BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL

The basketball tournament held by the State Normal March 3rd, 4th and 5th marks one of the most successful ever staged in this part of the country. Already Wednesday night the contesting teams commenced arriving and when the Referee's whistle sounded, calling the first team into play Thursday night, sixteen of the twenty-five teams were in the gymnasium. The lower floor of the gymnasium was lined four and five deep, with cheering backers of the several schools and the balcony was packed with a crowd that responded time and time again to the call of the Normal Cheer Leader, Leslie Rundell.

The first game called was between the Tilden and Lyons teams. These two teams came into the game both confident of victory. Their seasons record had been marred by only three and four defeats and almost twenty scalps hung from their belts. The game was fast and clean from the start. Neither team had the advantage, but gradually the Tilden team crept into the lead and when the timekeepers whistle sounded the score marked 29 for Tilden and 22 for Lyons. Following this game the Stanton and Pierce teams circled the field and at eight thirty sharp the fur began to fly between these two blither aspirants for the honors of victory. The bright orange jerseys of the Stanton lads and dark blue of the Pierce made the teams easily distinguished and the great crowd soon took sides with either one or the other. This game had the crowd yelling at the top of their voices, cheering on two teams playing their best. The end came with the same shrill whistle from the timekeepers, the score board marked the result, Stanton 25 Pierce 17. The last game Thursday night was the hotly contested race between Crofton and Bloomfield. Possession of the ball seemed best with the Crofton quintet but once the Bloomfield five got their passing steadied down the counters crept up on their side of the score board. Ending with a final rush and a score of 27 to 17 in favor of Bloomfield.

Friday was one long string of games. Starting at nine o'clock with the arrival of new teams from the branch and the west, and the arrival of the teams from the south by auto. Long before the first game was called the old gym took on the familiar look of the night before. Coach Marston had every man of the Normal teams assigned some visiting team and with carefully arranged details, there was an utter lack of that uncertainty that so often spoils the visitors' impression. Every detail was working. The watching of the clock was all that the stranger had left for him. To the dressing room and then into your game. "Follow the program was the keynote." At nine o'clock the fast Wisner team sent the team from Winside scurrying to the west at the tune of 34 to 16. At ten the Howell midgets turned loose on Lynch with a series of passes and baskets that made the score keepers change the board almost continually. At 43 to 12 the end came. Nellig trounced Meadow Grove by the narrow margin of one score, at 27 to 26 and Butte repeated the narrow margin on Chambers with a 24 to 22 score. Wayne High came back hard and fast on their little neighbor Carroll and put the blue over the green with the counters at 21 to 9.

The class A games commenced at two o'clock with the spirited game of Hooper against Randolph but the southerners could not stem the awful rushes that the fast Randolph team charged against them. The unlucky 13 was their total against the Randolph 25.

Wausa now came into the battle against Tilden the winner of the Lyons game the night before but went down to defeat at 15 to 34.

Norfolk now appeared on the horizon, a speedy, classy bunch of red dressed boys, headed by the star man of the tournament, Best. They doubled the score of their Wakefield opponents 42 to 21.

The last game of the afternoon was the Stanton-Bloomfield in which the score never differed over four points. First one then the other, 21 to 20 and it looked as though the Time Keeper was reaching for his whistle when Bloomfield shot a basket that sent the crowd wild and the score to 22 to 21 as the game ended.

WAYNE WINS HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE

On the evening of March 3rd the local debating team met and defeated the Randolph team in a close debate by a two to one decision. Both teams did excellent work and showed that they had gone deeply into the question under discussion which was: Resolved, That the Literacy Test Restriction on Immigration Should be Repealed. Wayne was represented by Miss Ruth Ringland, Miss Cathryn Bohnert and Miss Lella Mitchell. Randolph by John Casteel, Kenneth Cook and Miss Gladys Buchanan. The winning of this debate places Wayne in the Final Debate with Oakland, for the Championship of the Northeastern District of Nebraska. In this final debate Wayne will support the Affirmative and Oakland the Negative. The debate will be held at Wayne some time in April.

DEATH OF MRS. E. L. JONES

Early Sunday morning from hernia which failed to yield to treatment, the medical aid was promptly given. Mrs. E. L. Jones passed away. Mr. Jones and family have been residents of this community for a number of years, and last year were on the James Perdue farm, but had just moved to a farm about six miles northwest of Wayne, near a farm they had rented two years before. She was a kind and loving mother and a splendid neighbor—a Christian woman held high in the esteem of all who knew her.

The funeral from the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon was largely attended by friends and neighbors, giving evidence in this manner as well as by a wealth of floral offering of their regard for one who had been taken as well as their sympathy for the members of the family on whom this loss falls most heavily.

Rev. Pratt, her pastor preached the sermon, and also gave the following short sketch of her life:

Mrs. Emma Leona Starr Jones was born in Jacksonville, Illinois, June 19, 1878, and died on March 6, 1921, at her home in Wayne county. She was 42 years, 8 months and 15 days old. Early in her life the family moved to Tabor, Iowa. When about 15 years of age she united with the Baptist church of Tabor, being baptised on May 15, 1893 and she has retained her membership in that church to the present. On March 6, 1895, she was married to Elwin Lewis Jones. Five children were born to this union, all of whom were boys and of whom four survive her. Her home knew her as a loving mother and wife, and an efficient home keeper; her neighbors as a true friend and ever ready helper in time of illness. There remain to mourn her loss, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Starr, of Tabor, Iowa, one brother, F. L. Starr, of Tabor, Iowa, one sister, Mrs. M. Probert, of Waterloo, Iowa, her husband and her four sons, Arno, of Wayne, Clarence of Carroll, Freeman and Earle. May her influence be perpetuated and her memory enshrined in the lives of these, her loved ones.

HIGH SCHOOL JUDGING CONTEST

The seventh annual state high school livestock judging contest will be held at the College of Agriculture at Lincoln April 2. The contest is staged jointly by the College and the State Department of Vocational Education and is open to all high schools. More than twenty schools took part last year and double this number will probably enter the contest this year. The two days immediately preceding the contest will be devoted to practice work on stock at the college. A large number of all kinds of stock will be available for the youthful judges to work on. The contest is staged annually to interest high school students in agriculture and livestock raising, and it gives a large amount of valuable training. High schools desiring further information should write C. W. Watson, Temple Building, Lincoln.

"THE FEAST OF THE RED CORN"

An American Indian Operetta will be given at the Opera House, March 22nd, by the High School Glee Club, assisted by members from the several grades of the school and by the High School orchestra. The Operetta gives in musical form the love, hate, fear and superstition of the Indian tribes of the Missouri valley. The choruses, solos and quaint Indian dances all portray the life of the tribes that have been supplanted by the white man. A small admission will be charged to pay for the costumes used and other expenses connected with the Operetta.

MATHEW B. STANTON DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Matthew B. Stanton, a junior in the college of dentistry, Creighton university, died at a local hospital Saturday afternoon, March 5, 1921, following a short illness of heart trouble. He was born at Wayne January 13, 1898 and was 23 years, 1 month and 15 days of age. His death occurred just one month after that of his mother, who died in an Omaha hospital, February 5, from the same disease.

Stanton is survived by his father, James, a pioneer resident of Carroll and three brothers and two sisters. He was a member of Delta Sigma Delta fraternity and a popular student in the dental college and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Funeral services will be this morning at 7 o'clock at the Heafey and Heafey undertaking parlors. The body will be shipped to Wayne for burial there Tuesday. Members of Delta Sigma Delta fraternity will escort the body to the train, and several of the members will accompany it to Wayne. The above from the Sunday World-Herald briefly tells of the sudden death of a Wayne county lad who was loved and respected by a large circle of friends. Death came while he was undergoing an operation for appendicitis, or at least before he rallied from the shock. His father had gone to him when news came that an operation was imperative, and was with him to the last.

The funeral at this place Tuesday forenoon was largely attended by relatives and friends of the family who shared with the doubly afflicted father and brothers and sisters the sorrow which came to them. Rev. Father Kearns administered the last rites and spoke such words of comfort as could be given on such a sad occasion.

NIORRARA PRESBYTERY CONVENE HERE

There was a short session of the Niobrara Presbytery of the Presbyterian churches of the district at Wayne Monday, called to consider the matter of officially dissolving the relations between this church and their pastor, Rev. John Beard. This was done, conditionally, and many are hoping that conditions will be such that the connection will not be severed. Rev. Beard left Gray's Harbor, where he was pastor, some years ago promising to return some time if called. The call came and he accepted upon release here, and tendered his resignation. Now comes the next chapter. The church officials board were not willing to let their pastor depart in peace, so they send an appeal to the church in Washington and implore them to release Rev. Beard that he may remain here. Thus the action Monday will be null and void, provided the people at Gray's Harbor release Rev. Beard.

Those from away attending the Presbytery were Revs. Lowe, of Norfolk, Orr, of Wakefield, Bray, of Pender; and Harper, of Laurel.

ULTRA-CHIC AND UNUSUAL PATTERN HATS

As the Easter season approaches my stock of pattern hats increases, that all ladies may have a large selection to choose that which is most becoming in shape, trimming and shade. There are numerous marked features in the hats for this spring to be seen at my place. Some with brims formed of feathers, flowers or fruits, while the crown may be straw or taffeta. We can furnish appropriate hats for the misses the young matron or the more elderly lady. I cannot give descriptions—but if you will come and see you will certainly be pleased. WAYNE COUNTY PEOPLE PICNIC IN CALIFORNIA

People have wondered that the census did not show a greater increase of population for Wayne and Wayne county last spring. They had been watching the incoming of good people, but perhaps did not stop to think, or realize the outgo. Few of us have been watching that part of the movement of people. We were surprised, and many readers will be to read the list of Wayne and Wayne county people who attended the picnic gotten up to gather them together in one spot—and not all Wayne people were there. F. E. Moses kindly remembers us and home friends with the following telling who were present; showing what a colony has come from us in the past few years to that one vicinity.

Many Wayne county people will remember with pleasure the annual picnic held at Brookside Park, Pasadena, California, March 3rd. The day was almost perfect and everyone reported having a pleasant time. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Feather, Mrs. W. M. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. HOLDUP PEOPLE—HAVE THEY BEEN HERE?

Saturday night G. W. Albert was called from his bed about midnight, by men in an automobile, who had driven into his yard and stopped their car so that the light shone directly upon the door at which one of the party asked admittance. Something in their appearance and attitude aroused suspicion, and this was increased when he tried to learn their mission, so he refused to open the door. Meantime from the car the spot-light was played upon the house, throwing light into the different windows and seeming to be especially interested in the upper part of the house where the boys were sleeping before awakened by the noise and the light. Failing to have the door opened the one at the door ran back to the car, and they immediately left. Mr. Albert said that he had no money or valuables to lose, but that he did not admit strangers at that hour who could not give a clear account of their reason for applying to get in.

CARD OF THANKS

We again wish to express our thanks and appreciation for the kind neighborly acts of friends who so freely gave aid and sympathy to us, and rich floral offerings in our hour of sorrow due to the death of son and brother, James Stanton and Family Mr. and Mrs. James Finn.

SONS GIVE PARENTS VERY HAPPY SURPRISE

(By Katherine Mitchell) Tuesday was the thirty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. George Crossland. Mr. Crossland was called away on a business trip and Mrs. Crossland spent the afternoon calling on friends. To the writer she mentioned the anniversary date, spoke of the fleeting of time. "Why, it seems but yesterday we had all our boys at home, yet thirty-five years is a long time, the boys, except Paul, are in homes of their own, and I must be growing old." The writer looked at the youthful face of the visitor tired perhaps, but alight with happy memories, and thought how nice it would be if everyone could grow old so gracefully.

The next day Mrs. Crossland again called on the writer. Her face glowed with happiness as she told of going home late Tuesday afternoon and finding in the sitting room, a beautiful new Victrola with twenty records, a gift from "the boys." Will, of Erie, Pennsylvania; Weldon, of Detroit, Michigan; Clement, of Chicago, Illinois; Paul, of Wayne. Better than the gift, however, was a letter from each son, breathing a message of love. It was indeed a glad surprise and one which will serve as a constant reminder of the loyalty and thoughtfulness of children, who though their lives and hopes and ambitions are lived in far away places, still appreciate the old home and the parents who, through love and sacrifice, gave them such abundant blessings.

ROLL HIGH SCHOOL DECLAMATORY CONTEST

Monday and Tuesday evenings a class of sixteen contestants for a place in the district oratorical contest, which is to be held at Emerson soon, participated in a contest at Carroll, eight numbers being given each evening. In addition to the selections given by the contestants a good additional program of music was given by the pupils and others, making two evenings of splendid entertainment. The judges were Miss Sewell, county superintendent, Miss Bigler, of the Wayne high school, and Mrs. McCandlish, of the college. The result of their markings gave places as follows: Dramatic class, Elma Carter first, and also first of all contestants and so the representative of the school at Emerson; second, Virginia Jones. Humorous class, Kenrick Mitchell first; Martin Drullner second. In the oratorical class Russell Jones was alone, and his production merited first place, tho he had no competitors.

WAYNE HIGH SCHOOL DECLAMATORY CONTEST

Last evening the orators of the school, thirteen in number, gave an excellent program while striving for the first award which made the winner representative of the school in the district contest at Emerson. This place was won by Alta Surber with Paul Bowen second and Bessie Hiseox third. Close rivals for the highest markings were Lella Mitchell and Irma Rennick, first and second in the humorous class. The judges were Miss Sewell, T. H. Britton and H. H. Hahn. A well filled auditorium applauded their efforts.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE

The invoice is being taken, and will soon be finished, the completion of which will mean the retirement of the Philleo & Harrington Lumber Co. from business. Wayne and placing a new management for this old yard, the Carhart Lumber Co. having purchased their fine new building, yard and commodious sheds to assume control of the business at the completion of the invoice. Mr. Fred Philleo of the old firm has been identified with this business constantly since 1887 when he with his father opened business here. While Mr. Harrington has been a member of the firm but about seven years, he was a business man of Wayne two years before the coming of his partner, and has been identified with Wayne and Wayne interests constantly since 1885. The Carharts have been Wayne citizens for five or six years, conducting a hardware business here and are aggressive and progressive business men, and experienced lumber dealers, having yards in some neighboring towns, and the addition of a yard at this place will be of much advantage to them.

PINN WITHDRAWS

Editor Nebraska Democrat: In your last week's issue of your paper you say that someone who has the good of the city of Wayne at heart is going to nominate me for Mayor at the coming caucus. Further state that I would have plenty of spare time to put in on the job. The facts are that in the past three years I have had plenty of spare time but from now on I expect to get back in the harness and cannot therefore entertain the proposition of being a candidate. Then again I would want to run on the wet ticket and don't think I would stand much of a show on that issue; therefore I am going to withdraw my name from the candidates and offer in substitution that of my old friend August Lohberg, and can recommend him highly and know that he will have plenty of time to devote to the job. Respectfully, Jim Finn.

National committeeman W. H. Thompson of Grand Island was in the city Tuesday on legal business and the Welles household enjoyed a visit from him. Mr. Thompson is one of the best loved of Nebraska's leaders—a man whose kindly ways and always optimistic make him a prime favorite.

Mr. Thompson doesn't permit the recent republican deluge to discourage him and he sees a return of happy democratic days ahead in Nebraska. Mr. Thompson says he regards the organized farmer's movement one of the most promising signs of the times. He regards the farmers as the most independent thinkers and the organized workers as the best informed voters and the amalgamation of the two, to him, spells a new and an enthused citizenship that will do away with the old apathy and indifference. He recalls the old Grange and Populist days and the intelligent interest farmers took in politics at that time and points out that Iowa's broad prosperity and until recent years political progressiveness was due entirely to the Granger movement which by reason of intelligent, just legislation gave equal rights and rates to all the towns thereby assisting them all to grow but none to a selfish size. Mr. Thompson is an anti-monopolist, a fundamental democrat and freed of the self-seeking politicians and those who care nothing for the party's principles he recognizes his party as more nearly the machinery of the common people than the republican party can ever be.—Norfolk Press.

Plain Facts AND Observations

In our opening announcement of the coming season business we wish to acquaint all of the people with a few obvious facts which observation will confirm. One of the first things to impress upon you is that now is none too early to make your selection of work for spring delivery—to have work completed and in place before the last of May.

During the past winter season we have spared no trouble or expense to be ready to serve you well and promptly at this time. We have completed the largest and best equipped factory in all Nebraska for cutting and handling the products of the quarry, taking the stone in the rough and producing a finished and polished product in any of the many late designs you might select as suitable to your needs.

We buy only the best of granites and marbles. We buy in car lots, and ship in the rough at a great saving of freight over the freight cost of the finished product, which has a high freight classification. We are equipped to handle and finish this material in the most economical way. Our factory right at the track eliminates heavy drayage in unloading and loading to ship out the finished product. Our great traveling cranes pick up great stones and place them where desired without loss of time or energy. Our cutting and polishing equipment is of the latest and best to produce the maximum amount of work with the minimum effort. In fact, we have neglected no detail to provide good service, which includes a stock of the best and most popular granites known such as in light dark and medium shades. From these quarries comes perhaps the best grade of granite, and called "Rock of Ages." (This is the material selected for the magnificent Roosevelt Memorial, to which nearly every one in this community has contributed.)

We have the best grades of Wisconsin and Minnesota Granites so well known, in their many shades, such as Mahogany, Minnesota Pink, Sunset Red, Red St. Cloud, Gray St. Cloud, Red Wausa, Pike River and other well-known granites.

In addition to our new factory and big stock at Wayne, we have just purchased the business of the late Mr. Nielsen and Sons at Norfolk, and are using it and their stock in connection with our business here, making a second distributing point and show room convenient to a large part of our field.

Of finished markers, corner posts and small jobs for little ones who have been called home we carry a varied assortment of the very best to be obtained.

We solicit you to visit our places of work, see every detail of our equipment which is at your service, and the hundreds of finished designs ready for lettering. In no other way can one be so well satisfied that they are selecting that which will please best in design, finish, color and QUALITY.

There is trouble brewing in Dixon county over the use of the grading and road dragging equipment. Supervisor Bagley of Allen was at Wakefield last week and took all grading machinery to Allen. Bagley claimed that those employed to run the equipment in the south end of the county had quit work, and hence he took the equipment. This the employees say is not so, and that they were working all of the time that the weather and road conditions permitted. Emerson and Wakefield people are sending a committee to Ponca to present their side of the case to the board at their meeting this week.

THE NEW PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

In an editorial in the World-Herald, Editor Harvey Newbranch nicely analyzes the pleasing inaugural address of the president. It is so good that we are cutting quite a slice of the editorial for our readers.

Recent press dispatches had indicated that President Harding gave little attention to the preparation of his inaugural address till after he had disposed of the bothersome problem of cabinet appointments. A reading of the address, now it is before us, tends to strengthen that conjecture. It is eloquent in the president's familiar style. It is more rhapsodical than analytical or syncretical. But its rhapsody is peculiar in that it is balanced, restrained, qualified. It is not the rhapsody of a man ready to tear loose in the good old campmeeting fashion, dead sure of his premises, reasons, conclusions, but rather of one who feels, properly and naturally and properly enough, that he should be a little careful even in the handling of glowing periods that deal with normally safe and conventional generalizations. Even the cursory reader will not fail to notice and be impressed by the balance of thought and structure. Seldom, indeed, have our most practiced and wary statesmen succeeded in evolving an important pronouncement so replete with the suggestion of but, however, nevertheless, notwithstanding, and on the other hand. The fact pays tribute to the president's bump of caution. And it carries to the country the reassuring thought that he means to do some more thinking in his own mind and vicariously in the minds of his advisers, before he ventures on more definite and binding commitments. President Harding, apparently, is not going to burn his bridges until he has opened, or at least surveyed, the road forward, and in this conclusion, if he has indeed reached it, we can all applaud him.

We venture this analysis of the inaugural address not by way of criticism but of explanation. In its light readers may be enabled to escape the obscuring clouds in which otherwise they might become involved.

An example or two may be helpful. President Harding takes his stand, apparently, on the doctrine of "the inherited policy of non-involvement in world affairs" at a time when we are involved in them to our ears and can't get out. He is "confident of our ability to work out our own destiny," and declares that "jealously guarding our right to do so we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world." He is sure "we do not mean

Read The Following Testimonial

Newcastle, Neb., Jan. 22, 1920.

To Whom It May Concern:

Little Harold Pfister, aged 22 months, became seriously ill on October 18, 1920.

The family physician was summoned, who gave him every attention for seven days, the child gradually growing worse, and becoming wholly unconscious. A second physician was called from Sioux City in consultation. They agreed that the condition was very serious.

The last doctor who was called said cholera infantum and also said look for the worst. The attending nurse said he would not live three hours longer.

In this almost hopeless moment, a brother suggested as a last resort the chiropractors of Wayne, Neb.

In two hours Lewis & Lewis, chiropractors, were at the bedside of the little sufferer, who to all appearances was very nearly a corpse. Improvement became evident, and continued. Harold had a fever of 104 2-10. He fully recovered after twelve adjustments without the aid of any drugs whatever, and is today in a perfect state of health with every faculty 100 per cent.

This we consider a "Twentieth Century Miracle," and cannot speak too highly or recommend too strongly the science of chiropractic, or the work and skill of Lewis & Lewis, chiropractors, of Wayne, Neb.

Any further desired information will be cheerfully given by his grateful and happy parents.

to be entangled." Nevertheless— "We recognize the new order in the world, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the feeling of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation." But— "America can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations, or subject our decisions to any other but our own authority." However— "We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part. We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world for conference, for counsel. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration." On The One Hand— "We are eager to help lessen the probability of war and promote the brotherhood of mankind." And On The Other Hand— "If war is again forced upon us, we must 'consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national defense. I can envision the ideal republic, where every man and woman is called under the flag for assignment to duty.'" Equally, on the subject of world commerce the president preserves his careful equipoise, as for instance: "We understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy and none may receive except as he gives." But— "There is a luring fallacy in the theory of banished barriers of trade. We must adjust our tariffs"—higher. However— "We know full well we cannot sell where we do not buy." Nevertheless— "We must concentrate our efforts and energies on the building up of 'a surpassing home market.'" It is clear from these examples, we think, that the command "Forward!" has not yet been given. The republic is left to mark time for a while until the president and his advisers decide in what direction forward lies. Haste is to be made slowly, and that is just as well. In fact it is much better than that. Considering the haste that has been made in wrong directions in the last year or two, since the leadership of Wilson was rejected, this is a very good time to pause and take our bearings.

FARM LEASE WITH SAFEGUARD
An owner doesn't have to see a boiler explosion to know what may happen if he ties his safety valve down. A glance at the variations in the market price of farm produce for the last year ought to warn the tenant farmer and his landlord as to what may happen to their business if they tie themselves down to a rigid farm-lease contract this spring. No one knows what abrupt changes may be in store for the produce market during the coming year, and in order to avoid serious friction and misunderstanding between landlord and tenant it is important to provide the lease contract with a clause that will adjust the rent to the market value of the produce grown on the farm. Before putting his name on the dotted line the farmer, and his landlord, too, should look over the stock of financial safety valves offered by the Office of Farm Management and Farm Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

The Basis of Share Rent
If the landlord is willing to accept the responsibility of marketing his share of the farm produce the lease may be drawn on the share rent basis. By its provisions the rent is paid in so many pounds of cotton, so many bushels of corn or wheat, or other produce, for each acre rented. In other words, the landlord receives his rent in a certain percentage of the crop without relation to what the market price of the product may be. The rent is settled in terms of bushels and pounds rather than in dollars. Profits or losses from price fluctuations are shared under this system. If, however, the landlord can not accept his rent in produce, or if any other reason makes it advisable that the rent be paid in cash, the compensating device may be applied by means of a sliding-scale amendment. For example, a rent of $9 an acre might be rebated to $7 if the price of the main crop fell 20 cents a unit, or raised to $11 if the price went up 20 cents above the basic price agreed upon. If a very fine adjustment is sought a percentage system can be used in this scale so that the rent is changed by as many per cent as the price of the crop has risen or fallen between the date of the contract and the date of settlement.

Col. Harvey, the newspapers say, is slated to be ambassador to England. This is perhaps the best post in the gift of the president and naturally as a newspaper man he might think it belonged to another newspaper man. As newspaper men are in it this administration—perhaps, if we are built right politically and otherwise.

"Trade continues to drift," says a sentence in the daily press. Cotton down a little, grain and livestock showing slight advances. It is inability to buy that counts more perhaps than a desire to purchase. The need is there, the supply not too great, but the pay not to be found by those who most need the products.

The packers have given their employees notice that beginning the 14th they will cut the wage price of employees one eighth. They have already cut the price of live stock fifty per cent or more. Is it too much to hope that they will cut the price of their finished product the next time they get the knife out, and that it will be soon?

Some people, we are told; and some have told us, that we must not use their name in connection with the coming election as candidates for the office of Mayor. Well, this is a free country, and the fact that a man shakes his fist under the editor's nose should not deter him from using the paper for the good of the community, as he sees it. If the people want a man for mayor, we have a right to print his name in connection with the statement. That gives one a chance to decline, if he needs to. We honestly believe that the people generally should take more interest in who is to serve them—before the nomination as well as after.

Now : at Warren G. Harding is president, and the republican party in control of both branches of congress, with no Wilson with a veto power as an excuse for not giving results, is it too much to hope that they will at least pass some needed legislation that they pledged to do two years ago when given a majority in both houses of congress? It was theirs to do—but they did not move. They were responsible for the initiative in affairs, but did not put up to the president their promised plans of tax reduction and other measures asked for and promised. Let us hope that they will now do something good. But they should be careful as to their tariff legislation, for they will now have no democratic president to save the people from such unjust taxation, in favor of the classes as that tariff bill pulled from the laws of other days, into which it was their purpose to breathe the breath of life. We want a new tariff if any—a birth, not a resurrection of a dead law—a law that was a stench even before it was dead.

SOCIAL NOTES

The Helping Hand society met Thursday, March 3rd, at the home of Mrs. James Grier, when the ladies and their husbands were invited. A three course dinner was served to thirty guests. After the regular business meeting they had a program with Mrs. Claude Terrin as social leader. There was a song, and reading of the inauguration of the president, by Mrs. Claude Terrin. There was a happy gathering of a half dozen little men at the Boyd Saturday afternoon when a party was given to Master James Gansko. Under care of Master James Hot, who acted as chaperon, the little ones attended the movie show, and took it all in. Returning home they were permitted to play for an hour or more many juvenile games, after which a fine luncheon was served. Easter decorations were used, and the place cards were little rabbits. Sandwiches, ice cream and cake and assorted cookies made an ample feast for the lads, and closed an afternoon they will not soon forget.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Robert Mellor Monday afternoon. In response to roll call current events were given. Mrs. A. A. Welch gave a review of some of the plays she had seen, "The Inside of the Cup" and "The Sign of the Door." Mrs. A. B. While the clouds for the shower were gathering the bride was married at Sioux City—but the shower could not be postponed, and the young ladies gathered at the new home of their president at the time the shower was due to fall, and spent a social hour with both bride and groom, extending congratulations to both over the happy event.

Easter Draws Near

Two weeks from Sunday you will want your Spring costume to be complete.

Are you planning on a new Suit, Coat or Dress—or all three? Or would you like to have a look-at-the new garment styles before trying to make up your mind—and try on some of them to see what really becomes you best?

We will be glad to have you come and see what the new styles are like. We have an especially large stock at this time—and will welcome an opportunity to show our fine display of Coats, Suits, Dresses and Skirts.

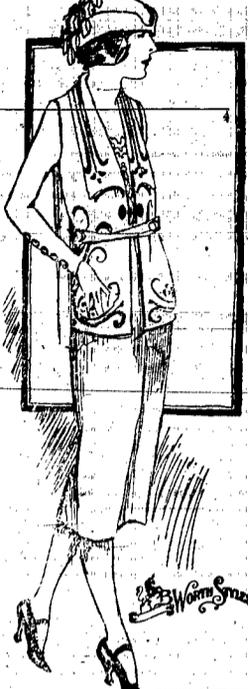

Our Suit Display Now at Its Best

Welcome Price Reductions

John and Arthur are both on the road now, giving special suit sales. Express shipments of new suits which we send out to them every day for these sales are coming to our store from New York, Cleveland, Chicago, Cincinnati and Toledo on almost every train. We have had twelve shipments so far this week. All these garments are unpacked here and you have a chance to choose from them before they go out. You will see more suits here within the next few weeks than you would find in a large city store, as we have sixty towns to provide for.

If you have suit on your mind, now is the time to come, while the suit season is at its best.

Prices are very much lower. Good all wool suits of serge and tricotine, nice styles and nicely tailored are priced low as $27.50. We could get even cheaper suits but our customers wouldn't want them. They look nice in a book or in a show window, but when you get a good look at the cloth and the making and see them tried on you know that Wayne women folks wouldn't have them. But $27.50 will buy a nice suit; $35 to $40 will buy a finer suit, finer material, more trimming, better lining and more elaborately styled, $50 to $60 buys our very best. But whatever suit you choose will have our guarantee of all wool material, good service and very best style. We sell suits in quantities that secure for us the lowest prices of the best eastern factories.

SPRING OXFORDS ARE HERE

We can fit you now in brown or black, kid or calf oxfords—either Louis or Military heels.

Prices are reasonable for good, dependable shoes. We never tried so hard to get shoes at lower prices as we have this spring. Shoes are largely labor and labor still demands good pay. But we did find a reasonable lowering in prices and we stuck to our plan of buying good leather shoes no matter what the price. We have good shoes for you at $6.00 to $9.75

New Materials For Spring Sewing

Silks Satins Voiles

All the favored materials suitable for your best dresses and blouses are now on display. Foulards are always a great favorite for spring and summer dresses and we are showing a number of very attractive patterns in this handsome silk. We bought no two patterns alike, so you can have an individual dress style if you choose from our stock.

The new taffetas, satins and voiles are arriving just in nice time to allow you to get your new dress made up for Easter.

The improved McCall patterns with full directions for cutting and putting together printed right on the pattern—pieces will make your sewing easier and surer. The April styles are just in.

Ginghams Longcloth

A Special Value

Here is a real bargain in a fine longcloth suitable for dozens of purposes. Just a right weight for gowns, teddys, etc. We got ten pieces at a very special price and are putting them on sale at an equal reduction.

We took particular care in picking out the gingham this spring to get patterns and qualities suitable for all the different purposes for which gingham are used. For children's play suits and dresses we have Devonshire cloth that can be boiled and boiled without losing color. The patterns are real children's patterns in this cloth excepting four or five which we thought would be fine for house dresses. There are gingham for house dresses, for school dresses, for petticoats, for waists, for shirts; all qualities and all colors. Priced very reasonably

Home Goods For Spring Uses

Cheery Cretonnes and Dainty Curtain Nets

Come in and let us show you pretty new materials and new ways for draping your windows this spring.

We have made a study of the correct materials for these purposes and have in stock of materials for carrying out the latest ideas.

Panel nets are to gain in popularity and we are prepared for the increased demand with several new patterns.

Cretonnes are in greater favor than ever and for this season we have added some imported patterns that are especially fine.

Children's Shoes Moderately Priced

Of all the lines of goods we buy not a one has been so hard to get this spring at reduced prices as Children's Shoes. With leather lower priced, and so many other things we buy lower priced, it seemed to us that children's shoes should come in for a good big cut. But we ran square into the labor question—labor makes the price of shoes, they say, and when you think about it, that looks reasonable. There is not any great amount of leather in one pair of shoes—it is almost all work. And labor still gets good wages. We tried several shoe factories and by the best bargaining we were capable of, we have managed to get together a spring stock of children's shoes at about a 25 per cent to 33 1/3 per cent lowering in price.

We have shoes for you at $2.35, $3.50 and $4.25 according to size. And remember they are good shoes. We could get paper shoes as cheap as anybody but we buy good shoes only—the kind we can make good if they don't give good service. We know how to fit children's shoes, too, and will give your boys and girls the same careful attention you would get.

King Nut Margerine

Always good, always in demand—one of the most staple items we sell. Not a butter substitute but sells on its own merits. King Nut is always fresh and uniform. A guarantee slip in every carton—if it fails to please in every particular sign and return to us and receive full purchase price. 3 pounds for $1.00.

Chick Food

Just received a fresh shipment. 10 lbs. for 35c.

We also handle Full-O-Pep Chick Feed. This is different from usual chick foods. It costs more, but results are assured.

Ladies Auxillary to the American Legion to be organized at a meeting at the City Hall on Wednesday evening, March 16th, at eight o'clock. Those who are eligible for membership in the Ladies Auxillary are—Mother, wife, sisters, and daughters of men who served in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps during the late World War. All those who are eligible are invited to be present at this meeting.

J. A. Mace, of Omaha, representing the Samaritan, Rescue Army, which has an organization or headquarters in that city was a Wayne visitor Tuesday soliciting for the worthy work of that band. He seems to be bashful afraid to go to the people and ask them to take his word unsupported that he is what he says he is—and that the organization is what he claims for it. So he first goes to the proper authority—in this place it was Secretary Cavanaugh, of the Commercial club, and presented his credentials, invited investigation as to their reliability, and was given a statement to that effect signed by one we all know or could easily reach by telephone. Mr. Mace tells us that in his work he is constantly coming to the trail of a solicitor working without any authority from those who have a standing. They gather in contributions, and no one knows what use it is put to. People should not feel that they are called upon to give to these unknown solicitors. If their cause is worthy they may easily prove it.

B. F. Stevenson, from Omaha, was here the first of the week on his way to Sholes to attend a meeting of the officials of the Wayne County Bank at that place and also a meeting of the stockholders of the Root Investment Co. in both of which he is interested as a share holder. He said that the investment company decided to sell their building, the bank occupying the lower floor, and a public hall above, to the highest bidder, bids to be received for the next thirty days. Since leaving Sholes Mr. Stevenson has been engaged in the sale of lands for the Great Northern Development association, mostly offering farm lands in North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana. He tells us that that country has had a fine winter, and that farmers there are already beginning spring work. They frequently sow wheat there as early as earlier than here, not waiting for the frost to be all from the ground, for their soil is not as moist as here, and days when two to four inches thaws it is frequently dry enough for a seed-er to work, and as they put in much small grain they do not let such a day pass unused.

Judge Graves seems to have a conception of a grave offence against law and order, and also what is adequate punishment. He sentenced Bartlett and Lamson, accused of running an automobile from Fremont to Rosalie without knowledge, or consent of the owner, to 90 days in jail, with a bread and water diet only for the first and last ten days of the term. Then for good measure a fine of $100 was assessed. A few such sentences will make an impression on the joy riders.

BEATING THE LAWYERS

The Mid-West Veteran is a new paper on our desk, but not a new publication, as the issue we received is Volume 2, Number 4. It is published at Lincoln, and as its name implies it is devoted to the cause of the soldiers of the late war first, last and all of the time; yet disclaiming any move that in standing by the soldier lads they would in any manner wish to interfere with the best interests of the rest of the community. BETTER DEAD

Life is a burden when the body is racked with pain. Everything worries and the victim becomes despondent and downhearted. To bring back the sunshine take

JUST HOGS

The raising of pork is one of the very important industries in the county, and to do this successfully is to make it an item of profit rather than loss—and even though the prices rule low just now, it is not because of over-production, we are assured, but rather because of under consumption and the ability to pay for what the people of the world will want when they acquire the price. The following are pointers from R. E. Blackburn, of Columbus, and might well be heeded:

There are at least four very essential points to successfully raising hogs, besides having good stock. These are:

Sanitation—Disinfect with absolute thoroughness.

Cleanliness—This means a good floor in the house; frequent change of bedding; keep down the dust; keep with absolutely out.

Keep out all drafts. Ventilate without having drafts, especially on the floor.

Proper feeding—Corn alone is no better for a hog than bread alone is for a man. Balance the ration with some form of protein, and supply plenty of minerals. Don't overfeed a brood sow. Sows with pigs need protein and alfalfa will not supply enough by itself. They need minerals, ashes from wood, charred cobs, or other form of lime and charcoal.

Sanitation is probably the most neglected side of hog raising. Because a hog roots in the ground and gets his feet in the trough, he is a dirty animal. If allowed the chance, he is about the cleanest of farm animals. Give him the chance.

Everyone cannot have concrete floors in their hog houses, but everyone that can, should. Everyone can have plenty of sunlight and a board floor at least. This is a great improvement over a dirt floor although not nearly as good as the concrete. You cannot disinfect a dirt floor, don't try. A dirt floor may be dug up hauled out, and a new dirt hauled in, but it cannot be disinfected.

Given a floor do not try to disinfect with ordinary stock dip. You can't get it off with plain water. Lipoform disinfectant can be had at $2.25 a gallon or less in larger amounts, and is a very disinfectant when used one part to twenty of water. The whole inside must be thoroughly gone over. Dirt settles on the roof as well as the floor. Disease germs are carried in dust and live in dirt. Every crack and part of the inside must be wet with the disinfecting solution to get results. There is no other way.

The worst hog disease we have is spread from year to year by unclean houses that have not been disinfected, or have had a little water with dip in thrown around and called disinfection. It is not! Remember diseases of hogs are caused often by an organism, call it germ or whatever you please, that is so small it must be magnified from 50,000 to 100,000 times to be seen at all. Takes the most powerful of our microscopes. Millions can rest on the point of a needle. To get them all, there can be but one way, do your work thoroughly.

A spray pump is necessary, a bucket type is all right. But it should have three times the usual amount of hose in order to reach the higher parts of the house. Any nozzle that makes a fine mist of a spray is all right. To be sure, go over the house twice at ten-day intervals.

It takes time, and costs a little, but if only 5 per cent of the pigs are saved, it pays. Often as many as 80 per cent of the pigs can be saved, that would otherwise be lost. Disease will put some of our farmers out of the hog business unless they get busy and get their premises cleaned up. It will also be spread to farms that are not now infected. It is worse than cholera, and no one can afford to fool with it. Act quickly but be sure you are thorough. Assistance given to the limit of our time.

The following poem, written by "One who knows" is dedicated to the workers, past, present and future, of the Wayne Normal dining hall force, and particularly to "arry."

My verse is not of hidden pools,
With banks of moss and green,
Where speckled trout dart back and forth
By mortals seldom seen.

No do I chant of rivers broad,
Whose swift, resistless tide
Flows on, unchecked, with mighty sweep
To join the ocean tide—

'Tis not of Neptune's haunts I sing,
The great untraveled sea,
Which carries on its mighty waves
Rich gifts to you and me—

But in a bowl of porcelain,
A mess of luke warm water,
Is deftly splashed, now right, now left,
Mid sounds of youthful laughter.

And dishes—heavy, broad and white,
Are being pushed around,
Covered with tears shed in their fright,
From suffering many a wound.

Pieces of verse and porcelain,
Babbings about equations,
Jibes and jests and sayings wise,
Whirl past in close relation.

But from the kitchen low and broad,
Nebraska's sons and daughters
Go forth to tread life's various roads
And fight life's bloodless battles—

But prepared in mind and heart
Because of merry ways
And doing humble, daily tasks
In Wayne State Normal days.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA.

O. C. Lewis, Plaintiff vs. Carl F. M. Clasen, Phebe J. Clasen, Defendants. Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an order of sale, issued by the Clerk of the District Court of Wayne county, Nebraska, upon a decree rendered in said court, in favor of O. C. ALUMNI REGISTER TO BE COMPILED

An alumni directory and register is being prepared by the office to be sent to all graduates of the school sometime this spring. This register will include a complete alphabetical list of alumni, beginning with the class of 1911, and the present address and occupation will be given.

In order to make the compilation more exact and efficient, letters were sent out last week soliciting the aid of alumni members. Many replies have been received and more are expected.

CITY HAS NO RUNNING WATER

Vladivostok, Political Capital of the Far East, Lacks What Americans Consider Essential.

A city with some 30,000 inhabitants and no running water—such is Vladivostok, as described by Phil Norton in the columns of Travel. Nor is this lack of an everyday convenience made less pressing by the fact that Vladivostok jumped from a population of about 90,000 people, without adding to the number of houses. The Manchu water vender, with his hogshead mounted on two wheels and drawn by sturdy, thick-coated Siberian horses, takes the place of pipes and faucets, filling his hogshead at a shallow well in some private or public yard, and retailing the commodity at the rate of two buckets a day for a month, for about $2 in American money. He carries the buckets at the end of a pole over his shoulder. If one can manage to live in reasonable comfort in Vladivostok, a coolie boy can be procured to bring water to one's room, and heat it in the kitchen. Or again, if the water vender has failed to arrive, the coolie boy will gather snow and melt it, and there is one's morning bath. If one wants more generous ablution one goes to the public baths; and if one wants a drink of water one thoroughly boils the merchandise of the water vender before drinking it. And this city of the primitive water supply is now the political capital of the far east.

WILLING TO SWIM ACROSS

Ocean Couldn't Be Damper Than Alice, Was the Assertion Made by Negro Yank.

We wanted to watch the negro troops defile, according to Edith O'Shaughnessy in "Alsace in Rust and Gold." They appeared very smartly dressed till the eye got to their feet. Such a collection of ripped, torn, cut, down-at-the-heel footwear was never seen before. I spoke to a couple of them very much en repos, who were leaning against a fence near the motor, as I got in.

One answered with a broad grin: "You an American from America?"

"Yes."

"Well, have you heard this here war's about oveh?"

The coolest-black one then contributed this to the conversation: "When peace is signed dis here nigger stahs to walk home."

"What about the ocean?"

"I'll take a swim, lady. The water can't be no coldeh and no dampeh dan dis here 'Alice' land."

The mulatto by his side said: "I subscribes," and became a pale gray at the bare idea of getting colder or damper.

Venice Art Being Restored.

Now that the war is over and Venice has recovered from the nightmare of having her wealth of art destroyed by shell fire, or worse still, looted by soldiers, one by one her treasures from underground cellars or distant galleries are being returned to their places. One of her most admired possessions, however, Titian's "Assumption of the Virgin," which is counted among the seven great masterpieces in the world, the pride of the Venetian Academy of Fine Arts, has been returned, not to the gallery, but to its original home in the choir of the beautiful gothic Church of the Frat, for which it was painted by Titian in 1516.

The magnificent frame of carved marble originally built round it now shows off the glorious picture to advantage and the Venetians are delighted that it should be restored to the position where its donors and the great genius who composed it intended it to remain.

Embarrassing Situation.

I have been teaching at the same place for fifteen years, have a family and up to a short time ago was considered respectable, but my most embarrassing moment also, greatly lowered my standing in this town.

At recess, when all the pupils had gone to the recreation room and I sat alone at my desk, one of the young lady teachers came in and, after making me swear to keep her secret until the close of the school year, told me she had married my cousin the day before, and now that we were cousins she wanted me to kiss the bride.

She was very pretty and I needed no second invitation. But as I lifted my head after giving her a resounding smack, there stood our superintendent in the doorway, and I sworn to secrecy, could not explain.—Exchange.

The Good Heckler.

Elihu Root said at a New York luncheon:

"I like to attend some radical meetings on account of the heckling that goes on at them. Hecklers are much cleverer than the speakers as a rule."

"A radical orator was being heckled the other evening by a broad-shouldered lad in a brown cap. The orator got the worst of it, and he lost his temper. Finally he said in a voice of rage and hatred:

"Take off your cap, young man, if you want to question me!"

"Take off your cap!" yelled the orator's supporters on the platform.

"But the broad-shouldered youth grinned and shouted:

"I didn't take off me cap when I went over the top!"

VILLAGE OVERRUN BY DOGS

Housewives of Silver Lake, New York, Had to Guard Kitchens From the Hungry Animals.

The hamlet of Silver Lake, on the outskirts of White Plains, N. Y., is all "het" up because of the large number of dogs that have migrated to that section, according to the New York Evening Sun. In the daytime they forage through the town and at night they make sleep impossible by their howling.

Silver Lake has a population of about 500 persons, and it is said that there are 141 dogs, one lap poodle and half a dozen hounds by actual count.

A staid old resident says that there is every kind of a dog imaginable in Silver Lake—small ones, big ones, short ones, long ones, dogs with no tail and one eye, lean ones and fat ones, but mostly lean ones.

This great influx of dogs to Silver Lake has created many nuisances. In fact, the housewives don't dare leave their kitchen doors unlocked or half a dozen hungry mutts will be roaming around trying to find something to eat. The story is told of how one woman baked a raisin pie for supper for her husband. She left it on the kitchen table to cool while she went about her household duties. A little later she heard a great commotion, and when she went to the kitchen she found half a dozen hungry canines, big and little, fighting for the last raisin of her pie. She struck them with a broom, but that did not do any good, because they had her pie.

ENGLISH TERMS ARE ADOPTED

French Take Kindly to a Number of Expressions That They Learned During the War.

We all know what an army of French words has billeted itself permanently upon the English language. Not so many of us think of the interchange of prisoners, so to speak, between French and English, of the numerous English words naturalized in France. In sport, of course, this English contingent was to be expected. "Champion," "ring," "knockout," "coming man," "singles," "football," "touring club," "skating rink"—long is the list of such English words in French. Even the French labor dialect has suffered some English infusions—"trade union," "lockout," "leaders." There is even the lovely verb "lockout-er."

"Whisky" and "pale ale" and other exported names of sin must mostly remain unmentionable here.

The war has introduced "boy scouts," hardly to be recognized in its French pronunciation, "scouts," "tanks" and "nurses" are familiar words in contemporary French. At a theater or railroad office you are almost as likely to get a "ticket" as a "billet."

"On the golf links" wrote an English collector of French Anglicisms last year, "one may hear 'Tel droppe une halle,' instead of the clumsy 'laisse tomber.' 'Lavatory' has suffered a sea change. In Paris it means a barber shop where you can get a shampoo.

Get Busy!

Real development lies in arousing the potential worth that has been lying dormant in your character. The first step is in starting something that will challenge the whole being to activity. Many a man does not feel equal to the tasks of the day. But circumstances are such that he has to make the start. The first few strokes of the pencil may not mean much, but the fact that he starts something arouses him to keener thinking, and before long he may be doing his best work. And each idea begets another until the fellow is aroused to full capacity. Yes, and there are occasions when the very stress of necessity makes a man rise to the "superman" that lies within each of God's creatures waiting the challenge worthy of it.—Grit.

This Old Earth.

In a recent lecture Sir Oliver Lodge, the eminent English scientist who is now visiting America, announced that the earth would probably continue to exist for 20,000,000 years more. These are, of course, round numbers. Some scientists estimate that the earth will live for ten times this age. There have been animals of one kind and another on this planet for fully this length of time. The dinosaurs are believed to have lived through some such period. The age of man, which is probably only a few thousand years, seems the merest trifle by comparison. When we consider how man has developed during recorded history, which is less than ten thousand years, we may hope that he will evolve to an infinitely finer type in the future.—Boys' Life.

Keeping Warm With Games.

Games were never so popular as now in country houses, and the reason is not far to seek. Living rooms are not heated as they were in the good old times, and guests, young and old, vote for games because they are warming. There isn't a better game of ball than "Aves," known in the days of Queen Elizabeth and declared by her to be "the best sport she had ever seen."—The Gentlewoman.

Coal in Mexico.

The only state in Mexico producing coal is Coahuila. Normal production is about 600,000 tons a year, but at present only about half that quantity is obtained and none is exported. The shortage is supplied from the United States. Coal is not needed for heating purposes and charcoal is used for cooking.

"What are the middle ages?"

"Why, the middle ages, my boy, are the ones which, when the women reach, they stop counting."—Yonkers Statesman.

A Possible Trouble.

Buggins—Maybe the trouble is he doesn't know when to let go.

HUMOR OF BOYS

"MY next door neighbor has a boy who is going to get into trouble if he doesn't reform," said the retired merchant. "He's always playing idiotic tricks on me, and I'm getting tired of it. This morning, as I was leaving home, I found my front gate nailed shut, and I had to climb over it, and nearly broke my back doing it."

"I wouldn't give three cents for a boy who didn't play tricks," replied the hotel-keeper. "I expect you were as giddy as the rest of them when you were young. Whenever a boy puts up a job on me, and I feel myself getting mad, I recall some of my own exploits when I was a lad, and that enables me to forget my troubles."

"I was looking through an ancient album last evening, and saw the pictures of a lot of people who fell off the earth many years ago. They were venerable men and women in my schooldays, and I had played tricks on every one of them; not with malice aforethought, but just because a kid must have his fun."

"There was a picture of old Aunt Betsy, who used to come to our house once in a while, on a visit, and as soon as she came she took charge of everything. She knew how to do things better than anybody else, and she was always criticizing my mother's methods. Whenever mother started to do anything, Aunt Betsy would take the job out of her hands, saying she would show the right way to do it."

"I had heard somewhere that if you put a drop or two of acetic acid in a gallon of cream, that cream will never make butter. I had a great memory for such facts, and kept them on file where they would be useful. One morning mother said she would have to churn, and she got things ready. I knew that as soon as she started Aunt Betsy would want to show her how it should be done, so when I had a chance, I dropped some of the acid into the churn, which was one of those old upright affairs, with a dash that you worked up and down until the butter came."

"Mother seated herself on a stool and began churning, and then Aunt Betsy came along, and said that while she was a modest and unassuming woman, she did claim to know a little more about churning than anybody of her weight in that part of the country. 'Let me do it, my dear,' said she, 'and I'll have butter in seven minutes by the clock.' So she took hold of the dasher and began slapping away with it. She worked and worked, and the sweat began rolling down her face, and every once in a while she'd lift the lid of the churn to see what all the doggone cream, and then she'd pour in some cold water, and then some hot water, and the more she wrestled away, the less sign of butter was there."

"She whanged away at that ding-busted churn for two hours and couldn't get results, and she was so mad and disgusted over it she wanted to pack her trunk and go back home. Mother saw me rolling around in the yard all doubled up with unholy mirth, and she realized at once, by deductive reasoning, that I was responsible, and the licking I got that evening took the edge off my sense of humor for three weeks."

"Another time, Uncle James was visiting us. He used to sit in a rustic chair under an apple tree and doze after dinner. He had a bald head, and his hair always slid off after he had dozed a few times. One day I sneaked up behind him with a feather and began tickling his head. He'd slap his dome of thought and edess a little, and then doze again. When I would get busy with the feather. That went on for quite a while, and I was having the time of my life. I never heard any language more highly colored than Uncle James put up."

"My mother heard him saying things, and came to the door and asked him what was the matter, and he said a ding-donged lopsided fly was chewing his scalp off. He had chased it away three million times, but it always came back. I got another licking that night, and my mind was occupied with serious things for a month."

Uncle Walt's Story

When the soviet government took control in the Urals, writes French Strother in the World's Work, the workmen at Kyshtim organized their soviet. They waited on the American staff at the mines and said they were sorry, but a new day had dawned, in which the workers would be able to own and operate everything themselves. Regrettably, because they liked them, they would have to send their American friends away. The day of their departure arrived and the workmen and their wives and children escorted the staff, as a guard of honor, to a special train which they had provided to take them away from Kyshtim. The train was decked with flags and loaded with flowers and delicacies. Just as it was about to pull out, amid the friendly shouts of the newly enthroned proletariat, the leader of the soviet in great excitement called the senior American back to the platform.

"I almost forgot to tell you," he gasped. "The special train—don't bother to send it back; it also is a present from the soviet to our good friends the Americans."

European Airplane Service.

Two Danish airplane companies have made application to the Danish government for permission to establish a regular passenger and mail service by airplane between Copenhagen and Warnemunde, Germany. The shortest and most used passenger route from Copenhagen to Berlin is by way of train to Gjedser, Denmark, two hours by ferry to Warnemunde and then by rail to Berlin. At present practically all of the Scandinavian and Baltic passengers and mail traffic to Germany is carried over this line, and during the last few months all trains have been crowded, and the airplane service if established, it will operate in co-operation with a German company, which will establish a regular service between Warnemunde and Berlin.

Electric Plant on Coal Fields.

The modern method of building an electric-generating plant directly over a coal supply, and transmitting energy instead of fuel to the point of consumption, is to be employed by the state of Victoria, Australia, for supplying the city of Melbourne. The field of brown coal to be used immediately is at Morwell, 80 miles away, and is accessible by open cutting. There is, it is estimated, 20,000,000 tons in the district and 150,000,000 tons in one square mile, enough to generate 100,000 kilowatts for 150 years. A 40,000 to 50,000 kilowatt station will be built first, which will be sufficient for three years, but later the development will be extended, and finally include the utilization of the Kiewa river and other water powers.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Corn-Cob Industry.

The United States produces from 2,500,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn every year. That means 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 tons of cobs. A large percentage of course, is not available for manufacturing purposes, being scattered over the farms or fed with the corn. Large quantities, however, are concentrated at central points and are easily available. The establishment of a plant for the manufacture of corn-cob products in the Ohio valley is being contemplated. Three shellers will furnish 24,000 tons of cobs a year. The plant will operate on a basis of 100 tons a day. It will turn out cob adhesive, furfural, acetate of lime and cellulose.

Concerts by Wireless.

The Philadelphia wireless school gives a concert between 9:45 and 10 o'clock every night to everybody in wireless range that has a receiving set, and wishes to listen, and the music is enjoyed regularly by at least 5,000 persons sitting comfortably in their homes, some of them as far away as New Brunswick, N. J. One man in Chestnut Hill made his own receiving set and the outfit, outside of the receivers, cost him about $7.50.

BEDSTEDS THAT SAVE SPACE

Three-Story Sleeping Places Are the Latest Idea to Be Placed on the Market.

Two-story beds, that is to say, bedsteads containing two beds placed one above the other, have been in use for years, but something rather novel in this line is the three-story bed, containing three beds, one above another, which was placed upon the market not so long ago.

These bedsteads, which are made entirely of iron, are so constructed that they can be knocked down to occupy comparatively small space for convenience in handling in shipment and transportation, the three-story bed separating into five parts, the head and foot sections and the three beds, each bed section having a wire mattress permanently attached to the side and end pieces.

At the ends of each mattress frame are pins that fit into slots placed at suitable heights up the head and foot pieces. To set up a two or three-story bed one simply stands up the head and foot pieces and drops the pins on the mattress frames into the slots and there is the bedstead with its wire springs in each tier ready to receive the mattresses.

Bedsteads of this sort are intended for camps, apartments, steamers or wherever the floor space is limited.

TOKEN OF THEIR GOOD WILL

Soviet Government Made Present of Entire Train to Americans Whom They Expelled.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. WEASEL.

"I am glad," said Mr. Weasel, "that you are like me. I do not know if I speak correctly or if that is the way I should express myself. But the idea I have in mind is that I am very glad that you aren't foolish like so many creatures."

"In other words," said Mrs. Weasel, "you like yourself."

"Well," said Mr. Weasel, "I wouldn't just like to say that of myself, but if you wish to say it of me, yes, I would be very glad, indeed."

"But if you were like other creatures I couldn't have you as a companion so, though I may appear a little conceited, when I say I like you to be like I am, I am also paying you a compliment."

"That is true," agreed Mrs. Weasel. "But it amused me to hear you say that I am not foolish like so many creatures, and the reason I am not foolish is because I am like you."

"I should really explain myself better," said Mr. Weasel. "You see there are many creatures who go to bed for the winter. They do not like the snow. They sleep the winter through and they object to the snow."

"In fact, when you come to think of it, how many queer animals and birds there are in the world."

"There are the cuckoos, Mrs. Cuckoo goes around laying eggs in various nests and she sits by on a tree and watches her neighbors hatching them."

"She is as queer as a bird can be. There are many cuckoos in certain parts of the world, which, however, has nothing to do with what I just said about them."

"Then there are frogs and turtles and loads who do themselves up in beds of mud and sleep all winter, and prairie dogs I've been told do the same and bears often do, in fact they almost always do."

"They do not want to be out in the nice snow and they do not care for the cold weather in any way. They'd rather sleep and rest."

"The bears do not mind the cold, but they're lazy and like to sleep. And so many of them want to waste a whole winter in sleeping."

"Now I love the snow and will go right into the snow bank and play about and walk about in it just as though I were a fish going in the water."

"You are the same, Mrs. Weasel, and I am so glad you do like the cold weather."

"I've always thought," said Mrs. Weasel, "that it would be so rude of me if I didn't. Here Prince Sleet and Old Man Snow and all the Cold Weather Family come around and some of the creatures just say, or do as much as say, that they aren't at home."

"The birds go South in the winter and in that way they show the Cold Weather Family they do not like them for they leave home when they see they're coming."

"Of course I suppose if I did not like the cold weather so much I wouldn't think of being so polite."

"That might be very true."

"That might be true," said Mr. Weasel, "but the fact is we do like it and so it is easy for us to be so polite to the Cold Weather Family."

"But the most important of all is that weasels like it and can enjoy more than one time of the year."

"Now children are like we are. They enjoy the snow. They like the cold weather. They don't go to sleep for the winter."

"They are like 'Enjoy the Snow' us in that way," said Mrs. Weasel, "but not in every other way by any manner of means, and I have a feeling that if you told their mothers you were like their children or their children like you, they wouldn't be flattered. Besides you only like my companionship for awhile and then you want to be alone. This is unusual—the way we are together now."

"However, it is enough that children too like the winter for that shows their good sense and they can enjoy the beautiful snow just as the old weasels can."

"The same way," said Mr. Weasel, "the very same way as we can. Yes, children too are sensible not to go to sleep for the winter."

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL

croft to the tune of 24 to 22, and then came back and lost a hard fought battle with Neligh to the score of 29 to 16.

Saturday morning saw Randolph defeated by Tilden 21 to 15, Norfolk trim Bloomfield with the count at 24 to 11. In the afternoon Wayne fell to the speedy passes and accurate shots of Howell 33-18, and Neligh put Osmond down with the score at 35-14.

Saturday night the Championship teams of the two classes anxiously waited their turn. In class B, Howell and Neligh remained. Howell had defeated Lynch, Wisner and Wayne, Neligh had bested Meadow Grove, Normal High and Osmond. The clash commenced with the speedy Howell team working at their best and the Neligh team trying hard to offset the fast little scoring machine from the south. But hopelessly they tried for the scores had 41 to the unlucky 18 when the signal came.

All anxiously waited the last game. The championship of Northeast Nebraska had been the ambition of every team entering the tournament and now two teams trotted out to decide. The crowd cheered with the same old enthusiasm shown throughout the games. Time after time the yell for Norfolk tried to drown out those for Tilden. Norfolk had defeated Wakefield and Bloomfield and Tilden had won her claim by besting Lyons, Wausa and Randolph. Norfolk went into the game with a bound leading of but closely followed by Tilden but as the minutes passed the Tilden team weakened and the excellent basket shooting of Best of Norfolk was more than their forwards could counteract.

Time and time again the great crowd were so silent that the spat of the ball against the players' hands was all that broke the stillness. Victory was Norfolk's when the scorers had counted 36 to 21. The Championship of Northeast Nebraska was theirs.

Financially the Tournament was a great success almost $1000.00 was taken in at the door. The expense of the visiting teams will be something over $1400.00. The Association will pay back to the several teams almost 65% of their total expense.

Wayne as a town now realizes what it means when the management announces the coming of the Basketball Tournament. No other activity that the school can foster or the town can boast will bring the high school students of this part of the state here, in the spirit in which they come to see their team win. Not all can win. No. But all can play the game that has so much within it of real life. Cooperation.

HIGHLY EXAGGERATED IS WAY NESBITT COVERS CASE
Attending Physician in the Rubin Talk Sickness Makes Public Statement.

Dr. R. H. T. Nesbitt, attending physician in the Rubin girl case has become incensed apparently over the wide publicity that has followed the case. Accordingly he has written this communication to the Sun in which he expresses himself.

Editor Daily Sun:—I am compelled to ask a little space in your paper. I am deluged with letters and phone messages from discerning, thinking people who discredit the notorious, sensational and highly exaggerated fabulous accounts published. The family have been annoyed by the continued low fiction in exploiting the case. Just five minutes ago Mr. Rubin, the father, remarked that there was not five percent of the "write-ups" true.

First:—The medical men were not baffled; nor at the end of their resources.

Second:—Medical measures and remedies have been constantly administered and there was gradual improvement; and the morning before the chiropractor gave his treatment the child had normal temperature, and the child had several intervals of sleep. The functions of the body had to be kept acting by medication and other means. Otherwise we might have had fatal results.

Third:—There was no mal-alignment of the spine or any dislocation of the vertebrae. As four capable medical men had carefully examined the spinal column and the whole body. Subluxation of vertebrae is a talking proposition of a certain clique of spinal mania-phobists. Authorities state there is little or nothing to it. Pressure on nerve produces impaired function or paralysis, not excitement.

Fourth:—It is not true that there was a sudden cessation to all symptoms. No medical man, surgeon, physiologist, no neurologist, psychologist or psychiatrist of any analytical mind would for a moment think that an excited state of the speech center buried deep in a lobe of the brain could be quieted by any snap of the neck or thumbing of the spine. The blood test demonstrated irritating agents circulating through the exciting cells concerned in the faculty of speech, as did other centers causing the restlessness. The talking was only one of the symptoms.

It is not true that the child was delirious and irrational. She was not only RATIONAL BUT VERY bright and witty, amusing us frequently with her quick and clever answers to our questions. She was perfectly docile, taking her medicine and submitting to any handling necessary without complaint, always with a thank you.

Fifth:—It is not true that the temperature fell suddenly. The betterment is what could be expected for the time the affection had lasted and the medical treatment she had received. The temperature kept persistently up during spinal chiro treatment. Several days ago I ordered all spinal so-called adjustment stopped, for previous to the chiro treatment the patient had not a pain or ache anywhere. She became so sore and tender that she dreaded the operation and dreads anyone to touch her.

Miriam Rubin is still a very sick child, but I hope with long continued absolute rest and internal medication and soothing applications to the back she will be restored to perfect health. R. H. T. Nesbitt February 28, 1921.

March 3, 1921.

I am pleased to receive your inquiry, among a host of others. I am sending you our local paper, with my first statement in it. I preferred to let them blow off all their pent up steam. I would like to write you more fully, but I am very busy and I have so many inquiries by letter and phone that I cannot get the time. The Journal of American Medical Association of yesterday's issue will contain the bare facts.

I just have time here to state that absolutely all the statements of the chiropractor are false, sensationally dramatic, absurd and represent commercial exploitation. As far as I know the chiropractor did not solicit the case, but the family was urged by strangers from eastern and western cities to get a chiro. practitioner by telegrams and letters, and also by some persons here. I had four high class medical men (Chicago) three Alopaths and one an expert laboratory diagnostician (Homeopath), who were neither baffled nor confounded—neither had I lost confidence, but waiting for opinions of consultants, reserved some of my own measures, but was administering remedies all the time being approved and ordered continued by consultant. Finally as family, by the urgent importunities outside strangers, wanted to try the chiro. treatment I consented and there was no such dramatic scene at the bedside. Let me conclude by just saying, there was not a particle of opium or any narcotic administered. The remedies and hygienic procedures, prolonged hot baths, enemas, laxatives were never omitted, and without which the patient could not have lived—the medical treatment, strict diet precautions and the limitations of the disease brought about the cure. The only observal effect of spinal so-called adjustment, was to make a non-complaining painless child full of fear, moan continuously from pain in cervical and dorsal spine. So much so, that I had to order the chiropractic treatments discontinued, which was more than ten days ago, with rest and soothing applications to spine; she is today nearly normal there, and is now improving rapidly; sleep, temperature, pulse, and respiration normal. I made several attempts to withdraw when the chiro. came but the family and immediate relatives would not permit me on any consideration. I made several visits daily, and also at night.

The Chiropractor and I have been friendly through the interviews. Had never met him before, and have the best of feeling for him now, and if he or the newspaper had not so notoriously and fabulously, fulsomly misrepresented the incident, I would have kept silent, for you know how a medical man deplors the press adulation.

Hoping this will in a measure clear the case for you, I am Yours fraternally,

R. H. T. Nesbitt.
