WAYNE FAMILY INJURED IN AUTO WRECK AT FRIEND

Crete, Nebraska, August 21.—Eight members of the Swan Nelson family, Wayne, were injured, two of them probably fatally, when the automobile in which they were riding was wrecked in a ditch on the D. L. D. highway between Dorchester and Friend Sunday.

Mrs. Nelson sustained a fractured skull and an arm nearly severed at the wrist. Mr. Nelson's grandmother, 73, sustained concussion of the brain and a deep gash in the forehead. Recovery of either is doubtful.

Nellie, 15, a daughter, was nearly scalped, practically all of the skin having been torn loose from the top of her head. A son, 11, received spinal injuries. A gash in the forehead clear to the bone was sustained by Nathia, another daughter. Aylene, 20, received slight bruises. Mr. Nelson sustained severe body bruises.

The accident occurred at the Burlington railroad crossing when the car driven by Mr. Nelson plunged into a ditch, completely wrecking the machine. According to members of the party, Nelson did not observe that the road turned sharply to the left beyond the track and he drove too far to the right, heading the car down a steep embankment and striking the deep ditch.

It appeared that the machine struck the ditch with such force that it rebounded, upset and then partly righted itself, although it came to a stop headed in the opposite direction from which it had been traveling.

The victims were taken to Dorchester, where medical attention was given.

The Nelson family had been visiting in Denver and were on their way home.

HOME FROM MINNESOTA

Ralph Rundell and family are home from an outing in Minnesota. Mr. R. seems to be in love with that land, or at least some parts of it. He said that they visited the George Stringer home and received a royal welcome, and such a feeding of dairy products, chicken, and fish—Ralph actually fattened on it. He tells how comfortably Mr. and Mrs. Stringer are established in their Minnesota home. He says they have a quarter section of land with 50 acres cleared out, and the balance in pasture for his dairy herd and sheep. They have a comfortable house and good barn and out buildings, and a ready market for their farm products. He said that Mrs. Stringer has a fine bunch of chickens, and that their hens lay all winter when eggs are top priced. Mr. and Mrs. Stringer went from Wayne to their present home about nine or ten years ago, and they have made good, as many another might do. Mr. Rundell says that George has plenty of fine deer head mounted, brought down by his own gun, and that fishing is great there.

Mr. Rundell tells in an entertaining manner of their visit to the district where the great fires were last season and how they are building up again—of their visit to Duluth, and some of the sights to be seen in that city which extends so many miles along the lake, and the vast shipping interests there.

- Isabel Derby, kindergarten.

LATE NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

The world's largest airship, ZR-2 purchased from England or the English by this government at a cost of $6,000,000 broke in two, exploded and burned at London Tuesday evening while just starting out for a trial flight. Most of the crew were killed. It was soon to fly to America, but will not. We had spent $3,000,000 building a hanger for the craft.

India is stirred by wild revolution at which religion is said to be a cause.

The authorities claim to have unearthed a gang, supposed to be headed by Charles W. French of Cleveland that have been engaged in systematic swindle. They negotiated forged and stolen securities, and their loot is estimated at from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000. Perhaps as many as a dozen and a half of men were thought to be implicated in the fraudulent work.

The production of coal is greatly increasing this month—and the increase for the past week is said to be more than a half million tons over that of the previous week.

Typhoons in Shanghai, China, it is feared have caused the death of as many as 10,000 people in the past twenty-four hours.

McAdoo has given out a letter in which he expresses the opinion that President Harding is mistaken or misinformed if he holds that the United States government is in honor or legally bound to pay the railroads who owe the government practically three times that sum. The government had to take over the railroads and run them in order to win the war.

BASEBALL NEWS

The east side boys or men defeated the west side forces Wednesday in a game before a small crowd for benefit of Community House fund. The score was 28 to 21, which was giving the spectators a lot for their money.

SOMETHING ABOUT MINNESOTA LANDS

As advertisers are offering some Minnesota lands for sale this week, it might not be out of place to give a well-written story found in one of our exchanges told by Dr. Rich, who with his wife and daughter visited that state for pleasure, and the editor of the Butler County Press gives a synopsis of what they told of seeing there.

Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Rich and daughter, Miss Dorothy, arrived home Friday from an auto trip of six weeks, of which two weeks were spent in a most delightful spot, White Iron Lake, Minnesota.

White Iron Lake is situated about 175 miles north of Duluth, near the Canadian border, and as far east as roads and railroads reach. The camp where the Rich family spent the time is at the edge of the national forest reserve and is six miles from a railroad, Ely being the nearest town.

There is no town at the camp, which consists of a hotel and a number of cottages. There is wonderful scenery; boating and fishing are fine, and a natural beach makes bathing a popular sport.

Dr. Rich tells of fishing and in a few hours catching from 10 to 30 pounds of fish, wall-eyed pike and mackerel which average about two pounds each. The water in the lake is soft, and at the time he was there it was comfortably warm for swimming. He tells of there being acres of red raspberries and blueberries near their cottage, and they enjoyed these fruits in abundance.

One thing that Dr. Rich noted was that though fresh fruit and fish might be had at all times, the hotel served only canned fruits and preserved meats at meals, unless the fresh fruit and fish were taken to the hotel by the cottage people and especially prepared for them. Also coal is shipped in from Pennsylvania and used there for fuel, and great trees that are cut down in clearing sites are gathered in piles and burned, instead of being used for fuel.

Many large trees, pine and birch grow there. The original forest was pine, but after cutting and burning of the pines the next growth of trees are mainly birches. Timber is now being cut for wood-pulp, etc.

The wonderful schools in that region are especially mentioned by Dr. Rich. The state receives huge royalties from the many big iron mines and this money goes to the school fund. Consequently much money is spent on schools, making an extraordinarily fine school system. At Ely, a town of about 6000, the school plant cost a million dollars and covers six blocks of ground. The grounds are enclosed with a high iron fence and there is fine landscape gardening done to beautify the grounds. The school looks like a big college, and has every improvement and convenience possible to put in a school.

The fine schools play an important part in American citizenship there, inasmuch as but about 20 per cent of the people are Americans. Three-fourths are Finns, and there are some Italians. Also it is estimated that one-third of the town's population are of school age.

Another notable fact was that at the big ice house which is located on the lake one could get as much ice as wanted for the small sum of 25 cents. Fine roads, all graded, though narrow and winding, were encountered all the way in Minnesota.

ADVERTISED LETTERS

Advertised list of letters for August 24 1921: Mr. Edward Wilson, Mr. Harry L. Waterhouse, Mr. Howard Scott, Mr. A. T. Rehrough, Miss Anna Hansen, J. C. Harmel, M. Hanson, and Miss Verna Anderson. C. A. Berry, P. M.

V. A. Senter and family returned the first of the week from an automobile trip to Colorado, where they spent a number of days camping and sight-seeing in the mountains and great natural parks of that state. V. A. seems to have either fished up or swelled up a bit on the trip, for he looks to be in good order. He says that he discovered an oasis in the dry country, of words to that effect—but did not leave it quite clear in the mind of the reporter as to what that oasis contained that was so filling and satisfying to the inner man, for he mentioned in connection with his remarks of his fine physical condition. But he summed it all up by saying it was a good time for all.

Mrs. B. W. Mace was at South Sioux City last week visiting her daughter, Mrs. Roy Crippin.

INTEREST AT GOLF GROUNDS IN CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES

The first of this week the finals were played in a contest for the championship of the club membership in golf. By the process of elimination the finals were between Frank S. Morgan and W. C. Hunter, and Mr. Morgan won the match by a score of 6 up and five to play. Frank's victory was largely due to his better play in the first nine holes of the match at the end of which he had a lead of 5 up which he steadily maintained throughout. The scores by holes was as follows:

| Morning—Out   |                |
|---------------|----------------|
| Hunter        | 636 667 465 49 |
| Morgan        | 535 566 544 43 |
| In            |                |
| Hunter        | 734 655 445 43 |
| Morgan        | 645 646 354 43 |
| Afternoon—Out |                |
| Hunter        | 634 666 545 45 |
| Morgan        | 543 757 465 46 |
| In            |                |
| Hunter        | 553 6          |
| Morgan        | 544 5          |

Country Club Notes
About thirty entries have already been received for the big invitation golf tournament to be held September 5, 6 and 7. About 75 are expected.

Much interest is being shown in the choice hole event for August. Four players are now tied with a score of 33 for the nine holes.

MISSIONFEST AT ALTONA SUNDAY

Next Sunday a missionfest service will be conducted at the church at Altona, morning and afternoon. A band from the congregation at Lindsay will be present to furnish suitable music.

The morning service will begin at 10:30, Rev. M. Leimer of Beemer preaching. At the afternoon service Rev. Geo. Pullman from Fairfax, South Dakota, will be the first speaker. His sermon will be followed by a discourse in English by Rev. F. C. Brandhurst of Norfolk.

Lunch will be served at noon by the congregation, and also at the close of the afternoon services. These annual meetings are of much interest to the good folks of the congregation and other interested in their work.

BIBLE STUDY CIRCLE MEETING

Mrs. J. W. Ziegler and daughter were hostesses as the Bible Study Circle, Tuesday afternoon. After the inspiring missionary lesson on the Pauline journeys, and the closing circle of intercessory prayer, a small token of esteem was presented to Mrs. Libengood who has been here some time visiting her daughter, but plans to return to her home in Pennsylvania the latter part of this week. We will miss her.

The following prayer call was sent to the Circle from H. B. Dinviddie who recently returned from a tour of investigation through Latin America.

The neglected Indian populations to the South of us in this Western Hemisphere have been a burden of responsibility, concern and prayer upon the hearts of a number of Christian men and women. Almost nineteen hundred years have passed since our Lord Jesus gave his life on Calvary's cross, purchased salvation for men, brought life and immortality to light in the Gospel and to His disciples the great commission to disciple all the nations, teaching them to observe whatsoever He had commanded. And from the whole world today the millions of the native American race in Mexico, Central and South America constitute their total number, of any element of earth's inhabitants. Here are whole lands and nations, tribes and communities, predominantly Indian in race, almost untouched by Christian agencies, living and dying "without God and without hope in the world."

Impressed with this vast need, impelled by the spirit of God, as we humbly trust, and persuaded that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation, we who now address you issue a call for a conference on the Latin American Indians at Philadelphia in the Friends Arch Street Center, 304 Arch, September 13th and 14th, 1921. Arch street, on Tuesday and Wednesday. The sessions will be held at 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, and 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, closing at noon Wednesday.

The meeting will be with Mrs. Dora Benschopf next Tuesday.

SOCIAL NOTES

Miss Louie Sprague entertained a couple of dozen ladies at a shower last Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Ethel Sears whose marriage to Mr. Raleigh Miller, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, is in the near future. The brides colors pink and white were used in decorating the house. The gifts were wrapped in white tissue paper tied with pink ribbon—and placed in a small prettily decorated wagon. Miss Bonibel Nelson dressed in pink took the wagon in and presented them to Miss Sears who was told to unwrap the packages. After the presents were duly inspected and admired they were again placed in the wagon and the bride compelled to haul them a short distance, the guests all following her. At 5 o'clock the hostess served a delicious luncheon, carried out in pink and white, was served. A very delightful afternoon was spent.

The members of the Epworth League of the Methodist church honored the Griff Garwood family with a farewell surprise party Friday evening. The young folks drove out to the home in cars, each taking with them a basket of eats. The evening was most enjoyably spent in playing games until a late hour, after which lunch was served. About thirty were present and all report a fine time.—Carroll Index.

Miss Ethel Fox entertained twelve young people Tuesday afternoon in honor of her sister-in-law Mrs. R. A. Fox of Omaha who is visiting here. Games and music furnished the entertainment of the afternoon and the hostess served a delicious two course luncheon.

Mrs. Henry Ley assisted by Mesdames Main, J. J. Williams, LeRoy Ley, Kemp and F. S. Berry entertained at the country club Tuesday afternoon. Progressive games were played at six tables, fancy work and visiting occupied the afternoon hours. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. J. H. Parker took her Sunday school class of young ladies (quite young) of the Baptist school, for a picnic supper at the city park last evening. Besides the supper some jolly games were played.

The first meeting of the season of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the home of Mrs. I. C. Trumbauer Friday afternoon, September 2. It is hoped that all members will be present to help plan for the season campaign.

The Ladies Aid of the English Lutheran church will meet next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Otto Fieer.

The Ladies of the St. Mary's Guild will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Nuss, with Mrs. Wm. Stewart assisting as hostess.

Mrs. J. J. Ahern is entertaining a number of her lady friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon this afternoon.

Friday evening the Misses Olive and Dorothy Huse will be at home to a number of their young friends.

A number of the ladies of the Country Club will gather there for a party Friday evening.

The Helping Hand society will meet this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Perrin.

PIONEER WOMAN OF CUMING COUNTY PASSES AWAY

Monday forenoon, August 22, 1921, Mrs. Sophia Beckenhauer, of West Point, was called to her reward at the age of eighty years and a few months. She was born in Germany, and came with her parents to Canada when but a child. From there with her husband she came to Cuming county more than a half a century ago; settling there when Omaha was their nearest market, and that was not much of a town. Her husband passed away about nine years ago. Of the twelve children born to this union ten are living, Wm. Beckenhauer of this place being one of the sons. Most of the children live not far from the home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Beckenhauer celebrated their golden wedding a number of years ago. She was in failing health several months before the end came. Mrs. Beckenhauer had visited relatives and friends here in the earlier days, but is not known to many here now except relatives and old settlers. The funeral services are being held at West Point this afternoon.

FREIGHT CLAIM PREVENTION GATHERING HERE TUESDAY

Tuesday afternoon there was a meeting at the city hall between a number of Northwestern railway officials and business men of Wayne and farmers from the surrounding country. The meeting was not largely attended—not so much as its importance to the public would seem to indicate that it should have been, we thought. Perhaps it was not properly advertised. Similar meetings have been held at different points along the "Omaha" and a much larger meeting was held at Sioux City Monday in which visitors of greater official authority in railroad circles than appeared here were present.

The meeting was designed as a get acquainted meeting for the citizens here and the officials who have to do with railroad transportation and other branches of service. These meetings are to benefit the railroads and the public—and one object announced is that of securing co-operation in the work of preventing claims for damage or loss of goods by preventing the loss or damage. The idea is to work for this aim much as the railroads did in their "safety first" move of a few years ago, which resulted in so much saving and prevention of accident. This movement has been under way for some time and results are noticeable already.

But this meeting was more than the name at first implied; for it seemed to embrace a plea for the railroads and the staggering blow which hard times seems to have dealt them in spite of or because of their advanced freight and passenger rates. One of the speakers said that the roads were powerless to raise or lower rates, which question is wholly in the hands of the railway commission—but he did not say who owns or manipulates the said commission. A lot of people are of the opinion that the commission seems more beholden to the roads than to the people.

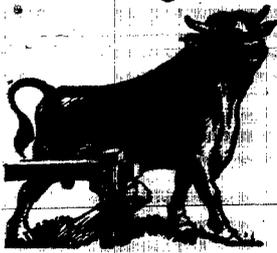

The meeting was open to all and some of the farmers were asked to speak and mention anything they thought should be bettered. Mr. Bush wanted better cleaned stock cars and a better stock yard than they have at Carroll, from which point he ships most of his stock. One man, in private conversation after the close of the meeting said that to cross the Carroll yards one would need a pair of hip boots. No other complaint was given at the meeting at that time on that topic; but after it was over a number of farmers and shippers expressed some dissatisfaction with some methods employed and lack of method. They saw the picture of the device for watering hogs, but said they had never seen that kind of a waterer at work cooling the porkers.

There was considerable talk on the freight rate question, and some of the railroad men present claimed that a freight reduction in no manner aided the producer, and cited the action of the millers and dealers of Minneapolis in wanting to know when the freight reduction on products for export would become effective, saying that just as soon as it was the price of flour would be quoted just that much less for foreign market. Then another of the speakers who came with the bunch cited that the reduction which had been asked and granted on lumber from the western slope, in order that the mills there might be encouraged to go to work, had not reduced the price of lumber one penny to the consumer. It seemed to be a case of the benefit going to someone besides (Continued on Last Page)

John Bergerson returned Monday from a visit with relatives in South Dakota. He was at Huron and other points in that part of the state, and met a number of relatives he had not before seen. He tells us that their small grain crop was better than here this year, and that corn prospects for a big crop are as good, apparently as with us.

Many Nebraska farmers are learning that it pays to fatten poultry for the market, just as it pays to finish hogs and cattle. Heavy feeding and close confinement for two or three weeks adds finish and weight, thereby increasing the price per pound and the number of pounds. An excellent fattening ration to consist of 2 parts finely ground cornmeal and 2 parts wheat shorts, moistened with buttermilk or sour milk to a mortar-like consistency. All the birds will eat if fed three times daily. It is not uncommon for a good, husky bird weighing 1 1/2 to 2 pounds to add three-quarters of a pound, or 35 per cent of its original weight, in two or three weeks. If the birds are thrifty, 3 1/2 pounds of this feed will add a pound of weight. The maximum gain can usually be obtained in 15 to 20 days. The birds should be marketed as soon as their appetite begins to wane. If the mixture is properly saturated with buttermilk or sour milk, no water need be given. With present feed prices fattening young birds by intensive feeding should be profitable. Heretofore, the produce men have been finishing them after obtaining them from farmers. There is no reason why this cannot be done by the producer instead of the middleman.

Harold Boyce went to Salem, South Dakota, Friday morning where he will visit and from there he will go to Mason City, Iowa, where he will teach physical science and agriculture.

Mrs. J. L. Davis, from Norfolk, was over Friday looking for a small house to which they could move for a time, so that Mr. Davis could come here for treatment, as he is in poor health.

Mrs. Chas. Bailey, from Albert Lea, Minnesota, and two children, who had been spending three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Laurie, at Carroll, left for her home Saturday.

Mrs. Chas. Bright came over from Winside, where she has been visiting, and joined Mr. Bright here in a visit with Wayne friends. They were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. House, and of President and Mrs. U. S. Conn.

Mrs. Elsie Moore, who was visiting with her mother, Mrs. Harry Clark, at Carroll, passed through Wayne Tuesday afternoon on her way home to Sioux City. She was accompanied as far as here by her sister, Helen Clark, who left in the evening for Norfolk, where she will visit at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

The A. D. Feiber home at Laurel was discovered on fire Sunday forenoon, but mostly saved because of early discovery and prompt work on the part of the department. Mr. F. had been burning worms from the trees, and thinks that the fire may have started from that cause. Others lay it to poor wiring. Insurance covered the small loss.

Owing to the big prospective corn crop and corresponding low price, many of the farmers are not selling their brood sows as usual at this season of the year, but are breeding for a crop of fall pigs to shell their corn crop and market it with far less freight toll to the railroads.

Miss Clara Stallsmith, who has been spending several weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. E. Hammers, at Ogden, Utah, came home Monday evening to finish preparations for her school work at Sioux City, where she taught last year. Mrs. Stallsmith remained for an indefinite stay in the home of her daughter.

Al-Sar-Ben festivities this year commence in Omaha on September 13 and close September 24. During the first four days there will be horse racing on the splendid mile track just west of the city and during the same time and continuing until the close of the festival season there will be great jollification down town. There will be three great parades.

The first reunion of the Eighty-eighth Division, with over 6,000 veterans from seven mid-west states in attendance opens at Des Moines Friday, August 26. The soldier bonus, legislation for the relief of disabled veterans, the part soldiers will play in politics during the coming year, and the permanent organization of a division association are the chief subjects to be taken up.

Omaha as an entirety takes its hat off to the editors of Nebraska and Iowa who recently held their summer meeting in the city. There were more than 250 here and not only the Chamber of Commerce, but all other civic organizations, as well as commercial, regretted that the stay was so short. Omaha people who met the newspaper men were delighted and are anxious to have them come again.

Plans are pretty well matured for taking care of the boys of the "Sandstorm" division when they come to the reunion to be held in Omaha September 19-21. These are the boys who prior to going over seas were trained at Camp Cody. It is estimated that there will be some 7,000 of them at the reunion. They will probably be quartered on the Fort Omaha grounds. Information relative to the reunion will be furnished by Charles R. Gardner, Omaha, local chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Philby and daughter Marion from Sholes were here Sunday, Mr. Philby and daughter leaving on the afternoon train for Filer, Idaho, to visit his mother for a short time. It is their plan to take a peek into the National Yellowstone park, and use two different lines of road one going and the other returning so that they may see as much of our great west as possible on the trip. Mrs. Philby will be in charge of business at the bank during his absence.

Mrs. J. F. Winter and her niece, Miss Ida Schulties left Tuesday afternoon to visit relatives at her old home at Owensville, Missouri.

Miss Grace Bennett, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harrington, returned to her home at Winona, Minnesota, Tuesday.

Clifford Dean and family and Miss Ada Cash autoed to Sioux City Sunday to attend the sessions of the Holiness Mission camp meeting now going on at that city, and they report a good meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Whitney, from Coleridge, who came to visit last week at the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. S. Martz, returned home Saturday, and were accompanied to their home by their granddaughter, Marian Martz, who planned to spend a week there.

Ernest Rippon left Tuesday evening for Casper, Wyoming, where he has been and is employed cutting meats in one of the markets of that live town. He has been spending a three week vacation here. He describes a part of that land as comparable with the "Country Which God Forgot".

Pat Dixon has gone to visit at the homes of his daughters, Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, at Burk, and Mrs. Sybil Williams, at Niobrara. Mrs. Slaughter, who with her husband and children had been visiting here, accompanied him as she returned home. Mr. Slaughter drove thru by car.

A. H. Banks of Wausa was greeting friends at the station here Monday morning, while on his way to the city to price some feeders. He has broad acres of pasture, and fields of waving corn to market, and he can see no better outlet than to manufacture the raw material into beef and pork on the farm. In this way he can at least save some of the freight charges, for the railroad takes too much when it takes the raw material to market. He said that oats were only bringing 18 cents at his town last week. Why not just steal the crop? Make it into oat meal and sell it back to the consumer at from six to ten cents a pound. That is the way to make money. On his return trip he told the reporter that he purchased four car loads of pretty good feeders.

Mrs. J. M. Cherry and daughter, Frances, went to Omaha Monday morning to visit for a time with friends.

Miss Margarite Klinker, of Lincoln, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harrington, returned to her home Tuesday morning.

W. C. Hunter and Mick Brady left Tuesday morning for Kearney, where they will attend the open golf tournament.

Mrs. Margarite Manning and son, Paul, left Tuesday afternoon for Tekamah, where she will visit with relatives and friends.

William Lerner and Marcus Kroger, Jr., left Saturday afternoon by auto for Scribner, where they will spend a week visiting with their aunt, Mrs. Fred Volpp.

Mrs. Selma Maidens and son, who came from Indianapolis two weeks or more ago to visit her niece at the Otis Stringer home, returned to their home the last of the week.

Miss Florence Myer, who was here at summer school, and remained until Monday to complete some work she had under way, left that evening for her home at Stuart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cowton and two daughters, from Grand Island, accompanied Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Kilburn last Thursday as they returned from their vacation trip, and are visiting at the parsonage.

Down in the south part of the state melons are so plentiful in some localities that the farmers are treating their business friends—hauling a load to their town they back up to the curb and holler free melons, and the crowd that quickly assemble does the rest. Some call it farmer generosity, and others say it is propaganda—because they could not sell them. Lincoln people are jealous because they have none of that kind of farmers. But are getting held up there at the rate of 10 to 15 cents a slice, and from 50 to 75 cents per melon. Well, when this kind of thing strikes Wayne the orator will have no trouble to gather an audience. There are lots of melons coming in here; but no one unloads them gratis.

OFF FOR AN OUTING

Last Saturday afternoon Emil Hallberg and family and Lavene Johnson left Wayne for a vacation of two weeks which they plan to spend on the road and visiting friends and relatives. They first drove to Central City, Minnesota, where they will be welcomed at the home of C. W. Nelson and wife, a brother of Mrs. Hallberg whom she has not seen since six years of age. After the visit here they will drive on to Superior, Wisconsin, and doubtless take in St. Paul and Minneapolis on the way. At Superior they will visit Mrs. A. Carlson, a sister of Mrs. Hallberg. These men are the marble or stonecutters at the Wayne Monument works, and richly deserve a rest, for they have had a very busy season. Of course, being in the stone cutting work, it is possible that they will drive to some of the famous quarries of Minnesota and Wisconsin, from which a part of the stone they work on comes.

LOVE AND THEORY

By JOSEPHINE S. BROOKS.

(© 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Ellen went singing around the house, happy to toll for love of her dear ones. She felt that nothing mattered if they all remained well. How thankful she ought to be for these blessings.

Her song, rising clearer this sunny morning, was cut short by the ring of the doorbell. Ellen smoothed her hair, cast aside her work apron, and then hastened to the door.

"I heard you singing and I don't see how you do it," said Elsie Smith, the caller.

"Do what, Elsie?" asked the hostess in surprise.

"Why, be so cheerful and happy in such a—"

"In so humble a home?" supplied Ellen.

"Well, that was my thought—then I mean your work. You do work hard, Ellen, and you can't deny it. And for what? No one gives you any credit."

"Credit, Elsie? No true wife does it for that, but out of love."

"Love is all very well for a while, but year after year, to go without rest, with no vacations, is unjust. I'll never marry a man who makes me work all the time."

Ellen stood silent. She wondered if her face had lines in it like this friend's of thirty-five birthdays.

"Oh, Ellen." The young woman clapped her hands. "I have a plan. Let your husband do your work for one day and I'll wager your trying times will end."

"You think it over, Ellen," tempted Elsie, "and see if I'm not right. I'm studying these subjects, and I know what I'm talking about. Assert yourself. Good-by."

The young wife's song had ceased. The sun shone less brightly and her task now seemed heavier. As the hours passed bitter thoughts grew and magnified.

"Come to think of it, John's kisses of late have been hasty, with no earnestness in them. Is his love weakening? He seems to take my many cares as a matter of course; also my attentions to himself. Once he thanked me; now he is always in a rush."

Ellen left her work and sat down by the table, hand on chin. Soon she rose.

"I'll do it," she whispered. "I'll go—let's see, it's Saturday; I'll go tomorrow after John and Rodney start for their walk. I'll leave a note saying that I must have a vacation of a few days."

Ellen imagined, when on her way to Cousin Jane's, how amazed John and their boy must be as they read her note.

She laughed at the picture of him tugging at the big pile of washing, blankets and all, arose. Perhaps he would revolt.

Ellen's thoughts were not all joyous, as she swung next day in the hammock beneath her cousin's elm tree. She had missed the "hasty kiss" that morning.

In the morning a very determined woman faced her cousin.

"I can't stand it another minute, Alma," declared Ellen.

As the wife neared her journey's end, she breathed: "After all, home looks good. There's no sign of life. No doubt John and Rod are at work." Ellen entered the hall, where a sense of emptiness seemed to strike her. She passed into the dining room, then went on to the kitchen. A noise startled her. She opened the door, and paused on the threshold.

"Washing dishes, mother," the boy answered, as if dish-washing were an ordinary task.

"Father has been—phew," came from Rodney, as he nearly let fall a cup.

Without waiting for the boy's answer the mother dashed into the bedroom, where upon the bed lay her John.

"John, John," she sobbed. "I'll never leave you again." Then out came the whole story. "She's wrong, utterly wrong," she snapped. "It's love, not theory, that counts. What happened, dear?"

She fell by the bedside and began kissing the hand that hung down.

"It was washing," feebly answered John, with close-shut eyes. As Ellen bent over him his eyes unclosed and a mischievous light shone in them.

"I scalded my foot from the boiler water slopping on it, so Rodney had to leave his work and do the house-keeping."

"And all this evil came about through my—my sin," she cried. "I was trying to prove Elsie's theory."

"I've had my lesson, and it has done me good, dear wife, for I was becoming thoughtless. Such washings! They are too hard for you."

"I'll love them—now, John. They'll be reminders of my cruel treatment of you."

As soon as John could free himself from the clinging arms, he rose and hobbled to a chair.

"Why, John! I thought you were too weak to move."

"A little lesson for you as a reminder," he laughed. "But my foot isn't entirely well, Rodney, when you can leave your work, come and kiss your mother."

"To think of all the mischief my act caused. Won't I triumph over Elsie and her theory!" Ellen vowed, as she sat, once more content, with her arms around her dear ones.

FROM NEBRASKA TO PENNSYLVANIA BY AUTO

Cabot, Pennsylvania, August 16, 1921. Nebraska Democrat, Wayne, Nebraska. Dear Sirs:—

I promised to write you a few lines about how I would find conditions and the country in Pennsylvania. I believe it will be of interest generally and especially so to my neighbors and friends to hear about our trip. So I will confine this report to the long automobile ride. For it was only a splendid joy ride. The motor never performed better. It acted the whole way like a frisky horse.

We left Altona, July 28, '21, about 10 o'clock. After making a short stop at my brother's, H. Plueger and family, we continued to West Point, where we spent a few hours visiting with my parents. Then we continued to Seward, arriving about 7:45 that evening.

We left Seward again July 30, arriving in Omaha about 5:45 that afternoon. We made following stops: Seward—Omaha; Omaha—Des Moines, Iowa; Des Moines—State Center; State Center—Belle Plain; Belle Plain—Clinton; Clinton—Aurora, Illinois; (near Chicago); Aurora—Danville; Danville—Indianapolis, Indiana; Indianapolis—London, Ohio; (near Columbus); London—Wheeling, West Virginia; Wheeling—Pittsburg, Pennsylvania; Pittsburg—Concordia Orphans' Home, near Marwood.

The country between Omaha and Des Moines, over the White Pole highway is very hilly. The hills are equal to those fine specimens around Winside. The road however was in fine shape.

When we were all ready the next morning to start from Des Moines, a heavy rain began to fall. After it let up a little we started for Ames. From Ames we took the Lincoln highway. Shortly after we left Des Moines the rain began to fall and continued for the rest of the day.

From Des Moines to Ames and east of there the highway was graveled, so we continued in spite of the rain. However, near State Center, the graveled road suddenly came to an end, then a tire blew out and that settled traveling for that day. Many tourists do not stop for a rain. We had been advised not to attempt to make the nine mile detour, consisting of rather steep clay hills. The next morning we realized that we did well in taking advice for two autos had spent the night on one of the hillsides. If our tire hadn't blown out we perhaps would have spent the night in company with the other two. You will see from the stops we made that we spent too much time in eastern Iowa, but it was on account of the rain. Several persons told me this was the first good rain since two weeks before the 4th of July. The crops seemed to be in good condition, but I was told the hills suffered a bit. We crossed the Mississippi River at Clinton, Iowa. The Mississippi at Clinton was about the same size as the Missouri at Omaha. From Fulton, opposite Clinton to Chicago the Lincoln highway is a pavement as smooth as the pavement of your city. From Chicago south to Danville is another over a 100 mile stretch of fine pavement, the Dixie highway. About 15 miles of the Dixie highway between Danville, Illinois, and Indianapolis, Indiana, was "chucky". From Indianapolis to Columbus, Ohio, nearly all is paved, the National Pike highway. From Columbus to Baltimore on the National Pike highway is a fine pavement.

We left the National Pike at Little Washington Pennsylvania, but just as good a pavement leads from Little Washington to Pittsburg. From Pittsburg to the Concordia Orphans' Home a distance of about 30 miles, all is paved except a few miles.

The country through which we passed in Iowa especially eastern Iowa and Illinois had wonderful crops. The oats stood still mostly in shocks and they fairly covered the ground. In Indiana fewer fields of oats were seen and the yield was not so heavy. Pastures and the dairy cow however were more often seen. The farther east we got the fewer the grain fields and the more prominent the dairy cow. The last day's ride in southeastern Ohio was rather a surprise. I expected to find the country east of Pittsburg rather hilly, but to find eastern Ohio thus, yes, almost mountainous, was a little surprise. The nicely paved road would wind up hill for a mile or more and then down again with lovely scenery on either side. You would see fine patches of corn on hilltops, steep hillsides, and valleys. More often though you would see the dairy cows grazing far above on far below.

This may seem a long story, but I am writing these lines especially for my neighbors and friends who were willing and kind enough to lend a helping hand when we were preparing to make the change from Nebraska to Pennsylvania. Sincerely yours,

A. H. Plueger.

The wise feeder, when he goes to market for a bunch of cattle to feed, selects some that show some good breeding, as a rule, and pays more for them, for he knows that they will make a better seller and also give more pounds increase for what they eat.

A good citizen is one who goes to the polls at election time and votes for what he thinks is right, regardless of the prospect it may have of winning at that election. A few voters would prefer to vote for what they believe they want even if they do not get it, than to vote for what they know they do not want and win.

Feed is one of the necessary things in growing live stock of quality. Care and feed and proper sires and dams are three essentials to success. The thoroughbred responds to feed and care better than the scrub—and in fact there are some animals that cannot be made much of by any manner of care. It is not in them. There is no foundation to start with.

A year ago now a lot of our citizens, some of whom had real estate in North Dakota and some who did not, were lamenting the great increase in the state tax of the state. Now that the Nebraska state tax has increased 49 per cent under a republican administration they should rise as a man and "turn the rascals out". Now while the Nebraska state tax is advancing, the tax commissioner's report of North Dakota shows that their state tax is declining.

It has been about decided by those who feel competent to speak that the air craft is not necessarily going to do away with the battleships. Of course not, and never would so long as the people will pay for making both of these engines of destruction. But you may give it out cold that the people of the world are going to stop paying for battle ships and warplanes. Sentiment is fast growing against this worse than useless tax burden, and when the pay stops the building will cease. Mark this prediction.

In most instances President Harding is to be congratulated when he follows the example set by President Wilson. In not appointing members of the senate on the commission to Paris, Mr. Wilson had the sanction of the constitution. And if that time-honored document is to be lived up to as rigidly by the president and the senate as the corporations want it observed when they strain a point to find something unconstitutional in a law they do not like, no member of the senate will be named to participate in the coming conference. The constitution of the United States says that no senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, etc. This should be conclusive. Then when it comes to treaty making, no senator should help make that upon which he is authorized to pass judgment in an independent and unbiased manner. President McKinley nearly violated that part of the constitution—and when his attention was called to it, the members of the senate retained for the other duties asked of them resigned from the senate.

The meetings being held in various places along the Northwestern railway, judging by the one held at Wayne and the expressions given in the railroad men's talks, leads one to believe that they realize that the roads are really up against the fight of their lives. They must realize that a new condition confronts them. They have a real competitor for a large part of their once profitable business in the truck and the automobile. One of the speakers Tuesday intimated as hard when he told of the system of hard surfaced roads the people are rapidly building all over the country. These roads make the truck and the automobile a constant competitor. Already we see great loads of household goods gliding thru here going from one city to another. The railroads once carried all of that class of freight. Another competitor is coming in the water transportation. It will not be long until ocean going ships will be taking and discharging freight at the docks at Chicago. The people have permitted the railroad politicians to block the development of water transportation to the interior about as long as is possible. The people are waking to the cost to them of permitting the railroads to stifle such competition. The railroad is a useful and necessary part of our transportation system, but it will have to meet competition very shortly; and then a lot of opposition to government ownership and operation will cease.

NOT MUCH OUT OF ORDINARY

Intrusion of Leopard of Course Added Excitement to Tennis Game, but Otherwise—

A leopard—but let us begin at the beginning. Last year an Englishman, Dr. Chalmers Mitchell, flew from Cairo to Capetown by plane. Among other places he landed at a little settlement in a British protectorate in Central Africa and spent a day and a night there. The jungle was right at the doors of the white men's houses. So numerous were the wild beasts that the village seemed to be in the midst of a vast menagerie, and so bold and dangerous that men and women went armed even by day. At night they kept indoors.

While Doctor Mitchell and his hostess, a young English matron, were having a game of tennis two frightened bucks plunged into the court and a leopard followed them. "My hostess dropped her racket, caught her skirts in both hands and bolted for the house," says Doctor Mitchell. "I followed without a second look." The next-door neighbor, however, caught up his gun and got a shot at the leopard before it could spring on either of the bucks. The wounded cat turned tail and leaped back into the jungle behind the tennis court. The bucks, however, could not stop but went careering across the street, crashed through a garden and a pergola and disappeared into the bush beyond.

"I've had lots worse things happen to me here," his hostess told Doctor Mitchell nonchalantly. Then she picked up her tennis racket and prepared to go on with the game. Youth's Companion.

Let Fortune Get Away.

All that glitters is not gold, but lack of glitter is not a certain test for worthlessness, it was found by gold diggers along a river in Papua, British New Guinea, recently. While searching for gold the men encountered a bluish-gray, flakish substance which they cast aside as worthless. Two months ago two pounds of this substance was bought in London by an American firm for approximately $6,000, or eight times the value of the same amount of gold. It was osmidium, a member of one of the hardest metals known and used for the tipping of fountain pens and for delicate bearings of fine machinery. It is worth $200 an ounce. When the prospectors learned the value of the substance they hurried back to the river and learned that tropical rains had washed away most of the precious stuff. By careful work they raked together what was left, had it refined and sent to London.

Intentions Good, Methods Poor.

The Pullman porter's intentions were good, but his methods poor. Two sisters, near the sixty mark, were en route from Kansas to Indiana. The younger, weighing about 80 pounds, was convalescing from a long illness and needed assistance in moving about. The porter frequently was called for help.

One morning he met the older sister, who weighed near the 180 mark, and remarked:

"Why, your mother just walked down the aisle. She must be much better."

And when the porter was told of the "social error" he had made, he spent the greater part of the remainder of the journey pleading with the older sister not to tell of his mistake.

The Explanation.

Returning home from the park a man was jubilant because he had won prizes at several of the stands.

"I got four boxes of candy, two kwickie dolls, seven stickpins and a chicken," he told his wife.

"Did you wear your sporty hat?" "Yes."

"And that suit with the big checks?" "Why, certainly."

"And that loud tie?" "Yes, but what's the difference?"

"That accounts for the winning of all those prizes. I'll bet a cookie the stand keepers thought you were a capper connected with the outfit."

LOOKING TO THE SAME RESULT

About a month ago the Democrat copied a communication sent from Wayne to the "Public Pulse" column of the Omaha World-Herald advocating as a relief from some of our financial ills the making of government bonds legal tender, thus stopping interest on them and at the same time bringing them to par and inflating the currency at least a part of what it had been so suddenly and viciously deflated in the past ten months. Below we give another letter from the same paper, advocating the same measure in a slightly different form. It looks like a good remedy either way applied. It would stop speculating in the money honest people, sacrificed to get for the use of the government when it was patriotism which caused them to sacrifice. Read it, and if it appeals ask your congressman to go on record for it.

Use Liberty Bonds

Omaha, August 17.—To the Editor of the World-Herald: An unfortunate result of the world war is that certain individuals, including banks and corporations, are making a business of playing the game of Shylock in exacting the last penny from those who are in need of ready cash, through their nefarious dealings in Liberty bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the United States, thus forcing those who gave their money to their government in time of war to sell these securities far below par on a market established by these money lenders.

It is a shame and, in my opinion, a crime nothing short of treason, that any individual bank or corporation would seek to make a profit of the dealing with the securities of the United States government by such dealings as buying below the par value a security which has cost the purchaser one hundred cents on the dollar.

In order that this practice may be prevented in the future, Congressman Herrick, of Oklahoma, has introduced a bill in congress which would penalize the sale of bonds below par up to $10,000 for each offense. It provides that any holder of a Liberty bond or certificate of indebtedness of the United States shall be given United States circulating notes for the full face value when-ever he presents them to the treasury.

It is to be hoped that the people of the United States will give this bill their support and that it will be passed in congress, for it is the first piece of corrective legislation in money matters that has been attempted. For it will curb the loan shark and will do much to solve our financial troubles at a time when the principle ailment with American business is the shortage of ready cash. Up to date the American people have loaned the United States government $18,000,000,000; which is invested in Liberty bonds, war savings stamps and certificates of indebtedness; and it can readily be seen that this working capital, if it were released, would have to seek investment and would be forced into the channels of domestic commerce. This could not help but restore prosperity, stimulate business and afford employment for America's unemployed, and reduce the burdens of taxation. In fact, it is one of the biggest pieces of legislation that congress could pass to aid in returning America to normalcy.

F. S. Berry and family drove to Dakota City today to attend the 45th annual meeting of the old settlers and pioneers of that county. This reunion is easily the big day of the year at Dakota City.

Rev. F. G. Schaller of the Lutheran church at Altona and their teacher, W. F. Mehnke were at Lincoln last week attending the sessions of the Nebraska district of the Missouri Synod, and report a very interesting time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cowton and two daughters, of Grand Island, who are guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Kilburn, were joined by their daughter, Miss Mabel Cowton, who came from Chicago Wednesday, and will accompany them home from here.

Today at Norfolk is the beginning of three days opportunity for the service men who have claims to consider to meet representatives of the government and have them passed upon. If you are one of the boys, plan to attend.

Henry Cozad and wife are home from eastern Colorado, where they spent a month or more while Henry was hauling grain to market for some of the farmers. He reports that they had a very good crop on most farms. Mrs. Elson, mother of Mrs. Cozad, returned from a visit with a daughter in Iowa about the same time.

Beginning this afternoon and tonight the people have a chance to return to normalcy in the purchase of furniture. Frank Gaertner opens an auction sale of furniture which will continue from day to day and evening to evening, when you may purchase without paying more than you or your neighbor are willing to give. This leaves it all to you in the matter of price. You must buy or quit kicking about furniture prices.

Wm. P. Lue and family returned last week from an auto trip to the Black Hills country in South Dakota. They came home through the state capital, and on east across the southern part of the state. He says that their auto tax on a Ford is $6 compared to $10 in this state; but for all that, they have far better roads than in Nebraska. They had rather expected to go on to the Yellowstone park, but the reports came that it was cold there, and that some snow had already fallen in the park, so they headed east.

10,000 ex-service men, it is estimated in the daily papers, will make application and take a chance for one of the 250 irrigated claims the government is going to give the soldier boys first chance at next month, so great is the land hunger in this land of boundless acres of rich soil. Yet this paper today tells of good land which may be made fit for cultivation at less cost than the Wyoming offering of the government, and on as favorable terms--yes better terms--and it opportunity for any poor man who wants to own a home. It needs no irrigation and is near market. He may start with as little as $500 and make good and own an $8,000 home in five years. It is a chance for the average renter to pay to himself what he is now paying to the landlord. It always pays to read the advertising if you are on the market to buy.

Mrs. F. M. Griffith went to Atkinson this morning to attend the Savidage carnival and visit the owner.

Dorothy Lever, from Hubbard, was here the last of the week visiting Misses Frances and Pearl Hogan.

The Friwohe campfire girls will have a cake sale Saturday afternoon, but could not just now give the place.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday is the teachers institute for this county. We have given the program, which is good, the brief.

There is a surplus of teachers in a few counties of the state, but in half a hundred counties there is a shortage of more than 500 teachers.

HOSKINS HEADLIGHT SHINES

The Missionfeast of the Lutheran church which was held Sunday was attended by a large crowd. Rev. Just of Madison occupied the pulpit at the morning services, Rev. M. H. Pankow of Friesland, Wis., who established the church here in 1887 and who was its first pastor, delivered the sermon in the afternoon. The evening sermon in English was delivered by Rev. Trefel of Hadar. A sum of about two hundred and fifty dollars will be used for home and foreign missions. Lutherans from Norfolk, Stanton, Hadar and Winside were present.

The old building burned like so much timber. The villagers looked for another great fire loss. Fire Chief Art Relchle called out his company. The water was turned on. In a twinkling a fire which a few months ago would have destroyed most of the business section, was snuffed out. That's why those Hoskins boosters are glad they finished the water extension job.

Friday evening about two hundred relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Ruhlow to commemorate their thirty-fifth wedding anniversary. Cards were the evening's pastime. A most delicious lunch was served.

WINSIDE ITEMS

The congregation of the M. E. church will auto to Winer Sunday, weather permitting to attend church and Sunday school services of Rev. J. Bruce Wylie's charge there. They will take their dinners with them, and plan on leaving here about 9 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gaebler left on a two week's fishing trip for Fairmont, Minnesota Sunday morning. Walter hasn't enjoyed a good vacation in many years and the trip ought to do him a world of good especially with the burdens of his official and business responsibilities left in competent hands.

About 14 members of the Eastern Star autoed to Norfolk Thursday and pleasantly surprised Mrs. George Farran, formerly a member of the organization. The party took their dinners with them and enjoyed a very pleasant visit in the Farran home. Mrs. Farran was presented with a silver spoon by the order.

IT IS THE SAME FIGHT BY THE SAME ENEMY

Big Business Is Now Fighting the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc. As Well As The Nonpartisan League

Two years ago the writer thought he saw that the fight directed against the loyalty of the members of the Nonpartisan League was a smoke screen to hide the fact that it was big business fighting the proposed marketing plan of the farmers of North Dakota. Now the same gang is fighting the great farmer organization which striving to market farm products without having the big corporations standing between the producer and the consumer and taking big toll from both. The developments of the present summer have brought this enemy out in the open, and here is some of what he proposes to do, as told in the Nebraska Leader:

"The Nonpartisan League is now enjoying a brief breathing spell. Big Business is now training its guns against the U. S. Grain Growers Inc., a great co-operative company organized for the purpose of marketing the grain products of the United States in the markets of the world. As long as co-operation extended no further than the local town elevator big business had no objections. It simply began to withdraw from that branch of the business and concentrated its efforts and finances at the terminal markets. But when co-operation seeks to extend its business into these terminal markets, big business organizes its forces for battle.

For years North Dakota fought the battle alone single handed. They tried co-operation but when co-operation attempted to enter the terminal markets of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, the organized chambers of commerce and grain exchanges opposed and co-operation failed. At this point the people of North Dakota conceived the idea of using their own state government as an instrument for the marketing of their products. By a vote of the people they amended their constitution giving to the legislature the power to build and operate terminal elevators but a corporation controlled legislature refused to build them. Then the farmers of North Dakota organized the Nonpartisan League for the purpose of controlling the republican party which in turn controlled the legislature. The Nonpartisan League was not formed upon any fine spun theory of government. It was a condition which gave birth to the Nonpartisan League.

In 1919 the Nonpartisan League for the first time controlled both branches of the state legislature and had a governor ready to help them. It passed laws for a state owned system of terminal elevators and mills and to finance these enterprises and to furnish rural credit at cost, it also established a state owned bank. Around these enterprises and the laws which created them has been waged a battle which has no parallel in history. That these enterprises represented the will of the people no one ever questioned. The referendum which was only intended to protect the majority against the acts of the representatives of a minority was invoked and the people approved three to one. The opponents went into the courts and every court from the district court of the state of North Dakota to the supreme court of the United States approved what the Nonpartisan League controlled legislature had done. The next step was to prevent the state from selling the bonds necessary to finance the new enterprises. The opponents sought the aid of the organized money powers of the country and the sale of these bonds were blocked in the money markets. Now the state of North Dakota is selling its bonds direct to the people.

But the Nonpartisan League is not so much concerned in state owned enterprises as it is in finding a way to market their grain without fifty per cent of it being stolen before it reaches the ultimate consumer. The league in every state is standing back of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., and especially is this true in the state of North Dakota. The terminal state owned elevators of North Dakota are to become a part of the general plan of the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc.

But the fight that is developing against this big co-operative concern is getting interesting. The campaign is now on the making contracts with the farmers and co-operative elevators. While this campaign is going on another campaign is going on which is financed by the Grain Dealers National Association.

county a few days ago to make an address at a Farmers union picnic. While there he stepped into the bank and hanging up was the following poster:

- Look Before You Leap
"If a grain-pooling contract is submitted to you—Do These Things:
- 1.—Study every word.
  - 2.—Consult your lawyer—your banker—your grain dealer. Ask FOR LITERATURE.
  - 3.—Ask your lawyer if it does not deprive you of all CONTROL OF INCOME from your crop for five years.
  - 4.—Ask if there is any LIMIT to the HANDLING CHARGES which may be imposed upon you.
  - 5.—Ask if the contract does not bind you absolutely for FIVE OR MORE YEARS even if you find it ruinous the FIRST YEAR.
  - 6.—Ask your banker if you will get AS MUCH FOR YOUR GRAIN as you are getting now.
  - 7.—Write Executive Committee, GRAIN DEALERS NATIONAL ASSOCIATION, 308 Western Union Building, Chicago, for free legal analysis of sample contract.
- REMEMBER NORTH DAKOTA! REMEMBER THE NONPARTISAN LEAGUE!
Grain Dealers' National Association."

On the road to Lincoln the editor read the following under the public pulse column in the Omaha World-Herald:

Modern Grain Marketing.
"Omaha Aug. 1.—To the Editor of the World-Herald: The action of the National Grain Dealers association at Cincinnati is the national outcome of an effort on the part of inexperienced men to destroy a system of marketing grain that is the result of evolution through a period of over seventy-five years. The American system is recognized throughout the world to be the best—the most economical—that is in existence anywhere. Other people are copying in part, or wholly, the system evolved in the United States. The best minds in the country are coming to look at the effort now being made to destroy the present efficient marketing system as an effort on the part of certain persons to induce measures that are revolutionary (as distinguished from evolutionary), and whose basic principles are antagonistic to the theories of business and government that have placed the United States in its present position as he first in the world in point of wealth and independence.

Experienced men in other lines of business are rejoiced to see the National Grain Dealers' association pick up the gauntlet thrown down, and prepare to defend their business methods before the whole world. It is pointed out that the methods of the grain men in all departments of the trade must be clean and square or they would not readily defend their positions in such an open and public manner. Their former attitude of silence has been misconstrued into an acknowledgement that something in the trade needed to be covered up, whereas the truth is that until recently the trade failed to recognize the extent to which the injurious propaganda has permeated the country. The farmers have been losers to an extent that is almost unbelievable, and agitators have industriously kept them brooding over those losses until many of them have theretofore failed to realize that these losses are paralleled in almost every other line of business, and that the causes do not lie in the grain marketing methods, but in the world situation regarding credits, taxation, armaments and other kindred subjects.

The business world is distinctly glad to see the action taken at Cincinnati. It establishes their former confidence in the cleanness of the business methods in this most important department of the world's affairs. There is no other line of business that is now so openly competitive as the handling of grain. Every other line—coal, lumber, cement, farm machinery, groceries, dry goods and practically all manufactured products—have, in one or another department of their distribution, some restrictions made by dealers—all but grain. The present attack on grain dealers seems to be purely political. The farmers have many votes. Politicians are trying to corral the farmers vote to keep demagogues in office at the expense of the most economical marketing system the world ever knew. If it were not for the uninterrupted working of our modern methods, grain prices would be distinctly lower than now and greater fluctuations would occur in the course of the year than occur now.

We would like to have told our readers who J. H. W., the writer of the above letter is but the writer has concealed his identity. He may be a member of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce or own a seat upon the Omaha Grain Exchange. We do not believe that he holds a membership in the Farmers Union and we know that he is not a member of the Nonpartisan League.

the letter head of Grain Dealers National Association. It had been received by the State Journal and which they had refused to publish. It reads as follows:

"If this story interests you we shall be glad to have you use it.
"The permanent policy of the executive committee of the Grain Dealers National Association was announced at a meeting in Chicago, July 27 and the objects of its educational campaign set forth.
"For several years, and particularly during the past year, the grain trade and the present grain competitive marketing system of the United States have been subjected to unwarranted criticism and attacks. The methods of transacting the grain business have been grossly misrepresented. The grain dealers are charged with responsibility for price fluctuations that are and can only be the result of the operation of the law of supply and demand. Minor imperfections, and the wrongful acts of a few individuals have been reported in distorted and exaggerated form, and proclaimed as the general practice.
"Professional agitators, political demagogues, and those who claim to have a better system of marketing and who think that in order to establish the same they must first destroy the existing competitive marketing system have been increasingly active in their assaults. These activities have finally culminated in efforts to 'regulate' the grain exchange by securing enactment of laws, state and national, that would inevitably result in the closing of the exchanges, or in so restricting their operations as to render them comparatively valueless. In this crisis, and not before, did the grain dealers of the United States rally to their own defense, and the defense of the grain farmers, whose marketing avenues were thus threatened.

"The good judgment of legislators and members of congress has so far prevented the enactment of destructive legislation, but attempts to secure it have by no means been discontinued. The misleading of the public and the creation of unfounded prejudice in the minds of farmers, are apparently to go right on.
"In the face of this situation, the occasion for some concerted and sustained campaign of education is apparent. Fairness to the grain trade and justice to the producers of grain in whose service it was conceived and is operated, demand this. The public is entitled to the truth and to the facts.

"It was in order to supply such need that this committee of the Grain Dealers National Association was formed. Its purpose is purely defensive and educational. It will oppose the enactment of class legislation, or that which would ruin or unnecessarily restrict legitimate business. In its own interest and in the interests of the grain producers and the public, it will call attention to economic fallacies contained in various proposed marketing systems and the dangers which their provisions hold for both farmers and grain dealers. It will not combat any legitimate effort to improve the present marketing system. It will welcome constructive suggestions from any source. The present highly competitive grain marketing system of this country is the result of the experience and evolution of more than sixty years. It is recognized as being the most efficient of any country in the world.

"Attacks upon the committee itself, or misrepresentation of its character or purpose, will not deter it from performing its duties to the grain trade, to the farmers and to the general public. Every dollar received by this committee will be expended in a campaign of education, the purpose of which is to dispel the false impressions now existing regarding the present grain marketing system and to awaken the farmers and the public generally to the efficiency with which the grain crops of this country are distributed and the extremely low cost per bushel of this distribution and to the fact that the producer received a larger per cent of the final price paid by the consumer of grain than is the case in any other line of farm produce."

Not Surprising.

There was recently erected in a western town an orthopedic hospital, the architectural features of which became the subject of discussion between two members of a club, the one a physician and the other an architect.
"What do you think of it as a building?" asked the medic.
The architect smiled. "Externally," he observed, "the design is modern, and internally the treatment is somewhat severe, as is usual in a hospital."

"It saves you money. You don't have to buy so much furniture."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER
SANTA'S DAY.

It was early Christmas morning and Santa Claus was on his way home. He had had a busier Christmas time than ever. He had visited the shops and had taken some of the toys he had lent to them to decorate their windows and counters with. And he had been to every home where there was a child.

The reindeer weren't hurrying so fast now. Santa was talking half to them and half to himself.

"Oh, my beauties," he said, "what a time it was. And never, never have I seen so many and such beautiful children."

The reindeer looked at each other and smiled, for Santa Claus had said that very same thing every single year that they could remember, and they remembered a good many years.

"Yes," Santa continued, "they were beautiful. There were girls with golden hair and girls with brown hair and girls with black hair and girls with red hair. Some of them wore their hair in curls. Some had their hair done up so it would be curly today, and some had their hair in braids, and some of them had their hair cut off short.

"There were such handsome boys, too. Oh, they were so good-looking, such manly little chaps.

"I've never seen so many fine boys," said Santa Claus.

And once more the reindeer smiled at each other, for they remembered that Santa Claus had said this very same thing, too, every single Christmas. "They were the sort who wouldn't bully and do mean little things. They were the sort who wouldn't attack a creature younger, smaller or more helpless than themselves. They were fine, perfectly fine. It was all I could do to keep from shouting: 'Three cheers; what a splendid lot of boys and girls' as I went from house to house.

"And so many of them had left sugar for you, my lovely reindeer."

The reindeer nodded their heads.

"It was good of them; so good and thoughtful of them," they said.

"I once," said Santa Claus, "remember when I was out testing the chimneys to see if they were all right, hearing a grown person who had come to see a friend who was ill.

"She had bought herself a great bunch of flowers to wear, and she brought the person who was ill a few half-faded flowers, which she bought at a very cheap price because they were faded.

"And she had said, that bunch she had bought herself had been so beautiful and sweet to look at she couldn't resist it.

"Yet she had been able to resist something nice for her friend.

"She had been a child once, and when she was a child she had tried to look at the back of presents which her friends sent her to see how much they had cost, and she still did that now.

"And she had always wanted the bigger piece herself. Well, I hadn't seen her since she had been a child when I saw this thing happening about the flowers and heard the talk from a chimney where I was. I was seeing if the chimneys were in good condition for Christmas Eve, as I said.

"Well, she was one of the few children I ever knew like that, and I can tell you she was unhappy. No one likes her, for she is so selfish, and she hasn't any fun, for she is so anxious to see what things cost that she can't get any pleasure out of the things themselves.

"I heard her say, too, that she thought Christmas was a great nuisance, when a person was grown-up, for of course Santa Claus only had the time to think of children. Imagine anyone thinking Christmas was a nuisance.

"But while one comes across this sort of thing once in a while," Santa Claus continued, "it does my heart good to see that each year there is more and more happiness and joy over Christmas, and that the children are getting nicer and nicer and that they have such gloriously generous natures.

"And you know, reindeer, old Santa Claus likes natures that are generous." "The reindeer snorted again and said: "We wish you a merry Christmas. We haven't had a chance to see you for a long time, but we want to do it now, for your day, Christmas day, dear Santa. And we wish that each year you visit us and more full

WHY PAY BIG RENT

MR. TENANT FARMER?

When you can OWN as Good a Farm for Small Down Payment, and pay the balance on a liberal crop-payment contract; as easy as paying rent?

Half Fare Excursion to View Land
$26.00 For Round Trip From Sioux City to New Rockford, North Dakota, or to Minnesota Points

Excursions 1st and 3rd Tuesday Each Month

From a list of more than 100 farms in the good country around New Rockford and Cando, North Dakota, we quote a few, and will send complete list upon application. These lands are priced from $10 to $25 per acre less than adjoining lands are held or being sold at, because they are cases where a necessity to sell exists. If you are looking for a farm, investigate this offering:

No. M. 2. 320 acres 2 1/2 miles from New Rockford on State Road. No buildings. This half-section is nearly all under cultivation and was sold last year for $75 per acre but for financial reasons owner must cash it at once and is offering it at only $65 per acre. $6000 cash, balance to suit.

No. M. 3. 470 acres 6 miles from New Rockford. 1 mile from railway station. About 350 acres in crop this year. 60 acres fine natural meadow. About 100 acres fenced for pasture. This farm should sell for $75 per acre but if sold quick can be purchased if bought soon at $60 per acre, one-fourth cash. Small buildings.

No. M. 7. 160 acres 4 miles from New Rockford. About 130 acres under cultivation, small new buildings. Worth $85 per acre. Price for quick sale $65 per acre.

Another Great Opportunity

We have just opened for actual settlers 50,000 acres of the best cut-over lands in central Minnesota at prices from $10 to $30 per acre. The government soil survey shows that this land is very fertile. Is free from stone, well drained and as real a bargain as any of our excellent offerings. A railroad built to take the lumber from this region penetrates it, and provides transportation to the markets of the world. It is not far from the great iron and copper deposits, where there are thousands of people to purchase. These lands produce clover and timothy and vegetables, making it an ideal place to raise stock at low cost, feed a dairy herd or raise sheep. There are many small lakes and beautiful streams, and game and fish are abundant. On much of this land the timber now standing will more than pay for the land, and cord wood and hard wood for other purposes will in most instances pay for the land.

With a very small down payment one may establish here and make a good living while making a home. Schools, churches and a number of towns now are a part of the development already made.

You are invited to go and see this land, by the same liberal rate offered above. It is well worth the trip as an outing, and an opportunity not to be missed awaits you. You may learn some more particulars at the Democrat office, or by applying to the

VENUS NEVER WITHOUT VEIL

Impenetrable Cloud Mask Envelops the Planet and Allows No Glimpse of Anything Beneath.

What makes the planet Venus so silver-bright? Many a one has put this question to himself, and must have been unable to find a satisfactory answer, London Answers states.

But the answer is that we see the silver lining of the cloud-mask which covers the features of Venus, for, as dazzling as this planet appears to us, it is enveloped in somber clouds that never seem to break and afford us a glimpse of what is below. At least there is no real proof that the markings which have been seen are on the planet's surface at all. Slow-moving cloud masses would be liable to be very deceptive and might well be mistaken for something more solid.

The persistency of Venus' vast cloud-envelope is remarkable; it is present year in and year out, reflecting the sunlight with mirrorlike brilliancy.

How Venus would appear without it is hard to say, as we have no knowledge whatever of the real composition of her globe.

All that can be said with any certainty is that she would lose a large share of her radiant beauty if this light-reflecting shell of clouds were removed.

The true secret of her peerless beauty, therefore, is her veil of clouds.

SAVAGE CHILD IS TRAINED

Baby Girls, From Their Earliest Infancy, Are Taught Household Duties by Their Mothers.

Most of those who know little of savage and semi-savage peoples naturally suppose that the children are allowed to "run wild" with no thought given to their training. This is far from the truth, particularly among some of the tribes of Togoland, on the African west coast.

As soon as a girl baby is able to toddle—and they are taught to walk much earlier than our children—the training of the girl is begun. She is given a calabash, and taught to balance it upon her head. Then the calabash is filled with water. Thus she learns her first duty in usefulness.

From this time forth the child becomes a part of the tribal or village organization. She goes with her mother to the river when the women go there for water. She is taught to sweep out the hut with a broom. Out in the forest she goes with mother and there learns what herbs and wild vegetables are good for food and which should be avoided. At home she is taught how to prepare the food the family eats. In a word, from her very earliest days the child is taught how to perform the domestic and other duties the average native woman must perform.—Temple Manning in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Hope for the Middle Aged.

"There is no need to grow old and stiff."

This is Sir James Cantlie's message to the man or woman whose muscles appear to be losing their earlier resilience. It was delivered at a demonstration of Swedish gymnastics at the Albert hall in London. Sir James presided and after watching the graceful movements of the athletic young people of both sexes said he hoped they would continue their exercises even when they were no longer young in years. "Some of us," he added, "who are watching should be in the arena doing what these young ones are doing. Their muscles are not hard and inflexible. Ours probably are." Sir James added that 80 per cent of the people of the world were imperfect. One leg was shorter than the other by perhaps the eighth of an inch or a two hundredth part of an inch. It was abnormal to be normal.

Quality Before Quantity.

Mere bigness, after all, is never a sound criterion of value. Art connoisseurs know this. They will pay more for a tiny painting by Vibert than for huge canvases by painters inferior to Vibert in ideas—and in vision.

To think qualitatively is, and always has been, a fundamental human need. It will always be. Not how much we possess, how much we produce, how much we export or import, but the quality of all our doing and feeling and believing—that is the thing.

The wealthiest of nations can at the same time be the most discontented, restless and unhappy. "More, more, more," is never the slogan of true success. Think quality, not quantity, is the dictate of truth to all of us.—H. Addison Bruce in the Chicago Daily News.

Uncle Walt's Story

PLEASURE OF GIVING

"SKIMBACK, the banker, is acquiring quite a reputation as a philanthropist," observed the druggist. "He's always giving to somebody or something, and I notice that the sickening details always get into print. He believes in keeping his left hand posted as to what his right hand is doing, and nobody ever will see him concealing any of his lights under a bushel."

"I'm sorry to hear you refer to that great and good man in sarcastic terms," said the village patriarch. "Every day I hear similar remarks concerning him, and I think it a poor appreciation of his generosity. As you say, he's always giving, and it's a small business to look a gift horse in the mouth, as the psalmist says. If he hires a man with a megaphone to announce his benefactions, he isn't hurting anybody."

"Caustic things are said of every philanthropist who manages to get some advertising out of his liberality, but it's my opinion that you'll have to hunt a long time, with a searchlight and a pair of gumshoes, before you find the man who enjoys doing good by stealth. If you do find him, he will prove to be a freak, and it will be your duty to see him returned to the asylum from which he escaped."

"We are all more or less hungry for the approbation of our friends and fellow citizens. And I am glad it's so. If we didn't care three whoops what our friends thought of us, we wouldn't paint our houses, or mow our lawns, or trim our whiskers. We wouldn't spend any money for flowers or boiled shirts or any of the things which make life beautiful and attractive. If a man spends a lot of money for a gorgeous lawn, with real trees and expensive flowers, and all sorts of ornaments, he's doing it because he wants to be praised by the people who see it all. You don't see any such lawns in lonely rural districts. There the front yard always is a calf pasture."

"The farmer reasons that it's no use having a pretty lawn, for there's nobody to admire it. Nobody ever goes past the place except an occasional lightning rod agent or a man who is taking orders for fruit trees."

"Why don't you sneer at the town man who puts so much money into beautiful grounds? It's all a grandstand play. He expects to get advertising out of it, and he does, and he deserves it. We shouldn't criticize any man who is doing good, even if we don't like his methods."

"Some people say that Skimback is trying to atone for all the sinfulness of his past career. It is argued that until recent years he never gave away anything, but was after the dollars by day and night, and didn't care who got hurt so he overtook and captured them. They tell of mortgages he foreclosed, causing unspeakable suffering here and there. He is accused of resorting to every dark trick to increase his hoard. Most of the stories probably are bunk, but what if they are true? Now that he shows signs of repentance in his old age we should encourage him in every possible way, and if he gives a phonograph to the high school, or puts up a public drinking fountain in the public square, we should tell him he's everybody's darling, and not dig up a lot of ancient history for his confusion."

"I haven't much money to give away, but when I do loosen up to the extent of a dollar or two I like to have an audience. I like to imagine that people are saying, 'What a great-hearted, benevolent old geezer he is!' The other morning a man approached me and asked me to contribute something toward putting a new steeple on the church, and I began to explain that church steeples are out of date, when he interrupted to say that the names of all contributors would be printed in the paper, and then I dug up $5 without further words. And we're all tarred with the same stick, my friends."

Hard to Blend.

Mr. Peavish says that although he would be the last man on earth to criticize any lady of his acquaintance, nevertheless he has never met one who could successfully combine the high-school giggle with the middle-aged spread.—Dallas News.

An Expert.

"Are you a skilled chauffeur?" "Yes, sir! Why, I've been in nine collisions and run over five persons, and every time I got away before anybody could get my number!"

FREIGHT CLAIM PREVENTION

the consumer with the lumber, and not going to the producer in wheat. Who got it? The railroads claimed that they lost it, and seemed to be wondering where it was going, and who to.

While talking of rates, A. B. Clark of this place was called upon to talk, and he made a number of statements and asked some questions. Among them was why were they paying 19 cents less for corn on a certain day in these Nebraska towns than in an Illinois town 125 miles from Chicago, if it was not the freight rate, and we did not hear any answer to that question unless it was that a rate from a certain town was once 27 cents, and now it is but 5 and a fraction. Then he told that when wheat was under government control and the board of trade gambling in grain was not permitted that wheat never fluctuated in price more than 7c in a month, but that when restrictions were removed there was a fluctuation of more than 50 cents within ten days. He wanted to know why, when the world was to a great extent dependent upon the United States for wheat, that we sold it to Brazil and to England some 30 cents less than Argentina was getting for wheat in the same markets? He stated that the Chicago corn market price was the lowest of any great market center in the world.

He then asked if they knew how the tonnage of fruits from California compared with the tonnage carried before the roads were given permission to reduce rates to meet the ocean rate but recently put into effect, by which ships were taking California fruits to New York and London for less money and in less time than the railroads were performing the same service. They could not or did not answer his question as to fruit tonnage. Mr. Clark also stated that the truck was extensively used in California in getting this fruit to the dock, rather than the local freight trains. That it was trucked as much as 125 miles at a saving over freight rates. The people who are with the railroad were for the road, and tried to defend the advance rate they had asked and been granted. They said that the railroads had nothing but transportation to sell, and that their aim was to sell that for all the traffic would bear, was the inference the people seemed to draw.

From all we can learn of the freight and passenger situation in many localities the trucks and automobiles are taking that business from the roads, so that it may be necessary, as one of the men said, to reduce the passenger trains and equipment in the near future. We would suggest that they first try to reduce freight and passenger rates and cut the big salaries of their head men until they learn how to run a railroad as well as Henry Ford is reported able to do—reduce rates, increase wages and pile up profits.

After the meeting was over one of our bashful citizens said he would like to have had them told why it is that the coal now selling at the mine at pre war prices—as he said it was—should cost the Nebraska consumer so much more. Did it go for increased freight or did the middlemen and local dealers get it? Another man said the people had paid for the roads—some of them several times over, and he thought it time for the people to take what they had paid for—but he was a socialist, perhaps.

A part of the time was given to the conservation of stock consigned for shipment, and giving some interesting statistics of the losses and the cause of the loss as well as suggesting prevention. The loss of mature cattle is but about one in 2600; the loss of calves including calves is more than twice as great. The loss of sheep, too, was comparatively small. The loss of hogs was one to 300 shipped, and more than 50 per cent of the hog loss was attributed to lung trouble, which, according to the showing made, meant lack of lung or lung power. Using a picture slide the lung of the range hog, the range or pasture fattened hog and the corn fed hog were shown, and that told the story of the loss of the hog fattened without exercise. Comparatively, he has no lung, and a bit of exertion quickly puts him in the discard. Here is their explanation:

The functions of the lungs are to purify the blood of the body, and in the hog, perspiration (sweating) being almost impossible a large part of the excess moisture and heat of the body is passed off through them; therefore, a hog with undeveloped lungs will suffer more quickly in hot weather than where that organ is well developed.

Much can be done by the shipper to prevent the loss of these delicate fat hogs in hot weather. They should be rounded up quietly at home, hauled to the loading point, and quietly driven into a sand-bedded car that has been previously sprinkled or wet down, as short a time as possible before their train starts. They should not receive a full feed the day of shipment nor should they be fed in the car; great care should be taken to see they are not overcrowded, and wherever and whenever possible, place ice in the car.

They were a genial lot of gentlemen to meet, and came in time for dinner, nearly thirty of them dining at the Boyd. Among those here were F. R. Pichin, general superintendent; A. M. Fenton, general freight agent; H. R. Grocheu, general freight claim agent; A. J. O'Brien, general freight inspector; G. L. Osman, car service agent; E. J. Carland, division freight agent; F. R. Strube, agent at Sioux City; O. C. Scherer, general agent at Sioux City; S. R. Morrell, agent at Emerson, chairman of the claim prevention committee and S. P. Conover secretary of the same committee. There was also James Lynch traffic engineer, Dr. Emery veterinary of the railway weighing and inspection bureau. Also representatives of the engineers, firemen, trainmen, trackmen, and clerks, besides some of the local agents from other towns besides our own local agent, T. W. Moran.
