader, though there is as yet no positive proof of this.

Benard also obtained a number of primitive scientific instruments used by the

SOCIAL NOTES

Woman's Club

A small but appreciative audience enjoyed the Woman's club program at the home of Mrs. Grace Keyser last Saturday. Mrs. Keyser in her carefully prepared paper on Indian Music mentioned several composers who have spent many years living among the various tribes, with the express purpose of studying their moods and aspirations and sentiments and to learn how they give expression to these feelings through their music. Some of those mentioned who have thus sacrificed to lay the foundations that others might build thereon, and preserve to the world something of the music of this great race are Carlos Troyer, who died only last October, Arthur Nevin, and Thurlow Lleurance, whom several Wayne musicians heard at the State Music Teachers' Association at Lincoln two years ago.

Miss Katherine Strickland played several descriptive numbers with brilliant technique and soulful interpretations, and Mrs. A. R. Davis in her usual artistic manner sang three descriptive songs.

The following program was rendered interspersed by description of the various numbers by Mrs. Keyser.

The next meeting of the Woman's club will be held at the home of Mrs. James Miller. The program will be on Music of the Plains. It is expected that Mrs. John Slaker, of Hastings, president of the State Federation of Women's clubs will be at this meeting and will address the women. All women of the city are invited to attend.

One of the jovial social events of the week was at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Lewis last Thursday evening when they invited a number of the young married folks of the Baptist church to meet at their home for a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Haas, who are moving to Council Bluffs, after a residence of several years near Wayne. A 6:30 dinner was served cafeteria style, and then the fun began. Music and games occupied the time of the guests for a time. Checkers seemed to be the favorite pastime, and Chas. Martin proved the champion, winning a game from each of the men who tried title with him. Then one of the women took a place at the board, and won—but we all know that Mr. Martin is too gallant to win from a lady—especially as he was the only guest present who had not taken a life partner for better or worse. It was with regret that they bid goodby to Mr. and Mrs. Haas, but with wishes that their future might be happy and prosperous.

The Bible Study circle met with Mrs. Dora Benshoff Tuesday afternoon to discuss the advance Sunday school lesson involving three leading questions touching the supporting of the government, the resurrection of the dead and the divinity of Jesus Christ. After the helpful study a lottery from Miss Agnes Glenn, Choshi, Japan, dated January 17th was much enjoyed. Miss Glenn writes: "I have had the joy of leading two young women to Christ this month. Took a trip of 75 miles out to a very out of the world place called Odaki to open up a new mission station. I am buying a new building in which to open the work. The building is a saloon now. I am considering it to be a very great victory for our Lord to have a saloon converted into a life saving station. Remember me to all the Wayne friends." Mrs. A. E. Laase will be hostess next Tuesday.

BASKETBALL

(From The Goldenrod)

The quintet who returned from the basketball trip last Saturday plead no alibi because of unlabeled brows, other than that they were outplayed by the Midland team at Fremont Thursday night and again by the Doane Tigers at Crete on Friday night. The result of the Midland-Wayne game was 29 to 13 in favor of Midland, while the end of the Doane-Wayne game found Doane the victor by a score of 34 to 12.

The former game started with a snap, and for five minutes neither side scored, until Midland began to shoot baskets with startling regularity, making it impossible, by the 23 to 4 score at the end of the first half, for Wayne ever to recover the lead. The second half began with the Normalites showing more form in their playing, with the result that Wayne outplayed the Midland team in the second half by a 9 to 6 score. However, the obstacle erected by Midland's insurmountable score in the first half could not be overcome—and the contest ended 29 to 13, Midland holding the desired score.

The American army officer, chosen by the Chaldeans to present their appeal for independence to the council of allied premiers, reports that he has been unable to get a hearing for that ancient people. They made some attempt during the peace conference to obtain consideration, having heard that "self determination" was to be a guiding principle in the settlement of the world's affairs. Those at Versailles who had some familiarity with Biblical history may have recalled the Chaldeans, of course, but they failed to make an impression on minds surcharged with acute problems of twentieth-century statesmanship.

The Chaldeans, or Babylonians, however, may count on being better off than has been their lot for many centuries. They will get some benefit from the new era. Residing in northern Mesopotamia, which France now will control—the southern region being confided to Great Britain—they will be freed from their old oppressors, the Turks, and the French government has indicated a purpose to give them a measure of autonomy. The Chaldeans were once a warlike people, capable of demanding what they desired. More than 1,000,000 of them are now said to be dwelling in the region that will be redeemed from Turkey.

A TENTH GRADE BOY'S OPINION

The following essay was written by Charles Senter, a pupil in the tenth grade of the training school, on the subject, "What I Learned From the Project Work":

"In the short time our class has been working upon the project "Ten Tests of a Town" I have learned a great many things about the attractiveness, the progressiveness, the education, the people and the recreation of our town that I never knew before.

"For instance, it never occurred to me what a great benefit the State Normal School is to Wayne and what an advantage the school is to an individual who wishes to get an education. I also have received new ideas from the class, such as having a large park equipped with a swimming pool, tennis courts, baseball diamond and other things for amusement.

"Another good idea which a member of the class brought up was a dandelion campaign to rid Wayne of dandelions and make it a dandelionless town.

"So, as a whole, I think that the time I spent on the project work was well spent, and it proved to me that I did not know all about the town in which I live."

THE BEST

The very best pine tree in the grove No matter how small 'twould be, But the best from a standpoint of size and worth Is the kind that I would be.

And were I a bird, however small, A-winging my flight above, I should try to be best of all my flock Going forth on a mission of love.

For were I to "sluff" in my little task, 'Twould probably cause great strife; 'Twight arrest the progress of all who were Cogs in the machine of Life.

So the best is the kind that I will be No matter how small the task;

But seek, I will, always, to rise above Those who in laziness bask.

PRESENTS MANY AND VARIED

Gifts to British Bride Include Fur, Diamonds and Other Articles of Immense Value.

In England when a daughter of the nobility is married her wedding presents are costly as well as varied. The following list of gifts is clipped from the London Times notice of the approaching marriage of Mr. Cecil Brassey and Hon. Ivy Spencer.

A beaver fur coat from the Viscount Churchill to his daughter and a diamond and pearl pendant from the bridegroom; a gold cigarette case from her sister, Hon. Ursula Spencer; a diamond tiara from Lady Violet Brassey; an old antique bowl and spoon from the duke and duchess of Buccleuch; a feather fan from Viscountess Northcliffe; a diamond brooch from the duchess of Marlborough; a glass-top table from the speaker and Mrs. James Lowther; a pair of silver candlesticks from Hon. Lancelot and Mrs. Lowther; a pair of silver entree dishes from Hon. Victor Spencer; a Chinese bag from Lady Sarah Wilson; a large silver tray from the earl of Lonsdale; a pearl and diamond brooch from Sir Ernest Cassel; a set of dessert knives and forks from Mrs. Victor Spencer; two silver baskets from Lord and Lady Ludlow; a dessert service from Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Brassey, and a pair of silver salvers from Mr. Edwin Brassey.

First, do you need an introduction to me? If so, I am Clara Hart, stenographer and happiest girl in the world, just nineteen. Yesterday I could have said nineteen and never kissed, but today, well, typewriter, I'll tell you all about it. I've had several other places, but came here six months ago, and am the only girl in the business, the other employees being all men and boys, from the head down to Red the office boy. Of course my work was taking the letters of the Head, and occasionally ones from the rest, although they talk so slow that I can write them right off on you. The Head can rattle them off so fast that it keeps my pencil busy, trying to keep up. It's hard to tell you just what the Head looks like, for you aren't a girl with eyes in your head; just big and such a man! His eyes look right into yours, and woe is me if you ever tell even a tiny fib; but I never have.

A number of wedding presents received by the bridegroom include a silver kettle from the duke and duchess of Northumberland and a silver inkstand from the employees at Apartment hall.

Chaldeans Promised a Measure of Independence Under the Guiding Hand of France.

The Head began speaking in his usual rapid way, but it
